33,899. What is the expense of that?—I have not seen the bills.

33,900. Have you not got it there?—I have given you the list of bills.

33,901. What is the 357*l.* 2*s.* 5*d.*?—Is that the share of both members?—I sent some to Mr. Jeffery Michelmore.

33,902. Was the amount that you sent to Mr. Michelmore as much as you paid?—I should think nothing like this. Those are not all registration expenses.

33,902*a*. How much are registration expenses, and what are the others?—I advanced Mr. Reeves 80*l.* There was about 150*l.* worth of work.

33,903. But you had got the 550*l.* to answer Mr. Reeves account?—I did not like to touch that. I should have reduced the interest.

33,904. You did not pay Reeves out of Mr. Pender's money, but out of your own?—Not really my own money. I had some money in hand.

33,905. How did you have that in hand?—I shall be able to account for that by-and-by from another source.

33,906. With the exception of that money that you mentioned the 150*l.* sent in charities, you had no other money?—Yes; 130*l.* to pay for a fête in the Castle.

33,907. When was that?—June 1865.

33,908. Who were invited?—I believe all the children in the school.

33,909. All the schools?—All the schools, I think, and the children's parents. I spent 130*l.* 10*s.* 6*d.*

33,910. How long before the election?—June, the month preceding the election.

33,911. Did that exclude the voting parents—or did they go?—We took care to ask everybody, and orders were given to everybody.

33,912. (Mr. Longe.) In the resolutions of the Pender Committee there appears to have been some disagreement between the committee and the town council about some money—was the money paid over?—It was paid over. I voted that it should be for building a reservoir, but it was handed over to the town council. There was a little haggle over that. I think I paid the treasurer myself, and I will produce the receipt. I have the receipts for all those monies.

33,913. It was paid?—Yes.

33,914-15. (Mr. Bere.) Are you one of the trustees of the charities of Totnes?—Yes.

33,916. How long?—When the last new batch was appointed, three or four years.

33,917. Was the last new batch appointed in consequence of an inquiry instituted here?—No.

33,918. Was there an inquiry instituted about the charities of Totnes?—Yes.

33,919. How long ago was that?—I think the inspector was here in 1864.

33,920. September or October?—I should think that it was the spring of the year.

33,921. Do you know when he presented his report?—I do not.

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

Mr. J. W. Chaster.

21 Sept. 1866.

33,922. Did that cause any alteration in the distribution of the charities?—None whatever.

33,923. You were voted with the last new batch?—I was nominated many years previously—as far back as 1852. The nomination was sent to the Lord Chancellor, but he refused to sanction till the number was reduced.

33,924. How many of the old trustees were left when you were appointed, and who were they?—I think five; Mr. Windeatt, Mr. Huxham, Mr. Carey, I think, was living, Mr. John Toms, Mr. Charles Webber, and Mr. Presswell; I think Mr. Carey was dead.

33,925. With the exception of Mr. Presswell all those four were Liberals?—Yes.

33,926. What are the charities of Totnes; what did they amount to?—There is no discretion on the part of the trustees. There is a scheme laid down by the Chancellor, and they follow that.

33,927. When was that laid down?—In 1845.

33,928. Was not there an allegation that the trustees before the new batch were created had misappropriated the funds?— Yes, but it was grossly untrue; only a party dodge.

33,929. There was an allegation to that effect?—Yes.

33,930. When was it made?—It was done by a man called Harris to excite party feeling.

33,931. Was there any inquiry?—Yes.

33,932. When was that?—1864.

33,933. Was it in consequence of Harris's accusations that the inspector came down?—Yes.

33,934. What was the result?—No change took place. The new trustees were appointed by consent.

33,935. Are you certain that the new batch of trustees were appointed before the commissioners came down?—No, they were appointed by consent. The inspector was here, the names were talked over, and there was a sort of arrangement.

33,936. You were one of them?—Yes.

33,937. You must have been appointed in 1864?—Yes.

33,938. You had not been one before that?—No.

33,939. Who were appointed with you?—Mr. Phillips one, Mr. Kellock another, Mr. Burrough, the vicar, and Mr. Paull the Independent minister, Mr. William Tucker, Mr. Condy, and Mr. Bentall.

33,940. Were the parties equally divided?—Yes; it was an amicable arrangement that both parties should be equally divided.

33,941. These charities are for the support of certain men and women in their old age?—Yes, we give an annuity of 10*l.* to a certain number; a certain sum is paid in relief, and a stipend paid to the vicar as lecturer.

33,942. Is there any instance of Liberal voters having been deemed more appropriate subjects of relief than Conservative ones?—A voter would be disqualified if he received it.

33,943. Men who had been voters or wives of voters?—There was some talk of that.

33,944. To how many people are annuities given?—They are given to nine persons, and Short's gift is balloted for. The persons are to have certain qualifications; they must be natives of the town, 60 years of age, suffering from some chronic disease; their names were put into a bag, and drawn out promiscuously, and they got the annuity for life.

33,945. Do you know if the evidence taken before the inspector was ever printed in any of the London newspapers?—I do not recollect seeing it.

33,946. Did you see any leading articles written upon the facts which came out on that occasion?—I did not.

33,947. Did you ever see any leading articles on the subject of the charities of Totnes in the "Standard" about that time?—I did not.

33,948. Do you often see the "Standard?"—I do not, There were some articles in the local papers, not in the leading journals.

33,949. In the evidence taken before the inspector and his report all the facts connected with these charities will appear?—Yes.

33,950. And the truth or falsehood of the allegations of the trustees having spent the money will appear?—Yes.

33,951. When the general election of 1865 was about to take place, Pender and Seymour were still the members, and no other candidate was sought for on the Liberal side?—No.

33,952. You were satisfied with Mr. Pender and the Seymour party, with their representative?—Yes; I think so.

33,953. Do you remember Mr. Pender coming down in 1865?—I do not recollect anything particular in connection with it. I know he came.

33,954. Had he come once or twice between the elections of 1863 and 1865?—Between 1862 and 1865 he came down and addressed the electors. I think it was in November 1864 when I made up the registration account with him, and he said, "When I get back to Manchester, I will send a cheque for the balance."

33,955. On what bank was Mr. Pender's cheque drawn?—I think on the Consolidated Bank.

33,956. Did he always pay you in cheques?—He sent the 100*l.*, I have mentioned, in a Bank of England note; with that exception it was always in cheques.

33,957. Were those on the Consolidated Bank?—I think one or two were on the Manchester Bank.

33,958. Did Mr. Pender, before 1865, open an account with the bank here?—Not that I am aware of.

33,959. At that time, Mr. Pender had no money in any of the banks here?—I should think not.

33,960. Was November 1864 the only occasion when Mr. Pender came here between 1862 and 1865?—I think he came down in May 1863, when he gave me the 1,000*l.*; and I think he gave one or two rifles to the rifle company here to be shot for; he came down and attended the match, and on that occasion he handed me the money.

33,961. He was there some little time before the election of 1865?—He was at the Castle fête, in June, a month before.

33,962. Do you remember the day of the month? It was the great market day in June, the first Tuesday in the month; it could not have been later than the 7th.

33,963. Did Mr. Pender stay from that time or go back?—I should think he returned the day of the fête.

33,964. Did he make a speech at the fête?—No.

33,965. When did he return to Totnes?—I think a week before the election.

33,966. Did he not come here about the 30th of June?—I do not think he was here more than seven or eight days.

33,967. The election was on the Wednesday, was he not here two Sundays?—I think he was.

33,968. You saw him after he came down?—I saw him the same day.

33,969. Did he tell you what money he had brought with him?—No.

33,970. What conversation did you have about money?—On the following day he said, "I have some money here; I want to put it somewhere; what shall I do with it?" I said, "Put it in one of the banks." He said, "Which?" I said, "They are both Liberal, it is utterly immaterial." He decided on putting it in the National Provincial. I did not do it for him, and I don't know how he did it.

33,971. He opened an account with the National Provincial, by the payment of 1,874*l.*, and on the 4th of July with the Devon and Cornwall, by the payment of 500*l.* Did you know that he had paid money into the Devon and Cornwall besides the National and Provincial?—I did not for some time afterwards.

33,972. He did not tell you he had put money into both banks?—Not then; I think I made some remark about the money, and he said, "I have put some in the Devon and Cornwall Bank, too." That was within a week or ten days.

33,973. Had you anticipated there would be a contest?—No.

33,974. Do you know when Colonel Dawkins came down?—I do not.

33,975. Colonel Dawkins came down on the 28th of June, two days before Mr. Pender paid this money into the bank; when did you first hear that Colonel Dawkins had come?—I thought Mr. Pender had been here before him.

33,976. Was it not in consequence of your knowing there would be a contest that he brought down as much as 1,874*l.*?—I think the money being in his possession was purely accidental; it was not in consequence of any correspondence with me.

33,977. You thought he ought to have come sooner?—I did.

33,978. That opinion must have arisen from a candidate being in the field?—There were many attempts to get a candidate; there had been Mr. Macleay and Mr. Kennard.

33,979. Did Mr. Pender tell you why he had put the money into both of the banks?—He gave no reason for doing so; I said they were both Liberal.

33,980. It was not put there by way of opening an account, but only as a matter of convenience?—I think it was merely accidental his having the money.

33,981. When did you think that Mr. Pender was spending a good deal of money?—I should think about a week before the election.

33,982. How did you form that opinion?—From a conversation with Mr. Windeatt.

33,983. What passed between you?—He said, "I don't think we can carry this election without money?" I said, "Dawkins surely is not going to fight."

33,984. Was that all that passed?—Yes, at that time.

33,985. Where did the conversation take place?—At the Seymour; I think it was in No. 4, the large room. I recollect his saying that to me at one of the windows.

33,986. Had you a regularly appointed committee at that time for Mr. Pender?—There was no committee whatever.

33,987. Did the Seymour party and the independent party work together?—Yes.

33,988. There was no division?—No.

33,989. Would Mr. Michelmore consult with you or you with him?—No; we never had any conversation. Mr. Michelmore managed his own share of the business, and Mr. Windeatt his.

33,990. Did you not compare with Mr. Michelmore your experience as to how they were going to vote?—They used to show me the result of their day's canvass.

33,991. When Mr. Windeatt spoke of the money, what did you do?—He asked me to speak to Mr. Pender; I objected at first. I did eventually, after some conversation.

33,992. What did Mr. Pender say?—I think about the following day he offered me a sum of money, which I refused to take. I said I did not think it would be necessary.

33,993. How much did he offer you?—He said it was 2,000*l.*

33,994. Was it a cheque for that amount?—No; I think it was four dividend warrants for 500*l.* each. I did not see it, it was in his waistcoat pocket, and he took it out with his finger and thumb; I said I did not think Col. Dawkins would be such a madman as to go to the poll, and we did not require it.

33,995. You thought the money would not be wanted if Col. Dawkins did not go to the poll, and you had no idea within 400*l.* or 500*l.* of what would be wanted?—The only idea I had was from a conversation which occurred with Mr. Michelmore, when he named something like 2,000*l.* as being necessary in case of a severe contest.

33,996. When did that conversation take place?—On one of those occasions when both members were here together, not at the election. It was either in May or December 1864.

33,997. Did you ever see Mr. Pender in London before the election of 1865, to discuss the money which would be wanted?—No.

33,998. On your refusing the 2,000*l.* what did Mr. Pender do?—He put it in his pocket again.

33,999. Did you refuse the money under the belief that there would be no contest?—I did not believe Col. Dawkins would attempt to go to the poll.

34,000. That was more than a week before the polling day?—The election was on a Wednesday, and I think this was on the Tuesday or Thursday preceding it.

34,001. When did you have your next consultation with Mr. Windeatt or Mr. Pender about money?—I saw Mr. Windeatt again on the following day; he said, "We cannot do without it, you had better take it."

34,002. What did you do then?—I did not like to do it, but the result was that I did.

34,003. Was it from Mr. Pender?—Yes.

34,004. What did you get from him?—He gave me these same dividend warrants which he had offered me on the preceding Tuesday. I think that was Thursday.

34,005. What did you do with those?—I said to him, "What am I to do with these?" He said, "You know "Mr. Salmon, who was down here at the first election; "if you send them to him, he will cash them for you."

34,006. Did you send them to him?—I did.

34,007. Is that the letter which you wrote to him? [hands a letter to witness]—Yes, I think it is. "Totnes, July 6th, 65, Mr. Percy Salmon. Dear Sir, "Please cash the enclosed. Take Bank paper, "make it up in two parcels, take the express train, "9.15, on Saturday morning, and bring it down to "Exeter; the train will reach there at 2.20 p.m. I "will meet you on the Exeter platform; don't recog-"nize me if I appear not to know you, there may be "a reason, but follow me out. Advise me by tele-"graph soon as this reaches your 'all right,' but "through the International, and I shall understand "that you have received the contents safely; please "also advise me per letter, that I may get it on "Saturday morning, and prevent any hitch. Do not "fail. Yours faithfully, J. W. CHASTER."

34,008. In consequence of that letter did Mr. Salmon telegraph to you?—He did.

34,009. Did he telegraph to you all right?—I should say the two words all right.

34,010. Did you meet him at Exeter?—Yes, he kept his appointment by that train, and I met him.

34,011. And you received the money from him?—I received two packets.

34,012. I suppose Mr. Pender knew perfectly well what the 2,000*l.* was wanted for?—Quite as well as I did.

34,013. And you knew perfectly well?—Of course I did.

34,014. How was it that Mr. Pender, having an account of 1,874*l.* at one bank in Totnes, and an account of 500*l.* at another, did not draw the 2,000*l.* from his banking account?—I cannot answer that at all.

34,015. Did it not strike you, when there were these banking accounts, as a rather odd thing that the money should be got in this round about way for the purposes of the election?—I did not know the amount he had placed in the bank.

34,016. You knew Mr. Salmon's writing?—I scarcely knew his writing, but I should think that is it; that is all regular enough.

34,017. Were those warrants payable to order or bearer?—I do not recollect opening them. I should not like to swear that I opened them.

34,018. Did you not know what the amount was?—I think I could swear the amount was 500*l.*

TWENTY-FOURTH DAY.

Mr. J. W. Chaster.

21 Sept. 1866.

34,019. And that there were four bits of paper?—Yes; whether they were payable to bearer or order I could not swear.

34,020. You know the way in which these dividend warrants were cashed was not in the direct way by being taken to the Atlantic Telegraph Company, and paid there, but that Mr. Salmon paid them into his own account with the Consolidated Bank, and then drew his own cheque, which was cashed?—At Mr. Pender's suggestion. I would not do it without.

34,021. Mr. Salmon opened an account in his own name at the Consolidated Bank to the amount of 2,000*l.*, and then drew a cheque to the full amount?—That was a great want of judgment on the part of Mr. Salmon.

34,022. What was the 2,000*l.* in?—It was in two separate packets.

34,023. There was no gold?—No gold.

34,024. You met Mr. Salmon at the station?—I did.

34,025. Did he recognize you or walk out of the station?—He did not recognize me. I saw him walk into the waiting room, and I followed him.

34,026. Did you bring the money to Totnes?—Yes, by the same train.

34,027. Did Mr. Salmon come on too?—No, Mr. Pender requested me to tell Mr. Salmon that he might take a day's holiday, and he went on to Bath.

34,028. At that time was there not an understanding between Mr. Michelmore and the Independent party, that both candidates would share in the expenses?—There was.

34,029. Who was present at the meeting when that arrangement was come to?—I was there; Mr. Thomas Michelmore, Mr. Windeatt, Mr. Pender, and Mr. Seymour. I do not recollect any others. I am not certain whether Mr. Jeffery Michelmore was there.

34,030. When you brought the money to Totnes, what did you do with it?—I gave it to Mr. Windeatt, into his own hands.

34,031. Did you ever afterwards see that money or any portion of it?—Yes.

34,032. How much of that ever got back to you?—I think eventually he paid me 230*l.*, and 60*l.* of the same money came back from another quarter.

34,033. From whom did the 60*l.* come?—From Mr. Holman.

34,024. Did Mr. Windeatt ever tell you what he had done with the money?—I never asked him.

34,035. Did he tell you?—No.

34,036. Did you ever hear that the way in which it was disposed of was by putting it into number 13 at the "Seymour Hotel" behind the glass?—I had some idea that it was done in that way.

34,037. Did not some one communicate with Ann, the waiting maid, where the money was to be found?—That is not at all unlikely.

34,038. Do you know anything about the money except the 230*l.* and the 60*l.*?—Not as regards the distribution of it.

34,039. The 230*l.* was paid over to you by Mr. Windeatt?—Yes.

34,040. How was that paid?—It was paid in notes.

34,041. Was one of those notes a 50*l.* note?—I do not think any were so high as 50*l.*, I should say that 20*l.* was the highest.

34,042. We have had information of a particular 50*l.* note having passed through your hands?—I do not recollect it, it may be so.

34,043. Where was the 230*l.* paid to you?—At my house.

34,044. For what purpose was it paid to you?—He knew that I had charge of the registration, and he said I had better take that.

34,045. Was it not given to you to pay over to some voters?—Certainly not.

34,046. What did you do with the 230*l.*?—I have accounted for it and a good deal more.

34,047. Supposing that a particular 50*l.* note has come to the hands of an elector, and that it has been shown that it was a portion of the money which was the proceeds of that cheque which has been handed to you, how do you account for that?—I cannot account for that unless the circumstances were made known to me.

34,048. Do you remember giving Samuel Parnell a 50*l.* note?—No.

34,049. Did not Parnell give you an I.O.U?—Yes, for 20*l.*

34,050. Did you not also give him two sums of 30*l.* for two voters?—No, certainly not.

34,051. Now the 60*l.* which was received from Holman, what was that in?—In three 20*l.* votes.

34,052. What did you do with that?—I placed it to this registration affair; it is accounted for here, 230*l.*, 60*l.*, 26*l.* 5*s.* 0*d.*, 14*l.* 0*s.* 0*d.*

34,053. When did Holman pay you this?—I think about the middle of August.

34,054. Did he say where he got that?—I had no doubt where he got it; he did not tell me.

34,055. Where do you think he got it?—He told me he got it from Mr. Windeatt.

34,056. Mr. Parnell was examined by Mr. Tucker with regard to the evidence which he might have given, and which was read over to him, and he says, "I gave a 50*l.* Bank of England note on the morning "of the election, which I had from Mr. Chaster to "Harris and another man. I borrowed 30*l.* from "Mr. Chaster upon an I.O.U., which I am liable to "repay"?—That is incorrect.

34,057. But you have taken an I.O.U. for a certain portion of the account?—That would be a portion of the registration account, 20*l.* out of the 30*l.* would have been due in 1865.

34,058. Now do you mean to tell me that you did not pay that money to be used amongst the voters?—I do not know.

34,059. You did not know that that money was going to be used by Mr. Parnell among the voters?—I never paid him any money.

34,060. You paid him 20*l.*?—After the election.

34,061. No money during the election?—20*l.* in December.

34,062. You paid him no money whatever?—No.

34,063. His statement must be a mistake?—He must have received money from Mr. Windeatt.

34,064. That would be your explanation?—Mr. Windeatt might say "I have had this money from Mr. "Chaster, and he might make use of my name."

34,065. When was Parnell's money due to him?—I paid him in 1864, and another due in 1865.

34,066. What period in 1864 and 1865?—We call the registration over when the barristers have been here.

34,067. Is not the money due till the barrister has been here?—No.

34,068. Look at that account in 1864, is not that a payment to Parnell in July 1864?—That would be for the preceding year.

34,069. I do not know whether it is so in the account, but there ought to be two payments. You ought to have credited yourself with it?—I have only paid him 20*l.*

34,070. (Mr Coleridge.) What is owing to him now?—20*l.*

34,071. (Mr. Bere.) There must be 40*l.*?—I have not settled the 1865 account, I have not the bills.

34,072. The difficulty is this, what was the use of taking an I.O.U. from Mr. Parnell, if he had earned the money?—It is a sort of acknowledgment, I suppose, that he got the money.

34,073. Would not a receipt be a proper business-like way. I could quite understand it if he took an I. O. U. if the money was to be earned in future, but not if the money is earned already.

34,074. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever take an I.O.U. for any other sum of money that you paid him before?—No.

34,075. Nor since?—No.

34,076. Did you take receipts from him for other sums of money that you paid him?—I gave him the money. I do not recollect taking a receipt, I may have done so.

34,077. Was not the I.O.U. given after you heard there was to be a petition?—No.

34,078. I see when you pay other sums of money to Mr. Parnell you take receipts in the regular form. Here is one—"Received from Mr. Chaster 5l., payment of registration expenses, with a proper stamped receipt." Mr. Cuming's receipt you take in the regular form, Mr. Windeatt's, Mr. Worthy. I do not see anything else in the same sort of transaction for which an I.O.U. is given?—I daresay it was done in haste.

34,079. (Mr. Bere.) Did not Mr. Parnell give you about the time of the election of 1865 any other I.O.U.?—Certainly not.

34,080. Did he never give you an I.O.U. for 110?—No.

34,080*. Or for 60*l.*?—No, never.

34,081. (Mr. Coleridge.) Here is one, "I.O.U. 5l., Sophia Michelmore"?—That is advanced to Mr. Michelmore for registration expenses.

34,082. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know a voter of the name of Henry Bartlett?—I do.

34,083. He is a tailor?—Yes.

34,084. Do you remember a conversation that took place in a room of the "Seymour Hotel," at which Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore, Mr. George Roberts, Mr. Henry Bartlett, and yourself were present?—Yes.

34,085. What was the nature of it?—I do not know.

34,086. Was there a little strong language passed between Mr. Bartlett and Mr. Roberts about the respective superiority of their positions as tailors?—I do recollect it.

34,087. Will you be kind enough to tell us what passed?—There was some chaff between the parties about one being a German tailor and another a master tailor, and I think Roberts said something about a sum of money being received by Bartlett on some former occasion.

34,088. What did Bartlett say to that?—I cannot exactly recollect what he said. I know Roberts said, "Take care, Mr. Michelmore is in the room;" and Mr. Michelmore said, "We do not tell tales out of school." But there was a great deal of smoking going on; I cannot stand smoke, and I went away.

34,089. You have sufficient recollection to know that those words were used on that occasion?—Yes.

34,090. When was that advance made to Mrs. Michelmore?—I cannot tell unless I have the receipt.

34,091. Did not Mrs. Michelmore get that 5l. for the purpose of sending it to Mr. Deane to bring him from Eastbourne?—It is long after the election.

34,092. Did not you make an advance to her about the time of the election?—I did not; I find it is in February 1866.

34,093. Had you lent her money before?—The only money I know of at the time of the election was 10*l.* given to me by Mr. Jeffery Michelmore, and he asked me to take 10*l.* to Mrs. Charles Michelmore.

34,094. When was that?—The night of the nomination.

34,095. Do not you know that that was for the purpose of paying the expenses of Mr. Deane from Eastbourne?—I do not know.

34,096. Have you not heard since that Mr. Deane's expenses were so paid?—Yes. He said, "Will you "give that to Mrs. Charles Michelmore?" and I did so.

34,097. Did Mrs. Charles Michelmore tell you what it was for?—No.

34,098. Did Mr. Deane come and vote for Pender and Seymour?—Yes.

Adjourned till half-past 10 to-morrow.

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

Mr. J. W. Chaster.

22 Sept. 1866.

Saturday, 22nd September 1866.

JOHN WEBBER CHASTER recalled and further examined.

34,099. (Mr. Bere.) Can you give us any further explanation of that I.O.U. Mr. Parnell gave you ?—I can : but first of all will you allow me to explain ; I want to draw attention to this. It is a copy of the "Daily Mercury" of the 21st September, yesterday, and it is a portion of the evidence given by John Sandford Screach. I do not know whether it is correct or not, but it says, in 1840 I held the stakes for four persons, myself, Mr. Roberts, Mr. Guest, and Mr. Nicholas Gidley. Now Nicholas Gidley is a highly respectable man, and I could not allow that imputation to rest upon him.

34,100. It is not that person ?—It may be Nicholas Gidley, baker, but it is not the Nicholas Gidley here.

34,101. I think there is a statement to the effect that it is not the Nicholas Gidley living at Totnes. I think at the end of the evidence you will find a note to that effect ?—If the Commissioners are satisfied of that, that will do. As regards the I.O.U., I can give no further account of it than this, that the accounts had not passed the committee at that time, and the accounts had not been recognized, the money had not been asked for, and 20*l.* was simply advanced. You will understand that he was not employed, and no understood salary recognized ; but I considered, and the committee considered, that he was entitled to 30*l.*, and I paid him that on account, and he gave me the I.O.U., and I am perfectly satisfied, and I think all the members of the committee will be satisfied, that that was paid as a portion of the salary. I can give you no further account that I think would be more satisfactory than that.

34,102. During the time you were with Mr. Pender in the election of 1865, did you have refreshment at the "Seymour" hotel constantly, yourself personally ? —I may have had some on two or three occasions, I think not more.

34,103. Did you ever pay for it yourself ?—Yes.

34,104. At the time ?—Yes.

34,105. It was not entered in the account ?—I dined with Mr. Pender, and I did not pay on those occasions, because I was invited as a guest.

34,106. Have you been in the big room in 1865, and had anything to drink, and paid for it yourself ? —I attended one meeting, two large meetings in the big room, and I should be inclined to say that I did pay for my own refreshment.

34,107. Can you say accurately whether you did or not ?—I attended a third meeting on the day of the election, and I did not pay.

34,108. I ask you for a purpose, because there is a difficulty about the account. I think at the election of 1865 you made up a poll book ?—I did.

34,109. Is this your poll book (referring to a book) ? —That is my poll book.

34,110. Take that poll book in your hand, and give me an explanation. There are some voters whom you have ticked off with a little stroke ; what is the meaning of that stroke (handing the poll book to the witness) ?—The cross ?

34,111. No ; the other tick, the single tick ?—I look upon them as Liberal electors, requiring some consideration.

34,112. And the double cross ?—There would be something special against each of them.

34,113. Do you think generally they would be regarded as being on the other side, or regarded as Liberals ?—I do not think it would apply specially to Liberals.

34,114. Are they not as a rule Conservatives, those who have a tick ?—It may be so, I have not looked at it ; but I can explain every one.

34,115. Then cast your eye down, and see whether it is not the case that that double cross means Conservatives who were in the habit of receiving money, or were in your opinion in the habit of receiving it ?— The first cross would not apply. John Thomas Tucker, he never voted, double cross. I marked it down as against us. If he voted, it would be against us, but there was a probability, and there was a double cross put against him. The next is Henry Ashford. I put him down as a Conservative ; no idea that he would require compensation, far from it. I think it probable he might have given us one vote. The next is Robert Tucker ; he was confined to his bed, and if he had voted, he would have voted for Seymour and the Conservatives, but my impression was that he would not vote. The next is William Ough ; he is a Conservative ; no idea of his requiring any money. I thought it possible that he might give a vote for Mr. Pender, as he had given money to the church, and he was a churchman much attached to the church. The next is James Lewis Goodridge, Conservative. He rented some land of the Duke of Somerset, and the probability was that he would vote for Seymour.

34,116. How did he vote, do you know ?—I think he voted for the Conservatives. He is marked here.

34,117. Has he been turned out by the duke ?— No ; he still occupies the place ; it is an orchard, in which he has his saw-pits. The man is a carpenter. The next man is William Page. I have marked him "Seymour and Dawkins." His son rents a large farm under the Duke of Somerset, and I thought it probable that he would vote for Seymour.

34,118. How did he vote ?—He voted that way. The next is Frederick Bowden ; he very seldom votes. The probability was that he might not, but if he had he would have voted for us, and he did so The next is Frederick Seccombe, a very strong probability that he would not vote ; he did not. The next is Francis Hayward ; it is not likely that he would vote, but if he did vote, our idea was that he would have gone one on each side ; but he did not vote. The next name is Alan Gardner, an old man, something like 80. He has not voted for some years. The chances are that he would not vote ; he did not. The next is William Adams, rather a strong Liberal. The probability with us was that he would not vote. He did vote, one of the most extraordinary votes of the days, Colonel Dawkins and Pim.

34,119. He is an organist ?—Yes.

34,120. Had you not had something to do with him in 1862 ?—Never had anything to do with Mr. Adams.

34,121. Did not you canvass him ?—Never in my life.

34,122. Has Mr. Adams got a son a draper ?—I think he has.

34,123. At that time, in 1862, was he an organist in Bridgetown?—Scarcely I think. I think he must have had the organ at Harberton as far back as 1862.

34,124. Did not you see Mr. Adams during the election of 1862 and 1863, and talk to him about his vote?—No; we may have had a chat at my house. He may have come there to tune a piano, but I would not say he did. I have no recollection of it. I never went to his house, and never met him in any way.

34,125. Has he not told you at some time or another that he had a son who was in a drapery establishment, and that he would be glad of a situation in a larger establishment?—He said something to me about his son, but I cannot charge myself about the time.

34,126. When was that, 1862 or 1863?—It would be since, but whether since the election of 1865 or previous to it I cannot say.

34,127. When he spoke to you about his son, did you advise him to apply to Mr. Pender?—I have no recollection of doing so. I think he told me that he had communicated with Mr. Pender or Mr. Brooking Cuming had for him.

34,128. Did you know from Mr. Adams that he had communicated with Mr. Cuming?—Yes, he told me so.

34,129. Are you quite sure that was not before the election of 1865?—No, I am not sure of it.

34,130. Do not you know it was in consequence of Mr. Pender not having given Mr. Adams' son a situation that Mr. Adams voted against him in 1862?—I have heard him say so since.

34,131. He voted for Dawkins and Pim?—Yes, for Dawkins and Pim. I understood his not supporting Mr. Pender, but I did not understand his voting for Dawkins and Pim.

34,132. You thought he would have given one vote to Mr. Seymour and the other to the Conservatives?—Yes, I thought so, because he is a strong Liberal, and had assisted the Liberal party frequently on former occasions.

34,133. Does not that make you think that he was disappointed in some manner by Mr. Pender and the Liberal party?—He expressed himself to me as disappointed.

34,134. Would not that fix the time of the conversation in your mind between you and him?—I think the conversation must have been early in 1865, perhaps about January 1865.

34,135. In the election of 1863 was not there a good deal of money borrowed from one of the banks?—I do not know at all.

34,136. Or from some person in this town, for which money some of the Liberals became responsible?—I have heard so since this Commission opened, never before.

34,137. Did you never hear that some money was wanted for the purpose of the Liberal cause, and did you not on hearing of it object to its being obtained?—No.

34,138. The fact of money having been wanted never came to your knowledge?—Never came to my knowledge.

34,139. There is another mark in your poll book which we will be glad to have explained?—(Referring to the book), That is "N.V.," no vote.

34,140. You will find "no vote" put against a number of people?—Yes.

34,141. Explain that?—Those are taken off the list.

34,142. What do you mean, that they had no vote?—No, the probability was that they would not vote. On the night of the nomination our judgment was that these people would not vote.

34,143. A great many of them did vote?—One (examining the book).

34,144. Did not Samuel Hilley vote?—He is not among them. The only man who did vote is William Adams.

34,145. Let me look at the poll book again (the witness explained the book to the Commissioners). This has been made up since the registration of 1865?—Yes.

34,146. You have explained the double cross to mean that there was something particular with respect to each?—Something special in each case.

34,147. What is the meaning of the single cross?—They are Conservative voters who we had reason to suppose would not vote without money.

34,148. And the tick signifies Liberal voters you believe the same of?—Yes.

34,149. From that poll book did you make up what in your mind would be the probable result of the election?—I did.

34,150. What numbers did you give?—We gave Pender 204, we gave Seymour 203, and we gave Dawkins 181.

34,151. It turned out that Mr. Pender got 210, Mr. Seymour 204, and Colonel Dawkins 162?—That is correct.

34,152. From the calculations you made had you any doubt that the return of the two Liberals was certain?—Perfectly certain of their return.

34,153. Bribery to whatever extent on the Conservative side?—It was impossible that they could have returned their men unless they bought off 12 of ours.

34,154. Had you in your calculations given all the doubtful men against you?—In every case, all our mercenary men were doubtful.

34,155. Did you know there were 12 men who had signed the requisition for a Conservative candidate?—I do not.

34,156. And you did not at the time?—No.

34,157. Tell us how you have Thomas Blank's name marked?—I think he is marked for us; yes, this poll book was made up on the night of the nomination.

34,158. How is Byne's name marked?—Against us.

34,159. William Pengilley?—For us.

34,160. Fox Green?—For, I should say.

34,161. John Diggins?—He is a Bridgetown man, a vote for Seymour and Dawkins.

34,162. John Wright?—For, a plumper for Pender.

34,163. The two Matchams, James and Thomas?—Both against us.

34,164. They did vote for you, did not they?—Yes, they voted for us.

34,165. John Parnell Searle?—For, I suppose; he has always gone that way for some years; yes.

34,166. William Sloggett?—He would be for.

34,167. James Edmonds?—For.

34,168. And Samuel Hill, junior?—A plumper for Pender.

34,169. So those 12 persons whose names I have mentioned signed the requisition, and they did all vote for you?—I suppose so. I have ticked against you.

34,170. Do I understand you to say that you did not know any of the persons whose names I have mentioned had signed the requisition?—I did not know it.

34,171. Did not you know that there had been a requisition signed?—What was the requisition?

34,172. For Mr. Macleay to come down as candidate?—I heard of it.

34,173. You did not hear who the persons were who signed it?—I did not.

34,174. Was that book made up alone by yourself on consultation with others?—Upon consultation with others.

34,175. Mr. Brooking Cuming and Mr. Windeatt?—Mr. Brooking Cuming was not able to act, he was afflicted at the time.

34,176. Mr. Windeatt?—Yes.

34,177. And Mr. Holman?—And Mr. Holman.

34,178. Mr. Parnell?—No, I do not recollect seeing Mr. Parnell. Mr. Jeffery Michelmore.

34,179. At what time was that poll book made up

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

Mr. J. W. Chaster.

22 Sept. 1866.

at night?—I should think as late as 12, between 11 and 12. I should think I was with Mr. Pender full three hours that night.

34,180. Did you as any of these names were mentioned hear any reason given why those were put down as against you?—I heard no reason; it would be merely this or that would be right or wrong. I was convinced of it in my judgment, and marked them accordingly.

34,181. You had particular reasons which led you to form a correct judgment?—No doubt.

34,182. Did negotiations take place between the Liberal side and those persons whose names you have mentioned after 12 o'clock?—I never heard of it.

34,183. There are nine persons who signed that requisition who might be calculated on by the Conservatives to vote for them, and whom you calculated on as voting for you?—Yes.

34,184. Taking those nine from you and adding them to the other side would bring your calculations nearly to that which you have given us?—Yes.

34,185. What strangers were down here with Mr. Pender in 1865?—I think Mr. Heald was down here with him. I do not recollect any other stranger being here; his son came down.

34,186. Were there two gentlemen here on the day of the election who were earnest Liberals, one from Exeter and another from Plymouth?—Mr. Latimer was here.

34,187. Both of the Mr. Latimers, the one from Exeter and the other from Plymouth?—I do not recollect Mr. Latimer of Plymouth being here. I recollect Mr. Thomas Latimer being here.

34,188. Was he here any time before the election or only on the day of the election?—On the day of the election I think I saw him in the lobby as I was going to the hustings, and I saw Mr. Floud here.

34,189. You mean the attorney of Exeter?—Yes, I saw him in the lobby at the same time.

34,190. He had assisted you on the Liberal side?—Yes.

34,191. Although you yourself did not personally interfere, do you know anything of your sister interfering in regard to any voter?—Not at all.

34,192. Do you know anything of a statement made before the committee of the House of Commons by a man of the name of Mogridge?—Yes.

34,193. Have you read that statement?—Yes.

34,194. Is your sister in this neighbourhood now?—Yes, she is at my house.

34,195. And ready to be examined if we wish?—Of course.

34,196. At the end of your poll book there is a summary, and at the close of it the word "impure," is that not so?—Yes.

34,197. Does that mean that as regards all those persons against whose names the word "impure" is put, they were all to be bought in your judgment?—Yes; that would refer to all the parties who are marked with that sign and a star.

34,198. Then in your opinion there were 21 Liberals who would have had to be bought?—Yes.

34,199. And 83 Conservatives?—Yes; I think you have had evidence enough to satisfy you of that already.

34,200. You thought it would have been necessary to buy those 21 Liberals?—Yes; if a contest had taken place it would have been necessary.

34,201. So far as my recollection serves me, we have had no evidence given at present of 83 persons having been bribed on the Conservative side in 1865?—This poll book is not marked,

34,202. Can you give us any information with regard to those 83 whose names are not here?—No; those are gentlemen with whom I have never mixed at all, it would be only general information.

34,203. (Mr. Coleridge.) How did you get the number 83 as put down of the Conservatives who would have to be bribed; you must have known the persons who represented that figure?—They are all there. They either had been bribed or there were some circumstances connected with them that rendered them doubtful, or there was something in connexion with them which led us to believe that such a thing would be necessary before they would poll.

34,204. The information in your mind which led to your putting these marks against their names you could still afford us?—I dare say I could in many instances, the majority of them.

34,205. We must either go through them here publicly or ask you to give us a list?—It would be awkward to go through them here. There are a good many names which I have ticked off. This poll book was made up as dead as could be against ourselves. We gave the Conservatives every man we thought there was a probability of their getting by purchase.

34,206. Were some of those men persons who were afterwards purchased on your own side?—No doubt of it.

34,207. How many out of the 83 would that apply to?—That I cannot say.

34,208. (Mr. Bere.) Whose handwriting is this poll book in?—On the right hand my own.

34,209. On the left?—I should think that is George Fitze's.

34,210. He was a very active man on your side, was not he?—Not at the last election.

34,211. There was an attempt made at the last registration to place a number of votes upon the list as partners in a farm?—At Gerston?

34,212. The Gerston property?—There was.

34,213. Mr. Amery and 42 others?—Yes.

34,214. Well now, the funds by which the partnership was carried on were raised by a loan of 800*l.*?—That was so.

34,215. Can you tell us from whom the 800*l.* was procured?—It came from Mr. Henry Michelmore.

34,216. Mr. Henry Michelmore of Newton?—Mr. Henry Michelmore of Newton. I do not know who lent him the money; he is a solicitor.

34,217. Were you one of the company?—No.

34,218. Did you have anything to do with it whatever; who is the man belonging to it, Veitch?—The manager of the company would be Mr. Endle.

34,219. John Endle?—John Endle.

34,220. Do you not know that in truth that 800*l.* was advanced by Mr. Pender?—I know it was not.

34,221. It was professed not to be advanced by him, but did it not really come from him?—I am satisfied it did not.

34,222. Do you know from whom it did come?—No. Mr. Michelmore will tell you.

34,223. What makes you satisfied that Mr. Pender did not advance it?—Because I know Mr. Michelmore offered to get it and did get it. I think he got it from a lady.

34,224. Do you know how he got it?—I do not.

34,225. Do you know the lady's name?—I do not. I was not one of the company, and need not have known it and did not.

34,226. (Mr. Coleridge.) We must take you through the book. The star, as I understand, is for people whom you thought would be bought by the Conservatives, and then the little tick those who would have to be bought on your side?—Just so.

34,227. And the two crosses those who would have something?—Some consideration.

34,228. Now, the first is Joseph Barker, you have got a mark that he would be bought by the Conservative side, what was your reason for thinking that he would be?—I think you have had evidence here quite sufficient.

34,229. We have had evidence generally, but we must take it from you?—I cannot give you any further evidence than that of general knowledge.

34,230. What knowledge had you about Barker that made you think he would be bribed, what induced you to put the mark to his name?—The parties whom I consulted said, "That man will take

"money from the other side; he is a Conservative, "but he wants money, he is one of the matter-of-"course men."

34,231. Who would be the person that you would apply to for that information?—The information would be from Mr. Brooking Cuming, Mr. Windeatt, and Mr. Holman.

34,232. Thomas Jacob Searle?—I never saw Mr. Searle.

34,233. Elliott?—I never saw him.

34,234. The next is Edward Baker?—There was no doubt about him; he was a Liberal and he turned over and joined the club at Bridgetown. We had some information that he wanted money.

34,235. Had he applied to your party for money to vote on your side?—I cannot inform you upon this, because the information I received would be from parties who possibly had seen the man and had conversations with him; mine would be third-rate information.

34,236. I understand you to say that the parties would be Mr. Windeatt, Mr. Brooking Cuming, and Mr. Holman?—And Mr. Michelmore possibly.

34,237. Which?—Mr. Jeffery.

34,238. And Mr. Charles Michelmore?—Occasionally.

34,239. And Mr. Elliott?—I never saw him.

34,240. And Mr. Parnell?—I think I may say I never saw him.

34,241. We may take it that Mr. Parnell and Mr. Searle, as far as they worked, worked under some of those persons?—They did not come in contact with me.

34,242. There is John Light with a mark that he may be bribed on your side, was it because he had been bribed before?—Yes; from Mr. Windeatt's information he would be put as a man that would require something.

34,243. If he got something he would be on your side?—He always had been.

34,244. James Clarke?—A waiter at the "Seven Stars." Those things are generally managed down there.

34,245. You put him down as a matter-of-courre man?—Yes.

34,246. And John Tucker with two crosses; he was a man who did not vote?—He never voted.

34,247. Do you know why?—No; he holds a public situation, and his vote is a fictitious one.

34,248. What is he, a surveyor?—Surveyor I believe to the Dart Navigation Commissioners.

34,249. He did not vote?—He did not vote.

34,250. Henry Ashford; he is marked with a double cross?—The chances were that he would give us one vote.

34,251. How did he vote?—I think as he is marked there, Conservative.

34,252. John Wright, marked as bribable on your side?—Yes.

34,253. Was that from his having been paid before?—No.

34,254. From some information that you received?—Yes.

34,255. Then we have a person that we have heard a great deal about, Nicholas Manning. What is the reason of his being crossed?—The reason of his being ticked is the talk about his having received money for his brother before.

34,256. Did you know of any other circumstances?—No.

34,257. Robert Tucker. You have explained about him?—Yes.

34,258. Samuel Goodman, marked as bribable?—A doubtful man.

34,259. Had he voted both ways?—Yes.

34,260. When there is a doubtful man of that sort, how is it that you do not put a tick against him that you might give him money on your side?—It is not necessary.

34,261. You have two ticks against them?—That is to ascertain their way.

34,262. Joseph Hannaford?—He has given you evidence of it here.

34,263. You knew at that time?—It was currently reported.

34,264. James Barter?—Another similar case.

34,265. William Ough; the same man that we had before?—It is probable that he would give Pender a vote.

34,266. Thomas Dennis?—A marked Conservative.

34,267. Had you some information about him?—Yes; it was admitted in this court.

34,268. Thomas Willis?—He is down the same.

34,269. You had information of that sort when you put these marks?—In every case.

34,270. F. T. Waymouth?—A very doubtful case.

34,271. Had he voted at the election before?—Always split for Seymour, and he is probably marked so.

34,272. Then there is a man with two marks; Thomas Goodridge?—He rents some land under the Duke of Somerset, and we thought it probable that he would give one vote for Seymour.

34,273. John Farley?—He has confessed.

34,274. He has not confessed anything at the last time?—The fair presumption is, that if he took it on the previous occasion he would on the last time.

34,275. James Willcocks, large cross?—The idea was that the whole of the Willcocks were touched with the same complaint.

34,276. How many?—Three or four.

34,277. How did they vote?—All against us.

34,278. William Kellow is marked as being bribable on your side?—Yes.

34,279. Did you know the circumstances about him?—That is admitted I think.

34,280. George Penny?—That is admitted.

34,281. William Pengilley; we have had him?—Yes.

34,282. William Byne?—There is no doubt about Byne. It was well known that he was bribed on former occasions.

34,283. Byne surprised you by voting for you?—Yes.

34,284. Will you tell us the circumstances under which Byne changed his politics?—I cannot say. I know Michelmore said to me on the day of the election, "Byne is going for us."

34,285. Did he say that had something to do with land?—I did not ask any questions.

34,286. He had settled with him?—Yes.

34,287. Which Michelmore?—Mr. Jeffrey. But I do not believe that Byne had received any money on that occasion.

34,288. There is William Woodley; he has a cross to his name?—A matter-of-course man.

34,289. Something on the Conservative side?—I took it for granted.

34,290. William Paige, two crosses?—Probably he would vote for Seymour.

34,291. He rented some land of the duke?—His son rents a large estate of the duke.

34,292. Samuel Hilley?—Admitted.

34,293. Frederick Bowden, two crosses?—He seldom votes. Liberal; if tight run would vote for us.

34,294. Did he vote for you in 1863 when there was a tight run?—He did.

34,295. James Page?—A mercenary man. I do not think he voted.

34,296. You mark him for Dawkins?—Yes; but I do not think he polled.

34,297. Then Frederick Seccombe?—We did not think he would vote, and did not.

34,298. What is he?—A chemist and druggist.

34,299. Why does he not vote?—He likes to keep friends I suppose, and he is a new man in the town. He never took any part in politics.

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

Mr. J. W. Chaster.

22 Sept. 1866.

34,300. Hayward?—We thought it possible that he would split his vote if he polled.

34,301. You have got it written in pencil?—The result was he did not vote.

34,302. John Parnell?—A nurseryman.

34,303. You have got a cross against his name?—Yes.

34,304. Why was that?—It was supposed as a certainty that John Parnell always received some consideration.

34,305. Do you know from whom he received it?—No.

34,306. Always on the Conservative side?—Yes.

34,307. That is the man who was in communication with Mr. Bryett?—The same person.

34,308. Was it anything to do with his having been supposed to give money to Crawford, or offered money?—No. I never heard of it till here.

34,309. R. P. Tarring your side?—Yes; no doubt about him.

34,310. You put him down as voting one for Col. Dawkins?—Yes, and he did so. He would only promise us one.

34,311. The probability was, that he got money on both sides?—Yes.

34,312. Thomas Smith?—He took money on both sides.

34,313. What Thomas Smith is that?—The railway man.

34,314. Was not Mrs. Jenkins sent after Smith?—I cannot tell you.

34,315. Do you know whether Mr. or Mrs. Jenkins undertook to see Mr. Smith?—I do not know.

34,316. He voted against you?—He did not vote at all.

34,317. What made you think that he got money on your side?—He refrained from voting, and we had reason to suppose that he was paid on former occasions.

34,318. The next man is marked as wanting money from you to vote, one for you, and one against you. George Griffis?—He has admitted it in court.

34,319. You believe he had money on your side too?—Yes.

34,320. William Foote?—He is a fair specimen of Conservative politics. He is a Liberal out and out, and that was the first plant of the Conservatives. They laid hold of William Foote, and offered him 150*l.* at the commencement of the bribery.

34,321. Who did that?—I do not know.

34,322. Did he come and tell you that, or did you know that fact when you made that mark in your book?—Yes.

34,323. How did you know that?—Mr. Samuel Cuming, junior, went to the house and saw the money. The woman Foote showed him the money.

34,324. Now Henry Bartlett, is that the tailor?—Yes.

34,325. He is marked with a cross?—Yes.

34,326. What made you mark him?—In consequence of the conversation you heard here the last day or two. I have no knowledge of it until this casual conversation took place. But it looked as though there must be something in it. It is said that there is no smoke without fire.

34,327. You heard the conversation about the journeyman and the master tailor, and about the bribery, and their saying, "Take care, Mr. Michelmore is here"?—Yes.

34,328. And you gathered from that that there had been something done by Mr. Michelmore, and that it was no good denying it in his presence?—Yes.

34,329. Thomas Blank, we have heard about him?—There is no doubt about him, he is an old stager.

34,330. Thirty or 40 years ago he got something for his father?—I do not think he had the money, he was only tempted.

34,331. Jubal Bartlett?—He is brother of Henry Bartlett, and always receives money.

34,332. William Stoyle?—That is the same.

34,333. Henry Crawford, marked as likely to take money on your side?—Yes.

34,334. William Vallance?—On the other side, likely to take money if he could get it.

34,335. Had he on former occasions?—I should think that was his first vote.

34,336. What made you think he would take money?—He was always mercenary in the municipal elections.

34,337. You think if they take money in the municipal elections, they would take them in the borough elections?—Yes.

34,338. William Shinner?—No doubt about him.

34,339. Edward Shinner?—The same.

34,340. John Webber Chaster? You have made no mark against him?—I am open to examination.

34,341. Samuel Heard?—I have very little doubt about that; I believe he has always admitted it. I understand that he has admitted it.

34,342. Robert Mogridge?—There is no doubt about it; he was my tenant.

34,343. And he voted on the other side?—Yes, he always voted against me at the elections, and came and begged pardon the next morning.

34,344. You did not try to pay him?—No.

34,345. You thought he preferred being paid on the other side; if you would offer him the same sum?—I cannot tell, I never tested him.

34,346. John F. Green, marked on your side?—Yes.

34,347. William Willcocks and Thomas Willcocks?—Yes.

34,348. Richard Norrish?—You have heard about him.

34,349. John Putt?—No doubt about him.

34,350. Alan Gardner?—Unable to come, from old age and infirmity.

34,351. John Putt is not here and he has not answered the summons?—You will be satisfied when you see him.

34,352. James Matcham and Thomas Matcham?—No doubt about them.

34,353. William Willis?—He has confessed.

34,354. Henry Tapper?—Dead.

34,355. William Adams, with a double cross?—Yes.

34,356. Voted for Dawkins?—The impression was that he would not vote.

34,357. Richard Tope, with a cross?—He has admitted it.

34,358. John Tozer, a double cross?—I think he died about that time.

34,359. Then Thomas R. White, double cross?—A tenant of Mr. Cary, and the landlord being a Liberal he voted that way.

34,360. Henry Helms?—He is the man who brought the money for Dent. He is a thorough Liberal, but he could not vote at the last election.

34,361. Richard Pengilley?—Yes.

34,362. Edward Angel, that is admitted?—Yes.

34,363. Richard Harris?—He has not been here.

34,364. William Harris, with a cross?—Yes. He is the father of Robert Harris, and he being connected with Robert Harris, it was more than probable that he would receive some consideration.

34,365. Richard Harris is marked on the Liberal side?—Yes; he split his vote.

34,366. Then John Tucker?—Yes; a butcher; a Conservative. I believe he came rather too late.

34,367. Did not he vote?—Yes, he voted, but too late to receive anything. He belongs to David Manning.

34,368. Do you know what David Manning got on your side?—No.

34,369. Then there is a notorious gentleman, Frederick Evens, only one cross to his name?—I thought he would take it himself.

34,370. You thought he would help himself, probably?—Yes.

34,371. Now William F. Sloggett, a tick on your side ?—Paid, no doubt.

34,372. John Pyle, on your side ?—Yes.

34,373. Thomas Mugford ?—Admitted.

34,374. William Allen ?—He has always admitted.

34,375. And Stephen Tozer ?—There was a doubt about him, but I believe he has stated that it was incorrect.

34,376. You thought he was open to conviction on the Conservative side ?—Yes, I think so still.

34,377. When you make up another poll book, you would not remove the cross ?—I do not think I would offer any.

34,378. George Please ?—Yes.

34,379. Henry Richards ?—I have no knowledge of that.

34,380. Walter Worth, two crosses ?—Yes. He rents land of the duke, and the probability is that he would vote for Mr. Seymour.

34,381. Lombardini, we have heard about him ?—Yes.

34,382. You cannot tell us more about Manning ?—No.

34,383. John Sampson ?—Unquestionable.

34,384. Samuel Hill, on your side ?—Yes.

34,385. Thomas Hardin, two crosses ?—Yes. Ill health ; probably would not vote.

34,386. Did he ?—I believe he did.

34,387. He had been paid at a former election ?—I was not aware of that.

34,388. John Godfrey, a cross ?—Paid from the Liberal side on a former occasion.

34,389. And the last occasion also ?—No doubt.

34,390. Evan Evens, brother of Frederick Evens ?—Yes.

34,391. You have two crosses to his name ?—It seemed rather doubtful.

34,392. He is the gentleman who said nobody would insult him by offering him a bribe, but he has insulted a great many others ?—Yes.

34,393. Thomas Pack, is he the boots ?—That is the man who was said to be tempted with a very large sum of money on the other side, and I thought that possible, and ticked him in pencil.

34,394. You had crosses against William Mitchell ; is that the Chartist ?—No ; that is George Mitchell.

34,395. Richard Bowden ?—He keeps an inn.

34,396. William Bovey ?—Yes. That is the man connected with Pengilley.

34,397. John Phillips ?—John Jerman Phillips, admitted.

34,398. Daniel Putt, two crosses ?—He did not vote. He is a sailor, and I believe never did vote.

34,399. Your respected vicar has two crosses against his name ?—I did not suppose he was going to be bought, never did poll.

34,400. What is he, a Conservative ?—He tells me he is a Liberal.

34,401. You never got him up to the scratch ?—No ; I think his position is a very proper one.

34,402. William Reeves ?—Admitted.

34,403. Samuel Saunders ?—He has admitted.

34,404. Edwin Jordain, two crosses ?—Never voted.

34,405. Do you mean that he habitually refused to vote ?—Yes.

34,406. Either in the council or in the borough ?—I believe he never voted one way or the other.

34,407. Do you know of Mr. Jordain receiving not to vote ?—I think not, I should say not. He is a man who keeps an inn.

34,408. Robert Morgan ?—He has received money.

34,409. Likely to receive money on the other side to vote for Dawkins and Pim, and he may have received money on your side ?—He may have.

34,410. Robert Harris ; we have heard all about him ?—Yes.

34,411. Did not you know of Jordain being paid in 1862 by the Liberals ?—I never heard so.

34,412. A bill of 45*l.*, did you never hear that story ?—It never came to my knowledge.

34,413. George Beer ?—One of the "Stars'" men.

34,414. William Wills ?—I think he was absent then, on a voyage from Australia.

34,415. William Marks ?—Yes.

34,416. Likely to be bribed, and marked as not having voted ?—He did not vote.

34,417. William Ellis ?—Confessed.

34,418. Robert Tilley ?—Connected with the "Stars."

34,419. Samuel Lane ?—Relieving officer ; generally refrains from voting, thought he would not vote.

34,420. What is he, Liberal or Conservative ?—Conservative.

34,421. Arthur Venning ?—Confessed.

34,422. James Raymond ?—The same.

34,423. John Watson ?—The same.

34,424. Francis Coombes has got a tick ?—That is in consequence of what was mentioned here.

34,425. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know anything about that ?—No.

34,426. What made you tick his name ?—Only after the investigation here. I thought you would ask me questions, and I made pencil ticks.

34,427. (Mr. Coleridge.) John Crocker, likely to be bribed on the Conservative side ?—Another of the "Stars'" men.

34,428. They have a strong staff ?—Yes, they have.

34,429. Samuel Brown ?—The "Stars'" man, the waiter.

34,430. Thomas Blackler ; he was a requisitionist and voted for your side ?—Yes.

34,431. Did you know the way he was got over ?—No, I suppose he found there was no chance, and the latter part of the day voted for Mr. Pender.

34,432. Not without money ?—I have no knowledge that he had any money.

34,433. John Nickells ?—He always had money.

34,434. You make a distinction between Blackler and others. You say you had no knowledge of Blackler, had you knowledge of Nickells having money ?—No other knowledge than general knowledge, I know Blackler had, that is say the general knowledge I had of others.

34,435. John Tope ?—Yes, he had admitted it.

34,436. Thomas Edmund Rogers ?—The same.

34,437. Thomas Lampen ?—The same.

34,438. That is the old man ?—Yes.

34,439. George Stone ?—Yes ; that is the runner on the other side.

34,440. Thomas Gillham, we have heard about him ?—Yes.

34,441. Samuel Shillabeer we have heard about ?—Yes.

34,442. We have not had Gillham here yet ?—No.

34,443. Thomas Potter, I do not think we have had him, he has a cross to his name ?—He is one of the fictitious votes.

34,444. Edward Turpin ?—Edward Randle Turpin, yes ; you have had his evidence here.

34,445. John Chapple ?—Yes, that is another that had money.

34,446. Then there is the Rev. Gilbert Butland, with a double cross to his name ; what is the meaning of that ?—I suppose he is marked for us.

34,447. He is marked for you with two crosses ?—Well, he was rather doubtful ; not pledged at that time.

34,448. What made you think him doubtful at this time ?—Because he went against us on former occasions.

34,449. What made you think he might be got over ?—I think at that time he must have been pledged.

34,450. At the time you put the two crosses ?—Yes.

34,451. That would not account for the two crosses, if pledged, because there is nothing remarkable about that ?—There would be an uncertainty, I believe the pledge only extended to Mr. Pender.

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

Mr. J. W. Chaster.

22 Sept. 1866.

34,452. Did you canvass Mr. Butland yourself?—I did not. I saw him with Mr. Pender on the night of the nomination.

34,453. What conversation had you?—Only a general conversation. I went up for a cup of tea, and he was there; I did not remain long.

34,454. Was anything said about his son on that occasion?—Nothing whatever before I left.

34,455. James R. Veitch has two crosses?—He came here in the character of a Liberal and voted a Conservative; it was doubtful which way he would go.

34,456. Was he bought?—Well, he had a situation soon afterwards; a very nice thing.

34,457. What was it?—Very soon afterwards he became governor of a gaol, or something of that sort.

34,458. Then there is Stephen Fisher, he has two crosses?—He was absent at Malta, I believe.

34,459. John Pearce is marked for your side?—Yes, received something.

34,460. Do you know from whom?—I do not; I should think from Mr. Parnell.

34,461. William Goodridge, that was a doubtful case; he was marked as likely for the Conservatives?—Yes.

34,462. Did you get him back?—No, he voted against us.

34,463. W. H. Johns?—He is marked as likely to be on their side.

34,464. William Allery?—He has confessed here.

34,465. And James Mitchell, with two crosses to his name?—Yes.

34,466. He plumped for Seymour?—He did eventually.

34,467. What were the circumstances which led to that?—I dare say it was done to oblige Mr. Thomas Michelmore.

34,468. Do you know whether he had any money?—I should say certainly not. He is a man very superior to that.

34,469. There is John Sandford Screach, you have a cross to his name naturally. Then John Diggins we have heard about?—Yes.

34,470. John Tozer is marked for your side?—Yes.

34,471. No doubt he had something?—No doubt he had.

34,472. John Drew?—John Drew I think very probably.

34,473. Charles Pengilley, with two crosses?—He never voted, he is a new man here.

34,474. Was there any reason for his not voting?—I do not think he was in the town.

34,475. There is Nicholas Browse, you have only marked in pencil?—In pencil, that is since he turned up here.

34,476. There have been considerable additions to your book since this has been going on?—Yes.

34,477. Thomas Searle is so added to you list?—Yes.

34,478. James Chamings is added to your list, and I see in all these additions you take a hopeful view of things, to mark them as likely to take money on your side?—You will put your own construction.

34,479. You put your own marks and I take my impressions from them. There is H. S. Ruby, who was one you were hopeful about?—He was one of our men, and Mr. Chamings was.

34,480. Only marked in pencil?—The reason was they were so tempted, as much as 200*l.* a piece on the day of the election, one could hardly expect virtue under such circumstances.

34,481. Then there is William Crook likely to be on your side, in ink?—Yes.

34,482. The next is William Osborne?—He is on the Conservative side.

34,483. Was he bought?—I cannot say that he was; the probability is very strong.

34,484. Then William Earle, with a cross?—He has come to explain.

34,485. Thomas Pearce has two crosses?—Thomas Pearce occupied property under a Liberal landlord.

34,486. What Thomas Pearce is it?—Follaton, who we thought not likely to come home.

34,487. You marked him for Colonel Dawkins?—Yes; if he had voted he was likely to vote that way.

34,488. Did you know where he had gone to?—I did not.

34,489. Henry Eastman, he is marked in pencil with a cross?—Yes, that is from something that occurred here.

34,490. Then there is Noah Clift, with two crosses?—He died about the time of the election.

34,491. You did not succeed in polling him in extremis?—No.

34,492. William Webber?—He died; no, he did not die, but he was unable to come.

34,493. He is marked in a peculiar way with two crosses to his name, and "No vote" at the end?—The two crosses refer to the other side of the book.

34,494. No, they are down under Pender and Seymour. Robert Smaridge?—He has confessed.

34,495. Then Henry Seaman, with two crosses and "No vote." When you put those two crosses to his name you imagined he would not vote?—Yes, the probability was that he would not.

34,496. Then James Edmonds, that is the gardener?—Yes.

34,497. You know him?—Yes.

34,498. Jeffery Maye, two crosses?—Yes, that was questionable.

34,499. You put him down as likely for Seymour and Dawkins;—Yes the possibility was that he might have given Mr. Seymour a vote.

34,500. (Mr. Longe.) He was Conservative?—Yes.

34,501. (Mr. Coleridge.) Then Edward Shinner with a cross?—Likely for Dawkins.

34,502. He voted one for Pender?—He did.

34,503. (Mr. Bere.) Is he the person with whom the transaction about the house was, or his brother?—No, neither of them. That was a man of another family. This man is a farmer.

34,504. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know what induced him to vote for Mr. Pender?—Not the least.

34,505. Then Richard Mortimer, with two crosses?—He was one of the two men the Conservatives attempted to bring of Lord Cranstoun's down, which Mr. Kellock explained.

34,506. Then Robert Oldreive?—He was a man who did not poll, a case of coercion.

34,507. William Gilbert?—He is a person you heard named about bribing the Chartist on one occasion.

34,508. What made you put a cross to his name?—The probability is he came to assist them and required some consideration.

34,509. Then John Parnell Searle, you mark him your side?—Our side, and received money.

34,510. George Evens is marked with two crosses?—That is one of the Evens family you have seen so much of. He has a son in the Admiralty.

34,511. No, that is a brother?—That is the son of the silversmith.

34,512. He did not vote at all?—He did not vote.

34,513. What are the circumstances under which he did not vote?—He was residing in London, and after the kindness of the Duke of Somerset, the probability is he did not vote and would not.

34,514. You put him down as like to vote for Seymour and Dawkins, if at all?—Exactly.

34,515. As a Conservative you thought if he voted he would give one to that interest?—Yes.

34,516. Samuel Rolstone, I think we heard about?—Yes.

34,517. (Mr. Bere.) Did you know about that transaction between Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore and Edwin Shinner, about his house?—I knew something about it, because they came to my house at the time.

34,518. What did you know about it?—I cannot give you any information about what occurred. There was something said about purchasing the house, then I heard of 400*l.* being named as the price.

34,519. Who was present at that conversation?—Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore and Mr. Pender, I think; I do not recollect any other person.

34,520. Was the money Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore was to give for the house to come from Mr. Pender?—I do not know who the purchaser was to be.

34,521. Was not it arranged that Mr. Michelmore should go up and negociate the purchase of the house, if he did buy the house Mr. Shinner should vote for Pender, and Mr. Pender should really find the money?—It may have been so, but I was no party to it.

34,522. Mr. Charles F. Michelmore was not then in a position to give 400*l.* for a house of that sort?—I should say not.

34,523. Do you know anything about Wherry?—Yes, he is my tenant.

34,524. Did you have anything to do with his vote at the last or any election?—No, I do not think I asked him for his vote.

34,525. Not at all?—Not at all, I think not; he professed to be a Liberal when he came, and I thought he would vote a Liberal, which he did.

34,526. Do you know whether he was offered money from the other side?—He told me about 50*l.* from John Heath.

34,527. What did you say when he told you that?—I said, "You will hardly take it?" and he said, "No master, I should think not," or some words to that effect. He was in the habit of calling me master.

34,528. Did you mention the fact of his having been tempted in the committee-room of the "Seymour"?—I have no recollection of having done so, but I think it is probable.

34,529. If you did mention it in all probability would not some one on your side have gone to see him?—I had a deal of confidence in him, I should not have advised it.

34,530. Do you not think he wanted the money?—I should say not, that he was above it.

34,531. Forster, had you anything to do with him?—He is my carpenter.

34,532. Have you asked him for his vote?—I never asked him for a vote in my life, he always voted for me in municipal matters.

34,533. Has he ever had money on the other side?—I should think from the evidence I have heard here that he has been offered money, and received money, on former occasions. I recollect one circumstance in the registration of 1864, the father and son were both named Henry, and the young man was one of the Bromborough Company. I took a good deal of interest in that registration, and the company did not succeed in establishing themselves, and the young man said to one of my labourers on the following day: "Master knocked me out of 50*l.* yesterday down "there."

34,534. He would have had 50*l.* for his vote?—I fancied that was the meaning of it.

34,535. (Mr. Coleridge.) As to Robert Harris, of whom we have heard a good deal here, was this the first you knew of Mr. Harris' proceedings in election matters that you put no mark to his name, you have marked him in pencil?—He was so well known.

34,536. Did you imagine he would have money from the Conservative side?—He would not take it in the way of a bribe, it would be in some other form; of course he is paid for it, he gets his living by it.

34,537. Had you anything to do with Edward or William Shinner?—Nothing.

34,538. You know them personally?—Pretty well, they live close to my house.

34,539. Had you canvassed them?—No, never; I think William Shinner would vote for me if I asked him, but I never did.

34,540. Do you know anything of a transaction between Mr. Pender and Mr. Fowle?—I do know something of that transaction. I recollect Captain Fowle coming to me on one occasion, saying, that his ship was in trouble, and asking me to write to Mr. Pender to know if he could render him any assistance with the consul. I think at that time Mr. Pender was at Nice.

34,541. When was that?—I think Mr. Fowle came to me in a hay field, I was making hay, it was in May or June.

34,543. What did you say to him?—I asked him if he would give me a statement of the matter, and I would enclose it to Mr. Pender.

34,544. Did you do so?—I did so. I wrote to him, and after an absence of many days, the letters having crossed and so on, I received a letter from him, saying that he would give the matter his attention.

34,545. Do you know what happened in consequence of his giving it his attention?—No, beyond that I cannot give you any information.

34,546. Did any money pass through you hands to Mr. Fowle?—Not one farthing.

34,547. He was the son-in-law of John Wright?—He was.

34,548. Was Mr. Pender often at Wright's house?—I do not know that, I never canvassed for Mr. Pender, I was never in the street with him. I do not know where he went.

34,549. Had Mr. Pender used to come in and tell you where he had been?—I only saw him in the evening. I did not throw away my time in the day about it. I used to find him at the hotel in the evening.

34,550. Did Mr. Pender go to Lorimer's?—I think frequently.

34,551. What is Robert Lorimer?—He goes about the country selling some commodity. I do not know whether he travels with drapery or tea.

34,552. Do you know whether he is supplied by Mr. Pender with goods to sell, or what is the relationship between them?—None whatever. Lorimer was very much interested in the British school.

34,553. Do you know whether Mrs. Lorimer had been a servant in Mr. Pender's family?—I never heard so.

34,554. That she was an old nurse in the family?—I never heard so, they are Scotch people; I think Mr. Pender is from Glasgow, he may know something of them.

34,555. (Mr. Bere.) Are you quite clear that the money you received from Mr. Salmon was all in notes?—It was all in notes.

34,556. Did you hand it over all in notes to Mr. Windeatt?—I did.

34,557. Where was that?—In No. 4 room at the "Seymour" hotel.

34,558. What did Mr. Windeatt do with it?—He put it in his pocket.

34,559. Did he leave the room?—Very soon after.

34,560. Do you know from Mr. Windeatt where and when he changed those notes for gold?—I changed them for him at the National Provincial Bank on the Monday and Tuesday following, which would be the day preceding, and the day of the nomination.

34,561. What quantity of notes did you change each time?—I cannot charge my memory with that, I should think I changed from 1,000*l.* to 1,200*l.*

34,562. Were they in large or small notes?—I should think hundreds and fifties.

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

Mr. J. W. Chaster.

22 Sept. 1866.

34,563. How many 100*l.* notes did you change?—I cannot remember. I think I might have called on Mr. Yabbicom perhaps four or five times.

34,564. Having got the gold did you take it yourself to Mr. Windeatt?—I did.

34,565. And gave it to him?—I did, it was not all in gold, there were some small notes from 20*l.* to 5*l.*; they could not supply me with sufficient gold.

34,566. How was the gold put up?—In hundreds and fifties.

34,567. In bags?—No, rolled up in a piece of paper in long narrow rolls.

34,568. Did you always give the gold to Mr. Windeatt at the "Seymour" hotel?—I think always.

34,569. Always in the same room?—Not in No. 4; it might have been in No. 6, one of the small rooms.

34,570. Do you know what Mr. Windeatt did with the money?—I guessed what he did with it; I do not know.

34,571. Did he ever tell you?—No.

34,572. Nor Mr. Holman?—No.

34,573. You changed between 1,000*l.* and 1,200*l.*, was the rest of the 2,000*l.* which you received in small notes?—That which remained over the 1,200*l.* I should say was in large notes.

34,574. What became of them?—I do not where they went.

34,575. Did you change more than 1,200*l.*?—I think not; it might have been 1,250*l.*, it did not exceed that.

34,576. Did Mr. Windeatt change those notes?—I do not know.

34,577. Did you count the notes before you handed them to Mr. Windeatt?—No, I never unsealed the packet, it was a long packet and wafered; I did not break the wafer.

34,578. Do you know after the election of 1862 that a large number of persons who had voted for or promised Mr. Pender received sums of money after the election?—I never heard of a single instance.

34,579. You have heard of a good many during this inquiry?—Yes.

34,580. From what you have heard during this inquiry have you any doubt that a large portion of the 1,200*l.* Mr. Pender brought down was spent in that way?—I am perfectly satisfied now that it was all spent in that way.

34,581. (Mr. Coleridge.) Besides sticking to the fingers of those who spent it?—I think there was a good deal of it which did not pass through.

34,582. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know anything about Thomas Jacob Searle buying a house?—I know he did buy a house.

34,583. When did he do that?—I cannot tell you exactly. I think it was the latter part of 1863.

34,584. Was it not between the elections of 1862 and 1863 that it was settled he was to have a house bought for him?—Hardly so close as that, I think.

34,585. Do you know the value of the house?—I believe he gave 800*l.* for it.

34,586. Do you know where that money, or a portion of it came from?—Not in the least.

34,587. Do you think a good deal of it came out of the 1,200*l.* left behind by Mr. Pender?—I should think not.

34,588. You do not know where that money came from?—I do not.

34,589. (Mr. Coleridge.) A statement has been made here by Mr. Harris to the effect that you had 1,000*l.* a year spent in the borough by Mr. Pender?—I am sure you do not approve of all you have heard in evidence here.

34,590. In registration, and other expenses, excluding the election expenses, has Mr. Pender spent 1,000*l.* a year in the borough since he became connected with it?—No, by no means.

34,591. In 1862 he left 1,000*l.* for the borough, perhaps you would not be much out if you said he had spent 1,000*l.* a year?—I dare say it may be between 2,000*l.* and 3,000*l.* since he has been here.

34,592. What has Mr. Seymour spent during that period?—I have no idea.

34,593. Would it be 100*l.*?—His subscriptions to the charities would be more than that.

34,594. Suppose you say 200*l.* a year against Mr. Pender's 1,000*l.*?—It would not have amounted to more than that, he may have spent between 2,000*l.* and 3,000*l.* since he represented the borough.

34,595. I suppose you are old enough in electioneering matters to have had something to do with money before?—Never in my life.

34,596. Had you never assisted in bringing down money before?—No, and if there had not been a deal of pressure put on me I should not have touched it then.

34,597. What was the pressure put on you?—I was pressed by Mr. Pender. He said, "Mr. Chaster, I "rely on you; I ask you to do it for me," I said it was a very dreadful thing to do, and I would rather refuse.

34,598. What did Mr. Pender ask you to do?—To take the money, which was the most unpleasant part of it; I said I would have nothing to do with money.

34,599. Was this letter to Mr. Salmon Mr. Pender's composition or yours?—Mine, he never saw it.

34,600. Who told you where to meet Mr. Salmon?—No one, that was my arrangement.

34,601. Yours entirely?—Entirely.

34,602. Where did you get Mr. Salmon's address?—Mr. Pender gave it to me.

34,603. Who told you Mr. Salmon was in a position to cash these securities?—He was Mr. Pender's private secretary and was in a position to do so.

34,604. Mr. Salmon drew a cheque on the Consolidated Bank, had he any account there of his own?—I understand not.

34,605. From your knowledge of banking is it a usual thing for bankers to allow you to draw a cheque for the full amount of securities deposited with them before they have been able to realize them?—I thought it a most unusual thing, but I did not know of it.

34,606. Do you know whether Mr. Pender wrote a letter to the Bank requesting them to honour any cheque Mr. Salmon might draw?—I do not know that.

34,607. You knew he had introduced Mr. Salmon to the Consolidated Bank?—I presume he had.

34,608. Were you not suprised the money came down so quick?—No.

34,609. Dividend warrants are not payable at once?—I was not suprised that a man of his means could get 2,000*l.* at once.

34,610. And you wrote this letter to Mr. Salmon to prevent your being watched?—In a little place like this a man cannot move without being watched or followed.

34,611. And you might be followed as a person who was likely to get the money?—It was known that I was intimately connected with Mr. Pender.

34,612. On no occasion before had you brought down any money like this?—Never before.

34,613. That was the first time you had had the handling of any money?—The first time.

34,614. Are you a magistrate of the county?—No, sir, of the borough.

34,615. When were you made a magistrate of the borough?—I should think in March 1864.

34,616. Was that at Mr. Pender's instigation?—I had not the least idea of it. The first knowledge I had of it was the mayor reading a letter from the Lord Chancellor in this Guildhall.

34,617. Did you solicit it from the Lord Chancellor?—I did not.

34,618. It took you by surprise?—Quite; I can tell you a little incident in connexion with it; there had been a municipal fight previous to November and I was beaten by rather a large majority, and there began to be a fear that we should fight them the next year; it was thought a nice dodge to make me the election auditor to prevent it.

34,619. That was done?—That was done; I recollect after I became the election auditor a letter came down asking him about Mr. William Webber being on the list of magistrates of the borough.

34,620. That is the husband of the lady who gave a sum of money to a voter?—Yes.

34,621. That was his reward for it?—I do not know.

34,622. Will you tell me how long have you known Mr. Robert Harris as the Conservative agent here; when did he begin life in a political character; we have heard nothing of him except from himself?—I can scarcely recollect; several years now.

34,623. Was he ever on your side?—I do not recollect it.

34,624. He has been attending the registration court for several years?—Yes, I think he has fully seven years.

34,625. And has always been very active for that side?—Yes, I cannot state the commencement of it.

34,626. Did you receive instructions from Mr. Pender to accommodate any of his supporters with loans?—Never.

34,627. Have you ever had applications made to you by any persons to procure loans for them?—No, I do not recollect a single instance.

34,628. You were known to be the person through whom the money was distributed in the form of charity, did these people come to you for other matters and situations from Mr. Pender?—I only allude to the last 12 months.

34,629. Did they not come to ask whether you could get them situations from Mr. Pender?—I do not recollect any.

34,630. No one at all?—I should say not.

34,631. How long to your knowledge has Mr. Robert Tucker of Ashburton been mixed up with the affairs of Totnes?—In some way or another ever since I knew politics.

34,632. At one time was he over here constantly during election times?—I dare say he was; he was on polling days.

34,633. Did he ever come over to canvass?—I never knew of his canvassing.

34,634. Were there a number of persons who voted for Totnes who were residents of Ashburton?—Recently there have been.

34,635. He could canvass them while there himself if he was living at Ashburton?—He may do so.

34,636. Was he over here last time at the election, on the election day?—No.

34,637. Was he here on the nomination day?—I fancy the nomination day for the two boroughs was the same day.

34,638. Did he not come on the morning of the election day with Mr. Jardine?—He came with Mr. Jardine, but I cannot charge my memory as to the day.

34,639. Did you see him?—I think I did. I merely saw him I had no conversation with him.

JOHN YABBICOM recalled and examined.

J. Yabbicom.

34,640. (Mr. Bere.) Mr. Chaster has informed us that on Monday, the 10th of July 1865, and on Tuesday, the 11th, he changed on four or five different occasions notes for gold, large notes for small notes and gold, but I do not find any entry of those in the waste book?—There is no entry whatever of them.

34,641. Why not?—I never made any entry of any notes, but I have a list of the notes that were brought to me.

34,642. Be kind enough to tell us how many notes Mr. Chaster changed on those two days?—I can tell the total amount, they came through my hands from Mr. Chaster; I give you the best information I can, and I have furnished you with a list. I should inform the court that the very moment the secretary sent to me, I traced our books upon that occasion and immediately furnished all the information I could give Mr. Cooke of the numbers of the notes I had taken.

34,643. Do you not generally enter in your waste book when a person comes and changes notes for gold?—Probably it may look as if I connived at the transaction, but for the last 14 years I never have made any entry of any notes coming from electioneering parties. I will state to you the plain matter of fact; I dare say I can explain it or else you may fancy I have something to keep back. If you will allow me to explain it, I will.

34,644. (Mr. Bere.) Yes?—At the election of Baldwin and Mills 14 years since our bank was immediately opposite the "Seven Stars," and being so situated we had numerous applications coming from the "Seven Stars," and there were applications for gold and bank notes from the other side of the water. We were pressed on both sides; I had changed on that occasion for the Conservative party coming from the "Stars" hundreds of pounds in notes and so on; those notes I rolled up and put in the usual corner, for they are not always marked the moment they come in, they are put by. I put them by; and the runners from the "Stars" came in, and they having been put by, a short time after, about one hour after, Mr. Phillips, whose memory I speak of with the most profound respect, he was the leader of the Conservative party and he kept an account with us, and he came across to me and called me out, and he said, Mr. Yabbicom have you been marking any of the paper that has come into your hands from the "Stars"? I said no, I had not. He said, do you intend marking any? I said, we adopt the usual course. He said, it is a very invidious thing to do if you do it, I do not see why we should bring parties in collision in that way. Anxious as I was to please Mr. Phillips and everybody about me, I said, never mind I will not mark any. I believe I may say, and I say it most solemnly, that from that time for 14 years when notes came from one party or the other I never made the slightest entry.

34,645. Do you mean if I came and changed a hundred pound note you would not enter in your books, 100*l.* note brought by bearer and 100*l.* gold on the opposite side, I do not mean at election times?—Yes, I should most decidedly.

34,646. Was it a special favour, in regard to election proceedings?—It arose entirely from a desire not to compromise any of the connexions of the bank, and not to bring them into collision the one with the other.

34,647. Your private customers you do enter?—Yes.

34,648. At election times you do not?—I did not then, and we had to follow it up again at Dunn's election.

34,649. That has been your practice for 14 years?—Yes.

34,650. (Mr. Coleridge.) 14 years ago what was your position at the bank?—Chief cashier.

34,651. Had you permission from the manager?—I adopted my own course without reference to him. I had charge of the counter and I adopted my own course.

34,652. (Mr. Bere.) Is it by a sort of intuitive perception or second sight that you understood the notes brought in were used for election purposes?—I had had much experience in knowing the parties coming across; and I did Mr. Chaster.

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

J. Yabbicom.

22 Sept. 1866.

34,653. Were you convinced the notes were for the purposes of bribery?—I had not the slightest doubt of it.

34,654. (Mr. Coleridge.) You are not cashier now, you are manager?—I am manager.

34,655. Have you given the same instructions to your cashier to adopt the course you used to carry out yourself?—I never mentioned the thing to him.

34,656. Supposing you were out during the election time and the cashier cashed notes would he not mark them?—I do not know that he would.

34,657. He is not up to the dodge about the matter?—No.

34,658. (Mr. Longe.) Does this apply to the notes of persons bribed as well as others?—No, I do not know that I ever took them from a man bribed. I have only taken them from the leading parties.

34,659. Your bank would be probably the one to which all these notes would be brought?—Yes.

34,660. (Mr. Bere.) The other bank enter every single transaction, whether at election times or not?—Do they now?

34,661. (Mr. Coleridge.) How many days of grace are there before and after the election for not marking notes?—You ask me the question, but I do not know. It is if I know the parties.

34,662. Supposing there is going to be an election this day fortnight, for instance, how many days before the election should you cease to mark the notes?—I do not know.

34,663. How many did you on the last occasion?—I can give you the numbers of the notes I have taken.

34,664. How many days before the election did you omit to mark the notes?—I do not think I exercised any thought about it till after the election was over.

34,665. During those periods do you mark no notes, or only those that you think are brought by people engaged in the election?—Such as I got from Mr. Chaster.

34,666. What was there peculiar about those?—They were all new paper and with consecutive numbers.

34,667. If they had been old notes should you have marked them?—Not if Mr. Chaster brought them.

34,668. If Mr. Thomas Jacob Searle brought them?—I should.

34,669. Or Mr. Parnell?—You ask me what I should have done.

34,670. Did you?—I never had any notes from him.

34,671. Suppose Mr. Michelmore came in with a 50*l.* note, should you have marked it?—No, I should not.

34,672. You used your own discretion as to the marking then, did you not?—If parties came and changed bank notes with me and used them for an unworthy purpose that is not my look out.

34,673. Your reason was the one you have given?—Yes, for not bringing the parties into collision.

34,674. You knew what they were going to do with them?—To be sure I did.

34,675. (Mr. Longe.) Was not it known by Mr. Chaster that they were not marked?—I never spoke to him about it in my life.

34,676. Was it known in Totnes that the notes changed in the bank during the election were not marked?—Not so; I never mentioned the fact.

34,677. (Mr. Bere.) This account you now hand in is a correct statement of the notes paid into your bank by Mr. Chaster on those days?—No doubt about it.

34,678. In the first account there was an omission of one 50*l.* note and one 20*l.* note?—No, those came in afterwards.

34,679. You gave us an account you say, but you only put down 1,200*l.*; you have now given an account in which there is 1,270*l.* put down, that is made up by your having found you cashed another 50*l.* and another 20*l.*?—Yes, it was so.

34,680. How did you find that out?—In consequence of an application through one of the clerks.

34,681. Where did you find it out?—From the remittance book.

34,682. You sent up a certain number of notes that day to your head office?—Those among others. I made my cashier go through the books. I said "Those "notes must be traced up, they appear to have come "from the Consolidated Bank, and now see if you can "find any more that ever came into our hands." Those 1,270*l.* notes came into our hands in the course of two or three days; not the 1,270*l.*, but the 1,220*l.* and then the other note came in afterwards making up the amount. That is all the account of the series of notes brought to me and they are found in our books.

34,683. (Mr. Bere.) About that time?—Yes.

34,684. Out of that number can you tell how many notes Mr. Chaster changed himself?—I think the largest portion of them.

34,685. Cannot you tell nearer than that?—No.

34,686. How many times did he come?—Three or four times.

34,687. Did he come in after bank hours?—He came in and fetched gold on one occasion after bank hours.

34,688. What was the largest sum in gold that you ever paid him?—400*l.* at a time, and sometimes bank notes.

34,689. Gold?—Gold and bank notes.

34,690. Do you remember how much gold and how much notes at any one time?—No, I cannot, it was chiefly gold. I think the amount Mr. Chaster really had from us was not more than 500*l.*

34,691. Do you make up the rouleaus of gold yourself or were they made up all ready and then taken out of a drawer?—No; I usually met him in my consulting room, he did not come to the counter, and I carried the cash into the consulting room.

34,692. Was the gold made up in parcels of 50*l.* when you brought it from the counter?—No, I gave it to him in his hands.

34,693. Did you make it up?—No, I desired my cashier to make it up; he brought me 400*l.*, and I gave Mr. Chaster the 400*l.*

34,694. How did your cashier bring you the money from the counting house?—I told him to take it from our reserve and give it to me.

34,695. I want to know the actual way in which the money came to Mr. Chaster, in a parcel or loose?—He took it out in a bag.

34,696. Did you ever make it up in a parcel?—No, I do not know that I ever made up a parcel.

34,697. How do you keep the gold, in bags or rouleaus?—In bags.

34,698. So many sovereigns in bags?—500*l.*, 200*l.*, 300*l.*, and so on.

34,699. (Mr. Coleridge.) And one hundreds?—Yes, one hundreds.

34,700. Do you charge for changing bank notes?—Never, we are only too glad to get them in order to get rid of our gold.

34,701. Do you charge for giving bank notes for gold?—No.

34,702. (Mr. Bere.) Did you change any notes for anybody else besides Mr. Chaster?—I am not certain whether somebody did not tell me he wanted it.

34,703. Did you change some notes for the other side?—No, I think they get their favours at the other bank. I have given you the best information I can. The 1,200*l.* certainly came from the Consolidated Bank; if it is found there is a large amount of paper and you can in any way trace it up, and that it found its way to me, I will assist any of the clerks in endeavouring to unravel when and how it came into my hands.

34,704. (Mr. Coleridge.) You did not take the numbers of the notes?—No.

34,705. You have got them in your remittance book?—I am obliged to do that.

34,706. Perhaps you can tell us; will you look at your book?—Yes.

34,707. (Mr. Bere.) In 1863 what quantity of money did you change at Mr. Dent's election?—I cannot tell you.

34,708. Can you by your remittance book say what amount you changed about the election time, notes that were not marked?—In 1863 I do not recollect getting any bank notes at all.

34,709. Did you change any large notes?—I do not know that I did; but if you can call attention to any one and I can refer to the book I shall be most happy to do so.

34,710. Suppose Mr. Chaster had brought a cheque for a large amount you would have changed it?—Yes.

34,711. Do you charge for that?—No.

34,712. Where do you enter them?—They are carried into the scroll and posted.

34,713. Suppose Mr. Chaster brought you a cheque signed by Mr. Pender or Mr. Salmon, should you have cashed the cheque without taking a guarantee for it?—If Mr. Chaster had brought me Mr. Pender's cheque or if Mr. Pender's cheque was brought to me by any obscure individual I should cash it.

34,714. Supposing a cheque bearing the signature, "P. Salmon" had been brought to you at that time, by Mr. Chaster, should you have cashed it without taking a guarantee for it?—Most certainly I should.

34,715. And make no entry?—A cheque on another bank bears a very different character.

34,716. Supposing such a cheque as that of a gentleman who might have had no account with the Consolidated Bank (handing Mr. Salmon's cheque to witness)?—I should not have cashed it if I saw it.

34,717. Not if Mr. Chaster brought it?—Oh, yes, I would if he brought it.

34,718. Supposing it had been dishonoured you would have looked to Mr. Chaster for the money?—Most decidedly so.

30,719. You are not sufficiently a lawyer to know that you must take a written guarantee for it?—No.

34,720. Should you not have taken a written guarantee?—No.

34,721. They do at the Devon and Cornwall Bank?—If I recollect rightly that cheque for 1,000*l.* you have referred to as being carried to the Devon and Cornwall Bank was drawn by a firm in London that was not known, and application was made to the Devon and Cornwall Bank for the purpose of getting it cashed, Mr. Pearce adopted the proper course, and I should have said, "You are going to bring me a "cheque for 1,000*l.* drawn by a party I know nothing "about, will you be answerable for it."

34,722. Here is this cheque drawn by P. Salmon you say you should have cashed it without taking a written guarantee?—I should have taken it on his credit without taking a guarantee, entirely upon his credit. Would not the bank have had a legal remedy as against Mr. Chaster?

34,723. Not unless it is in writing, the guarantee must be in writing?—We take thousands across the counter in cheques, and they are always taken without a guarantee.

34,724. Cheques of third parties?—Cheques on another bank.

34,725. (Mr. Coleridge.) You say that for 14 years you have pursued this plan at elections, can you let us know during the elections in that time up to the present time what amount of notes you have cashed at each election without marking them as you have not done in this case?—What notes I had or not I should have the greatest difficulty in the world in arriving at.

34,726. Have you any sort of marks by which you can tell us how many bank notes, or what cheques you cashed without making any entry of them in 1863, Mr. Dent's election, or 1862?—I never cashed any cheques in reference to Mr. Dent's election except cheques on ourselves.

34,727. I mean Mr. Seymour's?—I know nothing about him.

34,728. Mr. Chaster was engaged in that election also, did Mr. Chaster cash any?—If he had cashed any cheques they would be recorded against him in the account.

34,729. Not if it was election time?—No, but they must be debited to him, cheques on third parties would be entered, whatever we do with bank notes we cannot do with cheques.

Mr. John Webber Chaster's examination resumed.

Mr. J. W. Chaster.

34,730. (Mr. Longe.) How did you know whether the notes cashed during the election would be marked or not?—I had no idea whether they would be or not.

34,731. (Mr. Bere.) When Mr. Yabbicom came in I was asking about Mr. Robert Tucker, of Ashburton, did you yourself once take any interest in the elections for Ashburton?—I never left the town for any election.

34,732. Had you ever any communication from the Liberal parties in regard to the Dartmouth elections?—Never from either of them.

34,733. Or from anybody else?—No.

34,734. Do you know that Mr. Robert Tucker managed matters for the Liberal party, not only to a certain extent in Totnes, but principally in Ashburton and Dartmouth?—Ashburton. I had no idea he did in Dartmouth.

34,735. Used he not to be over here at the registration?—I think he acted at the registration court for many years.

34,736. He did at Ashburton, certainly?—Yes, I think latterly Mr. Tucker took Totnes, and Mr. Brooking Cuming took Ashburton.

34,737. They changed?—I am speaking now of several years since.

34,738. Have you ever been over to Ashburton and spoken about the Ashburton election?—I dined with Mr. Jardine's constituency.

34,739. When was that?—At the latter part of this last year, I never spoke in Ashburton but upon that occasion.

34,740. Did you speak long?—I did.

34,741. When was that?—At the end of last year, I should fancy about November last.

34,742. And can you tell me is Mr. Jardine lord of the manor of Ashburton?—I really do not know.

34,743. (Mr. Coleridge.) When had you seen Mr. Salmon last before you wrote that letter to him?—I had known him here on previous elections, I do not know whether he was here at that election, I think he was down at the shooting.

34,744. When had you last seen him before writing that note to him?—I think it is possible I may have seen him in Mr. Pender's counting-house in London, in Broad Street.

34,745. How long before the election?—It would not be many months.

34,746. When did you next see Mr. Salmon in Totnes after you left him at the station at Exeter?—I do not recollect seeing Mr. Salmon since I met him in the Exeter station.

34,747. Have you not seen him at all?—I do not think I have seen him; I swear I have not seen him.

34,748. Did you see him here during the election?—1865?

34,749. Yes, after you got this money?—I do not think he was here at the election.

34,750. Was not he?—I do not think he was here at the election.

34,751. You told us something about Mr. Pender's saying he might have a day's holiday, and he went to Bath, I understood from you that he merely delayed his coming down?—Mr. Pender's desire was that he should not come, he said, "When you see Mr. Salmon "tell him he may take a day's run;" I said that to him and he said, "I will go to Bath."

Mr. J. W. Chaster.

22 Sept. 1866.

34,752. You do not know that he came down then?—I can safely say he did not come down here. Nothing strikes me for the moment about his presence here.

34,753. In addition to the monies that you got from Mr. Salmon do you know of any other money coming into the borough at the last election?—None whatever.

34,754. Did you get any money from Mr. Seymour?—Not a farthing.

34,755. Do you not know that Mr. Thomas Michelmore advanced money for Mr. Seymour?—I did not know, as a matter of course I should not.

34,756. Did not Mr. Thomas Michelmore tell you he had provided some money for Mr. Seymour at the last election?—No.

34,757. Do you know what money was provided by Mr. Seymour?—I have not the least idea.

34,758. Do you know what money Mr. Pender brought himself?—Only on the evidence of Mr. Yabbicom, the 1,800*l.* and the 500*l.*

34,759. Do you know of any sums of ready money brought down by Mr. Pender himself?—No.

34,760. Or that anybody brought for him afterwards?—I had no idea of it.

34,761. (Mr. Longe.) I wish to ask you a question about the division of the Liberal party, there are two sections, there is the duke's party, and the independent party?—There are.

34,762. I dare say you can tell, what number would you put to the duke's party, or what number of votes would you count in as being under the influence of the duke?—I could not say unless I ran over my book.

34,763. Have you not considered it?—I have always considered that we pull together, I have not set them out as a distinct party, I could not say off-hand.

34,764. You recognize the distinction between the two parties?—Yes I do, very strongly, yet it has never been felt since I acted.

34,765. You refused to canvass in 1862?—I did; I did not understand the party well, I thought he came more upon the assumption that he was the duke's nominee.

34,766. Do you and Mr. Michelmore work together now?—Yes, and have ever since I have known anything of politics.

34,767. You canvassed indifferently, or how were they canvassed by the Liberals?—Mr. Jeffery Michelmore canvassed with Mr. Seymour, and Mr. Windeatt canvassed and Mr. Charles Michelmore on one or two occasions canvassed with Mr. Pender.

34,768. You canvassed the duke's tenants?—Yes, without the assistance of Mr. Michelmore, independent.

34,769. (Mr. Coleridge.) How came the hotel bills not to be included in the accounts sent to the election auditor at the last election?—I suppose they never were sent in.

34,770. Was there an agreement that they should not be?—I know nothing about that.

34,771. Has the "Seymour Arms" bill been paid yet?—I think a portion of it has, not all.

34,772. What is the total amount?—Something like 300*l.*

34,773. How much has been paid?—I think Mr. Michelmore has paid a portion.

34,774. Have you paid any portion?—I have paid nothing; I paid Mr. Pender's private account; Mrs. Beazley asked me for some money and I said, "If you "make out Mr. Pender's private account I will pay "you, the other thing I do not recognize."

34,775. Do you know how much Mr. Michelmore has paid of the whole amount?—I do not.

34,776. Is there some dispute about it?—I do not know.

34,777. You say you "do not recognize"?—That did not come within my province. All I had to do with was with the registration costs, but Mr. Michelmore has paid part on behalf of Mr. Seymour.

34,778. Nothing has been paid to the general account on behalf of Mr. Pender?—Not a farthing.

34,779. How is it it has not been paid, is there any dispute about it?—None that I am aware of. The bills were kept back at the time of the petition and they never have been settled.

34,780. Now (at the time of the Commission) is there any money due?—Yes, there is no money to pay it, I never have been asked to pay it, and if I had I should have refused.

34,781. You would send to Mr. Seymour and Mr. Pender their respective accounts?—We may when the registration costs are made up.

34,782. (Mr. Bere.) If there had been no petition at all Mrs. Beazley's bill in the entirety would have been paid by Mr. Seymour or by Mr. Pender, or both?—No doubt of it.

34,783. It was only because the petition was instituted that the accounts were divided between the various individuals?—Exactly so, that is quite clear.

34,784. Were you up in London at the time of the petition?—I was.

34,785. Did you know anything about an offer made to the other side by Mr. Pender to withdraw the petition if a certain sum of money was paid?—All I know is what Mr. Pender told me.

34,786. What was that?—That there had been an offer to withdraw the petition on his paying 5,000*l.*

34,787. When did Mr. Pender tell you that?—At the time of the petition.

34,788. Before the committee was struck?—Not before the committee was struck, before they sat.

34,789. Was there any arrangement between Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour of which you were cognizant with regard to the expenses of the petition?—No.

34,790. Did you ever hear from Mr. Pender that Mr. Seymour was to pay a portion of the expenses of the petition?—I should take it for granted that they would share the costs, there was a general arrangement to spread over everything.

34,791. As far as you know of the management of money matters in this borough, has Mr. Seymour ever paid anything like the same sum of money that Mr. Pender has?—As far as I know of the money that has passed through my hands he he has paid half of the whole.

34,792. All the registration expenses?—Yes.

34,793. You charge Mr. Pender with one-half and Mr. Michelmore has to pay the other half?—Yes.

34,794. Where he got it from, you do not know?—I do not ask him about it.

34,795. Have you ever known an instance since you have had to do with elections where the duke has refused to support the independent Liberal candidate?—I have no knowledge of anything of the sort.

34,796. Have you any knowledge of any Liberal gentleman's name being mentioned to the duke who was not a candidate of the duke, and the duke having refused to allow that gentleman to stand?—I never heard of such.

34,797. Can you give us at all the names of those gentlemen who were proposed as candidates on the Liberal side about the time when Lord Gifford was expected to be dying. You told us yesterday that at a meeting of the Liberal party certain names were mentioned as persons who would be proper candidates on the Liberal side, and that Mr. Pender's name was not among those?—I did so, I think Lord Seymour was first on the list. I think the next was Mr. Alfred Seymour, and also Major Lyons.

34,798. Is that the Major Lyons who stood for Marylebone?—I think so. There was a fourth name, I cannot recollect him now.

34,799. (Mr. Coleridge.) You told us very clearly yesterday of a marked division between the Liberal party and the Seymour party, and you illustrated it by saying that when Mr. Seymour came down on Mr. Mill's vacancy you told him he must go away, and the next time you received him because it was the duke's vacancy. When Mr. Blount came down did he come with the duke's interest or in the antagonistic interest?—I think he came down in the duke's interest, but not with his cognizance, I do not think he got the support he wanted from that quarter.

34,800. He expected he would get in?—I think he did; that made the election an expensive one; he did not suppose it was to be done with money, but he thought it would be done by the influence on the other side.

34,801. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know whether any sums of money were brought from the Ashburton bank since 1865?—I think if any sum of money since the election of 1865 was obtained as between Mr. Windeatt and Mr. Pender I must have known it; I distinctly state that I know of none.

34,802. Mr. Pender entrusted the money to you, and therefore anything that came to him you would be unlikely to know, might not money have come to Mr. Windeatt without Mr. Pender knowing of it?—Mr. Windeatt was a man in whom I placed implicit reliance.

34,803. Did you ever go through the account of the way in which that 2,000*l.* was expended in order to satisfy yourself whether it had all passed through the hands of the persons who had distributed it?—I purposely avoided it.

34,804. Have you got the 1863 poll book?—I never had one.

34,805. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you heard that Mr. Pender has complained since the election of 1865 that he has been asked for a great deal of money beyond what he thought had been spent at the election?—Never.

34,806. Never that a good deal of money has been charged to him that he expected would be paid out of the 2,000*l.*?—He never said so.

34,807. Did you cash the whole of the 2,000*l.* at Mr. Yabbicom's bank?—I did not.

34,808. Where did you cash it, you cashed it at the bank but you did not cash it altogether in notes?—All I cashed was at the bank, I do not know how it was acted with. Mr. Windeatt asked me to cash certain notes; he said "You can do it better than I "can." He had no account there.

34,809. What was the amount you cashed?—I think it may be 1,200*l.* or it may be 1,300*l.* I am not sure.

34,810. You handed all the money to Mr. Windeatt?—I gave him the sealed packages; he broke open the sealed packages and he said to me, two days after, "I wish you would do this for me, I have no "account, will you do it and change this for me. "I believe the sum was something like 1,200*l.* in "round numbers."

34,811. Where did Mr. Windeatt keep his account?—I do not know that he had an account.

34,812. He must have had one somewhere?—If he had it would be the Devon and Cornwall.

34,813. (Mr. Bere.) Did you ever have any applications for situations to be got from Mr. Pender, I mean in trade, or did you have any applications for situations under Government?—I do not recollect, I may have had them, I recollect a man called Jackson asking me, but he was not a voter; he asked me if I could assist him in getting a situation at the Customs.

34,814. How was it that Mr. Parnell became the postmaster, was it through Mr. Pender's influence?—It was through Mr. Seymour's influence.

34,815. Are there many people who have had Government situations since Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour became members?—Very few I should think.

34,816. Can you tell us who they are?—I cannot charge my memory with anyone but Mr. Evens's son, for the moment. I should like to make a statement if you will allow me. Yesterday you asked me the reason why Mr. Pender came to Totnes, and whether it was not from a consideration of the amount of money he was thought likely to bring. If you will permit me I will state the circumstances from the time I saw him first in London and the proceedings of that day. I went to London on the night I told you of, and I arrived by the mail train in the morning at 4.50 or something like that, beds were prepared for us, Mr. Michelmore, Mr. Brooking Cuming, and myself; we had some refreshment and they went for a short walk; I had a short nap, I went into the sitting room, I think on the previous night, and on the following morning a gentleman came in whom I found afterwards was Mr. Pender and two others.

34,817. Where was this?—At Fenton's hotel.

34,818. In St. James's Street?—Yes. The other was Sir Emerson Tennant, and the third I forget. They were there by appointment to go to Shoeburyness in order to test some Armstrong or Whitworth guns. I was obliged to introduce myself under the circumstances and when my business was understood these gentlemen left. I went into the business with Mr. Pender and ascertained his views, we had had breakfast when Mr. Michelmore and Mr. Cuming returned and then they joined us; then the political conversation continued. After that Mr. Pender said, "I dare say you want to talk the thing over, I have "some correspondence I want to get on with and "I will withdraw." He did withdraw and Mr. Michelmore and Mr. Cuming then said to me, "Well "Mr. Chaster, what do you think of it?" I said, "I "think he will do." "What conversation have you "had?" I stated the conversation. They said "Why do you think he will do?" I said, "He is a "free trader, not of the Bright class as I thought he "might be, in fact he is opposed to John Bright, I "think he is a man likely to do us a great deal of good, "and I think he will walk in the steps of Thomas "Mills." Mr. Cuming said, "That is precisely my "opinion," and Mr. Michelmore the same, "Do you "accept him, because it is on your shoulders," I said, "I do accept him." Some short time afterwards Mr. Pender came in and we intimated to him that we were satisfied with him as a good Liberal, and he said, "I had better prepare my address." After some further conversation we went for a walk and left him to prepare his address, it having been arranged we should dine with him and return by the express train, we said we will go down Parliament Street. Mr. Cuming said I have to go to Mr. Drake's, I did not know him then, I know him now. He told him the object of his visit and I think Mr. Drake rather objected to Mr. Pender, or he was not decided about it, Mr. Cuming made the remark to me upon it, "I do not care about what his views are, "he is the man who will please the constituency of "Totnes;" and we walked on further towards St. Stephens.

34,819. (Mr. Bere.) Did anything further pass about money?—I will explain that, I want to show that nothing did pass about money. We went down Parliament Street and we telegraphed to Totnes to say, "It is all right, come by the late express;" that was before 12 o'clock, we went down to the Houses of Parliament, and then returned to Fenton's and had some lunch or dinner, and after the cloth was removed the conversation I told you of with Mr. Pender took place, when he said, "What money "must I bring down to Totnes," then it first occurred. I think you will now admit that we accepted him without any view to money.

34,820. (Mr. Coleridge.) You knew that he was a rich man at the time?—He told me so.

34,821. (Mr. Bere.) Do you mean to say that supposing he had been a person who could not have spent money, he would have been the Liberal candidate for Totnes?—I have no doubt under any circumstances we should have had him.

TWENTY-IFTH DAY.

Mr. W. Chaster.

2 Sept. 1866.

34,822. (Mr. Coleridge.) Suppose he had had only 500*l.* a year instead of thousands?—Then I think he would not have offered himself.

34,823. (Mr. Bere.) Did Mr. Drake give any reason why he objected to Mr. Pender standing?—No, he knew him as a stranger; he and Mr. Cuming had the conversation apart.

34,824. First of all there was a conversation when he said he did not like the expense?—I think there was some something said about someone else under his wing.

34,825. (Mr. Coleridge.) He did not make use of the strong expressions that Mr. Spofforth used about the borough?—He is a more cautious man.

T. E. Owen.

THOMAS EDWARD OWEN sworn and examined.

34,826. (Mr. Bere.) Are you a member of the Royal College of Surgeons?—I am.

34,827. Have you seen Mr. Brooking Cuming this morning?—I have.

34,828. In what state is he?—He is in an exceedingly nervous state, partly recovered from an attack of apoplexy.

34,829. When did that take place?—Some 10 months ago.

34,830. Is he in a fit state to be examined as a witness?—If he were brought here before the Court it is very likely that it would produce another attack as he is so confused as to be hardly able to give utterance to his words.

34,831. Has the attack affected his speech?—Very much indeed, and his right hand as well.

34,832. Do you think he might be safely examined if we went to his house?—I think you might examine him there. He would hardly be able to utter sometimes when he is excited.

34,833. Have you attended him?—No, I have not, he has been attended by his father-in-law, Mr. Derry.

34,834. We understand he has had a similar attack?—I think he has.

34,835. It is his right hand that is affected?—Yes.

34,836. So that he cannot write?—No.

34,837. Could he dictate to any person?—Possibly he might.

34,838. To his wife for instance?—I should think he could.

34,839. Then having made some statement to his wife which might be given to us he might be easily examined upon that?—At his own house, I dare say he could.

34,840. Did you know him personally as a friend?—I did know him.

34,841. Have you seen him from time to time since he has been attacked?—I have occasionally, not professionally.

34,842. You knew him before?—Yes.

34,843. Are you able to state as a medical man that his mind has been affected by his illness?—He gives very confused answers; he makes use of wrong words.

34,844. Is that a confusion of utterance or of thought?—Of thought, of idea.

34,845. (Mr. Coleridge.) Is he getting better or worse?—Better. I think if he was brought here the excitement would produce another attack.

34,846. But if we came down here again in a month's time?—I should think he might be much better then than now. I do not think even then he ought to be examined too long at a time. Sometimes he speaks very freely; at other times he cannot.

34,847. (Mr. Bere.) About what age is he?—About 45 or 46.

34,848. Has he any son?—He has not.

34,849. Has he any daughters?—Yes, several.

34,850. Did you see Mr. Cuming during the election of 1865?—Many times.

34,851. Did he take an active part in that election?—He has always taken an active part.

34,852. But he did so at the last election?—I think he did not.

34,853. There were reasons for it, were there not?—I have heard accidentally that he had a misunderstanding with Mr. Pender; that was no business of mine.

W. Gilbert.

WILLIAM GILBERT sworn and examined.

34,854. (Mr. Bere.) Where are you living now?—At New house.

34,855. How far is that from here?—About six miles.

34,856. How long have you been connected with political affairs in Totnes?—I commenced when Sir George Adams was here; I voted at his election.

34,857. Did you vote for him?—I did.

34,858. Have you voted for the Conservatives since that time?—In 1847 I left here for London, where I lived some 11 or 12 years.

34,859. You came back about 1859?—I came back in 1862 or 1863.

34,860. Had you a vote in 1863 or 1865?—In 1863 I had not lived long enough in my house.

34,861. What part did you take in the election of 1837?—That is a long time since.

34,862. You had the means of making some notes?—Unfortunately I burnt them when I was in London seven or eight years ago.

34,863. What are the notes you have there?—Merely to refresh my memory.

34,864. Did you take an active part in 1837 for Sir George Adams?—I did not.

34,865. Were you employed by the Conservatives to canvass at that election?—No.

34,866. Were you on the committee?—I was not.

34,867. You voted for whom?—For Adams and Seymour.

34,868. Were you a tenant of the duke?—I was the renter of a small property under the duke.

34,869. At that time was there any order to the tenants to vote for a second Liberal as well as for Lord Seymour?—I do not think there was.

34,870. Were you turned out of your field because you did not vote for Parrott?—No.

34,871. In 1839, when Parrott retired, you took an active part?—I did so.

34,872. What did you do in 1839?—I voted for Mr. Baldwin.

34,873. What did you do at that election?—I was on the committee.

34,874. Being on the committee you had certain duties to perform; what were those?—I kept the poll book.

34,875. Did you go and see certain voters?—I saw three or four.

34,876. Who were they?—John Guest, George Roberts, Penny Sharpham, and William Winsor.

34,877. You not only saw them, but did you influence their votes by promising them money?—I believe I did.

34,878. Having promised them money you went back to Mr. Baldwin's distributor of the money and got some for them?—No, there was a finance committee; three of them were appointed on that committee.

34,879. Who were the three?—They are all passed away.

34,880. Cannot you give us their names?—I can tell you one of them.

34,881. Who was that one?—Samuel Hannaford.

34,882. Cannot you remember the other two?—I cannot; it is 27 years ago.

34,883. You went to the finance committee; where did they sit?—In the general committee room at the "Stars."

34,884. Did the finance committee hand you the money?—They handed me 200*l.*

34,885. You applied for 50*l.* for each of these four men?—They handed me 200*l.*; I employed Sandford Screach to do the business for me. I gave him the 200*l.*, and there were four who had promised to vote for us for 50*l.* each, but Penny Sharpham and Winsor turned over to the other side. Screach had the 200*l.*; he paid Guest and Roberts 50*l.* each, and brought me back 100*l.*

34,886. What became of that 100*l.*?—I gave him 5*l.* for his trouble, and I paid Samuel Hannaford 95*l.*

34,887. What did you get yourself at that time?—Not a farthing.

34,888. Not for your trouble?—No; I always voted on that side, and I took a great interest in it, and spent a great deal of money of my own.

34,889. I suppose you knew you had put yourself in an awkward position?—The duke wanted to grapple with the second seat; there was great excitement, and people turned out and put their shoulders to the wheel.

34,890. Is that all you did in 1839?—Yes.

34,891. Do you know what sum of money was spent by Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Blount at that election?—I have heard that Mr. Baldwin spent 2,100*l.*, but I have no knowledge of it. The principal part of the money was spent in eating and drinking; the public houses were thrown open; it was not bribery in those days.

34,892. Do you know what Mr. Blount spent?—It was reported that he spent a good deal of money, but I have no knowledge of it.

34,893. In 1840 what did you do then?—That was Gisborne's election. I kept the poll book then; I had more to do with it then than at the previous election.

34,894. What had you to do then?—At the previous election we had weeded Mr. Baldwin altogether. He had no more money left, not a screw; he could not get a halfpenny.

34,895. You had drained him dry?—Quite so. At the committee room where we had gone into the poll we found he was in a minority of one or two, and the question was, what was to be done? We could do nothing without money; the finance committee had none. Mr. Baldwin had been applied to, and he would not advance any; he had none to advance. Mr. Yabbicom said, "What do you "suppose you could return him for?" I said, "No "question we should be able to return him for 400*l.* "or 500*l.*" Without that money the election would have been lost. Mr. Yabbicom advanced the 400*l.*, and I went up and gave Screach the 400*l.*

34,896. You knew what became of it?—Yes, of course.

34,897. Where did it go to?—He paid Gidley 100*l.*, he paid Guest 100*l.*, and Screach had 100*l.* for himself. Then I think I retired to bed knocked up; that was the evening before the election. Screach brought me back the remainder of the money.

34,898. That was the night before the election?—Yes, the night before the election; I met them at the public house.

34,899. And you then got those four votes?—Three votes, and Mr. Baldwin had a majority of seven. If Mr. Yabbicom had not advanced that money Mr. Baldwin would have lost the election. Our opponents had some two or three bottled up on the other side ready to vote if they could break down the majority.

34,900. What did you do in 1841, Seymour, Mills, and Baldwin?—That was when Mr. Petre and Mr. Teed came down; there was an arrangement then.

34,901. Do you know anything about that?—I was on the committee.

34,902. Whose committee were you on?—On Mr. Baldwin's.

34,903. Had any proposition been made to Mr. Baldwin's committee by the Seymour party?—I believe it was brought round by Mr. Charles Michelmore, a very influential man, a host in himself, and Mr. Thomas Michelmore, the agent for the duke. It was brought by Mr. Michelmore before the committee and discussed.

34,904. Will you tell us what passed as far as you can remember?—The arrangement was that two or three should meet at Mr. Tracey's the next morning, and Mr. William Cull and Mr. William Bowden were deputed by Mr. Baldwin's committee to meet Mr. Thomas Michelmore at Mr. Tracey's. It was not between the candidates; I do not believe that Mr. Seymour had anything to do with it.

34,905. They did not meet there?—I do not believe they did. It was a meeting of the Conservative side and of the duke's agent to stop the bribery.

34,906. Did you yourself go to that meeting?—I did not.

34,907. Did you see a memorandum which was drawn up at that meeting?—I did not. Mr. Charles Edwards, who was one of the committee, and Mr. Bowden were deputed to meet Mr. Michelmore. I had the requisition to Mr. Baldwin in my possession, and they handed me a copy of the agreement in Mr. Charles Edward's handwriting.

34,908. What became of that copy of the agreement?—I burnt it some seven or eight years after, when I was in London.

34,909. By whom was that agreement signed?—It was signed by Mr. Thomas Michelmore, of Berry, on behalf of the duke, and Mr. William Bowden and Lieutenant Cull on behalf of the Conservatives.

34,910. Mr. Cull is alive still, is he not?—I saw him, I think, some three or four years ago at Plymouth.

34,911. Was it in consequence of that agreement that Mr. Petre and Mr. Teed retired?—Yes.

34,912. Can you tell us anything more about it?—I recollect the circumstances why they did retire. Lord Seymour in his canvass found that the Conservatives to a certain extent supported him, but would not promise him; so on the other side, with regard to Mr. Petre, they would not promise him, and Lord Seymour's only chance was to coalesce with the Conservatives or with the extreme party.

34,913. There was a question at that time whether the duke's influence was strong enough to return a ducal candidate unsupported by the independent Liberals or by the Conservatives?—Lord Seymour had no chance whatever; I believe he was the weakest at that time.

34,914. You have mentioned Mr. Bowden; was he the gentleman who had been the owner of Gerston?—He was.

34,915. We have had an impression that the Mr. Bowden who was the former owner of Gerston was a Liberal?—I believe he had voted on some former occasions with the Liberal party.

34,916. At that time had he sold Gerston?—He sold Gerston to Mr. Baldwin, and supported him after that.

34,917. From that time he supported Mr. Baldwin?—Yes.

34,918. Before he sold Gerston he had been a Liberal?—I believe he was.

34,919. (Mr. Longe.) Gerston had been bought before that time?—Yes; I had the original requisition in my possession, but I destroyed it some eight months ago at my own house.

34,920. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know whether any money was afloat at the election in 1841 ?—No, there was no money spent at that election ; not a farthing.

34,921. Was any promised, do you know ?—No, Mr. Baldwin had no money ; not a penny.

34,922. And I suppose Lord Seymour had not much ?—They never spent a farthing.

34,923. (Mr. Coleridge.) How much had the borough got out of Mr. Baldwin altogether up to that time ?—I think the first time, when he stood against Blount, he spent 2,100*l.*

34,924. What had the other elections cost him ?—I should think the second election some 700*l.* or 800*l.*

34,925. Do you know what he spent in the borough from first to last ?—I have no idea at all.

34,926. We have heard that it ranged from 7,000*l.* to 15,000*l.* ?—I have no idea it was that; the man had not got it.

34,927. (Mr. Longe.) Was this an arrangement to save the pocket of the candidate or to protect the morals of the borough ?—It was not that; it was to save the bribery.

34,928. Was it for the good of the borough, to prevent demoralization, or to save the pocket of the candidate ; what do you think of it ?—I believe it partook a little of both. We could not get any money from either candidate; the Seymour party had the money, but they did not care to spend it.

34,929. (Mr. Bere.) Mr. Baldwin must have been a poor sponge to have been sucked dry so quickly. He bought Gerston for 17,000*l.* ; did he ever pay for it ?—I do not know that ; he had no money.

34,930. Then came the election of 1847 ; were you mixed up in that ?—Yes.

34,931. What had you to do with that ?—We were in clover then ; under that arrangement we could have as many votes as we wanted across the water.

34,932. How did you manage that ?—I kept the poll book to see if we wanted a few votes, and Mr. Bowden or I would go across and meet Mr. Michelmore and say we want further support.

34,933. On a consideration ?—No, there was no consideration at all under that agreement.

34,934. That lasted to 1847 ?—Yes.

34,935. That was when Mr. Ricardo stood ?—I suppose so.

34,936. Did you hear of a certain interview on the polling day, at which a certain number of the Liberals went to Mr. Michelmore to ask him whether he intended to have Mr. Baldwin returned ?—I do not know ; I never heard of that.

34,937. When Cross and Field were kept back ; do you remember that ?—That was after the arrangement. I think three of the Ashburton voters did not vote on that occasion ; that was to serve the Conservative party.

34,938. The Liberal party went to Mr. Michelmore and wished to know if Mr. Baldwin was to be returned. They said, "You are going to poll so-and-" so," and Cross and Field were mentioned ; and it was said, "If you poll the others we shall poll those " against you" ?—I believe that is correct.

34,939. Was any money given by the Michelmore party to get any votes ?—I do not know ; they said that there was money spent, and no doubt there was.

34,940. Had Mr. Baldwin any money to spend then ?—Not a farthing.

34,941. Who spent it for him ?—It was not required ; we could have had as many as we liked to carry our man by the duke's interest.

34,942. (Mr. Coleridge.) That was very bad for the borough in point of money ; the only persons who spent any money were the ultra-Liberals ?—Yes ; the Conservative party did not require to spend money after that agreement, and I do not believe there was a shilling spent ; at least it was not known to me.

34,943. The Liberal party spent a good deal at Ricardo's election ?—I think that has been exaggerated ; I do not believe that one-half of the money was spent by them which they have been given credit for.

34,944. Was there not a great deal of money which stuck to the fingers of the bribers ?—That I cannot say.

34,945. You know that that was so ?—No, it is impossible for me to tell whether Mr. Ricardo's money went to A, B, or C.

34,946. There was a great deal of money not accounted for as given away which came out of the candidate's pocket somehow or other ? — I know nothing about that.

34,947. You used to pay your sub-agents who gave this money away ?—Yes, and they had to return the balance.

34,948. Did you take receipts from your sub-agents ?—No.

34,949. Did they take receipts from the persons to whom they gave the money ?—No.

34,950. Then you knew not whether they got it or not. Did you see them again afterwards ?—No, I never did ; I never heard any complaint from them ; if they had not got the money they would sure to have complained.

34,951. And you would have been the person to complain to ?—Yes.

34,952. (Mr. Longe.) They kept an account in those days better than they do now ?—We had no Mr. Mum in those days ; we did it amongst ourselves ; whatever money was spent the people got.

34,953. There was no place where the money disappeared ?—I do not believe the little voters had a shilling ; they used to promise their votes to Mr. Baldwin ; it was only the extreme party. I suppose as regards the Chartists if we had not got them, the other party must have had them to carry their election.

34,954. Are there any of them alive now ?—I think Screach is the only one who is now alive.

34,955. Is not George Mitchell alive ?—He was not a voter at that time ; besides he was the wrong sort of man ; there was no more independent man at that time in the town than George Mitchell.

34,956. In days, at the earlier elections, were there a class of people known who have been called "matter-of-course men," men who voted one way and had something after the election for doing so ?—I have no knowledge of any such people at all. There were punch meetings in those days, all the little voters used to go and have their punch.

34,957. (Mr. Bere.) And used you to preside ?—No, I used to attend.

34,958. Who paid for the punch that was consumed ?—There was the finance committee, but I have no doubt that came from Mr. Baldwin.

34,959. Were you not a member of the finance committee ?—No.

34,960. Or the secretary ?—No.

34,961. Did not the punch account pass through your hands ?—Never ; the only money which passed through my hands you have had an account of.

34,962. (Mr. Coleridge.) When treating became illegal it put a stop to these punch meetings ?—It did.

34,963. That was a very unpopular matter ?—It was a very good thing ; we had a deal of trouble with some to get them there fresh in the morning.

34,964. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know anything about the 100*l.* which was paid to the Chartists at Gisborne's election ?—I have already told you of that.

34,965. About what time did you leave Totnes ?—In 1851.

34,966. And you did not vote again until 1865 ?—No.

34,967. Whom did you vote for in 1865 ?—The two Conservatives.

34,968. What did you do then, did you remember a little of your former electionering ways ?—I went to London about a fortnight or three weeks before the election, and while I was there I wrote to Mr. Harris a letter to say that I should be at Newhouse at a certain time, and that I would come back on the evening before the nomination day, but I never saw any candidate introduced or promised him my vote.

34,969. Did you go to the "Seven Stars" for that purpose?—No; a messenger was sent after me.

34,970. Who was it?—Stone, I think; he came out to the Totnes station. I was booked for Brent, and a messenger came to say that I was wanted at the "Stars," and there I slept.

34,971. You went to the poll the next morning?—No; that was the nomination night.

34,972. Where did you sleep?—I was forced to sleep in one of the sitting rooms, on the sofa.

34,973. Not No. 13?—No.

34,974. Did you ever hear of Mr. Mum at that election till you heard of it before us?—No; I saw there a great many strangers.

34,975. Did you see money pass?—Not a farthing.

34,976. Had you to do with Edward Willis?—I did not see him.

34,977. Did you write to him or send to him?—I did not.

34,978. What did you find they wanted you for when you got to the "Seven Stars"?—Merely to get me there to promise my vote to Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim.

34,979. Did not they say something more to you?—No.

34,980. Did not they ask you about a man named Willis?—No.

34,981. Are you quite sure about that?—Yes.

34,982. Do you know Edward Willis?—Yes; he is a brother-in-law of mine.

34,983. Had you not an influence with him in the way of voting?—No, I had not. On that occasion I did not know his house.

34,984. Was it your sister that he married?—No, I married his sister.

34,985. Did she exercise an influence over him?—Who?

34,986. Mrs. Gilbert?—No; she passed away many years since.

34,987. Were you present here yesterday when Mr. Chaster was examined?—Yes.

34,988. You heard all his evidence?—I heard a great deal of it.

34,989. Did you hear him say what was said to him on a subject on which you could give information?—Really I cannot tell you.

34,990. (Mr. Coleridge.) I asked him about the subject, and he said, "Mr. Gilbert will be able to tell "you about that"?—It was something about the Chartists or Screach, but I did not pay much attention to it.

34,991. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know who got the original agreement entered into?—Mr. Tracey of Bridgetown.

34,992. (Mr. Coleridge.) He said that you had destroyed it?—I held a copy of it; I never held the original.

34,993. Although that agreement was not signed by Lord Seymour and Mr. Baldwin, it was brought to their knowledge?—Mr. Baldwin was not consulted at the time, I believe. It was an agreement between Tom Michelmore on behalf of the duke's party and the Conservative party, not between the candidates at all.

34,994. Was it a secret, that agreement, or was it pretty well known?—It leaked out, but it was meant to be kept secret. I never spoke to anyone that I held that agreement, nor do I believe that anyone knew that I held a copy of it.

34,995. (Mr. Bere.). I suppose you left a great many friends in Totnes when you went in 1851 to London?—Yes, I dare say I did.

34,996. You used to come down to see them from time to time?—No; I came three or four years after I went back to London, and stopped a few days at the races and returned again.

34,997. Did you happen to come at the exciting periods of the elections?—No.

34,998. Not upon either of the two occasions when Mr. Dent was a candidate?—I came in from Newhouse.

34,999. Although you had not a vote, had you something to do with the election of 1863?—No.

35,000. Were you consulted by the committee?—The first time that Dent put up with Pender I was in the town, and I was consulted by the committee what I thought Willis would do, not at the last election. I saw Edward Willis, and inquired what he was going to do, and he said he would vote for his old friend still, he had made up his mind; and I went back and reported.

35,001. Who was his old friend?—The Liberal. He always voted on that side of the question.

35,002. And you could not turn him?—No. He had made up his mind, and I do not think anybody could turn him afterwards.

35,003. Was he a tenant of the Duke's?—No.

35,004. Do you think the Liberals were liberal to him at the time of the election?—I cannot tell. Then I was in the election after that again.

35,005. In 1863, what did you do then?—I was merely as a spectator; nothing more to do with it than you have.

35,006. You were no vote?—No; but I was a vote in 1865, and I voted in 1865.

35,007. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who was the inventor of the ingenious system of the linhay votes?—I can hardly tell you.

35,008. It was an ingenious device, and somebody must have devised it?—I believe they were trying it on both sides of the question.

35,009. Who was the originator? Who devised the expedient?—I cannot tell you.

35,010. Do you recollect whether there was any great dissatisfaction at the time with the arrangement of the boundaries of the boroughs, when Bridgetown was taken in and Dartington was not?—I never heard of any remonstrance.

35,011. As a Conservative, do you consider that it was a fair arrangement of the boundaries of the borough?—I should have preferred a slice of Dartington as far as my feeling goes.

35,012. But without your feelings, should not they have taken a portion of Dartington?—If they had taken the circumference, Dartington would have come in.

35,013. Taking the circumference round the borough it would have included a large portion of Dartington, and a small portion of Bridgetown?—Yes.

35,014. It was your own party that began the linhay system?—I think one is as big a rogue as the other.

35,015. It began on the Gerston estate?—I do not recollect it.

35,016. When do you recollect the first linhay vote being made?—It was 30 years ago.

35,017. We want to know when it first began; do you recollect the first linhay made? Do not you recollect hearing of it when Mr. Baldwin came first?—No; I think there must have been some others in Bridgetown.

35,018. We have heard that after the Reform Bill, the Bridgetown property had but 18 votes, and that included several substantial houses?—There must have been a great many more.

35,019. (Mr. Bere.) There were only 18 at the time of the passing of the Reform Bill?—I remember that I was the overseer, and made the list out in 1833, and I am sure that there were more voters than that.

35,020. They had increased up to 1839?—I was the first overseer after the Reform Bill.

35,021. (Mr. Coleridge.) After the Reform Bill there were only 18 voters?—I remember making the list, and I was the overseer.

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

W. Gilbert.

22 Sept. 1866.

35,022. Do you know how many votes you found in Gerston in 1833?—I cannot tell you; two or three, not more.

35,023. How many in Broomborough?—One I suppose.

35,024. Only two or three votes in Gerston in 1833?—Yes; because Mr. Bowden lived there himself, and occupied it.

35,025. Had not they begun the linhay system while he was there?—I do not believe they did. If it was, it was unknown to me.

35,026. Perhaps they did not let you into all their secrets?—Perhaps not.

35,027. (Mr. Bere.) Have you anything more to tell us?—No.

35,028. Have you interfered with anybody except Edward Willis?—That is the only one.

35,029. Did not you go to a man named Hardin?—Yes, I went to Hardin I believe; it must have been a month, or six months, or two months before the election, merely to call and see him, but not to interfere with his vote.

35,030. Did not you ask which way he was going to vote?—No.

35,031. Did not you say that Dent was a capital China man?—No.

Mr. T. Holman.

Mr. Thomas Holman sworn and examined.

35,032. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—A farmer and maltster.

35,033. Where do you live?—At Bridgetown.

35,034. How long have you lived there?—I should say all my lifetime, except when I was at school at Devonport.

35,035. How long has that life been?—50 years.

35,036. You can remember the whole of the electoral business of the borough from 1832 at least?—I was in Devonport in 1832.

35,037. How long were you at Devonport?—I was with Mr. Leach, and he was a free trader, and young as I was, I entertained the same ideas, and I attended the meetings.

35,038. Do you live in a house that belongs to the duke?—It belongs to the duke, and the farm belongs to the duke.

35,039. What is the farm?—It is an overland tenement, that is, there is no house on it.

35,040. There is no building?—No. It is out of the borough, and there is no building on the farm. I occupy it, and give 75*l.* a year. It is 25 acres, some pasture, and some arable.

35,041. How long have you been a maltster there?—My malt-house is up here.

35,042. What is your qualification, is it double?—I have two qualifications, one for Bridgetown and the other for Totnes.

35,043. We will take the most interesting election in which you have been concerned, that of 1865. Were you present at a meeting when it was originally determined that Mr. Pender should come down in 1862?—Yes.

35,044. In 1865 of course Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour were the representatives, and there was no question about seeking any other Liberal candidate?—Of course not.

35,045. When did Mr. Pender first come down before the election of 1865?—I cannot exactly remember the date; somewhere about eight or nine days before the election occurred, but I cannot tell.

35,046. I think it must have been a little before that?—I do not know.

35,047. He pays money into the bank on the 30th June, and in all probability he must have been here when he paid that money in?—Perhaps so, but I do not know.

35,048. Were you, Mr. Chaster, Mr. Jeffery Michelmore, and Mr. Windeatt the principal persons employed on the Liberal side in 1865?—Yes; and Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore.

35,049. And under you were there a good many people employed?—Yes.

35,050. Jacob Searle and Mr. Samuel Parnell?—Not under me.

35,051. Still, they were employed on the Liberal side. Samuel Parnell was employed on the Liberal side?—I am not aware of anything of the kind. It did not come under my knowledge at all.

35,052. Had you particular persons to deal with on the Liberal side as your sub-agents?—Yes.

35,053. Who were they?—They were Mr. Thomas Searle, Captain Fowle, Mr. John Elliott.

35,054. Mr. Lorimer?—Yes. I wish you to suggest to me, and I would tell you in a moment.

35,055. Mr. Parnell you say was not?—No.

35,056. Mr. William Farley?—No.

35,057. George Pengilley?—No.

35,058. Mr. John Parnell Searle?—No.

35,059. Mr. Wright?—No.

35,060. Mr. Prout?—No.

35,061. Callard?—No.

35,062. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had you any other sub-agents except those four?—They were not sub-agents.

35,063. People employed to go and see voters?—I saw and paid Mr. John Hamlyn, of Buckfastleigh, after the election 50*l.*

35,064. Shortly before the election did Mr. Windeatt come to you and ask you to help him, and take some money to the electors?—Yes.

35,065. What day was that in the week?—It was about a week before the election; the Tuesday or Wednesday.

35,066. Did you agree to help him?—Yes.

35,067. Did you inquire from him at all what amount of money had to be distributed?—Yes.

35,068. What amount of money did he tell you?—The inquiry was made to me what I thought the instruction was to assist him in the election, and I said "About 1,600*l.* will do."

35,069. Then if 1,600*l.* would do, 2,000*l.* would be a little over?—Yes.

35,070. When did you first get any money from Mr. Windeatt?—On the Monday evening.

35,071. What time?—In the evening.

35,072. Where did you get it?—At the "Seymour" hotel, No. 13.

35,073. Who told you to go there?—Mr. Windeatt. I was told that I was wanted to go to No. 5.

35,074. When you got there what did you do?—Mr. Windeatt gave me the key of the door, and said that I would find something there, which I knew before.

35,075. How did you know?—We had arranged.

35,076. What did you arrange?—We arranged about No. 13, where I should find the money.

35,077. When?—Three or four days before.

35,078. He said "When I get the money you will "find it in No. 13"?—Yes; and I was sent for by Ann to go into the room, and there was the key.

35,079. Had the key on it "No. 13"?—No.

35,080. Was No. 13 a bedroom?—Yes; two beds in it.

35,081. Do you know who slept there?—Nobody then.

35,082. Who was going to sleep there that night?—I do not know; but I can tell you who slept there afterwards.

35,083. The night before?—I do not know.

35,084. Who did sleep there afterwards?—I do not know.

35,085. Who slept there on the night of the election?—Mr. Henry Michelmore and Mr. Jeffery Michelmore on the night of the election.

35,086. Did anyone go with you to show you the room?—No, certainly not. Ann came into the large room and asked me to go and see a gentleman at No. 5.

35,087. When you went to the room, did you find the money?—I did.

35,088. Where did you find it?—At the back of the looking-glass.

35,089. How was it done up?—It was done up in parcels.

35,090. In brown paper parcels, or how?—It was in newspaper parcels I think.

35,091. In gold, or notes?—In both.

35,092. Did you count it?—No.

35,093. Did you take all that was there?—I did.

35,094. What did you do with it?—I took it home.

35,095. Did you count it when you got home?—No.

35,096. Did you never count it at all?—No.

35,097. How much gold was there, and how much in notes?—I cannot tell you.

35,098. You can tell pretty well?—I cannot.

35,099. How much gold?—I do not know.

35,100. Did not Mr. Windeatt tell you that you could estimate the quantity of gold by its weight?—No.

35,101. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were there other voters' names written upon those separate packets, or how did you know what to do with it?—No; I was asked to hold a certain sum of money.

35,102. What for?—To distribute it amongst the voters.

35,103. Had you the voters names at the time?—No.

35,104. How many packets were there?—I cannot tell.

35,105. A dozen?—I should think not.

35,106. Half-a-dozen?—More.

35,107. Eight or nine?—I should think so.

35,108. How many gold, and how many notes?—I should think six or seven packets were gold, and two or three packets were notes.

35,109. (Mr. Bere.) You took the money home and counted it?—No.

35,110. When did you count it?—I put it in the drawer, and did not count it.

35,111. (Mr. Coleridge.) When did you first know how much was there?—I never knew till this moment.

35,112. (Mr Bere.) How much did you get rid of?—I gave to Mr. Thomas Searle between 500*l.* and 600*l.*

35,113. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did that 500*l.* or 600*l.* run you dry?—No.

35,114. How much was there left?—I gave 100*l.* to Captain Fowle, 210*l.* to Mr. Lorimer, and I gave 20*l.* 10*s.* to John Elliott, 80*l.* odd to Mr. Lorimer.

35,115. That makes 1,050*l.*?—Then I gave 50*l.* to Mr. John Hamlyn; I gave 50*l.* to Mr. Edward Willis; 40*l.* to Mr. Gillham. Then there was a little money remaining, a very little, four or five sovereigns, and I took it to Mr. Windeatt, and he said "You must have been at a great deal of expense "in the matter, and you had better keep this."

35,116. How much was the little sum left?—Five or six sovereigns.

35,117. It was about 1,200*l.* you mentioned in the first instance?—I do not think you are right in my estimation, because for this reason: About a month after the election, I said to Mr. Windeatt "I have "three 20*l.* notes remaining in the drawer, shall I "bring it to you"?

35,118. What did he say?—"No. There is money "to be paid for registration purposes, and you had "better take it to Mr. Chaster."

35,119. And you gave it to Mr. Chaster?—Yes.

35,120. Three 20*l.* notes?—Yes.

35,121. Then it must have been about 1,200*l.* that you had in the first instance, if you are right?—Perhaps so.

35,122. (Mr. Bere.) Thomas Jacob Searle is your uncle?—No; my cousin.

35,123. To whom was the money distributed that he got from you?—According as he related it to me, it was to Mr. Blank, Mr. Edward Angel, Mr. Sloggett, the two Matchams, and Mr. Griffis.

35,124. How much to each?—I can only say what he said to me.

35,125. That is all we want?—He said to me "The two Matchams on the morning of the election would vote if they had 250*l.* between them."

35,126. And Sloggett?—50*l.*, Griffis 30*l.*, Blank, as I understood from Mr. Searle was 130*l.*, and his father 50*l.*

35,127. Whose father?—His own father.

35,128. That only makes 530*l.* that you gave to Thomas Jacob Searle?—I cannot tell you what it was. Somewhere between 550*l.* and 600*l.* It was a parcel that I had never opened.

35,129. (Mr. Bere.) I suppose he had something for himself?—I do not know.

35,130. Was not there money in four parcels?—Three or four. I fancy that he told me afterwards that the parcel that I thought contained 150*l.* really contained 200*l.*, but I never opened it, and never saw it. I delivered it exactly as I got it.

35,131. How can you tell that the one parcel contained 550*l.* and another contained 200*l.*?—I did not see it. I have not said so. I can only tell you the amount of money that I probably gave him by his statement of what the parties would require. I cannot tell you the amount because I never counted it.

35,132. Had you made a previous arrangement?—Of course he told me.

35,133. He had given you the names of those people that wanted money?—Yes.

35,134. Had you given the names to Mr. Windeatt?—No.

35,135. Who made up the parcels of money?—I cannot tell.

35,136. How do you know that a particular parcel contained a particular quantity of money?—I counted all the notes of course.

35,137. How many notes did you count?—I cannot charge my memory with it; it is impossible.

35,138. How much did you count altogether?—My impression is about 1,200*l.*

35,139. All notes?—I should say 400*l.* or 500*l.*

35,140. And the rest in gold?—Yes.

35,141. You had counted the notes, and did not Mr. Windeatt tell you, to save your trouble that you should judge of the gold by its weight?—Will you bear with me for a moment. It is this: in handing this money to Mr. Searle, I gave him packets, without knowing what were the contents,—the packets of gold, not the notes.

35,142. Did you give Mr. Searle all gold or some notes?—Some gold and some notes.

35,143. How much in notes?—50*l.* in notes, and the rest in gold.

35,144. (Mr. Bere.) You gave him parcels of gold, and did you not know what the parcels were?—I did not know.

35,145. What time of the day did you give Mr. Searle the money?—The nomination day, the Tuesday morning.

35,146. Had you written down the amounts that would be wanted?—No.

35,147. Did you tell Mr. Windeatt what you would want?—I said to him generally, that we should want 1,100*l.* or 1,200*l.*, as the case might be.

35,148. Had Mr. Searle given you a list of names, with the prices affixed to them?—He came to me several times and said certain parties would vote if there was so much money; and, therefore, I knew the amount generally.

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

Mr. T. Holman.

22 Sept. 1866.

35,149. You did not write it down, but remembered it?—Yes.

35,150. Did Captain Fowle do the same?—Captain Fowle came to me at my house in the morning, I think he came at the request of Mr. Windeatt to me, and said that Mr. Wright and Mr. Drew would be likely to want some money.

35,151. Did not he mention some other names?—I do not think he did.

35,152. Did he say how much money Mr. Wright and Mr. Drew wanted?—I gave Captain Fowle, 100*l.*

35,153. In gold or in notes?—In gold.

35,154. How did you know that it was 100*l.*?—Because I counted it. I did not count the parcels that I gave Thomas Searle.

35,155. You counted all the other parcels?—Yes.

35,156. Did you give Captain Fowle any money for himself?—No.

35,157. Had he said how much Drew would want, and how much Wright would want?—Yes.

35,158. How much did they each want?—He said Drew would be satisfied with 30*l.*, and that 70*l.* would do for Mr. Wright.

35,159. Mr. Wright was Captain Fowle's father-in-law?—Yes.

35,160. Did Captain Fowle tell you it was Mr. Windeatt who sent him to you?—Yes.

35,161. Did not he mention another name as having sent him to you?—No.

35,162. Are you certain that he did not say that Mr. Pender had sent him to you?—No.

35,163. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did not he say Mr. Pender wished Mr. Windeatt to send him to you?—No.

35,164. What was it he stated about Mr. Pender at that time?—I do not know that he mentioned his name.

35,165. Are you sure that he did not?—I am as sure as I am sitting here, as far as my recollection serves me, and I cannot say anything further than that.

35,166. (Mr. Bere.) After you had paid the money to Thomas Searle, did he come back and tell you that all his men were right?—I did not pay Mr. Searle till after the election. I gave him some money on the Tuesday morning.

35,167. How much?—Two parcels; but I paid the remainder afterwards.

35,168. How much did you give him on the Tuesday morning?—I cannot tell.

35,169. Were the two parcels in addition to the 550*l.*?—No.

35,170. Then you do not know how much the two parcels were?—He told me what he gave to the parties.

35,171. You may have given him 1,000*l.*?—I may for aught I know, I never counted the parcels.

35,172. (Mr. Coleridge.) Why did you open all the parcels that you gave to other people?—Because the amounts were limited.

35,173. Being the largest sum, they did not require counting, and the smaller ones did?—I assure you as I sit here, I never opened the parcels that I gave to Mr. Searle in the first instance.

35,174. I want your reasons, I am not doubting your facts. Why did you not count the larger parcels, when you took care of the smaller ones?—This matter was done in a hurry. Mr. Searle came to me in the morning, and I took the parcels, and I did not know what they contained.

35,175. Which was done in a hurry?—That on the morning of the nomination.

35,176. Was it done in a hurry after the election?—No.

35,177. Then why did you not count those?—I did.

35,178. What did they amount to?—250*l.*

35,179. If you paid him 550*l.*, then you must have paid him 350*l.* before?—I cannot tell.

35,180. Did you count the gold afterwards?—Yes.

35,181. How much in gold, and how much in notes?—All gold except what I gave him to pay Sloggett.

35,182. Then there was 200*l.* in gold, and 250*l.* in notes?—No; 250*l.* in gold, and 50*l.* in notes.

35,183. Then you gave him 300*l.* after the election?—I suppose so.

35,184. Then you know it?—I do not know it.

35,185. When did you give him 250*l.* in gold?—I should think on the Friday after the election.

35,186. When did you give him the 50*l.* in notes?—On the very day of the election.

35,187. You gave him 300*l.*, and what did you give him on the nomination day?—I gave him two parcels.

35,188. How much were those parcels?—I cannot tell you.

35,189. About how much?—I should think the parcels contained 300*l.*

35,190. You gave him 600*l.* in all?—About it.

35,191. Did you give him any more?—No.

35,192. Are you sure it was not about 700*l.*?—I am not sure.

35,193. You think the parcels contained 300*l.*, and you gave him 300*l.* besides?—Yes.

35,194. (Mr. Bere.) You gave Captain Fowle 100*l.*?—Yes.

35,195. Had he any money besides that for Drew and Wright; had he not money for Mr. H. Tucker?—No, I never heard of it.

35,196. Did not he tell you?—No.

35,197. Had he money for Mr. Tucker?—I never heard the name mentioned, and I cannot conceive the possibility of his having money for him.

35,198. What did you give John Elliott?—20*l.* 10*s.*

35,199. What did you give him that for?—He told told me it was money to pay Mr. Green.

35,200. John Fox Green?—Yes.

35,201. Did you pay that all at once?—I did not.

35,202. Did you pay that?—I gave Mr. Elliott 5*l.* I believe in his house some days before the election, in order that Mr. Green, whom he had told, or Mr. Elliott told me he had told him, wanted to keep out of the trouble, and he should like to go to Devonport, and I gave him 5*l.*

35,203. And have you ever repaid yourself?—Yes.

35,204. When did you get the money?—On the morning of the election.

35,205. Why did he ask you for that?—Because he said he had bargained with Mr. Green to give him 20*l.* in all. That is including the 5*l.*

35,206. What did he give him the extra 10*s.* for?—For expenses.

35,207. The next money you advanced him, did you advance it in notes or gold?—The money to Elliott was in notes.

35,208. 5*l.* notes?—Yes.

35,209. Whom did you give the money to? Robert Lorimer, you gave him some money?—Yes.

35,210. How much did you give him?—60*l.*

35,211. When did you give him that?—In the "Seymour" hotel, on the night of the nomination.

35,212. Did Lorimer tell you what he wanted it for?—Yes.

35,213. For whom?—For William Reeve.

35,214. Did he tell you who had sent him to you?—There was an intimation made to me that Mr. Pender desired it.

35,215. Can you tell us how that intimation was framed, in what manner; what did he say to you?—He said that Mr. Pender had sent him; desired him to come to me. Mr. Pender had never said that to me, but he had sent Lorimer.

35,216. You knew that Lorimer and Mr. Pender were particular friends?—I suppose they were, because they were both Scotchmen.

35,217. Did you know whether Mrs. Lorimer had been a servant in Mr. Pender's family?—I had no idea of it.

35,218. Did you give that money before the election?—60*l.* on the night of the nomination.

35,219. What did you give him after; was it 60*l.*, three 20*l.* notes, that he had on the day of the nomination?—Yes.

35,220. Then the 150*l.*, how did you pay him that?—In gold.

35,221. For whom?—I understood that Samuel Hill junior wanted the money.

35,222. Where did you pay it to him?—In his house.

35,223. On his piano?—Yes.

35,224. Was there a piece of music lying on the piano?—I said there was a very nice piece of music there.

35,225. And he went there and found it?—I dare say he did.

35,226. Was that in a bag?—Yes.

35,227. Charles Frederick Michelmore; what did you give him?—I think on the Saturday he came to me and said that he had made some arrangement with a person called John Parnell Searle, and that he must have some money.

35,228. You told Mr. Charles Michelmore to go to Mr. Windeatt?—No.

35,229. You said so?—No; I said that I had seen Mr. Windeatt.

35,230. Did you see Mr. Windeatt?—Yes.

35,231. Did you get from Mr. Windeatt some more money?—No.

35,232. What instructions did you get?—That I should pay him.

35,233. Did you pay Mr. Charles Michelmore?—Yes, somewhere between 80*l.* and 90*l.*

35,234. What was it?—I think all in notes.

35,235. How much of the money that you had got at No. 13 did you carry back to Mr. Windeatt?—I did not carry back anything.

35,236. Did not you carry back some money?—No.

35,237. John Hamlyn you paid something?—Yes.

35,238. How much?—50*l.*

35,239. Edward Willis?—Yes.

35,240. How much did you give him?—50*l.*

35,241. Mrs. Gillham?—40*l.*

35,242. Where did you pay John Hamlyn?—In the "King William" inn.

35,243. At Buckfastleigh or here?—Here.

35,244. Did he want it for himself?—No, for Mr. Nicholas Browse.

35,245. Willis, had he it for himself?—Yes.

35,246. Where did he get the money?—From me.

35,247. Where?—In his house.

35,248. Was that on the piano?—No.

35,249. Where did you put that?—On the table.

35,250. Was that in notes or gold?—In gold.

35,251. In a bag?—No.

35,252. When did you pay him that?—Some time after the election.

35,253. Who had asked him before?—I do not know.

35,254. You gave him the money as a matter of course?—Yes.

35,255. Mrs. Gillham?—She keeps the "New Inn" at Bridgetown.

35,256. Her husband is John Gillham?—Yes.

35,257. Was it for his vote?—Yes.

35,258. How much did you pay him?—40*l.*

35,259. What in?—Gold.

35,260. How long after the election?—I should say about a week as near as I can judge.

35,261. Did you understand that she was to have 40*l.* for her husband's vote?—I understood that she was to have money.

35,262. Was it left to your discretion how much to give?—Yes.

35,263. Who told you that she was to have money?—She has for the last six or seven years always had it.

35,264. You knew that Gillham was a regular customer?—Yes.

35,265. Are you quite sure that somebody did not remind you of Mr. Gillham's regularity?—I do not understand you.

35,266. Did not somebody remind you that Mr. Gillham always voted on the Liberal side?—I knew it.

35,267. Did not somebody say to you, "Have you "seen Gillham and paid him?"—No.

35,268. Are you quite sure about that?—I do not know.

35,269. Are you quite sure that Mr. Jeffery Michelmore did not say that to you?—He had nothing at all to do with me at the election.

35,270. But after the election did not he come to you and say to you, "You have forgotten Gillham"?—No.

35,271. Did not Mrs. Gillham come to you and remind you?—No, I paid the money.

35,272. You did not pay the money immediately after the election?—No; but I did not pay Mr. Hamlyn till a month after.

35,273. Mr. Hamlyn could stand the loss of it, but Mr. Gillham probably could not. Are you quite sure that nobody suggested to you that you had better go and pay Gillham?—No.

35,274. Had you seen his name upon any list?—No.

35,275. You had gone through a poll book with Mr. Chaster?—Yes.

35,276. Did you see those marks opposite the names of certain voters?—Allow me to look at it. (The poll book was handed to the witness.)

35,277. (Mr. Coleridge.) You told me just now that you had 1,250*l.* in all?—I did not say so.

35,278. You gave me sums to that amount; now you have only accounted for 1,090*l.* What is the amount that you have omitted?—I do not know.

35,279. (Mr. Bere.) Was that all the money that you had from any person connected with the election?—Yes.

35,280. Do I understand that you got no other money except what you found in No. 13.?—No.

35,281. At any time?—No.

35,282. Was the only remuneration that you received for your services 7*l.*?—Yes, I do not know the sum.

35,283. Some small amount?—Yes, some small amount. Mr. Windeatt said, I must have incurred some trouble, but I had better keep it.

35,284. You gave to Mr. Chaster something?—Yes, three 20*l.* notes.

35,285. Did Mr. Windeatt tell you what you were to give it to Mr. Chaster for?—Yes.

35,286. What for?—To pay the current bills for registration.

35,287. You had nothing to do with giving Mr. Chaster a sum of 230*l.*?—No, certainly not.

35,288. Did you go and canvass any voters?—No, I never asked a voter in my life.

35,289. Was your duty simply to take the money from Mr. Windeatt in order to pay it to others?—Yes.

35,290. And to account to Mr. Windeatt how it was spent?—Yes.

35,291. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did Mr. Windeatt ever give you money besides that which you found behind the glass?—No.

35,292. None at all?—No.

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

T. Holman.

22 Sept. 1866.

35,293. Nobody else?—No.

35,294. Did anybody after that election?—No.

35,295. Mr. Pender or anybody?—No, certainly not.

35,296. After the election, who paid you any money besides?—No one.

35,297. Neither of the Michelmores?—No.

35,298. That money you took from behind the glass, was that all the money you received after the election?—Quite so.

35,299. Did you distribute it?—Yes.

35,300. How many voters do you know of as being bribed with that money that you distributed?—I should think about 12, but it is a question one cannot answer off-hand.

35,301. I want you to think whether you have not omitted one or two names?—No.

35,302. There is Wright and Drew bribed by Fowle?—Yes.

35,303. Then there is Green bribed by Elliott, and William Reeve by Lorimer, and then Lorimer had another 150*l.*, who was that for?—Samuel Hill, junior.

35,304. That is five?—Yes.

35,305. Charles Michelmore for Mr. Parnell Searle?—Yes.

35,306. And John Hamlyn, that makes seven?—It was not for John Hamlyn himself.

35,307. Then Edward Willis eight, and Mrs. Gillham and the two Matchams 11, Sloggett 12, Griffis 13, Blank 14, Searle 15?—Yes.

35,308. That is 15 in all?—Yes.

35,309. Is there not one more?—No, there is not.

35,310. I thought there was?—I do not know of it, but if you will suggest it I will tell you in a minute.

35,311. John Diggins?—No, certainly not.

35,312. William Farley, junior?—No.

35,313. Anything for William Farley, senior?—No.

35,314. Anything to Byne?—No.

35,315. Do you recollect anything to David Manning?—No, I had nothing to do with him.

35,316. Who had the management of him?—I do not know; ask the other party.

35,317. David Manning, did not he vote against you?—Yes, he voted for Seymour and Dawkins; I cannot tell what induced him.

35,318. Edward Willis you have mentioned?—Yes.

35,319. What was Thomas Jacob Searle to have out of this?—Nothing, I believe. He worked as we have all been accustomed to do for a long number of years, that is, for the love of it, and that is all.

35,320. Nothing for his trouble?—No.

35,321. Thomas Jacob Searle?—Not the elder man. Thomas Jacob Searle the younger is my cousin, the elder Mr. Searle is my uncle.

35,322. (Mr. Bere.) I have the poll book now; look at it. (The poll was handed to the witness.) Were those marks on the left-hand page there when you looked over the poll book?—No, they were not there when we made up the poll.

35,323. When was it you went through that poll book?—We made it up on the night of the election.

35,324. Did you know anything about the men who signed the requisition to the Conservative to come down, Byne, Blank, and those men?—No.

35,325. Had you heard anything about it?—I had heard that a requisition had been got up to ask Mr. Macleay to come down.

35,326. Had you heard that 12 men who usually voted for the Liberals had signed that?—I had not.

35,327. Did you hear any discussion take place about any of the men who had signed the requisition which way they would vote?—Not that I know of, except general sort of questions; we heard it come up by meeting in the committee room together.

35,328. Did not you hear a discussion take place about how Byne would vote?—My impression was that Byne was put down against us.

35,329. Did you hear of any reason why Byne was going to vote against you?—He had done so at previous elections.

35,330. Was there any reason given why he was likely to vote for you?—My impression was at that time that he would vote against us.

35,331. Did not Mr. Jeffery Michelmore say he could get hold of him; that he wanted some land?—No, not that I heard of.

35,332. Did not Mr. Jeffery Michelmore say that he was the agent of Mr. Seymour?—I had no conversation with Mr. Jeffery Michelmore.

35,333. (Mr. Longe.) But with Mr. Pender?—Yes.

35,334. Constantly?—No, incidentally.

35,335. (Mr. Bere.) About the men that you were dealing with?—No.

35,336. What was your conversation?—The same as for the last 20 years. I have taken much interest in politics, and I assisted the Liberals.

35,337. Mr. Pender knew what part you were taking?—Yes.

35,338. Did you hear a discussion take place about John Diggins's vote?—No.

35,339. You did not know that he had signed the requisition?—No. John Diggins used to vote for the Tories.

35,340. But only once, did he?—I think he voted for the Tories at Ricardo's election, and he voted against us in 1852 and 1859.

35,341. He was marked in Mr. Chaster's book as going to vote for you. Did not you hear a discussion about how he had been got to vote for you?—No.

35,342. Did you know that John Wright the father-in-law had signed the requisition?—No.

35,343. Nor the Matchams?—No.

35,344. Nor Mr. Parnell Searle himself?—No. I will tell you what Mr. John Parnell Searle said, that Mr. Harris had come to him and asked him to sign the requisition, and he told him it was not becoming of him to vote for the gentleman whom Mr. Harris asked him to sign for, but that they wanted signatures of people in order to get a contest. That is what Mr. Parnell Searle told me, and Mr. Harris can tell whether that is true.

35,345. Had not you got something to do with Thomas Gillham in the election of 1865?—No.

35,346. Neither directly nor indirectly?—No.

35,347. Nor Thomas Dennis?—No.

35,348. Did not you see Thomas Dennis?—Yes.

35,349. What did you say to him about his vote?—Nothing. He was in the same hotel room one night. I saw him, but I never said anything to him.

35,350. Did you know how he was going to vote?—My impression was that he was going to vote against us, but I had no conversation. I think he had told Mr. Chaster that he was engaged to vote one for Mr. Pender.

35,351. Had Mr. Chaster been to canvass him?—No.

35,352. How did Mr. Chaster know he was engaged to vote one for Mr. Pender?—Mr. Dennis was his tenant.

35,353. Mr. Chaster has got him as voting for Dawkins only?—I said I thought he had got him down against.

35,354. I thought you said one for Mr. Pender?—No, but Mr. Chaster told me previously that Mr. Dennis had promised him to vote for Mr. Pender.

35,355. (Mr. Bere.) Mr. Chaster had gone to ask him for his vote?—I do not know. Mr. Chaster can answer that himself.

35,356. Mr. Tope, the baker, did not you have something to do with him about the election?—No.

35,357. Do you remember the Rev. Gilbert Rutland coming to the "Seymour" hotel?—No.

35,358. (Mr. Coleridge.) What had you to do with John Light?—Nothing.

35,359. He is marked as one to be bought on your side?—I had nothing to do with him.

35,360. He did not come into your department?—No.

35,361. George Penny, had you anything to do with him?—No.

35,362. Do you know who had?—I do not.

35,363. Was it Mr. Parnell?—No, not that I am aware of.

35,364. William Kellow, had you anything to do with him?—No.

35,365. William Pengilley?—No.

35,366. R. P. Tarring, had you anything to do with him?—No.

35,367. Do you know who had?—No.

35,368. Thomas Blank was one of Mr. Searle's men?—Yes.

35,369. Henry Crawford?—I had nothing to do with him.

35,370. John Green?—I have told you about him.

35,371. Edward Angel?—I have told you about him.

35,372. Richard Harris?—I do not know anything about him.

35,373. William Harris?—No.

35,374. Sloggett you have told us about?—Yes.

35,375. Samuel Hill you have told us about?—Yes, Samuel Hill, junior; do not make a mistake about the two, because I do not wish that.

35,376. William Reeve?—I told you about him.

35,377. Francis Coombes?—I had nothing what ever to do with him.

35,378. John Pearce?—I do not know anything whatever about him.

35,379. George Gill?—Captain Gill.

35,380. John Tozer?—Nothing about him.

35,381. John Drew?—I spoke to him.

35,382. Browse you told us about?—Yes.

35,383. Thomas Searle you told us about; that is your uncle?—Yes.

35,384. James Chamings, do you know anything about him?—I know him very well, but had nothing to do with him.

35,385. William Crook?—I do not know about that.

35,386. James Edmonds the gardener; anything about him?—No.

35,387. (Mr. Longe.) Do you know how much the sums come to. Have you ever made them up in your own mind?—Yes, in my own mind.

35,388. What is it?—I should think the monies I had were somewhere about 1,200*l.*

35,389. You still say you do not know what you gave Searle?—I do not know.

35,390. Then how could you make up the account?—Only from the sums he told me he required for the people he had to deal with.

35,391. You account to us for a great deal more than 1,200*l.*?—Which way?

35,392. If you gave 600*l.* to Searle?—I do not know that I did. I did not say that I gave it to him.

35,393. Did you never give an account to Mr. Windeatt?—No.

35,394. He never asked for an account?—No, the reason why the accounts were not made up was that we apprehended there would be a petition, and Mr. Windeatt advised that the accounts should not be made up; that is it; because Colonel Dawkins on the evening of the election threatened to petition against the return of the member.

35,395. Supposing your were called upon to make up your accounts, in order to do that would you have to go to Mr. Searle and ask him how much he got from you?—Yes.

35,396. That is a very unsatisfactory way?—I cannot help that. I cannot tell you more than I know.

(Mr. Longe.) Not so much I should think to us as to others.

35,397. (Mr. Bere.) Besides those men, Thomas Jacob Searle told you about, did he mention the names of any other voters he had to deal with?—No.

35,398. Not voters he wanted money for from you?—Not that I know of.

35,399. Did not you ever hear of his having to deal with Mr. Farley, junior?—I think not. I cannot conceive the possibility of such a thing.

35,400. Mr. Farley junior had money at all the previous elections, and is not it likely he would in 1865?—My impression is that he received money in 1852, but I do not think he has received any since.

35,401. I asked you about the Rev. Gilbert Butland?—Yes.

35,402. Did you see him at the "Seymour" hotel?—Yes.

35,403. More than once?—Only once.

35,404. Did he have a private interview with Mr. Pender?—I think he had.

35,405. Do you know how long that lasted?—My impression is that he came there about 2 o'clock in the afternoon, or half-past 1 or 2, that he went into Mr. Pender's room, and I think he stopped there some hours.

35,406. Did you hear from Mr. Butland or Mr. Pender what passed at that conversation?—No.

35,407. Did you ever learn why Mr. Butland came and had such a long interview?—No, I do not know anything about it.

35,408. Did Thomas Worthy have any money from you?—No.

35,409. Is that all you know about the election of 1865?—Yes.

35,410. Now, about 1863?—That is Mr. Seymour's election.

35,411. Had you anything to do with that?—A little.

35,412. Do you belong to the Independent Liberals or to the Seymour party?—The Independent Liberals.

35,413. A little tendency towards the Seymour party, on account of your farm?—No.

35,414. Do you think if you had voted against the Seymour interest you would be turned out?—I do not think if I voted honestly and independently I should.

35,415. Have you heard of others voting honestly and independently being turned out?—Never.

35,416. Do you mean to say so?—Really, I do mean to say so. There has been no person renting under the duke, who has voted according to his conscience who has been turned out for so voting.

35,417. How about Mr. Kellock?—About the field?

35,418. Yes.—He was certainly not turned out for voting according to his conscience.

35,419. Did he vote against his conscience?—No.

35,420. He voted against the Seymour interest, and was turned out?—He ceased to keep a horse.

35,421. Do not you know that he was turned out because he voted against the Seymour interest?—No.

35,422. Mr. Kellock said so himself?—I do not care what he said, I do not know it.

(Mr. Coleridge.) He did not want to go, and he had to go.

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

T. Holman.

22 Sept. 1866.

35,423. How much money did that election cost Mr. Seymour?—I should say 1,100*l.* or 1,200*l.*

35,424. How much did you distribute?—I think 75*l.*

35,425. Whom to?—Edward Willis and Mrs. Gillham.

35,426. From whom did you get that?—Mrs. Charles Michelmore.

35,427. Where did you get it?—At the upper corridor of the "Seymour" hotel.

35,428. When?—On the morning of the nomination.

35,429. Do you know where she got it?—I do not know.

35,430. Did she give it you in gold or notes?—Gold.

35,431. Had you been told by anybody that money was wanted for Willis and Gillham?—No.

35,432. What did she say?—She took it out of her pocket and gave it into my hand.

35,433. You knew what to do with it?—Yes, I arranged with Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore.

35,434. Did Mr. Michelmore tell you you would get it from his wife?—No.

35,435. Did he tell you you would meet a lady at the upper part of the "Seymour" hotel who would pay you?—No.

35,436. Then how did you know?—I did not know till I got it.

35,437. Is that all you got at that election?—Yes.

35,438. What was Mr. Searle doing at that election; was he actively engaged on the Seymour side?—I do not know; I did not give Mr. Searle any money at the Seymour election.

35,439. Do you know whether Mr. Brooking Cuming did?—I do not know; my notion is that he had nothing to do with it.

35,440. How much did you give Edward Willis and John Gillham?—I think 30*l.* to Willis and 35*l.* to Gillham.

35,441. Was that the same man whose wife you gave it to in 1865?—Yes.

35,442. Did not you give a sum of money to John Gillham, junior, too?—No.

35,443. Have you any voters who work for you?—No; municipal voters, but they generally vote against me, because the Tories buy them off.

35,444. Have you ever stood for election to the council?—Yes.

35,445. How much has it cost you?—My impression is that it has not cost me 5*l.* the whole time.

35,446. What has it cost the other side?—They must answer for their own misdeeds; I can only answer for mine.

35,447. Were you one of the gentlemen who stood when Mr. Condy paid the bills?—I stood with him.

35,448. It cost more than 5*l.* a piece then in 1861?—I was not with him then.

35,449. It cost him a great deal more than that according to what he told us?—I do not know that it cost him more than that, not individually. I remember well that when money was to be raised we used to subscribe amongst us.

35,450. What do you suppose that Mr. Dent spent at that election in 1863?—I cannot tell, but if you look at that poll book you can see.

35,451. Mr. Chaster did not make one up; did you make one up?—No, but there is a red book made up by Mr. Wm. Narramore or Mr. Bryett in his office that Mr. Condy held and you can tell from, and put down 50*l.* each and you will see exactly about 6,000*l.* I believe.

35,452. Do you know whose hand writing this is?—Yes, Mr. Callard's.

35,453. Is he on your side?—Yes.

35,454. How did it get into the possession of the other side?—I will tell you. James Fitzpatrick was at that time a voter for the borough, and he had been at a meeting here, and I think Mr. Pender asked him some questions about those matters. He was a Catholic and he came over to the "Seymour" hotel and he stopped there till it was late, and he said at the latter part "The other people have made a "mistake; they have put down my name to vote for "Mr. Dent and I am going to vote for Mr. Pender." So with that he handed out the book, and I said, "Will you let me have it till to-morrow morning, it is "late to-night to go through it now." In the meantime that was left and it was copied exactly as it was, and I handed it back to Mr. Fitzpatrick."

35,455. You did not tell Mr. Fitzpatrick you had made this copy?—No.

35,456. In 1862 when Mr. Pender came down you, I think, had been one of the gentlemen who had entered into an agreement with the Conservatives at the election for the council?—Yes, the candidates were, Mr. Heath, Mr. Kellock, Mr. Chaster, myself and Mr. Gill.

35,457. Can you fix the exact date of that agreement?—No, I cannot.

35,458. Can you give the month?—The date of the agreement was before the council election of 1862.

35,459. That was in the November of 1862?—Yes.

35,460. In 1862 when Mr. Pender first came down Mr. Brooking Cuming was his agent?—Yes.

35,461. We have heard a long account about some quo warrantos?—Yes.

35,462. And the bill not being paid?—Yes.

35,463. Were you consulted by Mr. Chaster about the amount?—Yes.

35,464. You were one of the persons who went through it and brought the bill down to 85*l.* and you offered him 100*l.*?—Yes, Mr. Michelmore, myself and Mr. Chaster went thought the bill, and we made the charges according to the agreement to amount to eighty some odd pounds, but we advised to settle the matter for 100*l.*

35,465. The agreement was that it was to be nothing but expenses out of pocket?—Yes.

35,466. And you struck out all except the charges out of pocket?—Yes.

35,467. How much money passed through your hands either at or after the election of 1862?—300*l.*

35,468. When did you get that?—The night of the nomination.

35,469. Who gave it to you?—No one.

35,470. Where did you get it?—At No. 6 at the "Seymour" hotel.

35,471. Where?—On the table.

35,472. In a parcel?—No.

35,473. In gold?—Gold and notes.

35,474. Who told you to go there?—Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore.

35,475. That you would find something on the table?—Yes.

35,476. And when you found it what did you do with it?—150*l.* to Thomas Jacob Searle, junior, 50*l.* to Edward Willis, and 50*l.* to Mrs. Gillham.

35,477. They seem to be friends of yours?—Yes.

35,478. What was Mr. Searle to do with the 150*l.*?—He was to give Sloggett 50*l.*, his father 50*l.*, and Edward Angel 50*l.*

35,479. That is only 250*l.* of it?—I will tell you about the other. I said to Mr. Michelmore, "I have "50*l.* left, what shall I do with it?" He said, "There is refreshments at Mr. Jordain's at the day "of the nomination for the voters, and you had better "pay that." It was 45*l.* to 46*l.* or 47*l.*, and I gave the remainder to Mr. Michelmore.

35,480. Did not he give you anything back for luck?—No; we do not do things that way.

35,481. (Mr. Coleridge.) They have better luck on the other side with regard to that ?—Yes.

35,482. (Mr. Bere.) Was that money in gold or notes ?—Gold and notes.

35,483. Had you spoken to Mr. Charles Michelmore before about getting the money ?—Yes.

35,484. And you told him what you wanted ?—Yes; I told him what would be required for certain purposes.

35,485. Was Mr. Cuming present when you wanted that ?—No.

35,486. Had you told Mr. Brooking Cuming in 1862 that you wanted money ?—Yes.

35,487. What time of the day was it you got this money paid ?—I should think about 10 o'clock on the day of the nomination.

35,488. Do you remember a message coming from the "Seven Stars" to the "Seymour" hotel ?—Yes. I was told there was a message.

35,489. When were you told; at the time ?—Yes.

35,490. What time were you told ?—About 11 o'clock.

35,491. It was before the message came that you had that money ?—Yes.

35,492. Did you distribute that money that night ?—No.

35,493. You kept it that day ?—I distributed it according to the arrangements I had made.

35,494. As there was no contest, did you still think you were bound to pay that money ?—Yes.

35,495. Do you know how much money Mr. Pender brought down with him that time ?—I do not think he brought any.

35,496. Do you know how much money was spent at that election by him ?—I can only tell as far as regards that question from a conversation I had with Mr. Brooking Cuming. He asked me to go into the room with him one night, and he said, "What do you "think will be required ?" And I said, "Somewhere "about 1,200*l.*" He said, "Had not I better ask for "more ?" and I said, "That will do." But whether that amount went down or not I do not know.

35,497. Did you hear it was sent to Mr. Webber ?—No, not at that time.

35,498. Was there any time the money was sent to Mr. Webber on the Liberal side ?—My impression is that it was in 1852.

35,499. In 1862, do not you know it was sent ?—No.

35,500. Was that all the money you had to do with ?—Yes.

35,501. Had you anything to do with the distribution of money after the election ?—No.

35,502. Did you know of sums of money being sent people in envelopes for past services; sums of 5*l.* and 10*l.* ?—I do not know anything about that.

35,503. Was Mr. Searle the only person you had communication with at that time in 1862 ?—Yes.

35,504. And other people you paid yourself; Gillham and those ?—Yes.

35,505. (Mr. Coleridge.) When did you first make up your mind to tell us all this ?—The first moment.

35,506. Did you have any conversation with Thomas Jacob Searle about it, and did you tell him to come here and tell all this ?—I told him I should tell the truth.

35,507. When did you tell him that ?—The same time.

35,508. When ?—Before the Commission was opened.

35,509. You knew that he sent a man here to tell us what was not true ?—No, I saw it in the paper.

35,510. Did Thomas Jacob Searle tell you that he would not tell the truth whatever you might do ?—No.

35,511. Did you understand he was going to tell the truth ?—Yes.

35,512. And having made up his mind to tell the truth he sent that man here to tell the contrary ?—I do not know that.

35,513. You understood from him that he meant to tell the truth ?—Yes.

35,514. (Mr. Bere.) You heard of this message being sent from the "Seven Stars" on the night of the nomination. Did Mr. Pender ever talk to you about it himself ?—Yes.

35,515. What did he say ?—He said that a degrading proposition had been made to him by Mr. Cuming, which he would not entertain for a moment, and I said I think you are perfectly right.

35,516. Did he tell you what money was asked ?—I think 2,000*l.*

35,517. Had you formed the same opinion as Mr. Chaster had formed, that the election was safe ?—Quite so; so far as I could make up the poll at that time irrespective of any ticking off. Taking Liberals and Conservatives we had 179 and the Conservatives had 157.

35,518. A majority of 22 ?—Yes.

35,519. That is about it at that time ?—I mean taking them from the register as settled, we had about that difference.

35,520. Did you hear what that money you got in 1863 from Mrs. Michelmore came from ?—No, except that she handed it to me.

35,521. Did you ever happen to hear that Mr. Seymour had not got as much money as he wanted and was obliged to go to the Devon and Cornwall bank to get more, and that some of the Liberals guaranteed the bank ?—No, I never heard of it.

35,522. When did you hear of that ?—In 1852.

35,523. 1862 ?—No, in 1863.

35,524. Now in 1859 what did you do with that election ?—They sent me over a book.

35,525. What was it ?—A novel.

35,526. Was it "A New Way to pay Old Debts" ?—No, it was "The Adventures of Mr. Ledbury."

35,527. On opening that, what did you find there ?—100*l.*

35,528. 100*l.* note ?—No, 5*l.* notes.

35,529. Did Mrs. Charles Michelmore send that to you ?—I do not know whether she did or not.

35,530. That was an arrangement between you and her that she should send you that book ?—No.

35,531. How did it come to go into the bag ?—I cannot tell.

35,532. You had not mentioned that you wanted the 100*l.* ?—No, I had not the slightest idea that it would come in a bag; but I had mentioned to Mr. Charles Michelmore that I wanted 100*l.*

35,533. Was the book wrapped up in paper ?—Yes.

35,534. Nicely wrapped up ?—Yes.

35,535. As soon as you began to open it you discovered it I suppose ?—Yes.

35,536. What was it for ?—Two voters.

35,537. For your friends Willis and Gillham ?—Yes.

35,538. Anybody else ?—No.

35,539. Let us hear about that election. How much did Mr. Mills spend ?—I can only tell you about by presumption. My impression is it was 1,400*l.*

35,540. How much did Mr. Dent spend ?—I can hardly tell.

35,541. Did you find you were outbid by the other side ?—We have always been upon the defensive. We have merely attempted to protect our own voters. They rush about like roaring lions.

TWENTY-FIFTH DAY.

T. Holman.

22 Sept. 1866.

35,542. You have been the game preservers and they have been the poachers?—Yes, we have always had a majority, but they have attempted to take them off, and we have attempted to preserve them.

35,543. And you tried to take theirs?—Yes, if they took one of ours we tried to take one.

35,544. (Mr. Bere.) Did you pay that money to Gillham yourself?—Yes.

35,545. You did not employ Searle?—No.

35,546. Was not he an available runner in 1859?—Not that I am aware of.

35,547. Did any other money pass through your hands at that election of 1859?—No.

35,548. Who was managing in 1859, Mr. Brooking Cuming?—Yes, he was always the agent for Mills.

35,549. Had not Mr. Mills a London person with him?—No.

35,550. Not Higgins?—That is the other side; that is "Mum."

35,551. You can tell us a great deal more about it if you like?—I cannot.

35,552. Can you tell us how the majority were got?—The majority on the registration is 17.

35,553. How were they got; by giving a consideration?—By the votes of the Liberal party.

35,554. How many were paid?—Not more than I mention.

35,555. How many?—I think two or three and twenty.

35,556. Do you mean that old Blank was not paid at that election?—I think he voted the other side from recollection.

35,557. Are those relations of yours that you looked upon them with such kindness, Willis and Gillham?—No.

35,558. Merely personal friends?—Yes.

35,559. Is that the first time you paid them, 1859?—Yes.

35,560. How did you come to pay them; did they come to ask you?—As far as regards Willis I can tell you what occurred. I was there one evening before the election, and he said that a person called Veasey had come down and offered him some money, and I said Mills was not going to lose his election in that sort of way by people buying off our voters, and he said, "He has offered me 60*l.*" I said to Willis, if he would go into the stable he would find something there, and I gave him to understand he would receive money, and I paid him at that election.

35,561. Did you arrange what sum of money you should give him?—Yes.

35,562. How did you get at it?—By a conversation with Mr. Cuming.

35,563. Was Mr. Mills behindhand during the early part of the day in 1859?—I think he was, but I never saw the voters brought up so rapidly as Mr. Cameron brought them up.

35,564. Do you remember at what hour Mr. Mills was behind at that election?—I can tell you generally. When we made up the poll book the night before we had a majority of 19, and before 12 o'clock we had lost 9½.

35,565. Who was the half?—A person who voted for Mills and Dunn; Mr. Fowle, I think.

35,566. Who were the other nine?—I cannot tell you; I could if I had the book, but not off-hand.

35,567. Was not Mills in a minority up to a latish hour that day, 2 or 3 o'clock?—No.

35,568. What time was he in a minority; he was lower in the poll than Dunn up to what time?—12 o'clock I should think he was ahead.

35,569. Do not you know that between 11 and 12 he had a little conversation on the bridge about how the election was to be won?—No, I was keeping the poll book all the day.

35,570. Did not you begin to get rather anxious about 11?—I said, "If you go on in this sort of way "we shall lose the election."

35,571. And did not Mr. Cuming go and see Mr. Mills?—He was not there all day, I kept the poll.

35,572. Mr. Cuming went away and left you?—Yes.

35,573. Did not Mr. Cuming say when he came back "It is all right, we shall win the seat"?—No.

35,574. Are you quite sure?—Yes.

35,575. Did he look happy when he came back?—I cannot say about that.

35,576. Did he look anxious when he went away?—We all looked anxious when we were losing part of our nineteen.

35,577. If he did not say it in words, were not your minds relieved by something that passed between you and Mr. Cuming when he came back after seeing Mr. Mills?—No.

35,578. Did not Mr. Mills ask if the election could be won, and was not the answer, "Yes, if you spend a "great deal of money," and did not he say "The "election must not be lost whatever it costs"?—I never heard of any such insinuation till you made it.

35,579. That is all you can tell us about 1859?—Yes.

35,580. What happened in 1857, in Gifford and Mills' time?—At that election I do not think there was any bribery on either side.

35,581. Not your own two or three old friends who wanted a bribe?—In 1857 there was no bribing.

35,582. Why was there no bribery?—There was no money going.

Adjourned to Monday next at half-past 10.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

Monday, 24th September 1866.

THOMAS HOLMAN recalled and further examined.

35,583. (Mr. Bere.) You told us on Saturday that in 1857 there was no bribery because there was no money going. What reason have you for saying that there was no money going?—I never knew that there was. There was no necessity for it.

35,584. Was it because you had none to distribute yourself?—I was not aware that we had. I had none.

35,585. What do you mean by there being "no "necessity"?—We had a large majority.

35,586. So you had according to your statement in 1865?—We had a larger majority than we had at any other time in 1857.

35,587. Although there was no money going on your side, was there not money going on the other?—I think not. I think Mr. Mackenzie declared that he would not spend any money.

35,588. That is a declaration that a great many candidates make?—I think Mr. Mackenzie made it in pure good faith with the intention of abiding by it, and did.

35,589. At that time Mr. Mills was standing on the Liberal interest?—Yes.

35,590. Was there a joint committee of Liberals?—I think not at that election. There was a joint committee between the Earl Gifford's party and Mr. Mills.

35,591. There was no joint committee of the Liberals as long as Lord Seymour stood?—No.

35,592. Between 1855 and 1857 the independent party and the ducal party coalesced?—Yes. The unison between the ducal party and the independent party took place in 1855, on the occasion of the Earl Gifford first becoming a candidate.

35,593. At whose suggestion did that unison take place?—I think it was my own.

35,594. Were you equally interested in both parties?—Yes.

35,595. Had you talked to Lord Gifford before you made that suggestion?—No; I will tell you how it was if you wish to know.

35,596. We should like to know?—I was going across the Plains, and Mr. Fogwill was in his counting-house. He asked me to step in, and when I went in I saw Mr. Thomas Michelmore, jun., now dead, and he said he and the Earl Gifford had been canvassing the constituency, and found they had but little support, and he asked me my advice as to what course should be pursued. I said to him, "My impression is that "you ought to engage Mr. Cuming and Mr. Windeatt "as agents for Earl Gifford, and if you go to your "father and give him my compliments and say the "time has come when we should have an equal union "between both parties, Earl Gifford will be returned "without any contest." Mr. Michelmore went to his father, and his father acceded to that advice. Mr. Cuming and Mr. Windeatt were engaged on that day, and from that time to this we have had a cordial union.

35,597. You have always considered one of the Liberal members to be a representative of the independent party and the other the representative of the duke?—I considered some such thing, but really we have had an equal union since.

35,598. Did you know of Mr. Chaster on Mr. Mills' death telling Mr. Seymour to go back?—I do.

35,599. You thought you had a right to an independent candidate yourselves?—Yes. In fact we had selected Mr. Seymour as one to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Earl Gifford, and then we selected Lord John Hay, brother to Earl Gifford and Mr. Seymour, and Major Lyon. That was done three or four months before the death of Mr. Mills occurred.

35,600. In 1855, when Lord Seymour became Duke of Somerset, had Lord Gifford been proposed as a candidate any time before?—I think not. I think the recommendation came from the duke.

35,601. Did he come with a letter from the duke to Mr. Michelmore?—I think he came with a published address.

35,602. Without any communication between the duke and Mr. Michelmore?—I am not aware of any communication taking place between them. I was not acquainted with any such communication.

35,603. In 1852, when there was no cordial union between the two Liberal parties, was there a good deal of bribery?—Yes.

35,604. Was Mr. Cuming still the agent of Mr. Mills?—Yes.

35,605. Did he send for you on the Friday before the election?—Yes.

35,606. Did he ask you to interfere about the voters in Bridgetown?—Yes.

35,607. What sum of money passed through your hands at that time?—I cannot tell; I can tell about the amount he asked me.

35,609. How many men were to be bribed with that?—Five.

35,610. Was there a proposal made as to a means of concealing the payment of this money by giving it the colour of a purchase?—Yes.

35,611. What was that?—After the arrangement was made that these five voters should receive 250*l.* between them, a suggestion was made by the principal agent of the party that the money should be paid before the votes were given.

35,612. Who suggested that?—Mr. Screach; and I said, "You do not seem to trust me in the same way "that I trust you, and you can scarcely expect me "to trust you when you will not trust me." Then he suggested a means of reconciling the matter, that is, that he should advance the deeds of his house upon 150*l.* being paid to him, and that Mr. Farley, sen., should advance the deeds of his house upon 100*l.* being paid to him, and that suggestion of his was agreed to. The consequence was that Mr. Coombes, my father-in-law, paid Mr. Screach in Farley's house 150*l.* and received the deeds, and he paid Farley 100*l.* and received his deeds.

35,613. What became of the deeds?—Put them in my drawer.

35,614. They did not stay there very long?—They were there till they called for them.

35,615. When did they call for them?—On the Saturday after the election.

35,616. What were the names of those five gentlemen?—Mr. Screach one, Mr. Bowden another, Mr. Thomas Mitchell another, Mr. Farley, junior, and Mr. Thomas Blackler.

35,617. That was not the only sum you received at that election?—No.

35,618. What else did you receive?—On the morning of the election I was keeping the poll, as I usually did, and Mr. Cuming said to me, "You are "wanted Holman." I went to the room, and a certain gentleman, now deceased, put in somewhere about 300*l.*

35,619. Who was that?—The late Mr. Samuel Huxham.

35,620. About 300*l.* into your hand?—Yes.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

T. Holman.

24 Sept. 1866.

35,621. What did you do with it?—Gave the principal part to a person called Hardin.

35,622. Where did he live?—Bridgetown; I think he was a distributor; I think he used to pay the voters.

35,623. Did you hear afterwards how he had distributed it?—Yes; I heard in the committee.

35,624. To whom had he distributed it?—I cannot remember the whole; 50*l.* to James Turpin.

35,625. What sort of sums were distributed, 50*l.* and 30*l.*, or smaller amounts?—Mr. Hardin came into the room where I was and said I want so and so, and I let him have the money.

35,626. 300*l.*?—Not the whole; other parties came in.

35,627. How much to him?—I cannot tell.

35,628. About?—I cannot tell.

35,629. Who were the other parties you allowed to have the money?—I do not know now; I know perfectly well that after the election we went up to Mr. Ferris' parlour, Mr. Cuming, myself, and Ferris constituted the money department of the committee.

35,630. Ferris is alive, is not he?—I believe so.

35,631. Do you know where he lives in London?—I do not.

35,632. How long has he left Totnes?—12 years.

35,633. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had he anything to do with any election between 1852 and this time?—Yes.

35,634. Which was the last election he was concerned in?—Mr. Ferris?

35,635. Yes.—I thought you asked me.

35,636. No; Mr. Ferris?—No, not that I am aware of. I think that he left here somewhere about 1855.

35,637. (Mr. Bere.) Was that all you know about 1852?—Yes; all I know generally. I know when we made up the amount of money I had received and had expended I had to pay Mr. Cuming 25*l.* which was unexpended, which I did.

35,638. Do you know at all what money Mills spent at that election?—I think the total made up more than 1,400*l.* I am only speaking from the recollection I have without any documentary evidence.

35,639. You do not know what Mr. Baldwin spent? No.

35,640. Was there a good deal of money going about on the other side?—I do not think he spent so much as Mr. Mills.

35,641. (Mr. Coleridge.) He was getting dry about that time?—He was; it appears that he got dry before.

35,642. (Mr. Bere.) In 1847 there was an arrangement come to with Mr. Ricardo not to bribe?—There was an understanding the night before. A pledge on his part and Mr. Cuming's that money should not be spent.

35,643. Do you think any was spent?—I do not think there was; if there was any money spent it was a breach of faith on their parts.

35,644. You had no money to spend?—No, I had none whatever.

35,645. You are a tenant under the duke?—Yes.

35,646. What is the amount of rent you pay?—For the farm that I hold?

35,647. Yes.—75*l.* a year.

35,648. When is your rent due?—The rent is due Lady Day and Michaelmas, but never collected at the time.

35,649. The Michaelmas rent is not collected until December?—That is for the farm. The Michaelmas rent for houses in the borough and land in the borough are collected in November.

35,650. You paid your rent always in one lump sum, did not you, generally by cheque?—One lump sum for the house.

35,651. 37*l.* 10*s.* every half year?—Yes, that is the rent of the land. I always pay my rent on two different occasions, and have the pleasure of dining with the steward on those two occasions.

35,652. On the 3rd December 1863 you had to pay the half year's rent for your farm?—I presume so.

35,653. How does it happen that you did not pay anything then?—I am not aware that I did; I have always paid my rent regularly. The idea of any suggestion being thrown out that I had not paid my rent I never knew. What is the date?

35,653* The 3rd December 1863 you ought to have paid. (The witness referred to a book.)

35,654. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you your cheque book with the counterfoil?—I have the bank book, December 4th. I have an account of a cheque being paid in by Mr. Michelmore, 36*l.* 8*s.* 1*d.*

35,655. Paid in by Mr. Michelmore?—Yes.

35,656. By or to Mr. Michelmore?—To him. Of course it would be paid in by him when he received it, 36*l.* 8*s.* 1*d.*

35,657. Where is your entry for your house?—That would be November. (The witness showed the entries in his bank book to the learned Commissioners.) There is the difference of income tax, tithes, and insurance.

35,658. (Mr. Bere.) I will show you why I ask the question. This is the rent book, and up to the date of the 3rd December 1863 there is an invariable entry of "Holman, 37*l.* 10*s.*" and an account or corresponding entry, payment of that. Here there is an entry of your name, and both columns blank. That is what I ask to have explained?—I cannot make out how that is. Most assuredly if I had not paid my rent that half year I should have been called upon for the excess in the subsequent half year. I might have paid it at a subsequent day. I can tell how it was. There was an assessment that day, and I did not come back till after the money accounts had been closed, and I paid it in subsequently.

35,659. What are the lands you rent called; Weir Field and Bourton Meadow?—No; the name is Higher Bourton Farm.

35,660. Some of it is within the borough?—A very small portion of it.

35,661. How much?—I should think about an acre and a half.

35,662. Does that give a vote?—No.

35,662*. Do not you pay rent for Weir Field and Bourton Meadow too?—No.

35,663. Who pays for that, do you know?—The Farming Company.

35,664. Who constitutes that company?—Mr. Hodge, Mr. Underhill, and Mr. Blackler.

35,665. How long have they been constituted a company?—Scarcely three years.

35,666. Who really occupies that; do not you?—No.

35,667. Do not you take the grazing from them, and put cattle on the farm yourself?—At so much per head per week.

35,668. Have any one of the persons you have mentioned got a head of cattle there belonging to themselves?—I do not know that either has besides Blackler.

35,669. How much has he?—I cannot tell. I have seen him drive a horse in there.

35,670. You are the person who is in the occupation of this farm?—No, they take in other cattle besides mine, over which I have no control.

35,671. How much do you pay them a year?—I cannot tell you.

35,672. How much did you pay last year?—I see I paid Hodge 15*l.* 5*s.* in one cheque.

35,673. Do you pay half-yearly?—When he wants it.

35,674. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you pay him for the three?—He is the manager.

35,675. What are these fields called?—They are called Bourton Meadow and Weir Meadow.

35,676. What is the rent of them?—31*l.* 10*s.*

35,677. How much have you paid on account of cattle?—15*l.* 5*s.*

35,678. What on account of hay?—It was not mown.

35,679. What else did you pay him besides the 15*l.* 10*s.* last year?—In November last 17*l.* 5*s.*

35,680. What was that for?—The feed of cattle.

35,681. Was that for the whole year?—No.

35,682. For the half year?—When he brought in his bill.

35,683. You have paid him as much for the keep of the cattle as the whole rent of the farm?—No, I do not; he takes in other cattle.

35,684. From whom besides yourself?—Turpin, Mitchell, Adams.

35,685. Do you know the rent which Hodge and Company are supposed to give for that field?—I believe 31*l.* 10*s.*

35,686. (Mr. Bere.) Before they had it, had Angel, Lee, and Blackler got it?—Yes.

35,687. Before they had it, had you had it?—Yes, and then I had it since.

35,688. Had you had it for 15 or 16 years before they had it?—My father had it before I had it.

35,689. It has been in the family for a long time?—Yes.

35,690. And it got out of the family to make votes?—Quite so. Mr. Michelmore asked me to get possession of it, and I did.

35,691. (Mr. Coleridge.) When did Mr. Michelmore ask you to do that?—I think in the year 1862.

35,692. He told you plainly it was wanted for making votes?—We agreed about it together.

35,693. Did you agree about other fields as well?—No.

35,694. Only those?—Only those.

35,695. Those were the only fields you had within the borough?—They were the only fields I had.

35,696. Was this old Mr. Michelmore?—Yes, the old gentleman.

35,697. I see on the 16th of May 1865 you paid him 6*l.* 14*s.* 6*d.*?—That was the amount of his bill.

35,698. Then on the 9th November you paid him 17*l.* 5*s.*?—Yes.

35,699. Do you know what other people have paid him, if at all?—No.

35,700. How many cattle did he take in for Turpin in 1865?—I cannot tell. A few steers and some colts.

35,701. How many should you say, half-a-dozen?—I cannot tell.

35,702. For how long?—For several weeks.

35,703. Did he consult you or not?—He did not consult me; he consulted Turpin. He took in sheep for Adams.

35,704. Did he take in for them half as many as he did for you?—I should think that the person with whom he principally dealt was myself.

35,705. And you paid him 24*l.* out of his 30*l.* rent?—Yes.

35,706. (Mr. Bere.) Who puts the manure on that field?—I do not think there has been a shovelful of manure put on since this peculiar occupation has taken place.

35,707. Who gets the hay?—There has been none got this year.

35,708. Who got it last year?—I got it.

35,709. And carried it away?—Yes.

35,710. (Mr. Coleridge.) Is there no stipulation to manure these lands in your agreement?—I do not think there is.

35,711. Has Mr. Michelmore ever complained to you?—He has no right to complain to me. He must complain to Hodge.

35,712. (Mr. Bere.) Who cuts the hedges?—They have been left in a dilapidated condition.

35,713. It seems not to have been a good thing for the land?—It is a good thing for the votes.

35,714. Did you not pay Endle before you paid Hodge?—I never had any transactions with Endle. It was Farley.

35,715. (Mr. Longe.) Angel and Lee, did they have votes?—I think not. They tried to claim them, but they could not substantiate them.

35,716. The land was taken for that purpose?—Yes.

35,717. (Mr. Bere.) Do you often go down to the "Seymour Hotel" in the evening?—Not very often except at electioneering times.

35,718. Have you been there a good deal since this Commission has been sitting?—I have not been there above once.

35,719. Whom did you meet there at the time you were there?—I saw Miss Weeks and Miss Satchwell.

35,720. And some gentlemen?—I think not.

35,721. Are you quite sure of that?—As far as my recollection serves me, I do not remember it; I might remember it if you were to mention the names, if such a circumstance occurred.

35,721*. Have there not been regular meetings of some of the influential persons on the Liberal side, a sort of a committee, at the "Seymour Hotel" since this Commission has been opened?—Not that I am aware of. If there have been such meetings I have not attended them.

35,722. Did you not hear discussed what evidence the Liberal party should give before this Commission, and what they should withhold?—I never heard of that; I can swear it most positively.

35,723. You never heard of any such meetings?—No; I never heard of anything of the kind; it took me by surprise when you mentioned it.

35,724. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you been to see Mr. Brooking Cuming and talked about the Commission?—I have not.

35,725. Or Mr. Parnell?—No.

35,726. Do you know anything about Nicholas Manning coming down and getting a cheque of Mr. Pender for something to do with the screen of the church?—I have heard of such a thing, but I was not personally aware of it.

35,727. Did you see Mr. Nicholas Manning about there?—I think I saw his figure.

35,728. Were you not surprised to see him, as he voted for Pim and Dawkins, about the "Seymour Hotel"?—I was surprised that he came there.

35,729. Under what circumstances had he been there before?—That was in 1852.

35,730. Have you any recollection of his being there in 1863?—No.

35,731. You were surprised to see him there in 1865?—I was.

35,732. Did you ask any one whether he was going to vote for you?—No.

35,733. Did you ask him yourself?—No.

35,734. Did you say anything to anybody about his being there?—I cannot tell.

35,735. Did you say to Mr. Pender he had better be careful what he had to do with him?—I do not think I did.

35,736. Do you not recollect saying about his being a dangerous character?—I did about that.

35,737. What was it you said about that?—I forget now.

35,738. You can tell us something to the effect of it?—I thought it was rather surprising that he should come there asking for money when he invariably voted against us.

35,739. Do you know what he got?—No.

35,740. Do you know what he asked for?—I do not.

35,741. Did you talk to John Crocker about staying at the hotel at the last election?—Did I talk to him?

35,742. Did you and Mr. Jenkins order him away?—No.

35,742*. Did you not say he ought not to be there, for he was on the wrong side, and was a spy in the camp?—Yes.

35,743. Did you complain to Mr. Beazley about it?—No.

35,744. Who did you complain to about it?—In No. 5 room we stated jointly to Crocker if he went into the enemies' camp as often as he did, he could not be expected to stay there.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

T. Holman.

24 Sept. 1866.

35,745. Had he been going to the "Stars"?—No, to Screach, and that is worse.

35,746. That is a more dangerous place to go to?—Yes.

35,747. Did you suggest to Mr. Pender to get Ann back?—No.

35,748. Who did?—It was his own idea I think.

35,749. (Mr. Bere.) I want to ask you about a man of the name of Hole who came back and voted for Dawkins and Pim?—No, he voted for Pender and Seymour.

35,750. Was he not canvassed by Captain Pim?—I am not aware.

35,751. What money was given to Mr. Charles Michelmore for that man?—I am not aware of any.

35,752. Are you sure of it?—I am not aware of it.

35,753. Did not some money go through Thomas Jacob Searle for him?—Not that I am aware of.

35,754. You do not know how he was brought down to you?—I do not.

35,755. He was living away from Totnes?—He lived somewhere up in the neighbourhood of London; and Mr. Pender had been a great friend to him.

35,756. Was it not discussed at the committee that he should be brought down?—No, not in my presence; indeed my impression is that we calculated the night previously that he would not be here at all.

35,757. Do you know a man of the name of Sanders?—Yes.

35,758. Did you canvass him with Mr. Seymour?—At no time or no occasion.

35,759. Did you canvass him without Mr. Seymour?—I did not.

35,760. Did you ever talk to him about the election?—No.

35,761. Did he ever come to you?—Yes.

35,762. What for?—For the purpose of asking me to endeavour to use my good offices in getting a situation for him.

35,763. When was that, in 1865 or 1863?—It must have been in 1865.

35,764. What did you say to that?—I wrote to Mr. Seymour.

35,765. How long before the election; while it was going on?—No.

35,766. How long before?—I think months before.

35,767. When it was well known there would be a general election?—When it was rumoured there would be; the time was not fixed.

35,768. Did he vote for you all right at the last election?—He did not. I remember his asking whether he should ask Mr. Seymour. I said, "If you "do it will have no reference to election matters; it "must be merely friendship."

35,769. Did you succeed in getting him an appointment?—I succeeded in getting him an appointment, but he was too old and could not fill it.

J. Bowden.

JOHN BOWDEN sworn and examined.

35,770. (Mr. Bere.) What do you call yourself, a cider merchant?—A general merchant.

35,771. How long have you been a general merchant in Totnes?—From 15 to 20 years.

35,772. And for that length of time you have lived in Totnes?—I have never lived in Totnes I am happy to say.

35,773. Your store is in Totnes?—Yes.

35,774. You are a voter for Totnes?—I am.

35,775. Where do you live; is it very far off?—Five miles.

35,776. Then living not so far off, and having your store in Totnes, I suppose you have taken a great deal of interest in politics?—I have.

35,777. Are you a magistrate of the borough?—I am not, I am happy to say.

35,778. Have you had your name sent up as one of those who were to be made magistrates?—I believe I have.

35,779. You were not selected?—I suppose not.

35,780. Have you proposed the candidates at any election?—I never proposed, I seconded.

35,781. Whom did you second?—It was the opponent of Mr. Dunn first.

35,782. Mr. Mills?—I presume it was.

35,783. In 1859?—Yes.

35,784. Did you second anybody else?—Mr. Pender twice; at the last election I offered for the first time in my life a 5*l.* subscription to get off the employment.

35,785. Did not the speaking come happily to you?—It generally came happy, but I did not wish particularly to speak on politics at Totnes. I offered it bonâ fide towards the expenses. The first 5*l.* I ever offered was to get off speaking.

35,786. What funds did you offer it towards?—I cannot tell that.

35,787. To whom did you offer it?—To Mr. Pender himself; he declined it promptly and emphatically; he says, "You must speak."

35,788. In 1859 did you not do a little more than second Mr. Mills; did you not go round with him?—No.

35,789. Were you on his committee?—No, never on any committee.

35,790. Never down at the "Seymour Hotel" consulting about the affairs of the Liberal party?—I have never been consulted by the Liberal party about their affairs, they have invariably selected their own candidates without even consulting me.

35,791. After the election did you do a little kindness in the way of support to the Liberal cause?—Never that I am aware of.

35,792. You spent a little money?—Never on that account.

35,793. Do you know a Mr. Smale?—I do.

35,794. Did you not lend him some money?—No; I can safely say that I never lent Mr. Smale money. I have looked into his accounts and I find the first bill I ever did pay him was on the 6th of July 1860, 50*l.* for goods sold and delivered. That bill was reduced by 4*l.* in September 1860. It was increased by 4*l.* on the 8th of November 1860, and was renewed at the same amount on January 11th, 1861; renewed again for the same amount on March 30th (50*l.*); then on June 1st, 1861, increased by 8*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.*; on September 6th, 1861, decreased by 3*l.* 10*s.* 10*d.*; on December 7th, 1861, it remained at the same; on March 12th, 1862, it was reduced to 50*l.*, and on the 13th of June it remained the same; on the 15th of September it was reduced by 5*l.*, and on the 17th of the following month, December, it was reduced by 5*l.*, leaving a balance of 40*l.*

35,795. He paid you in December 1862; how was it paid?—This was just one bill; it has been renewed.

35,796. You say reduced by 5*l.* in December 1862; how was that?—Mr. Smale would bring in enough to pay the interest of the bill and 5*l.*

35,797. Did he bring up a 5*l.* note at a time?—I am not aware; I could not trace such a thing out.

35,798. Had he voted for Mr. Pender?—No; he was neutral in 1862.

35,799. When did he become a good Liberal?—He was always a Liberal in politics. If you will allow me to make my own explanation about Mr. Smale's politics I will do so. He was formerly in my employ, and afterwards he took a business in Newton. He returned to Totnes as the railway agent; I had always had the highest respect for Mr. Smale, and I considered him to be a man of the utmost probity and honour. In the election time of 1862, which was Mr. Pender's first election, you perceive that about that time he owed me about 40*l.* In a cursory conversation, not at the place.

35,800. What place?—The Plains.

35,801. The polling place; at his house, unfortunately for the Conservative party, he had let them have a room, and without knowing it I found myself in the hands of the enemy, and I speedily made my exit. But about that time I merely said to Mr. Smale, in reference to politics, which way are you going to vote? He said, "You know my friends are on both "sides, but I need not tell you that my chief sup- "porters in this town are the Conservatives, and I "have made up my mind to be neutral;" and he has done so fully. I said "Mr. Smale, I hope both par- "ties will leave you alone." But I can tell you a little of what took place, because it will just show that it is possible for a little coercion to be used on this side the bridge as well as the other; and I can tell you why Mr. Smale dropped his neutrality and eventually voted for the Liberals in 1865.

35,802. How was that?—It happened in this way. You are quite aware of course that the competition for local senatorial honours in Totnes has been almost as fierce as for the parliamentary affairs, and at one time Mr. Sparke Distin was a candidate for municipal honours, with a view I believe to the civic chair. Mr. Smale was then the railway agent, and he used to deliver Mr. Distin's goods. Mr. Distin applied to him to vote for him. Mr. Smale says, I am a neutral, and intend to be neutral whilst I stay in Totnes; he omitted to vote for Mr. Distin, and Mr. Distin omitted to allow him to deliver his goods from the railway, and afterwards employed some other carrier; he was quite aware of it, and he retaliated. I never made any difference with the Conservatives or the Liberals in dealing with them till that time, but when I went to Mr. Smale and asked him, "Is it true "that you have lost Distin's custom for having voted "at all?" and he said, "Yes." Then I requested Distin to send in my account, and I have done nothing with him since.

35,803. On account of Mr. Smale voting there was a withdrawal of Mr. Distin's custom?—Yes.

35,804. And has he ever paid you the 40*l.* he owed you?—Yes.

35,805. When?—Will you allow me to read this? I shall soon be through it.

35,806. Yes.—He reduced it again on March 19th, 1863, on June 20th it is the same, and on September 22nd it is reduced by another 10*l.*, December 23rd it is the same; March 24th, 1864, from some circumstance or another it is raised to 34*l.* 7*s.*; in the following June it is 30*l.*; September 27th, 30*l.*; December 30th, 35*l.* 16*s.*; April 1st, 30*l.*; July 3rd, 25*l.*; October 5th, 20*l.*; January 6th, 15*l.*; and April 7th, 9*l.*; and it is paid off on July 9th.

35,807. Paid by your receiving actual money, and not giving an allowance to him?—On political grounds?

35,808. On any ground?—I never made any allowance; never did anything of the sort. I never bribed a man in any shape or form, or used any undue influence with any elector in the borough.

35,809. We want to hear a little about a loan that you made to another person, the Rev. Mr. James?—I never made a loan to Mr. James.

35,810. Never?—No.

35,811. You advanced Mr. James some money?—Never a penny.

35,812. Mr. James had some money through you?—No, never through me. I never had any more business transactions with Mr. James than I had with you, but I can explain it without cross-examination, if you like.

35,813. We should like?—Well, on the morning of the election, about 11 o'clock, as near as I can judge, Mr. Pender came to me, I was then nearly a stranger to Mr. James, and he said to me, Mr. James was in difficulties in this way, that he had speculated, I think, in banking shares, and had borrowed the whole or part of the money to pay for those shares from Mr. Edmonds, the lawyer; that Mr. Edmonds, the solicitor, had found Mr. James as usual was going to vote for the Liberal candidates. This is Pender's version, as I understood at that time, Mr. James had really voted; but he said he had notice from Mr. Edmonds to pay off this money, and the screw had been put on in order to induce Mr. James to abstain from voting or to vote for the Conservatives. He said, "Now, under those circumstances, Mr. Bowden "will you change a cheque for me to the extent of "230*l.*?" Mr. Pender knew right well my abomination to any such bribery, and he said distinctly, "It is "not to bribe Mr. James, it is to be a loan, and we "are to have the same security as Mr. Edmonds holds, "and if you will change that cheque for me I will be "exceedingly obliged;" and I drew a cheque for 230*l.*, which I now produce, on the Devon and Cornwall Bank, drew out the money, handed it to Mr. Pender, and Mr. Pender, in lieu of this cheque of mine, gave me a cheque drawn, I cannot tell by whom, but the waste book of the bank will tell, on the Manchester and Salford Bank.

35,814. When did Mr. Pender give you that cheque?—On the day of the election.

35,815. The cheque on the Manchester and Salford Bank?—Yes.

35,816. For the same amount as the one you hold in your hand?—Yes, as far as I know.

35,817. Was it paid into the Devon and Cornwall Bank?—Yes; and you will see the amount; it is the same I believe.

35,818. Did not you think when Mr. Pender asked you to advance that money that Mr. James would not vote without paying that debt?—I did not really understand it so, and I thought that Mr. James had voted at the time; I am not positive what time of the day this was, but I think about 11 o'clock in the morning. I never had anything to do with Mr. James in the matter, only through Mr. Pender.

35,819. But as an experienced man of the world, did not it strike you as a strange thing that Mr. Pender should ask you to advance money to pay off Mr. James' debt on the day of the election?—I did not think about it much, and it is a thing that I should do to-morrow under similar circumstances. Mr. James is a clergyman of the Church of England, and I had not the least doubt, and Mr. Pender reminded me, he said, "Mr. Bowden, this is to be repaid with interest, "and it is not to bribe Mr. James," and I did not believe that he would have taken it.

35,820. Would it not appear a still more extraordinary thing if I were to tell you that Mr. Pender had a balance of 1,800*l.* in one bank and a balance of 500*l.* in another?—I did not know it. I did it innocently. Mr. Pender knew that if he wanted me to change a cheque for bribery purposes I never would have done it, and I would change a cheque again under similar circumstances and run all the risk, because I believed that Mr. James would not accept a bribe.

35,821. That is for us?—You asked me for my belief.

35,822. No; I asked you if you did not think it an odd thing to pay off a debt of a voter when he had not voted at the time?—I was under the impression that he had voted, and I thought it was a desperate hard thing that the screw should be put on a clergyman of the Church of England in any such way.

35,823. And you tried to take the screw off?—Yes.

35,824. Is that all you did with regard to the election of 1865, when Pender, Seymour, Dawkins, and Pim stood?—Yes.

35,825. What did you do in 1863 at Mr. Dent's election?—I saved Mr. Dent about 5,000*l.* in bribery.

35,826. How?—On the morning of the election of 1863 I was requested (and it was the only thing I did myself) to go and see a very worthy man of the town, Mr. Tucker, the grocer.

35,827. Edmund Tucker?—No, no connexion with him; Mr. William Tucker, and to find out whether his health was good enough to allow him to vote. I went to his bedside, because I was on friendly terms with him, and I asked him if he could vote, and he said he was very ill. He said, "I should like to vote, but my "doctor was here yesterday, and strictly prohibits "my voting." "Under the circumstances," I said, "Mr. Tucker, of course I cannot press you for it." About 3 o'clock on the day of the election I saw that the poll was coming very near, and I heard that Mr. Dent was prepared to pay some seven or eight people 500*l.*, and, if that would not do, 1,000*l.* a piece to get one ahead and win the election. I went again to Mr. Tucker, and got another interview at his bedside. He appeared ill, and I said, "The poll is eight or "nine in our favour, but bribery is so flagrant that it "is possible that enough can be bought by money "that by 4 o'clock they should turn the scale by one "vote." I said, "I will not ask you to come, but I "put it to you in that way, as to whether you can "come to vote, and if you vote the thing is done "for." Mr. Tucker rose up in his bed; the perspiration oozed out of his forehead; he wiped it away; he said, "I will vote; I feel better already. Have "you a cab?" "Yes." "Will you come with me to "the poll?" I said. "Yes," he said, "drive up "to the side door." He was dressed as speedily as possible, and I took him down in the cab past by the notorious "Stars." They saw us; and it was so unexpected, seeing Mr. Tucker and myself, that I saw horror depicted in the faces of those in the enemies' camp.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

J. Bowden.

24 Sept. 1866.

35,828. You took your friend to the poll, and he voted for Seymour?—Yes.

35,829. Is he alive now?—Yes; and he has been better ever since.

35,830. Where was it that Mr. Pender saw you?—On the Plains.

35,831. Did you meet him accidentally?—Yes, as far as I am concerned.

35,832. Were you going to vote?—I think I had voted; I generally voted early.

35,833. Had you been to the "Seymour" to see what was going on?—No. I went very little to the "Seymour;" I kept out of the committee rooms. I made a point of keeping away from those places.

35,834. What was the reason that Mr. Pender asked you to change the cheque?—He thought very likely that I was the most likely person among his friends to change the cheque.

35,835. Is money so scarce in Totnes as that?—I attend so much to my own business that I scarcely know what anybody else's business is here.

35,836. You have a large business?—Yes.

35,837. And your drawing a large cheque would not be a suspicious matter?—That would not be called a large cheque; I often draw a cheque for 5,000*l.* at a time.

35,838. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you have anything to do in 1862, when Mr. Dent first retired?—Nothing more than seconding the nomination of Mr. Pender.

35,839. (Mr. Bere.) Where are your stores?—Behind the walls, and on the Plains.

35,840. Do you sell liquors by retail?—No.

35,841. Not yourself, but through anybody?—No.

35,842. Did not you once have Liberal committee rooms at your stores?—No.

35,843. Where?—My sister let her rooms.

35,844. Where are they?—Adjoining my offices.

35,845. When was that?—I think on two or three occasions they have been used. They are very near the polling booths.

35,846. Are your offices on the Plains?—Yes.

35,847. And she let her rooms?—Yes.

35,848. For a consideration?—I do not know. I believe she expected something; but as a matter of fact she has had nothing for the past two or three elections, except her windows broken by the Tories.

35,849. Have you shared the same fate?—Only a pane or two.

35,850. How near do you live to Bennett and Stranger?—Just opposite.

35,851. Have you ever been to ask after their vote?—To ask why they have not voted, not to ask after their vote.

35,852. What did you say?—I said if I were in their case I would vote. I knew which way they would vote; and I think Mr. Stranger said that he was staying back for fun. He said he believed some offer would be made, and he just wanted to hear what would be done; and really, as you have heard in the evidence, there was a handsome indirect offer made to them, and immediately after the offer had been made they voted.

35,853. Who came and told you that they had not voted?—The committee rooms were adjoining my offices in my sister's house. I was in those rooms, not the committee rooms, but the place where they cast up the poll.

35,854. Who was casting up the poll?—I think Mr. Holman was there, but I can hardly recollect.

35,855. And so you heard that Bennett and Stranger had not voted?—Yes; and I went and said that I would vote if I were they.

35,856. There was no particular close run at that time?—Yes, I think it was a very close run.

35,857. Was it Pender and Seymour at this time?—I am not quite sure which it was; but I have an impression that it was.

35,858. Did you take the cheque yourself to the Devon and Cornwall Bank?—I think I did, but I am not sure.

35,859. What did you get in exchange, gold or notes?—I cannot tell you; I gave Mr. Pender what I received.

35,860. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was it not gold?—I cannot tell you really.

35,861. Was a good portion of it gold?—I cannot recollect; the thing has gone entirely from my memory as to what sort of money I had.

35,862. You are not often in the habit of taking such a large quantity of gold as that in change for a cheque?—Yes, frequently; hundreds of pounds at a time. A foreign captain wants his freight, and will have nothing but sterling money; he knows nothing about Bank of England notes.

35,863. But this was not a foreign captain. Did not you think it would be inconvenient to carry?—I do not know; I think there were notes.

35,864. (Mr. Bere.) A note came out of the bank; it was given to you to give to Mr. Pender, and Mr. Pender handed it to Mr. James?—I am sorry I do not remember the amount, and I should be glad if I did.

35,865. If you had banked with the other bank you would not have been able to see, because they do not keep accounts at the election times?—They generally keep very good accounts.

35,866. (Mr. Coleridge.) Mr. Yabbicom told us since 1862 they did not keep an account of the change at election times?—Those are exceptional times.

35,867. (Mr. Bere.) It would be the 12th July 1865?—Yes.

35,868. Was your cheque drawn on the Devon and Cornwall Bank?—Yes; it must have been the morning part of the day. I can produce the cheque if you please. I have been to the bank and had it this morning.

35,869. This is the cheque that you received, "Barclay and Co., Manchester and Salford Bank, "£233." There is 3*l.* difference. Is that commission?—No; I never charged any commission to Mr. Pender. I will tell you how it happened. I took 3*l.* out of the cash-box to make up the 3*l.* difference, but the book will tell.

35,870. Here it is, "J. Bowden, notes 200*l.*, and "gold 30*l.*"?—I cannot remember.

35,871. Can you remember whether there was a 5*l.* note amongst it?—No, I cannot.

35,872. You have no doubt that is what did happen?—I have no doubt.

35,873. Can you remember at all whether you had the amount of your cheque handed to you in notes and then asked for gold?—It has gone from my memory altogether; and until I looked at my book this morning previously to coming here I thought the cheque was for 150*l.*

35,874. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had you anything to do with the election of 1859?—No; I may have voted in 1859. I have kept out of electioneering as much as possible, except to vote and speak.

35,875. How many men have you in your employ?—I cannot tell you; Mr. Hutchins and Mr. Narramore have a vote.

35,876. Do your men always vote with you?—No; some who have a vote for the municipal election vote the other way. They are bought by the Tories.

35,877. How do Mr. Narramore and Mr. Hutchins vote?—For the Liberals. I was not aware how Mr. Hutchins would vote; he was a voter for the first time on the last occasion.

35,878. Did you canvass him?—No, and I did not know how he would vote.

35,879. Did not you take the trouble to ask him?—No. I think a man in his position ought to be independent. I would scorn to press him. If he likes to vote for the Conservatives he is welcome to do it.

35,880. (Mr. Bere.) Did you have any money out of the bank on your own account on that day, the 12th?—I am not aware; we paid in some money.

35,881. Did you not have some out?—I may have had; the waste book would help me perhaps.

35,882. It is rather curious. There are the circumstances, notes 230*l.*?—It is 30*l.* gold probably. I had 230*l.* in notes first, and changed it for gold. That is the most likely explanation.

35,883. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did Mr. Pender ask you to get a portion in gold?—No; I cannot recollect.

The Rev. William Henry James sworn and examined.

35,884. (Mr. Bere.) Are you a clergyman of the Church of England?—I am.

35,885. Where is your incumbency?—I have no incumbency.

35,886. How long have you been living in Totnes?—Four years; a little over, four and a half years.

35,887. Had you an incumbency before you came to live in Totnes?—Yes, I had.

35,888. Were was that?—I was the first incumbent of the district of Beaufort, in Monmouthshire.

35,889. Were you incumbent of Beaufort at the time you came to Totnes?—I was not; I had resigned it.

35,890. How long had you resigned it?—Oh, many years.

35,891. Where did you come from?—Plymouth.

35,892. After you had lived in Totnes a sufficient time you became a voter?—I did.

35,893. And having become a voter, for whom did you first vote?—For Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour.

35,894. In 1865; was that your first vote?—That was my first.

35,895. You had never voted before?—I had never voted before in Totnes.

35,896. You had not a vote then in 1863?—I was not here. I beg your pardon, I had not qualified for it.

35,897. Had you had a vote for Plymouth?—No.

35,898. Where had you manifested that certainty of Liberal opinions we have had imputed to you?—Well, I imbibed it with my mother's milk.

35,899. Had you expressed it by the use of the franchise?—I have always been a Liberal.

35,900. Had you voted for the Liberals anywhere?—Yes, I had.

35,901. Where?—In Monmouthshire.

35,902. (Mr. Coleridge.) One of your sons manages the Liberal elections of Merthyr, does not he?—My brother does.

35,903. (Mr. Bere.) You had, I believe, before the election of 1865 occasion to borrow some money?—I had, unfortunately.

35,904. And you borrowed that from Mr. Edmonds, the solicitor?—I did.

35,905. On what security did you borrow that?—The scrip of a joint stock discount company.

35,906. How many shares had you?—Ninety, 5*l.* a share.

35,907. How long had you had them?—I bought the shares in 1862 or 1863, I believe it was.

35,908. Had you been an original subscriber to the joint stock discount company?—I had not.

35,909. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was it 5*l.* or 5*l.* 10*s.* that was paid?—5*l.* paid.

35,910. (Mr. Bere.) What were the shares?—25*l.*

35,911. (Mr. Coleridge.) It was to meet calls that you borrowed the money?—It was; exactly so.

35,912. (Mr. Bere.) What were the calls?—5*l.* a call.

35,913. And you had to borrow money to pay that?—Yes, for the first call.

35,914. When Mr. Edmonds lent you the money did you give him a note of hand?—Yes, there was a note of hand, and also there was a document drawn. I do not know what Mr. Edmonds may call it.

35,915. Was it a bond?—We will call it a bond, or something to that effect.

35,916. (Mr. Coleridge.) Beginning, "Know all "men by these presents"?—Yes, I dare say.

35,917. With a stamp on?—With a stamp on.

35,918. (Mr. Bere.) What made you go to Mr. Edmonds?—He was the only solicitor that called on me when I came here, and I told Mrs. James when I first got notice of this call, "Well, my dear," I said, "I will call on Mr. Edmonds, he was kind enough to "call upon us when we came, and we will see if he "can help us," and I did so.

35,919. Then you called on him and asked him to advance the money?—I called on him and asked if he could advance a few hundreds to meet my call. I did not like to trouble my friends.

35,920. Did you say you wanted that 100*l.* or 200*l.* only a short time?—I may have said so, but I do not remember it.

35,921. Had not you an expectation of being relieved from the difficulty you were under in a short time?—I had this expectation, that the shares would have advanced in the market, and that I should have been able to lower my responsibility, and so dispose of a certain number of them to repay the loan to Mr. Edmonds.

35,922. There was nothing in your financial position at that time to make it unlikely that you should have said the loan was for a short time only?—Excuse me, I do not see the drift of your question. Repeat it again and I will tell you.

35,923. Was there anything in your financial position that would make it unlikely that the money you wanted from Mr. Edmonds would be wanted for a short time only?—I wanted it for a short time only, that is to say, 12 or 18 months.

35,924. Did not you say three months?—Oh, no; most decidedly not. I absolutely deny it. Upon my sworn evidence I deny it.

35,925. What was the time of the promissory note?—It was on demand.

35,926. When was that given?—It was given the 8th day, if I remember, of November.

35,927. That was 1864?—1864. That was, the call was due the 10th. I merely wanted the money in time to remit it to London.

35,928. You paid your call, and found that the shares did not go up?—The shares got up in the course of a short time, but never reached the point which I gave for them, never touched it. They never rose to par, with the exception of one day, and one day only.

35,929. Finding that you could not sell your shares, did you ever meet Mr. Edmonds in the street and express your sorrow that you had not been able to pay the loan?—Never.

35,930. (Mr. Bere.) Did Mr. Edmonds tell you whose money he had advanced to you?—I understood it was Mrs. Michelmore's.

35,931. What interest were you to give him?—5*l.* per cent.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

Rev. H. James.

4 Sept. 1866.

35,932. Before three months had elapsed after November 1864 the shares had gone down, had they not?—The shares had gone up.

35,933. Had not they gone down again before that time?—They were at a very low ebb when I borrowed the money. They sunk from 5 in the market down to $2\frac{1}{2}$; they were unsaleable.

35,934. (Mr. Coleridge.) They fell on the call?—Exactly so.

35,935. (Mr. Bere.) When did you pay Mr. Edmonds any interest?—I paid him the interest at the end of the half-year, at least a few days afterwards.

35,936. Where did you pay him?—In his office.

35,937. At that time did he say anything to you about the repayment of the principal?—Nothing; not a word.

35,938. Are you quite certain he did not say to you that the money ought to have been paid long ago?—Told me the money ought to have been paid a long time ago?

35,939. Yes?—Nothing of the kind. I absolutely deny anything of the kind taking place.

35,940. This is what Mr. Edmonds has sworn, and I will read it to you, "Q. How long before the election "had you lent him that money?—A. I think in the "month November 1864. Q. Had he paid the interest "regularly?—A. It was a loan for three months. At the "end of the three months I met him in the street, and "he said, 'I am sorry I have not been able to repay you "'that money, but the shares in the Discount Com-"'pany are down, and it would be the ruination of me "'to be obliged to sell them at the present time,' and "he would be glad if I would let it stand over for a "short period, and I agreed to let it stand over." Is that statement true or false?—It is false.

35,941. "At the end of the six months he paid me "the interest?"—I did; that is true.

35,942. "And I said the money ought to have been "paid as I had told my client it was only a temporary "affair and I had really become responsible." Is that true? Did he ever say anything of that sort to you?—Never anything of the kind.

34,943. When was it that you learnt from him that it was not his money he had advanced, but the money of a client?—I cannot remember that.

35,944. But you must remember it?—I beg your pardon. Let me hear it again.

35,945. When did he tell you that the money he had advanced for you was not his money, but money belonging to a client?—I really cannot answer such a question. I do not remember when it took place. I cannot, really.

35,946. Was it at the time you borrowed it or after you borrowed it?—Well, if it was at any time it must have been at the time I borrowed it.

35,947. But you told me yourself this minute you knew it was not Mr. Edmonds', but Mrs. Michelmore's?—Exactly so.

35,948. When did he tell you that. Did he at any time?—I believe he did, but you ask me the time when I really cannot tell you that. My memory sometimes, unfortunately, betrays me, and I cannot tell you indeed.

35,949. You see the time makes all the difference, when you were told that, because you might have thought, and thought fairly, it was Mr. Edmonds' money, and as he was a friend of yours it was his own money and he might have given you time for repayment, but if you had known the money was that of a client he was liable to have that money at any time recalled to him. So it makes all the difference as to the time he made the communication to you that it was the money of a client?—I cannot be positive.

35,950. You have been able to state positively on oath that the particular conversation did not take place. Did not you read the promissory note before you signed it?—No, I think not.

35,951. To whom was the promissory note payable?—To Mrs. Michelmore, to the best of my recollection.

35,952. Have you the promissory note now?—No, I have not.

35,953. It was handed back to you?—It was handed back to you.

35,954. What did you do with it when it was handed back to you. Is not it in your possession?—No.

35,955. What did you do with it when the promisory note was handed back?—It may have been destroyed, it is very likely.

35,956. Did you destroy it yourself?—It is very likely I did. Oh, it is destroyed.

35,957. What makes you say that?—Well, I believe it is.

35,958. Because you cannot find it. What paper was that your son gave you just this minute that makes you say that note has been destroyed?—These (referring to packet of papers) are the receipts that you requested.

35,959. Let me see them. (They were handed to the Commissioners.) How came you to think that the promissory note would be in the possession of any of the officers of the Commission?—I sent you all the papers I possibly had in my possession about this affair.

35,960. (Mr. Coleridge.) These (referring) are other things mixed up with it?—Yes; you asked for all the receipts for the six months, and there they are.

35,961. (Mr. Bere.) You must have known at the time you gave that note that it was not Mr. Edmonds' own money, but money belonging to a client. Did not the knowledge that it was money advanced through Mr. Edmonds by a client make you think that it might be asked for early?—No, I did not; no it, was not my impression.

35,962. Then do I understand you to say that at the time you paid that interest Mr. Edmonds did not tell you that he had told his client that it was a temporary loan, and that he had himself become responsible for it?—Certainly not.

35,963. Certainly not?—No.

35,964. At that time did you say anything about the shares when you paid the interest?—I have no recollection.

35,965. Did you say this after some conversation with him, "Well, the shares are still very low, and if "you can let the matter stand over I shall be very glad "indeed"?—I have not the slightest recollection of it.

35,966. Will you swear you did not say so?—(No answer.)

35,967. (Mr. Coleridge.) Mr. Edmonds has sworn that you did?—I can swear that I did not say so.

35,968. That you did not say so?—That I did not say so.

35,969. Did you say this to him, "I feel you have "been a friend to me, and if I can return you the "favour I shall be glad to do it"?—I have not the slightest recollection of saying that.

35,970. He had been a friend in need to you?—He had simply advanced me this small sum of money.

35,971. Did you really imagine that the deposit of shares in the Joint Stock Discount Company was any security at all?—Most unquestionably.

35,972. With 5*l.* called and 15*l.* not paid up?—Mr. Edmonds expressed himself perfectly satisfied with it at the time, or else he would not have taken them.

Mr. Michelmore.

MR. JEFFERY MICHELMORE was recalled.

35,973. (Mr. Bere.) There are some other things we want from you. We want your correspondence with Mr. Alfred Seymour, or any correspondence that took place between your office and Mr. Alfred Seymour, since September 1862, and we also want your account of the distribution of the money paid over by Mr. Seymour to you or to your father at the last election, and private letter book?—You have the cash book.

35,974. All the accounts for the 1862 election?—That is the only cash book we have.

35,975. Do you mean you have not a private cash book of your own?—You will find all the accounts in that book.

35,976. You keep a private letter book?—No; no letter book whatever.

35,977. Do you mean that the letters you have handed in are all the letters that passed between you and the Duke of Somerset?—All that are in existence. We do not keep a letter book.

35,978. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you not keep a press letter book?—No.

35,979. Perhaps you have the letters by themselves?—That is the way we always keep our letters.

35,980. Then we should like to see all those, and the registration expenses since 1863; but in your cash book the registration expenses are charged against the duke up to the end of 1863, and we want the particulars of those registration expenses. And I ask you this question, since 1863 have the registration expenses been charged to Mr. Seymour?—Yes.

35,981. Then we want the particulars of the payments by Mr. Seymour of the registration expenses since 1863, and by the Duke of Somerset before 1863; and all the letters that passed between Mr. Seymour and your firm and the duke and your firm.

The Rev. W. H. James' examination resumed.

35,982. (Mr. Bere.) This conversation did not pass you say between you and Mr. Edmonds. Did any conversation to any such effect pass between you and him?—I have not the slightest recollection of it.

35,983. Will you undertake to say it did not?—Well, I may.

35,984. But will you?—Well, I would.

35,985. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was anyone ever present at these conversations?—No.

35,986. Any of them?—No.

35,987. Had you any conversation with Mr. Edmonds on this subject when anyone else was present at any time?—I have not any recollection of it.

35,988. (Mr. Bere.) Had not there been a conversation at the time of borrowing the money between you and Mr. Edmonds as to the rate of interest to be paid?—Five per cent. was agreed on.

35,989. Had you offered six per cent.?—No.

35,990. Are you quite sure about that; and did not Mr. Edmonds say five per cent. is the proper rate of interest you must pay?—No.

35,991. Did you offer to pay six?—No.

35,992. Have you got an account at the bank?—I had.

35,993. Why not go to your bankers?—The rate of interest was too high.

35,994. In November 1864?—At least I think so; besides it would not do to go to the bank for a temporary loan.

35,995. It was to be a temporary loan?—Yes, for 12 months or so.

35,996. Do you call 12 months a temporary loan?—I do.

35,997. At a bank?—You asked me why I went to the bank.

35,998. No, I ask you why you did not go to the bank?—I never thought of going to the bank.

35,999. Had not you been to the bank at all to ask whether they would not lend you the money to meet the call?—Not before I went to Mr. Edmonds, I think not.

36,000. Did you go at any time?—I really cannot remember.

36,001. Do you mean to say you cannot remember whether you went to two people to ask for a loan for the same purpose?—I have not the slightest recollection that I went to the bank to ask for such a sum of money.

36,002. Did you or not?—I cannot remember.

36,003. What is your bank here?—The National Provincial.

36,004. Did not you see Mr. Yabbicom and tell him that you had to meet the call on these shares, and ask him how you were to manage it?—I may have done so.

36,005. Did not you do so, and did not he tell you it was a security he could not advance money on, and that you had better get it from some friend?—I may have done.

36,006. Did not you do so?—I may have done so, but I cannot recollect all the little circumstances about it. I was terribly knocked up at the time.

36,007. You must remember that your oath and Mr. Edmonds' are in opposition upon certain small circumstances?—That I deeply regret.

36,008. And in other small circumstances you are uncertain, so that we cannot trust yours in those where your memory and Mr. Edmonds' conflict?—I may have consulted Mr. Yabbicom at the time.

36,009. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do not you recollect having a conversation with Mr. Yabbicom?—I cannot recollect the identical conversation.

36,010. Did not you have that conversation with Mr. Yabbicom on the subject?—Yes, I consulted him on the subject; yes, yes, I consulted him on the subject.

36,011. (Mr. Bere.) You said in answer to a question of mine you would not think of going to the bank for such a loan, when it turns out you consulted Mr. Yabbicom on it?—Why, I could not possibly afford to pay the banking charges.

36,012. What did Mr. Yabbicom say to you?—I quite forget.

36,013. What was the rate of bank interest at that time?—I cannot remember.

36,014. What did Mr. Yabbicom ask you for commission?—I have not the slightest recollection.

36,015. Now was any application made to you about the money before you received Mr. Edmonds' letter after the election of 1865?—I had only one application to me for the money.

36,016. Before the election of 1865 had you been canvassed by the Conservative candidates?—Yes, I had.

36,017. Who had given a call on you in their behalf?—Captain Pim came.

36,018. Did Captain Pim come before or after Colonel Dawkins?—I cannot possibly state which came first.

36,019. Can you remember who came with Colonel Dawkins to you?—Mr. Murchison came with—Colonel Dawkins?

36,020. Colonel Dawkins I asked you?—Mr. Frederick Kellock came, and also another gentleman; I forget his name at this moment.

36,021. Did any conversation take place between you and these gentlemen?—Very little.

36,022. Where did it take place?—In my drawing room.

36,023. What was the conversation that took place?—The conversation with Captain Pim was, I think, exclusively confined to Mrs. James.

36,024. What conversation occurred between you and Colonel Dawkins when Mr. Kellock was present?—The conversation was very general.

36,025. What was it about?—I cannot tell you; I quite forget; it was very unimportant.

36,026. Did you not inform Colonel Dawkins and Mr. Kellock that you were in pecuniary difficulties?—Not a syllable.

36,027. That you swear?—I swear I never gave them the slightest hint about it, for I was not in difficulties at that time.

36,028. In what state were the shares of the Joint Discount at that time?—At a very fair price.

36,029. Why did you not sell them to pay off your debt to Mr. Edmonds?—That was my misfortune.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

Rev. V. H. James.

4 Sept. 1866.

36,030. Had you not a conversation about these very shares ?—With whom ?

36,031. Mr. Kellock ?—Not a syllable.

36,032. Or with Colonel Dawkins ?—Not a syllable.

36,033. What was your conversation about ?—It was very general; I have no recollection of what it was about.

36,034. When did Captain Pim call on you ?—A day or two before the election.

36,035. Did he call with Mr. Murchison ?—Yes.

36,036. Was James Heath outside the door ?—I saw him there after they left my house.

36,037. What did you talk to Captain Pim about ?—I said very little to him indeed; his conversation was entirely confined to Mrs. James.

36,038. Did you hear what passed between him and Mrs. James ?—I have no recollection of what it was about.

36,039. Had you any conversation about money matters ?—None whatever, not a single syllable.

36,040. Did you hear what passed between Captain Pim and Mrs. James ?—I did.

36,041. What was it ?—The conversation, I believe, was very general. He told her who his first love was, and such nonsense as that; he rattled away as sailors generally do.

36,042. Did you tell him who your first love was in electioneering matters ?—I did not.

36,043. On your oath did you not allow Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim to go away with the impression that you would vote for them ?—I gave them not the slightest reason to anticipate it.

36,044. That you swear ?—I do swear it positively.

36,045. Did you give them any reason to believe you would not vote against them ?—None whatever; they never asked me for my vote.

36,046. Do you mean to tell us they came to see you for the pleasure of your conversation, and not to canvass you ?—I do not know about the pleasure of my conversation; they never canvassed me.

36,047. How was any person to know which side you were going to vote ?—I was a Liberal when I came to Totnes, and I defended my vote.

36,048. To whom had you expressed your Liberal feelings ?—To Mr. Bentall, for one gentleman, in most unmistakeable terms, and to Mr. Bastard too.

36,049. To either of the Mr. Kellocks ?—Mr. Kellock knew I was not a Conservative.

36,050. How did he know that ?—From the conversation which once took place between us.

36,051. What conversation was that ?—It was some time after I came to Totnes.

36,652. When did you first get on the register ?—I cannot give you the exact date.

36,053. Was it in the end of 1863 or 1864 ?—I think I was put on the register in 1864.

36,054. Was there an objection taken to your vote ?—There was.

36,055. Was that objection argued before the barrister ?—It was.

36,056. What was the objection ?—As far as my memory serves me, about a rate which was left unpaid in the house, and which I did not pay and would not pay. That was the objection. If I am wrong let me be corrected.

36,057. Did the barrister overrule the objection and allow your vote ?—Yes.

36,058. Was it the Conservatives who took the objection ?—Yes.

36,059. Had you ever voted in the election for the council ?—Never.

36,060. As far as as your voting went in Totnes, you had never shown in that way your Liberal tendencies ?—I never took an active part in any election. I simply recorded my silent vote and walked home again.

36,061. Your Liberal tendencies not having been proclaimed by your voting, do you still mean to say that Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim did not come to canvass you for your vote ?—They never did.

36,062. What do you mean by canvassing for a vote ?—Asking me to vote for them.

36,063. They did not express a hope that you would not vote against them ?—They might have expressed a hope, but I gave them not the slightest encouragement to expect it.

36,064. Did you not tell them you would not vote against them ?—No.

36,065. Did Mrs. James ?—Nothing of the kind.

36,066. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did they canvass Mrs. James ?—I believe not. Captain Pim told Mrs. James one very significant thing, "If I am here with you "long you will turn me too."

36,067. Were you canvassed by Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour before or after Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim ?—I did not see Mr. Pender at all in my house. He called three times, but I happened to be engaged and did not see him.

36,068. Did he see Mrs. James ?—No.

36,069. Or your son ?—He was not there.

36,070. Where did he see you at any time ?—I believe, to the best of my recollection, that I met him in the street. Of that I have a very indistinct recollection.

36,071. When was that; how long before the election ?—It might have been a day or two, or three days.

36,072. Did you speak to him as to how you were going to vote ?—I promised Mr. Pender my vote.

36,073. When did you promise him that ?—During that time.

36,074. Was that after Colonel Dawkins' visit or before ?—I cannot tell you.

36,075. You must tell us that. At the time Colonel Dawkins called on you had you promised your vote to the other side ?—I promised it to the Liberals.

36,076. To whom ?—To Mr. Pender.

36,077. When had you seen Mr. Pender to give that promise ?—A day or two before; I cannot say.

36,078. Was it a day or a week before the election ?—It may have been a week; I cannot possibly say the exact time.

36,079. Will you undertake to say that you promised or told Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim that you promised your vote to the other side ?—They never asked me for my vote, and there was no necessity to answer them.

36,080. Do you really mean to tell us that two candidates for the representation of the borough, who knew nothing of you, called on you and did not ask you how you were going to vote ?—They did not ask me for my vote.

36,081. Did they ask someone in your presence ?—I do not know; I can only answer for myself.

36,082. (Mr. Longe.) Captain Pim says in his evidence, "He gave us a hope that we should have his "vote" ?—I gave them no such hope.

36,083. (Mr. Coleridge.) You stated that Captain Pim said to your wife, "If I stay here much longer, "you will convert me" ?—They were not talking of politics; but you can take Mrs. James's evidence.

36,084. What was it that made Captain Pim say this to Mrs. James ?—I really cannot tell you; it is useless pressing me in this way.

36,085. You recollect the expression, "If I stay "here much longer you will convert me;" what led to Captain Pim's saying that ?—As far as I recollect, Captain Pim was descanting on some topic or other; I am not prepared to state on oath what it was.

36,086. What made Captain Pim say, "You will "convert me if I stay here much longer;" you must remember that ?—I do not remember.

36,087. I do not ask you the words; what was the topic which made Captain Pim say to Mrs. James, "If I stay here much longer you will convert me" ?—I do not know whether or not it was an allusion to the contest which took place some years ago in Monmouthshire.

36,088. That was a political conversation ?—Yes, it was political.

36,089. Did they ask you how you had voted then ?—That I cannot say.

36,090. Were you talking to Colonel Dawkins at this time?—Colonel Dawkins was not with Captain Pim.

36,091. Whom were you talking to when Mrs. James was talking to Captain Pim?—I had some conversation with Mr. Murchison.

36,092. Did Mr. Murchison say he hoped you would vote for his friend Captain Pim?—Nothing of the sort.

36,093. What brought them there?—I cannot tell you.

36,094. Did not Captain Pim say he was going to stand for Totnes?—Nothing of the sort.

36,095. You had met him in the street some few days before, what did he say to you then?—What I hope no man will ever say to me again.

36,096. What did he say?—He asked me for my vote, and I complained that I had been ill used by the other side, or by the opposite party.

36,097. When was this conversation?—Some two or three days before the election.

36,098. Was that before or after he had called on you?—Before.

36,099. And then he asked you for your vote?—He asked me for my support.

36,100. So that when he called at your house, having asked you before, he had no need to ask you for your vote?—I told you he never asked me in my own house.

36,101. What does that matter where it was; he asked you for your support, what did you say?—I told him I could not give it to him.

36,102. That you would not give it him, or that you would consider of it?—I said no such thing; I gave him most unmistakeably to understand that I was on the other side.

36,103. Do you recollect what you said?—I cannot.

36,104. What did you say about being ill used by the other side?—He turned round and said to this effect, "What shall we do for you; shall we do any-"thing for you?" I lost my temper, and was it not for the credit of my cloth he would not have asked that question a second time.

36,105. Did he ask you the second time?—No.

36,106. When you lost your temper what occurred, did you part?—We parted.

36,107. He said he was sorry he had put you out?—Nothing of the sort.

36,108. You have not told us how the other side had ill used you?—When I was a clergyman in Wales I had voted for Lord Granville Somerset at the time they attempted to turn him out of the representation of Monmouthshire.

36,109. You voted for the Conservatives at that time?—What of that?

36,110. Was it not so?—He was a Conservative, but he was supported by the Liberals.

36,111. You told us you were known to be a Liberal because you had voted in Monmouthshire?—The Liberals supported Lord Granville Somerset at that election.

36,112. What made you tell Captain Pim that the other side had ill used you?—I then held a church which had been built by Mr. Crawshay Bailey.

36,113. How had you been ill used?—They took away my sacramental plate from me; they deprived me of the use of coal for warming my church; they discharged my clerk; and if they could they would have starved me.

36,114. Mr. Crawshay Bailey is a Liberal, is he not?—I believe not.

36,115. Is he a Conservative?—Yes.

36,116. How do you mean that the other side had ill used you?—I mean the Conservative side; the other side from me.

36,117. Did Colonel Dawkins ever ask you for your vote?—I have no recollection that he did.

36,118. Did he or did he not?—He did not.

36,119. Did you never meet him anywhere?—No.

36,120. Or ask you to support him?—He did not.

36,121. Or hope you would not vote against him?—I have no recollection of it.

36,122. Can you swear he did not?—I cannot swear any more than I have told you.

36,123. Did Colonel Dawkins have any conversation with you about your vote, or how you were going to vote?—Not in my own house.

36,124. I did not ask that?—I do not remember having any conversation with him on the subject.

36,125. Or about your politics?—None.

36,126. Or whether you would vote for the Liberal party or not?—None.

36,127. (Mr. Bere.) Before the election did you receive this note from Mr. Edmonds?—I received this note.

36,128. You received a note to this effect:—

"Totnes, July 12th, 1865.

"My dear Sir,

"Being especially interested in the result of this election, I would ask you as a favour of the most deeply personal kind not to vote against Colonel Dawkins, but, if possible, to give him your support.

"Yours very truly,

"T. H. Edmonds.

"The Rev. W. H. James, Totnes."

Yes, I did.

36,129. That was on the day of the election?—Yes.

36,130. What time did you get that?—About 6 in the morning.

36,131. Was that brought you by some messenger?—I cannot tell you by whom.

36,132. What did you do?—I got up and dressed myself.

36,133. What did you do then?—I went down to the "Seymour" and saw Mr. Pender.

36,134. And shewed him that letter?—I did.

36,135. What did Mr. Pender say to you?—Mr. Pender expressed his indignation at the proceeding.

36,136. What did he say besides expressing his indignation?—I cannot exactly tell you the words.

36,137. Did he give you reason to understand that he would pay the debt for you?—Certainly.

36,138. Was that about half-past 7 in the morning?—Yes.

36,139. Before the poll was opened?—Yes.

36,140. And you went up as soon as the poll opened and voted for Pender and Seymour?—I did.

36,141. Mr. Pender having promised you the money, when did you get it?—About 11 or half-past 11 on the same day.

36,142. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you immediately go and pay Mr. Edmonds?—No, I did not.

36,143. When did you pay him?—A few days after.

36,144. (Mr. Bere.) About what time did you vote?—I voted No. 8 I think.

36,145. Are you quite certain about that; in the poll book you are put down as No. 238?—I voted very early.

36,146. Here is the poll book?—I cannot help that.

36,147. Probably it is an error in the poll book, the initials are different. Upon your oath did you not vote after you received the cheque?—Upon my oath I did not vote after I received the cheque. I voted before I received the cheque, and I believe my name stands No. 8 or No. 9.

36,148. Did you vote before you received any money?—I did, long before; hours before.

36,149. (Mr. Coleridge.) You voted after you had received the promise of this money from Mr. Pender?—Exactly so; I admit that.

36,150. It seems a mistake in the poll book; there is another Mr. James?—I voted early; I wished to get through it.

36,151. In what way did you receive the money?—my impression is, that it was one 100*l.* note, one 50*l.* note, and the rest in 5*l.* notes.

36,152. And the rest in gold?—No, no gold.

36,153. Can you recollect the day you paid the money to Mr. Edmonds?—Where is the paper I had in my hand?

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

Rev. W. H. James.

24 Sept. 1866.

36,154. That is not in your handwriting?—That does not matter.

36,155. In point of law it makes all the difference, because you cannot refresh your memory by it?—I repaid Mr. Edmonds on the 24th of July.

36,156. Did you receive a letter on the 18th saying, "I should be glad if in the course of a few days you "could repay the temporary loan I made you last "year"?—I got that note at Plymouth, when I happened to be there.

36,157. On the receipt of that letter did you write the following letter to Mr. Pender:

"Mount Pleasant, Totnes,
"DEAR SIR, "July 24th, 1865.

"MUCH to my surprise Edmonds called up his money. To-day Mrs. James went down to his office and paid him up principal and interest, 232*l.* 8*s.* 6*d.* This conduct is too bad. I can but thank you very much for your help in this matter. Shall I send you some of the scrip of the Joint Stock Discount Company as security, or would you like my note of hand? I should much wish to hold what shares I have till they get to a decent premium, and hope you will have no objection allowing your money to remain with me. I heard from my broker a day or two ago, and he tells me that the account will be a good one. I trust that you have got over the fatigue of the election, and that Mrs. Pender is better. Mrs. James joins me in kind compliments.

"I remain, my dear Sir,
"Yours truly,
"John Pender, Esq. W. H. JAMES."

That is the letter you wrote to him?—It is.

36,158. Had any conversation passed between you and Mr. Pender at the time he promised you the money of what security you were to give him?—The security I offered Mr. Pender was the scrip.

36,159. Had you offered Mr. Pender any security before he promised you the money?—I do not recollect that I had. It all took place in a very short time.

36,160. What do you mean by "Much to your "surprise Mr. Edmonds had called up the money." You borrowed money on the 12th of July to pay him off, was not that in consequence of your expecting Mr. Edmonds to call for his money?—I was very much surprised at Mr. Edmonds calling up his money. I was very much surprised, because he had been on very friendly terms with me, and I thought it a very hard case indeed.

36,161. Why did you tell Mr. Pender you were surprised when you had got his money to repay it?—I merely stated the case to Mr. Pender in order that I might be protected from any sudden demand on me.

36,162. Why did you tell Mr. Pender? What was there in Mr. Edmonds' letter in the nature of a threat?—There was no threat at all.

36,163. Then what made you go to Mr. Pender?—Because it was my impression that Mr. Edmonds would have called up the money if I had not voted for their party.

36,164. Did you go to Mr. Pender and tell him that Mr. Edmonds was putting a pressure on you in order to get your vote?—I never made use of the word pressure.

36,165. What word did you make use of?—I cannot recollect the exact words which I used to express my indignation at the affair.

36,166. At what affair?—At that letter being sent to me.

36,167. What was there in the letter of Mr. Edmonds for you to express indignation at?—I thought he had no business to interfere with my vote.

36,168. How did he interfere with it by that letter?—I looked upon it as an intimidation, and if it was not an intimidation it had something of the appearance of it.

36,169. Then why were you surprised when he called up his money?—Such conduct in my opinion was very dishonourable.

36,170. Did not you say to Mr. Pearce, the manager of the Devon and Cornwall Bank, that you had been threatened by Mr. Edmonds?—I have no recollection of it.

36,171. Did you tell Mr. Pearce, or anyone else that unless you voted for the Conservative candidate Mr. Edmonds had threatened to take proceedings for the recovery of a sum of money due to him?—No, never.

36,172. Mr. Edmonds thought you had said so, and wrote to you for an apology; and in your reply to him you stated that you had made no such charge. Had you not gone to Mr. Pender and told him you considered that letter a threat, which would be carried out if you did not not vote for the Conservative candidate?—I am not aware that I told him that.

36,173. What did you tell him?—I expressed my surprise at the time, and as any man would feel under such circumstances, I expressed my strong indignation at the conduct of Mr. Edmonds. I really cannot say any more.

36,174. What was there in Mr. Edmonds' letter to cause you to be indignant?—Why should he send me up that letter in the morning?

36,175. He sent to ask a favor of you. When you got this money from Mr. Pender, and were in this high state of indignation with Mr. Edmonds, why did you not pay him the money straight off without waiting for him to ask for it?—I never thought of it.

36,176. What did you do with the money?—It was locked up.

36,177. Who locked it up?—I believe Mrs. James locked it up.

36,178. When you did pay Mr. Edmonds, was it in the identical money which you had received from Mr. Bowden?—The very identical money.

36,179. Feeling in that state of indignation with Mr. Edmonds how was it that you did not pay him the money at once?—Because I was in very great hopes that Mr. Edmonds would not have called up the money.

36,180. If he had not, what should you have done with the money?—I should have returned it by all means; have sent it back.

36,181. Would you not rather have become the creditor of Mr. Pender than have remained that of Mr. Edmonds?—No; I was perfectly satisfied with Mr. Edmonds, and Mr. Edmonds was satisfied with me. I was vexed and annoyed about it.

36,182. It was merely a request of you to give one vote to his party; was that all that made you indignant with him?—Why did he interfere with me?

36,183. He asked you not to vote against Colonel Dawkins; was that the only thing which made you indignant with him?—I thought it was a matter of indignation.

36,184. Was that the only thing in which Mr. Edmonds had annoyed you?—No, not at all.

36,185. Had he canvassed you personally?—I do remember that he had been at my house.

36,186. The sole cause of your indignation was that he had requested you not to vote against Colonel Dawkins?—I was annoyed at it.

36,187. You were not so very indignant after all?—I am not easily put out.

36,188. You did not think it necessary to repay Mr. Edmonds; you kept the money locked up?—I should have preferred it if Mr. Edmonds had not called it up.

36,189. When you had got the money from Mr. Pender to meet the chance of the demand of Mr. Edmonds what made you so surprised when Mr. Edmonds did make the demand?—It was very extraordinary conduct in any person having lent you money on what might be considered good and decent security, that they should call it up immediately after the circumstance of your not voting for their party.

36,190. What did Mr. Pender say about the security?—He was perfectly satisfied with it. There was a certain number of scrip put into an envelope and marked.

36,191. Where are they?—They are now at my house.

36,192. Mr. Pender has never had them?—No, never.

36,193. He did not think the security worth having; is that it?—I do not know.

36,194. This security, which was so very good that Mr. Yabbicom would not lend any money on, was all you tendered to Mr. Pender?—That is all.

36,195. At this moment he holds no security at all?—None whatever.

36,196. (Mr. Bere.) Did you write a letter of the 26th July 1865, to Mr. Pender to this effect: "I here- "by certify that I hold Joint Stock Disct. Co. shares, "numbered 49,786, 49,795, 79,396, and 79,435, on "your account, an advance of 235*l.* having been "made to me by you, on which interest will be paid "half-yearly until the above sum is repaid. If the "above form does not meet your views I will adopt "any one you send me. All I wish to have done in "this matter is the saving expense." Is this a letter you received from Mr. Pender in answer. "July 29th "1865. I have your favour of yesterday, which is "quite satisfactory. I have no idea of putting you "to any expense. The security is quite safe in your "hands. I hope in time that you will be able to "repay me out of the winnings. Yours very truly, "John Pender." That is the letter you received from Mr. Pender in answer?—Yes; that is the letter.

36,197. Was it not understood between you and Mr. Pender that unless the Joint Discount Company turned out a good speculation you were not to repay the money at all?—No, nothing of the sort.

36,198. Be particular, I used the word understood not expressed?—No, nothing of the kind.

36,199. Do you believe you will be called on to repay that money?—Unquestionably, no doubt of that.

36,200. (Mr. Longe.) As to your conversation with Mr. Pender on the morning of the election?—I cannot give it you word for word, the principal thing I impressed on Mr. Pender was simply this; the money had only been borrowed for a short space of time. I had been a heavy sufferer, and I begged and entreated of him not to put me to any additional expense.

36,201. What expense had you been put by Mr. Edmonds?—About 3*l.*

36,202. What ground had you for telling Mr. Pender that Mr. Edmonds wanted the money repaid. You told us nothing took place about his requiring payment of the money. This letter does not exhibit the slightest symptom of a threat; you go to Mr. Pender and make a grievance of this letter?—I anticipated that it would have been recalled; I was afraid of it.

36,203. You knew it was a temporary loan?—Exactly so.

36,204. That it was a loan only from day to day?—Not exactly of so brief a character as that.

36,205. (Mr. Bere.) Have you paid interest regularly up to this time on the 235*l.*?—Yes, I have; I believe you have the receipts.

36,206. Is your house your own?—It is my own in a great measure, I am thankful to say.

36,207. Do you happen to remember that you gave the money you received from Mr. Pender to Mrs. James?—Yes I do.

(Mrs. James). Mr. Pender gave it to me.

(Mr. Bere). This inquiry must be conducted regularly.

(Mrs. James). But I must be heard on the facts.

(Mr. Bere). We must conduct this inquiry as we please.

(Mrs. James). But the truth must come out.

(The witness). Will you allow me to make one remark. My memory has become exceedingly defective, and has been for some years, and I must beg the court therefore to put the best construction that it can upon my apparent hesitation that I may have in answering the questions.

36,208. (Mr. Bere.) I will put the case plainly before you. Certain allegations have been made in this court. Circumstances have been alleged which you have been examined about. You have given in some instances a denial of those circumstances, and we must in the proper discharge of our duties as Commissioners determine by all the means we have, if we have any means in our power, which of the two persons who have made statements on oath is speaking the truth, and therefore if you cannot trust your recollection do not depose to any fact that you are not certain about.—I shall not do so; certainly not.

36,209. Was Mrs. James with you in that interview with Mr. Pender?—She was.

36,210. Did she actually receive the notes?—She received the notes.

36,211. The notes that she received and afterwards paid to Mr. Edmonds were in all probability the notes that she had on that occasion?—Exactly so.

36,212. Did you see the notes yourself?—I did

36,213. Now I am going to call your attention to a serious charge that you have made against Mr. Edmonds, namely, that on one of those notes there was a name endorsed?—There was a name upon a note sent up to me for my endorsement.

36,214. In the number of notes that either you or Mrs. James received, was not there a 50*l.* note with an endorsement upon it?—That I cannot swear to.

36,215. Will Mrs. James be prepared to swear to that.

(Mrs. James). Yes.

36,216. (Mr. Bere.) Did you make a charge against Mr. Edmonds that he had forged the name upon one of those notes?—

(The witness). No.

36,217. Or that he had substituted one note for the other?—There was a charge made that the notes were forged.

36,218. Who made that?—I did.

36,219. On what ground did you make that charge?—I supposed it.

36,220. What made you suppose it?—Because there was an air of mystery thrown upon that note, and mystery was attached to it which I never attached.

36,221. Probably you knew nothing about it?—No.

36,222. There was a great deal of mystery attached to that note?—Yes.

36,223. Have you a brother, Charles Herbert James?—Yes.

36,224. Is he a solicitor, at Merthyr Tydvil?—Yes.

36,225. Did you authorize him to write certain letters to Mr. Edmonds?—Yes.

36,226. Not only authorized him to write those letters, but did you see a letter sent by him to you, and forwarded by you to Mr. Edmonds?—Yes, I did.

36,227. When was the accusation originally made?—Early in the year.

36,228. In this year?—I believe so.

36,229. Was it not made by you before the petition?—About the time of the petition.

36,230. Was it not before the committee sat?—Not before.

36,231. Is this the letter you authorized your brother to write. "Merthyr Tydvil, 19th April "1866.—Sir, What my brother means to say is this, "that you sent a note to him, to be endorsed by him, "which he had not paid to you, and that you used "such note before the committee. It will be well to "have the matter well aired, and that, if possible, "before the bill for redistribution of seats is gone on "with, so that we may, if possible, get rid of those "places that are such a stigma to the English name. "You can send me any process." Did you see that letter?—I saw that letter.

36,232. Was that letter intended to induce Mr. Edmonds to bring an action for libel?—No, not to my knowledge.

36,233. Did you at that time believe that Mr. Edmonds had forged the note?—I did believe that there had been some foul play about it.

36,234. Mr. Edmonds wrote this answer "Sir, You

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

Rev. W. H. James.

24 Sept. 1866.

" must be well aware that your letters are so written " and your charge made in such a way that I cannot " use it against your brother in a court of law, the " communication made by him to you being in the " first place privileged, and in the second place not " a sufficient publication to bring it within the reach " of the law of libel. I must therefore at present " content myself with stating that I most indignantly " deny the gross imputation which you have attempted " to cast upon me."

36,235. Did you receive after that letter a letter from your brother, dated the 23rd April 1866, enclosing this letter (referring) ?—I did.

36,236. "The enclosed will show that Mr. Edmonds " declines a move at present. What does Pengilley say " to his signature to a 50*l.* note. He can't sign so many " as not to know when and where he signed this one."

36,237. Had you either before you made this charge or after you had made the charge inquired of Pengilley whether he had signed the note?—I had not. I had not seen him at all.

36,238. Now I asked you a question some time ago about your house. Had you bought your house ?—I had agreed to buy it.

36,239. Have you ever completed the agreement for the purchase?—I have completed the agreement.

36,240. Have you paid the money ?—Not the whole of it. I have paid 200*l.*

36,241. Did you ever wish to sell it ?—I did.

36,242. Did you ever express that wish to Mr. Evan Evens ?—Yes, I have.

36,243. Did you mention the sum that you wanted for it ?—No.

36,244. Did you never say to him that you wanted 700*l.* for it ?—No, I distinctly deny it.

36,245. Had you spent any money on the house ?—Yes, a good deal.

36,246. What had you agreed to give for it ?—400*l.*

36,247. Had you been enabled to make it worth 700*l.* ?—I spent 150*l.*

36,248. That would make it worth 550*l.* ?—Yes.

36,249. Did you mention any sum to Mr. Evan Evens as the value of what you thought the house was ?—I have not the slightest recollection.

36,250. Would you undertake to say you did not ?—I think I may.

36,251. Did you see Mr. Evan Evens at all before the election of 1865 ?—Yes.

36,252. At his shop ?—Yes ; that was in the month of April.

36,253. Did you talk to him about selling the house then ?—This conversation took place on the 5th of April to which you allude now.

36,254. What conversation do you allude to ?—The conversation that he represented took place.

36,255. You have read his evidence ?—Yes, I have.

36,256. Having read his evidence, did any such conversation take place about the selling of your house ?—Yes.

36,257. What was that conversation ?—If you will allow me a moment or two, I will state to you what I said.

36,258. Certainly.—I called there to have a lease signed on the 5th day of April, and I asked Evens the simple question in conversation, " Mr. Evens, if you " hear of any person likely to buy my house, let me " know," and to my very great surprise, and to my very great annoyance, in the course of that conversation he asked me one question, I think of it with great pain to myself to the present day, " I suppose, Mr. James," he said, " you would not vote against any person that " bought your house ?" I shook my head ; the conversation ended, and it was never renewed, never ; no mention about the price ; nothing of the sort.

36,259. Did you not say, at that conversation, "I " shall not be particular which way I vote " ?—Never said anything of the sort.

36,260. Did you mention what you wanted for your house ?—I have no recollection that I did so.

36,261. Did you say that you wanted a profit ?—I believe not ; the conversation was a very brief one, and it took place in about three or four minutes.

36,262. Did you not say the house had cost you 400*l.*, that you had spent 150*l.*, and you wanted a profit ?—That is impossible, because I had not spent it then.

36,263. Did you not say you had paid 400*l.* for it, and you wanted a profit on 400*l.* ?—I had not spent it.

36,264. Had you made any improvements in your house ?—I was about them.

36,265. Had you contracted at all ?—I had.

36,266. For the sum of 150*l* ?—Oh, no.

36,267. How much ?—About 75*l.* the contract.

36,268. Then it has been doubled ?—Yes ; at all events, I was summing up the whole the other day, and I spent as near as possible a sum of 150*l.* on my house.

36,269. How much before the election of 1865 ?—I believe I paid it all.

36,270. This conversation with Mr. Evens was in the April of 1865 ?—Yes, in April.

36,271. At that time had you not paid the 150*l.* ?—No, I had not paid it.

36,272. Nearly ?—Yes ; at least the tradesmen's bills had not been rendered.

36,273. You knew the improvements would cost you about 150*l.* ?—Not then. I anticipated that they would cost about 100*l.*

36,274. I will read you what Mr. Evan Evens has sworn to :—" I really forget the exact time. I might " have had some conversation with him. Q. Something " about the sale of a house ?—A. I heard him say he " would be happy to sell his house if I knew anyone " of my own party or any other person who would " buy it. Q. Was he particular that it should be " some one of your party ?—A. He had no objection " to my suggesting it to my friends. Q. Did he say " what he wanted for it ?—A. He said he wanted " 700*l.* Q. What had he given for it ?—A. I have " heard he gave 400*l.* Q. So that if anyone would " give him a profit of 300*l.* he should be happy to " dispose of it ?—A. Yes ; but he had made many " improvements in it. Q. Did he say that if he got " 700*l.* he would not be particular on which side he " voted, or even in going away ?—A. He said he " should not be particular or care on which side he " voted provided he got 700*l.* for his house. This is " really a breach of confidence in my telling what " took place in my own shop. Q. We must not have " any breach of confidence complained of here. Did " he not say that he would either go away and not " vote, or he was not particular on which side he " voted if he could get this money for his house ?—" A. I do not think that he suggested leaving the " town. Q. He said he should not be particular on " which side he voted ?—A. Yes. Q. He gave you " to understand that he would vote for that side which " purchased his house ?—A. Just so, at that time." Is that a true or a false representation of what took place ?—It is a false representation.

36,275. Was there any conversation about your vote ?—None. Merely allow me to correct myself. The question was put to me, and that is the question I told you of just now ; he asked me, " I suppose, " Mr. James, you would not vote against or oppose any " person that bought your house ?" but, as I told you before, I shook my head most significantly, and I said, " No, I could not do that."

36,276. Did you leave the shop immediately ?—I did.

36,277. Had you any more conversation with him ?—Never, upon that subject.

36,278. Was that the end of the conversation ?—That was the end of it.

36,279. You gave him no reason to believe that you would vote for the person who bought it?—None whatever. None in the slightest degree. I declare solemnly before this court, none whatever.

36,280. (Mr. Coleridge.) There was some mess you got into about the London Joint Stock Discount Company?—There was a difficulty made.

36,281. But I want to know what was the actual name of the Company in which you had shares at the time you wanted to borrow this money of Mr. Edmonds?—The Joint Stock Discount Company. There is no secret about it. It is well known. It is commented on in every paper published in England. It was a regular swindle, and I was one of the parties who suffered.

36,282. You received a letter from Mr. Pender on the 10th March this year on that subject?—Yes.

36,283. "My dear sir,—I have your favour of 8th. "I deeply regret the misfortune that has overtaken "you in connection with the London Joint Stock "Discount, but do not let the loan that I have made "to you on the security of the shares influence you "in any way. You can, if you think it desirable, sell "them. So far, however, as I can learn the business "will not prove so bad as it looks at present, but it is "most difficult to get reliable information. I hold "200 shares, but I am not attempting to sell them at "present. The petition question is very annoying, "but it is done to extort money, but this they will "not succeed in, so they must do their worst." Did you, upon that, sell those shares?—No, I could not; they were too low.

36,284. Nor transfer the security to Mr. Pender?—No.

36,285. They remain as they were, sealed up in an envelope?—Yes.

36,286. Mr. Pender has neither the shares nor a note of hand?—No. He has nothing but my word of honour, and that I will redeem.

Mrs. JANE JAMES sworn and examined. Mrs. J. James.

36,287. (Mr. Bere.) You are the wife of the Rev. Henry James?—I am.

36,288. He has been living in Totnes for about four years?—Four years and a half.

36,289. Were you in the house on the morning of the 12th July when this note was sent to you?—Yes. We were in bed.

36,290. The note was brought up to you?—No; we heard the bell ring. Our room is near the back door and our servant was not up. Mr. James dressed himself, went down, and found the note under the door.

36,291. And then he brought it up?—Yes.

36,292. Was it your suggestion that you should go down to Mr. Pender?—No, it was Mr. James'; but I accorded with it.

36,293. Did you see any peculiar threat in this letter?—I took it as an intimidation. I consider no man has a right to ask another how he intends to vote.

36,294. Had your husband told Mr. Edmonds how he was going to vote?—I do not know at all.

36,295. Had you?—I do not know at all. On the Saturday before the election we met Mrs. Edmonds, and among other things she said, "I am so sorry Mr. "James is not on our side." I said, "Mrs. Edmonds, "we have a side of our own;" and then she began about the duke, and I said, "Would any of your "party behave better if they had the duke's power?"

36,296. Did you tell Mrs. Edmonds which way you were going to vote?—I said we had a side of our own; that meant that we were not on their side, and she said she was so sorry that we were not on their side.

36,297. Were you present when Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim called on your husband?—I was present when Captain Pim and Mr. Murchison called. We were on the green at the flowers; we met them, and returned to the house.

36,298. Do you remember what passed?—Yes. Captain Pim commenced when he sat down by saying, "Oh, he had heard such dreadful things about the Duke of Somerset, in fact, that all his tenants were obliged to go to the same tailor. I said, no doubt he had heard a great deal of untruths; and he commenced directly on politics, and I said, "I cannot "agree with you;" and we talked politics the whole of the time, and I told him what I thought.

36,299. You talked politics the whole time?—Yes, and I told him, Mr. Commissioner, that they had a very offensive man in their employ, that is, the man Harris; that he had behaved very badly to Mr. Slatter.

36,300. Did he speak of it?—I do not know. He told me, as a gentleman, that he would.

36,301. When your husband wanted this money borrowed, did he consult you on the matter?—Yes.

36,302. Did not you recommend him in the first instance to go to the bank?—No, we had employed Mr. Edmonds. He was making a conveyance of the Mount Pleasant property.

36,303. Did you suggest that he should go to Mr. Edmonds?—I do not know.

36,304. Did you happen to know that he went to the bank and saw Mr. Yabbicom?—Mr. James often saw Mr. Yabbicom.

36,305. The bank refused to advance the money?—I believe not. Mr. Yabbicom could not advance more than a certain sum. He was not allowed to do so if he wanted, and I believe Mr. James never spoke to Mr. Yabbicom about advancing the money.

36,306. Mr. Yabbicom will give us his version. You yourself did not go to the bank?—Decidedly not.

36,307. Did you see the note of hand before it was given to Mr. Edmonds?—I saw the paper Mr. Edmonds had drawn out.

36,308. Did you read it?—Yes.

36,309. Do you remember to whom the note was payable?—I believe it was not in the form of a note of hand, to pay anyone at any specific time. It was a paper drawn with a stamp for the money.

36,310. It was to pay any person when they chose to ask for it?—I do not know.

36,311. I want to know what you know yourself?—I wish to give you every statement.

36,312. Do you remember the name of the person to whom it was payable?—It was Mrs. Michelmore's money, I believe.

36,313. Do you know whose name was on the paper?—I believe no one.

36,314. What did you do with the note?—I burnt it. After I paid the money I took it home and burnt it.

36,315. At that time did not you read it?—Yes. But do you suppose that I can recollect all that I read? I have an excellent memory, but documents I cannot keep in my mind.

36,316. Was it not "I promise to pay Mr. Edmonds "or Mrs. Michelmore the sum of 200*l.*"?—It might be.

36,317. Can you say whether it was Mr. Edmonds or Mrs. Michelmore?—I cannot say. I understood it was Mrs. Michelmore's money.

36,318. Which Mrs. Michelmore?—Mrs. Michelmore.

36,319. Did not you know Mrs. Michelmore?—Yes, I knew her well.

36,320. Had you not told her?—Never a word passed between Mrs. Michelmore and me. In fact, Mr. Edmonds called one morning and asked Mr.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

Mrs. J. James.

24 Sept. 1866.

James if a sum of 200*l.* would be of use. It was a larger sum at first which Mr. James asked him to find on interest.

36,321. You knew Mrs. Michelmore was your creditor and not Mr. Edmonds?—I knew that Mr. Edmonds had got it for us as a lawyer.

36,322. Then, going from the borrowing to the repaying, you went to Mr. Pender?—Yes, we did.

36,323. What time did you get down?—I should think about half-past 7.

36,324. Where did you see him?—We were shown upstairs in the sitting room.

36,325. Was he up?—He was at breakfast, and he rose from his breakfast table.

36,326. He spoke to you in the room in which he was taking breakfast?—Yes.

36,327. You were introduced to him in the room on the ground floor?—No, he came out and met us in the passage.

36,328. What passed between your husband and him in that room?—As far as I recollect, Mr. James showed him the note, and said, "Just look and see "what I have received." I cannot swear to the exact words, but to the sense of it I do. And Mr. Pender said, "Well, it is very annoying," or "I am very "angry" (I think that was the expression) "that you are served so.

36,329. What did he say about it?—In fact he did not tell us.

36,330. Do you mean to say you came away without being thoroughly well aware that Mr. Pender would lend the money?—No, I do not mean to say so.

36,331. What did he say he would do then?—In fact he did not tell us. We did not ask him to lend the money.

36,332. Do you mean to say you came away from Mr. Pender without being thoroughly well aware that he would lend the money?—No, I do not say that; he said, "I am very glad you came to me instead of going "elsewhere."

36,333. You came away with the full belief that it would be paid?—Yes.

36,334. And did you part with him on that understanding?—I did.

36,345. What time was the money paid?—It was at about half-past 11, or from that to 12. Do you mean when Mr. Pender brought it?

36,336. Yes.—He brought it up to our house.

36,337. And paid it to you?—He gave it to me.

36,338. What did you do with it?—I went and locked it in the cash box.

36,339. What was it in?—One 100*l.* note, one 50*l.* note, and other small notes, which I could not swear to.

36,340. Was there any gold?—There was not any gold whatever. There may have been a 10*l.* note, but no gold at all.

36,341. What did you do with it?—I put it in the cash box.

36,342. May I ask why you did not go and pay Mr. Edmonds?—Because we thought Mr. Edmonds might think better of it, and if he had done so we did not wish to have any altercation with him, and he would have been our solicitor, as he was before.

36,343. When he wrote the letter of the 18th July, did your husband show it to you?—We were at Plymouth or Stoke, and I saw it immediately.

36,344. Did you repay the money?—On the Monday following Mr. James acknowledged the receipt of the note when we came back, saying it would be paid on Monday at 11 o'clock.

36,345. Did you pay back to Mr. Edmonds exactly the sum of money you received?—I positively swear that; they were all locked in the cash box.

36,346. You took it down yourself?—I took it down myself. I went down to Mr. Edmonds.

36,347. When you were at Mr. Edmonds' office to whom did you pay it?—I paid it to Mr. Edmonds himself. I was there punctually at 11 o'clock; he kept me a quarter of an hour. I went up to the room with him and paid it to him himself.

36,348. Did any conversation take place?—In fact nothing that I recollect.

36,349. Did you count the notes at the time?—Mr. Edmonds counted them; I believe I counted them to him.

36,350. On the 50*l.* note at that time did you see any writing?—I never did at the time I counted them over. I never saw it.

36,351. Was the 50*l.* note a Bank of England note?—It was.

36,352. Did you not take the numbers of the notes?—I never took the numbers.

36,353. In consequence of Mr. Edmonds writing that letter of the 18th of July, asking for the loan to be repaid, you were angry with him, and you ceased to be in friendship with him?—I could not imagine we could continue to employ him as our solicitor.

36,354. Did you write to him, or did your husband?—No.

36,355. Did you not on or about the 12th or 14th of August?—No.

36,356. Just look at that letter (handing a letter to the witness.) Do you know that your husband received such a letter from Mr. Edmonds?—(After reading the letter), I believe we may have received such a letter. Yes, we had such a letter, and Mr. James enclosed a cheque for Mr. Edmonds' bill with his compliments in reply to it.

36,357. That is all that took place?—That is all that took place.

36,358.

"Totnes, August 14th, 1864.—Signed T. H. Edmonds."

"Sir,—Although you expressed yourself to be under a deep obligation to me when I last year procured you the advance of 230*l.*, and although you stated at the time you would only require it for about three or four months, yet because at the expiration of a much longer period I (having an opportunity of putting out the money on good landed security) asked you to repay it, it seems that all sense of obligation fails, and that the friendship which you previously professed towards me suddenly terminates. I had an intimation from Mrs. James (given with no little bitterness of manner,) that as I had called in the money you could not think of allowing me again to act professionally for you, and this morning I received through the Devon and Co. Bank an authority from Mr. Hatter to place the deeds in their hands. Before, however, I can do this it is necessary that I should receive from Mr. Hatter the memorandum I gave him, so that I may be freed from all further responsibility, and in the meantime, as you have intimated that all business relations between us are at an end, perhaps you will be good enough to pay my costs."

This is a copy.—There is an error in it. I will send the original to the Commissioners, I believe it was "three or four months;" and in the original it says "temporary loan," as Mr. James said to me at the time. That is as far as my memory serves me. I cannot swear to it, but you shall have the original letter.

36,359. Why has it not been sent here before?—I did not think it of any consequence; you can have it.

36,360. It makes all the difference between one letter and another?—You can have it, and I believe you will find there is a difference.

36,361. Did Mr. James show you the letter?—Yes, and he immediately drew a cheque and sent it with his compliments.

36,362. He returned no answer to the statement that it was a temporary loan for three or four months?—None whatever; nothing but his compliments with the bill enclosed, which he received back receipted.

36,363. Will you be kind enough to let us have the original?—I will, sir.

36,364. Do you know anything about this conversation between your husband and Mr. Evan Evens?—I was not present, and when we saw the account in the papers we were greatly struck. Mr. James at once said it was a false statement, and was very cross.

36,365. (Mr. Coleridge.) Mrs. James, when you counted the notes over you saw their faces, there might have been writing on the back of any one of them, and you would not have seen it?—I swear I never saw it.

36,366. You did not look at the backs at all?—No, I did not.

36,367. There might have been 20 names and you would not have seen them?—No, I should not.

36,368. (Mr. Bere.) Mrs. James, were you personally acquainted with Mrs. Michelmore?—Very slightly, I have spent the evening in her company.

36,369. You were on visiting terms with her, as a daughter of Mr. Edmonds, did she herself speak to you about money?—No, never. She never spoke to me about money, nor did I to her. Will you allow me to make a statement about Commander Pim?

36,370. (Mr. Coleridge.) What was the conversation that took place that led to what your husband has told us to-day?—We talked over politics altogether, about Lord Palmerston's appointments in the church, and a great many things more than I could repeat. He said they had been trying to persuade our worthy vicar to vote, and he said that Mr. Borrough was perfectly right to do so; he said if he had been alone he should induce him to vote. Mr. Murchison said to him, "What do you mean to do now?" He said, "As an independent gentleman it is a different "thing."

36,371. Was this on the nomination day?—No, Mr. Murchison came in the morning; he had been travelling all night, and he complained of being fatigued. Commander Pim spoke of having lost a great deal of rest, and having had a sick child.

36,372. Do you remember the day?—On Monday.

36,373. Do you remember his leaving the Sunday night?—That I will not be positive about, but it was the day following his arrival here. There were a great many other things said, and when Commander Pim was leaving I said, "I cannot wish you well." Mr. James reproved me, and I said "I cannot wish "you success." And when I was shaking hands I said, "Have I not a right to have an opinion?" and he said, "Yes, you have." Those were his last words.

36,374. (Mr. Bere.) Did he express an opinion that he thought your husband would vote for him?—No, he never asked him to vote. When Mr. Murchison talked a great deal to Mr. James about politics, and that the Tory cause was so much better than that of the Whigs, Commander Pim turned to me and said, "He has brought his statistics along with him from "London.'

36,375. To what do you attribute Commander Pim and Mr. Murchison's visit after your husband refused to vote?—I understood him to say that he had not any hopes; what he meant by it I do not know.

36,376. He has sworn that he has had a reason to hope that he would, did he make any apology for coming?—No, he did not.

36,377. He did not tell you he should come again?—No. When he came he complained of fatigue and want of rest, and we offered him some refreshment.

36,378. What were you given to understand by the second visit?—There was no first visit with Commander Pim, we met him in the street.

36,379. When he came in did he say whether he came to you for the vote?—No he did not; he commenced by finding fault with the duke.

36,380. He was trying to make a prejudice against the duke in his own favour?—I told him when those papers came up to our house it was an annoyance to have them, and I should get them to light the fire with them. There was a great heap of papers.

36,381. You did not care to read them any more than we do?—No.

36,382. Did Colonel Dawkins ever come to your house?—He came once, he was sent by Mr. Frederick Kellock and Mr. Edmonds; the interview was a very short one.

36,383. You do not know anything about that?—I do not.

HOWARD DRAKE PEARCE recalled.

H. D. Pearce.

36,384. (Mr. Bere.) Do you remember on the 12th of July a note being paid to your bank by George Pengilley?—I do.

36,385. A 50*l.* note of the Bank of England?—Yes.

36,386. 0,5847?—I had the number then I did not know him personally.

36,387. Were you present in the bank when that note was paid in?—I was.

36,388. Did you yourself ask George Pengilley to sign his name upon that note?—I did.

36,389. Did he do so?—He did.

36,390. Some time after that did Mr. John Bowden come in with a cheque for 230*l.*?—The same day.

36,391. Did you change the cheque for him?—I did.

36,392. Can you remember what notes you gave him for it?—No, we never took any note of the notes we gave him.

36,393. Have you any doubt that you gave him the note that George Pengilley had paid in among other notes?—I do not remember it personally; we had paid the National and Provincial Bank a note we had to pay them, 800*l.* that day. I must tell you that an accusation has been brought against me by Mr. Tucker, that I obliged a Liberal voter to endorse a 50*l.* note before I cashed it, and further that that note had got into the hands of the Conservative party; he could not have got it without I had given it to him.

36,394. Had you ever given that note to Mr. Edmonds himself?—No.

36,395. Had the note passed into the bank in any way except in the ordinary course of business?—No, it had not.

36,396. Can you at all remember in what notes you paid Mr. Bowden?—I cannot. It is clear that we did pay him 100*l.* and in one 50*l.* and several smaller notes.

36,397. What is the meaning of this entry in the book?—Mr. Bowden pays in gold.

36,398. He drew out in notes?—He drew out in notes.

36,399. You do not adopt the peculiar system adopted at the National and Provincial Bank, of never putting down any notes that you have to do with at election times?—No, I do not. I am not such an electioneerer as Mr. Yabbicom, and I have not had so much practice. We should be found great fault with if we were to do it.

36,400. Did you see Mr. James at any time during this period?—I did shortly after the election.

36,401. Did he come to your bank?—He did.

36,402. Do you remember whether anything passed about the payment of some money?—Yes, he wanted to see me in my room; and in the course of conversation he stated that Mr. Edmonds had served him very shamefully about demanding money of him; and he stated that on the day of the election Mr. Edmonds sent up a note, which was thrown over his garden wall, saying if he did not vote for the Conservatives he would immediately press him for the amount that was due to him.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

H. D. Pearce.

24 Sept. 1866.

36,403. Did he offer to show you the note?—Oh! no.

36,404. Did he say you ought to show it?—No, he did not, he told me he had been used shamefully by Mr. Edmonds.

36,405. How long before the election?—I should imagine about a week.

36,406. Was it between the 12th and 18th of July?—I could not fix the date at all. I am hardly certain that such a transaction took place.

36,407. Would it have been before the end of the month or after?—My impression is it was before.

36,408. Much before?—I think not.

36,409. Did Mr. James tell you the money had been called in by Mr. Edmonds?—I understood from Mr. James on the day of the election this demand was made upon him either to vote for the Conservatives or pay up immediately, otherwise he should issue a writ against him.

36,410. That is what you understood from Mr. James?—Yes.

36,411. I do not know whether you heard Mr. Edmonds' letter to Mr. James read?—I did.

36,412. Should you consider that a threat to issue a writ if he did not pay?—We should consider it so certainly.

36,413. You would?—If we wrote to a man to say he must pay we should not couch it in that way.

36,414. "Being especially interested in the result "of this election I would ask you as a favour of the "most deeply personal kind not to vote against "Colonel Dawkins, but if possible to give him your "support?"—I should certainly not consider that as a threat.

36,415. Is that the sort of letter you would instruct your professional man to write for you to a man who owed you money?—We should dun him rather more than that certainly.

36,416. Have you any doubt from what you have heard about the payment of that note that you paid over to Mr. Bowden this identical note?—I had not the slightest doubt of it until recently, I thought we had paid it to the National and Provincial Bank that day as we had to pay 800*l.*, a balance of 300*l.* and an exchange of 500*l.* But within the last six weeks Mr. Tucker of Ashburton who brought the accusation against me has himself given an explanation of it, that Mr. Pender had given Mr. Bowden a cheque which he had paid into the bank (that is ourselves), and had drawn on the bank and amongst this money was the 50*l.* note, those were taken to the "Seymour," sent by Mr. Pender to Mr. James, and by Mr. James to Mr. Edmonds.

36,417. You cannot give us any more information about these five 100*l.* notes?—I could only do so if I had the cash book.

G. W. Fowle.

GEORGE WEST FOWLE sworn and examined.

36,418. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—A coal merchant.

36,419. Are you the son-in-law of John Wright?—I am.

36,420. How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—I think it was in 1862, I am not sure.

36,421. Did you vote for Mr. Pender then?—No; I was not required to vote. I told Mr. Pender if I was required I should vote for him.

36,422. Was that about the time or afterwards that you had a ship that got into a little difficulty?—I do not recollect. I have not looked at the letters since they have been away from me, I have given them to the Secretary, was it 1862 or 1863.

36,423. In 1863?—In 1863 it must have been I think. September 13th 1864 was the first information I had about it.

36,424. What had you done for Mr. Pender at the election of 1862?—Nothing at all.

36,425. Had you not canvassed for him a bit?—No.

36,426. Do you live with your father-in-law?—No.

36,427. Were you living with him then?—No.

36,428. Was your father-in-law a voter?—I do not know. I do not know how long he had been in the town. I have not lived with him until lately.

36,429. How long have you lived in Totnes?—Only about six years.

36,430. Where do your ships go to?—They are generally employed in the trade between here and London when business is brisk, I send them out for nuts.

36,431. Where was it your ship got in this scrape?—At Dijon, in Spain.

36,432. What was that for?—It appears the vessel was loaded with a cargo of salt, and came from Dublin to go out to Spain after a cargo of nuts. The matter was placed in the hands of a broker in Dublin. It was bound to be in a certain time at Spain to take in a cargo of nuts according to the time charter; he had a short time to do it in. He got to sea; but on the Saturday he went to the broker and asked if he had got all the documents and papers, and when he went to Spain the consul found he was short of the manifest of the cargo.

36,433. That is an important document?—That is to say, that the cargo is of English or Irish manufacture.

36,434. It made all the difference in the duty?—I am not aware of it. The captain writes to me and says that is the fact, and consequently the vessel was detained there. Thereupon the documents are sent over to me; I could not get it done, and blamed the broker for it.

36,435. The end of it was, the ship was detained?—It was.

36,436. Was it fined?—No.

36,437. Did you write to the consul?—I did.

36,438. Before you wrote to the consul did you write to Mr. Pender?—No.

36,439. What did the consul say?—He said the Spanish Government had considered the matter and the vessel had committed a breach of the laws, and she must be detained until the matter was cleared.

36,440. What made you write to Mr. Pender?—For his advice, he being a gentleman whom I knew was well acquainted with shipping.

36,441. What opinion did he give you?—That it was the broker's fault entirely.

36,442. He did not write to the consul for you?—I am not aware that he did.

36,443. What sum of money had you got to pay?—None at all.

36,444. How much had the broker got to pay?—None at all. I am going to try to make him pay by and by.

36,445. What have you paid?—The vessel was released. I belong to a shipping association, and I wrote to the secretary of the association in London, when I found out that Mr. Harris had made this statement about my vessel being in pawn.

36,446. You are in pawn now, I am sorry to say?—It was as utterly unfounded as anything ever was, and untrue. I wrote to the secretary of the society to forward me the documents in his hands that I might take proceedings against the broker.

36,447. What was the end of the business? Did Mr. Pender answer your letter?—I saw him personally at the "Seymour" hotel.

36,448. When was that?—That was before the election of 1865, some considerable time.

36,449. How long before the election?—I cannot exactly say.

36,450. Was it in 1865?—Very likely it was.

36,451. When he came down and gave a fête at the "Castle," was it?—It was before that.

36,452. He was not here in September 1864 or 1865?—It must have been one of those two dates. I went and asked his opinion about the matter, and whether I could not recover against the broker. I asked his advice as I should that of any other gentleman. I said I hoped I did not trouble him. He said, "No, you do not trouble me a bit;" he said, "You come here to ask me to do my duty, and if "you have any grievance I shall be glad to help "you."

36,453. When was that, about?—When I asked the secretary. After seeing Mr. Harris's evidence about my vessel I wrote to the secretary to return me my papers.

36,454. Who is Mr. Wright, of Islington?—A brother-in-law of mine, in London. I asked him to call at the office to ask the secretary to send down the documents.

36,455. "What is more, he has called on me this "morning and has asked permission to publish my "letter of Saturday." What is that?—I have not any other papers than you have there.

36,456. It is a letter of the 3rd of September?—It must be in the other one.

36,457. You have only given me two?—This is the answer to the one you had (handing in a letter).

36,458. Now then, you have done with that. You did not get anything in 1862 and 1863, what did you get in 1865?—100*l.* was given to me to work the election, as they supposed with three voters.

36,459. Who were they?—Wright, Drew, and Tucker, of Cornworthy.

36,460. Whom do you mean by "they"?—Mr. Windeatt was the principal one.

36,461. There were a good many other people there, was Mr. Chaster there?—Yes.

36,462. Was Mr. Brooking Cuming there?—Where?

36,463. Was he one of the persons whom you call "they?"—No; not either of them.

36,464. Who were they? Was Mr. Holman one?—Mr. Holman said, you know Mr. Wright, and you would have some little influence with him; but I said, I would rather have nothing to do with him at all.

36,465. You did have something to do with him; how much did you give him?—50*l.*

36,466. How much to Tucker?—I did not give him anything until after the election.

36,467. What did you promise him?—Nothing.

36,468. How much did you give him after the election?—A 5*l.* note. I asked Mr. Holman, after the election was over. I said, I have not spent all the money quite, what shall I do with it? He seemed rather offended, and said, I know nothing about the money at all.

36,469. Were those the only persons you distributed it to?—Yes.

36,470. Did you have any money, except that 5*l.* note, yourself?—No.

36,471. Did you vote at the last election?—Yes.

36,472. How?—The Liberals; always.

36,473. Where do you live?—On the Plains; New Walk.

36,474. Whose house is it?—My own.

36,475. Whom did you buy it from?—From the corporation, it is leasehold property.

36,476. Who is the solicitor to the corporation?—I do not know who the solicitor is. I believe it is charity property.

36,477. Mr. Brooking Cuming is the solicitor to the charities?—It was put up to auction, and bought at the auction.

36,478. Who signed the lease?—It was put up to get the mortgage off.

36,479. Who has got the lease?—It was Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore.

36,480. He signed it?—I think so.

36,481. Was that the first time you voted, 1865?—No.

36,482. Did you vote in 1863, when Seymour and Dent stood?—Yes.

36,483. How did you vote then?—Liberal.

36,484. What did you get for that?—Nothing at all.

36,485. Whom did you give any money to?—No one at all.

36,486. That was your first experiment in electioneering?—Yes.

36,487. You were quite a new hand were you?—Yes, in fact I should not have minded spending 50*l.* out of my own pocket rather than be bought over as they were buying them. Wright came and told me Mr. Evens had been to him and told him he could have money.

36,488. Have you got a brother?—No.

36,489. Did not somebody come to talk to you about your vote?—No, not a word.

36,490. No Conservative came near you?—They came to my house and wanted me not to vote for our side.

36,491. Do you think any of them came to see Mrs. Fowle?—I believe they did.

36,492. Who came to see her?—Not the Conservatives.

36,493. The other side?—Oh, yes; Captain Pim came and saw Mrs. Fowle while I was away, and she said "I am sure it is of no use your waiting, I am "certain he will not vote for you."

36,494. Was there not somebody else called on Mrs. Fowle to whom she would not promise your vote?—No.

36,495. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he say you were both seafaring men, and you had better vote together?—I believe there was a something about his being a brother chip; he was sure I should support him if he had a chance to see me.

36,496. Did he get a chance to see you?—Several chances, but he never spoke to me.

36,497. He did not call you a brother chip?—No.

36,498. (Mr. Bere.) What were you before you took to coal dealing?—The owner of a vessel.

36,499. Always?—Always the same since I have been 21 years old.

36,500. Did you have anything to do with voting here at all before 1862 and 1863?—No, never.

36,501. Do you rent anything from the duke?—Yes, stores in Bridgetown; that is what made me a coal merchant.

36,502. How long have you had the stores?—I think three years this Michaelmas.

36,503. Who had them before you?—Mr. Blackler.

36,504. When did you become a tenant of the duke?—Three years ago at Michaelmas, when Mr. Blackler left them.

36,505. What made him leave?—Because he had money paid him, I do not know more than what I have heard.

36,506. Were you admitted into the stores before the election of 1863 or after?—I forget now when it was.

36,507. Did you see Mr. Michelmore about going into the stores before the election?—Not that I am aware of, I do not know the time.

36,508. Was there not a doubt about your getting the stores before the election?—Not the least doubt.

36,509. You have been a supporter of the Liberal party?—I have been; I was born to liberality and I stick to it from conviction.

36,510. What do you give for the stores?—16*l.* a year.

36,511. Does anybody else vote for them beside you?—No.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

G. W. Fowle.

24 Sept. 1866.

36,512. Mr. Blackler gave them up, and you got them ?—Yes.

36,513. Was not Mr. Blackler turned out for voting against the duke ?—I heard so.

36,514. When did Mr. Blackler get notice to leave ?—I am not aware.

36,515. Was he the tenant at Lady Day or Michaelmas ?—I took it at Michaelmas.

36,516. Then in all probability Mr. Blackler took it to Michaelmas ?—I am not aware he was there many years before.

36,517. All the duke's tenants rent from year to year ?—I am myself.

36,518. You know the reason of his being turned out was his voting against the duke ?—I do not believe it.

36,519. Have you not known of a great many who have been turned out for voting against him ?—I do not know of one.

36,520. What have they been turned out for ?—Taking money.

36,521. Do you rent a house at No. 4, Seymour Place, of the duke ?—No.

36,522. Is there anybody of your name living there ?—Not that I am aware of.

36,523. No. 4, Seymour Place ?—I do not know of anyone of my name in the neighbourhood nearer than Torquay.

36,524. Have you ever lived in a house in Seymour Place ?—No.

36,525. How old is your son ?—I think about 16 months old.

36,526. Then Mrs. Harris's assertion is not correct ?—It is utterly unfounded.

36,527. "His son told me he offered him a large "sum of money before the election?"—It is a palpable lie.

36,528. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you a son as old as that ?—I have not been married six years.

36,529. (Mr. Bere.) Have you had any person calling upon you about your vote ?—No, never.

36,530. Some friends of yours ?—No.

36,531. Connexions ?—No.

36,532. Nobody of that kind ?—Nobody of any kind.

36,533. I want to hear about that conversation with Mr. Pender ; what was the name of the vessel ?—The "Pride of the Dart."

36,534. Did you see him more than once ?—I saw him once, I think, when I saw the captain of the vessel when I was in London.

36,535. Did you not see him more than once at the time of the election ?—Many times.

36,536. You were very often with him ?—No.

36,537. How many times during the period when Mr. Pender was down here at the election did you see him and talk to him ?—Only once on that occasion.

36,538. On other subjects ?—I saw him twice.

36,539. Only twice ?—That is all.

36,540. What did you talk to him about then ?—Nothing very particular that I am aware of.

36,541. How long did you stay with him ?—10 minutes to a quarter of an hour.

36,542. Half-an-hour ?—I do not think that.

36,543. What did you talk about at that time ?—I was in company with Wright, trying to persuade him to vote.

36,544. You succeeded ?—I did.

36,545. You knew that Wright had signed the requisition ?—I did not.

36,546. What passed between you and Mr. Pender and Mr. Wright at that interview ?—He tried to persuade him all he possibly could.

36,547. What passed between Mr. Pender and Mr. Wright ; what sort of persuasion ?—He tried to persuade him all he possibly could.

36,548. What was it ?—No further than pressing him to vote for him.

36,549. Did he keep on saying "Do vote for me" ?—No, not at all.

36,550. What do you mean ?—He tried all he could to persuade him to vote.

36,551. How did he try him ?—Only by persuasion.

36,552. What sort ?—To ask him if he would not give his vote.

36,553. Was that all he said ?—I do not recollect all he said.

36,554. He did not say it would be a good thing for him ?—No.

36,555. Did you say it would be a good thing for him ?—No.

36,556. Did you know it would be a good thing for him ?—No.

36,557. Who first led you to believe it would be a good thing for him ?—Wright said, they have given money on the other side, and Mr. Edmonds led him to believe he could have as much as 1,000*l.*

36,558. When did he say that ?—During the canvassing.

36,559. Was it after that that you had gone to see Mr. Pender ?—No, before that, that I saw him.

36,560. Did you see him afterwards ?—Not that I am aware of.

36,561. Will you swear it ?—Yes.

36,562. You did not see Mr. Pender after Wright told you he was offered money ?—Oh, yes, I saw him after that ; I believe I did.

36,563. Did you take Wright down to see Mr. Pender after he had told you he had been offered 100*l.* by the Conservatives ?—I did.

36,564. Did you not tell Mr. Pender that ?—No, I did not.

36,565. Did you give Mr. Pender reason to understand that Wright had been offered money by the Conservatives ?—Not that I am aware of.

36,566. Did Wright ?—No, nothing about money passed between Wright and Mr. Pender in my presence.

36,567. Did you say to Mr. Pender, Wright had been tempted by the Conservatives ?—I do not know whether Wright did ; I probably might have said so.

36,568. Cannot you say ?—I do not recollect.

36,569. You took Wright down for the purpose of telling Mr. Pender that he had been tempted, in order that you might get Wright some money ; were you in the room all the time with Wright and Mr. Pender ?—I believe I was.

36,570. Did you go in first or Wright ?—We went together, I believe.

36,571. How many interviews did you have with Mr. Pender before you got Wright's vote ?—Two.

36,572. How long after the second interview did you get the 100*l.* from Mr. Holman ?—I should think it was the next day.

36,573. What time in the evening was the interview between you and Mr. Pender ?—It was in the morning.

36,574. At what time in the morning ?—About 10 or 11 o'clock.

36,575. Did Mr. Pender tell you to go to Mr. Chaster or Mr. Holman ?—No, there was never a word said to go to any one.

36,576. How came you to go to Mr. Holman ?—Because Mr. Wright told me to go.

36,577. Where ?—Somewhere on the bridge.

36,578. When ?—The day before the nomination.

36,579. Did you meet Wright accidentally ?—Quite.

36,580. Did you stop when you began to talk ?—You see my business lies across the bridge every day ; I cross it a dozen times a day ; and at the time the election is going on at the "Seymour" hotel there is a great deal of traffic.

36,581. There was not much traffic in coals then ?—Not very much.

36,582. What made you travel from one side of the bridge to the other ?—It was my business there, to see what was going on.

36,583. Your business is the sale of coals?—I am always about the stores.

36,584. You met Wright; what did he say to you?—He said they were bribing away all the men they could on the other side, could I induce him to vote? I said I did not believe he would vote unless he was paid. I do not think he thought of money, and this was the first time he was offered by the Conservatives.

36,585. What did Wright tell you to do?—To go to Mr. Holman. He said, how much do you suppose it was? I had no idea Tucker did.

36,586. Is he a friend of yours?—Yes.

36,587. What is he?—A brother-in-law.

36,588. John Drew, what is he?—A coal porter.

36,589. One of your coal porters?—Yes.

36,590. He works for you?—Yes.

36,591. It was your father-in-law, your brother-in-law, and a person who worked for you?—Yes. Tucker had no idea of having money.

36,592. He was glad to take it when it was offered to him?—He had not the least idea of it.

36,593. The 5*l.* you presented to him he put in his pocket, and said no more about it?—That was after the election.

36,594. Did you go to Mr. Tucker of Ashburton?—Yes.

36,595. Did you give him some evidence?—Yes.

36,596. Do you have the same opinion as others that it makes a difference whether you are on your oath or not?—I believe it makes all the difference.

36,597. In one case you tell the truth, and in the other you do not?—No, I want to tell the truth in all cases.

36,598. Does it make a difference to you whether you are on your oath or not?—I would as soon tell the truth without being on my oath as I would with it.

36,599. Did you see Mr. Tucker at the "Seymour" hotel?—I did.

36,600. Did he ask you some questions?—He did.

36,601. Did you give him answers?—I did.

36,602. Did he write down the answers you gave?—I believe he did.

36,603. Did he read them over to you?—No.

36,604. Did you sign the paper?—Not that I am aware of; I do not wish to deny it, but I do not recollect; if I was asked to sign it I did sign it.

36,605. Did you tell Mr Tucker this, "Wright is my "father-in-law; he polled for Pender a plumper. "I did not offer him any money or any promise to "induce him to vote for Pender. I used all the argu- "ments I could to induce him to vote for Mr. Pender, "but I used no improper motive"? Did you tell Mr. Tucker that?—I believe I did.

36,606. Is that true or false?—I believe that is the truth.

36,607. Would it be true that you did give the 50*l.*?—I had not given the 50*l.* then.

36,608, When you gave this evidence to Mr. Tucker?—No, I had not given it then, not for months after the election.

36,609. When?—Some considerable time after the election was over.

36,610. Do you not recollect?—It is impossible for me to recollect when I had the money; it was some considerable time after the election was over.

36,611. You told Mr. Tucker that, though Wright would not vote without money, you got 100*l.*, and you gave Wright 50*l.*, and you gave some other money?—I had not paid him the money at the time; I had promised.

36,612. You knew you had got money for him?—I told Mr. Tucker I had got money for him.

36,613. It is very odd that he did not write it down?—I told him of it at the time.

36,614. Was there something about Drew and a horse and cart?—I gave him the money to buy a horse and cart with.

36,615. When did you give him that?—Some time ago.

36,616. Before the election of 1863?—No.

36,617. What did you mean by telling Mr. Tucker, "When I went into business I lent him some money "to buy a cart"?—So I did.

36,618. It is a cart?—Yes.

36,619. When was that?—Soon after I went in business.

36,620. Near about the election of 1863?—Yes.

36,621. Was not the cause that he was to vote for you?—No; I had not the least idea of anything of the sort.

36,622. Had you canvassed him for Mr. Pender?—No.

36,623. Take care. Did he say he was a poor man, and had been offered 200*l.* to vote on the other side?—No, not that time; in 1865 he said that.

36,624. What did you lend him in 1863 to buy a cart with?—2*l.* or 3*l.*; he had not money enough.

36,625. Has he ever paid you?—He has, weekly, as he earned a little money.

36,626. You canvassed him in 1865, with Mr. Pender?—Yes.

36,627. Did he tell Mr. Pender in your presence that he was a poor man, and had been offered 200*l.* on the other side?—Yes.

36,628. What did he say?—That he was sorry to hear a poor man was tempted, and he was not able to take the money.

36,629. Did he say he would not give him any money, but if he came to want, and you represented the case to Mr. Pender, he would give him something?—Yes.

36,630. Where did that conversation take place?—In my stores.

36,631. Was John Drew present?—Yes.

36,632. He went and voted for Mr. Pender?—Yes.

36,633. When did you pay him 40*l.*?—April or May.

36,634. After the petition?—Yes.

36,635. Were you not told to withhold the money until after the petition?—No, never a word said to me after I got the money; I said to Mr. Holman, "I have "not spent all the money."

36,636. That was when the petition was determined upon?—Yes.

36,637. Had not you given Drew money before that?—No.

36,638. Take care; did not you give him 16*l.*?—No.

36,639. Not a cheque for 16*l.*? You had better take care what you are saying. Some weeks after the election was not there a sale at which Mr. Adams was the auctioneer? Was there a sale?—Yes, there was a sale.

36,640. Now you remember that?—Yes.

36,641. Did you give him 16*l.* to buy a cart?—If he required it.

36,642. Was it for a horse?—Yes.

36,643. He did not buy the horse?—No.

36,644. Did he give you back the cheque?—Yes.

36,645. Take care; did he give you the cheque back, on your oath?—It has never been passed to my account.

36,646. And never cancelled?—No.

36,647. Has he it now?—Yes.

36,648. (Mr. Coleridge). Have you stopped it?—No.

36,649. If he presents it, it may be paid?—Yes.

36,650. Having paid him the 40*l.*, he won't present it?—I do not know.

36,651. You had better get the cheque, or you may be out of pocket by the election?—I am out of pocket.

36,652. Did you rent a house of the duke in 1864?—No. I spoke to the duke's steward about it. It had nothing to do with me in any way.

36,653. You asked for it?—Yes; if they could find a house. It was for a man that I brought from Kingsbridge. He did work for me in the stores as foreman,

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

G. W. Fowle.

24 Sept. 1866.

and I asked Mr. Callard whether they could find a house for him in Bridgetown? I have told you the truth in every respect as far as I know. Could I get the statement that Mr. Harris made with regard to the vessel corrected?

36,654. You have had your explanation?—He ought to make an apology. It is all a tissue of falsehoods.

36,655. (Mr. Bere). If you want an opinion about it you probably will get one expressed. You had better not ask for it.

J. Wright.

JOHN WRIGHT sworn and examined.

36,656. (Mr. Coleridge). You are the father-in-law of Mr. Fowle?—Yes.

36,657. How long have you been a voter?—I cannot tell exactly; but I have been in the town seven years, or nearly.

36,657*. How many times have you voted?—Three times.

36,658. The last time you voted for Mr. Pender?—Yes.

36,659. You plumped for him?—Yes.

36,660. How was it that you plumped for Mr. Pender instead of voting for Pender and Seymour?—I intended to give one vote on the other side. Mr. Edmonds came and canvassed me. I told him I would give him one vote for either of those two, Dawkins or Pim, which he liked.

36,661. Whom did you tell that to?—Mr. Edmonds.

36,662. What did Mr. Edmonds say he was going to give you for that promise?—Nothing.

36,663. Who was it on the Conservative side who said you might have 200*l.*?—I was never offered anything; never 200*l.*

36,664. What were you offered?—Nothing specified. Mr. Edmonds came to my house and said, I am prepared to do something, and that is all that passed.

36,665. Mr. Edmonds came himself and said, he was prepared to do something?—Yes.

36,666. What was that something?—He did not say; but I judged it would be money.

36,667. Did he tell you who told him to offer money?—No.

36,668. Did not you ask him where you were to get that something?—No; he said he was prepared to do something.

36,669. Did he do something?—No, he did not.

36,670. Where were you to go to have something done?—I did not ask.

36,671. Did not you know where to go?—No.

36,672. Did not you know that the "Seven Stars" was a likely place?—I did not know anything about the "Stars."

36,673. Did not you go there?—No.

36,674. After he said he would do something for you, your son-in-law took you to Mr. Pender?—He did not, Mr. Pender came and canvassed me.

36,675. What did you say?—I promised to vote for him and give him a plumper.

36,676. You did not promise at first?—I did.

36,677. What made you do that after Mr. Edmonds promised you something?—There was some influence brought to bear upon me.

36,678. What was the influence that Mr. Pender brought upon you?—Mr. Pender brought none. It was some one on his behalf. I cannot recollect.

36,679. You can recollect. Was it your son-in-law? I do not know.

36,680. What did your son-in-law tell you, that he could get you something?—He told me that he could get 50*l.*

36,681. Was that before you voted?—Yes.

36,682. Did you know what Mr. Edmonds was going to give you?—No.

36,683. Did you tell your son-in-law that you could have 200*l.*?—No.

36,684. How came he to tell Mr. Pender that he could have 200*l.*?—I believe he did not.

36,685. Did he tell Mr. Pender that you could have 100*l.* of the Conservatives?—He did not.

36,686. Did he tell Mr. Pender in your presence that you could have something from the Conservatives?—I believe I can swear he did not.

36,687. Did Mr. Pender say in your presence to your son-in-law that it was hard for you as a poor man to be tempted so?—No, he did not.

36,688. Did he tell Mr. Pender that you could have 100*l.* from the Conservatives?—I did not; nor any other person.

36,689. Did you tell your son-in-law?—No.

36,690. Did your son-in-law tell you?—No.

36,691. Did you tell him you could have something from the Conservatives?—No, not a word.

36,692. Did Mr. Pender tell you it was hard for a poor man to be tempted?—No.

36,693. If he said so it is not true?—I must tell you one thing, severe sickness has impaired my memory.

36,694. You recollect a good deal; you recollect your son-in-law promising you 50*l.*?—Yes.

36,695. How long before the election?—I cannot say, perhaps a day or two.

36,696. Was it after you had seen Mr. Pender?—I dare say I might have seen Mr. Pender before.

66,697. How often did you see Mr. Pender to speak to?—Twice, I think; once at my own house.

36,698. Another time at the "Seymour"?—No. I think once at a little place called the Island.

36,699. Did he ever on the Island say, it was hard that you should be tempted on the Conservative side?—Never.

36,700. Did you ever tell him anything about being promised money on the Conservative side on the Island?—No; he never asked me a question of the kind.

36,701. Before the election, after you had seen Mr. Pender, your son-in-law promised you 50*l.*?—Yes.

36,702. Did he tell you when it would be paid?—No.

36,703. When was it paid?—I think in three weeks or a month.

36,704. Were you not disappointed at not getting it sooner?—No.

36,705. Did you know that he had got it?—Yes.

36,706. Did your son-in-law tell you that he had got it, but that you must wait for it?—Yes.

36,707. You plumped for Mr. Pender?—Yes.

36,708. What made you plump for Mr. Pender; why did not you vote for Mr. Seymour?—I did not like Mr. Seymour.

36,709. You are not fond of the duke?—Yes; but Mr. Seymour did not strike me as a man to be sent to Parliament.

36,710. Why not?—Mere fancy.

36,711. Did Mr. Edmonds say anything about your breaking your word with him?—No.

36,712. Not after the election?—He never said a word to me about it.

36,713. Have you got a wife?—Yes.

36,714. Did he say anything to her about breaking your word?—I never broke my word.

36,715. You say you promised Mr. Edmonds one vote?—He would not accept it, because he said it was no good.

36,716. You were not to have something if you gave him one vote; it was only if you gave him both?—I suppose so; he said he was prepared to do something.

36,717. You were to vote for Dawkins and Pim?—Yes.

36,718. Did he give you no idea how much the sum would be?—He did not.

36,719. Did you expect that it would be more or less than 50*l.*?—I did not know what to expect; I made no answer.

36,720. Which way did you vote at the election before?—For the Conservatives.

36,721. Then Mr. Pender converted you?—Perhaps he did.

36,722. Did not your son-in-law try to get you to vote for Mr. Pender in 1863?—No; I think not.

36,723. What did you get for voting at that election?—Not a farthing.

36,724. Nothing at all?—No.

36,725. Did anybody offer you anything?—Nobody offered me anything, and I did not ask for anything.

36,726. Did not your son-in-law offer you something, and say he was disappointed that you would not vote for the Liberals?—No.

36,727. You signed the requisition?—I signed the requisition, but who to I do not know.

36,728. Did not you know who it was to when you signed it?—I did, no doubt; but I forget. I recollect that polished gentleman with the flowing beard met me in the street.

36,729. What is your name?—John.

36,730. Is that your handwriting; John Wright, there?—Yes.

36,731. That was to ask a Conservative to come down?—Yes, that polished gentleman with the flowing beard called upon me.

36,732. It was to ask a Conservative to come down, and what made you sign that, if you intended to vote for Mr. Pender?—I did not intend to vote for Mr. Pender. I met that gentleman (Mr. Harris) in the street, and with his usual fluency of speech he persuaded me to sign the requisition.

36,733. Had you been a Conservative before?—Yes.

36,734. You voted for Dent, and signed this, and then voted for Pender?—Yes.

36,735. Has anybody ever said anything to you about your signing the requisition and breaking faith?—No.

36,736. What did you get at Pender's election in 1863?—Not a farthing.

36,737. Did you get anything as a present in 1862?—I voted three times, twice for the Conservatives, and once for the Liberals.

36,738. There was an election in 1862, when Dent came forward, and Pender as the other member, and then Dent withdrew. There were five voted for Dent, and I do not think you were one?—I do not think I did.

36,739. Did not you vote for Mr. Pender?—I think not.

36,740. Try to brush up your memory. You voted in 1859 for Mr. Dunn?—I voted three times, twice for the Conservatives, and once for the Liberals.

36,741. You voted for Dunn in 1859, when Gifford and Mills were the Liberal candidates, and when Dunn was the Conservative candidate?—I cannot recollect.

36,742. That was about 7 years ago; did you vote about 7 years ago?—I suppose I must, but I do not think I was a voter at that time.

36,743. You say you voted three times?—Yes; twice for the Conservatives, and once for the Liberals.

36,744. You must have voted in 1859 for Dunn?—I do not know.

36,745. Did you get anything in 1859?—Not a farthing, and not a farthing's worth, and never asked for any, nor got any.

36,746. Was the last election the only time you got anything?—Yes.

36,747. When Dent stood and retired, were you promised anything?—No.

36,748. Did not Mr. Fowle tempt you in those days?—No. He never came near me. I never got a farthing till the last election.

36,749. How came you to get it then?—It was a temptation, and I wanted help.

36,750. Have you never been tempted before?—No, not in that respect. I was tempted, I suppose, when I got married.

36,751. What made you run to Widdecombe-in-the-moor when we came?—Only to give my poor sickly wife a change of air. I knew nothing about your coming.

36,752. Where did the clerk find you?—At Widdecombe.

36,753. That is rather an out-of-the-way place?—Yes.

36,754. Had you left word where you had gone?—No; but they all knew.

36,755. Did you lock up your house?—Yes. That was locked up.

36,756. And you left no address behind?—No.

36,757. What did you say when you were served with a summons?—I cannot tell you now. I said that my poor wife was in bed, bad with the diarrhœa, very ill.

36,758. (Mr. Coleridge.) How much of the 50*l.* did you spend on your journey to Widdecombe?—3*l.* or 4*l.*

36,759. Was she ill before you went away?—Yes.

36,760. You then, as we came here, went away?—I knew no more about your coming when I went away, than I know now when my end is come.

36,761. (Mr. Bere.) How long did your interviews with Mr. Pender last?—Perhaps two or three minutes.

36,762. Not longer?—It might be four or five.

36,763. Not half an hour?—No.

37,764. Are you quite sure?—No.

36,765. Did not Mr. Pender say anything about buying a house at Torquay?—No.

36,766. Nothing of the sort?—No.

36,767. Were you thinking about buying a house at Torquay?—No.

36,768. Have you a house there?—Yes.

36,769. Did you want to sell your house?—No.

36,770. Not at that time?—No.

36,771. Did you want to let it?—No; it was let.

36,772. Where is it?—In Torquay.

36,773. How long have you had it?—Some three or four years, or thereabouts.

36,774. Was it let at the time of the last election?—It was.

36,775. Have you got a mortgage on it?—No, it is free.

36,776. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you voted at the municipal elections?—On certain occasions, not always.

36,777. Did you ever get anything for that?—Never.

36,778. (Mr. Bere.) You have got the same morals as your son-in-law; you think it is no harm to say what is untrue when you are not on your oath?—I do not know what you mean.

36,779. Did you give evidence before Mr. Tucker, and did you say to Mr. Tucker that "I had no money "offered me and no improper inducement to give my "vote"?—I do not know; I cannot remember.

36,780. Was it read over, and did you sign your name?—I signed it, but I do not know whether it was read.

36,781. Did you say that you voted for Mr. Pender because he had done a great deal for the town, and you thought him a proper person to represent it?—It might be that was the inducement.

36,782. Did you say that you had no money nor offer of money?—I believe I did not.

36,783. Do you remember speaking to Mr. Tucker?—Yes.

36,784. Did Mr. Pender ever pay you any money in your own house?—No, never. Not a word about money passed.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

J. Wright.

24 Sept. 1866.

36,785. Did any money pass?—I would swear with both hands, if it was necessary, that it was not so.

36,786. Were you and Mr. Pender in the parlour together?—We were, but I cannot say how long.

36,787. Did any money pass?—No.

36,788. Nobody could see any money pass?—No.

36,789. At any time?—No.

36,790. Have you ever had money paid to you in your house?—Not on voting occasions.

36,791. Apart from voting occasions?—Many times.

36,792. Did Mr. Pender ever pay you money in your house?—Not a farthing.

T. J. Searle.

THOMAS JACOB SEARLE recalled and further examined.

36,793. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you been attending the committee sitting at the "Seymour Arms" as to what evidence you should give here?—No.

36,794. Do you know of any such committee sitting?—No.

36,795. When did you first know about the general election in 1865?—I really cannot tell you.

36,796. A short time before?—Yes.

36,797. When did you first see Pender and Seymour?—I think they called on me.

36,798. Were you one of the committee?—No.

36,799. What was your position; a runner?—No.

36,800. You put yourself under the wings of Mr Holman?—Yes.

36,801. Had you anything to do with anyone else; Mr. Huxham?—No.

36,802. Or Mr. Parnell?—No.

36,803. Or Mr. Michelmore?—No.

36,804. When did you first see Mr. Holman at the "Seymour Arms" before the election?—I think it was some days before the election.

36,805. Did he tell you that money was going?—He did.

36,806. How long was that before the election?—Several days.

36,807. Was it as much as a week before the election that he said there would be money going?—I should think it was not.

36,808. Some two or three days before the election you heard there would be money going?—He asked me if I could make any interest with parties to get their votes.

36,809. Did he mention the names of the people, or did you suggest them?—He named the parties; he asked me if I could get Blank.

36,810. Who else?—Angel, William Slogget, the two Matchams.

36,811. And Thomas Searle, your father?—No, I had nothing to do with him; I made him a present afterwards.

36,812. And Griffis?—Yes; that is all; there were no more.

36,813. Did you busy yourself to see what could be done with them?—I did.

36,814. When did you see the Matchams?—I saw them on the nomination night; I had asked Thomas Matcham a short time before.

36,815. When did you first see them to talk to them about their votes?—I might have asked Thomas Matcham a day or two before if he could oblige us.

36,816. That was two or three days before?—Yes.

36,817. Was that before or after you had got the money?—I drove him away a week before that.

36,818. Where did you drive him to?—To Teignmouth; he was rather in difficulties at the time, and it was the wish of Mr. Kellock that he should be taken away.

36,819. Which Mr. Kellock?—Mr. Kellock the solicitor. I do not say that he knew of it.

36,820. Did he tell you what his price was?—No; not a word.

36,821. When did you find out what it was that he wanted?—I heard during his absence that he was looking for money.

36,822. Did the whole of the transaction with the Matchams take place with the son?—Yes.

36,823. What did Thomas say?—That he had been offered something on the other side. On the nomination night he told me that there was a cheque drawn for 230*l.* for him and his father.

36,824. By whom?—He did not mention the name.

36,825. Since that have you learnt that it was Mr. John Heath?—I have heard so.

36,826. Did he say that they were going to vote on that side?—Yes.

36,827. And that if money was wanted by them you could spring a little on the 230*l.*?—Yes.

36,828. And you made an arrangement for himself and his father?—Yes.

36,829. How much for each of them?—They were to have 250*l.*

36,830. To vote for Pender and Seymour?—Yes.

36,831. When did you pay them the money?—I think a day or two after the election.

36,832. When did you see Blank?—A day or two before the election.

36,833. Did he tell you they had been at him on the other side?—He told me that he had been offered money on the other side.

36,834. By whom?—By the men at the "Stars."

36,835. Did he say whom he had seen there?—No.

36,836. He had seen one of the "Seven Stars" and had had an offer?—Yes.

36,837. Did he give you to understand how much he required?—He asked me 150*l.*

86,838. And you put him down at 130*l.*?—No; he came at last to 130*l.* I communicated with Mr. Holman that I had got him down to that, and he told me to go and get him as easily as I could.

36,839. Mr. Holman said you had 130*l.* for him; did you give him that?—I gave him 110*l.*

36,840. When did you pay him?—On the morning of the election.

36,841. Before he voted?—Yes.

36,842. He would not vote without?—He would not.

36,843, Angel; when did you see about him?—I asked him to take a ride with me; and I drove him to Ashburton.

36,844. Did you talk to him there?—I did.

36,845. Did he tell you he had been spoken to by a person there?—Yes; I think his name was Luscombe.

36,846. Do you know where Luscombe lives?—I think he has a residence at Newton.

36,847. Did Angel tell you what he had been after him about?—About his vote.

36,848. What did he offer him?—150*l.*, and he was to have some remnants, or pieces of cloth, in addition.

36,849. How had Angel voted before that?—On the Liberal side.

36,850. And you persuaded him to vote for 50*l.*?—He would rather do so.

36,851. Where did he get the money?—I gave it to him.

36,852. Where?—At his own house.

36,853. When?—Some days after the election.

36,854. Did you take any receipt from these people?—No.

36,855. William Sloggett, what did you do for him?—I went down to the "Railway Hotel."

36,856. How long before the election?—A day or two.

36,857. How had he voted before?—As a Liberal.

36,858. How came he to get 100*l.*?—He was rather stiff, and he said that prices were getting higher.

36,859. Did he say what he had been offered on the other side?—He did not.

36,860. Did you pay him after or before the election?—After the election.

36,861. You did not pay your father?—No; Mr. Holman told me two or three days after the election that I was to make him a present of 50*l.*

36,862. Did you not tell your father that you had been told to so?—No, I did not.

36,863. But he knew it, I suppose?—No; I think not.

36,864. How had he voted before?—Always for the Liberals.

36,865. Did he do so when you had some quarrel with that party?—Yes, he did.

36,866. Griffis, you gave him 30*l.*?—Yes.

36,867. When did you give him that?—Nearly a week after the election.

36,868. Whom else did you give any money to besides?—I think these were the whole.

36,869. How much money did you receive in all from Mr. Holman?—590*l.* When I told him he seemed rather surprised. He did not think it was near so much.

36,870. When did you get that money?—I had it at three or four times.

36,871. When did you have the first lot?—I think the day before the election.

36,872. How much was that?—He gave me a parcel; he did not count it; he said, "I think you "will find 150*l.* there.

36,873. You were more prudent, and did count it; did you find 150*l.*?—I found 200*l.*

36,874. Did you tell him you had found 200*l.*?—I went directly and told him.

36,875. Did you get any more before the election?—I do not remember that I did.

36,876. When did you next get any money from him?—The day after.

36,877. What did you get then?—190*l.*

36,878. Where did he give you that?—In his own house, up stairs.

36,879. Did he ever give you any at the "Seymour Arms"?—No.

36,880. When did you get the next lot?—A day or two after.

38,881. How much did you get then?—150*l.*

38,882. What was the next lot?—50*l.*

36,883. Was that all?—That was all.

36,884. Did you get any from anyone else?—That was all.

36,885. Have you got a son a voter?—A step-son.

36,886. You had no dealings with him?—Not at that time.

36,887. Whom did he get his money from at that time?—I do not know; we were not very good friends.

36,888. Was it from Mr. Charles Michelmore, or from Mr. Fox, at Dartmouth?—I should rather think Mr. Fox.

36,889. What is your step-son's name?—John Parnell Searle.

36,890. Did you see Mr. Fox during the election?—I saw him with Searle.

36,891. Do you know if he did anything with anyone else?—I do not know.

36,892. Did Mr. Fox get money from Mr. Holman?—That I do not know.

36,893. Mr. Holman gave you the money for these people?—He did.

36,894. And any others whom you could influence?—No.

36,895. Were you paid as a runner or as an agent?—No.

36,896. What did you get for your share of the business?—Nothing at all; not a farthing.

36,897. None of your men turned against you—None.

36,898. Is that all about the election of 1865?—Yes.

36,899. Had you nothing to do with Frederick George Putt?—Never 36,900. Or with Veasey?—No.

36,901. Do you know whether they were bribed?—I do not know.

36,902. Angel was a man whom you had to do with?—Yes.

36,903. William Byne?—I had nothing to do with him.

36,904. William Farley, jun., do you know anything of him?—No.

36,905. The only men you gave money to you have mentioned?—Yes.

36,906. You are sure you had no conversation with Putt?—Never.

36,907. Had you anything to do with distributing gifts after the election?—No.

36,908. Robert Ryder, do you know anything about him?—No.

36,909. Thomas Roberts, do you know anything of him?—No.

36,910. Or of Shinner?—No.

36,911. Edward Willis, do you know anything of him?—No.

36,912. Richard Andrews?—No.

36,913. Barrett, a baker, do you know anything of him?—No.

36,914. Henry Crawford, you had something to do with him?—I had nothing to do with him.

36,915. You know nothing about any of these parties?—No other persons but those I have mentioned.

36,916. Did none of them come to you?—Not one of them.

36,917. How many people asked you if you could not get something for them?—Not one.

36,918. And you were successful in every case you have spoken of?—I was.

36,919. Did these men come to you, or did you go to them?—I went to them.

36,920. Was there any instance of their coming to you?—No, not one.

36,921. In 1862 you had some grievance with the party?—I had.

35,922. You wanted something done and Mr. Holman neglected it?—Mr. Brooking Cuming neglected it.

36,923. You thought of turning on the other side?—It was out of a spirit of revenge, not the love of the other party, or their gold.

Mrs. Fowle sworn and examined.

Mrs. Fowle.

36,924. (Mr. Bere.) You are the wife of Captain Fowle?—I am.

36,925. And daughter to Mr. Wright?—Yes.

36,926. Were you a good deal at the house of Mr. Wright during the election of 1865?—Not particularly so.

36,927. Did you ever see Mr. Pender there?—I never saw Mr. Pender at the house.

36,928. Where have you seen him?—I have only seen him at our own house, and at the "Castle."

36,929. What do you mean by the "Castle"?—At the time the tea was there.

36,930. Did Mr. Pender speak to you while the tea was proceeding?—No, he never spoke to me.

36,931. How many times did he come to your house? I do not remember his having been more than once.

36,932. Once only?—Once only.

36,933. Do you remember how long before the election it was, the time he was here?—I cannot tell how long.

36,934. Was it 10 days before the election, or just before?—It was just as he came here; he never saw Mr. Fowle but that once.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

Mrs. Fowle.

24 Sept. 1866.

36,935. He did that once?—Well, I think he saw Mr. Fowle.

36,936. Where?—In the parlour.

36,937. How long did he stay with him?—If he saw him it was only for a few minutes, because he was going to support him. That is all.

36,938. Had you not promised the vote of Mr. Fowle to Mr. Pender before?—Never.

36,939. How often did he call on you?—Only that once.

36,940. Do I understand you never saw your father and Mr. Pender together?—Never.

36,941. Who lives with your father?—His wife and a servant; he keeps a lodging house, and there are lodgers there generally.

36,942. Do you know whether he had any in 1865?—I do not remember, they are frequently in and out, and there are often changes. Some stay a week, some a fortnight, or a month.

36,943. When did your husband first tell you he had got 50*l.* for your father?—He brought it home, did not tell me. I knew it was for him.

36,944. Your husband told you he had been promised 50*l.* for your father's vote?—He did not tell me any particular sum.

36,945. But some money?—Yes.

36,946. What was it in?—Gold.

36,947. Did he bring home more?—100*l.*

36,948. Did you know who it was for?—For father and Mr. Drew.

36,949. Your brother-in-law?—No, my brother-in-law's name was mentioned, but I do not know he said anything for him. It was other people said it for him.

36,950. He got something?—Nothing before the election.

36,951. But after the election?—What he got was trifling.

36,952. He only got 5*l.*?—That is all.

36,953. Do you know when your father was paid?—I really cannot remember; it was sometime during the summer.

36,954. Sometime during the summer?—Yes.

36,955. You are quite sure?—I cannot say to a month or six weeks, or two months.

36,956. Do you keep the key of the drawer?—Sometimes, and sometimes Fowle.

36,957. Did you at that time?—Not more than any other time. I did not keep it more for that than any other time. We do not go out of the house and leave the keys at home.

36,958. Is 100*l.* a common sort of sum for you to keep in the house?—We always take it to the bank.

36,959. Did you that?—No, kept it in the house.

36,960. What made you act differently with that money than you usually dealt with it.—The other money we knew was ours, and that was not, but given to us for other parties.

36,961. Then why not hand it over at once?—There was a good deal said about bribery, and about the petition, and we thought the better plan was to keep it at the time.

36,962. When was the 40*l.* paid to Drew?—I am sure I cannot tell you that; some time during the summer.

36,963. You know Mr. Fowle had 5*l.* himself?—Yes; and I think he dearly deserved it.

36,964. He did not give it you?—No; I should have taken it if I had required it.

36,965. Did not Captain Fowle ever send you as a messenger between you and your father?—Yes, I used frequently to talk to father about it, and about his vote frequently. There were many insinuations on the other side, and I knew he would not have thought of it if that had not been done.

36,966. When did he tell you that he had been sought by the other side?—Soon after the members came.

36,967. Did you suggest that he could have money?—Not till he mentioned to me that he could have money from the Conservatives.

36,968. But when he mentioned to you that he could get money from the Conservatives, did you suggest he could from the Liberals?—Yes, I think very likely I did.

36,969. And then you asked your husband?—Yes.

36,970. In fact, you were the original tempter?—Well, I was very likely; I did it by my husband's request.

36,971. And you went to your husband and your husband got the money?—I told him all father said.

36,972. Did your husband tell you at any time that he was going to see Mr. Pender with your father?—No, he did not; he went out of the house and I think accidentally met Mr. Pender, and then they called on my father.

36,973. Did you hear about your husband and your father going to see Mr. Pender at the "Seymour" hotel?—No, I do not remember that.

36,974. Did not your husband tell you?—I do not remember.

36,975. Are you quite sure?—Quite sure.

36,976. Are you quite certain you were not at your father's house when Mr. Pender came?—As sure as I am sitting here this moment. I never saw father and Mr. Pender speak to each other.

36,977. How near did you live to your father?—Not many doors.

36,978. Did you happen to see Mr. Pender go in one afternoon?—I never saw him at the house or speak to my father.

Mr. J. Yabbicom.

Mr. JOHN YABBICOM recalled.

36,979. (Mr. Bere.) Do you remember the Rev. W. H. James coming to your bank and asking for a loan of money?—I do.

36,980. When did he come?—I will turn to the transaction (referring to a paper).

36,981. Did you enter his call in your book?—No, but I can recollect it is about the time. My memory is rather bad. I am getting an old man. I think it was in 1865.

36,982. The early part of 1865?—I do not know whether it was the early part, but I know it was 1865. I should tell you first that Mr. James has kept an account at our bank for the last three years, I think.

36,983. Has not Mr. James from time to time consulted you about some shares which he had in the Joint Stock Discount Company?—Yes most certainly.

36,984. Did not he come to you one day and tell you that a call had been made of 5*l.* a share, and that he did not know how on earth to pay it?—He did.

36,985. What did you tell him?—Well, he called on me some time. I do not recollect the month, but I think it was some time in 1865, prior to June, I think. I am not certain with reference to the date, but he came to me and said he was unfortunately involved in the Joint Stock Discount Company, and that calls were being made upon him in respect of his shares that he had, He said he should require some 200*l.* or 300*l.* I will not be certain about the amount, but he asked for an advance of at least 200*l.* or 300*l.*

36,986. Are you quite certain that that conversation did not take place in the winter of 1864?—Well, it might have been.

36,987. Mr. James' version is this, and it is quite clear that it is a correct account, that the call was made in 1864, and not being able to pay, he borrowed the money in 1864 for the purpose of paying that call from Mr. Edmonds, and the money was clearly lent then. Was not it at that time that he came and asked you?—It may have been, but the circumstance with reference to advancing with respect to those calls will probably meet that point.

36,988. What was it you told him?—He applied to me for an advance in order to meet that call. I asked him how long he thought he would require the amount, and he said, "Well, I think it is very likely "I shall be able to realize some of those shares, and "I do not think the amount will be required but only "a short time."

36,989. What did you think he meant by a short time?—I should say probably four or five months. I formed a different opinion in my own mind with reference to it, and I should state that, having considered the mode of the advance, I rather looked upon it in the character of a loan. Now we never make advances at our bank, except it be commensurate with the amount of business transacted, looking at the responsibility of the party at the same time. If a man comes to us and asks for a loan, of course we have no objection to a loan, but we do not like them except they are for fixed periods. I looked upon it that the Joint Stock Discount Company would turn out a bad affair, and though I did not say so to him, I said, "I think "this comes rather in the character of a loan, and I "think you had better go and consult your solicitor "on the subject."

36,990. And then he did?—I said to him, "Who "is in the habit of doing your business?" and he said, "Mr. Edmonds." I said, "You cannot consult a "better person;" and he said, "He has made the "writings for my house, and he and I are on friendly "terms;" and I said, "You had better go to him."

36,991. That clearly must have taken place in November 1864?—Probably it might.

36,992. Can you tell me what the bank rate of discount was at that time?—I cannot carry it in my mind, but I will tell you a circumstance. I said to him at the time, "If you can negotiate a loan with "your solicitor, Mr. Edmonds, depend on it you will "do it on much better terms than with the bank."

36,993. You never charge less than five, and very often a good deal more?—Yes, we do.

36,994. (Mr. Coleridge.) You looked upon this as a bonâ fide loan in contradistinction from an advance?—Quite so. Recollect I should most distinctly, if I had not characterised it, or put it in the character of a loan, his credit was quite open to me, and I would have advanced it in a moment if I had not so considered it.

36,995. Did you see him after the election?—Yes, several times.

36,996. Has he ever talked to you about Mr. Edmonds' conduct towards him with reference to the money?—If you ask me what he has said, you call on me to recite one hundred conversations.

36,997. I want the general tenor of his conversations. Did they leave an impression on your mind that Mr. Edmonds had threatened to call in the money which had been lent unless Mr. James voted for the Conservatives at the election?—Not the slightest. All Mr. James said to me was that he considered Mr. Edmonds had acted in the most illiberal way towards him. It is rather hard that I should be called upon between neighbours to give an opinion. I do not want to be placed in an invidious position with my neighbours.

36,998. How long after the election was that?—Several times. When you get a customer at the counter or the consulting room, of course conversations will naturally arise.

36,999. (Mr. Longe.) Can you give us the impression the first conversation gave you?—Nothing more nor less than that he considered that Mr. Edmonds had behaved very unhandsomely towards him. I never could gather any more.

37,000. That is all you know about it. Did you know the loan had been repaid?—Yes, I did.

37,001. Did you know how the money had been advanced?—I will tell a little conversation that revives my memory with reference to that. A few months since Mr. James was talking the matter over, and I had learned in the interim that the money had been advanced by Mr. Pender; I learned from him that, in point of fact, it was general talk that Mr. James had the advance from Mr. Pender. He said to me, "Mr. Yabbicom, I am in a fix with reference to "the money Mr. Pender advanced me at the elec-"tion;" and I said, "Why so? Why do not you "send him what securities you have?" and he said, "I have not the means until I can settle with the "joint stock discount company;" and I said, "What do you hold?" and he said, "I hold scrip of "this unfortunate discount company, and I have a "life insurance policy of a thousand pounds;" I think he told me upon his life, and I said, "My dear sir, "why not send up your policy and scrip to him, and "make that right?" Whether he did it or not I do not know, that was my advice to him.

37,002. We only wanted to know what passed about the loan of the money?—Shall I speak with reference to a customer of mine, Mr. Fowle.

37,003. He has spoken about the ship?—I made the advance at all events.

37,004. What advance?—I allowed him to overdraw this account in order to release that ship.

37,005. Mr. Fowle has sworn here that he never had to pay any money at all?—Yes, he had; but he has been repaid by the authorities.

(Mr. Fowle.) I returned the money to the bank.

37,006. (Mr. Coleridge.) Let us have an account of this?—Capt. Fowle came to me and said in consequence of his ship being detained by the Spanish authorities in consequence of the certificate not having been sent by the ship's broker I think at Dublin. I think he told me that applications had been made from time to time in order to get that ship restored, but that he was ultimately obliged to pay down the penalties the authorities required of him; and he came to me on that occasion and asked if he might be allowed on his credit to overdraw his account for so much money as would release that ship. I asked him the amount, and looking at his credit as I always did in a perfectly respectable point of view, I said he was quite at liberty.

37,007. What was the amount?—I can tell you exactly the purpose to which it was applied, but I advanced it on account of the bank. I think it was 200*l.* or more; I do not know. I can tell you I dare say, but his credit stood well with us, and if he had wanted a larger sum he might have had it.

37,008. When did he repay that?—It was repaid in the course of his general account. I of course congratulated him on the fact that his ship had arrived at the Dart.

37,009. How long ago was it you advanced it?—I cannot tell. If Mr. Fowle is here he has his pass book.

(Mr. Fowle.) I have not, but it was in 1864 I believe.

(The Witness.) Mr. Fowle might have had the money or twice as much if he had chosen. That is a plain matter of fact.

(Mr. Fowle.) I never used the money at all. I paid it back again to you.

37,010. (Mr. Coleridge.) How long was the money owing to the bank?—I do not know, because we had an open account. I think I understood the money was restored, and I congratulated him on the fact.

37,011. (Mr. Bere.) Did Mr. Fowle tell you or not that he had to pay the penalties though they might be refunded?—To be sure he did.

37,012. He swore on his oath that he never paid

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

Mr. J. Yabbicom.

24 Sept. 1866.

sixpence?—I understood the amount was drawn for the purpose of being sent to the ship.

(Mr. Fowle.) The fact was it was never demanded by the Spanish government, and I have had it refunded to me again.

(Mr. Bere.) This transaction is a very fair foundation for saying that the ship was in pawn.

(Mr. Fowle.) It was not in pawn.

37,013. You wanted money to pay the penalties?—(Mr. Fowle.) I did not; the fact was the vessel was detained there, and I thought I might be bound to release her, and I went away with the intention of releasing her. I never applied to Mr. Pender for any money.

W. Byne.

WILLIAM BYNE recalled.

37,014. Is your memory better than it was?—No.

37,015. Not a bit?—Very little.

37,016. How much better?—That depends upon what it is upon.

37,017. Those lands you got at cheap rents from the Duke of Somerset?—I have got no cheap rents.

37,018. How did you get those lands?—Took them of Mr. Michelmore.

37,019. Had you asked the Conservative party to let you have some land before?—No.

37,020. You have made a statement to that effect?—I had the lands of the Conservative party two years before, and then I expected to be turned out, and Mr. Harris told me I should be, and before Mr. Bryett told me so also. Then I applied to Mr. Michelmore somewhere about Michaelmas last.

37,021. Whose writing is all this (referring to a document)?—My daughter's.

37,022. When did she make it out?—Since you told me to bring the account here.

37,023. How did she make it out; from what books?—From a book I have in my pocket.

37,024. Let us see that book (it was handed to the Commissioners).

37,025. You had this land from the Conservatives? Yes.

37,026. And having had it from the Conservatives, had you had a formal notice to quit?—Yes; I had a notice since. I had six months' notice to quit at the end of the twelve months.

37,027. Did you go down to Mr. Thomas Creaser Kellock and ask him whether he could do anything about the land?—That was the morning of the polling day.

37,028. What did he say?—He said he could not.

37,029. Did you then tell him you should vote for both the Liberals unless you could have a lease of that ground?—I did.

37,030. Did he say he had no power to do anything of that sort?—Yes.

37,031. Did you afterwards see Mr. Heath?—Yes.

37,032. And told him you would not vote for the Conservatives unless you could get a lease?—Yes.

37,033. What did he say?—He could not do anything without Mr. Bryett.

37,034. You would have an agreement in writing?—Yes.

37,035. Did he say he would see if Mr. Bryett was in the house?—Yes.

37,036. And did he go away and tell you Mr. Bryett was not there?—Yes.

37,037. Did Mr. Heath then tell you to go and vote for Dawkins and Seymour, and you would not be turned out of your ground?—Yes.

37,038. What did you say?—I told him I should not.

37,039. You stayed outside the "Stars" how long?—Till half-past 10 o'clock I should think.

37,040. Had you made up your mind what to do with the second vote when you went away?—No.

37,041. Then did you meet Mr. Jeffery Michelmore and speedily make up your mind?—I met him coming along, and I saw him turn his eye round, and I said, "Shall I do Mr. Seymour any good by voting for "him," and he said he did not know that I should, and I said, "I had better vote for two Liberals as "well as one;" and he said, "You had better go and "do so;" and I went.

37,042. And you had no conversation about the land at all?—No.

37,043. You know Mr. Jeffery Michelmore has told us quite another story?—I did not say anything about land whatever.

37,044. When had you been to Mr. Jeffery Michelmore about the land?—I think I went about Michaelmas, just before or after.

37,045. What year?—Last Michaelmas.

37,046. Do you mean to say you went and voted without having said anything to Mr. Michelmore or anyone on the Liberal side about the land?—Yes, I did.

37,047. Had not you seen Callard?—No; yes, I had seen Mr. Callard; but said nothing about no lands.

37,048. What did you say?—We had a bit of chaff there when I came down. I had a cart there, and some one had in the night upset it, and Callard and Ackrell were coming along, and I called them to help me to get it up, and I remember Mr. Ackrell saying, when he saw Mr. Matcham coming, "He has been "down and has been paid I see, because he is walking "faster than when he went down."

37,049. Who was in the occupation of those fields you now hold?—Joseph Adams.

37,050. Had he had notice to quit?—I do not know.

37,051. Had he given notice?—I do not know.

37,052. When did you first know that they were to be had?—About Michaelmas.

37,053. When did you enter into them?—I think the last week in February.

37,054. Of this year?—Yes.

37,055. What is the holding? A Lady-day holding?—No; I used to pay the rent at Michaelmas, in consideration of the grass in the field.

37,056. Had Mr. Adams given up at Michaelmas?—No, he was still holding possession then.

37,057. Was he to pay rent too?—No; he gave it up at Michaelmas because there was a good piece of grass in it. I pay the rent back to Michaelmas, and all outs, in consideration of the grass.

37,058. And you want to persuade us that you had no conversation with Mr. Michelmore about that land before you voted?—None whatever.

N. Manning.

NICHOLAS MANNING recalled and further examined.

37,059. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you recollect anything more since you were here last?—No. I do not know that I do recollect anything at all. I have just explained to you all that I knew of the circumstances.

37,060. Did you get any money at the election of 1865 from anybody?—No.

37,061. Did not you get some money from Mr. Pender?—I got some money for the church affair; he subscribed 10*l.* towards it. That did not go into my pocket.

37,062. You were several times at the "Seymour Arms"?—No, I only went once.

37,063. And did you see Mr. Pender there?—I did.

37,064. And what did he say about your vote?—He did not then ask me about my vote. I showed him a list of subscribers, and he said he would very gladly give 10*l.* if I would be content with that.

37,065. Was it a cheque or note?—Two 5*l.* notes. This was the morning after the tea took place.

37,066. Were not you at the "Seymour Arms" about the time of the last election?—No.

37,067. You were never seen there at all?—I was never there at all. This was the morning after the tea. We had a subscription through the parish, and he very politely said he would give 10*l.*

37,068. And that was for the screen, was it not?—No, not for the screen. We had not means to pay for the expenses of the church, and twice since I have been churchwarden I have made collections. We have no church rate, or anything of that sort.

37,069. How is it you have not any church rate?—We have not had such a thing since I have been in the parish.

37,070. Did you ever ask Mr. Pender to subscribe for the screen?—No; never thought of it.

37,071. We have heard about the 1852 business, when you got 30*l.* for your brother?—Yes.

37,072. And it has been sworn that you kept half for yourself. Now, from the 1852 election down to the present time have you ever received anything for your vote?—Never.

37,073. At no election between 1852 and the present time have you ever received a present after the election?—No, not even to the amount of a shilling. I never asked for anything or ever received it.

37,074. And had not you any money left at your house after the election?—No.

37,075. Or given to your wife or daughter?—No, I have no daughter and no wife at the present moment, but there was never anything left at my house.

37,076. Do you mean in 1865 and 1863 you did not get a single farthing, not for your vote, but as a present, either before or after the election?—Nothing of the kind; I swear it on oath; I never asked it and I never received it.

37,077. Now about your tenants, you used to make your tenants vote your way?—I never used to interfere with them.

37,078. You never turned a tenant out for not voting your way?—No, I have turned a tenant out, as I told you, because I could make more rent of the house, and another thing, Mr. Farley gave me notice, and went out himself, six months' notice.

37,079. How many tenants have you?—I believe about seven.

37,080. How many voters are there amongst them?—There are six, there is a lady lives in one, Mrs. Manley.

37,081. But all except one are voters?—Yes.

37,082. What are their names?—Kelland votes for whom he feels inclined, he is quite on the Liberal side, I never asked him; Farley, I never asked him in my lifetime, he lived ten years in a house of mine and voted exactly as he felt inclined.

37,083. Who are the others?—Charles Pitts, and one called Briggs, and down in the New Walk is Mr. Butter, exciseman, he did not vote, and now there is a man of the name of Clarke, and I believe he did vote on the Conservative side; I gave him six months' notice to quit, this Clarke.

37,084. Why?—Because I thought I should not get the rent, he was out of his situation.

37,085. Did you ever get any money for any of your tenants?—No, never asked.

37,086. Did you ever give any of them anything?—No; never heard of such a thing. They were in a position to ask for themselves, and I believe they did.

37,087. You mean to say, except the 30*l.* you had for your brother, you never received anything?—Never a shilling. I take a solemn oath I never had a shilling given me. I have dined with the gentlemen, and been to Torquay, but I never received anything.

HENRY BARTLETT recalled.

H. Bartlett.

37,088. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you succeeded in remembering anything more?—I was at the meeting.

37,089. When there was a chaff about the master tailor and the journeyman tailor?—Yes, a mere chaff.

37,090. What was the chaff about, a bribe?—I wanted to know.

37,091. You must know. The chaff stopped when they said, "You had better be careful, because Mr. "Charles Michelmore is here"?—Yes.

37,092. Why did the chaff stop when they said Mr. Charles Michelmore is here?—I do not know.

37,093. You have heard what Mr. Michelmore has sworn?—Yes.

37,094. Do you on your oath deny it?—Yes, most decidedly.

37,095. (Mr. Bere.) It is rather peculiar. Here is a conversation in your presence, in which you are charged with having received a bribe; and, as far as I understand, you did not exhibit anger, and did not contradict the accusation?—I said I would bring an action.

37,096. But not at that time?—No; I did not know what was meant.

37,097. When a person is said to be bribed it is intelligible?—I thought it was a joke in electioneering times, and did not take any notice of it.

37,098. (Mr. Coleridge.) You were at the "Bull" inn?—Yes.

37,099. You made a mistake about that the other day?—Yes.

37,100. Do you recollect anything about money being paid on a cask?—No.

37,101. What do you know about Nicholas Norrish getting money?—Never had any communication with him.

37,102. About twelve months ago you had some row with Mr. Michelmore at the "Railway" hotel?—Yes.

37,103. What did he say then?—He was beastly drunk, and he said, "Don't you know you were "bribed; that you had 75*l.*?"

37,104. Were there several people present?—Yes.

37,105. Did you deny it?—Yes.

37,106. What did you say?—I said I would bring an action.

37,107. Who was your solicitor?—Mr. Edmonds.

37,108. Mr. Holman was present when this chaff took place at the "Seymour" hotel?—Yes.

37,109. Mr. Holman said he understood it was about a bribe?—If he wants to make it so, I do not know.

37,110. What took you to the "Bay Horse" inn?—It was the election day.

37,111. You had been to the "Seven Stars" previously?—Yes.

37,112. What had you heard at the "Seven Stars" that made you go there?—I heard that the other party were going to take away Nicholas Norrish.

37,113. Did you go to assist in taking him up?—There was a carriage waiting on the other side to take Norrish away.

37,114. Did you see Penwill?—Yes.

TWENTY-SIXTH DAY.

H. Bartlett.

24 Sept. 1866.

37,115. Did Penwill say, "If anybody can get "Norrish it will be me"?—He did so, and I dare say he made some arrangement before I knew anything about it.

37,116. Did you succeed in getting Norrish?—Penwill went in and we took him away to vote.

37,117. You mean to say you never got anything on any election for your vote?—Never.

37,118. Any present afterwards?—No.

37,119. Or have any bill paid?—No, never.

37,120. Nothing of the sort?—No.

37,121. (Mr. Bere.) We received a communication from William Adams that he knows a great deal about you?—He generally comes into my shop about the election time.

37,122. Have you ever been chaffing and intimating that you have been bribed?—Never that I recollect; I always took it in joke.

37,123. It may be that the joke has been supposed to be a reality?—I swear to it.

37,124. What is the story about Mr. Michelmore calling at your shop since we have been sitting?—He was very drunk, and he came in and said, "I "understand Narramore is getting up evidence about "this affair of yours, that is, at the 'Railway' hotel." I said, "If you are such a rascal as to go and swear "that, leave my shop."

37,125. I put it to you again; on your oath, have you ever received or given money at any election, directly or indirectly?—No.

37,126. Has your wife ever received any?—No.

37,127. How many people had you working at the last election who were voters?—I believe I had one voter.

37,128. What did he get?—He can answer for himself.

T. Blackler.

THOMAS BLACKLER recalled.

37,129. (Mr. Bere.) You have been examined before?—Yes.

37,130. What have you to tell?—Nothing more than the other day.

37,131. You split your vote because too late?—Yes.

37,132. If you had been paid by the Conservative side you would not have split your vote?—No.

W. Farley.

WILLIAM FARLEY, junior, recalled.

37,133. (Mr. Bere.) You have told us you were paid on three several occasions, and received nothing in 1865?—Nothing in 1865.

37,134. You voted for a Conservative and Liberal?—I voted for Colonel Dawkins and Mr. Pender.

37,135. You split your vote?—Yes.

37,136. What was your reason for splitting your vote?—Not being under any obligation to the Conservative party, I thought I had a right to do as I thought proper.

37,137. You had received money before?—Yes.

37,138. Was not your reason the same as Blackler's that you came rather late?—If I had been under an obligation and I had received remuneration, I would have voted.

37,139. It was because you found there was no money going on the election day that you went and split your vote?—I dare say.

37,140. (Mr. Coleridge.) You were open to take money if it had been offered to you?—Most decidedly.

J. Diggins.

JOHN DIGGINS recalled.

37,141. (Mr. Coleridge.) You were too late?—Yes.

37,142. You would have taken the money if you could get it?—Yes.

Mr. T. E. Owen.

Mr. THOMAS E. OWEN recalled.

37,143. (Mr. Bere.) Have you seen Mr. Brooking Cuming to-day?—No, he has gone away.

37,144. To Exeter?—I think so.

37,145. Do you know when he is likely to be back?—I should think to-morrow.

37,146. (Mr. Coleridge.) If he is well enough to go to Exeter he is well enough to come here?—It is a different ordeal.

37,147. Did you see Mrs. Cuming after the rising of the Court on Saturday?—No, I have not seen her since.

A djourned till to-morrow morning at half-past 10 o'clock.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

Tuesday, 25th September 1866.

Mr. JOHN HEATH recalled.

(Mr. Bere.) When you were last before us, Mr. Heath, I communicated to you the grave suspicions that seemed to the Commissioners to rest upon you, and requested you to use your best endeavours to remove those suspicions. We have delayed making any further communication to you, because evidence has been daily taken before us of a nature to remove or confirm those suspicions, and inquiries have been elsewhere instituted, the result of which we have been but lately acquainted with. The evidence so taken, and the inquiries so instituted, have had the effect of confirming rather than removing those suspicions; and I have now, as the Chairman of the Commission, to inform you that we are unanimously of opinion that your account of the way in which money was distributed in bribery on the Conservative side, at the last election, is most unsatisfactory, and that the burthen of showing that such distribution was made by the hands of a person, not an inhabitant of Totnes, but a stranger, is upon you. We are unable to rely on the truth of your statement of the existence of such a stranger—first, from the generally perverse and inconsistent accounts that you yourself have given, and particularly as to the various matters connected with him, his acts, and his appearance; and secondly, from the strong and clear contradictions to your evidence given by that of other witnesses. On the first day on which you were examined you denied the giving of a cheque to the Matchams, admitted but three cases of bribery by yourself, declared that you did not spend one single sixpence of your own monies, or of those of any one else, beyond the sum of 157*l.*, and you asserted your ignorance of the passing of any actual money to others. Every one of those assertions was corrected by you on the second day of your examinaton; but this specimen of your untruthfulness did not make us hopeful of your revealing to us more than what you imagined we already knew, or your allowing that you were yourself directly responsible for the accounting for the sums of money that admittedly came into your hands. It is also clear to us that your particular assertions with regard to the existence of the stranger in your hotel, to whom the distribution of money was entrusted, cannot be relied upon; as you said, when examined the second time here, that there was but one stranger, with whom you had but little talk, and of whose coming you were unaware, and whom you never saw with Mr. Smith, whose room was No. 13, where you yourself saw him at 9 in the morning, and the number of which you saw written on his notes, and under which number he was entered as your customer. When you were examined at the "Seven Stars," after it was proved beyond a doubt that No. 13 was not occupied by any stranger, you declared your possible ignorance of his having slept in your house, and you said you had gone through the register with him, had had advice that he was coming to Totnes, had pointed out Mr. Smith to him, had seen them, as you believed, talking together, and that two strangers had come down—conflicting statements, not to be reconciled by any possible interpretation of words. Not only do the words coming from your own lips show the untruthfulness of your story, but you are contradicted time after time by witnesses whose testimony is clear, and whose evidence is to be relied upon. William Allery, whom you declared was paid by the stranger, says he was paid by your son James, who brought the money from you. John Godfrey you said had had money in a bag; how much you did not know, yet he says you paid him 40*l.* Mrs. Lombardini is said, by you, to have had a conversation with the stranger, who gave her two bags, whilst she, corroborated by George Evens, asserts that her payment was made by you in an upstairs sitting-room. William Mitchell, you do not know who gave the money to him, and yet he swears that your son, John Heath, junior, gave him 80*l.* Phillips, according to you, met the stranger at the door, and said to you that he did not want to have anything to do with the stranger; that conversation Phillips denies on his oath. John Henry Tope, the strongest case of all, received, according to your account, a bag from the stranger, while in truth he had 50*l.* in notes from you, for which he gave you an I O U drawn to yourself, which you now produce. The witnesses who speak to their having been paid by bribes by a stranger, differ among themselves as to time of receipt, as to appearance of the man, as to place of payment, in such a way as to make their evidence as to his existence worthless, and in no single instance does it uphold the accounts which you give of the dealings with him. The most important witness, however, is your late boots, Pack, with whom you or your sons had not the opportunity of tampering as you may have had with the other servants in your house. He declares positively that no stranger engaged in the distribution of money was ever in your house at the time of the election; your other servants could not be brought to swear to the presence of the stranger, but expressed an entire forgetfulness as to the events of the election. On your own statement, therefore, and on the evidence of the other witnesses, we cannot at present come to any other conclusion but that you, with the aid of your sons, either with or without other help, distributed such portions of the money that came to your hands as you thought fit; and not being able to account for the distribution of the whole, and finding a deficiency of more than 1,700*l.* existing, you now throw the blame on a person whom you are unwilling or unable to produce. All the money either passed into your hands or not; if it did you must account for it, if it did not those who had to pay it over to you must help you to give an account. With this well-grounded disbelief in your assertions, we must put in force the powers we possess, to compel a statement of the truth, and, therefore, we desire you to be in attendance during the sitting of this Commission from day to day until such account be rendered.

37,148. Now, I ask you, have you any further explanation to give?—I am ready to answer any questions My statement, as I have before stated respecting the bags containing the money, was that I never counted them; they were handed to me by Mr. Edmonds. I delivered those parcels to a person who came from London, and who came to my house. My trade account has never been doubted, though I am sorry to hear those strictures of the court; but that such a person was here there is abundant evidence to show. I never counted the money that was handed to me in those bags and I never knew what was in the bags, never parcelled out the money to anyone who had the distribution of it afterwards, with the exception of the cheque to the value of 500*l.*, and that cheque to the value of 500*l.* was handed to me by Mr. Edmonds on the nomination day. I, instead of giving up the vouchers claimed to retain them, but I believe the vouchers have gone to London, and that the whole of the parties, Mr. Smith and Colonel Dawkins, and all those who have had an interest in the election and in keeping those things, not to connect Colonel Dawkins in the event of his being elected, and they are aware how the whole of the money was distributed.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

Mr. J. Heath.

25 Sept. 1866.

37,149. Where did the stranger come from?—He had a north-country accent. He was seen about the town; seen in my office on the election day with a gentleman. I think he went to Plymouth to sleep on the Monday and Tuesday. He was seen in my office, I believe, by some of the voters themselves, and paid their travelling expenses—for instance, Colonel Willoughby's servant-man; and as to the existence of a person for distributing that money, it is as well known to both candidates themselves as you know I am sitting in this chair. I positively swear to it (and I flatter myself I know the nature of an oath as well as a good many), that from the time Mr. Edmonds handed me those parcels of money, which money I never saw, except what he saw. You mentioned the case of Mrs. Lombardini. As to the two 50*l.* notes, she went into a room first of all where the stranger was, and I believe he heard the whole that transpired in the presence of George Evens and his mother-in-law; and I hope sufficient light will be thrown upon this during the investigation to satisfy the court and the public that the statement I have made on oath was literally and truly correct. I am satisfied of it.

37,150. I am afraid I have not clearly explained to you the opinion which we have arrived at. It was, shortly, this. In this uncertainty with regard to the assistance of the stranger at all, the burthen upon you is to relieve the commissioners' minds of the difficulty under which they are labouring, and if you cannot do so their belief will remain that you were the person actively concerned, and you must find him?—This gentleman had a north-country accent, and knew Mr. Pender's affairs as well as I do mine in this town. He saw him crossing the Plains when I went into No. 13 with the bag which was said to contain money, but, for aught I know, it might have been lead, for I never counted it. He came there unknown with brass and little elastic bands to count out the money, as if he was accustomed to the business; and I now declare that, with the exception of a 500*l.* cheque which I had on the nomination day, I never counted up a penny. I think it was handed to me according to the calculations made.

37,151. (Mr. Longe.) Did not I understand you to say that both the candidates knew that the stranger was down?—I believe they did.

37,152. Can you give us more evidence on that point?—I know Mr. Smith was aware of it, for I pointed him out to him.

37,153. That you said before, and Mr. Smith denied it?—Mr. Smith was in an excited state all the time he was here.

37,154. What reason have you for saying that Captain Pim knew it?—I believe both of them knew it.

37,155. What reason have you for saying that either of them knew that there was a person here?—Only from the general understanding that there always has been before. Captain Pim was not engaged in any bribery at all. He would not pay anything towards the expenses of bribery, but it was generally understood by everyone connected with the election that there was a person there distributing the money.

37,156. We have had it denied by every person in your house that there was a stranger?—The very person who waited upon us in my office on the election day and the day before, who was never consulted until a day or two ago, she came there to work again and attended that side of the house, Susan Brown, who brought the lunch and stout, and we had same Burgundy there, which these gentlemen drank, and some of the electors who came there the last day.

37,157. (Mr. Bere.) Who are those electors?—I will refresh my memory about that. And I think I shall be able to show that people were paid there. Certainly Colonel Willoughby's servant was the 5*l.* for his travelling expenses.

37,158. (Mr. Longe.) At all events, as far as my question was concerned, you have no reason for saying that either Captain Pim or Colonel Dawkins knew that there was a stranger down, except some supposition on your part that they supposed there was?—I know Mr. Smith was told over and over again, and that in the presence of Colonel Dawkins.

37,159. Which Mr. Smith has denied upon his oath?—I am upon my oath too, and I am charged with this affair, which I know nothing whatever about. With regard to Pack, he left my service not upon very good terms, for he had been drinking and smoking for some months before he left, and the place got a little too warm for him. What he has stated I do not know, but he did not sleep in the house, he did not even clean the boots; the boots and the underboots did all that kind of work. It is impossible that he could know everyone in the house.

37,160. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have not you stated since you were examined here that you wished you had seen him before he gave his evidence?—Never. An allusion was made to my servants being coached by the chairman; I most distinctly deny that the person in the bar or any servant has been spoken to by me since the Commission was opened.

37,161. You could not have failed to observe that both your waiter and your chambermaid forgot everything connected with that election?—The chambermaid has told me that Mr. Smith slept in No. 15, and she is certain of it now, and she stated it before the Court.

37,162. We have had Mr. Smith's clerk, who states that he slept in No. 15, and Mr. Smith, who swears he slept in No. 13?—Whatever Mr. Smith or his clerks may swear, to take the onus off Mr. Smith's shoulders and put it on other people, I am not answerable for, but I believe it is well known that they know where the person came from and know where to put their hands on him.

37,163. (Mr. Bere.) You must remember this, that the contradictions that appear already on your evidence are contradictions that might be made the grounds of an indictment for perjury?—There may be slight discrepancies, but I think I have made the name of every person known whenever I have heard of it. I perfectly well know that I am on my oath, and I say that this person had two registers with him, which I saw on the Saturday morning; he went through those and there were ticks which he had, from what source I am not at all aware. I never went out of my doors to call on any voter and offer any money; the few I gave to must have been sent for by or through him or his messengers, and brought to our house, and he either paid them himself or handed me the money, which must have been arranged as to the amount with some other person than myself. I did not, for I never knew the amount. I asked in some cases, "What have you done?" and he said, "Agreed to give 20*l.* or 50*l.*, as the case may be.

(Mr. Bere.) You had better have some time, and unless you find that person, our impressions will remain just as they are now.

(Mr. Longe.) You see the contradictions are not slight discrepancies, as you call them.

(Mr. Heath.) I gave the name of every individual I paid, and that has been fully borne out by the persons who have come here. As to the mode in which it was carried out, I did not negotiate the thing, or make the bargain with one in ten.

37,164. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you still repeat that the money, whatever it was, was paid in bags, and that you did not know the amount?—In a great many cases. It is impossible that I should remember each time.

37,165. You have not told us yet a single case in which you paid any money, and you have sworn the money was an unknown sum to you, and given in a bag?—I have given the secretary vouchers which were found in my son's office, of the gross amount.

37,166. Now you have, but until now you never acknowledged paying a single voter notes or money. You knew something was in the bag, but you did not know what?—Excepting 500*l.* was distributed with my knowledge, and the vouchers have been produced making that sum.

37,167. That is the first time you have told us that?—I gave the secretary the vouchers as soon as ever they were found. They were found in my son's office, looking for the gross amount.

37,168. That was only yesterday morning. Do you mean that the only way you have of recollecting that you had paid that 500*l.* was from from finding those?—Yes, entirely so.

37,169. When you found the vouchers you recollected you had paid the money?—If you asked me whether it was in notes or gold I should not know.

37,170. I asked you over and over again, and you every time asserted that it was in a bag, and you did not know the amount. Did you forget you had given any of the sums of money not in bags?—I could not prove so.

37,171. You swore on your oath that you had given away no money, either in gold or notes, to your knowledge of the amounts. Do you wish to withdraw that now, and say that 500*l.* you did give away in notes and gold?—I told the secretary at the beginning that I was privy to the outlay of 500*l.*, and I think my evidence will prove that.

37,172. The impression left by your evidence was that whatever money you gave away was an unknown quantity to you because it was in bags. Do you wish to withdraw that now, and say that this 500*l.* was distributed by you in gold and notes, and you knew the amounts you gave to the respective people?—I only distributed 300*l.*, and then this gentleman was in my office when I collected that cash and gave it to him on the nomination day, and he counted it.

37,173. Of that 500*l.* you distributed something like 300*l.* in gold and notes to different voters?—When I gave the 200*l.* and odd to this gentleman in my office, on the nomination day, the names were there of the parties who had to be paid.

37,174. How came these vouchers in your son's office?—They were in my son's office and were not found until lately. If we had had them when I first came up the thing would have been explained.

37,175. Are you sure those vouchers do not relate to 1863?—They belong to the last election, which the parties can prove who received the different amounts. Perhaps I may take this opportunity of stating what may be something in extenuation, if not in justification, of the course adopted by the Conservatives. As to the legality of it I will say nothing, because we are all aware of the law with respect to corrupt practices. But from the time that the Duke of Somerset broke his contract with the Conservatives, we have felt bound to fight him with his own weapons. He has lent himself to the minority to swamp and subdue the majority of this town, and in addition to the influence brought on the electors through the land, I believe that the duke's agents have been privy to bribery, and have acted in concert with those gentlemen who have given them the money to distribute here. The duke came here in 1835, after voting against the Reform Bill in Parliament, and he introduced himself to the electors in this hall as a Conservative, and as professing Conservative principles, on account, as we supposed, of his own borough of Oakhampton being included in Schedule A. He came here, and the Conservative electors took him up in consideration of his Grace of Somerset being the owner of some 8000 or 10,000 acres of land, as well as the impropriator of the tithes in Totnes and Berry Pomeroy. He was opposed by the Radicals, 73 of whom voted for Mr. Mayne; but the majority of the Conservatives supported Lord Seymour, and he was elected by a majority of 80. From that time he was supported by the Conservatives. After that an agreement was entered into between the present Duke of Somerset and the Conservatives at Mr. Tracey's house in Bridgetown, whereby they were to give each other mutual support.

37,176. (Mr. Coleridge.) We have heard all about that already.

(The Witness.) He came here when he accepted office under the Government in the Woods and Forests, and the Liberals came to us and proposed that they would vote for any Conservative we liked if we would throw the duke over, and we kept that agreement faithfully and supported him. The next time he came here with Mr. Mills, the banker, who was a very rich man, and Mr. Parnell met me in the street and said, "We shall beat you this time; we have got the money." And true enough, at 3 o'clock the duke turned over a certain number of his tenants to the other side, and we were beaten; and from that time we felt aggrieved, and were determined to fight for our independence.

37,177. Was not the first occasion that any money was spent when Mr. Baldwin came here?—I do not remember that. In 1839, when Baldwin and Blount were just on a level, they would have given 100*l.* for a vote, or even 500*l.* to turn the scale.

37,178. Mr. Baldwin had spent all the money he had in this place?—I have heard that he spent a great deal of money.

37,179. That was before the time of the duke breaking his agreement. The bribery on the Conservative side was rampant in this place long before the duke broke his agreement?—It must have been when Mr. Blount was a candidate. From that time to this we have found gentlemen to come and fight the Liberals with their own weapons. That, I hold, may be a justification to a certain extent of the mode in which we have conducted the business.

37,180. Had you the slightest notion that you would have been able to carry two conservatives at the last election?—We were certain of one if the men who signed the requisition had not been over bought.

37,181. But not to carry two?—It was considered necessary to have a second candidate to take off the votes.

37,182. (Mr. Longe.) At the last election do you know from whom the money came that was spent in bribery at the "Seven Stars"?—I only know from what Mr. Edmonds told me.

37,183. From whom do you suppose it came?—From Mr. Smith or Colonel Dawkins.

37,184. Did the money pass through your hands?—Not as cash.

37,185. But in some shape?—In parcels.

37,186. It came in that way from Mr. Edmonds?—It did.

37,187. Did you ever take the trouble of getting any receipt or acknowledgment from Colonel Dawkins or from Mr. Smith, in order to protect you from any difficulty about the distribution of the money?—I gave the receipts to Mr. Edmonds.

37,188. How many receipts did you give to Mr. Edmonds?—I think it was three.

37,189. For what purpose did you give those receipts to Mr. Edmonds?—To satisfy him; that if he enclosed a bill of parcels, notes, 500*l.*, gold 500*l.*, so far as I was concerned my hands were clean—I had nothing to do with the money.

37,190. Did you write out the receipts?—I did not.

37,191. Who did?—The person who counted the money.

37,192. In what form was the receipt?—I think I never saw above one or two; one was, I believe, "I acknowledge the correctness of this;" one of these was handed to me by a party in my office, and two of them were sent to me in an envelope some time after. I never saw a penny of the money, with the exception of the 500*l.* cheque. When we found that the prices offered on the other side were so high that they had gone out round the country and offered 100*l.* or more for a vote, although Colonel Dawkins, as I heard Mr. Smith say, was ready to have gone 1,000*l.* further, I consulted Mr. Edmonds on the subject, as well as Mr. Smith himself, and I said it was useless to drag Colonel Dawkins into any further outlay when there was a chance of our being beaten after all. If we had had the other 1,000*l.* there were persons who had been promised money, and who only received part, who would have been paid; but, inasmuch as that 1,000*l.* was never received they have not been paid.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

Mr. J. Heath.

25 Sept. 1866.

37,193. Do you know the form of these receipts?—I saw one when Mr. Edmonds opened it.

37,194. What form was it in?—Received 1,000*l.* or 1,500*l.*, or whatever it was.

37,195. Who was it signed by?—The gentleman whom I gave the thing to.

37,196. Was that the gentleman in No. 13?—I think it was.

37,197. What was the name?—I think it was Jackson. I am almost sure of it. I have always thought so. Whether he signed it A. B. or C. D., I am not certain.

37,198. So far as your memory serves you, you saw this name on a piece of paper?—I am convinced, and those who know me in this neighbourhood are convinced, that a gentleman was sent here from the Carlton club, or from Mr. Smith, or through his clerks; they want to get the odium off their own shoulders and cast it on mine, and I am convinced that Mr. Smith or his clerks, if they do not know the person, know there was such a man here. Mr. Smith's clerk swore that I was in Mr. Smith's room during the nomination. I swear that I never was in his room while he was in the house, nor do I know the room in which he slept.

37,199. Were you never at No. 13 during the day of the nomination?—Was I?

37,200. Yes?—I do not remember it, it is possible that I may have been, but not with him.

37,201. Now about this receipt; you saw a receipt?—I saw the form of a receipt opened by Mr. Edmonds in my presence.

37,202. Give us, as far as you recollect, what the form was.—I really do not remember.

37,203. Did you see the name it was signed by; was it "Jackson"?—I think R. J. or some such name; that has been the impression on my mind.

37,204. What sum of money was it a receipt for?—I do not know whether it was 1,000*l.* or 500*l.* or 700*l.*, or what. I know that if there is any imputation on me for having undertaken anything, or in any way having interfered, it was only thrown in my way by my being the proprietor of that house; if I had not been, the chances are that I should not have been mixed up with it.

37,205. Was the word "Mum" on the receipt?—I think I saw "Mum" on the 700*l.* receipt; the 700*l.* or the 1,000*l.*

37,206. Do you mean that he signed at one time "Mum" and at another time "J," or "R. J.?"—I saw the name of "Mum" most distinctly. They have always been described as "Mum;" we have had a man for the last three elections since I have lived in the house, strangers, to prevent the thing being traceable to the persons who advanced the money.

37,207. You passed over the receipts to Mr. Edmonds?—I did.

37,208. (Mr. Bere.) For this sum of 700*l.*, did you have a receipt?—I do not know that it was 700*l.*, but whatever the amount was I did.

37,209. Did you swear that you ever took or saw a receipt for 700*l.*?—I thought there was one for 700*l.*, but I do not know it; Mr. Edmonds opened the letter in my presence, and it was signed "R. J." or "Mum." I saw the word "Mum" on a receipt most distinctly; Mr. Smith and Mr. Edmonds will hold me harmless with respect to that.

37,210. We wish you to understand this, that your position, in our judgment, is not that there was no stranger, but that you are responsible until the stranger is proved to have existed.—But I never fetched him, or knew where he came from. I should imagine that it devolves upon Mr. Smith's shoulders.

37,211. Have you used all your efforts to find him?—I went to London, and I will go to Manchester and the neighbourhood to find him. I know he is a north country man, and that he knows Mr. Pender's affairs.

37,212. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he tell you that he knew Mr. Pender personally?—Yes, he had seen Mr. Pender; he was in No. 13 when I handed him the first bag of money, and he said, "There goes John Pender." He was going across to Mr. Wright's house.

37,213. Are you still convinced that No. 13 was the room in which he was?—The room in which I paid him the first amount.

37,214. That is the room Mr. Smith swears was his room during the whole of the time, and his clerks?—So I am told, and it seems strange for Mr. Smith to say that. I know he was about the house in a highly excited state all the time he was there. It is my testimony against his.

S. Saunders.

SAMUEL SAUNDERS recalled and examined.

37,215. (Mr. Bere.) When you were examined before, you told us that at the time of the election you received 20*l.* for your services, is that all you received?—That is true, that was for Richards, not for me.

37,216. (Mr. Coleridge.) You never told us about that before?—Nothing was asked me on that subject.

37,217. Do you not know that you are sworn to tell the whole truth?—As far as I was asked. I did not know I was to say anything about him; I thought he would answer for himself.

37,218. Who paid you this 60*l.*?—It was a man on the ground floor, I do not know the man.

37,219. What do you mean by "I O U, John Heath, 60*l.*"; who was present?—A stranger was present, and Mr. Heath was there.

37,220. Mr. John Heath?—Yes.

37,221. Anyone else?—No, sir, I did not see any person else.

37,222. What sort of a stranger?—I do not know; I did not look at him to see what he was like.

37,223. Who handed you the packet, Mr. Heath or the stranger?—I took it off the table.

37,224. What was it in?—Brown paper.

37,225. Did you count it?—No, I did not.

37,226. Did you give the I O U for 60*l.* before you counted the money?—Yes; there was some of it for Richards.

37,227. Who told you it was 60*l.*?—I did not know it was 60*l.* I was told to put my name to a bit of paper.

37,228. Who wrote the I O U for 60*l.*?—I could not swear positively who did.

37,229. Did Mr. John Heath write it?—I could not swear.

37,230. Did the stranger write it?—That I cannot swear.

37,231. Did you write it?—No; I wrote that under.

37,232. Who wrote in pencil "for Richards"; did not Mr. Heath write it?—I do not know who wrote it.

37,233. Was it written at the time you signed it or afterwards?—I merely put my name to a bit of paper for Richards.

37,234. Do you mean to say you put your name to this man's I O U for 60*l.*, without knowing what you received?—I took up a little parcel on the table and I was told to give it to Richards. I gave it to him.

37,235. Who told you it was 60*l.*?—He told me when I gave it to him.

37,236. Do you mean to say that anyone in his senses would sign that acknowledgment, without knowing it was 60*l.*?—I took up the parcel off the table and carried it away.

37,237. Was it the stranger or Mr. Heath?—I suppose it was one of them.

37,238. Which of them told you?—I cannot recollect which.

37,239. Did one of them tell you?—One may, no doubt, because he told me that it was for Richards.

37,240. Did one of them tell you it was 60*l.*?—He may have.

37,241. Had you agreed with Mr. Richards to get

60*l.* for him ?—I had agreed to see about getting some money for him.

37,242. Had you agreed to get 60*l.* for him ?—It may have been.

37,243. Had Richards told you how much you were to get ?—He did not tell me how much I was to get.

37,244. How did you know ?—I saw Mr. Heath the night before, and he told me I was to have something for Richards.

37,245. Did he tell you what ?—I do not know.

37,246. How did you know it was 60*l.* ?—I saw it after.

37,247. When ?—When I gave it to Richards. If it was only 20*l.* I should have signed it just the same. It was not for me, it was for Richards.

37,248. Suppose he had asked you to sign and it turned out to be 40*l.* ?—I should have done it; that is the reason I have for it.

37,249. Would you have signed your name for 60*l.* if he had given you 20*l* ?—I do not know.

37,250. Was it not counted out ?—No ; I took it up, it was in a little brown paper.

37,251. Nobody told you you were to get 60*l.* ?—No.

37,252. You signed this I O U for 60*l.* in utter ignorance of what it was ?—I signed the paper and did not know what it was. I gave it to Richards.

37,253. You saw it counted out afterwards, was it in gold or notes ?—Gold.

37,254. What is Richards' christian name ?—Henry.

37,255. Where does he live ?—He went from here to Bristol. I heard he was gone up to London. I do not know where he is now.

37,256. Has he been in Totnes since the election ?—Yes.

37,257. How long has he been gone ?—About two months.

37,258. Is he any relation of yours ?—None whatever.

37,259. How came you to manage it for him; were you intimate with him ?—Yes.

37,260. Did you tell him you had any for yourself ?—I did not have any.

37,261. Did you tell him what you were going to get ?—I was told I was going to have something as well as the rest. I did not get any.

37,262. You got 20*l.* ?—Yes, I got some then.

37,263. Is Mr. Richards in Totnes now ?—No.

37,264. What is he ?—A brush maker ; he went to work for Mr. Reeves.

37,265. Where did he live ?—Up where Mr. Reeves lives.

37,266. Has he got a wife ?—Yes.

37,267. Is she here ?—No ; gone away with him to Bristol. I heard he was going to London, but whether he has gone I do not know.

37,268. Has he got any relations in this place ?—Yes, a mother.

37,269. Where does she live ?—At the "Kingsbridge Inn."

37,270. Is there a brother of Mr. Richards here in court ?—Yes.

37,271. (Mr. Bere.) You know that you are bound in answering the questions to tell us what you know; is there anybody else you bribed at the last election ?—No.

37,272. Or that you got money for ?—No.

37,273. That you swear ?—Yes.

Edmund Richards sworn and examined. E. Richards.

37,274. (Mr. Coleridge.) When did your brother leave this town ?—About two months ago.

37,275. What made him go away ?—Something about the rent affair. I think it was agreed he would leave it altogether.

37,276. Do you know where he has gone to ?—He went to Bristol.

37,277. When did you last hear from him ?—I saw him last Sunday week. He is in Plymouth now.

37,278. Where ?—Stopping at No. 36, Adelaide Street, Stonehouse.

37,279. Do you know anything about his having money at the last election ?—No.

37,280. Who is he working with ?—Mr. Watts' the brush manufacturer.

37,281. Have you a vote for the borough ?—No.

37,282. Did you know that your brother got money at the last election ?—I have heard so.

37,283. Did he tell you so ?—No, he actually denied it to me.

Mr. Thomas Hunt Edmonds recalled and examined. Mr. T. H. Edmonds.

37,284. (Mr. Bere.) What became of the receipts which were handed to you by Mr. Heath ?—I destroyed them.

37,285. What made you destroy them, they are your vouchers ?—I did not know that there was any use in keeping them. Mr. Smith left the matter entirely to me. He told me from the first he would have nothing to do with money matters. He wished to leave it in my hands ; he did not wish to know anything about it. I was satisfied myself in receiving it.

37,286. Did you ever receive any account of the way in which the money had been distributed by the stranger ?—Never.

37,287. (Mr. Longe.) You never saw him ?—I am not aware that I ever saw him. In fact when Mr. Heath was there he told me, after the man had arrived, that he was there, and asked if I should like to see him. I said, "No, I beg you will not point him out to me."

37,288. As a professional man you satisfied yourself with taking a piece of paper with "Mum's" receipt, and tearing it up with no other proof of the payment ?—At such a time as at an election time.

37,289. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was there much money received from Mr. Heath ?—First, 1,500*l.* ; the second, 1,000*l.* ; and the third, 700*l.*

37,290. In what form was the first ?—"Mr. Mum acknowledges the receipt of 1,500*l.*"

37,291. No signature ?—None.

27,292. What was the second ?—Just in a similar form.

37,293. What was the third ?—I said the other day I was not sure whether I had a third or not. Now Mr. Heath mentions it, I did receive it.

37,294. Was it signed Jackson or R. J. ?—No.

37,295. Do you recollect the 700*l.* receipt ?—One was 1,500*l.* ; the second was for 1,000*l.*, and the third was for 1,000*l.*

37,296. No 700*l.* at all ?—No.

Richard Andrews recalled and examined. R. Andrews.

37,297. (Mr. Bere.) Have you anything more to tell us now ?—No. I do not know whether this paper will help you (handing a paper to the Commissioners.) That is a voter of the same name.

37,298. That is not yourself ?—No, my name is Richard Andrews.

37,299. Do you mean Richard John ?—John Andrews.

37,300. The facts against you are that you have admitted at one election you received 50*l.* ?—I do.

37,301. The suspicion attaches, having received that 50*l.*, that you would not be unwilling to receive bribes

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

R. Andrews.

25 Sept. 1866.

at other elections, upon the information we have received, and from persons who have carefully considered the matter, that you are a person likely to be bribed?—I should be most happy to hear anyone if anyone, can bring a charge against me.

37,302. Have you at any election either directly or indirectly received any benefit whatever from your vote?—None whatever.

37,303. No benefit?—None.

37,304. Have you directly or indirectly influenced any person to give a vote?—I have not.

37,305. At any election?—Never.

37,306. Except the one you have spoken of?—The one I told you of in 1852.

Capt. B. Pim.

Captain Bedford Pim recalled and examined.

37,307. (Mr. Bere.) I think you made a little mistake down here the other day by saying you called upon Mr. James with Colonel Dawkins?—I do not think it is at all material with whom I went.

37,308. Did you go with Colonel Dawkins?—My impression is, I went with Colonel Dawkins. I may have been mistaken.

37,309. The facts as deposed to by other witnesses are, that you called with Mr. Murchison?—Mr. Murchison could prove that; my recollection does not go so far as to enable me to swear that.

37,310. Did Mr. Murchison go with you to canvass?—He certainly did not go round with me canvassing; he may have gone on that occasion. I am not prepared to swear he did.

37,311. Do you remember a conversation that passed between you and Mr. James upon that occasion?—You must be perfectly well aware in going round among 300 or 400 people, as I had, it would be impossible for me to repeat verbatim any conversations with any of them.

37,312. We do not ask you for that, we ask you whether you cannot give your impression of the conversation that passed between you and Mrs. James?—I read Mr. James's evidence in the papers this morning, and I think it very probable that he was quite right, and it was said in reference to my speaking of my first love, and so on.

37,313. What made Mrs. James state if you stayed much longer you would be converted?—She is rather an amiable woman.

37,314. In politics or what?—I do not mean politics.

37,315. She was not talking of politics at that time, was she?—She was talking about all sorts of things.

37,316. We have heard a good deal of evidence given this morning, or rather there is a want of evidence about the presence of a stranger at the "Seven Stars" during the election, a person concerned in the distribution of the money; did you yourself ever see any such person?—Never.

37,317. Were you ever in No. 13 bedroom?—As I told you before, I was, I think, in every room in the house.

37,318. What made you go into that bedroom?—I took a very great interest in it; I was learning, and I got interested in the whole election, not only every room in the house, but every house in the town.

37,319. What interest in the election had you to take you up to No. 13 bedroom?—I was seeing what was going on.

37,320. Do you consider that electioneering matters are conducted in bedrooms?—I never had anything to do with electioneering matters before the general election, which was my first essay.

37,321. Though you did not yourself see the distributor, did you hear that such a person was there?—Not till after the election was over.

37,322. How long after?—When the election began to be talked about. I had no idea of Mr. Mums in those days.

37,323. Did you hear of it in London or here?—In London possibly.

37,324. Who was the first person who told you about it?—Really I cannot tell you.

37,325. Did you hear of it before you saw Mr. Spofforth about the petition?—I do not think I did.

37,326. Was there not a discussion with Mr. Spofforth whether you were not the best person to petition?—No. The feeling was that we were certain to carry the petition, and that Colonel Dawkins deserved the seat, and I do not remember any conversation otherwise.

37,327. Did not Mr. Spofforth suggest to you to claim the seat for yourself?—He may have done so, but I should not have entertained it if he did.

37,328. You saw Mr. James at his house. Did you also canvass him in the street?—I dare say I may have spoken to him in the street.

37,329. Did he make some complaint to you as to how he had been treated?—Yes.

37,330. What did he say to you?—There were such a number of complaints and conversations that it is impossible to say exactly what it is. I should have forgotten Mr. James altogether if it had not been for his name coming up so prominently lately.

37,331. Did he lead you to understand that he had been ill-treated by the Liberals or the Conservatives?—I think by the Conservatives.

37,332. Did not you say to him, "Cannot we do something for you?"—I went upon two principles. I told everybody that it was not my intention to bribe in the least, and whenever people said, "I should not like to vote against you," I said, "Well, I must beg "of you as a personal favour to vote dead against me "if that is your inclination." Those were the principles.

37,333. One of those two principles you did not act up to?—I did.

37,334. You did not abstain from offering bribes?—I did.

37,335. Did you see Mr. Narramore?—Perhaps I did.

37,336. Did not you ask him to offer bribes?—No; and as everybody well knows I did not intend to bribe.

37,337. Do you know Narramore by sight?—Yes, perfectly well.

37,338. Did he come to you early on the morning of the election?—He may have done.

37,339. Did you go through the poll-book with him?—I took little interest with him. I left it entirely with others; but it is hard to say against another man's oath that I did not.

37,340. I put it to you, did not you suggest to Narramore to go and offer a certain number of Liberal voters sums of money, so as to induce the Liberals to pay more for the votes?—No.

37,341. Did not you suggest it yourself?—No; it is so highly improbable.

37,341*a*. Did you go out on the morning of the election in a carriage with young James Heath to a place called ?—I do not know; I went everywhere.

37,342. Did you go out with Mr. James Heath on the morning of the election?—I do not know.

37,343. Did you go to a man's house called Earle?—I do not remember the names, but I went to a number of electors.

37,344. Who suggested to you to go that time of the morning?—I was entirely in young Mr. James Heath's hands as regards the canvassing, and he advised me. I knew nothing of this town personally, not the name of a voter.

37,345. You had canvassed some of those people before, I suppose?—No; I do not think I had canvassed. You must remember that I only came here on the Friday, and I was only two or three days in the town.

37,346. You were very active?—Yes.

37,347. You went round and saw most of the people?—Yes.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

Capt. B. Pim.

25 Sept. 1866.

37,348. What made you go out on the morning of the election to see those various persons?—Because Mr. James Heath told me it was necessary.

37,349. What did he tell you?—He said it was necessary to see the voters to obtain their votes if possible, and I put myself unreservedly in Mr. James Heath's hands, as he took me everywhere.

37,350. Did not you know when you went with Mr. Heath that those voters you were going to were persons that wanted to be bribed?—No, I did not.

37,351. Do you remember going to a house where you were asked whether you would have a cup of cider?—I was asked to have a dozen cups of cider. Everybody asked me to have a cup of cider, and I had many a cup of cider.

37,352. (Mr. Bere.) Did you go to the house of a man called Pearce?—I do not remember the name.

37,353. Between four and five miles off?—I do not remember the name at all.

37,354. As you were standing at the door of the "Seven Stars," during the day of the election, did you see a voter called Hole crossing over the Plains?—I do not remember his name.

37,355. Did you see a voter whose name you asked, and, on learning about him, did you walk over and talk to him about his vote?—I spoke to everybody who had a vote.

37,356. Did you go and have a private conversation with a voter on the morning of the election, on the Plains?—I may have done so; but it is impossible for me to answer these things on my oath; I cannot do it.

37,357. It is a matter I should think that you can remember. It is an unusual thing to hold a conversation with a voter about 4 o'clock in the morning?—I really do not remember. I would tell you directly if I remembered, because I have nothing to conceal.

37,358. (Mr. Longe.) There is a man named William John Willis; he says, he, you, and Narramore, made up the poll-book?—I have not the slightest recollection of it.

37,359. (Mr. Coleridge.) Narramore has sworn this; this is Narramore's examination:—"Did you "know George Penny?—Yes, I knew him. Did "you offer him some money?—Yes, I offered him "350*l.* About what time was that?—I think on "the morning of the election, or on the nomination "day. Was it after 9 o'clock?—About 9 o'clock "on the day of the poll. Who had authorized you "to offer him 350*l.*?—I was authorized to do so by "Captain Pim." Is that true or not?—Most distinctly not true.

37,360. You swear that is false?—Yes, most distinctly.

37,361. Had you said chaffingly, he might go over and offer what he liked?—I do not know.

37,362. You came here on purity principles?—Yes, and I stuck to them.

37,363. If you had been beguiled into chaffing about that, you might recollect it?—I cannot.

37,364. Had you commissioned Narramore to offer Penny any money?—No.

37,365. You swear that is a false answer?—Yes, most decidedly.

37,366. "Where had you seen Captain Pim, so that "he could have authorized you to do this?—I had "been up the whole of the night with him." Is that true?—Most likely. The place was full of people.

37,367. Try and recollect. Did you go over the poll book with Mr. Narramore, and did not you ask him who were suspicious persons, and afterwards send him out to try them?—There was a committee sitting all night.

37,368. Did not you go through the poll book with Narramore?—It is very hard to swear; the time was too exciting and one cannot remember.

37,369. During the night were you with several persons, or with Mr. Narramore alone?—I do not believe that I left the house all night at all.

37,370. Was Narramore with you at the "Seven "Stars" at any time between 2 in the morning and 5 in the morning?—He may have been.

37,371. Did you send for him to come to the "Stars" after he had gone home?—I do not think so.

37,372. Do you recollect sending for anybody at 3 o'clock?—Certainly not.

37,373. Can you swear that you did not send for Narramore?—No.

37,374. Do you swear you did?—No.

37,375. You have no recollection?—No; but if you let your mind run upon the circumstances of the two days of the election you will understand it.

37,376. Here is a man swearing to this?—A great deal of the conversation may have passed in a chaffing spirit.

37,377. Did you tell Narramore in a chaffing spirit that he might go and try certain voters?—I do not believe I did.

37,378. If he had taken it seriously you would have been surprised?—Yes.

37,379. You think Narramore is wrong?—I think he is mistaken.

37,380. That he has invented it?—I do not like to say that.

37,381. I will put the questions to you seriatum:—"Where had you seen Captain Pim, so that he could "have authorized you to do this?—I had been up the "whole of the night with him. Where was that?"—At the 'Seven Stars' hotel, he had a private "room to himself there." Do you recollect going through the poll-book with him?—No.

37,382. Do you recollect going through the poll-book with Willis?—No; I think Narramore must be mistaken. I took little interest, and what interest I took was with Captain Veitch; he made up my poll-book.

37,383. Was he present when he went through the poll-book with Narramore?—I cannot say.

37,384. Had you not sent Narramore to Dartmouth on the day before?—No.

37,385. No recollection of sending him to see a voter?—No.

37,386. Did you send Harris?—I do not recollect.

37,387. Did you send anybody to Dartmouth?—How could I have sent anybody to Dartmouth unless I was told.

67,388. You may have been told, and then sent somebody to see somebody. Do you recollect sending anybody to see anybody at Dartmouth?—No.

ROBERT HARRIS recalled and further examined.

R. Harris.

37,389. (Mr. Bere.) What happened about that case at Dartmouth?—To the best of my recollection, to give you the particulars, I think you will find in my evidence that I stated before, I was up the whole of the night. Powning was with me and two or three other parties, and I remember Narramore coming in once or twice into the room. I was the poll man at that time and there were several parties that we considered ought to be seen. I remember Captain Pim coming in once or twice, and also a gentleman that I thought then was Mr. Mum, and who turns out now to be Mr. Murchison. I told you before that I had never seen Mr. Mum to have a conversation with him. Murchison came into the room about 4 o'clock, and there was a man called Paddon living at Dartmouth, and it was deemed advisable that I should go to Dartmouth and see him. I had a carriage and went and saw Paddon, but I found that he had promised his vote, and there was an end of it; and he came and voted.

37,390. To whom did you report that?—I do not think I did report it.

37,391. Was Captain Pim in the room when you were directed?—I was not directed. I do not think it was Captain Pim who ordered anything to be done. It was a general conversation. There was Willis and Narramore there, and I think they are both right. I do not think there was anything directly said by Captain Pim.

37,392. What were you prepared to offer him when you went down?—No money; nothing said about money.

37,393. But the general instruction was that you had power to offer money?—No, I never had power to offer money.

37,394. You had power to find out what money was wanted, and then to communicate?—My office was rather to see individuals and learn what position they were in.

37,395. To learn what they expected, and then come back and give your information to those who were to furnish the money?—Yes. But I found Paddon had promised his vote to Mr. Pender, and there was an end of it, and I think Captain Pim and Narramore are both right. There was a conversation, and I remember it well, about going up the hill at 4 o'clock in the morning, but I think Narramore was ordered to go to this man; but I do not think it was Captain Pim who ordered him; it was amongst ourselves. We said, "Let us go and see so-and-so."

37,396. Was Captain Pim near enough to hear?—He was in and out.

37,397. He went himself and saw one of the voters early in the morning?—I do not know. I went away about half-past 4.

Captain Pim.

Captain Pim recalled and further examined.

37,398. (Mr. Coleridge.) The next question is, "What was the number of the room in which you "saw him at the 'Seven Stars'? I think it was "No. 7." Was that your private sitting-room?—Mr. Heath can tell you, I cannot.

(Mr. Bere.) Was that a committee-room Mr. Narramore?

(Mr. Narramore.) Yes; that was the committee-room.

37,399. (Mr. Coleridge to the witness.) "Was "Colonel Dawkins present at the time you are "speaking of?—He was not present. What time in "the morning was it when Captain Pim as you say "gave you these instructions?—Between half-past 3 "and 4 o'clock in the morning." Is that true that you gave him instructions?—I think Mr. Harris has put a right construction upon it.

37,400. But this is another affair?—I do not know anything about it.

37,401. "Did he mention any voters to you at that "time or did you to him?—We went through the "poll-book together and suggested a number of "names." Is that true?—I do not remember. I have not the faintest recollection of it.

37,402. Have you any recollection of Mr. Narramore and Captain Veitch going through the poll-book in your presence?—He may have done so. If I remember right, Captain Veitch went home to bed about 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning.

37,403. If anybody went through the poll-book with you, it would be Narramore?—I do not think anybody did.

37,404. Are you prepared, in opposition to what he has sworn, to say that you did not, and did not make comments on the voters?—I cannot.

37,405. You will not contradict him?—No.

37,406. This is the following: "I offered George Cole 500*l.* for a pig;" do you remember that?—I do not remember anything about it. Everybody kept bribery questions from me.

37,407. So I thought till I had had this evidence.—I contradict that I authorized or bribed a shilling in this town.

37,408. Did you authorize chaffingly to offer money to put up the bribes on the other side?—I do not consider that I did offer it chaffingly; if I had done it chaffingly I should consider that I should have to pay it.

37,409. "I offered George Cole 500*l.* for a pig." "How was it that you did not get the pig?—"He "seemed rather astonished when I first made him the "offer. You should understand that I began at a much "lower figure than that, and at last got up to 500*l.*"

37,410. Did he tell you anything chaffingly about offering 500*l.* for a pig?—I do not think he did.

37,411. I suppose he thought that it was all chaff on your part?—"He promised me that he would meet "me in the Stores Field. He had to go to Newton "market, and I believe a telegram had been sent there "that morning stating that it was all up with the elec-"tion on our side, and I suppose Cole must have heard "of that, for he came back earlier than I expected "him. I suppose that you never meant to give him "this money?—Never. Did the same thing take place "with regard to Sloggett?—I had previously offered "him 200*l.*, and he would have had it." Did you know anything about that?—No.

37,412. "In reality, should you have given any of "these men these large sums?—I certainly should "have given Sloggett the 200*l.* Should you have "given Penny the 350*l.*? Captain Pim told me that if "I could get him up on the Tor I might keep the "150*l.* and give him 200*l.*" Did you ever do that?—No.

37,413. Did you ever tell Narramore that he might keep a portion of the money?—No, I had nothing to do with it.

37,414. He has sworn this, and I am reading you what he has said, and asking you whether it is true?—No.

37,415. "Did you think there was any chance of "getting the 150*l.*?—No.—What was Sloggett, that "you offered him this large sum; was he a valuable "person or not?—He was a member of what has been "called the 'Slippery Company.'"

37,416. (Mr. Longe.) Do you remember early in the day of the election, about 4 o'clock, going out of the "Stars," "running out," I understood the expression to be, and getting hold of a man just on his way from the trains to the "Seymour Arms," and trying to bring him into the "Stars?"—I do not remember; but if a voter was passing me and I had not seen him, it is likely I would go and speak to him. I was very active indeed in my canvass, and if I had been told that there was in any room in the house a voter who had not promised his vote, I should have gone out if it was 1 o'clock in the morning.

37,416*a*. Four o'clock in the morning Willis swears he told you that a man called William Hole was coming by the 4 o'clock train. You suggested that Mr. Heath should be communicated with, did you do that?—I have no recollection of doing so.

37,417. Do you remember Narramore and Willis coming back on the morning of the election about 4 o'clock?—I could not tax my recollection on oath as regards any of those incidents of the nomination day and the polling day, I really could not.

37,418. It is the only transaction of this kind we have heard of.—I was up all night myself; the house was full of people, and Mr. Murchison made a speech there in the ball-room. There was the greatest excitement.

37,419. (Mr Bere.) Not only has Narramore sworn, according to the evidence read to you, but Willis and Barker have all made statements implicating you, if those statements be true, with bribery. And if you cannot recollect sufficient facts to be able to depose to the untruthfulness of those statements, we may be obliged to rely on those statements as true, and put you down among the list of bribers.—I have given you on my oath that I did not bribe directly or indirectly in this town, and I can do nothing more.

37,420. (Mr. Coleridge.) "John Elford, what did "you try to do with him?—I think I offered him "200*l.* or 300*l.* Was that on the morning of the "election?—Yes. And was done at the suggestion "of Captain Pim?—Yes. Did you, at the sugges-

" tion of Captain Pim, offer these various sums to " these persons in the way of a joke?—We went " through the poll-book together; we had heard that " the election was lost." Do you recollect going through the poll-book after you had heard the election was lost?—I should say not. We did not believe the election was lost up till 9 o'clock in the morning.

37,421. You had hopes up to 9?—Yes.

37,422. " Did you make up the poll-book at half- " past 3 o'clock in the morning?—The poll was made " up between 12 and 1 o'clock. I think Mr. Edmonds " had said he knew the election was gone, and that " he had told Captain Pim so, and Captain Pim's " object in telling me and Willis to offer these large " sums was to make the Liberals pay dearer for their " votes." Is that true?—No.

37,423. Had Mr. Edmonds, at half-past 2 o'clock, told you that the election was as good as gone?—No, I think not. I think it was the impression up to 9 o'clock, till those 11 men went against us, that we had a fair chance.

37,424. " Then supposing that one of these gentle- " men had said 'Yes,' what would you have done?— " We made up our mind if we could have got him down " to the 'Seven Stars,' we would have put them into " one of the cellars there and kept them. Was that " a suggestion of Captain Pim's?—That was a sug- " gestion of the whole of us I believe." Do you recollect that suggestion?—No.

37,425. You do not recollect any suggestion to get voters to the " Stars " and lock them in the cellar?—No.

37,426. Nothing said about that?—Perhaps a great deal of joking and laughing about it.

37,427. In fact, you contradict the whole of the evidence of Narramore?—No, there are two ways of doing that.

37,428. Will you contradict the questions that I have put to you?—I will on oath contradict the statements that have been put to me as seriously.

37,429. I ask you chaffingly?—Chaffing conversations, how can you expect a man to remember?

37,430. Did you have a chaffing conversation on the subject of bribery?—To remember all the chaffing conversation that took place on those two days is too much to ask any man's memory.

37,431. Coming as a pure candidate, is it likely that you should have had a chaffing conversation on the subject of bribery?—I might, most decidedly.

37,432. Do you recollect the chaffing conversation?—No, I cannot give the details of the conversation which passed between each individual and myself.

37,433. Assuming this is all true and that that took place, and made in a joke, and Narramore taking it as a joke, will you undertake to swear that there was no conversation of the sort?—No.

37,434. This may be all true, and your explanation is, if it is true, you did it in a joking manner?—Yes, if such a conversation took place.

37,435. Have you any recollection on that night of going through the poll-book with Narramore, and making suggestions, or receiving suggestions as to voters?—No; I have no recollection of going through the poll-book with Narramore, but I may have done so with Captain Veitch.

37,436. You cannot swear you did not?—I cannot.

37,437. He swears you did?—I cannot swear I did not.

37,438. And that those conversations did not take place?—I cannot. Mr. Narramore had one special object in the thing, and I had a host of things to think about.

37,439. Did you send for any man on the morning of the election about half-past three o'clock? Did you send the under-boots?—I do not recollect doing so.

37,440. Do you know young John Sandford Screach?—Yes.

37,441. Did you see him on the morning of the election in the committee-room about half-past 3?—Yes, I think he was there. There were a good number of people there.

37,442. Do you remember his coming out of the room, and stopping on the stairs, and having a conversation with anybody?—No.

37,443. I will read you what Samuel Heard has sworn. He swears, " I went to bed, and at half-past " 3 I was called up by young Mr. Screach, and he " said, 'I must come down to Captain Pim directly,' " So I went down and he went upstairs before me. " I stopped at the front door, and I spoke to young " Mr. James Heath." Was young James Heath up with you all night?—I think he was.

37,444. " At that time young Mr. Screach was gone " into the room. As I was going up over the stairs, " I made a stop, and he asked me if I had not been " about Crook. I told him 'Yes.' I told him I saw " the wife the evening before, and I told him what she " told me. He said, 'Will you go immediately, and " 'see if you can see him, and get him to the "Seven " 'Stars," and offer him any money you like.' I said " 'Yes.' He said, 'Offer him 150*l*.' Did you see " Captain Pim?—He was in the room; the door was " half open." Then he is asked, " Are you quite sure " Captain Pim was in the room out of which this " person came?—I did not see him come out. I saw " the door opened, and I saw Captain Pim inside; he " was sitting down at the table. Who else was in the " room?—I could not tell you. You would know him " well if you saw him again?—Yes, I would. Did " you go to Crook?—Yes. Did you offer him 150*l*.?— " Yes. What did he say to you?—He said he would " not take it. Where were you to meet him to pay " it?—He promised to meet me on the bridge at 8 in " the morning. Did you go to the bridge?—I did. " Did he come?—Oh, no, sir. Did you see anything " of Farley at the 'Bridge Inn?'—Yes. What did " you see of him?—When I went on to the bridge I " waited for Crook. I walked up and down 20 mi- " nutes. I thought I would go to the Farleys and " have a glass of something, or a bottle of ginger " beer. The old gentlemanwas cleaning up, and he " said, 'What do you do over the bridge?' I said I " wanted to find out where Fox Green was. He said, " 'Are you after money?' I said, 'Yes.' He says, " 'Can I do anything for you?' I says, 'If you can " do it, all the better.' He said, 'What side are you " going to vote for?' I said, 'I do not know that I " have made up my mind yet.' He says, 'I have " been told of 200*l*.; would you like to vote for 150*l*.?' " I says, 'Where is the money?' 'Oh,' he says, 'the " money is all right enough.' I said, 'Where can I " go?' He said, 'You will have to go over to John " Elliott, and wait till Mr. Prout comes.' I said, " 'I shall not have to be there all to myself?' He " says, 'No; there is Elliott and Green over there.' " 'I shall have company,' I said. 'Make sure, if I " 'see Green, I will see if I cannot make a 200*l*. out " 'of it,' and so I went away again.' He said, 'I " 'think 150*l*. is about the market price for a Con- " 'servative man;' and he said, 'If you go down " 'there and wait, you will have plenty to come to " 'you.' Did you go to Mr. Elliott?—No. Why?— " Because I did not want to; I wanted to find out " where Green was. Where did you go to see Mr. " Pender?—I did not go. Had you not been to see " Mr. Pender?—No; he canvassed me. When did he " canvass you?—Two or three days before the elec- " tion. Who was with him?—He came two or three " times. Who was with him at either time?—He " came by himself; no one was with him. Are you " quite sure it was Captain Pim that the boots told " you wanted to see you?—He will answer for him- " self." I see it was not John Sandford Screach, but it was the under boots who was sent to bring a person who was employed to bribe voters. He was sent with a message that you wanted to see him, and he went and saw you; and out of that room where he was sitting, a person came, and was authorized to go and bribe a voter. In the first place, have you any recollection of any person being in the room—any person whom you did not not know?—No.

37,445. Was Mr. Smith in the room that night?—Very likely he may have been, but Mr. Smith, as Mr. Edmonds has told you, was dreadfully excited the whole time.

37,446. Did Mr. Smith go to bed, or did he wait up that night?—I think he was up, but he did not take an active part that night; he could not.

37,447. Can you give us any explanation of those statements that you were in the room, out of which a person came—a strange gentleman—who authorized one of the bribers on the Conservative side to go and offer a voter 150*l.*?—I cannot give any explanation of it at all; I cannot believe it. Of course there might have been half a dozen Mr. Mums in the town, and I should not have known who they were.

37,448. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you mean that that night, as well as other nights, Mr. Smith was in such a state that he did not know what he was doing?—Yes; perhaps that is the kindest way of putting it for Mr. Smith; he had had a great deal too much champagne while he was down here, and he did not know what he was doing the whole time.

37,449. (Mr. Longe.) Was he in a position to take the part of Mr. Mum?—No; He could hardly stand at times; I heard Mr. Smith's evidence impugned, and it is as well to tell you that he was quite "screwed," as we call it.

37,450. (Mr. Bere.) Was he in such a state that he might do things and not remember them?—Yes.

37,451. After the election did you hear of cases of bribery on the other side, and did you express your opinion about them?—On the hustings I did; I mentioned the case of the eleven men, and you will find it in the Torquay paper.

37,452. Can you describe the man at all who came to you?—Not the least.

37,453. Did not you take notice of the man who came to ask such an odd question at that time?—No; I dare say I took a great deal of notice of him at the time, but I could not swear to him now.

37,454. When did you first have any communication with Mr. Spofforth about the petition?—I gave Mr. Spofforth's letters to Mr. Bowen, and you will find the date there; we had a meeting with Mr. Cooke, the Queen's Counsel, and Mr. Spofforth, Mr. Smith, Colonel Dawkins, and myself, but I cannot tell you the date; I have given Mr. Spofforth's letters to Mr. Bowen.

37,455. (Mr. Bere.) Here is a letter from Mr. Spofforth to Messrs. Smith and Guscotte, which we have already had on the notes—"6, Victoria Street, Westminster Abbey, S.W., 18th January, 1866.—Dear Sirs, I had a letter from Edmonds to say that he has now got his evidence as perfect as possible, and proposing to come and lay it in its present state before me. I have written to him, appointing next Tuesday, the 23rd, at 11 o'clock, for this purpose, and shall ask Mr. Cooke, Q.C., to attend the consultation. Commander Pim came in whilst I was writing the letter, and I told him of it. He has written to Colonel Dawkins, suggesting that, at 11.30 on Wednesday, the 24th, Colonel Dawkins, he, and yourselves shall have a meeting here, finally to decide on the course to be taken, and the nature of the petition to be presented to the House. Will you tell me if this appointment will suit you?—I am, dear sirs, yours faithfully, M. SPOFFORTH." Do you remember agreeing to that meeting?—Yes.

37,456. Do you remember going to it?—Yes.

37,457. What passed?—I think Mr. Cooke took the principal part in the conversation; he went into the pros and cons to say what the chances of success were.

37,458. At that time the conclusion was come to that Colonel Dawkins' hands were not clean, and he could not petition for the seat?—I suppose so.

37,459. Were you interested in the conduct of the petition from that time till its close?—I took a great deal of interest in it.

37,460. Did you agree to share the expense?—Between Colonel Dawkins and myself, as gentlemen, there has no deed passed, but there is an understanding that I am to pay half and he pays half.

37,461. You have not paid yourself yet?—No more has he; there has been no settlement yet.

37,462. Did you know there was an offer of a compromise made?—Indirectly there was one.

37,463. Was it indirectly? Is that gentleman a friend of yours (showing a name on a piece of paper to the witness)?—Yes.

37,464. Had he a cousin interested on the other side?—Yes. That is the way it came, indirectly.

37,465. What position did this gentleman hold with regard to you?—He is my legal adviser.

37,466. And his cousin was private secretary to Mr. Pender?—Yes.

37,467. And those two persons had a conversation about the withdrawal of the petition?—I believe so.

37,468. For what sum did you authorize your friend to consent to the withdrawal of the petition?—I do not think he was authorized to withdraw for any sum.

37,469. Was not 5,000*l.* mentioned as the sum for which the petition would be withdrawn?—Not by me.

37,470. By Colonel Dawkins in your presence?—He may have said that he would take 5,000*l.*

37,471. Was not your friend authorized to communicate that to the Liberal party, and make that offer?—No.

37,472. Did not he do so?—Not that I am aware of.

37,473. I do not suppose he put it in such plain language as "We will take 5,000*l.* to withdraw the "petition," or "We want 5,000*l.* to withdraw the petition." But was it not put in more delicate language by him?—I do not know that my friend was authorized to make any offer to Mr. Pender's private secretary.

37,474. That is to say, the offer he made would not be binding upon you and Colonel Dawkins?—He was not authorized by me to do it.

37,475. Was it not suggested by you, that he would be a good means of communication between the two parties to sound Mr. Pender as to whether he was willing to pay the money?—No. The sounding came from Mr. Pender's side.

37,476. Had the sounding come from the private secretary to your friend?—So I was given to understand.

37,477. Do you mean to say no sum of money was mentioned on Mr. Pender's behalf, and refused by you on your side?—The whole thing was a mere conversation; I did not believe there was anything in it at all. It was thrown out by Mr. Pender's side, and first came to me in that indirect way.

37,478. You are aware that some negotiations did take place, but there was no definite result?—No. I set my face against a compromise at all, and I carried the point myself. I had some voice in the matter, and I carried the point.

37,479. Were you consulted by Messrs. Smith and Guscotte with regard to the compromise?—No.

37,480. Was anything arranged between you and Colonel Dawkins, that if that sum of money were paid to withdraw the petition, you should each take your expenses out of it?—No; I never made any arrangement about my expenses at all.

37,481. Was it entirely to recoup Colonel Dawkins?—I should say so. I am not aware that anything would have come to me, but I am aware that I would not have accepted anything.

37,482. Can you tell us the exact day that Mr. Murchison came down?—I wrote to him at Mr. Bowen's request, and he wrote to me and told me that he had written to you and told you.

37,483. When did he go away?—He went round by Tavistock.

37,484. Was he in the room with you that night?—Yes; and he made a long speech in the ball-room.

37,485. Did not he come back from Tavistock to Totnes?—He says distinctly not. He says he spoke to a gentleman out of the window at the station, and asked how the election was going on.

37,486. Between the nomination day and the election day he was up all night?—Yes.

37,487. Did he go away the morning of the election?—Yes, I think so. But his note will give you the exact date, and all about it.

37,488. Do I understand that all the money that you paid directly or indirectly for the expenses of the last election is the 300*l.* that you gave Mr. Kellock, and the 50*l.* you afterwards sent down?—Every farthing.

37,489. I will read you Mr. Murchison's account of it, and show you that your account and his do not agree. "I beg to say that I arrived from Totnes by the night "mail train from London on Monday morning, the "week of the election, and that I left by an early "train on Tuesday morning—?"—That is the next day.

37,490. "— for Plymouth. I was on my way to "Tavistock and my sole reason for stopping at Totnes "was the interest I took in your candidature for that "borough, and to learn what were your chances of "success." Now if that account is true it is quite clear that Mr. Murchison must have come back after he had gone to Tavistock in order to sit up with you on that Tuesday night?—On the Monday night you mean.

37,491. No, the Tuesday night?—Well, I told you I could not tell you the date, but if you will refer to the letter you will see the exact date. It was Monday and not Tuesday.

37,492. (Mr. Bere.) I ask you whether Mr. Murchison set up with you the whole night between the day of the nomination and the election, and you said yes?—He sat up in the hotel one night, and I said "If you will refer to his letter you will see the exact date."

37,493. I want to know what your memory is?—Mr. Murchison's note will give you the exact date.

Miss Helen Fogwill sworn and examined.

Miss H. Fogwill.

37,494. Are you the sister of John Reed Fogwell?—Yes.

37,495. And he is now post-master of Teignmouth, is not he?—Yes.

37,496. Do you remember that your brother took a great deal of interest in the election of 1865?—He did.

37,497. Were you living with him at that time?—No.

37,498. Where were you living?—At my mother's.

37,499. Do you know anything about some money being left at your house. Was it left at your house or your brother's?—At our house.

37,500. By whom?—By Mr. Parnell.

37,501. When?—Some time during the election.

37,502. Before or after the election?—I am not certain.

37,503. You cannot say?—No.

37,504. Did he tell you anything about the money before he brought it?—No.

37,505. What time of the day did he bring it?—In the morning.

37,506. In what did he bring it?—I could not exactly say.

37,507. Was it a bag or a paper parcel?—I think it may have been a paper parcel.

37,508. Where did he put it?—In my hands.

37,509. What did he tell you to do with it?—Asked me to take charge of it until Mr. Worthy would call for it.

37,510. Mr. Worthy did call for it did not he?—He did.

37,511. How long afterwards?—Some time during the day.

37,512. But did you give it to him?—I did.

37,513. Did you know how much it was?—No, I have no knowledge.

37,514. You did not know whether it was in notes or gold?—No knowledge whatever.

37,515. You could tell from its weight whether it was gold or notes?—Well, I really could scarcely say.

37,516. Can you tell whether it was heavy or not?—No.

37,517. Can you show us at all what size parcel it was?—I could not indeed.

37,518. Was it as large as that, or as long as that, (describing)?—No, I really do not know.

37,519. What did you do with it after Mr. Parnell gave it to you?—Merely placed it on the side table till Mr. Worthy called for it, in the front room.

37,520. How long after did he call?—I could not say.

37,521. Was it five minutes or an hour or two?—I really am not aware; some time during the day; it might be some hours afterwards.

37,522. You knew what the money was wanted for?—No, I was not aware. I had no knowledge, but that the parcel was given to me and I delivered it.

37,523. Did you not think it rather a curious thing for a parcel to be delivered to you to hand over without any reason given to you?—I have no curosity indeed.

37,524. Was that the only parcel of money left at your house at that time?—The only time.

37,525. Had you any money left before at any election?—Never.

37,526. Had you never anything to do with any election before?—Not anything.

37,527. Nothing at all?—No.

37,528. Not to see voters or talk to them about it?—No.

35,529. Was any room in your house ever used as a committee-room by the Liberals?—No.

37,530. Not at any time?—Not at any time.

Margaret Lorimer sworn and examined.

M. Lorimer.

37,531. (Mr Bere.) Are you the wife of Robert Lorimer?—Yes.

37,532. What is he?—A travelling draper.

37,533. He goes about the country selling drapery goods?—Yes.

37,534. How long have you lived at Totnes?—12 years.

37,535. Did you come here from Glasgow?—No.

37,536. What part of Scotland did you come from?—Dumfriesshire.

37,537. Had you known Mr. Pender before you came here?—No, not till he came.

37,538. Is there any reason for saying that you had some connexion as a servant, or anything in Mr. Pender's house?—Never, we never saw him till he came here.

37,539. There was no peculiar reason for Mr. Pender coming to call on you except that your husband was a voter?—Nothing else.

37,540. And that you were a countryman of his? Yes.

37,541. When did your husband first vote?—He voted for Mr. Dunn.

37,542. Had your husband a vote when he was living in Dumfriesshire?—No.

37,543. It was not till he came to Totnes that he had a vote?—No.

37,544. Then the first time he voted was for Mr. Dunn?—Yes.

37,545. And Mr. Dunn was a Conservative?—Yes.

37,546. What did he get for voting for Mr. Dunn?—Nothing.

37,547. What did you get?—Nothing.

37,548. Who canvassed you for Mr. Dunn?—Mrs. Dunn.

37,549. Did Mrs. Dunn give an order or Captain Phipps?—No.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

M. Lorimer.

25 Sept. 1866.

37,550. Had not you a good deal of your goods bought about that time ?—No.

37,551. You got nothing at that election ?—No.

37,552. When did you first get anything for your vote ?—Never had anything yet.

37,553. What has Mr. Lorimer had ?—Never that I have heard.

37,554. Has not he ever told you about any money that he has received ?—He has told me that he received for Samuel Hill 150*l.*, and 60*l.* for Mr. Reeves.

37,555. When was that ?—This last election.

37,556. When did Mr. Pender first come and call on you ?—I do not know how long he was in the town.

37,557. Can you remember how long before the time he was elected first ?—No.

37,558. Did he come to see you frequently ?—Yes.

37,559. Was the conversation used to go on about the election ?—No, not between Mr. Pender and I.

37,560. Did not he ask you how your husband was going to vote ?—I think he asked my husband when he came in first.

37,561. And did your husband say he was going to vote then ?—He did not give any decided answer when he first came in, but he did after.

37,562. What did he tell him after ?—I do not know what he told him.

37,563. How did your husband vote at that election ?—For Mr. Pender.

37,564. How did he vote in Seymour and Dent's time ?—He did not vote at all, I believe, for them.

37,565. Where was he in January, 1863—was he on his rounds ?—Yes.

37,566. Are his rounds extensive ones ?—From Torquay to Kingsbridge.

37,567. Not further round than that ?—No.

37,568. Do you know whether he received anything after the election of 1862 ?—No.

37,569. Did you find no envelope with any note for services rendered on your table ?—No.

37,570. Whom did your husband deal with as wholesale merchant—with Mr. Pender ?—No, never.

37,571. Did Mr. Pender give him any introduction to a wholesale draper ?—No ; he did not require it.

37,572. Then did Mr. Pender come to see you when he was down here in November 1864, speaking to the electors ?—I do not think so.

37,573. He came to see you when he gave the tea at the Castle ?—I saw him in the Castle.

37,574. Did you have a talk with him ?—Yes.

37,575. Did not he talk to you about your husband's vote ?—No.

37,576. Nothing at all ?—No.

37,577. In July 1865, when he came down, how many times did he call on you ?—Several times.

37,578. Was it always to ask about your husband's vote ?—No.

37,579. What was it principally about ?—Sometimes he did not ask about anything.

37,580. Except about old friends at Glasgow, or anything of that sort ?—Not anything about election matters.

37,581. Were you friends of Mrs. Harris ?—Yes.

37,582. Did Mr. Pender ever talk to you at all of Mr. or Mrs. Harris ?—I asked Mr. Pender for a situation for Mr. Harris, as Mrs. Harris had asked me to do so.

37,583. Can you remember about what time that was before the election ?—No.

37,584. Was it a week or a day or two ?—I cannot say.

37,585. Had Mrs. Harris come to you and asked for a situation for her husband ?—Yes.

37,586. When ?—As soon as the election was going on.

37,587. More than once ?—Yes, I asked twice for it.

37,588. And what did Mr. Pender say ?—He said he could not, under present circumstances, give him a situation or anyone else.

37,589. When did you communicate that to Mrs. Harris ?—When I saw her ; I do not know when.

37,590. Did you tell her that before the election or after ?—I do not know—rather before than after, I believe. I know the day of the nomination we spoke of it, that I had asked Mr. Pender.

37,591. And that he said he could not do it ?—Yes, he could not under present circumstances.

37,592. Did he say after the election was over he might be able to do it ?—No, I do not think he did.

37,593. He did not say so in so many words, but did not he lead you to understand that the time might come when he might possibly give him a situation ?—That the time might come when if he could do anything for Mrs. Harris he would.

37,594. Was that all that passed between you and him about that appointment ?—Yes.

37,595. What was it that made your husband take such an active part on the Liberal side in the 1865 election ?—I do not know.

37,596. Did you know he was employed in distributing money ?—No.

37,597. Did he seem to you to have been very often down to the "Seymour Hotel ?"—He was down there several times.

37,598. Was he up there, do you remember, the night before the election a considerable part of the time ?—No.

37,599. As far as you know he never received anything whatever ?—He never received anything whatever.

37,600. Did he never receive any money for his vote ?—No.

37,601. Did Mr. Pender never make you a present of anything ?—Never.

37,602. Or lent you any money or anything of that sort ?—No.

37,603. Or lent your husband any money ?—No.

37,604. Do you know of a letter written by Mrs. Harris to Mr. Pender ?—Yes.

37,605. Did you see that letter worded ?—I saw it in the papers.

37,606. You did not know it at the time ?—No.

37,607. Was the last election the only time you ever received any money for voters ?—Yes.

37,608. Do you know of some people named Hill being paid in 1863 ?—I never heard of it.

37,609. You know them ?—Yes.

37,610. Do they live near you ?—No.

37,611. Are you in the habit of visiting them ?—Sometimes.

37,612. Did you visit them about the election of 1863 ?—No ; not that I am aware of.

37,613. Had you some talk with Hill about his vote ?—I do not know that I had.

37,614. Did you receive a large sum for their votes ?—No ; I heard that they had received money ; I do no know who from.

37,615. Did you not hear from whom ?—No.

37,616. Or when ?—No.

37,617. Did you hear why they had got the money ?—I did not.

37,618. Have you or your husband either directly or indirectly received any sum of money or any benefit whatever from his giving his vote ?—Never.

37,619. Have you directly or indirectly used your influence over any other person to cause them to give their vote ?—No.

37,620. At no time ?—No.

37,621. Has anything ever passed through your hands ?—No.

37,622. To give to any voter ?—No.

37,623. Were any orders sent to your shop by Mr. Pender ?—Never.

37,624. Did Mrs. Harris ever tell you anything of a conversation her husband had with Mr. Pender ?—She told me that her husband had told her that Mr. Pender would get him a situation.

37,625. Did she tell you when this conversation took place ?—No.

37,626. Or what Harris was to do if he got the situation?—No.

37,627. That he was to turn round and vote for Mr. Pender?—She did not say anything about that.

37,628. When did she tell you this?—I do not know when the conversation took place.

37,629. How long after the election?—It was before the last election.

37,630. The day before?—I believe it was.

37,631. It was a day or two before the election?—It was.

37,632. (Mr. Longe.) When did Mrs. Harris speak about asking Mr. Pender for a situation?—I cannot say when it was.

37,633. How long before the election?—When they were canvassing.

37,634. Did you not remark that it would be absurd to make such a request of Mr. Pender?—I did not know anything about it.

37,635. Tell us that a little more fully?—She should, she said, like very much for her husband to get out of the town on account of politics, and if I would do her the favour to ask Mr. Pender if he could get him a situation; I said I would do so, and I did.

37,636. Did she say why she thought Mr. Pender would wish Harris to be out of town?—No, she did not.

37,637. Did you think there was any chance of success?—I did not know whether Mr. Pender might do so or not.

37,638. Had you no more conversation with her as to your chance of success in your endeavour to get a situation for her husband?—No, I had not.

ROBERT LORIMER sworn and examined.

R. Lorimer.

37,639. (Mr. Bere.) Are you a travelling draper, living in Totnes?—Yes.

37,640. How long have you lived here?—12 or 13 years.

37,641. Where did you come from?—From Dumfriesshire, in Scotland.

37,642. Did you know Mr. Pender before you came here?—No.

37,643. Had you had any dealings with him?—No, not in the least. I believe that Mr. Pender's father was in business in Glasgow, and my wife's uncle was a small manufacturer or linen weaver in Scotland, and the linen used by them was bleached at Mr. Pender's bleach-field; when we got into conversation I found there was a connexion in that way.

37,644. That produced a good deal of familiarity?—Yes; Mr. Pender said he had been supported in his earlier days by my uncle.

37,645. When did you first see Mr. Pender?—He called at my house with Mr. Michelmore and a few others, canvassing my vote.

37,646. Had you voted in Totnes before?—Yes, I had voted for Dunn and for Mackenzie.

37,647. Was Mr. Mackenzie a Scotchman?—Yes.

37,648. And was that the reason you voted for him?—Pretty much.

37,649. Did you get any money for that?—No.

37,650. Were you offered anything?—No.

37,651. No one came to see you on the other side?—Mr. Mills called and solicited my vote, and I believe Lord Gifford's party called; but there was so much talk of the "chains" in Totnes that I wished to try and relieve them from the chains; and when the Somerset party came I told them they would have no support or favour from me..

37,652. Had you anything then to distribute on the Conservative side?—No, I wish I never had.

37,653. In 1859 you voted for Dunn?—Yes.

37,654. You were still constant to the Conservatives?—He was another Scotchman.

37,655. Did Mrs. Dunn call on you?—No, I do not think she did; they may have called once together; she did not personally.

37,656. Was it the influence of nationality which caused you to vote for Mr. Dunn?—We got acquainted after he called a few times; it was friendship more than anything else.

37,657. You became pleasant companions in consequence?—I meant to have voted for Mills. I met Mr. Distin and Mr. Dunn, and they asked me who I was going to vote for. I said I was going to vote for Mills to relieve them from the chains. They said, "Do not vote for Mills, give a plumper to Mr. Dunn." I said it did not matter to me, I would as soon vote for one as the other.

37,658. Had you no good reason for plumping for Dunn?—Not the least.

37,659. What was Mr. Dunn?—A gentleman.

37,660. Was he not in trade?—Not that I am aware of.

37,661. Was he not a partner in some auspicious house in Totnes?—I do not know that.

37,662. You knew he was in trade?—No, I heard he was made a Mason when he was down here.

37,663. Who was the master of the lodge?—I do not know.

37,664. Are you a Mason?—I am not, I am an Odd Fellow.

37,665. Is that all you had to do with the election of 1859?—Yes; we walked up and down the street, and went into the "Seven Stars" and had a glass of beer; they told me to vote for Dunn, and the next day I found that those parties who said they would vote for Seymour voted for Dunn. They sold me, and I said, "The next time the election comes on I will sell you."

37,666. Who did you tell that?—Those were my own thoughts. I do not tell all I think.

37,667. You determined to vote for the next Liberal who turned up in the person of another Scotchman?—Yes.

37,668. Did you promise Mr. Pender as soon as he came?—No.

37,669. When did you promise him first?—When Mr. Pender solicited my vote and interest I told him I thought the best man was he who had the most money; that there was a report my wife had had a gold watch and chain at one election and I had had 50*l.* at another. Mr. Pender looked at me and thought I was as free as the air I breathed on the Scottish hills.

37,670. It was not true that you had ever received any money?—I never received a halfpenny for my own vote. I got 150*l.* for Samuel Hill; he was indebted to me in 50*l.*, which I kept.

37,671. Did you vote for Mr. Pender at the first election?—Yes.

37,672. Did you get anything?—I went to Kingsbridge, which is 12 miles off, and I got 30*s.* for the expense of a horse and trap.

37,673. Who paid you that?—Mr. Brooking Cuming.

37,674. Did you go and ask him for it?—I did, on the night before the election.

37,675. Was that all the money you got?—Yes.

37,676. In the election of 1863 did you vote for Seymour?—No.

37,677. Did you not vote at all?—No.

37,678. Where were you?—I was in my shop, looking over the counter at the people running down the street.

37,679. Did anyone come to tempt you?—I think Mr. Mitchell came to me with a note, saying there were four or five persons down at the "Stars," to say that I might have any money I liked to name, if I would come down and vote. I said if they would give me the value of half the town of Totnes, I would not vote for Mr. Dent.

37,680. Why not?—I had heard him say that his politics were in a nutshell, and that is a very small compass in which to put a man's principles.

37,681. You would not vote at the election, because

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

R. Lorimer.

25 Sept. 1866.

you did not like Mr. Dent's small politics?—I should have liked to support the man whom I thought would best serve and protect the interests of the town. I thought the Conservattves got down any man out of whom they thought they would be able to get money, and they did not care twopence whether they returned him or not, so as they got a good deal of money out of him.

37,682. When you voted for the Conservatives, you knew that there was money going about?—Yes; I got 50*l.* for Samuel Hill, senior.

37,683. At which election?—The election of Dent and Seymour. Mr. Heath asked me if 150*l.* or 200*l.* would be any good to me. I knew that Hill was in poor circumstances. Mr. Heath asked me to see if he would not vote for them. I then saw him, and Mr. Heath gave me 200*l.* for young Hill, and 50*l.* for the old man, making 250*l.*

37,684. Did you take that up to them?—Yes, I did.

37,685. Where did you see Mr. Heath about this?—I met him in the street.

37,686. He knew you had voted for Mr. Pender?—Yes, he had offered me money many times. I told him I would not vote for him.

37,687. Mr. Heath met you accidentally in the street?—He came out of the "Stars," and saw me passing when I was going to the "Seymour." He asked me if 100*l.* would do me any good, and then he rose time after time. Sometimes I used to go in there to see the commercial men.

37,688. That was for your own vote?—Yes.

37,689. You would not sell your own vote, but you were willing to act as the buyer of other persons votes?—Of Mr. Hill, if he was willing to vote for Mr. Dunn.

37,690. Who mentioned Hill's name first, you or Mr. Heath?—Mr. Heath, I think.

37,691. Are you quite sure of that?—I should not like to swear it.

37,692. Did not Hill owe you money then?—No.

37,693. None at all?—I had signed a bill for him. I knew he was in difficulties.

37,694. You were responsible for him for some money?—Yes.

37,695. How much?—50*l.*

37,696. Did you take that out of the 250*l.*?—Yes.

37,697. What did you do with the 200*l.* which Mr. Heath gave you?—I got 250*l.* in a bag, and I carried it up. When I got there, young Hill said that he would not vote. I saw old Hill and gave him the bag with all the money in it. I had not made any arrangements with him. Mr. Heath gave me the bag, and I told him to take what he, old Hill, was to have himself; and so I suppose that he took 50*l.* out of the bag. I took the bag and carried it back, and delivered it to Mr. Heath myself, and said that Samuel Hill had changed his mind, and was not going to vote for them.

37,698. At that time did old Hill owe you any money?—No.

37,699. Had you accepted any bill for the old man?—No.

37,700. Did you get any of the 50*l.* which was given to the old man?—No.

37,701. You were surety at that time for the young man?—I was. He was in difficulties, and old Hill and I were sureties for 100*l.* between us.

37,702. You did not mention Hill's name to Mr. John Heath at this time?—I do not believe I did; he asked me if I would go to a man of the name of Baring, who lived down the Ashburton Road, who died last night. I said I would not go there.

37,703. Had you anything to do with Hill before?—No; he was our mason.

37,704. Had he been a customer of yours?—He has dealt with me a little ever since I came here.

37,705. Why did you become security for young Hill?—He was going to buy a house, I think, in 1862, and he borrowed the money from a loan society at Plymouth, and was to repay it by instalments.

37,706. How much did he borrow?—I think 100*l.*

37,707. Did you have to pay any of those instalments yourself?—No, he became a bankrupt.

37,708. Did you not mention Hill to George Heath in 1862?—No.

37,709. Or to any of the Heaths?—No.

37,710. Did you get any money from them?—No; not at that time. I had nothing to do with it then.

37,711. Or in 1859?—No.

37,712. The first time you got money was in 1863?—Yes; that was the first time I dirtied my fingers.

37,713. In 1865 Mr. Pender came here again?—Yes.

37,714. You distributed a good deal of money in 1865?—I got Reeve 60*l.*, and 150*l.* for young Hill.

37,715. Out of that 150*l.* you kept 50*l.* for yourself?—Yes.

37,716. Who did you get the 150*l.* from?—Mr. Holman told me where to get it.

37,717. Where did you get it from?—I got it on the piano.

37,718. In whose house?—In my own house.

37,719. You found it there?—Yes.

37,720. Mr. Holman put it there?—Mr. Holman put it there.

37,721. Was it wrapped up or open?—In a little canvas bag.

37,722. Did you distribute that before the election or after?—It was two or three days after the election before I got it myself.

37,723. When did Hill become bankrupt?—Shortly after the election of 1863.

37,724. Had he received his certificate or discharge at the time of the election?—No.

37,725. Did not the 150*l.* belong to his creditors generally?—It was not a lawful or legal transaction.

37,726. You put the 50*l.* in your pocket, you being the principal creditor. Was that all the money that he owed you, 50*l.*?—There were a few pounds besides that.

37,727. Had you proved upon his estate?—No; I have not proved yet.

37,728. What was your debt for which you were scheduled?—50*l.*

37,729. That you will not prove for in all probability now?—It was not scheduled in my name; only in that of the society. I was only a surety; I did not act.

37,730. Have you paid the 50*l.* to the society?—Yes.

37,731. When did you pay that?—I would tell you in private how we managed to pay it.

37,732. You must be good enough to tell us here?—I paid it to Mr. Kellock. He acted for us. We applied to him when we got into difficulties to get us out.

37,733. Was Mr. Thomas Creaser Kellock your attorney in the matter?—I do not know.

37,734. How came you to go to Mr. Kellock?—It was old Hill who went to him.

37,735. What for; you must tell us?—They came on us for the money which we were indebted to the loan society for.

37,736. Did they come on you for that money before the election of 1865?—Before.

37,737. How long before?—I think it was October or November 1863 or 1864.

37,738. You went to Mr. Kellock to get you out of your difficulties?—Yes.

37,739. Did they bring an action against you?—They sent us a copy of a writ.

37,740. Did Mr. Kellock appear for you?—Yes.

37,741. Did the action go on to trial?—I do not recollect.

37,742. Was it brought in the county court or in one of the superior courts?—In one of the superior courts.

37,743. Where was it to be tried?—In London, I think.

37,744. Did the action come on?—The action was brought for 75*l.*, and the expenses were 25*l.*; that made up the 100*l.* Hill had not got any money, or very little, and I had very little; but he advanced 5*l.* and I got 15*l.*, which reduced it to 70*l.* We drew out a bill, and Hill accepted the bill, and I asked the bankers to discount it.

37,745. A bill for how long?—For three months.

37,746. Who discounted it?—It was discounted at the Devon and Cornwall Bank.

37,747. What discount was taken off?—I do not recollect.

37,748. When the bill became due what happened?—Hill got about 10*l.*, and I got 10*l.* more. We put it together, and renewed the bill again for 50*l.*

37,749. For how long?—I think about three months.

37,750. When those three months expired what happened?—We got about 10*l.* more each and put it together and reduced it again. I think I gave old Hill some money to make up his account.

37,751. You lent old Hill the money?—Yes.

37,752. How did you get it?—Out of my business.

37,753. That reduced the bill to about 30*l.*?—Yes.

37,754. Was that renewed for another three months?—I think four months.

37,755. It did not become due till after the election?—Yes; it was all paid before the election.

37,756. Are you sure of that?—Yes.

37,757. How did you pay the last instalment?—I think the last instalment was about 15*l.* or 20*l.*, and we had 10*l.* each to raise to finish it.

37,758. Did not Mr. Kellock lend you the money to pay this?—No; we went to him for advice.

37,759. Then why were you unwilling to tell us this?—I was not unwilling at all.

37,760. Did Mr. Kellock give you any advice about your vote?—Not a word about it.

37,761. At any time?—No.

37,762. Are you sure of that?—Yes.

37,763. Did he ever lend you any money to meet the bill?—Not a halfpenny; the bankers advanced the money.

37,764. When you paid the 50*l.* originally had he not lent you a portion of the money?—Not a halfpenny.

37,765. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did Mr. Kellock advise you to defend the action?—I cannot say what advice he gave.

37,766. You know what he told you, was it that you had a good defence to the action or that you had no defence?—We had got no defence.

37,767. Did he not tell you that the best thing you could do was to get out of the way?—No.

37,768. What did he tell you to do?—Not to get out of the way but to pay the money.

37,769. Did you plead to the action?—We acknowledged that we were liable in the action.

37,770. And then judgment was signed against you?—Yes.

37,771. Mr. Kellock did not say anything about getting out of the way?—No; we acknowledged it.

37,772. (Mr. Bere.) Did Samuel Hill want to sell the house he built with the money he had from the loan society?—He did not buy the house.

37,773. What did he do with the money?—He put it into his business.

37,774. Had he a house he wanted to sell?—No.

37,775. Did you ever communicate with Mr. Presswell about the sale of a house of Hill's?—No; that was the house I was living in myself.

37,776. What happened about that?—I took the house from Mr. Presswell who had it to let and who wanted to sell it. I said I could not buy it; I had no more money than I required in my business, but provided the house was to be sold he would please to give me the refusal of it. He gave me the price. I knew that with my brothers and sisters I should get about 1,000*l.* and ultimately I would thus be able to pay for the house.

37,777. What was the price of the house?—330*l.*

37,778. Were you to borrow the money from any person to pay Mr. Presswell?—Yes.

37,779. From whom?—From my sister.

37,780. What was the end of the bargain about the house?—A Mr. Eden in London wrote down to say that the house was to be sold and that if I wanted to have it I might have it at a reserved price; if I would not other parties would buy it. I wrote and asked what was the lowest money for the house, and they sent down 330*l.*, and I directly paid the deposit money.

37,781. When was this?—That might have been about 1861 or 1862. I cannot say positively.

37,782. Was it not in 1862?—It might be. I cannot charge my memory positively.

37,783. Was it not about the time of the election?—I do not think any election was going on at that time.

37,784. Did you get the money from your sister?—Yes.

37,785. Have you repaid it?—No, not a halfpenny, further than paying the interest.

37,786. Has your sister got a mortgage on your house?—No; Mr. Bryett holds the deeds as a security.

37,787. Has he a mortgage on your house?—No.

37,788. Is there a memorandum on the deeds that the house is your sister's?—Mr. Bryett holds the deeds.

37,789. Does your sister live in Totnes?—She lives with me.

37,790. Was there another transaction about Samuel Hill being turned out of his house at the time of Dent's election?—I do not know; I may have heard of it.

37,791. Did not Mr. Presswell send you to Hill to see about his being turned out of his house?—I never spoke to Mr. Presswell about electioneering matters or about Samuel Hill.

37,792. Was it your wife who was sent?—No.

37,793. Mr. Presswell did not send you to Hill to tell him he would buy the house if Hill would vote for Mr. Dent?—No.

37,794. Did you tell your wife of the little transaction with Hill in 1863?—Most likely; no doubt she knew of it.

Mrs. LORIMER recalled and further examined.

Mrs. Lorimer.

37,795. (Mr. Bere.) Did Colonel Dawkins call at your house?—Yes.

37,796. Who came with him?—James Heath, I think.

37,797. Did James Heath ask you in Colonel Dawkins' presence whether your husband wanted any money?—Yes.

37,798. Did you make any observation on that?—I told him that he did not want it.

37,799. Was your husband there?—No.

37,800. On your saying that, what did Colonel Dawkins say?—He said it would be all right.

37,801. You do not remember the exact words that he used?—I could not.

37,802. Did you understand that Colonel Dawkins meant the money was to be had from him if it was wanted?—That came into my mind after I heard what John Heath said.

37,803. You knew nothing of the transaction with Hill in 1863?—I do not.

37,804. You knew that at the time from your husband?—Not at the time.

37,805. But afterwards you did?—Of course I knew it afterwards; everybody knew it. I did not know of the transaction at the time.

37,806. Has Mr. Pender ever sent anything in the nature of charitable contributions through you?—Never but once.

37,807. What was that?—10*l.*

37,808. To whom did he send that?—He gave it me himself.

37,809. For whom was it?—For a person in Totnes.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

Mrs. Lorimer.

25 Sept. 1866.

37,810. The wife of a voter?—Yes it was.

37,811. Who was it?—Samuel Hill's wife.

37,812. She was confined at the time?—She was shortly after.

37,813. When was that?—Before the election.

37,814. How long before?—I could not say, it might be a week.

37,815. Had you spoken to Mr. Pender about her?—Yes, I had.

37,816. Did you say what sum she would want?—I did not.

37,817. Did he give you the 10*l.* himself?—He did.

37,818. In a note, or in gold?—In a note.

37,819. Did you give that to Mrs. Hill?—Yes, I did.

37,820. The wife of Hill the elder, or Hill the younger?—Hill the younger.

37,821. I asked you, was there anything transmitted through you to a voter?—I do not call that a transmission.

37,822. Did it pass through your hands?—Yes, it did.

37,823. Is there anything else, either in the nature of a charitable contribution or in any other character, which has passed through your hands to a voter, or a voter's wife, or any relation?—No.

37,824. That is the only instance?—That is the only one.

37,825. To any person at all from Mr. Pender?—That is the only one.

ROBERT LORIMER recalled.

R. Lorimer.

37,826. Have you anything more to tell us about the election of 1863?—No, I have not; I have nothing further to tell you about that.

37,827. On the Liberal side, had any person been to canvass you?—Yes, Lord Seymour canvassed me.

37,828. And you refused him?—No, I did not; I said I would not vote against him.

37,829. Did you say you would not vote for him?—I said I would not vote against him. On the day of the nomination, when I saw him, I said I would not vote against him.

37,830. Had you not given the Liberals to understand you would have nothing to do with voting for the Somerset interest?—No, I had not.

37,831. You told us already that you had made up your mind to do so?—I said that I would leave them to themselves.

37,832. You said you had made up your mind to relieve the borough from the chains. You meant the influence the Duke of Somerset was supposed to exercise?—That was my first idea. The first two elections after that I saw that the Conservatives only wanted to have a man with some money; it did not matter whether they returned him or not.

37,833. When you first came your principles were Conservative?—My father had rented under the Duke of Buccleuch.

37,834. Had he exercised any influence over you?—Of course parties having farms under him would many of them vote in the Duke's interest.

37,835. Had you any communication with your father as to your voting?—Not in the least.

37,836. Then why did you vote in this way, because your father rented a farm under the Duke of Buccleuch?—He did not interfere with my vote here at all.

37,837. In 1865, what made you take an active part on the Liberal side?—Mr. Pender and I got acquainted, and I was very anxious to see him returned.

37,838. Had you seen Mr. Pender betwen 1862 and 1865?—Not that I recollect.

37,839. Had you been to London?—No.

37,840. Or to Manchester?—No.

37,841. Or to Glasgow?—No.

37,842. Mr. Pender was here in 1864, did he not come to see you?—I do not recollect.

37,843. He and Mr. Seymour came down to give an account of their stewardship, as young Mr. Pender said?—I do not doubt I saw him, but I might be on my rounds; I cannot recollect.

37,844. Had you any correspondence with Mr. Pender at all?—Only once.

37,845. What was that about?—The committee of the British school. Mr. Pender had left 550*l.* for the British school, and they got an architect who made out plans on too expensive a scale. I was not pleased with the plans and specifications, and thought it might be done in a more economical way. The committee made some proposition, and I wrote to ask Mr. Pender whether he wished to complete the school himself, or that we should get subscriptions. He wrote back and said we had better get subscriptions to make up the money which was deficient.

37,846. How much was deficient?—The plans and specifications would make the building cost 1,200*l.*

37,847. Were those plans carried out?—No.

37,848. Were they altered or reduced?—They were reduced.

37,849. By how much?—I do not know anything about it; it was left in the hands of Mr. Cuming.

37,850. Can you say ultimately how much was subscribed?—I think Mr. Bowden put down his name for 20*l.*

37,851. Were any of the subscriptions paid?—I did not collect the money. Colonel Willoughby subscribed 20*l.*, and Mr. Mills gave us 25*l.*

37,852. What Mr. Mills?—Our late member, before he died.

37,853. After Mr. Pender was here you had a contract for the school?—We were gathering subscriptions before that.

37,854. What was the amount of your subscriptions?—I suppose about 60*l.*

37,855. What was to be the cost of the school?—I believe about 200*l.*, or something like that.

37,856. Your views had enlarged after Mr. Pender came here?—Not my views.

37,857. But the views of those who had to do with the school?—Yes, they had.

37,858. Out of the 1,000*l.* given by Mr. Pender to the charities of Totnes, did you not set apart 550*l.* for the purposes of this school?—Yes.

37,859. Did you change your architect?—Yes.

37,860. And had fresh plans and specifications?—An amendment on them; we had two lots of specifications.

37,861. What was the amount of the cost of the amended plans?—The first lot was paid for by Mr. Pender.

37,862. What was your school to cost you?—We thought it would cost 600*l.* or 700*l.*

37,863. Your architect's estimate was how much?—1,400*l.* or 1,500*l.*

37,864. What was that reduced to?—About 1,100*l.*

37,865. You had 60*l.* subscriptions, and 550*l.* made 610*l.*; how was the 490*l.* to be made up?—It was put into the hands of Mr. Cuming to reduce the two plans.

37,866. How much were they reduced?—I cannot tell.

37,867. What deficiency was there before you wrote to Mr. Pender?—I cannot say; I should suppose about 300*l.*

37,868. When you wrote to Mr. Pender did you say how much you wanted?—No, I did not.

37,869. Mr. Pender wrote and said you had better get up a subscription?—Yes.

37,870. Did you try to get up a subscription?—No.

37,871. Was the work proceeded with on the second amended contract?—The second contract was not a contract at all.

37,872. Was the work proceeded with on the reduced plans?—No. Mr. Powell made the first plans.

37,873. Mr. Cuming reduced these plans from 1,400*l.* to 1,100*l.*?—I should think about 1,100*l.*

37,874. Have the schools been built?—They are not quite finished.

37,875. What will be their cost?—About 700*l.*

37,876. Had Mr. Pender promised to pay you any deficiency?—When the foundation stone was laid he said he would erect schools, and make up the deficiency. That was when the treat was; he gave a treat to all the children in the town.

37,877. At the castle?—Yes. He laid the foundation stone, and he said he would pay all the required expenses to make up the deficiency.

37,878. What money had you to distribute in 1865?—210*l.*

37,879. To whom did you distribute it?—Reeve, 60*l.*; and Samuel Hill, 150*l.*

37,880. Where did you get that which you gave to Hill?—It was on the piano.

37,881. Where did you get the money you gave to Reeve?—I got it in a room in the Seymour hotel.

37,882. What is the number of the room?—A little room on the left-hand side.

37,883. A room at the end of the passage on the ground floor?—Yes, No. 5 or 6.

37,884. Was it on the right or the left?—The left.

37,885. Who told you to go there to get it?—Mr. Holman.

37,886. Was it open on the table, or in a parcel?—Wrapped up in a piece of paper.

37,887. Had you made a bargain with Mr. Reeve before you went for the 60*l.*?—No.

37,888. How did you know that Mr. Reeve was to have 60*l.*?—He was down at Dartmouth at work on a vessel down there; the Conservatives had waited for him; I was down on business there, and I went on board, and I asked him if he was going to vote for Mr. Pender; he said he was going to vote this way this time, but he made out that there was something wanted. I said "I will try and get a little remuneration for you," but there was no sum mentioned at the time; indeed, money was not mentioned by him, but there was an understanding that he would have a remuneration.

37,889. Who gave you the 60*l.* for him?—Mr. Holman.

37,890. He thought that was about the market price?—Yes. He went and had a conference with some one or other.

37,891. In which room?—I do not know. I was kept in the little room.

37,892. Do you know whether he went into the next room, or whether he went farther down the passage?—I do not know.

37,893. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who showed you where it was?—Mr. Holman did. When I went in I did not see any person in the room.

37,894. None of the servants of the house?—None.

37,895. (Mr. Bere.) You say you went to Dartmouth for business?—Yes.

37,896. Was it not to get William Reeve's vote?—No.

37,897. What was your business?—Going round with Mr. Wilson.

37,898. Did you not go down with Samuel Reeve?—Not at all down there.

37,899. You went down to Dartmouth with Samuel Reeve?—I might go down with the steamer and come back with the steamer.

37,900. Did you not drive down?—No.

37,901. Do you travel for yourself?—Yes.

37,902. What do you mean by going on Mr. Wilson's business?—He was the person I served my time with.

37,903. Do you remember whether the 60*l.* was in notes, and how many?—I think three 20*l.* notes.

37,904. What did you do with them?—I put them under the cover of the piano, and intimated to Mrs. Reeve to look there, and she would find something.

37,905. She came in and found it?—Yes.

37,906. Who told you to go to Mr. Holman?—Mr. Pender intimated to me that Mr. Holman was doing the business.

37,907. Where was he?—In general terms, he had not given me the particulars about Reeve; but he intimated to me to go, if I wanted any instructions, to Mr. Holman.

37,908. Where did this happen?—I cannot say.

37,909. Yes, you can; this is the important conversation?—It might be in my own house.

37,910. Was it not in your own house?—Most likely it was.

37,911. Just repeat, as well as you can, the exact words Mr. Pender used?—Well, I think Mr. Pender said that Mr. Holman and Mr. Windeatt were doing the business.

37,912. Did he explain what the business was?—Of course he intimated that he believed there would be some money wanted, because the other side were spending money; and he said, to prevent the money from being taken away he would give a present, or something like that.

37,913. You said would be "wanted?"—Yes.

37,914. He said more than that?—No, he did not; he said he must know nothing about money matters himself.

37,915. (Mr. Coleridge.) Before you said that did he tell you there was money going; what led to his saying that?—Nothing about money matters.

37,916. Had you asked him if there was money at the time?—No, I had not.

37,917. How came you to make use of the expression that he must not know about money matters? What led up to the conversation—come, now?—I do not know.

37,918. Do you recollect what it was; what was it?—I have not got a good memory.

37,919. Yes you have a good memory, and it requires a little eliciting what made Mr. Pender say that?—Mr. Pender, when he came, informed me that he had shut the door as to election matters when he shut the door; and then we talked over the thing on each side, in a general way.

37,920. That is the reason that he said he must not know anything about money because he shut the door on electioneering matters. What made him say to you he must not know anything about money matters; what was it you had said to him, you did not ask him for money, or where money was to be got?—No, I do not think I did.

37,921. What had you asked him that the man was to do; had you told him all you knew about the Hills, and that they would have to be bought?—No, I did not.

37,922. Had you mentioned Reeve, and said you should want money for him?—I suppose he knew it.

37,923. I want to know what you said to make him say he was not to know about money matters; Mr. Pender will tell us if you do not?—I will tell you all I can.

37,924. What was it made him say that, it is so remarkable a thing; had you told him you knew a man who would want money?—The only person I knew that wanted money was young Mr. Reeve.

37,925-6. And the Hills?—Yes.

37,927. Did you tell that to Mr. Pender, and was it in consequence of your telling him that, that he said he must not know anything about money matters?—I believe I told him about Reeve.

37,928. What did you tell him about Reeve?—Well, I told him that he was going to vote for him and Mr. Seymour, and that he would expect a present, or something of that kind.

37,929. Was that what made Mr. Pender say, "I must know nothing about money matters?"—Yes, I believe it was.

37,930. Was that all? What else did you tell him?—I am saying that, but I am not correct that that is a right statement.

37,931. What is correct?—I am sorry I cannot recollect.

37,932. You cannot recollect what made Mr. Pender say he must know nothing about money matters. Now, do you recollect that he said that; did he say it?—I believe he said it, but I should not like to say.

37,933. You have sworn it before. Now I ask you again, what led to his saying that?—I know of nothing, if it was not saying I had seen Reeves.

37,934. Was it owing to that that he said that?—I believe it was.

37,935. When he said he must know nothing about money matters, he told you to go to Mr. Holman, who was doing the business?—Yes.

37,936. Was it immediately after he said he must know nothing about money matters he told you to go to Mr. Holman, who was doing the business?—I should like to tell the truth.

37,937. Did he say you must go to Mr. Holman, who was doing the business, before he told you he must know nothing about money matters?—I would like to tell the truth if I could.

37,938. Was it in consequence of your telling him about Reeve that he said you were to go to Mr. Holman, or in consequence of your telling him about Reeve that he said he must know nothing about money?—I believe it was on both accounts.

37,939. Was that all your conversation, "You must "go to Mr. Holman, but I must know nothing about "money matters;" was it something of that kind?—It was something of that kind.

37,940. Was it not in consequence of what you said to him about Reeve that Mr. Pender first of all said what he did, and told you to go to Mr. Holman, and told you he must know nothing about money himself; was that not so? I am putting it to you once more, to make it plain?—I have said that before, and I believe it was in consequence of that.

37,941. I want to know if it was not. Will you swear it was not so?—I am very sorry to say I have got a bad memory and I cannot recollect.

37,942. I want to know whether it was in consequence of what you said about Reeve that Mr. Pender said Mr. Holman was doing the business, but he himself must know nothing about money matters; that was so, was it not?—I believe it was.

37,943. Will you not swear it?—I would rather be excused. I cannot swear it.

37,944. It was something of the sort?—It was something of the sort. I came here to tell the truth.

37,945. You had been examined by Mr. Tucker, had you not?—Yes I had.

37,946. Did you not make a statement and have it read over to you, and then sign your name to it?—No, not that I recollect.

37,947. Did you see him take down in writing what you said?—Yes.

37,948. Do you know that at that time you said, "I never received any bribe, or offered any bribe, at the last election." Did you tell Mr. Tucker, that?—I did not receive any money from anybody, and I did not give any money to anybody.

37,949. Do you mean to tell us you were telling the truth to Mr. Tucker when you said you had not received or offered any bribe?—I told him the whole truth. I told him all about it.

37,950. Now I will tell you what you did tell him; it is not very long. Did you tell him any more than this: "I am an elector. I voted for Pender and "Seymour. I had voted before for Pender. Mr. "Pender gave 1,000*l.* two years ago to a committee "for the benefit of the town. I was on the com- "mittee; the committee divided it, some part being "applied in the purchase of bibles for the Church, "some part for the Wesleyan Chapel, another part "for a new organ for the Independent Chapel, and "the remainder for building the British schoolrooms. "I was at Dartmouth on business, taking off Mr. "Wilson's business of travelling draper; I saw Mr. "Reeves, grocer, of Totnes; then there was an elec- "tion; I asked him if he would vote for Mr. Pender; "he said 'Yes,' but he would not promise to vote "for Seymour; also, he said his circumstances were "bad, and he should like to have a little. I replied, "that I had no authority to offer any money, which "was the fact. I never received any bribe, or offered "any bribe. Mr. Samuel Hill has borrowed money "of me since the election, and I have taken I O U's "from him. I found 60*l.* the day before the election, "on the table at the 'Seymour Hotel;' I gave it, "after the election, to Mr. Reeve." Is that the whole of what you told Mr. Tucker? Did you tell him about the piano and the Hills?—Yes, I did. I will explain that to you. When Hill was promised some money from the Liberals, at the time before, he did not get it; when he took the money he said, "I "take it as what I ought to have had at the election "before, and I will accept it as a present, but not as "from this election."

37,951. Was that the old one?—The young man.

37,952. You offered the young one 200*l.* at the election before?—It was from the Conservatives; he would not take it from me.

37,953. Now, did he not take it from your own side?—Not the Liberal side. I know he did not have anything.

37,954. Not in 1865?—I do not know.

37,955. (Mr. Longe.) You know he had a promise?—He told me.

37,956. Do you know that there was an arrangement to pay off the money?—No.

37,957. (Mr. Coleridge.) You told me you had to go on renewing these bills for Hill; where did you get the money to hand over to Mr. Wilson for the business?—I did not require any.

37,958. Do you mean that Mr. Wilson let you have his business for nothing?—He took me when I had got no money, and put me in business. I served my time with him, and he put me in business when I had got nothing; he raised me up, and it is him I have got to thank for what I am.

37,959. Did you not pay him anything for going to take his business?—I had to pay all in to the bank here.

37,960. (Mr. Bere.) Did Mr. Pender lend you any money?—Not a farthing.

37,961. Have you borrowed any money from anybody?—No; not excepting my sister.

37,962. Was there not a man named George Please to whom you went?—He was a customer of mine, and I was told if any person was in difficulties I might give him 5*l.* or 10*l.*, and I was to look to him for it.

37,963. Did not Mr. Pender give you instructions if anybody came to you and said he wanted an advance of money, you should advance it, and he would repay you?—Yes.

37,964. Are you quite sure of that?—Yes, I am quite sure about that.

37,965. Say, a person coming to you and saying, "I am in difficulties, I am a Liberal voter, I want 10*l.*" Had not Mr. Pender told you you might advance 10*l.* and he would repay it, or smaller sums?—He has said, "If you know any person in difficulties, and "a pound or two will do him good, you may give it to "him."

37,966. Did you ever have any applications?—I do not know particularly, only one.

37,967. Who was that?—Light, the blacksmith.

37,968. He was not a voter then?—He is now.

37,969. When was that?—After the election; the bailiff was put in the house.

37,970. When he came up to you what did he say?—I do not recollect.

37,971. How much money did he have?—I gave him 20*l.*

37,972. Has Mr. Pender repaid you?—No, I lent it on an I O U.

37,973. Did you tell Mr. Pender you had lent it?—No. Mr. Pender knows nothing about it.

37,974. Did you tell Mr. Brooking Cuming?—No.

37,975. Have you told nobody about it till what you have told it here to-day?—Not that I recollect.

37,976. Have you any doubt, if this petition had not been presented, and the Commission instituted, that 20*l.* would have been repaid by Mr. Pender?—I believe I would have had it if it had not been for that.

37,977. (Mr. Longe.) When was it that Mr. Pender gave you these instructions?—He did not give instructions particularly.

37,978. There is something very definite about it; you might dispense charities in some shape or other for Mr. Pender, and he would repay you?—It was not done to me, sir, it was my wife that told me that.

37,979. Mr. Pender told Mrs. Lorimer?— Yes; that if she knew any person in difficulty I might advance a few pounds, and look to him.

37,980. You never expected Light would pay you?—He put a new stove in my kitchen for it; that is part of it.

37,981. (Mr. Coleridge.) How much is that?—About 7*l.*

37,982. If Mr. Pender had paid you the 20*l.* you would have paid him the 7*l.*?—Yes.

37,983. (Mr. Longe.) That charity is not done to any person in Totnes?—Not to anybody.

37,984. You told us before it was for Liberals?—No. As far as my instructions went, and what my wife told me, she was to do it; I had to make it right with Mr. Pender, and he would return it.

(Mr. Coleridge.) Your wife is in contradiction to you in this; she had no orders to transmit money.

37,985. (Mr. Bere.) The difficulty is this: unless we put the exact question in the most exact words, the witnesses do not answer them. They forget the real purpose of the oath, that is to speak the truth, and nothing but the truth; they forget the other part of it, and that is the whole truth?—I have told you the whole truth.

37,986. You have only told half to the questions that have been put to you, and that you could not help answering, and if you had answered before you would have cleared the matter up. What makes you think Mr. Pender would have repaid you that money?—I do not know that Mr. Pender would have paid me any money.

37,987. What makes you think he would have repaid you the money?—Only from the instructions I got from my wife.

37,988. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know of any other instances in which money has been advanced in charity and repaid by him?—No.

37,989. Have you yourself advanced any money at any other time?—No.

37,990. Before, or since?—No.

37,991. Do you mean that is the only case of need that came before you since you had this power?—No.

37,992. No other person?—No.

37,993. Not ever before, or since?—Yes; I believe my wife had to pay part of the rent of a cottage for a person who was going to be turned out.

37,994. Whose was the cottage?—Hardin's.

37,995. How much did your wife pay?—I do not know that; it had nothing to do with the election.

37,996. Is that Thomas Hardin?—I do not know; I know it was a Mr. Hardin.

37,997. A voter?—No voter at all, a labouring man.

37,998. Are you sure he is not a voter?—He is a a customer of mine, and I have known him for the last 18 years.

37,999. What relation is he to the Hardin who is a voter?—No relation at all.

38,000. Is there any more about the last election in any shape or way that you know that you have not told us?—I know of nothing that I have not told you, and if I have omitted anything I shall be very glad to give you any information at any time.

38,001. (Mr. Bere.) Excepting what you have told us, have you, either directly or indirectly, through yourself or through anybody else, ever received any money or benefit from your own vote?—Nothing in the least.

38,002. Any benefit?—No benefit, with the exception of the money I kept back from Mr. Samuel Hill.

38,003. With the exception of the voter whose name you have mentioned, have you ever, directly or indirectly, known of any funds being raised, directly or indirectly, to influence any persons to give their votes?—Not to my knowledge.

38,004. (Mr. Coleridge.) In 1863, when you were sent by Mr. Heath to the Hills with 230*l.*, did you know you were a guarantee for a debt of one of them, and was it on that account you thought he would be a good person to vote?—Really I do not know whether I signed it.

38,005. Did you not tell Mr. Heath you had signed it?—If I could recollect I would tell you.

38,006. Whom were you directed to go to, to the Hills?—Mr. Hill's father. Mr. Heath had made an arrangement before for the 50*l.*

38,007. Whom were you directed to go to by Mr. Heath?—To young Mr. Hill.

38,008. Mr. Heath knew you were surety, and he thought you were a good person to go; he did know that?—Perhaps he did.

38,009. You know that he did?—I did not know it.

38,010. Do you believe he did?—No, I do not.

38,011. Do you think he did not?—I cannot say that he did.

38,012. (Mr. Bere.) I thought you said that Mr. Heath made the agreement?—With old Mr. Hill. I had nothing to do with him in giving the money.

38,013. Did you not know you were co-surety with Mr. Heath?—I do not think I was.

38,014. Do you not know that Hill had told him he was co-surety with you for the son's debt, and that therefore he wanted 50*l.*?—Perhaps he was told it.

38,015. Have you the least doubt that Mr. Heath knew you were co-surety, and did he not say something to lead you to believe he had sent up the money through me of the Hills in the hopes that you would pay yourself, and thereby be induced to vote for the Conservatives?—Not to my knowledge.

38,016. Did he say nothing of the sort?—Not to my knowledge.

38,017. Did he not say it would be a good thing for you to take the money up to young Mr. Hill, or anything to that effect?—Not to my knowledge.

38,018. Did he not say he wanted it to go through you to do you a good turn as well as young Samuel Hill?—No.

38,019. Now I ask you this question, if Samuel Hill had not refused the 200*l.* should you have taken the 50*l.* out of it for yourself?—No, I would not have taken a farthing of it.

38,020. Why not?—Because I was not liable for the money, and I had not paid the money.

38,021. You were not liable as surety?—I was not liable.

38,022. (Mr. Bere.) You took the 50*l.*?—I had paid it then.

38,023. Did you tell Mr. Holman when he gave you the money for the Hills, the 65*l.*, that young Hill owed you 50*l.*?—Everybody knew it.

38,024. Did Mr. Holman come to you and say, if young Hill owes you this money you are the proper person to deal with him?—No.

38,025. "Do you go to ask Mr. Holman for the "money, you are the gentleman to go, as you had had "the handling of Hill's money?"—No. I saw young Hill, and he told me then he was owed money from the opposite side, and he did not wish to vote for them.

38,026. You went to get this 150*l.* from Mr. Holman?—Yes.

38,027. And recouped yourself the 50*l.* you paid for him, and gave him the balance?—Yes, I did.

38,028. (Mr. Bere.) Did you see any others of the principal members of the Liberal committee about the money spent?—I saw no person but Mr. Holman; he was the only person I had any conference with.

38,029. Have you told us all you know?—I have told you all I know except one thing. I think Mr. Reeve made a mistake. Young Mrs. Reeve brought me one of the 20*l.* notes to get changed for her; it only came to my mind that she had done so by Mr.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

R. Lorimer.

25 Sept. 1866.

T. H. Edmonds.

Hill saying what he had done with the other two twenties. I heard she had given them to her father-in-law. I got one of them changed.

38,030. That is all you really know?—That is the whole I know about it. I am sorry that the other day I forgot it.

THOMAS HUNT EDMONDS recalled and examined.

38,031. (Mr. Bere.) I wish to ask you a question about the evidence given yesterday with regard to the advance of money to Mr. James, in order that the matter may be cleared up. Did you ever tell Mr. James that it was Mrs. Michelmore's money you had advanced to him?—I did.

38,032. Do you remember in whose name the promissory note was made out; was it in the name of Mr. Henry Michelmore, and the memorandum of deposit in your name?—Yes.

38,033. Did he sign it?—He did.

38,034. Was it handed over?—It was.

38,035. Was the memorandum of deposit and the note of hand signed by Mr. James at the time of the advance?—Signed at the time of the advance.

38,036. Did Mr. James say anything to you about coming down about the advance before he came to you?—He did not.

38,037. You did not know he did not?—I did not.

38,038. Was the security he offered you a security you would have recommended to any client for whom you could not yourself feel personally responsible?—Decidedly not. I told my client so when I advanced the money.

38,039. Mr. James does not remember any conversation about the interest; do you remember any?—I distinctly recollect he offered to pay me a higher rate of interest than usual. I said 5 per cent. would be quite sufficient. He said, "I am ready to give 6 per cent."

38,040. May I ask why you did not take it?—I thought it was a friendly matter as between myself and him, and I did not wish to do anything that would look usurious.

38,041. During the period succeeding the election of 1862, while the canvassing was going on, did you have a discussion with Colonel Dawkins about the possibility of getting some voters?—I never had any conversation with Colonel Dawkins.

38,042. Did you ever suggest to Colonel Dawkins you yourself could put a pressure on Mr. James?—I never mentioned the subject. I did not suggest an idea of anything of the kind.

38,043. Do I understand you still to say you had come to the conclusion on the night before that the election was lost?—I considered that we were in a desperate condition. I considered the election was virtually gone about 9 o'clock at night.

38,044. Then what made you in the morning send up to Mr. James a note to ask him to vote for Colonel Dawkins?—My idea was that inasmuch as according to my poll-book made up I was satisfied we were only two or three behind; in that case every vote might be of great importance, and if things should turn up better than before we might possibly squeeze in Colonel Dawkins.

38,045. You were discussing the influence to be put on the voters by the active Conservatives; had you never intimated that you could put a pressure on Mr. James?—Never.

38,046. I see you entered Mr. James in your poll-book as likely to vote one and one?—I did.

38,047. There is a cross there, what does the cross mean?—I think the cross is "doubtful."

38,048. Did Mrs. Michelmore ever direct you to call in the money?—No; I told her when I made the advance it was only a temporary loan for about three or four months.

38,049. There was not any suggestion that you should call in the money after the election?—No, there was not; she left the matter entirely to me.

38,050. Was it not in consequence of Mr. James having voted against the Conservatives?—Decidedly not; it had nothing to do with it. If it had not been for the election coming on so shortly after the expiration of the note, when he paid the six months' interest, I should have demanded the money then, because the security was not of such a nature that I could recommend to my client in the first instance.

38,051. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had the shares of the "Joint Stock Discount" been going down?—They had been, and I was anxious to get the money in.

38,052. When did you first hear that Mr. James had got the money from Mr. Pender?—I did not know it all till after the election petition. We had a consultation with counsel in London, and he asked me to say whether I thought Mr. James had been bribed. I said, "No, certainly not." I did not think he had been.

38,053. Was there any report about that Mr. Pender had been helping Mr. James at the time you called up this money?—No.

38,054. You were rather surprised to get the money?—I was uncommonly glad to get it. I thought I should have had some trouble in getting it.

38,055. Did that open your eyes to the way in which he got the money?—I had a suspicion of it.

38,056. Then came the fortunate vote that gave you more information?—Yes.

38,057. How comes it Mr. James told us he offered you 6 per cent., and you said you would only have five, on a temporary loan?—I did it as a friendly thing towards him, and I thought that 5 per cent. would be sufficient.

38,058. He did offer you six, did he?—Yes.

38,059. I do not know why you sent up that note on the morning of the polling day unless he had this money from you. I do not understand that. You would not have sent that note up to him unless you had some object?—When he paid me the six months' interest he expressed himself that I, having been a friend to him, he hoped on a certain occasion he might be able to do me a favour, and it was in pursuance of that; and from the way in which I have drawn the letter no one can say it contains anything like a threat.

38,060. It is a most carefully drawn letter. I suppose you were very careful not to write anything like a threat?—I had not the slightest idea of it.

38,061. You took care to say nothing more?—I told him what I felt.

38,062. Did you have any consultation with counsel as to the writing of the letter?—It was written between 6 and 7 o'clock on the morning of the polling day.

38,063. You were an intimate acquaintance of Mr. James' before the election?—Yes.

38,064. Had you formed an idea of his politics?—No, never mentioned the subject.

38,065. You did not know whether he was a Liberal or a Conservative?—No.

38,066. When did you first come to the conclusion that he was a Liberal?—When we canvassed him.

38,067. Had he ever told you about the Somerset grievance?—No; but he told me he intended to vote for Mr. Pender, but as to his second vote he could not give it to Mr. Seymour.

38,068. Did you not by your long-suffering think you could obtain one of his votes if you allowed the money to stay on a little longer?—I never gave the matter a thought, and I never proposed such a thing.

38,069. (Mr. Longe.) You said you did not press for the debt because the election was coming on?—Yes, because a lot of ill-natured people in Totnes would say that I had put the screw on.

38,070. Which they did?—Yes.

THOMAS JACOB SEARLE recalled.

38,071. (Mr. Coleridge.) We have got to the end of 1865; but there is one question I wish to ask you. You heard of some person coming to the "Seven Stars" to offer the Slippery Company to Captain Pim?—No, nothing about it.

38,072. You heard Captain Pim say so?—No.

38,073. Did not you hear him, in his evidence, say early in the morning someone came to offer the Slippery Company for 1,000*l.*?—No, I did not.

38,074. Were you the person who went?—No.

38,075. Do you know whether it was "Slippery Jack" who went?—I do not know.

38,076. You had to watch him closely?—Yes, I was obliged to look after him.

38,077. What has become of "Slippery Jack?"—He has gone to America.

38,078. What took him to America?—Expectations.

38,079. What did he receive at the last election?—I had nothing to do with him.

38,080. You knew what he got?—No, never a word.

38,081. He voted at the last election?—Yes.

38,082. You had the Slippery Company?—I had nothing to do with any company.

38,083. You have heard who paid him; who was it?—I do not know.

38,084. Who have you heard?—I have heard of Mr. Charles Michelmore, and Fox, of Dartmouth.

38,085. Did he come to you before he went to America to say good-bye?—Yes.

38,086. What did he tell you about going to America after getting his summons to appear here?—I do not think he had a summons.

38,087. What did he tell you?—He never told me anything.

38,088. Why did he think of going to America?—He has got a father-in-law there pretty well off.

38,089. Was he going to invest the money he received at the last election here?—I do not know.

38,090. Did not you know he had been summoned here?—No.

38,091. Did he ask you if you had been summoned?—No.

38,092. When did he go?—I think a month or five weeks ago.

38,093. Before we came here?—Yes.

38,094. How long?—Not a great while.

38,095. The day before, was not it?—I do not know.

38,096. What day of the week was it he left here?—I do not know.

38,097. Did Sloggett go with him?—No, he went afterwards.

38,098. What has become of him?—He is gone to America.

38,099. The Slippery Company seem all to have gone to America?—I do not know about that.

38,100. Did not he go away to avoid being here?—I do not know. He had been sent for months ago.

38,101. Have you heard from him since he went away?—No.

38,102. Has your wife?—No. I think Mr. Jordain, of the "King William," has heard.

38,103. Where is he?—New York.

38,104. Is he likely to come back?—I do not know.

38,105. In 1862 you had somewhat of a grievance with the Liberal party?—Yes.

38,106. You would not vote for Mr. Pender?—I would not promise.

38,107. What time did you go to the "Stars?" How long before the election?—I think Mr. Pender canvassed me.

38,108. Did you tell him the reason of your grievance?—No; I said I shall not support the Liberal party.

38,109. Did you tell him that you had had a quarrel with Mr. Brooking Cuming?—No.

38,110. Not only you would not support him, but you were going to act against him?—Yes.

38,111. You went to the "Seven Stars?"—Yes.

38,112. How long before the election?—I think a week.

38,113. Whom did you see?—I went to the smoking room, and stayed there a few minutes.

38,114. Was John Heath there?—He was.

38,115. What was it Mr. Heath said to you?—He said, "Well, neighbour—"

38,116. Let us have it all out. I will tell you it all. He said, "How are times in general?" and I said, "The man that has got the most money is the best man."

38,117. Did not he say that Dent would win in a canter?—Yes. He said there was plenty of material, and Dent would win in a canter.

38,118. What did you say?—I said, "With all my heart."

38,119. That rather let him into a secret about your heart at that time?—Yes.

38,120. What did you say?—I think he said, "Can you do anything for us?"

38,121. And did you say you would not vote for Mr. Pender?—Yes.

38,122. What did he say?—He asked if I could do anything for the party.

38,123. After he asked that mysterious question, what took place?—He said, "Brother Searle."

38,124. Are you both masons?—Yes. "Whatever "passes between you or I or whatsoever is said or done "shall never be divulged," and I said "All right."

38,125. You pretty well trusted Mr. Heath not to divulge too much?—Yes.

38,126. You have known his character for a long time?—Yes.

38,127. That rather opened your mouth, his promise of reticence; and then did he not ask you about a certain company?—He asked me what I could do, and I enumerated a few names.

38,128. Who did you say you could square?—I think I named Sloggett, John Veasey, Thomas Searle, John Parnell Searle, Edward Angel, and Griffis; and I named Griffis and Mogridge, but I think he had said he had already arranged with those two.

38,129. What did he say he had arranged with them; did he tell you?—He did not tell me.

38,130. Did he tell you what the price was to be?—No.

38,131. You stood out for a good deal, did not you? What did you put the price of your men at, keeping out Griffis and Mogridge?—No price was mentioned then.

38,132. Did you have no conversation about the price then?—No. He asked me, and I told him about these men, that they could be brought to be neutral, or to vote.

38,133. Did you put a different price upon their neutrality and their voting?—I do not know that I did.

38,134. Did you tell him that 1,000*l.* would be required?—I did.

38,135. You thought 1,000*l.* would buy those five, Griffis and Mogridge being already done with? How much would you have required if Griffis and Mogridge had not been already done with?—That I do not know.

38,136. About 200*l.* you put them at?—Yes, I think so.

38,137. What did he say about yourself?—He asked me how about myself, and I said I should not vote.

38,138. Did he say anything about your being paid?—Yes.

38,139. What did he say then?—He said if you will not vote, and will not have anything for voting, will you accept a retainer? You shall have as much as any lawyer in the employ.

38,140. We should like to know how much any lawyer got. Have you any notion what the retainers were on that side?—I do not know.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

T. J. Searle.

25 Sept. 1866.

38,141. You were virtuously indignant, and said you should not be paid?—Yes; I did not wish to be. He said, "If you will work for us I will place a thousand or two in your hands."

38,142. As a retainer?—Yes.

38,143. Did he tell you what the retainer was to be?—No. And then he said he would consult the heads of the party.

38,144. The committee did not take the same high value of your services as Mr. Heath did, and would have nothing to do with you?—Yes.

38,145. How did you vote?—For Pender.

38,146. Were you in earnest in those negociations with Mr. Heath?—I was at the time in the spirit of revenge.

38,147. How did the reconciliation take place?—I happened to meet some days afterwards with Mr. Bowden, the merchant, in the street. He expressed his regret that I should be going to leave the party, and hoped I would consider it.

38,148. Then he sent Mr. Holman to you?—Yes.

38,149. (Mr. Bere.) Is that Mr. John Bowden?—Yes.

(Mr. Bere.) He never told us anything about it yesterday.

38,150. (Mr. Coleridge.) After that you began to act?—Very little.

38,151. How much money did you spend on the election?—I had 150*l.* from Mr. Holman, and I expended 100*l.*

38,152. You knew the night before the election that Mr. Dent was not going to the poll?—I think so.

38,153. It was pretty well known?—I met Mr. Kellock on the bridge, and he asked me to go and see Mr. Cuming and ask him to come and see him on the bridge.

38,154. Were you present at the interview?—No.

38,155. You did do so?—Yes.

38,156. Those people that you paid on that occasion, were they paid before or after the election?—After.

38,157. How long after?—A few days.

38,158. You gave 50*l.* to Sloggett?—Yes.

38,159. And 50*l.* to your father, Thomas Searle?—Yes.

38,160. What did you do with the other 50*l.*?—I carried it back to Mr. Holman, and he said I was to keep it until it was required again.

38,161. When was it required again?—At Seymour's election.

38,162. You had not kept it all that time?—Yes, I had, it was not very long.

38,163. How did you keep it; was it in gold or notes?—I think in notes.

38,164. You never changed them, but kept them in the same condition?—Yes.

38,165. There was no poll, but you felt in honour bound to pay those men?—I was instructed to do so.

38,166. Did you hear much grumbling about the voters on the other side having been promised and getting nothing?—Yes.

38,167. Did any of the voters come to you and complain, and say they were not going to be done in that way?—I think one or two came to me and said I had spoilt their game.

38,168. How many of the Slippery Company had voted for the Conservatives after you had deserted, or rather promised for the Conservatives?—I do not know.

38,169. Did Thomas Searle, your father, vote for Pender in 1862?—Yes.

38,170. Did Slippery Jack?—Yes.

38,171. Did John Veasey?—I do not know.

38,172. William Sloggett?—Yes.

38,173. Edward Angel?—Yes.

38,174. Griffis?—I do not know.

38,175. Mogridge?—I do not know.

38,176. They had been done by John Heath?—Yes, I think so.

38,177. And all, except those two, voted for Mr. Pender?—Yes.

38,178. What did you get for your own trouble at the election?—Nothing; never looked for anything, and never asked for anything.

38,179. Did not your wife?—No.

38,180. Is it not the way for people who trouble themselves to be paid as well as the lawyers?—I do not know; I did it for the good of the cause.

38,181. When the next election came I suppose you told Mr. Holman, as usual, your instructions?—I did not.

38,182. Tell us what you did do in 1863. Did you go to Mr. Parnell?—No.

38,183. Whom did you go to for instructions?—Mr. Holman had nothing to do with money matters.

38,184. Had you not 50*l.* for John Parnell Searle from Holman?—Not from Holman. That was the 50*l.* I had in hand.

38,185. Did you not give 50*l.* to Angel?—I went to Holman, but there was no money going, and I advanced 20*l.* to Angel myself, and he was obliged to wait some time for the remainder. At last I spoke to Mr. Holman, and he said, "I have no money, I would advise you to speak to Mr. Jeffery Michelmore." I wrote to Mr. Jeffery Michelmore, stating the circumstances, and he sent me a cheque for 50*l.*

38,186. Then you cashed it and paid Angel the remainder?—Yes.

38,187. Those are the only two you paid?—Yes.

38,188. There was no money going in 1863?—I do not know.

38,189. Had you not gone, as usual, to Mr. Holman to know what you should do at that election?—I did not.

38,190. You had got money before for voters at elections? In 1859, you paid one voter at least?—Yes.

38,191. You paid John Parnell Searle 50*l.* then?—Yes.

38,192. Whom did you get that from?—Mr. Holman.

38,193. Whom else did you pay?—No one.

38,194. Did you not go, in 1863, and ask for some?—No.

38,195. You were about the "Seymour Arms" about that time?—Yes.

38,196. Were those the only voters that were entrusted to you on that occasion?—They never asked me.

38,197. You did the Slippery Company in 1863?—I do not know.

38,198. As you had been the person who had the management before, were you not asked?—No.

38,199. What was the origin of the Slippery Company?—I do not know anything about the company.

38,200. Did you get it up?—No.

38,201. Who was it?—I related the circumstances at the "Stars," and that is all I know.

38,202. Mr. Heath first of all told you of the Slippery Company, and not you him?—Yes. I was not aware of it till I saw Mr. Harris's statement.

38,203. These were the people whom you mentioned you could get a hold of?—Yes.

38,204. What made you associate those men together, putting them at 1,000*l.*?—In relating my grievance to them they said they would stick by me.

38,205. And you would stick by them, and get them 1,000*l.* for their services?—Yes.

38,206. Was 1859 the first election that you ever got any money?—Dunn's election.

38,207. In 1859 had you any?—Is that the first time Mr. Mills came here?

38,208. Yes, Mr. Mills' first election. How did your father, Thomas Searle, vote?—He always voted for the Liberals, I believe.

38,209. John Parnell Searle, did he vote in 1863?—Yes.

38,210. Did Veasey?—Yes.

38,211. I suppose they were all paid?—I do not know.

38,212. They never did vote without being paid, to your knowledge?—No.

38,213. Sloggett voted for Seymour. Do you know who paid him?—No.

38,214. Mogridge voted against you?—I do not know.

38,215. Five of the Slippery Company voted for you, and two against you?—Yes.

38,216. Did not you know who paid them in 1863?—I have related the names.

38,217. You have only mentioned two who paid the others?—I do not know.

38,218. Did they come and ask you?—No, and I never asked them.

38,219 Excepting the cheque that you got from Mr. Michelmore, all the elections that you had to do with you got the money from Mr. Holman?—Yes.

38,220. Never from anybody else?—No.

38,221. Whom else did you offer money to in any election excepting those that you paid?—I never offered anyone a penny.

38,222. Did you offer a present to the men's wives after the election?—No.

38,223. Have you had the distribution of money since?—No.

38,224. What have you to do with the municipal elections; are you busy at them?—Yes.

38,225. What is the average sum of money given there? What is the highest you have given for a vote?—4*l.* or 5*l*; I gave once 5*l.*

38,226. How much have you spent at one election in bribery?—I cannot tell.

38,227. A hundred pounds?—I never did.

38,228. How much have you distributed at one election?—I think 20*l.*

38,229. At that time, when you gave one man 5*l.*, how many others did you bribe?—I think that was the only one.

38,230. Were the votes running high then?—Yes.

38,231. Who was it?—Sethbridge of the "South Devon Inn."

38,232. Was he a voter for the borough also?—I do not think he was.

38,213*a*. How often have you paid him?—Only once.

38,214*a*. Do not you find that people that have been paid once generally come again?—Yes.

38,215*a*. Was it at the last election that you paid him?—Some years ago.

38,216*a*. Has he never asked you since?—He has left the town; in fact he is dead.

38,217*a*. How often have you ever paid any one man for voting at the municipal elections?—I cannot tell.

38,218*a*. A dozen times?—No.

38,219*a*. Half a dozen?—No, twice perhaps.

38,220*a*. Who have you paid oftenest for voting at the municipal elections?—I do not know that I ever paid one more than once.

38,221*a*. Have you ever paid Slippery Jack?—No.

38,222*a*. William Sloggett?—No.

38,223*a*. Edward Angel?—No.

38,224*a*. Griffis or Mogridge?—No.

38,225*a*. There are different classes?—Yes.

38,226*a*. Can you tell us who you paid more than once?—No.

38,227*a*. What was the arrangement; 5*l.* and half a crown?—I do not think I paid them less than a sovereign.

38,228*a*. Whom did you get the money from at municipal elections—Holman?—I do not think I did.

38,229*a*. How often have you paid Thomas Blank? Only once.

38,230*a*. What did he get?—I think 3*l.*

38,231-2*a*. How many times have you paid him at parliamentary elections?—Only once.

38,233. Which was that?—110*l.* the last time.

38,234. You never paid him before?—No.

38,235. Nor his father?—No.

38,236. Blank is the only man who has received your favours both at the parliamentary and municipal [illegible]s?—Yes.

38,237. Did you never pay the Matchams?—No.

38,238. Nothing to do with the Matchams in 1863 or 1862?—No.

38,239. Is there anything about the elections from 1857 that we have not asked you that you can tell us?—I recollect that in 1859 I was ejected from my house and land.

38,240. Who were you holding from?—Mrs. Farwell.

38,241. The Gerston property?—No, the cottage property.

38,242. Are you a tenant of the Duke of Somerset?—No.

38,243. Have you had much to do with making up votes?—No.

38,244. Who manages that part?—I do not know.

38,245. (Mr. Bere.) On what land are you a tenant?—At the Cottage on the Plymouth Road.

38,246. What do you occupy?—I was renting at 150*l.* from Mrs. Farwell, which I was ejected from after Dunn's election.

38,247. Was that for voting or bribing?—I was not told, but I considered which it was for.

38,248. When you were turned out did you go and explain that, and were you not asked to be helped?—No.

38,249. Were you helped?—I was not.

38,250. When did you first get the land from the other side?—I think some two years ago I got a couple fields from the duke.

38,251. Was that just before the election?—No.

38,252. What is the name of the field that you occupy?—I have two meadows.

38,253. Tucker's Field and Ropewalk Meadow?—No, I do not occupy them. It is two fields near the station. I do not know the names, but I think they call them the Lucky Fields.

38,254. Who pays the rent of Tucker's Field and Ropewalk Meadow?—Mr. Tucker.

38,255. How much do you pay him in the course of a year?—I really do not know. I put in cattle there.

38,256. Does anybody else put cattle there?—Yes.

38,257. Who?—I do not know. He puts cattle there himself.

38,258. Does he put a single head of cattle there?—Yes.

38,259. How many?—I do not know.

38,260. How many do you put there?—I put my cows there.

38,261. Are not they there nearly all the year round?—No.

38,262. Except when you change the pastures?—No.

38,263. How long?—Two or three weeks at a time.

38,264. How many times?—Very often.

38,265. Forty weeks out of the 52?—No, they would be starved to do that.

38,266. How long are they there?—I cannot say.

38,267. Are they there as long as they have anything to eat?—Yes.

38,264. Are they the only cattle?—I put some colts there.

38,269. Upon your oath does Mr. Tucker put cattle there?—He has.

38,270. Where does he live?—At Cornworthy.

38,271. How far is that?—Three or four miles.

38,272. How often does he put cattle there?—Rarely.

38,273. Is it not that you are the real occupier of the land, and this is an arrangement to make a vote?—I am not the occupier, and I do not pay the rent.

38,274. How much do you pay him?—5*l.* or 6*l.*

38,276. Do you not pay him as much as 10*l.*?—Not that I am aware of.

38,276. Do you keep an account?—We make it up every market day.

38,277. How much do you pay him?—For a bullock 4*s.*

38,278. Have you ever paid him as much as 16*s.* a week for cows?—Yes.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

T. J. Searle.

25 Sept. 1866.

38,279. Have you not paid him 10*l.* a year for the land?—Yes.

38,280. That you swear?—Yes.

38,281. Who else puts cattle in besides you?—I do not know; he stocks it when he thinks proper.

31,282. How long has Tucker had it?—Three or four years, I think.

38,283. Did you have it before him?—Yes.

38,284. How long had you had it?—Several years.

38,285. Was not the arrangement between you and Mr. Thomas Michelmore and Mr. Jeffery Michelmore that you should go out of the land and Mr. Tucker should be the nominal tenant, and you continue to stock it?—No. I agreed to give it up to Mr. Michelmore, and I believe it was to make him a vote.

38,286. You were asked if you knew anything about the election matters, and you said "No," and it was only by chance that I asked you the question?—I did not think that I was called upon to answer anything of the sort.

38,287. Was there some transaction between you and Mr. Brooking Cuming about your house in 1863?—Yes.

38,288. What was that?—I was going to give up the business to my daughter, and I wanted some place to go to. I applied to take the house at first, but they would not let it; they would rather sell it.

38,289. Did you buy it?—After a good deal of negociation, I believe I did buy it.

38,290. What did you give for it?—800*l.*

38,291. Where did you get it?—When I was ejected from the lands I had a large stock to sell. I was renting nearly 300*l.* a-year at the time, and I had three sales of hay, cattle, and corn, which realized 1,000*l.* and upwards. Mr. Harris has forgotten to state that the proceeds of this paid for my house.

38,292. How long ago was it that you were ejected?—I think it was after Dunn's election.

38,293. Did you let the money stay in the bank till you had to buy a house?—No.

38,294. What did you do with the money?—I worked upon it. I was carrying on the farming and fellmongering business, returning many thousands a year.

38,295. Had you to add to your capital in your fellmongering business?—I have increased my trade considerably.

38,296. Had you 800*l.* left when you came to buy your house?—I had not; I was obliged to take some out of my trade.

38,297. Did not you go and borrow some of some one?—

38,298. Of whom?—Frederick Bowden, of Totnes, the confectioner.

38,299. Did you get that money from Brooking Cuming?—No.

38,300. Any money of any sort from Brooking Cuming?—No.

38,301. What has he had to do with it?—He conveyed it to me.

38,302. You bought his house?—No, it was Mrs. Douglas's.

38,303. Was the house valued?—No; they asked me 1,000*l.*, and I offered them 700*l.*, and stuck to that for months.

38,304. And they took 800*l.*?—Yes.

38,305. What rent did you give for the house before?—I had not rented it before. I offered to rent a part, and I let a part at 28*l.* a year.

38,306. What is the rest that you keep worth?—30*l.*

38,307. 58*l.* a year?—Yes.

38,308. 58*l.* a year for 800*l.* is not a bad bargain?—I think not.

W. Adams.

WILLIAM ADAMS sworn and examined.

38,309. (Mr. Longe.) What is your trade?—Professor of music.

38,310. Do you make pianos as well as play them?—I do not.

38,311. Are you an organist at the present time?—Yes, at Harberton Church.

38,312. How long have you been there?—I was there in 1857 and since.

38,313. How long have you been resident in Totnes?—I was born in the place.

38,314. How long ago is it that you first voted?—The first active part I took in electioneering was in 1847—Ricardo and Seymour. I voted for Gisborne before quietly.

38,315. But you have taken an active part besides recording your vote?—I was sent for by Mr. Tom Michelmore, the Duke of Somerset's steward, to come to the "Seymour Hotel," and he asked me to try and get a vote which belonged to the Baldwin party. I did so, which I paid 50*l.* for to Thomas Hardin, a brushmaker.

38,316. You being liberal at that time you acted for the Liberal party and bought a vote from the Conservatives?—I should not have taken an active part if I had not been sent for.

38,317. That was in 1847?—That was in 1847,

38,318. At that time you were an organist at Totnes?—At Bridgetown Chapel.

38,319. Who paid your salary?—Voluntary contributions, and 10*l.* a year from the Duke of Somerset besides.

38,320. 10*l.* a year guaranteed by the Duke?—A subscription rather from the congregation in addition to the 10*l.* a year.

38,321. The Duke's subscription was always paid?—Yes, the Duke's subscription was always paid.

38,322. The next election was in 1852?—Yes, in 1852 was the next election.

38,323. You were still organist at Bridgetown?—I was still organist at Bridgetown.

38,324. You were an active man at that election?—I was active at that election for Mr. Mills and Mr. Seymour.

38,325. Whom did you act under then?—I beg pardon, I do not understand.

38,326. I suppose you acted with somebody at that election?—I paid 20*l.* to one William Satchwell.

38,327. Who authorized you to make that payment?—I was met in the street by William Satchwell, and he asked me to secure him 20*l.* for his vote, otherwise he should go to the other side. I mentioned it to the party and he told me I must secure him.

38,328. Whom did you mention it to?—To Mr. Samuel Huxham.

38,329. The old Mr. Samuel Huxham?—The old Mr, Samuel Huxham.

38,330. Was that the only person on the Liberal committee you had any dealings with at that time or communicated with with regard to voters?—There were many persons belonging to the committee. He was the person I met in the street promiscuously, and I spoke to him.

38,331. I believe you were at the "Seymour Arms" a good deal?—Not before 1852. In 1852 I used frequently during the election to go there.

38,332. You took an active part?—Yes.

38,333. In the consultations?—Yes.

38,334. And in the managing of the election?—I had nothing to do with the managing of the election, but if there was a voter to be picked up I did it if I could so.

38,335. Was there no one else but Mr. William Satchwell whom you operated upon?—Mr. Edward Langidge, a currier; I gave him 50*l.*

38,336. Did you go and ask for his vote?—No, he called me at the bottom of the town and took me round by the "Oxford Arms." I wondered where he was going to take me, and he led me into the stable and said, "I have something to communicate to you;

I am going to vote for the Liberals provided I get 50*l.*" He said, "I am not going to trust anyone; I am not going to vote without the money." I said, "I would rather you would get some one else. I would rather not have anything to do with it."

38,337. He knew you were the right man seemingly?—I suppose so; he pitched on me. I received that from Mr. Huxham also; he paid me in the counting-house of his grocer's shop.

38,338. What did he give you for your own vote?—Not a farthing. I never got anything from any party.

38,339. When you made yourself active for your party did not you receive anything?—Not the slightest. Every glass of grog I drank I paid for out of my own pocket, and I have been many pounds out of pocket.

38,340. Your salary was not increased?—Not at all.

38,341. That is in 1852 you are speaking to?—Yes.

38,342. How long were you organist at Bridgetown Chapel?—From August 1834 down to 1857.

38,343. In 1857 there was another election. Which way did you vote then?—I never voted from 1852 to 1862 for anything in the borough.

38,344. But in 1857, had you a vote at that time?—I had a vote all the time.

38,345. Were you organist at the time of the election in 1857?—I was.

38,346. Then why did you not vote at that election?—I will tell you.

38,347. Yes, explain that?—There was a jolly meeting at the "Seven Stars" one evening, and there was a chairman appointed, I forget now who the chairman was, but the room was cleared and put in order, and I recollect a good deal of talk about the slave trade on the other side of the bridge, and how they worked on board the hulks in chains, and all that sort of thing, and they spoke to me, and I said, "Gentlemen, I am the organist there, and I tell you "you will never catch me voting again whilst I am "organist at Bridgetown," and I never did.

38,348. You were not organist much longer, were you?—I was organist from 1834 to 1857.

38,349. But this was in 1857?—This was in 1857.

38,350. Did you vote in 1857?—I did not vote.

38,351. (Mr. Bere.) What time in 1857 did you cease to be organist?—In November 1857.

38,352. (Mr. Longe.) That election was in March?—In 1857?

38,353. Yes?—I did not vote.

38,354. But the election was in March 1857?—I do not know I am sure now. I know there was an election in 1857.

38,355. How soon was this meeting at the "Stars" before that 1857 election? What time of the year was it?—Very soon after the election of Mills and Seymour in 1852.

38,356. But this is 1857 we are speaking of; do you mean that it was very soon after the election of 1852?—Very soon after the election of 1852.

38,357. Five years before the election of 1857?—Yes, five years before the election of 1857. This meeting took place soon after the election of 1852, when they were talking of the slave trade across the bridge.

38,358. In 1857, were you canvassed then for your vote?—I was always, at every election.

38,359. Were you canvassed by the Liberal party?—I was canvassed by both parties, by the candidates always.

38,360. Who canvassed you, then, in 1857?—It was Lord Gifford and Mr. Mills.

38,361. Who canvassed you for Lord Gifford?—I never voted for Lord Gifford.

38,362. But who canvassed you on the part of Lord Gifford?—I do not recollect that now.

38,363. You were at that time organist at Bridgetown?—In 1857 I was. One of the Mr. Michelmores was with them, I know; old Mr. Michelmore or his son.

38,364. What answer did you make to them?—I told them that I intended to be neutral.

38,365. The first time your vote was asked for by the Liberals you told them what?—That I should not vote for anyone, but remain neutral.

38,366. Were you canvassed by the Conservative party?—Yes, I was canvassed by both parties.

38,367. Who canvassed you for the Conservative candidates; Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Gregory were the candidates?—They all canvassed me as they came into the field.

38,368. What answer did you make to them?—I told them all that I should not have anything to do with the election. I had given it up, in fact. I was thoroughly disgusted with the proceedings I took myself, that was the reason I declined to take any part in it at all.

38,369. Do you swear that nothing was offered to you?—Never anything on either side.

38,370. You took nothing?—I took nothing from them at all.

38,371. And nothing was offered to you on either side, or given to you before or after the election?—Nothing in any shape or form was ever offered to me.

28,372. Now the next election in 1857, did you vote at that election?—I did not vote again till Mr. Pender made his appearance.

38,373. At that time you were no longer organist at Bridgetown?—From 1857 to the present time I have been organist at Harberton.

38,374. Where you are now?—Where I am now.

38,375. Did you go straight from Bridgetown to Harberton?—Yes, I was at Bridgetown one Sunday and Harberton the next.

38,376. What was the cause of your going from one to the other?—Having a better situation.

38,377. You left of yourself?—I did leave of myself.

38,378. Did you vote in 1863?—I voted in 1862 for Mr. Pender, and I voted in January 1863 for Mr. Alfred Seymour, and in 1865 I voted for Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim.

38,379. Can you explain those votes, for Mr. Pender in 1862, for Mr. Seymour in 1863, and for Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim, the Conservatives, in 1865?—Yes.

38,380. What did you receive at the last election for changing sides, having been a Liberal to go over to the Conservatives?—No one ever canvassed my vote but the candidates, and no one ever offered me a penny. No one ever spoke to me on my vote.

38,381. Did Mr. Pender canvass you at the last election, having already got your vote in 1862?—I met Mr. Pender at the Priory Gate on his last election. He came to shake hands with me, and said, "I shall see you again;" and I did not see him again before the nomination day.

38,382. Did Mr. Pender make an offer to you?—He did not.

38,383. Was not there an offer of a situation for a son of yours from Mr. Pender? Was not that made known to you that Mr. Pender was ready to help you with a situation for your son?—Well, early in 1863, after Mr. Seymour's election, I was at Mr. Chaster's tuning a pianoforte, and after that was done he and I took a glass of grog together, and entered into conversation. He said, "Have not you a son who is a draper?" I said, "I have;" and he said, "Mr. Pender "is connected with one of the largest wholesale houses "you could wish to place him in, and I would advise "you to apply to him." I said, "I never asked a favor in my life from any candidate." "Well," he said, "I "do not see but what you should. You have an un-"doubted right to it; you have served us well all "your lifetime." A few days afterwards I had to go to Mr. Brooking Cuming's, where I was engaged in giving music lessons, and he said, "I am about to "write a business letter to Mr. Pender, and, if you "like, I will ask him;" and I said, "It is in better

"hands than mine;" and he did so, and I saw the reply, which was very satisfactory.

38,384. This was in 1863?—In 1863, after Mr. Seymour's election. The reply was very satisfactory. Mr. Pender came down here two or three times afterwards, but I heard nothing more about it. Nothing further was said.

38,385. What was the reply?—That I was a deserving man, and that my son should have it.

38,386. When Mr. Pender came down did not you see him?—When Mr. Pender came down in 1864 I saw nothing of him. He called on many voters, but I saw nothing of him.

38,387. Did not you speak to Mr. Chaster or Mr. Brooking Cuming?—No. I saw in the paper that he said I felt aggrieved. He made a mistake. I never heard of such a conversation with Mr. Chaster after that time.

38,388. Do you mean to say that after authorizing Mr. Brooking Cuming to write, and then getting this answer, you never mentioned the subject again?—I did many times to Mr. Cuming. I frequently said that I had been served bad, and I said whenever I have a chance I shall vote against him.

38,389. You complained?—I did.

38,390. What did you say?—I said whenever I have a chance I shall vote on the other side. I was afraid I should not have the chance to tell you the truth; it did not look like candidates coming into the field.

38,391. When did you say that?—Before the Conservatives put any candidates in the field. I met him round Lake Garden for a walk.

38,392. You told Mr. Cuming that before the last election?—I told him more than 12 months before the last election that I should vote on the other side.

38,393. Did you mention the subject again to him when the election was coming on?—I did.

38,394. What did he tell you?—That I should not vote for the Tories. He said, "I know you better." I said, "I will. You shall see whether I will or not."

38,395. You said, "If your promise is not kept I shall vote on the other side?"—No, I did not say anything about promise. I said, "I would not vote for "your man if you were to write and make it all "right."

38,396. Did Mr. Pender call on you?—I met him by Priory Gate, and he said he had called to see me. He said, "I called on you, and you were not at home." On the nomination day he called, and I happened to be at home, and he said, "What is all this mistake; it must be set to rights;" and I said, "It is not my fault, that's certain." So he sat down and went through it, and he said, "Why not have written this letter yourself?" I said, "I never asked Mr. Cuming to do it; he offered to do so, and I accepted it." He said, "I am very sorry this mistake should have happened." He said, "Well, are you going against me?" and I said, "I am." "And against Mr. Seymour too?" and I said, "I am." He said, "Whether "you vote for me or not your son shall have it; "whether I am a member of Parliament or not he "shall have it; whether I am elected or not he shall "have it." I said, "I cannot expect it, and do not expect it."

38,397. That was all the conversation that took place?—That was all the conversation that took place.

38,398. And then Mr. Pender left?—And then Mr. Pender left.

38,399. Did Mr. Seymour canvass you?—He did in Fore Street. I never saw him afterwards. I told him it was useless to expect my support.

38,400. Did you give any reason?—None whatever. My reason for not voting was that when there is a coalition between the parties I knew they could make my other vote all right.

38,401. You told Mr. Pender you had no reason to expect it, but did you tell him you would not vote?—I did. He said, "Am I to say you will not vote for Mr. Seymour as well?" and I said, "Certainly."

38,402. Were you canvassed by the Conservatives?—By no one but the candidates.

38,403. What did you tell them?—Well, Colonel Dawkins had a very shuffling way. He canvassed me in the street one day, and he had no sooner asked me than he did not wait for a reply scarcely, but passed on. I met Mr. Pim up against Mr. Tucker's door, and I said I should vote against him. I saw him in this hall soon after, and heard him speak, and I told him I would vote for him.

38,404. (Mr. Coleridge.) What did you know about Bartlett?—That was in 1852, one of the elections I took an active part in. I stood in Mr. Bartlett's shop, talking to him about the coming election, and he said, "I do not think I shall have anything to do about voting." Well, I had not been very far down the street before I ran against Mr. Windeatt. I said, "I have "had some little talk with Mr. Bartlett, and I do not "think he will vote at this election." He said, "I wish you would go and offer 30*l.* to him," which I did a few hours afterwards; and he laughed at the idea, and said, "I am not going to leave my party," and there was an end of it.

38,405. How did he vote?—For his own party; and I do not believe he ever voted on the other side. That is all that passed between us.

38,406. (Mr. Bere.) You have not happened to vote since you have been organist at Harberton Church, except for the Conservatives?—Yes, I voted for Mr. Pender on his first election, and for Mr. Seymour. The first time I ever voted for the Conservatives was in 1865.

31,407. (Mr. Coleridge.) You are quite sure about making this offer to Mr. Bartlett?—Yes.

38,408. (Mr. Longe.) Do you remember going to William Oldrey's house at the last election?—I was not near his house at the time of the election. I was there on the nomination day.

38,409. Who were present there; who took you there?—Young Mr. Oldrey and Mrs. Oldrey and Mr. Oldrey were there. I do not remember anyone else being there.

38,410. That was the first time that you were associated with the Conservatives at election time?—I was as friendly with the Conservatives as with the Whigs; quite as friendly.

38,411. Was not there some offer made to you on that occasion?—Never by any party, nor on any other occasion. Nobody ever offered me anything.

38,412. (Mr. Bere.) Did you ever take anything?—No.

38,413. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you help yourself?—I helped myself from my own pocket.

38,414. Did not they have a piano, or anything of that sort?—I had some jokes with the mayor about a pianoforte.

38,415. What was that?—I sold him a piano in May 1865, and somebody told me I had 100 guineas for it. I said I should be very glad to see it. It was a school-room instrument, and he paid me 26 guineas, I think, for it.

38,416. Did you ever find any money under the lining?—No. I did find a shilling one time, which I returned to the parties, under the roof.

38,417. (Mr. Bere.) Have you ever, directly or indirectly, been influenced by the receipt of money to give your vote to any party?—No, never.

38,418. Not at any time?—Never.

S. Parnell.

SAMUEL PARNELL sworn and examined.

38,419. (Mr. Bere.) You are the postmaster of this town?—Yes.

38,420. How long have you been such postmaster?—About a month.

38,421. When did the appointment become vacant?—The latter part of June, I think.

38,422. When did you receive your appointment, or the promise of it?—In July.

38,423. Did you receive it from the Postmaster-eneral of the retiring Government ?—Yes.

38,424. And the vacancy had taken place before e Government went out ?—Yes.

38,425. Whom did you succeed ? — Mr. William annaford.

38,426. How long have you lived in Totnes ?—All y life, or nearly so.

38,427. Engaged in trade, or what ?—I have been accountant for the last seven or eight years.

38,428. Was that in consequence of the bankruptcy usiness of Totnes that you became an accountant ? -No ; not on any particular occasion, or for any rticular reason.

38,429. What had you been before ?—A boot and oe maker.

38,430. And had you been that from the time you gan work ?—Yes.

38,431. A master shoemaker ?—Yes.

38,432. Employing a good many hands ?—Yes.

38,433. And were those hands voters ?—No ; some them were.

38,434. How long have you had a vote ?—Since 32.

38,435. Since the passing of the Reform Bill ?—ince the passing of the Reform Bill.

38,436. Have you voted at every election ?—Yes.

38,437. On one side invariably ?—Yes.

38,438. Which side was that ?—The Liberal side.

38,439. Were you actively employed on the Liberal de at the election of 1832 ?—No.

38,440. When did you first begin to be actively nployed in elections ?—I think principally in 1852 was that I took any part.

38,441. What part did you take in 1852 ?—Going und and seeing the voters.

38,442. Was there a committee then formed of the iberals ?—I do not think there was.

38,443. Which party of the Liberals do you con-ler you belonged to, the independent party or the ke's party ?—The independent party.

38,444. Then you went and canvassed for the dependent candidate principally, then ?—Yes.

38,445. That was Mr. Mills ?—Yes.

38,446. What sort of persons did you direct you tention to ?—The middle class of voters.

38,447. People who were accessible to bribes ?—es, or persuasion, some of them.

38,448. To how many people did you offer persua-on in 1852 ?—Four or five.

38,449. Who were they ?—Two, I think—Mr. John vary Elliott.

38,450. Where did he live ?—The higher part of e town.

38,451. How much did you offer him to persuade m ?—I did not offer him anything.

38,452. How much was it that you gave him ?—I ink it was 40*l.*

38,453. Did he vote for the Liberals in consequence that ?—Yes.

38,454. Did he vote for Seymour and Mills, or only ills ?—I think he only voted for Mills.

38,455. How did you vote ?—For Seymour and ills.

38,456. What were the names of the others you rsuaded ?—I do not think there were any others en.

38,457. You said four or five ?—But I do not know at there were at that time.

38,458. Yes ; come, let us have some more.—I do ot think there was any more in 1852.

38,459. You said you had offered persuasion to four five in 1852. Come, who were they ?—In 1852 I not think there was any more.

38,460. Do you mean to say that John Savary lliott was the only person whom you influenced in ? ?—I cannot say exactly.

38,461. How came you to go to him ?—I went for r. Windeatt.

38,462. Was Mr. Windeatt managing for the ens then ?—Yes.

38,463. Did Mr. Windeatt ask you whether you could do anything to persuade Mr. John Savary Elliott ?—Yes.

38,464. Had you any particular influence you could exercise over him ?—Nothing particular, otherwise than that I knew him well.

38,465. Was he a man you were in the habit of meeting to talk to a great deal ?—Yes, I used to talk to him on politics.

38,466. Did you go to him before you arranged he was to have the 40*l.* ?—Yes.

38,467. And ask him for whom he would vote ?—No. I think the conversation was this, as far as I recollect now. He said, "Well, how is the election going ?" "I think very well." He said, "Well, I have been offered a good deal of money by Baldwin's party." I said, "I cannot help that ; do as you like." He said, "Well, I suppose you can do something for me." After some little time I waited on him again.

38,468. Did you go down and see Mr. Windeatt between the times ?—Yes.

38,469. And you told him that Elliott wanted some money ?—Yes ; at least he said he wanted 50*l.*, and after some time he consented to take 40*l.*

38,470. Did Mr. Windeatt tell you how much they could afford to give him ?—No.

38,471. Did you go and tell Mr. Windeatt that 50*l.* was the right thing ?—Yes, that he wanted it.

38,472. And then Mr. Windeatt told you he could not give more than 40*l.*, and you went back and offered him 40*l.* ?—Yes.

38,473. Where did you get the 40*l.* from ?—He gave it to me himself.

38,474. At his own house ?—At his own house I think it was. I cannot tell you exactly.

38,475. Where did you give Elliott the money ?—At his own house.

38,476. Where did he find it ? You did not go in and hand it to him ?—No, I paid it to his wife, I think.

38,477. Did you not put it into a teapot ?—No, I do not think I did.

38,478. Are you quite sure ?—I would not say I am sure. I do not recollect.

38,479. Did not you tell Mrs. Elliott where she was to find it ?—I have no recollection of it.

38,480. Where did you put it ?—I think I put it on the table in the room inside the shop.

38,481. Was she there when you put it there ?—Yes.

38,482. Was it wrapped up ?—Yes, I think it was wrapped up.

38,483. Now just think for a moment whether there were not any other people you had to deal with in 1852 ?—I do not think there was, now.

38,484. Did not Mr. Windeatt give you more money in 1852 ?—No ; I went and took the money just as I wanted it.

38,485. Did not you go to him for other monies in 1852 ?—I do not think I did.

38,486. Just consider for a moment ?—I cannot now, really.

38,487. Was that the first voter you had ever been to to give money to ?—I do think it was the first.

48,488. Had not you been asked to go to anybody in Ricardo's time ?—What date was that ?

38,489. That was in 1847 ?—I do not think so. I do not recollect anything at that time at all.

38,490. Were not you actively employed by the Liberals in 1847 ?—No.

38,491. Just think again. You succeeded admirably with John Savary Elliott. How long before the election was it that you succeeded with him ?—You asked me at Ricardo's election.

38,492. We will keep to 1852 now. How long before the election was it you succeeded with Elliott ?—A very short time.

38,493. When you had succeeded you went back and reported your success to Mr. Windeatt ?—It was only a day or two.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

S. Parnell.

25 Sept. 1866.

38,494. You went back and reported your success to Mr. Windeatt?—Yes, I did.

38,495. Did he tell you to try your hand at other voters?—I do not think he did.

38,496. Just think. Were there not two people named Light you went to see?—I do not think I did see them.

38,497. In 1852?—If it was in 1852 I do not think I did anything with them whatever. I do not think it was 1852.

38,498. Satchwell, did you see him?—Yes, I did.

38,499. In 1852?—I am almost inclined to think they were both at one election, but whether 1852 or not I cannot say.

38,500. Did you go to a man named Pearce?—Yes.

38,501. Was that in 1852?—I will not be certain whether that was in 1852.

38,502. Was it?—I will not be certain whether it was or not.

38,503. But you did have to do with them at some time?—Yes.

38,504. Can you remember if that was not at the election of 1852, at what election it was? You know you had to do with John Light last time?—Yes.

38,505. When was the time?—It might have been 1852. I had to deal with them; I will not be certain.

38,506. Had he a vote in 1852?—Yes.

38,507. Have not you always as a rule bought his vote?—No.

38,508. When were you unsuccessful?—In 1863, I think.

38,509. He went and voted on the other side?—He did not vote at all.

38,510. Then, if there was nobody else to influence in 1852, whom did you operate upon in 1857?—Some of those whom you speak of, I think.

38,511. Was not your method of dealing with Light to go to his half brother, Thomas Worthy, and give him the money, and let him deliver it to Light?—Yes.

38,512. Did not you give Worthy 20*l.* for Light in 1862?—I would not say that I did not.

38,513. Light has said that you did?—Well, then, I admit it if he did.

38,514. You must think about this, because you must have had some more money from Mr. Windeatt?—I do not know that I got it from Mr. Windeatt.

38,515. Whom did you get it from?—I think I got some from Mr. Cuming.

38,516. Where did you get it from Mr. Cuming?—It must have been at his office, I think.

38,517. Just before the election?—Yes.

38,518. Mr. Cuming told you to come down and get some money?—Yes.

38,519. Did he give you a list of people you were to go and see?—No.

38,520. Never?—No.

38,521. Did you suggest the names of the people you were to go and influence yourself?—They came to me.

38,522. You were a person who was recognized, then, as a Liberal agent at that time?—No.

38,523. Had you done a great deal at the council elections?—No, I had not been a great deal.

38,524. But you had been pretty active on the Liberal side?—Yes.

38,525. Had you to do with the dispensing of money at the council elections?—Not at that time.

38,526. How was it that people came to you if you had not the distribution of money?—They knew that I took an active part, and asked me if I could do anything for them.

38,527. Did not both John Light and his son come to you in 1852?—I do not think the son did.

38,528. It was the old gentleman, the schoolmaster?—Yes.

38,529. In 1857, what did you do then?—About the same.

38,530. We must have it. Do you remember who the people were?—There was William Satchwell.

38,531. What did you give him?—I think it was 20*l.* or 25*l.* then.

38,532. Did you find that there was a pretty certain sum wanted?—They would generally say, "Well, now, you must do the best you can for me."

38,533. Then did you do better for some than others?—No, it was generally the same sum within a few pounds.

38,534. For the Liberals?—Yes.

38,535. Were they people who had always voted for the Liberals?—Yes.

38,356. If you wanted to turn a man from his party it would cost more?—I never did.

38,357. Or recover a man to his own?—Perhaps it did, but I do not know that I did that.

38,538. You recovered John Light the time before? He did not vote the time before.

38,539. But he was under good influences?—Yes.

38,440. Can you give us the names of anybody else in 1857?—Pearce and Crawford, I think.

38,541. You went to Crawford in 1857, what did give him?—I cannot tell whether it was in 1857, but it was 20*l.* or 25*l.*

38,542. Did you give that to Crawford, or to Mrs. Crawford?—I think I gave it to her.

38,543. In her house?—I think it was my own house.

38,544. Did she come down for it?—Yes.

38,545. Where did you give it to her?—I think in my sitting room; I think so, to the best of my recollection.

385,46. You remember Crawford, did you give Light 20*l.* that time?—I think he got 25*l.* at that time.

38,547. Who else was there, Pearce, what did you give him?—The same amount I think, 25*l.* or 30*l.*, I do not know which.

38,548. Did you get that all at once and then distribute it and give an account of it afterwards?—No.

38,549. Was it given in small sums as you wanted it?—Yes it was.

38,550. And sent down from time to time to the several parties who wanted it?—Yes.

38,551. Was that all you did in 1857?—Yes.

38,552. And you got nothing for your services?—No.

38,553. Were you an accountant then?—No, not in 1857.

38,554. What made you change from being a shoemaker to an accountant?—I liked it better.

38,555. Do you mean to say there is business enough in Totnes for an accountant?—I was clerk to Mr. Cuming as well.

38,556. Mr. Cuming the solicitor?—Yes, I used to engross for him.

38,557. While you were a shoemaker, did you?—Yes.

38,558. How long had you united those two capacities?—For some years.

38,559. Did you draw his conveyances for him?—Yes.

38,560. Did you go to his office and sit there?—No, perhaps I went an hour a day.

38,561. Were you paid for what you did, or by the week?—For what I did.

38,562. Then I suppose you were so intimate with Mr. Cuming that he employed you on the Liberal side?—Yes.

38,563. He did not send you to anyone else 1857?—No.

38,564. And you and he used to discuss from time to time what people you could influence?—Yes.

38,565. We have heard that there were convivial meetings on the Conservative side; were there any such meetings, do you know, on the Liberal side?—Occasionally there were.

38,566. Used you to attend to them?—Very seldom.

38,567. Where were they held principally?—At different public-houses.

38,568. Was the "Castle" a place where they were held?—Yes, some few were held there.

38,569. Did you live near the "Castle?"—No.

38,570. Where used you to go when you attended them?—It was very seldom that I attended them at all.

38,571. But when you did?—I have been up to the "Commercial Inn."

38,572. That is Condy's?—That is Condy's.

38,573. Whom used you to meet there?—People from all parts.

38,574. Were there not meetings where you used to discuss how things were going on on the Liberal side?—Yes.

38,575. Were there not such meetings held at which the Conservatives would not be admitted?—No.

38,576. Then you used to talk over what the chances of the Liberal party were, and who was likely to get in?—Yes.

38,577. What did you do in 1859—that is Dunn's?—Yes.

38,578. I will ask you this question in passing, at any time in those earlier elections did you get any offers from the Conservative side?—No.

38,579. Were you canvassed from time to time by the Conservative candidates?—Yes.

38,580. Did any of the agents of the Conservatives come to you at any time?—No.

38,581. You were canvassed?—Yes, and there was an end of it.

38,582. You told them you could not vote, and there was an end of it?—Yes.

38,583. Did you continue, after you became an accountant, to be Mr. Cuming's clerk?—Yes.

38,584. And were you his clerk after the time you became Postmaster?—No.

38,585. Are you now?—No.

38,586. When did you cease to be his clerk?—In April.

38,587. But do not you do work for him now?—None at all now.

38,588. If he sent down a conveyance for you to engross, would not you do it?—No, nothing of the sort; but I keep his books for him.

38,589. You are his accountant?—Yes.

38,590. In 1859, when Mr. Dunn stood, did you have to do with the same persons you had to do with at the former elections?—Yes.

38,591. And paid them?—And paid them.

38,592. The same sums as in 1857?—Yes, the same sums within a pound or two. It might be 25*l.* or 30*l.* I paid Light 30*l.*

38,593. Did not you increase the number of persons with whom you dealt in 1859?—No.

38,594. You have not given us the name of John Huxham before. You had a good deal to do with him in 1859, had not you?—No.

38,595. Who was Mr. Huxham?—He was originally a grocer in Totnes, and tallow chandler.

38,596. Did he become unfortunate?—Yes.

38,597. When did that happen?—I cannot tell you the date of that.

38,598. Do you know a man called Edward Baker?—Yes.

38,599. Had you anything to do with him in the election of 1859?—No.

38,600. Did you send him to Mr. Huxham to give Mr. Huxham money for his vote?—No.

38,601. Had you left money in the room in the "Seymour Hotel" for Mr. Baker?—I have no recollection of doing so at all. I had nothing at all to do with him.

38,602. Were you down at the "Seymour Hotel" during that election in 1859?—Most likely I was.

38,603. Did you see Edward Baker there?—Yes, I should say so, very likely I did.

38,604. Where did you get the money from to pay the people whom you saw?—I think I had some from Mrs. Charles Michelmore, and some from Mr. Charles Michelmore.

38,605. Did not you get some by going into the "Seymour," and taking it up in a room at the right-hand side of the door, and finding it in a parcel?—I have no recollection at that election.

38,606. Did not you tell Edward Baker where to go and get the money?—No.

38,607. At no time?—No.

38,608. Are you sure?—Yes.

38,609. If he said that you are the person who he did tell to go, it is incorrect?—Yes.

38,610. Had Huxham been to you at any time to ask you to get money?—I do not recollect his coming at all.

38,611. Had he been unfortunate at that time?—I cannot say whether he had at that time.

38,612. Was he in difficulties?—I do not know.

38,613. Mr. Huxham complained of being deceived by your party, and he mentioned your name?—I have no recollection of having anything to do with it at all.

38,614. Had you nothing to do with him?—No.

38,615. Were you a creditor of his?—No.

38,616. Was Mr. Brooking Cuming concerned as his solicitor?—I really cannot tell you; I do not think he was; but that I would not be positive about.

38,617. Had you nothing to do with copying any of the accounts which Huxham made up?—No.

38,618. Are you quite sure of that?—Yes.

38,619. Will you undertake to say you did not?—No, I would not undertake to swear at the moment, unless I considered about it.

38,620. Are you quite sure that you did not know Huxham was in difficulties, and suggested that he was a man that might be got for a little sum?—I do not recollect that at all.

38,621. Do you mean to say that you did not?—No.

38,622. Have you the least doubt of it?—I do not think I did; I have no recollection about it whatever.

38,623. How many did you influence in 1859?—Whose election was that?

38,624. Dunn's?—The Satchwells, I think; the two Lights, in 1859; Pearce and Crawford, I think. I think those were the only ones.

38,625. Had you not something to do with Samuel Hill, junior?—No.

38,626. Never had anything to do with him?—No.

38,627. At any time?—No.

38,628. Did you get some money for him?—No.

38,629. In 1859?—No.

38,630. Did you have anything to do with a man named Hill?—No.

38,631. At any time?—At any time.

38,632. Did you know a man named Hill had money on your side?—No.

38,633. Did you hear that he had?—Yes.

38,634. From whom did you hear it?—From various parties.

38,635. Who was the person who gave him the money?—Mr. Prout, Mr. Michelmore's clerk.

38,636. Did you see what the sum of money was he got?—No.

38,637. Where did he live?—Under the walls.

38,638. Was he a tenant of the Duke's?—No.

38,639. Are you a tenant of the Duke's?—No.

38,640. Is that all you had to do with in 1859?—Yes.

38,641. Where did you get the money from?—I got it from Mr. Michelmore and Mrs. Michelmore.

38,642. Did not you get any from Mr. Holman for distribution?—No.

38,643. Did you give anyone 50*l.* or 60*l.* at that time?—I do not know.

38,644. Did you give any one voter 60*l.* in 1859?—Yes.

38,645. To whom did you give that?—To Crawford, I think, in 1859. I would not be certain, but I gave him 60*l.* at one time, and the only time.

38,646. Did you give anybody else at that time 60*l.*?—No.

TWENTY-SEVENTH DAY.

S. Parnell.

25 Sept. 1868.

38,647. That was the largest sum that you gave ?—Yes.

38,648. Did you give any person 50*l.* in the election of 1859 ?—No.

38,649. What was the largest sum that you gave in the election of 1859 ?—30*l.*

38,650. Did not you receive sums of 100*l.*, and did not you distribute that money to certain voters, and then account ?—No.

38,651. Do you mean to say that every time you wanted 30*l.* you went and asked for it ?—No. I had at one time 85*l.* from Mrs. Charles Michelmore, I had something sent to me in a book.

38,652. Was that the same book that she sent the money in to Mr. Holman, "The Adventures of Ledbury ?"—I do not know.

38,653. Was it sent in a parcel ?—The book was in a parcel.

38,654. When you opened it it contained notes ?—Yes.

38,655. To whom did you give the 85*l.* ?—I gave 30*l.* to Satchwell, 30*l.* to Light, and 25*l.* to Pearce.

38,656. Did not you give a sum of money to old Mr. Hill ?—No.

38,657. That you are quite certain about ?—Yes.

G. Corney.

JOHN CORNEY recalled.

38,658. (Mr. Bere.) You voted at the last election for the Liberals ?—In 1859 I did.

38,659. Have you refreshed your memory as to what you got for voting then ?—I have no occasion to do so, as I told you before I never had anything.

38,660. Did not George Mitchell let you off your debt to him because you were going to vote for the Liberals ?—Not likely. The debt was in 1863 when I was no voter. I ceased to be a voter after 1859.

38,661. Did he undertake not to press you if you voted for the Liberals ?—Never.

38,662. Did he at any time press you ?—Never.

38,663. You owed him 70*l.* in 1859 ?—There or thereabouts.

38,664. You got into difficulties in 1863 ?—I think so.

38,665. You were beginning to be in difficulties in 1859 ?—No.

38,666. Had you made up your account then ?—No.

38,667. Or talked over your affairs with him ?—No.

38,668. Have you ever directly or indirectly received any money, or the promise of any, or any benefit for your vote ?—No, never.

38,669. Or used your influence with any one to obtain their votes ?—No.

38,670. Has any money passed through your hands for any purposes, charitable or otherwise, to be delivered to voters ?—No, never, in no shape or form.

38,671. You do not distribute even the alms ?—What do you allude to ?

38,672. You have had money to distribute for charitable purposes ?—Never at any time.

T. Worthy.

THOMAS WORTHY sworn and examined.

38,673. (Mr. Bere.) What are you ? — A shoemaker.

38,674. Where do you live ? — In Fore Street, Totnes.

38,675. How long have you had a vote ?—I never had a vote.

38,676. Are you the clerk at the Independent chapel ?—No ; I look after it.

38,677. Is that the chapel with which Mr. Windeatt had a good deal to do ?—Yes.

38,678. Are you half brother to John Light ?—Yes.

38,679. When were you first employed about the election ?—I have been employed by Mr. Windeatt and Mr. Cuming for the last 20 years on the registration.

38,680. What was your business ?—Serving notices.

38,681. Used you to sign the notices of objection ?—I did. Of late years Mr. Windeatt has done it himself.

38,682. How has Byne succeeded to your duties ?—Since the last registration Mr. Windeatt has died, and his son succeeded him, and in consequence of his son not being on the register he was not able to sign the objections. He proposed to me to suggest some one who should sign them. We talked it over together, and I thought of Byne, and as I was going up the Plymouth road I met Byne coming along in his cart. I asked him if he had any objection to sign the notices, and he said he was willing to do so ; and he went down to Mr. Windeatt's office and did so.

38,683. What did you get for that ?—I am paid according to my time, so much a day.

38,684. Were you ever paid so much for each objection ?—No, I am paid nothing more than for the day's work.

38,685. Have you been in the habit of attending to the registration matters yourself ?—Always.

38,686. Who had signed these notices before ?—Mr. Windeatt and Mr. Brooking Cuming.

38,687. And who does it now ?—Byne has done it of late.

38,688. Were you employed by Mr. Windeatt and Mr. Brooking Cuming in other work besides the matters of registration ?—At election times I have been engaged by Mr. Cuming and Mr. Windeatt to be in attendance as a messenger.

38,689. Where did you attend upon them ?—At the "Seymour Hotel."

38,690. In what room were they generally ?—They were generally in No. 6 or No. 7.

38,691. You mean those two little rooms at the end of the passage ?—Yes.

38,692. The one was the room for the candidates, the other was where the general business was carried on ?—Yes.

38,693. What were your duties as a messenger ?—There were a great many electors, and I had to take circulars round the town, and to take letters to the post-office, and sometimes to the railway station.

38,694. And had you occasionally to take money ?—I believe so.

38,695. When did you first take any money ?—The first time, I think was after the election in 1859.

38,696. Did you know anything of any money going about in 1852 and 1857 ?—I have heard of it.

38,697. You had an opportunity of often being in and out of No. 6 and No. 7 at the "Seymour Arms ?"—Yes.

38,698. Did you ever see any money in No. 6 or No. 7 ?—Not that I am aware of.

38,699. And I suppose you did not fail to make use of your eyes when you went in there ?—I never saw any money about there.

38,700. Had you anything to do with Blank before 1859 ?—I believe I spoke to him on one occasion, asking him how he was going to vote.

38,701. Did you ever take any money to him ?—No.

38,702. Did he say that he wanted money for his vote ?—He told me what he did want, and I said if 20*l.* would be of any service to him he could have it.

38,703. Did you tell that to Mr. Windeatt, do you remember ?—I did.

38,704. And did he give it to you ?—No. Blank was not wanted, and therefore he did not get the money.

38,705. In what year was that ?—I think it was in 1859 ; I do not recollect exactly ; I kept no memorandum of it; I cannot say whether it was in 1857 or in 1859.

38,706. You did take money in 1859?—Yes.

38,707. To whom?—John Light, senior; that was after the election.

38,708. Who gave it to you?—I had it from Mr. Parnell.

38,709. Where did he give it you?—He gave me 30*l.* for John Light on the Plains, and 30*l.* for William Satchwell, and after that 20*l.* for John Light, junior, at the same election.

38,710. Was that all that he gave you?—That was all.

38,711. What used they to pay you a day?—I call myself very badly paid; for some days I had 10*s.* a day, for other days 5*s.* a day.

38,712. Used you to be going on pretty much in the same way?—I have always been employed.

38,713. What did you get for your services at the Independent Chapel—had you a pretty good salary?—Not very much—I had about 30*l.* a year.

38,714. Are you a voter on the council?—Yes.

38,715. What did you have for that vote?—Never a penny,

38,716. Not a breakfast?—I have had a breakfast.

38,717. And your day's work?—Yes; I have had half-a-crown.

38,718. Is that the highest?—I have had 5*s.*

38,719. Have you been paid besides that?—I look to the parties who employ me.

38,720. They gave you 5*s.*?—Yes.

38,721. Besides your breakfast and your day's work?—Yes.

38,722. (Mr. Bere.) You have paid men at municipal elections?—Yes.

38,723. How many have you paid?—I cannot tell.

38,724. Have you a hundred pounds?—I do not think it would reach that.

38,725. Very nearly?—I think not.

38,726. What is the largest number, at any election, that you have ever paid money to?—I cannot tell.

38,727. What is the largest sum that you have ever paid?—I do not know; I think I paid 3*l.* once.

38,728. Who was that?—I think Blank, and Samuel Hill, senior.

38,729. Never young Samuel anything?—No.

38,730. Satchwell?—No.

38,731. That is all you did in 1859. Had you anything to do with the distribution of money in 1862?—No, John Light made a statement that I should like to have corrected. He said I paid him 30*l.*, but he admits having the money; he has called my attention to it, but I said, "I did not pay you, but my son John paid you, and he had the money from Mr. Parnell."

38,732. Had you anything to do with taking round envelopes in 1862, circulars?—Yes, a great number. That was when Mr. Pender was here, and there was a general delivery of letters.

38,733. Were the circulars that you took round fastened up in envelopes?—Yes, I fastened a great many.

38,734. Were there many that you took round that you did not see fastened up?—I believe there was a table there, and two or three of us put them in.

38,735. Were those the only circulars that you took round yourself?—Yes.

38,736. About Christmas time, did not you take some more that you got from the "Seymour?"—I do not remember taking any more.

38,737. And leaving them at the houses of some of the Liberal voters?—No; it is all done in a general way, taken round.

38,738. Have you ever taken round envelopes with bank notes in them?—No. That I cannot swear.

38,739. What did you do in 1863?—I did very little. I was employed two days.

38,740. Whom did you take money to?—No one at all.

38,741. John Light had been got to the other side?—He did not vote.

38,742. Did not you go and look after him?—My son did.

38,743. Had not you to do anything with others that you had influenced before?—No.

38,744. In 1865 what did you do?—After the election was over I happened to see my brother, and he told me he was about to go away, and I said, "Well, John, you do not seem to be satisfied; what is the matter?" "Well," he says, "the fact is, I have not seen Mr. Parnell, and I wish you would go and see him;" and accordingly I went, and Mr. Parnell says, "There is a parcel for you at Fogwill's, and I wish you would get it and give it to John," and I went to Fogwill's, and there was a parcel left out, and I took and handed it to him.

38,745. Where did you hand it?—I went to the "Town Arms;" I did not like to give it him in the street.

38,746. How much was in the parcel?—45*l.* in gold.

38,747. Was it after your brother had met Mr. Windeatt?—He went out the back way and went away to the train.

38,748. You had not seen Mr. Windeatt?—No.

38,749. The story that your brother told us, that Mr. Windeatt congratulated him on his pure vote, and that he was not to leave the town till he saw him?—Yes. I did not get anything from Mr. Windeatt; I got it from Miss Fogwill.

38,750. Is that the only thing you did in 1865?—That is the whole.

38,751. Did not Parnell give you any money to hand about?—No, never a farthing.

38,752. No one else?—No.

38,753. Quite sure?—Yes. If there is anybody in court who can say I did, I should like them to say it.

38,754. Did you never receive any money for elections at the council?—No.

38,755. Have you not received money from George Heath?—Never in my life; and I defy George Heath to say that, and I never voted that way.

38,756. Is Edward Wortley a relation of yours?—No. It may be Edward Woodley. There is no other name of mine here.

38,757. Is that all you know about the election?—Yes, that is all.

38,758. Have you ever had anything to do with any election except what you have told us?—No; I have been the one to serve the notices every year for Mr. Brooking Cuming and Mr.
and I give them my bill when it is done, and they pay me.

38,759. Have you ever distributed any money, or left money, directly or indirectly, at the house of any voter except what you have told us?—No.

38,760. Or any passed through your hands?—Never. Nothing passed through my hands to any voter.

38,761. Have you ever had to do with any money being given to any voter in any way except what you have told us?—No, never in my life.

Adjourned till to-morrow morning at half-past 10 o'clock.

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY.

Wednesday, 26th September 1866.

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY

H. Bartlett.

26 Sept. 1866.

HENRY BARTLETT recalled and further examined.

38,762. (Mr. Coleridge.) You told us on the last occasion that you did not offer, receive, or give a bribe ?—Yes.

38,763. Were you not offered a bribe ?—No.

38,764. Mr. Adams said you were offered a bribe ?—He might have said so.

38,765. What is the history of the transaction ?—He might have called into my place.

38,766. Did he ?—I cannot recollect positively.

38,767. Have you any recollection of his saying, "Would 30*l.* do anything?"—I cannot recollect; it is so many years ago..

38,768. Did you never have anything of the sort from another party ?—Never.

38,769. Now you have had time to think about it, is that the only offer you ever had ?—Yes.

38,770. Never made to your wife ?—Yes.

38,771. Neither directly or indirectly have you had any money for a bribe ?—Never. I have just had a letter from my son. Perhaps you will oblige me by reading it. He is at Torquay, and he used to be often with Mr. Michelmore, unfortunately.

38,772. (Mr. Bere.) This is a letter that we may cross-examine Mr. Michelmore upon, but it cannot be read at present. We had the statement he made to us yesterday about this offer, and we thought it should be confirmed or contradicted. It is unfortunate that you will not tell us those things at once ?—I do not recollect one.

38,773. You are asked directly whether you had a bribe or offer made to you, and you said, "No," and it comes out in evidence that you had ?—I could not recollect it at the time.

S. Parnell.

SAMUEL PARNELL recalled and further examined.

38,774. (Mr. Bere.) We have come to the election of 1859, and now you will be examined about the elections of 1862, 1863, and 1865. Were you one of the persons who were consulted as to who the Liberal candidate should be in 1862 ?—No.

38,775. Did you hear from any of those persons consulted who the party fixed upon was before he came down ?—Yes.

38,776. From whom did you hear that ?—Mr. Cuming.

38,777. Did Mr. Cuming tell you the reason Mr. Pender was brought down, Mr. Pender being a stranger ?—He told me he thought he was a bribery man.

38,778. Because he was a rich one ?—No.

38,779. Did he tell you he was a very rich one ?—No.

38,780. Did you know from what you had heard that he was a rich man ?—Not till afterwards.

38,781. When did you first see Mr. Pender ?—I think it was the night he came down or the night after.

38,782. Did you learn from him at the time the amount of money that he had brought with him ?—No.

38,783. Where did you see him ?—I think at my house.

38,784. Did he call upon you ?—Yes.

38,785. How long did he stay ?—Not five minutes.

38,786. What passed between you and him ?—Nothing; he only asked me if I should support him, and I said "Yes."

38,787. Did he say that you should be employed in the business of the election ?—No.

38,788. Who was with him ?—Mr. Windeatt.

38,789. Was Mr. Brooking Cuming there too ?—No.

38,790. Although he said nothing to you about it, you were employed on the business of the election ?—Yes, by Mr. Windeatt.

38,791. Were you frequently down at the "Seymour ?"—No.

38,792. Once or twice a day ?—I was.

38,793. Oftener than that ?—No; not oftener than perhaps twice a day.

38,794. When you were there whom used you to see principally ?—Mr. Windeatt and Mr. Cuming.

38,795. Always saw them in one of those rooms, 6 or 7, at the end of the passage ?—Sometimes I met them in the commercial room.

38,796. You saw Mr. Pender ?—I have not seen Mr. Pender half a dozen times whilst he was here.

38,797. But after that time ?—Yes.

38,798. What was done with Mr. Pender ?—Mr. McDougall, I think, was the only person that I saw that I knew.

38,799. Was Mr. Heald there ?—I do not know him.

38,800. Look round the court, and tell me if you see any person that was down with Mr. Pender at the election of 1862 ?—This gentleman, Mr. Heald.

38,801. Was he in the same room with Mr. Pender ?—I think so.

38,802. Was it at the last election ?—The last election I know he was there.

38,803. The election before ?—I do not know. I would not be sure.

38,804. When did you first have any money to distribute in 1862. Not during the election, but after the election ?—I think about a fortnight.

38,805. From whom did you get that money ?—I think Mr. and Mrs. Charles Michelmore.

38,806. Where did you get it ?—It was sent to me.

38,807. How much ?—Some was sent in a book.

38,808. Was that in a book similar to what you had had it sent in to you before ?—Yes. I think 25*l.* at one time, 30*l.* another, two thirties, and a twenty-five.

38,809. What did you do with that money ?—I believe I gave that money to Thomas Worthy.

38,810. Did he distribute it ?—Yes, I believe he did.

38,811. Did you direct him about the persons to whom he was to distribute it ?—Yes.

38,812. Was that all the money that you had at that election ?—No, I do not think it was.

38,813. How much more ?—I do not know. There was one William Ellis.

38,814. How much did you pay him ?—I think that is 15*l.*

38,815. That was 100*l.* Any more ?—I forget the date.

38,816. The time I mean is when Mr. Pender stood against Mr. Dent, and Mr. Dent retired ?—I had not got so much then.

38,817. There was a large quantity of money distributed after the election ?—Yes, but it was not much then.

38,818. How much did you have to distribute then ?—I think not above 75*l.*

38,819. In what sums did you distribute that ?—20*l.* mostly.

38,820. To whom ?—To Pearce and Light, I think, and 15*l.* I paid Ellis.

38,821. From whom did you get that ?—I got it from Mr. and Mrs. Michelmore.

38,822. In that book ?—Part in the book, and part out of the committee room, I think.

38,823. At the "Seymour?"—No, in the Plains.

38,824. Whose house was that committee room in?—I think Mr. Bowden's.

38,825. Was it paid to you open in the committee room, or were you told to go to a particular place and see whether you could not get anything?—There was some put in between some thin slices of bread and butter.

38,826. Do you know that there was a large sum of money distributed amongst those who supported Mr. Pender after that election?—No, I do not.

38,827. Do you mean to say you have never heard it?—No, there was the sum I spoke of. Amongst some of the voters I distributed what I told you.

38,828. How many other voters do you know of who had money sent them at that election?—Many of them I do not know.

38,829. Can you fix any number at all?—No.

38,830. Were there 25?—I would not say.

38,831. Would you say there were not?—No.

38,832. Would you say that the sum of from 800*l.* to 900*l.* might be distributed?—No, I do not think it.

38,833. Will you say it was not so much?—I would not say at all.

38,834. What did you get yourself?—Nothing.

38,835. Did you not get a retaining fee, or anything of the sort?—No, not a penny, never.

38,836. Nor a present after the election?—No.

38,837. Or Mrs. Parnell?—No. Mrs. Parnell was not living then.

38,838. Nor anybody connected with you?—No.

38,839. Son or daughter?—No.

38,840. Did not you give young Kinsman some money?—Yes.

38,841. That was after 1862?—Yes, it was, I forgot.

38,842. That is another 20*l.*?—Yes.

38,843. That is 95*l.*?—Yes.

38,844. Did not you give Mr. Crawford any money then, after the election?—I do not know the date; he had 60*l.*

38,845. That was Mr. Seymour's election, I believe?—I do not think he had then.

38,846. Had he nothing from you in 1862?—I do not know when he had that.

38,847. Pender and Dent's election?—I cannot say whether it was or not.

38,848. In 1863, when Seymour and Dent stood, whom did you bribe then?—The same men.

38,849. You had some few added, had not you?—Yes.

38,850. Who were they?—A person named Tarring.

38,851. Was that 1863?—No.

38,852. I want 1863.—I do not think I had any more in 1863 than I spoke of.

38,853. Then how many are we to consider you bribed in 1863?—A person named Vasey; I do not know whether it was in 1863 or not, I will not be certain about it.

38,854. Satchwell?—Yes, and Light.

38,855. And Coombes?—No.

38,856. Did not you give Coombes some money in 1862?—Yes, but not at the election, some time after the election.

38,857. What was that for?—For his expenses going away.

38,858. Where had he gone?—I thought he went up to Milden Hall.

38,859. How much did you give him?—10*l.*

38,860. Had he come before the election and said he should like to go away?—No.

38,861. What did he say?—I was in his shop, and he said he did not care about voting at all, he would rather go away; and I said "Why do not you?" and he said that he should. "Well," I said, "my advice "would be to go if you do not feel inclined to vote at "all."

38,862. When did you first lend Mr. Coombes any money?—In 1859.

38,863. How much did you lend him?—I lent him in 1859 perhaps not much above 8*l.* or 10*l.*

38,864. When he became unfortunate did not he owe you 200*l.*?—No, 190*l.* principal and about 15*l.* interest

38,865. Did Coombes ever repay you any portion of that?—Yes.

38,866. When?—At different times.

38,867. How much did he ever repay you in his life out of the 190*l.* he owed you?—15*l.* or 15*l.* 10*s.* of that, or something thereabouts. He borrowed money at other times and returned it again.

38,868. Of the 190*l.* he owed you did he ever pay you more than 15*l.* or 15*l.* 10*s.*?—No.

38,869. I will ask you this, if you ever signed a schedule?—Yes.

38,870. Take care what you say about that?—I do not think I have.

38,871. Are not you security under Mr. Coombes' deed of composition, having given a promissory note jointly with Coombes and his brother for the payment of the second and third instalments of his composition?—Yes.

38,872. Have you signed the deed of composition as a surety, or have you entered your name anywhere as a creditor?—I do not know.

38,873. Just look (handing the deed to the witness).—No, I have not signed it.

38,874. Turn to the page at the back, and you will see where you did sign?—Yes, I thought it was the same.

38,875. You thought signing as a surety was the same as putting down your name as a creditor?—No, I did not take any notice.

38,876. Do you mean to swear that you thought signing the deed as a surety was the same as entering it as a creditor?—I did not look to see whether I had signed the schedule, or whether I had signed the other.

38,877. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you ever signed any deed in any similar case?—No.

38,878. Do you mean to say you have never been a creditor of anybody who has got into difficulties?—No, I do not know.

38,879. Do you mean to swear that you have never in your life been a creditor of anybody who has gone through the Bankruptcy Court. Be careful. Have you ever signed a composition deed before in your life?—Yes, I have.

38,880. Where did you sign then?—Opposite the seal.

38,881. Then you signed your name as a creditor?—Yes.

38,882. When you had signed it before was it opposite the row of seals with several names of other creditors?—Yes.

38,883. Do not you know that it is a perfectly different thing signing here as a trustee?—I should think it was.

38,884. Do not you know that it was?—No, I did not there.

38,885. Do you mean to say this was an arrangement made with Coombes and yourself as an ordinary creditor?—Not an ordinary creditor.

38,886. (Mr. Bere.) Do you wish it to go forth to your neighbours in Totnes that you do not know the difference between signing a composition deed as a surety and entering your name as a creditor?—Yes, I do know, but I did not know I had signed it.

38,887. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you read it before you signed it?—I do not think I did that.

38,888. Are you in the habit of signing deeds without knowing what they contain?—No.

38,889. (Mr. Bere.) Try and remember about some more people whom you bribed in 1863. Satchwell?—Yes.

38,890. Tarring?—Yes, I do not know whether in 1863.

38,891. Crawford you gave to in 1862 and in 1863?—Yes, I think it was.

38,892. (Mr. Coleridge.) You gave something to Tarring after the election of 1862?—Yes. I do not recollect 1862.

38,893. Are you certain about that?—I am not certain; I think he voted against us or not at all.

38,894. (Mr. Bere.) Where did you pay Mrs. Crawford the money in 1863?—It was in my house.

38,895. Do you know a man named Nicholls?—I do not know.

38,896. Did a man come down and did you take him into your house and show him a room where he would find some money?—He came to my house.

38,897. When there did you show him a room where he found some money?—Yes, he told me he was a relative of Crawford's.

38,898. Where did you get the money from in 1863 which you paid to these people?—I think I must have had it from Mr. Michelmore.

38,899. You know perfectly well where you got it from?—I cannot remember.

38,900. You have had the summons for some time, and you knew when you were to be examined; you knew what you had to say, you were told to go through the list and refresh your recollection by it, so as to be able to speak to the facts clearly, in reference to each election. You can do so and will not do it?—I will try; I think I got part of the money in 1863 from Mr. Michelmore, but I am not certain.

38,901. In some part of the "Seymour Hotel?"—Yes.

38,902. What part of it; where did you get it?—I think it was on the stairs, but I will not be certain.

38,903. Was it lying out open on the stairs?—No, I got it from Mrs. Michelmore.

38,904. Did she meet you in a mysterious manner and put a parcel into your hand?—No, she handed me something.

38,905. How much?—I really cannot tell you, I think 75*l.*

38,906. It was much more than that in 1863?—Part of it I got from Mr. Michelmore.

38,907. How much was it altogether?—I should think 200*l.*

38,908. It was more than that?—About 230*l.*

38,909. You mean Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore?—Yes.

38,910. When did you get it?—I think he let me have part of it himself.

38,911. Where was it?—At the committee room at Mr. Bowden's.

38,912. Had you made arrangements with the people you bribed as to what sums they were to have?—No.

38,913. Did you go and take a lump sum, or did you take each particular sum as you wanted it?—I went and got it as I wanted it, I did not pay them until some days after the election.

38,914. Who were acting as Lord Seymour's committee in 1863?—There was no committee at all.

38,915. You say there was a committee room, who were in and out of that?—Nearly all the voters.

38,916. Who was keeping the poll?—Mr. Holman I think, and Mr. Cuming.

38,917. Who was going through the poll books?—Mr. Jeffery Michelmore.

38,918. Was he there?—No, he was at Bridgetown.

38,919. Was there a committee room at the "Seymour Hotel?"—Yes, I was there at the latter part of the election.

38,920. Whom did you see in that room?—There were a great many there, Thomas Michelmore and Jeffery Michelmore.

38,921. Were you present when Mr. Danby Seymour was there?—No, I saw him during the election.

38,922. Did you see Sir Henry Rawlinson?—I think I did.

38,923. And one of the Barons Rothschild?—No.

38,924. Do not you remember his driving from Torquay on the day of the election?—I heard so, I did not see him.

38,925. Do you remember hearing Mr. Danby Seymour make a speech on the hustings after the election?—I really forget, my memory is not so good as it was 20 years ago.

38,926. Was the 230*l.* which you have spoken of all that you had to distribute?—Yes, I am sure of that.

38,927. Did you get it in notes or gold?—It was part in each.

38,928. Do you know Nicholas Norrish?—Yes.

38,929. Did you see him at the election of 1863?—I might have met him.

38,930. Did you talk to him about his vote?—I do not recollect.

38,931. How had he voted before, for or against you?—I believe against us always.

38,932. Did you keep a poll book?—At the time.

38,933. Have you got it now?—No.

38,934. What did you do with it?—I destroyed it, I generally do after the election is over; I have done so for the last six or seven years.

38,935. When did you first learn that piece of wisdom?—I learned it from Mr. Windeatt.

38,936. I suppose he took care to follow his own advice and destroyed everything he could?—Very likely he did.

38,937. Do you not remember meeting Nicholas Norrish in the morning, three or four days before the election, and your saying to him that anybody who would vote would be paid?—I do not recollect it.

38,938. Will you swear you did not say so?—I do not recollect making use of such an expression at all.

38,939. Did he say 40*l.*?—No, I do not know that I mentioned any sum, I have no recollection whatever.

38,940. Did you agree to give it to him?—No.

38,941. You agreed to give him something if he would vote for you?—I do not know that I saw him, I recollect nothing of the sort at all.

38,942. He has sworn you did, and you cannot recollect it?—No.

38,943. In 1865 what did you do, you were very active then?—I paid Light, at least Light had money.

38,944. Pearce had money?—No, not from me.

38,945. David Manning?—No.

38,946. (Mr. Coleridge.) You had paid David Manning before?—Never.

38,947. Did you never have anything to do with David Manning?—No.

38,948. (Mr. Bere.) Crawford?—Nothing in 1865.

38,949. Why not in 1865?—Because he was not there while the money was passing.

38,950. How long was it the money was going in 1865?—I do not know, a week or ten days.

38,951. How much money was given to you in 1865 to distribute?—Nothing given to me in a lump.

38,952. How was it given?—In different sums as I wanted it.

38,953. How many different sums were given to you?—Five or six different sums.

38,954. Did you mention or show the names of the persons for whom you wanted the money to any person whatever?—No.

38,955. Did you mention the names to Mr. Brooking Cuming?—No.

38,956. Nor to Mr. Windeatt?—No.

38,957. Nor to Mr. Holman?—No.

38,958. From whom did you get the money?—I had it at the "Seymour Hotel."

38,959. Where did you get it from?—From a bedroom.

38,960. You got 50*l.* for George Pengilley?—Yes, 55*l.*

38,961. Where did you get it from?—It was handed to me, I got it upstairs as well as the others.

38,962. Who told you to go upstairs?—Mr. Windeatt told me whatever I wanted I should find there.

38,963. What room did you go to?—I do not know the number.

38,964. A bedroom or a sitting room?—A bedroom.

38,965. A double-bedded room?—Yes.

38,966. No. 13?—I do not know what it was.

38,967. Where did you find the money?—On the dressing-table.

38,968. Had you been told that?—Yes.

38,969. Did you find 60*l.*; 30*l.* for Harris and 30*l.* for Tarring?—Yes, two thirties.

38,970. Did you give an I O U for it?—No.

38,971. Were you examined by Mr. Tucker at the "Seymour" hotel when the petition was going on?—Yes.

38,972. Did you tell Mr. Tucker that you received Pengilley's 50*l.* note from Mr. Chaster?—No.

38,973. Take care.—If I did I do not recollect.

38,974. Did you tell Mr. Tucker that you received the 50*l.* which you paid to George Pengilley from Mr. Chaster?—I do not know that I did.

38,975. Did you also tell him that you received the two sums of 30*l.* for Harris and Tarring from Mr. Chaster?—No, if I did I made a mistake.

38,976. Did you tell Mr. Tucker also that you gave Mr. Chaster an I O U for the money as you received it?—No.

38,977. Upon your oath you swear you did not tell Mr. Tucker so?—Yes.

38,978. On your oath did you not tell Mr. Tucker you received the money from Mr. Chaster, and did not Mr. Tucker say Mr. Windeatt is Mr. Pender's agent, and it would not do for you to mention his name, and therefore he put in the name of Mr. Chaster?—No; I said this much. I said Mr. Windeatt got the money from Mr. Chaster; that is what I said.

38,979. You passed over Mr. Windeatt, and said you received the money from Mr. Chaster?—No, I said, I believe, that he had it from Mr. Chaster.

38,980. Did you say that you had received the money from Mr. Chaster and that you gave him an I O U for every sum you received?—No, I did not. I know I said something to Mr. Tucker which I thought afterwards was not right.

38,981. Was it when you saw Mr. Tucker that he asked you certain questions?—Yes.

38,982. And did you answer them?—Yes, I think I did. I recollect my seeing him the day after, and I asked him what I had told him respecting Mr. Windeatt. I said I made a mistake, and if I mentioned Mr. Chaster's name I meant Mr. Windeatt.

38,983. You said that, did you?—Yes, and Mr. Tucker said to me, "Very well, I will alter it."

38,984. How much money did you get in 1865 altogether? You got 110*l.*, and how much more?—I think I got 200*l.* and something more.

38,985. 200*l.*, and how much more?—230*l.*, or something thereabout.

38,986. To whom did you give it?—50*l.* to Light.

38,987. Are you quite sure about that?—Yes.

38,988. And if Thomas Worthy only paid him 40*l.* the 10*l.* stuck to his fingers?—I do not know how that was.

38,989. Did you give 50*l.* to Worthy to take to Light?—Yes.

38,990. Did you leave 50*l.* at Mrs. Fogwill's?—No, it was 40*l.*

38,991. Did you send Light 10*l.* before the election?—He had some before the election.

38,992. Did you pay him?—His son had 10*l.*

38,993. He was not a voter, the young man?—No.

38,994. Light altogether had 50*l.*?—60*l.* altogether in the two lots.

38,995. Did you give young John Light 10*l.* for himself and 10*l.* for his father?—I think it must have been about that, he got 60*l.* altogether.

38,996. Where did the rest go?—To Kellow.

38,997. How much did you give him?—50*l.*, and Pengilley 55*l.*, and the two thirties for Harris and Tarring.

38,998. How much did you give George Pengilley for himself?—50*l.*

38,999. Fifty pounds for William Pengilley, and how much for himself?—55*l.* altogether.

39,000. Another 5*l.*?—I know he had as much as 55*l.*

39,001. Did you send George Stoyle to see Crawford?—No.

39,002. Did you go and see Crawford yourself?—Yes.

39,003. What did you say to Crawford about his vote?—I do not know that I said anything.

39,004. Come, you do not go and see Crawford without saying something?—I think there were several there and I did not say anything to him at all. I think I went two or three times to his house.

39,005. What did you go two or three times for, to get his vote?—Yes, to see him. I saw the other party at him, and I went two or three times.

39,006. Did not a man called Hill go with you sometimes?—No.

39,007. Your fellow clerk?—I think he did.

39,008. Used you to go in and he stay and watch?—I think he went in with me,

39,009. Always?—Yes.

39,010. Who used you to see oftenest, Mr. or Mrs. Crawford?—Mrs. Crawford.

39,011. Did not she want money at the last election?—She did not say anything about it, but I daresay she expected it.

39,012. She came too late?—She did not come at all.

39,013. Did she get money?—No.

39,014. Was the reason that the money was exhausted before the time for paying her came?—Yes, Mr. Windeatt had got the money then.

39,015. How many times did you go to the "Seymour" hotel?—Several times.

39,016. Did you always find money behind the, dressing-glass?—Sometimes behind, and sometimes on the table.

39,017. What sized parcels?—Small-sized parcels. Some in notes.

39,018. Wrapped up?—Yes.

39,019. Was that all the money that you had at the last election?—That is all the money.

39,020. (Mr. Coleridge.) Just tell me first of all about Tarring. Did not you give him something after 1862, when Dent withdrew?—I think I did not.

39,021. Do not think?—You have got his name twice.

39,022. We have only his name the last time; when was he there?—Whether 1862 or 1859 I do not know.

39,023. In 1859 you had another transaction about purchasing his house. What was that arrangement about his house? Did not Tarring purchase his house in 1859, and did not you arrange the matter?—No.

39,024. Nothing about Tarring purchasing a house?—No; nothing at all.

39,025. It was either 1859 that you had the 30*l.* or 1863?—Yes.

39,026. You do not think it was in 1862?—No, I think not.

39,027. You are certain that Tarring has only had money twice?—Yes.

39,028. When did you first make up your mind to come and give evidence here?—From the very first.

39,029. When did you make up your mind to tell the truth?—From the first moment I got any hint.

39,030. When did you make up your mind to allow another man to tell an untruth?—I never requested a man to tell an untruth.

39,031. What did you say to Mrs. Crawford?—I said, "The best thing is to say all you know about it."

39,032. Was that after Crawford had been kept here a week?—No; the next day.

39,033. Had you not told Mrs. Crawford to take care that your name was not dragged into it?—No.

39,034. Did you have any conversation with her before Crawford came to give his evidence?—I do not think I had.

39,035. No conversation whatever with Mrs. Crawford before Crawford came to give his evidence?—I do not think I saw her.

39,036. How many days was it after Crawford was examined and told to sit in this court that Mrs. Crawford came to you?—I think the next day.

39,037. When Mrs. Crawford came what did she ask?—She asked what she had better do. Her husband had said he had not got anything, and I said it was wrong.

39,038. Did not she ask you for permission to come and tell the truth?—I do not know.

39,039. Come, did not she?—I told her she had better tell the truth.

39,040. Had you not told her before that she was to keep it close?—No.

39,041. What had you told her?—I never saw her.

39,042. When did you last see her before she came and asked you if she might speak the truth?—I think a month perhaps.

39,043. Had you seen her since this Commission was issued?—Not till that day.

39,044. Had you seen her since June?—Not to say anything about electioneering matters.

39,045. Had you seen her to talk to her?—Yes.

39,046. Did she ask you at that time what she was to say when the Commissioners came down?—I do not think she did.

39,047. When did she first ask you that?—I do not think she said anything till she came.

39,048. Did Crawford himself say anything?—No, never saw him.

39,049. It was all managed through Mrs. Crawford?—Yes.

39,050. What was it that was said when you were to give permission?—I gave no permission.

39,051. What did she ask? Did she ask permission?—I do not think she did.

39,052. What did she say?—She said her husband was going to be detained, and I said, "You had better "say all you know about it."

39,053. Had you said nothing to her about it, that she was to try and keep your name out of it?—No.

39,054. Nothing of the sort?—No.

39,055. What conversation had you with old Satchwell?—He came to me too.

39,056. When was that?—After the Commission commenced.

39,057. After he had been summoned?—Yes.

39,058. What did you tell him then?—He said, "You know I got no money in 1865. Then of course "you cannot say anything about it."

39,059. What do you mean by that?—He said, "They can say nothing about it in 1865."

39,060. Did you tell him the first time that he came to ask you that he was to tell the truth?—Yes.

39,061. Are you sure about that?—Yes. "The "best way is to tell them the whole of it."

39,062. Did not he tell you that he had got none, and you told him he had?—Yes.

39,063. How came he to tell you that he had got none?—Because his wife had got it.

39,064. This is the question to Satchwell, "What "did Mr. Parnell tell you about this Commission?—I "asked him if he could recollect what money he gave "me. I do not know. You told us that before. Did "he tell you it would never come out if you kept "your own counsel?—I believe he did. Did he do "so? On your oath?—I asked him if he had got "anything against me. Did he not answer it?—He "did not say whether he had or had not. Did he "not say, 'It will never come out if you keep your "own counsel?' Will you swear that?—To the best "of my judgment." Is that true or not?—No.

39,065. It is not true that you said anything about its never coming out if he kept his own counsel?—Yes.

39,066. That you swear?—Yes.

39,067. What is it you said that led you to say that?—The only thing is, if the election of 1865 was not brought up, whether the previous elections might be brought up.

39,068. And you told him if they got nothing out of him as to 1865 he need not say anything about the other elections?—No. He said, "I suppose they will go back beyond this election of 1865." I said, "I "cannot tell you; but if they do not, it is for you to "say whether you will say anything about it if the "questions are not put to you."

39,069. "On your oath did he not tell you it would "never come out if you kept your own counsel?—I "believe he did. Did he or did he not, on your oath? "—Yes, he did." That was not a chance answer, but it was given after he had been pressed for half-an-hour. That he swears distinctly, that you did say that?—I think he is decidedly wrong.

39,070. Are you aware that Mrs. Crawford has also sworn to the same fact?—I am so.

39,071. Following that question, which Satchwell has sworn to, comes this, "Did not Mr. Parnell also "say something about it never being found out if you "held your tongue?—I went for the express purpose "to him." Did you not say this, "that it never "would come out if he held his tongue?"—No.

39,072. Had you no conversation with him to the effect that if you both held your tongues not a word would ever come out?—Not at all.

39,073. Is this all false that Satchwell has been swearing?—All that part.

39,074. "Did not Mr. Parnell also add, that it "would never be found out if you held your tongue "about it?—Yes, he did." That is the second time. "Why did you not tell us this before?—I could not "recollect myself at all about it." What was it that Satchwell came to ask you, if that was not what he asked you?—He came to ask me what he had better do about it.

39,075. And you told him to hold his tongue?—No.

39,076. He has sworn that you did?—I told him as I have told you, that whatever he had he had better speak of it. He said he had not got any in 1865, and I said, "But you had before, two or three times you "had;" and he said he had not had it at all; and I said, "Your wife had, and that is the same thing."

39,077. Did not he ask you if you had something down against him?—No.

39,078. Is that an invention?—Yes.

39,079. He has sworn that he asked you if you had anything written down against him?—I do not recollect any conversation of the sort.

39,080. The whole of this is an invention of Satchwell's?—Yes.

39,081. On your oath you swear that you never gave him any counsel whatever about splitting?—Yes.

39,082. All your counsel was to tell the truth?—Yes. I told him, if he had not got it his wife had got it, and that was the same thing.

39,083. Was that the first time?—I did not see him but once. He called at my house two or three times, but I did not see him.

39,084. Here are two different people coming and stating the tenor of this conversation. You deny Satchwell's statement on your oath, and now I will ask you about Mrs. Crawford. "Did not you go to "Mr. Parnell and try to find out whether he had let "out anything?—I did." What did she say? Did she say anything?—She asked me if I had said anything to him about it.

39,085. That is not the question. The question is, "Did not you go yesterday to Mr. Parnell and try "to find out whether he had told anything?" Did she ask whether you had told anything, or can you tell anything—"I did," is her answer. "Did he tell you "not to say anything?—No. He says, 'I really cannot "recollect.'" Do you mean that you do not recollect Crawford having the money?—Not the dates.

39,086. You knew that he had had the money?—Not the different amounts.

39,087. This amount was 60*l.*?—Yes; but he had had other money.

39,088. This is her answer, "'No.' He says, 'I "really cannot recollect;' but he says, 'if it comes "to my memory it must come out.'" When did it come to your memory to come out?—When she told me herself the amount that she had had.

39,089. You did not recollect it?—I recollected that she had had money, but not the amounts.

39,090. When was it that she had it?—In 1863 nd 1859.

39,091. How much has she had altogether from you? —I think about 75*l.*

39,092. What sums was it in?—60*l.* one time, and 5*l.* the other, I think.

39,093. When was it that they had the 20*l.*?—I annot tell; but then there was the father.

39,094. How much?—15*l.* or 20*l.*

39,095. When?—In 1852, I think.

39,096. Was it not in 1857, in Mills' election?—I annot tell.

39,097. Where did you give it to the father?—I do ot know; it was before 1858 I know, and it was in ny own house I think.

39,098. How much money did you give away in our own house in 1865?—50*l.*

39,099. What did you give away in your own house n 1863?—I think Crawford's father came.

39,100. Just try and recollect this about Crawford. rawford was not a voter in 1857 or 1859, and you ould not be likely to give him money?—Then it was is father.

39,101. How often has Crawford had money him- lf?—I think twice.

39,102. When were those two times?—I do not now.

39,103. He had no vote till 1862?—No.

39,104. Had you given him money in 1862, after)ent withdrew?—I do not know. I do not think he ad. I cannot recollect.

39,105. What had you told Mrs. Crawford to make er say this, "When did you tell your husband not to tell the truth?—I never told him; not in so many words, but to try and keep it back?—I did not. I do not think he wanted to expose Mr. Parnell and the party. I think Mr. Parnell is the only man to blame." What did you say to her to make her say hat?—I do not know.

39,106. "He came here to try and shield Mr. Parnell?—No doubt, as much as himself. Did you never tell him to come and shield Mr. Parnell? —Last night." Was that the night that Mrs. Craw- rd had been to you?—I do not know, I am sure.

39,107. "Did not you go and tell your husband that Mr. Parnell wished him not to say anything about it?—I do not know. Take care.—I rather think I did. Did Mr. Parnell know that your husband was keeping it a secret?—Of course, when he gave it him." Is that all untrue?—I do not recollect any- hing of the sort.

39,108. Do you mean that those two conversations, oth of Satchwell's and Crawford's, are inventions?— did not say anything of the sort to Satchwell.

39,109. He has sworn to it and Mrs. Crawford has worn to it?—I cannot tell.

39,110. You contradict it?—Yes.

39,111. It is necessary to put it to you. Now, in ddition to the sums of money that you told us you ave away at the last election, what else had you to do ith it in the way of improper practices. (No nswer.)

39,112. Come, recollect the little transactions at e "Seymour Arms." Have you tampered with the ooks at the "Seymour Arms?"—I went to the Seymour Arms" and altered the accounts.

39,113. Is that your idea of an accountant's business o alter accounts?—The accounts were carried out in ne sum, and Mr. Windeatt told me it would not do, ought to be carried to the different parties.

39,114. Why would it not do?—Because it was arried to Mr. Pender's name, and it ought to be arried to the parties who ordered it.

39,115. Why carried to Mr. Pender's name?—I do ot know.

39,116. Why alter it?—Because Mr. Windeatt said e gave positive orders about it.

39,117. Was it about the time of the petition?— efore the petition.

39,118. It was when the petition was threatened? —I do not know.

39,119. Do not you know that the petition was threatened on the hustings?—That is often done.

39,120. Was not the reason that you cut out the pages was to try and save the seat, because it might be alleged as treating?—Very likely.

39,121. You went to assist Mrs. Beazley in tamper- ing with her books?—I went there.

39,122. What were the books that you took?— Mine was the ledger.

39,123. Mrs. Beazley did the day book at your instigation?—I do not know.

39,124. Was she present when you cut the pages out of the ledger?—I do not know whether she was or not. The barmaid is here.

39,125. How did you make them right afterwards? —The whole gross amount was taken out and the different amounts were charged to different parties, and they came to the same amount.

39,126. You cut out the pages and reinserted other pages in their place. How many pages did you cut out of the book?—Three or four.

39,127. How many pages did you put back again to make the amount come right?—We opened a different account, I think five or six accounts.

39,128. Where did you put these pages, back in the book?—What do you mean?

39,129. What did you do with the pages you cut out?—I gave them to Miss Weekes the barmaid.

39,130. To take care of?—There they are, they are of no use now.

39,131. Did you tell her to burn them?—No.

39,132. Was she present when you cut them out? —Yes.

39,133. She showed you the amount carried to Mr. Pender, where to begin and where to leave off cutting out?—No, the whole account was taken out. There were other accounts there besides Mr. Pender's.

39,134. How many pages did you put back in the place of those you cut out?—I think, if I recollect right, I went on with the ledger.

39,135. You did not put any pages into the book in their place?—No, I think not.

39,136. Then how did you get the dates right?—I took it from the same leaf.

39,137. Did you paste in fresh pages, or go on making out the account in the ledger in the regular order?—In the regular order, I think so.

39,138. When did you last see the books?—I have never seen them since I put the accounts to rights.

39,139. (Mr. Longe.) Will you explain the incon- sistencies in the evidence you have now given with what you undertook to give to Mr. Tucker, or whether what is stated here were his suggestions. You told Mr. Tucker that George Pengilley had 50*l.*, "all the "money advanced in bribery was my own money. I "had no authority from either of the members or "from Mr. Windeatt or Mr. Michelmore to give "money to anyone, nor did I have a shilling from "either; what I did I did for myself, being actuated "by a wish to benefit the Liberal cause as the Tories "were bribing so widely?"—I never said a word of the sort.

39,140. Then you are made to say that you took the money from Mr. Chaster and gave him an I O U, were these your suggestions?—No.

39,141. Did you give that evidence to Mr. Tucker? —No, certainly not.

39,142. This is what Mr. Tucker states he wrote with his own hand from your mouth?—I never said anything of the sort.

39,143. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have there been any meetings since this Commission issued amongst people in your own dilemma as to what should be said in evidence here?—Not that I know of.

39,144. Have you attended any meetings at the "Seymour Arms" to consider what you should say or what you should not say?—I never had any conversa- tion with a single individual about it.

39,145. Not with Mr. Holman?—No.

39,146. Or with Searle?—No.

39,147. You had no conversation as to what the evidence should be ?—I have seen no one and consulted no one.

39,148. Have you ever been at a meeting at the "Seymour Arms" when a discussion was going on about these matters since this Commission issued ?—No, never.

39,149. Had you no meetings before the Commission issued, when it was threatened, as to the desirability of putting a stop to it ?—No.

39,150. Or was any letter written to Mr. Seymour to ask him to use his influence to get it put an end to ?—No, nothing of the kind.

39,151. In 1863 did you get this money from No. 13 as well as in 1865 ?—I think I did.

39,152. Did Ann Satchwell ever bring you any money ?—No.

39,153. Or show you the room where you were to go and get money ?—No.

39,154. Either in 1863 or in 1865 ?—No.

39,155. When Mr. Windeatt sent you for this money and you found it on the table, did you take all that was there or only a certain portion of it ?—Only a certain portion of it.

39,156. How did you know how much you were to take ?—He told me on what part of the table it was.

39,157. When you took it did you see any other money there ?—I saw some parcels.

39,158. Do you know anyone else except yourself and Mr. Holman who took any money from the room ?—No.

39,159. Did Thomas Jacob Searle ever go up there ?—No ; I do not know that Mr. Holman went to the same place.

39,160. You had nothing to do with David Manning at this election ?—No.

39,161. In all your practice you never had a refusal ?—I never had ; I never went to anyone except those who were known to be on our own side.

39,162. Have they not stood out for larger sums than you proposed to give them ?—Yes.

39,163. Who asked you for more than you gave them in 1865 ?—I do not know.

39,164. Were there any in 1863 who stood out ?—Yes, I think so.

39,165. Who was it then ? Crawford got 60*l.* ; what did he want ?—I believe that was all he wanted ; he said he had been offered 100*l.*

39,166. Who was it who stood out for more than he had been offered in the first instance ?—I do not think I offered them anything.

39,167. Did they make their demand on you and say how much they wanted ?—No ; they would say we have been offered 50*l.* or 60*l.*, and I would say that I cannot do ; I cannot go to that figure.

39,168. Was that the case in 1865 that they came to you, and you did not go to them ?—Yes.

39,169. You never went to any of them ?—Not to one of them.

39,170. Did they all say they had been offered money on the other side ?—I cannot say that every one did.

39,171. Who of those in 1865 said they had been offered money on the other side, and how much ?—I think Light was one of them ; I did not see him myself ; his son told me that his father had been offered a good deal of money.

39,172. Do you know how much ?—I do not.

39,173. How came they to ask you what they were going to have ?—I went to see them first, and asked them whether they were going to support Pender and Seymour.

39,174. Was it then that they told you they had been offered money, or was it subsequently ?—They then said, we will leave it to you.

39,175. When they left it to you did they take what you chose to give without a demur ?—Yes.

39,176. Did anyone come after the election of 1865 and say that they had been promised more and had not got the whole amount ?—No.

39,177. Did they in 1863 ?—I do not recollect any.

39,178. How much do you know in 1862 of being distributed as of Mr. Pender's benevolence ?—I do not know the amount ; I have no idea.

39,179. You only distributed 75*l.* ?—About that ; it may have been a trifle more.

39,180. Were any of the sums distributed after the election of 1862 given on a promise that when Lord Gifford died they would again vote for the Liberal candidate ?—No.

J. Pender, Esq.

JOHN PENDER, Esq., sworn and examined.

39,181. (Mr. Bere.) Are you in business in Manchester ?—I am.

39,182. Are you also a member of the Whitworth Ordnance Company ?—Yes.

39,183. Were you one of the original promoters of that company ?—I was.

39,184. How long has that company been instituted ?—It was formed as an incorporated company in 1863 ; it was afterwards turned into a limited company in 1865.

39,185. Was the formation of it proposed before you stood for Totnes ?—No, I had been solicited by Mr. Whitworth to be named as one of the promoters ; he thought he might possibly form his company into an incorporated company.

39,186. You had been solicited by Mr. Whitworth to take part in the company ?—Yes.

39,187. Did that solicitation take place in 1862 ?—I think it was in 1863.

39,188. Are you sure whether it was 1862 or 1863 ?—I have a little uncertainty as to whether it was 1862 or 1863. When I contemplated being a member of parliament I consulted my solicitor in London as to whether I could become a member of the company and a member of parliament at the same time.

39,189. You mean as to its being a contract with the government ?—Yes ; I was not then a member of the Whitworth company.

39,190. Were there not negotiations going on for you to become a member before you came down to stand for Totnes ?—I am not quite positive as to the date when the negotiations commenced ; they were carried on for a considerable time with other parties that never came to anything. The matter dropped.

39,191. Was Mr. Whitworth a great friend of yours ?—No.

39,192. Had you known him at all in Manchester ?—Yes, only in society.

39,193. He had not been mixed up with you in business ?—No.

39,194. How first came you to know of this borough of Totnes ?—I knew that Lord Gifford was dangerously ill.

39,195. You were acquainted with the Marquis of Tweeddale ?—Yes ; I knew that Lord Gifford was ill and not likely to recover, and that led to my looking to Totnes.

39,196. Was Totnes the first borough which you contemplated standing for ?—No.

39,197. Had you been in negotiation for a seat in parliament before that ?—Yes.

39,198. For how long ?—Probably 12 months before that.

39,199. For what place ?—Great Grimsby ; at the time a petition was presented about Great Grimsby against Mr. Chapman's return, in the event of Mr. Chapman being unseated I intended to become a candidate for Great Grimsby.

39,200. With whom had you communicated in London about the Great Grimsby seat ?—I did not communicate with any person in London. It was Mr. McDougall, in Manchester, a friend of mine, who named Great Grimsby to me.

39,201. Is Mr. McDougall a partner of yours ?—No.

39,202. Was he a gentleman who took a great interest in your getting a seat in parliament?—Yes, he did; he was very fond of politics; he looked into these things pretty much for me and communicated with me.

39,203. Did he say from whom he received his information about political matters?—No. I think, with regard to Great Grimsby, he went over there himself and got his information there. He saw some people there and came back and reported the matter to me.

39,204. Did you receive any information relative to the seat at Great Grimsby from the Liberal agents in London?—I should say not.

39,205. When did you first become acquainted with Mr. Drake?—I first became acquainted with him at the time Great Grimsby was being talked about. I went to see Mr. Drake, with one of the leading political men of Great Grimsby.

39,206. Had you met that person in London, the leading political man of Great Grimsby, at Mr. Drake's?—I went by appointment. There was an appointment made by Mr. McDougall, and I went to London and met him at Mr. Drake's office.

39,207. In fact then Mr. McDougall communicated between you and Mr. Drake?—No, I should say not. I do not think Mr. McDougall ever saw Mr. Drake. I believe I saw Mr. Drake long before Mr. McDougall ever saw him.

39,208. Then from whom did the communication come that you were to go to Mr. Drake's?—Mr. McDougall told me that a gentleman from Great Grimsby, I forget his name, was then in London, looking after the petition, and I was to meet him at Mr. Drake's office. I went to meet him at Mr. Drake's office.

39,209. Is he a solicitor?—No, I think he is a timber merchant; the son is a solicitor. I forget his name.

39,210. The negotiation about Great Grimsby having failed, you looked out for some other borough?—Yes.

39,211. Was the next borough that was brought to your notice Totnes?—Yes.

39,212. Earl Gifford I believe had been ill a long time?—Yes.

39,213. Were you introduced by the Marquis of Tweeddale to the Duke of Somerset?—No.

39,214. Before you came down here did you learn from the marquis whether anything had passed between him and the duke about your succeeding Earl Gifford?—I am confident that nothing passed. You are aware that the Marquis of Tweeddale is a Conservative, and I never consulted the marquis about coming here at all. He knew nothing at all about it.

39,215. Did you consult any of his sons?—No.

39,216. Did you know that Lord John Hay's name had been mentioned as a probable candidate for Totnes?—Yes.

39,217. Before you came yourself?—No, I read of it since in the papers.

39,218. You were not aware of it before?—No, it could not be, because at that time Lord John Hay was in China, serving with his ship, and I knew very little of Lord John Hay at that time. I have known a great deal about him since, but not at that time.

39,219. From whom did you first hear about Totnes?—As I have told you I knew the state of Earl Gifford's health. I then mentioned to Mr. McDougall that Earl Gifford was not likely to recover—such was the medical opinion, and his own friends held that opinion; and he had better go down to Totnes and ascertain what the prospects were at Totnes.

39,220. Can you give us the exact date of that?—That must have been in the beginning of October 1862.

39,221. What made you so anxious to go into parliament?—Well, at that time, it was about the time the cotton crisis took place, and I have always taken a very great interest in promoting the growth of cotton. I felt that I had some time on my hands, that my own business was not likely to be so active, and I might be of use in the House of Commons, not only to Manchester, but to the promotion of the cultivation of cotton in India, which I took a very great interest in. That was the first thing that led me to think upon it.

39,222. Was your business connected with cotton then?—Yes, entirely cotton—the manufactures of Lancashire, and those manufactures are sent abroad to India and China and different parts of the world.

39,223. That was the chief reason or the only one?—The principal reason. I had been mixed up very little in politics previous to that, unless it was on one occasion when I did take a part; and I think the only time when I took any prominent part in politics was in that fight that took place in Manchester when Bright and Gibson were unseated.

39,224. That was in 1857?—That was in 1857.

39,225. Then Mr. McDougall came down in October 1862?—I think that was the time; it must have been about October 1862—from the middle of September to the beginning of October, some time.

39,226. Before you took the step of sending Mr. McDougall down, did you make inquiries as to the position of parties in Totnes?—I did not.

39,227. Did you seek for any information as to the state in which the Liberal party was?—I asked Mr. McDougall to get some information as to the state of the borough when he went down.

39,228. How long did Mr. McDougall stay?—I suppose he may have been a day or half a day in Totnes, I am not quite sure.

39,229. Did he communicate with you by letter?—No, he came back at once.

39,230. And saw you at Manchester?—And saw me at Manchester.

39,231. Do you know whom he communicated with while he was at Totnes?—I think the first person he saw was Mr. Windeatt; I think they are both dissenters, and both attend the church of the same sect, and I think Mr. Windeatt afterwards introduced him to the Rev. Mr. Paull.

39,232. He is an Independent minister here?—Yes. And then there was some appointment made to meet Mr. Cuming in the evening. The result of that conversation led to Mr. McDougall's returning almost immediately. It was to the effect that in the event of Earl Gifford's death the seat was likely to be offered to Mr. Alfred Seymour, that Earl Gifford's seat was what was called the duke's seat at Totnes; and that Mr. Mills represented what was called the independent party; that if anything occurred to Mr. Mills that rendered his seat vacant, then the independent party would select their own candidate, and in that case would be very glad to open up communications with me. At that time Mr. Mills was hale and well; there was no idea therefore of getting it, and Mr. McDougall returned, giving up all idea of Totnes.

39,233. And did you hear anything more about Totnes until Mr. Mills' death?—I heard nothing; no, I wiped, as it were, the thing from my mind, and Totnes was given up.

39,234. Did you think about any other place in the meantime?—The time was so short, and I was at Brighton with my family. From the time Mr. McDougall was here until Mr. Mills' death I suppose it could not be more than five or six weeks, therefore I had not given it any attention.

39,235. When you heard of Mr. Mills' death were you in London or Brighton?—I was travelling from Brighton and reading the "Times" I saw Mr. Mills' death.

39,236. He was killed by an accident in the hunting field, was not he?—Yes.

39,237. When I got to London I found at my office a telegram from Mr. McDougall. A telegram had been conveyed to Manchester, and I believe he saw it before I did in Manchester. He immediately left Manchester and went to Totnes, or rather I think he telegraphed, if I am right.

J. Pender, Esq.

39,238. Did he communicate to you that he was going?—Yes, he communicated to me by telegraph that he was going, and I think he telegraphed to Totnes that he was coming, and I think his telegram was the first announcement of Mr. Mills' death to the people of Totnes.

39,239. Then we have heard that he came down here and had a communication with Mr. Brooking Cuming, Mr. Chaster, and other members of that party, and that eventually a deputation went up to London to you?—Quite so.

39,239*a*. Did you ever hear that Mr. Seymour had come down at the time of that vacancy?—I did.

39,240. Did you learn from him that the Liberal party refused to recognize him as their candidate?—I was made quite aware of that.

39,241. Did the deputation communicate with you by telegram?—No, they came. I had a telegram from Mr. McDougall that a deputation would come from Totnes, and I met them at Fenton's Hotel.

39,242. And you made arrangements for their sleeping at Fenton's Hotel that night?—I think it is quite probable that I did for people who were coming to wait on me, but I would not be positive.

39,243. The deputation I believe consisted of Mr. Chaster, Mr. Cuming, and Mr. Charles Michelmore?—Quite so.

39,244. When did you first see them?—I think I saw them about breakfast time. I had arranged to go down to Shoeburyness with one or two friends to see some of the experiments going on there.

39,245. Was one of those friends Sir Emmerson Tennent?—Yes.

39,246. At that time were not you and Sir Emmerson Tennent very much mixed up in ordnance business?—No; as partners, or in what way?

39,247. Perhaps merely in interest?—In interest. I took for years before that very great interest in Mr. Whitworth's concern, long before there was any contemplation of being a partner; and I may as well as you are dealing with the Whitworth question give you all the information I can. I said to Mr. Whitworth, who had been working hard to get his guns introduced into the government, that he had a very uphill fight. I believed that Mr. Whitworth was one of the mechanical geniuses of the age, and I had great faith in his system, and when he was almost despairing I encouraged him. I said, "Go on; this "truth will prevail, as you will ultimately find, if you "will only persevere, and if at any time you feel that "you require assistance"—not pecuniary assistance, because the man is rich, and far beyond anything of that kind—"or want support in any way, I will be "prepared to take an interest in your concern, if at "any time you please to want it." At that time he had no idea of anything of the kind, and the thing went on some very considerable time; then he came to me and said, "That he felt it was a very large con-"cern, and he was a good deal annoyed and bothered, "and it would be better to have some little support," and that is what led to the formation of the company.

39,248. Do not you think that communication had taken place between you and Mr. Whitworth before the deputation from Totnes came to you?—I think it is very likely to have been a couple of years before that—two or three years.

39,249. You saw the deputation at breakfast?—Yes.

39,250. And they questioned you upon your political principles?—Yes; Mr. Chaster did very carefully.

39,251. And finding that your principles agreed with theirs, did they intimate to you that you would be a proper candidate for Totnes?—Yes.

39,252. Is that all that passed between you and them on the morning of that day?—That is all.

39,253. Did they lunch with you?—Yes. They went away, and I commenced to write my address, and they were to return and by that time I should have finished.

39,254. And when they returned to lunch had you the address ready?—Yes.

39,255. After lunch what conversation passed between you and the members of the deputation?—I remember talking to Mr. Cuming, and asking who was the ostensible head of the party. He told me he was the head of the party; he was the legal agent, and managed the Liberal party in Totnes. I then said to him, "Well, can you give me any idea of "what amount of money is required for the election "expenses?" He said, "If there is a contest it "may cost 1,200*l.* or 1,400*l.*; if there is no contest "the sum will be comparatively small."

39,256. When you asked that question as to what the cost would be did any one of the deputation leave the room?—I think Mr. Chaster said, "If you begin "to talk about money matters I will have nothing to "do with that," and I believe he either left the room, or I spoke with Mr. Cuming in the window, or something of that sort; but Mr. Chaster took no part in the conversation about money.

39,257. At that time did Mr. Cuming tell you for what the 1,200*l.* or 1,400*l.* would be wanted?—He did not.

39,258. Had you inquired what number the constituency of Totnes was?—No; well, generally speaking, of course I did, because I had the little book that is published giving the particulars of the constituencies.

39,259. And giving, I suppose, the elections that had been contested in Totnes?—Yes, I knew that.

39,260. From which you could judge fairly of what the relative strength of parties was?—Yes.

39,261. Did not it strike you that 1,200*l.* or 1,400*l.* was a very large sum to be asked for expenses for comparatively so small a borough?—I fancy it did not strike me much, because I had often been talking to members of parliament, asking the expenses of boroughs, the general, what you may call not legal expenses; still they were legalised by use and wont on the part of members of parliament, that every borough more or less had its price; and I simply looked upon Totnes as one of perhaps the least expensive, not the most expensive, of the boroughs that return members of parliament.

39,262. Had you any cost mentioned to you about Great Grimsby?—Yes.

39,263. Was it greater or less than Totnes. It was about 1,000*l.* or 1,200*l.*

39,264. The constituency of Great Grimsby is rather larger than that of Totnes?—Yes.

39,265. I must repeat my question. Did not it strike you as rather odd that so large a sum as 1,200*l.* should be wanted for so small a place as Totnes, for even legalised by use and custom expenses?—As I have told you the sum did not strike me as being unusually large, because I had so frequently heard larger sums named.

39,266. Had you always heard that those larger sums were paid and demanded in consequence of bribery being necessary?—I knew perfectly well that it must go in that way, but as I said before it seemed to have become part of the constitutional system, which I believed it to be.

39,267. You took the smaller of the two sums, I believe?—Yes.

39,268. When did you go down to Totnes?—I think I arrived at Totnes the day after Mr. Mills' funeral?

39,269. Did you bring the money down with you?—No.

39,270. How did the money come to Totnes?—After I had been in Totnes a short time, when it was evident there was to be a contest, I told Mr. Jack, a confidential clerk who was with me at the time, and he is here now to give any explanation, that he had better go to London and get 1,200*l.* or 1,400*l.*, and to take Mr. Brooking Cuming's instructions as to the disposal of the 1,200*l.*

39,271. How much was he to bring down?—Mr. Jack?

39,272. Yes.—He brought 200*l.* down; he paid in London, according to the instructions he received from

Mr. Cuming, 1,200*l.* to the account of Mr. Webber, a draper in Totnes.

39,273. Into what bank did he pay that?—I believe he paid it to a private individual; but he is here to give you the name. I did not know the name until the other day.

39,274. What became of the other 200*l.*?—He will be able to account for the other 200*l.* I believe it is stated in the account.

39,275. Before you sent Mr. Jack up for this money had you had any conversation with your supporters about the necessity of bribery in Totnes, or of spending money even?—I had a very great dislike to spend money illegally, and I was in hopes that there would be no contest; but when I found that Mr. Dent was going to contest the borough I spoke to Mr. Durant. I said to him, although I was not personally acquainted with Mr. Dent, various circumstances led me to be acquained with a good many of Mr. Dent's friends, that there was a grand opportunity for Mr. Dent and myself, both keeping entirely clear from anything like bribery, if we as gentlemen agreed to spend nothing in the borough but strictly legitimate expenses. I asked Mr. Durant to call on Mr. Dent, and state that I would come into any bond or obligation to fight the borough on pure principles, if he would consent to the same practice. Mr. Durant called on Mr. Dent, and the answer that Mr. Durant got was that Mr. Dent was in the hands of his committee, and he could not interfere.

39,276. We have heard in the course of this inquiry that Mr. Durant did call, and was not allowed to see Mr. Dent?—Well, the impression on my mind was that he had seen Mr Dent, and that Mr. Dent had said he was in the the hands of the committee. Well, a short time after that, when I was told that Mr. Dent was beginning to spend money, I wrote a letter to Mr. Dent, of which you have a copy before you, and to which I got no reply.

This is the letter:

"Sir, 5th Dec. 1862.

"I am desirous that nothing shall occur in "the present contest to cause any unkindly feeling "between us. We can I trust hold our political "differences of opinion, and advocate and maintain "them in an honest and not unfriendly manner.

"I have resolved to go to the poll, and I feel "assured of success. I have made a careful personal "canvass. I have not relied solely upon the state-"ments of others, nor upon any doubtful expressions "of voters, but upon positive promises, and I have "made up and checked the canvass for myself. I am "thus enabled of my own knowledge to assure you "that there is a considerable Liberal majority in the "borough, and I have a firm belief that this majority "will not violate their pledges to myself.

"Had I found a different state of opinion existing "in the borough I should have retired from the "contest.

"I regret that your late arrival, and subsequent "absence from the borough, cannot have allowed you "the opportunity of in a like manner determining for "yourself from a positive canvass the relative strength "of parties.

"It has been from the first my most earnest desire "that this contest should be conducted purely. It "seems to me not merely to lower the constituency "when corruption is suffered to exist, but to lower the "standard of the representation itself. I desire by "fair means and honestly, and so I shall have nothing "to regret, nothing to be ashamed of to represent "this borough. I desire to exalt not to disgrace "the borough by the election, and I cannot help "feeling you must have this desire in common with "myself, and that in common with myself you will "deprecate all unfair and dishonourable dealings "with the voters. I have felt it due to you, both "as a brother merchant, and from my intimacy with "your uncle Mr. Wm. Dent, to write thus frankly to "you.

"Accept the assurance of my sincere desire that, "the election over, no ill feeling may remain between "us.

"I am, &c.,

"John Dent, Esq. John Pender."

39,277. I understand you to say you received no answer to that communication?—I received no answer. Mr. Mitchell called.

39,278. I want to put one question on that. Who had come down to Totnes with you, or while you were there, of your own friends, who were strangers to the place?—The only friend with me was Mr. Mc Dougall.

39,279. Was not Mr. McHaffie down here?—He came later on.

39,280. After you wrote this letter?—Yes. I think he came the day of the nomination, or the night before the nomination.

39,281. And you had no reply, but Mr. Mitchell called?—Yes.

39,282. And did you see Mr. Mitchell?—Yes; and he stated that Mr. Dent felt very indignant at my imputing to him matters which I had no right to do, that I had imputed to him bribery; and I said if Mr. Dent would write me a letter, I was not prepared to accept the message, but if he would read my letter, and send me a written reply, I would be better satisfied. Immediately Mr. Mitchell retired, and I then wrote a few lines further to Mr. Dent, merely drawing his attention to the first letter, which I think you have also.

39,283. There was a letter written on the 6th of December 1862.

"Dear Sir,

"I have just had the pleasure of an interview "with Mr. Mitchell, who has informed me of your "intention of going to the poll. I learned from him "with some regret that you considered some passages "in my note of yesterday were capable of being "interpreted to imply a disposition on your part "to allow of corrupt practices at this election. On "re-reading, since Mr. Mitchell left me, my letter, I "am unable to find a single sentence capable of "bearing such an interpretation. On the contrary, "after reference in my letter to the evils of corruption, "my own most earnest desire to see them put an end "to, and my resolve to carry this contest through "purely, I state that I cannot help feeling you must "have this desire in common with myself, and that "in common with myself you will deprecate all un-"fair and dishonourable dealings with the voters. I "should have been glad to have heard from you in "acknowledgment of my letter, and accepting this "condition of the contest.

"I reserve to myself the right of publishing this "correspondence.

"I remain yours,

"John Pender."

At that time had you sent up Mr. Jack for the money?—I am not quite satisfied of that; it is very possible I may have done so. I rather think the money was sent when it was quite evident that there was to be a contest, but the figures will show it.

39,284. The entry in Mr. Jack's account is, "December 1865, remittance to Mr. Windeatt on "account of election expenses, 1,200*l.*;" must not your instructions to Mr. Jack have preceded the 5th of December?—What is the date of my first letter?

39,285. The 5th.—Then it must have been the day previous.

39,286. Did you in fact send Mr. Jack up to London in order to get the money before you wrote the letter?—Yes, I was asked for the money by Mr. Cuming. I may mention that when Mr. Cuming told me I must send down this money, he said there will be nothing of this used unless there is a contest.

39,287. Who were the persons who acted upon your committee here?—There was no committee.

39,288. Who were your principal advisers or legal people in Totnes?—The principal were Mr. Chaster,

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY.

J. Pender, Esq.

26 Sept. 1866.

Mr. Windeatt, and Mr. Thomas Michelmore; Mr. Brooking Cuming was the legal adviser.

39,289. Mr. Jeffery Michelmore?—Mr. Jeffery Michelmore.

39,290. Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore?—Yes, he was.

39,291. Mr. Huxham?—No, he was not; there was some feeling at the time betwixt Mr. Huxham and Mr. Cuming. Mr. Huxham never interfered at all; in fact he did not vote; he took no interest in it.

39,292. Mr. Holman?—Mr. Holman was.

39,293. Now besides those had Mr. Bowden anything to do with you and the election?—No, he kept aloof, and only appeared on the talking occasions.

39,294. Did Mr. Michelmore give you to understand that you were to have the support of the duke's interest?—Quite so, I would not have come down under any other idea. I was given to understand in London by the deputation that I would have the duke's interest.

39,295. You know when the deputation came up to you in which the duke was represented, did Mr. Thomas Michelmore lead you to believe that you would have the duke's support?—I did not see Mr. Thomas Michelmore in London.

39,296. Was not he one of the deputation?—No, Mr. Charles Michelmore.

39,297. He was to all intents and purposes the representative of the duke?—No, I think not.

39,298. There was no person directly representing the duke?—No, but it was represented to me that there was an understanding with the duke's party that any candidate brought forward by the independent party would have the full support of the duke, and when I came down Mr. Jeffery Michelmore canvassed with me.

39,299. Did you receive an intimation that some disagreement between the two parties of the Liberals had been reconciled?—No, I was not aware of that.

39,300. You found that it had been, and you had a majority?—That was my conviction.

39,301. Did you find the voters when you canvassed them ready to promise their votes?—There were a few that did not. But I called pretty much in coming up the street at almost every door, whether Conservative or Liberal, and some would not promise.

39,302. When, after you wrote that second letter to Mr. Dent, did you have any further communication with him before the nomination day?—Not before the nomination day.

39,303. When did Mr. McHaffie come down?—I think the night before the nomination. I was a little astonished at Mr. McHaffie coming.

39,304. He is a partner in your house?—He was then a partner; he is now, fortunately, not.

39,305. Was Mr. Percy Salmon your secretary then?—No.

39,306. Was he down here at all?—He came down here, I think, in December 1864.

39,307. Was he not here at the election of 1862?—No.

39,308. Was there a Mr. Moore down here?—Yes.

39,309. When did he come down?—He was a friend of Mr. McDougall. I never knew Mr. Moore before the Totnes election. Mr. McDougall told me Mr. Moore was a very able speaker, and that he would be very useful in Totnes as a great freetrader, and be rather attractive as a speaker, and we might have some meetings where he would be useful.

39,310. How long before the election did he come down?—I rather think he met me and Mr. McDougall at Exeter.

39,311. He came down with you?—I think so.

39,312. After Mr. McHaffie came down did you have some conversation with him about bribery?—No, nothing.

39,313. Did he not say something more than that about it?—No, not that I recollect.

39,314. Did you not tell him that you would prefer not having any bribery?—I do not think I had any conversation with Mr. McHaffie about it. I was rather displeased at his coming down; in fact I saw very little of him indeed.

39,315. Did you not tell him that, and did he not say to you, "You want to win," and did not you say, "Yes?"—I am not aware of it. I am not aware of any conversation of the kind.

39,316. Did he say after the expression, "You wish to win," will you leave that to me?—Oh, certainly not.

39,317. Did that conversation pass with Mr. McDougall?—I do not know what passed betwixt them.

39,318. Between you and Mr. McDougall?—No, because he was as much opposed to bribery as I was.

39,319. I suppose after you had not received any answer from Mr. Dent, and Mr. Mitchell had objected to the strain in which your letter was couched, it then became apparent to you if there was a contest you would have to spend 1,200*l.*?—I had no doubt if the contest went on that money would be spent.

39,320. What communication passed between you and Mr. Dent or Mr. Dent's friends on the evening of the nomination?—On the evening of the nomination, I think it was somewhere about midnight, there was a report, first, that Mr. Dent had retired; immediately after Mr. Brooking Cuming came to me and said a proposition had been made to him that Mr. Dent would retire on condition of my paying 2,000*l.* and Mr. Dent being allowed to walk over at the next election; my answer was, as to the money part of it I could easily give an answer, that was that I would do no such thing, I would entertain no such proposition. As to the other part of it I had no right to give an answer at all.

39,321. Were you not, at the time Mr. Brooking Cuming came to give you that message, sitting in one of the downstairs rooms of the "Seymour," with Mr. Chaster?—I think Mr. Chaster was in an adjoining room.

39,322. Did you go in and consult Mr. Chaster about the offer that had been made?—I declined at once, and then I went in and told Mr. Chaster. Mr. Chaster said I was quite right, and the thing could not be considered for a moment, "Do not entertain anything of the kind."

39,323. Did you yourself go out of the "Seymour Hotel" that night and see any person on the bridge?—No.

39,324. Did you see any person you knew except Mr. Brooking Cuming?—Mr. Windeatt and Mr. Chaster.

39,325. Did you converse on this subject?—No.

39,326. Did you have any conversation with a person of the name of Searle that night?—No.

39,327. Did you hear from Mr. Brooking Cuming that there were large numbers of men holding out, and they would refuse to vote unless they were paid?—No, he asked me to consider the proposition about the 2,000*l.* and I said certainly not.

39,328. Did Mr. Brooking Cuming tell you, when you were desired by him to consider the proposition of the 2,000*l.*, that there might be some doubt about the election, because a number of men were holding out?—It is quite possible he may have used arguments. I do not remember the arguments he used. I remember he urged me to give the 2,000*l.* My mind was quite made up and I declined to enter into it.

39,329. In the course of his arguments did he not tell you there were a number of men holding out who wanted a very large sum of money for their votes?—I should say he did not make that statement.

39,330. Did you ever know, before the election or early after it, that there had been a number of men holding out who had asked 1,000*l.* for their votes?—I heard of it afterwards.

39,331. How long after?—In 1863; not in reference to my election; it was in regard to Mr. Seymour. I never heard that any party were holding out with regard to my own.

39,332. You refused the offer, and Mr. Cuming went over to the "Seven Stars?"—Yes.

39,333. Did he come to you and make a communication to you?—He came back and told me that Mr. Dent had retired unconditionally.

39,334. You were not sorry to hear it?—Of course I was very much pleased, because I felt that the election had been gained without any bribery; that was my impression at the moment. Within a very short time, or at all events on the morning of that day, I, under the impression that the 1,200*l.* I had sent down or ordered to be paid to Mr. Cuming, or that a very small part of that money, would be expended for election purposes, I agreed to give 1,000*l.* for the benefit of the town, for the benefit principally of the poor, but my primary object at that time was that the larger portion of it should go to the British Schools; I found in going over the ground that the British School had a great number of poor children in it. It had been represented to me as a school that was very much in need of a little assistance, and was likely at that time to lose the schoolroom. I believe they did lose it, and went into a sort of loft, a place that was not fit for children. I gave this sum of money, stipulating that a portion of it, 500*l.* or 600*l.*, was to be given towards this school. I believe the school is built.

39,335. Did any person tell you at all what the estimated cost of the school was?—No, they asked me to get a plan of the school made at Manchester by a brother of Mr. Paull. I got a plan of the school, and his estimate was 1,500*l.*; that was far beyond what I had said.

39,336. Was it after you had given the 1,000*l.*?—It was after that we were talking about it.

39,337. Did you nominate certain persons who were to act as a committee for the distribution of the money?—I requested them to appoint a committee.

39,338. Do you know that every member of that committee was a supporter of your own?—I believe so. I believe that at the same time some of the other parties had been requested to act. I beg pardon—I think there is one member of the committee who was a very decided opponent of mine.

39,339. Who is that?—I think Mr. Oldrieve, a surveyor.

39,340. Did you, except expressing an opinion that a considerable portion of it should be appropriated to the British Schools, direct how the rest should be distributed?—No, I took no part in it.

39,341. You went to the poll and certain persons voted for you?—The poll was opened, and I believe there was a legal question whether Mr. Dent had retired before 12 or after 12.

39,342. The candidates had been nominated?—It was considered that to prevent anything like a mistake it was necessary to open the poll.

39,343. You got 160 and Mr. Dent five votes?—170, or something like that.

39,344. How soon after the election did you leave Totnes?—I believe that I left on the day. My family were at Brighton, and I was very anxious to get back to them.

39,345. Did Mr. McDougall stay with you?—I am not certain whether he went away that night or the following day. I could not say exactly when he left. I was going to Brighton and he was going to Manchester, so we went in different directions.

39,346. You heard of the vacancy that took place on Lord Gifford's death?—Yes.

39,347. Had you been to Totnes between that election and Mr. Seymour's election?—No.

39,348. Did you come down at the time of Mr. Seymour's election?—No.

39,349. Or make any communication by writing or otherwise to the people of Totnes at that time?—Not that I am aware of.

39,350. Had you seen Mr. Seymour before he came down?—No; I had a communication that he was desirous of seeing me if I was in Wiltshire. I was in Brighton and I went on to Manchester.

39,351. Did he not write to you, or you to him, or any mutual friend write on his behalf?—No.

39,352. Did not some communication take place between you and someone?—No communication, beyond simply a friendly desire to make my acquaintance, nothing in regard to money matters.

39,353. Did he not consult you about the expenses of contesting Totnes?—No.

39,354. Mr. Oldrieve was not one of the committee?—I was under the impression that Mr. Oldrieve was one of them. I think Mr. Chaster told me that he was.

39,355. When did you first hear anything more about Totnes after your election?—I think the first thing I heard about it was Mr. Seymour's return. I received a telegram to the effect that he was returned.

39,356. When did you get the telegram?—I scarcely remember that, but no doubt the particulars can be had at the telegraph office. I had some friends with me at the time, and I think I received it just as we were going in to dinner.

39,357. Had you directly or indirectly in any way whatever anything to do with the spending the money at Mr. Seymour's election?—I had nothing to do either directly or indirectly in spending money at Mr. Seymour's election in 1862.

39,358. Or authorizing it to be spent?—Or authorizing it.

39,359. Or intimating that you would repay it if it were spent?—Or intimating that I would repay it. I had nothing to do with it. I was never asked, and I never volunteered.

39,360. Have you ever been asked since to repay any of the expenses incurred at Mr. Seymour's election?—No; but about the opening of parliament I was anxious to go into parliament, knowing that every expense had been squared. I asked Mr. Mc Dougall to go down and get an account of the 1,200*l.* that I had paid to Mr. Brooking Cuming; he came down, and instead of getting as I expected an account of my 1,000*l.* to pay for the schools I found there were bills for a considerable amount, which statement I have placed in your hands.

39,361. I want to know, upon that, did Mr. Mc Dougall receive from Mr. Brooking Cuming any account of the way in which the 1,200*l.* was expended?—He went down to Totnes for the purpose; he never could get any account, and instead of getting an account of the 1,200*l.* he found that there were other accounts to be paid.

39,362. 1,000*l.* more to be paid with regard to the election?—Yes.

39,363. So that in reality the unopposed election of 1862 cost you 2,256*l.* 10*s.* 1*d.*?—Quite so.

39,364. When you learned that you began to know in what way the 1,200*l.* had been expended?—Quite so.

39,365. Did you ever make any inquiry about how it was expended yourself?—No, I did not.

39,366. Did you never ask Mr. Brooking Cuming about it?—Mr. McDougall was acting for me when he told me that no account could be got; I then was satisfied that the money had been disbursed in a way that I did not expect, because Mr. Dent having retired I thought I had gone in really clear of bribery. But that led to my getting a different view of my position in Totnes; of course I lamented my folly, the first time I came down to Totnes. Six or nine months after that I sent down a cheque for the 1,000*l.* I had promised to give for the schools, and it gave rise to some feeling on my part about Mr. Brooking Cuming; and the end of it was Mr. Cuming ceased to be my agent.

39,367. (Mr. Coleridge.) In this account there is, "To Mr. Tucker by McDougall 317*l.* 6*s.* 1*d.*, do you know what that was for?—I believe it was for the legal expenses.

39,368. There are also two sums of 6*l.* 1*s.* 6*d.* and 39*l.* 12*s.* 6*d.*, then there is to Mr. Cuming 315*l.*, do you know what that is for?—No. I may mention to you that all those accounts have passed through my business books, and they are open to be examined as to the different figures.

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY.

J. Pender, Esq.

26 Sept. 1866.

39,369. (Mr. Coleridge.) March 31st, to Mr. Mc Dougall, 32*l.* 3*s.* 10*d.* ?—I suppose that was the hotel bill.

39,370. At the "Seymour Arms ?"—Yes.

39,371. Then the full total is 372*l.* ; and there is the item of 6*l.* odd, and one of 39*l.*, and Mr. Cuming 315*l.* That was not paid till September 2nd, 1863, nearly a year after the election ?—I may tell you there was some little unpleasantness that arose about those accounts, and that gave rise to an estrangement that broke off Mr. Cuming's agency.

39,372. No bad feeling arose between you and Mr. McDougall ?—No, he was merely a friend. He will be able to explain this, I have no doubt, because the difference in date and the sums not being paid no doubt arises from the feeling that I had, that I had been called on to pay sums beyond what I believe I had any right to pay.

39,373. (Mr. Bere.) Can you tell whether when Mr. McDougall came back from Totnes he told you that the whole of that 1,200*l.* was expended, and not only that but that there were further sums that would have to be paid ?—He told me that.

39,374. He told you that there were bills unpaid ?—Yes, I have a very good idea of the amounts.

39,375. How did Mr. McDougall pay that money, was it by cheque, or how did he pay it ?—You will find it stated, and how it was paid.

39,376. It is only by Mr. McDougall ; did he draw the cheques ?—No, my house would give him the cheques.

39,377. Was Mr. Jack the cashier ?—He is a confidential party ; he knows all my affairs, and everything is open to him.

J. Jack.

JAMES JACK sworn and examined.

39,378. (Mr. Bere.) Have you got the particulars of all these accounts ?—Not of those paid by Mr. Mc Dougall, the accounts current showing what he got from us, and how he disbursed them.

39,379. Cannot you from the books discover the items making out these amounts paid by Mr. Mc Dougall ?—Yes, I know he got several sums.

39,380. There are certain entries of payments by Mr. McDougall on Mr. Pender's behalf of which the items do not appear, have you any means of ascertaining what those items are ?—I have got his own account current.

(Mr. Pender.) You must have Mr. McDougall ; I can telegraph for him.

(Mr. Jack.) I wrote to him yesterday to come down with me ; I think he said he could not conveniently leave his business.

(Mr. Pender.) I am anxious that he should be here, as he knows the whole thing.

39,381. (Mr. Bere.) What are those other accounts that you have there ?—How the 2,000*l.* were disbursed ; I have got that, and the name of the person who got the money in London, the 1,200*l.*

J. Pender, Esq.

Mr. JOHN PENDER's examination resumed.

39,382. (Mr. Bere.) When you found that such a large sum had been expended, and that there were some sums still owing, did it not cross your mind that the sums expended might have had some influence on Mr. Seymour's successful return ?—I have no doubt that my having fought it before Mr. Seymour came into the field, though he did not know it at the time, had some effect. I have no doubt now that the money that was expended more or less may have had that result. That is my impression now.

39,383. (Mr. Coleridge.) Fought and fed the borough ?—I fancy it was so ; I suppose the men had got the money then.

39,384. At the "Seymour Arms" ?—I am not aware of that ; I merely presume that it more or less assisted Mr. Seymour's election.

39,385. (Mr. Bere.) Did either Mr. Windeatt or Mr. Brooking Cuming or Mr. Michelmore ever say to you that though the expenditure was larger than was expected, it had done the Liberal cause a great deal of good ?—No, there was no apology made to me at all.

39,386. You were still determined to perform your promise as to the payment of the 1000*l.* to the charities ?—Yes.

39,387. When did you pay it ?—I must have paid it about 1863 ; I am not sure whether it was not 1864.

39,388. In 1864 was it ?—You will find the date there ; I was not very often at Totnes ; it was some considerable time after ; it must have been 12 months afterwards.

39,389. On the 26th of May, 1863, were you down here ?—Yes.

39,390. You paid it by cheque to Mr. Chaster ?—I gave Mr. Chaster a cheque, and I remember telling him this. I said, "I am afraid you are slow in Totnes, "and if this school is not completed in 12 months I "must call upon you to return the cheque."

39,391. Can you remember at all upon what bank that cheque was drawn ?—I think it was a cheque on Overend, Gurney, and Co. ; I think I would have received it from them.

39,392. Did you draw it in your own name or "John Pender and Co. ?"—No, in this way : Frequently in the course of business (for I did a large business with Overend and Gurney in discounting commercial bills) I received from them a cheque, a crossed cheque, on their bankers, Messrs. Barclay, and I rather think this was one of Barclay's cheques ; I am not quite sure.

39,393. No, it is not, it is to "Colonel Willoughby, Mr. Chaster, and Mr. Michelmore, 1,000*l.* gift for public purposes ?"—Mr. Jack will be able to give you the information as to who the cheque was upon ; he can easily give it from the books.

39,394. You were down here in 1863 ?—I was.

39,395. Did you have any conversation with Mr. Michelmore at all about the relationship between your party and the duke's ?—I had a conversation which was a very important one. It occurred in 1864, about 12 months previous to the general election.

39,396. I think it must have occurred very early in 1864 ?—No, I beg pardon, it was more likely to be in December, 1863, we came down.

39,397. You came down with Mr. Seymour in 1863 ?—Yes.

39,398. (Mr. Bere.) When we adjourned, I was just going to ask you about a conversation that took place between you, Mr. Michelmore, and Mr. Seymour, in December, 1863, when you and Mr. Seymour were down here. Will you tell me what the effect of that conversation was, if you cannot remember exactly what took place ?—I remember very well the heads of the conversation ; I was then very well aware that the duke's influence was very considerable, and it was necessary, in the event of a double election, that I should exactly understand my position, and the conversation was opened upon looking forward to the general election. I then stated that it would be well that we should understand the principle on which that election should be conducted, that I should not like to be made the scape-goat, that I should not like to go on paying money, and that when it came to a narrow press, or a close run, I might possibly, being a stranger, be thrown overboard, and my colleague be returned. It was done with a perfectly frank business-like way, and to the late Mr. Michelmore, I am sorry to say he is not here, I stated the principle must be of dividing the expense, and that the successful candidate, if there was one successful, must pay two-thirds, and in the event of a very close run, if it was necessary that one Liberal should be sacrificed, that the decision must remain with the independent party, and not the ducal party, and that was recognized as the principle upon which the election of 1865 was to be fought.

39,939. Was that arrangement ever reduced into writing?—It was not, but it was acknowledged by Mr. Seymour, and Mr. Chaster was present; it was not reduced to writing; it was understood, and I acted upon that.

39,400. Did you make any note of that?—No, I do not think I did; I acted upon it.

39,401. Do you keep a diary?—No, I do not; and perhaps I may tell you, being situated as I am in business, my business being a very large one, involving a large amount and a great variety of amounts, I dare not trust myself to keep it with my own head or with my own hands, and I desire to have it all done by my establishment.

39,402. You have a private cash book?—That is not kept by myself, but by one of my cashiers, at least what I call private. It is not open to all the clerks. Mr. Michelmore at that interview stated that at a contested election 2,000*l.* would be likely to carry it. I think some of the gentlemen remarked something less would do, 1,500*l.*, 1,200*l.*, or 1,400*l.* might do; but Mr. Michelmore said, "You must make up your mind, "if there is a severe contest, that 2,000*l.* will be re- "quired," and from that time forward I looked at Totnes, in the event of a double election, as costing about a couple of thousand pounds for the Liberal party.

39,403. Did you find that you could trust any statements of the expense of Totnes after the way in which you had been deceived in the election of 1862, when, thinking it would cost you nothing, or comparatively nothing, it cost you 2,256*l.*?—When I was asked for the money for the election purposes of 1865, I gave it to Mr. Chaster, because I thonght the money would be fairly dealt with, and I had implicit confidence in him.

39,404. Look at that letter (handing it to the witness); was that arrangement alluded to which is stated in that paragraph of the letter?—I should say so.

39,405. From time to time, I suppose, you sent money to Totnes for the purpose of paying your subscriptions to the charities?—Yes.

39,406. You had had a dispute with Mr. Brooking Cuming or a misunderstanding with regard to the amount of his account, and I believe you asked Mr. Chaster and Mr. Holman and a third person to go through that?—I asked Mr. Chaster to act as my friend.

39,407. And Mr. Holman and another person went into Mr. Brooking Cuming's bill and struck off certain items?—Yes. I may mention that it has been suggested to me that this large amount in 1862, of which I complained so much afterwards in 1863, that a good deal of this money might have been paid for old scores which Mr. Mills ought to have paid or Mr. Cuming. That has been suggested to me since I have been examined, and a particular bill that you have referred to, the quo warranto bill, I believe ought to have been paid by Mr. Mills. Mr. Cuming had rendered an account which was considered exorbitant. That account was looked into by the parties who made the bargain with Mr. Cuming when he took the business in hand, and they decided that 100*l.* as against 120*l.*, or some such sum, was fully more than they considered he was entitled to, and I believe they stated the sum under a hundred pounds, and I sent a cheque for 100*l.*

39,408. Eighty some odd pounds, and Mr. Chaster recommended you to send a cheque for 100*l.*, and you sent it?—Yes.

39,409. That cheque Mr. Brooking Cuming refused?—Yes.

39,410. When the deputation called upon you, did any person give you to understand that the money you were to bring down to Totnes would be required for the payment of back accounts as well as the payment of the expenses of the election?—No. They did not make me aware of anything of that.

39,411. Did you know from anybody before you came to Totnes that there were back expenses?—No, I did not.

39,412. As far as you know, the 1,200*l.* was to be spent on the business of the election?—Yes.

39,413. I want just a little explanation about how the 1,200*l.* came here. Did you give a cheque for it?—No; I instructed Mr. Jack to go to the Joint Stock Discount Company, and if there was no money there——

39,414. Were you a shareholder there?—Unfortunately. But it was not the Joint Stock Company then, it was afterwards. Mr. Wilkinson was then the manager on his own account; and I told him to go to Mr. Wilkinson, and if there was no money to my credit, to get from Mr. Wilkinson 1,400*l.* Mr. Wilkinson I believe did not know Mr. Jack, and there was no money to the account, and he telegraphed to Manchester to pay Mr. Jack a sum of 1,400*l.* They replied that they would pay it, and then they sent up the same evening certain bills of exchange, which he discounted. He took the 1,400*l.* and paid the balance into the Union Bank, and the name of the party that Mr. Jack paid the money to he will be able to state.

39,415. We will ask Mr. Jack about that. But what I wanted to know was whether you had any private account at any time upon which you drew for money?—Nothing of the kind.

39,416. Have you any private account at all?—Yes, I have a small private account, but it is not worth mentioning.

39,417. Why did you not draw upon that?—I had not got it at that time. I am a director in several institutions, and instead of putting the honorarium which I received into my general business I put it there; and I sometimes buy a picture or something or that kind.

39,418. I do not want to inquire into your private business arrangements; but was that private account opened after the election of 1865?—I think it was. I may mention that that account has never exceeded 1,500*l.*, and I can give you the cheque to show you how that has been disposed of.

39,419. Now from time to time I suppose you went either to Mr. Cuming or to Mr. Chaster to pay subscriptions?—Yes.

39,420. How was it?—I gave an order upon Manchester.

39,421. Upon what bank?—It might be upon the London or the Manchester Bank.

39,422. What London bank would it be?—It might have been Overend, Gurney, and Co.'s, or Alexander's.

39,423. Would it not be on the Consolidated?—No, I think not; because my account with the Consolidated is in Manchester and not in London.

39,424. Did you ever draw cheques for the payment of your subscriptions for the charities of Totnes on a Manchester bank?—I should think so. But every cheque that has been drawn, I may mention that I want to give you an accurate statement about, and every cheque that has been drawn will be stated in the account.

39,425. I cannot tell how the cheques were drawn, but did you when you sent a cheque ever send down a cheque drawn upon the Manchester bank?—I think it is very likely; I think more than likely; but if it is not shown there, we can give you the day and date of every cheque sent. It is a matter of detail which there is no difficulty in ascertaining.

39,426. I suppose you receive an income for your private maintenance from your directorships, your business, and estates?—Yes.

39,427. Where are those rents paid?—They all pass through my business books. I am the only partner.

39,428. It is your account and nobody else's?—Yes.

39,429. Then it is your private accounts?—Yes. The only thing is, that for those accounts there is my principal accountant, who keeps an account of the items.

TWENTY EIGHTH DAY.

J. Pender, Esq.

26 Sept. 1866.

39,430. Have you any account in Scotland?—Yes.

39,431. At Glasgow?—Yes, quite open to send you everything. I have accounts in Glasgow. It is quite a distinct business.

39,432. When did your partnership cease?—I think it ceased about the middle of 1864.

39,433. Here is the account of the subscriptions which you paid since 1863, down to the 25th January, 1866?—I think there is a statement of them all.

39,434. With regard to the first there is no statement of how the various sums were paid; can you tell from your memory (Mr. Jack will tell us by-and-by) whether you drew cheques for each individual subscription, or sent one large cheque for the number of subscriptions?—As far as I recollect I think there are some of the cheques sent to the different institutions in small cheques, and after the break with Mr. Cuming, I think they were generally sent to Mr. Chaster in one sum, and he disbursed them in the different ways.

39,435. I see there was a different way of managing on the 22nd January 1866, but up to that time I find no entry of a cheque for a large sum of money, but for small sums?—I think they were all sent in small sums.

39,436. I ask the question again, can you say whether any of those cheques were drawn on the Manchester Bank?—I could not positively say; but I should say it is more than likely. But I may say that we can give you every information.

39,437. Had Mr. Jack the power of signing cheques?—No.

39,438. You were the only person?—Mr. Kenworthy has.

39,439. Had any arrangement been come to between you and Mr. Seymour with regard to the proportion of the expenses that you as members were to subscribe to the charities?—No.

39,440. Were you not always to give twice as much as he?—No, no arrangement. I was under the impression, and I believe I named it more than once, that I did not wish, although probably at the time I may have had a little more money to give in the charities than Mr. Seymour, I did not wish to put it forward in any way to Mr. Seymour's disadvantage; I rather wished to be on a fair footing with Mr. Seymour as far as possible.

39,441. Did it practically happen that your subscriptions in a great many instances were twice as large as Mr. Seymour's?—It was quite possible. I asked what subscriptions there were. As occupying the seat that Mr. Mills had held, I asked them to send me a list of those subscriptions that Mr. Mills had been in the habit of paying, and I believe I have conformed to that list.

39,442. You paid what Mr. Mills, and perhaps Mr. Seymour paid what Lord Gifford had been in the habit of paying?—Yes, very likely.

39,443. In 1865 you found there was to be a contest?—Yes.

39,444. Had you at any time seen Mr. Dent between the elections of 1863 and 1865?—Never spoke to him, never met him. I had heard from Mr. Dent's friends little stories of course.

39,445. Did you know that Mr. Dent was not going to stand again?—I always understood that Mr. Dent would not come to Totnes again.

39,446. Did you understand that the reason was that he had spent a great deal of money?—Yes.

39,447. Did you come to Totnes before Colonel Dawkins, or after him?—I think I must have come just about the same time.

39,448. Was it not after?—I am not quite sure. I do not remember.

39,449. Would not this circumstance bring it to your recollection. Were not Mr. Chaster and Mr. Holman both strongly of opinion that you came later than you ought to have come?—Yes.

39,450. Was not that in consequence of Colonel Dawkins being in the field before you?—I think it is very likely.

39,451. When you came down in 1865, you thought, as you told us, that 2,000*l.* would be wanted?—Yes.

39,452. Had you made arrangements as to how that 2,000*l.* should be transmitted if it was wanted?—Yes. The thing was quite clear in my mind, and I came prepared, in the event of 2,000*l.* being required, with cheques in my pocket.

39,453. Did you pay into the National Provincial Bank on the 30th June 1,873*l.*?—No; I will explain that transaction, because there has been a great deal of mystery about it. As I mentioned to you, I had got cheques for 2,500*l.*

39,454. What do you mean by "cheques?"—In discounting certain commercial bills of Overend Gurney, I took part of the proceeds, and there was a cheque upon Barclay's. I took a sum of 2,500*l.* in five cheques, and when I came down here, I placed 500*l.* in the Devon and Cornwall Bank.

39,455. You did not do that till the 4th July?—That is quite possible. I did not mention the date. I placed 500*l.* of that 2,500*l.* in the Devon and Cornwall Bank, and the other 2,000*l.* I had in my possession. During the time that I was here, I received, amongst my private letters, a dividend warrant for 1,800*l.* odd. Instead of sending that dividend warrant as I would have done under ordinary circumstances if I had been in the country anywhere else, I paid that into the National Provincial Bank, they having a branch in Manchester, and also a headquarters in London, so that I might receive the money at any time that I wanted it, and save the risk of transmitting it through the post, and so enable the money to be earlier collected. That money lay there, and never was touched until after the election, when it was drawn out by my order for Manchester, and absorbed in the general business of "John Pender "and Co."

39,456. Were you in the habit of receiving dividend warrants from the Atlantic Telegraph yourself?—It was not the Atlantic Telegraph; it was the Telegraph Construction Company.

39,457. Were you in the habit of receiving money yourself, or was it sent to your business?—My firm in Manchester is John Pender and Co. My name as a shareholder in banks and companies is "John Pender," so that all letters with dividends are addressed to John Pender; and that no doubt went on to Manchester first, and being a private letter, was sent on to Totnes. They did not know what its contents were, and it was sent amongst my private letters. I found it to be a dividend warrant, and paid it to the National Provincial Bank.

39,458. (Mr. Coleridge.) You made no arrangement before to have it sent here?—No. And I think Mr. Heald, who is now my secretary, will be prepared to state to you that it is a common thing at the end of the half-year, wherever I am, they are to send to me, because I do not allow my office in Manchester to open my private letters.

39,459. (Mr. Longe.) No one is authorized to open the letters of "John Pender?"—No. But "Pender and Co." are all opened.

39,460. (Mr. Bere.) Would that be a warrant payable to order?—It was a sort of cheque.

39,461. That crossed would have been quite sufficient to have sent by post?—I do not know whether it was crossed.

39,462. You could have crossed it?—I might have done so.

39,463. Was it not really for the purpose of giving the National Provincial Bank, the manager of which was a good supporter of yours in Totnes, a little profit on the money?—It is quite possible.

39,464. Had not it been suggested to you by Mr. Chaster, that you might open an account at the National Provincial and the Devon and Cornwall Bank?—I think Mr. Chaster was present when I opened the letter, and I rather think I said, "I may as well collect that at once," and I think he suggested it might be sent through the National Provincial, knowing that the National Provincial had a place in Manchester and also in London. I thought it the perfectly right thing to do.

39,465. (Mr. Coleridge.) As your son mentioned it, just explain something. There were a large quantity of telegrams which we got. I asked your son what the telegraphs of Pender to Pender could be, and he said at the time that Mrs. Pender was not in Manchester, and it must have been to your house. They were not Pender to Pender and Company?—In telegraphing, you reduce it as much as possible.

39,466. They were not telegraphs to your family?—No, I think not.

39,467. Your son said that your family was not in Manchester at the time?—I think they would have been to the house. I do not remember whether Mrs. Pender was in Manchester or in Wales.

39,468. I think your son said she was in Wales?—I do not know.

39,469. Telegrams of Pender to Pender would be opened?—Yes. They open all telegrams, but the telegrams would speak for themselves.

39,470. (Mr. Bere.) Are you director of any telegraph companies?—Yes.

39,471. What of?—The British Magnetic, and a director of the Atlantic Telegraph Company.

39,472. Has the British Magnetic an office here?—I think not. I think it is the Electric and the United.

39,473. Is the practice in your own telegraph offices that telegrams are destroyed or kept?—I could not answer the question. I rather think they are kept. But as a director, I never looked upon a telegram that passed through the office.

39,474. I am not asking you for that purpose. I am asking you because we have been told by the two companies which have their stations in this town, that the practice is to destroy telegrams to a certain period, and I wanted to know whether the practice of the telegraph offices with which you are concerned is the same?—I cannot answer the question. I can get it answered at once by telegraphing, if necessary. But looking to it as a matter of business, when an accumulation occurs after a certain length of time, I should say it is likely they would be destroyed.

39,475. You sent up somewhere about the 4th or 5th of July, when you found you wanted money?—Yes.

39,476. Did Mr. Brooking Cuming or Mr. Windeatt tell you that the money was wanted?—In 1865 Mr. Brooking Cuming and I were not friendly.

39,477. Mr. Windeatt?—Mr. Chaster.

39,478. He had learnt it from Mr. Windeatt?—Yes.

38,479. How did you understand the money was to come to Totnes?—I gave cheques to Mr. Chaster in an envelope, and Mr. Chaster told me that he might have a difficulty in cashing them at Totnes.

39,480. Had not Mr. Chaster objected to have anything to do with the money?—Mr. Chaster was always unwilling about that, and I told him "I have "faith that you will not unnecessarily expend "money," and I pressed upon him to take it, and I did it from a belief that he would be more careful about it.

32,481. And he said he would have a difficulty in cashing the cheques in Totnes?—Yes.

39,482. Do you know how the cheques were drawn?—They were Overend Gurney upon Barclay and crossed.

39,483. To order?—I think they must have been to order.

39,484. Then you must have signed them?—No.

39,485. Were they payable to you?—No. It was an open cheque.

39,486. To order?—No. I may mention now, that I never looked at the cheques. I just received them from Overend Gurney, and kept them; and there is no doubt that one of the cheques will be now with the bank in Totnes here. That is one of them, and the other four of them are the same as that.

39,487. Mr. Chaster told you that there would be a difficulty in cashing the cheques?—Yes.

39,488. What directions did you give him?—I told him he had better send up to Mr. Salmon.

39,489. Was Mr. Salmon your secretary then?—He was my clerk in London. I may mention that my offices in London are mere offices of call. All my business is done in Manchester, and Mr. Salmon was a mere clerk for keeping the office open.

39,490. A person to give information and answer questions?—Yes.

39,491. Did you direct Mr. Chaster to write him to come?—I did not direct him. I said, "You had better send to Mr. Salmon, but he must write."

39,492. Did he enclose them?—Yes.

39,493. That letter you have seen?—Yes; but I did not know anything about that letter.

39,494. Did he suggest an arrangement that Salmon should be met at Exeter?—No.

39,495. Did you intend Mr. Salmon to come here with the money?—No; I gave it to Mr. Chaster, and left him to make the arrangements to bring the money as he best could.

39,496. Did he tell you that he had made arrangements with Mr. Salmon to meet him at Exeter?—I do not think he did.

39,497. Are you quite sure?—I would not be positive.

39,498. Did not you say to Mr. Chaster, "When you meet Mr. Salmon at Exeter, tell him not to come here, but that he may take a holiday?—No.

39,499. Did you say nothing to Mr. Chaster?—I am not aware of saying anything to Mr. Chaster about Mr. Salmon at all.

39,500. Mr. Chaster told us most distinctly that you intimated to him that Mr. Salmon's presence was not required at Totnes, and that he had better go and take a holiday; that he communicated to Salmon that wish of yours, on which Mr. Salmon said he would go to Bath?—I do not remember the conversation. I knew afterwards that Mr. Salmon brought down the money.

39,501. This is Mr. Chaster's answer: "Mr. "Pender's desire was that he should not come." He said, "When you see Mr. Salmon, tell him he may "take a day's run." I said that to him, and he said, "I will go to Bath." Does not that refresh your memory, and make you believe that you did give such instructions to Mr. Chaster?—I do not remember it.

39,502. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was Mr. Salmon in the position to open an account of 2,000*l.* with the Consolidated Bank?—I may mention to you that I never knew Mr. Salmon paid that money into the Consolidated Bank until it came out in evidence before the House of Commons. The moment I knew it I went to the Consolidated Bank, and I then learnt for the first time that Mr. Salmon had a private account, and I then saw clearly that Mr. Salmon must have gone to the Consolidated Bank, he having an account there, and the cheques being crossed, he could only pay those cheques at a bank,-and therefore he paid them into the Consolidated Bank to his own account, drew out the money in notes, as I know in the evidence, and brought those notes here.

39,503. Had you not known that Mr. Salmon had an account at the Consolidated Bank?—No.

39,504. Did not you introduce him yourself?—No.

39,505. Or allow him to use your name?—He may have done so, but not with my authority. It is possible he may have asked me to introduce him to the Consolidated Bank, and I would have done so, because he must bank somewhere, but I was not aware of it.

39,506. Then the money came down, and we have heard how it was distributed. When had you first formed the acquaintance of Mr. and Mrs. Lorimer?—I formed that acquaintance during my first visit. In canvassing I canvassed Mr. Cuming. When we went to Mr. Lorimer's house, Mr. Cuming evidently was not very welcome. I knew at once when Mrs. Lorimer spoke that she was a Scotchwoman; I then claimed nationality. I said to her, "You are a "Scotchwoman, I am also a Scotchman, and I think

"I can calculate at once on your support?" Then it led to some conversation. I asked how her husband was, and how he was employed; and the result was that I got Lorimer's support.

39,507. That was in 1862?—Yes.

39,508. (Mr. Coleridge.) He had always had the luck to have a Scotchman one way or the other, and he voted for the nationality?—Yes. But a man in canvassing I think has a right to claim that.

39,509. Yes; but he told us that there were Mr. Mackenzie, Mr. Dunn, and he always voted for the Scotchmen?—Yes.

39,510. (Mr. Bere.) You knew that after 1862 he received certain moneys to distribute among the electors, and a portion of that money was beneficial to himself?—I read that in the papers, but it was perfectly new to me.

39,511. In the election of 1865 he also distributed money, and kept back a portion?—I have seen that in the papers, but know nothing about it.

39,512. Have you ever had an application from a person named Hill, for the payment of any money since you have been a Member for Totnes?—I think in 1863 I had a letter from Mr. Hill asking me for a loan of money.

39,513. The amount?—I think about 200*l.* I referred him to Mr. Cuming as my agent, because I did not entertain any proposition for any loan except through my agent. I heard nothing more about it until I came down here to canvass in 1865, when I went to his house with Mr. Windeatt. We went up a sort of loft, and I made a remark to Mr. Windeatt, "This is a sorry place to canvass an elector in." We got to the door. Hill himself opened the door, and it was one of the most wretched sights I think I ever saw. He opened it at once very violently against the party, and he pointed to his wife, and he said, "There "is my wife lying there on the eve of her confine- "ment; she has not a bed under her; she has not a "blanket to cover her, and scarcely a loaf of bread in "the house to keep her from starvation." It struck me as a very melancholy sight altogether; I, having been pretty well abused by Mr. Hill, left the house, and I said, "This is one of the most painful scenes "that I ever passed through." I said, "I wish I could "assist that poor woman in some way or other, because "of the state she is in; she ought not to be allowed "to remain." I went in shortly afterwards to Mrs. Lorimer, and I said, "Do you know Mrs. Hill?" She said, "Yes." I said, "Are you aware of the destitute state she is in?" and she said, "I am;" and she said, "If you were to give her a little money it would be very well bestowed." I said, "It is a very "painful thing altogether for a woman (as her husband "has told me) about to be confined. I wish you "would get some blankets and a bed for her to lie "upon, and food to keep her from starvation; and if "you will do that I will see that you are paid for it."

39,514. (Mr. Bere.) And you did give her 10*l.*?—Not at the moment. I went away. A few days afterwards I called again and ascertained what had been done. She then told me that she found that she had some articles in pawn, such things as she required. She had been some years in a better condition, and she had expended altogether 10*l.* in giving her clothes for herself and what was coming into the world, and sufficient to take her through her trial. I went to the house and I gave her 10*l.* I said, "Now, Mrs. Lorimer, this is not to be looked upon in any other light than charity; it is between you and myself."

39,515. Besides that, did you not receive before the election of 1865 a letter from one of the Hills, complaining of a breach of promise on Mr. Seymour's part, and asking you to make up for that broken promise?—I do not think I received any.

39,516. Are you quite sure?—Not to my knowledge. I received such a number of letters every day that I cannot recollect.

39,517. Did you receive a letter from Lorimer, stating that Hill had come to him, and intimating that a promise had been broken which you ought to make up?—No.

39,518. Do you remember at any time receiving a letter from Lorimer?—I do not remember receiving any one but that which I have before referred to.

39,519. What was that letter?—A letter in which he asked me about the loan of 200*l.*

39,520. Did you see a good deal of Lorimer during the election of 1865?—I may have been there three, four, or five times.

39,521. Did you see him at other places besides his own house?—I do not remember having any conversation with him directly. I have seen him at the "Seymour," I think.

39,522. Do you remember his talking to you about some of the voters?—I do not remember his talking to me about anyone.

39,523. At any time?—No.

39,524. Or in any place?—No. I think in one of the conversations with me he mentioned he had influence over certain persons.

39,525. Did he mention Reeve?—He told me that Reeve was going to vote.

39,526. Did you tell Lorimer to go to him?—No.

39,527. Did you intimate that there was some place to which he might go in order that Reeve might have some money?—No, I did not.

39,528. Nothing to that effect?—I would not have listened to any conversation about it.

39,529. Did he know from you that there was money in Totnes?—No, certainly not.

39,530. (Mr. Coleridge.) This was the question put to Lorimer: "Who told you to go to Mr. Holman? "—Mr. Pender intimated to me that Mr. Holman "was doing the business?"—I am speaking on my oath, and I had no idea of Mr. Holman dispensing any money until I read Mr. Holman's evidence.

39,531. Is it true that you intimated that Holman was doing the business?—Certainly not.

39,532. "He intimated to me that if I wanted in- "structions I was to go to Mr. Holman." Do you recollect sending Lorimer for instructions to Mr. Holman as to Reeve?—Certainly not.

39,533. "Where did this happen?—It must have "been in my own house. Will you repeat as well "as you can the exact words which Mr. Pender "used?—I think Mr. Pender said that Mr. Holman "and Mr. Windeatt were doing the business." Do you recollect anything like that taking place?—No.

39,534. Do you recollect saying to him that these were the persons to be referred to?—No, I never referred him to those parties or to any other persons about money.

39,535. Then Lorimer goes on to say: "He inti- "mated that he believed some money would be "wanted, because the other side were spending "money, and he said that to prevent the money "being taken away he would give a present, or some- "thing like that?"—I do not remember saying anything like that.

39,536. In your conversations with Lorimer have you any recollection of directing him to go to Mr. Holman as a likely person, and that he told Mr. Holman he came from you?—From what I observe in the cross-examination of Lorimer it is quite possible, as he seemed in great doubt about it, that they were more or less words that were put into his mouth and he assented to.

39,537. The only doubt in his mind was coupling the two conversations together. He did not require any cross-examination to make him say he had been sent to Mr. Holman by you?—It is very likely that Lorimer, who was in the habit of going about the "Seymour," might have learnt, if money was going about, where it was to be found, but he certainly never learnt it from me.

39,538. Lorimer says he was sent by you, and Holman says so too?—I most distinctly deny it. I never sent him to any person whom I had any idea was dispensing money.

39,539. You cautiously abstained from doing so?—Yes, I did.

39,540. This was the second election, and you had learnt something?—Yes.

39,541. "He said that he must not know anything "about money matters himself." Did you have any such conversation with Lorimer as that?—I do not remember having any such conversation with Lorimer.

39,542. Did you have any conversation with Lorimer that could have led to that?—It is quite possible that if Mr. Lorimer had opened any conversation about money, or that other people were doing such things, it is perfectly likely that I would have said to him, "I know nothing at all about money matters."

39,543. You may very possibly have said that?—I may have said that.

39,544. You certainly did not say the other part of it, as to your sending him to Holman?—I am convinced I did not. I had no idea that Mr. Holman was dispensing money.

39,545. Then he says, "We talked over things in a "general way, and Mr. Pender when he came in "informed me that he had shut the door to election "matters." Have you any recollection of saying anything like that to him?—No, I have not. I remember one thing when I was up there, that I said, "I am rather sick of election matters; let us talk "about something else." Wherever I went it was the same story.

39,546. "Had you mentioned Reeve's name to him "and said that you should want money for him?—I "suppose he knew that." Did you know that?—I did not know it.

30,547. (Mr. Bere.) You heard Reeve's name mentioned, and was told he was "all right." Did not that lead you to imagine that he either wanted money and had had it or would have it?—No. I was under the impression that Mr. Lorimer's friends were as honest and true as himself. I believe he was a thoroughly honest person, and that he so voted.

30,548. Did you canvass Reeve yourself?—I left a card there.

39,549. Did you see him?—I do not remember.

39,550. Did you hear anything about the chance of his voting when he was in reality at Dartmouth?—I knew nothing about that. All that I understood was that Reeve was going to vote.

39,551. Did you not hear whether he would require any money to come up?—No, I never made any inquiry into those things. I was kept very much in the dark about money matters. I did not even speak to my own committee about money matters. I never had any conversation with him.

39,552. (Mr. Coleridge.) Lorimer in his evidence says this: "Had you told him you knew a man who "would want money?—The only persons who I "knew were Reeve and the two Hills. I believe I "had told him about Reeve." Now had Lorimer told you about Reeve?—He told me that Reeve was going to vote.

39,553. What did he add to that?—Nothing.

39,554. "What did you tell him?—I told him that "he was going to vote for Pender and Seymour, and "that he expected a present?"—It is quite possible that he might have told Reeve that, but he certainly never told me.

39,555. Then he goes on to repeat what I have before alluded to as to Mr. Pender saying that he knew nothing about money matters?—That unfortunately is not quite correct. I contradict that portion of it entirely.

39,556. (Mr. Bere.) Did you know of any person during the election of 1865 who was to be influenced by money, or did you hear their names mentioned?—I do not remember anyone.

39,557. Are you quite certain about that?—I do not remember anyone.

39,558. (Mr. Long.) There is a passage in Mr. Holman's evidence which I must call your attention to: "Had you any conversation with Mr. Pender?—"Constantly. What was your conversation with him? "—On the same subject as for the last 20 years. "Mr. Pender knew what part you were taking?—"Yes." This was after Mr. Holman had given his evidence as to the part he really was taking. What have you to say to that?—Mr. Holman having acted in that way, may have thought that I knew something about it, but I knew nothing whatever of it.

39,559. (Mr. Bere.) Who did you suppose was going to distribute the 2,000*l.*?—I had no idea who was going to distribute it.

39,560. You knew that Mr. Holman had been a very active man on your side?—I knew that Mr. Holman was an active man, but I had no idea that he was going to distribute money.

39,561. To whom did you intend to apply for an account as to the way in which the money had been distributed?—I should have asked Mr. Chaster to get an account from Mr. Windeatt; he would have furnished the account as a matter of course as the legal agent.

39,562. Did you not know that some agent must be employed for the purposes of distribution?—I knew nothing at all of the organization of it.

39,563. You did not suppose that this 2,000*l.* was going to be distributed through the legal agent?—I knew nothing at all as to how it was to be distributed.

39,564. You knew perfectly well that the 2,000*l.* was spent in bribery, and that it must have been spent in that way?—It was just my business not to know anything of it.

39,565. And you took good care not to know anything about it?—I took good care not to know anything of it.

39,566. Have you ever asked how it was disposed of?—I have.

39,567. Have you had such an account rendered to you?—I have.

39,568. Of whom have you asked this account?—I asked Mr. Chaster to have the account adjusted so that I might know what amount Mr. Seymour was indebted to me.

39,569. Have you heard what amount was spent in bribery out of this 2,000*l.*?—I was told that Mr. Chaster said the other day he had about 300*l.* left out of the 2,000*l.*

39,570. On the morning of the election do you remember Mr. and Mrs. James coming to you?—Yes, perfectly.

39,571. Will you tell us what passed between you and Mr. and Mrs. James?—I may mention that until I read Mr. James's evidence I was under the impression that they had come to me after eight o'clock. I see Mr. James says it was before eight. My impression was that he came to me after he had polled; he states differently. It is more likely that is correct, because he was more deeply interested in the question that was before us at that moment. He came to me and told me that pressure had been put on him.

39,572. Did he show you Mr. Edmonds' letter?—I think he did.

39,573. Did you read it?—I have been taxing my memory a little whether I am right or not; I merely took for granted what he told me; the substance of it was this, that in the morning there was a good deal of excitement about, and I was anxious to get away. I took pretty much for granted what he said the letter contained. I understood that the letter was an intimation of a strong desire that he should vote for Col. Dawkins and Capt. Pim. Mr. James was in a great state of excitement; he said he looked upon it as an intimation that if he did not do this he would be required to pay the money. He said, I have not the money to pay, and nothing on earth would induce me to sacrifice my conscience. I asked him the nature of the transaction with Mr. Edmonds, and I then said Mr. Edmonds will not call up the money, but if he does call up the money on the same security, if I can do it with propriety on the same security you have given to Mr. Edmonds, I will see that the money is advanced to you.

39,574. Did he tell you what security that was?—Yes, shares in the London Joint Stock Discount Company. At that time it was a comparatively thriving company. I held shares in it myself, and unfortunately hold them now. He went away no doubt under the impression that in case of pressure I would find the money as a loan on the same security.

39,575. Did you express any indignation at Mr. Edmonds' letter?—Yes, I think I did; I think that business and politics must not be mixed up together, and I looked on the loan of Mr. Edmonds' as a matter of business.

39,576. Had you read the letter?—I knew the substance of it.

39,577. Did you see the smallest sign of any intimidation in the letter?—I should say that letter was a request from a man of business to another man who had been under certain obligations to the man of business—that it was a broad intimation to him. It depends entirely on the view which a man takes of that letter. I read the letter in the newspaper, and I hold the opinion that that is a letter which ought not to have been written on the morning of the election.

39,578. Mr. James believed that you would lend him a certain sum?—Mr. James left with the belief that I would find him the money on the same security. I then consulted Mr. Windeatt, and Mr. Windeatt thought there would be no harm in lending money on the same security. I also named the matter to my secretary, Mr. Heald, who is well up in the law, and he suggested, I can give you a cheque on the Manchester and Salford Bank. I said it would be better to do that than draw a cheque on either of the banks here, as it might draw special attention to the circumstance, and then he gave me a cheque on his bank, which is done frequently in the country, in consequence of my having resources which enable me to adjust those accounts when they return to Manchester. In that form I have taken cheques from him on his own bank frequently. I then went to Mr. Bowden and said, I have come to you to ask you to give me money for this cheque, for two reasons. I do not want to draw a cheque on the other banks just now, and I wish you to be aware of the transaction this money is for. I then explained the whole transaction to him, and Mr. Bowden took the cheque and sent for the money to the bank. This occurred some time about 11 or 12 o'clock. The money was brought back in a roll and he gave it to me. I took it up and gave it to Mrs. James, and I said, now the understanding is that if Mr. Edmonds does not call up his money, that this money is to be returned to me. If the money is called up you will put the securities which you have received from Mr. Edmonds in an envelope, and address the parcel to me, and you will hold them on my account until I give you instructions how to dispose of them. Shortly afterwards I got a letter from Mr. James to the effect that Mr. Edmonds had called up the money.

39,579. Are you quite certain that when Mr. Bowden advanced the money you gave him Mr. Heald's cheque?—I am quite certain.

39,580. Mr. Bowden's account is that you asked him to advance the money; that he drew a cheque on his own bankers, got it cashed, and brought the proceeds to you, and that you then gave him a cheque?—That is so.

39,581. That is not the same transaction?—It is.

39,582. You say you took Mr. Heald's cheque to Mr. Bowden and asked him to cash the cheque?—It amounts to the same thing; he took that cheque and gave a cheque on his own bankers.

39,583. No doubt you will find Mr. Bowden paid this cheque into his bankers on the same day?—It might be so.

39,584. The difference is that Mr. Bowden says you came to him and asked him to advance the money on his own account, and that you afterwards gave him a cheque of Mr. Heald's. Your account is that you gave him Mr. Heald's cheque and asked him to cash it?—It is quite possible Mr. Bowden may be under that impression, but it amounts to the same thing.

39,585. (Mr. Coleridge.) Mr. Bowden thought it less suspicious for him to draw a cheque?—It would be a very irregular thing for Mr. Bowden to present a cheque of another man at his own bank. The regular mode is that Mr. Bowden puts the cheque into his cash-box, and in the evening sends it with other monies to the bank, and that is the regular course of business.

39,586. The bankers would charge him for cashing a foreign cheque?—I treated the thing as a matter of business.

39,587. Are you quite sure that it was Mr. Heald's cheque?—Yes, he is here. It was a matter of convenience to me; I did it for this reason, that a very great deal of my time was then occupied, and if I took any cheques from him in that way, upon his return to Manchester he would have that repaid to him.

39,588. (Mr. Bere.) In what position was he?—He was my secretary.

39,589. Was he down with you in 1865?—Yes, he was not then my secretary.

39,590. Did he wear a white hat with a black band?—The same.

39,591. Was he active in canvassing?—He must speak for himself.

39,592. Should you say so?—I should say he never entered the door of anyone; he knew nothing whatever about it.

39,593. You had a letter from Mr. James, of the 24th of July?—I had a letter from him, stating that Mr. Edmonds had called in the money, and he enclosed a note to the effect that he held those shares on my account.

39,594. Did you write a letter allowing him to keep those shares as a security?—Yes.

39,595. Is that a business transaction?—It is very often done. I have done so.

39,596. Do you call that a business transaction, advancing 235*l.*, and allowing the person to whom you have advanced the money to hold the security which he gives you in his own hands?—A legal gentleman would say it was not a business transaction; in my business it is done very frequently to the extent of many thousands of pounds.

39,597. That may be where you have mutual credit, but not where for the first time in your life you see a man?—I generally measure a man, whether he is an honourable man. I had perfect faith in Mr. James as an honourable man.

39,598. Are you such a physiognomist as to be able to tell that?—I am not very often mistaken.

39,599. Was not a good deal of the negotiation conducted by Mrs. James?—No. Mrs. James struck me as a clever woman; she came down with him, and the reason that I gave her the money was this, that I was told Mr. James was suffering from a heart complaint, that he was a very excitable man, and any further excitement might lead to something very serious.

39,600. Those shares were never transferred to your name?—No.

39,601. (Mr. Coleridge.) At the time that those shares were supposed to be your security for this money were they of the same value as when Mr. Edmonds took them for a security, or how much had they gone down in six months?—I do not think they had gone down much. I think those shares, about that time, were rather valuable than otherwise.

39,602. There was no difference in the security given to Mr. Edmonds and to you?—I think not.

39,603. You took no note of hand as well as the shares?—No; and the reason I did not order the shares to be sent to me was because I looked upon it more or less as a temporary loan; it would be only the trouble of sending them backwards and forwards.

39,604. That debt has not been repaid?—No.

39,605. Has the interest been paid?—Yes, regularly, without my solicitation. He wrote me, asking permission to sell the shares, and I wrote him, giving him permission to sell if he thought it desirable. I held my own shares at hat time and did not sell them.

39,606. (Mr. Bere.) In your letter you say, "Do "not let the loan that I have made to you on the "security of the shares influence you in any way?" —Yes. I felt that he was a clergyman, a man in bad health, and that this was a crushing thing to a man with a limited income. I did not wish to make it appear that in any way I had treated him harshly; I wished to make the blow fall rather lightly than otherwise.

39,607. Have you the smallest intention of ever asking Mr. James for that money?—Most certainly I have.

39,608. Do you believe, if you had not promised him the money, that Mr. James would have voted for you?—I believe that Mr. James would have voted for me without reference to any such thing.

39,609. (Mr. Longe.) Neither Mr. nor Mrs. James said one word about the return of the money if Mr. Edmonds did not call it in?—I have read their evidence, and I think they say they would have paid the money; I suppose they felt very indignant with Mr. Edmonds; at the same time my system is to keep business and politics apart.

39,610. You told them that if Mr. Edmonds did not call for the money that the money was to be returned to you?—Certainly, if they did not use it.

39,611. If Mr. Edmonds did not call for the money the money was to be returned to you?—That is my impression, because I knew that they would not keep the money unless it was made use of. The nature of the transaction was this, that they could not retain the money unless they held for me the security which Mr. Edmonds had held. If that was given up by Mr. Edmonds, and he got his money, the security became mine, in lieu of the money which I had lent.

39,612. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was it a security you would have advanced money upon, other than as a matter of personal favour?—Certainly, I have done it scores of times.

39,613. You took no note of hand, all your security was these shares; was it such an one as to an indifferent person you would have advanced money upon?—From having met Mr. James here frequently I looked upon him more or less as a friend.

39,614. Were the shares of this discount company, at that time, such a security as you would have advanced money upon to any indifferent person?—That is not strictly my business.

39,615. Would any bill discounter have done it?—I believe there was a transaction connected with the London Joint Stock Discount Company, where a very rich man in London, not a very long time before the stoppage of the bank, took as a security 2,000 of their shares and advanced money on them.

39,616. What was the sum?—It was a very large sum. I cannot give you the amount, but it was the talk of the city.

39,617. You couple with the security the character of Mr. James, and take his personal security. Was that a security on which you would have advanced money, when these shares were such as they were?—If you put the question in that way, I must say that at the time these securities were looked upon in a different light to what they have been since.

39,618. Supposing that it had been the most flourishing concern in the world, would it have been a security on which you would have advanced money to that amount, whether any large calls had to be made or not?—As a matter of general business it is not the class of business that I would do.

39,619. A stock broker would not have advanced money upon them?—Yes, he would.

39,620. (Mr. Bere.) If Mr. James had not been a voter would you have lent him the money?—If Mr. James had come to me the previous year, when he was not a voter, I think I should have lent him the money. I have done it in similar cases.

39,621. On a similar security?—Yes.

39,622. Was the rate of interest fixed between you and Mr. James?—Yes, five per cent.

39,623. What was the bank rate of interest at that time?—Somewhere about five per cent.

39,624. Do you know a person named Fowle?—I saw him once or twice in London.

39,625. What did he come to you about?—About a vessel detained in some Spanish port.

39,626. What assistance did you give him?—No assistance beyond my advice. I told him he might refer to me as to his respectability.

39,627. Did you advance him any money?—No money whatever. He told me that his vessel had been detained, and from the explanation given to me it appeared that his agent or broker in Ireland was at fault. I think he told me that his difficulty was in getting the vessel to leave without the payment of certain monies. I think I told him, if he would get his broker to write to the Spanish government about the difficulty he was in, he might refer to me as to his character and respectability; he never asked me for money in any shape or way.

39,628. And you did not give him any?—I did not.

39,629. Had you seen him frequently while down here in 1865?—Yes.

39,630. Had you conversations with him about the election?—Yes.

39,631. Did you ask him which way his vote was to go?—I do not know that I asked him, because I knew he was a firm supporter.

39,632. Did you know Mr. Wright?—He told me he was his father-in-law, and asked me to call upon him.

39,633. Did he tell you he never voted without some inducement?—Never anything of the kind.

39,634. When did you see him?—I called on him once. I only saw him once at his own house.

39,635. Did you learn from Mr. Wright anything about his circumstances?—No, he spoke of always having voted for the Conservatives, and his son-in-law was very anxious that he should vote for me, as I had taken some interest in his son-in-law's affairs. He was a long time before he made up his mind, but he never spoke to me about money in any shape or way.

39,636. Did you see Mr. Fowle at all?—I remember walking one morning down, the first time I ever went down to the walk; I think Mr. Fowle was walking with him.

39,637. Did you ask him to use his influence with his father?—No, it was Mr. Wright. I do not remember seeing Mr. Fowle.

39,638. Did Mr. Fowle tell you anything about another person of the name of Drew?—No.

39,639. Are you quite certain about that; did he not tell you about a man called Drew, and did you not say to him, "You cannot do anything with Drew now, "if you should be in a mind, I will tell him about this, "I will take care you shall not suffer?"—I do not remember that, I saw him there, and there was something said about Wright.

39,640. Can you remember whether you had any conversation with Mr. Fowle at all about Drew's affairs?—I do not remember his naming him to me.

39,641. We had a story about your offering Mr. Harris a situation, we should like to hear your accoun of what passed.—I have read Mr. Harris's evidence before the Committee of the House of Commons, and also his evidence before you on this Commission, and I have no hesitation in stating that it is a complete romance from the beginning to the end. I never offered Mr. Harris a situation. He was not a man ever likely to be of any use to me in any way; I never talked to him more than 10 minutes at the particular time at which he states I saw him; and it amounted to this—I went to canvass a man of the name of Allery, somewhere on the Plains, and when I got to the Plains he was in the opening of a doorway to a large cider shed. Mr. Harris said, "I am "before you;" I said, "Mr. Harris, you very often cross

" my path, it is a great pity that a man of your ability " cannot find something better to do than what you " are doing ;" he said, " I wish you would find me " something better to do," I said, " It is impossible " that I can do that." That is the only conversation I had with Mr. Harris.

39,642. So far as this, that you met Mr. Harris on the Plains, and that a conversation took place between you and him, and that the obtaining a situation was mentioned during that conversation, the account tallies ?—Yes, with him.

39,643. But the account differs in this, that you did not promise him a situation; did he ask for it ?—He asked for it.

39,644. Before you met Mr. Harris on the Plains had Mr. Lorimer spoken to you about a situation ?—Mrs. Lorimer mentioned that Mrs. Harris had come to her several times to ask her to speak to me about a situation for her husband, to get him away from Totnes ; that she was thoroughly sick of the work he was engaged upon, and that she was very anxious to get him away from the town. I told Mrs. Lorimer it was impossible to do anything for Mr. Harris.

39,645. Are you quite sure that she said that, because her account is that you said, " The time " would come when you could do so ? "—I did not hold out any hope whatever.

39,646. You undertake to say that ?—I do, that I did not say the time would come.

39,647. Or words to that effect ?—No.

39,648. Or lead her to suppose you might at some future time, though you could not at an election time ?—I do not know what effect she would put on what I said; I stated I could do nothing for Mr. Harris.

39,649. Did you not express yourself in such a way as to lead her to believe that the impossibility of doing anything for him was confined to the time of the election, and not to other times ?—I could not do that. I had formed such an opinion of Mr. Harris that I could not have recommended him to any person.

39,650. Was that subsequent to this conversation with you ?—From a very early period.

39,651. Had you known anything of him in the 1862 election ?—He was one of the men who put questions to me in the Guildhall; but I saw that the position he occupied with his party was such that they did not even bring him on the platform with them, but kept him down in the crowd ; he always appeared to be in a position that was not the position of a man holding any respectable position in the party. I may mention a circumstance connected with the matter. I believe Mr. Seymour was present at the time Mr. Harris wrote the letter to me which you have had before you.

39,652. Before you go to those letters, where had you come from when you happened to meet Mr. Harris on the Plains, had you come from the Fore Street or over the bridge ?—I think over the bridge.

39,653. Were you going to canvass voters on the Plains ?—Yes.

39,654. Did you not yourself call Mr. Harris aside and speak to him ?—No, certainly not.

39,655. Who was with you ?—When I left the hotel I think young Mr. Windeatt was with me.

39,656. And who else ?—We went on to the Plains and I went on to Allery, and Mr. Chaster and Mr. Michelmore came up at the time. Young Mr. Windeatt went to speak to Mr. Chaster and Mr. Michelmore when I went to Mr. Allery.

39,657. When you were speaking to Mr. Harris was Mr. Charles Michelmore in hearing ?—I should think not.

39,658. Can you account for the entry in Mr. C. Michelmore's poll-book, " Harris to be had for a situation," do you recollect hearing that conversation ?—I think it is quite possible, but that might be accounted for in this way, that as Mrs. Lorimer had mentioned on one or two occasions how desirous Mrs. Harris was to get her husband a situation, it is quite possible I may have mentioned that to her, and Mr. Charles Michelmore may have assumed it.

39,659. When Mrs. Lorimer spoke to you about Mrs. Harris wishing for a situation for her husband, did she promise to you that Mr. Harris would vote for you if he got a situation ?—Oh no.

39,660. (Mr. Longe.) In canvassing did you call on Mr. Harris at his house ?—I left a canvassing card, as I made it a rule at every house I passed to leave a card. I did not go into the house.

39,661. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you call at every door, whether of a voter or not a voter ?—Every door that I passed. There may have been some country voters that I thought it unnecessary to drive to. I believe that every door I passed I called. But the circumstance I wish to mention and to draw the Commissioners' attention more particularly to is this ; it was Mr. Harris's evidence that unseated me in the House of Commons, and I want to state very distinctly that it was entirely a fabrication and a falsehood on his part, and I am now so far confirmed that at the time Mr. Harris wrote me that letter my first impression was not to take any notice of it. I looked on the thing as not worthy of a thought. The late mayor, Mr. Phillips, and Mrs. Phillips were going to Buxton. I had been before that written to to take part in laying the foundation stone of the British Schools. Mrs. Pender was with me, and she asked Mrs. Phillips if ever she was passing northwards to visit us. Mrs. Phillips wrote to tell her she was going to Buxton, and Mr. Phillips came down, and he then told me of the report in Totnes that I had offered Mr. Harris a situation ; he said Mr. Harris has told me something of the story about some conversation, and he told Mr. Harris it was a thing he ought not to repeat as it was not a thing very likely for me to have done. I told him I had received a letter from Mr. Harris accepting the situation that he said I had offered him. He read the letter, and he said, " This is a plant upon you, Mr. " Pender. You must answer this letter at once ;" and he then stated to me, as I have stated before, how unfounded Mr. Harris's statement was, and he said, You must answer this letter at once, because this may be used against you when the petition is presented to the House of Commons because there is a determination of some parties to petition. I wrote the letter which you have seen. Mr. Seymour was present at the conversation I had with Mr. Phillips, and he read the letter I wrote to Mr. Harris.

39,662. He was staying with you at the time ?—There was an archery party. I had several friends, and amongst the rest Mr. Seymour was staying with me at the time. I sent the letter to Totnes. Now what I wish to draw the attention of the Commissioners to is this, because this is a very important question, and such a statement and falsehood has been of very serious importance to me. I wish to ask the Commissioners to inquire whether that letter was not written at the instigation of other men in the borough.

39,663. (Mr. Bere.) Have you heard that the only person who suggested his having written that letter says Mr. Harris wrote the letter with his own hand, and that he had a conversation with a gentleman whose name is suggested, and in the course of that conversation it was suggested by that person ?—That is the letter that unseated me.

39,664. The letter in answer to your letter ?—The letter I wish to have inquired into is the letter he addressed to me in which he stated he was prepared to accept the situation I had offered him in Totnes. My own impression, and I believe it was the impression of Mr. Phillips, is that that letter was suggested by parties who took an active part in getting up the petition against me.

39,665. If you can suggest who they were we can examine them and see whether there is anything in it. —In regard to the other statements made by Mr. Harris against myself, I suppose you are pretty well satisfied that they are wrong.

39,666. The only other statement against you is that when you were at the poll, after the Matchams had polled, he said he could not imagine anything worse than that, to win the election in that way.—

He did say so; he said, when the Matchams polled, "they ought to have polled for us," and he said, "You "cannot expect to win (or something of that kind) "with such votes as those;" there was some such remark as that that he made.

39,667. (Mr. Longe.) Were you ever in Mr. Harris's house?—No, never. I was merely at the door.

39,668. Who did you see?—I merely left a card. I did not see anyone.

39,669. Who was with you?—Old Mr. Windeatt.

39,670. On a canvassing tour?—Yes; I remember his making the remark, "it is of no use leaving a card there."

39,671. That was after you had had the application through Mrs. Lorimer from Mrs. Harris?—No, it was early in the canvass, I may have called the very first day or two of the canvass.

39,672. Do you know when it was you had the application from Mrs. Lorimer?—No, but in the course of the canvass, it was not in the early part.

39,673. Are you quite sure you called before that information?—If you wish to ask me did I call with any intention of securing his vote, or anything of that kind, I should say nothing of the kind whatever. I was merely doing to him as I did to others.

39,674. Did you call at the "Stars?"—I believe I did the first time I canvassed; that was in 1862. I called on Mr. Bentall.

39,675. (Mr. Bere.) I will read from the short-hand writer's note what Mr. Harris's evidence has been, and I will ask you whether it is true or false. "You have "already given an account of it in the House of Com- "mons, but we must have it on the notes. Will you "tell us what passed between you and Mr. Pender "about the offer of an appointment." You previously said, "The only time I ever spoke to him to my "remembrance was the time that he offered me the "situation on the Plains;" then you go on to say, "I "was on the Plains just by the Wesleyan chapel, and "I had been there to canvass a man called Allery. "I said Pitts before, they were both men in the same "employment. Allery tells me it was him; they were "both there, and I was talking especially to Allery "at the time when Mr. Pender came up to me; there "were several near at hand when Mr. Pender came "over, there was young Mr. Windeatt and several of "his friends beyond the chains that were near at "hand. Mr. Pender came over and shook hands with "me." Did you shake hands with him?—Certainly not.

39,676. Did you tell him you left your card at his house?—No.

39,677. Had you come to solicit his vote?—No.

39,678. I said, I cannot give it, it is quite impossible for me to give you my vote. He said, "A man of your "ability ought not to be here at Totnes, but doing "something better than getting the small stipend you "do. I will give you, or get you, I do not know which, "a situation of 300*l.* a year." Did you say that?—No, that is as false as false can be.

39,679. I said, "Mr. Pender, no situation offered by "you will induce me to vote for you. I have been "employed by the Conservative party, they have always "behaved well to me, and I have no reason to leave "them, and therefore cannot accept it." Did he say that?—No.

39,680. "Allery will tell you he talked with me "about an hour?"—No.

39,681. How long was the conversation with Mr. Harris?—Perhaps six or seven minutes—ten minutes.

39,682. "All on the Plains?—Yes, all on the Plains. "He was conversing with me one whole hour as re- "garded the general corruption of the borough. I "expostulated with him as regards spending money. "I said it was unfair and demoralising to spend "money, and therefore the best way would be to effect "a compromise, and allow Col. Dawkins and himself "to be returned." Did he say anything of that kind?—No.

39,683. "He admitted that there was corruption "going on to a fearful extent, and when he came down "here he was bound to do as others did, using an "expression that when he came to the Jews he had "to do as the Jews did?"—Utterly and entirely false.

69,684. "Then I spoke to him about a man called "James Matcham. I was so much disgusted when "asked for the 200*l.* that I mentioned that circum- "stance to Mr. Pender. I said, 'Here are two men "' very likely going to vote for and pledge themselves "' for Colonel Dawkins, and yet they want 200*l.* to "' vote.' I said, 'Can you conceive anything worse "' than that?' He heard it out, and just shrugged "his shoulders, and said he must fight it through, or "something of that sort?"—All romance.

39,685. "Just as he was about to leave, he held out "his hand and said, 'Good-bye, Harris, I hope you "won't work against me, and I will give you a situa- "tion?'"—Entirely false.

39,686. Then the whole of that account from the beginning to the end, with the exception of meeting him on the Plains, when the situation was mentioned by him, is entirely false and untrue?—Yes, and I must mention that I regret I was not called before the committee of the House of Commons, but I was in the hands of my counsel.

39,687. (Mr. Coleridge.) This is what Allery said, "Do you remember seeing Mr. Pender and Mr. Harris "talking together?—Yes. Where was that, on the "Plains?—Yes. Did you hear what Mr. Pender said "to Mr. Harris?—No. Did you hear anything pass "about a situation?—No. No more than Mr. Harris "was talking with me, and Mr. Pender said speak a "good word for me, and he said to Mr. Harris I want "to speak to you." Were you ever talking to Mr. Harris in Allery's presence?—No; my impression is that Harris was talking to Allery, and I went to speak to Allery and we just passed.

39,688. Did you hear Allery say speak a good word for me?—No.

39,689. Did Allery say so to you?—No.

39,690. Had you any conversation with Allery?—Very little. He told me that he was voting on the other side.

39,691. "Mr. Harris was talking to you and Mr. "Pender called him away and said that to him." Did you say that to him, and did you call him away?—No.

39,692. The question is, Mr. Harris and Allery were talking, and you called him away and said that to him, and he says "Yes." Did you call him aside?—I think I went up and I waited a moment, and as he left Allery I said, "Mr. Harris, you are always crossing my path," and the conversation occurred at a little distance from Allery, and it is quite possible that Allery might have been within two or three yards.

39,693. Did you call Harris aside from Allery?—No.

39,694. Did Harris follow you away?—No, we stood in that position.

39,695. Must everything that took place have been heard by Allery?—It must depend on the distance. It was a short distance.

39,696. (Mr. Bere.) To finish up these two points about Mr. Lorimer, though you did not tell Mr. Lorimer that he was to go to Holman, might you not have told him he was to go to Mr. Chaster or Mr. Windeatt?—I do not think I could have told him anything of the kind. I never referred to any money matters in any conversation.

39,697. You might not have referred to money matters, but you knew that the money was in their hands, and might you not have told him to go to these persons who had the money?—I do not think I did.

39,698. Do you undertake to say you did not?—I think I would undertake to say I did not.

39,699. With regard to the cheque to Mr. James, had you ever with regard to a Totnes transaction made use of Mr. Heald's cheque before?—Never, at least not that I am aware of.

TWENTY-EIGHTH DAY.

J. Pender, Esq.

26 Sept. 1866.

39,700. Why did not you draw a cheque upon the Consolidated Bank, and not London or Manchester? —I think I stated to you the reason that I got this cheque. I wanted to make a third party conversant with the transaction, to make Mr. John Bowden conversant with it, that he might know the nature of the transaction.

39,701. Was it not that you wanted to keep a good many third persons from knowing anything about it? —No doubt that had something to do with it. It being the day of the election, the cashing of a cheque for 230*l.* might have caused a remark, and I did not wish to place Mr. James in an unpleasant position.

39,702. (Mr. Coleridge.) You told us you canvassed everybody indifferently. You went to every house except some country voters?—Yes.

39,703. I suppose you were informed of a requisition being sent to a Conservative candidate, and that a lot of men signed the requisition to Mr. Macleay?—I believe it is the practice in Totnes for the Conservatives always to get up a requisition.

39,704. Was there a requisition to you in the first instance?—A deputation, not a requisition.

39,705. Out of those 150 who signed the requisition to Col. Dawkins, 13 voted for you?—15.

39,706. Do you recollect canvassing John Diggins, of Bridgetown? He was a requisitionist, and voted for you?—The names I cannot say. Mr. Windeatt took me to the places.

39,707. I want to take you through the names. What occurred when you first got to understand they would vote for you?—I paid a great deal more attention to the poll-book in 1862 than in 1865.

39,708. I want to know about the requisitionists, if you can recollect anyone of them who was the subject of your canvass. Do you recollect John Diggins, of Bridgetown?—I cannot recollect.

39,709. Can you recollect a man named James Edmonds?—No.

39,710. William Farley, of Bridgetown?—He is the mayor?—Yes.

39,711. He was a requisitionist and voted for you? I suppose he is one of the oldest Liberals.

39,712. You know he signed the requisition?—I do not know.

39,713. You had not to make use of any special inducement?—No.

39,714. David Manning, of Fore Street. He had always had money formerly. He signed the requisition and voted for you. Do you recollect anything about him?—I do not know.

39,715. Thomas Matcham. Do you recollect canvassing him?—I called up the street, but I do not recollect.

39,716. John Parnell Searle, do you recollect him? —There was an old man.

39,717. He went by the name of "Slippery Jack" of Ugborough, and he is now retired to America?—I do not know about him.

39,718. All those people that you went to canvass, did they tell you that they had signed a requisition on the other side?—No; and I did not know of the requisition till Col. Dawkins stated that I had personally bribed men who had signed the requisition, and I told him it was false.

39,719. (Mr. Bere.) The monies that you paid into the Devon and Cornwall Bank, or the National Provincial, how was that done?—My cheque book will show that.

39,720. You say that you heard not a word of the requisition. Did not Mr. Kennard come and see you? —Yes.

39,721. Did not he tell you that a requisition had been sent up by a number of voters of Totnes, and that a requisition had been shown to him?—No, he did not tell me. He called upon me at the "Seymour Arms," and stated that he had come down to Totnes with a view to look at the borough.

39,722. When was that?—In the middle of June.

39,723. The castle treat?—Yes. And he called at the hotel and told me that he had come down. I think he told me that he was sent down by Mr. Spofforth to look at the borough, and he came to me very well satisfied with what he had been shown, and he was sure that a Conservative would come in very easily. There was a majority, in fact, and he was all but prepared to embrace the statement that had been made to him, and to stand. I said, well now, unless you are prepared to spend a great deal of money in buying the Liberals, because there is a Liberal majority, and you can only reduce that Liberal majority by spending a large amount of money, and I do not think with any amount of money that you will be likely to spend that you will gain the seat. He left, and I told him to go and make further inquiries. He returned to London, and I saw his father at the Consolidated Bank.

39,724. He is a co-director?—Yes; and I said, speaking for myself, I should like, if I have an opponent, to have him; but I know he will come back a wiser but a poorer man, and I would strongly recommend him not to go. I may tell you that at that time, that Dent's election there was a great deal of talk of the enormous amount of money expended, and my belief was that there was a great deal of exaggeration; but I thought a prudent man would be frightened, and I looked forward to walking over, and I believe it would have been the case if it had not been for two or three parties who thought of bringing some one down, and then we got the result which we did. But Mr. Kennard gave up and went to Gloucester.

39,725. The result of your figures is, that your first election cost you 2,256*l.* 10*s.* 1*d.*, the second election 2,277*l.* 11*s.* 7*d.* Your subscriptions, including 1,000*l.* to the church, 1,802*l.* 0*s.* 2*d.* Your municipal and parliamentary registrations 480*l.* 1*s.* 0*d.* Travelling expenses and hotel expenses, printing, and sundries, 645*l.* 4*s.* 6*d.*, making a total of 7,461*l.* 7*s.* 4*d.*, which you have expended since your acquaintance?—Yes.

39,726. And to be deducted from that there is 1,000*l.*, which you consider Mr. Seymour owes you? —Yes.

39,727. That is the share of the expenses of 1865? —Yes.

39,728. You consider that he owes you that money in consequence of the arrangement come to between you in December 1863?—Yes.

39,729. Do you remember whether Mr. Seymour was present at a conversation in which it was agreed that Mr. Chaster should go to London for the money? —I do not think he was.

39,730. Mr. Chaster said he was?—I am not sure.

39,731. Had you told him that 2,000*l.* must come down?—No. In fact I had very little conversation with him at all about money. I only ascertained afterwards the amount that Mr. Seymour had paid himself, the amount that he had remitted.

39,732. Do you know how much that was?—He told me 500*l*, and I think you will find that on the statement of the expenses.

39,733. There is one question I want to ask you upon those expenses. There is a sum of 20*l.* paid on the 2nd September 1862 to Mr. Windeatt and Mr. Chaster, going to Manchester. Is that on a visit to you?—Yes.

39,734. Politically or friendly?—Friendly.

39,735. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was the arrangement in 1865 that you should pay all the expenses except 500*l.*, and then that there should be an account taken between you and Mr. Seymour?—Whatever Mr. Seymour paid and whatever I paid was to go together and we should divide.

39,736. Was there an arrangement that you should find the ready money, so to speak, and that there should be a settlement afterwards?—No, there was no special arrangement.

39,737. How comes it that you spent a sum of four or five times as much as Seymour if there was to be a general settlement afterwards?—The reason I did it was that I knew Mr. Seymour had not much ready money at that moment, and I provided it, considering that he would impliment the bargain.

39,738. Was the understanding that you should advance the money, and that Mr. Seymour, when convenient, should pay you?—No; I merely acted upon the bargain made.

39,739. Was there an understanding (I put the question because it has been rumoured) that you should pay all the expenses over and above 500*l.* and receive nothing back, but that you should receive as an equivalent the Duke of Somerset's support?—Nothing of the kind, Mr. Seymour occupies his seat on precisely the same terms as I did.

39,740. (Mr. Bere.) There was one question about back elections which I wish to ask you; do you remember in 1862 a poll book being brought you?—Yes.

39,741. Did Mr. Fitzpatrick bring that?—Yes.

39,742. Were you indignant of the advantage that had been taken of the other side?—When Mr. Fitzpatrick handed that to me I asked what was his motive and what was meant? He said, "I wish to "make you aware of the poll on which the other "party are acting." I said, "It is nothing to me." I did not understand it in the slightest degree, and I took it into the room and I showed it to the gentlemen there, and he got it back again.

39,743. Did you not express your indignation as to the way that he got it, and did not you say to Mr. Powning, the first intimation that you had of Totnes ruscality was the obtaining of the poll book, which had been improperly taken or stolen from the other side; perhaps you did not use so strong a word?—I do not know. I know it gave me rather an unpleasant impression.

39,744. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you recollect a gardener of Mr. Durant who voted against you?—Yes.

39,745. You wrote a letter to Mr. Durant asking him not to discharge him?—Yes.

39,746. What made you do that?—I had formed the opinion that the man was more sinned against than sinning.

39,747. After he had got 200*l.*?—I did not know that then. It was represented to me that this poor man had been taken away and made drunk, and that the man was not responsible for his acts.

39,748. At the time that you wrote to Mr. Durant you did not know that he had got 200*l.*?—No; when I wrote to Mr. Durant I thought as the election was past it was a pity that the poor man should have suffered.

39,749. If you had known that he had had 200*l.* you would not have interfered?—Perhaps not.

39,750. (Mr. Longe.) With regard to Mr. James, you had canvassed before he called?—I left a private card at his house, but I did not see him.

39,751. Did you see him in the street?—Yes, I had got an assurance from Mr. James 12 months before that I should get his vote, and I thought it unnecessary to canvass him.

39,752. You had no direct promise of his vote at the last election?—Yes.

39,753. When was that?—A long time before.

39,754. You had no particular promise of his vote before the last election of 1865?—When he gave me his assurance that he would vote for me when he had a vote, I considered as a clergyman and a gentleman that he would do it.

39,755. That was the year before?—No, I think it was at the school a month before the election.

39,756. (Mr. Bere.) Had you any other reason except that one for believing that Mr. James was a Liberal?—No.

39,757. Did you happen to know that at the only time that he used his vote that he voted for the Conservatives?—No.

39,758. Did he tell you of his grievance about Lord Granville Somerset?—No.

39,759. When you canvassed him in 1865 did Mr. Thomas and Mr. Jeffery Michelmore go with you?—Mr. Jeffery Michelmore. Mr. Thomas was not well, and did not go out much.

39,760. You canvassed all the Bridgetown tenants?—Yes, I think so, I think I was taken to almost all.

39,761. Although you had no communications with the Duke of Somerset before you came here, had you any communication with him since?—Yes, I had one communication; it arose from the British school. Mr. Thomas Michelmore had, as I had been informed, selected a portion of the vicar's orchard to build the school, and I was told this would be of considerable annoyance to the vicar. I had always treated the vicar with great courtesy, though he took no part in the election. Having got the plans prepared in Manchester, I thought I would venture to call upon the Duke, and I asked the Duke to re-consider the question of the site for the schools. I felt,—as my intention was, rather to make peace than to create discord,—I thought it was a grievance to the vicar, and I was anxious about it. I had a little conversation and spoke about the school, and his Grace led me to believe that the thing would be altered, and I think it was altered. That was the only time I ever called upon the Duke with reference to Totnes affairs. I think it is right to state that, so far as the Duke is concerned, I believe in the first instance, when I came down here, the name of a "Manchester man" did not sound particularly well, either to the Duke or the other parties, believing that I was imbued with strong Radical notions.

39,762. In some ways it sounded well?—So I have understood since. Nobody regrets more than I do the position of this borough. I have made my own position in Manchester with my own honour and honesty, and it is not a pleasant position to be placed in, through circumstances over which I had no control.

39,763. (Mr. Coleridge.) It was the Liberals who were glad, not the Conservatives?—I am a wiser man now than I was when I came to Totnes.

39,764. (Mr. Longe.) I think there is a conflict between you and Mr. James, which ought to be pointed out. You thought he would vote, and did not think it worth while to ask him to vote. The evidence is, "Were you canvassed by Mr. Pender or "Mr. Seymour?—I did not see Mr. Pender at all in "my house. He called at my house three times, but "I happened to be engaged." Did you call three times?—I may have passed more than once; I remember leaving a private card.

39,765. Three times?—I passed the door several times. I cannot be particular to once or twice. I was desirous of calling upon him.

39,766. (Mr Coleridge.) Was it your habit, if you called upon a voter and did not find him in, to call again?—With a mere ordinary voter I would not.

39,767. (Mr. Longe.) Mr. James says he was out and met you in the street two or three days before, and he promised you his vote?—I think I met him in the street.

39,768. (Mr. Bere.) He says he promised his vote then?—I think, if you ask Mr. James, he will tell you that he told me when he had a vote he would vote for me. I think in 1862 there was something of the kind said, and I looked upon Mr. James as a steady supporter.

39,769. Have you ever said that Totnes has cost you 15,000*l.*?—No, never.

39,770. There is one thing I should like to ask you; on the 24th of April, 1863, there is 25*l.* for wedding favors?—Yes.

39,771. What was that for?—It was on the occasion of the marriage of the Prince and Princess of Wales. There was a treat to be given in the town to the children, and it occurred to me at the time that as there had been a great deal of movement about those things, and it would be one of those things pleasant for the children, to have some little memorial of the thing. I gave an order for a great number of favors. I got to know the number of children, and I sent a favor to every child.

39,772. Did you send them or order the favors?—I sent the favors. I think the favors were got in Manchester, from Sir James Watt.

39,773. When you found the petition being presented, I suppose you took good care to defend your seat. Did you consult Mr. Seymour as to the means to be adopted for its defence?—No, I consulted Mr. Drake, because he was, as I understood, the Treasury solicitor.

39,774. Is he your private solicitor?—No; in some things, but more connected with companies. My private solicitor is at Manchester.

39,775. Then Mr. Drake gave you certain advice with regard to the conduct of the petition. At any time before the petition came on, were you aware that there was a wish or a willingness, on the part of the other side, to compromise?—One morning, or one forenoon, when in my own office, Mr. Salmon stated that parties had called, and stated to him that they were prepared to withdraw the petition, on condition of my paying 4,000*l.* or 5,000*l.*, or something like the expenses that had been expended by the parties.

39,776. Did Mr. Salmon mention the name of the person who had given that communication to him?—No. I asked him who called, and he said, "I am not "prepared to give you any names." I said, "You can "give them in answer, that if 5d. will withdraw the "petition, I will not pay it, but the proper person to "call upon is Mr. Travers Smith, if they want to."

39,777. Will you come here one minute. Do you know that gentleman (handing a piece of paper)?—No.

39,778. Did you ever see him in connexion with the petition?—No.

39,779. Or have any conversation with him in the matter?—No.

39,780. Or receive any communication from him?—No.

39,781. Through any person?—Never. I do not know the name.

39,782. Did Mr. Drake ever speak to you on the subject of the compromise of the petition?—Mr. Drake one day at the House of Commons said there was some preposterous proposition made by Col. Dawkins about having his case brought before the House of Commons, and getting the seat, and one thing and another, provided that he would withdraw the petition if such things were granted.

32,783. Are we to understand that no definite proposition was ever made to you or by you for the withdrawal or compromise of that petition?—None.

39,784. And that the offer of 20,000*l.* is imaginary?—Yes, perfectly.

39,785. And that the sum of 5,000*l.* mentioned to you by Mr. Salmon was rejected at once?—Yes, rejected at once.

39,786. (Mr. Coleridge.) I believe some time after the election you and Mr. Salmon fell out, did not you?—No, I cannot say that we fell out.

39,787. I mean, was not there some charge brought against him of having disclosed something he ought not to have done? What were the circumstances of that?—The circumstances were these: When it came out in evidence before the committee about the 2,000*l.* of the Consolidated Bank and the 50*l.* note which was mentioned there, it struck, I think it was, Mr. Drake that some communication must have been made to some parties connected with the petition, and named it to Mr. Salmon. Mr. Salmon was very indignant about it, and I said, "All that I want is your assurance "that you had nothing whatever to do with it."

39,788. When did that take place?—That must have taken place just at the time the petition was instituted.

39,789. What did he say?—He was indignant about it. He assured me he had done nothing of the kind, and I said, "Well, all I want is your assurance, "but you had better go and see Mr. Drake and satisfy "him. If you satisfy him I will be perfectly "satisfied."

39,790. At the time that took place did you know that Mr. Drake had recommended him to get out of the way during the time of the petition?—No, I did not know anything at all about that.

39,791. Did not you know that there was a fear that Mr. Salmon might be subpœnaed, and therefore, at Mr. Drake's instigation, he had gone abroad?—I did not know that.

39,792. When did you know that? Here is a letter in which he asked you to pay the expenses of it?—I have another letter which he wrote to me.

39,793. This is your answer to him of the 13th June 1866. Had not he, just as the petition was coming on for hearing, written and asked leave of absence from you on the ground of ill health?—Yes, he wrote me a letter on the 13th March 1866, which I considered a very impudent letter, and I wrote to him.

39,794. This is it: "72D Old Broad Street, London, "13th March 1866.—My dear sir, I have not been "well the last few days, my throat being the part "affected. I should therefore be obliged if you could "conveniently relieve me of my duties for ten days or "a fortnight, when I hope that milder weather and a "little change will have done the needful for me. "Mr. Dunbar will be at the office as usual in the "morning.—Yours faithfully, PERCY H. SALMON. "John Pender, Esq., M.P.?"—Yes.

39,795. Do not you know he wrote that letter at Mr. Drake's instigation, that if he really was likely to be called as a witness, it was as well he should get out of the way?—I know nothing of the kind. There is another letter he wrote to me of the 16th February.

39,796. "72D Old Broad St., London, 16th Febry. "1866.—My dear sir, I have been thinking that if "Dawkins presses the petition to an issue before the "Committee of the House it would be prudent that I "should go to the continent for 10 days or so, in "order to avoid the possible chance of his subpœnaing "me, which would certainly prejudice your interests "and be anything but agreeable to me. If you will "tell me your lawyers' names I will find out when the "petition is to come on for hearing, unless, as I hope "and trust, the affair may be quashed or the borough "set off against another place, where two Conserva-"tives are in the same position as Mr. Seymour and "yourself. I only suggest this because Dawkins is such "an erratic boulder that nothing he could do would "astonish me, and he can only unseat you, as it seems "to me, by such evidence as would disfranchise the "borough. I may mention, also, that I believe I "was watched whilst at Exeter from the time Mr. "Chaster spoke to me on the platform until my return "to town, and I purposely broke the journey up by "staying at Bath to try and shake off the man, but "he came on to London with me in the mail train. "Please to consider this as private, and if I remain "quietly in London during the fight it will of course "be on your responsibility after having penned these "few lines.—Yours always affy., PERCY H. SALMON. "John Pender, Esq., M.P.?"—I believe I wrote a few lines in answer to that.

39,797. What did you answer to that?—I have no doubt it was a few lines simply to tell him that the letter ought not to have been addressed to me, and if he went to the continent he must go on his own account. I did not wish him to go in any shape or way. I have no doubt he will have that letter.

39,798. Did Mr. Drake ever tell you of any conversation he had had with him?—I am quite aware of all the correspondence that has passed between Mr. Drake and Mr. Salmon, and Mr. Salmon sent the whole of it to me, and his father came to me and was very anxious about his son's character and reputation; and indeed I was as anxious as his father could be for Mr. Salmon.

39,799. When was it, after the suggestion to go away, that you dismissed him?—I dismissed him about the beginning, I think it was, or the end of May.

39,800. Was that on account of what you supposed he had let out as to the election petition?—No, nothing of the kind.

39,801. I believe the circumstances were that you had shut up the London office?—Yes, I was paying a high salary, and he was simply of no use.

39,802. Then there is no pretence for saying that it had anything to do the one with the other?—No.

39,803. (Mr. Bere.) In fact, you know now that the fact of the money coming down was discovered by the accident of that 50*l.* note being paid to Mr. James?—Yes; what led to a little of the suspicion, I think, was that Mr. Salmon had a cousin down here who is in some way connected with Captain Pims' attorney. It was on account of Mr. Salmon's father I took him, and he remained with me several years, and I believe him to be an honourable man, who would not be guilty of anything of the kind.

39,804. You now know he was not?—His father went into the thing, and I was satisfied that he was not. I was very anxious that he should place himself in a proper position and clear himself thoroughly of it. I said, "If you will give me your assurance I will be thoroughly satisfied," and he gave me his assurance; so his dismissal had nothing whatever to do with it.

39,805. But you did not, as he had gone away under these circumstances, think it prudent to pay his expenses?—I declined, because if I had paid the expenses of his going away I should have been a party to it.

39,806. We have a letter from him to you of the 13th June asking for expenses. What answer did you send back?—I always refused to pay. He is a peculiar person, Mr. Salmon, I may mention; and he has written to me two or three times for his account. It is his business to render his account to me, and I have simply requested him to render that account, but he has kept driving away that I should render it. I know the reason he is driving at it perfectly.

32,807. Here is a letter of the 13th June in which he says: "Dear sir,—In accordance with your request "I have had the accounts arranged, and the same, "together with the balance of cash in hand, have been "sent to Manchester?"—That was merely to hand over his petty cash statement of the London house, not his own.

39,808. He says, "In accordance with your request?"—When I told him I was going to close the office in London, I said, "You had better make up the accounts and send them to Manchester." He sent the petty cash accounts, but that did not include his own private account. Then he wrote to me asking me to send him his account, I having asked him to send his account.

39,809. Here is your answer to him; we will put that in. Then Mr. Salmon's letter goes on, "This "seems to me a seasonable opportunity for requesting "the reimbursement of my expenses during my absence "at your solicitor, Mr. Drake's, suggestion, to prevent "my being served with a subpœna as a witness before "the Committee of the House of Commons upon petition against your return for Totnes; they amount to "20*l.*?"—In the beginning of the year on account of his father he asked me for a loan; I sent the money he asked for, a loan, but refused to give any money on account of his going away, because I felt if I did it I was countenancing the act. It was not the 20*l.* expense.

39,810. (Mr. Bere.) If the petition had been declared frivolous and vexatious, you would have paid it?—Yes.

39,811. Which Mr. Tucker was it that such a large sum of money was paid to in 1862; was it R. C. Tucker the son or R. Tucker the father, the old Mr. Tucker, of Ashburton?—I do not know; he came down.

39,812. Were you introduced at any time to Mr. Tucker, of Ashburton?—Yes.

39,813. Was he here with you during the time of either election?—He came over and was rather desirous of bringing about a reconciliation with Mr. Cuming, and took some little part, rather an active part, in it; but it resulted in nothing.

39,814. Do you know Mr. Jardine, the member for Ashburton?—I do not know that I ever met Mr. Jardine till the other day.

39,815. Have you known him in business?—I have known his house many many years.

39,816. But not him personally?—No. I knew a little of one of his brothers.

39,817. With the exception of the money you have rendered an account of, have you either directly or indirectly spent any money in Totnes?—No.

39,818. As far as you know has any money been introduced into Totnes for the purpose of assisting the Liberal cause during elections with which you have been concerned except that?—Not to my knowledge.

39,819. Or Mr. Seymour?—Not to my knowledge. Before leaving I should say that this (handing a roll) was presented to me by the electors of Totnes after I was unseated. I thought it formed part of the matter.

FREDERICK THOMAS, sworn and examined.

F. Thomas.

39,820. (Mr. Bere.) Are you a practical hatter in Queen Street, Exeter?—Yes.

39,821. How long have you lived in Exeter?—About seven years.

39,822. Have you taken an active part in the political matters of Exeter?—Very.

39,823. I believe there you are a supporter of Mr. Coleridge?—Yes.

39,824. Have you often been at Totnes?—Not very often.

39,825. Were you here in June or July, 1865?—Yes.

39,826. What time in June or July, 1865, were you here?—I was here at a very exciting time.

39,827. At the election?—No, the races.

39,828. That is August or September. I asked you whether you were here in June or July, 1865, and you said yes?—I did not understand that. What date were the races?

39,829. September?—Then I was here in September.

39,830. The question is, whether you were here in June or July?—No.

39,831. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were you here at the election?—No.

39,832. The day of the election or the week before—No.

39,833. Just read that letter (handing one to the witness.) Do you know the handwriting of that letter?—No.

39,834. How long have you known Mr. John Heath?—About—three quarters of an hour.

39,835. Had you never seen him before?—No.

39,836. You never saw him when at the races?—Not to my knowledge.

39,837. Did not you know him by sight?—I should know him again now.

39,838. Had not you known him by sight before you came here to-day?—No.

39,839. Had you not been to the "Seven Stars?"—Yes.

39,840. Have you ever seen him before to-day?—Not to my knowledge.

39,841. (Mr. Bere.) What made you when asked about this by the officer decline to answer whether you were at Totnes at the time of the election?—Because I was taken rather at a nonplus by the way the question was put to me, rather mysteriously, and of course I naturally declined to answer for the moment; but before the man left me I told him decidedly I had nothing at all to do with it.

39,842. It was after the summons was served on you, was not it?—No, before the summons was served.

39,843. After you were told you would be summoned?—Yes, very possibly.

39,844. (Mr. Coleridge.) You cannot give us any clue to this handwriting?—Certainly not; it is a hoax—no doubt about it.

39,845. Do you know James Heath at all?—No, not to my knowledge.

39,846. He said when he was examined he had the pleasure of your acquaintance. He is a veterinary surgeon, at Exeter?—I may know him by sight, but I do not know him by name.

39,847. (To Mr. Heath.) Mr. Heath, is that your mysterious stranger?—(Mr. John Heath.) No; I never saw the gentleman before to-day that I am aware of.

Adjourned to to-morrow at half-past 10.

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

Thursday, 27th September 1866.

J. Pender, Esq.

JOHN PENDER, Esq., recalled.

27 Sept. 1866.

(The witness.) I beg to correct one or two little things in my evidence. I stated yesterday, with reference to signing cheques, that Mr. Jack did not sign cheques. What I ought to have said is, that it was not part of Mr. Jack's business; he has not regular power to sign cheques, but in the absence of Mr. Kenworthy Mr. Jack has signed cheques, and Mr. Jack reminded me last night that he had occasionally signed cheques. There was another case when I left the court last night. I think you put a question to me—if Captain Fowle had called upon me about a Mr. Drew. I said I did not remember Captain Fowle's calling upon me about Mr. Drew. Captain Fowle asked me when I left the court last night if I remembered calling at his place, and seeing a workman there. He said that man was Mr. Drew. I was under the impression that it was put to me that he called upon me about Mr. Drew, but there are so many names that I cannot recollect particular names; but upon its being called to my mind I recollected the fact of seeing a man who is called Mr. Drew in his office.

39,848. (Mr. Bere.) We have heard a great deal about a farming company, got up really for the purpose of manufacturing votes, the capital of which company was a sum of 800*l.* advanced by some person or another. Have you directly or indirectly had anything to do with the advancing of the 800*l.* ?—I never had anything to do with it directly or indirectly. I may state the circumstance that I knew such a company was being formed, and was formed; and I believe in a letter, I must have become (with Mr. Seymour) guarantee for any loss that might arise on the working of that. I believe it was constituted for the purpose of making votes, but I never found any money, never was called upon to find money; and beyond the simple acknowledgment that I would with Mr. Seymour be responsible for the losses that occurred, I do not know whether anything was said about the profits, but for any losses that we were responsible.

39,849. Did you know that the sum of 800*l.* was required for the carrying on of the business ?—I did not. I was never asked, and I knew nothing at all about the working.

39,850. Did Mr. Henry Michelmore at any time at all apply to you for any money ?—No.

39,851. For no purpose ?—No.

39,852. Nor to Mr. McDougall ?—No; I am certain not.

39,853. Do you know Mr. William Adams. Was not there some correspondence between you and him as to a situation for his son ?—Mr. Cuming wrote to me, asking me if I could do something in the way of procuring Mr. Adams' son a situation, I think somewhere in the year 1863, when we were in rather a depressed state in Manchester on account of the cotton famine. I believe my reply was that I would endeavour, if I found an opportunity, to forward his son; but we were in such a depressed state at Manchester at the time that there was no prospect. When I came here in 1865 to canvass, I was told by Mr. Adams that he was annoyed at some neglect in some way. I was not on speaking terms with Mr. Cuming at the time, and therefore I had no opportunity of having any explanation from Mr. Cuming; I thought if there was anything imputed to me of neglect or discourtesy to Mr. Adams, I should go and have it explained. I called on Mr. Adams, and he said he was pledged to vote on the other side. I said, "Never "mind about the vote; what I want is, to have my "conduct put right; I do not want you to understand "that I made a promise and neglected you in any "way;" and he then told me something of his son; and that he was a draper in Totnes, and he was anxious to push him forward. I said, "It is not a "question of politics, and if I can do anything for "your son in any way I shall be glad, and if he writes "to me I shall entertain anything he wishes for me to "do." I have constant applications from young men to give them a push forward in business, and it is a thing I would do for any person. The end of it was that we did not talk about votes at all; and I merely went there with a view to have this explained.

39,854. Have you ever obtained a situation for young Adams ?—No; the thing dropped.

39,855. For how many voters' sons have you procured situations ?—When you talk of situations, I first got one for Mr. Cuming's son. It was not a situation, because I believe it must have cost his father a hundred a year to keep him. I got him into Whitworth's as a learner, and I gave him a recommendation to Mr. Penn the engineer, and afterwards to the Great Eastern, and he went out to assist in laying the cable.

39,856. We do not wish to go through each one. We merely want to know whether it was four or five, or 20 ?—Mr. Earles' son in the same way was a learner; and one or two men I have in my own place working as packers. I may mention in court, that working men may hear me, that in Manchester we are rather anxious to get labour, and any man who is perhaps earning 12*s.* a week here may get 22*s.* in Manchester. I am glad as an employer of labour to show that such a state of things exists.

39,857. There is one observation you made yesterday which does not seem clear. You said when you called upon Mr. Samuel Hill he abused you. What was it he abused you for ?—Perhaps it would not be a proper expression to say abused me personally, but the party, that he had been badly used. He referred to me personally when he asked me to advance money when in great difficulties, and I referred him to Mr. Cuming. The result was that I turned and left. I believe my expression was, "God help you, poor man, you seem in a destitute state."

39,858. Did he say anything to you about having written for a loan of money and being refused ?—Yes.

39,859. Did he find fault for your not having advanced the money ?—I cannot say. It was from his general abuse of Mr. Cuming, perhaps, more than myself, that I referred him to Mr. Cuming, and Mr. Cuming would not hear him or something of that sort. It was more abuse of Mr. Cuming than myself.

39,860. This misunderstanding with Mr. Cuming, had you any correspondence with him on the subject ?—No; it was principally done through Mr. McDougall; he came down to get the accounts settled, and the misunderstanding arose more in that way. There was one letter which I received from Mr. Cuming, and in which he stated that unless I placed the whole—I offered him a retaining fee in the event of anything occurring, when the misunderstanding took place, and the thing was well broken up between us; I expressed regret that anything should have occurred, but I hoped that at any coming election he would retain his position, and receive a brief from the Liberal party; and he briefly stated in the letter that unless he was the supreme power in every way he could not act in any way, and he acted upon that, and that terminated the whole thing.

39,861. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he vote for you at the last election?—I cannot say whether he did or not.

39,862. After that misunderstanding did you canvass him?—No.

39,863. I see he did vote for you and Mr. Seymour.—I recollect that Mr. Tucker came over and was very urgent that I should call, and there was that feeling that I thought it was more Mr. Cuming's part to call and see me, than that I should call on Mr. Cuming, and I did not call.

39,864. (Mr. Bere.) Have you copies of the letters you wrote and received about the election of 1862 and 1865?—No. There may be some stray letters, but very often I am travelling about, and those private letters I receive I very often tear up at the moment, unless there is something of importance in them. If in Manchester they are generally put aside and filed.

39,865. Will you let us see what you have?—Every letter I can. They are in court I believe.

39,866. In your accounts that we have seen we observe a payment towards the latter end of 1862 to the Whitworth Company at Edinburgh. Was not there a company established at that time called the Whitworth Ordnance Company?—A payment in Edinburgh?

39,867. Yes, for rifles. It only struck me, being at that time, it would help you to fix the date of the formation of the company, not as a limited company but as a trading company?—The reason of that being to Edinburgh would be that at that time I was a good deal in Edinburgh.

39,868. On the 26th of November there is "Whitworth Ordnance Company" a certain sum, and I only wish to call attention to it, as it may fix the date?—I had nothing to do with——

39,869. But was their company at that time called the Whitworth Ordnance Company?—Yes, that was long before the Corporate Company; but Mr. Whitworth and Mr. Hulse were the only partners.

39,870. At that time was there any negotiation between you and Mr. Whitworth with respect to your joining that company?—I should think not. The negotiation about forming it into a corporate or limited company had been going on a very long time.

39,871. And were you to be one of the directors of that company?—Of that company; but what makes the thing perfectly clear to me is when I became a member, or before I became a member of parliament, I consulted my solicitor in London, and counsel's opinion I believe was taken as to whether I could become a member of the Whitworth Company and a member of parliament; and therefore it is quite clear that I was not a member of the Whitworth Company, before I became a member of the House; and I may further state about that, that when on the hustings in 1862 I said I should only be too glad to join the Whitworth Company if an opportunity offered, so I was not.

39,872. (Mr. Coleridge.) I believe while you were here during the last election you used the telegraph very extensively?—I do not think personally I ever sent a telegram at all, but I believe Mr. Heald, who is here to-day, used it freely, because I find an item of 5*l.* in his hand for telegrams.

39,873. And in your name?—Of course.

39,874. It has been suggested that money came here through some other member who was standing for somewhere else. There is a telegram here from "Hay, Taunton, to Pender." Was that Lord John Hay?—No, Lord William Hay.

39,875. Had it anything to do with the business of the election?—Nothing whatever. It was simply a communication of an offer to visit me.

39,876. There is another one from "Hay to Pender" of the 8th July. Those I suppose you sent personally answers to?—I think it is more likely Mr. Heald sent them.

39,877. They had nothing to do with this election?—Nothing to do with the election I think, as far as my recollection goes. He said, "I will run over and pay you a visit some day," and I think very likely it refers to that.

39,878. There are a great many from Pender to Pender, Manchester. Would those be telegrams on business?—Telegrams on business, simply questions put to me, and the reply would go as a matter of business.

39,879. Then there is a telegram, July 11th, "Salmon to Pender." Do you recollect receiving that, that was after Mr. Salmon had brought the money down to Mr. Chaster?—I do not remember the telegram, but I do not think there can be any great difficulty in tracing it. We generally have a telegraph book in the office where we keep a copy of the telegrams that go out. It is possible that we may have that in London and also that in Manchester.

39,880. Was there anything particular going on between you and Lord William Hay, because in addition to the two telegrams I have alluded to here is another of the 11th July, "Hay to Pender," two telegrams of the 12th, the election day. What were those?—The state of the poll. Of course he took great interest in my election and I took great interest in his, and it was just exchanging that.

39,881. Then one Simpson, Edinburgh?—That is Professor Simpson, a friend of mine whom I telegraphed to I believe at the close of the poll.

39,882. Now here is rather a curious one, "Pender to Liberal, London." Was that to anybody who passed by that name, as a feigned name, on the 12th July?—That was to the Liberal Registration Association, the result of the poll.

39,883. Then "Pender to Latimer?"—Yes, that is the same, the result of the poll; and I think you will find one of the same sort to Brooks's and one to the Reform Club.

39,884. Then Pender to Gibb?—That is T. A. Gibb, a very old friend of mine.

39,885. Pender to Gooch?—Yes.

39,886. Pender to Reid, Sunderland?—That is my brother-in-law.

39,887. Then several from Pender to Bryce (during the election) of Leith?—Edinburgh would it be? There was a Mr. Bryce who is an architect in Edinburgh who was making some alterations in my house in London.

39,888. None of these were more than that sort of thing?—No.

39,889. Lord Torrington?—Yes.

39,890. Pender to Harland, Glasgow?—Yes.

39,891. Pender to Calcraft?—That is Henry Calcraft of the Board of Trade. He was Mr. Milner Gibson's secretary.

39,892. Pender to Brand?—Yes.

39,893. Pender to White, London?—That is Mrs. White, she is the governess. She was in London at the time, and she was a very old and very much attached friend, and she was anxious to know the result, being interested in that.

39,894. Did your son come down during the election of 1865?—I think he expressed a wish to come down on the nomination day, and I did not object. I rather think I said he might come; it was pretty much his own wish; he wanted a few days' leave in and out, and it was a good opportunity for an excuse.

39,895. Was he at that time quartered at Preston?—Yes.

39,896. (Mr. Bere.) In asking you who were the members of the committee for the distribution of the 1,000*l.* I suggested that they were all your supporters; had any persons on the other side, so far as you know, been offered to be members of that committee?—I suggested that it should not be considered a political thing, and I observed in the evidence of the mayor, Mr. Kellock, that an offer was made to him and Mr. Edmonds to place them on the committee, but they declined. I mentioned that I thought Mr. Oldreive was on it, but I find that Mr. Oldreive was on the British School Committee.

39,897. There is a Mr. Jenkins whose name has been mentioned here, did you offer to obtain a place for him?—Yes; Mr. Jenkins was desirous of being made a school inspector, and I wrote to Lord Granville, and I think Mr. Seymour also wrote to him and put Mr. Jenkins forward as a likely person. I understood from Mr. Jenkins that he had been a professor. I knew him to be a well-educated man, and there were a great many Wesleyans, of which body he was rather a prominent member, who thought that if they were appointing dissenters he was a very likely man for such a district as Cornwall or the mining districts.

39,898. He did not succeed?—He did not.

39,899. There is a great discrepancy between you and Mr. Harris; admitting that you talked to him for ten minutes, what was the conversation about?—My impression was that it was summed up pretty much in what I stated, that he said something of being there before me. I said, You are very often crossing my path, Mr. Harris, and I said, pretty much in a chaffing way, It is a very great pity that a man of your talent and ability should be employed doing this class of work, you ought to find something more suited to your ability, that was the amount of the conversation. I beg to draw your attention to some discrepancies in Mr. Harris' evidence in regard to the conversation on the Plains which he imputed to me; he referred to the Matchams, and how it was possible that I could retain my seat after trafficking with the Matchams. I think you will find in his evidence that up to the very evening of the nomination the Conservative party believed that the Matchams were going to vote for them. And therefore, in the conversation he imputes to me as taking place on the Plains, with regard to the Matchams, he could not have been under the impression at that time that the Matchams were going to leave them, because from his own evidence the Matchams had not given up their tie with the Conservatives until the very evening before or the morning of the day of polling.

39,900. You admitted that you had two conversations with Mr. Harris?—Yes, that I admitted yesterday. Before the Committee of the House of Commons he stated that the conversation about the Matchams was on the Plains. It is quite possible that might be so.

39,901. Did you see either old or young Matcham during the election of 1865?—Not to my recollection. I should not know them if they walked into this place.

39,902. Was anything ever said to you about getting a place for young Matcham?—No; the whole thing was rather a surprise to me about the Matchams. They were people little counted on, and in my conversations with Mr. Chaster about the poll the Matchams were always down against me. I was as much astonished as anyone on the morning of the poll when the Matchams were polled. There was another statement made in court by Mr. Harris that I paid Mr. Chaster 1,000*l.* a year.

39,903. Mr. Chaster contradicted that and therefore we did not trouble you about it?—I would simply say that if all my servants or assistants worked as cheap as Mr. Chaster has done, that I should have a very economical establishment. This is a letter which I omitted to put in yesterday:—

"Berkeley Chambers, London,

"Dear sir, 17th August 1866.

"Some time since I asked you to let me have my "account at your convenience, and I now address you "repeating the request. I have recently been sum- "moned by subpœna to appear before the Commis- "sioners appointed to inquire into the recent Totnes "election on the 25th inst., at the Town Hall at Tot- "nes, and I am desirous of placing myself in a posi- "tion to answer promptly and concisely any questions "that can legitimately and with propriety be put to "me.

"Yours truly

"John Pender, Esq. PERCY H. SALMON."

39,904. (Mr. Longe.) You said you had no communication with the Duke of Somerset when you first came down?—None whatever.

39,905. You understood you were to have the ducal interest?—I understood that before I came down here; if I had not I would never have thought of coming to Totnes.

39,906. Did you not understand who was authorized to give you that interest?—When Mr. Cuming, Mr. Chaster, and Mr. Michelmore told me they came up as representing the Liberal party, I naturally asked if that embodied the duke's interest; they said it did, that the arrangement was so.

39,907. You did not go further into that arrangement?—I took for granted what they stated about the duke's interest.

39,908. You did not go into the nature of that?—The moment I came to Totnes Mr. Thomas Michelmore called on me within an hour of my arrival, and Mr. Jeffery Michelmore, and told me that the duke's interest would be with me, and Mr. Jeffery Michelmore canvassed with me, and I canvassed all the duke's tenants with him.

39,909. Did you understand from Mr. Chaster or the representatives of that party what the nature of that interest was?—Simply that I was to get the votes of all the duke's tenantry, that any influence which he had would be given to me the same as the Seymour party.

39,910. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was there at that time a distinct interest between the independent Liberal candidate and the duke's candidate, as he was termed?—I do not know anything about the arrangement previously, but Mr. Seymour and myself always acted in concert.

39,911. We have heard that there were some voters who not only did not support your own party, but actually split their votes with the Conservatives; had you been told about that before?—No; I had not been told about it, if I had been I would have made a further inquiry. I was not well up in the history of Totnes at all until I came here.

39,912. There is one question I wish to ask you; you had some transactions in 1863 with Messrs. Stranger and Bennett?—I had.

39,913. Was this bond executed [referring to a document]?—Yes, it was.

39,914. It is not paid off yet?—No; there is interest being paid. I may mention that when it was proposed to me I would not entertain it unless it was done through the lawyers of the other side, as I thought then it would not be wrongly construed in any way.

39,915. Were you not surprised on hearing that Messrs. Bennett and Stranger had not polled up to 3 o'clock on the polling day at the general election; was any account brought to you of their holding back?—No; because Mr. Bennett always spoke to me.

39,916. Did Mr. Stranger?—Yes.

39,917. Had you any doubt about Mr. Stranger's vote?—No more than I had of the others.

39,918. I think the expression is, he was holding back to hear what people would say; is that the fact?—The fact is I was not here in 1863, and therefore I did not know anything about it. That bond was not executed until December, and that was long after the election.

39,919. You do not recollect any report being brought to you that Mr. Stranger was holding back and not voting as was expected?—Nothing of the kind. I may mention to you that I understood by 10 o'clock in the morning of the 1865 election it was considered that the election was over.

39,920. (Mr. Bere.) Mr. McDougall found when he came down here to settle the account of the 1,200*l.* that it had been expended, but he did not know how. We have learned in the course of this inquiry the way in which a good deal of it was expended. There is a considerable sum unaccounted for still, I should think at least 600*l.* or 700*l.* out of that 1,200*l.*, even in bribes in this town; can you assist the Commissioners in any way to get an account of that money?—It was suggested to me yesterday when I left, just at the luncheon time, the matter struck me, and I was very much put out about the additional expenditure. I could not see why it should have been so large, and it was suggested to me that a good deal of money must have gone to pay old bills of Mr. Mills; that Mr. Cuming, who had the charge of those matters, was sometimes a little negligent in paying, and that in consequence of that Mr. Jeffery Michelmore found a lot of bills which Mr. Mills ought to have paid were not paid, and that my money went to pay those bills. That has been suggested to me, but I have no knowledge of it. I only wish that Mr. Cuming was able to come before you and explain it.

39,921. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever charge Mr. Cuming with it?—No, I never did; Mr. Cuming was a very proud man, and he did not wish to be questioned about his accounts in any way, and that gave rise to a sort of feeling that gradually led to an estrangement.

39,922. When you saw those accounts that were read to you, you were not surprised at his not liking to be questioned about it?—I was annoyed at it.

39,923. (Mr. Bere.) A part of those expenses would be to a certain extent legitimate expenses, and there could be no hesitation on the part of the person accounting to state the sums paid?—I should think not, there ought not to be.

39,924. Do you not think that some of the other sums Mr. McDougall paid included those back expenses and not the 1,200*l.*?—I think it is much more likely that the accounts which Mr. McDougall paid would be the back expenses.

39,925. We have heard of sums of money being promiscuously cast about the constituency after the election of 1862, in envelopes, with no names, but "for services rendered." I want to ask you are you able or your party to find out who the persons were who distributed them?—I declare I have no idea who distributed them.

39,926. It would be more satisfactory to yourself and to us if you can account for more of that 1,200*l.*?—I tried very hard through Mr. McDougall to get the amount of the money expended. The evidence here and some of the letters will show you how very anxious I was, and how very desirous he was to get the account, and it was given up in despair.

39,927. Was it refused or put off?—It was a sort of shuffling altogether, not a direct refusal. He kept him hanging on here.

39,928. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know of any portion of the money being spent in order to secure Mr. Seymour's election?—I do not think so. I answered yesterday I was not aware that I either directly or indirectly aided Mr. Seymour's election.

39,929. You have heard that several times, and that raised a suspicion that at your election you paid some of Mr. Seymour's expenses?—Yes, I have heard that, and from reading the evidence I would infer that some portion of the monies expended by me paved the way for Mr. Seymour's election.

39,930. They actually were expended after the election in paying for votes?—I merely state that is what I would infer from the evidence.

39,931. (Mr. Bere.) Did you have before you came down in 1862, before Mr. Seymour's election in 1863, and your standing in 1865, any communication with Mr. Brand or any member of the Liberal party about the election?—No; one fact I may mention to you, that when I first came in 1862 I went to Mr. Drake, having been in communication with him about Grimsby, and he rather dissuaded me from coming down, when I read in the "Times" in the morning of Mr. Mills' death. I went and saw Mr. Drake the following morning, Mr. McDougall having gone on to Totnes. I went and saw Mr. Drake, and he rather dissuaded me from going to Totnes, because he thought Mr. Seymour was entitled to the seat. I had learned from Mr. McDougall that the Liberals were wishing to keep alive the two seats, and that I must look to Lord Gifford's seat. I said I had better return to Totnes, and I believe Mr. Seymour and myself travelled in the same train.

39,932. Did Mr. Drake dissuade you from coming down in the same way as Mr. Spofforth dissuaded others?—No; with a view to promote Mr. Seymour's return, he being an intimate friend.

39,933. It was not on account of the expenditure expected?—No.

39,934. (Mr. Coleridge.) Mr. Chaster has told us he said to Mr. Seymour, "You may go away," because the duke's seat was full?—Yes; he did go away.

39,935. When you came down here you were under the impression that the Liberals would be divided into two parties that may be called the duke's interest and the independents?—I am satisfied, from my connexion with the borough, that it is impossible that a Conservative can sit for Totnes without a very large expenditure of money; whereas the Liberals can do it with a comparatively small expenditure; that is simply in self-defence in keeping some of the poorer people.

39,936. Do you mean that the duke's member can sit without spending money?—I do not think the duke's member can be returned without regard to expenditure.

39,937. We have heard that the duke himself always sat without expense, or rather the duke's son?—He is a very different person.

39,938. (Mr. Longe.) We have heard there was a great deal of feeling about the way in which the duke's power has been exercised here, as a territorial right; have you met with that strong feeling in the town against the duke, from the way in which his power has been exercised at election times?—I only have heard it expressed by the Conservatives. From the knowledge I have of the borough, I do not think there is a nobleman in England who has interfered personally less with the borough than the Duke of Somerset has done.

39,939. But still he has an agent, and he may interfere very strongly through an agent?—As to the agency, I have availed myself of the agency here, and it has answered my purpose. I have no right to complain of anything done. I did not see anything done wrong. I saw the best feeling existing between the steward and the duke.

39,940. Did you not understand the influence of Mr. Michelmore was to a considerable degree based upon the power of ejectment?—I never knew it at all beyond hearsay in the borough. I never saw it in my canvass.

39,941. Was it ever recognized between you and the members of the Liberal party?—No; when you say "recognized," the duke's influence was distinctly recognized, and I would not have come here without having it.

39,942. But as to the mode of exercising it?—It never came before me.

39,943. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were you ever told by Mr. Chaster, or any of your party, you were the first independent member, not a duke's member, who had had the services of his agent?—No; I do not think that.

39,944. We have heard all along that they have been kept perfectly distinct; you are the first independent member who ever had the duke's active interference, so to speak, through his agent; we should know how it was acquired, was it by any arrangement made by you with the duke?—I never had an interview with the duke upon the politics of Totnes.

39,945. But with Mr. Seymour; was any arrangement made by which you were to have the personal interference of the duke's agent?—No. I was told that there had been some correspondence between the duke and the Liberal party, the independent Liberal party, and that the independent Liberal party had suggested that in the event of a Liberal vacancy the duke's son should stand; they paid him the compliment and the duke then declined; the duke had written to the party that they were at perfect liberty to select their own man.

39,946. That is one man?—Their own man.

39,947. Do you know when that was written?—I do not know; it came to me on hearsay. I suppose the letter is in existence.

39,948. Do you know who it was written to?—I do not know even that.

39,949. Do you know, Mr. Chaster?

(Mr. Chaster.) Mr. Thomas Michelmore.

39,950. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know if it is in existence?

(Mr. Chaster.) I suppose it is. I mentioned it to you in the course of my evidence; you did not take it.

39,951. (Mr. Coleridge.) How do you mean I did not take it?

(Mr. Chaster.) You did not catch the idea.

(Mr. Pender.) I can so far confirm the matter, that on referring to my notes I believe I paid the duke's steward, Mr. Jeffery Michelmore, as my agent.

39,952. (Mr. Bere.) When you were at the Seymour hotel in 1865, there was a very large bill run up there, which first of all was entered as a joint account between you and Mr. Seymour; do you know or were you cognizant of that account being separated and charged differently?—No; I was not. I had nothing to do with it.

39,953. It would have been paid if there had been no petition. You would have expected that out of the 2,000*l.* it would have been paid?—I expected that was to pay everything.

39,954. It is a largish bill, 387*l.*?—Election bills generally are, in provincial boroughs.

39,955. (Mr. Coleridge.) Are you aware that a portion of that is still unpaid?—I put the question. I was rather anxious to get some idea of how this 2,000*l.* had been expended, with a view to a settlement with Mr. Seymour; and in consequence of Mr. Windeatt's death and Mr. Michelmore's death some little difficulty arose, and also about the petition. When I mentioned it to Mr. Chaster, he told me he understood that Mr. Jeffery Michelmore had paid the hotel bill, that he had still in his possession about 300*l.*, and it had been understood that it would come out of that and reduce it.

39,956. I think, if you ask, you will find that your private bill was taken out of the general bill?—The rule that I have always had in coming here was, instead of paying the bill out of my own pocket money I generally said to Mrs. Beazley, "Will you "send the bill to Manchester, and a cheque will "be sent," and you will find that in the accounts.

39,957. As regards the private bill, that was taken out, and that you have paid, but the rest has not been paid?—I think you will find I shall not be called upon to pay it.

39,958. I do not know about that. Are you aware of the ingenious contrivance by which they mutilated the books?—I was very sorry to hear it stated yesterday.

39,959. You had not heard of it before then?—No. I have got a little knowledge of political life that I did not possess before.

39,960. (Mr. Bere.) Was there any more distinct understanding between you and Mr. Seymour, with regard to the sharing of the expenses at the last election, with the exception of that entered into in 1863?—No. There was a short statement which I was prepared to put before you, and I understood that was all that was required to be before you, from 1864. I think in that statement is set forth the arrangement, and that statement was read over to Mr. Seymour, and he approved of it. I also called upon Mr. Seymour when the petition was going on at his brother's house in Grosvenor Street, and I said, "In case there is "any misunderstanding as to having paid this money, "I may say that I will admit it under any circum-"stances, because it was more convenient to me to pay "the money at the time." (Mr. Seymour and myself have always been on the most friendly terms;) "and "all this of course must be fairly put forward, and "after all, if you have paid 500*l.* and I have paid "2,000*l.*, that would be 2,500*l.*, and that would be "just about what we called the price of the borough, "and it was quite understood that everything was to "be divided."

39,961. Did Mr. Seymour give you a note of hand?—No. In my dealings in these money matters I had it in considerable quantities, and I never asked him for it and would not do it.

39,962. Are you aware that, although Mrs. Beazley has not been paid, she has been satisfied in another way?—I have not the slightest idea of the dealings with Mrs. Beazley.

39,963. Have you heard that Mr. Jeffery Michelmore has set off that bill against her rent; she is a tenant of the duke's?—I have not heard of that.

39,964. You said just now that you did not expect to be called upon to pay?—Considering the fact that Mr. Chaster said it was paid by Mr. Jeffery Michelmore, I consider it was taken out of the gross amount.

39,965. You never heard of its being set off for rent?—I may mention to you that I inquired as little as possible about that.

39,966. If set off against rent, that would be set off as against Mr. Seymour's expenses?—I may tell you that my arrangement with Mr. Seymour would be this: Mr. Seymour might say, "I gave my agent 500*l.* towards the expenses." I might say I gave 2,000*l.* That would be 2,500*l.*, and 1,250*l.* would belong to you. That is the way that I deal with it.

39,967. Have you had an account as between you and Mr. Seymour?—No; that I am rather anxious to have.

39,968. We should like to have that.—I have not the slightest doubt that Mr. Seymour, when you call him, will admit the arrangement as I stated it. It is simply a question of figures.

39,969. If Mr. Jeffery Michelmore has set this off against the rent, that would be taken as a payment by Mr. Seymour?—I should think so.

39,970. (Mr. Bere.) This is the portion of the statement: "I understood that the payment was made "by me on general account of the election of myself "and Mr. Alfred Seymour, and was to form a part "of the general expenditure of Mr. Seymour and "myself. It had been arranged between our respec-"tive agents that the expenses should be borne in "agreed proportions, namely, that if both were re-"turned the expenses were to be borne in equal "shares; but if one only was returned, the member "should pay two-thirds?"—That is it.

39,971. That was read over and received his assent?—Yes.

39,972. You have had no settlement with him of his hotel bill at all?—No.

39,973. Did he agree to share the expenses of the petition?—Yes.

39,974. Has the account been made out?—Yes, I have the account in my pocket.

39,975. You know what the charge is?—Yes; but I have not paid it yet, and he has not paid it. He wrote to me, saying that he had been requested to pay his half, and that he had sent on the account to me, thinking I had not seen it; but I had had an account in the meantime. It has not been paid yet; at least I have not paid his half.

39,976. Were you resident in London before you became a member of parliament?—I usually went to London for a month or six weeks.

39,977. Had you a regular house in London before you were a member of parliament?—No. You will find Mr. Gibbs' offices were my head-quarters. I simply had a place of call. I had a little room or two adjoining his offices.

39,978. When was it that you first of all had the London establishment by the giving up of which Mr. Salmon was thrown out of employment?—About two years ago.

39,979. You only kept it a short time?—Yes, I found it was rather a nuisance than otherwise.

(Mr. Bere.) That is all we have to ask you.

(The witness.) Might I ask you this? Being unseated, as I was, upon the evidence of Mr. Harris, and as I believe that evidence was false, and that it has been completely contradicted before this Commission, and as it affects my character as an honourable man, will you give me a copy of that portion of Mr. Harris's evidence which relates to myself? It is for the vindication of my own character that I am anxious to obtain it.

(Mr. Coleridge.) There are several shorthand-writers for the papers here, and you might get it from them.

(The witness.) I have read it in the paper, but there is so much inaccuracy. For instance, to-day, in the "Mercury," it states this: "You have heard Mr. "Harris's story about your having offered him a "situation?—The witness: Oh yes, and I tell this "Commission as I told the House of Commons"—That would appear to my friends in the country that I had contradicted it there and was not believed. It is a very serious inaccuracy, and it is that that makes me apply for the shorthand-writer's notes. I draw attention to it that they may know—although I am quite prepared to excuse any inaccuracy on account of what has to be done.

(Mr. Coleridge.) You were not examined before the House, so that must be a mistake; but as soon as the shorthand-writer's notes are published you can have them.

(The witness.) It is difficult to contradict it without having the evidence.

(Mr. Bere.) What you said was, "I have read Mr. "Harris's evidence before the Committee of the "House of Commons, and I have no hesitation in "saying it is a complete romance from the beginning "to the end." That is what you did say.

(The witness.) Yes; that is quite correct.

(Mr. Coleridge.) We have no power to let you have anything but your own evidence.

(Mr. Bere.) Your own evidence you may have, but you must not publish that evidence.

(The witness.) Unfortunately, not being called before the Committee of the House of Commons, the decision was that I was guilty of personal bribery by offering Mr. Harris a situation. I of course deny that completely, that I ever did make any such offer; and this morning, when I read the statement in the "Mercury," I was surprised; and many people who read it would believe that I had been examined.

(Mr. Coleridge.) Since you have heard the evidence of Mr. Chaster and Mr. Salmon with reference to your transaction with regard to the 2,000*l.*, you concur in the prudence of your not having been called before the Committee?

(The witness.) I think it would have been much better, as I would have stated there what I have done here.

(Mr. Bere.) You must understand that if you have your evidence from the shorthand-writer it must be private, and it is only for your own use.

(The witness.) Whatever conditions you may impose I will comply with.

(Mr. Longe.) Under those circumstances it would be of no use without it could be published.

(The witness.) I do not know that my evidence is of much use to me, but I do not wish to have anything that is contrary to rule.

39,980. (Mr. Bere.) Do you remember, after your conversation with Mr. Harris, going to the "Seymour Hotel," and having a conversation during dinner with Mr. Henry Michelmore about a situation being offered to Mr. Harris?—I have not the slightest doubt that I narrated the whole that occurred with Mr. Harris at the dinner table.

39,981. Was not there some little chaff at the dinner table?—There may have been.

39,982. You cannot remember?—No. I know that I did state to more than one party what I had said to Mr. Harris on the Plains.

JOHN WEBBER CHASTER recalled.

J. W. Chaster.

(The witness.) In the evidence given by Mr. Pender yesterday a question was put to him somewhat to this effect: "Was Mr. Seymour cognizant of Mr. Chaster "going to meet Mr. Salmon?"

39,983. (Mr. Bere.) It was, "Was Mr. Seymour "present when it was arranged that Mr. Chaster "should go and see Mr. Salmon?" and you answered, "Mr. Seymour was present?"—It is a misunderstanding. It applies to some other thing. He was present at the understanding.

39,984. (Mr. Coleridge.) About the arrangement of the expenses, the division of the expenses?—Yes.

39,985. You say that Mr. Seymour was not present at the time that he arranged or you were pressed by Mr. Pender to go and see Mr. Salmon?—He was not present then; and the question put by Mr. Bere yesterday led me to understand that he had a wrong impression of my evidence.

39,986. (Mr. Bere.) As you are here I will ask you this question: Mr. Pender has stated that he did not tell you to send Mr. Salmon back for a holiday, and you said that he had done so?—I did.

39,987. What is your recollection?—That Mr. Pender's memory is incorrect in that instance. I should never have taken upon myself the liberty of sending one of his confidential assistants away for a holiday without his permission.

39,988. (Mr. Bere.) This is the question that was put: "Do you remember whether Mr. Seymour was "present at a conversation in which it was agreed that "Mr. Chaster should go to London for the money?—"I do not think he was. Mr. Chaster said he was."

(The witness.) Now turn to the portion of my evidence that refers to it. It is an error.

39,989. Was he present when it was agreed that you should go to Exeter?—Certainly not. Nobody was there. I think you mistook what I said.

39,990. I think your evidence was given on the Saturday. Can you remember at all whether you mentioned it when you were called on Saturday?—I fancy there was something said about the arrangement on Saturday, but I do not remember the question being put in that way.

39,991. I had a peculiar purpose in my mind to ask it in a peculiar way, and I think I did?—I do not think you put it in such a way as to convey your meaning to me.

(Mr. Coleridge.) This is the evidence: "When did "you have your next consultation with Mr. Windeatt "or Mr. Pender about money?—I saw Mr. Windeatt "again on the following day. He said, 'We cannot "'do without it; you had better take it.'—What did "you then do?—I did not like to do it, but the result "was that I did.—Was it from Mr. Pender?—Yes. "What did you get from him?—He gave me these "same dividend warrants which he had offered me on "the preceding Tuesday; I think that was Thursday. "What did you do with those?—I said to him, 'What "'am I to do with those?' He said, 'You know "'Mr. Salmon, who was down here at the first elec-"'tion; if you send them to him he will cash them "'for you.'—Did you send them to him?—I did.—"Is that the letter which you wrote to him?—It "is.—In consequence of that letter did Mr. Salmon "telegraph to you?—He did.—Did he telegraph "to you 'All right?'—I should say the two words "'All right.'—Did you meet him at Exeter?—Yes. "He kept his appointment by that train, and I met "him.—And you received the money from him? "—I received two packets.—I suppose Mr. Pender "knew perfectly well what the 2,000*l.* was wanted "for?—Quite as well as I did.—And you knew per-"fectly well?—Of course I did.—How was it that "Mr. Pender, having an account of 1,874*l.* at one bank "in Totnes, and an account of 500*l.* at another, did "not draw the 2,000*l.* from his banking account?—"I cannot answer that at all.—Did it not strike you, "when there were these banking accounts, as a rather "odd thing that the money should be got in this round-"about way for the purposes of the election?—I did

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

J. W. Chaster.

27 Sept. 1866.

"not know the amount he had placed in the bank.—"You knew Mr. Salmon's writing?—I scarcely knew "his writing, but I should think that is it; that is all "regular enough.—Were those warrants payable to "order or bearer?—I do not recollect opening them. "I should not like to swear that I opened them.—Did "you not know what the amount was?—I think I "could swear the amount was 500*l.*—And that there "were four bits of paper?—Yes. Whether they were "payable to 'bearer or order' I could not swear.—You "know the way in which these dividend warrants "were cashed was not in the direct way, by being "taken to the Atlantic Telegraph Company and paid "there; but that Mr. Salmon paid them into his own "account with the Consolidated Bank, and then drew "his own cheque, which was cashed?—At Mr. Pender's "suggestion; I would not do it without.—Mr. Salmon "opened an account in his own name at the Consoli-"dated Bank to the amount of 2,000*l.*, and then drew "a cheque to the full amount?—That was a want of "great judgment on the part of Mr. Salmon.—What "was the 2,000*l.* in?—It was in two separate packets. "—There was no gold?—No gold.—You met Mr. "Salmon at the station?—I did.—Did he recognize "you or walk out of the station?—He did not recog-"nize me. I saw him walk into the waiting room, "and I followed him.—Did you bring the money to "Totnes?—Yes, by the same train.—Did Mr. Salmon "come on too?—No. Mr. Pender requested me to "tell Mr. Salmon that he might take a day's holiday, "and he went on to Bath.—At that time was there "not an understanding between Mr. Michelmore and "the independent party that both candidates would "share in the expenses?—There was.—Who was pre-"sent at the meeting when that arrangement was "come to?—I was there, Mr. Thomas Michelmore, "Mr. Windeatt, Mr. Pender, and Mr. Seymour."

39,992. (Mr. Bere.) I meant the arrangement to apply to your going up to London, and you took it the other way?—I did.

39,993. (Mr. Coleridge.) The next question that follows is: "When you brought the money to Totnes "what did you do with it?"—It did follow.

(Mr. Bere.) The question is: "Did Mr. Salmon "come on too?—No. Mr. Pender requested me to tell "Mr. Salmon that he might take a day's holiday, and "he went on to Bath.—At that time was there not an "understanding between Mr. Michelmore and the in-"dependent party that both candidates would share "in the expenses?—There was.—Who was present at "the meeting when that arrangement was come to?—"I was there, Mr. Thomas Michelmore, Mr. Windeatt, "Mr. Pender, and Mr. Seymour. I do not recollect "any others. I am not certain whether Mr. Jeffery "Michelmore was there."

(The witness.) That conversation occurred 12 months before.

39,994. (Mr. Coleridge.) It will bear either interpretation. What you meant was the arrangement that was come to in 1863 about the share of the expenses?—Yes.

39,995. Mr. Seymour was not present when it was arranged that you should go for the money?—He was not.

39,996. Do you know when Mr. Seymour first knew that the money had come down?—I think Mr. Seymour knew nothing or next to nothing down to this period except what he gets from the published prints. He knows nothing from me or any other member of the independent party. I never had any conversation with him about it.

J. Pender, Esq.

JOHN PENDER, Esq., recalled.

39,997. (Mr. Bere.) Did you tell Mr. Seymour that the money had come down?—Not during the election.

39,998. Afterwards?—Yes. Mr. Seymour knew about the time the petition was arranged.

39,999. Was it not distinctly understood at the time of that arrangement in 1863 that a sum of 2,000*l.* in all probability would be wanted to be brought here?—Yes; that is what Mr. Michelmore said.

Mr. R. Harris.

Mr. ROBERT HARRIS recalled.

40,000. (Mr. Bere.) What do you wish to correct?—Mr. Pender yesterday said something about some one being behind the scenes inciting me to write the first letter. I distinctly state that no one ever spoke to me in reference to that letter whatever. After Mr. Pender offered me a situation I went home and consulted with my family; in fact such a thing I never anticipated from Mr. Pender. I consulted my family in this matter, and after a little conversation that I had with my wife and Mrs. Lorimer I agreed to accept it; and consequently I wrote a letter without letting any of my party know a word about it. In reference also to Mr. Chaster about 1,000*l.*, I understood that 1,000*l.* a year was sent to me for registration purposes, and the 1,000*l.* was not for him alone; and I may also say that there was a man called Pitts, who has been examined here by you. He is prepared to say——

40,001. We cannot have what Mr. Pitts is prepared to say. This being a direct conflict of evidence between you and Mr. Pender, we must conduct it according to the strict rules of evidence. We cannot have anything sworn to before us which is a matter of hearsay. If you have any person who did hear any conversation between you and Mr. Pender you may bring him.—Not exactly; but to the time that we were speaking together.

40,002. We can have from Mr. Pitts all that he can depose to of his own knowledge to throw light upon the conflict between you and Mr. Pender.—The collateral testimony you have already had.

Mr. R. Tucker.

Mr. ROBERT TUCKER recalled.

40,003. (Mr. Bere.) We called upon you to produce certain letters and papers connected with the Ashburton election of 1865. Do you produce those letters and papers here?—They are all here now. I have asked for consent to do so but I have not got it. I do it under protest and compulsion from you.

40,004. You understand that those letters will not be made public unless necessary?—I understood so. I have stated on oath that there is not a single letter or document or word in those papers which I am prepared now to produce which relates to Totnes.

40,005. This imputation, that money came from Ashburton, is a matter that we must inquire into, and we must take the means to find it out, and if we did not see the letters we might be said not to have done our duty.—You required me to produce the books, and I objected as the agent of Mr. Jardine.

(Mr. Bere.) As Commissioners we require you to produce every document connected with the Ashburton election of 1865.

40,006. Is Mr. Jardine lord of the manor of Ashburton?—He is not.

40,007. Has he purchased property there?—He has, considerable. I will tell you how these papers are arranged, it will save you trouble. I have every private document here, all my private memoranda and private notes, which I have not the least objection should be seen by every person; but I do not want them published to the world, because they affect other people, and you will see in this all the letters I received from Mr. Jardine in 1865 are tied together. Mr. Coleridge directed my attention to May, June, and July, and all the letters in May, June, and July are tied together. All letters received from other parties previous to May and subsequent to July are also tied together. Inside this (another packet) you will find all my private notes and private memoranda as to the election, and in this you will find my canvassing book with every private account in it. I have not destroyed a single document except this; about six months ago I looked over the papers and found they were so numerous that I burnt great numbers of them, but I did not burn one letter of Mr. Jardine's. Every letter I have of Mr. Jardine's in my possession now is given up to you. I have given the letter book and the bill book.

40,008. Mr. Astell was member for the borough from 1859 to 1865?—Yes.

40,009. Had he purchased a large quantity of property in the borough?—Mr. Astell purchased an estate called Dolbeare, Prigge Meadow, and two or three other fields. All his purchase money may have been about 6,000*l.*

40,010. Has that estate passed to Mr. Jardine?—No.

40,011. Mr. Astell still holds it?—Yes.

40,012. When did Mr. Jardine first become a purchaser of property in the borough?—Mr. Jardine first became purchaser, I think, in 1864, but I do not wish to let you misunderstand; Mr. Jardine became purchaser first in 1864, the early part, but Mr. Magniac bought property of Mr. Astell in 1862 called Somerville, and also other fields.

40,013. What land or property has Mr. Jardine in Ashburton?—If you will allow me to put Mr. Magniac and Mr. Jardine together, Mr. Magniac is his partner, the property is about 30,000*l.* together. When I say that I include Mr. Moffatt's land also.

40,014. Did he sell that to Mr. Jardine?—I understand they are under contract, but it is not yet carried out.

40,015. Did you receive in March 1863 a cheque for 372*l.* 6*s.* 1*d.*?—Never in my life.

40,016. Is it your son?—Very likely. I never received one single shilling on account of Totnes, directly or indirectly, or paid one single shilling. I do not know who Mr. McDougall is.

Mr. Thomas White Windeatt sworn and examined.

Mr. T. W. Windeatt.

40,017. (Mr. Bere.) Are you the son of Mr. William Fabyan Windeatt?—Yes.

40,018. He was a solicitor I believe, practising in this town?—He was.

40,019. Was he legal adviser of the Liberal party at the election of 1865?—He was.

40,020. He took considerable interest in former elections?—I believe ever since the Reform Act.

40,021. Are you his executor?—No.

40,022. Who is?—My mother is administratrix.

40,023. What papers were left at his death?—Do you mean regarding elections?

40,024. Yes.—A very few papers; I caused a search to be made, and all I found I handed over to the secretary. Two bill books, a private diary of his, and I think that was about all. I do not think it much referred to the matter; he did not keep anything of that sort.

40,025. No accounts?—No accounts whatever. I caused special search to be made.

40,026. No private account book of his own?—We kept in the office of course a sort of day-book, a diary, but nothing of accounts. I may say this, he kept very few books in his office, and until I was in the office hardly made a memorandum, but used to make up his bills from the papers. There is nothing in the diary. I have handed in everything I can find that has anything to do with the election.

40,027. Have you no copies of letters relating to the election?—No, I cannot find any. I know he used to correspond with Mr. Pender very often. I do not think he kept a copy of those letters.

40,028. Did you give us the letter book?—No; I will hand it in. I found one day in one of the drawers there were a few letters of Mr. Pender's and Mr. Seymour's. I do not know whether on purpose, but, as far as I know, I do not think he kept any accounts of that election. He had a wonderful head and kept most of it there.

40,029. At the last election, 1865, you went in some instances and canvassed with Mr. Pender, did you not?—I think only once or twice I went. I will tell you just how that was. I was in London at the time of the election, and my father wrote to me to say he should want me home, he could not stand it all himself; and when the candidates were announced, and Mr. Pender came down, I came as well. I think I came on the Saturday night week, and then up to the time of the election I canvassed and went about, and anything my father wanted me to do I would go and do. I principally canvassed with Mr. Seymour, but once or twice I was with Mr. Pender.

40,030. Do you remember canvassing with Mr. Pender and calling upon people on the Plains?—Yes, and as far as I can remember that, it was the first time I went out at all connected with the election; the first time I began as I came down, the Saturday night week previous to the election, the 1st of July. I think this must have been on the Monday or Tuesday, the first time I canvassed. My father had an engagement that morning, and said, "You will go with Mr. Pender," and we started.

40,031. What time?—I should think it must have been about 11. I was over there just after they breakfasted, and we talked matters over and started. I do not know whether Mr. Charles Michelmore went with us, at all events he was with us on the Plains that morning some time.

40,032. Do you remember seeing Mr. Harris on the Plains?—Yes.

40,033. Tell us as accurately as you can where you saw him first, where he was, and then what happened?—I will, as well as I possibly can. It is difficult to remember these things during the canvass; but, as far as I remember, when we got on the Plains Mr. Harris was on the Plains, hanging about, as you may say. I fancy he had something to do with the tolls at that time, but Mr. Pender went up to canvass some one, and, as was the custom, Mr. Pender, when introduced to a voter, liked the person who introduced him to drop back, and then I think he went up and canvassed someone,—I do not know whether Mr. Allery or Mr. Pitts, if not both.

40,034. Do you know at what house it was you went to canvass them?—They were not in a house, they were working, or rather this man was, at I do not know whether Mr. Bennett's or Mr. Bowden's stores here. Then I think Mr. Pender canvassed this man, if he did not canvass the two, and then he went to the house of Mr. Bennett the coal merchant, and he went over and stayed some time, and during the whole of this time I kept back, and went the other side of the Plains and there waited, and I think chatted with Mr. Charles Michelmore at the time. Then Mr. Pender came, I think, from Mr. Bennett's, and as he was coming away, whether he spoke to anyone between I do not remember, but he came against Harris; they met and then began to talk.

40,035. Did you see whether Mr. Pender made any sign to Mr. Harris or not?—No; as far as I remember, I should think it was Mr. Harris came to Mr. Pender.

40,036. Which way was Mr. Pender walking?—I think Mr. Pender was coming from Mr. Bennett's.

40,037. Going towards the "Stars?"—The "Stars" way, I think so, and I was opposite. I was standing, I think, just about Mr. Bowden's house, just opposite.

40,038. Where was Mr. Harris?—Walking about the Plains. Mr. Pender, I fancy, had been talking to Mr. Allery, or seeing somebody there.

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

Mr. T. W. Windeatt.

27 Sept. 1866.

40,039. Was he further off or nearer the "Seven Stars?"—Nearer, I think.

40,040. And did Mr. Pender walk towards the "Seven Stars?"—Yes, in fact they met.

40,041. Did you see them in conversation?—Yes; I saw them in conversation.

40,042. How long did that conversation last?—It is a little difficult to remember. I think I can tell in this way: I should think altogether Mr. Pender was away from me half an hour, during which he was a considerable time at Mr. Bennett's, and spoke to some others; and I should think, as far as I can say, he was talking to Mr. Harris about 10 minutes. It might have seemed longer to me, because I remember this circumstance, it was a very hot day and the sun was pouring down, and I was waiting there and got tired of it.

40,043. Do I understand you to say you saw them meet?—I saw them meet.

40,044. Who began the conversation?—I was at a distance and can hardly tell.

40,045. Whose face was towards you?—I can hardly say.

40,046. How far off were you?—You know Mr. Bowden's house, I think there are some rails in front of that house, and I was leaning or sitting on them.

40,047. Was he as far as you are from us?—A great deal further. I was on one side of the Plains.

40,048. The broad part of the Plains?—Yes, just above the Wesleyan chapel.

40,049. Which side of the Plains were you, the river side or the other?—The other, and they were on the river side.

40,050. Did you see anything take place between them before the conversation began?—What do you mean by anything take place?

40,051. Did you see them shake hands?—No, I think not. I think I may almost certainly say I did not see them. I have no recollection whatever of their shaking hands, and I think I should have been surprised if they had, and would have remembered it.

40,052. No shaking of hands took place?—I do not think so.

40,053. And the conversation might have lasted how long?—I should say 10 minutes. I was standing waiting, and it might have seemed longer.

40,054. You did not see who began the conversation?—No.

40,055. Of course you did not hear what passed?—No.

40,056. Where did you and Mr. Pender go, after the conversation broke up?—Well, I went up towards Mr. Pender. I was tired of waiting there in the sun, and I was coming towards them, and I think as I came towards them Mr. Harris drew off, and I think Mr. Pender left and came with me, and then I think we came back to where Mr. Charles Michelmore was standing.

40,057. Where was Mr. Michelmore standing?—By the spot where I was.

40,058. Close to you?—Close to me. I crossed the Plains to Mr. Pender, and when he saw me Mr. Harris drew off, and I think Mr. Pender left and came with me. Then I remember Mr. Pender said—I will not recollect the words he used; I can give you my general impression. What he said was something of this sort, "I have been talking to Mr. Harris and telling him it "is a pity he should be going on in the way he does, "and that a man of his great talents and ability and "energy should be doing the dirty work of the Tories, "and a sort of catspaw in their hands," and I think he said he had chaffed him and bantered him a little about his talents. That was the general impression he gave me, that it was a pity he should be doing as he was, and we passed on.

40,059. Did Mr. Pender suggest to you that he offered him any other employment or other means of employing that ability and talent?—No, certainly not, I should say. This conversation had passed out of my mind, and it was only after the report that Mr. Pender had offered Harris a situation that I thought about it, and I contradicted that report there and then wherever I heard it, and I am sure it could not be so, from Mr. Pender's manner.

40,060. Did you notice, was there any shaking hands when they parted?—I do not think there was any shaking of hands at all.

40,061. (Mr. Longe.) Which way was Mr. Harris walking when you first saw him?—I can hardly tell you whether he was walking or not. I think he was standing about there, just below Bennett's.

40,062. You were standing about some time. Did you see him at any time before you saw him with Mr. Pender?—Yes, standing about. I think he spoke to a man there, whether Allery or not I do not know.

40,063. He was talking to a man?—I think he spoke to him part of the time, but he was standing about. I think at this time he was collecting the toll, and used to spend a great deal of time walking about on the Plains.

40,064. (Mr. Bere.) Do they collect toll on the Plains?—Just below there.

40,065. (Mr. Longe.) At the moment you saw Mr. Pender which way was he coming?—I think he went to see Mr. Bennett.

40,066. Did you see him come out of Mr. Bennett's house?—Yes.

40,067. Whereabouts were you?—I think I remained about the same spot.

40,068. Were you near the obelisk?—No, just about opposite the Wesleyan chapel. I just strolled about there as you would when waiting.

40,069. When did Mr. Pender first make his appearance?—I was with Mr. Pender; I started from the "Seymour" with him.

40,070. When you were not with him, when he left you, was about half an hour you say?—I should think about that.

40,071. When did he first make his appearance out of the place?—I left him talking to some voter or man there, and then he went on to Mr. Bennett's and went into Mr. Bennett's house. I think that is the order; it might be reversed, and then he came back and spoke to Mr. Harris.

40,072. Did you see him come out of that house?—Mr. Pender? yes.

40,073. When Mr. Pender came out of the house?—I think he turned backwards to the "Stars" way.

40,074. Then I want to know where was Mr. Harris when he was coming from the house towards the "Stars?"—I should think below him, near the "Stars." Of course Mr. Pender would walk towards the "Stars," because he had been to the last voter that side.

40,075. Did Mr. Harris go to Mr. Pender or Mr. Pender to Mr. Harris?—I should think from my impression, if anything, Mr. Harris came to Mr. Pender. If walking they might have crossed their paths so that as Mr. Pender came up Mr. Harris was in his way.

40,076. (Mr. Bere.) Did Mr. Pender say anything to you about having talked with Harris about the Matchams?—No, certainly not.

40,077. (Mr. Coleridge) Did Mr. Pender say anything to you about the duke and the Jew, and all that part of the conversation?—No.

C. Pitts.

CHARLES PITTS recalled.

40,078. (Mr. Bere.) Do you remember being at work on the Plains some time before the election of 1865?—Yes.

40,079. And do you remember Mr. Harris coming up and talking to you?—He did not come and talk to me.

40,080. To whom?—To the other man.

40,081. What was his name?—Allery.

40,082. Were you and Allery working together?—In another cellar.

40,083. Whose employment were you about?—Mr. Stranger's.

40,084. What time was it?—The middle of the day.

40,085. Before dinner?—Just about dinner time.

40,086. Are the cellars open to the street?—Yes.

40,087. Could you see from the cellars who was in the street?—Yes.

40,088. When Harris came to speak to Allery did you look out and see anybody in the street. Did you see Mr. Pender in the street?—I saw Mr. Pender, and I think Mr. Michelmore and Mr. Windeatt.

40,089. Where did you see them?—Over by the rails, just by Mr. Bowden's.

40,090. That is opposite you?—Yes.

40,091. Did you see them before Mr. Harris came and spoke to Allery?—I think they went down the other side from Mr. Bowden's.

40,092. On the opposite side of the Plains to you?—Yes.

40,093. Did they cross?—Yes.

40,094. Who crossed to you?—Mr. Pender.

40,095. Did they all come over together?—No.

40,096. Who stayed behind?—I think Mr. Michelmore.

40,097. Still by the rails of Mr. Bowden's house?—Yes; opposite the house.

40,098. Where did Mr. Pender go?—I think he was going to Allery's.

40,099. Where did he go?—He met Harris as he was coming from the cellar towards the chains; what the conversation was I do not know.

40,100. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were you talking to Mr. Harris at the time that Mr. Pender came up?—No.

40,101. (Mr. Bere.) Did you see Mr. Harris and Mr. Pender meet?—I did not.

40,102. Did you see them part?—No; I was in the cellar when they parted.

40,103. For how long did you see them?—I should think they were there the best part of an hour, I daresay three quarters of an hour. I was at work in the cellar, and I would come in and out and see them, and then go back again.

40,104. When you came out of the cellar did you see Mr. Charles Michelmore and Mr. Windeatt standing there?—Yes.

40,105. You say the conversation lasted for three quarters of an hour?—Very nearly, or thereabouts.

40,106. (Mr. Coleridge.) Can you venture to say whether it was more than half an hour?—Yes.

40,107. All the time you saw Mr. Pender he was talking to Mr. Harris?—I was in and out of the cellar.

40,108. How do you know it was half an hour?—It was the dinner hour, and you could see the men who had been to their dinner coming back again.

40,109. You yourself wanted to go to dinner?—Mr. Pender came to me in the cellar after he had left Mr. Harris.

40,110. On what day was this?—It was about a week before the election.

40,111. When Mr. Pender came to canvass you what day was it?—I do not know; he came to the cellar where I was.

40,112. Did he canvass you?—Yes.

40,113. How long did he stay talking to you?—I daresay ten minutes or a quarter of an hour.

40,114. Did he go and canvass Allery?—I do not know.

40,115. What did Mr. Pender talk to you about for a quarter of an hour?—Something about my principles; I did not like their behaviour at the "Seymour Hotel;" my boy was over there, and Fitze and two or three more ordered me out; they said I was a Tory and they did not want me there.

40,116. Was that all you talked about.—About Mr. Windeatt objecting to me every year.

40,117. Tell us all you talked about.—That was pretty nearly all; he wanted me to promise that I would not vote against him.

40,118. Did he tell you anything else?—Nothing in particular; I cannot tell you exactly everything.

40,119. Did he say much more?—Yes, a good deal.

40,120. How much more?—That is past my recollection.

40,121. Did he say as much as you have told us?—Yes, and a great deal more.

40,122. Do you know how long you have been telling us this, about a minute. You have fourteen minutes left to talk with him. Was it not two or three minutes and not a quarter of an hour?—No.

40,123. Will you swear it was more than ten minutes?—Yes.

40,124. And more than half an hour that he was talking to Mr. Harris?—Yes.

40,125. Was he talking to you all the time?—Yes.

40,126. And you to him?—Yes.

40,127. Who talked most, you or Mr. Pender?—Mr. Pender.

JAMES JACK recalled and further examined.

J. Jack.

40,128. (Mr. Bere.) You have handed in a number of accounts taken from the books of Pender and Co.?—Yes.

40,129. We understand from Mr. Pender that all his payments are conducted through the account of the firm?—Yes.

40,130. He has no such thing as a private account in the common sense of the word; is that the case?—No, he has not.

40,131. How are those accounts made out; is there a scroll account kept of Mr. Pender's personal expenses?—Yes.

40,132. By whom is that kept?—By the cashier.

40,133. Is that Mr. Kenworthy?—No, Mr. Hartley.

40,134. From that scroll book are the accounts copied into the ledger of the firm?—They are put into a summary book first and then entered into the private ledger in one gross sum.

40,135. Have you got the private ledger here?—Yes.

40,136. From that summary is the account of Mr. Pender's personal expenses entered in the ledger?—They are entered in one lump sum.

40,137. In what book do those items appear?—In this book.

40,138. Where are they entered in one sum?—In the private ledger; there are no details.

40,139. What is the book which you have there?—A detailed cash book.

40,140. To each item is there a note of the cashier for what purpose the money was paid?—Generally.

40,141. All monies paid on behalf of the borough of Totnes have got an entry of Totnes against them?—Yes.

40,142. In every instance?—I should say in every instance. I know I can take out every item.

40,143. You did not make these entries yourself?—No.

40,144. Those accounts which you have furnished are made up by taking every item to which you find the name of Totnes out of the account?—Just so.

40,145. You do not know anything personal about any of these payments?—Except the 1,400*l.*

40,146. You know nothing of these actual payments?—Some of them I may have remitted myself.

40,147. Can you tell us whether the small sums paid in charity were paid by separate cheques or in a lump sum?—I think with one exception they were in separate payments, either by money order or cheque.

40,148. You have the cheque book here?—Yes, all the cheques.

40,149. Were they generally signed Pender or

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

J. Jack.

27 Sept. 1866.

Pender and Co. ?—Always Pender and Co., by procuration generally.

40,150. To bearer or order?—At a distance always to order.

40,151. And crossed?—I could not say.

40,152. On what banks were they generally drawn? —I suppose on different banks, the Union and the London Joint Stock Bank, those were the only two. We should not send for small sums like those to Overend, Gurney, and Co.

40,153. You have gone through the books; are you able to say that there is no entry in regard to Totnes except those on the face of this account?—Not one. Mr. Kenworthy and myself went over the statement; he attended to the finance; and Mr. Hartley, who is the cashier, drew out the statement, and, as we were expected to swear to it, we went over the books and checked each item.

40,154. (Mr. Coleridge.) Overend, Gurney, and Co. never cashed cheques; they gave you another cheque on their own bankers?—Precisely.

40,155. Who were Barclay and Co.?—Yes.

40,156. (Mr. Bere.) The 1,400*l.* was paid on the 5th of December 1862; where did you get that from? —From Mr. Wilkinson, of London, a discount broker.

40,157. Was that concern afterwards turned into the Joint Stock Discount Company?—Yes.

40,158. You got it from him?—I did not get it from him; he made the payment of 1,200*l.* for me.

40,159. Where did he make that payment?—I asked him if he would do it.

40,160. Did you direct him to pay 1,200*l.* to Mr. Allin, of the firm of Green and Allin, 10 Angel Court, Throgmorton Street, to be remitted to William Webber, draper, Totnes?—Yes.

40,161. From whom did you receive instructions?— Of course only from Mr. Pender, not from any other person.

40,162. Did you receive an order?—I got an order from Wilkinson for the money.

40,163. Did you receive instructions from Mr. Pender to pay to Allin on account of Webber?—I do not know. There was Mr. McDougall there and Mr. Moore; which of them gave me instructions I do not know. I fancy it was Mr. McDougall. I will not be sure.

40,164. This is a letter of Mr. Wilkinson's?—Yes, acknowledging the bill that was sent up to meet this 1,400*l.*

40,165. What became of the 1,200*l.* you do not know?—No.

40,166. What became of the 200*l.* which you kept? —Mr. Moore wanted some money. Mr. Pender told me I had better bring down 200*l.*, which was disbursed as stated in that account.

40,167. That is included in this summary?—In detail.

40,168. The sum of 200*l.* is included in the items given in that account?—Just so.

40,169. Did you come down with Mr. Pender in 1862?—No, shortly after him.

40,170. You were employed as a corresponding clerk?—Yes.

40,171. Did you pay these monies yourself?—No.

40,172. How were these monies paid?—I gave 50*l.* to Mr. Pender, 30*l.* I gave to Mr. McDougall for Field, and the other money I remitted to Manchester. I paid no monies myself except that.

40,173. What was Mr. Field down here for?— There were two of his men down here.

40,174. Who brought him down?—He came down himself, I suppose.

40,175. But he was paid by Mr. Pender?—Certainly. I have all the books and correspondence here, which I will deliver up to you.

W. D. Narramore.

W. D. Narramore recalled.

40,176. (Mr. Bere.) The poll book of Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore was shown you at the "Seven Stars;" will you select it out of that lot (handing some books to the witness)?—I fancy it is one of those.

J. Heath.

John Heath recalled.

40,177. (Mr. Bere.) Will you take these poll books in your hands and select the poll book which Mr. C. F. Michelmore showed you at the "Seven Stars." Do you remember the colour of it?—I do not remember the colour of it.

40,178. You may look at it.—Before my examination is proceeded with, I wish to be allowed to state that to-morrow I expect to be prepared with an answer to the statement made by the court on Tuesday last with respect to what the court considered the unsatisfactory nature of my evidence. Such answer will be founded on a statement of the facts elicited in evidence, and will I trust furnish a complete and satisfactory reply to all the allegations contained in the statement put forward by the court on Tuesday last. In justice to my family and my friends I wish to have the opportunity of setting myself right with the public.

40,179. Cannot you tell us without any minute examination?—I cannot say. It was on a Sunday night that Mr. Michelmore came in, when my smoking room was full of customers.

Mr. T. W. Windeatt.

Mr. Thomas White Windeatt recalled.

40,180. (Mr. Bere.) Is that your brother's handwriting (hands a paper to the witness)?—Yes.

40,181. Do you know what that book is (hands a book to the witness)?—Yes.

40,182. What is it?—Mr. Michelmore's poll book. I think you will find some of his writing at the end and some figures of mine.

40,183. Is that your brother's writing (hands another book to witness)?—No, that is Fitze's; that was my father's canvassing book.

40,184. Whose writing is that, do you know (hands another book to the witness)?—I do not know; I fancy I have seen it before. I think it is one of Mr. Michelmore's clerks, but I cannot be sure. Mr. Michelmore and I went repeatedly through this book of his.

J. Pender, Esq.

John Pender, Esq., recalled.

40,185. (Mr. Coleridge.) What was your object in having a couple of Field's men down here in 1862? —As I have stated in my evidence before, I had a very strong desire to get in purely if possible. From what I saw going on I was told that there was a determination to fight, and, very much against the wish of others, I thought it would be a good thing to get down two of Field's detectives and endeavour to find out who were the parties.

40,186. Did you quarter them at the "Stars" or at the "Seymour?"—I have no idea where they went to; I never saw them. I wished to have them here, and if possible to find how the money was being spent, being under the impression that my people were not spending a shilling improperly.

40,187. Who had personal intercourse with these two detectives?—I cannot tell you that.

40,188. Who engaged them for you?—I believe

Mr. Jack engaged them. I think Mr. McDougall had something to do with them.

40,189. Who did they report?—I cannot even tell you that. I think the chances are that they would report to Mr. Jack if he paid the men, or to Mr. McDougall.

40,190. Who brought the reports to you of what they had found out?—They found out nothing. I afterwards discovered that the money had been thrown away.

40,191. How long were they there?—About a week.

40,192. Did you send for them?—Yes, it was at my suggestion.

40,193. Who wrote up for them?—My impression is, that when Mr. Jack went to London for the 1,400*l.* he was then to engage the detectives.

40,194. Do you know their names?—I do not.

40,195. Were any reports brought to you of malpractices on the other side?—No, there were not.

40,196. You did not find out anything?—No, it was money thrown away.

40,197. Did you have them down again in 1865?—No, I had learnt better.

40,198. You had no detective or mysterious stranger then?—No, I knew that it was all nonsense.

40,199. You had paid them but found they were no good?—None at all. I think they cost 32*l.*

NICHOLAS HEALD sworn and examined.

N. Heald.

40,200. (Mr. Bere.) Are you Mr. Pender's private secretary now?—I am now.

40,201. How long have you been in that position?—Since August last year.

40,202. What were you before?—I began life as a lawyer. I afterwards became a very extensive calico printer, then I was secretary to Joseph Whitworth and Co., and finally secretary to Mr. Pender.

40,203. Are you still secretary to Joseph Whitworth and Co.?—No.

40,204. Has your connexion with that company ceased entirely?—It has.

40,205. Did that cease when you became secretary to Mr. Pender?—Before.

40,206. What account had you at your bankers in July 1865, was it only with one bank?—Only with the Manchester and Salford Bank.

40,207. Did you ever bank with the Consolidated Bank?—Not that I am aware of. I banked with the Manchester and Salford Bank since 1842, long before the establishment of the Consolidated Bank.

40,208. When you were not Mr. Pender's secretary were you interested in his success as a politician?—No; after I left the Whitworth Company Mr. Pender out of kindness to me, knowing that I was an idle man, and anxious to have something to do, asked me to come down to Totnes at the time of the election.

40,209. You were not down in 1862?—No, never before.

40,210. In 1865 was the first time?—That was the first time.

40,211. Did you come down with Mr. Pender or after him?—I do not remember.

40,212. Did you come as Mr. Pender's friend?—I came as Mr. Pender's friend.

40,213. How long after he came did you come?—I do not know whether I was not here before him. I do not know.

40,214. Did you come down with Mr. McDougall?—No, I do not know Mr. McDougall.

40,215. You knew him while he was staying here?—No; I do not think Mr. McDougall was down here last year.

40,216. Mr. McHaffie was down here in 1865?—I do not know that; he might have been.

40,217. Did you wear a white hat with a black band round it?—I did.

40,218. Did you go a good deal about Totnes during the election?—Not at all. I never canvassed nor ever saw to my knowledge a single voter.

40,219. Did you go about Totnes a good deal?—Not much. I was generally shut up at the "Seymour" Hotel, and only left in the evening when the business of the day was over.

40,220. For what purpose were you so occupied at the "Seymour?"—I managed all Mr. Pender's private correspondence, writing his letters for him.

40,221. Had you anything to do with the money part of the correspondence?—Nothing whatever, except in the case of dividend warrants coming down, and I had to re-inclose them and foward them to Manchester.

40,222. Do you remember the dividend warrants coming down from the Telegraph Construction Company?—I do not.

40,223. Did not those come into your hands?—No.

40,224. Did any other dividend warrants come down?—That I cannot say, as I was in the habit of receiving so many, Mr. Pender being so largely engaged.

40,225. Can you say whether during the time you were here any dividend warrants did come down?—I cannot say.

40,226. In that case would the course of business have been to send them on to Manchester?—Yes, they would be sent to Manchester.

40,227. Did you ever see any person whom you knew to be a voter and ask him for his vote?—No.

40,228. Have you done that at no time?—At no time.

40,229. During your stay here you made acquaintance with some people in Totnes?—Not with many.

40,230. Did you become acquainted with Mr. Fowle?—No.

40,231. Do you know him?—No, I do not. I should not know him if he was standing here from anyone else.

40,232. Did you know that Mr. Pender had sent down 2,000*l.* from London?—No, I did not.

40,233. Or that any money whatever had come to the "Seymour?"—No.

40,234. Had you anything to do with the handing of money to anyone during the time of the election?—No.

40,235. Or with anything done up in the shape of parcels, not knowing what they were?—No.

40,236. What room did you sleep in at the "Seymour?"—I slept in a room over the front door, a room looking into the street.

40,237. Do you remember the number of the room?—I do not.

40,238. Do you know was it a double-bedded room?—No.

40,239. Was that the only room which you occupied?—Yes.

40,240. Do you know whether any money was ever found in that room?—I do not know. I never found any.

40,241. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know whether anyone else found any money there?—No.

40,242. (Mr. Bere.) Did you make any acquaintance with the Lorimers while you were here?—No, I never heard of their name, nor was I ever in their shop.

40,243. Did you never have any talk with them during the time of the election?—No, not at all.

40,244. Did Mr. Pender and you discuss the chances of success of the election during the evening?—I do not think so. Mr. Pender was too much engaged with other people about that time.

40,245. Did you go through the poll book with him?—No.

40,246. Or with any person?—I think some person might have shown me the poll book and spoken of the prospects of the election.

40,247. Do you remember who that person was?—I think Mr. Charles Michelmore, but I am not certain.

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

N. Heald.

27 Sept. 1865.

40,248. What was his opinion?—That it was an undoubted success.

40,249. Did he tell you that certain monies were necessary to produce that success?—No; before I leave I should like to ask that that portion of Mr. Harris's evidence may be referred to in which he speaks of what was done by the man with the white hat and the black band round it.

(Mr. Bere.) I do not know that that there is anything particular in that.

(Mr. Longe.) If I remember, he said that the man with the white hat and the black band on it was running about all day with money in his pocket.

(The witness.) I think he has told you that I was the man with the white hat and black band.

(Mr. Coleridge to Mr Harris.) Is that the gentleman whom you saw with a white hat and a black band running about distributing money?

(Mr. Harris.) I do not think I said that he was running about with money in his hand distributing it.

(The witness.) On August the 30th he said that John Parnell had been offered a large sum by the man with the white hat and the black band.

(Mr. Coleridge to Mr. Harris.) Is that the gentleman whom you say offered Parnell a large sum of money?

(Mr. Harris.) I do not know; I did not see him; I only stated what Mr. Parnell told me.

(Mr. Coleridge.) I do not think that Mr. Harris gave us any authority for that statement.

(The witness.) If he did say so, all that I can say is that it was a most wanton and most reckless lie.

(Mr. Longe.) It is more excusable against an unknown person in a white hat than against anyone whom he did know.

(The witness.) I have been identified with that person.

(Mr. Bere.) The statement made in regard to Parnell is, "he came into his garden to see the man with the white hat, who offered him a very large sum."

(The witness.) I copied this from the newspaper. There is another allegation that some servant girl saw the man with the white hat go into her master's house and offer him a bribe of 300*l.* That is as wanton and reckless a lie as the other.

(Mr. Bere.) That is what the girl says.

(The witness.) Then the girl should be produced.

(Mr. Coleridge.) We are not here to clear up the characters of all persons against whom accusations are made, or we may sit here for months.

(Mr. Bere.) This is what was said by Mr. Harris: "It has been reported that the maid looked through "the keyhole, and she says she heard that a large "sum of money, 300*l.*, had been offered—her name "was Honeywill; she peeped through the keyhole of "the door when the man with the white hat and "black band went in, and she heard this man make a "bargain with Mr. Wright for 300*l.*" That is not a statement made by Mr. Harris.

(The witness.) I am reading from the "Times" newspaper containing these matters which has gone through the world.

(Mr. Bere.) And your contradiction will go through the world in the same way—you need not be afraid. The statement in the evidence of Mr. Harris is: "The "gentleman in the white hat and black band had an "interview with Mr. Wright, and after that interview "there was a rumour that Mr. Wright had changed "his opinions or his views."

(The witness.) I wish it to be understood that the gentleman with the white hat had nothing to do with Mr. John Wright and does not know him.

(Mr. Bere.) All that is alleged against you is that you had an interview with him?—I had not.

40,250. (Mr. Coleridge.) It will be sufficient if you contradict it generally. You never paid any money to any voters or promised any during the election?—Never.

40,251. Or since the election?—No.

40,252. Or given anything to anyone?—Neither directly nor indirectly.

40,253. Not even a cigar?—No, for I do not smoke myself.

(Mr. Harris.) The only time that I ever remember speaking to Mr. Heald was when he asked me for one of Captain Pim's addresses.

J. Parnell.

JOHN PARNELL recalled.

40,254. (Mr. Bere.) Will you look at that gentleman (pointing to Mr. Heald); did you ever see that gentleman before?—No, never in my life that I know of.

40,255. You never were offered money by him?—No.

40,256. Did you ever see him with a white hat and a black band on it?—No, the gentleman whom I saw had no black band on his hat.

40,257. He had only a white hat?—Yes.

40,258. Are you quite sure that this is not the gentleman?—Yes.

40,259. Did someone come to you and offer you some money?—Yes; the gentleman was much stouter than this one.

W. D. Narramore.

W. D. NARRAMORE recalled.

40,260. (Mr. Bere.) You could not identify the book by the outside. Just look at that book, and tell us from looking through it whether that is the book which you saw?—I am certain it is not. It was a book with a dark cover. The book which Mr. Michelmore showed me was one which had been made up long previous to the election, and which he had examined with Mr. Chaster at his house.

Mr. J. Heath.

Mr. JOHN HEATH recalled.

40,261. (Mr. Bere.) Can you say whether that was Mr. Michelmore's book (handing a book to the witness)?—I never saw it before.

E. Harris.

ELIZABETH HARRIS sworn and examined.

40,262. (Mr. Bere.) You are the wife of Robert Harris?—I am.

40,263. Are you acquainted with Mrs. Lorimer?—Yes.

40,264. At any time during the election of 1865 did you speak to Mrs. Lorimer about your husband being in Totnes?—I did.

40,265. Was it some time before the election?—I can hardly tell you. I spoke to her many times before and after.

40,266. Do you remember saying anything to Mrs. Lorimer about Mr. Pender being able to get Mr. Harris a situation?—I asked Mrs. Lorimer if she thought he could do so.

40,267. Was that before the election?—That was after the election.

40,268. Are you quite sure that it was after the election?—I am quite sure.

40,269. Do you remember your husband coming home any time before the election and telling you about a conversation with Mr. Pender?—I have heard him speak of it.

40,270. Before the election or after it ?—I think I an hardly tell you when I heard it; it is almost impossible for me to say.

40,271. Can you remember what your husband did ay about it ?—I do not think I could.

40,272. I do not mean the exact words ?—I heard im say that Mr. Pender offered him a situation, or omething of that kind.

40,273. Was that before the election ?—I should ot like to say that, for I do not know. I did not pay ttention enough to those things to remember.

40,274. Did he mention that more than once ?—Yes, several times.

40,275. Did he ever mention that to you in Mrs. Lorimer's presence ?—No, never.

40,276. Do you remember a letter that was written n July just after the election ?—By whom ?

40,277. By your husband to Mr. Pender ?—Yes, I eard of it.

40,278. Was that letter written in consequence of ny wish of yours ?—No, I had nothing to do with it. I knew that he had written the letter, but I had othing to do with the matter.

40,279. You were very anxious that he should leave Totnes ?—I was so, and still am, and should have been very glad if Mr. Pender had got him a situation.

40,280. Did he not consult you about writing to Mr. Pender ?—He told me that he was going to do o, and I read the letter after he had written it.

40,281. Did you also consult Mrs. Lorimer about t ?—No, I had nothing to do with her.

40,282. Was any mention made by your husband to ou of an offer of a situation before the election ?—I hink he did come in and say Mr. Pender had spoken o him about the matter.

40,283. Do you remember what time of the day he aid that ?—I do not at all.

40,284. Or how long it was before the election ?—I could not say.

40,285. Did he mention the value of the situation ?—I think he did.

40,286. What did he say ?—I do not remember the exact words, but he thought Mr. Pender would get im a situation.

40,287. What was the value of it ?—I think I heard im say between 200*l.* and 300*l.* a year, but I heard im talk so much about it that I did not take but very ittle notice of it ; I do not take much notice of any olitical talk.

40,288. There is a very great difference between our husband's statement and Mr. Pender's as to his conversation with Mr. Pender; you may be able to throw some light upon it ?—I do not remember anything about it. I believe that he told me of it before, but I should not like to be certain about it.

40,289. Are you quite certain that it was after the election that you had the talk with Mrs. Lorimer ?—Yes, I am quite certain of that, because we were at a tea meeting out at Staverton, and we had a conversation about the matter.

40,290. (Mr. Longe.) Can you remember whether it was before you heard from your husband of this offer or afterwards that you first proposed asking Mr. Pender ?—He had nothing to do with it at all; that was of my own free will. I wished to get my husband out of Totnes, and I asked Mrs. Lorimer if she would ask Mr. Pender if he could get him a situation.

40,291. (Mr. Coleridge.) You did not mean to tell your husband until you had got some offer ?—I did not.

40,292. (Mr. Bere.) You say you wrote to Mr. Pender ?—I wrote to Mr. Pender, and when I wrote that letter to Mr. Pender Mr. Harris knew nothing of it.

40,293. (Mr. Longe.) Can you recollect when you first spoke to Mrs. Lorimer ?—I have told you.

40,294. I mean with regard to asking Mr. Pender ?—I could not tell the day of the month, or the hour, it would be quite impossible for me to do so. I used to see Mrs. Lorimer very often; we had been friends for a good many years, and many times I mentioned to her my wish that Mr. Pender would get my husband a situation. With regard to telling the day of the month, or anything like the exact time, it is impossible that I could do so.

40,295. But you many times mentioned that to her before as well as after the election ?—Yes.

40,296. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever say anything to Mr. Lorimer to the effect that you wished Colonel Dawkins would get your husband a situation ?—No, certainly not.

40,297. Why did you think of asking Mr. Pender ?—Because I had a very good opinion of Mr. Pender. I thought he was a man who would be likely to do so. I liked Mr. Pender.

40,298. But you knew that your husband had voted against Mr. Pender ?—I had nothing to do with that.

40,299. (Mr. Longe.) You thought perhaps that Mr. Pender would like to have him out of the town ?—I thought that Mr. Pender would be a much more likely man to do anything for him. I did not think much of Colonel Dawkins. I did not think he was a man of that sort who would try to get a situation for anyone. As to Captain Pim I knew nothing about him.

40,300. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you recollect whether your husband did tell you the amount of the situation which Mr. Pender proposed to get him ?—I cannot tell you; he might have said 200*l.* or 300*l.* a year.

40,301. You know that he swore to its being 300*l.* a year before the Committee of the House of Commons ?—That I do not know.

40,302. Has he not told you that ?—I do not believe all that I hear.

JOHN PUTT sworn and examined. J. Putt.

40,303. (Mr. Longe.) How long have you had a vote for the borough of Totnes ?—I lived in Totnes seven years.

40,304. You voted in 1863 ?—Yes.

40,305. Did you vote in 1862 ?—No, I did not.

40,306. In 1859 you had a vote ?—No.

40,307. In 1863 whom did you vote for ?—Mr. Dent.

40,308. How much money did you get for your vote in 1863 ?—30*l.*

40,309. Who gave it to you ?—Mr. Evens.

40,310. Frederick Evens ?—I do not know exactly his name, but he keeps the pawnbroker's shop.

40,311. Where were you residing ?—The higher part of the town.

40,312. That was the first time you had a vote ?—Yes.

40,313. Do you remember anything about an election a month before, in 1862 ?—Yes.

40,314. You did not vote that time ?—No.

40,315. Were you canvassed by Mr. Pender ?—Yes.

40,316. Who canvassed you ?—Mr. Pender himself.

40,317. Who else called upon you for Mr. Pender besides him ?—I believe Mr. Michelmore ; I would not be certain, but I think so.

40,318. Did he call upon you with Mr. Pender ?—With Mr. Pender.

40,319. After those gentlemen left did anyone else call upon you of the Liberal party ?—No.

40,320. Was any offer made you by the Liberal party on that occasion ?—No.

40,321. Had you any promise from the Conservative side ?—Yes ; 30*l.* promised me.

40,322. Another 30*l.* ?—No, I had a promise of 30*l.* to vote for Dent and I did so.

40,323. There was an election at which you did not vote ?—Yes.

40,324. At that time was there any money promised you ?—No.

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

J. Patt.

27 Sept. 1866.

40,325. You were canvassed ?—Yes.

40,326. By whom ?—Mr. Dent.

40,327. Who with him ?—Mr. Kellock I think.

40,328. Did you see Mr. Evens ?—Yes, he did come in and out, but nothing was said about money.

40,329. Did you promise your vote ?—Yes, for Mr. Dent.

40,330. Without any money being offered ?—Yes, and I would have voted for him.

40,331. At the 1865 election whom did you vote for then ?—Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim.

40,332. What did you get at that election ?—49*l.*

40,333. Who gave you that ?—The same Mr. Evens.

40,334. How much did you give him back ?—I did not give him anything back.

40,335. Were you canvassed by the other side ?—I was not.

40,336. Did not Mr. Pender call upon you ?—He called but I was not there.

40,337. No one else came from the Liberals ?—No.

40,338. No offer made ?—No.

40,339. Is that all the money you received for your vote ?—Yes.

40,340. (Mr. Bere.) Is that all, directly or indirectly ?—That is all.

40,341. Did you offer anybody any money ?—I had none to offer.

40,342. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had you ever any money given you to offer ?—No.

40,343. Did any money pass through your hands ?—No.

Mr. C. F. Michelmore.

Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore recalled.

40,344. (Mr. Colcridge.) When were you admitted as an attorney ?—In 1851, in November.

40,345. Then your first doings with elections here would be in 1852 ?—They were.

40,346. Whose agent were you ?—Mr. Baldwin's.

40,347. You were then on the Conservative side ?—I was not on the Conservative side. My partner Mr. Presswell, was on the Liberal side. I was offered a retainer on the Conservative side, which I took, not having any vote or anything more than a professional interest in the borough.

40,348. Did Mr. Presswell have a retainer on the Liberal side ?—No ; he was paid in this way : up to the time of leaving the Liberal party what I believe partly to be the cause was this : we were in the habit of paying the town clerk for taking the parliamentary return to London. We ascertained that other boroughs, Honiton, Exeter, Devonport, and Plymouth, that they sent the return by the guard of the train, and made him a present of a fee I believe of 5*l.* Mr. Presswell would insist on taking the return himself ; and when Admiral Mitchell was the mayor there was a return to be sent up ; I forget now who the candidates were, but it was owing to that that Mr. Presswell left the party.

40,349. He did not leave the party till 1859 ?—I am aware of that fact.

40,350. You acted for Baldwin ?—Yes ; and I am sorry to say I was not paid.

40,351. What were the terms on which you were to act for Mr. Baldwin ?—I was to receive a retainer of 25 guineas.

40,352. You did not receive it ?—No.

40,353. What did you do ?—Bribed many people.

40,354. Give us their names ?—Henry Bartlett.

40,355. Is your memory good about that ?—I am positive about that. I am here solemnly to swear, and I have further evidence which I had given me this morning with regard to him, about being at the inn at the head of the street, that I was there, and I made a remark that it was a shame that men should require so much money.

40,356. What did you at that time give Mr. Bartlett for his vote ?—I arranged with Mr. Bartlett first at No. 1 at the "Stars" hotel. The terms were, that he was to be paid 25*l.* for himself, 25*l.* for James Penwill, and 25*l.* for Nicholas Norrish. But I must tell you a man named McKnight was engaged on the Liberal interest, and he came there and endeavoured to take Nicholas Norrish away. Owing to the money I paid Bartlett for Penwill and Norrish I believe he was unable to do so, and he came out rather in a rage that night, and I said it was a great shame that so much money should be spent.

40,357. 75*l.* between three ?—Yes.

40,358. Bartlett 25*l.*, and 25*l.* to each of the others ?—Yes.

40,359. How did you pay, in gold or notes ?—Gold principally.

40,360. On the top of a cask ?—Yes, and a man called Morris has called it to my recollection that he was present.

40,361. Where did you get the money ?—From Mr. William Hannaford.

40,362. Who is he ?—He lives here. Mr. Hannaford was a clerk to the late Mr. George Farwell.

40,363. Besides the 75*l.* to those voters, how much money did you receive for the election ?—I cannot tell you ; if you call my attention to the names I will tell you.

40,364. What money did you receive ?—We only had 700*l.* to open the ball with, and that came from the Carlton Club. Baldwin had not a screw.

40,365. How did you know that it came from the Carlton Club ?—It was currently reported.

40,366. Whom did you get anything from except Mr. Hannaford ?—No one.

40,367. Was there any mysterious stranger down to assist you ?—No, decidedly not ; it was done too openly ; no stranger was required.

40,368. Do you know how the money came down ?—No.

40,369. You cannot tell us the names of the other persons that you paid ?—No.

40,370. The next election is 1855. There was no opposition, but you recollect Sir John Yard Buller coming down and going away ?—Yes ; he issued an address.

40,371. No money spent ?—No.

40,372. In 1857, Mr. Mills' first election ?—Yes.

40,373. Which side were you then ?—Mr. Mills ; it was Mackenzie and Gregory.

40,374. There were two Conservatives in the field ?—There were for a time, and I was a paid agent on behalf of Lord Gifford.

40,375. You came to the Liberal party ?—It was my first vote.

40,376. Were you retained by Lord Gifford ?—I was ; I was to receive 25 guineas, and five guineas a year for watching the registration With regard to the registration in Lord Gifford's time, the objections that were made were very trifling as compared to the objections on the other side. It would last, perhaps, 10 minutes, all the objections, and I had the brief put into my hands, and I had no trouble. I had five guineas for my five or ten minutes' work.

40,377. On that occasion what money did you receive in bribery in 1857 ?—I cannot tell you, but every election I have been the means of bribing.

40,378. I want a little particularity. How much about in 1857 did you receive for bribery. Did you receive 100*l.* ?—Oh, yes, 300*l.*

40,379. But who found that money ; did Lord Gifford find the money ?—I do not know from what source it came, whether I had it from my cousin or not I do not know.

40,380. Mr. Mills found the money, I suppose ?—Not that I am aware of. If you will allow me, I may say I was at that time what you might term junior counsel.

40,381. Who was the senior?—Mr. Thomas Michelmore was the senior.

40,382. Your uncle?—No, second cousin. He was the senior counsel, and in the elections in which I have been engaged with Brooking Cuming and Mr. Windeatt I have had nothing whatever to do with money matters more than was trusted to me in this way—if I went to them and said I wanted 25*l.*

40,383. Let us get to 1857 at present?—All the money that I expended I received from the Mess. Michelmore.

40,384. Mr. Thomas, and who would be the other?—Jeffery.

40,385. Can you recollect in 1857 whom you paid the money to in bribery?—No.

40,386. Can you recollect any names?—Not unless it is called to my notice.

40,387. Can you recollect any person whom you subsequently bribed whom you bribed in 1857?—I can tell you two names, but I cannot tell the year Shillabeer and Smaridge, but I think that is later on.

40,388. What did votes run to in 1857?—30*l.*, but Smaridge had not a vote then. They were desirous of mobbing me, the people in the town, and I went to Mr. Samuel Huxham's house, and I was there till nearly two o'clock in the morning, and if I recollect rightly, playing at cards part of the time, and when I came out I met Shillabeer with a bell, going round the street and making a great noise. I told him I thought he ought to be ashamed of himself, not that I thought I ought to be ashamed of myself, and I told him it would not be a bad job to come over to me the next morning. Kidneys were prepared for my breakfast, and he eat them.

40,389. Is that what you bribed him with?—No, he had 30*l.* besides.

40,390. Was it in 1857 or 1859?—I gave it to him twice; the third time he was promised, and the reason he did not get it was that the funds ran short.

40,391. You gave it to him in 1857 or 1859?—Yes.

40,392. What is it about William Shinner in 1857. Can you tell me about the account; I see something about a threat. Do you recollect taking away Shinner from his house in 1857?—I do; I took him away in a fly.

40,393. Where did you take him?—To the polling booth, and I polled him.

40,394. What did you give him for it?—I would not be certain, from 25*l.* to 45*l.*

40,395. Did you not tell him that you would turn him out of his house if he did not vote for Mills and Gifford?—Very likely.

40,396. Did you tell him?—I do not know; I will say "yes" if you like.

40,397. Do not say "yes" if you do not remember?—I do not, but it is very likely.

40,398. Have you any recollection?—No.

40,399. Are you positive that you paid him?—Yes, I paid him a sum of money, but I cannot recollect. I took him and brought him to the poll, and got out of the carriage, and he went to the poll booth, and he polled for our side.

40,400. In 1857 you were married?—No, I was married in 1859.

40,401. When did your wife begin helping you in distributing money?—Whenever I asked her.

40,402. On what was the first occasion?—Really I cannot tell you; she paid so much money away at my request.

40,403. Did she distribute any in 1859?—I do not remember any sums, I think it more than probable.

40,404. Would she have given the money to Shillabeer and not you?—No.

40,405. Can you give any further names of people whom you bribed when you spent about 300*l.*?—I cannot recollect.

40,406. In 1859 there was Lord Gifford and Mills, who were you employed by then?—Both by Lord Gifford and Mills.

40,407. What sums of money did you receive to distribute in that year, you or Mr. Michelmore?—Oh, a large sum.

40,408. About what, 1,000*l.*?—No, I do not think so much; it must have been between 700*l.* and 1,000*l.*

40,409. Who did you receive it from?—I think from Mr. Cuming, either directly or indirectly.

40,410. If it was indirectly who did it come through?—I think you have had quite sufficient evidence that sums of money were placed behind looking glasses, and those sort of things, but Mr. Cuming was what we consider in law cognizant of what purpose it was for.

40,411. Did you receive any of those sums of money by going up into the room and taking it off a table?—I do not think so.

40,412. Do you think you got it paid directly or by Mr. Brooking Cuming?—I do not.

40,413. Or by Mr. Windeatt?—No, not upon that occasion.

40,414. Was it not Mr. Brooking Cuming who paid you?—I believe it to be so.

40,415. Can you recollect what he paid it in, in notes, or gold, or parcels, or what in?—Both, I should say. I have gone to Mr. Cuming, and I said, I want 25*l.*, or 30*l.*, or 40*l.*, or any other sum.

40,416. Had you received it for any particular voter with whom you had agreed, or in a lump sum?—For a particular voter, and I should come back and say so and so is all right.

40,417. Was Mr. Brooking Cuming the person with whom in 1859 you would have made that arrangement?—Yes.

40,418. Not with Mr. Holman?—I should not.

40,419. He was at the head and you were second?—That is so.

40,420. What retaining fee had you in 1859?—50 guineas from Mr. Pender.

40,421. In 1859, Mills and Gifford?—25 guineas.

40,422. From each of them?—50 guineas from Mr. Mills and 25 guineas from Lord Gifford.

40,423. Do you recollect promising Shillabeer 30*l.*?—I did.

40,424. Did you pay him?—I did not.

40,425. Why was that?—Because the finances ran short, and we had not the money to pay.

40,426. Did he vote for you all right?—I must tell you, in reference to the last election, Shillabeer must have had 80*l.*

40,427. There is a distinction between 1859 and the last election; you never paid him?—I did not.

40,428. Smaridge, did you promise him?—I did.

40,429. What?—The same as Shillabeer.

40,430. Did he get it?—He did not.

40,431. What became of the 900*l.*?—900*l.* goes a very short way in Totnes during an election.

40,432. You have not told us of anybody in 1859 who you paid money to. There is John Godfrey, did you pay him?—No, but I see in the papers it is said so.

40,433. Did you give a parcel to John Huxham, a parcel of money?—No.

40,434. Did you not tell Baker to go and get a parcel and give it to John Huxham?—Very likely.

40,435. Do you recollect anything about it?—I do not.

40,436. You have told us you got from 700*l.* to 1,000*l.* at that election. You have not told us any person you paid that to?—I gave you the right direction of it, supposing Mr. Parnell made any arrangements, I would say to him I want so much.

40,437. How much did you give Mr. Parnell?—I cannot tell you, but it would be when talking on the stairs, and to Mrs. Michelmore, and other ways; I cannot tell.

40,438. What did she have?—I should think altogether 300*l.*; Mr. Holman had it for Mr. Ledbury.

40,439. Out of the 700*l.* to 1,000*l.* you distributed at the election how much did you give Mr. Parnell, and how much to Mr. Holman; did you give about

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

Mr. C. F. Michelmore.

27 Sept. 1866.

300*l.* to each?—I should not know it at all, more than I paid away myself.

40,440. It was paid to them to pay others?—To pay others.

40,441. Were you to have anything out of the contest?—Not a farthing.

40,442. In addition to what you gave him to give to others, what did you give to actual voters, you or your wife, Mrs. Michelmore?—I never gave anything to actual voters.

40,443. Do you recollect any?—If you call my attention to any of them I can tell you.

40,444. Four I have called your attention to that you promised but did not pay?—That is so.

40,445. I have no means of telling any others; you can tell me; I ask you if you recollect any other names to whom you gave—voters?—I am sure I cannot say particularly.

40,446. Can you recollect?—I cannot.

40,447. Did you show Baker the room in which the money was to be distributed?—No.

40,448. (Mr. Bere.) You knew something of Baker at the election in 1859?—I believe I did.

40,449. Are you quite sure you did not send him to a room in the "Seymour Hotel" to find a parcel of money for Huxham?—I have no recollection.

40,450. Was it not in a room of the "Seymour Arms" you placed the money; did you know that?—No.

40,451. Was not the common mode of distribution at an election leaving parcels in a room and telling people to go and look for them?—I have heard that since this Commission has been opened.

40,452. Edward Baker has sworn that upon oath?—If he says anything of the sort I do not deny it.

40,453. Did you send him to a room in the "Seymour Hotel," and tell him where he would find a parcel of 30*l.*?—If he has stated it I do not deny it.

40,454. (Mr. Coleridge.) You cannot give us the names of any people in 1859 to whom you actually gave money?—I cannot, there are so many.

40,455. How many should you say you gave it to?—I cannot remember.

40,456. How many people do you say you bribed personally in 1859?—I should think five or six.

40,457. That would be in addition to the men for whom you gave to Parnell and Holman money to bribe with?—It would.

40,458. Did you give Thomas Jacob Searle any money to bribe with?—I think I did.

40,459. Can you recollect for certain whether you did or not?—I may say that I did.

40,460. How much did you give him?—I would not like to be positive, either 25*l.* or 50*l.*

40,461. Either one or two voters?—One or two voters.

40,462. Besides Thomas Jacob Searle, Parnell, and Holman, was there anybody else to whom you gave money to distribute?—No, decidedly not.

40,463. Did you give John Huxham any to distribute?—He is a man who has paid.

40,464. In addition to that he was not a man to take it?—He would go about.

40,465. You cannot remember it?—I have no remembrance; I should go and make a negotiation with a man, and then I should go to Mr. Cuming and receive from him the amount I required. I should then give it to Mr. Parnell or Mr. Holman to be distributed.

40,466. In 1859 you had a poll book that you marked, what are the ticks to all these names in the poll book (referring to a poll book)?—Allow me to look at it.

40,467. (Handing it to the witness.) What does that mean?—Bribed.

40,468. Did you bribe Nicholas Browse?—I did not, it was done by Mr. Hamlyn, of Buckfastleigh.

40,469. Did you bribe John Diggins?—I did not.

40,470. Who can tell that?—I cannot.

40,471. Did you ask him?—I think it more than probable; what has he had? because I can then follow, if you tell me.

40,472. In 1859 did you bribe John Diggins?—I did not, I most likely asked him.

40,473. Did you promise him anything?—No.

40,474. William Knapman, did you bribe him?—No.

40,475. Do you know who did it?—I did not.

40,476. Thomas Mitchell, Bridgetown, you bribed him?—No, nothing.

40,477. Thomas Hore Taylor?—I have put him down, he was a man who had a present; he is a very old person.

40,478. Do you know who gave it?—I cannot tell you.

40,479. Did you order the present to be given to him?—That I cannot answer.

40,480. Edward Randle Turpin?—No doubt about him.

40,481. William Allen, Fore Street?—I did not.

40,482. Richard Andrews?—I did not.

40,483. William Blight, Stoke Gabriel?—I should think there was not a doubt about it.

40,484. Did you bribe him, himself?—No.

40,485. Did you direct anybody?—I did not.

40,486. Thomas Blank?—I did not bribe him; he is the 40*l.* gentleman.

40,487. John Brown, "Market House" Inn, did you bribe him?—No.

40,488. John Corney, Fore Street?—He had it.

40,489. James Clarke, New Walk?—I am certain he was bribed; he was a tenant of mine; he owed me a year's rent and promised to pay me, but he forgot it.

40,490. What makes you think he got it?—He was living at the "Royal Hotel" at Plymouth and as soon ashe had the money he bolted.

40,491. Francis Coombes, Fore Street?—I know nothing about him.

40,492. James Dean, Leechwell Lane?—I marked those from the names I received.

40,493. George Sawle Donnall?—He is dead.

40,494. He was not dead then?—He was supposed to be.

40,495. Thomas Frazer, Plymouth Road?—I cannot tell you.

40,496. Thomas Gillham, "Dartmouth Inn?"—He has acknowledged it.

40,497. John Godfrey, Fore Street?—I cannot recollect.

40,498. Samuel Hilley, Fore Street?—He voted against us.

40,499. John Hewitt, Ugborough?—I know nothing about him.

40,500. William Baker Hambling, Fore Street?—I am not sure about that.

40,501. Did you bribe him?—I did on one occasion.

40,502. A man called Harris?—I did.

40,504. What did you give him?—25*l.* or 30*l.*; we had to go into two fields to get to his house.

40,505. Samuel Hill, Plymouth Road, in 1859?—I beg to make an explanation. I did not bribe him directly, but he was bribed indirectly.

40,506. Let us hear about it?—I was the means of doing it. The tenant who lived in a house next to where I was living was Mr. Dean.

40,507. Samuel Hill, junior, did he get anything?—He had a heavy sum.

40,508. Did you give it to him?—I do not think I did.

40,509. Did you order it to be given?—No doubt it was arranged he should have it, whether I ordered it or not.

40,510. How much?—50*l.* or 60*l.*

40,511. John Light?—Mr. Parnell has told you of that.

40,512. Robert Lorimer?—I know nothing about him.

40,513. John Light, junior, Plymouth Road?—He is one that had it.

40,514. Robert Morgan, Fore Street?—Paid to a servant.

40,515. Can you at all recollect whether this is applicable to 1863 or 1859?—All the evidence I have given is 1859.

40,516. Are you certain of that?—I am positive of it.

40,517. There is a peculiar similarity about the evidence you are going to give as to 1863 with the evidence you have given of 1859?—I think you will find that when they are bribed one year they take it the next.

40,518. You are assuming they were bribed in 1859 because they were bribed in 1863?—I have gone through the list with you of the sums that I gave Mr. Parnell.

40,519. Are you sure about the year?—I am positive.

40,520. You forget about Samuel Hill?—No; I saw Samuel Hill was down at this last election. I had nothing to do with Samuel Hill.

40,521. Now was Samuel Hill's case in 1859, or was it in 1863?—I think both.

40,522. Robert Morgan, Fore Street?—I have stated I am certain he was bribed.

40,523. Who bribed him?—The opposite side; he always refused to our side.

40,524. Now Nicholas Manning, the churchwarden, is there anything about him?—I do not know anything.

40,525. James Maddick, Cistern Street?—I know he was bribed.

40,526. Robert Mogridge?—He refused, he got better off.

40,527. George Mingo, Fore Street?—He was promised something.

40,528. What?—About the average sum.

40,530. John Mallett, junior?—He is one of Mr. Durant's tenants.

40,531. They vote without any bribery?—I do not know that any money is paid. I have no notion.

40,532. You marked him?—Yes.

40,533. William Marks, Fore Street?—No doubt about that.

40,534. William Pearse, the "Oxford Arms," do you know who bribed him?—No.

40,535. Did you offer him anything on your side?—Most likely. I think we had a free and easy there.

40,536. I suppose you only have free and easy's where people vote for you?—It was a temptation to do so.

40,537. Jasper Parrott, he voted against you?—Yes.

40,538. Do you know anything about him?—I should not like to tell you.

40,539. Did you offer him anything?—I never spoke to him.

40,540. James Penwill, Fore Street?—I should think a valuable consideration.

40,541. Did you give that valuable consideration?—I did on one occasion.

40,542. When was that?—In Baldwin's time.

40,543. This was the time after Baldwin's?—I cannot tell about that.

40,544. Thomas Pearse, Follaton farm, does he vote against you?—Though I put that against his name I have no remembrance of it.

40,545. You tried him?—I was not certain. I tried everybody.

40,546. Everybody right and left you bribed?—I called on all people who were comeatable.

40,547. John Ferman Phillips?—He was at Torquay at the time. We took some trouble about him, but he beat us at last.

40,548. He voted one for you?—If he was paid on one side he did not care what became of the other vote.

40,549. Pengilley?—I think I sent to him a sandwich.

40,550. What was there inside it?—50*l.*

40,551. Did he send it back again?—Yes.

40,552. Why?—He said he had made better terms. I packed it up as carefully as I could and put it in two; I had it tied up in a piece of paper, and sent it to him one morning at 8 o'clock. William Henry Sawdye, of Newton Abbott, took it up, and he returned it with the remark that he had made a better bargain.

40,553. Do you know what he got on the other side?—I do not.

40,554. William Stoyle, Leechwell Street?—I have tried him. I never succeeded.

40,555. William Satchwell, he plumped for Mills?—That is Mr. Parnell's case.

40,556. Samuel Shillabeer, you offered him money?—He received it.

40,557. In 1859 I mean?—Offered.

40,558. He did not get any?—He did not.

40,559. Did he stand out too late?—No, he voted early. He was promised the money at the previous election, and at the last election he was to have 80*l.* instead of the 50*l.* He was going to be paid at the last election for his vote at the previous election. So he got 50*l.* for the last election, and 30*l.* for what was promised him at the election previously.

40,560. There were two elections between, try and recollect?—He voted for us in 1859, and he was paid.

40,561. Did you pay him?—He was paid twice by me.

40,562. As you paid him, what did you pay him in 1859?—Either 25*l.* or 30*l.*

40,563. Edward Shinner, did you offer to him money?—Yes, to buy a house with, I did.

40,564. In 1865?—I cannot tell you anything about him.

40,565. William Shinner, anything about him in 1859?—He was a tenant of mine and voted against me.

40,566. Did you offer him anything?—Most likely. I think I did.

40,567. Did you threaten him?—No; I do not think I used any threats.

40,568. Did you not tell him to turn out?—I was glad to keep him in.

40,569. Did he pay his rent?—Yes.

40,570. Did he pay it better after the election than before?—I cannot tell.

40,571. John Southwood of Diptford, he voted for you?—Yes, he was paid.

40,572. John Searle, he voted?—I paid him in 1859.

40,573. What did you give him?—He had before 40*l.*

40,574. Was that about his price?—No. I paid him 50*l.* last time.

40,575. Richard Tilley, Fore Street?—I know nothing about him.

40,576. Henry Tapper, he voted one for Mills and one for Dunn?—I tried him, but it was no go.

40,577. How came he to vote for Mills and not for Seymour?—He was paid.

40,578. I suppose on both sides?—No, it was in this way: we knew that the Somerset party was stronger, and the desire was to keep Mills safe, as there was no doubt with regard to Lord Gifford.

40,579. Then, in addition to that, Mills found the money?—I knew nothing about money matters, more than dispensing it.

40,580. Then Samuel Trotman, he voted against you?—He was paid for a certainty.

40,581. Henry Tope?—I cannot say anything about him.

40,582. Thomas Welch, on the Plains, he voted against you?—No.

40,583. Josias Whiteway voted against you?—I think he always voted that way with a consideration.

40,584. Did you try him?—No.

40,585. John Watson?—I know nothing about Watson.

40,586. (Mr. Bere.) When Mr Pender came down

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

Mr. C. F. Michelmore.

27 Sept. 1866.

were you employed or not employed originally as his man of business?—All the way through.

40,587. What did you get as a retaining fee?—50 guineas.

40,588. In 1862?—Yes.

40,589. Was that to include looking after the registration?—It was.

40,590. We have heard from Mr. Pender that a sum of money amounting to 1,200*l.* came to Mr. William Webber, is he alive?—No, he is not.

40,591. Do you know anything about that money?—I do not.

40,592. Did you see any money in the "Seymour" hotel or anywhere else, during the election of 1863?—Decidedly; I saw the money.

40,593. Where did you see it?—It was handed to me at different times.

40,594. Where was it handed to you?—We had a room in the house.

40,595. No. 6 or No. 7?—The room nearest the bridge. I cannot tell the number.

10,596. In that room the money was handed to you?—Yes. There is what is termed the large room, which is the room on the right-hand side as you are going in.

40,597. How much money did you have to distribute in 1862?—Not to distribute. I received the money for the purpose of handing it over to Mr. Parnell and others, to pay the money.

40,598. How much did you receive?—I may state the same sum as you had just now, between 700*l.* and 1,000*l.*

40,599. There was no contest at that election?—I know; but as Mr. Holman told you the other day, it was considered that the promises that had been made should be fulfilled, and the parties should be paid the same as if there was an election.

40,600. Do you know of any sums of money distributed in envelopes?—I never heard of it before this Commission.

40,601. Did you yourself personally pay any voter in 1862?—I have no doubt I did.

40,602. Did you?—I did.

40,603. Is this your poll-book of 1863 (handing it to the witness)?—Is that the one I marked?

40,604. That is the one you marked?—Yes, it is.

(Mr. Coleridge.) Just take that book and take out the names of those with whom you yourself had to do, and the sums of money, if any, which you yourself gave, and in the meantime we will examine another witness.

S. Honeywill.

SARAH HONEYWILL sworn and examined.

40,605. (Mr. Bere.) Were you living with Mr. John Wright as a servant at the time of the election in 1865?—Yes.

40,606. Do you remember any persons who were not previously known to you coming to your master's house during the election?—I never knew that he took any money.

40,607. I did not ask that question, but whether you knew, personally, any strangers who came to your master's house during the election?—Yes, a gentleman or two.

40,608. Just look round the court and see if you can see any gentleman who came?—(The witness looked round the court) Mr. Pender came once.

40,609. Just look at that gentleman sitting in the corner there, with the white hair (referring to Mr. Heald).—I never remember seeing him.

40,610. Did you let Mr. Pender in?—Yes, I think I did once.

40,611. Where did he go to with Mr. Wright?—In the parlour.

40,612. Was the door shut?—Yes.

40,613. How long did he stay there?—Not many minutes.

40,614. Was that the only time he came in?—Yes.

40,615. Did you look through the keyhole of the door?—I did not, nor at any other time.

40,616. It has been said here. Have you ever said you did so?—No, never.

40,617. Have you ever said to anybody that you looked through the keyhole of the door, and saw a gentleman with a white hat giving your master money?—No, never.

40,618. Did you see Mr. Pender give your master money?—No, I never saw it.

40,619. Did you hear the tinkling of sovereigns?—No, never.

40,620. Did you hear the tinkling of any money?—No, never.

40,621. Not at any time in your master's room?—Never.

40,622. Never at any time?—No.

40,623. Did you see a gentleman with a white hat call at your master's house?—I do not remember the hat he wore.

40,624. You saw a person who was a stranger to you, who called upon your master during the election?—I daresay I did not consider at the time.

40,625. Do you remember anything particular happening to your master on that occasion?—No.

40,626. What did you see from the keyhole?—I never saw anything from the keyhole.

40,627. Was it a crack of the door?—No.

40,628. What did you see take place between your master and the stranger in the parlour?—I never saw anything.

40,629. What have you said you did see?—I never saw anything.

40,630. What did you say?—I said they wanted me to say I saw him take the money.

40,631. Who did?—A man named Bartlett, he offered me money to say that I did.

40,632. What is his name?—Dick, I think.

40,633. Where does he live?—At the top of the town.

40,634. What is he?—I do not know what he is.

40,635. Was he an acquaintance of yours before that?—No.

40,636. When did he come to you?—The same day.

40,637. What day, the election morning?—Yes.

40,638. What did he say to you?—He offered me 5*l.* to say that he had taken the money. I could not say what I had not seen.

40,639. Who did he say had sent him?—He said Mr. Kellock of Highfield had sent him.

40,640. What did you say to that?—I said I could not say what I never saw.

40,641. Do you know where Bartlett lives, what house is he in?—Near the top of the town, opposite the Plymouth Road.

40,642. Did he come down to your master's house where you were?—I answered the door to him, and he said there was a gentleman at the "Stars" wanted to see master. I said he was not in; he said, "He is in; look," he says, "he has taken money; not that I know of," he said; "I will give you 5*l.* if you will say so." I said, I cannot, for I never saw it. He went to mother to ask her to get me to come up and say so and so, and he said, if you do it will be a living for you and all your family.

40,643. Did your mother tell you so then?—Yes.

40,644. When?—She told me the same day.

40,645. Since we have been sitting here?—No, she always told it.

40,646. Did your mother ask you if your master had taken money?—No. I never knew that he had. I always said he did not.

40,647. (Mr. Coleridge.) How do you know it now?—I was told it the other day.

40,648. (Mr. Bere.) Had you never seen any money in your master's possession?—No, never.

40,649. Where does your mother live?—We live opposite the new gasworks.

40,650. Are you still in Mr. Wright's employment?—No. I do not go to service now I have not been in service for some time.

40,651. Was it on the morning of the election?—Yes, the same morning,

40,652. (Mr. Longe.) Cannot you tell us a little more fully the conversation?—Not now. I do not know.

40,653. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did Mr. Harris come to you?—He asked me about it; I could not tell anything more.

40,654. Mr. Robert Harris?—No; Mr. Michelmore came to our house, not Mr. Harris.

40,655. What Mr. Michelmore?—Mr. Michelmore of the Plymouth Road.

40,656. What is he?—The one that sat here just now; he wanted me to say it, and I could not say what I never saw. I went to a gentleman in the Kingsbridge Road, I forget his name.

40,657. Try and recollect who that gentleman was?—Mr. Chaster. I was living at Mr. Heath's. They sent for me several times to come over to get me to say that it did take place. I did not go.

40,658. How long after the election?—At the same time.

40,659. As the voting was going on?—No, they were going to London about it.

40,660. Who came to you, Mr. Chaster and Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore?—I went to them about it. They wanted me to say, and they took it down on the paper. I said it was what I never saw. They wanted me to say so.

40,661. Mr. Michelmore and Mr. Chaster did not want you to say so?—They wanted to try to find it out.

40,662. Did the Heaths go on bothering you?—They sent several times.

40,663. Did they come themselves?—No, they sent.

40,664. Who did they send?—A servant.

40,665. What is her name?—I do not know her name.

40,666. Is it the housemaid or the chambermaid?—It is not at the "Seven Stars," but the son who is married.

40,667. She is still living there?—Yes.

40,668. She used to come from them?—Yes.

40,669. Did any servant at the "Seven Stars" ever come to you?—Yes, she did once.

40,670. When was that?—She came one morning. I cannot remember.

40,671. Do you recollect her name?—The housemaid, living there now

40,672. What did she say you were wanted for?—They wanted me to come over.

40,673. Did they tell you what for?—No.

40,674. Did they promise you anything if you would come?—No, they did not promise me anything.

40,675. You did not go?—No, I never went at all.

40,676. Who else bothered you?—I have said Mr. Kellock of Highfield. He did not come to me himself; he sent to me.

40,677. Did you ever go up and see him?—No, I never went to see him at all.

40,678. Did he ever come to see you?—No, he never came to see me.

40,679. (Mr. Longe.) You said the election day, what time in the day?—About 1 o'clock.

40,680. While the voting was going on?—Yes.

40,681. You say Dick Bartlett came to you and wanted this story from you, do you swear to that?—Yes, and he went to my mother's house too.

40,682. That is what you tell us now, on your oath?—Yes, on my oath.

40,683. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who else sent and bothered you besides the Heaths?—I do not know of anyone else.

40,684. Did you ever give any evidence and have it written down?—I always said I never saw him take the money.

40,685. Did you ever say that to anyone who wrote it down?—I said it to Mr. Michelmore and some others.

40,686. Did you have it read over to you?—Yes.

40,687. Did you sign your name to it?—No, I do not know that I did.

40,688. You never did go to the "Seven Stars?"—No.

40,689. Nor to Mr. John Heath?—No, never.

40,690. Nor Mr. Kellock?—No.

40,691. Nobody else asked you?—No.

Mr. MICHELMORE's examination resumed.

Mr. Michelmore.

40,692. (Mr. Bere.) The last witness says that after the last election you went to her and inquired if she saw someone go after Mr. Wright?—I did.

40,693. What did you say to her?—She made a statement to me which I took in writing.

40,694. Which she signed?—The deposition was taken before Mr. Derry the magistrate.

40,695. Have you got a copy of it?—I have not. I believe I wrote it out.

40,696. What was the purport, what she was to say with regard to the bribery that had taken place, and what she had heard had been offered to Mr. Wright. What she says here is, that she never saw anything offered to Mr. Wright at all, but that on the morning of the election Bartlett came down to her and offered 5*l.* if she would say she had seen money offered, what did you hear about that?—That she was to swear that Mr. Wright had 300*l.*

40,697. That somebody came down to tell her to say so?—Yes.

40,698. Was that about the time of the election petition?—No, before that.

40,699. What became of the deposition?—I understood Mr. Tucker of Ashburton had it.

40,700. Then we ought to have it.—Mr. Chaster can tell you what took place before Mr. Derry.

(Mr. Chaster.) She came to me to make a statement.

(Mr. Coleridge.) She said it was not true.

(Mr. Chaster.) She did, and made a statement to me precisely similar to that she has made here, but I believe she named another person.

(The witness Honeywill.) He came as well.

40,701. (Mr. Bere.) Now, Mr. Michelmore, only a portion of those persons with ticks you have given us?—To some I have put ticks without any amount at all. Those are right as far as I remember, and those I have put sums of money against are those that wanted to be paid.

40,702. Did you put down Henry Crawford, George Edwards, George Griffis, John Parnell Searle, Thomas Searle, and John Jerman Phillips Shillabeer, and Henry Draper?—Yes.

40,703. What was the price that they asked?—Some gentlemen were asking 100*l.* apiece, and some 25*l.*

40,704. This election was a close one, it was Seymour and Dent's election. Mr. Seymour got in by a majority of 11?—A majority of eight.

40,705. Was not the price of votes at that election rather considerable?—I think you have had evidence before you that they required one vote more on one side to make the election secure.

40,706. Mr. Bowden went and got a vote?—He got Tucker's vote, and then having recorded that vote, there was an end of the election.

40,707. Besides the sums you actually gave in 1863, what sum of money had you yourself at that election?—As a retaining fee, 25*l.*

40,708. What sum of money did you hand over to other bribees?—I should say 150*l.* at the outside.

40,709. Only 40*l.* more than what you have told us of?—Quite so.

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

Mr. Michelmore.

27 Sept. 1866.

40,710. To whom did you give the 40*l.*?—I only gave 150*l.* at the outside. I will not be answerable to 30*l.* or 40*l.* I had what I required in different payments.

40,711. Did you give anything to Farley at that election?—No.

40,712. You would have been employed to communicate directly with the bribees at that election?—I should.

40,713. You got the money?—I did.

40,714. Do you remember where you got it?—The same at that election as at every other.

40,715. Was it handed to you at the "Seymour?"—Always.

40,716. Can you find any of these men in 1865?—You have the poll book.

40,717. With regard to 1865, did you make up a poll book?—Yes.

40,718. Did you make a poll book in 1863?—I did.

40,719. What became of that one?—Destroyed.

40,720. The 1865 you did not destroy?—No, and a good reason why.

40,721. Why was it?—The Commissioners know.

40,722. But we must have it from you?—It was lost.

40,723. Had you shown it to any person during the election?—As to that mentioned by Mr. Heath and Mr. Narramore, their statement with regard to my having shown it may be correct; but I deny what they stated in this court and at London, that there were remarks opposite the names of Mr. Harris, "sitn.," or that the two names Matchams were linked together, and "200*l.*" put against them. I deny them.

40,724. Who had written out the poll book for you?—Most likely my clerk, but I cannot tell.

40,725. Did you not keep two poll books?—No; but I recognize the poll book now in your hands.

40,726. What colour is it?—There is a spot in the middle of the outside cover to write the name. It is more like a note book, and of a greenish colour. That is it (referring to a poll book.)

40,727. (Mr. Bere.) Did you lose the poll book on that occasion?—It was found in Mr. Smale's sitting room.

40,728. You may take it and look at it.—I have had it in my hand this last week.

40,729. Your clerk made out the poll book for you?—This is my writing in pencil (referring to the poll book).

40,730. Who made out the poll book for you; who wrote out the names?—I cannot tell you.

40,731. Had you a clerk at that time?—Yes.

40,732. Who was he?—Browse, but it is not his writing.

40,733. Do you know young Mr. Windeatt's writing?—Not to be able to swear to it. May I be allowed to look at this book?

40,734. Yes. You can go through it, and if you tell us those that you dealt with in 1865, that will save us a great deal of trouble. How much money did you receive from Mr. Pender after the last election?—Do you mean directly or indirectly?

40,735. Directly or indirectly?—I received my retaining fee of 50 guineas.

40,736. For what?—For the registration, and attending to the election.

48,737. Did you send a receipt for it?—I believe it was paid by cheque.

40,738. What did you get from Mr. Seymour?—35 guineas.

40,739. Did you send a receipt?—I cannot answer you that question.

40,740. (Mr. Bere.) In the accounts that you have handed in, Mr. Chaster, are there specific items for the registration expenses?

(Mr. Chaster.) No.

40,741. (Mr. Bere.) They are all mixed up together?

(Mr. Chaster.) The registration expenses are distinct.

40,742. (Mr. Bere.) Now, Mr. Michelmore, going through the book, can you give us the names of those persons?—John Parnell Searle is the only person that I cannot recollect. I went to several parties, and then they were handed over to the tender mercies of Mr. Parnell.

40,743. Whom did you negotiate with?—Six or seven.

40,744. Can you give us the names?—No; but if you can give me the names I can tell whether I did or not.

40,745. Can you recognize from that book the names of the persons with whom you dealt-in 1865?—No.

40,746. Would not your memory help you?—No; but I can answer to this being my book, and the poll I made.

40,747. Can you answer about your not having had two?—I declare that I had not.

40,748. When did you lose the book?—I gave John Heath or Narramore credit for stealing it, and that was my belief up to three weeks last Sunday, and then Mr. Holman told me, "Your book is in existence," and I said, "I am very glad of it," because Mrs. Michelmore and I have had many conversations about the entries against Harris's name; and I was told the next day by Parnell that the poll book was at Smales', and I said to him, "I will go and get the poll book," and I left the house with the intention, and went as far as the Ashburton Road, and it then struck me that the best plan was that I should not have the poll book in my possession at all, but that it should come from Smale to the Commissioners, so that it should not be said that I tampered with the book at all; and that is the explanation I have to give you of that.

40,749. How much did you give Searle?—It was either 70*l.* or 90*l.*

40,750. Are you sure it was as much as that to John Parnell Searle?—It was a large sum.

40,751. Did you give another Mr. John Parnell some money?—No; there is no one who would take it. The other man is a man of large property.

40,752. Was Mr. John Searle there, the butcher?

40,753. You say, "I paid him 25*l.* after the election?"—Yes, but that was not for his vote. That was a private account.

40,754. This story about you and Narramore, what is the account of it?—I will give you the account of it. I have no doubt that, in the way of a jest, I said to Narramore, "Will 200*l.* buy you over?" But I defy Mr. Narramore to say that that subject has ever been mentioned by him to me, or by me to him, from the time of the election until after the evidence that he gave on the petition.

40,755. Were you not present when John Godfrey and others were there outside Mr. Willis's, the butcher's shop, when there was a conversation about the election, and you told Narramore that he was a very unwise man not to have taken it?—To show that nothing of the sort could have taken place, that I should say he is an unwise man, is this, it is my intention of going to America now, and it was so, and I have only been kept by this Commission. Narramore desired to go with me and act as my clerk, and I said, after the kindness that I had received from Mr. Bryett, I should be very ungrateful to take you from Mr. Bryett's employ unless he consented to its being done. I went to Mr. Bryett and told him what Mr. Narramore had said to me in the presence of Mr. Hare, and the whole thing was discussed, and I thought it was ridiculous that he should leave an employment where he was in receipt of a good salary, as I understood, to go away. I may also state, with regard to Narramore's evidence that he gave before the House, if you look at the evidence you will find Narramore says, "I should not have stated as much "as I have stated had it not been for a threatening "letter which I received this morning (at the time of the petition); and Narramore has told me since that he considered that threatening letter—an anonymous letter—came from me. Instead of that it came from Mr. John Denner, a printer in this town, and the letter was, "Be careful what you say about Mr. "Michelmore, for he will expose something that you "would not like." I do not wish to allude to it, but Mr. Narramore and I have spoken of it since. He says it was entirely owing to that threatening letter which he received that he spoke so much as he did. It is just as likely about the 200*l.* as that he had gone to George Cole and offered him 400*l.* for the pigs.

40,756. Did not you give George Griffis 50*l.* at the last election?—I think I gave his wife the money.

40,757. That is a person that you have forgotten?—Yes. I said, if you mention the names I will tell you.

40,758. Did not you go to a flyman called Dennis?—That was Mr. Cuming. He was in the habit of employing him; I was not.

40,759. Mr. Brooking Cuming was not acting at that election of 1865. Do you mean Brooking Cuming?—Yes, Brooking Cuming; but I have him down as against us.

40,760. Did not you buy a salmon of him, or did not Mr. Pender?—I do not know; but I know that Mr. Dennis sent me one this season, but why, I do not know the reason.

40,761. Were you out with Mr. Windeatt and Mr. Pender canvassing on the Plains one day?—Yes.

40,762. You have heard the story of Mr. Harris about this; give us your account.—I will explain the whole of it. When Mr. Windeatt was canvassing with Mr. Pender. Harris came across to us and spoke to Mr. Pender, Mr. Pender spoke to him. We stood on one side as a master of course, and I should think we were in conversation about 10 minutes or a quarter of an hour, I do not think it was a quarter of an hour; and after Mr. Pender had finished with Mr. Harris he came back to us and said, "I have "been chaffing with Harris. I told him it was a pity "that a man of his ability should waste his time doing "that work in Totnes." We had a chat as we were walking along, until we came to the next voter, and at the dinner table the same remark was brought up, and Mr. Pender then alluded to this at the dinner table, the same conversation that he had related to Mr. Windeatt and myself after he left the house, and that I most distinctly recollect.

40,763. Where were you standing while Mr. Pender was talking to Mr. Harris?—We were not on the water side but the land side.

40,764. What part of the Plains?—We were walking about, walking up and down, whilst Mr. Pender was engaged.

40,765. How far was Mr. Bowden's office off?—No doubt that we might have passed Bowden's office.

40,766. Where had you been before he spoke to Mr. Harris?—I think John Thomas Tucker was the nearest voter.

40,767. Had he been to Mr. Stranger's cellars to canvass any voter?—I think he went there afterwards, but I would not be sure.

40,768. Had he been to the house of another voter before he spoke to Mr. Harris?—We had been generally canvassing.

40,769. While standing near Bowden's, did Mr. Pender cross the road and go to the house of a voter?—No, I believe not.

40,770. Did you see them shake hands at any time, Harris and Mr. Pender?—I do not believe they did, and I think I may say they did not.

40,771. If they had shaken hands you would have seen them?—Yes, I think so; there is one thing that I forgot to call attention to. There was some evidence of my having called on Mr. Wherry, and I wish to give an explanation of that. I saw Mr. Wherry since, and he told me the object of my calling. I think you appear to think that Mr. Chaster had something to do with it, and I wish to explain it was nothing of the sort. At election times I am glad to go the back way, because the front is too hot, and I called at Mr. Wherry to ask if he would come across the bridge and have some breakfast, that is all that took place. You may think that I went for some illegal purpose; it was nothing more than that.

40,772. About the poll books; did not you leave one of the poll books in Mr. Bryett's office in 1865?—No.

40,773. Did not Mr. Narramore find the book and bring it to you the next morning?—No.

40,774. Was there a man called John Willis present when you left it?—I am sure he was not present, because I never left it.

40,775. You offered to buy a house of Edward Shinner?—Yes.

40,776. You went to Bryett's for that purpose?—No, I went to Shinner.

40,777. Did you go with him to Mr. Bryett?—Mr. Bryett had something to do with it.

40,778. You went and told Mr. Bryett that you were going to purchase it?—He declined to have anything to do with it.

40,779. I thought he declined for the other party?—One solicitor in the country is generally engaged for both parties.

40,780. I thought someone else came, and he refused because you had spoken to him first?—I do not know.

40,781. How much did you agree to give for the house?—I heard that it was 400*l.*

40,782. You did not intend to buy it at all?—As long as we had the vote he would have had a present.

40,783. You would have paid the deposit and would not have asked for it back again?—Yes.

Mrs. Honeywill sworn and examined. Mrs. Honeywill.

40,784. Are you the mother of Sarah Honeywill?—Yes.

40,785. Did she come to you some time back at the last election?—She did not come to me herself.

40,786. Who came?—Young Bartlett came.

40,787. What did he say?—He said, "Your daughter has seen Mr. Wright take money," and he said, "You go down and get her to come up, it will be bread for life if she will only tell," and just after that my daughter went down to know if it was true, and she said, "I have not seen Mr. Wright take money at all."

40,788. Is that Richard Bartlett that came to tell you?—Yes; he came to the garden, and got my daughter up to say that Mr. Wright had taken money. I said, "I do not want to get her out of her place," and my daughter went down before I had seen her.

40,789. Your daughter Rhoda?—Yes.

40,790. When did you see your daughter Sarah?—I did not see my daughter at all.

40,791. Is that all that Richard Bartlett said to you?—He came secondly to me and said, "You and "your family will never want money if your daughter "will tell that Mr. Wright took money."

40,792. How long after the first time was that?—I think it was the same day.

40,793. How long afterwards?—I think the next, during the election.

40,794. Where were you when he came to you?—In the front garden; the first time. I had been in the front garden taking up potatoes.

40,795. What did he say the second time?—He said "If your daughter will only come and tell, it will "be money for you and your family for life, if she will "only tell that Mr. Wright has taken money." I said, "She cannot tell if she did not see it." My daughter said she never saw Mr. Wright take money, and I said, "Well Sarah, if you never saw it you could not say it."

40,796. Did you tell that to Mr. Bartlett?—I said

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

Mrs. Honeywill.

27 Sept. 1866.

Mr. Bartlett had better go away, and not get my daughter out of her place to tell a falsehood.

40,797. Did Mr. Bartlett come any more times?—He did not come again after the second time, because my daughter drove him away, and told him he had better go away and not come there bothering.

40,798. Did he tell you why he wanted her to say say that Mr. Wright had received money?—He wanted to put it upon her to say that he took money and she said she never saw it.

40,799. Why was she to say that Mr. Wright took money?—I do not know.

40,800. Did he give any reason?—She told him they were very tipsy, they came round tipsy, and she could not get them away.

40,801. (Mr. Longe.) When was it that Mr. Bartlett first spoke to you?—The same day of the election.

40,802. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who is Bartlett?—He is at Torquay I think, a cabinet maker.

40,803. Richard Bartlett?—Yes, the son of the tailor.

J. Briggs.

JOHN BRIGGS recalled.

40,804. Did you go on the morning of the election to the house of Richard Bartlett?—We came to the tap and had a glass of ale. The "Seven Stars" tap.

40,805. Did you call at Wright's?—We saw Sarah Honeywill at the door. Bartlett goes over and says, "Where is Mr. Wright," and I goes over as well, and she said, "He is down at Captain Fowle's." There was no one in the house, the missus was down there as well. Bartlett says he had voted for Mr. Pender; she said, Yes." I thought he promised the Tory side, she said, "Mr. Pender was here at seven o'clock," and she saw him pay some money in the parlour. Bartlett says, "If you can state that you will get something by it." That was in the passage, and he went into the back kitchen place, and that is all I know about it. I said no more to the girl, she told us, we did not ask her for it, and did not offer her anything to tell it, and she said he voted before breakfast.

40,806. Had you had anything more than one glass of ale?—Not then.

40,807. Had you had a great deal during the election?—After I had.

40,808. Had you not had a great deal at that time?—No.

40,809. Were you not drunk?—That was about 11 o clock in the morning.

40,810. On the election morning there was a great deal of liquor going?—What we had we had to pay for.

40,811. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were you not drunk when you went to her?—No.

40,812. Quite sober?—I do not know; if a man takes a glass he is not sober. It may elevate his senses a bit.

40,813. Had you a glass too many?—No.

40,814. Were you sober?—Yes.

40,815. You have just sworn that you were not, were you drunk or sober?—Sober.

40,816. Fresh?—Fresh, just that, to take another glass if I could get it.

40,817. (Mr. Longe.) When you left Mr. Wright's house what did you do?—I think I left Bartlett there, and I went as far as the polling booth to see how it was going on.

40,818. You thought no more about it?—No, nothing more. Seeing the girl there he went to speak to her, and I went with him.

40,819. (Mr. Coleridge.) You do not know what he said in the back kitchen?—No, I do not know what he said or did.

40,820. (Mr. Longe.) When did you hear next about the matter?—It might be a week or two afterwards. Mr. Wright came to me, and he said, "I hope "Sarah won't say anything about it, I had nothing, "and I was a pint of beer out of pocket," that is what she told me.

40,821. Did you hear that Mr. Bartlett had been to Mrs. Honeywill?—Yes, Mrs. Honeywill told me.

40,822. Did you hear it at the "Seven Stars?"—No.

40,823. When did you hear it spoken of again?—Some time afterwards. Bartlett told me that he had been to Edmonds's office and said I had better go. I said, "I have enough to do to mind my own busi-"ness, and if he wants me he must send."

40,824. Was not the reason you did not go that you could not confirm the story?—I was not going for Bartlett sending me.

40,825. You knew the matter, if a true story required confirmation?—If Mr. Edmonds wanted me it was his place to send. I was not sent there. We saw the girl. I did not ask her.

40,826. (Mr. Coleridge.) Are you quite sure she told you that Pender was there in the morning?—Yes.

40,827. What were the words, say it over again?—Knowing the girl, Dick Bartlett says, "How was it Mr. Wright voted the other side?" "Oh," she says, "Because he was paid well for it."

40,828. Will you swear that?—Yes.

40,829. On your oath you will swear that?—Yes.

40,830. She has said she did not?—She did say that.

40,831. What did she say about Mr. Pender?—That he was there by seven o'clock in the morning, and Mr. Wright voted before breakfast.

40,832. Did she tell you she had seen him paid?—She said it was in the parlour.

40,833. Did she say she had seen the money paid?—No.

40,834. Did she say she looked through the keyhole of the door?—No.

40,835. Did she say her master had been well paid, and that Mr. Pender had been there at seven o'clock in the morning?—Yes.

40,836. Did Bartlett say he had been sent by Kellock of Highfield?—He went to the tap and did not know anything about Dawkins or Kellock.

40,837. You could see the "Seven Stars" from where you were talking?—Yes, just round the corner.

S. Honeywill.

SARAH HONEYWILL recalled.

40,838. (Mr. Bere.) You have heard what John Briggs says?—Mr. Briggs did not say as much as Bartlett.

40,839. He says Bartlett spoke to you, and you said your master had some money for his vote. Did you tell him that?—No.

40,840. We shall have Bartlett here, and have the oaths of two witnesses against your single oath, and if Bartlett confirms Briggs' story that will render you liable to be committed by a magistrate for perjury and tried for perjury at Exeter. Consider, will you swear that Bartlett mentioned Mr. Kellock's name?—He said he came there by Mr Kellock

40,841. You have heard what Briggs has said, that you told them that Mr. Pender had been there at seven o'clock in the morning?—I do not think he did come at seven o'clock in the morning.

40,842. What o'clock did he come?—I think he did call that day.

40,843. In the morning?—Not so early as seven o'clock, I think.

40,844. What o'clock was it?—I do not know. cannot say. I think after Mr. Wright had voted.

40,845. Are you perfectly certain and will you swear that you did not tell Briggs and Bartlett that your master had received money for his vote?—No.

40,846. You know that your master did receive money ?—I know he did now.

40,847. When did you know of that ?—A day or two ago I was told of it.

40,848. (Mr. Coleridge.) Will you swear that you did not say anything about your master having been paid that morning to either Briggs or Bartlett ?—No. They wanted me to say that he had had money.

40,849. It is an awkward position. If Bartlett comes and corroborated him there are two oaths to one, and you may be indicted for perjury. You understand that ?—I can swear I never said that. They wanted me to say so.

40,850. What did you say to that ?—I said I could not say what I had never seen.

40,851. Was that all you said ?—Yes.

40,852. (Mr. Longe.) Did you tell them that Mr. Pender had been there ?—No.

40,853. You knew he had been there ?—Yes.

40,854. At the time that they came ?—No. They came after dinner time.

40,855. At the time they came you knew that Pender had been there ?—But I did not see him give Wright the money.

40,856. You knew that Mr. Pender had been in your house that morning ?—Yes.

40,857. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who had been with him ?—I do not know, I did not see anybody.

40,858. Did you see Mr. Pender come himself ?—Yes, I did.

40,859. What room did he go to ?—He went to the parlour.

40,860. Was the door shut after he went there ?—I do not know.

40,861. Where were you ?—I let him in and then went to my work.

40,862. Was the door shut ?—I let him in.

40,863. Did you shut the door ?—No, I do not remember.

40,864. Did you see him go out ?—No, I do not remember seeing him go out.

40,865. Do you know when he went ?—No.

40,866. Do you know how long he was with your master ?—No.

40,867. Did your master tell him what room to go to ?—No.

40,868. How long after Mr. Pender had been there that Briggs and Bartlett came ?—They came about dinner time ; they passed by.

40,869. Was that 11 o'clock ?—No, about 1 or 2 o'clock.

40,870. Are you certain ?—I am not certain within an hour.

40,871. It may have been 12 ?—It was about 1 o'clock, I know.

40,872. May it have been 12 ?—It was 1 oclock.

40,873. You say you are not certain ; was it 2 o'clock ?—It was 1, I think.

40,874. What time was it that Mr. Pender came ?—I do not know.

40,875. How do you recollect one time and not another ?—I do not know.

40,876. You speak about 1 o'clock when Briggs and Bartlett came ; what time did Pender come ?—I do not know.

40,877. Was it before or after breakfast ?—I do not know, I was at my work.

40,878. What time did you get up ?—Early in the morning.

40,879. Was it 6 o'clock ?—7 sometimes.

40,880. How long after you had been up did Mr. Pender come ?—Not till the forenoon, I think, after Mr. Wright had been and voted.

40,881. Will you swear it was not before ?—I cannot tell whether it was before or after.

40,882. What time did he vote ?—I cannot tell, perhaps before breakfast.

40,883. What time does he breakfast ?—That depends.

40,884. What time did he breakfast that morning ?—After he came back.

40,885. What time did he come back ?—About 9 o'clock.

40,886. He voted before breakfast ?—Yes.

40,887. Was it not before breakfast that Mr. Pender came ?—No.

40,888. Will you swear that ?—Yes.

40,889. What time was it he breakfasted —In the forenoon.

40,890. Was he at breakfast when Mr. Pender came in ?—No.

40,891. Had he done his breakfast ?—Yes, he had.

40,892. Did Mr. Pender come in between the time he had breakfast and the time that Bartlett and Briggs came ?—No.

40,893. When was it ?—I cannot say.

40,894. Did Mr. Pender come after Bartlett and Briggs ?—I do not know.

40,895. Did not Mr. Pender come early in the morning ?—He did not.

40,896. Did he come immediately after your breakfast ?—He came in the forenoon.

40,897. Briggs and Bartlett you swear came about 1 o'clock ; did Mr. Pender come before ?—Before.

40,898. Did he come between your master's breakfasting and the time that Briggs and Bartlett came ?—I do not know.

40,899. Did not he come before your master went to the poll ?—No, he did not.

40,900. Did he come between the time of your master going to the poll and your master breakfasting ?—He came in the forenoon.

40,901. Between the time of your master having breakfast and polling ?—It was after breakfast ; it was in the forenoon.

40,902. It was between breakfast time and the time that Briggs and Bartlett came ?—I think it was, but I could not say.

40,903. Will you swear it was not ?—I cannot swear it was not, and I cannot swear it was.

40,904. (Mr. Bere.) Did Bartlett say to you, "Has Mr. Wright voted for Mr. Pender ?"—He asked me whom it was he had voted for, and I said I did not know, and he said "He has had money."

40,905. What did you say to that ?—

JOHN PENDER, Esq., further examined. J. Pender, Esq.

40,905*a*. (Mr. Bere.) Do you remember going to Mr. Wright's on the morning of the election ?—I think I called at Mr. Wright's betwixt 11 and 12.

40,906. Not before ?—No, I walked up the street about that time.

40,907. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you, I ask you, as it has been stated, pay Wright any money in his parlour ?—I never paid Wright one farthing, and I never spoke to Wright about money at any time or in any shape.

40,908. Did you often write letters without signing them ?—Very seldom, but I know my own handwriting.

40,909. Is that your handwriting (handing a letter to the witness) ?—Yes.

40,910. That is ?—Yes, and I am astonished it has not been signed.

40,911. Perhaps you will explain one or two things in this letter :

"28 Pall Mall

"My dear sir March 15th, 1866.

"I have your favour of yesterday. I advanced the "money to Mr. James in bank notes on the day of the "election about 12 or 1 o'clock. The understanding "was that he was to write me that he had held certain "shares as security on my account. See copy of his "letter sent to you yesterday. There was no formal "deed. I presume he wanted the money to be pre-"pared to pay should Edmonds have demanded it. I "understood that Edmonds has asked for the money

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

J. Pender, Esq.

27 Sept. 1866.

"to be returned. I got the notes from Mr. John "Bowden, and gave him my secretary's cheque (Mr. "Heald) on the Manchester and Salford Bank, Man- "chester, for the amount, so that my name should "not appear in any way."

What was the reason for your keeping your name out of the transaction?—I did not wish to give it anything like the colour of bribery, if you choose to call it so, on that particular day.

40,912. Was not the reason that you did it that way that you thought it was a questionable transaction coming at that time?—No; anything occurring on that day might have a wrong interpretation put upon it; but I explained in that note, I think, very much what I gave in evidence, and from my recollection of the transaction I think you will find my evidence very much the same.

40,913. There is another thing to explain here. This letter is written to Mr. Tucker, you know. After mentioning the names of the committee, and what you know of them, it goes on: "I fear from the "way in which Mr. C. Michelmore's money has been "sent to him, that it may make him an agent. I did "this at Mr. Chaster's suggestion, as Mr. M. asked for "a loan of 100*l.* This I declined, as I felt it might "compromise me." Had he asked you to send him 100*l.*?—He asked me for a loan of 100*l.* I may as well state, and I do it with considerable diffidence and delicacy, I would have been very much better pleased, for reasons which you may have observed, if Mr. Charles Michelmore had not been with me. He canvassed with me, and I would have been better pleased if I had been acting without him. I was interested in Mr. Charles Michelmore at the election of 1862, because he conducted himself in a very much better way, and I took occasion to speak to Mr. Charles Michelmore at that time, and I simply told him that unless he kept himself correct and in such a state as I could go about with him, I would rather not; in fact I spoke to him at the time in that way, trying to get him to do different. After the election he wrote to me for 100*l.* I then consulted as to how that money should be given, for I felt it might compromise me in some degree, and I wrote to Mr. Chaster and he said, "You had better send him 50*l.* as a retaining fee."

40,914. Was his retaining fee paid twice over?—Just once.

40,915. Then there had been no agreement to give him his retaining fee before?—That was arranged with Mr. Windeatt.

40,916. Had Mr. Windeatt paid him before. Was he paid twice over?—I should say not; I am not aware of it.

40,917. Then in reality his asking for a loan of 100*l.*, and getting the 50*l.* retainer, was only the amount due?—Nothing more than his due.

40,918. Then you suggested his having another 25*l.*?—To whom?

40,919. Who suggested that he should have another 25*l.* to look after the registration? He had 75*l.* in all by your accounts?—No, the other 25*l.* you will find I did not pay. You will find only 50 guineas in my account.

40,920. Then you go on to say, "As his receipt "cannot be found, I fear he never sent one; but as "Mr. Windeatt paid him the cheque as for registra- "tion, a receipt for it now would be sufficient ac- "knowledgment to Mr. Windeatt." What does that mean?—Allow me to see the letter (it was handed to the witness). I believe it was intimated to me, when the petition was brought forward, that the 50 guineas that I sent to Mr. Michelmore would make him an agent. I then sent a letter; understand, I have a copy of the letter at my own office, so that there could be no question about Mr. Michelmore being the agent, because the money was sent from my office to pay him as an agent, therefore there could be no question about it; there was no need to take his receipt as to registration.

40,921. (Mr. Bere.) Was not it, that there was a danger of Mr. Michelmore's agency being brought before the Committee, that Mr. Michelmore having distributed money, his distributing the money as your agent would affect it?—Yes; but I stated at the same time, as having paid whilst the letter was in existence, there would be no use, except that it might be registration expenses, and not election. I may mention to you, with regard to the registration, I had not paid him any expenses before, and I thought there might be a claim for that. I do not know what he was justly entitled to.

40,922. He has been paid some sums of money from time to time by Mr. Chaster?—That is a thing that I am not cognizant of at all. I may mention that that letter not being signed was evidently written in a hurry, there was no intention that that letter should not be signed at all.

40,923. (Mr. Coleridge.) It is undoubtedly your handwriting?—It is unquestionably.

40,924. (Mr. Bere.) What made you call on Wright at that time of the day?—I think, if I remember properly, I had been dining with Mr. Seymour at a gentleman's in the neighbourhood, I forget his name; Mr. Carey, I think, and there was a wish expressed by Mrs. Carey and her daughter to be present at the nomination. I remember calling one day, but it could not be the same day. They occupied a room in Wright's on the day of the nomination.

40,925. Did you pay for that room?—No.

40,925*a*. You called upon Wright after he had voted?—I cannot remember the circumstances. I think I had to call one day merely to see whether the room was ready, or something of that kind. I do not remember the circumstances, but there could be no special object I had in calling; there was nothing at all betwixt us.

40,926. Did you call on any other voter during the election day?—I called upon Mr. James. Yes, and walking up and down the street, I think I went into one or two other places; in fact, the election was over at that time; the thing was really done.

40,926*a*. The election was over at 10 o'clock?—Yes, I was told so.

40,927. (Mr. Longe.) Mr. Michelmore canvassed with you?—Once or twice; several times.

40,928. He used to carry the poll book and make marks in it?—Yes, but I never attached importance to any poll book but Mr. Chaster's.

40,929. When you canvassed with Mr. Michelmore or Mr. Windeatt, in the case of many voters, there was an understanding as to what operations would be brought to bear on them?—No, nothing of the kind.

40,930. Do you remember canvassing John Nickells?—No; I do not; unless you draw special attention to him in some way.

40,931. Do not you remember occasions where you canvassed a man and got a refusal?—Oh, I got many refusals.

40,932. Then there was a mark made against such a man?—That was carried on in the earlier time. Old Mr. Windeatt was the man who carried the book, and he really went out with me as a rule; it was quite an exception when Mr. Michelmore or young Mr. Windeatt went with me.

40,933. You said you would call again, where you did not succeed the first time?—I rarely called a second time.

40,934. But other people did call?—No; I do not know what they did. I am not answerable for other people.

40,935. You do not know of any connexion between your visits and the visits of Mr. Michelmore or someone afterwards?—No.

Mrs. Sophia Michelmore sworn and examined.

40,936. (Mr. Bere.) Are you the wife of Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore?—I am.

40,937. You have taken a little interest in the proceedings at elections?—I have taken considerable interest and have been engaged in it.

40,938. When did you first take an interest in the elections of Totnes?—I really can hardly tell you.

40,939. I believe that your husband began first of all about 1852, he told us?—I have nothing to do with that.

40,940. In 1857 had you anything to do with it?—I am not aware that I had.

40,941. In 1859?—I think it was 1859 first.

40,942. What did you do in 1859?—I think it was in 1859 that I sent those parcels to Mr. Holman and Mr. Parnell, but I am not sure. I cannot remember.

40,943. Where did you get them from?—My husband put the notes into the respective books, and merely requested me to wrap them up and direct them, in order that no suspicion of his action in it might appear.

40,944. Did you see what the notes were that he put in?—No.

40,945. You saw that notes were put in?—Yes; I did see.

40,946. And then you folded up the books and directed them?—I folded up the books and directed them.

40,947. By whom did you send them?—The one to Mr. Parnell I have no recollection of sending. I am not sure whether I sent it or not.

40,948. Did he call for it?—No; I do not know that he did.

40,949. You do not know?—No, I do not know. The parcel to Mr. Holman I gave to my eldest girl, and said to her, "Be sure you do not give this parcel into any other hands than Mr. Holman's;" and when she came back she said she had seen Mr. Holman and given him the parcel.

40,950. Was that all you had to do with the election of 1859?—That is all.

40,951. Did you meet anyone on the stairs of the "Seymour" hotel at that election and hand over some money?—No.

40,952. In 1862 had you anything to do with the distribution of money?—No.

40,953. In 1863 had you?—In 1863, on the day of the nomination, I was there with other ladies; Mrs. Jeffery Michelmore was one; but whether Mrs. Windeatt was the other I am not sure. We were at the "Seymour" on the day of the nomination, and we were sitting, as far as I remember, in the sitting room, what number I cannot tell you, at the end of the passage downstairs, and my husband came to the door and told me I was wanted. I went out, and he said, "Mr. Brooking Cuming wants you." I went upstairs.

40,954. Whereabouts upstairs?—I met him on the stairs, and he said to me, "I want you to help me to do something for me." I said, "With all my heart, I will help you;" and then he told me there was something he did not wish to be mixed up with, if I would go upstairs into the room that he pointed out. I do not remember the number, but as far as I remember, there used to be a bedroom at the head of the stairs, and it was the first door on the right hand after you passed that room.

40,955. Had you to turn to the right or the left?—I turned to the left, but this door was on the right hand.

40,956. Was it a bedroom?—Yes, it was a bedroom.

40,957. With one bed or two in it?—One bed.

40,958. What did you find there?—I found on the bed some money.

40,959. How was it wrapped up?—I think it was loose, as far as I remember. It had totally passed from my memory until my husband told me about it.

40,960. Was it in gold or in notes?—It was partially in gold and partially in notes.

40,961. What did you do with it?—I divided it and put it into bags.

40,962. Did you take the bags with you?—I think I found the bags there ready for the money.

40,963. Did you count it as you put it in?—As far as I remember, it was 75*l.* in each parcel.

40,964. How many parcels?—Only two parcels, one for Mr. Holman and the other for Mr. Samuel Parnell.

40,965. What did you do with them?—I waited till there came a knock at the door, and the first person who came to me was Mr. Holman. He was standing at the doorway, with his hands behind his back, and I simply put the bag into his hands, and I think, with regard to Mr. Parnell, he walked away from the door and I followed him, and I went downstairs to the sitting room.

40,966. Was that all you had to do in 1863?—Yes.

40,967. Did not you send some money in 1863, in a book called "The Adventures of Ledbury?"—I do not know what year.

40,968. There are three occasions.—Two occasions of books; but I think Mr. Parnell in his evidence mentioned that there was a sandwich sent to him.

40,969. Your husband has mentioned a sandwich?—Yes; but that was to Richard Pengilley. I think the sandwich that was sent to Mr. Parnell must have been the same that Pengilley refused to take unless he had a better offer.

40,970. In 1865 had you anything to do with the election?—No.

40,971. Are those the only sums of money you distributed?—The only sums, all that have passed through my hands.

40,972. Your husband was not employed in 1865?—No, he used to work with Mr. Windeatt, but that was all.

40,973. No money went through your hands at all?—No.

40,974. Were you ever sent by your husband to negotiate with any voters?—No.

40,975. Or to see their wives?—No.

40,976. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know when your husband was first paid for his services in 1865?—He received a cheque, or, as Mr. Pender told you, he had written to Mr. Pender to ask for 100*l.*, and in reply he said he could not possibly entertain that proposition, but he enclosed 50*l.* for the service, and by the same post Mr. Windeatt received 50*l.* also.

40,977. When did he receive 25*l.* from Mr. Seymour?—He wrote to Mr. Jeffery Michelmore for it, and I am not sure whether he sent any receipt to Mr. Pender; but Mr. Jeffery Michelmore sent him 25*l.* and requested him to acknowledge the receipt of it, which he did.

40,978. (Mr. Bere.) You are quite certain that you had no money in 1865?—Quite sure.

40,979. Do you remember giving Mr. Chaster an I O U?—That was nothing to do with the election. My husband wanted some money and I asked Mr. Chaster. He requested me to write a note, which I did, and I sent the I O U inside it.

40,980. Was not there a sum of 10*l.* paid you, either the election of 1863 or the election of 1865?—Yes, I had forgotten that, 1865.

40,981. What was it paid for?—Mr. Chaster told me he had been requested to give me 10*l.*, owing, I suppose, to what I had told my husband; he asked me what Mr. Deane's expenses would be, and I said if he travelled first class he could not come down for less than 10*l.*

40,982. Who was Mr. Deane?—He had been living here, but was living at Eastbourne.

40,983. He had been living next door to you?—Yes; we were on intimate terms with him.

TWENTY-NINTH DAY.

Mrs. S. Michelmore.

27 Sept. 1866.

40,984. Did you write to him?—I wrote to him to tell him about the election; I, knowing that he was an exceedingly nervous man, wrote to his wife to come with him; she said it was impossible that she could do so. She naturally wished to come, and I think it was suggested by Mr. Windeatt that she should go up. I started on the Friday.

40,985. You went up with the 10*l.*?—Oh, dear no; I merely went up to see them; he came down with me; the 10*l.* was paid to me after he came down here.

40,986. Did you pay the expenses, or did he?—He paid his own expenses.

40,987. And you yours?—And I mine.

40,988. You took your expenses out of the 10*l.*, did you not?—No.

40,989. How did you get your expenses paid?—My husband let me have it. I had some interest paid on a mortgage on which my money was laid out, and a part I had from my husband.

40,990. Do you mean to say you were not paid the expenses you had incurred on behalf of the Liberal party?—I have no doubt my husband was. I have not received any money myself.

40,991. Was not Deane's rent in arrear?—No.

40,992. That was some time before?—No. The thing was this, that he left about Easter; he had paid his rent up to Midsummer, and the Liberal party took the rent; and by an arrangement come to, my husband and Mr. Windeatt talked it over in the garden, and I was present at the time, and it was arranged that they should take in the rent from Midsummer.

40,993. It was 16*l.*?—Yes.

40,994. The rent was paid?—Yes.

40,995. Was it let to Samuel Hill; the house was not kept?—The house was not kept.

40,996. When was the house let?—It was not let till a considerable time after that.

40,997. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know Mr. Deane's handwriting?—Yes.

40,998. Look at that letter?—Yes.

40,999. Is there anything else you can tell us about the election?—Not that I am aware of, except at the time my husband stated just now he had forgotten certain circumstances. I went to Eastbourne on the Sunday morning. On the Monday there came a letter from Mr. Robert Harris, about daybreak, containing a threat, as far as I remember the letter, as much as to say that if he came and voted for the Liberals the Conservatives would prosecute him, and if for the Conservatives the Liberals would prosecute him, or something to that effect.

41,000. Did you see the letter?—I did.

41,001. Just read that letter and tell me whether it was similar to that?—(Referring to the letter) Oh, no; it had not that beginning at all.

41,002. It was an intimation that it was not a good vote; or if he voted the Whigs or Conservatives might prosecute?—Yes, the Conservatives or the Liberal might prosecute him, and he wound up his letter by saying, "Don't be advised by either Whig or Tory; don't be deceived."

41,003. I think this is the pattern of the one sent to you: "We have two splendid Conservative candidates, "but I find by an Act of Parliament, viz., the 6th "Vict. cap. 18, sect. 79, 'That no person is entitled to "'vote at any election for members to serve in par- "'liament unless he shall continue to reside within the "'borough or seven miles thereof, and any person "'violating this enactment is liable to indictment for "'misdemeanor.' I should therefore advise you, "under the circumstances, not to vote at all, because "if you were to vote for us the Whigs would prose- "cute you, and the same by the Conservatives if you "vote for the Whigs. At any rate do not be deceived "by any political partisans, as you have a wife and "young family."—No, he had not put in about the wife and young family.

41,004. As you have a wife and young family to look to. "I know the Conservatives are going to prosecute "some of the Whigs if they vote." Was that in?—No. I think it ended, "Do not be deceived by any political "partisan." I replied to the letter, and the remark I made was, "It is fortunate for you the Liberal agent is with you." I went afterwards to the station with Mrs. Deane to find out whether I could telegraph to my husband that I had received this letter. Finding that I could not without its being public to the Totnes people I left it, and when I went out of the office I found Mr. Rennie, and I immediately turned round to Mrs. Deane and said, "Emma, that man has come for your husband." We walked home, and had not been in two minutes before we heard a knock at the door. My bedroom door faced the front door, and I opened it, and saw that my suspicions were confirmed. In walked Mr. Rennie and had a conversation with Mr. Deane in the passage, asking him to vote for the Conservatives.

41,005. Mr. Deane refused?—Yes. I thought that was inconsistent with that letter which had been received. Mr. Deane promised before he left that he would come if necessary, but he, being a poor man in a certain sense, he could not afford to come without paying his travelling expenses, and he said, "If you "will pay my expenses, I want nothing more, I will "come."

41,006. (Mr. Bere.) I suppose from time to time, though you did not distribute any more money for your husband, your husband made you acquainted with the sums entrusted to him?—No. The only ones I knew of was Mr. Parnell's, Mr. Holman's, and that sandwich I spoke of to Richard Pengilley.

41,007. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you ever given any money to Thomas Jacob Searle?—No.

41,008. Did not money pass through your hands at municipal elections?—Never.

W. J. Willis.

WILLIAM JOHN WILLIS recalled.

41,009. (Mr. Bere.) Did you see Narramore about the election of 1865?—Yes.

41,010. Have you ever seen that book before? (hands a book to the witness)?—No. I have seen it here to-day.

41,011. Did you ever see the poll book in Narramore's hands?—Never.

41,012. Did he show you a poll book?—Yes.

41,013. Did he say whose it was?—Yes.

41,014. Whose was it?—He told me it was Mr. Michelmore's?—Did you open it and look at it?—No, he took it out of his pocket.

41,015. How long was that before the election?—Several days.

Adjourned to to-morrow at half-past 10 o'clock.

THIRTIETH DAY.

Friday, 28th September 1866.

Mr. ALEXANDER MCDOUGALL sworn and examined.

41,017. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live?—At Manchester.

41,018. How long have you been acquainted with Mr. Pender?—Many years. I am Mr. Pender's neighbour, and intimately connected with him.

41,019. You were the first person to introduce him to political life, or rather to parliamentary life?—If I were to say "yes" to that it would not be correct.

41,020. Did you negotiate with him about standing for the borough of Great Grimsby?—I saw some of the leading Liberals, and they were disposed to invite him to stand. There was no negotiation, but I was acquainted with the mayor, and they were anxious to have a candidate, and I named Mr. Pender.

41,021. At whose suggestion had you gone?—The suggestion arose from the circumstances under which we were placed in the manufacturing districts at that time. We were aware that Mr. Pender had been a successful merchant; he had had a very intimate knowledge both of the Indian trade and the American trade, and many were anxious that we should have Mr. Pender and other such gentlemen in parliament, under the impression that they would be useful in aiding the Government in suggesting measures to relieve the wants of the unemployed operatives in the prospect of a cotton famine. That is the thing that suggested our asking Mr. Pender to go to parliament.

41,022. Did you ask Mr. Pender whether he would be inclined to go to parliament?—We had many conversations on the subject, myself, Mr. Pender, and other friends.

41,023. And you communicated that to persons at Great Grimsby, about his standing?—Yes.

41,024. When did you first learn that there was likely to be a vacancy at Totnes?—I heard of the illness of Lord Gifford. Mr. Pender heard of it. Mr. Pender is an acquaintance of Lord Gifford's family, and I heard of it I think in Mr. Pender's house. I do not know whether I heard it from Mr. or Mrs. Pender, or some member of Lord Gifford's family.

41,025. On hearing that did you yourself come down to Totnes?—I did.

41,026. What month was it?—I am not quite sure about the month, either October or November in 1862.

41,027. Whom did you see when you came to Totnes?—I first called upon Mr. Paull, the Independent minister, of whom I had some slight knowledge previously. He introduced me to Mr. Windeatt, and I made his acquaintance, to Mr. Cuming, to Mr. Charles Michelmore, and to Mr. Jeffery Michelmore; I saw all those gentlemen.

41,028. Where did you see them?—I saw Mr. Paull at his own house, Mr. Windeatt at his own house, and Mr. Cuming at his own house, I think; I cannot recollect exactly where I saw them.

41,029. After you had been introduced to those several gentlemen did you have a meeting with them at the "Seymour" hotel; did they come and talk about a candidate, and about Mr. Pender coming?—As far as I recollect, not when I first came to Totnes.

41,030. Did not you mention Mr. Pender's name the first time?—I did. I came for that purpose.

41,031. Did you see Mr. Chaster?—I think when I first came I did not see Mr. Chaster, but the second time I did.

41,032. Did you find Mr. Pender's name was favourably received by those persons to whom you mentioned it?—I made a statement to the effect that I made to you, that we wished in the manufacturing districts to have a gentleman of Mr. Pender's knowledge and standing in Parliament, in view of the cotton famine.

41,033. Did you intimate that Mr. Pender was well off?—I said Mr. Pender had been a successful merchant.

41,034. Did anything at that time pass about the cost of the seat?—Not a word.

41,035. How long was that before Mr. Mills died?—A few weeks; only Lord Gifford was not expected to live.

41,036. Did you come to any arrangement at that time that Mr. Pender should be a candidate for Totnes in the event of a vacancy?—Yes, I think so. It was understood, if a vacancy occurred, they would consider Mr. Pender with other candidates, but there was no pledge to receive him.

41,037. Did you hear at that time that there was a division of interest between the Liberal party, that there was an independent party as well as a ducal party?—I did.

41,038. Did you understand, in the event of Lord Gifford dying, that the seat might be considered to belong to the duke and not to the independent party?—I cannot charge my memory distinctly with those matters; I am not clear about that, but I heard about there being two parties. I was here a very very short time, and was not very well up; but I recollect distinctly the two parties, and the duke having an influence and claiming one of the seats.

41,039. Did you, in consequence of anything that was communicated to you whilst here, make advances, or instigate Mr. Pender to make advances to the Duke of Somerset, that Mr. Pender might be considered the ducal candidate?—No, I never had any communication with the duke, directly or indirectly.

41,040. Mr. Mills died, and you communicated that fact to Mr. Pender by telegram, and you yourself came from Manchester to Totnes at once?—I saw Mr. Mills' sudden death announced in the Manchester paper, and I telegraphed to Mr. Pender in London, went to London, and I came from London after seeing Mr. Pender. I have not a distinct recollection whether I saw Mr. Pender, but I think I must have done so, and I came from London to Totnes.

41,041. Did you come before Mr. Pender?—Yes.

41,042. Did you find that Mr. Seymour was at Totnes, or had been there?—Mr. Seymour, whom I had not known, got into the same carriage with me at the Paddington station, and we travelled together till we came to the Newton Junction. I suspected from conversation that we were going on the same errand. When we got to Newton Mr. Seymour was in the carriage going to Torquay. I saw that he was going to the wrong place, and changed my luggage, and I came to Totnes, and I told him that he was in the wrong carriage for Totnes, and must change carriages. I did not know his name, but when we got to the "Seymour Arms" I found that we were both coming to the same place, on the same errand.

41,043. Did you find that Mr. Pender was preferred to Mr. Seymour?—We were introduced, and Mr. Seymour made a statement, and then they heard what I had to say with regard to Mr. Pender. They then requested us to leave the room, and after awhile they came and said that they preferred Mr. Pender, and they sent up a deputation.

41,044. Did Mr. Chaster say it was a vacancy of the independent party and they must have an independent man, and did Mr. Seymour say, "Shall I go away?" and did Mr. Chaster say, "You had better do so?"—They came out and said, "The resolution of the meeting was that they preferred Mr. Pender." They appointed a deputation, and that deputation returned to London with me, and Mr. Seymour travelled back part of the way to a station which I forget.

41,045. You went back to London?—Yes, that night.

41,046. When did you come to Totnes again?—Not till a little before the election.

41,047. You were in constant communication with Mr. Pender during that time?—Yes.

41,048. Did you learn from him what sum of money had been mentioned to him as the probable cost of the election?—No; I remember there was some conversation about money in London which Mr. Chaster refused to hear, and left the room.

41,049. You were present at Fenton's Hotel?—I was at the luncheon. I was present when Mr. Pender first made his acquaintance with the deputation.

41,050. You recollect Mr. Chaster would not know anything about money matters?—I recollect he would not have anything to do with it.

41,051. Had you anything to do with the arrangement as to how the 1,200*l.* was to come?—No; I knew of Mr. Jack being sent. We had no money. Mr. Pender had no money there, I had no money, and Mr. Jack had no money, or very little, only a few pounds. We were all strangers here and it was arranged that Mr. Jack should go up to London, for two purposes, one was to get money, and another purpose.

41,052. Was it anything connected with the election?—Yes.

41,053. What was it?—I had been constantly told that bribery would be resorted to on the other side. I was very strenuous in opposing that, and suggested that if that was the case we had better have detective officers to watch, and on whichever side there was any bribery it should be reported at once.

41,054. And Mr. Jack went up for the purpose of engaging the detective officers?—Yes.

41,055. And he did bring two men of Mr. Field's?—I did not see the men; I only know that Mr. Jack went for the purpose of doing so; that was one of his objects in going to London.

41,056. Did you know to whom the 1,200*l.* was paid?—No, and I do not now.

41,057. Did you see any money passing at the hotel at that time?—Never.

41,058. We have heard from Mr. Pender that he was very much surprised to find that the 1,200*l.* had been expended, and he found that out in consequence of your coming down here and looking after his accounts?—Yes, the 1,200*l.* had come to Totnes, into whose hands I do not know. In the month of March afterwards I came down and called upon Mr. Windeatt, showed him the accounts still unpaid, and said, "Where is this 1,200*l.*?"

41,059. What accounts?—The hotel bill was not paid. There was the expense for the hustings, and the expenses for the agents' fees and some expenses of that kind.

41,060. These had not been paid. Had they been sent in to Mr. Pender?—They had been sent in to Mr. Pender.

41,061. And Mr. Pender had sent you down for the purpose of settling?—He did not send me down; I am not his servant. I am quite as independent in my position as Mr. Pender. I came to oblige Mr. Pender.

41,062. Having come to oblige him you asked Mr. Windeatt where this 1,200*l.* was?—Yes, and Mr. Windeatt referred me to Mr. Brooking Cuming. I went to Mr. Cuming and showed him the accounts. I said, "Now, Mr. Cuming, you have received or "are responsible for 1,200*l.* I want you to give me "an account of the way in which this 1,200*l.* has "been spent, and I want these accounts paid with "it."

41,063. What was Mr. Cuming's answer to that?—This. He said, "This is a very unusual thing to ask. "Mr. McDougall." I said, "No, it is not an unusual "thing to ask how money has been spent." He said, "Mr. Mills would never have asked such a question." I said, "Whatever Mr. Mills may have done, we are "not in the habit of parting with our money without "knowing where it goes to." I said, "I shall sit "down here, Mr. Cuming, and expect you to give an "account of this money." He said, "Mr. McDougall, "you are inexperienced in these matters, and Mr. "Pender would not justify you in pressing me in this "matter." I said, "If you will not give me an account "Mr. Cuming, I cannot help it. I have come here "for that purpose. Mr. Pender is astounded that "the accounts are not paid and this money still in "your possession." I could get no more, and I went to Mr. Chaster and showed him the accounts unpaid and the money unaccounted for. Mr. Chaster seemed astonished, and very distressed indeed and ashamed, and I had to return to Manchester without getting any account.

41,064. Have you ever had any account of how that was expended?—Never to this day.

41,065. From no one?—No one.

41,066. Could not Mr. Windeatt give you, if not a detailed account, a general account of how it had been spent?—No; I received no general and no other account of how it was spent. I was left to infer that it had been used in bribery.

41,067. Distributed among the electors?—I suppose so. I was left to infer that; nobody told me so. Unless it was kept I do not know what else he did with it.

41,068. At that time did you pay by cheque two large bills, 323*l.* 10*s.* and 372*l.* 6*s.* 1*d.*?—The first sum you named was the sum paid to Mr. Jeffery Michelmore on account of the hotel, the receipt of which I have here.

41,069. Have you the items of that bill?—No.

41,070. Did you ever have the items?—No.

41,071. Did you never look at that bill?—No.

41,072. Did you never see a bill made out with items in it?—I do not remember it. I do not recollect that I did. (Handing a document to the Commissioners) I should have given this receipt to Mr. Jack, but there was a private note on the other side. It has no reference to the election at all, but some favour he asked me to do in Manchester, nothing at all to do with the election. That was the hotel bill.

41,073. Was it a favour for himself, or some one of the electors of Totnes?—No, it was this, that you may know: Major Stody, who was a friend of his, had lent some money at Manchester, and received a bill for it, and it was a private affair altogether, and had nothing to do with the election or an elector. I have some letters referring to it in my pocket now.

41,074. The other account was on the part of Mr. Tucker. What was that?—The agent's fees and the expenses of the hustings.

41,075. Have not you the items?—No.

41,076. Have you never had them?—Yes, but they were given to Mr. Jack, and are amongst his papers I have no doubt.

41,077. He said yesterday that he had not got them?—Well, I have not them; I gave them to him.

41,078. Did you pay them by cheque?—These were all advertised in the newspapers. I paid them by my own cheque, and that was also paid by my own cheque to Mr. Michelmore. My knowledge is entirely confined to the election of 1862.

41,079. Have you the papers now in which those election expenses were printed?—I have no papers whatever.

41,080. There is a cheque of May 27th for 6*l.* 1*s.* 6*d.* That was to Mr. Tucker also; what was it for?—I do not know, some bill he received. Mr. Tucker was the judge of the legality of those bills. He was the auditor, and that was some bill which he received afterwards for which he sent.

41,081. This is a most enormous charge for a comparatively uncontested election, 372*l.* 6*s.* 1*d.*?—I thought so; that was my opinion.

41,082. Did you make any inquiry?—No, and for this reason, that Mr. Tucker was the official auditor, and he was to pass judgment upon the legality of these charges.

41,083. Were you instructed to deal with these accounts?—Mr. Pender was much annoyed at the enormous amount, which was so far beyond his idea of what it would have been.

41,084. Did he not express a wish that you should see into these accounts for him?—He did. I came down here for the purpose and made inquiries of Mr. Cuming. I was told that he was the man to tell me. Mr. Cuming said that Mr. Mills would have paid them without a question.

41,085. Upon saying that you paid them without a question?—I did, but not without saying something else.

41,086. What did you say?—I said that I would never come near Totnes any more, and I never came back. I have had no political acquaintance with Totnes since.

41,087. On the 5th of August you paid 39*l.* to Mr. Tucker; what was that for?—It was some account which had not been previously sent in.

41,088. Was that to Mr. Tucker of Ashburton?—I did not know that there were two Mr. Tuckers.

41,089. On the 2d of September you paid Mr. Cuming 315*l.*?—Yes.

41,090. What was that for?—It was afterwards stated that certain expenses had been incurred in a municipal election; they had issued a writ of quo warranto against some person whom they thought was not legally returned; these expenses had been incurred, and they applied to Mr. Pender to pay them. I protested against it as being thoroughly out of the question. It was urged on Mr. Pender that if Mr. Mills had lived he would have paid those expenses. They did not relate to the election at all. Mr. Pender objected to the amount, which was 500*l.* I advised Mr. Pender not to pay it, and rather to quarrel with the people of Totnes than pay such a demand. Afterwards Mr. Pender agreed that a committee should sit over the bill and make some recommendation about it, and they reduced it to 300*l.*

41,091. The bill on which the committee sat was Mr. Cuming's private bill for professional services, and it was agreed that he should receive only his costs out of pocket. He made a charge for more than that, and it was reduced from 125*l.* to 87*l.* Mr. Pender sent a cheque to Mr. Chaster for 100*l.*; that has nothing to do with the 315*l.*?—This bill was for the quo warranto expenses.

41,092. Have you got that bill?—No.

41,093. Did you ever see that bill?—I think not; it was left in the hands of a gentleman in Totnes.

41,094. How was that paid, by a cheque?—Yes, by a cheque of my own.

41,095. Did you send that by letter down here?—Yes; I have never been in Totnes until last night since my interview with Mr. Cuming.

41,096. You cannot give us any explanation except your belief as to the 315*l.*?—No.

41,097. (Mr. Coleridge.) You did not part on very good terms with Mr. Cuming?—I have never seen him since.

41,098. You did not part on very good terms?—No.

41,099. When did you first tell him what you thought of his conduct, at the first interview, when he refused the account?—I have had no interview with him since he refused to tell me what was done with the 1,200*l.* I have never seen him since.

41,100. Was it after your last interview with him that you parted on bad terms?—We did not part on bad terms. I simply ceased to have any communication with him.

41,101. You gave him to understand that you thought it was a very fraudulent transaction?—I did not use the word fraudulent.

41,102. But you said you thought it was exorbitant?—I said I thought it was exorbitant and morally wrong.

41,103. (Mr. Bere.) When you paid Mr. Jeffery Michelmore, did the bill strike you as a very large one?—It did. I thought it was a very large one.

41,104. Did you remonstrate with him?—No, I did not; I was not here.

41,105. Did you pay that by cheque?—Yes, by cheque.

41,106. You did not see the items in that bill?—No; it was not my business to look after it.

41,107. Do you know anything about the items in the bill. Did you notice for how many persons' maintenance the bill was made out?—No, I cannot say that I did notice that particularly, or how many persons' maintenance was included in the bill; all I know about that is, that Mr. Pender himself was down here for three weeks, that his partner was here some time, and his lady, and many persons who were friends of his. I do not say this as in any way justifying the amount of the bill. I thought it was most exorbitant.

41,108. Your expenses were always paid by Mr. Pender; I mean your own personal expenses?—Not always.

41,109. I see, Mr. McDougall, down here expenses 20*l.*?—Some of the money that has been put down there should not have been so entered. Mr. Pender had opened new dining rooms in Manchester to assist the unemployed operatives, and I went to Dartmouth and bought some fish to send to Manchester; that item is put down there. And there was a sick gentleman at Exmouth, who knew nothing about the election, and Mr. Pender in his kindness wished this gentleman to receive some assistance, and that item is put down there; it does not relate at all to the election.

41,110. Did you bring Moore down with you at the election of 1862?—I think I did not bring him with me. He came.

41,111. At your suggestion?—At my suggestion. I did not bring him with me.

41,112. He was paid 50*l.*, was he not?—I never knew what he received. I did not pay him anything.

41,113. He was there advocating the principles of free trade before assemblies of the electors?—He spoke to the electors and instructed them in the principles of free trade very earnestly, very zealously, and very efficiently. I never knew what he was paid. He was not a voter.

41,114. The 300*l.* was independent of McHaffie's bill?—Very likely; they make very extravagant charges during the election.

41,115. Was McHaffie down here at the election of 1862?—He was.

41,116. Do you know of any expenses in connexion with the quo warrantos over and above Mr. Brooking Cuming's charges, and that they amount to the sum of 313*l.*?—No, 215*l.*

41,117. We have had Mr. Chaster's evidence, and he says the bill was about 120*l.* or 127*l.*, which was reduced to 80*l.* odd by the committee, who offered him a lump sum of 100*l.*, which he never took?—I do not know at all about it being sent to Mr. Cuming.

41,118. Mr. Cuming told you the 315*l.* was for the question concerning the quo warrantos?—So I understood.

41,119. Did he tell you whether there were any other legal charges?—No.

41,120. His own bill is only 127*l.* and further reduced.

Mr. Chaster recalled and examined.

Mr. Chaster.

41,121. (Mr. Coleridge.) Can you explain that?—I assure you I have no idea about it. I know nothing as to the quo warranto bill.

41,122. It was sent to you, and by you tendered to Mr. Cuming?—Yes.

41,123. Then it was absorbed in the election expenses?—I retained it for registration expenses.

THIRTIETH DAY.

28 Sept. 1866.

Mr. McDougall further examined.

Mr. McDougall.

41,124. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know whether any other money came down to Totnes in the election of 1862 besides the 1,200*l.*?—No, I do not know that at all.

41,125. Or afterwards?—No, I do not know of any afterwards. These matters I have spoken to convey all I know about it, because I was exceedingly anxious to have no more to do with Totnes after the failure in getting an account of the 1,200*l.*

41,126. In December 1862 Mr. Pender was not the single partner?—No, he had a partner then.

41,127. Do you know that any money was sent down as the partnership account to Totnes which Mr. Pender himself might not have known of?—I am quite certain Mr. Pender's partner did not bring any money; I know him intimately.

41,128. Or did he send any?—Nor send any.

41,129. Or allowed any to be distributed on the part of the firm?—I think not, I cannot swear it; but that is strongly my opinion. I may state to you, just to corroborate, that Mr. Pender did not desire to have the presence of his partner here. He was sorry he came, and would much rather that his partner remained and attended to the business in Manchester. I think he was right in saying so.

41,130. As far as you yourself were concerned, had you anything to do with any money coming to Totnes from Manchester or anywhere else?—None whatever.

41,131. Mr. McHaffie was a partner, was not he?—He was.

41,132. Between 1863 and 1865, after you had paid those various bills, had you anything to do with Totnes?—Nothing whatever; until yesterday I never saw it.

41,133. Did you ever communicate with people in Totnes?—No.

41,134. Not on the subject of the election?—No, not that I can recollect.

41,135. Did you not write any letters?—Not after 1863.

41,136. You had nothing to do with it in 1865?—Nothing whatever. I strongly advised Mr. Pender not to come near it; I entreated him not to do so.

41,137. Did Mr. Brooking Cuming, when he refused to tell you about the 1,200*l.*, intimate to you that any of it had been used for the purposes of the Liberal cause generally, and not for Mr. Pender in particular?—No, he gave me no explanation.

41,138. I do not mean the particulars?—I had none, not even a general explanation. I recollect him using these words, "I have a very black list." I pressed him very much to let me see the list, whatever it was.

41,139. Did he show it?—He said on condition that I would not report it, or show it to Mr. Pender. I said, "I will not take any such statement then, I will not know anything, that I may not report to anybody;" therefore he refused to let me see it.

41,140. Where did you see Mr. Brooking Cuming?—In his own house.

41,141. Not in his office?—In his drawing room.

41,142. Had he got any papers with him?—No, he he had not.

41,143. Did he seem to have the black list near at hand?—He had not it in his hand, and I think not in the room. I never was in his office.

41,144. (Mr. Coleridge.) This last payment was in September 1862; how long after the Seymour election, in the year of the Seymour election, did Mr. Cuming say anything to you about a portion of that money having been spent for Mr. Seymour's election?—Not one word.

41,145. Did he tell you whether any portion of this money had been spent subsequent to Mr. Pender's election?—No.

41,146. Did he give you to understand that the payments demanded were for things that took place before Mr. Pender's election?—I never heard of Mr. Pender being called on to pay any money in reference to Mr. Seymour's election.

41,147. Did it occur to you to ask whether it had been expended in reference to Mr. Seymour's election?—No, never asked the question; it was never suggested to me.

41,148. No doubt this is an absolute falsehood of Mr. Cuming as to the 315*l.*; it is entirely unaccounted for, and you cannot assist us?—No, I made the inquiry unsuccessfully, and I was glad to forget all about it.

41,149. Are you certain Mr. Cuming told you that this 315*l.* was all for the expenses of the quo warranto or the quo warranto and other municipal election expenses?—I cannot recollect. I do not recollect any such expression; it is a long time ago.

41,150. You understood him this was for the legal costs of the quo warranto?—The reduced costs.

41,151. The legal costs after reduction by the committee?—Yes, that was my impression.

41,152. Did he request you not to mention that payment to Mr. Pender?—No, the only thing he did not wish Mr. Pender to know was the list.

J. Pender, Esq.

John Pender, Esq., recalled and examined.

41,153. (Mr. Coleridge.) You were cognizant of all the transactions about the quo warranto?—Yes; Mr. Brooking Cuming's account had been received, and that has been explained.

41,154. Then it was reduced to 127*l.*?—My impression as to the quo warranto account is very much the same as that given by Mr. Chaster.

41,155. Can you account afterwards for paying 315*l.*?—No.

41,156. Can you account for the other payment of 100*l.*?—I cannot account for it; Mr. McDougall had the settlement; I left him there and he undertook to pay a large sum.

41,157. You appear to have paid 215*l.* for nothing at all, and without anything to show for it?—I have no doubt of it.

Mr. McDougall.

Mr. McDougall further examined.

41,158. (Mr. Coleridge.) That is so?—It was put in this way, Mr. Pender must pay it or quarrel. My advice was to quarrel.

41,159. Did Mr. Cuming put it in that way, pay or quarrel?—He did not put it in those words.

41,160. However extortionate the demands were, he must pay them or else there would be a regular split?—That was the impression.

Mr. Chaster.

Mr. Chaster further examined.

41,161. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you got the quo warranto expenses?—No, I have not; I could get them. The 100*l.* was not sent to Mr. Cuming, it was sent to me.

41,162. In one lump?—Yes.

41,163. This 75*l.* and 25*l.* cannot be the 100*l.* "June 9, Chaster, parliamentary registration, 75*l.*?"—The 100*l.* was the 100*l.* bill.

Mr. McDougall further examined. Mr. McDougall.

41,164. (Mr. Bere.) The quo warranto expenses have never been paid yet?—They ought to have been paid over and over again.

41,165. (Mr. Coleridge.) They have been handsomely paid, because this 315*l.* paid is unaccounted for, and that may account for Mr. Cuming's virtuous indignation in not taking the 100*l.*?—Mr. Cuming stated to me that the quo warranto was nearly 500*l.*, and it was reduced from nearly 500*l.* to 300*l.* I wish to make a statement with regard to a statement Mr. Pender made yesterday. I read Mr. Pender's evidence, that when he left Totnes I remained behind him, but I did not. I left Totnes on the night of the election with Mr. Pender; we travelled together, and Mr. Pender in the most emphatic manner rejoiced, and thanked me for the course I had taken. He believed the election was absolutely pure, he did not believe any man had received either a promise or a halfpenny.

41,166. (Mr. Coleridge.) When was he undeceived?—When I came down about the 1,200*l.*

41,167. Then he thought he had to pay the other 1,000*l.*?—He expected the 1,200*l.* had not all been spent, but that some of it would come back. He was chagrined and mortified.

Mr. Chaster further examined. Mr. Chaster.

41,168. (Mr. Bere.) What is this: "Cash 230*l.* to Mr. Windeatt, July 1865?"—I returned to him that out of the 2,000*l.* and he refused.

41,169. These are receipts?—They are receipts, I set them off against the 1865 list.

Mr. McDougall further examined. Mr. McDougall.

41,170. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he say anything about the demand made by Mr. Dent's party, that if he retired Mr. Pender should pay him 2,000*l.*?—I recollect.

41,171. What were the circumstances?—It was late at night, I think I was in bed; Mr. Pender came to my bedroom and told me this proposition was made that he should pay 2,000*l.*, that Mr. Dent was to retire and he was to give a promise that Mr. Dent should not be opposed at a subsequent election.

41,172. You knew nothing of that except through Mr. Pender?—No, nothing, but through him at that conversation, and I most emphatically advised Mr. Pender not to pay a farthing.

41,173. Do you recollect at what time it was?—Late at night.

41,174. Subsequently to that did he determine not to go to the poll?—Still later at night; it was late at night after I retired.

41,175. The utmost explanation you can give of that 315*l.* is that it was absolute extortion, and there is nothing to show for it?—I quite assent to your description of it.

41,176. After hearing Mr. Cuming had refused the 100*l.* for his bill?—I did not hear about that.

41,177. Now you have heard it you can put no other construction upon it?—No, things were very extortionate here.

Mr. Chaster further examined. Mr. Chaster.

41,178. (Mr. Bere.) There is an item of 26*l.* 5*s.* paid to you in November 1865 by Mr. Jeffery Michelmore, what is the meaning of that?—25 guineas; it was Mr. Windeatt's hotel bill on behalf of Mr. Seymour. I happened to be at the "Seymour Hotel," and he said, "Chaster, will you give this to Mr. Windeatt?" I paid it to the eldest son.

41,179. "Mrs. Windeatt 14*l.*" what is the meaning of that?—When the case in the Common Pleas was coming on Mr. Windeatt wrote to Mr. Pender for a sum of money to pay the expenses of travelling, and he sent 20*l.* Mr. Windeatt died and it was left on my shoulders to appoint his successor. I asked Mr. Cuming to stand in his shoes and take the brief. I spoke to young Mr. Windeatt, and he said, "I do not know anything about it;" he looked into his father's desk and found the 14*l.*, and it was handed to Mr. Cuming.

41,180. There is another item in August, 50*l.*?—It was advanced for work done to the British Schools. He could not settle the bill, and I advanced the money because I knew that the work was done.

Mr. Alexander McDougall recalled and further examined. Mr. A. McDougall.

41,181. (Mr. Coleridge.) I do not think we have anything more to ask you, unless you have anything more to tell us?—No, I have not. I believed that Mr. Pender had left Totnes with pure hands, and I was not undeceived until months afterwards.

41,182. Did you have any communication with Mr. Pender before the last election to persuade him not to stand?—Yes.

41,183. You could not succeed?—I was exceedingly anxious that he should not go to Totnes, and intimated that there was another seat that he might have obtained, and I refused to go to Totnes; but Mr. Pender explained that he had entered into an honourable arrangement with Mr. Seymour and the party, and that he could not break that engagement, and therefore he came to Totnes.

41,184. When you came in the first instance, and found that it was Mills' vacancy and not the Seymour vacancy, and it was the independent vacancy, you went back with a recommendation and Mr. Pender came back?—Yes.

41,185. If it had been Lord Gifford, as was anticipated, who had died should you have recommended Mr. Pender to come?—Yes.

41,186. Even if it had been a Somerset vacancy?—Yes. We wanted Mr. Pender in the House. We wanted his knowledge there.

41,187. You wish him there we know. But from what you gathered from the people here, would you have thought it prudent for him to come if it had been a Somerset vacancy?—All those people that I met responded to the feeling that he would be of use in the House.

41,188. Did you think that the Duke of Somerset would have allowed two independent members?—I did not know anything about that. I was not so deeply read in the politics of Totnes as to be up to that.

41,189. Mr. Chaster had not told you?—No. I have great pleasure in knowing Mr. Chaster, but I knew him then but slightly.

Richard Bartlett sworn and examined. R. Bartlett.

41,190. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you?—A cabinet maker.

41,191. Do you remember going to Sarah Honeywill with another man called Briggs, after the last election?—I did.

41,192. What time was it?—I think between 10 and 11 o'clock.

41,193. On the following day?—Yes.

41,194. After the election was as good as gone?—Yes, the election was gone at 8 o'clock in the morning

THIRTIETH DAY.

R. Bartlett.

28 Sept. 1866.

41,195. What made you go there?—I thought Mr. Wright was a strong Conservative, and always took an active part in politics.

41,196. Did anyone send you there?—Not then. I passed by the door, and I saw the servant, and I said to her, "They tell me Mr. Wright has supported the "Liberal candidate?" and she said, "Yes, he has, and he has been well paid for it."

41,197. Are you quite certain that she said that?—Yes, and I will swear to it. Those were the words she made use of.

41,198. Will you swear that she said that, and that it was not you that suggested that Mr. Wright had been paid?—I will swear those were her words.

41,199. Neither you nor Briggs put those words into her mouth?—Neither.

41,200. Did you ever say that it would be worth anything to her if she would say Mr. Wright had been paid?—No, not then.

41,201. Did you go back and report what had been said?—I asked her when Mr. Pender came, and she said "This morning." Did anyone come with him, and she said, "Yes, a man with a white hat." I saw the nature of the charge, and ordered Briggs away, and I went into the kitchen and had a private interview. I told her the nature of the charge, and all I wanted was the truth. I asked her who came there, and she said, "Mr. Pender and a man with a white hat."

41,202. Will you swear that?—I will swear that when they came to the door I asked her, "Where did you see them?" and she said, "Into that room," and she pointed on the left-hand side going in. I went there and examined the room, and I asked her whether she saw anything pass between a certain gentleman; she said she heard something tinkle.

41,203. Did she say she was looking through the keyhole?—I could not get exactly to examine her to that. After she saw that I was bent on her evidence she kept rather up, and I went and looked through the keyhole, and I saw the table cloth put back on the chiffonier with the books on the top.

41,204. Was there anyone in the room?—No.

41,205. Was the room shut?—Yes.

41,206. Were you in?—I opened the door and looked in.

41,207. Did she tell you that Mr. Wright was out?—I looked in and saw that some business had been done there.

41,208. Was Mr. Wright there?—No, they had both left.

41,209. Did you knock at the door before you went there, or was it open?—The girl was at the door.

41,210. Did she tell you that nobody was at home?—Yes; and after she told me he had been well paid I thought it was a case that required a little consideration.

41,211. You thought it was your place to consider it?—Yes.

41,212. Did you, or Briggs in your presence, say, that you would have "the old beggar out?"—No.

41,213. Did you ever call Mr. Wright an "old beggar?"—Never. I would not.

41,214. Did you break down some of the flowers in trying to get at the window?—No.

41,215. Did you go over the flower bed?—No. After I saw it was a serious case, Briggs was a little under the influence of liquor, and I ordered him to the door.

41,216. Did you go and report this?—Yes.

41,217. To whom?—To Colonel Dawkins and Thomas Creaser Kellock.

41,218. Where?—At the "Seven Stars," in the doorway.

41,219. What did they say; who spoke?—I told them the facts of the case, and I told them she told me if she told she would lose her situation; and Colonel Dawkins told me that if she would tell the truth he would get her a situation and make her a present of a 5*l.* note, and Mr. Kellock heard that.

41,220. And then you went back and offered 5*l.*?—Yes.

41,221. You did not get much out of her then?—No.

41,222. Did she contradict what she had said then?—No.

41,223. Was it then that you tried to get her to say over again what she said in the morning?—No.

41,224. Did you say, "You may as well say this over again as you have told us it this morning?"—No.

41,225. Was Briggs there the second time?—No.

41,226. What did you tell her?—I told her that Colonel Dawkins would get her a situation and give her a 5*l.* note.

41,227. Did you tell her what she was to swear for that?—No. Since then, when I saw that the Commission had passed the House of Lords I thought this a good case for examination. I saw the girl and she shook hands with me and her mother and the rest, and after she had been there a short time she said she would like to have something to drink. I said, "Well, I am never backward," and I took a half-crown out and that was spent in beer, and Mr. Jones was there with me.

41,228. What did she tell you after she had the beer?—She said she was paid for what she said about the election.

41,229. Did she tell you how much?—No.

41,230. By whom?—No, but I guessed. I think Mr. Samuel Parnell. She said she had remuneration.

41,231. Were you paid at the last election?—No.

41,232. Were you engaged as a runner?—I was engaged, and went to Dartmouth to canvass a voter named Reeve.

41,233. What did you get from the Conservative party?—I had different sums at different times. My principal occupation was to look after the men on the night watch.

41,234. At the last election what did you get for your services?—About 5*l.* or 6*l.*

41,235. What did you get at the election before?—About 2*l.*

41,236. Were you employed in 1862?—No.

41,237. Only employed twice?—Yes.

41,238. Is 8*l.* all that you received?—Yes.

41,239. Did you get anything afterwards?—I got a letter from Colonel Dawkins thanking me for my services, and he said I was to drink his health in a bottle of wine. Mr. Kellock read the letter in his office, and I went and drank his health.

41,240. What did you have for the bottle of wine?—5*s.*

(Mr. Bere.) You and Sarah Honeywill had better settle between you the discrepancies in your evidence.

41,241. Did you ever offer any money to anybody at the last election?—Yes, a man named John Drew, early on the morning of the election. I offered him 150*l.* for his vote.

41,242. Who told you?—A gentleman, a stranger at the "Stars," the night before. I was to have seen him that morning by the break of day, and I saw him about half-past four in his field.

41,243. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you pay anybody in the election?—No, I told him his pony wanted a pair of new shoes; that is the way I introduced it.

41,244. What did he say?—He said the little he had from the other side, with the consideration of the rent and fire, would be the same consideration.

41,245. Did he get off his rent?—They do not pay half of them, those tenants of the duke. I received instructions from the stranger to offer him 150*l.*

ALFRED SEYMOUR, Esq., M.P., sworn and examined.

41,246. (Mr. Bere.) I believe in 1862 you were candidate for the representation of Exeter?—I was.

41,247. About the end of the year, Mr. Mills, the member for Totnes, died suddenly, and I believe you then came to Totnes to see if you would be chosen for the vacancy?—I did.

41,248. You had an interview with some of the leading members of the Liberal party, who told you it was an independent vacancy, and you were not to be the candidate?—Not large.

41,249. Did you leave Totnes?—Yes, the same night, I was here about an hour.

41,250. Had you heard before that Lord Gifford was dangerously ill?—Yes.

41,251. Have you had any communication from Mr. Michelmore or the Duke of Somerset about standing in his place?—I had, from the Duke of Somerset.

41,252. When did you have that communication?—It must have been about the middle of November I should think.

41,253. Was that the first information that you received of Lord Gifford's illness, or had you written to the duke?—I had not written at all to the duke. I received a letter one day in Wiltshire from the Duke of Somerset, and he asked me to come and see him. I left the country and I went to London, where I saw his grace. He then said,—our interview was a very short one,—that Lord Gifford was exceedingly ill, and there was likely to be a vacancy for Totnes, that he had no power to name any member to stand for the place, that he had never attempted dictation in the borough, that it would be useless for him to do so, but that my name had been given to him as a person whom they would like as a candidate to supply Lord Gifford's vacancy. I was then in the field for Exeter, and my name, I believe, was known at the time, and he mentioned to me, that if I liked to go down, "provided," he particularly said, "you can "make yourself acceptable to the people of Totnes, "you may have any support that I possess; but it "depends entirely on yourself making yourself accept- "able to the people there, as I have no power to "name a member for them."

41,254. Did he tell you from whom he had received the information that your name had been mentioned as a candidate?—No, and I did not ask any questions.

41,255. He was in constant communication with Thomas Michelmore I suppose?—I think he was.

41,256. We have heard that there was a meeting of the Liberal party, when your name, and that of Lord John Hay, and Major Lyon were mentioned as acceptable in the case of Lord Gifford's death?—I had no knowledge of it.

41,257. Did the duke tell you the result of that meeting had been communicated to him?—He said my name had been mentioned to him as a person that they would wish to have as a candidate, and I asked no further questions.

41,258. Did you go to Totnes on Mr. Mills' death without any communication with the duke or Mr. Michelmore?—Entirely; I had gone into Wiltshire, when I happened to take up the newspaper, and I saw the death in the newspaper, and I immediately, without consulting anybody, got into the train and ran to Totnes. I got into the train with Mr. McDougall, and I arrived in Totnes and found several people assembled at the "Seymour," and suddenly found myself in the same room with the illustrious stranger whom I had seen in the carriage; then Mr. Chaster came in, and he said rather shortly to me, "You will not do here;" he said, "We must have somebody else;" I said, "Very well, we will consider over the matter; I do "not wish to come unless I am wanted, and I will "retire." After a few moments they came out, and they considered me as the duke's candidate, and this not being the duke's vacancy, they should ask Mr. Pender, but they would at Lord Gifford's death accept me as a candidate.

41,259. Did you leave Totnes immediately?—I left Totnes immediately by the next train.

41,260. Did you have any communication with any person at Totnes between leaving then and Lord Gifford's death?—Not at all. I never returned to Totnes, but I went to Teignmouth, where I had an interview with Thomas Michelmore, Mr. Cuming, and somebody else. There were three gentlemen.

41,261. When was that?—A few days afterwards with respect to my prospective candidature on Ear Gifford's death.

41,262. Is that before the election had taken place between Pender and Dent?—That was a few days after Mr. Mills' death before the election; I went straight from Totnes to Teignmouth.

41,263. And they came a few days afterwards?—Yes, the next day but one I think. I said, "I had "better not remain in Totnes, but I will go to Teign- "mouth."

41,264. Did anybody tell you at that time how much it would cost to contest the seat?—I am not sure whether they told me then or subsequently, but I think it must have been then that Mr. Thomas Michelmore, who is dead, said it would cost me 1,000*l.*

41,265. Was that all the communication that you had with Totnes before Lord Gifford died?—Yes.

41,266. When Lord Gifford died you came immediately?—Yes; he died just before the Christmas, and I waited over the Christmas day, and after his funeral, and then I came in the last days of December or the first days of January; I think before the 1st January.

41,267. You were here three weeks before the election?—Yes.

41,268. Did you come by yourself?—I came by myself, but after I had been here I had friends constantly coming backwards and forwards.

41,269. Did your brother come down?—Yes, and my brother-in-law, Sir Henry Rawlinson, and a great many people came to call upon me at different times.

41,270. Was one of the Baron Rothschilds staying at Torquay?—Yes, Baron Lionel was staying there, and he came to see me, and the young baron came, and Mr. Delane, the editor of the "Times," came to see me, but I did not see him.

41,271. Having learnt that 1,000*l.* would be wanted, I suppose you set to work to provide 1,000*l.*?—Yes.

41,272. Did you bring it when you first came?—No, I told my banker to pay it into the account of Messrs. Michelmore, at Totnes.

41,273. Your bankers are Messrs. Ransome?—Yes; you will see the sum entered as a regular transaction.

41,274. On the 15th January 1,000*l.* is paid from your bankers, Ransome & Company, to Michelmore to the account of the National Provincial Bank?—Yes.

41,275. Was that paid by your order?—Yes.

41,276. Can you tell us at all when you gave that order?—No, I cannot.

41,277. Did you give it by letter?—I cannot tell, probably by letter.

41,278. Was it in consequence of Michelmore asking you for the money?—It was in consequence of his statement that I paid 1,000*l.* to cover the expenses of my election.

41,279. When you came at the end of 1862 or the beginning of 1863 you did not leave an order with your bankers to send 1,000*l.* I suppose?—I cannot tell when I gave the order for it to come, but probably I must have given it some short time before; I probably gave my bankers 10 days or a fortnight's notice that I should require 1,000*l.*, and they paid 1,000*l.*, and I really know nothing more about it.

41,280. Did you send the order up on any particular day in consequence of Mr. Michelmore coming to you and telling you that money was wanted for the immediate purposes of the election?—I cannot tell you whether he told me the 100*l.* would be wanted when I met him at Teignmouth, or when I first came down here to stand.

THIRTIETH DAY.

A. Seymour, Esq., M.P.

28 Sept. 1866.

41,281. Your money was advanced by your bankers?—Yes, but I cannot give you any information as to time.

41,282. (Mr. Longe.) At Teignmouth it was only a prospective vacancy. It might have been months and months before the 1,000*l.* was wanted?—It was to be whenever Lord Gifford died. His lordship was dying at the time, and it was known that that event must come within a few days, or possibly, at the outside, a few weeks.

41,283. (Mr. Bere.) Who formed your committee at that election?—I do not think I had a committee.

41,284. Who were the Liberal party with whom you took counsel?—Mr. Jeffery Michelmore was my head agent; Mr. Cuming, Mr. Chaster, Mr. Holman, and Mr. Windeatt.

41,285. Did you ever see Mr. Parnell at all?—I used to see him occasionally.

41,286. Did you ever see Thomas Jacob Searle?—I have seen him.

41,287. Spoken to him?—I have spoken to him, but very rarely. He did not form one of the persons with whom I was in constant communication.

41,288. Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore was another?—Yes, he was also.

41,289. Do you know that both Mr. Parnell and Mr. Searle were actively engaged on your behalf?—I knew they were active supporters of mine.

41,290. That money having been paid, did you have an account handed in of how it was spent?—Yes, which account I have handed in.

41,291. (Mr. Coleridge.) That account was considerably more than the 1,000*l.*?—You will see there what the total is.

41,292. 1,215*l.* 17*s.* 7*d.*?—Yes; but I think that includes my year's subscriptions, if I do not mistake.

41,293. I am afraid you will find that is all extra. There is a very peculiar account here: "Election auditor, 331*l.* 17*s.* 10*d.*" You are aware that that is the whole legitimate expenses. Then there is "Ditto, "his own fees, 16*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.*; 'Seymour Hotel' "account during visit, 230*l.* 15*s.* 7*d.*" How long was that for maintenance at the "Seymour Hotel?"—About three weeks or a month.

41,294. "Ditto, for keep of horses, 9*l.* 13*s.* 5*d.*" Then everything is most minutely given in it. I will read them to you. "G. Mitchell, for assistance during the election, 10*l.*" Do you know what that means?—Not in the least.

41,295. "N. J. Hill, ditto, ditto, 6*l.* 13*s.* 0*d.*; J. B. "Prout, ditto, ditto, 8*l.* 19*s.* 6*d.*; John Shute, for "watchers during the election, 45*l.* 6*s.* 6*d.*" Did you know of their being such a thing?—I am told there were watchers.

41,296. Did they tell you beforehand that you would have to pay a large sum?—No, I do not remember that they did.

41,297. "T. Latimer, for newspapers, omitted in "account sent to auditor, 2*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.*; W. Hodge, "for men during election days, 3*l.* 17*s.* 6*d.*; Rev. "James Shore, travelling expenses, 3*l.* 0*s.* 0*d.*" What was that?—He is a clergyman at Bridgetown, and he came to vote for us.

41,298. W. Sawyer, for luncheon during canvass - - -				£1	18	6
Ringing a knell at Totnes and Bridgetown on Earl of Gifford's funeral -				3	2	0
Expenses of T. Windeatt to Torquay and Kingsbridge - - -				0	18	9
Amount of retainers :—
F. B. Cuming -	£50	0	0
C. F. Michelmore -	50	0	0
W. F. Windeatt -	50	0	0
				150	0	0
H. Michelmore, election advocate -				5	0	0
Selves agency charge - -				100	0	0

What does that mean?—That is Mr. Thomas Michelmore and Mr. Jeffery Michelmore, 50*l.* apiece.

41,299. Everything having been most carefully gone into, there is then, "To amount paid sundry parties, 285*l.*" Do you know what that is?—Not in the least.

41,300. You never asked?—I never asked.

41,301. And you never received any information?—No, I never asked.

41,302. This is the bill you received from your agent?—That is the bill I received.

41,303. With that item in it?—Yes.

41,304. And you paid?—I paid it.

41,305. (Mr. Bere.) When did you get that bill?—I cannot tell when. It is docketed at the back, the date when the surplus was paid.

(Mr. Bere.) It is 21st December 1863. It would be a convenient time to put in a letter of yours.

41,306. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had you to pay some other sums of money subsequent to that election?—No, not for that.

41,307. But did you pay anything subsequent to your election, between that and the beginning of 1864, excepting that bill which has just been read of 1,200*l.* odd?—April 20th I see I paid 43*l.* 6*s.* 0*d.*

41,308. What for?—I do not know, but you will find all the items there. I have handed in every bill; and May 13th, 15*l.*; December 24th, 304*l.* 9*s.* 10*d.*

41,309. That was for the registration, was not it?—No, this 307*l.* 9*s.* 10*d.*, I rather think, you will see there includes the surplus of that bill over the 1,000*l.*, together with my subscriptions to charities, and various other sums during the year.

41,310. (Mr. Bere.) This amount, "Paid sundry parties," is 285*l.* Do not you know there was a very much larger sum of money spent than that?—I do not know it.

41,311. You have heard it?—I have heard it.

41,312. Have you ever had to pay it yourself?—Never, directly or indirectly. I have never been asked for it.

41,313. Who did you hear that from?—I have heard it from general report from a great many people that there was a further sum paid, but I really know nothing at all about it. Mr. Jeffery Michelmore told me there was a sum of 500*l.*, and somebody else, I forget who, told me there was a sum of 500*l.*, but I know nothing at all about it.

41,314. Did Mr. Michelmore tell you where he got the 500*l.* from to pay it?—No.

41,315. Did he tell you that there had been in the course of your election an interview between some of the Liberal electors and the directors of the National Provincial Bank, and money was borrowed there?—I never heard a word about it till mentioned in evidence at this Commission.

41,316. From what you have learned since have you the smallest doubt that a very much larger sum than 285*l.* was paid at that election?—I suppose it must have been.

41,317. Do you think it came in through one of your friends?—Not that I am aware of. I am not aware of anything, and I have never been asked to pay anything. I do not know anything about it in any way whatever.

41,318. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was your brother down at that election?—He was down.

41,319. (Mr. Bere.) Did he pay any money?—Not that I know of. I do not think it very likely.

41,320. We have heard it said that he came to the committee room of Mr. Bowden and expressed indignation at the money expended, and he complained about the cost of the election. Did you ever hear him say anything of the sort?—I never heard him say so, and I think it is an entire fabrication.

41,321. You were also accompanied, I believe, on the hustings by Baron Rothschild, were not you?—I forget really. There may have been one of the sons, one of the younger ones, on the hustings with me; but my impression is that they were neither of them on the hustings. My impression is that they were in the crowd down below in a pony carriage.

41,322. On the nomination day?—On the nomination day.

41,323. Were they here with you on the election day?—I do not recollect.

41,324. You had some communication with them, I think, while the election was going on, had not you?—Oh, yes, I saw them frequently.

41,325. Do you think any money came from Baron Lionel Rothschild?—I do not think so. I have no reason whatever to suppose such is the case.

41,326. Have you ever seen any particulars of the election auditor's account, 331*l.* 17*s.* 10*d.*?—No.

41,327. Because here you observe the additional charges, "Surveyor's charge for hustings, mayor's deputies at election, committee room, money spent," and so on, are all items that ought to have been included in the sum paid by the election auditor. It seems a double charge. Who was this George Mitchell who was paid 10*l.* for assisting during the election?—There are a great number of Mitchells here; I cannot tell which it was.

41,328. I think you say at the time this bill was sent to you, you answered by letter of the 16th November 1863, in which you say, "With reference "to the other paragraph in your letter, I must beg "you to allow it to stand over a short time, as I was "not prepared to receive the account of so large an "additional amount." The demand of 307*l.* 9*s.* 10*d.* came upon you by surprise?—Yes.

41,329. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you recollect telegraphing to one of the Barons Rothschild during the election?—No.

41,330. (Mr. Bere.) You canvassed the constituency very closely?—Yes.

41,331. Were you almost always accompanied by Mr. Jeffery Michelmore?—Almost always, or I may say almost invariably.

41,332. You were down here, I suppose, before Mr. Dent came?—Oh, yes; I was here some time. Mr. Dent was ill, and was not here for some time.

41,333. When was it first apparent to your party that Mr. Dent intended to go to the poll?—It appeared to me that he intended to go to the poll the moment I came down here, almost within a few days. He was not actually in the field, I remember, the first few days after my arrival; but his address came out, and some friends came down to canvass for him, and it was apparent then that he intended to fight the thing to the end.

41,334. You were always under the impression that you would have a contest?—Yes.

41,335. And when you learned that there was to be a contest, were not you told that more money would be wanted than 1,000*l.*?—I forget whether I was told so. All I know is that I paid 1,000*l.* and I said, I will not pay any more.

41,336. Was it intimated to you that money had come?—Never.

41,337. You went through your poll book, I suppose, on the night of the election?—I did.

41,338. In going through that poll book did you arrive at any conclusion as to what the result of the election would be?—Yes, you will see it dotted down in my poll book, which I gave in writing the night before the election. You will see it; it is at the end of that blue poll book. I gave myself 168 votes, I think, and I polled 165.

41,339. What did you give your opponent?—You will see it jotted up 157, I think. I think I could show it to you if you passed it to me (it was handed to the witness). My impression was that I had jotted it down here in this book, but it must be some other memorandum.

41,340. (Mr. Bere.) There is the number you yourself were likely to poll?—Yes, 168, and we polled 165.

41,341. But did not you know in the middle of the day of the election that it was very doubtful which way the election would go?—I always looked upon myself as certain of a majority.

41,342. In the middle of the day of the election were not you told it was a great question which way the election would go?—I was told there were a certain number of men holding back, but I knew that if my men came to the poll I was certain.

41,343. Then if those men who promised you voted for you, and those men who said they would not vote did not vote against you, then you would be certain?—Certain.

41,344. But were not you informed in the middle of the election day there were a certain number of men who were going to vote against you?—I was told there were a certain number of men prepared to vote against me for a very large consideration.

41,345. Did you hear the names of those men mentioned?—Yes.

41,346. Were they Searle and others?—There may have been one of the Searles. I recollect Coombes and Edwin Shinner; I forget the other name.

41,347. Do you know where that communication was made to you?—No, not in the least.

41,348. Did you communicate with John Bowden on receiving that information?—Well, I may have done so. I cannot say whether I did or not. I cannot tax my memory with every fact, but I know when I found that was the case. I remember we were expecting three men; I think it was by a particular train, and when that train did not come in I then said, "We "must send to poll Quint, who was dying, and I "think Mr. Tucker."

41,349. Then Mr. Bowden went up to Mr. Tucker and brought him down?—Yes, and somebody went for Quint and brought him down, and when those two had polled I had a numerical majority of the whole constituency, and I knew I was safe; but I did not intend or wish to poll either of those two men unless absolutely necessary.

41,350. Do you know whether anybody from your side saw these persons who were standing out?—I do not at all.

41,351. Did you hear at any time whether they had been seen?—No, I did not; I canvassed them myself.

41,352. You have heard Holman's evidence and Parnell's evidence that a very large sum of money was distributed in illegal expenses at that election. I must ask you, can you form any idea where the money came from?—Not the remotest idea, except it forms part of the money which is unaccounted for that Mr. Pender paid in 1862.

41,353. Was that account that has been rendered rendered by Mr. Jeffery or Mr. Thomas Michelmore to you?—I should think Mr. Jeffery Michelmore.

41,354. Had he the chief management of your affairs?—Yes, his father was ill.

41,355. Then he in fact would be the person to know where it came from if anybody knows?—He may or he may not; I know nothing about it. I cannot answer for him.

41,356. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know how your own 1,000*l.* came down into the town?—Not the least; it was an ordinary transaction. I told my banker to pay 1,000*l.* into another bank.

41,357. You did not imagine that that 1,000*l.* was going to be spent in legitimate expenses here?—I thought the sum was large, and I said at the time, 1,000*l.* is a large sum.

41,358. Did you remonstrate about the amount of it?—I did; but seeing that the contest was likely to be pretty close, and knowing that Mr. Pender had been already down here, and that Mr. Dent was determined to fight the thing very closely, why, as far as 1,000*l.* went, I said, "I did not mind paying 1,000*l.*, but I do "not see how that sum should be required, seeing that "I have the interest of the duke, and that it is a very small constituency."

41,358*a*. Had you at that time known what Mr. Pender had spent? Had he told you what it had cost him?—Not in the least, I am sure. I do not know that I had the pleasure of seeing him at the time.

41,359. (Mr. Bere.) Had you any communication

THIRTIETH DAY.

A. Seymour, Esq., M.P.

28 Sept. 1866.

with Mr. Pender between his election and the vacancy at Earl Gifford's death?—No, I am sure I had not, because I had not the pleasure of his acquaintance. I may have exchanged a formal letter with him, but that is all.

41,360. In the abstract of the account of the election expenses incurred by each candidate I find this item: "Hotel bill, 43*l.* 1*s.* 6*d.*" The hotel bill that you pay, or that Mr. Michelmore pays on your account, 230*l.* 15*s.* 7*d.* Have you any doubt that the difference between those two sums was spent in treating?—I do not understand what the 43*l.* is.

41,361. That is the hotel bill which was returned by the election auditor of the expenses which you incurred at the hotel at that time?—I have no doubt it was expended in treating.

41,362. Did you canvass in 1863 a man named Richard Tope?—Richard Tope was the man belonging to the railway.

41,363. I think he was?—I canvassed him, certainly.

41,364. Do you remember whether you said anything to him about his vote? Did he say he would vote for you?—I recollect now. I canvassed him at the station.

41,365. Did he say he would vote against you?—No, I really forget. I know he said he would not vote for me.

41,366. I will read what he has said here about you at that election: "Did they offer you anything on the "other side in 1863?—Not exactly. Tell us what it "was. There was something you know?—He "said I should not be sorry for it afterwards. Who "said that?—Mr. Seymour. Did he say anybody "would come and talk to you?—No, he asked for my "vote." Do you remember whether such a conversation passed betwoen you and Tope on that occasion? No, I do not, but I think it is very probable I might have said to the man it would not hurt him to vote for me. Certainly not with any corrupt intention, most decidedly.

41,367. There were some communications passed between you and Mr. Michelmore from time to time with regard to your affairs in the borough. Have you any of the letters Mr. Michelmore wrote to you?—I have got some few, but I have only kept letters which referred to payments.

41,368. Here is a letter of yours of May 7th, 1863?—"I returned to town to-day and hoped to hear something not to the advantage of the impostor." Can you explain that?—Suppose it is a man who swindled me out of some money in London, and I wrote—they had said he was a Totnes man—and I wrote to Mr. Michelmore to know if he did come from Totnes.

41,369. I believe you asked for the election expenses in April 1863?—I have no doubt I did.

41,370. This is a letter of yours to Mr. Michelmore of the 28th of November 1863: "Dear sir, I "received your letter last night on my return home. "I am glad to hear you take a more cheerful view of "affairs than I had expected would be the case. I see "in to-day's Western Times' that the Tories have "again broken their contract in regard to the con-"stables, and Latimer has a good article upon it. "Though inconvenient, I will arrange to come down "for 17th, and will write to Sir Henry Rawlinson to "apprise him of the change, and inquire if he can "manage to settle for the 18th to deliver his lecture. "I tried to see Mr. Brand when in London about "Bearu's place, but could not find him to see him "personally. I will again write in the matter to him "to see what can be done before I go down. I fear "Evans has not as yet got his promotion, but I have "done all in my power for him at the Admiralty. I "have had a letter from Mr. Pender, saying he will "be happy to attend at the same time as myself. "Yours faithfully, A. Seymour. P.S. I have "received the enclosed from Mr. Good. (?) Do you "know him? I have no interest with the chancellor, "but will write if you think it advisable." What was the arrangement with the Tories about the constables?—Really I forget what it was now at this moment. There was some question with reference to the town council, about the Liberals and Conservatives appointing an equal number of constables, and the Conservatives appointed one more constable; but I really forget it.

41,371. What was the affair of which he was to take a more cheerful view in November 1863?—I suppose that must have been with reference to the registration. The registration must have been just over.

41,372. In the letter before me it is said there had been a good deal said about the registration of Totnes in 1863 in the newspapers; had that been the case?—I suppose there must have been something of the kind. I do not know what else it refers to-if not to that.

41,373. Can you tell us whether there were any articles in the London papers commenting on the registration of Totnes?—There were in the "Standard" a good many letters at various times; I cannot fix my memory with the exact period.

41,374. In the end of 1863 you and Mr. Pender, and Mr. Chaster, Mr. Michelmore, Mr. Windeatt, and Mr. Cuming met at the "Seymour Hotel," and a certain arrangement was come to between you and Mr. Pender as to the expenses of the election; will you give us your version of that?—My recollection of the transaction is this: that those gentlemen you have mentioned were in the room at the "Seymour Hotel," and that the question turned on the registration and the probability of an election in the ensuing year. There was then a comparatively very small majority on the Liberal side on the register, not more than four or five, and it was thought, if a general election came on in the following year, there would be a very close run between the Conservatives and the Liberals. I always had an extreme objection to the spending of money in an improper way, and always so far as I could had raised my voice against it. I then spoke very strongly to the gentlemen in the room upon that, and urged on them that we should endeavour as far as possible to break through the system which existed. The conversation ended ultimately by an arrangement being made between Mr. Pender and myself and those gentlemen if it came to a very close run that either Mr. Pender or myself was to retire, and that the one who came in was to pay, as far as my recollection goes, two-thirds of the expenses. But the decision was to rest with those gentlemen, who were formed into a committee for the management of the affairs of the borough, Mr. Chaster, Mr. Windeatt, Mr. Cuming, Mr. Jeffery Michelmore, and Mr. Thomas Michelmore. That arrangement took place in consequence of the close state of the register in 1863.

41,375. Was any sum mentioned that the election would cost?—My impression is that Mr. Thomas Michelmore said it would cost 4,000*l.* or 2,000*l.* a piece. I cannot be certain whether it was 2,000*l.* each or 2,000*l.* altogether. I then stated that I thought the sum was very large. I did not myself choose to run into extravagant expenses, and I did not care about spending money in illegitimate expenses.

41,376. As the contest was likely to be a close one, more money would be wanted in order that the means of inducement to vote might be made larger?—I suppose it would be.

41,377. If you had a fair majority on the Liberal side you would not want so much money as if it was a close run?—The state of the registration was entirely altered in the following year.

41,378. (Mr. Coleridge.) You paid the whole of this bill sent in, 1,215*l.* 17*s.* 7*d.*?—Yes.

41,379. Does that include all the expenses that you were put to at the election in 1863, and subsequently?—Entirely, every possible expense of the election, and subscriptions, and everything.

41,380. There is not a word in this account about subscriptions?—A portion of that account is carried forward into a subsequent account; a further account was sent in which you will find here with the subscriptions.

41,381. You paid altogether 1,525*l.* 17*s.* 8*d.*?—I did not pay so much as that.

41,382. How is it deducted?—This balance due to Mr. Michelmore of 215*l.* is carried into another account.

41,383. That account we have not got?—Yes, you have got them all here.

41,384. I daresay you have an unpleasant recollection of what Totnes cost you in 1863?—I can add up every sum which I paid. No other sums have gone out of my hands except what passed through this bank. The whole sum which I paid in 1863, including every expense of election, subscriptions, and everything, was 1,366*l.* 3*s.* 10*d.*

41,385. Did you dispute Mr. Michelmore's account, that is, 1,200*l.* odd, plus the charities?—There is some memorandum here with reference to 116*l.* 4*s.* 0*d.* That 116*l.* is carried on with this 215*l.* and makes 307*l.* 9*s.* 10*d.* This 215*l.* was not paid, but was afterwards added to another bill, the total of which is 307*l.* 9*s.* 10*d.*

41,386. You paid 1,215*l.* without a single subscription or charity? Does this 1,366*l.* include 189*l.* put to your credit at the bank which was really Mr. Pender's money. Alfred Seymour, Esq., in account with Michelmore & Son, paid into the bank 189*l.* Is that paid to your account?—I have not the most remote idea. I never heard of it until this instant.

41,387. Then January 16th. Alfred Seymour, Esq., a remittance, 1,000*l.*?—Yes.

41,388. Then January 24th there is 189*l.*, and written in pencil after it "Pender?"—I have not the remotest idea of that.

41,389. Here is an account of Mr. Michelmore's which makes your payments 1,520*l.* 14*s.* 7*d.*?—They have had no more money than that from me. I know nothing of this 189*l.*

41,390. You do not know what it means?—Not the least.

41,391. When did you first know Mr. Pender personally?—I cannot tell you that; after Parliament met.

41,392. That would be some time in March?—I think I met him in London.

41,393. That is brought into your account, and it looks as if you had paid it, but in reality you paid all the bill of 1,520*l.* 14*s.* 3*d.*, minus the 189*l.*, which you do not know how it came there?—Yes, in round numbers.

41,394. Do you know what was the squabble with respect to your not paying Mr. Presswell some small sums?—There was some question at the time; I forget the circumstances of it entirely, but I think it was as to Mr. Presswell receiving some 18*l.* odd which was considered at the time too large a sum for the duties performed.

41,395. What had he to do personally?—I believe nothing particular, and that is the reason we objected to pay him.

41,396. Here is a letter in which he says the bill is 18*l.* 10*s.* 4*d.*, your share will be 9*l.* 17*s.* 11*d.* Do you know what that means?—He was the town clerk, and as town clerk he charged for his fees a sum which we considered too large, and we simply taxed his bill and paid him a certain sum which we agreed upon.

41,397. That accounts for the correspondence between you and the election auditor?—Yes.

41,398. (Mr. Bere.) Before we come to 1865, how much did you pay in 1863 in consequence of the registration?—I paid on October the 21st 1864 250*l.* on account of the registration. I paid on January 14th 1865 a further sum of 93*l.* 7*s.* 0*d.*

41,399. Had you ever been concerned in paying money for registration expenses before. Had you ever paid any for Exeter?—I paid a small sum towards the registration society.

41,400. Did it not strike you that over 200*l.* was an enormous sum for two Liberal candidates to pay for registration?—Outrageous.

41,401. Did you remonstrate?—Very much.

41,402. And it produced no effect?—Futile.

41,403. (Mr. Coleridge.) Whom did you remonstrate with?—With everybody.

41,404. With your agents?—With everybody whom I had an opportunity of speaking to. I was in a chronic state of remonstrance for a long time.

41,405. With Mr. Cuming and Mr. Chaster?—And with everybody.

41,406. (Mr. Bere.) Did Mr. Michelmore give you a detailed account of how this money had been spent in the registration?—Yes, I had a detailed account of it.

41,407. Have you got that?—I am not sure that I have not got it.

41,408. Between you and Mr. Pender you have spent between 600*l.* and 650*l.* in the expenses of the Liberal registration in this borough?—Yes, only for that year.

41,409. In 1864 do you remember what you paid?—The expenses were heavier then. In October 1864 I paid 250*l.* for registration, and in January 1865 I paid a further sum to make it up.

41,410. Was that for registration in 1864?—Yes, and also for registration in 1863; there were some arrears unpaid.

41,411. Did you ever hear of any arrangement having been made between you and the duke that you were to pay the registration expenses after you became the member?—No, there was no understanding or agreement of that sort with the duke.

41,412. As a fact did the duke pay the registration expenses up to 1863?—No, I did not know that.

41,413. In Mr. Michelmore's account there is a charge for registration expenses; that stops in 1863. I suppose you had to pay them from that time?—I never knew of it until this moment.

41,414. There was no arrangement between you and the duke?—None whatever.

41,415. The registration expenses of 1865 you have never paid yet?—I suppose not.

41,416. (Mr. Longe.) Did you intimate to anyone your desire to enter parliament or stand for Totnes before you went to the duke?—I had intimated my desire very strongly to the public by having been for four years in the field for Exeter.

41,417. But as to Totnes?—I had no idea of standing for Totnes until I had a letter from the duke asking me to see him.

41,418. The duke had heard from some one that you would be approved of at Totnes?—The first intimation I had was from the duke, who told me that if I could make myself agreeable to the people of Totnes I might have his support.

41,419. Had he been told that you would be supported here?—My name had been suggested to him, but I do not know by whom, as a person whom the people of Totnes would like to represent them.

41,420. Do you suppose it first came from the people of Totnes?—I do not suppose anything about it, because I know nothing at all about it beyond that.

41,421. At that time the duke said you would have his support if you were approved of by the people of Totnes?—He said I should have his support. I suppose it depended on the people of Totnes liking me sufficiently to elect me.

41,422. Then I do not see what the use of the duke's support would be?—I cannot help that.

41,423. When you came here you met Mr. Thomas Michelmore as one of the first persons in Totnes?—Yes.

41,424. At the time when you were in conversation with him did he inform you what the duke's interest was, and what you might calculate upon?—I calculated upon being returned.

41,425. By the duke's interest?—I suppose so.

41,426. Would the duke's interest alone have been sufficient to return you?—I supposed so.

41,427. From your conversation with Mr. Michelmore?—Yes, precisely.

41,428. (Mr. Bere.) Did he give you any idea of what number of voters the Duke's interest would operate on?—I did not go into the figures.

41,429. (Mr. Coleridge.) You understood that the

THIRTIETH DAY.

A. Seymour, Esq., M.P.

28 Sept. 1866.

custom was to return one person in the Liberal interest and one in the duke's interest?—Yes.

41,430. And you counted that you would have that general support?—Yes, that general support which the person whom they called the duke's candidate always had.

41,431. Which you had been told was had on former occasions?—Certainly.

41,432. (Mr. Bere.) Was there any communication made to the duke as to the arrangement come to between you and Mr. Pender?—As to the arrangement between those gentlemen and ourselves there had been some communication, but I do not know what. I never saw the correspondence; but as far as my memory serves me there was a correspondence between some parties here and the Duke of Somerset with reference to the members. I believe I heard so as a matter of report here, and the result of that was I believe that the duke put away any influence which he might be considered to have, and set his personal feelings entirely aside. I was to consider myself as perfectly and entirely independent, and standing entirely on my own basis; that any influence he might have possessed was gone, and that the people were left to do as they liked in regard to their opinions.

41,433. That the same support was to be given to Mr. Pender that was given to you?—That I do not know, beyond that there was some arrangement. I cannot tell you what it was. I never saw the correspondence, and know nothing of it except by hearsay. I do not recollect the duke saying anything to me on the subject.

41,434. Is that the Duke of Somerset's handwriting (hands a letter to the witness)?—That is his writing.

41,435. Can you remember the time of the year when the duke sent for you to London on the first occasion?—Yes; it must have been in November.

41,436. After the date of these two letters; the one is dated the 21st, the other the 23d of October?—I should think so.

41,437. Did you understand from the duke that he was going to write to Totnes after his interview with you?—That I cannot tell you.

41,438. Can you remember whether any conversation passed between you and him about your continuing to be a candidate for Exeter?—I forget now. There may have been, it is not at all improbable that there was a certain amount of conversation with reference to Exeter, but what it was I cannot tell you.

41,439. What relation are you to the duke?—My nearest relationship to him is a third cousin, I think, —no nearer on the father's side.

41,440. (Mr. Longe.) When you saw Mr. Michelmore at Totnes did you understand that he had heard from the duke about you?—I imagine so. I do not know whether I asked him any questions or not, but I imagined from what he told me he had seen his Grace in October, and that communications had passed between Mr. Michelmore and these gentlemen and his Grace.

41,441. (Mr. Bere.) This letter of the 21st of October was written by the Duke of Somerset to Mr. Michelmore in consequence of his communication with you?—I think so probably.

41,442. The first is dated October 21st.

"Admiralty, Tuesday 21st October 1862.

"Dear Mr. Michelmore,

"I am told that Lord Gifford's state is so "critical that he is not expected to live many days. "Under these circumstances I was asked whether "I should object to Mr. Alfred Seymour; he, as "you are aware, has been offering himself to Exeter, "where, however, a difficulty has arisen on account "of Mr. Coleridge's local connexions. I answered "that I had no objection to him, or indeed to any "gentleman of Liberal politics whom the respectable "voters would approve. I would not advise anyone "to offer himself to Totnes unless the gentlemen "there who took a chief part in political matters "were desirous of such a candidate. Would you "ascertain what may be the feeling on this point, as "we must at all events be prepared in case of a "sudden vacancy. Of course nothing must be made "public at present.

"Yours very faithfully, SOMERSET."

That was in all probability answered by Mr. Michelmore, and then there was a second letter written by the duke to Mr. Michelmore on the 23rd October.

"Admiralty, 23rd October 1862.

"Dear Mr. Michelmore,

"It should be clearly understood that I have "no special interest in the gentleman named in my "former letter. Any person of Liberal principles "would be equally agreeable to me. The risk at "Exeter of losing both seats has induced persons to "ask me whether I objected, and I had no right to "object if the choice were otherwise approved by "the constituency. I have no wish to interfere, but "persons will apply to me, and I refer their appli- "cations for the consideration of the leading persons "in the constituencies.

"I hope to go to Stoner to-morrow, and to remain "there next week.

"Yours very faithfully, SOMERSET."

41,443. (Mr. Coleridge.) I am afraid for your sake you have not told us all the expenses which you were put to in 1864. What do they amount to over and above your share of the registration?—I have given you the figures.

41,444. We have 70*l.* in charities, is that all?—That is every farthing that I have paid. The 70*l.* was paid in February 1865.

41,445. What did the place cost you in 1864?—I suppose there is 70*l.* 14*s.* 0*d.*, and 93*l.* 7*s.* 0*d.* paid at the beginning of 1865, which I suppose must be considered part of 1864. I think there was a further sum of 25*l.* or thereabouts.

41,446. That would have made over 400*l.* in the whole?—Yes.

Mr. J. W. Chaster.

Mr. JOHN WEBBER CHASTER recalled and further examined.

41,447. (Mr. Bere.) We have heard from Mr. Seymour that the result of that arrangement between the two sections of the Liberal party in 1863 was made known to the duke. Do you know by whom?—I had no idea that that arrangement was known to the duke until a letter was received by Mr. Thomas Michelmore, I should think about the first week in October, when Mr. Thomas Michelmore received a letter from the Duke of Somerset, and the same day he sent one to me and to four others, asking us to meet him at True Street.

41,448. Is that the correspondence that has been read?—No. I attended that meeting, and the tenor of the letter was, that the death of the Earl of Gifford was very likely to render it extremely probable that we should want another candidate; but he asked us to fix upon a candidate, or that the independent electors of Totnes should, and I recollect that the first name that was suggested was Lord Seymour.

41,449. What day was that?—I cannot tell about the date.

41,450. Read that letter to yourself (handing a letter to the witness). Was that the first intimation that Mr. Michelmore ever received about Lord Gifford's health?—I do not know where that suggestion could come from.

41,451. Is not that the letter that you saw at Mr. Michelmore's?—I should say not.

41,452. Was that meeting at Mr, Michelmore's earlier than that?—I should think seven days before that. The tenor of the letter was somewhat different from that, and the result was that we named four persons as qualified to fill the vacancy. The first name was Lord Seymour; the second was Mr. Alfred Seymour, whom we had known by report, having seen his addresses; and I think the third was Major Lyons; I forget the other.

41,453. It was Lord John Hay we have been told?—I think not, because I knew Lord John Hay, and I do not think he was in England at the time.

41,454. Was it Lord William?—No, I think neither of the Hays. But the prominent man under Lord Seymour was Mr. Alfred Seymour.

41,455. Was that ever communicated to the duke?—No doubt that result of the meeting was communicated to the duke.

41,456. It does not appear to have been communicated to him, or he would have hardly asked the question whether Mr. Alfred Seymour would be an acceptable candidate for Totnes?—It must have been a communication, because he said he did not wish his son to stand in the event of the vacancy.

41,457. You did not know through whom, if through anybody, that arrangement of 1863 was communicated to the duke?—I do not.

41,458. (Mr. Longe.) Who communicated the result of that discussion to the duke?—I should say Mr. Thomas Michelmore. He received the letter from the duke.

41,459. This letter could not have been written in answer to that letter (referring)?—No, certainly not. That is a suggestion that must have come from some third party.

ALFRED SEYMOUR, Esq., M.P., recalled.

A. Seymour, Esq., M.P.

41,460. (The witness.) I will state in reference to that, having heard that letter, my impression is, that on one occasion the Duke of Somerset stated to me that Mr. Brand had been to him with reference to Mr. Coleridge at Exeter. It was either the Duke of Somerset or Mr. Brand. After reading the letters, that has brought the circumstance to my mind, and he said that they had been to the Duke of Somerset in reference to Mr. Coleridge at Exeter, and if I were to stand for Totnes it would leave the ground open for Mr. Coleridge at Exeter. It was long subsequently that I was told that, and whether it was by Mr. Brand or the Duke of Somerset I cannot say.

41,461. (Mr. Bere.) You said you were much surprised at the amount of the sums that you had to pay for registration?—Yes.

41,462. You said you had a detailed account of those items making up those sums?—The detailed account I had was in Mr. Chaster's handwriting, and so was the letter from him.

41,463. It was unfortunate that you did not have a copy of Mr. Michelmore's ledger account against the Totnes registration expenses, seeing that some of those would hardly come under the head of registration expenses. I will read one or two: "Totnes Regis- "tration. In account with Messrs. Michelmore and son, "February 11th 1864. J. Searle, for a year's rent of "house to prevent the Tories getting him 10*l.* 10*s.* 0*d.*" If you had seen that account you would hardly have paid it?—No.

41,464. You were not aware that you had paid such an item?—I was aware that I had paid 250*l.*

41,465. But not that item. Then the next is, "John Tozer, a loan, 20*l.*" Do you think that that is a proper sum to be included in registration expenses; have you received that loan back?—No.

41,466. The next is, "J. T. O. Tope, for repairs of Diptford Cottage, 10*s.*" It is a curious item. Then "Mrs. Beazley, hotel registration expenses, 72*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*?"—I remember, at the time I believe that Mr. Pender and myself both spoke very strongly about certain hotel expenses, going into the registration account, and we were aware that there were large sums for hotel expenses.

41,467. "May 8th, 1865, Bindon, gift in sickness 5*s.*?"—It is a long time, two years after I had paid the registration expenses.

41,468. This is charged in Totnes registration expenses, and probably what you will eventually be asked to pay. Then there is, "Thomas Rose for window blinds, 8*s.* 2½*d.*" Then there is an item, "John Amery, rent due from the 1st July 1864, 11*l.* 19*s.* 5*d.*" Do you know anything about that?—I know nothing about it.

41,469. Was that sent to you?—I had nothing except what you have already had.

41,470. This is from Messrs. Michelmore's books, and it is, "Totnes Registration, in account with Messrs. Michelmore and son." Then there is a balance in hand carried on to 110 in the ledger, and when 110 is looked at, it is an account with you and Messrs. Michelmore and son. There is this item that you would hardly have allowed I think, "J. B. Prout, a "clerk in Mr. Michelmore's office, cash-council elec- "tion 50*l.*?"—I do not know about that.

41,471. (Mr. Longe.) Had you ever given authority for that outlay?—No.

41,472. (Mr. Bere.) Actually here are two sums in your private account as well as in the registration account. They are not charged twice over. But here is a charge to you, "John Tozer, a loan of 20*l.* "John Searle, half a year's rent, agreed to be paid 10 "guineas." They have taken it out of the sums belonging to the registration account and put it to your private account. There was a sum of 50*l.* for municipal registration. I suppose that is Prout's?—This is a letter that I read in answer to Mr. Windeatt with reference to the municipal registration. He wrote to me with reference to it, and I wrote to him: "Dear sir,—I am in receipt of your two letters, and "will share the expense. I will pay the municipal re- "gistration with Mr. Pender for this year only, but on "the distinct understanding that I am not in future to "be applied to for any sum towards it. My share will "consequently be 50*l.*" That is probably the 50*l.* referred to in that?—Yes.

41,473. Are you sure that those items were never mentioned to you that I have read to you?—I am not aware of their being read to me. I never had the registration accounts certainly. I certainly think I should not, if they had come under the head of registration accounts.

41,474. Can you understand how a great many expenses have been put to the registration expenses that ought not to have been put there?—Yes.

41,475. (Mr. Longe.) Did you know from Mr. Michelmore what registration expenses meant?—There was a great question about the registration expenses, and great expenses they said had been gone to. Mr. Floud from Exeter and Mr. Edmonds from Plymouth had been engaged on the business, and they said great expenses had been incurred, and there was a long bill sent in, and we did demur a great deal about it; but I suppose that we may possibly have paid the money a little more readily than we otherwise should have done in the face of a general election within two or three months.

41,475*a*. Did you not know that the registration expenses in fact included a variety of outlays and outgoings connected with the honor of representing the borough?—I did not, I had no idea that there were any of those items. What I believed was, that there were certain expenses incurred in former registrations which had not been defrayed, and that those expenses were to be put into the whole registration account, and that items such as have been read by Mr. Commissioner I had not the remotest idea of.

41,476. Is this the first time that you have heard of it?—Yes; I had no idea of such a thing.

41,477. Did you come down in the election in 1865 before Mr. Pender?—About the same time.

41,478. Who attended you in your canvass?—Mr. Jeffery Michelmore.

41,479. You canvassed almost all the voters personally?—I think everybody.

41,480. You made up this poll book?—Yes.

41,481. There are certain marks in this poll book, can you give us any information as to those crosses?—There are crosses against them, doubtful voters,

THIRTIETH DAY

A. Seymour, Esq., M.P.

28 Sept. 1866.

and the mark that they were venal, but not all necessarily so.

41,482. From whom did you get your information that any of the voters were venal?—I knew from having canvassed them in 1863 pretty well the nature of the voters.

41,483. You knew how they were to be arranged?—Yes; but I very rarely, if I could possibly help it, canvassed any man that I knew to be thoroughly venal. I may have just called upon him, but that was all.

41,484. I will ask you about some of those names; I see here Robert Tucker, and here is a query, do you know anything about him?—I forget Robert Tucker, the query may mean that he was ill or away.

41,485. You have marked him down for Dawkins, and then you put down "probably for me?"—Yes, probably he might split his vote. I forgot Robert Tucker.

41,486. William Cole has a cross and query against his name?—I think the query must have been first of all that he was a doubtful vote; the cross may have implied that he was being tampered with by the other party.

41,487. Might it not be that you entered him to vote for Dawkins, and then he was arranged with by your party?—In most cases those queries and the crosses and marks were put at different times.

41,488. They are singularly accurate as I have gone through them. If the crosses mean venality they are singularly accurate?—They are not necessarily all venality; I was looking through that book this morning and I saw one or two cases marked in that way that were certainly not so, as you may see yourself.

41,489. At present I have not come to one yet; yes, there is one that has three crosses, and that is the vicar?—Yes.

41,490. Then there is the case of Mr. Jordain, he never voted?—He never votes, I was looking through it, and I saw that it could not be depended upon as accurate. I understood them at the time, for some reason or other; as far as I can recollect the crosses meant that I should call again, or something of that sort.

41,491. (Mr. Longe.) Had you the same mark for "venality" and "call again?"—I had no particular mark for "venality," because I see the mark which I put for "venality" very often. I see that it means those that are not so, and I think I knew the constituency sufficiently well then to know which were venal and which not, without the necessity of a cross, or a remark. It was generally either to "call again" or for some particular purpose that those marks were put.

41,492. (Mr. Bere.) What sum of money did you bring down?—500*l.*

41,493. Did you bring it?—No, sent it through my bank.

41,494. Had you any account of how that was expended?—I have no account.

41,495. Did you ask for an account?—The petition was coming on, and they said I had better wait.

41,496. Since the petition has been settled?—I have had no account.

41,497. The actual expenses paid by the proper officer were comparatively small, and you do not know how the remainder of the money was spent, the 500*l.*?—No.

41,498. Did any other money except Mr. Pender's 2,000*l.* and your 500*l.* come into Totnes for the purposes of the election?—No, not that I am aware of, and I was not aware that that 2,000*l.* had come down until long after.

41,499. You knew it had been discussed at the time of the arrangement that that sum of money would be necessary—you thought it was a larger sum, instead of 2,000*l.*—2,000*l.* apiece?—That is the registration of 1863.

41,500. In the registration of 1864 did you come to the conclusion that a less sum of money would be wanted?—I came to the conclusion that no money would be wanted scarcely, we had such a large majority.

41,501. Had Mr. Michelmore discussed the question with you?—I do not think he had.

41,502. Whose suggestion was it that you should bring down only 500*l.*?—Mr. Michelmore suggested that I should send 500*l.*

41,503. When did he suggest that?—It must have been at the beginning of the election.

41,504. The election was on the 12th, and you can remember whether it was ten days or so before the election?—No; my impression is, that when I came down I had no letter from him about it. I never had any correspondence; my impression is that when I came down here for that election, Mr. Michelmore said that it would be as well to have 500*l.*, and on the 10th of July I think I paid in 500*l.* to the account of one of the bankers. I may have written, but I do not recollect whether I did or not.

41,505. What I rather wanted to know was, whether the information from Mr. Michelmore that 500*l.* would be wanted from you came before the 5th of July, as long before the election as that?—I forget what day it was that I came down here.

41,506. Can you tell from your diary?—I am afraid not from my diary.

41,507. Do you know in the course of the election of Colonel Dawkins spending a good deal of money?—I suspected that there was, but I have no knowledge of it.

41,508. You heard rumours of it?—I did hear rumours.

41,509. Did you find that the voters whom you canvassed would not promise their votes so quickly as they might have done?—I did not find that more so than usual.

41,510. Did it not strike you that if that report was true, as you believed it to be, that Colonel Dawkins was spending money, more than 500*l.* would be wanted on your side to carry the election?—I did not think so.

41,511. You never thought so?—I never thought so, we had got such a very large registration.

41,512. What! After what happened in 1863?—The difference in the registration was so great, I looked at the majority of from 20 to 25 upon the register.

41,513. Did you not find in 1863 that a good many of the men that you calculated on voted for the other side?—No, I did not.

41,514. Did you not find them men who had previously voted for the Liberals?—There was one man who broke his word to me; 13 I think it was who promised me stayed away.

41,515. Was that all in 1863?—That was all.

41,516. In fact you know nothing of Mr. Pender having sent 2,000*l.* down here?—Nothing at all.

41,517. Were you and Mr. Pender acting together at the election?—We never canvassed together, we always canvassed separately; he canvassed with one set of gentlemen and I with another set, we never canvassed together. I do not on any occasion ever recollect canvassing the same voter with Mr. Pender.

41,518. You always canvassed with Mr. Jeffery Michelmore, and he with Mr. Windeatt?—Yes, sometimes I have been canvassing with Mr. Windeatt, or I have been canvassing with Mr. Chaster, according to the voters; but as a rule I always canvassed with Mr. Jeffery Michelmore.

41,519. Have you heard that after 1863 a great many persons who had been tenants of the duke were turned out for voting?—I have heard so.

41,520. Had you heard before the election of 1865 why they were turned out?—I have heard that many were turned out, not for voting according to their principles, but who were turned out when it was notorious that they had received money to vote on the other side.

41,521. It might be this, supposing the consequence of their voting against the ducal interest was that they were turned out, it was necessary that they should be in a position not to be less well off in the world han they otherwise would have been if they had kept n, and it was necessary that they should have money ? —I know nothing about that.

41,522. You have heard that they have been turned ut?—I have heard so.

41,523. Have you heard any number stated?—No, do not think so; if I have I have forgotten them.

41,524. Did you see William Mitchell in the course f your canvass?—Is that the shoemaker of Bridge- own?

41,525. He lives in Bridgetown; according to his statement a conversation of some length passed between you and he?—What is William Mitchell?

41,526. I think he is a shoemaker. Do you remember any person telling you in the course of the election that he had been turned out for voting against you in the course of your canvass in 1865?—I have no actual recollection of it.

41,527. I will read you what he says: "I first took the house of Mr. Harrison; it got after that into Mr. Michelmore's hands through a mortgage; he did not know exactly when my year expired, and he sent me a running notice. I told Mr. Seymour about it. When you told Mr. Seymour about this what did he say? He said he knew these things did take place. The best thing you can do is to promise to vote for me, and then it will be all set right. I says, No, I shall not do that; I have always voted for the Conservatives; if I do not vote at all I will not vote against them. He said, Promise me you will not vote against me. I said, No, I shall not do that." Do you remember any such conversation taking place between you and any elector?—I cannot say that I do. I do not say the conversation did not take place. I do not realize to myself who the person is.

41,528. He is a painter, close by the arch?—No, I do not recollect him at all, not the shop or the individual. I do not say the conversation did not take place, but I have no recollection of it.

41,529. Do you know a man named Samuel Saunders, a boot and shoe maker?—Yes.

41,530. Did this conversation pass between you and him: "Did Mr. Seymour promise you anything? he said I had better come to London to work, and he would give me all his work, and get more for me, and he said he paid a very good price for his work?"—I have no recollection of that, and not only that, but I am perfectly certain it did not occur. I recollect calling on him and canvassing him.

41,531. Do I understand you, as far as you know, the only sum of money spent at the election was 500*l.*?—As far as I was concerned.

41,532. (Mr. Longe.) I understand in the case of Mitchell it is quite possible you might have said that?—I think it is quite possible, and it is very possible for me to have tried to get the man's vote if I could by fair means, in telling him he would not be the worse for it.

41,533. Was there an understanding between you and Mr. Michelmore that would render it at all possible for you to have had such a demand?—Not the least, from anything between me and Mr. Michelmore, because I never interfered in any way; I never inquired in reference to those matters.

41,534. It would have been very extraordinary that that should have been done. It is consistent with what we have heard here as to the particular transactions between Mr. Michelmore and the tenants of the duke at election times?—How do you mean?

41,535. Why that those notices were given, and that if they vote one way or the other way, if they vote in favour of the ducal candidate, perhaps these notices might be withdrawn?—I am not aware that ever anything was said in my presence in reference to that.

41,536. Did you ever speak to Mr. Michelmore in favour of any tenant?—Never.

41,537. (Mr. Bere.) Were you applied to by any persons who were turned out to ask Mr. Michelmore to let them come back again?—Never.

41,538. (Mr. Longe.) Did you ever hear Mr. Michelmore himself, in canvassing with you, talk in any way about serving the notices to quit?—I never heard; I never interfered; I never knew anything about those matters at all. It was no business of mine in any way.

41,539. From what you know of what took place, and the way in which Mr. Michelmore conducted the election, you cannot say that a transaction of that kind would be an extraordinary one, contrary to the rule upon which he acted?—An imaginary transaction, such as the present.

41,540. Now, notwithstanding that, what should you have said had he given notice that he would have withdrawn?—I never heard any intimation given in my presence of anything of the kind. I not only never did what he has told you, I never myself held out any hope to any man, because I had no right to do so in any way.

41,541. There has been a great deal said with regard to the exercise of the territorial power over the Bridgetown voters in this court; from what you know took place, and the conversation that you had with him, you say that no such power ever was exercised?—Territorial power?

41,542. Powers of ejectment in case of any voter who voted against him?—I only know what has come out in this court, and what I have heard, hearsay evidence. I know of nothing more.

41,543. Is it inconsistent with what you understood to be the true state of the case as between you and Mr. Michelmore in the elections?—There never was any question between me and Mr. Michelmore about that. I do not admit it for one moment. There never was a question in reference to Mr. Michelmore and me with reference to voters being turned out.

41,544. Do you deny that you understood that any such power was used in your favour at either of those two elections?—I do not thoroughly understand the question.

41,545. Supposing it is said here that the ducal influence has been used and that that influence has always been supported by peremptory ejectment in case of any tenant voting against the duke's candidate, can you say from what you have heard, and your judgment and your knowledge of the way in which either of the Michelmores, Mr. Jeffery or Mr. Thomas, has canvassed, that he exercised any influence that would be contrary to that notion?—I have never heard Mr. Jeffery Michelmore in my presence at any time when I have been canvassing with him refer either directly or indirectly to any questions of ejectment in my favour, or against me.

41,546. Then you have had conversations?—Never.

41,547. Did you understand from him that he could bring influence to bear on any voter, a tenant of the duke, that might get you a vote if there was any question about it?—No, not more than the ordinary influence which he is supposed to possess; no question of any more influence being used, or any statement of it, for me or for anybody else, as far as I have seen. If this territorial influence has been exercised, which you say has, I suppose it has been exercised, certainly not during any period of my canvass with Mr. Michelmore, or during any conversation of mine with him. I cannot be expected to know what passes behind my back, and of which I have no cognizance.

41,548. (Mr. Coleridge.) Has Mr. Michelmore ever told you about any such thing?—No.

41,549. (Mr. Bere.) You used to go through your poll book with Mr. Michelmore?—I made it up myself generally.

41,550. Did you ever happen to say to Mr. Michelmore, "Is that a person whose name is doubtful, can you influence this particular man?"—I do not know that I ever did; I do not recollect ever having done so. I know nearly every man myself in going through the poll book. I did not want many questions.

41,551. There was a very large bill run up at Mrs.

THIRTIETH DAY.

A. Seymour, Esq., M.P.

28 Sept. 1866.

Beazley's at the election; have you ever paid any other money except the 500*l.* since the election, except the sum of 69*l.* 12*s.* on account of subscriptions?—Yes, I paid that, that is the only sum, except a small sum of three guineas.

41,552. Do you consider yourself bound to any person to repay any other expenses of that election?—I think that now I know the circumstances of the case, which I did not know at the time of the election, I consider myself bound to repay Mr. Pender a certain portion of that money which he has paid. I was entirely ignorant of it at the time. From what has come to my knowledge since I consider myself completely bound to pay my share.

41,553. And to pay your share of the expenses of the petition?—Yes, I have paid a portion of that already; and the paper I have given you is the portion of the sum that I have paid, there is a sum still due upon that.

41,554. (Mr. Coleridge.) Can you tell us at all now what it has cost you for being member for Totnes from the time you first came down, the gross sum; we have had it from the other members?—Every sum which I have actually paid with reference to Totnes in the two elections, in subscriptions and various items, including 356*l.* which I have paid part of, is 2,777*l.* 14*s.* 10*d.*

41,555. (Mr. Bere.) There is one question I must ask you, were there any money transactions between you and Mr. Pender?—Never with reference to this matter, there have been others.

41,556. Private transactions?—Yes.

41,557. It is money advanced to you and you have repaid it?—Yes.

41,558. Had that advance of money anything to do with the election or not?—Nothing whatever; it has nothing at all to do with the election.

41,559. (Mr. Longe.) There is a case of William Hannaford, there is a cross to his name, that implies venality?—Not necessarily.

41,560. Then there is a "call," or "saw"?—No, not necessarily. You will see in some cases I saw a man without having called, I very often considered it necessary to call again. Very often that cross means I saw a man and put a cross against his name to show that I must call.

41,561. A second cross; there are two crosses in this case?—I cannot tell you what the second cross meant.

41,562. There is the first cross, then the word "saw," then a cross afterwards, can you tell the meaning of that?—I should think the meaning of that is that he was carried away the last time.

41,563. He is at Mr. Durant's?—Yes, he is the gardener, and there had been a question about his voting the time before; I probably put a cross there to make some inquiries.

41,564. (Mr. Coleridge.) We have heard of how he had been paid, that is being carried away?—Yes.

41,565. (Mr. Bere.) Did you have any conversation with him?—I do not recollect the circumstance of my seeing him. I evidently did see him, but I do not recollect the circumstances.

41,566. You knew the hotel bills were large at the last election?—Yes.

41,567. Did you hear of the way in which the books were arranged, the accounts of the first election between you and Mr. Pender, it was thought an incorrect thing to do, and the pages in which those accounts appeared in the day-book and the ledger were torn out and the accounts were separated?—I know nothing about that.

41,568. It is the fact; here is the account in which the sum is debited to you, 44*l.* 2*s.* 5*d.*, then there is, "ditto on account of extra ones, 113*l.* 6*s.* 0*d.*;" can you explain that payment, "ditto on account of extra ones"?—On account of extra ones?

41,569. Extra hotel bill I suppose; is it not the fact that it is expenses other people had incurred really paid by you?—I suppose all these large hotel bills are incurred for treating.

41,570. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know anything of the agreement said to be carried out between Mr. Beazley and Mr. Michelmore by which the amount of the bill not paid should be set off against the rent?—I know nothing about it, this is the first I have heard of it.

41,571. You said you had not paid the registration expenses of 1865?—No.

41,572. Have you seen this precious book. Look through it, and look at the end of it (handing a book to the witness), about some appeals from the Registration Court, you paid 50*l.* towards that?—I have paid 50*l.* towards it.

41,573. Do you consider yourself liable for half the whole amount?—That was in 1865.

41,574. Do you recollect the circumstances of a lot of appeals in London?—Yes, it was last year.

41,575. Have you ever had a detailed bill of that sort sent to you?—No, I have not.

41,576. You were not aware of this document being in existence?—No, I was not.

41,577. Have you been asked to pay half the gross sum?—50*l.*, that is all I have been asked to pay, which I have paid.

41,578. (Mr. Bere.) Are you aware of your own knowledge that many of the votes in this borough were not the votes of householders, but votes of persons who occupied buildings on land?—Yes, I am, of my own knowledge.

41,579. And that those persons who were supposed to have voted were not the real occupiers of the land?—That I have no knowledge of.

41,580. Did you suspect it was done?—From what came out in the Registration Court I supposed such was the case.

41,581. Had you not to do with the Gerston Company?—I had to do with it at the commencement, but I have had nothing to do with it since.

41,582. You take an interest in it, do you not?—I have not heard anything about it for a long time.

41,583. Be kind enough to read that letter to Mr. Michelmore (handing a letter to the witness)?—I suppose that at that time I was wanting to know about it.

41,584. Had you ever advanced any money to the Gerston Company?—No, I never did.

41,585. Do you know when the company was formed?—It might have been formed in 1864.

41,586. It was formed for the purpose of creating a number of votes?—Yes.

41,587. Do you know the purpose for which those votes were to be created?—To rent a farm as a joint-stock company.

41,588. One person was to be the manager?—One was to be the manager and the others were to be co-proprietors.

41,589. The manager was to regulate the quantity of cattle taken in at so much per head per week, and the profits to arise from it were to be divided among the company?—Yes.

41,590. When they came to 6*l.* a year each they would have a beneficial occupation of 10*l.* a year?—Yes.

41,591. That was prevented by the decision of the Court of Common Pleas, and those votes have been struck off?—Yes.

41,592. Do you know of a good many other votes of the same kind?—There are a great many votes still, of the same kind of occupation, that is, a building connected with land.

41,593. There is another awful item in the registration account, John Elford's cow?—I think you will find John Elford's cow in my account.

41,594. Did you hear of any proposition to compromise the petition?—Nothing at all.

41,595. (Mr. Coleridge.) There is one thing I will ask you, have you had the gross amount sent to you of the expenses, 249*l.* 2*s.*?—No, I have no bill in reference to that sum

JOHN DERRY sworn and examined.

41,596. (Mr. Bere.) You are the medical attendant of Mr. Brooking Cuming?—Yes, I am.

41,597. Have you seen him lately?—I have just seen him.

41,598. In what condition is he?—In reference to his present state?

41,599. Yes.—I think I found him in that state as described by Mr. Delaforde, which you will find to be a true statement.

41,600. We must have your statement as to what your belief is as a medical man of his state of health?—I believe his health is such that, plainly, if he were under the examination desired it would decidedly very much endanger his life; in fact, as a proof of that, when I heard a week since that it would be necessary for some of you gentlemen to examine him, my remark was this, if that is the case it is quite time that I should look into his life insurances.

41,601. You are of opinion that it would be dangerous to his life if we were to go at the present time to examine him?—Most decidedly.

THOMAS E. OWEN sworn and examined.

41,602. (Mr. Bere.) Have you seen Mr. Brooking Cuming to-day?—I saw him about an hour ago.

41,603. Are you of the same opinion as that expressed by Mr. Derry; you have heard him, and does your opinion agree with his?—I endorse it.

ALFRED SEYMOUR, ESQ., M.P., recalled and examined.

41,604. (Mr. Coleridge.) There are one or two more questions I wish to ask you; I suppose you have had a copy of the account at the Seymour. I see 25*l.* to James Farleigh, do you know what that was for?—No, I do not, but it is probably in one of those accounts I have given in to you.

41,605. But you do not seem to have had the identical item; and then Condy 25*l.*; then ditto, Condy 25*l.*; then Bourne for sundries?—When does this refer to?

41,606. 1863, an account between you and Messrs. Michelmore?—All the accounts I have had from Messrs. Michelmore are there.

41,607. Are those all new to you?—They convey no idea to my mind.

41,608. Have you any recollection of having seen these before?—No, never.

41,609. If you had you would have asked what they meant, their having 25*l.*, 50*l.*, and 30*l.*; is not the impression on your mind that you had paid those people those sums under some other guise?—I suppose I had. I suppose those come out of the 1,000*l.* which I paid in.

41,610. (Mr. Bere.) Were you ever asked in canvassing to get an appointment for anybody?—No, not while canvassing.

41,611. I believe you have interested yourself about various electors in the borough?—Yes, I have, but whether I was asked when canvassing or not I do not know, and I cannot tell you.

41,612. Here is an item and a very remarkable one. We have heard a story from a tenant of the duke named Robert Lake; he came to Mr. Michelmore and said in consequence of his being poor, he having voted or having promised to vote for the Liberals, he thought he ought not to be obliged to pay all his rent; in the rent book kept by Mr. Michelmore there is a credit for 20*l.* to Lake, signed Jeffery Michelmore, showing that you are charged with that 20*l.* before you actually opened an account with Mr. Michelmore at all; it is put in after the 12th of January 1863, as an item in 1862. December 12th, cash paid Lake 20*l.* Can you give any explanation of that?—Not the least; I saw it myself now in looking at the book.

41,613. You probably did not know what it was?—I saw the figures.

41,614. In consideration of his voting for the Liberals 20*l.* was allowed him for his rent, and that 20*l.* is charged to your account?—Yes.

41,615. Have you ever, directly or indirectly, beyond the sum you have given us an account of, expended any money connected with your election in Totnes?—Never.

41,616. Did you ever, directly or indirectly, authorize any other person to spend money in votes?—Never.

41,617. Had you any knowledge of those sums of money having been spent in your behalf?—When I say I have no knowledge of any sums of money having been spent on my behalf, there is the report that reached me of that 500*l.* which I had no knowledge of at all.

41,618. You have heard that a sum of 500*l.* was spent in your behalf, whence it came you do not know?—I do not know of it.

Mr. JOHN HEATH recalled.

41,619. (Mr. Bere.) Have you a statement in writing of what you have to say to the court?—Yes.

41,620. Is it a statement of facts, or an argument prepared by a legal adviser on the facts of the case?—A statement I have prepared myself.

41,621. In your own writing?—My son's writing, which I took the opinion of Mr. Edmonds and Mr. Frederick Kellock upon last night, and I am prepared to read it.

41,622. Any statement of fact you have to make we will hear.—Evidence and fact.

41,623. You can only read a statement of fact on oath, you cannot read an argument upon any opinion at which we have arrived; any facts tending to alter that opinion we shall be happy to hear.—It is my wish to make a statement in answer to the very grave and serious charges made by you as the chairman of the Commission on Thursday the 27th instant. With your permission I will go through the several points of your address to me, and take them in the order in which they were made.

41,624. Then you must understand we cannot allow that. What we will allow and shall be glad to hear is a statement of any fact that may alter our opinion; but the controversion of an opinion we cannot admit; and therefore an argument founded on the facts proved before the Commission will not be received in Court by the Commissioners. Supposing you chose to appear not by yourself but by an advocate, we could not hear him, and we cannot hear you to express any dispute or discuss the judgment the Commissioners have arrived at; any new fact which you choose to lay before us we shall be exceedingly glad to hear. Any remarks that you wish to make on our judgment we shall be glad to hear, and if you send it to us in writing we shall be glad to read it, but in public we cannot do it.—The remark to which my attention is directed is in regard to inquiries instituted and the information you received, on which you arrived at a certain conclusion. I never have been cross-examined on that information, and I have no idea what it can be.

41,625. That is information we do not intend to give you, as to the extent of it or the means employed to procure it. It is not on any information we have received that we have arrived at that conclusion.

(Mr. Longe.) It is entirely upon the evidence given in Court.

THIRTIETH DAY.

J. Heath.

28 Sept. 1866.

(Witness.) I think you refer to a discrepancy alluded to in your charge against me with respect to William Mitchell. He is alleged in the statement that was made last Tuesday by the Court to have received 80*l.* from one of my sons. From the statement I have read in the newspapers respecting it, his evidence is that he received 50*l.* from me in a room where there was a gentleman by my side.

That is discussion upon the evidence on which the Commissioners have arrived at a particular conclusion, and a discussion which we cannot allow.

41,626. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you lay before us any fresh facts as to who the mysterious stranger was?—With respect to the reference that was made to Pack, who is described as my boots, but who is in fact an outdoor person, the inference was drawn of his being tampered with. I have 16 servants, and five or six extra ones at busy times, and they may all be summoned, and the one who waited in my room at the election time will tell you it was there where this gentleman was and where the money was paid. I do not dispute having been privy to the distribution of money, that is patent to everyone, from the highest to the lowest. There is a servant who occasionally attends, who is sometimes called Susan Brown, which was her name before she was married; she has worked for us for many years. She has been asked whether she was working at the time of the election and what she did, her reply is "I attended upon the office when there was a lunch laid, and I laid the cloth." And I was desirous that this occasional servant should appear before the Court, as that is new evidence and a new fact which the Court has the power to have proved.

41,627. (Mr. Coleridge.) Is she resident in Totnes?—Yes.

41,628. Is she the wife of a voter?—Oh no. If I were to coach one of my servants I should have to coach from 16 to 20, but I as a matter of duty studiously avoided saying anything to them before the examination took place. My impression is that what I stated in my evidence is correct.

41,629. Have you any information to give us?—That information, sir, I wish to call the attention of the Court to. In reply to the allegation touching the 1,700*l.*, my answer to that is, that Mr. Edmonds has acknowledged in his evidence the receipt of 3,500*l.*, and I have produced vouchers to the Court for 500*l.*, making together the amount of 4,000*l.*, being the whole amount advanced by Colonel Dawkins and with the account of which the Colonel and his solicitor have expressed themselves perfectly satisfied.

41,630. Who says that?—Colonel Dawkins when he was here, and his solicitor, Mr. Edmonds, has acknowledged the receipt.

41,631. That is not what we want, what we want to understand is this, of the 4,000*l.* that came into your hands there is 1,700*l.* to be accounted for?—How much?

41,632. There is not above 2,000*l.* of it accounted for by the distribution of bribes, therefore there is a balance of 1,700*l.* which somebody must have had, and there must be somebody who distributed it, and who that person was is for you to discover?—In reply to that, I have felt that my character in this matter has been assailed, and in justice to myself and my family I have given the best and the most truthful information that my recollection will enable me to give.

41,633. You have not given us any information.—I have given all I can, and if during the investigation any witnesses come up to refresh my memory as to what has transpired I am ready to admit it. But to the best of my power and ability up to the present time I have given you all. I may state that I had nothing more to do with the handing the money to Screach and Evens than the greatest stranger in this borough. I cannot give you any further evidence relating to the identity of the stranger, and I most solemnly state that if it was in my power to disclose to the Court who he was, and where he came from, I would now declare it. I shall be happy to do all in my power to make the necessary inquiries so as to discover it, feeling it due to myself, in the absence of your power of discovering the individual who was sent by the club in London as a blind or a safety valve to prevent it being known through whom the money came to the voters' hands. In some cases he handed the money himself, in some cases I handed it to them. I beg to submit most respectfully that I only took a subordinate part in the matter. I was thrown in the way of it by reason of my having lived in that house, and in no other way. That is my statement. I know no more, and up to the present time I have not the means of discovering who that gentleman was. I will do all in my power between this and the next meeting by direction of the Court to endeavour to discover and disclose him. My belief is that Mr. Smith must know who he is. He was in a highly excited state during the whole time he was here, and he was not able to attend to business of importance, yet his evidence is put against mine. He said first of all he went to No. 15 bedroom, and he acknowledged that was the room where his clerks came to.

41,634. We cannot hear an argument. The position you are now in is this, you must know of your own knowledge every single one of the Conservative voters who received a bribe; but by putting together the amounts that have been given to us you do not account for 3,700*l.* or anything like it. We may be content with your explanation, but I do not think Colonel Dawkins will be content with any explanation you give, unless you produce the person who actually distributed the money?—I cannot do it. Colonel Dawkins has expressed himself satisfied and his agent in this town is satisfied, and I have given in the vouchers for the whole of what has been acknowledged.

41,635. Colonel Dawkins is exceedingly dissatisfied with the discrepancy that appears between the amount of the monies which have been distributed and the amount of money which he gave?—I solemnly declare before this court that, with the exception of the names that I have given you, I know no more about what the other men have paid than the greatest stranger on earth.

41,636. (Mr. Coleridge.) From being the landlord of that house, and knowing the general working of things here, are you not in a position to bring forward some other persons who have been bribed, because that will lessen the amount?—My reply as to that is that I have not received that facility and courtesy from your secretary that I ought to have done; I gave him some vouchers which have not been returned to me.

41,637. (Mr. Bere.) I am informed that you did not ask for copies but the vouchers themselves, which could not be returned?—I only wanted them for the amounts. With respect to an amount paid to a voter, from the information I received from the gentleman himself, although the account given is that he had 100*l.* for his vote, the fact is he received but 50*l.*

41,638. Who is that?—Griffis. I never saw the money pass to him; I studiously avoided giving the voters an opportunity of knowing what the parcels contained; I was merely a subordinate agent in the matter, though I shall be happy to make every inquiry, with a view to the investigation of how much money was expended. I have not come here with untruthful statements, and it is not in my power to say one syllable about any of the money which was distributed by other persons.

41,639. I would suggest whether you cannot yourself obtain from Screach and Evens accurate accounts of the monies you received and the way in which they distributed it. Perhaps if you could obtain it for us, seeing the difficulty in which you are placed, we may be able to help you to make up some of the money. I should like to say with regard to Mr. Thomas, we received information which we distrusted exceedingly, about Mr. Thomas, having anything to do with the election three weeks ago; but we thought it due to you after making the accusation against you to let you know the information we received of any person who might by any possibility change the mystery that appears to exist and relieve you of the responsibility of appearing in court. It was in consequence of that he was summoned, I being perfectly aware at the time of the improbability of his being the person, especially as I have personal knowledge that he is of Liberal politics and not Conservative?—I beg to thank the Court for the liberal view they take of it, and I desire to say I will use every opportunity before the Commission ends. I have not said anything to Screach or Edmonds on the business; I never passed any of the money or monies, or any of my family; I solemnly declare they never passed any money to them. If by intercourse with them I can obtain any further information as to the amounts that have come into their hands on that occasion I shall be most happy to do so.

41,640. (Mr. Coleridge.) There is just one case with regard to a witness called Saunders; when he came here he swore that he had 25*l.* from you for himself; he also swore when he came here on another matter that he had 50*l.* in a bag from the stranger in your presence for another person; now that is not likely to be so much a mistake as if it had been all sworn to one transaction, he swore distinctly to one from you and to another from the stranger?—If Saunders was here I should give the same reply as I do; if he stated he had 50*l.* or 60*l.*, or whatever the amount may be, he may be correct, but I have not seen Saunders or had business with him; but the mode of handing over the money may make the difference between his evidence and mine. I have a great deal else to do, and during the excitement of an election and the management of my own business it is more likely the witness may be aware of the mode of dealing with it; but to the best of my belief I have stated what is correct; I have no desire to conceal anything, but to give the fullest information.

41,641. (Mr. Coleridge.) He says he was given something, but he was not promised anything?—What election is that?

41,642. Dent's election.—We are talking about 1865.

41,643. There may be a number of persons who received money from other people who have not told us the exact amounts which they themselves received it may be worth your while to inquire into that?—In justice to myself I wish the Court and the public distinctly to understand that Colonel Dawkins relieved me on that point; they do not think I got a penny; I have never been paid back the 40*l.* with which I bought the garden for Shinner.

41,644. (Mr. Coleridge.) Can you give us any further notion of the amount of money you distributed?—I gave the secretary the correct amount. I consider that I was privy to 500*l.*, either by myself or as identifying the persons who had money from the stranger.

41,645. Why did you say when you were first examined that you had spent only 157*l.*?—That was in cash; I did not know what amount was in these bags, and had no opportunity of knowing what cash there was.

41,646. You took I O U's for very nearly 500*l.*?—The cash which I handed to the people was in parcels.

41,647. (Mr. Bere.) You must have known by the I O U's what you had given, and you must use your best endeavours to set this right.—On the first day the reason of my confusion was that I had three poll books put into my hand, and I was asked to state what had taken place; I did not dispute having dealt with the voters, but I was confused between the three elections, and did not feel safe to give an opinion. If there were any discrepancies in my evidence on the first day I beg to apologize for such, and hope that my evidence afterwards may have been considered more satisfactory.

ALFRED SEYMOUR, Esq., M.P., recalled.

A. Seymour, Esq., M.P.

41,648. (Mr. Bere.) Were you cognizant of any application by Mr. Harris to Mr. Pender for a situation?—I was.

41,649. Did you see the letter which was written to Mr. Pender?—I did.

41,650. And the answer written by Mr. Pender?—I did.

41,651. Was there a consultation between you and Mr. Pender as to what answer should be written?—There was.

41,652. What was the consultation about?—The matter was discussed between us and also with Mr. Phillips, who was the mayor at the time. It was when I was staying here, and Mr. Phillips said that the letter was a most improper letter and ought to have been answered in the most strong language possible, and I with Mr. Phillips strongly urged on Mr. Pender to write categorically what actually was the fact, that no situation ever had been offered to him.

41,653. You gathered from Mr. Pender that he had an impression on his mind that he had never offered him a situation?—None whatever. I recollect the conversation occuring in Totnes.

41,654. Was that after Mr. Pender had seen Mr. Harris?—Yes, a few minutes after.

41,655. What did he tell you?—He came up Fore Street while I was canvassing, and we met in the street; he said, "I have just seen Harris and been "having a conversation with him." I said, "That is "a dangerous thing, what have you been talking "about?" he said, "I have been chaffing Harris; I "told him he was too clever a man to do the dirty "work of his party here." I said, "Have you got a "witness to your conversation?" he said, "No," I then said, "He is a very dangerous man to have any conversation with without a witness." That was the very time.

41,656. Did Mr. Pender tell you how long the conversation lasted?—He did not say. We had a few words, and my remark to him was never to speak to Harris without a third party being present. I recollect Mr. Phillips said at the same time that he believed it was a plant.

SAMUEL HILL sworn and examined.

S. Hill.

41,657. (Mr. Bere.) How old are you?—In my 64th year.

41,658. How long have you lived in Totnes?—All my life.

41,659. How long have you had a vote?—The first time I voted was for Mr. Ricardo.

41,660. That is many years ago?—I do not recollect the date.

41,661. Who did you vote for then?—For Mr. Ricardo.

41,662. Was he the only one you voted for?—Yes.

41,663. How much did you get for that?—Nothing.

61,664. Did anyone offer you anything?—No.

41,665. Nothing for Mr. Baldwin?—No.

41,666. When did you next vote?—For Mills.

41,667. How much did you get for that?—Nothing.

41,668. The next election, Lord Gifford and Mills, who did you vote for then?—For Mills.

41,669. How much did you get for that?—Nothing.

41,670. When did you get anything?—The first money I got was in 1863, when I voted for Dent.

41,671. Who brought you that?—It was carried to my son's house.

41,672. You mean Samuel Hill, jun.?—Yes.

41,673. Where does he live?—In the Plymouth Road.

41,674. Who are your neighbours?—Mr. Charles Michelmore and Mr. Windeatt.

41,675. Was Mr. Deane living in a house of yours?—He was.

THIRTIETH DAY.

S. Hill.

28 Sept. 1866.

41,676. Who carried this bag of gold to your son's house ?—I think it was Lorimer who carried it.

41,677. Was Lorimer a neighbour of yours ?—No.

41,678. He left it at your son's house ?—It was not left for me, it was a bag of gold for my son.

41,679. Did he bring it to you ?—I happened to go into the house.

41,680. And you took it up ?—No ; I said to myself, I think I ought to have something out of this, for I am going to vote for Dent too.

41,681. Then how much did you take ?—I took 50*l.* ; I thought it was pretty heavy.

41,682. Was it all in gold ?—Yes.

41,683. Why did you stop at the 50*l.* ?—I don't know ; I might have taken the whole. I have been called a fool a great many times for not taking the whole.

41,684. Your son might have objected ?—He was not there.

41,685. Had you agreed to vote for Dent ?—Yes.

41,686. Who had you promised ?—I promised Squire Phillips, I think. I voted once before on the Conservative side.

41,687. Had you no money for voting for Dunn ?—No ; I think I was asked by Mr. Phillips, as I was working for him, to split my vote.

41,688. What did you do last time ?—I voted for Dawkins and Pender.

41,689. What made you split your vote ?—It was through Mr. Phillips' persuasion that I split my vote; I intended to vote for Colonel Dawkins.

41,690. What made you vote for Mr. Pender ?—I always voted for him before.

41,691. Had you got anything for that ?—Not a farthing.

41,692. You did not find any money in your son's house then ?—No.

41,693. Nor did you get a bill paid ?—No, neither did Mr. Phillips offer me a farthing.

41,694. How much did you get for voting last time ?—Nothing.

41,695. What has become of Deane ?—He left the house.

41,696. Was Deane a yearly tenant ?—Yes.

41,697. When did it begin ?—I think he was four years in the house.

41,698. When did he come in ?—I did not enter the time.

41,699. I wish to know that particularly. Was it Lady-day, Midsummer, Michaelmas, or Christmas ?—I cannot tell you ; he gave me notice to leave, but did not leave at the expiration of his notice, and I had let the house to my daughter.

41,700. What was her name ?—Fitzwalter ; she was then residing at Salcombe and she removed her furniture here ; he remained in the house until April 1865.

41,701. Did your daughter stay there ?—No, she removed her furniture to another place.

41,702. Was the house vacant all that time ?—No ; a person went in for about six weeks at Christmas.

41,703. What was the rent of the house ?—16*l.* a year.

41,704. How much did you get paid for the rent of the house from Mr. Michelmore ?—10*l.* Mr. Deane left the house on the 8th of April ; he came and paid me a quarter's rent, and there was another half quarter then due ; he offered me that and wanted to give me the key ; he thought seven or eight days was sufficient notice for me ; I would not assent to it. I heard nothing more of him ; he left the house and Mr. Michelmore held the key. When the half year's rent was due I sent him a note, and he referred me to his professional man, Mr. Windeatt ; he said, I wish to compromise the thing and get rid of the house ; I said, pay me the 16*l.* for the rent and I will take the key. I think on the 4th of November Mr. Windeatt paid me 6*l.* on account, and promised the other 10*l.* on the Wednesday following.

41,705. Has anyone paid you any other money ?—No ; I felt I had a claim on Mr. Michelmore.

41,706. Did not Mr. Windeatt tell you that the object was to keep Deane's vote ?—No ; Mr. Windeatt never named that to me.

41,707. Did you not know it ?—I thought so ; he came there and slept in the house.

41,708. Should you ever have got the 16*l.* if there had not been an election coming on ?—I should have summoned him for it.

41,709. You got a year's rent for your house and let the house besides ?—No.

41,710. You let it for six weeks ?—There were then three quarters rent due to me.

41,711. Were you surety with Mr. Lorimer for your son ?—Yes.

41,712. What happened about that ?—I had to pay 50*l.*

41,713. Did you not apply the sum you had received in 1863 to pay that money ?—No.

41,714. How did you pay that money ?—By instalments. Lorimer and I went to the bank and got it.

41,715. Lorimer kept back the amount owed him by your son ; you did not keep anything back ?—No ; I have not got a farthing from him.

41,716. That is all you got ?—I had nothing at the last election.

41,717. You voted for Pender ?—Yes, and Colonel Dawkins.

41,718. Did you get anything from him ?—Not a farthing.

41,719. Did you go near the "Stars ?"—I did.

41,720. How were you engaged there ?—I went to be paid a bill. I had done some 6*l.* or 7*l.* worth of work to some houses. Harris said if I did not go to to the "Stars" he did not know when I should get any money. That was on the evening before the nomination ; Harris referred me to Mr. Edmonds, I went upstairs and found Mr. Edmonds, Mr. Heath, and other gentlemen going in and out of a room, and I told Mr. Edmonds that Harris had referred me to him to pay a bill for some work done ; Mr. Edmonds said, you had better see Mr. Heath ; he will pay you.

41,721. Where did you find him ?—He was in and out of the house. When I saw him he said, I know nothing of the bill, let Harris pay it himself.

41,722. Did you get your bill paid ?—Harris went into Mr. Heath's office, and I suppose got the money from him ; he took me to his house and paid the bill.

41,723. Is that all you got out of the Conservatives at that election ?—That was for work done.

41,724. Did you ever receive any other sum for your vote ?—Never no more than I have named.

41,725. Or any pecuniary benefit whatever ?—Not the slightest.

41,726. Or have you ever influenced anyone to vote ?—Never.

41,727. Did you sign this requisition ; is that your writing ?—Yes.

41,728. Who brought you that paper ?—I think it was Mr. Harris.

41,729. What were you to do ?—He asked me to sign a requisition to get Mr. Dent here.

41,730. Did he mention Mr. Macleay ?—Not that I am aware of.

41,731. Did Mr. Pender come to you at the last election ?—I saw Mr. Pender in the street.

41,732. Did you speak to him ?—Yes.

41,733. Were you not angry with him ?—No.

41,734. You had been angry with some of the Liberals ?—On account of money I had worked for which they had kept back from me.

41,735. Had you written to Mr. Pender to ask him for some money ?—Never in my life.

41,736. Had Mr. Cuming on your behalf ?—Never.

41,737. Do you know of your son having done so ?—I know nothing about my son.

41,738. Did you express your anger with the Liberals to Mr. Pender ?—I had been doing some work for Mr. Cuming, and had been obliged to summon him to this Court.

41,739. It was your son's wife who was ill ?—Yes.

SAMUEL REEVE recalled.

41,740. (Mr. Bere.) Have you remembered anything about the transaction of the three 20*l.* notes?—Yes. Narramore told me last Saturday that he had changed one of them at the "Plymouth Inn;" I cannot recollect about the others.

41,741. Did not your son owe you some money at this time?—Yes.

41,742. How much money did your son owe you then?—Not much more than 2*l.* or 3*l.*

41,743. Are you quite sure of that?—Yes.

41,744. What did he owe it you for?—For timber.

41,745. Had he got work then on his own account?—I spared him to Mr. Moore to be setting up a cabin for a vessel.

41,746. How could you spare him to work for Moore and make him in your debt 2*l.* or 3*l.*?—He owed me the money.

41,747. For what did he owe you these 2*l.* or 3*l.*?—For timber he had had to make up into furniture.

41,748. Whatever the sum was, did you deduct it out of the money which your daughter-in-law brought you?—Yes.

41,749. Have you ever, directly or indirectly, received any money for your vote besides that?—Never.

JOHN PENDER, Esq., recalled.

41,750. (Mr. Bere.) I have been requested to ask you whether you did not, on the morning of the election, cross the river in a boat, in order to go and see Mr. John Wright?—I am not aware that I ever was in a boat on the Dart in my life.

41,751. Then you did not go across the river in a boat on the morning of the election to see Mr. John Wright?—Certainly not.

THOMAS PEARSE sworn and examined.

41,752. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you been a voter?—12 years.

41,753. You are not a voter now?—No.

41,754. You were living too far off?—Yes.

41,755. When did you cease to be a voter?—I voted for Dawkins and Pim.

41,756. What did you get for that?—Nothing at all.

41,757. Who called upon you on the morning of the election?—No one.

41,758. Did Captain Pim come and see you?—Yes.

41,759. What day did he come?—The day before.

41,760. What did he say to you?—He asked me to vote for him.

41,761. Nothing more?—No.

41,762. Did not someone come to you on the morning of the election and bring you in a fly?—No.

41,763. Did not you get anything at all at that election?—No.

41,764. Whose tenant were you?—Sir Walter Carey's.

41,765. Had you voted for Mr. Dent?—Yes,

41,766. Did you get anything for that?—No.

41,767. Did you ever have anything for your vote?—No.

41,768. Neither directly nor indirectly?—No.

41,769. None left in a book?—No.

41,770. Nor your wife found money in the house?—No.

41,771. Nor your brother brought you any?—No, never brought any.

41,772. It was in consequence of Captain Pim having gone to you that you were called?—He came with young Mr. James Heath.

41,773. Did not he offer you something?—No, never offered me a farthing.

41,774. Did you always vote the same way?—Yes.

41,775. Did you vote in the election of the council?—Yes, the same way.

41,776. Did you ever have any money?—No.

41,777. How did you come into Totnes to vote?—I rode in on horseback.

41,778. Did you ride in with anybody?—No, I came by myself.

41,779. What time did you vote?—10 o'clock I think it was. Between 9 and 10 I should think.

41,780. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever give anybody anything or offer anything?—No.

41,781. Ever asked?—No.

41,782. You lived too far off?—No, I lived close by.

41,783. I will read what is stated about you: "I "sent Captain Pim off at 4 o'clock in a carriage to "fetch a voter. You sent Captain Pim off?—Yes. "Where to?—I think to a country voter. What was "his name?—A respectable farmer. What name?—"Pearse, I think; he used to live at Follaton. Did "Captain Pim go off in a carriage?—Yes. Who with "him?—He went alone; the postboy drove him. What "postboy, George Beer?—I do not recollect. When "did Captain Pim come back?—The election morning, "but I did not see him return. He came back and took "a gentleman to the poll. Did he succeed in taking "Pearse to the poll?—Yes; he promised him the day "before, if he was fetched." Did you ever make such a promise as that?—No. He asked me, and I said, I was not going to vote, and he said, I will fetch you, and I said, "Oh, no; if I come at all I will go on horseback."

41,784. Did not you come about 3 or 4 o'clock in the morning?—No.

41,785. (Mr. Bere.) That is the reason you were summoned. It was an odd transaction of Captain Pim that Captain Pim should go and fetch a voter at 3 or 4 o'clock in the morning four or five miles off?—It is rather odd.

SAMUEL HILL, jun., sworn and examined.

41,786. (Mr. Bere.) Are you the son of Samuel Hill the elder?—Yes.

41,787. Do you live at Totnes?—Yes.

41,788. How long have you voted?—I cannot tell the date.

41,789. Did you vote for Mr. Dunn?—No, I voted for Mr. Mills the first time.

41,790. Did you get anything for that?—No.

41,791. Were you offered anything on Dunn's side?—No.

41,792. Were you at that time a builder?—No, in the china and grocery business.

41,793. Doing a pretty good trade then?—Yes.

41,794. I believe you had some transactions with a building society?—No.

41,795. When did you first have any?—No building society, a loan society.

41,796. You borrowed some money?—Yes.

41,797. When did you borrow that?—I cannot tell the date.

41,798. You can give us the year?—I should think five to six years ago.

41,799. Did Lorimer and your father become surety to the society?—Yes.

41,800. Were you to repay the money by instalments?—Yes.

41,801. When the election came between Pender and Dent, had you repaid any of the instalments?—I had.

41,802. How many?—Several.

41,803. What were the instalments?—3*l.* a month, about.

41,804. Was that to include interest?—Yes.

41,805. Did you vote for Mr. Pender?—Yes.

41,806. How much did you get for that?—Nothing.

41,807. Nothing after the election?—No.

41,808. Did not Lorimer come and see you about it?—No.

41,809. In Seymour and Dent's election you got a good deal?—No.

41,810. 250*l.*?—No, nothing.

41,811. Did not Mr. Lorimer bring up a bag with

THIRTIETH DAY.

S. Hill, jun.

28 Sept. 1866.

money to your house?—He may have brought it to the house, but I did not see it.

41,812. Did your wife have it?—No.

41,813. Did you know that Mr. Lorimer brought some money?—I was told that he had money in the house, but I never received the money. It was said that I returned it, but I did not return it because I never received it.

41,814. How did it get back?—I do not know; I never saw it.

41,815. Did you know that 50*l.* was taken out of the bag by your father?—I have heard it.

41,816. Your father stated it on his oath?—I did not know.

41,817. For whom did you vote?—I voted for Seymour.

41,818. How much did you get for that?—Nothing.

41,819. Nothing paid you for that?—Seymour and Dent? I was thinking of another election. I received between 30*l.* and 40*l.* after that from my brother after the election.

41,820. How long after?—It may have been a week. I had it in two or three instalments. I think he had an account for me that I was being pressed for.

41,821. What is your brother's name?—John Hill.

41,822. Does he live here?—No.

41,823. Is it John Henry?—No, Nicholas John. He is in America now.

41,824. He was Brooking Cuming's clerk?—Yes.

41,825. Where did he get the money?—I do not know.

41,826. Did he tell you that Mr. Brooking Cuming ordered him to pay you?—No.

41,827. Did you ask him where he got the money?—No.

41,828. Did you know of Lorimer having brought money to your house, or any person having brought money to your house at the election?—Lorimer offered me money.

41,829. Where did he offer it to you?—In my house.

41,830. Had he got that money when he offered it to you?—I believe not.

41,831. Did he show it to you?—No. If I would promise to vote, he said, there was a sum of money for me.

41,832. What room did he promise that in?—I do not know whether in the shop or upstairs.

41,833. Do you know now that he left a sum of money in your house?—I do not believe he did.

41,834. You do not believe what your father has sworn to on his oath?—I did not see it.

41,835. I ask what you believe?—Mr. Lorimer asked me to vote for Dunn, and I refused to do so. I said I would rather leave the town than vote for him.

41,836. Did you tell your brother, Nicholas John Hill, that you had refused to vote for Mr. Dunn?—Yes, I did.

41,837. Before the election?—Yes.

41,838. Did he promise to get you as much money from the Liberals as you were promised by the Conservatives?—No.

41,839. Did he promise through the Liberals that he would get you relief from your difficulties?—That he would grant me a loan.

41,840. Where was it to come from?—Mr. Cuming.

41,841. What was the loan to be?—100*l.*

41,842. Was not it on the promise of that 100*l.* that you voted for the Liberals?—Yes.

41,843. Did you get the 100*l.*?—No.

41,844. You complained?—Yes.

41,845. Did you write to Mr. Pender?—Yes.

41,846. When was that?—I do not know.

41,847. Was it just after Mr. Seymour and Mr. Dent's election?—No, it was previous to that.

41,848. Between the two elections?—Yes.

41,849. The promise of 100*l.* was at Mr. Pender's election?—No promise whatever; I had written between the two elections.

41,850. What answer had Mr. Pender given?—He said he could not grant a loan. He said I had better apply to Mr. Cuming.

41,851. Have you got the letter?—No.

41,852. You have been unfortunate?—Yes, a bankrupt I am sorry to say.

41,853. Did you give up all your papers?—Yes.

41,854. In 1865 whom did you vote for?—For Pender and Seymour.

41,855. Did not you get a sum of money from Lorimer at that election?—No.

41,856. Did not you get anything?—Not at the election, but afterwards.

41,858. Did you know that Lorimer had received 150*l.* for you?—Lorimer had become surety for me, and he asked me a day or two before how I was going to vote, and I said for Mr. Pender. Well he said he was glad of that. He said, "I know you are in want "of money, and no doubt I shall be able to do some-"thing for you."

41,859. And he did something for you by giving you 100*l.*?—Yes.

41,860. Did he tell you that he had 150*l.* for you, but he had kept 50*l.* back?—Yes; I left the whole matter entirely in his hands. I told Mr. Lorimer that it would not influence my vote; that I should vote for Mr. Pender if I had nothing.

41,861. You signed a requisition to the Conservative?—To Mr. Dent, not to Dawkins and Pim.

41,862. You did not know it was to Mr. Macleay?—No.

41,863. (Mr. Coleridge.) Is that your handwriting?—Yes.

41,864. How came you to sign that if you had an objection to Mr. Dent?—On the day before the election I saw him at a quarter to 4 passing my door, and I remarked if Mr. Dent was to come again to-morrow I should vote for him; and I also had a field through my father, and have it at present.

41,865. Who from?—From Mr. Dent.

41,866. What made you say you would not think of voting for him at that time when you were offered the 200*l.*?—Because I would not alter my principles, or I would not be bribed.

41,867. You voted for the Liberals on the last occasion?—Yes.

41,868. Then the time before you were asked to vote for Dent, but could not alter your principles?—I would not.

41,869. What made you sign the requisition to the Conservative?—I had been promised, but I was deceived, and also I had got this field.

41,870. You tell me you would not alter your principles, but you go and sign a requisition to the Conservative candidate, and take money to vote for the Liberals; are these your principles?—What do you mean?

41,871. Are your principles to receive money to vote one way, sign a requisition for a party, and go and vote another way?—I do not know.

41,872. (Mr. Bere.) You got money from Lorimer, were you offered money on the other side?—Yes.

41,873. Who by?—Harris and my brother offered me money.

41,874. How much?—150*l.* my brother.

41,875. How much did Harris offer?—I think about the same amount.

41,876. Where did Harris offer it to yon?—At my stores.

41,877. Where did your brother offer it to you?—At the same place.

41,878. At the same time?—No.

41,879. How long before the election did Harris offer it to you?—I should say four or five days. He was there twice.

41,880. Was it before you told Lorimer that you were going for Pender, or afterwards?—Before.

41,881. Did you tell Mr. Lorimer how much you had been offered?—No.

41,882. Are you quite certain that you did not tell Lorimer you had been offered 100*l.* by the Conservative side?—Not to my knowledge. My brother was there the day before.

41,883. Mr. Harris had been there before?—Yes, I think four or five days before.

41,884. (Mr. Longe.) Did your brother tell you who had authorized him to offer 150*l.*?—No.

41,885. Did your brother bring any other message from Mr. Harris?—I do not know that he did bring it from Harris.

41,886. Did he bring any message from Harris?—I do not know; not that I am aware of.

41,887. Mrs. Lorimer also brought your wife 10*l.*?—So I heard.

41,888. Was that all the money that you ever received at any election?—Yes.

41,889. Either by yourself or through your wife, or before or after an election, on account of your vote?—Yes.

41,890. Did you ever canvass for a vote?—No.

41,891. Never received money for a voter?—No.

41,892. Or allow money to pass through your hands to go to a voter?—No.

RICHARD PENGILLEY sworn and examined.

R. Pengilley.

41,893. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you?—A furniture dealer.

41,894. Where do you live, in Totnes?—Yes, at the top of the town.

41,895. When did you first vote?—Nearly 20 years ago.

41,896. Did you vote in 1847, when Mills, Seymour, and Ricardo stood?—No.

41,897. Had you a vote then. It is not 20 years ago?—It was Mills, Seymour, and Baldwin.

41,898. How did you vote then?—For Mr. Mills and Lord Seymour.

41,899. Were you promised money by Baldwin's party?—No.

41,900. What did you get from Mr. Mills?—I was promised 50*l.*, but never got it, by Mr. Mills.

41,901. Where did he promise it?—In my house.

41,902. Did he tell you when you should have it?—Just about the election.

41,903. Was that to vote for Mills and Seymour?—Yes.

41,904. Did you vote for them?—Yes.

41,905. Did you ask him for the money afterwards?—Yes, Thomas Hardin, he offered 35*l.*

41,906. You did not get the odd 15*l.*?—He kept that himself it strikes me.

41,907. Did you ask him for it?—I asked him to fulfil his promise, and he said, "If you take that you may have it, and if not you will get nothing."

41,908. When did you next vote after that?—I think I next voted for Mr. Dunn.

41,909. There was a little transaction about that business; you agreed to vote for Mr. Mills that time?—No.

41,910. Did not you promise Mr. Mills?—No.

41,911. So you got nothing?—No.

41,912. That was not the election of 1859?—Oh no.

41,913. At Dunn's election do you recollect promising a Mr. Bourne to vote for Mr. Mills?—I believe he sent for me.

41,914. He is an auctioneer?—Yes.

41,915. What did he say to you?—He said he would send a parcel to my wife.

41,916. Did the parcel come?—The parcel came, or something came, but I never opened it.

41,917. Who opened it?—No one opened it.

41,918. What became of it?—I sent it back where it came from.

41,919. Where is that?—This gentleman (Mr. Heath) came to me.

41,920. What did he offer you?—40*l.*

41,921. Did you take the 40*l.*?—Yes.

41,922. Where did you get that paid?—In my own house.

41,923. In gold or notes?—Gold.

41,924. Who paid you?—John Heath.

41,925. He walked about that time with his money?—Yes.

41,926. You sent Mr. Bourne his parcel back?—Yes.

41,927. Did you hear how much there was in the parcel?—I do not know, I never opened it. When the man came and brought the parcel, I said, take that back.

41,928. You have had it many times?—Only three times.

41,929. Mr. Heath gave you 40*l.* and you voted for Dunn?—Yes.

41,930. After you had disobliged the duke he turned you out?—His agent did.

41,931. How long after the election did you get notice?—I cannot say.

41,932. What had you, a house or a field?—A house.

41,933. Did you go to Mr. Heath about a house?—No, I have a house of my own; the house was about to be vacant, and I thought it better to occupy it myself.

41,934. You occupy your own house?—Yes.

41,935. Is that what you vote upon now?—Yes.

41,936. At the next election do you recollect when Dent and Pender came down?—Yes.

41,937. Did you vote at that election?—Yes.

41,938. For whom?—For Dent. I did not vote.

41,939. Did you promise to vote for Dent if he went to the poll?—Yes.

41,940. What were you to have if he went to the poll?—I think 40*l.*

41,941. Who promised you that?—Mr. John Heath.

41,942. Where did he promise it to you?—I cannot say exactly.

41,943. You never got it?—No.

41,944. Did you go and ask him for it afterwards?—I believe the gentleman withdrew.

41,945. Did you go and ask Mr. Heath for the money?—I may have asked him.

41,946. Were you at the "Seven Stars" when all the people were there?—I was never there at political meetings.

41,947. Were you at the "Stars" when the 41,948. What made you change your mind?—There was some unpleasantness arose between me and my lord. I was in Bridgetown, and he would not let me have the house because I would not oblige him.

41,949. When was the time that you did not oblige him?—When Lord Gifford stood.

41,950. How did you vote?—I do not think I voted at all.

41,951. Did you disoblige him by not voting?—I suppose so.

41,952. What did you get?—Nothing.

41,953. What made you disoblige my lord?—There was some unpleasantness.

41,954. Was the disobliging him by your not voting?—

41,955. What was the reason you did not vote?—The reason is this, I was offered money on the other side, they did not fulfil their promise, and I did not vote.

41,956. Who offered you the money?—I cannot remember.

41,957. Did you get money?—No.

41,958. What were you offered?—No specific sum.

41,959. Who were you offered money by?—This gentleman, Mr. Heath.

41,960. Did he tell you how much you were to have?—I do not think he named any specific sum.

41,961. Was it at the "Seven Stars?"—Yes.

THIRTIETH DAY.

R. Pengilley.

28 Sept. 1866.

41,962. Were you waiting for the money before you voted?—I think the gentleman retired.

41,962*a*. Women went with their baskets?—No.

41,963. Were you promised anything if you voted for Mr. Pender at that election?—No.

41,964. Did anybody come to you from Mr. Pender?—Mr. Pender came himself.

41,965. Did anybody come and offer you money?—No.

41,966. Now, 1863, Dent and Seymour, how did you vote then, three years ago?—If I voted at all it was for Dent.

41,967. What did you get for voting for Dent?—I think 40*l.* that time.

41,968. Who did you get that from, from your old friend, Mr. John Heath?—If I got it at all it was from him.

41,969. Do you recollect where he gave it to you?—It must be in my house.

41,970. Was it gold or notes?—Gold I suppose.

41,971. Are you sure you did not go to the "Seven Stars" to get it?—Perhaps it may have been.

41,972. Was it at the "Seven Stars" or not?—I would not be positive.

41,973. The last time, Pim and Dawkins and Pender and Seymour, how did you vote then?—Dawkins and Pim.

41,974. What did you get then?—Nothing.

41,975. Were you offered anything?—I was offered something.

41,976. Who were you offered it by?—Mr. Heath.

41,977. How much?—I was to have 40*l.*

41,978. Why did not you go and get it?—The funds ran low I understood.

41,979. You did not go in time?—No.

41,980. Did you get nothing at all?—No.

41,981. Have you got anything since?—No.

41,982. Have you asked Mr. Heath?—I may in the course of conversation.

41,983. What has he said when you asked him?—The funds were gone.

41,984. Did your wife get anything?—No.

41,985. That was the first time you voted without getting anything?—Perhaps it may be.

41,986. Did you sign the requisition?—I do not believe I did.

41,987. Is that your handwriting (referring to the requisition)?—Yes.

41,988. Do you know whether this was a requisition for the Liberal or Conservative member?—Conservative.

41,989. Who brought it?—Mr. Harris.

41,990. What did he tell you?—He asked me if I would sign it, and I rather objected first of all.

41,991. Tell us all about it?—He said he wanted a Conservative candidate.

41,992. Did he tell you what for, did he tell you it was to spend money in the borough?—I do not believe it was.

41,993. Did he tell you you need not vote because you signed it?—He may have said so.

41,994. Did not he?—I cannot tell.

41,995. Have you any recollection of something of the sort?—I cannot remember.

41,996. Did you sign a memorial to Mr. Pender after the election?—No.

41,997. After the petition?—No.

41,998. You do not know whether Harris said you need not vote when you signed this?—I do not know whether he did or not.

Adjourned till to-morrow morning at half-past 10 o'clock.

THIRTY-FIRST DAY.

Saturday, 29th September 1866.

JOHN BOWDEN recalled and further examined.

THIRTY-FIRST DAY.

J. Bowden.

29 Sept. 1866.

41,999. (Mr. Bere.) I understand you wish to make some explanation?—I wish to make an explanation in reference to the evidence given by Thomas Jacob Searle on Tuesday last. According to the report in the newspaper he states that I sent him to Mr. Holman, from whom he obtained money to the extent of some 200*l.* or 300*l.*

42,000. (Mr. Bere.) We will refer to the shorthand writer's notes and see what did take place. He is asked this, "How did the reconciliation take place? "—Some days after I met Mr. Bowden in the street, "and he expressed his regret that I should be going "to leave the party, and hoped I would consider it. "Then he sent Mr. Holman to you?—Yes. After "that you began to act. How much did you spend "at that election?—I had 150*l.* from Mr. Holman; I "spent 100*l.*," and so on.

(The witness.) What Searle states there is correct as to my meeting him in the street and sending him to Mr. Holman. I asked him what was the cause of his discontent with the Liberal party, and he said that Mr. Cuming had behaved very badly to him as to one of his children. He wished to get one of his children into the free grammar school, and Mr. Cuming had failed to attend to his request in the matter. I said to him, "Well, Mr. Searle, you have been a Liberal all "the days of your life. Are you going for the sake "of a personal figure to leave the party you have "always supported. It would be very unbecoming in "you to do so;" and I advised him to see if the matter could not be made up. There was no reference whatever made to anything about money matters.

42,000*a*. Did you mention Mr. Holman's name to him?—Yes, I referred Searle to him; as he was taking an active part in politics on the Liberal side I thought he was the most likely man to bring about a reconciliation with the Liberal party. I was not aware that Mr. Searle had taken an active part in politics.

42,001. Did you not know that Mr. Holman was the person who had distributed the money on the Liberal side?—No; I never knew anything of that; there was no reference made to Mr. Holman in that way.

42,002. (Mr. Coleridge.) But you had a pretty good guess who distributed it, had you not?—Never. I would not know anything of it at any time.

42,003. Were you not sometimes compelled to hear of it?—No, I was not. I did not know at the time that Searle was the secretary to the Slippery Company. I wished to make this public explanation, because my friends, who were very well satisfied with my first day's examination, when they heard of this statement of Searle's began to suspect that I had had something to do with money matters.

42,004. You seem to have hit on the right person to send him to, if it was only done by accident?—I never had any knowledge of it; I never knew who was the person who distributed the money.

There is another little matter somewhat personal to myself which I should like to take the opportunity of saying a word about, namely, upon the question of my having been proposed as a magistrate for the borough. I should like to tell you the circumstances. I was asked some years ago to become a magistrate r the borough—just after Mr. Pender's election—d I declined emphatically. Some months ago I was rsuaded to have my name sent up, and after several y's consideration I very reluctantly allowed my me to be put before the Lord Chancellor, but I was very glad to find that his lordship's reply was, that until this Commission had sat for the borough of Totnes, no more magistrates would be appointed. I thought it was a most satisfactory reply, and I was exceedingly glad that I was not appointed.

FREDERICK KELLOCK recalled and further examined.

F. Kellock.

42,005. (Mr. Bere.) Did you attend the meeting at e "Seven Stars" on Thursday night?—I did.

42,006. Who were present at that meeting?—I ent into the "Stars."

42,007. By previous arrangement?—Without any revious arrangement. I was sitting in the bar when Ir. Heath came and leant over me and said, "I ould like to speak to you before you go." I said, Very well." I did not know what he wanted. hortly after, he conducted myself, Mr. Denison, and think a Mr. Moore into the commercial room, where here was one of Mr. Heath's sons.

42,008. Which of his sons?—I think his name is Thomas. There I saw a table with a lot of papers pon it, and I think I said, "What is this?" I cannot ive you the exact words, but this is the effect of what ook place, that Mr. Heath said he wanted to make an nswer to the statement which had been made by the ommissioners, and he should like me to run through it.

42,009. Was there a statement written out at that ime?—I saw a draft statement then written out; it was loose in several sheets; divided like an ordinary draft. Several of the sheets were scattered about on the table, and if I recollect right, young Thomas Heath was fair copying a portion when we got into the room. We went through the draft statement with Mr. Heath. We examined or checked the statement with the one which the Commissioners had made, in order to see that the answer of Mr. Heath replied to the allegations contained in your statement.

42,010. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was Mr. Presswell present?—No.

42,011. (Mr. Bere.) From what did you take the means of testing the correctness of the statement of the Commissioners?—I am not aware of our having anything there in the shape of evidence. Mr. Heath was present the whole time with me, and we went through this statement and examined it. We trimmed it a little.

42,012. Did it not strike you as rather an odd thing to do, to prepare, with the assistance of two legal advisers, a sort of reply to the judgment of the Court?—I am not aware that such a thing struck me. I thought some allegations had been made against Mr. Heath, and he was attempting to answer them.

42,013. What else was done?—Nothing else was done. After we came to the end of it, Mr. Heath directed his son to make a fair copy by the morning.

42,014. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you attempt to assist Mr. Heath in finding out what had become of the deficiency of 1,700*l.*?—No. Any allegations with regard to matters of fact were left entirely to Mr. Heath. Our going through the statement was in reality, I take it, more to look to the phraseology of it.

42,015. Was Mr. Edmonds there?—No.

42,016. At any part of the time?—No, the only persons present in the room when we went through the statement were Mr. Heath, Mr. Heath's son Thomas, Mr. Denison, a gentleman of the name of Moore, who, I think, is a commercial traveller, and myself.

42,017. Is that the only meeting you had on the subject with Mr. Heath?—The only one. I knew nothing of his being about to prepare any statements, or anything of the kind, until I got into the room.

41,018. (Mr. Longe.) You merely considered the hearing of it; what conclusions he had come to. You brought no new matter into it?—I am not aware of any new matter having been introduced.

41,019. (Mr. Bere.) You did not receive any information from Mr. Heath which we were not already in possession of?—I do not think we did. According to the best of my belief, I do not think there is any statement of fact in the answer prepared by Mr. Heath that has not been mentioned in this Court.

42,020. Did Mr. Heath give you any information as to the means of relieving himself from the burthen we considered him to be under of producing the mysterious stranger?—I must refer to the terms of the answer for that; it is a mere matter of fact, it is not a portion of the statement by way of observation.

42,021. Mr. Heath was not allowed to make that statement which he had prepared; we considered it a comment on our judgment and did not think proper to admit it?—That is the point I wished to avoid.

42,022. During the conversation, did Mr. Heath state to you any new facts with regard to the existence of the mysterious stranger with which we were not acquainted?—I believe not.

42,023. (Mr. Coleridge.) What report did you take of the evidence that had been given—a newspaper report?—I read the address which the Commissioners had delivered from a printed report.

42,024. Did you compare that with the whole of the evidence which had been given here as bearing against Mr. Heath?—Certainly not.

MR. T. H. EDMONDS recalled and further examined.

Mr. T. H. Edmonds.

42,025. (Mr. Bere.) Had you anything to do with the preparation of this statement?—I had.

42,026. What had you to do with it?—Mr. Heath stopped me when I was passing the "Seven Stars" the day before yesterday and gave me a portion of the "Times" newspaper, in which was contained the address of the Commissioners, and a number of notes which he considered would explain a great portion of it, so as to be enabled to satisfy you that he was not deserving of the amount of reproach which he considered had been cast on him. He asked me to put those into form; he asked me to do that as his professional adviser. I merely put it into shape and took it down to him, and I told him I thought I ought not to have had anything to do with the matter, as I myself had been deeply interested in the affair, and had taken a very active part in the election. I said it was hardly possible that I should bring an unprejudiced mind to bear on the facts. I suggested that he should see some other professional man and get his opinion.

42,027. In fact, that statement was a statement you had drawn up from notes which had been given to you?—Just so, he considered that a very serious charge had been made against him, which might be a serious injury to himself and his family, and he thought if he could explain any portion of his evidence to the satisfaction of the Commissioners, that the thing might not appear so bad.

42,028. (Mr. Coleridge.) You trusted to his report of the evidence, not to your own knowledge of it, for an answer?—Yes.

42,029. (Mr. Longe.) You could not throw any more light upon it?—No; he told me that he found it utterly impossible that he could get out of the difficulty, that he did not know who the man was, where he came from, or anything about him, and that if he were examined as to the remainder of the money, it was utterly impossible that he could comply with the request of the court.

42,029*a*. (Mr. Bere.) We are of opinion that a very considerable share of the responsibility rests upon you. It is quite clear that the money came to your hands, and that it passed from you into the hands of

THIRTY-FIRST DAY.

Mr. T. H. Edmonds.

29 Sept. 1866.

Mr. John Heath; that the receipts were given to you and were afterwards destroyed by you; that although the money was given to Mr. John Heath, yet, upon the leaders of the Conservative party, there is a very grave responsibility, calling upon them to account for the appropriation of the money.

(The Witness.) With regard to the destruction of the receipts, those are documents which we naturally would not keep; if they had got into the hands of the opposite party, they would be very dangerous documents to be produced against us.

42,030. (Mr. Longe.) You have had no communication lately with Mr. Smith?—None whatever.

42,030*a*. (Mr. Bere.) We hope, between this time and the period when we meet again, that both yourself and Mr. Heath, and all those who are interested in the matter, as you are seriously implicated in it, (I think it is a matter that affects the honour of all the Conservative leaders in Totnes), that you will use your best endeavours to dispel the mystery that at present rests on this part of the case.

(The Witness.) I quite feel the force of the observation you make.

42,031. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you had any communication with Mr. Spofforth since this inquiry has been sitting?—None whatever.

42,032. Or since the election petition?—I am not aware of any.

42,033. Have you had any communication upon any matter with the house with which Mr. Spofforth is connected during the sitting of this commission?—No; certainly not.

42,034. Have you had any communication with Mr. Rennie during the sitting of this commission?—Yes; he wrote me a letter to ask me what amount he had supplied me in 1861 for the purpose of registration and fighting the municipal battle, and I wrote him back the amount.

42,035. You have had no communication with anybody in London about this mysterious stranger?—None whatever.

42,036. Or into the circumstances regarding the distribution of this money?—I have not.

42,037. (Mr. Longe.) Has Mr. Heath suggested to you any line of inquiry in order to find him out?—No; I have spoken to Mr. Heath on the subject; we have talked the matter over, and are unable to supply any information. We really find ourselves quite at fault. If Mr. Smith did not send down this man, who did?

42,037*a*. (Mr. Coleridge.) The whole of the money was, at one time, in your hands. According to your statement, the whole of the money was received by Mr. Heath. You knew the amount which you gave him. He says he does not know the amount which he received. There is 1,700*l*. unaccounted for; unless the mysterious stranger embezzled the 1,700*l*., there must be some other suggestion. The 1,700*l*. has been in your hands and in Mr. Heath's hands, and no one knows what has become of it.

(The Witness.) If our testimony is to be believed, the whole of the money passed over to this stranger, a person whom Mr. Smith was requested to send down, who did arrive, and to whom the money was paid.

42,037*b*. (Mr. Bere.) The difficulty is this, that you took very good care not to ascertain whether there was a stranger or not, that you took Mr. Heath's information that there was a stranger, and believed that there was.

(The Witness.) It was a natural precaution for me to take as the leader of the party.

42,037*c*. (Mr. Coleridge.) Mr. Heath has found out that he did pay away a good deal of money himself; that it did not all go through the stranger.

(The Witness.) That is so as to 500*l*.

(Mr. Coleridge.) Screach and Evans have given a totally different account of the stranger, although they have all sworn that No. 13 was his room. Mr. Smith and his two clerks swear that was not so.

(The Witness.) It is quite a mystery to me; I cannot give any explanation of it. I understand that Screach in his evidence said that he considered the man was disguised, meaning a wig and moustache; that might explain the difference of the description.

42,038. (Mr. Longe.) Do you remember speaking to Mr. Smith in London?—I do.

42,039. At that time he was astonished at finding that a stranger had been down here?—He did so express himself.

42,040. Did you explain to him what reason you had for thinking he knew of the existence of the stranger?—I said to him, I was very much surprised to hear him say that he knew nothing of his being here. I considered that he knew all the circumstances, and that he had had an account of how the money had been expended. He said, I assure you I have not.

42,041. (Mr. Coleridge.) There has been a sort of suggestion of yours that Mr. Smith must have had something to do with it; it has been distinctly sworn that it was another person?—I did not think that for a moment that it was Mr. Smith; I never suggested that for a moment.

42,042. Did you see the stranger who came down here and was sent away again, whom Mr. Smith saw?—I did not. I heard there was such a person. I had never seen either of the strangers; the one who was here at Dunn's, or at Dent's elections.

42,043. You did not know of the mysterious stranger until after the election petition?—I did.

42,044. When did you first know that there was a stranger here?—I think on the Saturday morning. Mr. Heath came to me and said, "I suppose you are "aware that Mr. Mum has arrived." I said, "No." He said "Would you like to go and see him?" I said, "I don't want to see him." I had never seen either of the strangers on those occasions, and I acted in the same way as I had done on former occasions.

42,045. Did you believe that a stranger had arrived when Mr. Heath told you that he had?—I thought so directly. I think, later in the evening, the other stranger came.

42,046. When did you know of the stranger's coming, who was sent away again?—That was on the Saturday evening.

42,047. The stranger having been sent away, it was not until after the evidence given by Screach before the Committee of the House of Commons that you knew of any other mysterious stranger?—Yes; I was told the night before of this other one.

42,048. When did you first mention the two strangers having been down to Mr. Guscotte?—I do not know that I ever mentioned it to him.

42,049. Not when he was asking for Colonel Dawkins?—I do not recollect that I did.

42,050. Did you ever mention it to him at any time after the evidence of Screach in the House of Commons?—I do not recollect that I did.

42,051. Did he say, how came you not to tell me of there being two strangers?—No; he certainly said nothing to me.

42,052. Who told you of the second stranger having come down?—Mr. Heath.

42,053. When?—I think it was on the Saturday evening.

42,054. That was when he told you of the first one having been sent away?—No; he told me that on the Saturday morning. He told me of the real Mr. Mum, the man who did the business, afterwards. On the Saturday evening he said, there is another Mr. Mum arrived; I introduced him to Mr. Smith, who knew nothing about him.

42,055. Did he tell you that Mr. Smith knew anything about the first one?—No.

42,056. What made him mention the one being sent away, because Mr. Smith knew nothing about him?—I cannot tell you that.

42,057. Do you believe, that the one who came down and who was not sent away, was known to Mr. Smith, and was therefore retained?—That was my impression certainly, although no conversation took ace between myself and Mr. Smith upon it. I con-ered that he wished to keep himself aloof from s man, and that there was no discussion between m.

42,058. You say that Mr. Heath told you when the ond Mr. Mum came down?—Yes, he did. I think said he was the same man who was down here at . Dunn's election.

42,059. Do not you think it is possible that the second man might be got through Mr. Smith's agency?—I cannot possibly tell that.

42,060. What name did he go by at Dunn's election?—I think, by the name of Smith, but I am not quite sure. I never saw either of those men. No doubt Mr. Cameron can supply you with all the particulars.

SARAH BEAZLEY sworn and examined.

S. Beazley.

42,061. (Mr. Bere.) Are you the landlady of the Seymour Hotel"?—I am.

42,062. How long have you been the landlady?—I me to Totnes in 1863.

42,063. Have you been there ever since?—Yes.

42,064. About what time in 1863?—At Mid-mmer.

42,065. You came after the election?—Yes; I nk the election was in January.

42,066. Then the first election you had anything to with, was the election of 1865?—Yes.

42,067. At that election there was a very large bill n up and entered to the credit of Pender and Sey-our?—Not all of it.

42,068. But a good deal of it was?—Yes; I think iss Weekes can tell you more on that head than I n.

42,069. But a great deal was entered to the credit Pender and Seymour?—Yes.

42,070. When there was a petition presented, was it ggested that you had better break up the account d put different items to the credit of different per-ns?—No.

42,071. What was done about it?—I do not remem-er anything more than Mr. Windeatt finding fault ith the way the account was entered; he said, it ught not to have been entered to Pender and Sey-our. It was not all entered to Pender and Seymour, ecause gentlemen used to come in and order certain ings, and I know those things were entered to those ho ordered them, and the account was made out in at way. Miss Weekes kept the bar account on a ip of paper, and if she had not time to copy it into e book which was kept, those little bits of paper, ter the election, were given to Mr. Cross, who, after r. Beazley's death, kept my accounts for me.

42,072. And he entered them in the ledger, I sup-ose?—No; into a small book which I sent you up. hey were all entered there and submitted to Mr. indeatt.

42,073. When was it that Mr. Windeatt proposed e change?—I suppose when the account was about be made up, a few days after the election; within week.

42,074. At that time there had been an entry made o Pender and Seymour?—In the day book.

42,075. And in the ledger also?—No; there was o entry made in the ledger, until after a fair copy of he account was all made out, when the accounts were oing to be handed over to Mr. Michelmore or to Mr. indeatt, I do not know which, I copied them into the edger.

42,076. Where is the ledger into which you copied hem?—There (pointing to a book before the Commis-ioners) at the other end of the book; from there they vere taken. I tied them together just as you see them, nd there they have been ever since.

42,077. Where are the leaves that have been torn ut of this book?—There they are; you have them in our hand, exactly as they were torn out.

42,078. Where the account is headed Pender and eymour, it comes to 94*l.* 15*s.* 10*d.*, then there are arious private accounts afterwards; have any of hose ever been paid?—I think nearly all now.

42,079. Have they not all been paid by Mr. Michel-more?—No; I had a cheque from Mr. Chaster.

42,080. For how much?—I think about 65*l.*

42,081. How much have you had from Mr. Michel-more?—You will find it entered in his account; his last account. I do not know whether what I received from Mr. Chaster is entered there; I really know very little about the accounts; they are going to be settled at Michaelmas. Mr. Cross has the entire charge of them. I can tell you very little about them.

42,082. Besides the money which you received from Mr. Chaster on Mr. Pender's account, you are credited with 113*l.* 0*s.* 6½*d.* paid by Mr. Pender?—I think I had a cheque from Mr. Jeffrey Michelmore for 113*l.*

42,083. And on Mr. Seymour's account 177*l.* 4*s.* 0*d.*?—I cannot tell you the exact sum. The accounts are correct.

42,084. What rent do you pay for the "Seymour Arms"?—110*l.* a year.

42,085. Generally, there is a very large balance in your favour, is there not?—Generally.

42,086. Do you know anything about tearing the pages out of the day book?—I did that myself.

42,087. Did Mr. Windeatt or Mr. Parnell suggest to you that you should do it?—I never saw Mr. Windeatt on the matter; I do not think that Mr. Parnell ever saw the book.

42,088. You tore this out of the ledger?—Yes; there was an arrangement that every one who ordered anything should pay for what they ordered. The motive was not bad.

42,089. The end of it has been, that Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour have paid it all?—I think it is pretty well cleared up now; or it will be so, when Mr. Michelmore and I settle at Michaelmas.

42,090. Here is a charge under the date of February 3d, 1865, "Sarah Beazley, hotel, registration "expenses, 72*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*;" can you explain anything about that?—I cannot explain anything about that, more than this, that there were dinners and carriages and special messengers at that time for which those charges were made; I had no idea that it belonged to the registration, or had anything to do with it. I know nothing about the business of the borough in any way. The dinners were all ordered at our house, but on what account I do not know; I suppose that Mr. Michelmore must have had that put down there; I knew nothing of it.

42,091. Have you got the account before this with Mr. Michelmore?—I brought both the accounts from the time that I went into the hotel; that is the last.

42,092. Have you got the other?—There are two. I know that was done according to Mr. Windeatt's wish.

42,093. (Mr. Longe.) The sum put down for registration expenses is for two years?—Yes.

42,094. When were you paid after the first account?—The first account, I think, was settled with Mr. Michelmore.

42,095. You have a running account between you and Mr. Michelmore which is made up at a certain time of the year, at Michaelmas, for instance?—At Michaelmas.

42,096. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you occupy some fields with the "Seymour Arms"?—Yes.

42,097. Are you aware that some voters of the name of Clift, Mills, Fox, Stranger, Whittell, and Rees, all vote on that field?—I knew it of late, but not before. When I took the ground, Mr. Michelmore said there would be some little arrangement about it, which he would carry out for me. I never trouble myself about it.

42,098. How is that carried out? What do they do every year to show that they have a right to the field?—They cut some cabbages once or twice.

THIRTY-FIRST DAY.

S. Beazley.

29 Sept. 1866.

42,099. How many do they cut to give them a vote?—You must ask our old gardener about that.

42,100. Do they each cut a cabbage and show it to you?—I do not know, I never saw any of the money.

42,101. Do you know a man of the name of Clift?—Yes, I do.

42,102. Do you know a man of the name of Mills?—No.

42,103. Do you know a man of the name of Fox?—No.

42,104. Do you know a man of the name of Stranger?—No.

42,105. Do you know a man of the name of Whittell?—No.

42,106. Do you know a man of the name of Rees?—I know the chemist here of that name, and I know there is a person of that name at Dartmouth.

42,107. This, I believe, is the Dartmouth one. You are not aware that he votes under you?—No.

42,108. And out of the six voters whom you supply to this borough, four of them are unknown to you personally?—They are not known to me.

42,109. Do they ever pay you anything for what they do?—No.

42,110. Do they bring the cabbages into the hou when they cut them?—I never saw them.

42,111. And do you go through the form of saying you have no business to cut my cabbages?—I neve saw them.

42,112. But you know they do cut them?—I know that they come there.

42,113. Did you ever tell them, you have no busines so cut the cabbages?—I had no opportunity of doin so.

42,114. Has anyone else cut your cabbages withou your remonstrating with them?—No; I considere that was part of the arrangement.

42,115. (Mr. Bere.) You pay your rent to Mr Michelmore, and it is put in your account?—Yes Mr. Michelmore accounts for it and charges me wit it. I have not always paid it to Mr. Michelmore.

42,116. Who have you paid it to?—To Georg Fitze.

42,117. (Mr. Coleridge.) Is there any building i this meadow of yours?—There is a linhay; a she or two.

42,118. (Mr. Bere.) How long is it since you pai the rent to Mr. Michelmore, and not to Fitze?—I hav not paid rent to Fitze for a very long time, though h has called; I said, I should not pay rent to him whil Mr. Michelmore held so much money of mine.

E. Weekes.

ELIZABETH WEEKES sworn and examined.

42,119. (Mr. Coleridge.) How long have you been the barmaid at the "Seymour Arms"?—Since the 14th of May 1864.

42,120. You were there at the last election?—Yes.

42,121. It was your duty during the election to enter the things which were had in the books?—Yes; in the day book.

42,122. When Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour first came there, had you any instructions as to how you were to enter the things which were had in the house?—No; not when they first came.

42,123. At first you entered every thing which was had in the house, by all sorts of people, to Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour?—Yes.

42,124. Who told you to do that—to enter things that were had by other people to Pender and Seymour?—I never received any orders from anyone.

42,125. Then what made you put down all these things to them?—I suppose it was had by them.

42,126. Who told you that everything which was had in the house was had for Pender and Seymour in the first instance?—No one.

42,127. Did you understand that the house was taken by them, and that every thing which was had in the house, at that period, was to go down to them?—No; I did not understand that.

42,128. If Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour were to come and stay at the hotel now, you would not charge the account of anyone else to them?—No.

42,129. Then who told you to do this at the time?—The waitress who gave me the order.

42,130. You seem to have got no orders except from Pender and Seymour. Everyone's orders you supposed to have been Pender's and Seymour's?—Not every one.

42,131. But a very large portion of them, according to the quantity supplied?—I do not know where it went.

42,132. You knew it was not for them individually?—Yes.

42,133. You put down from the waiter's account all these things to them. Had you any way then of telling what was actually for them and what was for other people?—What was for other people used to go down under their own names.

42,134. After Mr. Michelmore had told you there was to be a separate account, in which Mr. Pender's and Mr. Seymour's private bills are separated from the larger amount, what enabled Mr. Cross to make out this little book?—He took them from the day-book, I suppose.

42,135. If the sum of 500*l.* is down to them in th general account, how are those particular item picked out, which make 94*l.* to Mr. Pender, and 77 to Mr. Seymour?—That is taken from their own private account.

42,136. How did you know what was their privat account, and what was for other people?—What wa to their own private account was entered to the num ber of their room.

42,137. How was that entered which was not t their private account?—To the committee room, suppose, or to the commercial room.

42,138. What is the account of Rees which come afterwards, and which has been separated now?—That is to the election.

42,139. That was originally charged to Pende and Seymour as part of the original account; ho did you take out Rees's account?—It was entere in the day book to Rees.

42,140. And to Pender and Seymour too?—Yes.

42,141. This 12*l.* 11*s.* 6*d.* was never entered t Pender and Seymour?—I think not.

42,142. When did Mr. Michelmore tell you tha this was the wrong way of doing business, and tha you were to have them separate?—Some days befor the nomination day; I cannot tell you when now.

42,143. Did you begin to keep a separate accoun before the election?—Before the polling day; I can not tell you how many days before.

42,144. When was it that you cut the pages out o the book?—I cannot tell.

49,145. When did you see that they had been cu out?—Some time after the election.

42,146. At that time, everything had been entere in a general way to Pender and Seymour, it could no have been before that when Mr. Michelmore told yo to keep the accounts separate?—No.

42,147. It was after the election, when the petitio was threatened, that Mr. Michelmore said that wa the wrong way of keeping the books?—No.

42,148. When did Mr. Cross make out a separat account for Pender and Seymour, instead of one gene ral account?—Some time after the election, when w drew up the account for Mr. Michelmore.

42,149. You knew that there was going to be petition?—I did not know it.

42,150. You did not cut out any pages yourself?—No.

42,151. Did you stick any in?—No.

42,152. What had you to do with cutting out th pages?—Nothing whatever.

42,153. You were not present at it?—No.

42,154. Who was? Mrs. Beazley? — And Mr. Cross.

42,155. When did you first see these pages after they had been cut out?—They were given to me.

42,156. What were you told to do with those pages that had been cut out?—Copy the account of the things which had been had in the house.

42,157. What were you told to do with the pages?—To burn them.

42,158. You did not burn them?—Yes.

42,159. Who told you to burn them?—Mr. Cross.

42,160. Not Mrs. Beazley or Mr. Michelmore?—No.

42,161. You had charge of the pages which had been cut out of the ledger as well?—I saw them there.

42,162. Who took care of those?—Mrs. Beazley.

42,163. She did not burn them, you burnt your share?—Yes.

42,164. (Mr. Bere.) Who sewed the sheets in so nicely as they are here now?—I think Mr. Cross did it.

42,165. Did you thread the needle for him?—No.

42,166. It is a pity that you did not get the same coloured paper while you were about it. Is that all you can tell us about the election?—Yes, that is all I know.

ANN SATCHWELL sworn and examined.

A. Satchwell.

42,167. (Mr. Longe.) Are you the waitress at the "Seymour Arms?"—Yes.

42,168. How long have you been at the "Seymour"?—I was there five years at first, and then I left.

42,169. Which was the first year you went?—I think 1858 or 1859.

42,170. You were there five years?—Yes; and then I left when Mrs. Beazley came there. I was there for about three weeks after that, and then I left.

42,171. You were there at the elections of 1862 and 1863?—Yes.

42,172. And of 1865?—Yes.

42,173. In 1865, had Mr. Seymour been staying at the hotel for some time?—Yes.

42,174. What rooms did he occupy?—Number 6 sitting room and number 8 bedroom.

42,175. Did Mr. Pender come shortly before the election?—Shortly before the election.

42,176. What rooms did he occupy?—Number 5 sitting room and number 12 bedroom.

42,177. Do you remember on what day it was that the big room was open and was full of persons connected with the election?—That was about the week before the election, I think.

42,178. I mean, when there were persons going into the large room and taking refreshments?—Yes, I think once or twice, that was all.

42,179. Do you mean for two nights?—Yes, there were two meetings there.

42,180. What were the days on which those meetings were held? was there one on the Sunday evening?—No; on the Saturday.

42,181. Not on the Sunday?—No.

42,182. On the Saturday there was a meeting?—Yes.

42,183. Were you constantly in and out of the room during the evening?—Yes.

42,184. Was there another waitress there?—Yes, but she did not wait upon them; she did not go near that room; only myself.

42,185. Was there any other person but you who waited in that room?—No.

42,186. Just describe the sort of meeting; were they consulting, or drinking, or what?—They were drinking.

42,187. What time did it begin?—Between 8 and 9 o'clock.

42,188. And what time did it conclude?—About 12 o'clock.

42,189. Who sat at the head of the table, do you know?—I really do not know; there was Mr. Rees, Mr. Cuming, and several others there. I do not think Mr. Pender or Mr. Seymour were there.

42,190. Who sat at the head of the table?—I do not know that anyone particular sat there.

42,191. Who was the chairman?—There was no chairman.

42,192. This was in the large room?—It was in the ball room.

42,193. Were there 40 or 50 there?—I should suppose 40 or 50.

42,194. Were there more than that?—No.

42,196. Who gave you the orders for the grog?—Different people.

42,196. Did Mr. Cuming give you any orders?—Yes, and Mr. Rees.

42,197. Mr. Cuming was the principal person, was he not?—Yes.

42,198. You gave those orders at the bar in what name? — Mr. Cuming and Mr. Rees. I gave the names of those who ordered.

42,199. Were there any other names besides Mr. Cuming and Mr. Rees which you gave?—Yes, Mr. Moysey.

42,200. Those were the three names which you gave in at the bar?—Yes.

42,201. On the Sunday night was there any meeting there?—No.

42,200. That room would be then shut up?—Of course.

42,203. On the Monday night it would be open again?—I do not remember what night it was that it was open again. I think it was a day or two before the election.

42,204. Are you sure there were only two nights when they had meetings there?—I am.

42,205. On the second night, was there about the same number?—About the same.

42,206. Were Mr. Cuming and Mr. Rees there again?—I believe so.

42,207. And you again waited upon them?—Yes.

42,208. And took the orders from the same parties as before?—I did.

42,209. Do you remember on one occasion having been sent by Mr. Windeatt to Mr. Holman?—I might have been.

42,210. You know all about that story?—I told him that he was wanted in number 5 sitting room, that Mr. Windeatt wanted him.

42,211. On what night was that?—I do not remember; I had too much to do to remember it.

42,212. Mr. Windeatt told you to tell Mr. Holman that he was wanted in number 5?—Yes.

42,213. What was number 13?—A double-bedded room.

42,214. Did you know, until you heard the story, what Mr. Holman was wanted for?—I did not.

42,215. You did not know what was in number 13?—I did not.

42,216. Who occupied number 13?—I do not think anyone slept there at that time.

42,217. During the last election, do you know of any of the voters having been left at the "Seymour Arms," and spending the night there?—Some two or three.

42,218. What were their names? — There was Sloggett and George Fitze; I do not know of anyone else. I left them there and went to bed.

42,219. Where did they sleep? — I suppose not anywhere. I left them in number 4 sitting room.

42,220. On what night was that? — The night before the election.

42,221. Did you supply them with grog?—I took in a little refreshment.

42,222. Did you take in sufficient refreshment to serve them through the night?—I think I did.

42,223. Do you remember what quantity you gave them?—I do not.

42,224. (Mr. Bere.) Did you go in occasionally to

THIRTY-FIRST DAY.

A. Satchwell.

29 Sept. 1866.

see whether they were comfortable or not?—No, I did not.

42,225. (Mr. Longe.) Did you know what they were kept there for?—I did not.

42,226. (Mr. Bere.) But you had a pretty good guess?—Yes; they did not tell me what they were there for.

42,227. (Mr. Longe.) But you had your own notion about it?—Yes.

42,228. You knew from what had taken place on former occasions?—Yes.

42,229. (Mr. Bere.) Whose servant were you during the election of 1865?—Mr. Pender's.

42,230. He paid you did he not?—Yes.

42,231. Are you still his servant?—No; I wish I was.

42,232. (Mr. Longe.) In 1863 you were a servant in the same hotel?—I was.

42,233. Were there meetings then in the large room?—There were.

42,234. Were they presided over by the same gentleman?—I think not; there were several others there then; Mr. Mc Dougall and Mr. Moore.

42,235. Did he preside?—He used to be there in the large room; there was no ball-room then.

42,236. What room was used then?—Number 4 was used then; they were only small meetings then.

42,237. Were there about the same number squeezed into number 4 as into the other room?—No; you could not put many in there.

42,238. Were there two or three meetings held there?—Yes.

42,239. And conducted in the same way as the others had been?—Yes.

42,240. And were the orders given by the leading persons as before?—They generally used to pay for what they had; each one paid for their own.

42,241. Do you mean that they paid you in cash?—Yes, they paid me in cash, and I used to take the money to the bar and give it to the landlady.

42,242. Whom had you in custody at the "Seymour Arms" at that time?—I do not remember, there were two or three there, but I do not remember who they were.

42,243. Who looked after them?—Mr. Holman and Fitze, I believe.

42,244. Where were they taken to?—To number 1, I think.

42,245. Do you remember their names?—I do not.

42,246. Was that the election in January or in December?—That was in January; the second election.

42,247. In the December election were there the same meetings held?—Yes.

42,248. That was Mr. Pender's election?—Yes.

42,249. That was when you first became acquainted with Mr. Pender?—It was.

42,250. Were there any persons kept at the "Seymour Arms" at that election?—No.

42,251. Do you know what was the reason why John Crocker left the "Seymour Arms" during the last election?—Because he was on the opposite side, and he was not to tell what was going on in there. I think that was the reason.

42,252. (Mr. Coleridge.) What did he do on the opposite side; go backwards and forwards to the "Stars?"—I never saw him.

42,253. Did you see him going to Screach's?—I have heard he did go, but I never saw him.

42,254. (Mr. Bere.) Had you been into number 13 during the day?—No.

42,254. Had you been there in the afternoon?—It is very likely that I had.

42,256. Had you seen anything unusual on the bed?—No.

42,257. Or anything behind the glass?—No.

42,258. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who slept in number 13 on the night of the election?—Mr. Michelmore.

42,259. Which of them?—Mr. Jeffery and Mr. Henry.

42,260. Was that room taken by Mr. Pender and charged to him?—No.

42,261. Who was it charged to?—Mr. Michelmore, I suppose.

42,262. I suppose this account of the breakage was given in by you to Miss Weekes—gas pipe and chair, what does that mean?—That was done in the tap.

42,263. A horse and cart thrown into the river by the Tories—what is that?—That was done, I believe.

42,264. Did you give those items in?—I did not.

G. H. Presswell.

GEORGE H. PRESSWELL recalled and further examined.

42,265. (Mr. Bere.) You were not present at the "Stars"?—I was not.

42,266. Did Mr. Heath find you at home?—No; I was not at home the first time that he called at my house.

42,267. Did you converse with him about what had happened in court here on the Tuesday?—I can hardly say that. He took a paper out of his pocket like a draft.

42,268. What time of the day did he call on you?—At night, just before nine o'clock.

42,269. That was the paper which Mr. Edmonds had drawn up for him?—I do not know whose handwriting the paper was in. I know Mr. Edmonds' writing and Mr. Kellock's very well.

42,270. What did you recommend him to do with it?—He read it over to me, and I advised him to expunge some lines and some sentences, because I thought the tone of it did not read properly—that it was not such a statement, or couched in such language, as should be used to this Commission. I thought, in what he had stated, certain words should be substituted for those which he had used. That instead of making statements affirmatively, any remarks he had to make he should put in a different form, saying, I submit to the Commissioners, so and so. It was not such language as I should have used myself in preparing a statement for this Commission. I asked him to take a chair, and he sat at one end of the dining room table, and I at the other, while he read it.

42,271. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you succeed in discovering any fact, or was it all argument?—I know nothing of the facts and cannot answer that question. There was something said with respect to the statement of three or four men who were said to have received money through the stranger, but I was not present when the evidence was given by the witnesses, and what I know is only from reading the papers hastily in the morning.

42,272. Did you suggest to Mr. Heath any omissions which he might put into his statement?—I did not; I suggested some additions. He affirmed that he did not know the stranger. I said, if you do not know him you should be clear and distinct about it; if you do know, state the fact. He assured me solemnly that he did not. If you refer to the statement, you will see the terms in which it is stated. I do not know whose handwriting the draft was in.

42,273. Had you any conversation with him as to whether there was any stranger here at all; did you ask him whether there was any stranger?—I daresay I did; I did not like to go into it very fully. I said to him, what I say to you here will most likely be known; it will be known that you are in my house, your movements are I daresay known, and I shall have to appear before the Commissioners and state what passed here. I said to him, I daresay on your leaving my house you will be seen, and it will be reported. He assured me most solemnly that he did not know the stranger, and I really believe, as far as I can judge of human nature, that he stated the truth. Of course, that is all I can say.

42,274. Were you in the "Seven Stars" at the election time?—1865?

42,275. Yes?—I believe I went there once in the afternoon; late in the afternoon.

42,276. Did you see any stranger there busying himself about the house?—No; I do not think he was in the house at that time; during the election. There was an error in the account of proceedings the other day in the newspapers.

42,277. What is that?—It is stated that Mr. Michelmore said I took a retainer for Mr. Baldwin. He made an error in that; I never had it.

JOHN NEWLAND sworn and examined.

J. Newland.

42,278. (Mr. Bere.) What are you, Mr. Newland?—A mason.

42,279. Are you a voter?—No.

42,280. Do you remember the last election in 1865?—Yes.

42,281. Do you know Mr. Harris?—I know him, sir.

42,282. Do you know Mr. Pender?—Yes.

42,283. Did you ever see them talking together at any time?—Yes.

42,284. Where was that?—Down by Mr. Bentall's, talking.

42,285. Do you remember what day that was?—I do not.

42,286. What were you doing?—Coming home to dinner.

42,287. Where were they standing?—They were standing by Mr. Bentall's corner.

42,288. Where were you?—Going towards the "Seven Stars."

42,289. How long did you see them together?—I saw them there when I went down going home to dinner, and Mr. Charles Michelmore was up there and young Mr. Windeatt; as I passed, Mr. Pender and Mr. Harris were talking together. I said to Mr. Charles Michelmore, "Is he going to confirm him," and then I passed on. I know no more about it. I had my dinner, sat down and smoked a pipe, and came back again; they were still there.

42,290. How long had you been away?—I should say half an hour it would take for dinner and to smoke a pipe.

42,291. They were still there?—I said, "You are "a long time confirming him;" he said, "Yes," and I went on. How long he was there before I came by, I do not know. That is all I know about it.

22,292. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you vote at the municipal elections?—Yes.

42,293. How do you vote generally?—Always with the Conservatives.

42,294. What do you get for that?—Nothing.

42,295. Did you never get anything?—Yes; once.

42,296. What was that?—A sovereign.

42,296*a*. Who gave it to you?—Young Mr. John Watson.

42,297. Of the "Lord Nelson"?—Yes.

42,298. Only that once?—Yes, that is all. Years ago, I have had half-a-crown and a breakfast.

42,299. Are you employed at elections as a runner or anything?—No.

42,300. You never have been employed?—No.

JOHN WATSON recalled.

J. Watson.

42,301. (Mr. Bere.) We have heard a story about Mr. Michelmore paying Henry Bartlett 75*l.* on the top of a cask. Can you tell us anything about that?—That was not what I was talking about.

42,302. What was it?—The money; Mr. Michelmore gave me 20*l.* in No. 1. I know nothing about the 75*l.*

42,303. You know nothing about the money that was paid on the top of a cask?—I know that the money was brought in; I was in the house at the time.

42,304. Did you see it?—I saw the money passed by Mr. Michelmore.

42,305. What do you mean by that?—Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore brought the money down.

42,306. Did he show it to you?—He showed it then.

42,307. Did you see Mr. Charles Michelmore put it down?—I was told he put it down.

42,308. You saw some money on the head of the cask?—Yes.

42,309. Where?—In the cellar.

42,310. How much money; did you count it?—No.

42,311. Was it in gold or notes?—No; mostly in notes.

42,312. Who was in the cellar at that time beside yourself?—Me and my brother-in-law were there.

42,313. Who is that?—Nicholas Norrish.

42,314. Did he tell you anything about it?—No.

42,315. He did not take the money off the cask then?—No.

42,316. Was Henry Bartlett in the house at the time?—I cannot tell.

42,317. Did you see him, in the course of that day, in the house?—No, I don't think I did.

42,318. How about the 20*l.*; you say that you heard that Mr. Michelmore paid Bartlett 20*l.*; was that in the same house?—No, Mr. Michelmore told me he sent 20*l.* by Bartlett.

42,319. To whom?—To Nicholas Norrish, his father-in-law, and he never paid it.

42,320. Was that the same money that was on the head of the cask?—No.

42,321. Have you spoken to Mr. Michelmore about this within the last day or two?—Yes, Mr. Michelmore spoke to me about it.

42,322. Did he come down to your house?—Yes.

42,323. What did he say to you about paying the money?—He spoke to me, and told me what my father-in-law told him was not correct.

42,324. What had he told you?—That he never had the 20*l.*

42,325. Did Bartlett have the 20*l.* for him, and he never had it?—He never had it. That was at the inquest, and it was between Mr. Michelmore and Bartlett.

CHARLES FREDERICK MICHELMORE recalled and examined.

C. F. Michelmore.

42,326. (Mr. Bere.) Is that so?—I went down to see a man named Tepson, whose wife had been murdered; he was staying at Watson's house, and Watson told me in the presence of his wife about this. He wished to speak to me. I said, "You had "better go into a private room;" he said, "Are you "aware that Bartlett has denied that he ever had "this sum of money on the top of the cask;" I then said, "Did you not show him the money;" he said, "I was present myself and saw you pay them that "sum of money. I did not count the amount you "paid, but Bartlett took it up. I cannot be answerable for the amount. My brother-in-law Norrish "had 75*l.*" We walked down the street, and a man called Mr. Knight said to me, "I saw him yesterday "morning, and then he told me he was in the house, "watching Norrish, for the purpose of talking him "away, but I forestalled him, and that when I came "from the back premises he heard me say it was a "something shame to have to pay voters such an "amount, and he knew that Parnell and that lot "were present at the time, and he was told afterwards "Bartlett went." I considered it due to myself to make these remarks, because they are corroborated by what I have already stated. Mr. Watson was present at the time when we had that conversation.

JOHN WATSON recalled and examined.

THIRTY-FIRST DAY.

J. Watson.

29 Sept. 1866.

42,327. (Mr. Coleridge.) Are you quite sure that Bartlett was not present in the cellar at that time?—I would not swear it.

42,328. He was present, was he not?—I don't know; there was a great mob there.

42,329. Had you seen him about the house at that time?—I had not been in the house 10 minutes.

42,330. Did you tell Mr. Michelmore, what he has just stated, the other day?—Mr. Michelmore has made a great mistake about that. My meaning was about the 20*l.* he paid in No. 1. I was present when he gave the money to Norrish.

42,331. Did you never see him give any money to Bartlett?—I am certain of it.

42,332. If you told him so; he has made a mistake?—There is a mistake about that; that is the other 20*l.*

THOMAS MATCHAM sworn and examined.

T. Matcham.

42,333. (Mr. Bere.) Are you the son of old Mr. Matcham?—Yes.

42,334. Where do you live?—At Turtley Farm, Ugborough.

42,335. How long have you lived there?—About six weeks.

42,336. Where had you been living before?—In Totnes.

42,337. What were you?—A farmer, cider merchant, and manure dealer.

42,338. Have you got a brother called James Matcham living at Torquay?—Yes.

42,339. What is he; an upholsterer?—No; a builder.

42,340. How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—Two years.

42,341. Was the last election the first time you ever voted?—Yes.

42,342. Who did you vote for?—Pender and Seymour.

42,343. Had you promised your vote to Dawkins and Pim?—No.

42,344. Had you been seen by them? Did they call upon you?—Colonel Dawkins had seen me. I never had any conversation with him.

42,345. What did he say to you about your vote?—Nothing at all.

42,346. Did he ask you for your vote?—He asked me for my vote, but I did not promise him.

42,347. What did you say to him?—I could not promise him.

42,348. Who was with him?—Mr. Kellock was with him.

42,349. Which?—Mr. Thomas Kellock.

42,350. When was it you told him you could not promise him?—Some little time before the election; a few days.

42,351. Had Mr. Pender called on you before then?—He had called on my father.

42,352. Old Thomas Matcham?—James Matcham. I had not seen Mr. Pender since the election.

42,353. Had you anybody to visit you?—Mr. Searle.

42,354. How much money did you have for your vote?—250*l.*

42,355. Was that for yourself?—That was for myself.

42,356. Who did you get it from?—Mr. Searle.

42,357. Where did you get it?—At Mr. Searle's house.

42,358. You know about the cheque Mr. John Heath gave?—I understood there was a cheque drawn in my favour.

42,359. Who told you that?—My father.

42,360. Had he been down to Mr. John Heath about it?—Most probably he had.

42,361. Did you ever see the cheque?—No.

42,362. Do you know that the cheque was sent over to Torquay?—I was not aware of it.

42,363. Did you get the money from Searle before you heard about the cheque, or afterwards?—After the election.

42,364. When did you promise Searle you would vote for Pender and Seymour?—I think the day before the election. He told me it would benefit me if I voted that side.

42,365. Have you voted for the council?—No, I never did. I lived myself out of the borough, 100 yards from the borough. I used to take an interest in the election proceedings.

42 366. Did your father give you assistance in settling your affairs for you after the election?—He did, in settling my affairs.

42,367. He was your surety?—Yes, he was one surety.

42,368. Was the 250*l.* enough to pay the debt to the bank?—No.

42,369. It went to your creditors, did it not?—Yes.

42,370. What did you pay; 7*s.* in the pound?—Somewhere thereabouts; 7*s.* 6*d.* I think it was.

42,371. You say you are a consistent Liberal?—I always have been.

42,372. Is that your handwriting (handing to the witness the requisition to Mr. Dent)?—Very likely I did sign it.

42,373. What made you sign it?—I understood him to be a Liberal-Conservative.

42,374. Who told you that?—I think Mr. Harris brought me the paper.

42,375. Did he tell you he was a Liberal-Conservative?—I do not say a Liberal-Conservative.

42,376. In what sense do you mean?—I really do not know; not an extreme either way.

42,377. Do you mean a Conservative with lots of money to spend?—I never asked him about it.

42,378. You knew your vote was a valuable thing to your father. Your vote had been valuable to him before?—I do not know that he voted before.

42,379. I think he did?—No, he never did.

42,380. Was there an understanding that he would get your father's vote as well as your own?—Not at all.

42,381. You had that?—But he never knew what I had until he saw it in the paper this week. He never had any knowledge of it, of what I had. I never told it to anyone.

42,382. (Mr. Longe.) Searle then made a mistake when he said the understanding was that both votes were to be bought?—Mr. Searle made this request to me. He said, "If I could get father to vote my side it "would be all the better." Nothing more than that. No promise of any money was made or held out for father's vote at all. I said, "If you could do anything for my "benefit I could get father to vote with me." Nothing more than that.

42,383. Were you examined by Mr. Tucker, of Ashburton, at the "Seymour Hotel?"—No, I never saw him.

42,384. Mr. Tucker, of Ashburton?—I know; he is a solicitor. I saw him at Mr. Searle's house.

42,385. Did he take down your evidence then?—Yes.

42,386. Did you sign it?—Most probably I did.

42,387. What did you tell Mr. Tucker; did you tell him, as to Thomas Searle, of Totnes, "at his "solicitation I voted for the Liberals, which was not "consistent with my principles"?—Yes.

42,388. Did you tell him, "I received no bribe or "offer of a bribe to vote"?—I might have told him I had not received any money. I should say, that Mr. Searle was the liquidator of my debts, and he kept it for me as the poundage. I never had the money myself.

42,389. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know whether that was all that was wanted?—I know father put 100*l.* to it beside; rather more than 100*l.*

42,390. (Mr. Bere.) Had you ever anything to do with an election before?—Never.

42,391. Did you ever influence anybody at a former election?—No, sir; never.

42,392. At the last election, was there any influence sed by you to obtain a vote, excepting your father's ?—No; no one.

42,393. Was any money passed through your hands ?—None whatever.

42,394. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you go to London at the time of the petition ?—Yes.

42,395. What did you go there for ?—I was requested to go.

42,396. Who by ?—The parties.

42,397. By whom ?—Mr. Chaster and Mr. Holman.

42,398. Where were you to go ?—I was told where to go to.

42,399. Who were you told to look after ?—I went to look after my father, he being an aged man, and he had not been to London for many years. I thought it proper that some one should be with him.

42,400. You were to take care of him and his evidence ?—No.

42,401. Had you no instructions ?—No.

42,402. What did you get ?—Nothing.

42,403. Did you pay your own expenses ?—Yes.

42,404. Did you pay your father's ?—Father paid for me.

42,405. Who paid your father's ?—I suppose, the parties who sent him.

42,406. Who was that ?—I think, Mr. Harris.

42,407. Who paid them in London ?—I do not know whether Mr. Travers Smith paid them.

42,408. What did he get for you, besides himself ?—Nothing for me. He got for himself, 15*s.* a day for the time, and 15*s.* a day for travelling expenses.

42,409. What had you ?—Not a farthing. Father paid my expenses. He never got anything for me; I am certain of that.

JAMES MATCHAM, senior, sworn and examined.

J. Matcham, sen.

42,410. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you ?—I am farming now.

42,411. How long have you been a voter for Totnes ?—I only voted once for Totnes.

42,412. You never voted until this last time ?—No.

42,413. Which way did you vote ?—For Pender and Seymour.

42,414. What did you get for it ?—Nothing at all. I never asked for anything.

42,415. Was a present given to you ?—No, not the value of a penny.

42,416. Did you not get anything ?—No, I never received one farthing from anyone.

42,417. Your son was in trouble at that time, was he not ?—He was.

42,418. Did he tell you what they promised him ?—No.

42,419. How did you know about his getting the 250*l.* ?—When I saw it in the newspapers.

42,420. What did they take you up to London for ?—I do not know.

42,421. Who took your evidence before you went up ?—I gave no evidence to anyone.

42,422. Did not anybody examine you ?—No.

42,423. They summoned you without examining you at all ?—Yes.

42,424. Who did ?—Mr. Robert Harris. He gave me a summons.

42,425. Who gave you the money to go up with ?—He gave me a letter with a 5*l.* note.

42,426. Did you sign the requisition to Mr. Macleay or Mr. Dent ?—I signed it.

42,427. Have you always been a Liberal ?—I never voted before.

42,428. What made you sign the requisition to Mr. Dent ?—I do not know, I am sure.

42,429. Colonel Dawkins, was it not; not Mr. Dent ?—Yes.

42,430. Is that your handwriting (handing the requisition to the witness) ?—Yes, it is.

42,431. What made you sign this for a Conservative, if you were a Liberal ?—He said Mr. Dent was a very nice man, or something of that kind.

42,432. What did Mr. Harris say to you when he got you to sign this requisition ?—I refused at first. He talked a good deal about it, and it would be a good thing for Totnes.

42,433. How was it to be a good thing for Totnes ?—I do not know.

42,434. You know ?—No, I do not.

42,435. What did he tell you it would be a good thing in respect of ?—He was a very charitable man.

42,436. A liberal man ?—Yes, a liberal man.

42,437. With plenty of money ?—I cannot recollect that.

42,438. Did he tell you you were not bound to vote for him because you signed the requisition ?—No; other people signed it who did not vote.

42,439. You voted the other way ?—Yes, I did.

42,440. What made you do that. What was the inducement ?—My son persuaded me.

42,441. When you signed this thing, you had some talk with Mr. Harris about your vote ?—No.

42,442. Did you ever tell Mr. Harris you thought your vote was worth 200*l.* ?—No.

42,443. Did you ever say your son's vote was worth 200*l.* ?—I never did, or half that.

42,444. Did you say you thought your son's vote was worth a couple of hundred pounds ?—No.

42,445. Did you say nothing of the sort to Mr. Harris at any time ?—No.

42,446. What did you have given you for anything else ?—Nothing at all.

42,447. Or your sons, the last election ?—Not a farthing. An old man like me, 70 years old; I do not come here to swear false.

42,448. Was anything left at your house ?—No.

42,449. Is your rent forgiven ?—I live in my own house.

42,450. The reason you signed the requisition to ask a gentleman on the other side of politics to come to stand for the borough was, because your son persuaded you ?—That is it.

42,451. Did he not tell you it would be a good thing for him ?—He said it would be a benefit to get him out of trouble.

42,452. Did he tell you how he was to get out of trouble by voting for Pender and Seymour ?—Perhaps he would get a benefit.

42,453. Did he tell you what his friends were going to give him ?—No, he did not. I declare I never knew what he had.

42,454. Were you surety for your son at this time ?—Yes.

42,455. Did he tell you he would be able to get out of his trouble, and you would be able to get out of the suretyship ?—I was out of it before I went to the bank and paid the money.

42,456. When ?—Before the election.

42,457. How long before; be careful, because we shall have the bank-book, and we shall see. How long before do you think it was ?—I cannot remember.

42,458. Was it a week ?—A month or more, I should think.

42,459. How much were you surety for ?—200*l.* or 300*l.*

42,460. How much did you pay at this time ?—22*l.*, I think.

42,461. How did you pay it, in gold or notes ?—Gold and notes.

42,462. Where did it come from; did your son give it you ?—I received it.

42,463. Who from ?—Mr. Hamlyn, at my son's house.

42,464. Who is he ?—He keeps the "South Devon Inn."

42,465. Did he tell you where he got it ?—He paid me the money.

THIRTY-FIRST DAY.

J. Matcham, sen.

29 Sept. 1866.

42,466. For your vote?—The things he took from the "South Devon Inn."

42,467. When did your son repay you?—It was ours.

42,468. What did Mr. Hamlyn give you this for?—For the goods and things he took of my son.

42,469. He kept the "South Devon Inn"?—Yes.

42,470. Did your son, after the election, pay you that money back that you had paid for him?—No.

42,471. Does your son still owe you that money?—Yes.

42,472. Did he not give you any of the money he got for the vote?—No, I never received a halfpenny.

52,473. In fact, the reason you did vote for Pender and Seymour was, that he told you, if you did so, it would get him out of trouble?—It was that, nothing else.

42,474. Thomas Jacob Searle was the co-surety?—His father-in-law.

42,475. He was a co-surety with you?—Partly that.

42,476. Did he go with you to the bank when you paid off this money?—No.

42,477. How did you get rid of your suretyship if you only paid 200*l.*?—I paid the rest afterwards with my own money.

42,478. When did you pay the rest; how long before the election?—Since the election.

42,479. Did your son give you the money to pay it?—No, it was my own money.

42,480. Was it money you took out of the business?—My own money. I sold some property up the country, and took the money.

42,481. At the time your son got this money for his vote you had not ceased to be his surety altogether?—I cannot tell you that.

42,482. At the time of the election you were still his surety at the bank?—I suppose I was.

42,483. If you did not pay the money, the balance of it, till after the election, you still remained a surety?—Certainly I did.

42,484. At the time that he received the money for his vote at the election, you were his surety?—Partly.

42,485. (Mr. Bere.) Had your son been the landlord of the "South Devon Inn" before the election?—Yes.

42,486. Had he sold his stock just before the election?—At Midsummer, he agreed for.

42,487. When was the election?—July, was it not?

42,488. How early in July did he do it?—I am sure I do not know.

42,489. What did he do with the money he got for the stock?—I had the money.

42.490. You paid it into the bank?—Yes.

42,491. What do you mean by saying it was your money?—I did not say it was my money; I said I had it.

42,492. How much did you owe the bank after you had paid that sum of money in?—I do not know.

42,493. How much did you pay them the second time?—80*l.* or 90*l.*

42,494. How did you pay, in notes or gold?—Notes and gold.

42,495. Did you pay it in after the election or before?—I think it was after the election.

42,496. Had you not been down during the election to Mr. John Heath?—He is a friend of mine.

42,497. You went down to the "Seven Stars" before the election; how long before the election?—Not long.

42,498. You went down to the "Stars," did you not?—Yes.

42,499. Did not you tell Mr. John Heath that your son would vote for the Conservative candidates if he could get 200*l.*?—No, I did not.

42,500. Did you not say if he would, your son would vote for the Conservative candidates?—I did not, my son did, he said something about it.

42,501. Did you not yourself go down and say to Mr. Heath you would vote for the Conservative candidates?—I do not believe that I did.

42,502. Will you swear you did not?—I will not swear it.

42,503. Did not Mr. John Heath take out a cheque book and draw a cheque and give it to you for 230*l.*?—He never gave me the cheque.

42,504. Did he draw a cheque in your presence?—He drew a cheque.

42,505. In your presence?—Yes.

42,506. What did you do with the cheque?—I never had it.

42,507. It was given to your son James, who lives at Torquay?—Yes.

42,508. Was it given to your son by you?—No.

42,509. Was it given to your son James in your presence?—I do not know.

42,510. Was not the agreement that your son James should hold it until the election was over?—Perhaps it might be.

42,511. Was not that the agreement?—I did not make any agreement.

42,512. Did you hear that your son James was to hold the cheque until the election was over?—No, I did not.

42,513. Did either of your sons ever inform you that the money was to be held until the election was over?—I did not hear anything about it.

42,514. When you went away from Mr. Heath, did you intend to vote for the Conservatives?—I do not know, I am sure.

42,515. Did you?—If it had been fulfilled, perhaps I might.

42,516. Was it not in consequence of your son coming to tell you that Mr. Searle would get the money from the Liberals, that you went and voted for the Liberals?—It was by my son's persuasion I did vote, of course.

42,517. Did not your son come and tell you that he could get more money from the Liberals?—No, I never knew what he had, not until I saw it in the newspapers.

42,518. (Mr. Coleridge.) Are you quite sure that Mr. Heath sent for you?—Yes, he sent up.

42,519. Who came for you?—I was not in, a boy came up.

42,520. Who was the boy?—I did not see him, it was to "come down to Mr. Heath." I went into the office, and he said, "I cannot fulfil my promise to you."

42,521. That is another time, when you went and saw him; when Mr. Heath sent for you, when he said he had got, did he allude to your son?—I went to him.

42,522. You were not sent for in the first instance?—No.

42,523. The second time he said he could not fulfil it?—Yes.

42,524. With you?—The parties would not agree to it, he wanted security for it.

42,525. You went to see what could be done on the other side?—No, I never went at all.

42,526. He came to you?—My son's father-in-law said he would be a friend.

42,527. What did you say; you would be on the Liberal side, did you?—That was so.

42,528. Something would be done?—Get a friend.

42,529. For you or for your son?—I never got anything.

42,530. (Mr. Bere.) Were you not down at the "Seven Stars," and did you not go with Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim on the hustings, and stay on that side?—I went on both sides.

42,531. Did you not first go on Colonel Dawkins side?—On both sides I went.

42,532. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever have money on both sides?—No, I never did.

42,533. How late was it on the polling day that you made up your mind on which side to vote?—Half-an-hour before the poll.

42,534. At what time did you poll?—Sometime in the morning.

42,535. Before dinner time?—Yes.

42,536. When did you first know that Mr. Heath would not pay the cheque ?—I do not know I am sure ; the day before the election, I suppose.

42,537. Was it the day before the polling day that Mr. Heath would not draw the cheque ?—I cannot say.

42,538. Was it the polling day ?—I cannot say.

42,539. Was it not during the polling day ; was it either on the polling day or the nomination day ?—A day or two.

42,540. Before the election, at all events ?—Before the election.

42,541. Was it not on the morning of the polling day ?—I cannot recollect.

42,542. Did not Thomas Jacob Searle come for you and your son to vote twice before you voted on the polling day ?—He did once.

42,543. He looked pretty sharp after you, to keep you on the right side ?—I do not know about that.

42,544. When did you tell him on which side you should vote ?—At the same time.

42,545. That was after he told you it would be a benefit for your son ?—He said "If you go along with me and your son, it will be a benefit to him."

42,546. What did you understand the first time you went to Mr. Heath, you went without being sent for then ; and the second time some boy came in your absence, and you went down, and then he told you he could not give you the cheque ?—Yes.

42,547. You went to see what you could do on the other side, and then you voted for the Liberals ?—That is about it.

42,548. (Mr. Longe.) When did you go to Mr. Harris ?—Go to Mr. Harris !

42,549. When did you speak to him before the election ?—I do not know that I spoke to him anything about the election.

42,550. Did you see Mr. Harris at all to speak to him before the election ?—I do not know that I did. I met him in the street. I never went to see him.

42,551. You did see him in the street ?—I have seen him very often.

42,552. You know him ?—Yes, I know him.

42,553. You are on intimate terms with him ?—Yes.

42,554. Did you see him two or three times before the election ?—I have seen him a great many times, of course, living in the same place.

42,555. Did you speak to him ?—Nothing about the election ; the time of day, and so on.

42,556. Do I understand you to say you never told Mr. Heath you should vote for the Liberals unless you got 200*l.* ?—No, never in my life.

42,557. Nothing of the kind ?—Nothing of the kind.

42,558. At no time ?—At no time ; never in my life.

HENRY RICHARDS sworn and examined.

H. Richards.

42,559. (Mr. Longe.) Are you a voter ?—Yes.

42,560. How long have you had a vote ?—1865 was the first time.

42,561. Who did you vote for ?—Dawkins and Pim.

42,562. What did you receive for your vote ?—60*l.*

42,563. Who gave it to you ?—Saunders.

42,564. Where did you get it ?—In a lane adjoining the "Seven Stars" hotel.

42,565. Did you sign a paper ?—No.

42,566. Who sent for you ?—I was not sent for at all, I met Saunders on the Plains.

42,567. Who first told you of getting money for your vote ?—No one.

42,568. Did you ask Saunders whether he could get you any money ?—No, never.

42,569. What took place between you and Saunders ?—I met Saunders on the Plains, and he told me he had got some money for me.

42,570. When was that ?— The nomination day, just after the nomination was over.

42,571. Had you known Saunders before ?—Yes, I have known him for years.

42,572. You are friends ?—Yes.

42,573. Do you mean to say that no conversation took place between you and Saunders about your vote ?—No, none.

42,574. Who had asked you to vote at the canvass ?—Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim.

42,575. What did you tell them ?—I promised them both.

42,576. Were you canvassed by the other side ?—I saw Mr. Seymour ; I never saw Mr. Pender.

42,577. Did no one call upon you from the other side ?—No.

42,578. Did you meet anyone on that day, or did anyone speak to you about voting for the other side ?—No, Mr. Jeffery Michelmore was with him.

42,579. Did you speak to anyone besides Saunders about voting for the Conservatives ?—I passed Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim.

42,580. Passed them. Did you speak to anyone else ?—No.

42,581. Do you mean to say you did not ask anyone to get you any money ?—No, never.

42,582. No one offered to get you any ?—No, I cannot name anyone.

42,583. You were saying that Saunders told you he had got the money ?—I did not know what he meant at first, he said, "Come here, I want you, I "have got something for you." I followed him.

42,584. What was it ?—60*l.*

42,585. Did he tell you what it was for ?—He said it was sent to me from a gentleman at the "Stars Hotel ;" he asked if is was "All right," and I said, "Yes."

42,586. He told you he had got it for you as a friend, he thought you would like the 60*l.* and he got it for you ?—No, he did not say that.

42,587. Did he sign a paper for you ?—He never said a word about a paper.

42,588. Did you see him sign a paper ?—No.

42,589. Can you write ?—Yes.

42,590. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you sign the requisition ?—Yes, I believe I did.

42,591. Did you ever get any money for voting for the council ?—I never voted for the council.

42,592. Had you been employed at other elections ?—No.

42,593. As a runner ?—No.

42,594. (Mr. Longe.) Did you ever tell anyone you would vote on the other side ?—No, sir, never.

42,595. (Mr. Bere.) Saunders told you your vote would be a pretty good thing, and if you voted for the Conservatives you would have something ?—Never in my life.

42,596. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did Searle speak to you, before you promised Colonel Dawkins, about the election ?—No.

42,597. What was the conversation you had with Saunders about the election before this ?—I do not know that we had any conversation about the election.

42,598. Did he tell you that money was going ?—No.

42,599. When did you first know that money was going ?—I do not know.

42,600. Had you ever been down to the "Seven Stars" to inquire about it ?—No, not to enquire about money.

42,601. What did you go to the "Seven Stars" for, the day before the election ?—On the nomination day I was in and out many times to get a glass of ale.

42,602. You heard money was going ?—No.

42,603. When did you get the money ?—After the nomination was over.

42,604. You went in to spend some of the money ?—Yes.

42,605. Did you pay for anything you had ?—Yes.

42,606. Did anybody pay for anything that day ; was it not all put down generally ?—No one.

THIRTY-FIRST DAY.

H. Richards.

29 Sept. 1866.

42,607. So that is the way you began spending the money ?—Yes.

42,608. Did you owe Saunders money at that time ?—No.

42,609. What did you give him back for himself ?—Nothing.

42,610. Have you seen him since ?—No.

42,611. Have you spent all the money ?—No.

T. Potter.

THOMAS POTTER sworn and examined.

42,612. How long have you had a vote for Totnes ?—Since 1841.

42,613. How much money did you have for your vote ?—44*l.*

42,614. When ?—The night before the election.

41,615. What election ?—Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim.

42,616. Who brought it you ?—I did not have it brought to me.

42,617. How did you get it ?—Mr. Heath paid me.

42,618. Where did he pay you ?—I cannot say, in his house, I suppose.

42,619. (Mr. Coleridge.) What did he pay it in ?—All gold.

42,620. Open ?—In my own hand.

42,621. Was it loose ?—Yes.

42,622. Not in a parcel ?—No.

42,623. Where ?—In the little room.

42,624. On the left or the right hand ?—I could not say.

42,625. What are you ?—I am a labourer.

42,626. What do you get a week ?—Half-a-crown a day.

42,627. Who made the bargain with you that you were to have 44*l.* ?—Nobody.

42,628. How did you come to go down to the "Seven Stars' ?—I was always a Tory all the days of my life, for 30 years.

42,629. Did Mr. John Heath call you out ?—No, he did not.

42,630. What did he say to you ?—He said to me, "Will you see me in the course of the day"?

42,631. Where did you tell him you would wait ?—In the tap room.

42,632. Did he come down to the tap room or send somebody ?—He sent a youngster down.

42,633. Who was the youngster ?—A little boy.

42,634. Was it his son ?—He said somebody wanted me. No son of his.

42,635. You went upstairs, did you ?—I did.

42,636. And saw Mr. Heath ?—I saw Mr. Heath.

42,637. Where did you see him, in the lobby ?—No, in the little room. I would not say whether the right or the left.

42,638. Was anybody else there besides Mr. Heath ?—Yes.

42,639. Who was that ?—Mr. Edmonds.

42,640. Did Mr. Heath pay the money out to you ?—Yes.

42,641. In gold ?—Yes.

42,642. Counted it out ?—He counted it out ; but I did not count it before I got down stairs.

42,643. Where did you count it first of all ?—I handed it to my wife.

42,644. When did you count it ?—I handed it to my wife.

42,645. How far do you live from the "Seven Stars"?—About a quarter of a mile, hardly that.

42,676. Up the hill ?—No, sir, I live down at Warland.

42,647. (Mr. Coleridge.) Are you quite certain Mr. Edmonds was in the room ?—Yes.

42,648. Do you swear that ?—Yes.

42,649. Did you sign any paper ?—No.

42,650. He gave you 44*l.* ?—Yes.

42,651. What did you do with it ?—Put it in the garden.

42,652. How did you manage that ?—Dressing and other things.

42,653. What size is the garden ?—Half an acre ; and a little I paid other ways.

42,654. Let us hear what you paid ?—Perhaps I paid part for rent.

42,655. What is you rent ?—10*l.* a year.

42,656. How much did you owe then ?—I did not owe half a year.

42,657. Who is your landlord ?—Mr. Bentall.

42,658. Did you pay him 5*l.* ?—I paid it to Mr. Harris.

42,659. Is it one of Mr. Rennie's cottages ?—Yes.

42,660. How much manure did you buy ?—I do not know.

42,661. How much manure did you buy, you say you bought it ?—I did not put it all on in that way ; it was spent one way or the other.

42,662. How much in manure ?—20*s.* or 30*s.* or 2*l.*

42,663. What did you do with the rest ?—I do not know ; I handed it to the missus. I cannot say anything more about it.

42,664. When did you first know about this money ?—When I got it.

42,665. You swear you got this from Mr. Heath in a room in the "Seven Stars" when Mr. Edmonds was present ?—Yes.

42,666. You swear that ?—Yes.

42,667. On your oath, did you ever receive the money at all, this 44*l.* ?—Yes.

42,668. Now again, you received this 44*l.* from Mr. John Heath at the "Seven Stars" ?—Yes.

42,669. And Mr. Edmonds was present ?—Yes.

42,670. You received it ?—Yes.

42,671. You swear on your solemn oath that Mr. Edmonds was present, and he saw the money paid ?—Yes.

42,672. And that Mr. Heath paid it ?—Yes.

42,673. If you swear that which is untrue, you will have to go to Exeter gaol for perjury ?—I am not abit afraid of that.

42,674. You swear distinctly Mr. Edmonds was present when Mr. Heath paid it ?—Yes.

42,675. Were you at work during the election or drunk all the time ?—At work, and I was as sober as I be now.

42,676. Who sent you up here to-day ?—I have been attending these three days here. Two or three days before to-day.

42,677. How many times have you voted, in all, how many elections ?—30 years.

42,678. Where is your summons ?—I have not got it with me, I have got it at home. Three days I have been summoned.

42,679. Can you read ?—No, I cannot.

42,680. Who told you you had been summoned ?—My missus read it to me.

42,681. Was that the sort of writing you received (producing a copy of the summons form) ?—Yes.

42,682. What did you get at the election before ?—I never voted.

42,683. Now here is another paper, did you get a paper like that too (the second summons) ?—I do not think I did, I cannot say. I got a second summons, but there was a paper before I got the second summons.

42,684. Did you vote at Dent's election ?—No.

42,685. How was that ?—I had no vote.

42,686. I thought you said you had voted for 30 years ?—For the town council.

42,687. What used you to get for voting at the town council elections ?—I have had one half-crown.

42,688. Did you ever get a pound ?—I cannot say that I did.

42,689. What is the most you ever got for voting at the town council elections ?—I do not think I ever had more than half-a-crown in my life ; it was sent to me for a Christmas present on Christmas eve.

42,690. Half-a-crown and a breakfast?—That is he only one I had all through my life.

42,691. Has your missus got any of this money still by her?—I do not know, I cannot tell you; I do not think her has.

42,692. Is that the gentleman (pointing to Mr. Edmonds) who was in the room?—Yes.

Mr. Edmonds recalled and examined.

42,693. (Mr. Coleridge.) You have heard that story, is it true?—It is not true. I never was present when any person received money.

42,694. Did you ever see this man at the "Seven Stars"?—I saw him during the election, when a meeting was going on up stairs. What other room he went into when he was paid the money, I do not know.

42,695. You swear it is not true that you were present when he was paid?—Decidedly.

Mr. John Heath recalled and examined.

42,696. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you pay that man 44*l.* in Mr. Edmonds' presence?—I have not the slightest recollection of ever having paid him at all. There are two ways to the ball room; on the night before the nomination there was a large party drinking in the ball room, I should think 200 people, whether this man was among the number or not, I cannot say.

41,697. Did you pay him 44*l.*?—I deny it.

42,698. Have you any recollection of paying anybody that particular sum of money?—I have not.

42,699. You swear distinctly you did not pay him 44*l.*, or any other sum during the election?—I deny it.

42,700. And that you never paid him that 44*l.* in Mr. Edmonds' presence?—I am sure I never did.

42,701. Did any conversation of the sort take place at the election, at any time, when Mr. Edmonds was present together with you?—Never.

42,702. Not as to money or anything?—Not as to money or anything.

Thomas Potter recalled and examined.

42,703. (Mr. Bere.) Who was in the tap when you were sent for?—I dare say 40 or 50 people.

42,704. Can you mention the names of anybody who were there?—No, sir; I know my two sons were.

42,705. Did you go back into the tap room after you got the money?—Yes.

42,706. Did you tell your two sons what you had got?—I do not think I did.

42,707. Did you tell anybody what you had got?—No; I would not say that I did.

42,708. How long were you in the room, according to your story, with Mr. Heath and Mr. Edmonds?—I should think, not five minutes.

42,709. What conversation took place in the room?—Mr. Heath asked me what he had promised me to do the day before.

42,710. Had you seen Mr. Heath the day before?—I think I did; I would not say.

42,711. Where?—I think in the Mill Lane.

42,712. At Mr. Heath's?—Yes.

42,713. Had you known him before?—Yes.

42,714. To be often in the habit of talking with you?—Not much talking.

42,715. What did he say to you when he met you in the lane?—I do not know whether he asked me whom I would vote for.

42,716. Whom had you voted for at the last election?—I never voted only for the Tories; and when it was Mr. Condy's election, I was an out and out Tory always, all the days of my life. If they were up again, I would never do that if they gave me 100*l.*

42,717. You say there was some talking when you got into the room, had you shut the door?—That I would not say.

42,718. What room was it, should you know the room if you were taken to the "Seven Stars"?—Yes, I dare say I should.

42,719. Who were in the room?—Mr. Simmons.

42,720. Who else?—A man named Lee.

42,721. Had you been talking about this?—No.

42,722. To nobody?—No, to nobody.

42,723. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was your missus at home when you came away?—Yes, she was at home when I got away, and came up here in the morning.

42,724. Is she generally at home?—Yes, generally at home.

James Matcham recalled and examined.

42,725. (Mr. Bere.) Did you pay any cheques in to the banker?—Yes.

42,726. Whose cheques did you pay in?—My son's cheque.

42,727. When was it you paid it in, before the election?—I do not know of any. I cannot recollect.

42,728. Did you pay in any cheque of Mr. Brooking Cuming?—No.

42,729. Did you pay any cheque of Mr. Bourne's?—No.

42,730. Or Mr. Symong's?—No.

Thomas Matcham recalled and examined.

42,731. (Mr. Bere.) Did you pay money into the bank?—I paid money into the bank at various times.

42,732. Did you on the 28th of June 1865 pay in 225*l.*?—Father did.

42,733. It is entered in your name?—It is entered to my account.

James Matcham further examined.

42,734. (Mr. Bere.) How long after the election was it that you paid the second sum of money?—That I cannot tell.

42,735. Try and recollect?—I cannot.

Mr. John Heath further examined.

(Witness.) With respect to Potter as having been one of the parties alleged to have been paid at my house during the election, I have not the slightest recollection of ever having paid him. I most certainly deny having paid him. It is very possible some of the voters may have been drinking in the house during the election, and they were in an intoxicated state.

42,736. (Mr. Coleridge.) If you did pay him, how is it you did not take his I O U as you did from others?—I do not acknowledge that I did.

42,737. You do not deny that so explicitly as you deny that you paid him in the presence of Mr. Edmonds?—I have no recollection of ever having paid him at all.

THIRTY-FIRST DAY.

29 Sept. 1866.

Mrs. Potter sworn and examined.

Mrs. Potter.

42,738. (Mr. Coleridge.) Are you the wife of Thomas Potter ?—Yes.

42,739. Do you recollect his voting at the last election ?—Yes.

42,740. Did he tell you before he voted what he was going to get for his vote ?—Yes.

42,741. How much did he say ?—50*l.*

42,742. Did he tell you who was going to give it to him ?—No.

42,743. Did he tell you where he was to go to get it ?—No, he did not.

42,744. How much was it ?—44*l.*

42,745. Did he tell you who gave it to him ?—I think, Mr. John Heath.

42,746. When did he bring it home ?—The night before the election.

42,747. What did he do with it ?—He gave it to me.

42.748. All of it ?—No.

42,749. How much ?—43½*l.*

42,750. Did you pay for some manure out of it for dressing the garden ?—He did; he was to get that.

42,751. How much of it did you spend at that time ?—I do not know that.

42,752. Have you got any of it left ?—I do not know. I have got a little, not very much.

42,753. How much ?—6*l.* or 7*l.*

42,754. He told you at the time he was to get it before he got it ?—Yes.

42,755. What did he tell you about this 44*l.* instead of 50*l.*?—He told me that was all he got, and he would go and see the party again.

42,756. Did he do so ?—He told me he did, and it was no good.

42,757. Did he tell you who was present when Mr. Heath paid him ?—No, that was all he told me.

42.758. Did he tell you anything about a stranger being present when Mr. Heath paid him, and when he said he was to have 50*l.*, he said, "That is enough for a poor man ?"—No; I have got a bad memory.

42,759. You are certain he gave you the money ?—Yes.

42,760. Was it in gold ?—Yes.

42,761. (Mr. Longe.) When did he tell you he was going to have some money ? How long before the day he was paid did he tell you he was going to have some money ?—He did not say.

42,762. I thought you said he told you he was going to have some money for his vote ?—Yes, but he did not say when.

42,763. Do you remember how long it was before he brought the money that he told you he was going to have some ?—The day before.

42,764. When he told you that, did he tell you from whom he was going to have some money ?—No.

42,765. Did you not understand from him who he was talking of ?—No, not by his words; he never would tell me anything.

42,766. He told you he was going to have some money ?—Yes, he told me that. I think I heard him say Mr. John Heath.

42,767. When he told you he was going to have some, did you not talk to him ?—He did not tell me who he was going to have it of till after he got it.

T. Potter.

Thomas Potter recalled and further examined.

42,768. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you recollect telling your missus, before you got the money, that you were to get 50*l.*?—No, I do not; I might say so.

42,769. When you got the 44*l.*, how much did you give your wife ?—I gave her all, but a sovereign I kept for myself.

42,770. She says half a sovereign ?—Perhaps it might be.

42,771. Did she ask you why you did not get 50*l.*? —I was very glad to get it and be a happy man.

42,772. Did your missus say, why did you not go ? —I said, I should not go.

42,773. When she told you it was not 50*l.*, did you say you would go back and see the person and ask for the other ?—I did not the same evening.

42,774. When did you ?—The next morning.

42,775. Whom did you see ?—Mr. Heath.

42,776. Was Mr. Edmonds there ?—No.

42,777. Where were you ?—In the passage. I told him it was not as much as he promised.

42,778. What did he say to that ?—He did not make any answer.

42,779. You have never got it yet ?—I never shall have it.

42,780. Who promised you the 50*l.* in the first instance ?—I said, I should get it.

42,781. Who told you you could get it ?—I do not know; three or four.

42,782. Who told you to go to Mr. Heath for it?—Nobody did tell me.

42,783. What made you say 50*l.*?—Three or four other voters.

42,784. Who told you ?—I cannot tell who did it; it was all the talk.

42,785. From the talk you heard you expected to get 50*l.*, and you were disappointed that you did not get more than 44*l.*?—I was not disappointed at all.

42,786. You thought it a good day's work ?—I thought it was.

Adjourned to the 25th October at 10 o'clock.

THIRTY-SECOND DAY.

Thursday, 25th October 1866.

Mr. JEFFERY MICHELMORE recalled and further examined.

42,787. (Mr. Bere.) I think on the last occasion asked you to bring all the letters that had passed between you and Mr. Seymour since September 1862. Have you done so?—Yes, every one.

42,788. You are the steward of the Duke of Somerset?—I am.

42,789. For all the property in Totnes?—Yes.

42,790. Have you any other property under your control?—Not of the duke's.

42,791. For what others are you agent?—For Lord Macclesfield, Lord Cranstoun, Mr. Newman, and Captain Ridgway; those are the principal.

42,792. How long have you been steward for the Duke?—Since the death of my father.

42,793. When did he die—In May last.

42,794. How long had he been ill before his death?—His last illness was about three months. He was invalided about the time of the election of 1865.

42,795. What was the matter with him then?—I could not tell you what it was, but he could not stand any excitement at that time; it was rather a disease of the heart.

42,796. Was it the beginning of an illness which terminated in his death?—No, I think it was quite a different illness that he died from.

42,797. Although you did not become the agent of the Duke of Somerset before his death, you were in his office as a partner?—Yes.

42,798. How long before?—Since 1858.

42,799. Had you been brought up as a clerk in his office?—No, I was not.

42,800. Have you any other profession besides being steward?—No.

42,801. Since 1858 you acted as his partner, and the accounts were kept as Michelmore & Son?—Yes.

42,802. At that time who were the clerks in your father's office?—Mr. Cross, Mr. Callard, and our present clerk.

42,803. When did Mr. Prout come into the office?—About 1861. I cannot recollect.

42,804. Have you had anything to do with elections for Totnes before 1858?—No.

42,805. The first election you had anything to do with was the election of Lord Gifford and Mr. Mills in 1859?—Yes.

42,806. What part did you take in the election?—I think I canvassed with Lord John Hay on behalf of Lord Gifford.

42,807. Lord Gifford was not down here?—No.

42,808. Were the independent and the ducal party at that time united or not?—The ducal party and the independent party were united.

42,809. Had you a joint committee?—We had no committee whatever.

42,810. Did the supporters of the independent party and the ducal party meet together in one place?—Yes.

42,811. At this hotel?—Yes.

42,812. They consulted together as to the best steps that should be taken to return two Liberal members?—Very little was done that way. Lord Gifford's party kept entirely distinct.

42,813. What had you to do besides canvassing at that election?—I made out and settled the accounts after the election.

42,814. Have you a copy of the accounts?—No, I have not.

42,815. Are they in the books that you have furnished us with?—No.

42,816. Have you the book?—Yes, I have a book.

42,817. We should like to have it. Can you tell us from recollection what sum of money Lord Gifford spent on that occasion?—Somewhere between 300*l.* and 400*l.*

42,818. Was that all he spent?—Yes.

42,819. Had you anything to do with Mr. Mills's account?—Nothing whatever.

42,820. Who was manager for Mr. Mills?—Mr. Brooking Cuming.

42,821. And Mr. Windeatt and the gentleman of whom we have heard?—Yes.

42,822. From 1859 down to 1862 did you, as one of the partners of Michelmore and Son, distribute the subscriptions which Lord Gifford gave to the charities?—Yes.

42,823. Did you keep the accounts against him?—Yes.

42,824. At that time who paid the registration expenses?—The Duke of Somerset.

42,825. For how long has the Duke of Somerset paid the registration expenses?—Ever since I can remember.

42,826. He paid them as Lord Seymour when he was the Liberal member for Totnes, and continued to pay them afterwards?—Yes.

42,827. Do you mean by "the registration expenses" a share, or that he paid all?—The duke only paid for one member.

42,828. Take one account and go through it. Take the account of 1859, in which there is a charge of 33*l.* 7*s* 4*d.*, and there Mr. Tucker's charge is five guineas. Was he advocate before the revising barrister?—Yes.

42,829. Had he also a fee of five guineas from Mr. Mills?—Yes; I think he took the leadership in the court, and was paid five guineas by each party.

42,830. Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore, did he get five guineas also?—Not from each party, only the other party.

42,831. I see a payment of 20*l.* to Mr. Shute?—That was an annual payment for looking up the registration during the year.

42,832. Was that the Mr. Shute who was examined as a witness?—Yes.

42,833. (Mr. Longe.) Did he look up the registration for the Liberals?—Only for the duke; nothing to do with Mr. Mills.

42,834. Did he look after the Tories, and throw out votes as well as support votes?—Yes.

42,835. He was paid by the duke?—Yes.

42,836. (Mr. Bere.) Would he have assisted to protect the voters of one of the independent party?—You mean Mr. Mills' party?

42,837. Yes.—Nothing to do with that.

42,838. He would merely take care of the votes of the ducal interest?—Yes, and he signed the objections.

42,839. Up to what day did the duke pay?—He paid up to 1863.

42,840. In 1863 what was the reason of the alteration?—The duke did not care any more about the borough.

42,841. Did you know of any arrangement that made the duke careless about the borough?—No.

42,842. Were you not present at a meeting held at the end of 1862, when Mr. Chaster and Mr. Holman and some other gentlemen on that side met with you or your father, and discussed the prospects of the Liberal party?—I was not there the whole of the meeting. I came in at the end.

42,843. You remember there was a resolution to the effect that the independent Liberal party should be allowed one member and the ducal party another?—I do not think it was that way. I think the resolution was that the elections were to be paid jointly.

THIRTY-SECOND DAY.

Mr. I. Michelmore.

25 Oct. 1866.

and if they could only carry one candidate they were to decide which it was to be.

42,844. Did you make an application to Mr. Seymour to pay those expenses?—Yes.

42,845. Did you receive any intimation from the duke that he would not pay his share of them?—I think my father saw him at Stoner.

42,846. Was that at the end of 1863?—At the end of 1863. He agreed to pay for before 1863, but not after.

42,847. Did he pay in 1864?—No.

42,848. Do you know whether in consequence of that conversation of your father's with the duke, a communication was made by your father to the independent Liberal party in Totnes?—In what way?

42,849. Communicating to the party the views of the duke with regard to the future management of the registration?—I never heard of any.

42,850. Were you never present at any meeting of the Liberal party summoned to consider such a communication?—No; we had a meeting when Lord Gifford's death was expected.

42,851. That was in 1862?—That was in 1862.

42,852. I want to call your attention to November 1863. Do you remember whether or not your father saw the duke at Stoner?—No, I think the letter of the duke will state when he was at Stoner. I do not recollect the month myself. I know it was about the end of 1863.

42,853. Had there not been a consultation among the Liberals as to having not a joint committee but several committees for the two candidates?—No.

42,854. Are you quite sure about that?—I never heard of it.

42,855. Did you know that your father met Mr. Chaster and Mr. Carey about that time?—No.

42,856. And that he had a conversation with them?—I never heard of it.

42,857. Did you not at that time know that there was a scheme for a separate committee?—No, sir; I always understood the other way.

42,858. On receiving that intimation from the duke with regard to the registration expenses I suppose they were entered in a different way?—No. After that they were put together. I do not recollect which way it was. Mr. Windeatt and Mr. Chaster met and agreed that both parties should pay a certain amount. I agreed as to the portion we were to pay, and they would have to pay on the other side their share. The whole of the accounts were agreed to in one total. Mr. Seymour paid his share, and the money is entered in my book.

42,859. Was not a lump sum agreed for?—No lump sum.

42,860. Certain payments were to be made by you on behalf of Mr. Seymour, and a certain share by the other party?—Yes, a certain share on behalf of the Liberal party.

42,861. Whose handwriting is that (pointing to an entry in a book)?—Prout's.

42,862. The registration expenses which the duke paid never having exceeded 40*l.* a year, how did it happen that in 1864 Mr. Seymour's share of those expenses came to very nearly 600*l.*?—We had a very different game to fight; we had opposition in every way. Before that we never had. We used to get the registration over in about five or six hours. Latterly it has lasted a week or ten days.

42,863. Was it in consequence of the opposition you meet with that you give that as the only reason for the increase of the expenditure?—Yes.

42,864. What item did you charge against Mr. Seymour as registration expenses?—I think I paid the lawyer's bill, and I paid the hotel bill, and certain rents that were due.

42,865. What was it, for a field?—For some land taken in hand from Lady-day for the purpose of making votes in and after July, and the land being in in hand from Lady-day the rent was paid by the Liberal party. I have 10 guineas charged in the accounts paid to Mr. Searle to keep a house in his possession. That arose from having had notice to leave by the other party. When the notice was given it was found that it was not legal, and the rent was paid to keep the house on till the 31st of July.

42,866. Had the Duke of Somerset at any time paid the registration expenses in connexion with the council elections?—I think so at one time.

42,867. I find that in the account with Mr. Seymour you charge 19*l.* 5*s.* for Mr. Cuming, town council election; how was that disbursed?—I think it was paid away to men for their votes. We had nothing to do with it, and never took any other part in the council elections but being ready to find the money.

42,868. "William Sloggett, cash 6*l.*" What is the meaning of that?—The poor fellow was in great distress at the time, I believe he had some heavy difficulties on him, and one morning he asked me to give him some little money, and I gave him 6*l.*

42,867. And you charged it to Mr. Seymour?—No.

42,870. Your charge is, "Totnes registration, 6*l.*?"—Yes. I will explain it in this way. Then the registration expenses came under different heads, but we found it impossible to continue that. The accounts got mixed up with each other, and so we discontinued it. That is the reason of that payment.

42,871. But you sent in an account to Mr. Seymour of your expenses on account of registration?—No, I do not think I did. I do not think I ever sent in any copy of it. I showed him the account when he came down.

42,872. You must be careful. Did not you, or your clerks under your direction, furnish Mr. Seymour with an account of how the money claimed by you from him on account of registration expenses had been expended?—I do not recollect. I may have done so. I should not have hesitated to have done so. I cannot swear positively that I did, and I cannot swear that I did not. I recollect sending in an account the first election, and I think at the end of that account a portion of the registration expenses were added.

42,873. Do you know that account so sent in to Mr. Seymour did not contain the items which you have just alluded to, such as "J. Searle, half-year's rent of house agreed to be paid?"—I cannot swear, I cannot recollect.

42,874. Will you undertake to say of your own knowledge that the account you sent in to Mr Seymour for registration is identical with the account in your ledger?—No.

42,875. Was it not an account which prevented Mr. Seymour from learning truly how his money had been spent, and was it not sent in for the purpose of preventing Mr. Seymour knowing what money had been spent?—No, certainly not.

42,876. Do not you know that that account which was sent in to Mr. Seymour was an account of moneys chiefly disbursed in the payment of retainers, and fees to attorneys?—That was the first account, and then I think on the back of that account—I am not sure—there were certain registration expenses which were added. Mr. Seymour, when that account was sent in, did not settle it, and he came down here some time after.

42,877. Just look at that account (handing an account to the witness)?—Yes, that is the account. That at the back was added afterwards.

42,878. This is not the only account you have sent in to Mr. Seymour. This is an account for election expenses, not an account of registration expenses at all?—I do not think I have sent in an account for registration expenses.

42,879. Are you sure you did not?—I feel almost certain about it.

42,880. Two accounts were presented to Mr. Seymour when he was under examination, the account in your ledger, and an account professing to be a similar account of moneys expended and paid for Mr. Seymour, and Mr. Seymour compared them and they did not tally. How can you explain that ?—Two accounts coming from our office ?

42,881. Yes.—I do not know whether there was any account sent to Mr. Seymour before we divided the accounts.

42,882. Mr. Seymour said he paid 250*l.* for registration expenses ?—Yes.

42,883. (Mr. Coleridge.) This question was put to him, "You were not aware that you had paid such an "an item ?—I was aware that I had paid 250*l.* "But not that item. Then the next is, 'John "Tozer, a loan, 20*l.*' Do you think that that is a "proper sum to be included in registration expenses ? "Have you received that loan back ?—No. The next "is, 'J. T. O. Tope, for repairs of Diptford Cottage, "10*s.*' It is a curious item. Then 'Mrs. Beazley, "hotel registration expenses, 72*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.* ?'—I "remember at the time I believe that Mr. Pender "and myself both spoke very strongly about certain "hotel expenses going into the registration account "and we were aware that there were large sums for "hotel expenses. 'May 8th, 1865, Bindon, gift in "sickness, 5*s.*" Then generally he says, these did not appear in the account which he then held in his hand ?—No, I do not think he ever had a copy.

42,884. But he had a copy which tallied exactly in point of gross sum with this account here. Do you recollect making out that account ?—No, I do not. You see, when that registration account was made up it was all made up, the whole of the registration expenses were made up and divided afterwards ; each party had to pay so much, and very likely in sending in this account to Mr. Seymour I may have sent in an account belonging to the other party.

42,885. There is an item here, "J. B. Prout, cash, council election, 50*l.*?"—Yes.

42,886. How was that expended ?—That was paid to Mr. Windeatt on the 1st November. Mr. Windeatt showed me a letter he had received from Mr. Seymour authorizing him to come to me to be paid 50*l.* The cheque was drawn in Prout's name and he cashed the cheque and handed the cheque to Mr. Windeatt.

42,887. It was drawn in Prout's name, and he cashed the cheque and handed it over in order that nobody might know about it ?—No, it was drawn and given to the clerk, and he took it to the bank.

42,888. I see you paid Mr. Edmonds and Mr. Floud the sum of 150*l.* ?—Yes.

42,889. "72*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, Mrs. Beazley, hotel, registration expenses ;" what is that ?—That is rather a large account ; it arises in this way, the advocates were staying in the house while the registration was going on, and in addition to the advocates a great many friends of the parties dined there every night, and also took their meals, and there were luncheons provided for the parties day after day, and things of that kind swelled it up, and we were certainly charged very high for it ; we grumbled about it, but we could not get anything taken off.

42,890. There is an item to James Rose ?—That was a room we used in the town as an office on market days, and it had no window blinds, for we did not use it in the evening at all, and we used to meet there in the evening to make up the registration matters, and parties wish to have blinds put up.

42,891. And so you had the blinds put in ?—Yes.

42,892. Then "Thomas Bindon, gift in sickness ?" That was to a man, not a voter, living up here in the manor of Bridgetown, and when Mr. Seymour was down here the wife came and spoke to him, and he requested me to give him something.

42,893. Then Robert Jackson delivering election papers for guardians ; what has that to do with voters ?—We used to contest the election of guardians. The last few years we have fought everything.

42,894. "Tozer, 20*l.*," what is that ?—Tozer up here, a shoemaker, when he first went into business was rather hard up, and, like all ten-pounders, independent, and he applied to Mr. Chaster for some money, and we advanced him 20*l.* and he gave his note of hand.

42,895. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you ever been repaid it ?—No, we still hold the note of hand, and do not expect to get the money.

42,896. (Mr. Bere.) At the election of 1859 did any of the duke's tenants vote against the duke's interest ; Mr. Dunn's election ?—(Referring to a paper) I see I made out a list of notices, and the only person seems to be Mr. Kellock.

42,897. Is that the surgeon ?—Yes.

42,898. He was in possession of some land ?—He had a field.

42,899. What value was the field ?—14*l.* a year.

42,900. He voted for Mr. Dunn ?—He always voted for the Conservatives.

42,901. And received notice ?—Not on account of that.

42,902. But he did receive notice ?—Yes.

42,903. How long after he had given his vote ?—I do not recollect how long after the election took place.

42,904. What was his tenancy ?—He had notice at Michaelmas.

42,905. You say it was not on account of his vote ?—No.

42,906. On what account was it ?—There were two reasons; one was, that he only kept a pony, and he had given up his pony six months, and had stocked his field with other people's cattle ; and the other reason was that we had great difficulty in getting the rent.

42,907. What did you do with the field after you got it into your own hands ?—I forget ; it is let to another party.

42,908. You made votes of it ?—The field made a vote.

42,909. Only one ?—Only one.

42,910. Was there a building on it ?—Yes.

42,911. What sort of building is it ?—A double linhay with a loft over.

42,912. Are there doors to the linhay ?—Yes ; I do not know whether there are doors to the under part, but to the floor over the loft.

42,913. Was he the only one of the duke's tenants who was interfered with after that election in 1859 ?—Yes.

42,914. (Mr. Longe.) Did you say you had looked over the books and got all the notices ?—I have made out a list of parties who had notice.

42,915. Every notice from the time that took place ?—Yes.

42,916. That is independently of what took place after the election ?—Yes.

42,917. (Mr. Bere.) After the election of 1859 I understand that no notice was given to any person except Mr. Kellock ?—Except Mr. Kellock.

42,918. Was there any one of the duke's tenants who voted for Mr. Dunn except Mr. Kellock ?—I cannot answer.

42,919. Is not it the case that there was none other ?—I do not know at all.

42,920. Have you a list of voters in 1859 who were tenants of the duke's ?—No.

42,921. Would it be any great trouble to make that out ?—If I had a poll list I could tell you who were tenants of the duke at that time.

42,922. Will you mark with a cross the names of the persons in that list who were tenants of the duke at that time ? (The witness marked the names in a poll list for 1859.)

42,923. As far as you know, was there any notice served on any one of those tenants after the election of 1859 ?—No.

42,924. With the exception of Mr. Kellock ?—No ; I have looked over the notices we have got in the office, and those which are here are all I can find.

42,925. Have you a list of the notices ?—Yes (it was handed in). It is just a list made from these (referring to some papers).

THIRTY-SECOND DAY.

Mr. J. Michelmore.

25 Oct. 1866.

42,926. All the names which are in these notices are in here ?—Yes.

42,927. That is all you had to do with the election of 1859 ; what did you do at the election of 1862 ?—That is Mr. Pender's election ?

42,928. Yes.—I canvassed then.

42,929. You did more than canvass ?—I did a little more than canvass.

42,930. What did you do besides ?—I do not know ; I did not do much besides canvass with Mr. Pender, and after the election was over I distributed some money.

42,931. How much did you distribute after the election was over ?—I had 289*l.*

42,932. What did you do with that ?—I gave 50*l.* to a man called John Elliott to pay. I do not know who the parties were who had the money.

42,933. Was it given to him in gold or notes ?—I do not recollect.

42,934. Was it given to him with any orders from you as to how he was to distribute it ?—No, I think it was a draft for 289*l.* placed in my hands before the election.

42,935. Who gave it to you ?—Mr. Cuming I think.

42,936. Whose signature was to the cheque ?—I do not know whether it was a cheque.

42,937. It was paid into the bank ?—189*l.* was paid into the bank, and 100*l.* I paid off immediately in cash.

42,938. Why was the sum of 289*l.* paid to you, it was rather an odd sum ?—It appeared to me the money was sent down in draft, and that was the amount of that draft.

42,939. By whom was the draft drawn ?—I cannot recollect.

42,940. Mr. Pender has told us that it came down through Mr. Webber, was it drawn on Mr. Webber ?—I do not think it was.

42,941. Was it drawn by Mr. Webber ?—No, some stranger ; it was paid into the National Provincial.

42,942. To your account ?—To my account, and 100*l.* taken out in change. There was an entry in my book of cash 189*l.*

42,943. Did you pay any money during that election ?—No.

42,944. Or promise any ?—No.

42,945. Did you not promise Gillham something during the election of 1862 ?—No.

42,946. That you are sure of ?—Yes.

42,947. Or did Mr. Mitchell ?—No.

42,948. Did you canvass Gillham in 1862 ?—I should not think of offering him any money, he was an out-and-out Tory.

42,949. Do you remember a man of the name of Johns coming to you about Gillham's vote ?—No.

42,950. You know nothing at all about that ?—I have seen that Gillham stated in his evidence that I had offered him money, but that is untrue.

42,951. You never did offer him any money ?—I never did.

42,952. Did you go to see him ?—Nothing more than to canvass him.

42,953. Did you not ask him how much he wanted ?—I never should have thought of asking him anything of that kind. Gillham at each election was always lying about half tipsy or in a half stupid kind of state.

42,954. (Mr. Coleridge.) Why would you canvass such a man as that ?—We make it a rule to canvass everybody.

42,955. Did you canvass Mr. Edmonds ?—Yes.

42,956. And Mr. Heath ?—Yes.

42,957. (Mr. Bere.) You have heard that Gillham has stated that you offered him this money ?—I saw it in the newspaper.

42,958. This is what Gillham states : "Were you "offered anything to vote for him ?—No, not for Mr. "Dent. Were you offered anything to vote for Mr. "Pender ?—I had an interview with the parties at "the 'Seymour' hotel, Mr. John Mitchell, Mr. Jeffery "Michelmore were present. What was the conversation ?—They asked what is your figure ? I said "150*l.*, and I left. The next morning Mr. Mitchell "called at my house, saying that my offer was re-"jected on account of Mr. Dent's resigning." Do you remember anything about that ?—No, I do not think we have had an election for the last few years at which Gillham has not been present.

42,959. To see what he could get ?—No ; merely as a spy.

42,960. Then you deny that any such conversation as this took place ?—I am positive it did not.

42,961. Did you see a man of the name of Lake ?—Yes ; I saw him canvassing with Mr. Pender.

42,962. Did you promise him any money ?—No.

42,963. Or anything in the shape of a consideration ?—No ; I can tell you how that occurred. We were going down at the back of this hotel, and we met Lake coming round with a gentleman ; we had called at his house before, but he was not at home. Mr. Pender asked him for his vote, and he said that he would not promise him his vote ; that if the duke's candidate had come forward he should have supported him, but that he did not think he was bound to support Mr. Pender ; he said, I think I should not be justified in doing that, as I have been offered a good sum by the other party. Mr. Pender then said, "Do "not vote against me and you shall be taken care "of." After we left the man Mr. Pender said, "Do "not let that be forgotten." Nothing more than that was said. When he came to pay his rent, without saying anything more I had a cheque drawn for 20*l.* which I gave him.

42,964. In the entry here the rent is put down as 20*l.* with your initials underneath ?—I gave him the 20*l.*

42,965. It is put down here as if it had been allowed him out of his rent ?—The cheque for 20*l.* was paid to him.

42,966. And he handed it back to you as for his rent ?—Yes.

42,967. Was the cheque which you gave to him signed by you in your own name ?—Yes, it was.

42,968. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was this 20*l.* given to Lake in fulfilment of a promise given by Mr. Pender during the election ?—Yes ; I do not mean to say that Mr. Pender promised him any money.

42,969. But in consideration of the promise of Mr. Pender you paid him this money ?—Yes.

42,970. And you considered that that was the amount which he ought to have been paid ?—Yes.

42,971. The sum was left to your discretion, but the command to do something for him was given by Mr. Pender ?—It was given in that way.

42,972. And Lake was there at the time that Mr. Pender mentioned this to you ?—Yes.

42,973. I suppose you knew that was enough to unseat Mr. Pender ?—Yes.

42,974. Is that your handwriting (referring to a book) ?—Yes.

42,975. He passed you 20*l.* in notes and 10*l.* in gold, and that is your cheque (referring) ?—Yes.

42,976. You afterwards charge that 20*l.* note not against Mr. Pender but against Mr. Seymour ?—No.

42,977. Just look at that book ?—It is not charged against Mr. Seymour, and I shall prove it.

42,978. You opened an account with Mr. Seymour on the 1st January 1863 ?—Yes.

42,979. And the first time you place anything to his credit was a sum of 189*l.*, which you say you received from Mr. Pender ?—Yes.

42,980. Why did you put that 189*l.* to Mr. Seymour's credit ?—It was unintentionally done. I paid it as money received under the election, and that is the only account that we have of the election.

42,981. But why enter it to Mr. Seymour and not to Mr. Pender ?—I cannot give you any reason.

42,982. Why did you not pay it back ?—Because the money was promised to be paid to different parties.

42,983. To whom ?—There was 100*l.*

42,984. You paid 50*l.* to Elliott ?—Yes.

42,985. Who was that through ?—40*l.* was paid to a man named Farley.

42,986. What was he to do with that ?—He had to give his own vote.

42,987. What became of the other 10*l.* ?—I cannot tell you. I fancy it was paid to a man named Pack.

42,988. The boots at the "Stars ?"—No; a man at the high end of the town.

42,989. Was it paid for his vote ?—Yes.

42,990. Was that in consequence of any conversation that you had had with him ?—No.

42,991. Who made the arrangement ?—I cannot say. I think it came through Mr. George Parrott.

42,992. Who made the arrangement with Farley ?—I cannot tell. I was told to pay it to Mr. Perrott, the tailor of Bridgetown.

42,993. Where did you receive the 289*l.* ?—I received it here in the hotel.

42,994. Had there been any understanding as to what sum was to be paid to you, and what sum was to be paid to the other Liberal canvassers ?—Not that I am aware of.

42,995. Did you get the 289*l.* without being told what you were to do with it ?—No, I had 289*l.*; that was more than was required at the time, I did not cash the cheque for some days. I had it before Mr. Pender's election, and when I cashed the draft 100*l.* was wanted immediately, and the remainder was placed to be taken out afterwards.

42,996. You paid the money to Elliott ?—Yes.

42,997. You directed him what to do with it ?—No.

42,998. What did he do with it ?—I do not know.

42,999. Do you know that there were large amounts paid after Mr. Pender's election by letters containing notes ?—No.

43,000. You never sent any letters ?—No.

43,001. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who told you to pay Farley ?—I do not recollect.

43,002. Who may it have been ?—It might have been Mr. Pender, but I do not recollect the transaction.

43,003. Somebody told you what you were to do with the 100*l.* ?—I was told that the money would be wanted.

43,004. Who told you ?—Mr. Cuming.

43,005. Did he tell you whom it would be wanted by ?—That I would be applied to by the different parties.

43,006. What party would you have to pay it over to ?—The parties who came.

43,007. Then if a man came for 50*l.* you knew he was to have 50*l.*, and if he came for 10*l.* he was to have 10*l.* ?—Yes. 50*l.* was paid to Elliott.

43,008. How did you get rid of the 40*l.* ?—It was paid to Mr. Perrott.

43,009. He was to pay it to Farley ?—Yes.

43,010. When was that ?—A day or two after Mr. Pender's election.

43,011. Were Farley, Pack, and Elliott all paid on the same day ?—That I cannot say.

43,012. How many different times ?—Only two.

43,013. Elliott came to you himself ?—Yes.

43,014. Perrott came to you for Farley's money ?—Yes.

43,015. Was that the same day ?—Yes.

43,016. How long was Farley paid after the election,—a day or two ?—Yes.

43,017. How long was Elliott paid after the election ?—I cannot say.

43,018. A day or a week ?—It may have been a day or a week.

43,019. About how long ?—A week.

43,020. Perrott got his money before Elliott got his ?—I cannot say.

43,021. Perrott got his money a day or two afterwards ?—Yes.

43,022. There were three transactions, Perrott, Pack, and Elliott, all within the week ?—Yes, I should think so.

43,023. Who paid Pack ?—Prout I think.

43,024. Did you pay Prout ?—Yes.

43,025. Perhaps you will tell me how you knew these were Pender's men ?—They promised to vote, and they also voted for him.

43,026. Do you know any other men besides these three who were paid between the two elections ?—Yes.

43,027. These are the only three that you can remember ?—Yes.

43,028. (Mr. Bere.) Do I understand that you had nothing to do with any other payments except what you have told us, directly or indirectly ?—I paid out 189*l.*

43,029. When did you do that ?—Some time afterwards. It was paid by cheques entered in the books.

43,030. How did you dispose of that ?—30*l.* paid by Mr. Charles Michelmore for a man named Samuel Hill.

43,031. Can you by looking at that ledger say which items belong to the 189*l.* ?—The first cheque is to selves, 50*l.*, that is for Charles Michelmore.

43,032. Is not the first to Prout for election expenses ?—Yes, but that is not on account of that election.

43,033. Your account with Mr. Seymour begins on the 1st of January, and the first item on the debit side is the 12th January 1863, so that all other accounts of 189*l.* must have come after Mr. Seymour's election ?—Yes.

43,034. There was 189*l.* of Mr. Pender's money not expended at Mr. Seymour's election ?—Yes, promised, but not paid.

43,035. Will you tell us how it was promised ?—Money was promised by different parties; for instance, Charles Michelmore promised Hill 40*l.* The next item is, Cross 10*l.*

43,036. What was that for ?—A gift for assistance during the election time.

43,037. That is not paid till the 16th Feburary ?—It was some time afterwards.

43,038. How do you discriminate between the "afterwards" at Mr. Pender's election and Mr. Seymour's election ?—It was paid each time.

43,039. It was paid on the 16th February, and that may be for Pender's election or for Seymour's ?—It was for Mr. Pender.

43,040. By entering the money in the way that you have done you have put yourselves in an awkward position with regard to the account. The first is the 16th January, and you debit yourselves with 1,000*l.* on Mr. Seymour's account ?—Yes.

43,041. All those payments which are made subsequent to the 16th January are made out of a sum of 1189*l.*, composed partly of Mr. Pender's and partly of Mr. Seymour's money ?—Yes.

42,042. How could you tell whether the money was drawn from Mr. Pender or from Mr. Seymour ?—The money was promised.

43,043. Which way ?—There is Mr. Cross 10*l.*, Mr. H. Michelmore 22*l.* 10*s.*; then there is 10*l.* for Allen the gardener, and 12*l.* 10*s.* for Sawdye; then the next is, Condy 25*l.* You will find two 25*l.* charged—50*l.* for bills left in arrear in Mr. Mills' time, during Mr. Cuming's management, and it was considered necessary that they should be paid, and the money was advanced, and we gave them an I O U for the amount.

43,044. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who audits the duke's account ?—The duke himself.

43,045. Does not Mr. Festing ?—He did some years ago.

43,046. (Mr. Bere.) What was the next item ?—The next is a cheque to Searle, 50*l.*, that is for James, the station master.

43,047. Did he get the money ?—Yes.

43,048. (Mr. Coleridge.) What did James get it for ?—For his vote.

43,049. Was that promised to him before Mr. Seymour's election ?—I cannot tell you. I am in a difficulty during the management with my father, but I will give it you as true as I can give it.

43,050. (Mr. Bere.) That makes 157*l.* ?—Then

THIRTY-SECOND DAY.

Mr. J. Michelmore.

25 Oct. 1866.

there is 2*l.* more; then there is the Reverend James Shore, travelling expenses, 6*l.*, but it is half of that.

43,051. Why half of that?—He came to both elections. Then there is a charge to T. Michelmore.

43,052. March 26th, 1864?—Yes.

43,053. Then there is 10*l.* to a man named Edmonds?—Yes.

43,054. That makes 168*l.* Had you known at all that those monies had been promised before by Mr. Pender?—Not before I was told of it. The money was passed through me in this way. I had the money, Mr. Cuming had not any money, and so the money passed through me in that way.

43,055. With the exception of canvassing, did you take any other part in Mr. Pender's election?—Nothing besides that.

43,056. Were you in constant communication with Mr. Pender on the subject of his election?—During the time he was here.

43,057. Did you write to him at all?—Not at the election; I did not at all.

43,058. Had you found that any of the duke's tenants were disposed to go wrong at that time?—About Mr. Seymour's election?

43,059. Before Mr. Seymour's election; Mr. Pender's election?—We had not a chance of trying them.

43,060. (Mr. Coleridge.) Before you leave Mr. Pender's election, do you know of any money spent by Mr. Dent at Mr. Pender's election. They say that he shut up and did not pay the money, and went away?—I do not know, but there is no doubt that there was a great deal of money actually paid.

43,061. In trying to operate upon the voters, did you find out that they had been operated upon on the other side in 1863 in Mr. Pender's election?—I did not find out any case for certain. We fought a sharp battle up to one o'clock that night.

43,062. (Mr. Bere.) Did you know anything of the communication between Mr. Kellock and Mr. Brooking Cuming?—No.

43,063. You were not consulted?—No.

43,064. Your father?—No.

43,065. You mentioned the name of Lake. Is that the only case where the money was offered on either side?—There were others.

43,066. Can you mention them?—No, I cannot.

43,067. There were several cases where they told you and Mr. Pender that they had been offered money on the other side?—They told me so.

43,068. (Mr. Coleridge.) Can you mention the names?—No. I should be safe, I think, if I were to say nearly one half of them.

43,069. One of the Conservative voters?—Yes.

43,070. That you canvassed?—And that took money. I should be safe if I said that half of the Conservatives that promised Mr. Dent at that time accepted money.

43,071. How many told you that they had been offered money?—I cannot tell you.

43,072. (Mr. Longe.) You say several?—Yes.

43,073. In the case of Lake, was Mr. Pender present when he told you that?—Yes.

43,074. Do you remember any other case?—I think a man named John Randle Vasey told me that he had been promised money.

43,075. Was Mr. Pender present then?—I do not think he was.

43,076. You told Mr. Pender?—No, it merely came up in conversation.

43,077. Did you offer anything?—No.

43,078. Was Lake the only man that you attempted to get on your side?—Yes.

43,079. You say there were several persons who said they had been promised money; were they Bridgetown voters?—I cannot tell you that.

43,080. Were they tenants of the duke?—No, I do not think they were tenants of the duke.

43,081. You must remember?—I cannot. I do not think they were tenants of the duke.

43,082. (Mr. Coleridge.) When the duke's tenants told you that they had been offered money you gave them an extra caution not to take it?—We tried to keep them. They would not go unless there was a strong pressure; that is their game. At the elections they come and offer our men large sums, and if we can keep them for 10*l.* we do it. We have always acted on the defensive.

43,083. You can remember whether they were tenants of the duke?—No, I cannot; Vasey is a tenant of the duke.

43,084. (Mr. Bere.) Is that all you know of the election of 1862?—Yes.

43,085. Was your father here in the election of 1862?—Yes.

43,086. You were actually employed in the election?—In the same way as I was with Mr. Pender. My father took an active part. I took merely the canvassing, nothing more.

43,087. What money did you distribute at that election?—Nothing.

43,088. What money did you promise?—Nothing.

43,089. Was the Liberal party very united at the first outset?—Yes.

43,090. Are you quite sure that there was not a disagreement between your father and Mr. Cuming as to who should take the lead in the matter?—No; I never heard a syllable, I am sure my father would not take it.

43,091. He had taken the lead up to that time always, had he not?—Yes.

43,092. Did not they agree that he should act for the ducal candidate?—He acted as Mr. Seymour's agent, there was no dispute as to who should have the leadership.

43,093. (Mr. Coleridge.) What is the meaning of this letter of Mr. Brooking Cuming, describing the election of Mr. Seymour: "At first we had a sort of "divided command, which never does when we have "to fight such daring and dangerous enemies as "Mr. Dent and his friends. I had nominally the "lead, but was obliged to consult Mr. Michelmore "about everything that was to be done." Is it true that he had nominally the lead?—I should have called him the leader of the Independents.

43,094. "On the morning of the nomination, how-"ever, I was entrusted with the sole conduct of the "election, and urged to win, and by putting forth every "possible nerve and working my men into the greatest "excitement to call forth every energy, I had the "great happiness and self-congratulation to find Mr. "Seymour one member by a majority of eight?"—Yes.

43,095. Do you recollect your father giving it up entirely to Mr. Cuming on the morning of the election?—My father was very unwell on the day of the election.

43,096. Do you recollect that there was an alteration in the state of the affairs on the morning of the election?—No.

43,097. Do you not recollect that Mr. Cuming took a more prominent part on the morning of the election than he had taken formerly?—No, I do not.

43,098. What is the meaning of that part of it, having the lead, and handing over both the parties to Mr. Cuming on the morning of the election?—I do not know in what way Mr. Cuming might have had it before that. It was so understood at the time.

43,099. (Mr. Bere.) But Mr. Cuming acted, did he not, down here with the Liberal gentlemen who were supporting Mr. Seymour?—Yes.

43,100. Was your father here also?—Nearly all the time.

43,101. Did reports from the different agents come in to your father as well as to Mr. Cuming?—No, I think Mr. Cuming took that part of it.

43,102. Did Jenkins take any part in the business?—I do not think he did; he was here during the time, I do not think he took any part in it.

43,103. (Mr. Coleridge.) Can you explain this letter from Mr. Brooking Cuming to Mr. Pender: "My dear sir,—I have received your letter and list "enclosed, of which I approve, only adding a name "or two. As soon as the election is over I will get "the committee formed and see how best to dispose of your handsome donation;" that I suppose applies the 1,000*l.* ?—I suppose so.

43,104. "Thanks for adopting the list of the charities. Mr. Dent is silly enough to permit his address again to appear here, but he is again ill, and although not here, Messrs. Gill, Edmonds, and Frederick Kellock are actively canvassing for him and picking up some of the 'consideration men;'" what does that apply to ?—In 1863 they were taking them away, for instance, Briggs.

43,105. This is dated the 1st of January, before Mr. Seymour's election ?—They were fetching them away.

43,106. Before the 1st of January ?—No, immediately Lord Gifford died; Mr. Seymour's address came out.

43,107. Does not consideration men mean those that have been paid for beforehand on behalf of Mr. Pender ?—No.

43,108. Now tell me what does this mean: "I think, however, we are all right. We get several new promises, and shall lose a few of your men, but not many;" what does he mean by talking to Mr. Pender about your men ?"—Two or three men voted for Mr. Pender, that never supported our side before.

43,109. "A few of your men, but not many," that must be more than two or three ?—I do not think that.

43,110. Who do you call Mr. Pender's men ?—I consider Lorimer one.

43,111. Who else ?—Morgan.

43,112. Who else ?—Guppy.

43,113. It must mean more than that, "We get several new promises, and shall lose a few of your men, but not many;" there must have been a good many ?—I do not know what he means by that.

43,114. The same thing was kept even from you ?—Yes.

43,115. We may assume that there was another batch besides those he had to do with whom Mr. Pender was looking up ?—Oh, certainly.

43,116. (Mr. Bere.) Before Mr. Seymour came down do you know whether your father had communicated to him what amount of money would be required for the purposes of the election ?—We met him at Teignmouth.

43,117. Who are "we," you and your father ?—And Mr. Cuming. I think my father had some previous conversation with Mr. Seymour, and we had not heard of Mr. Seymour coming forward when Mr. Mills died.

43,118. Were you present at the interview with Mr. Chaster after Mr. Seymour arrived ?—I came in as he walked out of the house.

43,119. (Mr. Longe.) Did he see you or your father before he went away ?—Not before he came to this hotel. I came down at the same time to the station with him, but he went away in 10 minutes.

43,120. (Mr. Bere.) Can you fix the day when you saw Mr. Seymour at Teignmouth ?—No.

43,121. How long before the election ?—Mr. Seymour's address was not issued when Lord Gifford died, but immediately Lord Gifford was buried Mr. Seymour's address came out.

43,122. How long before the 20th of January ?—It was a week after Lord Gifford died.

43,123. Did your father tell him as he was coming back from Teignmouth or after he came, or before, what sum of money would be required ?—No.

43,124. Had you formed any idea yourself ?—No; I thought we should have fought the fight without any money at all.

43,125. Against Mr. Dent ?—We had a strong majority.

43,126. When between Seymour and Dent you only won by eight ?—We thought it would have been won purely.

43,127. I thought you had learned that elections were not fought purely. You on your side and the others must have been aware there was surely money to be spent; but had you not formed an idea what it would cost on the Liberal side ?—We did not know that Mr. Dent was coming.

43,128. Did you know that after the 16th of January Mr. Seymour caused 1,000*l.* to be paid into the bank to your account ?—It was done without his saying anything to us.

43,129. Was not that in consequence of what your father told him ?—I cannot tell.

43,130. When did you first know that 1,000*l.* was paid in to your account ?—Mr. Seymour told me of it in his letter.

43,131. At that time had you come to any conclusion as to the sum of money that would be wanted ?—No; we thought that money would be wanted.

43,132. You had not made up your mind as to the amount ?—No.

43,133. Did you know what Mr. Pender's uncontested election cost on the Liberal side ?—It cost quite as much as the contested one.

43,134. Do you happen to know that it cost over 1,200*l.* ?—I saw it in the papers. The election was fought just the same as if they had gone to the poll.

43,135. How was that 1,000*l.* expended ?—285*l.* or 286*l.* was spent not legally.

43,136. How was it spent ?—Mr. Charles Michelmore had 120*l.* on account of expenses; Mr. Parnell had 25*l.* Of Mr. Michelmore's 120*l.* 30*l.* was for Shillibeer, 30*l.* was to Smaridge, and 60*l.* for Forde, now the boots at the "Seven Stars." Parnell's, I do not know who it was for.

43,137. Who else ?—Bourne 30*l.*; I think that was had for a man close to the bridge called "Tucker." Mr. Edmonds had 20*l.*

43,138. That is J. B. Prout's payments ?—Yes.

43,139. Was not this money paid at the time of the election ?—No.

43,140. Do you mean to say Prout had paid that 20*l.* without your authority to Edmonds ?—No, I am sure he did not.

43,141. Had you promised it ?—I promised it. I had not promised any amount. I told him he should be remembered.

43,142. Who else ?—There was a man you asked me about just now; he was offered money by the Conservative party.

43,143. He told you that ?—He told me.

43,144. He voted with the Liberals ?—He voted for Mr. Pender.

43,145. (Mr. Longe.) How did he vote in 1863 ?—In that year for Mr. Seymour.

43,146. (Mr. Coleridge.) Your general plan seems to be to pay after the election, and not before ?—Yes.

43,147. Does that not apply to the regular men only; when they are applied to on the other side they are paid at the time ?—Yes, sir. Then the next is Henry Michelmore, 12*l.* 6*s.*, that was for Jourdain; the cheque drawn was for 22*l.*, and the other was for something else. Next there is 25*l.* to Mr. Condy, that is a similar thing.

43,148. That would be payments to voters ?—Payments of some arrears at public-houses. Then a cheque to Searle, 50*l.*

43,149. Whose cheque was that ?—Our own cheque.

43,150. What was it for ?—I think a portion to a man called Angel.

43,151. Edward Angel or Thomas Angel ?—He is a tailor. I do not know what his christian name is.

43,152. Mr. Barrett, 3*l.* 10*s.* 0*d.* ?—That was money he expended, and I gave it to him again.

43,153. Then out of the 1,000*l.* there was only 286*l.* spent ?—Yes. Then there was other money spent besides that.

43,154. Do you know whether it came through Mr. Webber ?—It came through his hands.

43,155. Do you know the amount ?—500*l.*

43,156. Only 500*l.* ?—That is all.

43,157. Do you know where the amount came from ?—No. You know I do not.

43,158. Who told you that we knew ?—The solicitor who was down here a day or two ago.

THIRTY-SECOND DAY.

Mr. J. Michelmore.

25 Oct. 1866.

43,159. (Mr. Coleridge.) Mr. Seymour's solicitor?—I do not exactly know.

43,160. What is his name?—Mr. Burt.

43,161. (Mr. Bere.) How was that spent? Did you have any portion of that 500*l.* yourself?—No; the 500*l.* was paid, I think, through Mr. Charles Michelmore's hands. I think Mr. Webber paid 50*l.* or 60*l.*

43,162. Would that 500*l.* appear in your books at all?—No; it never came through our hands.

43,163. Did it come through Mr. Cuming's hands?—It came through Mr. Charles Michelmore.

43,164. Then it came into Mr. Webber's hands?—Yes.

43,165. And then do you know to whom it was paid over by Mr. Webber?—No.

43,166. All that 500*l.* was paid in bribery?—No.

43,167. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did Mr. Seymour know how that 500*l.* had come down?—No.

43,168. Not at the time?—No; not that I am aware of. It was only the other day that I knew myself.

43,169. (Mr. Longe.) Do you know when it came?—No.

43,170. (Mr. Coleridge.) How long before the election was Mr. Danby Seymour down here?—About a week.

43,171. And all through the time of the election itself he was here, was he not?—The nomination day.

43,172. And the election day?—Yes.

43,173. Did you hear him say anything about money being spent on the nomination day?—No.

43,174. About two o'clock in the day Mr. Seymour got very nervous about his election, through Mr. Brooking Cuming coming here?—Yes.

43,175. Things were not looking well?—The election was perfectly secure. There were two or three names he had not marked.

43,176. Did you hear Mr. Danby Seymour about two o'clock say that it was going against him and money must be spent?—No.

43,177. Did you hear him make any speech at the hustings?—No.

43,178. (Mr. Bere.) When did you first know the 500*l.* had come down?—About the time of the election.

43,179. Was it on the morning of the election you became aware of that?—I am not aware that it was.

43,180. Who told you?—Mr. Cuming.

43,181. Had you told Mr. Cuming that the 1,000*l.* would not be enough?—No.

43,182. Had he asked you how far the 1,000*l.* would go?—No. I was with my father then.

43,183. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you go to Mr. Pender about money at that election?—No.

43,184. (Mr. Longe.) Mr. Cuming knew you had 1,000*l.* for the election?—I am not sure that he did. I do not think it is likely that he did.

43,185. (Mr. Coleridge.) Mr. Cuming said he was the nominal head?—He was always thought so.

43,186. As long as there was a ducal party and an independent party, he was the head of the independent party?—Yes.

43,187. And when you were amalgamated together it was rather a divided empire?—Yes, it was.

43,188. He did not like to work under your firm, and your firm did not like to work under him?—Yes, I think that was about it.

43,189. (Mr. Bere.) Do I understand you positively to say that none of that 500*l.* came into your hands at all?—I cannot tell you whether it did or not.

43,190. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did some other money, if not that?—No. The only money I ever received of Mr. Seymour was the 1,000*l.*

43,191. But you cannot say whether any of that 500*l.* came into your hands?—No. Whether it did or not on the day of the election I cannot say. At one time I held some money in a bag down at the polling booth, which I gave back.

43,192. (Mr. Bere.) Where did you get that bag?—From Mr. Charles Michelmore.

43,193. Was it in gold?—Gold.

43,194. To whom did you give it back?—Either to Mr. Cuming or Mr. Michelmore.

43,195. Was that all you had to do with it?—Yes.

43,196. Did not you distribute that on the day of the election?—No, not a farthing.

43,197. Or promise anybody that they should be paid out of it?—No.

43,198. (Mr. Longe.) Was the 700*l.* of the 1,000*l.* kept back for any particular purpose?—700*l.*

43,199. There was 286*l.* which you have accounted for, and there was 700*l.* in your hands, while another 500*l.* was being spent?—No. The other money we paid the account with, the audit account.

43,200. At that time had you exhausted all that in payment of those expenses?—No. We paid 285*l.* out, which I described just now.

43,201. (Mr. Bere.) What my friend wishes to call your attention to is this, that you had promised 286*l.* in bribes?—Yes.

43,202. Therefore you might consider that 286*l.* spent?—Yes.

43,203. But all other expenses were not paid till after the election?—No.

43,204. Then why did you not pay, out of the 700*l.* in your hands, persons necessary to be bribed at that time? Why was it necessary to get 500*l.* elsewhere?—That I cannot tell you. I had nothing to do with getting the 500*l.* I never heard a syllable about it till the money was down.

43,205. (Mr. Coleridge.) You are aware the only legal expenses are those which are paid through the election agent?—Yes.

43,206. They only amount to 370*l.* 4*s.* 11*d.*?—Yes.

43,207. How did you account for the rest?—The bills are not returned to the auditors.

43,208. That must go among the legal expenses?—Yes; not bribery.

43,209. But you said bribery?—They are not bribery.

43,210. (Mr. Bere.) I think we had better go through this 700*l.* in the first place. "J. B. Prout, on account of election expenses." What was that for?—10*l.* I said just now.

43,211. 10*l.* was for some voter or another?—Yes.

43,212. That was Mr. Pender's voter?—Yes, and the other 10*l.* was paid to Mr. Prout during the three weeks at the "Seymour," and we had to send him out every day with ever so many papers to the electors. He had to buy stamps, and so on.

43,213. 10*l.* was paid for his services?—No, not for his services, money out of pocket.

43,214. That was in January 1863, before the election?—Yes, nearly three weeks.

43,215. That was paid at the time?—Yes.

43,216. Did Mr. Prout ever render you any account of what became of that money?—No, not any items at all.

43,217. You did not ask him?—No.

43,218. Both he and Mr. Callard were very active?—No.

43,219. Not particularly, not much more so than usual?—No, not particularly.

43,220. "John Elliott, on account of election expenses?"—I have a copy of that, if you will allow me to hand it up to you.

43,221. The first three items; 60*l.* out of the first 70*l.* belongs to Mr. Pender according to your account, 10*l.* to J. B. Prout on account of election expenses?—Yes.

43,222. 30*l.* to yourself?—That was to Mr. Charles Michelmore.

43,223. And cash paid Lake?—That was out of Mr. Pender's.

43,224. I say 60*l.* out of the first 70*l.*, the three items, and Mr. Pender's account?—Yes.

43,225. Then "February 2nd, John Elliott, on count of election expenses;" what was that ?—I do ot recollect what that was for.

43,226. Did Elliott ever give you any account of at ?—No, I think that must be 20*l.* in addition to e 285*l.* The next item is, James Shute 56*l.*, and u find further on James Shute 19*l.*, that was to ay for watchers, messengers, poll clerks, and so on, iring the election.

43,227. You charge Mr. Seymour 45*l.* 15*s.* 6*d.* for hute ?—Yes, that is in Mr. Seymour's account, the her part of the account was with the election ditors.

43,228. Then his name is not there ?—No ; it mes under the head of "watchers, messengers, poll erks," and so on.

43,229. Then there is Mr. Cuming, loan for ourne ?—Yes ; that was some money advanced to r. Cuming at that time, which was connected with r. Pender in this way—that Mr. Pender wrote to r. Cuming to lend a man of the name of Bourne 70*l.*, at was between Mr. Cuming and himself. I believe was understood that Bourne would repay that oney.

43,230. But he has not done so ?—No ; but Mr. ender understood that he would do so. Mr. Cuming d not complete the mortgage at that time.

43,231. You gave Henry Michelmore 300*l.* as ection auditor ?—Yes.

43,232. The next item is Prout, you have told us out that ?—Yes.

43,233. Then Mr. Windeatt 50*l.*, that was the lary for his services ?—Yes.

43,234. Then Sawyer 17*l.* 10*s.* 0*d.*; what was that r ?—That was a council election.

43,235. You have only charged Mr. Seymour l. 18*s.* 6*d.* for that ?—I think you will find that is xplained.

43,236. Then there is a person of the name of How own as for a loan ?—Yes ; that was done through Ir. Sawyer.

43,237. Who is Mr. Sawyer ?—He keeps the Castle Inn," at the other end of the town.

43,238. Did How vote at the council election ?—I ink not.

43,239. There is no date to How's repayment ?— was repaid.

43,240. Do you mean to say that Mr. Sawyer came own and asked you to lend Mr. Seymour's money to nyone ?—No ; not unless it is to be repaid. This as merely a cheque drawn in the matter of the ouncil election; they wanted 10*l.*, and I drew a heque and cashed the cheque at Mr. Sawyer's.

43,241. Then there is "Elford for the loss of a ow ?"—I think he lost two cows at that time. He ame to my father's and my father wrote to Mr. 'ender and Mr. Seymour asking them for some assist- nce on his behalf, and Mr. Pender wrote back and aid he would give him 10*l.*, and I think Mr. Seymour id likewise.

43,242. You have charged 100*l.* for your services ? Yes.

43,243. If you go on further in the account on the th of April there is, "John Tozer, a loan, and "John earle, half a year's rent agreed to be paid," is not hat amount charged twice ?—Yes ; but that has een deducted at the end of the first payment, a lot of hose items are ticked, and those which are ticked are leducted and carried to the other account.

43,244. You make Mr. Seymour's legitimate ex- enses 689*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.* ?—Yes.

43,245. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who is Mr. Probyn who vas mixed up with Mr. Seymour's election ?—I never eard the name before.

43,246. Here is a letter of Mr. Brooking Cuming, Mr. Rennie was here this morning. Mr. Probyn as relinquished all claim, and leaves us to-morrow." Do you know anything of a Mr. Probyn having been down here ?—No, I never heard his name mentioned efore.

43,247. Is this the first time you have heard it ?— es.

43,248. Had Mr. Brooking Cuming been making complaints that you or your father had not been active enough in making votes ?—They have found fault with us.

43,249. Had they done so about the time of Mr. Pender's election ?—Yes, I think they had.

43,250. That may account for this letter of Mr. Cuming's to Mr. Pender :

"Totnes, 20th January 1863.

"My dear sir,

"Great excitement here—two o'clock.

"Seymour 157.

"Dent 140.

"We must beat them—I will fill this up after four "o'clock. Majority 8 for Mr. Seymour. I am glad "we had not a larger majority ; it will make the "duke's agents make more votes." Had there been some disputes between your father and Mr. Brooking Cuming about the want of activity on the part of the duke's agents ?—They fancied we ought to make more use of the land.

43,251. Was it after these complaints about your not making more use of the duke's land that an agreement was come to between the duke's party and the Liberal party to amalgamate ?—I think it was not owing to that.

43,252. The amalgamation was in 1864 or in 1865 ? —In 1864.

43,253. And were the terms of that agreement that the duke should give up all claim to nominate a member, and that the expenses of the registration should be entirely kept out of his hands ?—I never heard anything about that; my father told me that the duke had given up all expenditure connected with the borough of Totnes.

43,254. And from that time he gave up all connexion with the registration ?—Yes.

43,255. You consider that the ducal party is extinct now that it is all one ?—It is all one.

43,256. (Mr. Bere.) Had you anything more to do with the election of 1863, except what you have told us, directly or indirectly ?—No.

43,257. Had Mrs. Michelmore anything to do with it ?—No.

43,258. She took a little interest in it ?—She is a Tory in her heart.

43,259. Did she take as much interest in it as Mrs. Charles Michelmore ?—No, she never interfered in any way.

43,260. Do you remember Mr. Moore being down in 1862 ?—Yes.

43,261. Was he here in 1863 ?—No, not in 1863.

43,262. Did he not come down here some time about the Prince of Wales' marriage ?—He came down here some time afterwards.

43,263. Had you conversation with him about the expenses of Mr. Seymour's election ?—No.

43,264. You expressed your opinion as to what it had cost ?—Yes, I think I did.

43,265. What was your opinion at that time ?—I think I said 1,500*l.*, or something like that.

43,266. A little more ?—I cannot say.

43,267. You have been in communication with Mr. Moore ?—No.

43,268. Had he written to you ?—No ; the second time he came down here he stayed at my house.

43,269. You had conversations with him frequently on the subject of the election ?—Yes.

43,270. He is dead, is he not ?—Yes.

43,271. You wrote to him when he was in London about Mr. Seymour's election ?—No ; I never recollect writing any letter to him at all.

43,272. Was Baron Rothschild down here with Mr. Seymour ?—I think he rode over with him once from Torquay.

43,273. Whom did you think at that time the money came from ?—Mr. Seymour.

43,274. Mr. Seymour himself ?—Yes.

THIRTY-SECOND DAY.

Mr. J. Michelmore.

25 Oct. 1866.

43,275. Had not you told Mr. Moore that it came from Baron Rothschild ?—No, never.

43,276. Or given him to understand it ?—No, never.

43,277. This is a letter to which I will call your attention, in which Mr. Moore expresses his opinion to Mr. Pender, after giving an account of what he imagines Mr. Dent's election costs were : "The "Michelmores and Cuming set down the two elec- "tions as having cost him to the full 15,000*l.*, a very "pretty sum to get rid of for nothing." Is that your opinion now that Mr. Dent did spend that ?—Yes.

43,278. "A very pretty sum to get rid of for nothing. "Seymour's will have cost in what you may call secret "service, not much short of 2,000*l.*, and in legitimate "expenses, hotel, &c., say 700*l.* to 800*l.*" That is written from Totnes whilst Mr. Moore was staying at your house ?—Yes ; I recollect Mr. Moore expressing that opinion as to Mr. Seymour's costs, and I told him it was not the case.

43,279. It was not so much ?—Not so much.

43,280. Had Mr. Moore written to you at all about the election ?—No ; I had nothing whatever to do with Mr. Moore. He was here, and I believe every evening he made a lecture during the time he was here.

43,281. I mean during the time of Mr. Seymour's election had he communicated with you ?—No.

43,282. (Mr. Coleridge.) What was he ?—A barrister.

43,283. Of the English or the Irish bar ?—I do not know. I do not think he had practised at the bar for some years.

43,284. (Mr. Bere.) Did you know of anybody being down at Mr. Seymour's election to help him ?—Mr. Sandford was.

43,285. Was Mr. Delane, of the "Times ?"—He rode up from Torquay one day with another gentleman. I never saw him.

43,286. Do you know yourself whether, with regard to that election, Mr. Seymour was in communication with Mr. Pender ?—No.

43,287. He was not ?—I do not know whether he was or not. I never heard him say anything about it.

43,288. This is from the letter : "I learnt last "evening from Mr. Michelmore that the expenses of "Mr. Seymour's election do not exceed 1,500*l.*, of "which 1,000*l.* for hotel and legitimate expenses. "He says, if there be an election on this register both "Liberals are safe, and both will be returned for very "little more than the above. He says also that about "30 of the duke's Tory tenants have bolted at this last "election, and Dent, having done all that money can "do, at the next election both candidates will in fact "have all the duke's influence." Was that opinion which was intimated, Mr. Moore to Mr. Pender, derived from any opinion of yours in conversations with him ?—As to the 1,500*l.*; but I do not recollect anything about the duke's influence, or anything of that sort.

43,289. (Mr. Longe.) Do you know what that passage means, "30 of the duke's Tory tenants have "bolted at this last election, and Dent having done "all that money can do, at the next election both the "candidates will in fact have all the duke's in- "fluence."—I do not understand anything of it. 30 of the duke's tenantry had bolted ?

43,290. "About 30 of the duke's tenants have bolted at this last election ?"—He had not 30 Tory tenants in the place, or anything like it.

43,291. (Mr. Bere.) It may have referred to the men who had been tenants of the duke's, who voted against you ?—There were not 30.

43,292. Only 11 or 12, I think ?—Yes.

43,293. Do you know Mr. Moore's handwriting ?—No ; I know the signature.

43,294. Is that his signature (handing the letter) ?—Yes, that is his signature.

43,295. (Mr. Longe.) Does not the letter mean that your register would be clean by the next election ?—No.

43,296. That those voters would be removed ?—No ; I am sure that if I had any intention of doing it should not express that opinion to Mr. Moore.

43,297. (Mr. Coleridge.) You did not trust him enough ?—No.

43,298. (Mr. Bere.) Those 12 received notice immediately after ?—Yes.

43,299. And they had all voted before that ?—Yes.

43,300. (Mr. Longe.) At the election of 1859 do you know how many of the Bridgetown voters, tenants of the duke, split their votes and voted for Dunn ?—No.

43,301. I think there were some who split ?—We had some tenants who always supported the Conservatives. We never make any difference, or think of asking the question, whether Liberals or Conservatives.

43,302. In 1859, among the tenants of the duke, was there any men besides Mr. Kellock who plumped for the Conservatives ?—I cannot tell you ; those are all tenants of the duke that are marked off ; how they voted I do not know.

43,303. (Mr. Coleridge.) He had notice to quit after the election ?—Yes, but it had nothing to do with the election.

43,304. I suppose the others had not ?—Oh, yes, they had ; we do not disguise it ; they had notice to quit not only for taking money, but also for trying to corrupt the other men, and by forming clubs and getting them together.

43,305. (Mr. Longe.) When was Mr. Heath a tenant ?—He has been a tenant twice ; I think the last time he was tenant of the rectory up here, and then Sharpe took it off.

43,306. When was it that he had notice and was turned out ?—Many years back ; he has been tenant off and on up to the time of Mr. Sharpe, and then Mr. Heath, when this hotel was erected, wanted to take the hotel.

43,307. This "Seymour Hotel ?"—Yes, and my father refused to take him, and then he turned round and was as bitter as possible against us, and has continued so ever since. There is never a public dinner he goes to but he makes it a point to get up and propose the duke's health, and directly there comes an election he turns round upon us.

43,308. (Mr. Coleridge.) What do you say was the name of the boots at the "Stars" who has got 60*l.* ?—William Ford, of Bridgetown.

43,309. (Mr. Bere.) When did you first communicate with Mr. Seymour the fact that 500*l.* had been used for the election ?—Not for some time afterwards.

43,310. Not until after the election ?—Yes.

43,311. Quite sure ?—Yes.

43,312. Not during the election ?—No.

43,313. What passed between you and him when you told him that ?—I said in conversation that 500*l.* had been sent down, and I supposed that he had paid it.

43,314. Did you say "I suppose you paid it ?"—No, I did not say it in that way, and I spoke to him in the way as if he had paid it.

43,315. What answer did he make to that ?—He said he knew nothing about it.

43,316. In spite of that you still thought he did know ?—No.

43,317. I thought you told me the other day that you learned it was not Mr. Seymour's money ?—That is 12 months since.

43,318. Did you learn whose money it was ?—No ; I can show you correspondence ; I have been trying to find out and cannot.

43,319. With whom have you been in correspondence ?—I wrote in the first place to Messrs. Green and Allen, and they could not tell me, and I wrote to Mrs. Cuming to ask if she could find out through her husband, and she could not tell me.

43,320. Did your father take any active part in the election of 1863 ?—Yes.

43,321. You were the head agent ?—No.

43,322. Mr. Seymour said you were ?—That is istake. Up to the time of my father's death I acted nder his instructions.

43,323. You did not go over night and ask your ther what you were to do the next day?—No, but a general rule my father was the person first con-lted.

43,324. You would consult him as an adviser?—es, being my father, I should be sorry to do anything connexion with politics that he would not approve .

43,325. All that you know about the election of 63 you have told us?—Yes.

43,326. Do you remember a meeting between Mr. ender and Mr. Seymour in 1863?—That is the meet-g I stated I came in at the end of.

43,327. Did you hear then the sum that the election the two candidates would cost?—2,000*l.*

43,328. To whom did you let the properties from hich these persons were evicted in 1863. But first ere is no doubt about this, that the reason why these rsons had notice was because they voted for Mr. ent and not for Mr. Seymour?—It was not for the ere fact that they voted against Seymour, but they rmed clubs amongst themselves and tried to corrupt her voters.

43,329. What do you mean?—They got three or ur together and met at public-houses, and tried to rrupt others.

43,330. Who joined themselves together; take ose 12 men (referring)?—Edward Turpin, Thomas lackler, Thomas Mitchell, and John Briggs.

43,331. Where was the place they met at at that me?—One house or the other.

43,332. How did they attempt to corrupt others?—y going and saying that others would take so much oney, and that they were fools not to take it them-lves.

43,333. Can you mention the names of some of em?—I cannot name them. Thomas Mitchell was ne of the most prominent.

43,334. (Mr. Longe.) Have you said that all those en took money?—Yes, without the slightest doubt.

43,335. Did you know it?—I stated to-day that I uld not actually tell whether they received the oney.

43,336. What reason had you for saying that they ceived money?—The way they went to work. hen we canvassed them these men promised almost a man to vote for Mr. Seymour.

43,337. Those very men?—Yes.

43,338. (Mr. Coleridge.) Those that did not pro-ise to vote for Mr. Seymour?—They were not rned out, except W. K. Hannaford.

43,339. Why was he turned out?—He has not been ving here. His wife has been living here. He was ving at Plymouth, and we wished to have a house.

43,340. If he had voted right you would not have rned him out?—We wanted to have a house.

43,341. To have somebody in it who would vote for our side?—Yes.

43,342. James Penwill?—Yes, he voted against us. e promised to vote for Mr. Seymour. He voted late the afternoon. I was with my father. We met enwill on the Plains. He came up and said to my ther he was sorry that he could not fulfil his pro-ise. While we were talking to Penwill Mr. Kellock me down. He said, "I have no hesitation in saying that I have told Penwill that if he votes against us I shall turn him out of his gardens and ground." enwill had been a tenant of the duke for years; and en Penwill told us he would rather give up his field an hold it in that way.

43,343. He did not?—He gave notice.

43,344. He did not receive money?—There was an derstanding with him that he wished to give up is field.

43,345. Did he ask you to turn him out?—He poke in this way, as renting under Mr. Kellock.

43,346. Did he wish to be turned out of the duke's ield?—Yes.

43,347. He asked you to turn him out?—He told us that he wished to give up the field.

43,348. Because he understood he could not hold and vote on the other side?—No, nothing of that was said.

43,349. For what reason did he wish to give up the field?—On the principle that he could not please two masters. Mr. Kellock's fields were the principal, they were market gardens and he is a market gardener.

43,350. If he disobeyed Mr. Kellock he would be turned out of the land he held?—It was not understood, but he did not wish to hold under the duke.

43,351. He did not wish to keep his field?—No; by taking those fields we put other men in who are perfectly secure.

43,352. What security had you that a man would vote according to the way you wished?—We have no security more than his word. We have no difficulty in letting all the lands in this borough to persons who are Liberal at heart. We have no difficulty, and if a man says, when he takes the field, that he will support the Liberal party, and if he votes against us for money, we take the field from him.

43,353. Do you assume that he receives money because he votes the other way?—If he says he will support the party when he takes the field, we expect him to.

43,354. Does he say that because he cannot get put out?—We can get plenty of tenants who will do it.

43,355. (Mr. Longe.) In the case of land it is taken on the understanding that they will vote for the Liberal party?—Yes.

43,356. Having taken the land, if a tenant does not vote he is evicted?—Yes.

43,357. Independently of the suspicion that he has taken money?—Yes.

43,358. (Mr. Coleridge.) In the answer you have just given with reference to the letting land on that understanding, have you those instructions from the duke to do so?—No.

43,359. Do you do it on your own account?—Yes.

43,360. Do you take upon yourself those extraordinary instructions in letting the land?—My father did.

43,361. You were a partner with your father?—Yes.

43,362. (Mr. Bere.) Is the money paid in to your joint account?—But when my father died I had to have an appointment for every one of my stewardships.

43,363. (Mr. Coleridge.) It is usual in stewardships for one of the persons to act, and one person to take the whole control of it?—No; in the case of my brother, who died in 1858, he was joint steward with my father.

43,364. You never were joint steward?—No.

43,365. Is it not a common thing for one to take the whole profits and act for one party?—It is not in my case.

43,366. (Mr. Bere.) You have marked 53 Bridgetown voters, tenants of the duke?—Yes.

43,367. Of those 53 in 1859 how many would be persons holding land on those terms?—None of the Bridgetown side.

43,368. Bridgetown voters, what is the difference?—The Bridgetown land has gone from father to son for years with very little change indeed.

43,369. Small tenancies?—Yes, and we have had very few changes.

43,370. Where do those 12 men get their votes?—They were in houses.

43,371. I do not mean Berry Pomeroy farms?—If a man carries out his politics conscientiously we do not interfere with him.

43,372. Could you point out any tenant householder who supported the Conservatives?—Yes, Mr. Winter.

43,373. In 1859?—I cannot tell, but he has always supported the Conservative party, J. L. Winter.

43,374. He is not in Bridgetown?—I do not know whether he was on the 1859 list or not; but we have Mr. Edmonds's brother-in-law a tenant, and we did not ask him how he would vote.

THIRTY-SECOND DAY.

Mr. J. Michelmore.

25 Oct. 1866.

43,375. Is there any tenant of the duke who did not vote for Lord Gifford in 1859, with the exception of Kellock, who was turned out?—No, I do not see any.

43,376. Of all those persons who were evicted in 1863 and 1864, were any of those householders?—Turpin was a householder. Five of those parties had houses.

43,377. In Bridgetown?—Yes.

43,378. Do you know what their tenancies were?—Yearly tenancies.

43,379. Small cottages?—No, a row of houses here, not cottages.

43,380. Those persons have not taken their houses on those terms?—No.

43,381. They had not been asked when they took their houses whether they would vote for the duke?—No, not to my knowledge.

43,382. Have you ever let a house yourself without inquiring into the politics?—Yes.

43,383. Houses in considerable demand, 12*l.* and 14*l.* a year?—I never asked the question, house, cottage, or any kind of house.

43,384. (Mr. Coleridge.) Has the duke ever made any observation about the frequent changes of tenants at election times?—No; there are very few changes.

43,385. You have had a great many changes?—We have added names.

43,386. When you turned out a batch of people after an election, has the duke made any observation to you about it?—No.

43,387. Never made any observation about his own tenants?—No.

43,388. Is the whole thing left to you?—Yes.

43,389. (Mr. Bere.) Do you send in detailed accounts?—We send in a copy of what you have there.

43,390. After the election?—We send up twice a year generally.

43,391. Does he make any observation why a tenant has left the farm or the house?

(Mr. Longe.) Are all those notices in your memorandum book?—No.

43,392. (Mr. Coleridge.) Whatever entries there are must be known to you?—I have known it, of course.

43,393. Where has the duke the book sent to?—London or anywhere.

43,394. Do you know the number of householders that are tenants of the duke?—I cannot say.

43,395. (Mr. Bere.) As far as you are concerned you know nothing at all about these 12 individuals being turned out after 1863?—Nothing more than I have told you.

43,396. If there was a change of that kind you would not inquire about it?—No.

43,397. (Mr. Longe.) From what you understood you would be surprised if the duke disapproved of that?—We had to send the entries of that. The property was under my father's charge to do what he considered best for the property. I know that there is a great dislike to a man who tries to corrupt his brother tenants.

43,398. You have gone according to precedent?—Yes.

43,399. (Mr. Coleridge.) When were you appointed steward?—In May.

43,400. What were the instructions?—Nothing more than to take my father's house, and take the stewardship.

43,401. What were the instructions that your father received?—To manage it properly.

43,402. Politically?—Nothing said about politics, but to carry out everything which was to be considered for the advantage of the property.

43,403. How long did your father have it? When was he appointed?—I can hardly tell you.

43,404. 20 years?—More than that.

43,405. Did he tell you the terms under which he was put in under the Duke of Somerset?—No.

43,406. How did you know what the duties were?—We carry out certain duties in connexion with the property; we manage it as best we can.

43,407. Have you carried out your duties in any other estate in the same way as you have done in this, in creating votes?—We had none.

43,408. At Ashburton?—We had created votes in Ashburton.

43,409. Had you not created them there against your employer's interest?—We did ultimately. Our landlord was, in the first place, on the other side.

43,410. Whom did you say that you are steward to besides?—Lord Macclesfield at Buckfastleigh.

43,411. How many votes did you make out in Ashburton?—That depends on the building and the qualification. If we had put up buildings in all we could have made a great number.

43,412. How many did you make on Lord Cranstoun's property?—As many as eight.

43,413. Were those votes made after the election or before?—Before, I think.

43,414. Was that Mr. Tucker's dodge in the first instance?—The company.

43,415. How many votes did you find upon Gerston?—I cannot answer that question.

43,416. How many have you made since?—We have made very few indeed. At the present time we have only three voters in the whole of the property.

43,417. You have failed in that?—We have not succeeded from first to last.

43,418. (Mr. Bere.) You said you let the house irrespective of politics. Is there a great demand for small houses in Totnes?—Yes.

43,419. It is not difficult to get a tenant?—No.

43,420. Is there any species of letting property for which there is not a great demand?—In larger houses there is, and greater difficulties.

43,421. Are not all those persons you mentioned as being Conservative tenants of houses, are they not all occupiers of large houses?—No; Winter is the occupier of a 12*l.* house.

43,422. He has not exercised his right?—Yes, two or three times; he voted for Mr. Dent twice.

43,423. What is Winter?—He is a clerk and accountant.

43,424. Is that Mr. Edmonds' brother-in-law that you spoke of?—No, he has been away.

43,425. What is his name?—Pige.

43,426. Has he been objected to?—I cannot tell; if he has been objected to, it was on our side.

43,427. You know nothing more than what you have told us about the election of 1863?—No.

43,428. Did not you send a man to see a voter named Pengilley?—No.

43,429. Did you not send your clerk to Martin?—No.

43,430. Did you have a conversation with Prout or Callard about Pengilley?—No.

43,431. Never at any time?—No.

43,432. Do you know a person of the name of Warren?—Yes; that is the man behind the walls.

43,433. He is dead now?—Yes; I never sent any person to him.

43,434. Did you ever go yourself?—No.

43,435. Did you not offer him some money in 1863?—No.

43,436. Are you quite sure of that?—Yes.

43,437. Do you know Baker?—I do not think he had a vote in 1863.

43,438. Did you not send Baker to Nickells to get Nickells' vote?—No; I do not know Baker to speak to.

43,439. Nickells has said that you sent Baker; that is not correct?—It is not correct.

43,440. Did you ever go and canvass Woodley?—I have canvassed him; I never asked him more than that; he was an out-and-out Conservative and an active partisan.

43,441. You helped to get a place for the son of Mr. Evens?—No, I had nothing to do with that; that was done by Mr. Seymour. I am willing to give you every possible information, and have no wish to keep back anything.

43,442. From that time until 1865 you were in onstant communication with Mr. Seymour ?—Yes.

43,443. You had the distribution of all the patro-age ?—Yes.

43,444. And the payment of all his subscriptions ? -Yes.

43,445. You acted from that period as his sole gent ?—It went through the office.

43,446. But you were the active person ?—Yes.

43,447. When he came in 1865 you acted as his gent ?—Yes, I did.

43,448. What sum did he bring down in 1865 ?— 00*l.*

43,449. How did that come here ?—It was remitted our County Bank; it is entered in folios 127 and 28.

43,450. That is a separate account ?—Yes; you will nd the balances are all brought down there.

43,451. How much more money was spent by r. Seymour besides that 500*l.* ?—Nothing on his count.

43,452. How much money had you the distribution on anyone's account ?—Only this 500*l.*

43,453. Had you no other money to distribute ?— ot a farthing.

43,454. Had you nothing to do at the last election ith any of Mr. Pender's money ?—Nothing at all.

43,455. Or did you know anything about it ?—No.

43,456. This is a statement of account of the way in hich you spent the 500*l.* ?—Yes.

43,457. Henry Michelmore, 115*l.*; what is that for? I can give you the particulars of that; 40*l.* I gave my brother as a cheque to get cashed for me, and hich was given to Tozer, in Bridgetown; 40*l.* to homas Pack; 10*l.* which Mr. Seymour had in cash he was going away; 5*l.* which Elliott the carpenter id on the day of the election; 10*l.* which Mrs. Charles ichelmore had.

43,458. Who gave her that ?—I sent it to her. 10*l.* Mr. Harvey had to give a man of the name of outhwood, a tenant of Mr. Durant's, and he voted ainst Pender and Seymour. It is only a few days ice I saw Mr. Harvey, and he had not paid the 10*l.*

43,459. He had put it into his pocket ?—No, he is ing to refund it.

43,460. The whole of that was spent in bribery ?— ; I gave Mr. Seymour 10*l.* and Mrs. Charles ichelmore 10*l.*

43,461. Mrs. Michelmore says she gave it to Deane his travelling expenses ?—I do not know anything out that.

43,462. Did you pay all this money yourself ?—I id not. Elliott's money was given to the father to ve to the son. Tozer said that his father-in-law, mbardini, had had so much money left at his house r his vote, and that if money was offered him he uld not refuse it, and that unless our party would ve him something he should vote against us. ooner than lose the man I gave him 40*l.* Pack's oney was given to William Perrott, and I do not ink Pack knew anything about it at the time; he d voted long before the money was paid.

43,463. You drew a cheque for your brother ?— es; he got it cashed and gave me the money.

43,464. Endle, travelling expenses from New-stle ?—Yes; that was 20*l.* for travelling expenses m Newcastle; he has a business there. They ve this town in the beginning of May and take all eir cyder to Newcastle. During the time they are ere the cyder is working, and if they have to leave, ey must appoint a deputy who thoroughly under-ands it.

43,465. Servants at the hotel, 20*l.* 12*s.* 0*d.* Does t that come into the usual charges ?—No, the ser-nts are extra. In that amount there is 6*l.* included id to Light, a blacksmith, for some stoves which Mr. ymour bought of him in 1863; and 3*l.* 2*s.* 0*d.* paid Dennis for carriage hire. A night or two before e election he said he must have the mouey.

43,466. Is that the Dennis of whom the fish was ught ?—Yes.

43,467. You paid Dennis for the salmon ?—I did not. Prout, my clerk, paid him.

43,468. Did you talk with Dennis about his vote ? —Yes.

43,469. What did you say to him ?—I told him that he should be remembered. I did not mention any sum.

43,470. James Shore, travelling expenses, 4*l.* ?— He came from Matlock, in Derbyshire.

43,471. Servant at the "Seymour Hotel," 2*l.*— That was the cook who had been omitted.

43,472. You gave Mr. Charles Michelmore 25 guineas ?—Yes.

43,473. (Mr. Coleridge.) Is it usual to pay the cook at an hotel ?—I paid all the other servants; the cook was not then present.

43,474. Did you ever hear before of a cook being paid ?—No; I was requested to treat the servants handsomely, and I did so. She had a great deal of trouble.

43,475. Had her husband a vote ?—No.

43,476. (Mr. Bere.) The next item is 117*l.* ?— That is the auditor's expenses.

43,477. S. Parnell, a loan ?—25*l.* He came one morning and asked me to lend him 25*l.*, which I did. He tells me that is to be repaid.

43,478. What shall you do when it is repaid ?— Carry it to this side of the account.

43,479. W. Windeatt, a loan ?—That is the old gentleman.

43,480. He was your paid agent ?—I never got any explanation about it. The money was advanced when he was going to London about the registration expenses.

43,481. Was the money paid by you by cheque ?— Yes.

43,482. He was not going to London on the 7th of October ?—I think it was paid by cheque, I cannot recollect.

43,483. The next is T. White Windeatt ?—That is for assistance during the election; he canvassed the whole time, and assisted greatly.

43,484. Who is R. Jackson, 10*l.* ?—A carpenter at Buckfastleigh who was very much tempted to vote against us by Captain Pim himself. He went out and saw him on the morning of the election and said, if he would ride in the carriage with him Mr. Edmonds would give him anything he liked to ask for. Some time after the election Mr. Hamlyn said he ought to be remembered, and I gave Mr. Hamlyn 10*l.* to give to him after Mr. Windeatt's death.

43,485. J. Green, railway fare, 5*s.* ?—He is a voter; he came to me one day before he went to London, on the petition, and said he wanted to go to Plymouth and had not the money to pay his fare, and I let him have 5*s.*; it had nothing to do with the election.

43,486. Mrs. Beazley, private hotel account, 40*l.* ?— That is Mr. Seymour's private account.

43,487. You have charged him with 133*l.* on other persons' account; I suppose that was the division of the account unpaid at the time of the petition ?—Yes.

43,488. Was that divided at your suggestion amongst other people ?—No; it was divided at Mr. Windeatt's suggestion. The instructions were given to Mrs. Beazley at the time that nothing was to be charged to Mr. Seymour unless he ordered it himself.

43,489. There was a well-understood arrangement that anyone who came in had what they liked, and Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour would pay for it if there was no fuss about it ?—It was not so understood.

43,490. It had always been so done before ?—It had been so done before.

43,491. Do you know of any other money coming into Totnes during the election for Mr. Seymour ?— No.

43,492. No other money came to your hands ?—No a farthing.

43,493. Was that the only sum that Elliott had from you ?—Yes.

THIRTY SECOND DAY.

Mr. J. Michelmore.

25 Oct. 1866.

43,494. Have Prout or Callard ever had money from you to give to voters ?—No.

43,495. Have either of them the power to draw cheques ?—No.

43,496. Not even at election times ?—No, not at any time.

43,497. Was Prout employed at the second election? —He was here only two or three days.

43,498. Who paid him, you or Mr. Cuming ?—I paid him.

43,499. Was he ever employed by Mr. Windeatt or Mr. Cuming ?—No.

43,500. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was Mr. Tucker over here at the last election ?—He came over in the afternoon of the nomination day with Mr. Jardine.

43,501. What brought them here ?—I cannot tell you that. I have heard it reported that he brought money here to pay Mr. Seymour's expenses, but that is not true; Mr. Jardine was anxious to see how the election was going on; he had as many as 20 voters in this neighbourhood.

43,502. Did you ever hear of his offering any money to Mr. Danby Seymour ?—He was not here at the last election, at least I think he was not.

43,503. (Mr. Bere.) Besides those whom you have mentioned did you not hold out inducements to others, did you not see Thomas Blackler ?—The stonemason ?

43,504. Yes, the same.—I saw him, but I never held out any inducement to him ; the moment I saw him he began abusing me.

43,505. Did you not try to get over his abuse ?—No ; I stood outside the door; Mr. Seymour canvassed him. I did not go in.

43,506. You did go and call on Blackler with Mr. Seymour ?—No, we saw him at Farley's, the tailor's.

43,507. Farley is his son-in-law ?—Yes.

43,508. This question was put to Blackler, "Did "not he tell you you would lose your stores ?—No ; I "was out of the stores before that election. I told Mr. "Seymour I would not vote for him because I was "turned out of the stores ?"—Yes, that is quite right.

43,509. He says, "I cannot help that," and Mr. Michelmore was there, and I said that Mr. Michelmore could if he had liked, and he said, "My back is "pretty broad ; it will take a good piece of cloth to "make me a coat. That was in my son-in-law's shop, "who is a tailor. Mr. Jeffery Michelmore, not the "old gentleman. That is the words that passed be-"tween us." Did anything of that sort pass between you ?—I think it did. I do not recollect the large piece of cloth to make me a coat, but I recollect saying my back is very broad. I was accustomed to such things.

43,510. Did not you see Smaridge in 1865 ?—No.

43,511. Just think.—I am not sure about Smaridge whether I saw him or not. I know he was not at home when we got to his house.

43,512. Did not Mr. Jeffery Michelmore say if you voted for him he would make it all right this time ? And the answer is, "I think he did ?"—I will tell you that Mr. Charles Michelmore had 60*l.* to pay into the hands of Smaridge and Shillabeer. They said they did not receive the money. I told Shillabeer. I do not recollect about Smaridge. I was very sorry, and said that it should be all right.

43,513. Did you give William Mitchell notice to quit after that election of 1865 ?—I think I did.

43,514. What for ?—He was very abusive to me.

43,515. He had voted the wrong way, I suppose ?—He always did.

43,516. How long had he been a voter ?—I think he had been a voter some years on that property. I do not know how long. The property has only lately come under me ; it does not belong to the duke.

43,517. To whom does it belong ?—Philip Michelmore, a cousin of mine.

43,518. Is he the same way of thinking in politics as you are ?—Yes ; he never had a vote.

43,519. (Mr. Coleridge.) Has he a vote for the county ?—I do not think he ever voted for the county. He has a vote for the county, of course.

43,520. (Mr. Bere.) Had not you something to do with Charles Pengilley ?—No ; that is the young one.

43,521. Yes ?—No ; the only thing I had to do with him was this, on the day of the election, if he is the son of the other man, he came down to me and said the other party had threatened to turn his father out of the house, and I said, "Do not you be alarmed "at anything of that kind. If they turn you out I "will find you a house."

43,522. Had not you told Pengilley to go down and see Bovey ?—No.

43,523. Did not you tell him to go and see Bovey because you could not go yourself, because they were keeping too sharp a look out on the other side ?—No.

43,524. Are you quite sure ?—Yes. I never gave him a thought. When we first canvassed him he said he should not vote for us, and I never gave him a thought afterwards.

43,525. Did not you ever authorize Pengilley to offer him any money whatsoever ?—No.

43,526. Of these 12 men who voted against you in 1863, how many of them voted for you in 1865 ?—(Referring to a paper.) Byne, that is all.

43,527. How did you get hold of Byne ?—I do not know at all how he was got hold of.

43,528. I think you know how it was arranged with him ?—No, I do not.

43,529. What lease has he ?—Of the field, a yearly tenancy.

43,530. When did he become a yearly tenant ?—It must have been the Lady-day nearly twelve months after the election.

43,531. Lady-day 1866 ?—It was only recently that would be the probable time of that, Lady-day 1866. I do not think he actually became tenant; he came into some field that a man named Adams rented, and he took off Adams' lease.

43,532. Did not you let him off the rent between Michaelmas and Christmas ?—No.

43,533. Did you let Adams back that rent ?—No.

43,534. What was the reason ?—Adams gave up the field. He used to keep some cows and that, and he gave up keeping them. He had some more land belonging to Mr. Amery at the top of the hill. He now has a small field.

43,535. Byne had land from the other side ?—Yes.

43,536. Had he notice to leave that ?—I do not know, he is out of the land now.

43,537. You know that he had ?—No, I do not; I had nothing to do with the other side at all.

43,538. Did not he come and tell you that he had been turned out of his land by the Conservatives, and that you ought to give him some ?—He had the land when he was turned out.

43,539. When did he have your land ?—I could look at the Lady-day rental and tell you.

43,540. Is Adams a Lady-day tenant ?—Yes.

43,541. Did he give it up then ?—Yes.

43,542. Now had not Wm. Byne come to you before the election and asked you for some land ?—No.

43,543. Or your father ?—Not that I know of to my father.

43,544. How much does Wm. Byne rent now ?—He has two fields, 9 acres altogether.

43,545. What does he give for them ?—17*l.* the one and 16*l.* the other.

43,546. That is 33*l.* altogether ?—Yes, and that there is an understanding that next Lady-day his rent is to be increased.

43,547. Was there anyone else in the market for that field ?—Adams' field ?

43,548. Yes.—No.

43,549. Did nobody else come to you and offer a larger rent ?—No one.

43,550. Do I understand there was no inducement to Wm. Byne to vote on your side, by giving him land —Not by me.

43,551. By any person about whom you know ?—No, I do not think so ; no one with my authority.

43,552. Did you know that land had been offered to Wm. Byne ?—No, I did not.

43,553. Are you quite certain you had no conversation with Wm. Byne before the election of 1865 about the land ?—I do not think he was at home when we canvassed him, if I recollect right.

43,554. But any time before the election ?—I saw him after he had voted on the Plains.

43,555. What did he say ?—He merely told me how he had voted.

43,556. Did not he say something then ?—He said, "If I am turned out you must remember me."

43,557. And you said you would ?—Yes, but no inducement to vote.

43,558. Had he seen either of your clerks, Prout or Callard ?—No.

43,559. To your knowledge ?—No ; I have made up my mind to tell you everything I know.

43,560. Do you remember something happening about a man called Robert Mogridge at the last election ?—I recollect what he stated in London ; it was perfectly untrue my meeting him at Plymouth and asking him what his price was, and told him to go to Turpin. I never told him.

43,561. It is untrue that you told him to go to Turpin ?—Yes.

43,562. You knew nothing about his going up with Mr. Chaster to Turpin's house ?—No, I never saw Turpin about it.

43,563. Is it all untrue ?—About his going to the house ?

43,564. About his going to the house ?—I do not know.

43,565. Had you seen Turpin about the matter ?—No.

43,566. Or other voters ?—No.

43,567. None at all ?—No.

43,568. Had you given Turpin any money ?—No.

43,569. Or talked to Turpin about voters he might influence ?—No.

43,570. Nothing of the kind ?—Nothing of the kind.

43,571. Had you had nothing to do with Mr. Edmonds in 1865 ?—I do not think he was about then.

43,572. Is that all you know about the election of 1865 ?—Yes.

43,573. You have told us all ?—Yes.

43,574. You have neither directly or indirectly had anything to do with influencing any voter for his vote excepting what you have told us ?—No.

43,575. Neither directly nor indirectly ?—No.

43,576. At that time, when you went round among the voters, did you find any hesitation among your Bridgetown people in promising ?—No, not the slightest.

43,577. Did you find there was any hesitation among the persons whose property has been recently acquired in Totnes, the Gerston property ?—There were only three or four voters.

43,578. (Mr. Coleridge.) Then you say it was after your father came back from having been over to Stover to see the duke that the parties came together as one ?—Yes.

43,579. That was in 1864 ?—At the end of 1863.

43,580. Did your father know what he was going to Stover about at that time ?—No ; he went over on general business ; he had not seen the duke for a long time.

43,581. Had there been any conversation with the duke on the subject ?—No.

43,582. Did your father tell you what had taken place ?—He told me when he came back that the duke had given up the idea of any expenditure with regard to the borough.

43,583. From that time you date what you may call the fusion of the ducal party, and the independent Liberal party into one ?—Yes.

43,584. And since that time the duke has taken no interest whatever ?—No.

43,585. Did not he in 1865 ?—No, not the slightest.

43,586. You and your father as his agent went on pursuing the same course after he had ceased to take any interest as you did before ?—Yes.

43,587. And things went on just the same, with the exception of the duke's payment to the registration ?—I do not think there was any difference.

43,588. When the general election came, Mr. Seymour and Mr. Pender stood upon what we may call equal interests ?—Yes.

43,589. And there was no pressure put upon the duke's tenants to vote for Mr. Seymour in preference to Mr. Pender, in the event of splitting with the Conservatives ?—No.

43,590. Your functions ceased at that interview between your father and the duke at Stover ?—Yes.

43,591. I suppose that is what is referred to by Mr. Chaster about that time saying that the proposal coming from the duke was so unexpected, and at any of the ensuing elections it might not be necessary to have separate committees ?—I cannot say ; it is what, according to the context, might be the meaning.

43,592. (Mr. Bere.) You are really about the only person who could give us any specific information about the creation of votes for the borough of Totnes. Can you tell us when you first heard of the creation of faggot votes ?—It was before my time.

43,593. Before your time ?—Yes.

43,594. What do you call the commencement of your time ?—In 1859.

43,595. I do not mean the election matters, but about the creation of votes ?—I was home very little then.

43,596. You did not know much about Totnes then ?—No.

43,597. Then a great many were created when you came to live at Totnes ?—They were created in this way, the farmers in the adjoining parishes and the neighbourhood took the fields.

43,598. That is not the particular arrangement ?—You are alluding to the companies.

43,599. Beginning with the companies.—That is a very recent matter.

43,600. When were they first started ?—They were not started in 1863 ; since then.

43,601. They were started in 1864, were they not ?—Something like that.

43,602. They were started early enough in 1863 to enable them to have a qualification in 1864 ?—No, I do not think they were. They were started in 1864 to enable them to have a qualification in 1865.

43,603. For instance, we will take Mrs. Beazley's field. What is the name of that ?—There were four fields.

43,604. How many acres ?—14 or 15 acres.

43,605. Of whom did that company consist ?—That was the Dartmouth Company.

43,606. Was that the company of which Mr. George Fitze was the manager ?—Yes.

43,607. What was the arrangement ?—When Mrs. Beazley took the hotel the fields were not part of the agreement at all. We had the hotel in hand before she took it, and we had the ground, and up to the 31st July we stocked the ground.

43,608. Up to the 31st July 1864 ?—Yes ; we stocked that ground with cattle, and she merely had a couple of cows.

43,609. Who do you mean by "we ?"—My father and myself.

43,610. On your own account ?—Yes.

43,611. You charged yourself with rent to the duke ?—Yes.

43,612. Did you vote upon those fields ?—No.

43,613. Did any person vote upon those fields at that time ?—Yes ; a man of the name of Ford voted in the 1863 election.

43,614. Elias Ford ?—No, the man who had the 60*l.*

43,615. How did he get the vote ?—He was in the hotel before Mrs. Beazley came. Before it came into our hands the stables were taken by the ostler, and the and was taken by the late waiter at the hotel.

43,616. He had a fair and egitimate vote ?—Yes.

43,617. You had the land up to July 1864 ; who took it then ?—The land was then let to the company.

43,618. To Mr. Fitze ?—No.

43,619. Give us their names. Was Christopher Grant Clift one ?—Yes.

43,620. Mark Fox ?—Yes. Noah Clift was another; somebody Rees was another, Henry Rees, I think.

43,621. William Henry Rees ?—That is it.

43,622. Thomas Stranger ?—I cannot recollect that. Mark Whittell was one.

43,623. How was it managed ?—It was managed in this way : these parties were nominally to be the tenants, and they were to take Mrs. Beazley's cattle to keep.

43,624. To take Mrs. Beazley's cattle to keep ?—Yes.

43,625. Had she got many cattle ?—Oh, yes; they keep a dairy.

43,626. And divide the profit between them, and if it came to more than 60*l.* that would give you each a vote. Was that the arrangement; or were they to pay you actually 60*l.* a year rent ?—68*l.* a year.

43,627. Of course they did not pay ?—Oh, yes, they did. We are in arrear now, I am sorry to say.

43,628. Have you not always charged the rent against Mrs. Beazley ?—No. Mr. Fitze attended at our office and paid the rent. We have a separate agreement for the house entirely. There is nothing mentioned in the agreement about the land whatever.

43,629. They paid their rents through Mr. Fitze, and then came down upon Mrs. Beazley for what was owing ?—Yes.

43,630. Then she was the real tenant ?—Yes.

43,631. They had no occupation at all ?—No.

43,632. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was that ingenious matter of cutting the cabbage suggested by you ?—No.

43,633. Do you know who suggested it ?—I do not know.

43,634. (Mr. Bere.) I suppose Mr. Tucker is the suggester ?—He was the starter of it.

43,635. That is one company. What other company was there ?—We had a company who voted on some land taken by Mr. Elias Ford.

43,636. Where ?—At Totnes.

43,637. A portion of Gerston ?—A portion of Gerston, and a portion of Mr. Webber's property.

43,638. (Mr. Coleridge.) That is the company to which Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour gave a guarantee? —That is the one that failed.

43,639. (Mr. Bere.) Can you give us the names of that ?—The names of the voters ?

43,640. Yes.—The two Mr. Hamlyns.

43,641. The manufacturers at Buckfastleigh ?—Yes. Mr. Sawdye, an auctioneer at Ashburton; Mr. Bradridge, a farmer; Mr. Hepburn, another farmer ; Jackson, the carpenter, to whom we were alluding just now. How many is that ?

43,642. That is six. Then there are some more I think, is there not ? Furneaux ?—Yes. He is another.

43,643. John Hayling ?—I think there is a man called Hunt.

43,644. John Sparke Amery ?—Yes, and his son.

43,645. John Whiteway Hoppin ?—I think he was on that company, I am not quite sure.

43,646. John Knapman ?—Yes.

43,647. William Henry Rossiter ?—Yes.

43,648. Richard Stanning ?—Yes.

43,649. John Venn ?—I think you are mixing up the two companies. I can hardly tell you the names. There were two or three companies I think at that time. There were 11 that voted in companies in Totnes on our side.

43,650. (Mr. Longe.) Eleven Totnes voters ?—Yes; besides the five here.

43,651. (Mr. Bere.) Besides the six here ?—Five; one is dead.

43,652. Those were all ?—Yes.

43,653. I have given you a number of names to which you have said "Yes," and now you say "You are mixing up the companies ?"—I do not think they were all one company. I do not think there were 11 voted in that way.

43,654. But I read more than 11 ?—I cannot recollect now. Then there was a company of 11 or 12 that voted on the other side.

43,655. I know that. Is that a Gerston company or a Broomborough company ?—No. That was a Broomborough company the other side.

43,656. Did they vote ?—Yes, they voted, 11 or 12 of them.

43,657. What were their names ?—They were the other side. A man named George Browse was one.

43,658. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who was the manager ? —I think Mr. Robert Harris.

43,659. All these companies had managers, had not they ?—I think Mr. Robert Harris was the one. They tried to get up two companies. They got up one company, of five or eight parties, and they could not get them to speak so strong as they wished, so they struck them off.

43,660. (Mr. Bere.) They voted in the election of 1865 ?—Yes.

43,661. Can you give us their names in going through the list ?—I think I could.

43,662. Now the Gerston company, which came to an untimely end, that was a company of which Mr. Elias Ford was the manager ?—No ; he was merely the landlord.

43,663. (Mr. Coleridge.) Where did you get the land ?—We took it from the different parties in the neighbourhood.

43,664. And then sub-let it ?—Yes, into different farms.

43,665. (Mr. Bere.) That was to make 45 ?—Yes.

43,666. That the Tories allowed ?—Yes.

43,667. Do you know that Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour were the guarantees for the losses and expenses of that estate ?—I think there was something of that kind.

43,668. Had you anything yourself to do with that company ?—Yes ; I was one of the supporters of it.

43,669. Were you a shareholder of it then ?—No.

43,670. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was it a limited liability company ?—No.

43,671. Were you the original promoter ?—No ; I was not the promoter.

43,672. You know Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour each guaranteed 250*l.* towards those losses ?—Yes.

43,673. And had to pay it ?—No.

43,674. What was the loss ?—I have not made it up.

43,675. Was it more than that ?—I cannot tell you. Oh, no.

43,676. It was not a paying farm ?—It was not on long enough.

43,677. I see by Mr. Pender's correspondence that he urges all through that it should be managed in such an economical way that if the votes should fail it should answer as a commercial speculation ?—Yes.

43,678. Then why did it not go on ?—Because the company failed.

43,679. It failed politically, but it might have answered otherwise ?—We did not care about that.

43,680. (Mr. Longe.) How long was the company on Mrs. Beazley's land in existence ?—They only voted one election, in 1865.

43,681. They never did pay the 68*l.* ?—Oh, Mr. Fitze paid it to us. How he got it I do not know. I think he managed it through Mrs. Beazley.

43,682. He paid the whole 68*l.* ?—He paid the half-year's rent.

43,683. Did you ever get the whole 68*l.* ?—I got whatever was due up to that time.

43,684. (Mr. Coleridge.) You give Mr. Tucker the entire credit of this ingenious device ?—I think he may take the whole of it.

43,685. Have they struck those votes off at Ashburton ?—I do not think they have been brought on.

43,686. Not been objected to ?—No.

43,687. You did not support your votes if objected to ?—What, in Bridgetown ?

43,688. No, altogether ?—We had not a chance. In Totnes it is always an understanding that the Totnes list should be taken first, and the Totnes list being taken first, the Bridgetown did not go on.

43,689. How many voters have the Liberal party lost in Totnes and Bridgetown ?—I have not been through the list.

43,690. You did not support your votes in Bridgetown ?—The old register was taken in Bridgetown. There must have been seven or eight lost.

43,691. (Mr. Bere.) Seven or eight lost ?—Yes.

43,692. There were a number objected to in Bridgetown, were they all Liberal ?—All Liberals, with the exception of a man named Miller. I have not been through the list. I have not taken part in the registration this year.

43,693. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who manages it on your side ?—Mr. Windeatt.

43,694. Young Mr. Windeatt ?—Yes.

43,695. (Mr. Bere) Did Mr. Prout lose his vote ?—Yes.

43,696. In fact they all lost their votes ?—All on that list.

43,697. (Mr. Coleridge.) How many votes were there lost on the Liberal side, Mr. Edmonds ?

(Mr. Edmonds.) I do not know at all ; I have not looked into it.

43,698. (Mr. Coleridge.) You did not attend the registration ?

(Mr. Edmonds.) I did not.

43,699. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who attended ?

(Mr. Edmonds.) Mr. Harris, I believe so.

43,700. (Mr. Bere.) There were 34 voters objected to in Bridgetown. Just look at that list and see how many were Liberals (handing the list to the witness) ?—I think they are all Liberals on this list, except one. They would not support them. They were merely put on the register for a certain amount.

43,701. Then there has been another way of making votes, has there not, in making use of the land, in getting farmers of the neighbourhood to take fields and put buildings on them ?—That has always been, for years and years.

43,702. (Mr. Longe.) How long has that been ?—Longer than I can recollect, and the fields are mostly in the same occupation as they were then.

43,703. Single fields, with linhays on them ?—Yes.

43,704. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you recollect the linhays being built ?—Oh, no.

43,705. They were built on purpose for making votes ?—I cannot say that.

43,706. They are taken by farmers who have regular farms ?—Exactly so.

43,707. And they would not require those buildings ?—Yes, they would. When a field is stocked in some way you must have some place for the cattle to go to. It is a most important thing and most essential.

43,708. (Mr. Bere.) Those buildings did not happen to be erected on those fields till the Reform Bill passed, which gave a vote for buildings and land ?—That I cannot tell.

43,709. I want you to go through the list of 1865, the duke's tenants in that list. Go through that list as you did with the 1859 one, and mark with a cross the names of the duke's tenants. Put a tick for those who are faggot votes, and a stroke down like that (describing) for those who are linhay votes. I mean by faggot votes company votes. In all those cases, as far as we have learnt yet, one person is the real landlord and the other is only sham ?—No. A farmer takes the field generally to stock it.

43,710. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you mean they take the whole farm, and that as a general rule every farm is in one single man's name, and occasionally a son is put in ?—The farms of single tenants.

43,711. That is what I mean ?—Yes. Two tenants do not together take a field.

43,712. Where the whole farm is, say, a farm of 100 acres, is it generally taken by two men together ?—No. The son comes in sometimes. We had one farm where we had two tenants residing.

43,713. Residing together in the farm-house ?—Yes.

43,714. Any relations ?—They are related.

43,715. Brothers ?—Uncle and nephew.

43,716. I mean any instance where they are two perfect strangers ?—Oh no. (The witness here handed up the list marked as requested.)

43,717. (Mr. Bere.) This is only Bridgetown ?—I thought you only asked for that.

43,718. I should like you to give me Totnes too ?—The Totnes list has been ticked by somebody else.

43,719. Yes, but I shall recognize it ?—I shall put a cross over the ticks (the list was ticked and handed in).

43,720. Was not there a man of the name of Thomas Mitchell who rented some property under the Duke of Somerset ?—Yes, a house.

43,721. Did he receive a half-yearly certificate for the payment of 5*l.* for a half-year's rent ?—I saw it in the papers, that is all.

43,722. Do you know that for years and years his vote was objected to, on account of insufficient value, by the Conservatives ?—Yes.

43,723. And he came forward on all occasions and said his rent was 10*l.* a year ?—Yes.

43,724. Do you know that when he voted for the Conservatives the Liberals objected to his vote ?—Yes.

43,725. I do not know whether it was yourself who gave evidence that 10*s.* a year was always given back ?—No. He stated that to have been done by my father some years since. He declared at the time I was called that he was paying 10 guineas a year, and he was only paying 10*l.* I did not go forward to give evidence Mr. Dawe said, "There is Mr. Michelmore, the duke's agent, call him up, and I was bound to get up and say it was not 10*l.*

43,726. Did not you or your father give him half a sovereign ?—No.

43,727. Then this is not true : "When I first took "the house I took it at 10*l.* a year. After I had "taken it Mr. Michelmore considered whether it "might not be an objection to my vote in consequence "of there being an attached cellar, which led from "my house into a cartilage ; that being so, Mr. "Michelmore said you had better give me 10*s.* or "half a sovereign, and then you can say that you pay "11*l.* a year ?"—I cannot say it was not or it was. It was before my time.

43,728. It was objected to in 1859 ?—Yes.

43,729. And he appeared and swore that he gave 11*l.* ?—Ten guineas, I think, he swore.

43,730. He was objected to first in 1859 and then in 1863, and he paid identically the same rent when he was objected to by the Liberals as when he was objected to by the Conservatives ?—Yes.

43,731. Thomas Holman at Lady-day 1862 was the tenant of Barton Meadow ?—Yes.

43,732. At Michaelmas 1863 it was in the occupation of Angel, Blackler, and another ?—Yes.

43,733. You ticked them off ?—I ticked them off.

43,734. There was an agreement between you and Mr. Holman that the field should be used to make votes ?—Yes.

43,735. Those are what you call faggot votes ?—I ticked them off.

43,736. Who are Hodge and Co. ?—That is the same matter.

43,737. Is not that another lot ?—There is on Prout, Vasey, & Co.

43,738. Is that Prout your clerk ?—He was my clerk.

43,739. He is not now ?—No ; my brother's.

43,740. Does he live in Newton ?—Yes.

THIRTY-SECOND DAY.

Mr. J. Michelmore.

25 Oct. 1866.

43,741. He is not living here ?—No.

43,742. What instructions do you give before an election to your clerks, as far as working at the time of an election goes ?—I never allow them to interfere in any way at all, except by my orders.

43,743. What are the directions you give ?—I do not give any with regard to the election. If I wanted them to do anything I should tell them to do it.

43,744. And they do do it ?—Yes, if I tell them what to do.

43,745. The drawback lasts all the time the interest of the election lasts ?—It is a drawback as far as the clerks are concerned, by keeping them from other work.

43,746. (Mr. Longe.) William Knapman, he voted for the other side and was evicted ?—He was on the duke's property in 1859.

43,747. This is after 1859 ?—I think it was the property of the duke.

43,748. Are you sure he is not ticked off ?—There are many Knapmans.

43,749. There is the man I mean (pointing out a name on a list), was he a tenant of the duke ?—Yes.

43,750. How did he vote ?—For Dunn.

43,751. He was evicted, do you not remember the circumstances of the eviction ?—I recollect his being evicted, but whether in 1859 I cannot tell.

43,752. Did you canvass him at that election for Lord Gifford ?—I think very likely I canvassed with Lord John Hay the whole of the time.

43,753. You remember canvassing him ?—No, I do not remember that.

43,754. Do you recollect that when canvassing whether you asked for both the Liberal candidates or only one ?—Only Lord Gifford.

43,755. Was that early in the canvass ?—Yes, we canvassed quite distinct from each other.

43,756. You remember the eviction ?—I may have given them notice. I have not got a copy of the notice served on them.

43,757. Did you never hear anything about it; you do not remember the circumstances of the eviction ?—I recollect his leaving the premises.

43,758. I mean the reason for it ?—I should presume the great reason was because he voted against us.

43,759. That is your belief ?—Yes.

43,760. You have no doubt of that ?—My not having any copy of the notice I am not sure we have given the notice.

43,761. There was some dispute about it, and you could not get him out ?—I do not recollect it.

43,762. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was it not that the notice was one making the tenancy expire at the wrong time of the year, or something of that sort ?—I do not know.

43,763. Should you have a copy of the bad notice ?—Yes; our notice is to quit at the end of such a time, or else at the end of the current year.

43,764. It might be a twelvemonth's notice ?—Then I should have a copy of the notice.

43,765. (Mr. Bere.) I do not see that you have marked Underhill. There was a company of persons for building on land ?—Yes, Mr. Bartholomew was one.

43,766. And Mr. Henry Cuming is one ?—And Mr. Kennedy.

43,767. Robert Harris ?—And Mr. Luscombe. They never had a chance of construction.

43,768. Arthur Browse Niner ?—He was not in. Mr. Harris was manager of the whole company.

43,769. (Mr. Coleridge.) What qualification did he vote for ?—For his own house.

43,770. (Mr. Bere.) Is there anything more you can tell us ?—No. If there is anything I recollect that I have not given you, I will correct it.

43,771. We find that Mr. Windeatt's letter to Mr. Pender expressed great anxiety to give you and Mr. Jenkins the power, can you give any reason why Mr. Windeatt should have been so anxious for that ?—Only the reason that they both belonged to the same set. Jenkins was a very active man.

43,772. Did you know that Mr. Jenkins had gone down to live at Leeds at the time ?—No.

43,773. Was there not great anxiety expressed to get him back to Totnes, from the great support he was to the Liberal party ?—I do not know.

43,774. (Mr. Longe.) Was William Mitchell a tenant of the duke in 1865 ?—No, a tenant of my cousin's.

43,775. Did you give him a notice to quit before the election ?—Yes.

43,776. Did you canvass him with Mr. Seymour ?—I expect we did. We canvassed everyone. There were only two men we left out at the last canvass.

43,777. Did you give William Mitchell to understand the notice would be withdrawn if he voted for Mr. Seymour ?—No, I never heard a word about it. The house is in dispute at the present time.

43,778. You heard what he stated ?—No.

43,779. Do you remember any conversation with regard to the notice ?—No. I should not have thought of sending him any such thing at all. He came forward; his vote was objected to year after year by the Liberals; he came forward to swear that the rent was 10*l.*, and he also swore that a back house did not belong to the tenant, and by that means he kept himself on the register.

43,780. I do not think that you have marked Hodge on the list ?—William Hodge is a bonâ fide voter. Hodge & Co., I do not think they were on; they never voted.

43,781. (Mr. Longe.) Did not Magridge hold of the duke ?—Yes.

43,782. When was that ?—I think after the 1863 election.

43,783. Quite lately ?—Yes.

43,784. Between 1863 and 1865 ?—Yes, he was out of the tenancy. He was one of the 12 you were speaking of just now; they were evicted at that time. His name is not in this list; it must have been before that time, this begins in 1863. Mr. Kellock was 1859.

43,785. There might be others besides Kellock ?—Yes. I have only looked at the 1863 and 1864.

43,786. Was he a tenant in 1859; do you know that ?—What was his qualification ?

43,787. He is a Totnes voter, in Cistern Street ?—I do not recollect the name; he was not a tenant very long in.

43,788. Do you think there were any other tenants of the duke who had notice to quit after 1859 ?—I can let you know if there are.

J. W. Chaster.

JOHN WEBBER CHASTER recalled and examined.

43,789. (Mr. Coleridge.) From the time of Mr. Pender first coming here to the time of his election were you consulted with respect to the election ?—Very regularly.

43,790. Almost once a week ?—Not so often as that; very frequently.

43,791. Do you recollect this letter; "Totnes, Nov. " 25th, 1863. My dear sir,—I presume you will have " received from Mr. Cuming, per penny post, a letter " asking you to postpone your visit to Totnes for " some days. Mr. Thomas Michelmore writes Mr. " Alfred Seymour to the same effect, and you will no " doubt communicate with each other for a mutually " agreeable appointment, some days later than was " first intended. Although I left it with Mr. Cuming " to write you, I fancy you will like a line from me in " explanation, and I write with that object. The fact " is, there are matters of vital importance just turned " up, which must be settled, and it can only be done " satisfactorily in the presence of Mr. Thomas " Michelmore; he has engagements the week named " for your visit which render it impossible he can " be at Totnes to meet you, and on your account " most especially I consider it a necessity he should be, and therefore press the postponement. On Monday night he asked myself and Mr. Cuming to meet him, and he then made a communication from the duke of so unexpected a character, and involving so many considerations for the future, that it at once knocked up the scheme for a separate committee in my mind, and created the necessity for another and more important similar one for the entire management of the whole Liberal forces. I wish you were nearer to consult upon the situation, which is a most delicate one, and ought not to be committed to paper, and I am too engaged just now to leave any distance to meet you. I will only say we have the reins handed us, and the only problem is how best to handle them, and who amongst us are most capable and most honest to do it." What does that mean, an unexpected communication from the duke ?—That communication had come directly from the Duke of Somerset, with reference to working the borough in the Liberal interest.

43,792. Why was that told you by Mr. Michelmore ?—I received it from Mr. Thomas Michelmore ; Mr. Cuming communicated it to me.

43,793. It was a thing of so delicate a nature that you would not like to commit it to paper ?—Not that it should go into the hands of another party.

43,794. Were there any terms ?—No.

43,795. Simply giving up the interest in the borough ?—No.

43,796. Was anything said about his being relieved of all expenses ?—No.

43,797. Was it that it was to be turned over to the Liberal party ?—That they were to have the nomination of the candidate.

43,798. You arranged to have a meeting ?—Yes, at Mr. Thomas Michelmore's, at True Street.

43,799. Did Mr. Pender come down ?—No.

43,800. What was determined at that time ?—We agreed to certain resolutions.

43,801. Where are they ?—They must be in writing somewhere.

43,802. What was the purport of them ?—We accepted the proposition. I do not recollect any nomination at the time.

43,803. Were you instructed from the duke. It was after the 20th of November that you wrote to Mr. Pender on the subject; how long after you received that intimation did you hold the meeting ?—I think we received it in the afternoon of the same day we met. It had nothing to do with Mr. Pender.

43,804. This is November 1863 ; Mr. Pender came in 1862 ; when he was the member did you write to him as the member ?—That was in 1862.

43,805. Then 1863 is a mistake for 1862 ?—No.

43,806. There must be some mistake here, because in 1862 you refused to have Mr. Seymour because there was a duke's vacancy ?—Yes.

43,807. Surely it cannot have been in January 1862 you refused Mr. Seymour, because you had a ducal vacancy in December 1862. Was it after Mr. Seymour's election ; what you have been saying is a mistake ?—There were two meetings ; I have rather confused it. Mr. Michelmore asked us to meet there before Earl Gifford's serious illness, and it was 12 months after that November 13th that the communication came from the duke.

43,808. As to the meeting in 1862, what was the effect of it ?—As to the meeting of 1862, we were asked to meet at True Street to nominate a candidate in case of a vacancy.

43,809. The ducal interest was made over at the date of this letter ?—Yes.

43,810. When you talk of things so delicate that they cannot be committed to paper, had it anything to do with any matter in addition to the expenses ?—I do not know about the expenses. I cannot charge my memory with what it refers to exactly.

43,811. Was there not some other agreement or proposition that you had to accept ; the duke would hardly withdraw unless he was to have a quid pro quo ?—He was to nominate his own candidate up to that period.

43,812. What was it for him to offer if there was not some quid pro quo to be rendered to him ?—He asked for nothing.

43,813. Was he to be relieved from all responsibility ?—I take it that his own candidate was to bear the expenses that he had previously borne.

43,814. What were they ?—I think the registration expenses.

43,815. Do you know whether he paid anything towards the municipal expenses ?—Not that I am aware of.

43,816. Do you know that before that he paid the registration expenses ?—I do not. From having nominated the man, I presume, he took on himself to bear the costs.

43,817. Of his election ?—The matters connected with the registration.

43,818. Was he to withdraw his subscriptions from the town ?—I never heard it.

43,819. Only 45*l.* was paid for the registration, and that he was to be relieved of; was there nothing else to relieve him of ?—Not that I am aware of.

43,820. This delicate matter was in reality that the duke would not interfere in the matter at all ; was there any chance of the Liberal party refusing to be freed from the duke ?—Yes.

43,821. Rather than that the duke should withdraw his influence ?—He had a deal of influence on that side.

43,822. Mr. Michelmore would have no faggot votes ; the evictions were just the same ?—Yes ; we had no claims on Mr. Michelmore.

43,823. Mr. Michelmore was to cease to care about politics ?—Just so.

43,824. Had he been doing anything in any way to lead you to suppose that ? — Not the least in the world.

43,825. Who were the people who had to be consulted in the matter ?—Only a few men, and letters.

43,826. Who were they ?—Mr. Cuming and Mr. Michelmore.

43,827. They were the two attorneys who acted professionally ?—Yes.

43,828. Was there anybody else ? — Mr. Charles Michelmore.

43,829. Cannot you on looking at that letter again give us any further account of what this could be ?—I see what you mean.

43,830. It was so unexpected ?—It was quite unexpected.

43,831. When you told us the other day in your evidence that if Mr. Pender had come down upon Lord Gifford's death you would not have had him, because there was a ducal vacancy, that was before you had this agreement ?—Yes.

43,832. At that time had there been any suggestion of this agreement being made at the meeting of 1862 ?—That was the first time I heard of it. I recollect Mr. Pender suggested that there should be a committee to manage matters almost solely. He was the chief, and everything went through his hands. The duties were too much for him, and Mr. Pender suggested that there should be a committee. That is the meaning of it. There was to be an entire management for the whole party, it being a Liberal committee to manage on the part of the duke and for the whole party.

43,833. Well, now, there is another thing that I want to ask you. We have seen in a letter of Mr. Brooking Cuming's that at Mr. Seymour's election there was a divided command on the morning of the election, and to prevent things going badly things were made over to him—what does that mean ?—I suppose the 500*l.* was handed over to him.

43,834. He said he had consulted Mr. Michelmore, although he was the head nominally ?—I suppose he would consult him. I do not suppose Mr. Cuming would take upon himself to do anything except the mere routine of business without consulting Mr. Michelmore. I think it extremely probable that 500*l*

THIRTY-SECOND DAY.

J. W. Chaster.

25 Oct. 1866.

must have come on the day of the election or the previous one. I never knew of any feeling between Mr. Michelmore and Mr. Cuming during the election. They were capital friends as far as I know.

43,835. You did not think very well of Mr. Seymour's chances of success?—No doubt of it.

43,836. Did you think the Liberal party were not supporting him as they should. You say in a letter, "I fancy a few lines from me in the present election "struggle will not be unacceptable to you. Mr. "Dent appears determined to fight, and scatters his "offers of gold among the small voters most pro- "fusely and most lavishly, in addition to which the "gentry of the neighbourhood are coercing and intimi- "dating the shopkeepers by threats of the loss of their "custom"; what does that refer to?—The gentry of the neighbourhood.

43,837. Who were they?—I could not give you any names.

43,838. Was there any intimidation?—Yes; they called on the shopkeepers and threatened them with a loss of trade.

43,839. The clergy?—The clergy and others.

43,840. Surely you must know the names of some of them?—I do not; reports were brought to me which I have no doubt were true.

43,841. To what distance did it extend; did it go to Dartington?—No. I never considered those things, the reports were brought to me.

43,842. Then the letter goes on, "If they do not "support him, or at least remain neutral, things wear "a serious aspect. I never knew up to this point a "tougher fight, and it requires to be met by a united "vigorous, and determined action. Unfortunately, "Mr. Alfred Seymour is not a man of your calibre, "he does not make much way personally, and is not "overstocked with that suaviter in modo so neces- "sary to successful canvassing. The duke's agents "are too confident, and the triumvirate attorneys "are too indifferent, evidently desirous to manifest "their own importance. I can assure you it re- "quires all the oilmen of my stamp can thrown "in to maintain the machinery in fair going condi- "tion and keep it in gear. Nevertheless we shall "render a good account at the poll, and I do not fear "we shall place Mr. Seymour at your side to assist "at the opening of the session in maintaining the "veteran Palmerston in the proud position he so well "and ably fills. Believe me to be dear sir, yours "very faithfully, T. W. Chaster." Then there is a letter which you wrote to Mr. Pender telling him you wish to have a list of the charities, because some were being worked against you, do you recollect when it was?—No; it was a suggestion of Mr. Windeatt's, he asked me to do it; it would refer I think to 1864.

43,843. Then there are several letters about the 250*l.*?—Yes.

43,844. There was a lump sum to the company?——Yes.

43,845. And 250*l.* a year, if necessary, for the purposes of registration?—Yes.

43,846. Then there are some letters of Mr. Pender remonstrating with that being a fixed sum, and saying that it ought not to cost so much?—Yes.

43,847. Then there is an arrangement for the municipal expenses to be paid out of the registration?—Yes.

43,848. (Mr. Bere.) No doubt the company was started simply for the purpose of making votes?—Unquestionably.

43,849. (Mr. Coleridge.) Read that letter and explain to us what it means (handing a letter to the witness)?—This would be about the time that the quo warranto bills were asked for and a committee appointed to investigate that and say what we should do.

43,850. What does that refer to—the handsome offer that was made?—The offer was to pay what the committee said was due because Mr. Pender was no party to the payment of that bill. Mr. Seymour was; it was never named to Mr. Pender when he came here.

43,851. You say in your letter, "in order to enable "the committee to discharge all expenses they have "incurred during and previous to the registration "then concluded." Then there is a letter of January 21st, 1865: "Will you be good enough to forward the "enclosed to Mr. Pender. I received your favour of "the 18th, and find you have since sent on Mr. "Pender's subscriptions to the various charities. I "think it would be well in future if the list were sent "down annually to Mr. Pender's committee for "revision before the money is forwarded. Many "changes have taken place, some of the charities are "worked against us; and Mr. Pender should be in- "formed of all the facts before deciding on the course "he will pursue." What does that refer to, "worked against us?"—Mr. Windeatt brought it to my knowledge, and said the committee ought to arrange it, to issue the tickets, and asked me would I write about it. I do not think the committee ever took any action upon it.

43,852. What do you mean by the charities being worked against you?—I think in the Blanket Society they were given away partially by the ladies in Totnes. It was thought there should be some new blood infused into it in order that the thing might be adjusted.

43,853. It was to be made a political matter if it worked for you, and by some circumstance it was worked against you?—Yes.

43,854. Were any changes made?—I do not remember the committee. I never sat upon it. I paid that sum to the same treasurer, the same amount.

43,855. (Mr. Longe.) After this communication you understood that the different candidates did not receive the same support from the duke?—We were promised the same support by Mr. Michelmore.

43,856. Did you suppose that Mr. Michelmore was acting entirely independent?—We did think so. That appeared to be the delicacy of the situation with us.

43,857. You thought that you had a great deal of support from the duke?—The duke no longer stood in the position that he had.

43,858. The duke could not interfere?—He could not interfere, but he had been presumed or supposed to interfere previously.

43,859. You had supposed up to that time that the duke had directly taken part in the election?—We had no knowledge of that.

43,860. What did you suppose to be the difference in your situation after that communication?—The duke always made his own nomination. The Michelmores assisted the party on this side of the bridge, and the independent candidate was separate altogether. We took care of him on the other side. There were two committees. The Michelmores acted on the part of the duke and Mr. Cuming on the other side; but after the amalgamation there was one head and one committee, and one worked with the other.

43,861. Did you consider this amalgamation to be the loss of the duke's interest?—No, but we had no longer any claim.

43,862. Because you did not pay the 40*l.* a year?—We took it upon ourselves.

43,863. The duke had always paid the 40*l.* a year?—I never knew of that.

43,864. (Mr. Coleridge.) How came it that if the duke paid the 45*l.* a year, and that was sufficient for his expenses, that you wanted 500*l.* from Mr. Pender and Seymour?—These companies were started, and we thought they would be expensive.

43,865. It is a difference of from 45*l.* to 500*l.*?—It did not follow as a matter of course that we should spend it.

43,866. But did you spend it?—We had extraordinary registrations which lasted a fortnight.

43,867. There is a letter from Mr. Brooking Cuming to Mr. Pender, and he says, "We have got a few of your men," and only a few?—There are extreme Liberals here who only support independent men, and will not support the duke's nominee.

43,868. Not when there is one Liberal and one Conservative?—That refers to independent men.

43,869. We have heard that several were paid after

Mr. Pender's election. Do you not think that following as it does, that means the men that were paid by Mr. Pender, and it was to be carried to Mr. Seymour's account?—It does look like it, but I do not take it that way, some of the men are very firm here.

43,870. Does it seem more feasible to be the other way?—It does, but it does not commend itself to me.

43,871. (Mr. Longe.) Was not this one of the changes, that Mr. Michelmore canvassed the duke's tenants for your candidate as well as their own, and that he went with Mr. Pender in 1865?—He did go with him, but I do not know that that was a change.

43,872. Mr. Michelmore canvassed for Mr. Pender in 1862?—Yes, I believe he canvassed for him throughout.

43,873. This agreement was made in February 1863?—Yes.

43,874. Michelmore never canvassed with Mr. Mills?—I do not think he did.

43,875. (Mr. Bere.) After the agreement in 1863, the ducal agents lent you as much assistance as their own party?—Yes.

43,876. And canvassed the ducal tenantry with your candidate?—Yes.

43,877. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was not that part of the arrangement?—No, I do not think it was. I recollect Mr. Michelmore saying, "You will get the same assistance as we have always rendered."

43,878. But you got a great deal more?—Perhaps in a certain sense we had.

43,879. Were there any dissensions among the leading men in accepting this offer of the duke?—None whatever.

43,880. We have heard from Mr. Michelmore that several evictions took place after 1859 and 1863, do you know any former elections where tenants of the duke who had waited on the other side, that the same course of proceeding had been carried out?—I know very little of elections previous to 1862. I know nothing of my own knowledge.

43,881. You knew of those evictions in 1863?—Yes, I heard of them.

43,882. They were as much in favour of the independent candidate, or were they only for the ducal candidate?—I do not think they were confined specially to the ducal candidate. I should say the Liberal interest altogether.

43,883. At that time?—Yes; you are speaking of 1863, and that referred to the whole Liberal party.

43,884. You the independent were great gainers, because you got Mr. Michelmore's power?—We always considered that we were gainers.

43,885. Was he acting as the agent of the Liberal party in evicting these?—I should say not. I never knew any consultation with regard to those matters.

43,886. If the duke had given up his right of nomination?—But he assisted us.

43,887. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know of any other instance of tenants of Liberal landlords being turned out for voting the other way?—No, I do not; my tenants always vote against me, and I never turn them out.

43,888. Did Mr. Seymour and Mr. Pender have separate committees in 1865?—No.

43,889. Joint?—Yes.

43,890. That is the first time that you ever knew two Liberal candidates jointly?—Yes, it was.

RICHARD CROSS sworn and examined.

43,891. (Mr. Bere.) Were you clerk with Mr. Michelmore for some years?—I have been accountant and surveyor for the Duke of Somerset in the office of Mr. Michelmore for 32 years, and I have retired from those duties about four years.

43,892. Had not you something to do with the books of this hotel?—Yes, I have been keeping them occasionally for Mrs. Beazley.

43,893. Did not you do something else besides keep them?—Some leaves I suppose taken out.

43,894. You took them out?—I do not know whether I did; I think I did and Mr. Beazley together.

43,895. In the little room inside the bar?—Yes.

43,896. Who recommended you to take them out?—The accounts were mixed up with other business of the house, and they were rather confused, and I think Mrs. Beazley suggested that all the election accounts should be kept in a separate book, and they were taken out for that purpose and new leaves put in, and the other portions of the business entered in in the new leaves, I believe by the lady in the bar.

43,897. Had not all the expenses incurred in the house during the election of 1865 been entered to Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour?—Yes.

43,898. And were not the leaves you took out the entries of those expenses?—The entries were in those leaves.

43,899. Then did not you make out fresh accounts to different individuals; not to Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour, but other individuals?—They were entered in the book to different heads.

43,900. Not when you took the leaves out?—Yes.

43,901. Were not they entered to Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour?—No; to those who gave the orders they were entered, and this is a direct copy of the day-book.

43,902. When did you first alter the ledger from the general account to this particular account?—I think before the election matters were all entered up. I think there were several things entered afterwards.

43,903. Did not you after the election take out the separate items and put them down as an account to Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour separately?—I think so. I think there were entries after that.

43,904. Up to that time had not everything been put down to Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour?—No. There were several names independent of that.

43,905. Is this the portion of the account which you tore out?—No, that is the original account.

43,906. Is that in your handwriting?—It is.

43,907. Is this paper also in your writing?—No, it is not.

43,908. Who took those leaves out?—That I do not know. I heard Mrs. Beazley say that they had been taken out.

43,909. What leaves were taken out by you, from what book?—A common day-book. The entries were kept distinct from the other entries of the business of the house.

43,910. What have you had to do with election matters?—Very little.

43,911. What was the most you had to do with them?—Last evening I made out a report, and if it will at all facilitate your inquiries you are quite welcome to it (handing a paper to the Commissioners).

43,912. Most of the information here we have had already?—My first commencement was with Lord Boringdon. I suppose you had nothing to do with him?

43,913. We know that he did come here as a candidate. Is this the book that you kept?—That is the book that I kept. That is a copy which I took out of some portion of the day-book in order to keep it separate from the other accounts.

43,914. Where did you copy these accounts from?—I took them principally from the day-book, and at other times it was copied on a piece of paper by the barmaid, and then copied into the book in the evening or on the next day.

Adjourned to to-morrow at 10 o'clock.

THIRTY-THIRD DAY.

Mr. WILLIAM EDWARD JAMES sworn and examined.

Mr. W. E. James.

26 Oct. 1866.

43,915. (Mr. Bere.) Are you station-master to the South Devon Railway ?—I am.

43,916. How long have you been station-master here ?—Since 1851.

43,917. Ever since you have been station-master, have you had a vote ?—No, not all the time.

43,918. When did you first have a vote ?—In 1857, I think.

43,919. Did you vote for the Liberal candidates ?—I did.

43,920. Have you continued to vote for the Liberal candidates ever since ?—Yes.

43,921, Are you son-in-law to Mr. Cross ?—Yes.

43,922. What consideration have you received for voting for the Liberal candidates either before or after the election ?—I received 50*l.* in 1863, in October of that year, but not from a promise or from anything. Mr. Michelmore, in his evidence, says I was promised it in 1862, but I deny that.

43,923. You knew that you would get it ?—No, I did not, and I never expected to get it.

43,924. (Mr. Coleridge.) What did you get it for ?—It was sent to me.

43,925. (Mr. Bere.) Who sent it to you ?—The late Mr. Michelmore.

43,926. By whom ?—By Mr. Cross.

43,927. Was he at that time his clerk ?—He was.

43,928. (Mr. Coleridge.) What was it for ?—He told me Mr. Michelmore said it was for me, because I had stuck to my principles, and because there was very large temptation on the other side.

43,929. What was the temptation on the other side ?—In 1862 100*l.* was offered to me for my vote.

43,930. By whom ?—By Mr. Evan Evens, and if that would not do, any amount I chose to mention, or if I would not do it for that, if I would not vote for the Conservatives, I might receive an amount for not voting at all, but that I refused to do.

43,931. (Mr. Bere.) I suppose you communicated those offers to Mr. Cross ?—I do not know.

43,932. I suppose there was a long conversation and you mentioned it, and then Mr. Cross mentioned it to Mr. Michelmore, and for your steadiness Mr. Michelmore sent you 50*l.* ?—That is only how I can account for it.

43,933. In 1865 did you have any temptation ?—I had an offer from Mr. Evan Evens at that time, of a situation on a railway at a salary of 300*l.* per annum.

43,934. What railway ?—The Great Western, I understood.

43,935. Did he say how he was to get it ?—He did not say directly, but he said he was in a position to get it.

43,936. Was that at the time that Colonel Dawkins was standing, or at the time they were not quite sure who was going to stand ?—I cannot say.

43,937. How long was it before the election ?—It might be a week or 10 days. He waited on me at the station.

43,938. How many voters have you among the officials at the station ?—At present only one.

43,939. Is that Smith ?—No, Tope.

43,940. Smith was a voter ?—He was.

43,941. Did you ever ask him for his vote ?—Never asked him to vote except according to his conscience.

43,942. Did you ever say that you were going to vote according to your conscience, and you wished that your conscience and his should agree ?—I never hinted anything of the kind.

43,943 (Mr. Coleridge.) Had you any present after the election of 1865 ?—No, I had not.

43,944. Did you ask Mr. Cross how it was that there was no money going at that time ?—No, I did not.

43,945. You would not be surprised, from your experience of 1862, if you had got anything ?—I would not, but I never expected anything.

43,946. How was it that you got little hope in 1865 ?—I had no hope.

43,947. Expectation ?—I had none ; never expected anything.

43,948. You did not expect money in 1865 as in 1863 ?—I did not expect it in 1865 nor in 1863.

43,949. But in 1865 you thought it might be the same as 1863 ?—If I thought about it I might have thought that way.

43,950. Did you have any conversation with Mr. Cross ?—No.

43,951. (Mr. Longe.) When Mr. Cross gave you the money did you express your dislike to the money ?—I had a great deal of inclination to send it back.

43,952. Did you express that ?—No, not to him, but to others.

43,953. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you give any receipt for it ?—No.

43,954. (Mr. Bere.) Was it paid in cheque or in money ?—In bank notes.

43,955. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did anybody at those elections, except Mr. Evan Evens, come to you ?—Yes, Mr. John Heath.

43,956. Which election was that ?—1863.

43,957. Did he come to you or did you go to him at the "Stars ?"—He came to my house at the station.

43,958. What did he say ?—He was very peculiar in the way he broached the subject. He said he was in a position to do me a favour, and he said that if 100*l.* would be of any service he could give me that amount that morning for a favour ; he did not tell me, but I was to guess.

43,959. You could guess from Mr. John Heath ?—Yes, I could guess very well.

43,960. When was that ?—Some few days before the election.

43,961. You refused that ?—Yes.

43,962. He came to your house ?—He came to my house. That was not convenient, and then he came to the station.

43,963. Was it then that Evan Evens came to you ?—That was another time when Evan Evens came to me. That was in 1862, and Mr. Heath came in 1863.

43,964. Who came to you on the other side in 1863 ?—I was waited upon by the candidates and the gentlemen with them.

43,965. In 1862 Evens came to you, and Mr. Heath came to you in 1863 ; did Evens come, too ?—No.

43,966. In 1865 Evens came again ?—Yes.

43,967. In 1865 did Mr. Heath come ?—No.

43,968. You voted Liberally on each occasion ?—Yes. Mr. Michelmore said I was promised that in 1862 and did not receive it till 1863, but that is not very likely, for I did not vote.

43,969. You were not offered anything on that side in 1862 ?—No, nor in 1863.

43,970. In 1863 did you tell anyone that you had been tempted on the other side?—Yes.

43,971. What did they say when you told them of the temptation?—Nothing to induce me to vote.

43,972. What did they say?—That it was a great shame, or something of that kind.

43,973. Did Mr. Michelmore talk to you about it?—No.

ROBERT BOURNE sworn and examined.

43,974. Are you an auctioneer living in Totnes?—Yes.

43,975. How long have you been living here?—15 years.

43,976. How long have you had a vote?—Since 1859.

43,977. Upon which side have you voted?—Always the Liberal side.

43,978. Council elections as well as the Parliamentary elections?—Always.

43,979. You have had a little to do with the elections besides voting?—A little.

43,980. What little have you had to do with the election of 1859?—I think that was Dunn's election. The night before the election I met Mr. Charles Michelmore and Mr. Brooking Cuming, or whether they called at my house I do not know; it was near my house, and they asked me to see a person named Pengilley.

43,981. Was it George Pengilley?—Richard Pengilley, the voter. I said, "For why?" They said, "We want you to try to get him to vote for the two Liberals." I refused, and said I would have nothing to do with that sort of thing. Mr. Michelmore said, "You belong to our party and attend our meetings "and so on, but when we ask you to do us a favour "you refuse." After a great deal of persuading I consented to see him. I sent for him and, he came to my house. I asked him if he would oblige me by voting for Gifford and Mills next day. This was the day before the election. He said he could not do it, not that it made any difference to him which side he voted for, but Mr. Bryett had a mortgage on his house and he was afraid if he voted for the Liberal party Mr. Bryett would call in his mortgage, and he should have to pay it off. My reply was, I thought there would not be any difficulty, and perhaps the Liberal lawyers on the other side would take the mortgage, and it might be arranged.

43,982. Did he tell you the amount of the mortgage?—No. He then said he did not think that would do, but if the Liberal lawyers could advance him 75*l.*, or what he had got on his house, he thought it could be arranged with Mr. Bryett. I said I would communicate this to the party, and if they thought so, no doubt he would hear from them by 8 o'clock in the morning. I communicated this to Mr. Michelmore. I met with him and Mr. Cuming together, and they said "Very well." I heard no more about it till the next morning. As I was going down to vote I met Mr. Michelmore, and he said, "You are a poor electioneerer." I said, "What do you mean?" He said, "I thought we understood from you last night Pengilley was all right." "Am I wrong," I said, "is it not all right?" "No, he has been down and voted for Dunn." "Did you send to him in the morning?" "Yes, a messenger was sent with a parcel. He came to the door, and the messenger said that he had a parcel for him." He said, "I know what it is; give my compliments and tell them I will do better." That is all I know.

43,983. When did you first vote?—I think in 1859.

43,984. That was your first time?—I think so.

43,985. There had been no means of ascertaining what were your political feelings before that time?—Oh, yes; I had always voted for the county members on the Liberal side, and my father before me.

43,986. Had they not tried to convert you on the other side?—No. In 1859 there were letters written to clients of mine, gentlemen who were Conservatives, desiring them to try to prevent my voting, if they could do so.

43,987. Who tried?—There was Mr. Samuel Lane, of Dorchester; he mentioned to me that he had had a letter from Mr. Bentall.

43,988. Was there any intimation to you that if you voted for the Conservatives Mr. Samuel Lane's custom should be taken away?—No.

43,989. That is all you had to do with 1859?—Another gentleman told me that a party had written to him from Totnes, the Rev. Mr. Wollaston, who told me some one had called on him and requested him to see what he could do to prevent my voting. When Mr. Woolaston told me that, I got annoyed and disgusted that I, who had been always a Liberal, should have anyone try to persuade me to turn my coat.

43,990. In 1862, at Mr. Pender's election, what did you do?—I think it was that time, one evening before the election, old Mr. Michelmore, or the late Mr. Michelmore, the son, Jeffery, spoke to me. I was at the "Seymour Hotel," he called me out, and asked me if I would accompany Mr. Durant's man to Stokenteignhead; that was the gardener of Mr. Durant, a man of the name of Hannaford, had been taken away, and he thought I would see what had become of him, because Mr. Durant was anxious that he should be found if possible. The parties had had information that he was at Stokenteignhead, at the house of a farmer of the name of Soper, and, I suppose, that my knowing Stokenteignhead, and this farmer's house too, was the reason Mr. Michelmore asked me to accompany him. I consented, and went up by the 8 o'clock train to Teignmouth, and there we took a fly and drove to the house.

43,991. Were you joined by anybody at Newton?—A person of the name of Veales, a manure merchant.

43,992. How was it that he came to join you?—We met him in the train.

43,993. Did you tell him what you were going to do?—He offered to accompany us.

43,994. Did he go with you?—Yes, he did. I went then to Soper's house, and I said, "Have you any parties here from Totnes"? "Yes," he said, "there are several." I said "Are you aware whether there is a person named Hannaford." He said he had not heard of him. I explained that this man had been taken away. I said "Allow me to go into your house and see whether he is there." Finch and I walked in, and we came into a room where there were four. Young William Willis said "Go on." I saw Mogridge, Stoyles, and Norrish. I do not know who the other was; there was another, but I forget his name now. Norrish was rather abusive, and he asked me my business. I said "We are in search of Hannaford." He said, "We have nothing to do with that party." He said "Hannaford is not here." Then I left the house and came back.

43,995. There was a little more disturbance than that?—Nothing more. I saw in the paper the other day an account, and it appeared there as if I had had some conversation with him. I never spoke to the man. Mr. Michelmore was with me.

43,996. Was that all you did in 1862?—That was all.

43,997. Did you offer any money to any voter in 1862?—None.

43,998. None at all?—No.

43,999. Had you any money given to you to distribute?—Not a farthing.

44,000. Before or after the election?—Not 1863.

44,001. Are you quite sure between 1862 and 1863 you had not something to distribute?—No.

44,002. Then, neither in 1859 or 1862, had you anything whatever to do with bribing voters than what you have told me?—No.

44,003. Now, 1863, you had a good deal to do with that, had not you?—I will state what I had to do.

44,004. Do so if you please?—The morning of the election of 1863 the late Mr. Michelmore asked me if I would go to a place called Rolster Bridge, in the parish of Harberton; a voter by the name of Tucker, who lives there, had promised not to vote at all.

THIRTY-THIRD DAY.

R. Bourne.

44,005. What christian name?—John Tucker. Mr. Michelmore, and, I think, the Liberal lawyers were informed on the morning of the election that he had been tampered with by the other party; that parties had driven out there in the morning to see him, and try to get him. The late Mr. Michelmore asked me if I would be kind enough to go out and see him, to ascertain if that was correct or not, and if so, to tell him if he would keep to his promise he should have a present of 25*l.*

44,006. You went there and saw him?—Yes.

44,007. Did you promise him 25*l.*?—I told him the message I took from Mr. Michelmore.

44,008. Did you go by yourself?—No, I think the young Matcham went with me.

44,009. James or Thomas?—Thomas. He did not see Tucker with me. When I went Tucker was not in the house. I saw his wife, and she said, "He "is almost worried out of his life, parties have been "here this morning worrying of him, and he is keep-"ing out of sight; he has gone out in the fields," and I went out in the fields, and I found him, and he told me that parties had been there that morning, and one party had put 100*l.* on his table, if he would vote for Dent.

44,010. Did he mention the names of the parties?—No, he did not.

44,011. Did you make any inquiries of him as to who they were?—No, I did not.

44,012. You contented yourself with the fact that 100*l.* had been offered him?—No, I did not. I contented myself with his word.

44,013. You sent him the 25*l.*?—Yes.

44,014. Who by?—Tom Matcham I think it was. The day after the election I spoke to Mr. Windeatt about this 25*l.* that had been promised to Tucker, and he said, "Bourne, if you will be kind enough to "advance this 25*l.*, when we settle I will give you the "money again." I did so. I gave him 25*l.* of my own money. I do not know the date, but I received a cheque from Mr. Jeffery Michelmore for the amount.

44,015. Was that cheque payable to you?—Payable to me.

44,016. Payable to you or bearer?—Payable to me or bearer.

44,017. What bank was that on?—The National Provincial.

44,018. Was this the only person you had anything to do with in the way of money?—The only person I ever had to do with in the way of money in my life.

44,019. In 1863?—Yes.

44,020. Had not you been to see some of the voters, in order to ascertain which side they were going to vote in 1863?—No.

44,021. Did you never go to see a man called Warren?—No, never.

44,022. Or a man called Woodley?—Never in my life.

44,023. Did you ever use your influence with a person of the name of Toms to make him vote?—No.

44,024. Had Toms your printing before 1863?—Yes, he had.

44,025. And did he have your printing after he voted in 1863?—No.

44,026. For what reason was that?—I will explain that. Some few days before the election I had occasion to go into his office in order to get some work done, and I said, "Mr. Toms, what are you going to do at the election?" "Well," he said, "I do not think I shall vote at all." He says, "I have friends "on both sides, in fact you are as good a friend as I "have, and therefore I shall be sorry to offend any-"one, and I shall make up my mind not to vote at "all;" and my reply was, "It is the best thing you can do." Of course I communicated this to Mr. Michelmore and Mr. Cuming, and I told them they might put him down as neutral, and they asked me why, and I stated the conversation I had with him, and to my great surprise, the evening before the election, a party came into my house, and said, "Have you heard Mr. Toms has promised Mr. Dent?" And I said, "Never! It cannot be possible," because I thought he was a person I could place the greatest confidence in. He said, "Depend upon it he has." I said, "I am determined to see him upon it," and I went to his house and saw his wife, and I said, "I hear your husband has promised to vote for Mr. Dent to-morrow?" She says, "Yes, he has," in rather an impertinent way. I said, "I am surprised at that, I should like to see your husband," and presently Mr. Toms came in. I said, "Mr. Toms, your wife tells "me you have promised to vote for Dent to-morrow, "I hope it is not the case that you have gone from "your promise in this way, because I have been and "told the party that you promised me you would not "do so." "Well," he says, "I cannot help it, I can-"not help it." I said, "Very well; up to this time I "have had the greatest confidence in you, but you "must not expect any further favours from me, I "have lost all confidence in you."

44,027. Then you took your business away from him in consequence of his voting against your party?—No. I lost all confidence.

44,028. (Mr. Coleridge.) You were afraid he would not do the printing properly?—No. I lost all confidence.

44,029. What had your confidence to do with it then?—I do not know.

44,030. (Mr. Bere.) What time was it that you called?—I think it was half-past 9, it might be 10.

44,031. Had you anything to do with the election of 1865?—No.

44,032. Have you any persons who rent houses of you?—No.

44,033. No tenants at all?—No.

44,034. Clerks in your office?—No. My own son is my clerk.

44,035. You had nothing to do with the election of 1863 excepting what you have told us?—No.

44,036. What had you to do with the election of 1865?—Nothing whatever.

44,037. You voted I suppose?—I voted.

44,038. Did you vote early in the election, or late?—Somewhere about 9.

44,039. And you voted for Pender and Seymour?—I did.

44,040. Have you been canvassed by the other side?—No, not by the other side; they never thought of canvassing.

44,041. Had you ever been with the Liberal candidates to canvass at any time?—No.

44,042. Were you down at the "Seymour Hotel" where they were?—No.

44,043. You were there frequently?—No.

44,044. What made you not take any part in the last election?—Because I had more business to do. I had not time to throw away upon it.

44,045. What are your customers, principally Liberal or principally Conservative?—Principally Conservative.

44,046. And did they in any way try to interfere with your vote the last time?—No.

44,047. Only on that one occasion?—In 1859.

44,048. Have you at any time received any consideration for your vote?—Never in my life.

44,049. Directly or indirectly?—Never in my life.

44,050. A promise of business or employment?—Never anything of the kind.

44,051. Have you had any communication with Mr. Pender on the subject of a situation for your son?—None whatever.

44,052. Never got a promise of a situation for your son?—No. I never required it.

44,053. I understand that you had nothing to do ith the election excepting what you have told us?—othing.

44,054. You never interfered with any persons vote, directly or indirectly?—Never, unless what I have told you.

RICHARD CROSS recalled.

44,055. (Mr. Bere.) Just look at this book (hand-g account book to the witness). Is that the book ou had a little to do with?—Yes.

44,056. Show us where it was that you took the aves out of that book?—There.

44,057. What became of those leaves which you took t?—They were given to Miss Weekes in the bar copy in all other accounts that were transacted at e bar in those new leaves, and all the old ones ken out; the election matters were all got into one ok at that time, and the other portions entered into e new leaves placed there for the purpose.

44,058. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you really mean to y that your only reason for taking out those leaves as for the convenience of having all those leaves gether?—Well, there was one point more.

44,059. Tell us what that was?—The object was, at Mrs. Beazley was informed by the solicitor of the ustees under Mr. Lovely, that they would require e-day book, and she was not willing that the ection matters should appear in the day-book.

44,060. (Mr. Bere.) Is Mr. James, the station-aster, your son-in-law?—Yes.

44,061. Did you bring him a present of 50*l.* in ctober 1863?—Yes.

44,062. Where did you get that from?—From r. Michelmore, senior.

44,063. How came he to give it to you?—I will xplain it as near as I can remember. After the lection of 1863 we met, I think, between this and is residence, and we were talking over the amount f bribery that was transacted during the election. t came up in this way: "Well," I said, "I recollect Mr. James saying that he was offered 300*l.*, and he has been tried pretty much before in other elections." We were talking over the matter, and e said, "Well, I think James is a straightforward honest man, and I think he ought to be considered," nd he said he should be. Well, Mr. James knew othing then from me. It was a short time before e election; and then, eight months after the election, is money was sent to me as a present for James.

44,064. Had you any talk with Mr. Michelmore etween the time he said James was a straight forward an and the time you had the money?—No, not that remember.

44,065. Where did Mr. Michelmore give you the oney?—I think he gave it to me at my house, I am ot exactly certain.

44,066. He came over to you, bringing the money ith him?—Yes, I believe that was the case.

44,067. That was not all you had to do, was it, with at election?—I think so.

44,068. Come, just refresh your memory. Did you o to a man called Edward Randle Turpin?—Yes.

44,069. What had you to do with him?—He was he duke's carpenter.

46,070. What did you do with him?—Previous to he election, I should tell you, there were two car-enters in Bridgetown; both rented houses under the uke, and they were employed by the duke. Some ays previous to the election I called on Edward andle Turpin, because I had heard by-the-bye that e was tampered with in order to vote for the opposite ide, which he had always previously done for the uke's interest. Well, I had some conversation with im; I think I remonstrated "You know you have employ from the duke, and you rent a house of his, and if you go in favour of the opposite party, perhaps you will lose your house and employment, or you will have notice to quit your house." Well, t came to this: he said Mr. Jeffery Michelmore had ot treated him well, and if he gave more employ-ment to Elliott than to him, it was not fairly divided. He considered that Elliott had more work and em-ment than he had. I said, "I do not know, Turpin," but he said if Mr. Michelmore, not Mr. Jeffery, but if Mr. Michelmore would promise him that he should have a fair share of the work he would still support his interest. I went and communicated this to Mr. Michelmore at the hotel, and he said, "Go back, Cross, and tell Edward"—he called him Edward—"I was not aware but that he had a fair share of the work, but if not, he shall have it for the future." I went back and took Turpin with me to the "Seymour" at the same time, where there was a great deal of work necessary to be done, and told him he might commence with it immediately. This was some days before the election; I do not know how many. However he did not go about the work I had pointed out, and I heard by-and-bye, through a neighbour of his named James Mitchell, that he was going to vote on the other side, the Tory side. I went to him again, as I found he did not come about the work, and "Well," I says, "Turpin, why did not you go about the work that you promised me you would do?" and he had promised to go about it immediately. "Well," he says, "I do not think I shall be able to vote for you this time." "Why not? what for? "Perhaps there is something else you want besides "employment?" "Well," he says to me, "if you can give me 30*l.* I shall be all right." That is the phrase as near as I can remember.

44,071. 30*l.* he wanted?—30*l.*

44,072. What then?—Well, I had no power to offer any bribe to him, nor had I to any man. I went back and communicated this again to old Mr. Michelmore. This was, I think, the day previous to the election. I said I would make it all right with him, and it would have been all right during the day; but when I went to him again he said, "It is of no use; "I have promised my vote, and I shall not go from "it." I see by the newspaper that he states I offered him 50*l.* That is quite an error.

44,073. You only offered him 30*l.*?—I did not offer him that.

44,074. But you told him it would be all right?—I did.

44,075. You told him you would give him the same money if he voted for you that he would have if he voted on the other side?—I did not. I had no power of doing so.

44,076. Was he the only person whom you saw in 1863?—I believe that is all. I do not remember any more.

44,077. Did not Mr. Michelmore send you to other people besides Turpin?—No.

44,078. Did you not go to see some voters who were rather shaky?—I might have called to ask for a vote not to give any bribe or promise any bribe.

44,079. None at all?—No.

44,080. At that time were you clerk to Mr. Michelmore?—I was the duke's clerk. I assisted Mr. Michelmore.

44,081. Although you did not offer any money, did you say anything about land or houses to these voters who you considered uncertain?—What do you mean?

44,082. Did you not offer them some land if they would vote?—No.

44,083. Did you not tell them they would be turned out of their houses if they did not vote?—No, not except Turpin.

44,084. Was he the only person to whom you said that?—He was the only individual.

44,085. What had you to do with the last election?—I do not know that I had anything to do with it, except to vote.

44,086. You must remember whether you had or not?—I merely assisted in making out circulars, directing them, and so on.

THIRTY-THIRD DAY.

R. Cross.

26 Oct. 1866.

44,087. Did you go and see any of the voters ?—I might have kept the poll or checked it.

44,088. Did you get paid for that ?—I was paid for that.

44,089. How much were you paid ?—In 1862 and 1863 I got something.

44,090. What did you get in 1862 ?—I had 10*l.*

44,091. For each time ?—No.

44,092. For the two elections ?—Yes.

44,093. Was that for your services ?—Yes, for my services.

44,094. What had you done at the election of 1862 ?—I kept the poll, I think, nothing more ; and I voted for Mr. Pender.

44,095. Where did you keep the state of the poll ?—At the hotel.

44,096. Did you do the same in 1863 for Mr. Seymour ?—I think I kept a check.

44,097. Were you not paid your 10*l.* for what you did at the election of 1862 for Mr. Pender ?—In 1862 and 1863.

44,098. You were paid after the election of 1863 ; were you not paid 10*l.* for what you had done in 1862 only ?—I considered it might be for 1862 and 1863 ; I did not receive it until 1863.

44,099. Did you consider that you received that money from Mr. Pender or from Mr. Seymour ?—I do not know how that was ; it might have been divided.

44,100. You got your 10*l.*, and you did not much mind how it was ?—I got the 10*l.* I do not know who it was charged to.

44,101. (Mr. Longe.) When you first went to Turpin what did Mr. Michelmore tell you to say to him ?—There was a rumour that he was going on the opposite side ; he had always been straight forward before, and he was living in one of the duke's houses and getting employment from him. I therefore thought it very natural that he should support the Duke's interest. I found out that he was inclined to go the other way, and I communicated that to Mr. Michelmore. He complained that he had not had a fair share of work.

44,102. And that you told Mr. Michelmore ?—Yes, I went and told him. He said he had not been dealt with rightly.

44,103. Then what were you to do ?—I went and told Mr. Michelmore that he would still support the duke's interest if he got a fair share of employment.

44,104. What were you authorized by Mr. Michelmore to offer him ?—Nothing. I did not go to offer him anything at that time. I went to tell him that Mr. Michelmore said he was not aware but that he had got a fair share of work, and that if he had not had it he should have it. Then he promised me that if he got his fair share of work he would still continue to support the duke's interest.

44,105. When you first went to see Turpin you knew that he had been offered money on the other side ?—I had heard that people had been to him from the other side and that he was likely to go from us.

44,106. Who had been there, do you know ?—That I cannot tell.

44,107. You had heard money had been offered him ?—Yes. It was rumoured there was some obstacle in the way ; that he was not right as he used to be.

44,108. As to his losing his house that would have been a matter of course if he had voted for the Conservatives ?—I think he ought to do so, after being promised employment and so on.

44,109. Did you call on Blackler at the same time ?—I think I did call on Blackler, he was also a tenant of the duke's.

44,110. Did not Mr. Michelmore send you to him ?—Yes, I was sent there, most assuredly.

44,111. What was the matter with Mr. Blackler ; what did you go to him for ?—He had been a tenant under the duke many years. I can state as much as this, that when he took the premises he considered himself bound to support the duke's interest.

44,112. Those were the terms on which he took the premises ?—Yes.

44,113. What were the premises he held ?—A warehouse.

44,114. In what position is he ?—He is a stonemason ; he takes in goods at his warehouse.

44,115. What led you to go to him on this occasion ?—We heard that he was likely to go from us by bribery.

44,116. What did you go to do ?—I think now that you have reminded me of it, that he was to see me again in the course of the evening.

44,117. When you went to him was anything said by him about money matters ?—I think, if I remember, he asked 30*l.*

44,118. When you went to him did you ask him how much he was going to have for changing sides ?—I do not think I did.

44,119. Did he tell you ?—I do not think so.

44,120. What about the 30*l.* ; did he ask you to get him the 30*l.* ?—He asked me that, I think, because he was offered that or more on the opposite side.

44,121. Did he tell you ?—It appeared from the conversation that he had been offered more.

44,122. What did you say to him ?—I communicated it to Mr. Michelmore.

44,123. What did he tell you ?—That he was to have it.

44,124. And you went to Blackler ?—Yes, towards the evening, to see if matters could be arranged, but I did not see him. The fact was, that I suppose he had been better served, and he was not to be seen, and he voted against us.

44,125. And of course he was turned out ?—He had notice to quit.

44,126. Mr. John Tucker, he was another tenant of the duke's ?—I do not know.

44,127. Do you remember calling on him ?—I do not know anything of him.

44,128. Do you remember calling upon Mr. Mitchell, a tenant of the duke's, at the same time ?—No.

44,129. You did not ?—No.

44,130. Penwill, did you call on him about his vote ?—No.

44,131. John Briggs ?—No.

44,132. Hannaford ?—No.

44,133. Ellis ?—No.

44,134. Willis ?—No.

44,135. Were those the only persons ?—Yes.

44,136. You only recollected one before ?—I am glad that you called it to my mind.

44,137. Can you remember any more for the 10*l.* that you had ?—My recollection is not so good as it was 20 or 30 years ago.

44,138. You want reminding ?—You put it into my mind, or I could not remember.

44,139. Could not you give us a third ?—No.

44,140. (Mr. Coleridge.) You say that when Blackler took the premises, it was on the understanding that he was to support the duke ?—Yes.

44,141. Whom was the understanding made with ?—Mr. Michelmore, senior.

44,142. Were you present ?—I do not know.

44,143. How do you know that there was an understanding ?—Because there was an understanding at that time.

44,144. Did Mr. Michelmore tell you it was on that understanding ?—There were several premises let on that understanding.

44,145. Have you been present when any premises have been taken on that understanding ?—No, I do not know that I have been, but I understood that from Mr. Michelmore.

44,146. Did Mr. Michelmore tell you that that understanding was put in force ?—It was an understanding.

44,147. Part of the tenancy was, that he was to support the duke's interest ?—Yes, the duke claimed his interest for one vote from the tenant, and the other vote they had the discussion over.

44,148. Before anybody could get premises he had promise that he would give a vote on that side ?—was generally, but there were exceptional cases.

44,149. Was Blackler one ?—Yes, and there have been others.

44,150. How came Blackler to be a man with whom there was that understanding ?—He was a doubtful man.

44,151. With those of whom they thought it was all right there was no understanding ?—Yes.

44,152. It was only those that were doubtful that there was an understanding with ?—Yes.

44,153. (Mr. Bere.) Did you know anything about the persons who were turned out after 1863 ?—I was out of office then.

44,154. (Mr. Longe.) Were you sent to Mr. Byne?—I was not.

44,155. (Mr. Coleridge.) When was your first introduction to bribery here; you have been a long time in the place ?—I commenced with Lord Boringdon's election.

44,156. Had you anything to do with paying money at that time ?—No, there was no bribery then.

44,157. Which is the first time that you had anything to do with paying money ?—I never paid any bribery money.

44,158. Never ?—No.

44,159. When did you first promise any ?—I never promised any.

44,160. You have told us about 1863 ?—Yes.

44,161. Was that the first time you ever did anything of that kind ?—I do not think I did anything before.

44,162. Think again, and perhaps you will find out that you did. When was the first time ?—I never paid any money, except those that I have mentioned.

44,163. But long ago, when was the first time that you ever promised any money for a vote ?—Never promised any except those that I have expressed.

44,164. But in former days ?—There was none in 1832.

44,165. But in the election of 1847 say ?—In 1832 there was no bribery, in 1835 there was no opposition, and in 1837 no bribery.

44,166. You have given Totnes a better character than anybody else has ?—I did not know of any.

44,167. Then go on with the list.—In 1839 there was a double return, and bribery then, I believe, was resorted to.

44,168. What had you to do with it on that occasion ?—I did not do anything in bribery cases.

44,169. What did you do ?—I kept the statement.

44,170. Did you promise anything at that time ?—No.

44,171. Go to the next election after 1839.—In 1840 it was Baldwin and Gisborne.

44,172. There was bribery then ?—I will tell you what I did. I had 200*l.* put into my pocket to go to Dartmouth to exchange the notes.

44,173. Who gave it to you ?—Mr. Watson and I went to Dartmouth to exchange the notes, and I gave him the gold.

44,174. You have no doubt what became of the gold ?—No; no doubt for bribery.

44,175. That was the first time you had anything to do with dirty bribery money ?—Yes. In 1841 there was no opposition.

44,176. What next ?—In 1847.

44,177. What had you to do ?—I kept the state of the poll.

44,178. Did you change any money ?—No.

44,179. Did you canvass ?—Yes, I always canvassed.

44,180. Did you promise anybody any money ?—No.

44,181. Did anybody ask you for money ?—No.

44,182. In 1852 what had you to do with it ?—I did not canvass with Lord Seymour. The eldest son of the late Mr. Michelmore accompanied me.

44,183. Had you anything to do with money at that election ?—There was bribery then.

44,184. What had you to do with it ?—Nothing.

44,185. Did you change money ?—No.

44,186. Carry any money ?—No.

44,187. Promise anybody anything—No.

44,188. What did you get yourself ?—Nothing.

44,189. Not for all your trouble ?—I think two guineas for keeping the poll.

44,190. 1855 was an unopposed election ?—There was an old saying at that time, among some of the electors, against Mr. Baldwin at the last occasion; they said that Mr. Baldwin had been a good milch cow for Totnes, but he was now milked dry!

44,191. As they did not want dry cattle they would not have him any longer ?—No, they would not have him any longer; they thought he was no use after that.

44,192. In 1857 ?—That was Lord Gifford, Mr. Mills, Mr. Mackenzie, and Mr. Gregory.

44,193. Did you get anything then ?—No.

44,194. Did you offer anything ?—No.

44,195. Promise anybody anything ?—No.

44,196. Had you anything to do with money the next election, 1859 ?—Nothing

44,197. Have you told us all that you have had to do with this money ?—Yes.

44,198. (Mr. Longe.) You remember that in 1832 there were only 19 voters at Bridgetown, going back to that time ?—I do not know.

44,199. You remember that they were increased ?—Yes, they increased.

44,200. All those voters, as they increased, were not they held upon those terms, that they held a qualification on condition that they voted for the ducal candidate ?—Not generally.

44,201. What led to the increase of votes ?—The increase was considerable upon building and land; it was let out in small portions.

44,202. What was it increased for; were they built to increase the town of Totnes ?—They were 10*l.* rentals, land and buildings put together, in order to establish them as votes.

44,203. Were not those voters, whoever they were, told it was supposed that they would vote for the ducal candidate ?—I do not know particularly that that was the understanding, but that was the object of making them.

44,204. (Mr. Bere.) Had you anything to do with making those votes ?—No.

44,205. Did not you let the land yourself ?—No, I did not.

44,206. Did not you arrange the buildings that should be put upon the land ?—No; I measured it after it was erected. There was no bribery during his lordship's elections by him.

Mr. JOHN PEDRICK CALLARD recalled and further examined.

Mr. J. P. Callard.

44,207. (Mr. Coleridge.) You are Mr. Michelmore's clerk ?—Yes.

44,208. How long have you been so ?—18 years.

44,209. Which Mr. Michelmore is it that you are clerk to ?—The old Mr. Michelmore.

44,210. You were to the old one, and now you are to Mr. Jeffery ?—Yes.

44,211. When did you first begin electioneering ?—In 1852.

44,212. In 1859, what were you then ?—A voter.

44,213. What else did you do besides voting at the election; did you canvass at all ?—No.

44,214. What voters had you to settle with after the election ?—None.

44,215. No money passed through your hands in 1859 ?—No.

44,216. Besides directing the circulars and acting as tally clerk, did you do anything else ?—I was not tally clerk.

44,217. What did you do in 1859 ?—Nothing.

44,218. You were in the office ?—Yes.

THIRTY-THIRD DAY.

Mr. J. P. Callard.

26 Oct. 1866.

44,219. About the time of the election were you much at the "Seymour Arms?"—In the evening.

44,220. Did you know anything about the money at that time?—No, nothing whatever.

44,221. In 1862 what did you do; that was Mr. Pender's election?—I was only a voter.

44,222. Were not you employed in any way?—No.

44,223. Who did you pay in 1862?—No one.

44,224. Did you offer any money in 1862?—No.

44,225. In 1863 did you pay anyone?—No.

44,226. Did you promise money to anyone?—No.

44,227. Did you take money to anybody after the election?—No.

44,228. Did you take money to anybody else to give away?—No.

44,229. Nothing whatever to do with money?—No.

44,230. Do you mean that all this time when these things were going you were not cognizant that money was given away?—No.

44,231. Although you neither paid money nor promised money, did you make arrangements with any voters?—No.

44,232. What did you do at the last election?—Nothing, only voted.

44,233. When Mr. Michelmore was managing these things did not you know what was going on?—No. I was in the office and occasionally at the "Seymour."

44,234. Never saw money pass there?—No.

44,235. Never saw money under the glass?—No.

44,236. Never took any packet to the "Seymour Arms?"—No.

44,237. You can tell us something about the last election, or you are the only man in Totnes who cannot?—I had nothing to do with it. I was sent one morning to Marldon to see Edmonds. Mr. Seymour had not time to canvass him, and I asked him to give his vote to them.

44,238. What did he say?—He did not promise anything. I said Mr. Seymour and Mr. Michelmore would see him.

44,239. Did he give you to understand that he wanted something to make him promise?—No.

44,240. Did you tell him there was money on your side as well as the other?—No, I never mentioned money.

44,241. You knew that he had had money the last time?—No, I never knew that he had had money.

44,242. Was not there one occupation that you had not told us about?—No.

44,243. Did you know John Screach?—Yes.

44,244. Did not you watch him?—No.

44,245. Were not you set to watch him?—No. I occasionally had a walk in the evening.

44,246. You were a sort of amateur detective?—No.

44,247. How many times have you watched him in the evening?—No.

44,248. Were you employed as a watcher?—No.

44,249. Did you watch John Heath?—When I saw him coming over the bridge I watched where he went.

44,250. Did you follow him?—Yes, occasionally.

44,251. Did you follow him any distance one evening?—To the "New Inn" one evening.

44,252. How long did he stay?—Perhaps five or ten minutes.

44,253. Did you wait outside till he came out?—No, I went in.

44,254. Did you have a conversation with him?—Merely a joke about the election.

44,255. I suppose you were watching one another in there?—Yes, I daresay.

44,256. When you both came out what did you say?—I went away.

44,257. You had nothing to do at the last election except voting?—That is all.

44,258. What did you get?—Nothing.

44,259. No present after the election?—No.

44,260. Nothing for your wife?—Nothing.

44,261. Nothing brought into your house?—Nothing.

44,262. What did you get in 1863?—Nothing.

44,263. Were you poll clerk in 1863?—No.

44,264. In 1865 what did you get for your trouble?—Nothing. I had 2*l.* for pocket expenses.

44,265. What was that for, treating?—No, turnpikes and so on.

44,266. When you were canvassing?—When I went to Marldon.

44,267. How far is that off?—Five miles.

45,268. Did you drive?—Yes, with a trap from the "Seymour."

44,269. You did not pay for it?—No.

44,270. 2*l.* for turnpikes?—Yes, and expenses during the election.

44,271. What did you receive in 1863?—I had 10*l.*

44,272. What for?—For work I had done.

44,273. What sort of work; was it 10*l.* worth?—Yes.

44,274. You would not mind doing the same for half the amount?—It would not pay me.

44,275. You got 10*l.* in 1863?—Yes.

44,276. You voted right?—Yes.

44,277. What did you get in 1865?—Nothing. I was not engaged.

44,278. In 1865, what room was it you went to at the "Seymour" in the evening?—In the smoking room.

44,279. The large room?—Yes, No. 4.

44,280. Did you go to any bedrooms in 1865?—No.

44,281. Is 10*l.* the most you ever got for any trouble at any election?—Yes.

44,282. Used you to dine at the "Seymour?"—No.

44,283. Get a glass of grog?—Yes.

44,284. That you did not pay for?—Yes, I paid for everything.

44,285. Where was there an account where you did not pay?—Nowhere.

44,286. What did James Edmonds come down to the bar of the "Seymour" on the morning of the election for?—He came down to the bar before he went over to the boat, and we had a glass of grog, I think it was, together.

44,287. And you paid for it?—Yes, I paid for it.

44,288. That came out of the 2*l.*?—Yes, it did.

44,289. That is all you know about 1865?—Yes, that is all.

44,290. (Mr. Bere.) You went in 1863 to Edmonds?—Yes.

44,291. Did you go with John Elliott?—John Elliott accompanied me once.

44,292. Do you mean to say that in 1863 you had not instructions to offer him money?—No, I had not.

44,293. Had John Elliott?—No, not to my knowledge.

44,294. No particular sum, but were not you authorized to say it would be all right?—No.

44,295. Did you say so?—I did say it.

44,296. (Mr. Longe.) When you saw Mr. Edmonds what did he say to you?—He said that Mr. Screach had been to him.

44,297. He told you the figure he was offered?—I think he did; I really forget the amount he told me.

44,298. At all events, whatever sum it was, you said —— ?—I said I should communicate that when I got back to the "Seymour," and so I did.

44,299. And they would make it all right?—No, I did not say anything about that, because I think at that time he was at Torquay, and he was coming home the Saturday evening; he said he should come over on the Saturday evening.

44,300. When you left Edmonds what did you tell him you should do?—Communicate what he had been offered by the other party.

44,301. With the object of what?—I do not know what.

44,302. Did not you tell him you would do your best, that you had been sent over by Mr. Michelmore to see him and make it all right with him?—I came back and told them what he had been offered.

44,303. Did you not tell him?—No.

44,304. You told him what you were sent for?—

nt for to see what the other parties had offered m.

44,305. When you came back to whom did you tell
at?—Mr. Windeatt or Mr. Cuming.

44,306. What did they tell you?—I left it in their nds.

44,307. What sum was it you reported, do you rember?—No.

44,308. Was it 80*l.*?—I think it was over 100*l.*

44,309. That he told you he had been offered by
r. Screach?—Yes.

44,310. Do not you remember what they said when u told them that?—No; I had merely got to deer my message, and that is all I had to do with it.

44,311. Do you mean to say that was the end of the atter; did they say you were to see them again?—
o.

44,312. Was Elliott to see them again?—No; he ly went as company, and had not anything to do ith the message.

44,313. But you were acting together?—I saw dmonds. Elliott was not in with us when the con-rsation took place.

44,314. But he went over with you?—Yes, but he as not present when I saw Mr. Edmonds.

44,315. Was Edmonds the only person you were nt to?—Yes.

44,316. (Mr. Bere.) What had you got to do with ne registration?—Nothing.

44,317. You had a good deal to do with it, had not ou? "J. P. Callard, expenses to Collaton," what oes that mean?—I was there, and came to substan-ate my vote at the time the revising barrister was ere.

44,318. Where is Collaton?—Nine miles the other ide of Tavistock.

44,319. Had you gone for a holiday?—No; it was tithe audit day.

44,320. And you came back and were paid 1*l.*?—
hat is railway fare.

44,321. "Expenses to Collaton?"—And back.

44,322. What did you go to Buckfastleigh about he registration for?—To get signatures to a claim to ote.

44,323. And you told me that you had nothing to o with the registration. Were not you the person who really in Mr. Michelmore's office managed the whole of the registration?—No.

44,324. Who made out the bills against the Duke f Somerset for registration expenses?—I never made ut any bills.

44,325. What were your duties?—I had nothing
o do with the duke's accounts at that time. Cross managed the duke's accounts.

44,326. Since Cross has left have you had to do with the duke's accounts?—Yes.

44,327. Cross left four years ago?—He left in 1852.

44,328. You have had it then 14 years?—I mean
1862.

44,329. In 1862 the duke paid the registration expenses; who made out the accounts then?—Cross.

44,330. Who made them in 1863?—I did not make them out. Mr. Michelmore made them out then.

44,331. What was your business in the office?—
Merely to keep the general account.

44,332. What do you mean?—The day-book.

44,333. If a person came in and Mr. Michelmore was out, and he wanted to know about taking land or a house, did you see him?—I should take the message and give it to Mr. Michelmore.

44,334. Suppose he was not at home?—He would have to wait for a reply till he came.

44,335. But would not you make the arrangements with any person who wanted a house or land and submit it to Mr. Michelmore?—Yes.

44,336. And would not your arrangements always be sanctioned by Mr. Michelmore?—Not if he did not accept the party as a tenant.

44,337. And if you did not accept him was he likely to be taken?—Well, perhaps, my saying he would not be a good tenant would make Mr. Michel-more refuse him.

44,338. Did you always do that when you had a man whom you could not quite trust?—Perhaps I might put in a word that he should not take him as a tenant.

44,339. Were not you the person who was really engaged in letting houses and land to persons who came to your office?—No; Mr. Michelmore might have other objections.

44,340. Did you ever know any person to whom you had objections to be accepted as tenant?—No.

44,341. Whose handwriting are these entries in?—
Mr. Jeffery Michelmore.

44,342. Whose is that in (handing a book to witness)?—Mr. Michelmore.

44,343. (Mr. Bere.) Did you go and receive the rents with Mr. Michelmore?—Yes.

44,344. Did you go and receive them by yourself?
—No.

44,345. You see there are constant entries, "J. P.
Callard, on account, 1*l.*;" was that on account of salary?—Yes.

44,346. Did not you receive a certain salary for having to take care of the registration?—No, never.

44,347. What was your salary?—60*l.* a year.

44,348. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know Mr. Harris's father?—Yes.

44,349. He was a tenant of the duke, was not he?
—Yes.

44,350. Do you recollect serving him with notice of eviction?—I think I did.

44,351. When was that?—1862 or 1863.

44,352. He had no vote, had he?—No.

44,353. What did you tell him was the reason you served him?—I do not know that I made any remark.

44,354. Try to recollect. Did not you tell him that the reason was the active part his son took on the other side?—I think I did tell him so.

44,355. Not being a voter, and having done no harm himself, he was turned out because his son was active on the other side?—Yes.

44,356. Was that by Mr. Michelmore's instructions you did that?—Yes.

44,357. (Mr. Bere.) Mr. Thomas Michelmore?—
Yes.

44,358. Of all these people who were turned out in 1863, did you draw out the eviction notices yourself?
—I think I wrote them out.

44,359. At Mr. Michelmore's suggestion?—Yes.

44,360. Or draw them out and then ask him to sanction them?—I was instructed.

44,361. All the names given you?—Yes.

44,362. Do you think you can remember all the people you served notices upon?—Yes.

44,363. We have had some names given, but not others. The names of Briggs, Byne, and Blackler we have heard; was not E. Endle served with notice of eviction?—No.

44,364. Are you quite sure about that?—Yes.

44,365. R. C. Earle?—No, he gave notice.

44,366. James Ferris?—No.

44,367. No notice given to him at any time?—No.

44,368. Goodman?—No, Goodman was before that.

44,369. When was that?—I think Goodman's was 1859.

44,370. What was he turned out for?—I do not know.

44,371. He was turned out?—Then I do not know the cause of it.

44,372. George Griffis?—No, no notice.

44,373. What happened about George Griffis?—
There was a distress for rent put in, I think.

44,374. Then he was obliged to go?—Yes.

44,375. Was that after the election of 1863?—That was before 1863, I think.

44,376. Are you quite sure about that?—Yes.

44,377. Was that distress withdrawn on consideration that he should vote for Mr. Seymour?—No.

THIRTY-THIRD DAY.

Mr. J. P. Callard.

26 Oct. 1866.

44,378. Or the money given back to him?—No.
44,379. Did you come down to value?—No.
44,380. Were you present at the sale?—No.
44,381. W. K. Hannaford?—He was served with notice.
44,382. Jeffery Maye?—No.
44,383. John Maye?—No.
44,384. Did nothing take place about him?—No.
44,385. Any others do you know about?—No.
44,386. Did you serve the notices of eviction?—Yes.
44,387. And did you serve them on the men personally as a rule?—Yes, if I could find them.
44,388. What did you say to them?—I said I had notice to deliver to them, and I suppose they must go.
44,389. What used they to say?—They received it, and did not make any remark.
44,390. Did you tell them the cause of it was that they voted for Mr. Dent and not Mr. Seymour?—No.
44,391. You knew what the cause was?—Yes.
44,392. Mr. Michelmore had told you?—Yes.
44,393. What cause had he told you?—Because they received bribes.
44,394. Supposing a person received a bribe and voted for Mr. Seymour, he was not turned out, was he?—No.
44,395. It was only those who received bribes, and voted for Mr. Dent?—Yes.
44,396. Was it always in case of receiving bribes?—Generally.
44,397. Harris's father never received a bribe?—No; but it was through his son.
44,398. You do not mean to say in all these cases you knew at the time this notice was given that they had received a bribe?—I did not know it then. I know that they had money from one side.
44,399. You never heard the facts that they had received any definite sum of money?—Oh, no.
44,400. You never heard who it was who had given it?—No.
44,401. You inferred from their voting that they had had money?—Yes.
44,402. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had you anything to do with the matter-of-course men Mr. Michelmore told me of?—No, I never had.
44,403. Used you to make out the list of names for Mr. Michelmore?—No.
44,404. Who did that?—I do not know.
44,405. Who told Mr. Michelmore these people would always vote right, but they must have the regular sum for doing it?—I do not know.
44,406. Would it not be part of your duty?—No.
44,407. Would it be a part of Prout's duty?—I do not know.
44,408. Did Mr. Michelmore ever ask you?—No.
44,409. Did you ever tell anybody else?—No.
44,410. Did you ever say a word to Mr. Michelmore?—No.
44,411. (Mr. Bere.) Are you a tenant of a field under the duke?—A house and garden in Totnes.
44,412. You served a notice of objection on William Byne?—Yes.
44,413. Did you see him?—I do not think I saw him.
44,414. Did you not see him just before the election of 1865?—No, I saw him on the morning of the election.
44,415. Where did you see him?—In the back street, going down behind the walls.
44,416. What did you say to him?—We were merely joking.
44,417. Had he voted then?—No.
44,418. Did you know how he was going to vote?—No.
44,419. What were you talking about?—About the election.
44,420. Tell us all he said about it.—I opened with "How was he going to vote?" He said he did not know how the election would turn out.
44,421. Did he say he thought it would turn out for the Conservatives?—No.
44,422. Do you mean to say that Byne did not tell you which way he was going to vote?—Yes; I never spoke to him about his vote.
44,423. Do you mean to tell me that that conversation passed between you and Mr. Byne about the election, and that he never told you which way he was going to vote, and that you never asked him?—No.
44,424. How long did you stay talking together?—A quarter of an hour or 20 minutes.
44,425. When did you find out how Byne had voted?—Not till he polled.
44,426. When did he poll; how long after you had talked with him?—Not till the middle of the day; I do not know exactly.
44,427. Though you did not talk about the election, was there any talk about the fields of a man called Adams?—No.
44,428. Did you have any talk with Byne at all about Adams's land?—No.
44,429. Who arranged with Byne for the fields?—Mr. Michelmore.
44,430. You did not arrange it?—No.
44,431. Did you not see Byne on the day of the election, and did he not tell you he was going to be turned out of the Conservative land, and you must find him some other?—No.
44,432. That you swear?—Yes, not a word.
44,433. You had no talk with him about land?—No.
44,434. What did you talk about?—Merely about the election, how it was going on. There was another man who came in, and we had a talk.
44,435. Who was the other man?—I forget his name now. I cannot tell you, but he came up to us.
44,436. Did you know that Byne had voted for Dent in 1863?—Yes.
44,437. And had been turned out in consequence?—Yes.
44,438. Did you know he had got land from the Conservatives?—I knew he had land.
44,439. Do you mean to say that there was no talk at all about the land?—I swear to it.
44,440. Do you know anything about Ackrell?—I know him.
44,441. Where does he live?—He used to live at Warland.
44,442. Was he the man that came up?—I think he was.
44,443. Did he talk about his vote?—No.
44,444. Had you voted?—Not then.
44,445. Did you say which way you were going to vote?—No.
44,446. You were talking together for a quarter of an hour or 20 minutes, and not one of you three said which way he was going to vote?—No.
44,447. (Mr. Longe.) Did you serve a notice on Byne?—I think I left it at his house.
44,448. Did you see him at the time?—No.
44,449. When you said, "You know what it is for," when you gave it to him, that is what you generally said?—I think so.
44,450. I ask you whether that is so?—No; I merely gave the notice and went away. Some did not say anything.
44,451. Sometimes they were evicted for other reasons besides voting?—I daresay there have been some cases.
44,452. What did you mean when you said, "You know what it is for"?—He did not go straight at the last election.
44,453. Do you mean to say that the understanding of those words was that because they had received money they were turned out, or because they had not voted right, when you used the expression, "You know what it is for," did not it mean because they had not voted the right way?—They had not voted the right way.

44,454. (Mr. Bere.) Was there a man called Knapman turned out after the 1859 election?—Yes.

44,455. Was there anybody else turned out after the 1859 election?—I do not know.

44,456. We have heard that Goodman was turned out, and Kellock was turned out; who else?—I do not remember any.

44,457. Can you tell who took the rents in your time?—I daresay I could.

44,458. Have you got the books with you?—No, I have not.

44,459. The election of 1859?—I can tell by the notices.

44,460. It was in April, was it not?—I think it was.

44,461. And the persons would receive the notice at Michaelmas?—It depends on the tenancy.

44,462. You can tell from the books what lands and houses have changed hands between April 1859 and Midsummer 1860?—Yes.

44,463. Was a man called Sercombe turned out in 1859?—I do not know whether it was before 1859.

44,464. When?—It may be 1859.

EVAN EVENS recalled and examined.

E. Evens.

44,465. (Mr. Coleridge.) When you were examined here before us the other day this question was put to you "You took no interest, I believe, in the election of '1862?—No. Nor again in 1863?—No. Was not 'the reason why you took no interest in those two 'elections because there was some peculiar circum-'stances affecting Mr. Seymour and your son?—Not 'Mr. Seymour; it was the Duke of Somerset. 'What were those circumstances?—The Conserva-'tive party gave me a nomination. To a Govern-'ment appointment?—Yes, to a Government ap-"pointment. In the Admiralty?—Yes, that is the "nomination, and my son went up and passed the "examination, and succeeded." The next question is, "Did you take any part in the last election, "excepting voting?—Never. Did you offer any-"body any money?—Never." Do you still say that is the truth?—I am not aware of any single instance.

44,466. In 1862 did you offer money to Mr. James, the station-master?—No, never.

44,467. Did you not offer him 100*l.*, or if that was not enough, anything he might like to mention?—Never in my life.

44,468. Did you ever make an offer to Mr. James at all?—I never spoke to Mr. James at all about election matters.

44,469. Did you speak to him about the election of 1862 at all?—Never.

44,470. Did you ever call upon him to see him about the election?—I called one evening about it.

44,471. What happened?—I did not see him.

44,472. Did you see his wife?—I did.

44,473. What did you say to her?—I asked her to ask Mr. James whether he would vote and support Dent's election.

44,474. Did you offer her anything?—I think I told her she could have a sum.

44,475. What did you tell her?—That was all. It was a brief conversation. It was done in two minutes, I think.

44,476. Then you did offer him a sum in 1862?—She said it was her particular wish Mr. James should vote for him.

44,477. Then when you answered us before that you took no interest in the election of 1862 that was incorrect?—Yes, decidedly, that far.

44,478. That is so, because we must correct the notes so far. You were engaged in bribing voters in 1862?—Decidedly.

44,479. Did you not offer D. Putt something?—In 1862?

44,480. Yes?—Never.

44,481. In 1863?—Never.

44,482. When was it you offered Putt anything?—Never.

44,483. Did you ever offer Putt anything or his wife?—Never. I did not, I assure you.

44,484. Did you ever canvass him?—I did, for Colonel Dawkins. That was the only circumstance I was connected with as regards the canvass at the election.

44,485. Putt was carried off, was not he?—No, not that I am aware of.

44,486. Will you tell us what the circumstances were about Putt in Colonel Dawkins' election?—He intimated some three or four years ago that it was immaterial to him whom he voted for, and this last election I solicited him to vote for Colonel Dawkins.

44,487. What did you promise him?—He said he had always had a respect for Mr. Seymour, and he wished to support him.

44,488. What did you promise him if he would vote for Colonel Dawkins?—I did not promise him anything.

44,489. Did you offer him anything?—I did not.

44,490. Did you say it would be all right?—I did not.

44,491. Did you offer him any situation?—I did not. He was a captain of a vessel.

44,492. In 1863 what did you do with the election?—I did not do anything.

44,493. Did you canvass anybody?—No.

44,494. Or promise anybody anything?—Not to my knowledge.

44,495. In 1865, besides Putt, did you canvass anybody?—No, I never went outside my door to do so.

44,496. Did you canvass Mr. James?—I did not.

44,497. Did you offer him 300*l.* a year on the railway?—I was authorized to go to him without reference to politics whatever.

44,498. When did you go to him for that purpose?—I cannot recall it to my memory.

44,499. Was it a day or two before the election?—No.

44,500. How many days?—I think it was months before.

44,501. Months before?—Yes; that is to the best of my belief.

44,502. But were you authorized to offer Mr. James a situation on the railway?—I was authorized to go to Mr. James, and that if he would accept a station-master's place, or something of that sort, I do not know what it was, I was authorized to offer it.

44,503. Did you tell him the value of it?—No.

44,504. Did you know where it was?—No.

44,505. Do you know what the value of Mr. James's place here is?—I do not.

44,506. Do you know whether it was a better place than he has got here?—I think it was intimated to me it would be advantageous to him.

44,507. Who intimated to you it would be better for Mr. James?—Mr. Edmonds.

44,508. When you went to Mr. Edmonds did you see him about it?—Yes.

44,509. What did he say?—He said he would give it a consideration. He immediately replied, "I think "the ultimate object must be a political one." I said, "I am not authorized to say one word about politics "whatever."

44,510. Was anything said, if he did not like to vote for you, he might keep neutral?—Nothing of the kind, not on that occasion.

44,511. When did you say that was, in 1865?—Yes.

44,512. In 1862 you said you did not see him, but you saw his wife?—Yes.

44,513. In 1865 did you say anything to him about the offer of 100*l.*?—No.

44,514. It was only as to a situation?—Yes, nothing to do with the election whatever.

44,515. You went to make this offer, knowing Mr. James had voted against you?—Yes.

44,516. You knew it was a political matter?—He said, "Mr. Evens, I have nothing whatever to say about politics." I said, "I know you have not, Mr. James."

THIRTY-THIRD DAY.

E. Evens.

26 Oct. 1866.

44,517. Is Daniel Putt a brother-in-law of Mr. James?—Yes.

44,518. And he did not vote after all, did he?—No.

44,519. Do you know why he did not vote?—No, I do not know. He was quite indifferent about voting.

44,520. Had you anything to do with his not voting?—No, I had not a word to say.

44,521. As far as 1862 goes, you did take some interest in the election, and as far as 1865 goes, you did offer a situation to Mr. James?—No, nothing whatever to do with the election; nothing whatever.

44,522. But you did offer a situation to Mr. James in 1865?—Yes.

44,523. And you did canvass Mr. Putt?—Yes, for Colonel Dawkins.

44,524. And you did take some interest in the election of 1865?—Yes. If I omitted to mention it it was entirely from not being asked; not intentionally.

44,525. How was this situation to be obtained?—That I do not know.

44,526. Did Mr. Edmonds tell you?—I think he told me he had communications for some station-master, or something.

44,527. Did he tell you who the communication was from?—He did not.

44,528. Was it from Mr. Potter, the chairman of the Great Western Railway Company?—I cannot tell. I do not think there was any name mentioned whatever.

44,529. Was there any name mentioned of the railway it was on?—No.

44,530. Are you sure the Great Western was not mentioned?—I do not think it was.

44,531. Had Mr. Harris spoken to you about going to vote in 1865?—I never had any conversation with Mr. Harris in my life about anything of the kind whatever.

44,532. Did not you?—No, never. I know he said in his evidence that Mr. Putt was under Mr. Evens's influence, but I never had an influence over him.

44,533. You went to see Mrs. Putt, did you not?—No, never; I deny it.

44,534. Then it is not true what Mr. Harris has said, according to you?—It is not.

44,535. Did nothing of this sort with Mr. Harris take place; did Mr. Harris say "I have seen so-and-so, I think he is to be had?"—Mr. Harris is the last person I should dream of expressing myself to about a voter. I never had a communication with him about anyone.

44,536-7. Do you think you can tell us what the exact date was you offered that situation to Mr. James?—I really cannot, I assure you.

44,538-9. Might it be as little as a fortnight before the election?—I should think it was months before.

(Mr. James.) It was within a week or 10 days.

(The Witness.) If you can assist me, Mr. James, I should be obliged.

(Mr. James.) Within a fortnight; I should think about 10 days previous to that.

(The Witness.) If it is so, it is so; I cannot tell.

(Mr. James.) I have no doubt that was about the time.

44,540. (Mr. Bere, addressing the witness.) Do you know at the time you made that offer to Mr. James that Mr. Potter, the chairman of the Great Western Railway Company, was talked of as a candidate here?—Yes.

44,541. Knowing Mr. Potter was likely to be a candidate here, did you not know from Mr. Edmonds that it was on the Great Western Railway the situation was to be?—It was some railway, some branch on the Great Western Railway.

44,542. Some branch on the Great Western Railway?—I think it was.

44,543. Did not you also know that the value of the situation was 300*l.* a year?—There was some mention made that it was considered to be very advantageous to Mr. James.

44,544. Did not you know it was so?—I do not know. It was intimated to me it would be advantageous.

44,545. By Mr. Edmonds?—Yes. He was the only person I spoke to.

44,546. Did you tell Mr. James about the value of it?—I cannot say. Mr. James was better aware of the value of this situation than myself.

44,547. And whatever the value was Mr. James, upon the receipt of this intimation, knew it was something better than he had at present?—I suppose so.

44,548. You say he took time to consider. How long was it before he gave you an answer?—I think a day or two.

44,549. Did you go to see him or did he come to see you?—No, he came to me.

44,550. What did he say; he said he could not do it?—He said something would be expected politically from him, which Mr. James knows; and I said, "I had nothing whatever to do with that."

44,551. And he refused it?—Yes. He would rather remain where he was, he was very comfortable where he was.

44,552. Was there a man called Stephens you had to do with, a tailor?—Never.

44,553. Never at any time?—Never.

44,554. Did you ever offer Stephens, a tailor, any money?—I have not the slightest knowledge of doing it; never. I never offered him any money.

44,555. You are quite sure about that?—Yes, I never did.

44,556. John Stephens of Fore Street I mean?—No, never.

44,557. He is a tailor?—Yes.

44,558. Did you in 1859?—I might have canvassed him, but I never offered him money.

44,559. You are quite sure of that?—Never.

44,560. At no time?—I have not spoken to the man for the last six or seven years.

44,561. Have you quarrelled with him?—Yes.

44,562. What about?—That was about electioneering.

44,563. What was the quarrel about?—I should tell you, I think it was the election between Mills and Baldwin, there was a very stubborn fellow, a very noted man, who lived in the higher quarter of the town, called Searle.

44,564. John Parnell Searle?—Yes.

44,565. A man who goes by the name of "Slippery Jack?"—Yes. This is how it occurred. We were up at the auction mart, and there was an intimation that Mr. Jeffery Michelmore, Mr. Charles Michelmore, and some other people were there in a carriage endeavouring to take away Searle, and there were four or five of the Conservatives who went up to prevent their taking him away, and this man, who is a very abusive fellow, came to me, and without any provocation abused me most shamefully in the street, and ever since that I have never spoken to him.

44,566. Have you not offered him money?—Never. I have canvassed him, not offered him money.

44,567. Have you had anything to do directly or indirectly with any other persons than those whom you have mentioned?—I can assure you most conscientiously that there are no others.

44,568. Did you not offer 100*l.* to Mr. James's wife in 1862?—I never offered 100*l.* to anyone in my life.

44,569. You mentioned some sum to his wife?—Either 50*l.* or 60*l.*

44,570. Have you been a candidate for the council?—Yes.

W. E. James.

WILLIAM EDWARD JAMES recalled.

44,571. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did Mr. Evens canvass you personally in 1862?—No.

44,572. He came to your house and saw your wife?—He did.

44,573. Did you ever hear your brother-in-law, Putt, say that he had been canvassed by Mr. Evens?—No, never.

GEORGE PENGILLEY sworn and examined.

44,574. (Mr. Longe.) How long have you had a vote?—I never had a vote.

44,575. Where do you live?—In Fore Street, Totnes.

44,576. You keep a shop there?—Yes. I have not been there above six months.

44,577. You will have a vote for that house?—Yes.

44,578. How long have you lived in Totnes?—All my life.

44,579. What was the first election in which you took any part at all; were you employed at all by either party?—I have been employed at three elections as a messenger. I think in 1859 was the first time I had any money.

44,580. In 1859 on which side were you employed?—Always on the Liberal side.

44,581. Who was the gentleman whom you communicated with?—Mr. Cuming, I think.

44,582. What were you employed to do?—As a messenger some few days of the election.

44,583. Were you sent to any voters?—No.

44,584. You were merely employed about the committee room?—Yes.

44,585. Not to communicate with any voters?—No.

44,586. The next election was in 1862, Mr. Pender's election?—I was not employed then at all; I was at Mr. Seymour's election.

44,587. That was a month afterwards?—Yes.

44,588. Who employed you then?—I think Mr. Shute engaged me then at the "Seymour Hotel" to deliver some circulars; that was the first thing I did. I was engaged for several days then.

44,589. How long was that before the election?—It might have been a week or two.

44,590. Were you sent to any voters then?—No.

44,591. Not in 1863?—No.

44,592. Do you know anything of money being sent to anyone at that time?—I do not know it for a fact.

44,593. You knew what John Elliott was about?—No.

44,594. Do you know of any money being spent?—I could not swear it. My own opinion is that there was a lot of money spent, but it did not pass through my hands, and I do not know whose hands it did pass through.

44,595. Were you employed in 1865 by the same side?—Yes.

44,596. Who was the person you were chiefly in communication with?—Mr. Parnell was that person; I do not know that he employed me.

44,597. What did you get for your services?—Two guineas.

44,598. What were you to do?—To act as a messenger.

44,599. Where did he send you to?—He did not send me anywhere in particular. The day before the election I saw Mr. Harris, who is a voter, and had some conversation with him; he was an intimate friend of mine. I asked him who he was going to vote for; he said he hardly knew, but that he had promised Mr. Pender, and the other side had been offering him as much as 150*l.* if he would vote for both the Tories. I think he said that Mr. Robert Harris had offered him money.

44,600. What was the christian name of your friend?—Richard Harris.

44,601. Is he any connexion of Mr. Robert Harris?—Not that I am aware of. He said it was a great temptation. I told him that if his second vote was worth so much to the Conservatives it would be worth a trifle to Mr. Pender.

44,602. Did he ask you if you could get him some money?—Those were the words he used.

44,603. Did you get him any money?—I asked him what he would expect; he said, "If you can get me "20*l.*, I and Tarring are intimate friends, and he will "do exactly the same as I do. If you can get 20*l.* "for each of us we will both vote alike, and both vote "for Mr. Pender."

44,604. You mean give one vote for Mr. Pender?—Yes, and one for Dawkins, as he had promised. If you will get me 20*l.*, and 20*l.* for Tarring, I will give the money to Tarring. I never spoke to Tarring myself.

44,605. Did you tell this to Mr. Parnell?—I did. I saw Mr. Parnell and I told him it was very likely that these men would vote for both the Conservatives, and I said, "If you let me have 30*l.* for each of them I think I can secure them." He said, "Do you think you can get both their votes?" I said, "I did not think I could." He gave me a parcel, and when I went home I found 100*l.* in the parcel. He said, "You will make the best bargain you can, so as to "get both votes. If you cannot do that you will give "them 30*l.* each for the single votes; they told me "they had promised Dawkins, and I did not tempt "them very much."

44,606. What was the result?—I paid 40*l.* to Harris.

44,607. For his single vote?—20*l.* for himself and 20*l.* for his friend.

44,608. What did you do with the other money?—I gave Mr. Parnell 40*l.* the next morning, and 20*l.* I kept myself.

44,609. You had two guineas besides?—That was some months after.

44,610. Had you not some money for William Pengilley?—Yes; I saw him on the morning of the election. I thought a few pounds would do him as much good as anyone else. On the morning of the election I saw my uncle and asked him how he was going to vote; he said he supposed he should vote for the Conservatives; that he had been made right by that side and had had 50*l.* for three or four days in the house, but that he would sooner vote on his own side if he could get the same amount. I asked him to keep from voting until I saw him again. It was early in the morning then, about 8 o'clock. I then saw Mr. Parnell and told him that my uncle would vote for the Conservatives, and I said that if I had 55*l.* I would make sure that he would vote for the Liberals, and I had it. I had a 5*l.* note and a 50*l.* note. My uncle told me he did not like the note, he would rather have the gold, and I took the note to the bank and changed it for him.

44,611. To which bank did you take it?—The Devon and Cornwall Bank.

44,612. And I believe Mr. Pearce asked you to indorse your name on it?—Yes, and I did.

44,613. What became of the 5*l.* note?—That was mine.

44,614. Did you get cash for that?—No. I did not cash that at the bank.

44,615. Did William Pengilley vote for the Liberals?—Yes. I stayed in his house until he voted.

44,616. You did not think him very safe?—No.

44,617. As to the other two how did they vote?—I could depend upon them; they voted. I paid Harris after they voted.

44,618. Did Tarring and Harris vote right?—Yes, as they had promised; one on each side for Dawkins and Pender.

44,619. Did you have any more money?—No; that was all I had to do with.

44,620. Were you employed to negotiate?—No, I was not employed to do that; I did it of my own accord.

44,621. You knew of other persons being bribed on your side?—I cannot answer for more than what I did myself.

44,622. You know of other cases at the last election we have not heard of?—No; these were the only men I had dealings with. I have heard from general talk of a great many people.

THIRTY-THIRD DAY.

G. Pengilley.

26 Oct. 1866.

44,623. You have some one in your own mind whom we have not before heard of?—No, I have not.

44,624. (Mr. Bere.) Is that all that you had to do with the election?—Yes, at any time.

44,625. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you had anything to do with municipal elections?—Not at all.

44,626. Are you a voter at those elections?—No.

44,627. (Mr. Bere.) Is Charles Bowden Pengilley a cousin of yours?—Yes.

44,628. Is he a son of William Pengilley?—Yes.

44,629. Is your father alive?—Yes.

44,630. What is his name?—John.

44,631. Is he a voter?—Not for the borough, he is for the council.

44,632. Did you ever use any influence with him in his voting for the council?—No; he might have had a breakfast, perhaps, some years ago; he never had any money.

44,633. What was the name of this Mr. Harris for whom you say you got the money?—Richard Harris. Harris said to me, "If you can get any money for yourself I shall be very much pleased about it."

JOHN SLOGGETT JENKINS sworn and examined.

J. S. Jenkins.

44,634. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—Nothing at present.

44,635. What have you been?—I have kept a school.

44,636. How long ago did you keep that?—I have done nothing in the educational line since I have left India. I had a situation under the old company.

44,637. How long have you been home from India?—Seven years.

44,638. Have you lived all that time in Totnes?—No.

44,639. How long?—I came here on the 1st October 1860.

44,640. Had you voted in the election of 1862?—That is Mr. Pender's election?

44,641. Yes.—I had.

44,642. Had you been connected with Totnes before?—No, except through my ancestors.

44,643. When did you first begin to take a warm interest in politics?—I took a warm interest in Mr. Pender's election.

44,644. Before you knew Mr. Pender personally?—That is the second election.

44,645. But on the first you did?—No. I merely gave my vote, and nothing more.

44,646. When did your interest in Mr. Pender commence?—When he came here first, I called upon him in company with Mr. Paull, the Independent minister, and had some conversation with him.

44,647. Did you not express considerable interest in Mr. Pender before the last election?—I am not aware that I did.

44,648. Had you not been in communication with Mr. Pender before he was elected?—I think not.

44,649. Will you look at that; is that your handwriting (referring to a letter)?—Yes, that is just on the eve of the election.

44,650. You are familiar enough to write to him as "Dear sir?"—Yes.

44,651. Had you known him before?—No.

44,652. You saw him and ascertained his political intentions?—Yes, his intentions to fight honourably and purely.

44,653. And you promised him, of course, your vote?—I had a conversation with him.

44,654. I believe from that time you continued to correspond with him at intervals till the last election?—Yes.

44,655. Did you write to him at all between the 10th December 1862, the day after his election, till February 1864?—I am not aware.

44,656. Can you remember whether you wrote to him in 1863?—I have seldom written to him except in his position as member, and in connexion with the election.

44,657. And in connexion with your own personal desire?—If you put any question to me I will answer it.

44,658. You were a candidate for the inspectorship of schools?—Yes. I applied for it as any other gentleman would.

44,659. Did you write to Mr. Pender on the 10th December, expressing your desire to have purity in the elections, and at the same time hint in your letter about the request that the Wesleyan chapel should be assisted?—I am not ashamed to say "Yes," or of any letter written to Mr. Pender.

44,660. Did you consider that was a proper influence to bring to bear immediately after an election?—I should not have done it if I had not thought so.

44,661. You thought that that was not interfering with purity?—Not after an election.

44,662. Not with a view to a future election?—No.

44,663. It is: "I make bold enough to bring before "you the case of our Wesleyan chapel. It has recently "been erected at a considerable cost, and is still in "debt. If, as an M.P., you could look upon this, and "give us a donation, I should be greatly gratified, and "our Wesleyan friends generally would receive it with "much pleasure. Let me not, however, press it. If "your own feelings lead you to respond, I shall be "happy to be the medium; if otherwise, my senti-"ments towards you will remain those of a sincere "admirer and well-wisher." Did Mr. Pender respond?—No.

44,664. Did he give you any donation?—No.

44,665. Was their chapel brought into the distribution of the 1,000*l.*?—It was.

44,666. How much?—You already know, 100*l.*, and that at the meeting I requested that the money should not be given to the Wesleyan chapel.

44,667. What was your reason for that?—I thought the town might consider that it was buying the Wesleyans.

44,668. In spite of your opposition it was given?—Yes.

44,669. You are one of the committee?—Yes.

44,670. You have been on the committee for some time?—I am on no committee.

44,671. I have some letters of yours?—I took a deep interest in Mr. Pender's election.

44,672. Did you leave Totnes for some time between December 1862 and February 1864; did you take up your residence anywhere in the north of England?—I generally visit the north of England once a year.

44,673. Were you not resident one time at Oldham?—I was with my family in the north. I have relatives at Oldham, and went to see them.

44,674. Is that Mr. Paull's handwriting?—These letters which you have here are letters on private matters, and I am prepared to answer any questions about bribery and corruption, but I think it is rather unfair to bring a private letter into court in this way.

44,675. We are the judges about that. What I want to know is, were you away from Totnes as a resident?—No.

44,676. Can you explain a letter of Mr. Windeatt's to Mr. Pender, that he should take pains to bring you back again to Totnes?—I cannot explain it. I can only explain my own matters.

44,677. Mr. Windeatt being dead, we are obliged to go to other persons?—I know nothing about Mr. Windeatt's communication.

44,678. You were intimate with Mr. Windeatt?—Yes, very.

44,679. He was a member of the same chapel as yourself?—No, he was an Independent.

44,680. Do you know his handwriting?—I think I do.

44,681. Is that his handwriting (referring)?—It looks like it, and I should think it was.

44,682. (Mr. Bere.) Till February 1864 to the time of the election 1865 did you communicate constantly with Mr. Pender?—I do not know what you mean by "constantly."

44,683. Nearly every week?—No, I am not aware that I did. I frequently communicated with him, but if you have my letters, and ask me any questions, I am prepared to answer the questions.

44,684. Is that your handwriting (referring to a ter) ?—Yes.

44,685. Is that your handwriting (referring to ano- r letter)?—It seems to be a source of great pleasure you, but when you ask me questions why not ask questions upon the letters.

44,686. You are here to answer our questions.—I ll answer any questions upon the letters, but I will t be badgered about in this way.

44,687. You had better mind, or you may go from re to some other place.—It will not affect my moral aracter a bit.

44,688. Did you send Mr. Pender, on the 7th October 65, an account of how you expected certain persons Totnes would vote ?—I got a list from Mr. James es, and I enclosed it in the letter.

44,689. Is that your handwriting (referring to a ter)?—Yes.

44,690. There is something here that I want you explain. Here is a letter that you copied ?—Yes.

44,691. Did you put the numbers ?—I copied them actly as the paper gave.

44,692. Did you put the numbers to the different mes ?—Yes.

44,693. No. 6 is opposite the name of F. Coombes, d your remark is, "Must not vote." What do you ean by that ; is that your handwriting ?—These numbers seem to be mine, but I know nothing of Mr. Coombes.

44,694. I ask you to explain. In your letter to Mr. Pender you say that "No. 6 must not vote." Explain what you wrote that for.—I cannot explain it. I am not aware that the number is mine, and if it be I could not explain it. I will tell you that is merely a copy made from Mr. Rees's list.

44,695. Is that a copy (referring) ?—No, these are my remarks.

44,696. Why make the remark that Mr. Coombes must not vote ?—I cannot tell.

44,697. Consider : we should like to know.—I cannot tell.

44,698. Why not ?—I do not remember.

44,699. Had you anything to do with Mr. Coombes ? —No, except as a tradesman.

44,700. Had you anything to do with his affairs?—No.

44,701. This is an odd and singular remark.—I will explain any question.

44,702. You do not answer them.—I appeal to the court whether I do not.

44,703. No. 8, John Ferris, you make a remark not to vote ?—I cannot remember.

44,704. Then you had better retire, take your letter and the list, and see whether you cannot remember.—If you keep me a month I cannot remember.

CHARLES BOWDEN PENGILEY sworn and examined. C. B. Pengiley.

44,705. (Mr. Coleridge.) How old are you ?—24.

44,706. Have you got a vote ?—No.

44,707. Were you employed at the last election ?— es.

44,708. What were you employed as ?—Poll clerk id messenger.

44,709. What else ?—Nothing else.

44,710. Who employed you ?—I think it was Mr. harles Michelmore first spoke to me.

44,711. What were you employed at ; how much a eek ?—I had no regular sum. There was no under- anding.

44,712. How long were you employed ?—Three ays.

44,713. What did you get for it ?—I think it was s. for the Monday, and 10*s.* for the Tuesday ; and I ink it was about a pound for the Wednesday.

44,714. Was it the Monday, Tuesday, or Wednes- ay that you called upon W. H. Bovey ?—I called everal times.

44,715. Is he a brother-in-law of yours ?—Yes.

44,716. He married your sister ?—No, it is a brother f his, that married my sister. I married his sister.

44,717. Did you canvass him ?—Yes.

44,718. Who sent you ?—No one.

44,719. You went of your own accord ?—Of my wn accord.

44,720. You asked him to vote for the two Liberals suppose ?—Yes.

44,721. What did he say ?—A great deal of hem- ning and hawing. I saw he wanted money.

44,722. Did he say anything about money having een offered him on the other side ?—Not that I ecollect.

44,723. Did he tell you they said it would be all ight for him if he voted the other way ?—I cannot ay. I do not recollect.

44,724. Did he say he had been canvassed the other ide ?—He did not tell me he had been canvassed.

44,725. What did he say ?—He said he wanted money, and money he must have.

44,726. He did say that ?—Yes.

44,727. Did you say you would get him some money? —I did not.

44,728. Did you offer him anything ?—I did.

44,729. What ?—I offered him 40*l.* and 60*l.*

44,730. Where were you going to get the 40*l.* or 60*l.* from ?—I do not know.

44,731. Did he get the money ?—Not that I am aware of. He was very much disappointed at not receiving it.

44,732. Do you recollect what time he voted in the day ?—I think it was very late.

44,733. Which way did he vote ?—I think he voted for the Conservatives.

44,734. What was the last time you offered him any money ; the day of the election or before ?—I did not offer him the day of the election.

44,735. The day before was it ?—I think it was the day before.

44,736. Did he come to you about the money ?— No, he did not.

44,737. When you offered him that money did he say he would vote for the Liberals if you got it for him ?—I almost forget.

44,738. You must recollect it. When you offered him the 40*l.* what did he say ?—He told me he would consider it. He would not give me a straightforward answer whether he would or not.

44,739. How long after you had offered him the 40*l.* did you go and offer him the 60*l.* ?—It might be perhaps an hour, or an hour and a half.

44,740. He did not answer in the right way, so you raised it to 60*l.* ?—Yes.

44,741. What did he say to the 60*l.* ?—He said he could not do it for that.

44,742. You offered him 80*l.* afterwards ?—No.

44,743. Never ?—I did not.

44,744. 60*l.* was the highest you offered him ?—No.

44,745. Did he ask you where you were going to get it for him ?—He did not.

44,746. He did not ?—No.

44,747. Do you think he took it for granted ?—Yes. I think he would believe anything he was told ; he is a queer sort of fellow.

44,748. It might have been on the Monday when you offered him the 40*l.* ?—It might be or not.

44,749. When you offered him on the Tuesday did he not say his business compelled him to vote on the Conservative ?—Yes.

44,750. What was his business that compelled him to vote on the Conservative side ?—I cannot tell you. It is a queer thing to me that he had got any business at all.

44,751. You mean, that his business merely meant that he wanted money ?—I believe that is it.

44,752. You did not admit offering him 80*l.*, but you admit 60*l.* ?—Yes.

44,753. Were you examined before Mr. Tucker at he time of the petition ?—Yes.

44,754. Where ?—At the "Seymour."

44,755. Did he take down your statement in writing ? —Yes.

44,756. You told him that you did not offer him anything. You did not tell Mr. Tucker you offered this voter money ?—I do not think he put it to me.

44,757. Yes, he did, because here are your words,

THIRTY-THIRD DAY.

C. B. Pengiley.

26 Oct. 1866.

"I offered no bribe to anybody." Is Bovey anybody?—Mr. Tucker alluded to my father.

44,758. "I offered no bribe to anyone, nor did I know of any?"—It was my father that he asked me if I offered money to.

44,759. "My father is a voter;" and not only did you say you did not offer anything to anybody, but here is a marginal note of Mr. Tucker's, in which he puts, "Witness denies offer of bribe to anybody?"—Well, I do not think I cared about telling Mr. Tucker all I knew of the truth.

44,760. You did not care?—No.

44,761. Then you did not tell Mr. Tucker the truth?—No, I did not think it was worth while.

44,762. Although it was read over to you, and you signed your name to it?—Yes. I was not on my oath over there. Had I been upon my oath I should have told different, perhaps.

44,763. Is it true what Bovey says? He is asked this question, "Did he raise his offer again after the "visit when he offered you the 60*l.*? Yes, he came "to me and said, would 80*l.* do." Is that true?—No.

44,764. Who did you tell that you were making these offers to him?—No one.

44,765. Did you tell Mr. Michelmore?—No, I did not.

44,766. Who were your immediate chiefs?—I do not know.

44,767. You were a watcher?—No, a messenger.

44,768. To whom did you carry messages?—I had no message at all to carry, to tell you the truth.

44,769. From whom did you get your money?—I got it from Mr. Tucker of Ashburton, young Mr. Tucker.

44,770. He paid you for being a messenger?—That was some time after the election. I was paid with a quantity of others.

44,771. Did you get anything paid at the election?—No, nothing paid.

44,772. Nothing for money paid out of pocket?—Not a farthing.

44,773. Did you go to the "Seymour Arms?"—Yes.

44,774. Did you have any beer there?—Yes.

44,775. Did they make you pay for all you had there?—I am not aware; most likely they did.

44,776. Now on Wednesday did you go to know Bovey's decision?—Yes, I did.

44,777. That was the day of the election?—About 6 o'clock in the morning; he told me he could rest no longer.

44,778. Did you then ask him if any larger sum would be a consideration; whether he would not make up his mind for a larger consideration?—I have no doubt I did.

44,779. What did he say to your asking him if a larger sum would be a consideration?—Well, he said it would, or something to that effect. I saw 60*l.* would not be enough for him.

44,780. Did he name a sum?—Yes.

44,781. What was it?—200*l.*; that was the amount. He was very careful about it.

44,782. Do you recollect going to him on the Wednesday, and saying you came to know what message you were to take back?—I did not. I never put those words to him. I said this, "Well what are you going to do; have you made up your mind?" that was all. And he said "Yes," I think.

44,783. What did you say about the 200*l.*?—I said, "What do you want?" He said, "I do not like to tell you, Charley, about it; it is rather a delicate affair." I said, "If you do not like to tell it write it down."

44,784. Did he write it down?—He did.

44,785. What did he write down?—Two and two noughts; 200*l.*

44,786. Did he say that was the message you were to take back?—I laughed at him.

44,787. Whom did you tell him you were to get the money from?—No one.

44,788. Never at any single time; the Monday, Tuesday, or Wednesday, did he ask you where the money was to come from?—No.

44,789. Did he make no inquiries where the money was to come from?—He might make inquiries where the money was to come from, but if he had I did not know myself. He did not ask the question.

44,790. Did he ask, in the event of his accepting the offer, when he should get the money?—No, he did not.

44,791. When did you tell him he should have the money?—I never told him when.

44,792. You merely told him if he voted right he should have the money?—No, I never told him that exactly.

44,793. What did you do with Mr. John Elliott at this election?—Nothing more than I should do with you if I saw you.

44,794. Did you carry any messages for him?—No, not at all.

44,795. Did not Mr. John Elliott send you to Mr. Bovey?—No.

44,796. Did you have any conversation with Elliott about Bovey?—I might have said, "I have got a fine tool in hand, and he has some money."

44,797. Did you say so?—I might have done so.

44,798. Have you no recollection that you said anything about Bovey to Elliott?—I have no doubt I did.

44,799. Was Elliott the person you talked to about it, if you talked to anyone?—Oh no.

44,800. Who else did you talk to about it?—No one.

44,801. You did not talk to anybody else about it?—No.

44,802. Did you tell John Elliott about it?—Yes, I did. I am not sure.

44,803. You are on your oath, and remember you are not before Mr. Tucker now. Did you say anything to Mr. Elliott about Mr. Bovey?—Yes, I did.

44,804. You are sure you said something about Bovey?—Yes.

44,805. Did you tell him about having made those offers to Bovey?—No.

44,806. What did you say?—I told him I had a fine tool in hand, a brother-in-law of mine. That was all I said to him.

44,807. Had you also a conversation with Mr. Windeatt about Bovey?—No, I had not.

44,808. Did not Mr. Windeatt send you to Bovey in the first instance?—No.

44,809. Did nobody say to you, knowing you to be a brother-in-law of Bovey's, "Go to him, and get him to vote?"—No.

44,810. Did not Mr. Windeatt say so?—I do not recollect it, or I would say so.

44,811. Did Mr. Windeatt say anything to you about it?—No.

44,812. Nor anyone else?—No.

44,813. It was entirely out of your own head?—Entirely out of my own head.

44,814. To whom else did you go at that election and talk to about money?—No one.

44,815. No one at all?—Not that I recollect.

44,816. Just try and recollect?—Not specially anyone.

44,817. Did you make any offer to anybody else?—No, I did not.

44,818. Did you have any "fine tool in hand" besides Bovey?—No.

44,819. You are quite sure of that?—I am.

44,820. Did you go to anyone else and offer money as you did to Bovey?—No.

44,821. Did you go to anyone else without offering them?—No.

44,822. Did anyone come to you?—No.

44,823. What were your duties as messenger?—I was about the "Seymour Arms," in and out of the house. I was there if required. I can tell you what I did the Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

44,824. What did you do?—All I did on the Monday was to go and see after some bills.

44,825. And to see Bovey?—No.

44,826. You said you would tell me what you did—That was nothing to do with him.

44,827. You went the rounds with the placards?—On the Monday I did nothing but go out with the addresses; that was my Monday's work.

4,828. In distributing those addresses did not you to any of the voters about their voting?—No.

4,829. Not one?—Not one.

4,830. On the Wednesday you were about the tion I suppose?—Yes.

4,831. About the hustings?—No. I was in the ing booth from 8 in the morning till 4 in the noon.

4,832. And for that you got 35*s.*, 5*s.*, 10*s.*, and —Yes.

4,833. That is all you received?—Yes. I am not e sure you have my bill, and it might be 6*d.* or 1*s.* re.

4,834. Besides what Mr. Tucker paid you, did body else pay you anything?—No.

4,835. Nothing at all?—No.

4,836. (Mr. Bere.) Did you get any money on Conservative side?—No.

4,837. Was any offered to you?—No.

4,838. None at all?—No.

4,839. Was not there some money offered to you en you were going up as a witness?—Oh, yes.

4,840. By whom?—That was offered to me by vey.

4,841. What did he offer you?—400*l.*

4,842. Did he say where he should get it?—Yes.

4,843. Whom from?—Mr. Edmonds, the solicitor.

4,844. What were you to have that 400*l.* for?— r telling just what I told that gentleman there (Mr. leridge).

4,845. Or for not telling?—To go up and tell .

4,846. Have you been telling this gentleman lies? No.

44,847. (Mr. Coleridge.) You reserved your lies for Mr. Tucker, was that it?—No.

44,848. (Mr. Bere.) You told Mr. Tucker about the 400*l.* being offered you?—Yes, I told about that.

44,849. You thought it was worth while to tell him that?—Yes.

44,850. (Mr. Longe.) You understood when you were with Mr. Tucker that you were to make out a case when he was taking your evidence, that you were not to tell all the facts you knew, but as little as you could?—No. Mr. Tucker asked me the whole truth; he did not wish me to tell any lies.

44,851. You are sure he asked you for the whole truth?—Yes.

44,852. And you gave him the whole falsehood?— No, I gave him the whole truth. He has down my statement what I told him.

44,853. (Mr. Coleridge.) You told us that you did not tell him the truth because not on your oath. Which do you mean, did you tell him the truth, or did you tell me the truth?—I have told you the truth.

44,854. Then you did not tell the truth to Mr. Tucker?—Certainly not.

44,855. (Mr. Longe.) Did not you understand that you were to tell, I do not say it came from Mr. Tucker, but was not your own view on that occasion that you might be examined before the House?—No. He asked me, and all he asked me for I told him. I do not think he wished me to keep back anything.

44,856. The only difference on the two occasions is that then you were not on your oath and you are now?—I am on my oath now, then I was not. I did not much care what I told him. When in London I should have told quite different perhaps.

JOHN SLOGGETT JENKINS recalled. J. S. Jenkins.

44,857. (Mr. Bere.) Can you give us any informa- on now?—I cannot give you any information. If u will allow me to take that to Mr. Rees I will ask m. He lives in Fore Street. I will answer any estion I can.

44,858. Allow me to read your letter to you:— In my last I promised to forward an abstract or rather a précis of the state of the burgess list. In making it care has been taken to get as accurate an account as possible. In doubtful cases the benefit has been given to the Tories. You will understand for whom the initials stand." That is a matter I not understand, because I do not understand what T" was for?—Unless it be Tory I cannot say.

44,859. Mr. T., Mr. Tory?—I really cannot tell u. I could not say just now what the "T" meant.

44,860. Do you mean to say you cannot give us any formation?—I cannot.

44,861. As to the reason you wrote?—You should ot have to ask the same question twice if I could nswer you. I have not the slightest recollection hat that means.

44,862. You say "there is a large number of voters who are numbered who you say, although doubtful, will very probably," underlined, "vote for you?"— es.

44,863. Let me ask this. Is the "very probably" nderlined because you knew there was a certain mount of influence would have to be exercised?—No. Mr. Pender was the popular candidate at all times; nd if I made use of an expression of that kind as I ave in the letter that I think will answer it, they would very probably vote for him.

44,864. What did you attribute Mr. Pender's popularity to?—To his general character, his well-known character as an honourable man, as I believe it to be even now, though such ugly things have been brought out in this court, a thoroughly honourable man.

44,865. Had you canvassed any of those people?—Never. I did not know until Thomas Smith appeared the other day, and that I saw in the paper, that I had ever asked a man for a vote. I know it was stated at the time by Mr. Harris, who is on my right, that I had done as he had, gone about feeling the symptoms of the people. I never asked a man for a vote in his life.

44,866. Two or three of these people you have marked John Fox Green, Thomas Matcham, Robert Lorimer; those three are men who did vote for Mr. Pender?—Mr. Lorimer did.

44,867. And so did John Fox Green?—I really do not know whether Fox Green did. I scarcely know the man.

44,868. Thomas Matcham?—I think I have seen him in the town.

44,869. I think you know something about Thomas Matcham?—No; you think very wrongly there.

44,870. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you mean you do not know him at all?—I do not say that.

44,871. (Mr. Bere.) Is that your letter (handing letter to witness)?—That is my writing.

44,872. Will you read that statement, and then tell me whether you know nothing about Thomas Matcham?—It was a rumour about the town everybody knows, and it has come out in evidence I see by the papers. I think that will hardly show that I knew anything particular about Mr. Matcham. It was a common rumour about the town that a cheque had been drawn.

44,873. I will take it shortly that you reported to Mr. Pender from time to time about the registration?—I think not. I have sent him communications, but when you say from time to time, I may have done so once or twice.

44,874. Did you do so in the autumn of 1864?—I can tell you if you will show me any communication that bears upon it.

44,875. Do you mean that you do not remember what you wrote Mr. Pender at all?—No. Mr. Pender was a very particular friend of mine, and I treated him always as a friend.

44,876. But that would not make you forget?—Only I bore no relation to Mr. Pender as a political agent.

44,877. You took so much interest in Mr. Pender's political success that you corresponded with him on the means of insuring his success?—Yes.

44,878. Did you write to him about the registration of 1864?—I cannot tell you.

44,879. (Mr. Longe.) You remember being in court when the 45 votes about the Gerston estate?—Yes

THIRTY-THIRD DAY.

J. S. Jenkins.

26 Oct. 1866.

44,880. (Mr. Bere.) Did you write to him about that; surely you must remember that?—Yes, I do when you tell me, but not the particular year.

44,881. Look at that (handing a letter)?—Yes.

44,882. Are those three letters written to Mr. Pender on the subject of the registration, the last two letters I shewed you in 1864?—They are on the registration questions.

44,883. Is that other letter with regard to the registration of 1865?—Yes, I see that is 1865.

44,884. Did you often make suggestions to Mr. Pender on the way in which the plans of the opposite party might be met?—I do not know. I communicated with Mr. Pender from time to time.

44,885. Will you read the last paragraph of it (the witness read it)?—Yes, I see that. I cannot recollect all I have written.

44,886. Can you not recollect generally?—I can recollect when you show me any correspondence; I do know then.

44,887. Then you communicated with Mr. Pender about the registration of 1864, and you also communicated to him that document you got from Mr. Rees?—Yes.

44,888. Did you take an interest in the election of 1865?—No.

44,889. Did you go down and attend a meeting of the Liberal party at the "Seymour Hotel?"—Never.

44,890. Were not you at the "Seymour Hotel" during the whole of that election?—Yes, I was with Mr. Pender two or three times.

44,891. Were not you in a room with Mr. Chaster and Mr. Holman, conversing about the election?—I might have been.

44,892. Did not you make up a poll-book at that election?—No.

44,893. Did you go through a poll-book at that election?—No, I am not aware that I did.

44,894. Did you?—I say no, then, if that language is not plain enough. I meant to convey to you no. I have not the least recollection of it.

44,895. Did you canvass for Mr. Pender?—No.

44,896. Or with him?—One morning I went with him to show him where Mr. Guppy lived.

44,897. Who is Mr. Guppy?—A gentleman who lives in the town. He happens to be an independent.

44,898. You went to show him where he lives?—Yes.

44,899. Is that all you did?—I am not aware of anything else.

44,900. Did you go into the house with him?—Yes.

44,901. Did you see Mr. Guppy?—Yes.

44,902. Then you did more than go to show Mr. Pender where he lives?—No, I did not.

44,903. Did you talk to Mr. Guppy?—No.

44,904. Did Mr. Pender talk to him?—He asked him to give him his vote.

44,905. Did you introduce Mr. Pender to Mr. Guppy?—I did.

44,906. After the election did you interest yourself in the registration of 1865?—I really cannot tell you.

44,907. That is the letter put in about the 45 votes?—(Referring) I was present at that registration.

44,908. Would you be kind enough to read that letter and tell me whether you did not take an actual part in managing the expenses of Mr. Pender's election?—No.

44,909. Do not answer in a hurry, but read it to the end?—Yes.

44,910. Did you go down with Mr. Chaster and Mr. Jeffery Michelmore, and Mr. Thomas Windeatt?—I think Mr. Windeatt, senior.

44,911. To look through the accounts connected with the late election at the "Seymour Hotel?"—Yes; that is at the Mechanics' Institute.

44,912. Were the hotel charges put before you?—No.

44,913. How did you know the hotel charges were of course the heaviest?—I heard from gentlemen they were heavy.

44,914. You are of opinion they tended to very little good?—Very little good, and worse than that.

44,915. When the petition was brought forward d you take any interest in that?—I have always take an interest in Mr. Pender's affairs.

44,916. Did you go over to Ashburton to assist M Tucker in getting up the evidence?—No.

44,917. Will you look at that letter (the witne examined the letter)?—Yes.

44,918. Having seen that letter, did you go over t Ashburton to confer with Mr. Tucker about th petition?—With reference to my getting a minut book.

44,919. Was there any other business connecte with that petition except that?—I believe not.

44,920. Now look at that letter?—Yes, I wrote it.

44,921. Will you read that one?—Yes, and that.

44,922. After having read those letters, you sti adhere to what you said just now, that you did n assist in getting up the evidence?—Most distinctly.

44,923. And you repeat it?—I repeat it.

44,924. Did you know of the evidence after it wa collected?—I am not aware of anything except tha book.

44,925. We must have these letters published, an then the public can judge of them. This is a lette written on the 9th March 1856 by J. S. Jenkins t Mr. Pender: "My dear sir, This morning's 'News' state " that the Totnes petition is withdrawn. Is it so? " I shall not be sorry if this proves true. Meanwhile " all is being done here to meet the emergency, and u " to this time nothing has transpired in the examinin " of the men subpœaed to make us fear. Chaster wil " have told you that on Tuesday Mr. Tucker (Ashbur " ton), was here, and he arranged to be here to-day " Some of the parties examined by Mr. T. have give " excellent testimony as to the attempts made by th " Conservatives to perjure themselves, and althoug " this would not be sufficient to destroy their attempt " yet it would very materially affect the judgment " a committee sitting on the case. John Heath sai " to Byne, from whom he had some hay, and wit " whom he was bargaining for more, 'Now you ca " have 50*l.* for that rick if you will tell all you know' " the rick itself being worth only 30*l.* From Pen " gilley, too, capital evidence was got, and althoug " there is not direct connection with Edmonds, yet i " is morally certain that E. offered him a large sum " I presume if the rumour of the 'News' be correct yo " will have had intelligence. I shall be glad to know " that this is so. Heartily shall I congratulate yo " (although I never feared for the result), it will sav " you from annoyance and vexation." There is a endorsement on the letter, will you read that?—I hav read it.

44,926. What do you mean by saying, "There ca " be nothing made, nor any evil arising out of sendin " direct to you from Totnes. Of course you must b " kept informed, and that can be done only by writing " In sending to Totnes it is better to have some on " else address, and not you. I have spoken to Chaste " on this matter, and he quite concurs. Some thing " can be communicated only to you direct?"—Wha it conveys?

44,927. Will you explain what it conveys?—I can not tell you anything more than what it convey there.

44,928. I will tell you this, that your connexio with Mr. Pender was so intimate that you must hav known a great many things that went on.—If you wi ask questions I will answer them.

44,929. What were the things that could not b communicated?—I cannot tell, and you must know, a a gentleman, that there are a great many things tha cannot be communicated in a letter.

44,930. What things were they that could not b communicated?—I cannot tell.

44,931. What were the things that could not b communicated by Mr. Pender direct?—In addressin letters I suggested to Mr. Pender the propriety o other persons addressing the letters to me, because know that there are busy people about the town wh look at letters.

44,932. (Mr. Coleridge.) "In sending to Totnes, " to" double underlined, "it is better to have some body else to address, and not you.—That was in writing to me.

44,933. That Mr. Pender was not to write to you?—That he himself should not address the letters.

44,934. (Mr. Bere). That his writing should not be known?—Yes.

44,935. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who was the postmaster?—Mr. William Hannaford.

44,936. Which side was he on?—I never asked, and never knew.

44,937. Did he vote?—I do not know.

44,938. Was it not because William Hannaford was on the Conservative side?—I do not know.

44,939. Living here and taking that interest that you did, did you not know which way the postmaster voted?—I do not know.

44,940. To whom was that letter written (referring to a letter)?—It was mine.

44,941. To whom written?—To Mr. Pender.

44,942. No, we can inform you that it was written to Mr. Tucker.—Certainly not.

44,943. It was found in Mr. Tucker's papers?—Certainly not.

44,944. What is the meaning of that endorsement; perhaps you will read it out?—If you like. "It will "be well to acknowledge receipt of letters just now; "one does not know what influences are at work."

44,945. What influence did you allude to?—Do you think I can remember?

44,946. Then you are a very unsatisfactory witness.—I am sorry you think so, nobody in the town would think so but you.

44,947. Cannot you answer that?—No.

44,948. Then there is a letter of February 26th, it begins, "One thing I wish to refer to; have you had "any equivalent from Revd. ——— for the loan? Did "he deposit with you the scrip? If not, that should "be at once attended to, and the possession of such "would prove a bona fide transaction."

44,949. Is that Mr. James?—Yes.

44,950. Had you heard whether the scrip had been deposited?—I had not.

44,951. From whom had you heard of Mr. James?—I had heard from the town, I think, some months afterwards.

44,952. Used Mr. Pender to answer your letters?—Yes.

44,953. Did you destroy them?—Ye.

44,954. When?—Generally as they came.

44,955. Were some kept?—Yes.

44,956. Were they destroyed?—Yes.

44,957. When were they destroyed?—About two months ago. We are removing, and I am clearing up.

44,958. Is it since this Commission was appointed?—Yes.

44,959. Since the summons was served?—Yes, since the first.

44,960. Mr. Pender's letters?—I did not say that.

44,961. I asked you that; did you destroy any letters of Mr. Pender's?—Yes.

44,962. Now, you having been so intimate with Mr. Pender, and taking such an interest in his political success as to keep up correspondence, and about the registration matters and the expenses of the election and the petition, you mean to say that you did not know that a large sum of money was spent by him in 1865?—No.

44,963. Nor in 1862?—Not a penny.

44,964. I do not ask whether any money passed through your hands?—I mean it as you mean it.

44,965. You did not know that he spent a large sum of money in 1865?—I did not know.

44,966. Never till this Commission was instituted?—No.

44,967. Never suspected it?—No; so green as that that I never suspected it.

44,968. (Mr. Longe.) Up to this time you thought Mr. Pender was standing on purity principles?—Yes.

44,969. And now you are sadly undeceived?—Like others; but you gentlemen coming strangers into the town will have a different impression from those in it. I think Mr. Pender has been victimised.

44,970. This is the letter that I spoke of from Mr. Windeatt to Mr. Pender: "Our friend Jenkins is "talking of leaving, I wish you could have got some-"thing to keep him here, or at least to enable him to "keep up a residence within the borough. He will "be a loss to Totnes if he leaves. He is now near "Leeds." Were you living near Leeds?—Visiting only.

44,971. You do not know how it was proposed that you should be retained to be for the service of the party?—No; never made any application.

44,972. (Mr. Coleridge.) You made use of the term "victimised" with regard to Mr. Pender. Do you think that Colonel Dawkins was more victimised?—I think he spent more.

(Mr. Bere.) Now Mr. Rees is here, perhaps you can explain this document.

Mr. Rees recalled.

44,973. (Mr. Bere.) Did you get those numbers there (referring to a paper)?—No, never saw them before.

44,974. (Mr. Coleridge.) You cannot swear, Mr. Jenkins, whether that No. 6 is or is not in your handwriting.

(Mr. Jenkins.) No. I would tell in a moment if I knew.

44,975. (Mr. Bere.) Opposite to No. 6 appears this remark, "Must not vote." Do you know what that means?—No.

44,976. Did you send Mr. Jenkins a poll book; the thing seems to be a copy?—I cannot answer that question. To the best of my recollection I did supply Mr. Jenkins with the poll book. But to what date do you refer?

(Mr. Jenkins.) 1865.

(The Witness.) No doubt I did.

44,977. (Mr. Bere.) Did you put numbers against the names of certain votes?—I think I did, but I am not quite sure.

44,978. Will you look at No. 6?—Mr. Coombes.

44,979. Did you append a note to that "must not vote?"—It is very likely I did append some note.

44,980. If you appended the note "Must not vote," what is the reason of it?—I do not say I did append such note, but it is very likely that I did; but as far as my recollection goes, if there was a note, it would be probably "would not vote."

44,981. You knew Mr. Pender?—Yes.

44,982. Why not communicate with him and not through Mr. Jenkins?—He never asked me.

44,983. Do you know whether Mr. Jenkins was ever asked to do so?—No.

44,984. You can give us no explanation of the entry "Must not vote?"—No, I do not admit it is my handwriting. If you will show it to me in my own handwriting I will acknowledge it.

44,985. The note is Mr. Jenkins's, "Must not vote?"—I cannot endorse Mr. Jenkins's remark.

Mr. John Sloggett Jenkins recalled.

44,986. (Mr. Bere.) With Mr. Rees's assistance you cannot explain it?—No.

44,987. Have you got Mr. Rees's note?—No. I do not know that I did retain the book.

44,988. (Mr. Bere.) Did the book come back to you Mr. Rees?

(Mr. Rees.) No, I never saw it.

44,989. (Mr. Bere.) Did you get a summons similar to that (referring to a summons)?

(The witness.) Yes.

44,990. Did you read it, or did you treat it with contempt, like some others?—No, I read it. I never treat anything with contempt, except when questions are asked me which attack my position, and then I think it is time to show indignation.

THIRTY-THIRD DAY.

J. S. Jenkins.

26 Oct. 1866.

44,991. Did you read this: "The Commissioners "do hereby summon and require you personally to "appear and attend before them in the forenoon to "be examined by and before them, touching the sub-"ject matter of the inquiry directed by the said Act, "and the said Commissioners do hereby summon and "require you then to bring with you, and to produce "before them all books, papers, deeds, and writings in "your possession or custody, or under your control, "which relate to any of the matter to be inquired "into by them." Did you read that?—Yes.

44,992. And after that you destroyed the letters?—I object to produce any private correspondence.

44,993. Did you do so or not?—Yes. I received nothing but private communications.

44,994. (Mr. Longe.) Having read that you destroyed those letters?—All letters lying about my rooms.

44,995. You destroyed letters of Mr. Pender relating to the election?—I have never written anything but letters as from a friend to a friend.

44,996. (Mr. Bere.) Similar to those they would be?—Very likely.

44,997. Do you think that your letters have anything to do with the election?—So far as my interest with Mr. Pender is concerned.

44.998. We have heard it asserted that you had to do with the conveying away of Mr. and Mrs. Smith in 1865?—No man in the town dares to say so.

44,999. Do you know Mr. Smith?—Yes.

45,000. Is he a member of the same chapel as you are?—No.

45,001. Have you ever been to see him with regard to the election of 1865?—No. I met him on one occasion at the Newton station.

45,002. Did you talk to him about his vote?—Yes.

45,003. What did you say?—I asked him how he thought he was going to vote, and I said I should be glad if he had made up his mind to vote for Mr. Pender, and that is all that passed. He said he did not think he should vote.

45,004. Did you suggest to him that if he did not vote for Mr. Pender it would be better to go away?—No.

45,005. Did not you see Mrs. Smith?—No; and my wife's name has been mentioned.

45,006. She can answer for herself. As far as you know did your wife go and see her?—Yes.

45,007. You repeated your answer that you did not know of any money being spent illegally in 1865?—Never a penny.

45,008. Is Mrs. Smith a member of the same body as yourself?—She is.

45,009. Had you no conversation at any time with Mrs. Smith about her husband's vote?—No, never.

45,010. Did you canvass anybody?—Have I not just answered that?

45,011. Did you see Mr. James Paddon?—Yes, I saw him at the station.

45,012. Did you ask him which way he was going to vote?—He did not tell me. One vote to Mr. Pender. I did not go to see him. He told me that Mr. Harris had been to see him.

45,013. (Mr. Bere.) We are all clearly of opinion that by your conduct with regard to Mr. Pender's letters you have committed a contempt of court, and we shall want you here to-morrow to determine what course to pursue.

(The witness.) Will you allow me, with respect to Mr. Harris, to say that I was obliged to appear as a witness against him, when he was expelled from the Methodist society for lying. Hence you may have a clue to any remarks that he may have made against me and my wife.

Mrs. Webber.

Mrs. WEBBER sworn and examined.

45,014. (Mr. Bere.) Were you the wife of Mr. Webber, a linendraper in this town?—Yes.

45,015. He was in a large way of business?—Yes.

45,016. And took a great interest in politics?—Yes.

45,017. And was a Liberal?—Yes.

45,018. He was a magistrate?—Yes.

45,019. When was he made a magistrate?—I think in 1863.

45,020. Do you remember having received 1,200*l.* in Mr. Pender's election of 1862?—I have seen that letter.

45,021. Have you that letter?—No; it has been destroyed.

45,022. Who was that from?—Mr. Thomas Allin, his nephew.

45,023. What did it contain?—Money that was to be sent or had been sent.

45,024. Did your husband tell you the money had come?—No.

45,025. Did he tell you what he had done with it?—No.

45,026. When did you destroy that letter?—Two or three months since, amongst some other papers that were destroyed after his death.

45,027. When did you destroy the letters?—Two or three months since, among some other papers that were destroyed after his death.

45,028. Can you give us any information with regard to the 1,200*l.*?—I cannot; I have not the slightest idea.

45,029. Whether he paid it into the bank or to an individual, or what became of it?—I have not, indeed, any idea.

45,030. Do you know anything about a sum of 500*l.* with regard to the election of 1863?—No; I know nothing about it; I never saw anything of the kind.

45,031. And never knew anything about it?—Never.

45,032. He never spoke to you or told you about it?—Those matters he never talked to me of.

45,033. Did you ever hear anything from him about going down to the National and Provincial Bank in 1863, and giving a guarantee for the advance of a sum of money?—No.

45,034. Have you got the banking book?—There never was any bank book.

45,035. Did he not bank?—Yes. There was never any banking book that I have seen.

45,036. There must have been a banking account?—I do not know how he transacted the business; I have never seen any.

45,037. If you had to get any money did you go to the bank?—I went to my husband.

45,038. Did he give it you in a cheque or in cash?—In cash.

45,039. You would not know whether cheques were drawn by him on the National and Provincial Bank?—I suppose he would if he required it. I cannot understand those things at all.

45,040. Did you not send to the bank yourself?—I have sent at times.

45,041. Were you the executrix?—No.

45,042. Who would be the executors?—My brother-in-law and my son-in-law.

45,043. Who are they?—Mr. Watson and Mr. Charles Webber.

45,044. If there had been a banking book you would have known it?—I think I should have known it.

45,045. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know Mrs. Westaway?—I do.

45,046. Did you ever tell her anything about some money in the election of 1862?—I asked her, by my husband's desire, for her husband to vote, and he did so.

45,047. Was there anything about 150*l.*?—No, certainly not.

45,048. You do not recollect anything being said about money?—I recollect her saying she wanted money, and I told her I daresay I should be able to get it.

45,049. How much?—60*l.* I told her I did not think I could get so much for her. I told my husband afterwards what she had said, and I never heard anything more about it.

45,050. Did Mrs. Westaway tell you of it afterwards?—My husband put the money on the table, and told me to send for her.

45,051. Did you send?—I did.

45,052. Did she come?—Yes.

45,053. Did she take the money away?—She took the money away. I showed her where to find it.

45,054. That was in 1862?—I think 1863.

45,055. Mr. Seymour's election?—Yes, I think so.

WILLIAM HENRY SAWDYE sworn and examined.

45,056. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—A farmer, at Newton Abbott.

45,057. How long have you lived there?—About six years.

45,058. Where before then?—At Ashburton.

45,059. When did you first become a voter for Totnes?—About eight years ago.

45,060. What was your qualification?—A 10*l.* occupier.

45,061. What of?—Building and land.

45,062. Where?—At Cornworthy, a field a little below the turnpike.

45,063. Who else occupied the land with you?—No one.

45,064. Did you occupy it entirely yourself?—Yes.

45,065. What rent did you give for it?—14*l.* or 16*l.* a year.

45,066. You occupied it with your own cattle?—Yes.

45,067. How many acres was it?—Three or four acres.

45,068. When did you first vote?—The first time for Mills and Gifford.

45,069. What did you get for it?—Nothing.

45,070. Were you offered anything?—No.

45,071. Did you ask for anything?—No.

45,072. Did anybody else suggest to you that you might get something?—No.

45,073. Was nothing left with your wife?—No.

45,074. You got nothing at all at that election?—No, nothing.

45,075. Now then in 1862?—Mr. Pender offered something.

45,076. Did you go and vote for him?—No.

45,077. Did you not get something after the election?—No.

45,078. Do you know what Mr. Jeffery Michelmore swore yesterday?—I do not know.

45,079. Do you know Mr. Henry Michelmore?—I do.

45,080. Did he in 1863 pay you any money?—No.

45,081. At any time?—No.

45,082. Did he allow you any money?—No.

45,083. In 1863, did you receive 12*l.* 10*s.* from anybody?—No.

45,084. You say your rent was 14*l.*?—I think 14*l.*, if I remember right.

45,085. Are you still the occupier of the field?—No.

45,086. Was it allowed back to you?—No; I paid my rent in full when it was due.

45,087. Is there any other Sawdye living in Newton Abbott?—No.

45,088. Nobody else you could mention of that name?—No; a letter addressed to Mr. Sawdye, Newton Abbott, would reach me.

45,089. Do I understand you to say you received no money from Mr. Henry Michelmore in 1863, or about that time?—I did not.

45,090. In no way?—In no way whatever. I never received any money in any respect from Mr. Henry at all.

45,091. Mr. Jeffery?—No, nor Mr. Jeffery.

45,092. From anybody?—Not from anyone in respect of voting.

45,093. Did you never receive 12*l.* 10*s.* in respect of your vote from anyone?—No.

45,094. Nor 10*l.*?—No, nor any other sum. I have been offered money.

45,095. Who offered the money?—Mr. George Heath.

45,096. When was that?—On the 17th of January 1863.

45,097. How do you particularly happen to know the date?—I made a memorandum in my book. (handing the book to the Chairman).

45,098. Where was that money put down?—On my front room table.

45,099. At Newton?—Near Newton.

45,100. Where is it you do live?—A little way out of the town, about half a mile.

45,101. Towards Totnes?—No, the Churtney Road.

45,102. You were not within the list?—I was not, but my vote was passed before the barrister before I removed without the distance. I was living nearer before.

45,103. Was that the only money you were ever offered?—That was the only money.

45,104. Did he leave it on the table in a bag?—He put it down.

45,105. What did you say?—I said I would not take it.

45,106. Am I to understand that this is a mistake of Mr. Jeffery Michelmore?—I do not know what he said.

45,107. He says, on being questioned about some sums, Mr. Henry Michelmore 22*l.* 10*s.*; 12*l.* 10*s.*, Sawdye?—That is not me. I do not remember having the money.

45,108. (Mr. Coleridge.) You had no vote in 1865?—No.

45,109. (Mr. Bere.) Did you not get any of the sum of 12*l.* 10*s.* and the 10*l.* from Mr. Michelmore?—Not any.

45,110. Not to give it to anybody else?—No.

45,111. Did you ever, directly or indirectly, receive any money for your vote at any time?—Never.

45,112. Were you never offered any except that?—Never in my life.

45,113. When you took the land, did you understand that was the ground on which you had it?—I took it for cattle. I asked the son of Mr. Thomas Michelmore to let me have the field for the change of cattle. He said yes.

45,114. That conferred a vote?—Yes, it did.

45,115. Did you understand that if you had it for your cattle you would have to vote for the Liberal party?—Nothing was said about it.

45,116. (Mr. Longe.) Were you a Liberal at the time?—I was.

45,117. You always had been a Liberal?—Yes, and my father before me, I believe. I have no doubt Mr. Michelmore understood that if I had the field, and it conferred a vote, I should vote that side.

45,118. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was it the general understanding that anybody who rented under the duke was to vote for the Liberals?—I do not know that.

45,119. You think it was the understanding you were to do it yourself?—He might expect it, because he knew there would be no difficulty about it. I may mention one circumstance that occurred when Mr. Dunn came, and Mr. Mill came and said, "We are here." I said, "You may go away, if you please." Then he went away from me, and I said to Mr. Dunn, "You may depend upon it your name is Dunn, and done you will be at the next election."

45,120. (Mr. Bere.) Had you some land at Summerhill before you had this land?—No, I was away from it many years.

45,121. Was Mr. Jeffery the agent when you were away?—The agent for the lands I was farming.

45,122. What were those?—Under Lord Cranstoun.

45,123. Where?—In Ashburton.

45,124. That was a large farm?—Yes, a large farm 200 acres.

45,125. Do you live within the list of Ashburton?—Yes.

45,126. Within the seven miles?—Yes.

45,127. Had you got this field then?—Yes.

45,128. Did you want this field of four acres besides the large farm of 200 acres?—Yes, I did.

THIRTY-THIRD DAY.

W. H. Sawdye.

26 Oct. 1866.

J. B. Prout.

45,129. Did the proposal to take the field come from you or Mr. Michelmore ?—I asked him if he had a field to be kind enough to let me have it.

45,130. Did you hear that this field was vacant ?—He wrote and said, I have now a field if you like to take it.

45,131. (Mr. Coleridge.) Is it grass land ?—Very good grass.

45,132. Near the river ?—Yes.

JAMES B. PROUT sworn and examined.

45,133. (Mr. Bere.) You are clerk to Mr. Henry Michelmore now ?—Yes.

45,134. How long have you been so ? — Six months.

45,135. What were you before ? — I was with Michelmore and Son.

45,136. How long were you clerk to Michelmore and Son ?—Four years.

45,137. You came in then about 1862 ?—1862.

45,138. Had you been at Totnes before ?—No.

45,139. Where did you come from ?—Tavistock.

45,140. You had nothing to do with the Totnes elections before that time ?—No.

45,141. What was your business as the clerk to Michelmore and Son ?—To keep the general accounts.

45,142. And to copy them out from the day book into the ledger ?—Yes.

45,143. From whom did you take your instructions as to how the items were to be added. I will give you an instance (pointing to an entry) : is that your handwriting ?—Yes.

45,144. Where would you have taken that item from, from the large book ?—From the cash book I should say.

45,145. Would the cash book have it, the information about half a year's rent ?—No.

45,146. Would it be your explanation of why the 10 guineas was paid ?—Mr. Michelmore would not say what it was for.

45,147. You mean to say that these two extracts are put from the day book into the ledger without asking Mr. Michelmore about them ?—No, except what we did not know. If there was anything particular we had no knowledge of, we would ask about it.

45,148. For instance, in 111 there is an entry, J. Searle, 10 guineas ?—Yes.

45,149. Would the entry in the day book be half a year's rent of house ?—No.

45,150. The entry in the day book would be J. Searle ?—Yes.

45,151. Do you remember asking Mr. Michelmore what you should say about the 10 guineas to J. Searle ?—No doubt I did.

45,152. Do you remember doing it ?—I cannot remember it. No doubt I did it.

45,153. It is all the same handwriting ?—Yes.

45,154. You had been from the time you began to be Mr. Michelmore's clerk pretty active in election matters, had you not ?—Yes, I had.

45,155. You had to do with the council matters ?—Very little to do with that.

45,156. What does this mean, November 3rd, 1864, J. B. P. cash, council election ?—50*l.* I merely had a cheque, went to the bank, and passed the cheque.

45,157. To whom did you pay the money ?—To Mr. Windeatt at the committee room.

45,158. At the committee room for conducting council elections ?—Yes.

45,159. Had he been down to ask for it ?—He asked me in the street ; he wanted 50*l.* he said.

45,160. Did he tell you what for ?—I knew what it was for.

45,161. In paying voters ?—Yes, I suppose so.

45,162. You went to get it ?—Yes.

45,163. Where did you get it ?—I had the cheque from Mr. Michelmore.

45,164. Where did you get it cashed ?—At the National and Provincial Bank.

45,165. In notes or gold ?—Gold.

45,166. You paid it over to Mr. Windeatt ?—I did. Mr. Michelmore scribbled at first to advance the 50*l.* He went to the committee room, and Mr. Windeatt asked him in.

45,167. The first election you had anything to do with was in 1862, Mr. Pender's election ?—I was a poll clerk.

45,168. What did you get for that ?—Two guineas.

45,169. Nothing after the election at all ?—No, not a farthing.

45,170. Did you get a sum of 20*l.* on the 1st of January 1863 ?—Yes.

45,171. What for ?—To pay the servants at the "Seymour Hotel," and postage stamps and telegraph messages.

45,172. Are you quite sure the servants were not paid afterwards ?—Yes. It was 2*l.* 10*s.* the cook had at the election.

45,173. There was a second sum of 20*l.* afterwards, which Mr. Michelmore yesterday told us was paid to the servants ?—There are two twenties. I will give an account of the other.

45,174. The first was paid to the servants ?—The first for the servants and the other expenses of the election.

45,175. What do you mean ?—Telegraph messages, and postage stamps and so on.

45,176. How much did you give to the servants ?—Ann Satchwell had 5*l.*, Miss Weeks had 3*l.* ; and it went down to the postboy.

45,177. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did the bus driver have anything ?—I do not think he had.

45,178. (Mr. Bere.) Had you a vote in 1862 ?—No.

45,179. You began a little earlier than 1862 ?—No, I did not.

45,180. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you not a sum of money down for bribing Samuel Hill ?—That was before my time.

45,181. Is there anybody else you can name ?—No.

45,182. Had you been in Totnes before you came to live here as Mr. Michelmore's clerk ?—I was with Mr. Michelmore before I came here, at Tavistock.

45,183. Used not Mr. Michelmore to have you up here at election times to help ?—No.

45,184. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever bribe Samuel Hill ?—No, never.

45,185. Did you offer him anything ?—No.

45,186. Nothing ?—No.

45,187. That is a mistake ?—That is a mistake.

45,188. On the 5th of May Mr. Seymour is charged with 10*l.* ; ditto, 20*l.* ; ditto, Thomas Latimer, newspaper account, 2*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.* What is that 10*l.* for on the 5th of May ?—That was 10*l.* for Thomas Pack. He was in sickness at the time.

45,189. When did you pay him ?—I cannot say.

45,190. Before or after the election of 1863 ?—A week after.

45,191. Had you seen Pack before the election ?—Not before.

45,192. After the election did you see him ?—He called on me, and said he had been suffering from sickness.

45,193. Did you tell Mr. Jeffery Michelmore ?—Yes.

45,194. And he thought Pack ought to have 10*l.* ?—He gave me 10*l.* to carry to him.

45,195. As to the other 20*l.* ?—That was spent in the election.

45,196. How ?—There were 6*l.* odd to Light for grates or stoves had by Mr. Seymour, and 3*l.* odd to Dennis for carriage hire at the council elections, and postage stamps and telegrams, and expenses of parties I sent about during the election.

45,197. What sort of parties ?—Those who went with letters to Torquay.

45,198. How much of that 20*l.* did you get yourself ?—Nothing at all.

45,199. Did you account for all the 20*l.* ?—I did. I brought vouchers to my master for the whole.

5,235. Was he working with you?—No.
5,236. Were you a great deal at the "Seymour ns?"—I was.
5,237. Were you in the large room where the oking and drinking was going on?—I was there metimes.
5,238. You dined there?—No, I did not dine re.
5,239. Before or after the election; within a week? No.
5,240. What you had to drink did you pay for?— s.
5,241. Did you meet a man named Dennis there? I saw him there.
5,242. Did you have any conversation with him? I had a conversation with him the same evening out the account.
5,243. Did you tell him he might have what he ed to drink?—No.
5,244. Who took your evidence?—Mr. Tucker.
5,245. Did you sign it?—I think I did.
5,246. Was it read over to you?—I think so.
5,247. You told Mr. Tucker—"I was at the "'Seymour Hotel' for a week before the election; "I was there on the business of Michelmore and Son; "I took my dinner there and did not pay for it?"—You asked me as to the big room.
5,248. Did you pay for it?—No, Mr. Michelmore paid for it.
5,249. It went into the general account?—Mr. Michelmore told me that he would pay for it. I was not to leave the house; I had to do my work there.

5,285. Had you ever had any field with them?—Mr. Amery and his son left me in 1865, and then Mr. Veasey and Mr. Cuming succeeded them.

THIRTY-THIRD DAY.

J. B. Prout.

26 Oct. 1866.

45,286. During the whole time that you had this sham occupation of this field have you ever had a head of cattle in it of your own ?—No.

45,287. Here is an account in your own handwriting; will you explain this item, "Jeffery Michelmore in account with Michelmore and Son;" then under the date of June the 4th, 1864, there are the words, "On account of election;" what does that mean ?—I really do not know.

45,288. Where did you take that from ?—From the cash book.

45,289. Would the cash book have an account of election monies ?—I think not.

45,290. Must you not have asked Mr. Michelmore where that money came from?—I might have asked him.

45,291. Then on the 13th February, "J. B. Prout for cash, 9*l.*;" what is that ?—I cannot tell; I was the cashier in the office.

45,292. There is a payment by Mr. Jeffery Michelmore to you of 59*l.* 8*s.* 7*d.* ?—This is Mr. Jeffery Michelmore's private account.

45,293. I see that your name occurs there constantly; why should that be so ?—This was in relation to his household affairs, it has nothing to do with the election; these are receipts.

45,294. But it is on the other side of the account ?—These are his private affairs; these items have nothing at all to do with the election.

45,295. Do you mean that all these entries under the head of J. B. Prout refer to his private affairs ?—Those are bills that I paid for his private affairs.

45,296. Your name occurs very often ?—Yes, I had to pay those.

45,297. Did you pay the household bills for Mr. Michelmore ?—I did, and every other bill.

45,298. I do not see how that could be so; this is "in account with Michelmore and Son ?"—It is Jeffery Michelmore in account with himself and firm.

45,299. Why does he credit himself with his private expenses against the firm ?—That is not my business, that is Mr. Michelmore's business.

45,300. How is that money expended on account of the firm ?—It is debited to himself. It is [illegible] private matters in account with Michelmore and Son.

45,301. (Mr. Longe.) How much did Edmonds get in 1863 ?—I cannot tell; I do not know.

45,302. You had the money given to you ?—I never had a farthing in my hands to pay anyone.

45,303. (Mr. Bere.) I will read you what Mr. Michelmore has said: "Edmonds had 20*l.*; that "J. B. Prout's payment ?—Yes. Was not this money "paid at the time of the election ?—No. Had you "promised the 20*l.* to Edmonds ?—I had not promised any amount; I told him he should be remembered." That is what Mr. Jeffery Michelmore swore yesterday ?—I never paid any money to him.

45,304. (Mr. Longe.) You have said that you had money for the election in 1863 for your expenses ?—I did not say that; I said I paid for certain expenses.

45,305. You paid a certain sum to Edmonds when he was sent to Torquay ?—I did not say that. I said for sending letters to Torquay, that was by a messenger. I never sent Edmonds anywhere.

45,306. (Mr. Bere.) Mr. Jeffery Michelmore says he gave you 20*l.* to pay Edmonds ?—I never had 20*l.* to pay Edmonds.

45,307. Or any money ?—Not to pay Edmonds. I paid back 10*l.*

45,308. Was he the only person you paid ?—Yes.

45,309. Mr. Michelmore is incorrect in that ?—I did not pay Edmonds.

45,310. Were you Mr. Michelmore's clerk in 1865 ?—No, I left six months ago.

45,311. Had you anything to do with the mortgage on Edmonds' house ?—Nothing whatever.

45,312. Do you know anything about it ?—No.

C. F. Michelmore.

CHARLES FREDERICK MICHELMORE recalled.

45,313. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you pay Ford 60*l.* at the last election ?—I did not; I promised it him. It was not paid; we fell short of finances; it was not paid to him.

45,314. Mr. Jeffery Michelmore says that 30*l.* was for Shillabeer, 30*l.* for Smaridge, and 60*l.* for Ford ?—In the newspaper it is stated that Mr. Michelmore said he paid 120*l.*, that out of that I had 25*l.*, Shillabeer 30*l.*, and Ford at the "Seven Stars" 60*l.*

45,315. This is it: "Mr. Michelmore had 120*l.* on "account of expenses. Mr. Parnell had 25*l.* of Mr. "Michelmore's 20*l.*, 30*l.* was for Shillabeer, 30*l.* to "Smaridge, and 60*l.* for Ford, now the boots at the "Seven Stars ?"—That is wrong.

45,316. What became of the 120*l.* ?—I do not know.

45,317. Did you give Shillabeer 30*l.* ?—I did not.

45,318. Did you give Smaridge 30*l.* ?—No, nor did I give Ford any.

45,319. (Mr. Bere.) Did you get the 120*l.* ?—That I would not answer for, but I am positive Ford never had anything, for this reason, the arrangement at the last election was that Ford was to have 40*l.* and the other men were to have 50*l.*, over and above what they were promised at the former election.

45,320. What did you do with the 120*l.* ?—I cannot tell you, in that money was flying about, and I am satisfied that the money was expended, I will not say in a legitimate way but in electioneering, and I am prepared to say that Mr. Ford did not have the money promised.

45,321. Nor Mr. Smaridge ?—No.

45,322. Nor Shillabeer ?—No.

45,323. Did you give them any ?—Not a farthing.

45,324. You recollect for a certainty that although you promised him and did not pay him, did you pay anybody ?—I paid Searle if you remember. It was in this way. Supposing Parnell or any other person engaged in electioneering matters came to me, they would say, "I want 10*l.* or 20*l.* or 30*l.*," and the money was handed over.

45,325. Mr. Jeffery Michelmore's account is correct ?—Yes.

45,326. He says you had 120*l.*, of which you gave Shillabeer 30*l.* ?—I promised him more. I considered 150*l.* to go to Shillabeer, 50*l.* to Smaridge, and 50 to Crawford.

45,327. That is the last election ?—Yes, quite so.

45,328. What did you promise Ford ?—60*l.* That is perfectly correct, but he had nothing.

45,329. That is the last election ?—Not the last.

45,330. That was in 1863 ? — Yes; Seymour election.

45,331. To make that up to them you put them down at a much larger amount for the last election ?—We put them down at 80*l.* each.

45,332. What became of them ?— They left it. Mr. Ford was not a voter, but the other two were.

W. Ford.

WILLIAM FORD sworn and examined.

45,333. (Mr. Bere.) What are you ?—I am postboy at the "Seven Stars."

45,334. How long were you there ?—Three years.

45,335. Where before ?—At the "Seymour Hotel," ostler.

45,336. While there had you a vote ?—Yes.

45,337. Did you rent land under the Duke of Somerset ?—Yes.

45,338. How much was it ?—70*l.* a year.

45,339. Did anybody occupy it with you ?—No.

45,340. Did anybody else vote on it besides you ?—Not at that time.

45,341. Has anybody since ?—Yes, since I left.

45,342. Were you turned out ?—I turned myself out.

45,343. Did you give notice to leave ?—Yes.

45,344. How long had you held it ?—About three years, but I had a vote before.

45,345. Where ?—In Bridgetown.

45,346. Was all the 70*l.* a year in Bridgetown ?—Yes, close by the river, below the "Seymour."

5,347. How many acres was it?—I think about

5,348. Then you left and went to the "Seven rs?"—Yes, some time after I went to the "Seven rs."

5,349. Had you voted for the Liberals always?—

5,350. How often had you voted?—I first voted Seymour and Ricardo.

5,351. Did you vote in 1857 for Mills and Gif- 1?—Yes.

5,352. What did you get for that?—Nothing.

5,353. What did you get in Dunn's election in 9?—Nothing.

5,354. What promised?—Nothing.

5,355. When did you first get anything promised? The first was in Pender's election.

5,356. In 1862 who promised you anything?—arles Michelmore.

5,357. What was it?—He promised to pay some s for me, which he did, amounting to 60*l.*

5,358. What were they?—Corn and straw. The corn to Mr. Bowden, and the other to George Perrott of Weston.

45,359. Did Mr. Michelmore give you the receipts?—No.

45,360. They amounted to 60*l.*?—Yes.

45,361. Did you vote for Mr. Pender then?—Yes.

45,362. Were these bills paid before the election or after?—After.

45,363. In 1863 what did you get?—Nothing.

45,364. Were you promised anything?—Yes.

45,365. What were you promised?—50*l.*

45,366, You ceased to be a voter?—Yes.

45,367. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever ask him for 50*l.* afterwards?—Yes, I asked for it, and he said it was "good cold," I think.

45,368. You were joint proprietor of the hotel?—Yes.

45,369. You took the land?—Yes.

45,370. How did you vote in 1863?—For Mr. Seymour.

45,371. You did not get anything at the last election because you had no vote?—No.

Mrs. Maria James sworn and examined.

Mrs. M. James.

5,372. (Mr. Bere.) Are you the wife of Mr. nes, the station master?—Yes.

5,373. And the daughter of Mr. Cross?—Yes.

5,374. Did you have an interview with Mr. Evan ens previous to one of the elections?—Yes, three es.

5,375. Three different elections?—No, all at same election.

5,376. Which election was that?—1862.

5,377. Will you tell us what passed at those erviews, as well as you can remember? (No answer.)

5,378. How long before the election did the first e place?—I cannot say,

5,379. Was it at your own house?—Yes.

5,380. Did he come and talk to you about your band's vote?—Yes.

5,381. Had you known him before?—Yes, long ore.

5,382. He called and spoke about your husband's e?—Yes.

5,383. What did he say about your husband?—asked me to try and get him to go out of the n, and offered 50*l.*, 60*l.*, or 70*l.*, and I said it uld not buy him, it was not enough.

5,384. Did you mention any sum?—I asked him, ne wished him to vote, what he would give him to e, and he said 100*l.*, and I said it would not buy n.

5,385. Did you mention any figure that would buy n?—Yes, 10,000*l.*, and then I would leave the vn.

5,386. Did that all pass the first time?—It is all same sort of story.

5,387. Did not he approach your figure at all?—, we talked a long time together, but I never ended that he should sell his vote.

5,388. (Mr. Coleridge.) It is not true, as Mr. an Evens says, that you are a Tory in heart?—No.

5,389. Did he come to you before the last elec- n?—Yes.

5,390. What did he say?—That he would get my sband a situation.

5,391. What was it?—300*l.* a year on a railway.

5,392. Are you sure that he mentioned a sum?—s.

5,393. Did he say where it was?—Yes, the Great estern.

5,394. Did he say who he was going to get it ough?—Yes.

5,395. Whom?—Mr. Potter.

5,396. That is the chairman of the Great Western ilway?—Yes.

5,397. At that time Mr. Potter was thinking of nding for Totnes?—Yes.

5,398. How long was it before the election?—I not know.

5,399. About?—About a fortnight.

45,400. Then he had an interview with your husband also, and made him the same offer?—Yes.

45,401. You did not let your husband go for that even?—No.

45,402. (Mr. Longe.) In 1863 you had an offer?—Yes.

45,403. Did your husband vote in December and January?

(Mr. James.) I stated that I did not vote in 1862.

45,404. It was before the election that Mr. Evens made this offer?—Yes.

45,405. When did you tell Mr. Cross of that?—Probably very shortly afterwards.

45,406. At that time did Mr. Cross say that the Liberals would take care of your husband as well as the Conservatives, or anything of that kind?—I do not know.

45,407. You told Mr. Cross of this offer before the election of 1862?—I told all my friends.

45,408. When did Mr. Cross say anything about getting money for your husband?—He never said a word about it at all.

45,409. When did you first hear that your husband would have some money from the Liberal side?—After the election was over, months after.

45,410. Was that the first time that any words passed between you and Mr. Cross with regard to the 50*l.*?—Yes.

45,411. (Mr. Coleridge.) Mr. James has told us he was out of the place in the 1863 election?—Yes.

45,412. Did anybody come and offer anything?—Yes, Mr. John Heath.

(Mr. James.) I was at home then.

45,413. Had you any letter from Mr. Evens?

(The witness.) No.

45,414. What relation is Mrs. Putt to you?—Sister.

45,415. Had you any conversation with her about what Putt should get?—I cannot say.

45,416. What was he to have?—He did not get anything.

45,417. What was the conversation you had with your sister about what would buy Putt?—I never had any conversation about any offer made to Putt or her.

45,418. What was the conversation that you had with her about the election?—I do not know. We are Liberals, both of us.

45,419. Did she tell you that they had been after Putt, and were trying to buy him?—No.

45,420. Did you say they had been after your husband?—No.

45,421. Did you know what Putt could get for his vote?—No.

45,422. Do you know what he got to stay away?—No.

45,423. At any election?—No, he never voted but once.

45,424. What did Mrs. Putt get?—Nothing at all.

THIRTY-THIRD DAY.

45,447. What was Goodman's holding?—That was in Totnes.

45,448. That is all in Bridgetown besides Mr. Kellock's?—Kellock's was in Totnes.

45,449. Goodman's is 24th July, 30*l.* a year?—Yes.

45,450. When was he turned out?—September 1859.

45,451. W. K. Hannaford, do you know anything about him?—That is in 1863.

45,452. William Kellock, that is Tucker and Heath's field, 5*l.* 10*s.*?—Yes.

45,453. When did he get notice?—Michaelmas, 1859.

45,454. Are those the notices that you have got in your hand?—Yes.

45,455. Whom should you engage if you wanted a solicitor?—Mr. Henry Michelmore.

45,456. Samuel Goodman, you have told us about him. Mrs. Venning, she was a tenant?—Yes.

45,457. Robert Mogridge, he was a tenant in 1859?—Yes.

45,458. Mr. M. Page?—That is a farm; there was an alteration there.

45,459. Nicholas Norrish, did not you give him notice in 1859?—No.

45,460. Did he not have notice at any time?—Not that I am aware of.

45,461. Quite sure about that?—Yes.

45,462. Is he a tenant of the duke's now?—No.

45,463. Was he a tenant of the duke's?—Yes. I do not know when he had notice. He did have notice at one time.

45,464. How long ago?—Many years ago.

45,465. What do you mean by that?—I should think ten years ago.

45,466. You have not got an alphabetical list of the duke's?—No.

(Mr. Michelmore.) It was what is called Panchard's quarry. I know he was a tenant.

45,467. Were all those persons who were turned out in the election of 1859?—(The witness.) Yes.

45,468. (Mr. Longe.) There is Mr. Page?—Yes.

45,469. What was his notice served for?—They change the field. It is taken from them and given to Mr. Edmonds.

45,470. Mr. Edmonds the gardener?—Yes.

45,471. Had Mr. Robert Page a vote after that?—No.

45,472. You took away the vote of Mr. Robert Page?—Yes. The farm changed hands, and Mr. Robert Page was gone.

45,473. (Mr. Bere.) Was Mr. Robert Page a Conservative?—Yes.

45,474. There are three Mr. Pages, William, Robert, and Merrifield?—Yes.

45,475. All Conservatives?—One Liberal.

45,476. Which?—Merrifield.

45,477. Are they still tenants of the duke's?—Merrifield is.

45,478. That is the reason that was given, the same as the others; they gave this field to a Liberal?—Yes.

45,479. Were there any notices served between 1859, 1860, and 1863?—Yes, notices were served to all in 1861 on account of the building sites.

45,480. You forgot to tell me about George Robins Stone?—He was not the duke's tenant.

45,480*a*. He was turned out?

45,481. Who is he?—He is a man at Plymouth.

45,482. Through Mr. Michelmore?—Yes.

45,483. Whose writing is that?—(Referring) Mr. George Fitze.

45,484. Did he serve it?—Mr. Fitze, yes.

45,485. (Mr. Bere.) Mr. William Michelmore, Mr. Crocker, Mr. Lewis, Mr. Goodridge, and James Edmonds?—I served James Edmonds.

45,486. What is the name of Barker?—It is Mrs. Barker.

45,487. J. P. Searle?—Yes.

45,488. Edward Shinner and Henry Eastman?—Yes.

45,489. P. K. Turpin?—Yes.

45,490. George Robins Stone?—Yes.

45,491. George Willis?—Yes.

45,492. William Ellis?—Yes.

45,493. Robert Lake?—Yes.

45,494. Another Robert Lake?—No, we served one, and he gave one himself.

45,495. W. K. Hannaford?—Yes.

45,496. John Briggs?—Yes.

45,497. James Penwill?—Yes.

45,498. Thomas Michelmore?—Yes.

45,499. William Harris?—Yes.

45,500. William Byne?—Yes.

45,501. John Tucker?—Yes.

45,502. Are those all?—Yes, all the notices I have got.

45,503. Were not the notices served for the purpose of enabling votes to be made, because the holders of the lands and houses voted against the duke's interest?—I should think so.

45,504. In the case of Lake it is a notice to quit the mill?—Yes; we gave him notice to quit with the borough, and he gave us notice to quit with the borough.

45,505. (Mr. Coleridge.) He did not want his mill without his vote?—No.

45,506. (Mr. Bere.) William Mitchell, who succeeded him?—Thomas Mitchell.

45,507. Who succeeded Crocker?—He is not out.

45,508. This notice has not come into effect?—No.

45,509. This notice was served on Mrs. Stamm because the man at the "Seymour" gave evidence against you?

(Mr. Fitze.) That notice is withdrawn again.

45,510. Since the Commission?—Yes.

45,511. Lewis Goodrich, who succeeds him?—James Cole.

45,512. James Edmonds, who is to succeed him?—William Henry Lee.

45,513. Is he one of the persons objected to?—I objected on the list.

45,514. Nicholas Barter and Elias Barter; is there for the manufacture of votes?—Yes.

45,515. J. P. Searle, who succeeded him?—The Gerston Company, I think.

45,516. Edward Shinner?—That is the Gerston Company.

45,517. Henry Eastman?—The Gerston Company too.

45,518. That is the fourth field?—That is Adams or Byne.

45,519. How did Eastman vote at the last election?—One and one, Dawkins and Pender.

45,520. E. R. Turpin, who succeeded him?—Mrs. Steed, I think, is the name.

45,521. Who is she?—An old widow lady; she is now dead.

45,522. George Robins Stone, who succeeded him; —Henry Crouch.

45,523. How did they manage about turning out Stone?—I had nothing to do with that.

45,524. But you knew how it was done?—No.

45,525. Did you not know they went?—I had nothing to do with that.

45,526. Did not you know anything about that?—No.

45,527. Thomas Blackler, who has his?—Fowle.

45,528. Captain Fowle?—Captain Fowle the stores and Browse has the house.

45,529. Does that make Browse a voter?—Yes.

45,530. John Willis, who has got his?—Philip Tozer.

45,531. That is the father of John Tozer?—Yes.

45,532. Had he a vote before?—Yes.

45,533. William Ellis, who has his?—Thomas Jacob Searle.

45,534. Both?—Byne has one.

45,535. Lake, who succeeded him?—John Crook of Fleet Mill.

45,536. Who has the other?—He has both.

45,537. W. K. Hannaford, who succeeded him?—Mrs. Spiller.

45,538. Has she a son who has a vote?—No, Mrs. Spiller.

45,539. John Briggs, who succeeded him?—Nicholas Tar the cottage, and Stab the land.

45,540. Do both get votes?—No, only one.

45,541. Which?—Stab.

45,542. He is a true, a good Liberal?—He has not been tried.

45,543. James Penwill?—Knapman, I think, succeeded him.

45,544. Thomas Mitchell?—John Tozer.

45,545. The son of Philip?—Yes.

45,546. William Byne, who succeeded him?—The Gerston Company.

45,547. John Tucker?—That was the company.

45,548. Are you quite sure that Drew succeeded William Mitchell?—Yes.

45,549. Does not one of the Pengilleys live in the house?—That is since Drew's death.

45,550. He does now?—Pengilley does now.

45,551. Has he a vote?—I do not know whether he has.

45,552. Which one is it?—William.

(Mr. Harris.) He that had the 50*l.*, that is the man.

45,553. Old William Harris, who succeeded him? Crawford, was not it? Had William Harris been a tenant of the duke 18 years, and, as far as you know, always paid his rent regularly?—Yes.

45,554. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you recollect a conversation with a man called Farleigh about his not voting?—Yes, I thought of that afterwards.

45,555. When was that?—1862.

45,556. What took place in 1862?—I came down from the office and dropped in there and had a glass of beer, and he said that Mr. Niner had been over and offered 100*l.*

45,557. How long before the election was that?—About a week. 100*l.* if he voted, and 50*l.* if he did not.

45,558. 100*l.* to vote for Mr. Dent?—Yes.

45,559. What did you offer?—Nothing. He said if he could get 50*l.* from our side he would vote.

45,560. Did you tell him you would try?—I would go and communicate with Mr. Windeatt.

45,561. What did Mr. Windeatt say?—He said he would consider it, and I never heard anything of it after.

45,562. How did he vote?—For Mr. Pender.

45,563. And he got his 50*l.*?—I suppose he did.

45,564. Do you know whether he did or not?—No.

45,565. Did you never ask him, as you had negotiated the matter with him?—No, I never mentioned it.

45,566. But you now know he got it?—Yes. The conversation you were asking me about Byne I remember. Mr. Matcham passed at the time we were there, and we had a laugh.

45,567. When was that?—1863.

45,568. How long before the election?—The morning of the election, and we laughed because we saw the old man was going down to settle it.

45,569. Did not Byne want his business settled too?—No.

45,570. Did not you undertake to get him something?—No.

45,571. (Mr. Bere.) Has Crawford paid the rent as regularly as William Hannaford?—No; he objects to paying rent now.

45,572. What does Maye hold in Bridgetown?—A building and land; he is not a tenant now.

45,573. (Mr. Longe.) He is a relation of Mr. Michelmore's, is not he?—Yes; he gave it up.

45,574. (Mr. Bere.) Did he receive a polite intimation that if he did not give it up he would be turned out?—No.

45,575. What relation is he to Mr. Michelmore?

(Mr. C. F. Michelmore.) He is an uncle of Mr. Jeffery Michelmore who was examined yesterday, and brother-in-law of Mr. Thomas Michelmore, whose name you have heard mentioned before.

45,576. (Mr. Bere.) Mr. Winter, what has he?—He occupies a house.

45,577. You have not turned him out?—No.

45,578. Is that because he is a lawyer?—No.

45,579. The Commission came in time?—No; we never intended to turn him out, he always votes honestly according to his principles.

45,580. He has only had one vote?—I do not know whether he has voted more than once.

45,581. (Mr. Longe.) Mr. Winter is the only tenant of the duke in Bridgetown who votes for the Conservatives?—No. There is a Captain Page, the occupier of a land and house in Bridgetown.

(Mr. Harris.) He has never voted.

JAMES B. PROUT recalled.

J. B. Prout.

45,582. (Mr. Bere.) What have you had to do with the serving of these notices, or seeing people who were to be turned out?—You will see on the back what I served.

45,583. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you been in the habit of giving a good or bad word of these tenants, the same as Mr. Callard has?—Not to them.

45,584. But to Mr. Michelmore about them?—I do not know that Mr. Callard has.

45,585. He says he has?—I do not think he did. I merely delivered the notices, never said anything to them.

45,586. (Mr. Bere.) Nothing at all?—I never spoke to them on the subject. I did what I had to do, and left.

JAMES FARLEIGH sworn and examined.

J. Farleigh.

45,587. (Mr. Coleridge.) How long have you had a vote?—Since 1852.

45,588. How did you vote in 1852?—I voted for Mr. Pender; 1862, I mean.

45,589. Is that your first vote?—Yes.

45,590. Who canvassed you?—Mr. Pender and Mr. Charles Michelmore.

45,591. Did Arthur Niner canvass you?—I do not think he did.

45,592. Did he offer you anything?—Not Arthur.

THIRTY-THIRD DAY.

J. Farleigh.

26 Oct. 1866.

45,593. Which was it?—The old Mr. Niner.

45,594. What did he offer you?—He first offered me 50*l.*

45,595. What was that to do?—To vote for Mr. Dent.

45,596. And you told him that was not enough?—I said I should not vote for that, and he asked me if 100*l.* would do.

45,597. What did you say to that?—I said, "No. "I have promised Mr. Pender, and I shall vote for "him."

45,598. How long before the election was it?—I do not recollect. He then offered me 50*l.* if I did not vote at all.

45,599. What did you say to that?—I said, "I do not know; I have promised."

45,600. Did you give an answer?—I did not give an answer whether I should or not.

45,601. Did you soon afterwards see Callard?—Yes. He was in the habit of calling in at my house.

45,602. Did you tell him about this offer of Niner's?—Yes, I think I did.

45,603. What did you say to him?—I think I told him that Niner had been over to me, and he first offered me 50*l.*, and then offered me 100*l.* to vote and 50*l.* not to vote.

45,604. What did you say about wanting something from your own side to vote?—Well, I said I was inclined for Mr. Pender, and if they would give me 50*l.* I would rather vote for the Liberals than the others.

45,605. But if they had given you 100*l.* you would have voted on the other side?—No, not at all.

45,606. Your chief inclination was to get 50*l.* in some way?—I thought if I got 50*l.* it would be better than nothing.

45,607. You would not have voted against Mr. Pender, but you would have taken the 50*l.* to stay away, unless you could have 50*l.* to come and vote?—I do not know that I should, but I merely said that.

45,608. When did you know that you were to get 50*l.* for voting for Pender?—I think on the nomination day.

45,609. Who told you?—Really I do not know, there were parties there in the house.

45,610. Who were they?—I rather think it was Mr. Hodge, of Berry Lodge, or Mr. Cross.

45,611. They told you it would be all right. They were both there in the house?—In my house.

46,612. Old Mr. Cross?—Yes.

45,613. You think it was either Mr. Hodge or Mr. Cross who told you you should have 50*l.*?—Yes.

45,614. When did you get the 50*l.*?—Not for some time.

45,615. How long after?—Several weeks. I do not know how long.

45,616. Did you get it before Mr. Seymour's election, which took place about a month afterwards?—I had 10*l.* about a fortnight or three weeks after the election.

45,617. Who paid it to you?—John Elliott.

45,618. When did you get the rest?—I did not get the other 40*l.* for some time.

45,619. Did you get the odd 40*l.* before or after Mr. Seymour's election?—I do not know; I rather think it was before.

45,620. Who paid you that?—Mr. William Perrott.

45,621. Did he at the same time ask you to vote for Mr. Seymour?—No.

45,622. Did you give any receipt for this money?—No.

45,623. In 1863, the next election of Mr. Seymour, did you vote for him or for Mr. Dent?—I voted for Mr. Seymour.

45,624. What did you get for voting for Mr. Seymour?—Nothing.

45,625. What did you get after the election?—Nothing.

45,626. No present?—No, I will not say whether I had the 40*l.* before; I think it was before.

45,627. But between the two elections you got 50*l.*?—50*l.*

45,628. You had nothing at all after?—No.

45,629. Did you vote again in 1865?—Yes.

45,630. Did your wife get anything in 1863?—No. I had no wife at that time.

45,631. In 1863 did you have a bill there?—No.

45,632. You keep an inn, do not you?—Yes.

45,633. Was there any drinking going on which was paid for by Mr. Michelmore?—No, I think the men had about 20 quarts of ale after the election was over.

45,634. Who paid for it?—I rather think it was Mr. Prout. I will not be certain.

45,635. How much was it?—About 20 quarts of beer, and it came to about 10*s.*

45,636. That is all you got out of the 1863 election?—Yes.

45,637. In 1865 how did you vote?—For Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour.

45,638. In 1865 did the Conservatives offer you anything. Did Niner come to you again?—Not Niner.

45,639. Who did?—Some of the party

45,640. Who was it?—Different ones.

45,641. Tell us who they were?—The day previous to the election, very soon after the nomination, there were three or four came to my house.

45,642. Who?—Henry Hodder.

45,643. Who were they?—Mr. Narramore, and I think, as well as I can recollect, one of the young Darts. There were three or four of them.

45,644. What did they say to you?—They asked me to vote for Dent.

45,645. What did they offer you?—They offered me 50 sovereigns or 100*l.*, and they asked me if that was any good to me, but I said, "No," and I think they went so far as 200*l.*, and I said, "No, if you offered me 500*l.* I would not vote for him." I said, "All the money in your camp would not do for me."

45,646. Although they offered you 200*l.* to vote for Dent, you voted for Seymour without getting anything?—Yes, without a farthing; I never was offered anything.

45,647. You got nothing after the election, no presents of any kind?—Not a farthing.

45,648. Did you get anything between the election of 1863 and the last election?—No.

45,649. At the last election did you get anything?—No.

45,650. Nothing since?—No.

45,651. Were you promised anything?—No.

45,652. Were you offered anything?—No.

45,653. Not on either side? Did not your Conservative friends come and offer you anything?—There was a man on the morning of the election who spoke to me the first thing, but I did not take any account of what he said.

45,654. Who was it?—(No answer.)

45,655. Come, out with it, who was it?—Heard, I think he was called, asked me to vote for the Conservative. I said I should not do so; I had promised my vote; I did not intend to do so.

45,656. Did he offer you anything?—He did not.

45,657. Did you go down to the "Seven Stars" at all?—No.

45,658. Did he say anything to you about going to the "Seven Stars?"—No; I never went there.

45,659. Was there beer at your house at that time?—No.

45,660. Do you believe your vote has only been worth 50*l.* altogether?—Only 50*l.*, and that I did not expect to have, as there was no contest.

45,661. You did not think you would get it?—No.

45,662. Have you voted at the municipal elections?—I have. I generally vote on the Liberal side.

45,663. Have you ever got anything for that?—No.

45,664. Nothing at all?—No.

45,665. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know something about Fox Green at the last election?—No, I do not know that I ever saw him. I know the man.

45,666. Was he at your house at all?—I do not think he was at the last election, not to my recollection.

45,667. Did you have a conversation with Mr. Heard about him?—No, I never had anything to say or do with him about electioneering; I never did.

45,668. Do you keep the "Exeter Inn?"—The "Exeter Inn."

45,669. You do not know anything more about it, do you?—Nothing more.

45,670. Have you never had money at any other time?—No.

45,671. (Mr. Coleridge.) Or any benefit of any sort or kind?—No.

45,672. (Mr. Bere.) Have you ever given anything to anybody else?—No.

45,673. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you got any land of the duke's?—I have.

45,674. Where is it?—Very near my house.

45,675. In Totnes?—In Bridgetown.

45,676. (Mr. Bere.) How much have you got?—I have got two fields.

45,677. What is the acreage of them?—About five acres, I think.

45,678. What rent do you give?—14*l.* a year, I think.

45,679. (Mr. Coleridge.) You knew if you voted for the Conservatives you would be turned out, I suppose?—No, I did not give it a thought.

45,680. How long have you had the land?—About three years, I think.

45,681. Since you voted for Mr. Pender?—Yes.

45,682. Had you tried to get any before you voted for Mr. Pender?—I had asked them for a field long before, if it was convenient for me to have one.

45,683. You had asked for a field long before, but they did not give it to you till after Mr. Pender's election; is that it?—Yes.

45,684. I thought so. When did you first get it?—At that time I had a little field of an acre and a quarter, first.

45,685. When was that? In March 1863 did you get it first?—Just about that time.

45,686. Just after Mr. Seymour's and Mr. Pender's election?—Just about that time.

45,687. So you got your land as well as your 50*l.*?—Yes.

45,688. (Mr. Bere.) Does anybody else vote on the land besides you?—No, I vote on my house.

45,689. Then who votes for your land?—No one.

45,690. No one?—No one that I am aware of.

45,691. You are quite sure about that?—No one that I am aware of. The first is a little field that I have.

45,692. (Mr. Coleridge.) They have not built a linhay for you yet, have they?—No.

HENRY HODDER sworn and examined.

H. Hodder.

45,693. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live?—I live in Totnes.

45,694. How long have you lived there?—About seven years.

45,695. How long have you been a voter?—About four years, I think.

45,696. Was the first time you voted in 1862?—I did not vote then.

45,697. For whom should you have voted if you had?—I should have voted for Mr. Dent.

45,698. Did you see anybody on the Conservative side at that time, about voting for Mr. Dent?—I was continually at the "Stars."

45,699. Did you know there was a good deal of money going about?—I understood there was.

45,700. Did any of it come to you then?—No. I had nothing to do with any money at all.

45,701. In 1863 did you vote for Mr. Dent?—Yes.

45,702. Did you get any money then?—No.

45,703. Neither directly or indirectly?—No.

45,704. What are you?—I am a solicitor's clerk.

45,705. To whom?—To Mr. Kellock.

45,706. You are Mr. Kellock's clerk?—Yes.

45,707. You voted again in 1865, I suppose, for Dawkins and Pim?—Yes.

45,708. Had you anything to do with distributing money at any time?—No.

45,709. Never?—No.

45,710. Did you ever go down to Mr. Kellock, at the "Stars," and see Mr. Evens there?—Yes.

45,711. Did you see any money going about in 1865?—I saw some.

45,712. When did you see that?—That was what Narramore paid to a voter.

45,713. From whom did Narramore get it?—I did not see him pay it. I saw him in the lobby of the "Stars" with the money.

45,714. Did he tell you where he got it?—He told me he got it for Dennis.

45,715. Did he tell you how much?—I think he said 100*l.*

45,716. Do you know James Farleigh?—Yes, very well.

45,717. Did you ever go and canvass him?—I went with Mr. George Heath.

45,718. What did Mr. George Heath say, that you heard?—I do not know how it was brought up. It was the day after the nomination, and he suggested that we should go over and see Mr. Farleigh, and I walked over with him, and I heard him offer him money. I heard him ask if he would vote for Mr. Dent, and he said Mr. Dent was a person who would not accept a favour without returning it.

45,719. Was that all that passed?—Yes.

45,720. Did you offer him anything?—No.

45,721. Is that what you wish to say?—That is all I wish to say.

45,722. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were you employed at any of those elections?—As a clerk I was employed.

45,723. Were you employed in 1862 as clerk?—Yes.

45,724. What did you get for your services?—I got 2*l.*

45,725. Is that all?—And two guineas as a poll clerk.

45,726. What did you get in 1863?—The same.

45,727. And what did you get in 1865?—The same.

45,728. Four guineas at each?—Yes.

45,729. No present, or anything of that kind?—No.

45,730. Nothing after the election?—No.

45,731. Did not Mr. Kellock see that you were remembered with the rest?—No.

45,732. (Mr. Bere.) Did he give you a present for your services at the election?—No. I never did anything but writing.

45,733. (Mr. Coleridge.) Then in addition to your ordinary salary you got 4*l.* for each election?—Yes.

THOMAS PACK sworn and examined.

T. Pack.

45,734. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you lived in Totnes?—15 or 16 years.

45,735. How long have you had a vote?—Since 1857 I think.

45,736. Whom did you vote for then?—For Mills and Gifford.

45,737. What was your qualification, a house?—Yes.

45,738. Where?—In Fore Street.

45,739. What are you?—A labourer.

45,740. Do you mean an agricultural labourer, a person who works on a farm?—Yes.

45,741. What did you get for voting for Mills and Gifford?—Nothing at all.

45,742. Neither before or after the election?—No.

45,743. Did you ever find anything in your house?—No.

45,744. Or did your wife get anything?—No.

45,745. In 1859 who did you vote for then?—At the first election I thought of voting for Mackenzie. I was along with a party at the "Dartmouth Inn"

THIRTY-THIRD DAY.

T. Pack.

when Mr. William Oldrey came to me and called me away.

45,746. You mean the high bailiff?—Yes, he called me out; he said he did not want to see me amongst that party; he wished me to go home, I should only have the headache the next morning. This was the night before the election. He afterwards wanted me to go and mix with the other party to see if they would offer me any money, and if I would tell him he would double it.

45,747. Did you take his advice?—No; and I thought I would have nothing to do with them.

45,748. You did not get any offer from the Tories?—No.

45,749. Was Mr. Oldrey a Conservative at that time?—Yes.

45,750. Whom did you vote for in 1859?—For Mills and Gifford again.

45,751. How much did you get for that?—Nothing.

45,752. Did you ask for anything?—No.

45,753. Were you promised anything?—No.

45,754. When was the first time you ever got anything?—Mr. Prout brought me 10*l.*

45,755. When did he bring you that?—After Mr. Pender's first election.

45,756. Was it in sovereigns or notes?—In notes.

45,757. What did he give it you for?—I did not know of its coming; it was after the election.

45,758. Mr. Prout brought it you himself to your house?—Yes, to my house.

45,759. And paid it to you?—Yes.

45,760. Into your own hands?—Into my own hands.

45,761. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he say there was any more to come after it?—No; he said there was a present for me.

45,762. (Mr. Bere.) Had Mr. Prout got the notes in an envelope, or did he take them out of his waistcoat pocket?—I do not know where he took them from; he had them in his hand.

45,763. Did you get any more afterwards?—Not at that time.

45,764. When was the next time you got anything more?—At the last election.

45,765. How much did you get then?—I got 40*l.*

45,766. Who gave you that?—George Parrott.

45,767. When did he give you that?—On the morning of the election.

45,768. Had anyone been to you before?—No one came to me. I did not know of its coming. He brought it to me and said that he had got a present for me. I had had a great deal of sickness, both myself and my wife, and had a long bill from the doctor. I had been always straightforward on their side, and had been offered a great deal of money on the other side, but had never taken it. I never knew of the money coming until it was brought to my house. I had been offered 200*l.* the same morning on the other side.

45,769. Who had offered you that?—John Pack, my nephew.

45,770. Why did you not take it?—I told him that if he would offer me 500*l.* that I would not vote for them, for that I could not bear the Tories, and that I would not accept it.

45,771. (Mr. Coleridge.) Why could you not bear the Tories?—They had served me such a trick the first time through Mr. Oldrey.

45,772. Do you know the difference between Whigs and Tories?—I know this, that I have always held to one side, and I know that the Liberal party will get me a cheaper loaf of bread than the other side; that is the best reason that I can give.

45,773. (Mr. Bere.) Had you anything offered to you in 1863 by the Conservatives?—I had not; there was nothing offered to me; they did not come to me. When Mr. Dunn was here they kept on coming then.

45,774. Who kept on coming?—Mr. William Oldrey sent for my wife many different times to come to his house. He told her that he would give her 10 5*l.* notes wrapped in a parcel. She said she would not take it, as she knew I had told her she was not to take anything from that party.

45,775. Was that the only offer which you had made to you?—A gentleman showed me a purse of gold.

45,776. Who was that gentleman?—I did not know him, he was a stranger to me.

45,777. Who was it came to your wife?—He sent for her to come to Mr. William Oldrey's house.

45,778. Is your wife alive?—Yes, but she is in a very bad state of health.

45,779. When you got this 10*l.* from Mr. Prout had you not asked for it, and said that as you had had a great deal of sickness you wanted it?—I believe Mr. Haines the surgeon spoke to Mr. Michelmore about it. I had had a deal of sickness; my doctor's bill was nearly 10*l.*

45,780. It was to pay your doctor's bill the 10*l.* was given?—Yes.

45,781. Your doctor's bill was not 40*l.* in 1865?—No, but then I owed some other bills, and I had had a great deal of sickness.

45,782. Did you owe any money to Mr. George Parrott?—No.

45,783. Did you work for him?—Yes.

45,784. How long have you worked for him?—49 years, and for Mr. Searle his uncle.

45,785. Have you always worked for the same masters?—Yes, always on the same farm.

45,786. How did you spend the 40*l.*?—It was all gone before I got it.

45,787. You had to pay it away?—Yes.

45,788. Did you pay any to Mr. Searle or to Mr. Parrott?—No.

45,789. Had you borrowed any money?—No. I owed some money.

J. F. Green.

JOHN FOX GREEN sworn and examined.

45,790. (Mr. Longe.) How long have you had a vote for the borough?—The last election was the first time.

45,791. How long have you lived in Totnes?—All my life.

45,792. What are your politics?—Liberal.

45,793. At the last election did you see John Elliott?—Yes.

45,794. When did he see you and take you to Plymouth?—He did not take me there.

45,795. When did he give you money to go there?—On the Tuesday week before the election I went away.

45,796. And he gave you 5*l.* to go to Plymouth?—No, he did not.

45,797. What did he say to you?—He did not come to me.

45,798. Did he send to you?—No. I went to Farley's house at Bridgetown, and by accident we met each other there; there were several tailors there; we had a drop of drink at the public-house, and then I went down to Elliott's house. I said to him, "Worthy wants me to go to Dartmouth, but I do not "consider that I ought to go away." Mr. Elliott persuaded me to go away. On the Tuesday morning Colonel Dawkins canvassed me about dinner-time with Mr. Kellock; he asked me if I would vote for him; I said I would not promise him. Mr. Kellock asked me if I had any questions to put to Colonel Dawkins; I said I had none. Mr. Kellock asked me if I would promise to meet him at the "Stars;" I said I should not be able to make it convenient. That very afternoon I walked from Totnes to Brent, and from Brent I went on to Plymouth, where I saw Mr. Elliott; I knew that he was coming there.

45,799. At whose house did you see him?—I saw him on the platform at the station.

45,800. On what day was this?—That was on the Tuesday evening.

45,801. On that occasion did you tell him that Colonel Dawkins had been canvassing you?—Yes.

45,802. And that you were afraid to stay in Totnes?

was not afraid, I wanted to go away and have a of a spree.

45,803. Supposing you had some money?—Yes, I l none of my own.

45,804. Did you start without any money?—I had f a sovereign.

45,805. That was your own?—No.

45,806. Who gave it to you?—John Elliott.

45,807. At Plymouth how much more did he give ?—The next morning between five and six he e me a five pound note.

45,808. You were going to have a spree?—Yes.

45,809. Was anyone with you?—No, I was all ne.

45,810. Where was your wife and family?—In nes.

45,811. You were there for a week?—Until the ednesday when the election took place.

45,812. Did you spend your 5*l.* ?—Yes, very soon. went rather too quick for me. It did not last long ough.

45,813. Who brought you back?—I happened to et young Mr. Windeatt at the station, and we came to the Brent station, and there was a carriage wait- for us there, and we went from there to the "Sey- ur Hotel."

45,814. When was that?—That was the morning the election.

45,815. You were brought to the "Seymour Hotel" th Mr. Windeatt?—Yes.

45,816. Was there anyone else with you?—A ne- ew of mine.

45,817. Was he helping you in your spree?—No, he as at work every day.

45,818. And you voted for Pender and Seymour? Yes.

45,819. Then how much did you get for that?— l., that was all I got.

45,820. And the 5*l.* 10*s.* made 20*l.* 10*s.* ?—Yes.

45,821. You did not tell Colonel Dawkins that you d promised your vote?—No.

45,822. But you were open to conviction on that le?—No, I was not. Mr. Kellock asked me if I d any questions to put to Colonel Dawkins, and I ought there was some money to be had, and so I left em.

45,823. But you did not mind having any money I ppose?—I did not expect to have any. I did not ow that I was going to have a farthing when I went ay.

45,824. Did you sign the requisition?—Not that know of. If I were to see my name there I ould own that it was mine; but Mr. Harris has en to see me so many times that I cannot remember I recollect the first time that he came was when was over at Screach's, he had a sort of circular then ith him, and he asked me if I would sign it. I said, , I would not sign it, because the moment that I did gn it I would pledge myself to support the person med in the requisition. Mr. Harris said, no, that is t so; we only want to get the man down here or we all not have any election.

45,825. But you do remember signing a requisition? -If you will show me the paper I will tell you whe- er I signed it or not.

45,826. What do you vote for, your house?—Yes, r my house. I have two parlours, a kitchen, four edrooms, and a large garden.

45,827. What are you by trade?—I am a tailor.

45,828. (Mr. Bere.) Is that all that you ever got r your vote?—Yes.

45,829. How much did you get afterwards?—On e morning when I went away from here to go to ondon Mr. John Elliott gave me 2*l.* 10*s.* When he ave me the 5*l.* note at the time I was at Plymouth I anted to change it so that I might send something to y wife, but Mr. Elliott said that he would take care send her something, and I understand that he then nt my wife a sovereign, that is in addition to what received.

45,830. You were examined in London before the Committee of the House of Commons?—Yes, and I m sorry for it now.

45,831. You did not tell the same story there that you have told to-day?—No, I should have done so, but I did it to screen Mr. Elliott.

45,832. (Mr. Coleridge.) Then which is the truth, what you told then or what you have told here now? —What I have said here is the truth.

45,833. Then the whole of the evidence which you gave in London before the Committee was untrue?—Yes, it was untrue.

45,834. Not what you told here?—No.

45,835. You were pretty well schooled in your evidence by William Perrott?—He never put a question to me about the election.

45,836. Did you not go to London with him?—No, he never asked me. I worked for him 18 years.

45,837. I am talking about the petition?—No, never.

45,838. You went up to London together in the same carriage?—Yes.

45,839. Who do you rent your house under?—Mr. Brooking Cuming's sister.

45,840. Your wife does Mr. Brooking Cuming's washing?—Yes.

45,841. Have you paid your rent for the last year? —Yes.

45,842. Nothing taken off it?—The house used to let at 16*l.*

45,843. What now?—10*l.*

45,844. How came it to be let down?—It had been vacant many years.

45,845. When did you first come?—Four years ago. We never paid more than 10*l.*, when we first went in Mr. Presswell was there.

45,846. Have you paid this year's rent too?—Yes.

45,847. Was nothing allowed for that?—Not a halfpenny.

45,848. What did you get altogether?—5*l.* was given for my travelling expenses to London and to pay my keep.

45,849. How long were you there?—Five or six weeks.

45,850. Where were you staying all the time?—At my brother's after I left the "Ship Hotel."

45,851. How long were you at the "Ship?"—Four days.

45,852. Who was there with you, Perrott?—Yes.

45,853. Who else, John Elliott?—No.

45,854. Who was it?—George Fitze, and George Mitchell, the currier.

45,855. Did he give you your fare to London?—I paid it myself out of the 5*l.*; and 30*s.* or 36*s.* Mr. Smith paid me.

45,856. Had you ever told Elliott what you were going to say in London?—No.

45,857. Not what evidence you should give before the Committee of the House of Commons?—After I had notice that I was to go to London I went to Mr. Elliott, of Bridgetown. I went and told him I was not going to London to say a falsehood for 15*l.*; that was after I voted; I went and told Mr. Elliott I should not go and tell a story for the sake of 15*l.*

45,858. How much more did you want to tell a lie? —I did not ask for anything more.

45,859. What did he offer you?—Not anything. He said, "Do not mention my name, and that I went to Plymouth with you; say nothing about it." After I went down to the "Seymour" and he took down my affidavit I found the door was shut, and I saw something was wrong. Before that I used to come up every day to Mr. Elliott with messages.

45,860. You went to see Mr. Elliott again before you went to London?—I saw him the same morning; that is the time he let me have the 2*l.* 10*s.*

45,861. What did he say then about your evidence? —Not a word.

45,862. When did you have the next conversation about this before you went to London?—That was the morning I went to London.

45,863. He told you you were not to say you were sent to Plymouth?—Certainly.

45,864. You were not to mention his name?—Certainly.

THIRTY-THIRD DAY.

J. F. Green.

26 Oct. 1866.

45,865. Or say anything about the money?—He told me the money was his own money; and he said, "Tell them that I spent 150*l.* out of my own pocket at the last election."

45,866. In consequence of what Mr. Elliott said to you, you went and gave the evidence you did in London?—I did.

45,867. (Mr. Bere.) After you were served with the warrant or subpœna that called you up to London did you see Mr. Robert Harris?—Yes.

45,868. What did he give you to go up and tell the truth?—He did not give me anything.

45,869. How much did he say you would get if you did go?—He said, "If you go to the Whig party and "say you are going to tell the truth in London you "will get 100*l.* out of them." That is what he told me. That is on the Plains, down at the bottom of the New Walk.

45,870. Did not Mr. Harris say you had been bribed, and if you told it the Conservatives would give you something for saying it?—Only about 10*l.*

45,871. (Mr. Coleridge.) He suggested that you might get 100*l.* out of the other party by threatening them?—Yes.

45,872. (Mr. Bere.) What did you get for signing the requisition?—I do not know that I signed it.

GEORGE FITZE, jun., sworn and examined.

G. Fitze, jun.

45,873. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—An accountant.

45,874. How long have you carried on your profession?—I collect the property and income tax, and I assist the overseers in collecting the poor rates.

45,875. For the parish of Totnes?—For the parish of Totnes.

45,876. How long have you been an overseer?—I have not been an overseer, only assisting them.

45,877. When did you commence?—In 1854, only assisting the overseers at different times.

45,878. For which they paid you?—Yes.

45,879. Where do you live?—In Totnes.

45,880. In Totnes itself?—Yes, Fore Street.

45,881. Whose tenant are you?—A lodger. I do not occupy.

45,882. What did you vote for?—When I was a voter I voted on building land.

45,883. You do not now?—No.

45,884. When were you struck off?—Last year.

45,885. As one of the Gerston Company?—Yes.

45,886. How long had you been a voter before?—At first in 1862.

45,887. What was your vote for then?—Building land at Gerston.

45,888. Who was the real occupier of it?—We were the occupiers.

45,889. Was it a company?—Yes, three.

45,890. Who were they?—Myself, Venn, and Cuming.

45,891. Is that John Venn?—Yes.

45,892. At Mrs. Thomas's?—Yes, and Samuel Cuming, junior.

45,893. Who stocked the land?—We took in different parties.

45,894. Generally the same cattle?—No, different parties.

45,895. You never had any cattle of your own in?—No, it was done to make a vote, there is no disguising the fact.

45,896. What was the rent?—36*l.* a year.

45,897. You found it successful, and it paid you?—It was not very successful.

45,898. You got a vote by it?—It was not very profitable. I never had anything for the vote. It is true I had 50*l.* for telegraphic messages.

45,899. Did you start the Dartmouth Company?—No, I was the agent.

45,900. That was on Mrs. Beazley's land?—Yes.

45,901. Had you anything to do with the Gerston Company?—I was only one of the company.

45,902. Who is the manager now?—Mr. John Endle.

45,903. Did you have anything to do with the Farming Company; was there not a company called the Farming Company?—Not that I am aware of; are you alluding to the Broomborough Company?

45,904. No.—That is on the other side, the clerical company.

45,905. Is this a correct description of the way in which the company was managed? "The accountant "George Fitze is the manager; his place is to take "in cattle for the week of A., B., and C.; but Mr. "George Cole, the previous occupier, occupied the "land as before he rents; he renders a fictitious "account of the rents paid; the rates and rents are "paid in their names, as previous." Is that a correct description of the way in which the company is managed?—With regard to the Dartmouth Company it is like the Broomborough Company; it was done to make votes.

45,906. No real occupation?—No.

45,907. Used you to cut Mrs. Beazley's cabbages?—Yes. Mr. Robert Harris was on one side and I was on the other.

45,908. (Mr. Bere.) You paid the rent?—Yes.

45,909. With regard to the Dartmouth Company, from whom did you get the rent to pay?—From Mrs. Beazley. I paid all the outgoings.

45,910. It was paid in your name?—I paid everything.

45,911. And Mrs. Beazley paid you back again?—She has not paid it, she owes me 29*l.* 2*s.* 11*d.*

45,912. When the Dartmouth Company was knocked on the head there was a sum of 12*l.* owing for rent?—Last Michaelmas a balance of 12*l.* 11*s.* 10½*d.*

45,913. That has not been paid?—No, that has not been paid yet.

45,914. Besides the various occupations you follow, you occasionally serve notices for Mr. Michelmore?—I have.

45,915. Who are the men?—One is Mrs. Thomas, and one is George Robins Stone.

45,916. He held a house in Bridgetown?—I was asked to do it by the other parties.

45,917. To whom did the house belong?—Mr. Honey, of Plymouth.

45,918. Who were the persons who asked you to serve the notice?—In the case of Stone, Prout asked me to serve it for him.

45,919. Did you know that Mr. Holman and Parrott had had something to do with Stone's house?—No.

45,920. You went and served the notice?—Yes.

45,921. Did you see stone when you served it?—I did.

45,922. Did you tell him why it was served?—I saw the notice and I left it. I waited while he read it.

45,923. You never had anything to vote?—No.

45,924. Did Prout tell you why Stone was to be served with a notice?—All the tenants had got notice to quit at the time. There were four or five of them besides him that had notice.

45,925. Did Mr. Michelmore manage for Mr. Honey?—Yes.

45,926. Did not anybody (until Mr. Michelmore) have any house there?—I believe Mr. Michelmore took the house of Mr. Honey and agreed to pay so much a year.

45,927. The house was Mrs. Stammers'?—Yes; I served it on Kellock.

45,928. On what account?—On account of Crocker.

45,929. He had gone and voted against him?—He did not vote.

45,930. He had made himself busy at different times?—In London.

45,931. He was a witness before the Committee?—Yes.

45,932. That was after the notice was given you to serve?—Yes.

45,933. You served it last June?—Yes.

45,934. He would have had to go out at Christmas?—Yes. Since then Mrs. Stammers wrote a letter to Mr. Jeffery Michelmore desiring him to withdraw the notice.

45,935. When ?—A fortnight since.

45,936. What was Mr. Jeffery Michelmore pleased do, to withdraw the notice ?—I believe so, she is ere still.

45,937. Though you did not have money yourself, you have any money to give to others ?—No.

45,938. Never at any time ?—I never had any ney put in my hand for others.

45,939. Have you ever been to anyone in order to money ?—Never.

45,940. What have you had to do with elections ? Nothing but to conduct the registration.

45,941. Used you to sign notices of objection ?— ver.

45,942. What did you do ?—Look after the votes, that the land was stocked, and keep them entered to claims.

45,943. That was to a certain extent your business, assist the overseers ?—Yes, in a double sense.

45,944. You were assisting the overseers to find who was entitled to vote ?—Yes.

45,945. And object to those who were not entitled ? I did not object, but I gave information.

45,946. (Mr. Coleridge.) You helped, I suppose, to end the 72*l.* spent at Mrs. Beazley's during the gistration ?—I had nothing to do with that.

45,947. Did you not dine with the people there ?— . When I found the registration going on I had ncheon at the "Castle" Inn.

45,948. You were not living at the "Seymour ?" No.

45,949. Were you paid a salary for looking after the gistration ?—Yes.

45,950. What were you paid ?—1*l.* a week.

45,951. Who paid you that ?—The agreement was ade in February 1863, between Mr. Michelmore and r. Brooking Cuming, that I was to have 1*l.* a week, s. on each side.

45,952. Have you always received that money from r. Brooking Cuming, or received it in a lump ?—I ve not received it. I have not received it all.

45,953. Perhaps you have not been paid lately ?—I ve not.

45,954. When was the last payment ?—The last yment that I had was in August 1865. I have had payment since.

45,955. Are you still looking after it ?—No. It is l wreck at present.

45,956. Whom did you succeed ?—Mr. Shute.

45,957. Now you can tell us, I daresay, when this anufacture of votes began ?—It began in July 1863.

45,958. Not merely your side, but the other ?—It gan before that. The first manufacture of votes as a field that John Creed had ; that was the first anufacture of votes.

45,959. How was that manufacture brought about ? It was only one vote. Mr. Heath had this field nder Robert Earle.

45,960. And Mr. Heath gave it up and Mr. Creed took ?—No. Mr. Heath rented it, and Mr. Creed was put on it to make a vote, and then Mr. Heath had notice.

45,961. To whom did the field belong ?—It has en in chancery for some years.

45,962. And in the hands of the trustees ?—No.

45,963. Is it let yearly ?—It is let by auction ; the st time, I think, for six or seven years.

45,964. And Earle took it ?—Yes.

45,965. And let it to Heath ?—Yes ; but Mr. reed was on when Mr. Heath took it.

45,966. Mr. Creed is rated as the occupier ?—Yes.

45,967. He never occupied ?—No.

45,968. When did Creed vote ?—In 1863.

45,969. That was the first creation of those votes ? —Yes.

45,970. What was the next attempt on your side, or the Conservative side ?—Then Mr. Dent took the Broomborough property.

45,971. There was a manufacture of votes there ?— Yes.

45,972. How many votes did they try to get on the registration for Broomborough ?—The first was the Clerical Company.

45,973. They did not succeed ?—No ; Mr. Harris was too greedy, and put himself on, and Mr. White was on before.

45,974. How many votes did they try for the Clerical Company ?—14.

45,975. Out of the 14 how many were clergymen ? —Four.

45,976. That company did not succeed in establishing any ?—No. Mr. Harris was too greedy, and he put his name there, and put on Mr. White before him.

45,977. Were any of the clergymen called to support their vote ?—Yes ; Mr. Liskin.

45,978. His evidence was not satisfactory ?—No ; and the others, when they heard the evidence, went away. The next was the Colly Park Meadow, and they got on 13.

45,979. Let me have the names ?—George Browse William Byne, Henry Weymouth Foster, William Gilbert, Frederick James Gardner, Robert Harris, George Freeman Marks, John Marks, Joseph Marks, Robert Maye, William Michelmore, William Daniel Narramore, and Arthur Niner.

45,980. What was this ?—Colly Park Meadow.

45,981. How long did they stay on the register ?— One year. They were votes in 1865.

45,982. How many acres was this ?—I cannot say. The gross rent was about 80*l.*

45,983. (Mr. Coleridge.) How did they get 13 votes for 80*l.* ?—That is the question.

45,984. (Mr. Bere.) They thought it worth 130*l.* ? —Yes.

45,985. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who swore that ?—Mr. Harris.

(Mr. Harris.) The rent was 150*l.*

45,986. (Mr. Bere.) And rated at 80*l.* ?—Yes.

45,987. That is before the new rating ?

(Witness.) No.

45,988. Were all these the companies on the Conservative side ?—No, there were two more. There is the Bowden Company, 45,989. Did they vote in 1865 ?—No ; never on the register.

45,990. How many did they get ?—Twelve.

45,991. Then the other company, did they succeed in getting names on ?—They all came here to get the votes on, but they did not.

45,992. The only one that succeeded was the Collyfield Company ?—Yes.

45,993. They tried to put on 30 votes, and they did not succeed ?—More.

45,994. Forty-three they tried altogether ?—29 they they did not succeed in getting on, and 11 they did.

45,995. Now how many companies have you got on the Liberal side. Have you got a list ?—No ; I can let you have a list to-morrow morning.

45,996. Can you tell us by going through the register of 1865 how many voters have buildings and land, not as householders. Have you a poll-book ?—No.

45,997. Take this poll-book (handing one to the witness), and mark those who have buildings and land. Put B. L. to distinguish them, and bring it to-morrow. —I will.

JOHN FOX GREEN recalled.

J. F. Green

45,998. (Mr. Coleridge.) Is that your handwriting (handing a paper to the witness) ?—Yes.

45,999. What did you get for writing it ?—Nothing.

46,000. Did you get anything from Mr. Harris for writing anything ?—Not that I know of. I borrowed 5*s.* of him.

46,001. Did you get anything after this ?—I do not know.

Adjourned till to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

THIRTY-FOURTH DAY.

THIRTY-FOURTH DAY.

Saturday, 27th October 1866.

J. S. Jenkins.

27 Oct. 1866.

JOHN SLOGGETT JENKINS recalled, and further examined.

46,002. (Mr. Bere.) How long ago is it since you destroyed those letters from Mr. Pender to yourself?—As I told you yesterday, since the Commission was opened.

46,003. How long ago?—Immediately after receiving the summons.

46,004. Are you quite sure of that?—Quite sure.

46,005. Is it not less than a month?—Immediately after receiving the summons.

46,006. Is it not less than a month since you destroyed those letters?—It was immediately on receiving the summons.

46,007. Will you answer the question?—I cannot unless you tell me the date.

46,008. Is it not less than a month?—I have answered that, and I cannot answer it better unless you tell me the date that I received the summons.

46,009. Did you go to consult with your friends as to whether you should destroy the letters?—I asked no one.

46,010. Take care. Did you not go and see Mr. George Bennett, and consult with him whether you should destroy the letters?—No.

46,011. That you swear?—I swear I destroyed them without consulting any one.

46,012. Did not you go afterwards?—I did not go and consult afterwards.

46,013. Did you not do it?—I could not afterwards.

46,014. Will you answer the question instead of making a speech?—I am not making a speech.

46,015. Between the issuing of the Commission and the serving of the summons did you consult any one about destroying the letters?—I am not aware that I spoke to any one.

46,016. Will you swear you did not?—I will swear I did not.

46,017. Did you take counsel's opinion upon that?—I do not know any counsel.

46,018. Did you or not?—I did not.

46,019. That you swear?—That I swear.

46,020. How many letters of Mr. Pender did you destroy?—I cannot say; it may have been half a dozen.

46,021. More or less?—I cannot say.

46,022. Did you have an opinion taken on your behalf?—No.

46,023. Did you see your friends to obtain an opinion concerning the legality of the destruction of the letters?—No. If you will allow me to state the ground upon which I destroyed them, it is that I deny any one's right to see my private correspondence. That is the principle, and I wish it to be most distinctly understood.

46,024. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you take the trouble to read the Act of Parliament before you did that?—No.

46,025. (By Mr. Bere.) Did Mr. Pender return you any answer to that letter (referring)?—I cannot tell.

46,026. Did he or not?—I cannot say.

46,027. You must?—I am not aware that he did.

46,028. Will you swear that he did not?—I cannot swear. Do you wish me to tell falsehoods?

46,029. Did you read the letters before you destroyed them?—I cannot say; but there was not a sentence in those letters that dishonours or damages Mr. Pender.

46,030. It is not a question of dishonouring or damaging Mr. Pender or you, but did you destroy those letters in answer to yours?—I cannot speak to any particular reply.

46,031. Will you undertake to say that you did not?—I cannot say it, but if you drive me to give you a reply after what I have said, you will make me say what is not true.

46,032. Did you usually receive answers?—In proportion to the letters that I wrote I did not. As a personal friend I gave him information.

46,033. What made you destroy them?—I deny the right of anyone to look into my private correspondence.

46,034. Was it to prevent the Commissioners from looking into it?—I have stated it before. I deny any one's right to see it.

46,035. Answer the question?—It is on that broad English principle.

46,036. Was it to prevent the Commissioners seeing the correspondence?—To prevent any one.

46,037. Was it to prevent the Commissioners?—I have stated it already.

46,038. (Mr. Bere.) That being the case, we are of opinion that you have been guilty of contempt of Court in wilfully and determinedly putting it out of your power to produce documents that might be essential to this inquiry, and you are fined 20*l.* for that. That fine will be remitted to the Court of Exchequer, who will levy it upon you or your goods.

The Witness.—You must commit me to prison. I cannot pay it, and I deny any one's right to take my letters and read them.

G. Fitze.

GEORGE FITZE recalled, and further examined.

46,039. (Mr. Bere.) You told us, yesterday, the number of persons who had formed companies on the Conservative side?—Yes.

46,040. You were good enough to promise me a list of those who formed companies on the Liberal side?—Yes.

46,041. Were you the manager of all these companies?—Yes.

46,042. And they were all conducted on the same principle?—Yes.

46,043. Henry Bradridge, jun., Samuel Cuming, jun., George Fitze, jun., John W. Hoppin, John Knapman, jun., Wm. H. Rossiter, Richard Stanning, John Venn, William Veasey; had that company any particular name?—No.

46,044. John Furneaux, John Hamlyn, Andrew Hepburn, Robert Jackson, Edward Sawdye, William Hamlyn. Is that called the Buckfastleigh Company?—Yes.

46,045. Christopher G. Clift, Mark Fox, William H. Rees, Thomas Stranger, Mark Whittell; were they called the Dartmouth company?—Yes.

46,046. You have been good enough to mark the poll-book in the way I have asked you. Where the qualification is merely building and land you have put "B. L.," and "H. L." where houses and land?—Yes.

46,047. And "A." where it is warehouse?—Yes.

46,048. Have you counted up the numbers?—No.

46,049. Take the list and count them?—86.

46,050. Are there any Conservatives amongst those?—Yes.

46,051. They will appear from the poll-book?—Yes.

46,052. Now besides those that were actually registered for their votes there was the Gerston Company?—That came afterwards.

46,053. When was that tried?—That was tried last year at the Registration Court.

46,054. That was 45 votes?—The revising barrister passed them, but they were not allowed by the Court of Common Pleas.

46,055. 45 votes?—44.

46,056. Were they upon the Gerston estate?—The Gerston estate.

46,057. Was the Gerston estate taken by Mr. Elias Ford as landlord?—Yes.

46,058. What was the amount at which the company was rented and rated at?—I cannot tell by this rate book I have here, because it was made in 1864.

46,059. You can get at the rating?—I can.

46,060. The Broomborough Company, what was that rated at?—The Clerical Company is the first, 33 acres 2 roods; gross rating 83*l.* 15*s.*

46,061. What was the Broomborough Company rated at?—24 acres 2 roods 13 poles; gross rating 82*l.* 15*s.*

46,062. Now the larger company of yours, the liberal company, what was that rated at?—24 acres 9 perches; rated at 93*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*

46,063. Now the Buckfastleigh Company?—64*l.* gross.

46,064. And the Dartmouth Company?—I have not got that.

46,065. That is the Bridgetown Company?—Yes.

46,066. Who is the Bridgetown overseer?—William Veasey.

46,067. Do you know what the origin was of the "building and land" votes, when it was first brought before the revising barrister?—The first time.

46,068. Have you heard when it was first tried?—No. I do not know when it was first tried.

46,069. Do you know whether they were first manufactured on the Gerston estate, when it was the property of Mr. Baldwin, on the Bridgetown property?—I cannot tell you.

THOMAS JACOB SEARLE, senior, sworn and examined. T. J. Searle

46,070. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you lived in Totnes?—Pretty nearly all my lifetime.

46,071. Has that been a long one?—Yes.

46,072. How long?—76 years.

46,073. Have you had a vote for Totnes from the time of the Reform Bill?—I have.

46,074. What qualification did you vote on?—Premises in Bridgetown, "house and land."

46,075. Whose property was that?—The duke's.

46,076. What was the value of the house?—5*l.* I give for the house, and 6*l.* 10*s.* for the land.

46,077. Has that been the qualification you have always had?—Yes.

46,078. Were you living at that house at the time of the passing of the Reform Bill?—Yes.

46,079. At that time there were only 19 votes in Bridgetown?—I beg pardon, I was going too far.

46,080. How far can you go back?—When I first voted was for the present Duke of Somerset.

46,081. In 1835?—Yes.

46,082. Were you living in that house in 1835?—Yes.

46,083. Have you lived there ever since?—Yes.

46,084. Can you tell us when votes began to be made by building, and linhays and places for cattle upon land?—I cannot.

46,085. How long after the election of 1835 was it?—I cannot tell.

46,086. Was there a good deal of building after the election of 1835 in Bridgetown?—Yes.

46,087. And did that building consist generally of linhays upon fields?—Yes.

46,088. Do you know at all who ordered the erection of those buildings?—I do not know.

46,089. Were you ever then upon the Gerston estate?—No.

46,090. You did not know what Mr. Baldwin was doing there?—No; I knew nothing about it.

46,091. Have you known fields which, when you remember them in 1835, had no buildings upon them, have had buildings built on them since?—I can hardly tell you the dates.

46,092. Were there not a great many fields which had then no buildings upon them at all?—Yes.

46,093. Have not a great many of those fields now got buildings erected upon them?—Certainly.

46,094. But you cannot tell very accurately when that was done?—No.

46,095. Have you had a vote at all the elections?—I have.

46,096. And you always voted for the Liberals?—I always voted for the Liberals.

46,097. When you took your house in 1835, were you told you must vote for the Liberals?—No; I never was told so at all.

46,098.—If you had voted for the Conservatives, would you have expected to be turned out?—I do not think that.

46,099. You do not think that?—No.

46,100. When did you first begin to have anything to do with distributing money for the Liberal party?—Well, I had some for Mr. Mills. I gave the paper to the secretary.

46,101. You can repeat what was on that paper. When was it you first began?—I gave 50*l.* first.

46,102. To whom did you give that 50*l.*?—It was given to me.

46,103. By whom?—By my son. Mr. Thomas Holman gave it to my son to give to me.

46,104. Is your son called Thomas Jacob?—Yes.

46,105. You are called Thomas Jacob, too, are you?—Yes.

46,106. But he is more generally known as Thomas Jacobs than you?—I suppose so.

46,107. What did you do with the 50*l.*?—Spent it.

46,108. It was given to you for your vote?—It was sent to me; I never knew I was going to have one sixpence, I assure you.

46,109. Which election of Mr. Mills was that?—I never got but that one.

46,110. Never but that one?—No.

46,111. But you had money at other times to give to voters, had you not?—Never. I never had to do with anything of the sort in my life.

46,112. You never have?—No, I never had anything to do with anything else, I assure you.

46,113. Did not your son give you a list of persons you were to go and see?—Never. I never went to a man in my life. I defy any man in the two towns to say that ever I did.

46,114. Did they come to you?—Never.

46,115. What are you? an innkeeper?—I am a tanner and fellmonger by trade.

46,116. Is that all you ever had to do with elections?—Yes.

46,117. Did you get any money last time?—Yes.

46,118. How much did you get last time?—50*l.*

46,119. The last time you got 50*l.*?—Yes.

46,120. That was the only time?—50*l.* before. Three fifties altogether.

46,121. And you always spent it?—To be sure I did.

46,122. Now in 1862 had you anything to do with the company called the "Slippery Company"?—Never.

46,123. Never at all?—Never.

46,124. Did you know that your son had?—Never.

46,125. You have heard that your son had since?—I do not believe he had.

46,126. Or something of that kind?—I do not know, I assure you.

46,127. Perhaps you do not like the name?—I do not care. You may call it Slippery, or any name you please. I am here to tell the truth.

46,128. Did not you always vote as your son told you?—Never.

THIRTY-FOURTH DAY.

T. J. Searle.

27 Oct. 1866.

46,129. Never as he told you?—Never.

46,130. You always voted the same side?—Certainly.

46,131. After consultation with him?—I have been a Whig a number of years, and always stick to it, and shall, to the day of my death.

46,132. And you received 150*l.* for sticking to it?—No, I have been so this 30 or 40 years.

46,133. Did you know of your son going over to the "Seven Stars" in 1862, and offering to sell a number of votes for 1,000*l.*?—I did not. I assure you I never heard anything of it.

46,134. You did not know. Were not you to have part?—I have heard of it since, but I did not know anything about it.

46,135. Not at that time?—No, I did not.

J. Perrott.

JOHN PERROTT recalled.

46,136. (Mr. Bere.) You have not had a vote since 1859?—Not since Mr. Dunn's election. I forget the date.

46,137. What was your qualification then?—I was out of my qualification.

46,138. And yet you voted?—Yes.

46,139. What had your qualification been?—House and garden.

46,140. In Bridgetown?—Yes.

46,141. How long had you held that?—Since my father's decease.

46,142. How long had that been?—At that time?

46,143. Yes?—Several years.

46,144. How long have you lived in Bridgetown?—All my life.

46,145. How long had you a vote before 1859?—The first time, as I told you the other day, was Mr. Ricardo's election; I do not know the dates.

46,146. That was 1847?—Yes.

46,147. You had lived in Bridgetown before that?—Yes, all my lifetime.

46,148. Do you remember when first they began to put buildings on lands that before had no buildings on them?—The date I do not know. I was one of the first.

46,149. What land did you occupy then?—I occupied a field called Paradise, with an old building upon it; it is the third field from the "Seymour," along the path leading to Weston, and the last house.

46,150. With an old building upon it?—An old building that had been there ever since my recollection, and I suppose my father before me.

46,151. Did you vote on account of that building being on the land?—Yes; the building was altered; it was a very large building, which I dare say you have noticed, an open large shed for cattle to run in and out, and all inclosed with a lock-up door.

46,152. By whose direction was that done?—By that of Mr. Thomas Michelmore; there is no doubt about that.

46,153. Did he consult you about it before the alterations were made?—No.

46,154. Were you a voter before that?—No.

46,155. Then you claimed to vote for that field with the building in it?—Yes.

46,156. Was your vote objected to?—Yes.

46,157. Before the revising barrister?—Yes.

46,158. And the barrister decided in your favour?—Yes.

46,159. Did he go down to look at the building?—No.

46,160. But he decided that it was a building within the meaning of the Act of Parliament?—Yes, certainly.

46,161. How long ago is that?—I cannot tell you; I dare say you will be able to ascertain from the books. It was directly or very shortly after Mr. Blount's election. It was considered right that some new votes should be made. If I recollect rightly, Mr. Blount came down himself, and there was a meeting at the "Seymour" hotel, and a committee was formed; then the buildings were altered and new ones were raised up, and I amongst others was considered to be a fit person to take one of those buildings. The date of that I do not know.

46,162. Can you tell us how many new votes were made by these alterations?—First of all I do not think there were many besides myself, but they have been progressing since. There were not more than four or five old buildings within the manor.

46,163. I suppose there is hardly a field now without a building in it?—There is not; there may be one or two exceptions.

46,164. And upon that qualification you voted?—Yes.

46,165. Did you continue to vote on that until 1859?—I lost my vote at one time; I do not know the date.

46,166. At that time did you know the Gerston property belonging to Mr. Baldwin?—Yes.

46,167. Was there the same system of altering old buildings going on in regard to that property?—Yes, soon afterwards.

46,168. Did they begin quite as soon as you did with regard to the other property?—I do not know whether they did or not.

46,169. About how many votes were added by Mr. Baldwin's party at that day?—I do not know; I cannot tell you that.

46,170. You were not one of the committee that was formed at the "Seymour" hotel?—I was not.

46,171. Do you know who the members of that committee were?—I did know them; those whom I knew are all dead now. My uncle was one of them, and Mr. Turpin took a very active part; he is dead. Mr. Bishop, of the "Seymour" hotel, used to tell me a great deal about it; he is also dead.

J. T. Tucker.

JOHN THOMAS TUCKER sworn and examined.

46,172. (Mr. Coleridge.) How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—I had a vote about 30 years ago for the first time; then from the year 1840 I was not on the list until 1865.

46,173. Which way did you generally vote?—Always for the Tories.

46,174. What did the Tories ever give you for your vote?—Never a farthing.

46,175. Nothing at all?—Never.

46,176. Neither before the election or after the election?—No, never.

46,177. When do you first recollect their making votes by means of putting buildings upon the land?—The commencement was from the time of the passing of the Reform Bill. I did not reside in Totnes at that time, but I attended the registration, and I recollect some trifling instances occurring.

46,178. Can you tell us who you remember to have began that first?—The first instance that I have any recollection of was in a field of the Duke of Somerset's, and that was done by a man of the name of Drew some day or two before the registration.

46,179. Do you recollect what year that was in?—That was in 1833, I think.

46,180. What happened about that, will you tell us, as well as you can recollect?—I recollect being present at the time; he was a mason, and was asked when he had commenced this building. He said the day before, and the consequence was that he was rejected.

46,181. I suppose by the next occasion he had finished it, and they put him on?—They were not increased to much extent, I think, for some years.

46,182. How many votes should you say were made in that way up to 1840 when you cased to have a vote?—I should suppose from 20 to 30.

46,183. Do you mean 20 or 30 altogether, or only upon the Duke's property ?—I mean altogether.

46,184. Do you remember about what time they began making votes on the Gerston property ?—About 1839 or 1840.

46,185. Then they made votes on the Gerston estate in the same way, by putting these buildings on the land ?—Yes, afterwards.

46,186. Can you tell us anything more in relation to that matter ?—I cannot.

46,187. Did you ever hold any house or land under the Duke of Somerset ?—I had a house in Bridgetown, I think, from 1835 to 1837.

46,188. How did you vote at the time you held that house ?—I voted on the Tory side for Sir George Adams.

46,189. Were you turned out of the house after that ?—When I rented the house first, jointly with my mother, it belonged to Mr. Heath ; but as soon as it was sold to the Duke we had notice to quit ; that notice, I think, proceeded from the trustees of Mr. Heath.

46,190. Were you turned out then, or did you hold it afterwards ?—We left then, and removed to Totnes.

46,191. Do you know why it was that you got that notice to quit the house ?—That I cannot say ; I can only speak to the fact of the notice.

46,192. You had voted for the Tories, you say, at the previous election ?—I had.

Mr. Robert Earle sworn and examined. Mr. R. Earle.

46,193. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you had a vote ?—26 or 28 years.

46,194. Do you remember when they began to make votes by adding buildings or erecting fresh ones ?—I remember, but there were not any made on Gerston to make votes, there were buildings on it before.

46,195. The votes were not claimed in consequence of the buildings ?—Not till Mr. Baldwin bought it.

46,196. When was that ?—I cannot tell.

46,197. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was it in 1837 ?—I really cannot tell.

46,198. (Mr. Bere.) After the votes were allowed to those who had the old buildings, were there any buildings erected in some of the fields ?—There is none there now.

46,199. None at all ?—There are a good many buildings about the yard, and they have been making votes on that, that is the old buildings. There were two or three in the fields.

46,200. Were not those buildings altered, and did not they put doors to them ?—Yes.

46,201. They were open buildings before, and those doors were put on, so that things might be locked up ?—Yes ; I used to have the barn over the linhays, but I was not a vote on that. I am a vote on the house that I live in.

46,202. Whose house is it ?—My own.

46,203. You never lived in the Duke's house ?—No.

46,204. Never at any time ?—No.

46,205. Have you a son called Robert Earle ?—Yes.

46,206. Has he a situation under Mr. Pender ?—I do not know, but he was recommended to Mr. Whitworth to learn the business. He never got any wages, and it cost me nearly 300*l.* to keep him there. He was recommended and introduced to Mr. Whitworth. I saw Mr. Whitworth myself.

46,207. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know that Mr. Pender was a large shareholder ?—I have heard so.

46,208. (Mr. Bere.) Although you have a house of your own, you rented some land of the duke ?—Yes ; I rented a good deal of the Gerston estate when it was bought by the duke, and continued when the company was formed.

46,209. You can tell us when the duke did buy Gerston ?—No ; I think seven or eight years ago, not very long ago.

46,210. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he buy it before the election of 1859, Dunn's election ?—I do not think he had got it then. Mr. Chaster can tell you.

46,211. (Mr. Chaster.) It is prior to that.

(The Witness.) My father had a good deal of the land.

46,212. (Mr. Coleridge.) What is the acreage of Gerston ?—113 acres.

(Mr. Bere.) In 1859 you voted for Mr. Dunn.

46,213. What did you do in 1862 ?—I voted for Mr. Pender.

46,214. Had your son got the situation then ?—No.

46,215. That was after you had changed your landlord ?—Yes.

46,216. Did you vote for Mr. Pender because you were afraid of being turned out by the duke ?—No ; Mr. Michelmore never mentioned anything about voting for the party when I took the land. The old one or the young one never asked me to vote.

46,217. Why did you change ?—Because I thought the Liberal party best for the country, and my landlord was a Liberal landlord, and all had something to do with it.

46,218. Was not the real reason because you had got a new landlord, a Liberal landlord instead of a Conservative one ?—It may be that.

46,219. Are you the Robert Earle who had something to do with letting a field to Creed, of Abbots Kerswell ?—I let it to John Heath, and he let it to Creed, and made a vote for it without asking me.

46,220. Creed was rated ?—Yes.

46,221. Did you ever know about it ?—Afterwards.

46,222. Did you turn Heath out of that ?—Yes, soon after.

46,223. (Mr. Bere.) Is there anything more that you can tell us ?—I do not think I can.

46,224. Have you had anything to do with other elections ? You voted for Mr. Pender in 1863 ?—Yes.

46,225. Pender and Seymour in 1865 ?—Yes.

46,226. Did you get anything for your vote ?—Not a penny.

46,227. Nor give anything ?—No, I was answerable for an old fellow who worked for me at one time. I sent him to Buckfastleigh, and they went out and waylaid him in the road.

46,228. What time was that ?—About 15 years ago.

46,229. Was that on the election day ?—No, a week before. They took him back to the "Seven Stars," and they sent for me. They wanted to send him away, but he would not go without 15*l.*, and I was answerable, and when I went to the "Stars" to get the money for him, they said they had not any left.

46,230. Did you pay him ?—Yes, I paid him, I promised him, and I never had the money for years.

46,231. Whose election was that in ?—Baldwin's.

46,232. Who was the other man ?—I do not know. I forget.

46,233. It was 15 or 16 years ago ?—Yes, and I did not get the money for at least three or four years.

46,234. How did you get it ?—It was brought to me. I think Mr. Pack brought it. Mr. Adams brought me 5*l.* before, and he said that was all they could raise, and I got the other afterwards.

46,235. Who is Pack ?—He is a maltster in the town.

46,236. How did you pay Crocker ?—He was a baker, and he had six sacks of flour which came to 15*l.*

46,237. You are sure that this was not Dunn's election ?—No, that was when I had the 10*l.*

46,238. Mr. James Pack brought you that ?—Yes.

46,239. How did Crocker vote at the election ?—For Baldwin. They took him right off for seven days, and they brought him back to vote, and he came for his money. He would not go away till I was answerable ; and they said, "You go and see him.

THIRTY-FOURTH DAY.

Mr. R. Earle.

27 Oct. 1866.

"There is your brother there, and let him have the "money," and I should have a cheque. I said there was no occasion for that, and I went the day after the election for Crocker's money, and they said there was none left.

46,240. (Mr. Colcridge.) Did you remonstrate about that?—I did.

46,241. (Mr. Bere.) Did Crocker vote for Dunn in 1859?—I do not know; he did not work for me then.

46,242. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know whether he got anything in 1859?—I do not know.

46,243. (Mr. Bere.) Did you get anything for him?—No; that is the only time I had anything to do with bribery.

46,244. (Mr. Coleridge.) He would not be likely to vote without bribery?—No; he was not the sort of fellow.

46,245. Did he get any sacks of flour in 1859?—No, nothing. I had nothing to do with it more than I have said.

46,246. Whom did you ask to pay you that 10*l.* when you got it?—I do not know.

46,247. How many elections had there been between the time of your paying that 15*l.* and your receiving the 10*l.*?—I do not know. I do not think any.

46,248. There was one in 1857?—Yes.

46,249. Did you try to get it then?—I do not know. I do not think I did. I had it just before Dunn's election.

46,250. Did they bring you that 10*l.* in Dunn's election, or did you go and ask for it?—They brought it to me.

46,251. Had you said anything to Mr. Pack or any of them that when money was going you wanted the 10*l.*?—They knew it was owing.

46,252. Whom did you remind of it?—Mr. Pack, I think.

46,253. Was he active on the Tory side?—I think he was rather.

46,254. That is all you had to do with it?—Yes.

J. Elliott.

JOHN ELLIOTT sworn and examined.

46,255. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you?—A carpenter.

46,256. Where do you live?—In Bridgetown.

46,257. Do you occupy a house and land?—A house and garden.

46,258. You voted upon that?—Yes.

46,259. Who employed you at the last election?—I was not employed at all. I was a volunteer.

46,260. Who were you under?—No one.

46,261. I mean from whom did you receive instructions?—No one.

46,262. You did what you liked without any directions at all?—Just so.

46,263. I want to know with whom generally you communicated?—Mr. Holman was the only one I communicated with.

46,264. Did you not take any instructions from Mr. Michelmore?—None at all.

46,265. You went out to see a man of the name of Edmonds?—I went out with Callard. Callard was going to take a ride out there, and he asked me to go.

46,266. What happened when you went out to Edmonds?—Callard saw him.

46,267. Did you not see him?—I did not. I saw Edmonds go with Callard.

46,268. Did Callard tell you what he had done with him?—No.

46,269. Did you see Callard give him anything?—No; certainly not.

46,270. What was it you did about Mr. Green?—I saw him about a week before the election.

46,271. What did you give him?—Who?

46,272. Green?—Well, 20*l.* was the arrangement.

46,273. What did you give him at first to go away?—I gave him a half sovereign. I went with him. The arrangement was to meet him at the Brent station. He went to the Brent station, and I met him there.

46,274. Did you pay his fare down to Plymouth?—I gave him a half sovereign.

46,275. When did you pay him that?—After he got to Plymouth.

46,276. Did you not promise him 45*l.*?—Certainly not.

46,277. Did you give his wife 10*l.*?—No, certainly not.

46,278. Did you promise her 10*l.*?—Certainly not.

46,279. When did you give him the 20*l.*?—15*l.* after he voted.

46,280. He voted all right?—Yes.

46,281. He only got 20*l.* in all?—His wife had a sovereign when he was at Plymouth.

46,282. And he had 20*l.* 10*s.*?—22*l.* 10*s.* When he was going to London he told me he had spent all the money, and he asked me for 2*l.* to take him up.

46,283. Did you go to London with him?—No, I did not.

46,284. Did you go to town at all?—No.

46,285. What conversation had you with him about the evidence that he was going to give?—I did not not have any.

46,286. Come?—I did not.

46,287. Do you mean to say, in the interest of your party, you never tried to find out what he was going to say?—I did not.

46,288. You did not caution him as to what he was going to say?—No; I always avoided it.

46,289. That is not true then?—No.

46,290. What was it you said about mentioning your name?—Nothing at all.

46,291. When you gave him the 2*l.* 10*s.* to go up to London, did he tell you what he was going about?—He showed me the summons that he had received.

46,292. Did you have any conversation about what he was going to say?—No.

46,293. Did you ask him on which side he was going to give evidence?—No.

46,294. How came you to give him the 22*l.* 10*s.*?—He told me he had spent the money.

46,295. Where did you get it from?—It was my own money.

46,296. Have you been repaid?—I have not, unfortunately.

46,297. Where did you get the 15*l.*?—From Mr. Holman.

46,298. Where did you get the 5*l.*?—From Mr. Holman.

46,299. How much did you get from Mr. Holman at that election?—20*l.* 10*s.*

46,300. What did you get from Mr. Michelmore?—Mr. Michelmore told me at that election to go into a certain room to take up some notes on a table.

46,301. When was it he told you that?—The polling morning.

46,302. Where were you to go?—Into the bedroom adjoining the ball-room.

46,303. On the ground floor?—That is adjoining the large room there.

46,304. That was adjoining the large ball-room?—Yes; he told me to go and take it up from the table, and take it to Phillips.

46,305. Did you go into the bed room?—I did.

46,306. What did you see there?—I saw some 5*l.* notes.

46,307. Was there a roll of them?—No, flat on the table.

46,308. About how many, from the look of them?—I have heard it was 40*l.*; that would be eight of them.

46,309. You gave one to Tozer?—Yes, Philip Tozer.

46,310. Who else had you anything to do with?—No one.

46,311. Did you have no other money to distribute?—Not a farthing.

46,312. What about Godfrey?—I never heard anything about him.

46,313. What was it you had to do with Diggins about his evidence?—About his evidence?

46,314. Yes?—None whatever; what evidence are you alluding to?

46,315. Was all you had to do with him at the last election?—Yes.

46,316. At the election of 1863 did you not pay John Diggins something?—Not at the election. Sometime after, I think three weeks, Mr. Michelmore handed to me 20*l.* to pay him.

46,317. Which Mr. Michelmore?—Jeffrey.

46,318. Had you promised it to him before?—I did not know what it was for. I gave it to him.

46,319. Who else in 1863?—No one.

46,320. Nobody else in 1863?—No.

46,321. What did you do about James Edmonds, of Torquay, in 1863?—I had nothing to do with him.

46,322. You went down there canvassing?—Just for a ride. I never asked for his vote.

46,323. Did you go to see him in 1865 also?—I went down to Marldon.

46,324. Twice you went to Edmonds?—Yes, we did.

46,325. Who else besides John Diggins did you pay after the election of 1863?—No one.

46,326. Did you not carry any money for Mr. Michelmore?—Not a farthing.

46,327. Were you a paid agent?—I was, sir. Unfortunately I am out of pocket by it.

46,328. In 1862 do you recollect Mr. Michelmore sending for you up to the "Seymour"?—I do not at that election?

46,329. When was it?—A fortnight or three weeks after.

46,330. Were Mr. Windeatt and Mr. Jeffery Michelmore there?—They were.

46,331. What did you do with them?—They gave me a list of five men, and they told me to take 50*l.*; that was 10*l.* each.

46,332. Who were they?—William Farley (Bridgetown), John Drew, and William Crook.

46,333. James Farleigh?—Yes.

46,334. And your old friend, John Diggins?—Yes.

46,335. What had you to do before the election?—Nothing more than voluntarily. I never asked for a single vote in my life.

46,336. What did you do?—I spoke to the parties about it.

46,337. What did you do if you did not ask for votes?—I did nothing more than what Mr. Michelmore asked me.

46,338. Did he not ask you to go about and help to look after the voters before the election?—He did not.

46,339. Did you not go about with him at all?—I did not.

46,340. During election times you do not do much work?—It is an anxious time with every one.

46,341. You were up at the "Seymour Arms" all day?—I did not do much work.

46,342. On the nomination day you did not do much work?—No, it is not likely.

46,343. After the nomination were you not about the "Seymour Arms"?—After the nomination most of the electors dropped in.

46,344. Used you to go into the big room of an evening?—I was there once, that was all.

46,345. That was the last election?—That was the last.

46,346. What night was it?—In the week after the election.

46,347. Were any of the Michelmores there?—I do not think there were.

46,348. Was Mr. Bowden there?—I do not believe he was.

46,349. Mr. Holman?—I think he was.

46,350. And Thomas Jacob Searle?—I did not see him.

46,351. Nobody paid for any thing?—I paid for what I had. I think that was the general thing there that evening, at any rate; I heard there was some drink there.

46,352. Did you have any bill sent into you for what you had at the "Seymour Arms" after the election?—No, certainly not.

46,353. Did you know at all the evidence that Fox Green was going to give in London?—I did not.

46,354. Do you know that when he gave the evidence it took you all by surprise?—I thought he would state the facts when he went up. I told Mr. Tucker the facts of the case.

46,355. What did you think he would have stated?—The facts as they transpired.

46,356. What did you tell Mr. Tucker when he took the evidence?—I told him what I had taken from Green.

46,357. What about the 20*l.*?—15*l.*

46,358. 10*l.*, 5*l.*, and 10*s.*?—I do not think he mentioned that.

46,359. This is what you told him?—He might have inserted it after.

46,360. Was what you said written down?—He took down a few words of it.

46,361. Did you sign your name to it?—No, I did not.

46,362. Was it read over to you?—No.

46,363. You saw a good deal of Green before he went up to London?—He was continually coming to me and asking for money.

46,364. At those several times when he came and asked you for money do you mean to say you did not have the slightest conversation with him about what he was going to tell?—No.

46,365. Did it not occur to you to find out whether he could give any damaging evidence or not?—I knew he could if he had minded.

46 366. Did you not tell him to give the evidence he has sworn to, and to keep your name out of it?—I did nothing of the sort, and if he has sworn that he has sworn falsely.

46,367. Had you any conversation with any others of the witnesses going up to London?—I did not.

46,368. He had a warrant, and you had no further notice to go up?—No, I had not.

46,369. (Mr. Bere.) Did Fox Green stay at your house at all during the election of 1865?—No, only the day previous to going to Plymouth.

46,370. How long did he stay then?—About, I think, a quarter of an hour.

46,371. Did you know your house was being watched by the other side?—I have heard so.

46,372. Was Mr. Prout at your house at all?—Not at all.

46,373. Never at any time during the election?—No, he was not.

46,374. Not inside your door?—No.

46,375. Did anybody come and ask whether Fox Green was there or not?—No, I believe not. Mr. Farley will prove that, I believe. I never heard of the case.

46,376. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did anybody come and inquire for Mr. Prout at your house?—I believe not.

46,377. Did not you hear the servant say so after you had been out at some time?—No.

46,378, What other voters did you see at Plymouth when you got there except Fox Green?—None.

46,379. Did not you meet any voters?—No.

46,380. On either side?—No, it was late at night when I got down, and I came back again by an early train the first thing in the morning.

46,381. What public-house did you go to?—I called at Devonport.

46,382. What public-house did you go to?—Opposite the theatre, I forget the name of the house.

46,383. Did you see any other voters there?—No.

46,384. Did you meet any of the Totnes people there?—No.

46,385. Think. Did not you meet any one?—I met young Mr. Windeatt at the Plymouth station, I am not certain whether he went to Devonport or no.

THIRTY-FOURTH DAY.

J. Elliott.

27 Oct. 1866.

46,386. What was he doing there?—He was living at Plymouth.

46,387. Did he go with you to Devonport?—I am not certain.

46,388. Do you not recollect whether he went to this inn with you?—No.

46,389. Had he any voters with him?—No; he was on the platform.

46,390. You went back the first thing next morning?—Yes.

46,391. Did you go to Plymouth more than once?—I heard Green had gone between that and the election, and I went; however I did not see him.

46,392. You did go a second time?—Yes.

46,393. How long was it before the election?—I think the Sunday previous.

46,394. Did you find him there?—He was stopping with his relatives down there; I heard he was.

46,395. You did not see him?—No.

46,396. Whom did you see?—The party who kept the house.

46,397. They said they had him all safe?—They said he was there.

46,398. When did Green come back?—On the morning of the election.

46,399. Did you bring him back?—There was a carriage ordered at the "Seymour," and I went to the station to meet him.

46,400. Did you find him?—Yes, at the Brent station.

46,401. Why did he come to the Brent station instead of at Totnes?—I understood it was his wish to get out at Brent.

46,402. That you might bring him quietly up to the poll?—Yes, I suppose so.

46,403. Did you hear whether the other side had been at him?—Yes.

46,404. At Devonport or Plymouth?—No; I heard he had been offered money.

46,405. What other voters did you bring from Brent?—None.

46,406. Was not there any other got out there?—A relative, I think, and young Mr. Windeatt came.

46,407. They had him safe between them?—Yes.

46,408. And you all went together and polled him?—Yes; we went first to the "Seymour."

46,409. He did not get his money till some little time afterwards, did he?—The same day.

46,410. (Mr. Bere.) What have you had to do with the elections for the council?—I think I had the paying of some of the voters.

46,411. How often have you paid them; at how many elections?—Two or three, I dare say.

46,412. That would take you some time back?—Yes, 1862 or 1863, I should think it was.

46,413. What was the highest sum that you ever paid a man?—Well, I do not think I ever paid more than 10*s*. It was Bridgetown mostly, that I did it, not Totnes, 46,414. Did you ever come to Totnes to try?—No, I do not think I did.

46,415. Have not you given a man as much as 3*l*.?—No, I do not think I have.

46,416. What sum of money have you had to distribute at each election?—Ten, and under.

46,417. Was ten the largest sum?—Yes.

46,418. Where did you get the money from for the municipal election?—Mr. Jeffery Michelmore, I think it was.

46,419. Did you always have it from him?—No, I had it from Mr. Windeatt at one election.

46,420. When you got the money did they give you directions as to whom you were to go and see?—No.

46,421. They believed in your discretion, and trusted you?—Yes. In fact, the labouring class got into that position, the Conservative party, that you could not get them to the poll without it.

46,422. But 10*s*. is a good day's wages?—Yes, it is.

46,423. (Mr. Longe.) How many years have you taken this part?—Two or three years; there has not been any contest the last few elections.

46,424. When was it that you got money from Mr. Windeatt?—I am sure I cannot tell you; I think it might have been about 1859.

46,425. Was not it later than that?—No. Mr. Michelmore I think I had it from on the last occasion.

46,426. (Mr. Bere.) I understand you to say that, excepting what you have told us, you never, directly or indirectly, were engaged in bribing persons at any election?—Never in my life.

46,427. Have you ever received anything for your own vote?—No.

46,428. You were one of the carpenters on the Bridgetown property, were not you?—Yes.

46,429. Who was the other carpenter?—I had some of the work.

46,430. Who was the other carpenter?—There were different carpenters.

46,431. His name was mentioned yesterday?—That is Turpin.

46,432. Did he ever complain that you got an unfair share of the work?—I never heard it till Mr. Cross mentioned it yesterday.

46,433. He never complained to you?—No.

46,434. You have the best share now?—I do not know that it has improved since Turpin has given it up. I think it is given to the tradesmen of Totnes.

46,435. How long have you been carpenter to the Duke?—All my lifetime, ever since I knew anything about trade, and my father before me.

46,436. How long is that?—Ten years, I suppose.

46,437. Have you been concerned in altering or putting anything on the fields?—I have not.

46,438. (Mr. Coleridge.) Does not old Mr. Farley live near you?—He lives opposite me.

46,439. Do you recollect his coming to you on the morning of the election?—No; it is all false.

46,440. Do you recollect his coming to you at all on the morning of the election?—Certainly not.

46,441. Do you recollect meeting him?—I do not think I saw him during the election.

46,442. Where were you about 8 o'clock on the morning of the election?—Green had not arrived then, I think, from the Brent station.

46,443. What time were you up that morning? Had you stayed up all night?—No, about 6 o'clock.

46,444. Whom did you see that morning before the poll opened?—We went to the Brent station after Green.

46,445. What time?—We left about half-past 6.

46,446. What time did you get back?—Half-past 8 or 9.

46,447. Then you polled Mr. Green directly?—He went over to the "Seymour." I did not go to the poll with him.

46,448. Where did you go?—To the "Seymour."

46,449. Before you went to the Brent station, did you see Heard anywhere about your house?—I did not. I did not know the man.

46,450. You do now?—I have made inquiries since, and have seen him in court.

46,451. Do you know that that man turns out to be the man who was in Farley's house;—No.

46,452. Or outside Farley's house?—No.

46,453. Did Farley come over to you that morning?—Certainly not.

46,454. About getting money for Heard?—No.

46,455. Did Farley ever ask you for money at all?—No.

46,456. For himself?—Certainly not.

46,457. You had no conversation with him?—He did not ask me, because I had no means of getting it.

46,458. But you said you had means?—He knew it was handed to me from another source.

46,459. Did you ever tell anybody at that election that 150*l*. was the highest price the Liberals would pay, and then Farley did not ask you for 100*l*. for Heard?—Certainly not.

46,460. No sum?—No.

46,461. No conversation about the election?—No.

46,462. Or about money?—No.

46,463. At any other election?—No.

46,464. In fact that 10*l.* he did not expect. When you gave him the 10*l.* did not he ask you whether you had another 10*l.* for Heard?—That was back in 1862. I did not hear anything about Heard.

46,465. You do not recollect Mr. Prout being at your house?—No.

46,466. Was he in the habit of coming there?—He does sometimes.

46,467. He was a good deal there about the election time?—I do not think he was at all, he was busy at the "Seymour."

46,468. And when you wanted anything you went to him instead of his coming to you?—No; I had no communication at all.

46,469. There were some men locked up at the "Seymour" at the time of the election?—I do not know.

46,470. Do not you know that certain men were brought there and slept there?—I have seen an account in the report of the evidence.

46,471. Did you ever look after those who did sleep there?—No.

46,472. You did not know about it at the time?—No.

46,473. You say the whole of this evidence of Heard's about you and Farley is untrue?—Yes, it is.

46,474. You are quite certain that Farley did not come to you that morning?—No. I have made an inquiry of Farley about it, and he says it is quite false.

46,475. (Mr. Bere.) Did not you see Mr. Crawford?—No, I do not think I saw him during the election.

46,476. Was not he brought into the kitchen in which you were staying?—I was not in the kitchen during the election.

46,477. Did you know what the money of Philip Tozer was to be done with?—I did not at the time.

46,478. It was handed to the son, John Tozer?—I have heard so.

46,479. You communicated with John Diggins in 1863, and you know that afterwards he returned 50*l.*, do not you?—I have heard so, not from John Diggins.

46,480. Do not you know that he returned that 50*l.* in consequence of a threat from Mr. Michelmore?—I do not.

46,481. Were not you sent by Mr. Michelmore to tell him to return that 50*l.*?—Certainly not; I never knew anything about the 50*l.* then.

46,482. Were not you sent by Mr. Michelmore to tell him it was understood he had received money from the other side, and he was to send that money back?—Certainly not.

46,483. Did you know that Diggins had received money?—I did not at the time.

46,484. (Mr. Coleridge.) What was it that occurred with regard to a man called Godfrey in 1859?—It is a mistake somewhere; what man are you alluding to?

46,485. Do you know John Godfrey?—The tailor?

46,486. Yes?—Yes, I do.

46,487. Did you canvass him at Dunn's election in 1859?—No, I never canvassed anyone at all.

46,488. Did you give anybody any money in 1859?—Certainly not.

46,489. Nor after?—No, I do not recollect it.

46,490. I suppose you would recollect if you did?—Well, I did not.

46,491. Did you receive any money in 1859?—I did not, not a farthing.

46,492. Were you asked for any money by anyone?—No.

46,493. Did no voter ask you if you could get him some money in 1859?—I do not recollect anything of the sort. If he did I never got it.

46,494. Do you recollect in 1859 being present when the three Mr. Michelmores were canvassing Godfrey?—No, certainly not.

46,495. Do you recollect anything about Godfrey asking you whether you could get him any money?—I do not recollect anything of the sort; I believe it to be untrue.

46,496. Are you quite sure you did not?—If he asked me he would know I had not the means.

46,497. Did he ask you?—I do not believe that he did.

46,498. Who did ask you in 1859?—Nobody, not a single soul.

46,499. What did you do at the election of 1859?—Nothing.

46,500. Did you pay any money to anybody?—No.

46,501. Did you receive any money?—No.

46,502. Did you receive any money after the election?—No; 1862 was the first election that I paid any money.

46,503. And you are quite certain that you paid none in 1859?—I am.

46,504. (Mr. Bere.) What did you pay upon?—A house and garden.

46,505. Who is the real occupier of that?—Myself.

46,506. Does your mother live with you?—She is dead now.

46,507. How long has she been dead?—About three months.

46,508. Was not she the real occupier whilst she was alive?—Certainly not.

46,509. You were the real occupier?—Yes.

46,510. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was any money left at your house for voters to come and fetch when you were out?—No.

46,511. (Mr. Bere.) Not that you know of?—No.

46,512. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you know Mr. John Fogwill?—Yes.

46,513. Was he much at your house during the election times?—No, certainly not.

46,514. Did you go to Fogwill's house?—No.

46,515. Never at all?—I have had dealings with him in the timber line, nothing else.

46,516. No political dealings?—No.

James Pack sworn and examined.

J. Pack.

46,517. What are you?—A maltster.

46,518. How long have you been a voter for Totnes?—Since 1838.

46,519. You voted at all the elections on the Conservative side?—Yes.

46,520. And taken a great deal of interest on the Conservative side?—No.

46,521. Did you pay Mr. Earle a sum of 10*l.* before the election of 1839?—No.

46,522. Just think?—No, never thought of such a thing, and never had any money put into my hands to do anything of the kind with by any person.

46,523. (Mr. Earle.) I said I considered it was Mr. Pack; I told him something about it; it was when Crocker was taken away.

(The Witness.) I have heard something of it.

46,524. (Mr. Bere.) Are you quite sure it was not you?—I am, on my oath.

46,525. But you may have forgotten?—I have not.

46,526. Had you anything to do with the election of 1859?—I voted, nothing more.

46,527. Were you on the Conservative committee?—I was put on the committee without my consent.

46,528. Were you at the "Seven Stars"?—I may have been on the election day.

46,529. Had Mr. Earle said anything about paying Crocker then for his vote?—He never said anything to me, and I never knew anything about it.

46,530. You said just now that Mr. Earle had spoken of it?—I heard Mr. Earle say that he had advanced the money.

THIRTY-FOURTH DAY.

J. Pack.

27 Oct. 1866.

46,531. Did you hear him say that before Dunn's election?—I do not know about the date; I do not know the date of it at all.

46,532. Had you anything to do with money at elections at any time?—No.

46,533. (Mr Coleridge.) Do you know about Mr. Earle being paid that 10*l.* back?—No.

46,534. He seems to be under the impression that you paid him?—It was not I.

46,535. Were you walking about the committee room?—No.

46,536. Do you remember Mr. Earle complaining to you at different times that this 10*l.* had been outstanding?—I do not recollect that he complained to me alone.

46,537. What do you mean?—He did not tell me of it; it was named to the Conservative party. I remember hearing the remarks at the time, but I had nothing to do with it myself.

46,538. Do you recollect before or at the time of Dunn's election Mr. Earle mentioning that to the Conservative party when you were present?—I might pass Mr. Earle's door in passing up the street as neighbours. I think I recollect Mr. Earle saying that he paid a certain sum to Crocker, but I knew nothing about it.

46,539. Did he say that there was 10*l.* still unpaid?—I do not recollect the sum.

46,540. He told you there was some person still unpaid?—I do not recollect.

46,541. Did he ask you, being on the committee, to say whether you could get the money?—I do not recollect.

46,542. Mr. Earle seems to be under the impression that you go it from the committee?—I do not recollect.

46,543. Do you recollect this being talked over?—No.

46,544. They put you on the committee?—Yes.

46,545. If they met you, it is likely that some of the other party would talk to you; do you recollect any of the other committee talking to you?—No.

46,546. You were not consulted whether it was a just claim?—No.

46,547. Not asked whether he mentioned it to you?—No, I did not busy myself very much about electioneering matters.

46,548. Then Mr. Earle is mistaken?—Yes.

46,549. (Mr. Bere.) It is in consequence of Mr. Earle mentioning your name that you were sent for.

(Mr. Earle.) I said I thought it was he.

46,550. (Mr. Coleridge.) Whom do you think it was?

(Mr. Earle.) I do not know; I dare say the books will tell you.

46,551. (Mr. Coleridge.) They do not keep notes of it.

(Mr. Earle.) It was brought to me by some one. I remember telling Mr. Pack.

(The Witness.) I remember something about it, but I had nothing to do with it.

46,552. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was it in consequence of Mr. Pack being on the committee that you asked him?

(Mr. Earle.) No, I did not know that he was.

46,553. You are sure you were paid?—Yes.

46,554. Were you paid in gold or notes?—Gold.

E Sawdye.

EDWARD SAWDYE, sworn and examined.

46,555. (Mr. Bere.) Do you live at Ashburton?—Yes, I do.

46,556. What is your qualification to vote for Totnes?—Building and land.

46,557. Who occupies it?—It is occupied by many parties.

46,558. You are one of the company?—Yes.

46,559. Did you vote in the election of 1862?—I did not.

46,560. Was any money paid for you after the election of 1862?—Not that I am aware of.

46,561. At any time, was any money paid for you?—Not for voting. I never received a bribe or gave one in my life.

46,562. After the election, was it that a certain sum of money was paid on your behalf?—There was a deficiency in making up the accounts.

46,563. When was that?—In 1864.

46,564. At what time of the year?—I think in July.

46,565. When you came to pay the Midsummer rent?—Yes.

46,566. What was the rent?—Between 60*l.* and 70*l.*

46,567. What happened about the money then?—The rent was all paid.

46,568. Who paid it?—I paid it.

46,569. Where did you get the money?—We sold some apples off the orchard.

46,570. They must have been early; they were sold on the trees?—Yes.

46,571. Where did you get the rest?—It was made up by taking in cattle to keep.

46,572. Did not you get money from Mr. Henry Michelmore?—Oh, no.

46,573. Did you not owe Mr. Tucker of Ashburton some money about the election time?—Not that I am aware of. I do not recollect it. I will tell you the truth about all that I know.

46,574. Was not the sum of 12*l.* 10*s.* paid for you by Mr. Henry Michelmore?—Not that I am aware of. When we made up the rent there was a balance of 3*l.* each that had to be paid.

46,575. Was not that given back to you?—Yes.

46,576. Who gave it back to you?—I received a cheque from Mr. Jeffrey Michelmore.

46,577. What amount was that?—I think 18*l.*; about 3*l.* each.

46,578. When did Mr. Jeffrey Michelmore give you that cheque?—I think that must have been some time after July.

46,579. How long before the election of 1865?—A long time before.

46,580. Was it in 1864?—Yes. I think it was before Christmas.

46,581. When did you pay the rent next?—Up to July. We only occupied a year and a quarter.

46,582. Had you no more rent to pay after that?—No.

46,583. Who paid the rates?—They were paid by Mr. Fitze.

46,584. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you believe Mr. Jeffery Michelmore gave you the cheque to return 3*l.* to each of the others?—Yes.

46,585. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know that a sum of 12*l.* 10*s.* was paid for you at this time?—No.

46,586. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you owe Mr. Henry Michelmore any money at this time?—No.

46,587. (Mr. Bere.) You know Mr. Henry Michelmore?—Yes.

46,588. Did you owe any person the sum of 12*l.* 10*s.*?—I have no recollection of it whatever in the slightest.

46,589. Are you a voter for Ashburton?—Yes.

Mr. H. Michelmore.

MR. HENRY MICHELMORE sworn and examined.

46,590. (Mr. Bere.) Are you an attorney and solicitor practising at Newton Abbott and at Totnes?—I am.

46,591. How long have you been in practice as an attorney and solicitor?—About six years, nearly, not quite six.

46,592. Where did you pass the time of your articles?—In Exeter.

46,593. With Mr. Gray?—With Mr. Gray.

46,594. Have you been living at Newton Abbott all the six years?—I have.

46,595. Never lived in Totnes?—Never.

46,596 Have you ever had a vote for Totnes yourself?—Never.

46,597. You, I believe, are the son of Mr. Thomas Michelmore, and the brother of Mr. Jeffery Michelmore?—I am.

46,598. Was the election of 1863 the first time you were professionally concerned in the Totnes election?—It was. Then I should state I was not professionally concerned; further, I was not retained for that election.

46,599. Not retained for that election for Mr. Seymour?—No.

46,600. Are you quite sure about that?—I was never paid for it at any rate.

46,601. But did you not come here and act as Mr. Seymour's legal adviser in that election? Did you not come when Mr. Seymour came down here, and stay with him at your fathers? Did you know at that time of a disagreement between Mr. Brooking Cuming and your father about the conduct of that election?—Certainly not.

46,602. And that it was in consequence of your having been retained as the attorney for Mr. Seymour?—That is the first I have ever heard of it. It is entirely new to me. I cannot say. I did not stay at my father's during the election. I may have slept there a night or two, but certainly not as you state.

46,603. Do I understand you to be quite certain in this, that at that election you were Mr. Seymour's election auditor and nothing more?—Agent.

46,604. Agent for the election expenses, and nothing more?—Yes.

46,605. What were Mr. Seymour's authorized expenses at that election? (The witness referred to some accounts)—I can scarcely tell you the figures of the authorized expenses. I paid the election auditor 331*l.* 7*s.* 10*d.* the first payment.

46,606. And any other payment?—The second payment I paid Mr. Francis, the election auditor, his charges, 16*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.*, and again, I paid him 5*l.* 11*s.* 3*d.*, and again I paid him the balance, 17*s.* 2*d.*

46,607. What did you pay him 5*l.* 11*s.* 3*d.* for?—On account of the expenses.

46,608. From whom did you get the money to pay?—I received 300*l.* from Messrs. Michelmore and Son, and the 5*l.* 11*s.* 3*d.* I received from Messrs. Michelmore and Son.

46,609. From whom did you get the 16*l.* 16*s.* 8*d.*?—You will find there will be a balance of 56*l.* 2*s.* 8*d.* on the sums I have given you, and that I have received back again from Mr. Francis on the settlement.

46,610. What was that for?—I paid him more money than was required. I gave him a cheque in the first instance for more than was required.

46,611. I suppose you gave a cheque for some expenses which were not quite legal, and then you had them returned?—You are entirely wrong. That was the first time I acted as agent, and I was told it was always customary to give the auditor a cheque for the amount, which was supposed to cover the amount he would have to pay, and then to balance the account afterwards.

46,612. What amount did you first of all pay him? That 331*l.*?—331*l.* 7*s.* 10*d.*

46,613. Was not that sum arrived at by certain calculations of yours?—It may have been.

46,614. Must it not have been?—Well, it must have been.

46,615. Can you tell at all what sums made up that 331*l.* odd?—No, I cannot. Mr. Francis, as auditor, has had all the vouchers. I dare say you have them.

46,616. What became of that sum of 56*l.*?—The 56*l.* balanced my account as the election agent.

46,617. As between you and Mr. Seymour?—As between me and Mr. Seymour.

46,618. Is that your ledger (referring)?—That is my ledger.

46,619. Have you an account there with Mr. Seymour?—No.

46,620. You have not kept an account with him?—I have never received any money from him.

46,621. Is that an account between you and Messrs. Michelmore and Son?—It is headed "The Totnes "election account." The same account was carried on.

46,622. Was that all the money you paid as legal expenses for Mr. Seymour up to that time?—It was.

46,623. Were you here during the election of 1863?—I was.

46,624. Did you canvass for Mr. Seymour?—I did not.

46,625. What part did you take in that election?—As agent for the election expenses and attending at the polling both.

46,626. You were not acting as his legal adviser?—I was not retained generally throughout the election.

46,627. After that election did you receive some money from Michelmore and Son, independent of the 300*l.* you have mentioned. Did you receive on the 19th of May 1863 two sums, one of 12*l.* 10*s.*, the other of 22*l.* 10*s.*?—No.

46,628. Did you receive any such sums about that time?—No. I have no such sums down here.

46,629. Perhaps you have not entered them, they might have been applied to particular purposes?—If you refer to Mr. Sawdye, all that I can tell you about that is that there was a bill of his about that time to be settled.

46,630. To whom was that bill due?—To Mr. Tucker, of Ashburton. I do not think Mr. Sawdye knew any thing about it. I believe he did not; it was a disputed bill between Mr. Tucker and Mr. Sawdye as to the amount: Mr. Sawdye considerred that he ought not to pay the bill, and at that time the bill was paid for him through me.

46,631. Was it a sum of 12*l.* 10*s.*?—I cannot tell you what was the amount; the bill was paid. I believe it was between 30*l.* and 40*l.*

46,632. Out of the sums which you received from Michelmore and Son, was 12*l.* 10*s.*, to be given in payment of this bill?—Any money I received about that time, up to the extent of 40*l.*, went in payment of that bill.

46,633. Was there not a man of the name of Allen to whom you paid some money?—No. I do not think there was; I do not find any name like that.

46,634. If that be so, there is a strange conflict of evidence between you and your brother?—There was a man of that name to whom I advanced a sum of 25*l.*, previous to the 19th of May; so far as I am aware, that was previous to the election of 1863. The advance of that money had nothing whatever to do with the election.

46,635. Your brother said this in his evidence; he was being examined upon an account, and in that account your name appears three times, once as having 300*l.* for being election auditor, which is entered on the 26th of March, and there are two other entries of 12*l.* 10*s.* and 22*l.* 10*s.* on the 19th of May?—Those would be the sums which I have told you of.

46,636. Your brother's explanation is this: "Henry "Michelmore, 22*l.* 10*s.*; that is 10*l.* for Allen the "gardener, and 12*l.* 10*s.* for Mr. Sawdye."—On April the 3rd, 1862, I advanced a sum of money to Allen, but that was a private transaction, so far as I was instructed at that time, and as I believe at this moment, of my father's.

46,637. Did you advance that money at your father's request?—I did.

46,638. Was the money advanced on a bill of sale? Yes.

46,639. A bill of sale to you or to your father?—To my father.

46,640. What was Allen?—He was a gardener.

46,641. This money was 15*l.* advanced by you to Allen on a bill of sale given to Mr. Michelmore. Do you know which way Allen had voted in 1862 ?—My impression is that he voted against us.

THIRTY-FOURTH DAY.

Mr. H. Michelmore.

27 Oct. 1866.

46,642. Is this man, William Allen, of Fore Street ?—I do not know his christian name ; I know he is a gardener.

46,643. Do you know how he voted in 1862 ?—That I cannot remember.

46,644. Do you know how he voted at Mr. Seymour's election ?—My impression is that he voted against Mr. Seymour.

46,645. What reason can you assign for the 10*l.* which was paid to Allen being charged to Mr. Seymour or to Mr. Pender ?—I cannot give you any. My impression is that there must be some mistake in the matter. I do not think that 10*l.* ever could have gone to him; I have no recollection of ever having paid him that amount.

46,646. Did you ever receive any money for him from your brother, or from your father ?—At the period which I have mentioned I received a sum of 15*l* to advance to him ?

46,647. Did you ever receive 12*l.* 10*s.* and 22*l.* 10*s.* ?—I have already told you that I have no doubt I received these two sums for Mr. Sawdye only.

46,648. Then the whole of the 35*l.* went to Mr. Sawdye, and to no one else ?—It went to Mr. Tucker for Mr. Sawdye.

46,649. What was the reason that you so kindly paid Mr. Sawdye's bill without his knowing anything about your doing so ?—The reason was that I had been instructed to do so.

46,650. Who had instructed you to do this ?—My father.

46,651. Had he given you any reason for so doing ?—None whatever ; but I have no doubt what was his reason.

46,652. What do you think it was ?—I have no doubt his reason was that, as between Mr. Sawdye and Mr. Tucker, he thought it was a very good time for the bill to be paid, and the bill was pressed by Mr. Tucker.

46,653. Upon Mr. Tucker pressing him, did Mr. Sawdye come to you or to your father ?—Not that I am aware of ; he may have doue so ; I was instructed to settle with him.

46,654. (Mr. Coleridge.) Mr. Tucker must have gone to some one about it ; and perhaps Mr. Sawdye told your father that he had been pressed about it ?—Probably he did.

46,655. (Mr. Bere.) Was this a bill for professional services rendered by Mr. Tucker to Mr. Sawdye at Exeter ?—It was.

46,566. That is all the explanation you can give of these items ?—Yes ; I have not the slightest doubt that is correct. As to the payment to Allen of 10*l.* I have no recollection of it.

46,657. That is a mistake of Jeffery Michelmore ?—Yes. I received 15*l.* on the 7th March 1863 from Allen.

46,658. You cannot tell how you received that money from Michelmore and Son, whether by cheque or notes ?—No.

46,659. Can you give me any reason why two 12*l.* 10*s.* and 22*l.* 10*s.* should be entered separately ?—No.

46,660. (Mr. Longe.) They are both on the 19th of May ?—I cannot tell. I have a perfect recollection of settling this matter with Mr. Tucker to the amount of, I think, 40*l.*

46,661. You cannot give us any explanation for those two sums being entered separately ?—If they were cheques drawn, I received the amount no doubt about the same time.

46,662. You have no corresponding entry ?—No ; I had it handed to me for the purpose of settling with Mr. Tucker.

46,663. (Mr. Bere.) It does not appear on your books ?—No.

46,664. Have you any account between yourself and Mr. Tucker ?—I do not think I have. No.

46,665. Did you take an interest in Pender's election in 1862 ?—No.

46,666. Were you down here at all during the election ?—I came down, I believe, as poll clerk to Mr. Gray. He then occupied the position that I did in 1862.

46,667. He was for the Conservatives, was he not ?—No.

46,668. For the Liberals ?—I think the Earl of Gifford's agent.

46,669. Not in Pender's time, the Earl Gifford was not standing then ?—Mr. Gray never came down in Pender's time.

46,670. Did you take any particular part in Pender's first election ?—I think I took the same part in Pender's election as I did for Mr. Seymour in 1863.

46,671. What were you paid for services then ?—Five guineas.

46,672. Who paid you that ?—My brother or father.

46,673. (Mr. Coleridge.) If you were not Mr. Seymour's legal adviser he had none ?—I really cannot tell.

46,674. Was Mr. Brooking Cuming his legal adviser ?—I always understood that my brother Jeffery acted as his adviser.

46,675. (Mr. Bere.) Did you know that after Mr. Pender's election there was a sum of nearly 1,200*l.* distributed among the voters in Totnes ?—It was a sum of 1,000*l.*, I understood.

46,676. Did you know of any other sum ?—No.

46,677. Did you know of any money given to Mr. Webber ?—I have seen it in the paper.

46,678. You did not know of it ?—No ; I had nothing to do with it.

46,679. Did you know that in the election of 1863 a sum of 500*l.* was given to Mr. Webber ?—No.

46,680. Did you receive any money, except on account of Michelmore to Seymour ?—No.

46,681. Neither from Brooking Cuming, Mr. Windeatt, or Mr. Webber ?—No.

46,682. Did your brother tell you that there was 289*l.* came after the election, and that Mr. Sawdye was paid out of that ?—No.

46,683. Did you inquire where the money came from to pay Mr. Sawdye's debt ?—No.

46,684. You asked no questions, but paid the money ?—Yes.

46,685. Can you explain a letter from Mr. Brooking Cuming to Mr. Pender about what took place at Seymour's election. It is about the command. Read it yourself. It has been put upon the notes ?—It is not my name that is referred to there.

46,686. It is your father. But you were present with Mr. Seymour all the time, and do you remember any change in tactics taking place on the morning of the election ?—Nothing to do with it.

46,687. Do you recollect your father giving up the leading position, and Mr. Brooking Cuming doing as he liked ?—My impression is that my father had no leading command.

46,688. You see what he says. Do you recollect any conversation with your brother about that ?—No ; I can safely say never. It does not refer to my father. He was at that time a great invalid, and kept out of it.

46,689. (Mr. Bere.) In all probability it does refer to your brother ?—Yes.

46,690. (Mr. Coleridge.) As far as any legal adviser that Mr. Seymour had, do you remember any change taking place, and Mr. Brooking Cuming being invested with more power on the morning of the election than he had had before ?—Till I saw that letter I was entirely ignorant of it. I had nothing to do with the conduct of the election, or the secrets of the party.

46,691. How long were you here before the election ?—I was backwards and forwards for two or three previous days. I think my part consisted in the convivial part of the evening.

46,692. Did Mr. Seymour never tell you that in the convivial part that there was an alteration?—I never heard anything of it.

46,693. Do you think there was an alteration, or that it is a hallucination of Mr. Brooking Cuming?—He says it is so.

46,694. (Mr. Bere.) Did you keep a poll-book in 1862?—I did not keep a poll-book.

46,695. You kept the poll?—Yes. I never kept the poll-book.

46,696. Did you canvass anybody at that election?—I cannot tell you whether it was Pender or Seymour; but I canvassed Mr. Edmonds.

46,697. Edmonds of Marldon?—Yes. It was one of those two elections. My impression is that it was Seymour's.

46,698. Did you vote for Seymour?—Yes.

46,699. Where did you canvass Edmonds?—At Marldon.

46,700. How did you come to do that?—It was not the July election.

46,701. 1865?—Yes, 1865. I canvassed him.

46,702. Had you anything to do with the distribution in 1862 and 1863?—Not further than what I told you.

46,703. You knew that there was money going about on both sides?—I think there was, but I had not the pleasure of seeing it.

46,704. It did not come into your hands to distribute it?—No.

46,705. You did not derive any advantage except the five guineas?—No.

46,706. In 1865 what position did you occupy with regard to the election?—In 1865 I was retained by Mr. Pender.

46,707. And I presume received your retaining fee?—I have not, but I hope to.

46,708. Were you retained by letter?—No.

46,709. Who retained you?—Mr. Jenkins.

46,710. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know whether he has received your retaining fee?—I presume not.

46,711. (Mr. Bere.) Where did Mr. Jenkins retain you?—At my own house.

46,712. Did he tell you he had Mr. Pender's authority to retain you?—Yes.

46,713. That he had been instructed by Mr. Pender to retain you as his agent?—He did.

46,714. Do you know whether that was before Mr. Pender came down here?—I think it was the same day as Mr. Pender arrived; I think I met Mr. Pender the same day.

46,715. Did you go to Totnes that evening?—I went direct to Totnes, I think.

46,716. Do you know how long was Mr. Jenkins with him?—Not long; it might be ten minutes.

46,717. Did you have any talk with him about the situation of the parties at Totnes?—No.

46,718. Had you attended to the registration at all?—No.

46,719. Did you gather from what Mr. Jenkins had told you that he was acting as Mr. Pender's agent. I do not mean as a paid agent, but as a confidential agent?—No. Mr. Jenkins's conversation with me was very short. He told me nothing further than this: I think he told me that he had mentioned my name to Mr. Pender, and Mr. Pender wished me to be retained.

46,720. Were you the only attorney retained at that election?—I think Mr. Windeatt was Mr. Pender's election agent entirely.

46,721. What were you retained as?—To assist.

46,722. I suppose you came to Totnes as soon as you were retained?—I was backwards and forwards.

46,723. You were here a great deal?—Yes.

46,724. And consulted about the affairs of the election?—I think, with the exception of the one I mentioned to you, I can say nothing.

46,725. I think you told us you came to canvass Edmonds?—Yes.

46,726. What made you go to see him?—He was a client of mine.

46,727. How long had he been a client of yours?—I think in the beginning of the same year, 1865.

46,728. What did he come to you at Totnes about?—About some difficulty that he had in the purchase of a house.

46,729. Will you explain to us what that was? Where was the house, to begin with?—It was in the Warland at Totnes.

46,730. He came to see you about the purchase of a house?—Yes.

46,731. Was that a house of which a Mr. Thomas Glyde was the tenant?—Yes.

46,732. Was that a house which Mr. Edmonds had purchased?—He had agreed to purchase it.

46,733. With whom had he agreed?—With Mr. Charles Frederick Michelmore, at Totnes.

46,734. What sum had he agreed to give for it?—120*l.*

46,735. Had any money passed between them then, as far as you know?—I do not know.

46,736. Was the house then in Edmonds's possession?—I do not know. He had not taken any rent then.

46,737. The Lady Day rent was not paid to him, then?—I do not know; it did not pass through my hands.

46,738. Was there a mortgage on the house at that time?—I think Mr. Charles Michelmore was selling it as mortgagee.

46,739. At that time was Mr. Glyde living in it, or Mr. Edmonds?—Mr. Glyde.

46,740. Was not Edmonds living in it before?—I think so.

46,741. Do you not know that while he was living in it he was the actual owner of the house?—I do not think he was; I was never so instructed.

46,742. What sum was given to Mr. Charles Michelmore for purchasing that house?—120*l.*

46,743. Is the receipt at the back of that deed?—Yes.

46,744. He came and consulted you about buying this house?—About completing the purchase.

46,745. And when was the purchase completed?—The 29th of May 1865.

46,746. Did you pay the money?—A portion of it.

46,747. How much did you pay?—I think 50*l.*

46,748. That left 70*l.*?—Yes.

46,749. Who paid that?—Edmonds himself.

46,750. By a cheque?—No, in notes.

46,751. Where did he get that from, do you know?—He brought it to me by instalments.

46,752. Was that all that happened about the house at that time?—Yes.

46,753. You canvassed him in July 1865?—Yes.

46,754. When you canvassed him, what did you say about the house?—When I canvassed him I made mention about this. He had had difficulties about the completion of this.

46,755. The purchase was completed on the 29th May?—Yes; but he had had difficulties, and was owing me money.

46,756. Had he paid you money on account?—He paid me money on account, and it was carried to the cash account.

46,757. Did he owe you more than 50*l.*?—No, he did not.

46,758. What were the difficulties that he was under with regard to the completion of the purchase; you must know about it?—I had rather not tell you; the difficulties that he had were with Mr. Charles Michelmore.

46,759. The allegation now made against you is that you paid this for obtaining his vote?—At that time he had these difficulties in getting the matter completed, and through Mr. Bryett the matter was completed and brought to a termination, and when I canvassed him I told him as he was in these difficulties, I would re-buy the house of him clear of cost to him.

46,760. You did re-buy the house of him?—Yes.

THIRTY-FOURTH DAY.

Mr. H. Michelmore.

27 Oct. 1866.

46,761. And you gave him 95*l.*?—140*l.* for the house.

46,762. That was 20*l.* more than he gave for it?—That is what it cost him.

46,763. You gave him more than that. You gave him 95*l.* and 50*l.* You paid 50*l.* and then you gave him 95*l.*, and the 95*l.* added to the 50*l.* makes the sum of 145*l.*?—Yes, but the real amount paid for the house was only 140*l.*, and 5*l.* I am told he holds my memorandum for, and I am aware it was entered in my books; but the 5*l.* was by mistake at the time in conversation.

46,764. That is your receipt [referring]?—Yes.

46,765. That is for 95*l.*?—Yes.

46,766. You kept the 95*l.*, and you are to give him 5 per cent.?—Yes; the 95*l.* I have had invested at his request.

46,767. Have you received the rent of that house? No, and I was not aware till his examination that he had received the rent. That rent that he has received will go against the 95*l.* He has no authority from me to receive the rents.

46,768. Have you got the deeds?—Yes.

46,769. It is executed on the morning of the election?—Yes.

46,770. Where were they executed?—At the "Seymour" hotel, that one [referring].

46,771. Now tell me, did not you find when you canvassed Mr. Edmonds that there was any hesitation about his vote?—I found that he had been promised money by the other side.

46,772. To relieve him did you suggest that?—I did.

46,773. Without that relief do you think he would have voted for you?—I cannot tell you that.

46,774. Was it not on that account?—It was on that account that I bought the house for him to obtain his vote.

46,775. Was that all that you had to do with the election of 1865?—I acted then, I think, as election agent also.

46,776. Have you got the account of the expenses of the election?—I have. I then received 117*l.*

46,777. Do you know in this return that you made to the returning officer that you left out a number of items that ought to have been there?—I am aware that there are some items always omitted from the Totnes accounts that ought to be there.

46,778. You know the items of the hotel bills?—They were never included; I raised the objection at the time that they were not sent in to me.

46,779. (Mr. Coleridge.) It was considered right to cook the accounts of Totnes?—I do not know that.

46,780. It amounts to that?—I never knew it prior to that.

46,781. Did you have a retaining fee for Mr. Pender?—I did.

46,782. What did you have as a retaining fee on that account?—I received 5*l.*

46,783. Were you also retained by Mr. Seymour in that election?—I was.

46,784. (Mr. Coleridge.) I believe you drew up the agreement for the Gerston Company when it was formed?—Yes.

46,785. Did you not draw up the agreement to lend them 800*l.*?—No.

46,786. Who drew that agreement, are you sure you did not?—It is rather difficult to say "I am "sure" I did not, but it is almost certain I did not draw the agreement as to the 800*l.*

46,787. Probably there was no agreement?—I cannot tell.

46,788. In what way did you lend the 800*l.*?—I lent it to form the company on their personal bond.

46,789. Have you got that bond?—I have not; I looked for it this morning and could not find it.

46,790. Who are the people who were the parties to the bond?—The Gerston Company I dare say; their names I really have not got.

46,791. They all joined in a joint and several bond?—A joint and several bond.

46,792. At what interest?—At 5 per cent.

46,793. Has it been paid off, or any part of it?—It has not; it is still due.

46,794. You look to those gentlemen for the repayment of that money?—I do.

46,795. Is the company wound up?—I do not know.

46,796. (Mr. Bere.) From whom was the money borrowed?—If you will excuse me making the name public, I will show it to you [handing a book to the Commissioners].

46,797. Was there any understanding that your client who advanced the money should be repaid by Mr. Pender?—As far as I was concerned none whatever.

46,798. Did you lend the money of your client under the belief that the Gerston Company would be good security?—I lent the money under the belief that the several bonds of any of the parties I lent it to was sufficient for the amount; it was a simple money bond.

46,799. Have you got the bond?—I had it, but, as I tell you, I looked for it this morning and could not find it.

46,800. (Mr. Coleridge.) Can you give us the names of the Gerston Company?—I do not know; any of the gentlemen in Totnes can tell you. Mr. Fitze can do it, and Endle can do it.

46,801. Can you give us the names of all the persons who signed the bond?—Endle could tell. I am sorry I could not find it when I looked for it to day.

46,802. Has the money been repaid to your firm?—It has not; on the 18th of July last I received the last half year's interest.

46,803. The interest has been paid regularly?—Yes.

46,804. By whom?—Mr. Endle, the manager.

46,805. The company have ceased to be in occupation of the land?—I was not aware of it.

46,806. Did you draw the guarantee that Mr. Seymour and Mr. Pender were to give as to the losses of the company?—Till I saw it in the newspaper I was not aware that such was done.

46,807. (Mr. Bere.) Now that you know that Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour have guaranteed the losses, has the security become a better one for your client?—I was quite satisfied with it before.

46,808. (Mr. Longe.) Do you know how many other gentlemen were retained by Mr. Pender; we did not gather it from Mr. Jenkins. I do not mean lawyers?—There was another point raised at the same time, that the retaining fees were not sent into me to insert.

46,809. You did not put your own in?—I do not know what I am to receive yet.

46,810. (Mr. Bere.) Who was acting as Mr. Seymour's legal adviser at the last election?—I am not aware of any one. I always understood from my brother that he was the sole manager.

46,811. At the last election?—Yes.

46,812. (Mr. Coleridge.) In fact you were the only lawyer retained at the last election?—No, I should think not; Mr. Windeatt and all the Totnes lawyers, I should think, but I do not know.

46,813. The lawyers on the liberal side?—I presume all the Totnes liberal lawyers.

46,814. (Mr. Bere.) Did you not get a retainer for your brother?—Mr. Charles Michelmore had a retainer.

46,815. A retainer for himself?—In the last election.

46,816. In the last election was Mr. Jeffery Michelmore's retainer 50*l.*?—I have not had it, possibly I may get one, I do not know.

46,817. (Mr. Coleridge.) That was not the election of 1865?—There were no retainers at all. I have an abstract of the 1865 account, because it passed through my own hands, 117*l.* 18*s.* 4*d.*

46,818. Were you retained for the registration in 1864 ?—I never had anything to do with the registration in 1864.

46,819. (Mr. Longe.) Were you employed by Messrs. Michelmore and Son to draw up the notices of eviction ?—No.

46,820. I suppose you would do it in all probability if there was any legal business transacted ?—Yes.

46,821. (Mr. Bere.) Are you concerned in the Newton firm ?—No.

46,822. Who act as solicitors there ?—D'Arcy and Beachey used to do it before Mr. D'Arcy left. I cannot tell who does it now ; I presume Mr. Hooper continues to do so.

46,823. That five guineas you received in 1862 ?—I believe it was. I will refer to my business book.

46,824. It is paid on the 23rd April 1863 ?—(Reading) "Totnes election: Pender, 15 guineas; Seymour, 10 guineas."

46,825. So you see it is more than five ?—I was speaking from recollection only.

46,826. Did you ever know anything about an arrangement between the Duke and the independent liberal party here about the return of the member ?—Never until this commission was opened.

46,827. You were never consulted ?—I never had anything to do with it.

46,828. Were you acting for Mr. Pender in 1865 ?—No.

46,829. With the exception of James Edmonds, do I understand you to say that you did not canvass anybody ?—No.

46,830. Not with your brother ?—No.

46,831. What were your duties, to act as legal adviser ?—I was not the legal adviser.

46,832. You were retained on the part of Mr. Pender; what did you consider you were bound to do ?—I should do whatever was wanted.

46,833. What was wanted ?—I understood nothing was wanted.

46,834. Nothing except your influence with Mr. Edmonds ?—Yes.

46,835. You kept the poll book ?—Yes.

46,836. You did not make up the poll book on that occasion ?—No.

46,837. Nor go through the list of voters in order to see how the election was likely to go ?—I was going to say I went at that time through other gentlemen's poll books. I had none of my own, I dare say I saw several.

46,838. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you know that your brother, Mr. Jeffery Michelmore, received 25*l.* from Mr. Seymour after the election ?—No.

46,839. (Mr. Longe.) You do not know the relation between the Duke and the Liberal party for the last four or five years ?—Since this Commission sat I have.

46,840. But before that ?—No.

46,841. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did your father ever talk to you about an interview he had with the Duke in 1863 about his going over to Stover about the position of the parties ?—I heard of my father's going over to Stover, but I do not know why he went; in fact, I do not think that was the reason he went.

46,842. Have you heard since that an offer was made by the Duke, and of the state of the parties here ?—What offer ?

46,843. To give up his interest altogether ?—I have not heard of that.

46,844. That is the evidence which has been given before us ?—I have not read the papers daily, I have not noticed that.

46,845. (Mr. Bere.) Had you not something to do with an elector of the name of Goodman ?—Yes ; I had.

46,846. What had you got to do with him ?—I had something to do with him through his son at Newton.

46,847. What is Mr. Goodman's son at Newton ?—A fly proprietor.

46,848. And did you send the son at Newton to Totnes ?—I may say the son at Newton is a friend of mine, and I sent the son to his father to ask him to oblige me by not voting.

46,849. By not voting ?—Yes.

46,850. Was that the election of 1865 ?—That was the election of 1865.

46,851. Did you give him any reason why he should not vote ?—No.

46,852. In order to do you a favour ?—Yes.

46,853. Did you authorize the son to intimate that his father would have anything for not voting ?—The son, as I told you, is a friend of mine.

46,854. You sent him to get his father to abstain from voting. Did you succeed ?—I did not succeed. I saw the father myself before I sent the son to him.

46,855. Did you say anything about receiving a recompence for not voting ?—I told the father at the time pretty well the position of the son.

46,856. The position of the son ?—Yes.

46,857. Was the son in unfortunate circumstances then ?—In very unfortunate circumstances.

46,858. What influence would the position of the son have upon the father's vote ?—I asked him to oblige me, as I had obliged the son.

46,859. You had assisted the son I suppose ?—Yes.

46,860. Have you been repaid your assistance of the son ?—I have not.

46,861. You have not ?—No.

46,862. Do you know how many voters on the Totnes register had also votes for Ashburton ?—I do not.

46,863. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know any Totnes voters who also vote for Ashburton ?—I believe my brother Jeffery does.

46,864. Your brother Jeffery ?—I think so.

46,865. (Mr. Bere.) Is there any man called Edwin Shinner, who votes for Ashburton ?—I do not know, I think not.

46,866. I will ask you this general question : Have you had any other transaction with regard to the election of 1865, except what you have told us. Have you either directly or indirectly influenced any voter in any way or form, except in the way you have mentioned, or canvassed any ?—Not that I recollect.

46,867. You must recollect ?—I may say I do not know. I may have met some one in the street, and spoken to them, but I cannot say.

46,868. There is an allegation, I believe, made about your father, that you wish to say something about ?—It was an allegation made at the commencement of the Commission by Mr. Bentall, of Totnes.

46,869. Do you remember what it was ?—It was in answer to a question put by Mr. Longe, that the late Mr. Thomas Michelmore had said if he lost the last election it was as good as losing his place.

46,870. We will get the actual question and answer ?—I do not think the question led up to the answer at all.

46,871. This is the question, No. 1668, "What is "your hypothesis as to how that is brought about ?—"The Duke is never here except at elections. I "heard the late Mr. Thomas Michelmore said if he "lost the last election it was as good as his place." Then there is an answer, 1702, "Mr. Michelmore, "you say, stated that it would be worth his place ?—"I do not know that he said so, but I have heard it "said so. It was at the time when I took no active "part. I happened to be returning officer at the "time; I merely heard of it afterwards. It ran very "close between Mr. Dent and Mr. Seymour, who was "the Duke of Somerset's nominee.——In 1863 ?—"Yes; and I heard it was said by Tom Michelmore "very late in the day. He was in a terrible fidget "about it, that it was as much as his place was worth "to lose the election. Whether he did so or not I "cannot say ?"—That was not reported in the papers.

46,872. That is on the short-hand writer's report ?—That report was not reported in the paper. I may mention at that election, when Mr. Bentall was returning officer, my father taxed Mr. Bentall's bill, and declined to pay it. There was a quarrel at that time between Mr. Bentall and my father, and seeing that remark apparently in an uncalled-for way in the paper,

THIRTY-FOURTH DAY.

Mr. H. Michelmore.

27 Oct. 1866.

I thought it proper to write to Mr. Bentall for his authority for making that statement. I wrote this letter to him :—"Dear Sir,—In your evidence given "on Saturday before the Commissioners for inquiring "into the corrupt practices at the Totnes elections, "you are reported in apparently an uncalled-for "answer to have stated in answer to Mr. Longe that "you had heard that the late Mr. Thomas Michelmore "said that if he had lost the last election it was as "good as losing his place. Had my poor father been "living I feel assured that remark would never have "been made, and I shall feel obliged by your giving "me the name of your informant. You will not, I "am sure, decline to give me this information, in "order to clear the memory of one who is, I am sorry "to say, unable longer to clear himself in this "world."

46,873. (Mr. Bere.) What answer did you receive to that?

The witness handed the answer to Mr. Bere, who read as follows :—

My dear Sir,

I have received your note of yesterday, and am much vexed that the evidence which I gave of the report relative to your late father has given pain to you or any of his family. I did not consider that what I said cast the slightest blame or reproach on him, but that any undue influence which he might be supposed to have used emanated rather from a higher power. I had always been on friendly terms with your father from the time we were schoolboys, and would not willingly have offended him in his lifetime or his memory after his death. The occasion to which I alluded was not the last election, but the time of the contest between Mr. A. Seymour and Mr. Dent, when I was returning officer, and purposely avoided taking any active part in the election beyond the duties of my office, and giving my own vote, but I certainly did hear the report among many others as generally current, but who were the individual persons from whom I heard it I cannot say. It was the general rumour in the crowd, and as such I heard it.

That is really what Mr. Bentall said in his evidence before us.

46,874. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know a man of the name of Robert Ryder, old Mr. Robert Ryder?—Yes.

46,875. Are your offices in his house at Penton?—At Totnes.

46,876. At Totnes I mean. He is a voter, is he not?—I presume that he is; yes, he is.

46,877. Have you ever paid him any money at election times?—Except the rent?

46,878. Excepting the rent?—Yes; I may have paid him that weekly.

46,879. But you never paid him anything extra?—No.

J. R. Veasey.

John R. Veasey sworn and examined.

46,880. (Mr. Longe.) Where are you living now?—At Bridgetown.

46,881. How long have you voted for your house?—I have voted on my house.

46,882. How long in Bridgetown?—I do not know exactly, somewhere about two or three years. I was evicted in 1863, after the election of Mr. Seymour.

46,883. Where were you living at the time?—In a house of Mr. Manning.

46,884. How long had you been in the house of Mr. Manning?—I had been tenant of Mr. Manning six or seven years altogether; I had not been a voter till 1862.

46,885. 1862 is the first time you had a vote for the borough?—Yes.

46,886. Whom did you vote for?—Mr. Pender.

46,887. You were at that time a tenant of Mr. Manning?—I was.

46,888. Did you get anything for voting?—I will tell you; after the election, some few weeks after, there was a present made to my wife of 20*l.*

46,889. Before the election of 1863?—1862, a few weeks, I think, after the election.

46,890. Was it before the election of 1863?—Yes, certainly.

46,891. There was only six weeks' difference between the two?—I cannot tell how many weeks' difference it was before that.

46,892. How much was given to your wife?—Twenty pounds.

46,893. Who gave it?—Mr. Parnell.

46,894. Were you canvassed on the other side at that time?—Mr. Pender's election?

46,895. Yes, that election?—Yes, I was offered more than 100*l.* for my vote.

46,896. Who offered you that?—Young Mr. Heath, of the "Seven Stars."

46,897. Did Mr. Manning canvass you himself?—Yes, previous to the election, he came and said to me, at the time Mr. Rennie thought of standing for the borough, "Veasey, I think that you can get 50*l.* if "you like to vote for Mr. Rennie;" I said, "That is "to be considered, sir." After that Mr. Rennie had nothing at all to do with it; then there were two offered themselves, that is, Pender and Dent. Mr. Dent withdrew his opposition on the nomination night. That was it, sir.

46,898. How long before the election had Mr. Manning offered you 50*l.*?—I cannot tell.

46,899. When you took this house of Mr. Manning, were you asked what your politics were?—He knew; everybody in Totnes knew my principles.

46,900. How was it known in Totnes that you were a Liberal?—I dare say from the expression of my opinions at different times in electioneering affairs.

46,901. You never voted before?—Never before.

46,902. Did you vote for the town council before?—Yes, I think I did.

46,903. Had you lived in Totnes before?—Yes, I am a native of Bridgetown.

46,904. Did you live in Bridgetown or in Totnes?—In Totnes.

46,905. You had voted for the town council previously?—Yes.

46,906. Which side?—On the Liberal side, sir, generally.

46,907. You had sometimes voted for the Conservatives?—No; but I am not particular in electioneering matters. I consider politics ought to have nothing to do with the council in electioneering matters; I always give the preference to the Liberal party.

46,908. Did you ever receive any money for voting at municipal elections?—It is not likely.

46,909. Not for the expenses or trouble?—Certainly not.

46,910. Have you ever been offered money?—Certainly not.

46,911. Did you ever take any part in canvassing in municipal elections?—No, I go with my own party.

46,912. What is your occupation?—I am a painter.

46,913. After the 1862 election, at the next election, in 1863, whom did you vote for then?—Seymour.

46,914. Were you canvassed by the Conservatives for Mr. Dent, at that election?—I was canvassed by Mr. Dent in person, in company with Mr. Edmonds. When Mr. Dent solicited me, I said, "You would not "like me to promise you, and break my word after, "will you?" He said, "No, certainly not." I said I had previously promised Mr. Seymour, and I would not like to break my word on any consideration whatever. He thanked me twice for my candid reply, and he wished that every elector would answer as I did.

46,915. Did anybody else call upon you?—Frederick Evens came down and said he thought it would be a good thing for me if I promised to support his side.

46,916. Before you saw Mr. Seymour?—The day after I promised Mr. Seymour I saw him. I told Frederick Evens I had promised Mr. Seymour, and I said, "You know me very well, Fred; I cannot break "my word." He said, "I know that; I shall go "and report it to the committee." I told him that he knew it would be useless to come down and tamper with me, and this is the last time he came.

46,917. Did Mr. Manning come?—Yes, Mr. Manning came into my house and spoiled my appetite just after I had returned from a long walk in the country. Mr. Manning came in and asked which way I was going to vote. I told him I had promised Mr. Seymour, and of course I could not break my word. Mr. Manning says, "You supported Mr. Pender last time "against me and my interest, and it is nothing but "right now that you should support Mr. Dent, my "friend." "What," I said, "Mr. Manning; vote for "the Liberals at one election, and then vote for the "Tories next year; is that consistency in my con-"duct." After that he said, "If you do not choose "to support my friend, I shall turn you out of my "house, as I may as well find somebody to support "me. I give you notice from to-day." I said, "Mr. "Manning, I would rather break stones on the high-"way than be bound by you or any other man which "way to record my vote. You may consider that my "franchise is not free, but I will soon convince you "that it is free, and I will act independently of all "parties, and support the party I promised." The consequence was, I had notice of ejectment.

46,918. On a former occasion you got something?—I had a present of 20*l.* after the first election.

46,919. After Mr. Seymour's election, was any other present made to you?—Certainly not; not to me nor my family.

46,920. Did you ask for anything?—Certainly not.

46,921. (Mr. Bere.) Did they give you any work to do?—Who do you mean by that?

46,922. The Liberal party?—I had been previously working for the Liberals, in turns, as well as the Conservatives; but at the first the principal part of my employment was for the Conservative side, as I was occupying premises belonging to Mr. Manning.

46,923. (Mr. Longe.) Is there any other painter in Totnes in the same line of business as your own?—By the same name?

46,924. Is there another tradesman carrying on the same trade as your own?—Several.

46,925. Are they employed by one side or the other particularly?—Yes, who chooses to employ them. They have a share of some of the Liberals' work, and so have I, and they have a share of the Conservatives' work, and I do work for some of the Conservatives. I have been recently sent for by the company to do graining and papering.

46,926. After this election of 1863 did Mr. Manning give you notice to quit?—Yes, I had; he sent it by Mr. Harris.

46,927. Did Mr. Harris give you the reason?—I had no interview with Mr. Harris upon the matter; he brought the notice and gave it to my wife. I do a great deal of work in the country, and when I came home one day she said, "Here is a notice brought to "quit." I said very well, that is as I expected. During the conversation that took place between Mr. Manning and myself, I asked Mr. Manning, when he threatened me with loss of work, if there was any fault to find with my work I had previously done for him, and he said "Oh dear no, I am perfectly satisfied, "but you cannot expect to keep in my house when "you are keeping out a good many, and always voting "against me."

46,928. You left the house?—Yes.

46,929. When you got the notice did you apply to Mr. Michelmore for a house?—I did. I did not know where to go. I went and saw Mr. Michelmore, and told him I had got notice to quit, and I did not know if there was any house in Bridgetown that he considered would suit me, and he pointed out to me the house I am at present in occupation of.

46,930. Do you know who was the former tenant of the house you occupied?—He was an artist or photographer. I forget his name.

46,931. The house you have now gives a vote?—15*l.* a year I have to pay.

46,932. Do you not know who was the tenant in succession to you?—I forget his name.

46,933. Was it Peaguin?—I do not know.

46,934. When you took the house, did you tell Mr. Michelmore you were a good Liberal?—Me tell him so?

46,935. Yes.—He knew I was. I dare say he did; he did not ask me anything about it.

46,936. You had no reason for voting for the Conservatives?—No, I do not like the Tory party. I believe they are the enemies of the progress of the country.

46,937. At the last election you voted for Pender and Seymour?—I did.

46,938. Were you canvassed by the other side?—Well, sir, I was here at the time, and I think my wife told me either Colonel Dawkins or Captain Pim had called. I forget when it was.

46,939. Did Frederick Evens call?—Oh no.

46,940. Did any one call?—To tamper with me?

46,941. To offer consideration?—I do not believe he did.

46,942. Besides the Liberals who canvassed you?—I was canvassed by Mr. Windeatt, I think, in company with Mr. Pender, one morning before I got up. Mr. Pender expressed a wish to see me, as Mr. Windeatt had told him I was one of the dependable men, and he could rely on my going straight. I believe that was the remark he made. After that I had an interview with Mr. Pender himself, but we did not say much on electioneering matters, only just a few words. Mr. Pender asked if I would support him at the ensuing election. I told him I would do so with a great deal of pleasure, and that ended the affair.

46,943. Mr. Michelmore called on you?—It was suggested that, as I had supported him on the last election, I should do it again.

46,944. You were considered one of the safest men?—He considered so, I dare say.

46,945. You did not get anything?—I did not.

46,946. Did you take any part in the last election in getting any other votes for Pender and Seymour?—Not that I can recollect. I generally find enough to mind my own affairs.

46,947. You never offered any money to any one?—No, not that I am aware of.

46,948. You never received anything but what you have told us?—No. I tell you the truth. I do not intend to disguise anything.

46,949. (Mr. Bere.) Who did you get the money from?—Mr. Parnell.

46,950. Did you not get some money from Mark Fox?—That was a thing I was going to ask you gentlemen to listen to. I remember being one evening at Screach's house.

46,951. John Sandford Screach?—Yes.

46,952. How long ago was that?—Several months ago.

46,953. After the last election?—Yes, he came in, and Mr. Screach said to me, "You need not say "anything to me about taking bribes, it is well "known you have been pretty well paid." I said, "When?" He said, "You were paid 95*l.* or 75*l.*, "I forget which, down in the coffee-room of the "'Seymour.'" I said, "By whom?" He said, "By Fox." I said, "John, you will have to answer "this before the Commissioners."

46,954. It was after the Commission was opened he told you this?—No, before the Commissioners came; but the report was circulated that the gentlemen were coming.

46,955. Is there any truth in it?—I can assure you there is not a particle of truth in it.

46,956. Did you get any money from Fox at that time?—I do not know him.

46,957. Did you get any before or after the election?—No.

46,958. (Mr. Coleridge.) Besides turning you out of your house and taking away his own custom, has

THIRTY-FOURTH DAY.

J. R. Veasey.

27 Oct. 1866.

Mr. Manning injured your trade in any other way?—I have reason to believe that I lost the work of a family or two for some time afterwards. I had worked for Mr. Presswell before, but I did not do much for him during the following year.

46,959. Do you know whether he had any work to do at that time?—That I cannot tell you.

46,960. But you have no direct charge to bring against Mr. Manning for having persuaded people to take their work away from you?—I cannot say that.

46,961. Mr. Manning has stated here that there is no truth in what you have stated?—I wrote a letter to the "Western Times" to contradict his statement. I do not know whether you may have seen it. I was in hopes of being able to meet Mr. Manning here, so that I might refute his statement.

46,962. You are quite certain he said he could get you 50*l.* if you would vote for Mr. Dent?—I will get you 50*l.* if you will support our friend, that was Mr. Rennie.

46,963. That was supposing he had come; he turned you out of the house because you would not vote for Mr. Dent on the next occasion?—Yes, in opposition to Mr. Seymour. I will swear that a hundred times over.

46,964. As you would not oblige him when you were his tenant, he did not attempt to do anything with you at the last election?—No. I had gone to the other side of the water then; I had been turned out of the free country and had gone into the slave states.

46,965. And when you were in the slave states you voted as a slave?—Yes.

46,966. (Mr. Longe.) Bridgetown is a land of liberty to you, I suppose?—Yes, and will be so as long as I remain there.

46,967. (Mr. Bere.) Although you lost the Conservative work, have you got any more Liberal work?—I do not know about that; trade has been flourishing.

46,968. Have any gentlemen, who were Liberals, become customers of yours?—I cannot bring my mind to say that; I know of nothing of the kind.

46,969. Have you had any work from the Duke's party?—I used to have work from the Duke's people before.

46,970. Have you had more of the Duke's work than you had before?—Perhaps, I might.

46,971. Has it been made up to you in that way?—No.

46,972. (Mr. Coleridge.) Has your business generally been better or worse since Mr. Manning turned you out?—It has been better. I am an industrious man and work hard.

46,973. Then you have nothing to complain of?—No; and I would be glad to get more if I could; I work hard enough for it.

46,974. (Mr. Longe.) Do you know of any other persons in the same position as yourself who took refuge in Bridgetown after having been turned out in Totnes?—No, I do not recollect any others at this moment.

46,975. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you get any money at the last election?—No.

46,976. Did your wife?—No; I wish she had.

46,977. You would not have been above taking it?—No.

46,978. If they had made you a present, you would have thought it was all right?—Certainly. If a man was to put down 50*l.* before me, you would think me very foolish if I did not take it up. I did not vote with that idea at all.

46,979. (Mr. Bere.) You never directly or indirectly received any money for your vote beyond what you have told us?—No.

46,980. Or any other indirect favour?—No.

46,981. Did you tell your grievance to Mr. Michelmore when you took your house?—I do not know that I did.

46,982. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he not know of it?—He knew it; I had told him previous to that.

46,983. (Mr. Bere.) Did he not say we will make it up to you, and give you some more work from the Duke's party?—I do not remember any such observation.

46,984. Are you quite sure that he did not?—I am quite sure that he did not.

46,985. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know any other persons whom Mr. Manning has served in the same way?—No; I only mind my own affairs.

46,986. Do you know of any instances?—I do not. He has generally made tools of his own party.

46,987. He has generally made his tenants vote the same way that he does?—Yes; I was the only tenant who voted against him; and I would stand out against any man who tried to coerce me in that way.

46,988. Was this a cheap rented house of yours?—I always considered the house rather dear.

46,989. Then you were not sorry to be turned out of it?—I was vexed; not on account of political matters, but on account of the inconvenience of it.

46,990. It was not a low rent?—I paid 10*l.* a year.

46,991. You did not consider it a low rent?—I considered it rather dear.

46,992. Dearer in proportion than your present house?—Yes, no doubt of it.

46,993. Was not Kelland a tenant of Mr. Manning's?—Yes; I think he is now.

46,994. Did he not vote for the Liberals?—I do not know.

46,995. Did not Mr. Manning tell you that he had been offered anything himself?—No; he is too shrewd for that; too sly a fox.

H. Michelmore.

HENRY MICHELMORE recalled.

46,996. (Mr. Bere.) Have you anything further to say?—I remembered, as I was going down the street just now, when passing a house, now occupied by a man of the name of Godfrey, that I had entered into an agreement after the election of 1865 to purchase that house for Mr. Pender.

46,997. From whom was that purchase to be made?—From Lieut.-Col. Windeatt, since deceased.

46,998. Had that purchase anything to do with the election?—Nothing whatever, further than that it was made for Mr. Pender.

46,999. Was it a good investment for Mr. Pender?—I cannot tell that; I bought it for him.

47,000. It is his house now?—The purchase has never been completed to this moment. Colonel Windeatt is since deceased; and since I have come here to-day, I have heard that his successor is deceased.

47,001. What was the purchase money?—It was bought under Mr. Bourne's valuation.

47,002. What is the rental?—Thirty pound odd.

47,003. What would it pay, 7 per cent.?—About that.

47,004. (Mr. Longe.) Does Mr. Pender own any houses in the town?—Not that I am aware of.

47,005. (Mr. Coleridge.) How did the tenant vote before Mr. Pender bought it?—The tenant voted against him.

47,006. (Mr. Bere.) Who occupies the house now?—The same man.

47,007. Is he under notice to quit?—He is.

47,008. Is not William Pengilley to have it?—He was to have had it had he been turned out. I was instructed to buy a house at that time if I could, and if William Pengilley was turned out of his house, he was to have gone into it.

47,009. Who suggested to Mr. Pender to buy the house?—I asked Mr. Pender whether I should buy it for him.

47,010. In order to provide for Pengilley?—Yes.

47,011. When was this negotiation began?—At the time of the election.

47,012. In fact, the house was bought to provide for Pengilley?—Yes, I believe so. The purchase was not completed.

47,013. Has Mr. Pender paid the deposit?—I paid it on behalf of Mr. Pender.

47,014. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you an open account with Mr. Pender now?—I have of 5*l.*, that is all.

JOHN REED FOGWILL sworn and examined.

47,015. (Mr. Bere.) Are you the postmaster at Teignmouth?—Yes.

47,016. How long have you been so?—Five years last October.

47,017. In October 1861 you were appointed?—Yes.

47,018. I suppose through the interest of the then Liberal members for this borough?—Yes.

47,019. At that time had you left the borough?—I left the borough in the latter end of 1860; either on the last day of 1860 or the first day of 1861.

47,020. Then where were you living after that?—I went from Totnes to London.

47,021. Were you living in London at the time you received your present appointment?—Yes.

47,022. You have had no vote at any of the elections since 1859?—No.

47,023. Have you had anything to do with any election matters since 1859?—Nothing whatever.

47,024. Have you been in Totnes during the time of the election going on?—No; I have not been here during the election.

47,025. As to the election of 1859, you can tell us a good deal about that. You had a vote then?—Yes.

47,026. And you voted for Gifford and Mills?—Yes.

47,027. You took an active part on the liberal side?—I always have done.

47,028. Whom did you influence on that occasion?—No one.

47,029. Did you not canvass any one for their vote?—Yes, many people.

47,030. Can you give us the names of any one of them?—I dare say I may have gone to 40 or 50. I have gone round with the members at times.

47,031. Were you one of the Liberal committee?—Yes.

47,032. And used you to meet at the "Seymour" hotel and discuss the matters?—Not frequently at the "Seymour" hotel. I belonged to the other class; to what was called the independent class.

47,033. Then at what place were your meetings held?—I do not know that we used to hold any meetings in particular.

47,034. Was your house a place at which the meetings were held?—Sometimes we would meet at one place, sometimes at another. We met at Mr. Condy's sometimes.

47,035. And discussed the chances of the Liberal party?—Yes.

47,036. What did you do in 1859 besides canvassing?—Nothing particular in any way. I made myself active about the election.

47,037. Did you have any sum of money entrusted to you?—Never.

47,038. Did you never offer any money at all to any person?—To no one.

47,039. Not at any time?—There was one exception with regard to Mr. Manning, and I will tell you the particulars of that if you are desirous of hearing it.

47,040. Do so, we should like to hear it?—I think it was in the year 1852, or about that time, when Mr. Manning came to me and said that he was dissatisfied with Mr. Baldwin on account of some transactions relative to that property, and that he had made up his mind to turn over to the other side, but that he should like to be paid for his services; he came to me, I suppose, because he knew I was an active partisan of the other party.

47,041. Which Mr. Manning was this?—Nicholas Manning. I told him that I would represent it to the legal advisers, who were Mr. Brooking Cuming and Mr. Windeatt. He said that he could make himself useful by going amongst the farmers on a market day, and trying to induce the farmers to vote for Mr. Mills in preference to Mr. Baldwin. He said that with regard to his brother, and Browse, and a man of the name of Goddard, who was living here, that he had no doubt he could influence them to vote for Mr. Mills, or that at all events he would do his best to try and influence them, but that he wanted to be paid for his services, and he asked 30*l.* I then consulted with the gentlemen who I have told you were the legal advisers, and they said that they did not see any harm in it. I then gave him a cheque myself for 30*l.* for his services.

47,042. (Mr. Coleridge.) I suppose you mean his services in perspective?—Yes.

47,043. (Mr. Bere.) Can you tell us which way Mr. Manning had voted at that election?—He had no vote.

47,044. Then he was angry with the Conservatives in consequence of something which you have referred to, and he tried to use his influence against them on the other side?—Yes, and the Liberals at that time thought he was a very good sort of person to go about amongst the farmers on a market day.

47,045. Who repaid you this 30*l.* which you say that you gave to Mr. Manning?—I think it was Mr. Brooking Cuming who repaid me.

47,046. When was that sum repaid to you?—I think it must have been within a few days, I cannot give you the exact time, but I know that whenever I asked for it I got it.

47,047. Is that all you had to do with the election of 1852?—Yes.

47,048. Or with any other election?—Yes; or with any other election.

47,049. Where was your house situated?—My house was situated at the bottom of the New Walk, or what is called the Plains, where the "Dartmouth" inn now is.

47,050. Was that in a convenient situation for meetings to be held there?—The fact was this, that one of the houses was unoccupied; they were what you may call twin houses; one of them was unoccupied, the other I was in possession of; the one that was unoccupied was well calculated for meetings of the committee at the time of the election, and they had their meetings at that particular house. I never asked them for any payment, nor did I ever expect anything.

47,051. But you were paid?—No, never. I should have felt myself insulted if I had been offered any money.

47,052. Did you ever hear of any money having been left at your house?—Never.

47,053. Or of any people having been sent there to get money?—No.

47,054. If such a thing has been done, was it done without your knowledge?—I know nothing of it.

47,055. Then if any people have told us that such a thing has been done at your house, that is incorrect?—I am satisfied that it has never been left at my house.

47,056. Did you in canvassing in 1859 receive instructions as to whom you were to go to from Mr. Brooking Cuming?—If I went at all, I went with the candidates.

47,057. Did not you go to particular districts in the town, not generally?—No. Particular districts?

47,058. Yes.—No, certainly not. If I met with any persons I might talk with them.

47,059. There were particular persons who were greater friends of yours than others, were not there, whom you went to?—I was not of so much importance as that.

47,060. But you were on the Liberal committee?—

THIRTY-FOURTH DAY.

J. R. Fogwill.

27 Oct. 1866.

But not going to canvass people unless the members were with me.

47,061. Do you mean to say that no voters came to your house in 1859 to be paid money?—Never.

47,062. As far as you know?—I will answer for it they never did.

47,063. Did not John Sandford Screach, the old gentleman, come to your house in 1859?—Never.

47,064. Was Mr. Charles Webber an active member of the Liberal committee?—I believe he was an active member of the committee. He used not to attend our meetings.

47,065. He was an active Liberal?—Yes.

47,066. Was he down at the meetings held at your house?—The meetings held at my house were not meetings for political purposes; they were meetings held merely about the time the elections were taking place.

47,067. They were for the purposes of the election?—Well, I am not aware.

47,068. You did not allow any of the Conservatives to come there, did you?—I think not.

47,069. The persons composing the meeting consisted entirely of Liberals?—This room, which was a private room, was to make up the poll or anything like that at the time of the election.

47,070. Was there a back door at your house?—Yes.

47,071. Did you ever see any voters come through that door into the house?—I do not remember ever seeing; if they did I must have been out of the way; I never saw it.

47,072. Was it ever intimated to you that you had better be out of the way?—No.

47,073. Never?—No.

47,074. At no time?—No, certainly not.

47,075. Are you quite sure about that?—Yes. I do not know why I should keep out of the way. I am not ashamed of any one.

47,076. That something was to be done that you would not like yourself?—No, certainly not; nothing at all that I have been ashamed of.

47,077. Then, really, I am to understand that in 1857 and 1859 you had nothing to do directly or indirectly with bribing or influencing any voter?—Certainly not.

47,078 Had you anything to do with anybody besides Manning in 1852?—No.

47,079. Not your own, but in Mr. Gill's house?—Certainly not.

47,080. Had you anything to do with paying voters at that election besides Manning?—No.

47,081. Did you ever pay money to anybody without seeing the person to whom you paid it?—Never.

47,082. Then the rumour that you paid money through a hole in the door is untrue?—False.

47,083. Did anybody else do it in your presence?—Never.

47,084. Did anybody ever pay money to a voter at any time in your presence?—Never.

47,085. Did a voter come into a room in which you were, and did you leave the room leaving another person with the voter?—Never.

47,086. With regard to 1852 then have you had anything directly or indirectly to do with bribery or influencing the voters with the exception of Manning?—No.

47,087. Does your sister, Miss Helen Fogwill, live in your house now?—No, she has not lived with me for a long while, for the last 20 years. I should tell you that Manning a few days before the scrutiny was about to take place came to me and said he should be better satisfied if I would take his I O U for the money.

47,088. And Manning gave you an I O U?—He gave me an I O U for the money, and then he said he could go with a clear conscience and say he never had it.

47,089. You never sued him upon that I O U?—No.

47,090. Have you got it now?—No.

J. E. Jordain.

JEFFERY EDWIN JORDAIN sworn and examined.

47,091. (Mr. Bere.) You keep the "King William the Fourth"?—Yes.

47,092. Whom did you succeed?—Mr. Gillham.

47,093. When did you succeed Gillham?—1854.

47,094. It has always been a political house?—No, not while I have been there.

47,095. Before you came there?—I have heard so.

47,096. You have heard of certain agreements being made out?—Yes.

47,097. Did you know anything about that agreement when you took the house?—No.

47,098. Have you voted for the Liberals always?—I have not voted at all.

47,099. Not once?—On no occasion whatsoever.

47,100. Not at the municipal elections?—Yes, at the municipal.

47,101. But never for the parliamentary elections?—Never voted for the parliamentary.

47,102. Though you did not vote you had some good friends among the Liberals in 1862?—Not that I am aware of.

47,103. Did you ever supply luncheon there to the voters?—Yes.

47,104. In what year?—In 1862.

47,105. And a fair bill was paid?—A fair bill paid.

47,106. About 45*l.*?—45*l.* or 46*l.*, I think that is about it.

47,107. How long have you been on the register?—About 10 or 11 years, I suppose.

47,108. Have you been tempted by either party?—Well, I might have had money if I wished.

47,109. From both sides?—Well, I do not know about both sides; yes, I have had an intimation.

47,110. Who has given you the intimation on the Liberal side?—John Parnell Searle came to me.

47,111. When did he come to you?—In 1862.

47,112. What did he offer you?—He offered a large sum, 300*l.*

47,113. Was that on the day of the election?—Yes.

47,114. In the middle of the election?—A quarter before 4.

47,115. You would not take that?—No, I did not think it worth my while.

47,116. What was your reason for not voting?—Well, I do not value money got in that way.

47,117. Your reason for not voting?—My reason for not voting is this, I was doing tolerably well, and did not wish to be interfered with. I did not wish to displease those who came to my house.

47,118. Had you friends on both sides whom you did not wish to displease?—Yes, that is it.

47,119. Were you offered anything in 1865, at Pender and Seymour's last election?—No, they did not offer. When they came I used to tell them that I intended to be neutral.

47,120. Had the Conservatives offered you anything at any time or given you an intimation that you might get anything?—I had an intimation at one time; a Mrs. Pick called upon me, she is dead since, and she said I might have 50*l.* from Evens.

47,121. From Evan Evens?—Yes, from what I understood from her.

47,122. Have you ever had any money offered you for not voting?—No, not a farthing.

47,123. Do you know John Hamlyn?—Yes.

47,124. Has he ever offered you any money?—Never.

47,125. Is that all you know about it?—Yes.

THIRTY-FOURTH DAY.

JOHN WEBBER CHASTER recalled and further examined.

J. W. Chaster.

27 Oct. 1866.

47,126. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was Mr. Jenkins looked upon as a sort of agent of Mr. Pender's here?—I should say not.

47,127. Did Mr. Pender use to send money down through him?—I am not aware that he did.

47,128. What does this refer to? It is a letter of yours dated "Sunday, December 11, 1864,—My dear sir, through Mr. Jenkins I have received your note containing 15*l.*, amount of expenses incurred in journey to London in April last to confer with yourself and Mr. Seymour, and cash paid the Totnes ringers during the past week, for which I beg to thank you." How came money to come through Jenkins?—I recollect that. It is that they came down here and addressed the electors in the Guildhall.

47,129. How came the money to come through Mr. Jenkins?—I think Mr. Jenkins brought me the money into my tan yard, and I think he said Mr. Pender gave it to him before he left Totnes, and he had forgotten to give it me.

47,130. Is that the only time you knew money to come through Mr. Jenkins?—That is the only time.

47,131. In that same letter to Mr. Pender, which will you read through?—After what you have read it goes on, "I send the January account of the registration expenses, as you have wished for the past year and part of the preceding one. I exceedingly regret it should fall so heavy, but on carefully reviewing it, I see much that cannot again occur; for instance, the first two items, 68*l.* 12*s.* 4*d.* and 64*l.* 6*s.* 8*d.*, are balances of the previous year, advances made by the Michelmores to advocates, witnesses, rent, losses, and posting. The hotel bills must be cut down in future. It is an old custom here to feed the advocates, but one I think more honoured in the breach than in the observance. Helmore, Bourne, and Cuming are land and house valuers, and may or may not be again required." I should say they were ascertaining the value of the property on the Broomborough estate. That is the reason they were employed:—"The gravest question with me is the lawyers. I must confess that after the immense labour we had undergone in obtaining evidence, and in preparing the most elaborate briefs that were perhaps ever taken into a registration court, I did not feel satisfied to intrust them entirely to Windeatt and Michelmore. We therefore retained Floud and Edmonds, who certainly did their work well, though at a cost much in excess of what I had contemplated. Their employment again, however, will be a subject for consideration, as the time draws near to require their services. Was Mr. Jenkins paid his expenses to Plymouth the other day about the printing?" I recollect that was a report of the speeches. Then it goes on, "I had hoped for the pleasure of much more conversation with you than I had the good fortune to obtain, and to have gone into many topics that were not even touched upon, from the presence of the amusements and other matters that so occupied your valuable time. I must, however, congratulate you at least on a most successful meeting at the Guildhall."

47,132. Will you explain that about Mr. Jenkins?—I recollect Mr. Jenkins was asked to go down and see the property.

47,133. What was he paid for that?—I do not know. I know he was out of pocket going there, and merely asked whether he was to be repaid or not.

47,134. And you simply inclosed in that this account:—

Dec. 11th, 1864. J. W. CHASTER.

What does "Fitze, salary, 48*l.*" mean, because Fitze told us that his salary was a guinea a week?—I do not think that is so, because it was a pound or a guinea a week.

47,135. "Elliott, do. do." What has he a salary for?—To assist the registration generally. I think he was only paid one year.

(Mr. Bere.) He was asked what he got for his services, and he said he was a volunteer.

47,136. (Mr. Coleridge.) "Parnell, attendances, "6*l.* 6*s.*; Tozer, do., 2*l.* 13*s.* 6*d.*" What are those?—Those are persons to give evidence with regard to votes.

47,137. Is that the letter (handing one) you received from Mr. Pender?—What is the date?

47,138. The date of this is the 11th, and that is the 16th. Who is that written to?—It is not written to me, that would be on the advice of cheque. I received the 43*l.* about Christmas.

47,139. "Consider the above private," then it is not signed?—That would be sent from Brighton to the house in London very probably.

47,140. Then the arrangement was for half to be paid by Mr. Seymour and half by Mr. Pender, and that was only to let Mr. Pender know what the whole cost would be?—Yes; to satisfy him as to the amount of the whole expense.

JOHN VENN sworn and examined.

J. Venn.

47,141. (Mr. Longe.) How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—The first time I voted was in 1862.

47,142. You voted in 1862?—In 1862 and 1863.

47,143. Where do you live?—I live along with the notorious Mrs. Thomas.

47,144. How long have you lived there?—Five years come Christmas.

47,145. You lodge in her house?—I have apartments. I have my wife living there.

47,146. You are retired from business?—Yes.

47,147. What are you now?—I was in the excise 30 years, and I am superannuated.

47,148. Do you hold under the Duke?—No; nothing at all under the Duke.

47,149. What did you get your vote for?—At that time I did.

47,150. You have no vote now?—I have no vote now. I was struck off. I was one of the British farmers.

47,151. When you did vote what did you vote for? What gave you qualification?—A field at Gerston. There were three of them, George Fitze, myself, and Samuel Cuming, we had it 17 years.

47,152. Only three of you?—That was the first time.

47,153. That was 1862?—Yes.

47,154. How large was the field?—Nine acres, and we paid 36*l.* a year rent, and all rates and taxes.

47,155. What had you to do with the land? Do you know where it was?—Know where it was! I have been there twice a day many and many a time; and we used to take in different people's cattle, and we would sell what they termed the grass, and had it made and carried off the ground, and we used to pay the money regularly.

47,156. You voted on the same qualification in 1863?—Yes.

47,157. In 1862, when were you first asked to take this share?—There was Mr. Callard with me in the street, and he said to me, "Mr. Venn, you have "scarcely anything to occupy your time; we want "to put on three votes," and he asked me if I would be one of them. Mr. Jeffery Michelmore or Mr. Michelmore never spoke to me on the subject in my life. Well, I agreed, and was put on and remained until I was struck off with the great company.

47,158. Did he ask you what your politics were?—He knew I was a Liberal.

47,159. Because you lived with Mrs. Thomas?—I dare say that is it. Her husband was a regular Liberal.

47,160. Did Callard go to Mrs. Thomas first, before he came to you?—I was not living with Mrs. Thomas then. I have lived five years come Christmas, but this was before 1862 a good bit, but I voted in 1862.

47,161. Where were you living then?—Right opposite to Mr. Jordain, at the "William IV.," at a person's called Morgan. I lived there four years.

47,162. You are a lodger then?—I had part of a house.

47,163. Renting apartments would not give you a vote. Did you vote in 1863?—I did.

47,164. For Mr. Seymour?—Yes. I was the very first person that ever promised Mr. Seymour a vote.

47,165. I suppose there was no question about your voting that way?—No, not the least.

47,166. Did he ask you for it?—Yes, he canvassed me. I gave him my vote, and he said, "Mr. Venn, I "am much obliged to you, for you are the very first "man who ever promised me a vote in Totnes."

47,167. In 1863 were you ever canvassed at all by the Conservatives?—I was canvassed once.

47,168. When was that?—I really forget when it was.

47,169. Who was it who canvassed you?—Well, the moment he came a person just asked me, and one of the lawyers said, "That is of no use, I see we shall "not be able to get Mr. Venn, he is of the other "side," and they went away directly.

47,170. You held this qualification to vote for the Liberals; it was given to you for that purpose?—Most decidedly it was to be made good.

47,171. When was your qualification received?—I forget how many years we got it; we got into a larger company.

47,172. That was the Gerston company?—That was the Gerston company.

47,173. That was between 1863 and 1865?—Yes.

47,174. Who was the manager then?—Mr. Fitze.

47,175. Was it not Mr. Endle?—Then it changed into a larger company; it was all broken up, and then the small companies were put into a large company, and I think there were 46 members in it, but one died very soon afterwards, and there were 45 left. We all met at the "Seymour" hotel and signed a bond.

47,176. Did you know where your land was then?—Oh yes, I knew all the fields well.

47,177. Did you ever go there to see them?—Very frequently, Fitze and me. I might say scores of times.

47,178. This was between 1863 and 1865 that your company was enlarged?—Yes.

47,179. During the time were you ever canvassed by the Conservatives?—No.

47,180. Not this last election, 1865?—No, not for the Conservatives.

47,181. On the Liberal side; were you ever rewarded in any way by the Liberals?—Not a farthing in my life, neither directly nor indirectly.

47,182. Not for your trouble?—Not a farthing or a farthing's worth.

47,183. Were you ever offered anything?—No, not for the Liberals.

47,184. Not by the Liberals?—Never.

47,185. You have been offered something by the Conservatives?—Yes.

47,186. Who by?—Mr. Niner met me one morning.

47,187. Which Mr. Niner?—The old gentleman; it was very near Mr. Jordain's, at the "William IV.," and at Mr. Gill's, and I think it was Colonel Dawkins; I would not be positive which, whether Colonel Dawkins or Commander Pim, but there were two or three together a-head, with some of the lawyers, canvassing, and he said to me, "I can do a "very good thing for you if you are a mind to turn "to our side, and as you are independent you would "not care for any one, whether you disoblige one or "the other; but if you like to promise me fair, and "will give your vote for Colonel Dawkins and Com-"mander Pim, I will give you 200*l.*"

47,188. How were you then independent, you held the qualification expressly to vote on the other side?—I did not hold it expressly to vote on the other side, because when I had the ground I was at liberty to vote on one side or the other.

47,189. Do you mean to say when you took the qualification from Mr. Callard you felt yourself at liberty to vote on the other side?—I was at liberty to vote on one side or the other; it was never told to me on which side I was to vote.

47,190. Do you mean to say that you could vote for the Conservatives?—If I felt inclined to do so and get a lot of money; I told Mr. Pender at the same time, and Mr. Windeatt what sum of money Mr. Niner offered me, and he said to me, "I wish, Mr. "Venn, you had taken it, I would have seen you all "right;" and if I did take the money it was very well that I voted; but I do not know whether I should have voted on that side or not.

47,191. You would have taken the money and voted on the other side?—I should have pleased myself if I had got the money; but I had been offered that, and I truly believe I should have received the money from the person at the time.

47,192. You believe you would have had the money?—I really think so.

47,193. But do you think you would have been allowed to hold your qualification in the company?—No, not then.

47,194. If you had voted the other way you would not have kept your vote?—No, that is true.

47,195. What do you mean by being independent?—In consequence of my situation.

47,196. That did not give you a vote?—No.

47,197. Your vote was not independent?—Mr. Niner said to me I was independent; I was not like a shopkeeper, that I should be offending one to oblige another, but could please myself.

47,198. Your vote was not independent?—No, not the least.

47,199. Your vote depended on your voting that way?—Yes.

47,200. Did you ever have any feasts—any party meetings at Mrs. Thomas's—meetings of the Liberal party?—Never.

47,201. Was there a Liberal entertainment at the election of 1862, Mr. Pender's?—At Mrs. Thomas's?

47,202. No, Mrs. Smale's?—There was.

47,203. How many were there?—I really do not know.

47,204. Twenty?—I really do not know more than you. I went there, and I believe I took two glasses of wine and came out again. I did not stop there but a very few minutes.

47,205. Where was it?—In the parlour.

47,206. Was it a dinner?—No. There was wine there, and what there was to eat I do not know.

47,207. Was it going on all the afternoon?—Not to my knowledge. I do not know whether it was or not. I told you I was only there a very few minutes.

47,208. Was there anything of the same kind going on at the "Seymour" at that election?—Not to my knowledge. I never saw anything of the sort.

47,209. You never went to the "Seymour"?—No.

47,210. There was a meeting at the "Seymour" at which grog is supplied?—I was there one evening, and went there with Mr. Samuel Cuming, and there was a large meeting there, and what I drank there Mr. Samuel Cuming paid for.

47,211. Which election was that?—I take it it was Mr. Pender's election.

47,212. In 1862?—Yes.

47,213. At Mrs. Smale's you did not pay for your wine there?—It was only two little glasses that I drank. I went in with some friend of mine, I forget whom.

47,214. Has not Mrs. Thomas any parties at election times at her house?—Yes, many.

47,215. At this last election?—Yes, a great many came in.

47,216. How was it arranged? Had Mrs. Thomas a carte blanche?—Merely came in to have a little news.

47,217. And they got some refreshments?—Never. I could always go to Mrs. Thomas's room, either the first thing in the morning or the last thing at night, just the same as to my own, and I never saw any refreshments there in my life, no more than what they had there for their own party themselves, their tea or their supper.

47,218. Did you take any part in canvassing on your side?—No.

47,219. Never?—No.

47,220. You never canvassed any voter at all for the Liberals?—Not the least in the world. I never spoke to one in my life.

47,221. You never received anything for your vote except once?—I never was offered except that one time, nothing in the world. And while I am here I wish to make a short statement to the court, that is, that back a few weeks since when the book was read down here in this Guildhall, and my name happened to be called, my friend Loppy Harris spoke very disrespectfully of my character.

47,222. (Mr. Bere.) I do not think he said anything about your character?—I heard what he said, and when you come to see my name called you will find it. I will go through both towns, Totnes and Bridgetown, and not one of them can speak a disrespectful word of my character.

47,223. What he said of you is this.—That I was a dangerous man, and that he would not believe me upon my oath.

47,224. He never said anything of the kind?—He spoke it.

47,225. Do not impute to Harris what he has not said. What he has said about you is contained very shortly. "John Venn, he was one of the manufac- "tured votes." That is true according to your own account?—Yes, and he said Mrs. Thomas used to keep me straight and I could not go wrong.

47,225*a*. "She kept him straight?—A. He could "not go wrong." That is, that Mrs. Thomas had some influence over him?—There is more than that.

47,225*b*. "Being a manufactured vote you thought "it was hardly worth while?—A. No man would do "that; he would swear away a man's life; he is "always a dangerous character"?—That is it.

47,226. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you go and see Capt. Helms?—Mr. Harris's character is known here.

47,227. Did you see Captain Helms?—Why did you not hear me out?

47,228. (Mr. Bere.) Mr. Harris does seem to have accused you that you would swear away a man's life. Shall I ask you that? I do not suppose you would. If there is anything you wish to say I shall be glad to hear it?—It does not matter.

47,229. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you have any talk with Captain Helms at Mrs. Thomas's?—Very little.

47,230. Did you have any?—Very little.

47,231. You knew he was Mr. Dent's friend?—Yes.

47,232. You knew he was not likely to vote against Mr. Dent?—I do not suppose he would.

47,233. When Captain Helms used to come to Mrs. Thomas did you imagine he was a Liberal, and would have voted for the same side as yours?—If Mr. Dent had not put up I think he would.

47,234. Notwithstanding his voting on the other side he still continued to go to Mrs. Thomas's?—Yes.

47,235. And you knew that he was going to vote against your side then?—No.

47,236. He never told you that?—Never.

47,737. Did you ever hear Mrs. Thomas try to persuade him to vote on your side?—Never.

47,738. You never heard her canvass him?—No.

(Mr. Harris.) What I meant to convey was, that when Venn came up at the registration there was such prevarication by Mr. Venn, that I consider he told such notorious lies that I never would trust him; that is what I mean to convey.

John Drew sworn and examined.

J. Drew.

47,239. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you lived in Totnes?—About 20 years.

47,240. How long have you had a vote?—Five or six years.

47,241. When did you first vote?—At Mr. Pender's election.

47,242. In 1862?—Yes.

47,243. Where do you live?—At Bridgetown.

47,244. Are you a tenant of the Duke's?—Yes.

47,245. What is your qualification for voting?—House and field.

47,246. What is the value?—Twelve pounds a year.

47,247. Do you pay the rates and taxes?—Yes.

47,248. Do you ever get anything handed back to you on the rent day?—No.

47,249. Who did you take your house from?—Mr. Michelmore.

47,250. Did Mr. Michelmore say anything to you about what you should do with your vote?—No.

47,251. Did you tell him how you should vote?—No.

47,252. Had you voted at the council elections?—Yes.

47,253. And always voted for the Liberals?—Yes.

47,254. And he might have known you were a Liberal?—Yes.

47,255. Had you lived all your life in Bridgetown?—Yes.

47,256. And always a tenant of the Duke's?—Yes.

47,257. You merely changed your house?—Yes.

47,258. Who occupied it before you?—My father-in-law.

47,259. You had a smaller house before, and did not get a vote?—I was a voter for the council before, but not for the borough.

47,260. What did you get for voting for Pender in 1862?—I did not get anything.

47,261. How much did you get afterwards?—Elliot gave me 10*l.*

47,262. When did he give you that?—Some time between the two elections.

47,263. Where did he give it to you?—I met him one day, and he said he had a present for me, and he gave me two 5*l.* notes between my house and the quay.

47,264. Was that a few days after the election?—Two or three weeks.

THIRTY-FOURTH DAY.

J. Drew.

27 Oct. 1866.

47,265. Had he spoken to you about your vote?—Yes.

47,266. Who canvassed you?—Mr. Pender.

47,267. Did Mr. Pender say anything about what you would get for your vote?—No.

47,268. Who was with him when he canvassed you?—Mr. Michelmore.

47,269. Did he say anything about getting anything for your vote?—No.

47,270. At that election did they apply to you for Mr. Dent?—Yes, several times.

47,271. Who?—Mr. John Heath.

47,272. What did he tell you?—He asked me if 50*l.* would be worth anything to me. I said "No, I "should not take it," and he offered me 100*l.*; I said "No, I should not take it; I promised Mr. Pender, "and I could not go from it."

47,273. Had you promised your vote to Mr. Pender at that time?—Yes.

47,274. Why did not you take 150*l.*—I was well where I was.

47,275. Was it to prevent your being turned out of your house if you took it?—No, I was not aware of such thing.

47,276. Was that all the money you got, 10*l.* in 1862?—Yes.

47,277. Did you tell Elliott that you had refused 150*l.*?—Yes.

47,278. What did he say?—He said he did not know anything at all about that.

47,279. Before you got the 10*l.* or after?—When he paid the 10*l.* I did not expect anything.

47,280. You told him you had refused 150*l.*?—Yes, and he said he did not know anything about it.

47,281. What did you get in 1863 for voting for Seymour?—Nothing, not a halfpenny.

47,282. What afterwards?—Nothing.

47,283. Did your wife get anything?—No.

47,284. No money found in your house?—No.

47,285. No advantage at all for voting for Mr. Seymour?—No.

47,286. Did not you get 5*l.* in 1863?—No.

47,287. Did you get any money at all between 1863 and 1865?—No.

47,288. None at all?—No.

47,289. Did not the Conservatives come to you in 1863?—Yes, when Pender and Seymour came.

47,290. When Mr. Seymour stood by himself perhaps that was the first time you had a vote?—I do not know.

47,291. Do not you remember there was an election in 1862 and an election early in 1863?—Yes.

47,292. Did not you get something to vote for Mr. Seymour?—No.

47,293. When Dent came a second time did not the Conservatives come to you again?—Yes.

47,294. Who came?—John Heath offered 150*l.*

47,295. You did tell the other side that you had 150*l.* offered?—Yes.

47,296. What did they say?—Nothing.

47,297. Did they give you anything?—No.

47,298. Or promise you anything?—No.

47,299. Did you tell Mr. Elliott before you voted or after?—A long time after.

47,300. Did not you get something out of Captain Fowle?—No.

47,301. Nothing from Mr. Fowle in 1863?—No.

47,302. Did you get anything, a new cart or anything, in 1863?—No, not a halfpenny.

47,303. In 1865 what did you get for your vote?—I had nothing for my vote. I had a present afterwards.

47,304. What was it?—40*l.*

47,305. Who gave you that?—Captain Fowle.

47,306. Did you buy a new cart and horse?—No, I had a cart before.

47,307. You bought it at a sale for 16*l.*?—No.

47,308. Did you pay for it yourself or Captain Fowle pay for you?—I got it before Captain Fowle came.

47,309. Did Mr. Screach come to you in 1865?—Yes.

47,310. What did he offer you?—400*l.*

47,311. When did he offer you that; on the day of the election?—Yes, early on the morning they brought it up. About 4 o'clock he knocked at the door and I came out, and he said if I meant to do anything, now was my time, and I said I had promised my vote and I should not go from it.

47,312. After the election you got 40*l.*?—Yes.

47,313. Did Mrs. Thomas come to see you before the election of 1865?—No.

47,314. Who was the person called Maria Crocker?—I do not know.

47,315. Do you not know such a person?—It was Crocker's daughter next door.

47,316. Now tell me about that; was she not there when Mrs. Thomas came down?—I never saw Mrs. Thomas there in my life.

47,317. Was it not some other house that you saw Mrs. Thomas at?—No.

47,318. Did you go to Mrs. Thomas's house on the day of the nomination?—No.

47,319. Where did you get your money?—Captain Fowle gave it to me.

47,320. Where?—Over the cellar.

47,321. At his own place?—Yes.

47,322. What is the story about the cart. You bought a cart?—Yes.

47,323. Did you pay for it out of your own pocket?—Yes.

47,324. Did Captain Fowle give you a cheque for 16*l.*?—Yes, but not for a cart.

47,325. What was that for?—I went to Brixham, and he told me I wanted a bigger horse; I said I had not money enough to buy it, and he said he would let me have money at any time, and he gave me a cheque for 16*l.*

47,326. Did you buy a horse?—No.

47,327. What did you do with it?—Put it in the fire and burnt it.

47,328. When did you do that?—Three or four weeks afterwards.

47,329. Did you burn the cheque before you got the 40*l.*?—I burnt it three or four weeks afterwards.

47,330. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who told you to burn it?—Nobody. I said to my missus, "It is no good, and "we may shove it in the fire."

47,331. (Mr. Longe.) Why did not you take the money from the Conservatives?—I promised the other side, and I always supported the Liberal side.

47,332. (Mr. Coleridge.) What made you first take the Liberal side?—I was employed by the Liberals.

47,333. Do you know the difference between a Liberal and a Tory?—Yes, but not a great deal.

47,334. What is the difference? Is it that one gives you more work than the other, or what?—I generally get more work from the Liberals; one is free trade and the other not.

47,335. I suppose the Liberals pay and the Tories only promise. Is that your definition?—No.

47,336. Do the Liberals give you more work?—I always work for the Liberals.

47,337. (Mr. Longe.) What are your wages?—What I can get.

47,338. You have no regular wages?—No.

47,339. I thought you were regularly employed by Mr. Fowle?—No.

47,340. You lived in a house of the Duke?—Yes.

47,341. It does not give a vote?—The house and field does.

47,342. When did you take that?—I think about five or six years.

47,343. Do you pay rent?—Yes.

47,344. It was not let to you?—I took it under Mr. Michelmore.

47,345. Was it not let to Mr. Fowle?—No, Mr. Fowle was not here.

47,346. Are you sure it is not let to Mr. Fowle?—He was not here at that time.

47,347. But at this time?—No, nothing to do with it.

47,348. Is your house in Seymour Place?—Yes.

47,349. What number?—I do not know; there is no number to it.

47,350. (Mr. Bere.) What is the name of the land; what is the field called?—I cannot tell you the name of it.

47,351. Where is it?—It is Ship Lane.

47,352. What do you do for Captain Fowle?—Carry coals.

47,353. Look after his stores?—No.

47,354. Who looks after his stores?—They have a foreman there.

47,355. What is his name?—Weymouth.

47,356. Weymouth lives at Seymour Place too?—He lives at the high end, and I live at the low end.

47,357. With the exception of the 10*l.*, is that all the money you had for your vote?—Yes.

47,358. Directly or indirectly through your wife, or in any way?—Yes.

47,359. Did you ever hand money to anyone else? No.

47,360. Did you promise any one?—No.

Richard Tarring sworn and examined.

R. Tarring.

47,361. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—A baker.

47,362. How long had you a vote for Totnes?—Since 1859.

47,363. Who did you vote for in 1859?—Mills and Gifford.

47,364. Who canvassed you?—I do not know.

47,365. Did John Elliott come to you?—No.

47,366. Did Samuel Parnell?—No.

47,367. What did you get for your vote then?—30*l.*

47,368. Who gave you that?—Samuel Parnell.

47,369. Did he tell you where he got it?—No.

47,370. When did he give it to you, before or after the election?—I think two days after.

47,371. Did he promise it to you before?—Yes.

47,372. Did the other side offer you anything?—Yes.

47,373. Who offered it?—Frederick Evens.

47,374. How much?—25*l.*

47,375. You preferred the 30*l.* to 25*l.*, and so voted for the Liberals?—No.

47,376. What was the reason that you voted for the Liberals?—I promised them first.

47,377. I suppose you thought free trade a good thing?—Yes.

47,378. In 1862, when Dent and Pender stood, whom did you vote for?—I did not vote at all.

47,379. Whom would you have voted for if there had been a contest?—Mr. Pender.

47,380. Did Dent's people try you?—No.

47,381. What did you get after the election?—Nothing whatever.

47,382. In 1863 whom did you vote for?—Mr. Dent.

47,383. You turned round then?—Yes.

47,384. You changed your free trade notions?—Yes.

47,385. What did you get?—50*l.*

47,386. Who gave you that?—Mr. Frederick Evens.

47,387. Did not Mr. Seymour ever try you?—No.

47,388. You got 50*l.* from Dent?—Yes.

47,389. You thought Pender a better man than Dent, and Dent better than Seymour?—I promised.

47,390. You got 50*l.* and then turned round in 1863?—Yes.

47,391. How did you vote in 1865?—One each way.

47,392. What did you get?—20*l.* from Mr. Pender.

47,393. What from the other side?—Nothing.

47,394. Did not you get 30*l.*?—No; only 20*l.*

47,395. Who paid you in 1865?—Mr. Harris.

47,396. Richard Harris?—Yes.

47,397. Did Richard Harris tell you where he got it?—I think he got it from Pengilley.

47,398. Did not he get it from Parnell?—No; I do not think he did.

47,399. Did you hear anything about Mr. Chaster?—No.

47,400. You only got 20*l.* on the last occasion?—Only 20*l.*

47,401. Altogether you have changed sides three times, and you have got for your vote 30*l.*, 50*l.*, and 20*l.*?—Yes; that is about it.

47,402. What are you now, Tory or Liberal?—In council I always go one on each side.

47,403. Did they pay on both sides?—No.

47,404. You never got anything for voting for the council?—No; nothing whatever.

47,405. Are you sure it was only 20*l.* you got last time?—Yes.

47,406. Then if there was 30*l.* put on one side for you last time, some one must have stuck to 10*l.* of it?—I suppose so.

47,407. Did your wife get anything for you?—No.

47,408. Besides this 100*l.* you got at those three elections, has your wife ever got anything?—No.

47,409. Nothing at all?—No.

47,410. What do you vote for?—A house in Fore Street.

47,411. Have you got any land?—No.

47,412. That is all you ever got at the elections?—Yes.

47,413. (Mr. Bere.) For any election at any time?—Yes.

47,414. Did you get anything for the council?—No; nothing whatever.

47,415. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you sign the requisition?—Yes, I did.

47,416. Is that in your handwriting (producing a paper to the witness)?—Yes.

47,417. Who asked you to sign it?—Mr. Harris.

47,418. Did not you expect, when you signed that, that you were to vote for the person for whom you signed it?—I told Mr. Harris I never would vote against Mr. Pender.

47,419. Because Mr. Pender had given you something?—I never had anything from Mr. Pender when I signed that letter.

47,420. When did you have any money from him last?—The last election.

47,421. What made you so fond of Mr. Pender?—I do not know.

47,422. Had he promised you anything?—Nothing whatever.

47,423. Nothing for yourself or children?—Nothing whatever.

47,424. (Mr. Bere.) Which Pengilley was it that paid Harris the money, do you know?—I think it was George Pengilley.

Richard Harris sworn and examined.

R. Harris.

47,425. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—A blacksmith.

47,426. Where do you live?—In Totnes, at a place called Collins's Corner.

47,427. Who is your landlord?—Mr. Michelmore.

47,428. Which Mr. Michelmore?—The carpenter and builder.

47,429. William Michelmore?—William, I think he is called.

47,430. Is he any relation to Mr. Jeffery Michelmore?—Yes.

47,431. Whom do you pay the rent to?—I pay Mr. Michelmore.

47,432. You pay your landlord?—My landlord.

47,433. Are you any relation of Mr. Robert Harris?—No.

47,434. How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—I voted in 1865 for the first time.

THIRTY-FOURTH DAY.

R. Harris.

27 Oct. 1866.

47,435. You never voted before ?—No.

47,436. For whom did you vote ?—Mr. Pender and Colonel Dawkins.

47,437. How much did you get then ?—20*l.*

47,438. From whom ?—George Pengilley.

47,439. Did you get anything from the other side too ?—No.

47,440. How did you come to split your vote ?—It is generally considered advisable in Totnes to please both parties. It is generally considered so here. I work for both sides.

47,441. Had you promised Colonel Dawkins ?—I had.

47,442. And Mr. Pender too ?—Yes.

47,443. Had you been offered some money by the Conservatives ?—Yes, I was.

47,444. Who offered it to you ?—Robert Harris.

47,445. How much did he offer you ?—150*l.* if I would vote for both of their men. I said I would not promise. I would not go from my word. I should always vote that way, one and one.

47,446. Did you tell George Pengilley if your vote was worth so much to the Conservatives, it was worth a trifle to Mr. Pender ?—Yes.

47,447. And did you ask him if he would get you some money ?—I met him on the nomination day, and we got talking on the election matters. Mr. Tarring and I had been talking the matter over, and we thought the others ought to make us a small present —that is, Mr. Pender. Pengilley said, "So he would "if you were to ask for it." I said, "I do not like to "trouble about it myself." He said he would get it for me. That is all that passed between us.

47,448. Did you mention your friend's name ?—Tarring ?

47,449. Yes ?—I did.

47,450. And did you say, if he could get 20*l.* between you, you would vote for Mr. Pender ?—Yes.

47,451. Did you get the 20*l.* ?—Yes.

47,452. For yourself, or between you ?—For myself.

47,453. And how much did he pay to Tarring ?—20*l.*

47,454. 40*l.* between you ?—Yes.

47,455. (Mr. Longe.) Why did you select Mr. Pender rather than Mr. Seymour ?—I thought he was the best gentleman for the town.

47,456. You thought you ought to have some money for refusing the Conservative offer ?—No. I should have voted the same if I had not received a penny, because I had promised not to go away from my word; I was offered money besides.

47,457. Who offered it to you ?—Mr. Andrew Sparke Distin.

47,458. The ironmonger ?—Yes.

47,459. Do you work for him, shoe his horses, or anything of that sort ?—No. He said, if I would vote for both of their men I should have any sum I liked to name. I said I would not go from my word for all they could give me.

47,460. You voted as you told us ?—I did.

47,461. Have you ever voted for the council ?—I did.

47,462. How did you vote then ?—I always voted two and two.

47,463. Always voted two and two ?—Yes, always, every time I voted.

47,464. Was that all the money you ever received ?—Yes.

47,465. Directly or indirectly ?—Yes.

47,466. What are your landlord's politics ?—Tory.

47,467. Did he ever say anything to you about your vote ?—He did when he altered my premises. I wanted the premises enlarged; I have a wife and six children, and I wanted some more bed-rooms, and I wanted them enlarged, and the shop as well, and I asked him to do so, and after some time he promised to do so, and I wanted a door put so as to save going all round the house to go upstairs. He said, "I do not like to "make this door for you, as it will give you a vote, "and you might go against me," and I said, "As "regards politics, I shall always vote one and one, "and that is my intention." He made this door, and I had to pay 2*l.* more a year for it; 11*l.* instead of 9*l.*

47,468. What did he say to you when you said you should vote one and one ?—He seemed satisfied.

47,469. What should you do if there was a single election here ?—I should remain neutral.

47,470. Not vote at all ?—Not vote at all. After the alterations were all made, I claimed a vote.

47,471. Was your vote objected to ?—Yes.

47,472. Who objected to it ?—The Liberals objected to me, because they thought I was under a Tory landlord. I supposed it was for that. When it was all done, Mr. Pender was unseated in London. Mr. Harris came to my shop door one night, and I said to him, "I should be ashamed if I were you to "go up to London, and your hands dyed so deep in "bribery as yours are." He said, "I shall have you "turned out of your house in twelve months." I said, "What authority have you to say that ? You have "not the power." He said, "You will see it will be "done," and I went to Mr. Michelmore to inquire whether he had authorized him to say so. I saw him, and he said, "I did not authorize him, but I shall see "you again upon that."

47,473. What quarter does your tenancy begin ?—Christmas.

47,474. Then you will not hear about it just at present. You did not hear anything about it last Midsummer ?—No.

47,475. Was it before Midsummer your landlord spoke to you about it ?—No; since then. I would not swear whether it was before Midsummer or after. I thought that was as good as a notice at the time, so I considered it.

47,476. When you said you would vote one and one, your landlord did not make any objection ?—No. When I was speaking to him about his authorizing Harris to say what he did, he said, "I did not autho-"rize him." I told him I should vote one and one, and he had forgotten that.

47,477. You have not received your notice yet ?—No.

W. Godfrey, jun.

WILLIAM GODFREY, jun., sworn and examined.

47,478. (Mr. Coleridge). What are you ?—A tailor.

47,479. When did you first have a vote for Totnes ?—About 1847.

47,480. Nearly 20 years ago ?—Yes.

47,481. Whom did you vote for then ?—Baldwin and Seymour.

47,482. You went one and one then ?—Yes.

47,483. Did you get anything for your vote ?—No.

47,484. Did you do anything in that election ?—No.

47,485. Did you take any part at all ?—None whatever.

47,486. Did you offer any money to anybody, or receive any yourself ?—No.

47,487. Were you promised any ?—No.

47,488. In 1852 how did you vote ?—That was Mills and Gifford ?

47,489. No. Mills, Baldwin, and Seymour ?—Mills and Seymour.

47,490. You voted for the two Liberals ?—Yes.

47,491. What made you do that ?—At the time I voted for Baldwin there was a sort of condition between Baldwin and Seymour. That was my first vote.

47,492. What did you get for voting in 1852 ?—Nothing.

47,493. Did you do anything in the election ?—No.

47,494. Did you canvass ?—No.

47,495. Did you get any money for your father's?—No.

47,496. What did your father get at that election?—Nothing.

47,497. What was the first election in which he voted?—Never at all.

47,498. How did you vote?—I always voted on the Liberal side.

47,499. You got nothing in 1857?—Yes.

47,500. Did you get anything in 1859?—No.

47,501. What did you do in 1862?—I always voted on the Liberal side.

47,502. Did you vote for Mr. Pender?—Yes.

47,503. I believe you were sent to one John Godfrey?—No.

47,504. Were not you?—Mr. Condy called at my shop to see my brother. My brother said the Liberal party owed him 4*l.* or 5*l.* for services rendered, and he called and asked me to see him. I did not go and see him.

47,505. You did not go to see him?—No.

47,506. What were you to go and do, talk to him about his vote?—My brother always used to be on the Liberal side, but he turned on the Tory side that time.

47,507. What did Mr. Condy want you to do?—He wanted me to go over to my brother at the "Seymour" to see if he could get the 4*l.* or 5*l.*

47,508. You did not go?—My father saw him.

47,509. Was your father a vote?—No. He never was a vote.

47,510. In 1863 how did you vote?—For Seymour.

47,511. What did you get at that election?—Nothing at all.

47,512. What did you get the last election?—Nothing.

47,513. Do you mean you never received a farthing in your life?—No.

47,514. Have you ever paid any one else?—No.

47,515. Have you ever been offered money?—No.

47,516. Do you know a man called John Tucker?—A butcher?

47,517. Yes. Do you remember saying one election, "Now is your time; do not be a fool; you can "have whatever you like if you vote our side"?—I do not recollect.

47,518. Did you say that?—I do not recollect it. If I did, it was only in a joke.

42,519. Will you swear you did not say it?—I cannot swear whether I did or did not. If I did, I had no authority to say it.

47,520. You knew money was about?—No; I did not know anything about it.

47,521. Did you go over to the "Seymour Arms"?—After the election.

47,522. And at the time of the election and before?—No.

47,523. Did your wife ever get anything at the election?—No.

47,524. I believe people come a good deal to your shop and gossip?—Yes.

47,525. Do you recollect many people coming into your shop and talking about the offer Mr. Pender is said to have made to Mr. Harris?—I dare say I have heard it.

47,526. Do you recollect its being said that the Liberal party would have nothing more to do with Mr. Pender if he carried it out?—I dare say I have heard that. I have no doubt I have heard that.

47,527. Can you recollect any one in particular who has said that?—No one in particular.

47,528. I believe when Mr. Pender was here one time he suddenly found he wanted a coat?—Yes.

47,529. And you made him one?—Yes; a dust coat.

47,530. Did you make him anything else?—No.

47,531. What did you charge him for it?—30*s.*

47,532. That is all you ever got out of him?—That is all. I wish to say my father is 80 years old, and he is not fit to be examined, and that is all he knows about the election.

47,533. Do you mean your father is one of the people in Totnes who never got anything for their votes?—He never voted.

ROBERT RYDER, senior, sworn and examined.

47,534. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—A painter.

47,535. Is your son a painter also?—Yes.

47,536. Does he work with you?—No; he is for himself.

47,537. And how long have you been a painter?—About 50 years.

47,538. Have you always had a vote for Totnes during that time?—Not all that time.

47,539. How long have you had a vote?—The first time I voted was for Mr. Mayne and Lord Seymour.

47,540. That was in 1834?—Yes.

47,541. Did you lose your vote then?—No.

47,542. Have you kept it ever since?—Yes.

47,543. Whom did you vote for at the last election in 1865?—I always voted for the Liberals.

47,544. How much money have you had for voting for the Liberals?—Never anything.

47,545. Never anything?—No; I am free of that habit.

47,546. Nor any one for you?—No.

47,547. And no advantage or favour?—No, nothing whatever.

47,548. Of any shape or kind?—No.

47,549. Have you ever tried to get other people to vote for the Liberals?—No, nothing of the kind. I am free of all that sort of thing.

47,550. Have you never had anything to do with trying to get a voter to vote for the Liberals?—No.

47,551. Now your son, is he Liberal always?—Yes.

47,552. Do you know of his having had anything to do with Samuel Hill?—I do not know of it.

47,553. Have you ever had anything to do with Samuel Hill?—No.

47,554. Are you quite sure about that?—Yes, quite sure.

47,555. Have you never had anything to do at any time with any voter at any election?—No.

47,556. You went and voted, and that was all you did?—That was all I did.

47,557. Did you always vote for both of the Liberals?—Always for the Liberals.

47,558. For both of them when there were two?—Yes, I have always been firm.

47,559. What do you mean by being firm?—I always voted according to my conscience.

47,560. Always voted for the Liberals?—Yes.

47,561. Did you go down to the "Seymour" at the elections at any time?—I have been.

47,562. Pretty often have not you?—At times.

47,563. When there was any eating and drinking going on, you went there and had your share of it?—Eating.

47,564. Well drinking?—Sometimes I paid for it.

47,565. It was not often that you paid for it?—Not often; sometimes I did.

47,566. As you have been a voter so long, do you remember the punch meetings the Conservatives used to get up?—There were so many punch meetings of the Conservatives; different meetings.

47,567. Were there not also some among the Liberals afterwards?—There were some among ourselves.

47,568. Did you ever go to some of them?—I do not know about punch meetings. I went to the beer and 'bacca club, and I am one of the Seventy-Third.

47,569. How many of that regiment are left?—Not a great many; they voted for their conscience.

47,570. (Mr. Bere.) What were their politics?—Liberal.

47,571. Can you tell us anything more?—No; if there is anything more, I am ready to come forward again.

THIRTY-FOURTH DAY.

R. Ryder, jun.

27 Oct. 1866.

ROBERT RYDER, junior, sworn and examined.

46,572. (Mr. Longe.) What is your trade?—A painter.

47,573. With your father?—No; by myself.

47,574. Now you are separate?—Yes.

47,575. Where do you live?—In Totnes.

47,576. Who is your landlord?—I believe Mrs. Lamb. Mr. Hannaford takes the rent.

47,577. Do you know what your landlady's politics are?—I do not know.

47,578. Do you know at all which way your landlady wishes you to vote?—No.

47,579. You were never told by your landlady?—No; Mr. Hannaford is a Tory.

47,580. Mr. Hannaford is a Tory?—Yes.

47,581. (Mr. Bere.) Is it not Mr. Theodore Hannaford?—No; he never interfered with my voting. I always did as I liked.

47,582. (Mr. Longe.) When did you first have a a vote?—In 1862, when Mr. Pender first came.

47,583. You gave it to Mr. Pender?—Mr. Pender came and asked me, and I gave him my vote.

47,584. Is Thomas Searle your father-in-law?—Yes.

47,585. Thomas Searle?—Yes, Thomas Searle.

47,586. Is it the old gentleman?—He is dead now.

47,587. (Mr. Bere.) It is not the gentleman we have had to-day?—No.

47,588. (Mr. Longe.) In 1859 Thomas Searle had a vote?—Yes, he had a vote.

47,589. Did he vote?—No, he did not.

47,590. Which way was he going to vote?—Why, if he had voted, he would have voted for the Tory party, because he was a firm man; he was a man who always voted for the Tories. It was no good for anybody to say this or the other; he would always vote according to his conscience.

47,591. You went to him on that occasion?—To my father-in-law?

47,592. Yes.—He lived in the same house.

47,593. Were you not asked by the Liberals to keep him from voting?—No, never.

47,594. You did prevail upon him not to go to the poll?—I never asked him. I never asked him how he was going to vote or when he was going to vote.

47,595. You took no part in endeavouring to get him to abstain?—No.

47,596. And you were not asked about it?—No; and I never asked him, because I knew it was useless for me to speak to him about it, as I knew he was a staunch voter.

47,597. In 1862 he voted for Mr. Pender?—No.

47,598. He did not vote?—No.

47,599. How did you manage that?—Because I was the renter of the house for several years.

47,600. You paid the rent?—Yes.

47,601. And you allowed him to stay on the rates?—Yes; and I had got friends on both sides among the Liberal party and the Tory party, and they all knew my politics. They never interfered with me one side or the other.

47,602. (Mr. Bere.) I want to know about your father. His name was on the rate book?—Yes.

47,603. What rent did you pay?—20*l.*

47,604. Was it because you were the occupier of the house he would not vote against you?—Yes. He knew I was Liberal.

47,605. Did you never ask him not to do so?—I never asked him the question.

47,606. Did you ever get the rent paid for that house?—Never at any time.

47,607. Did your father-in-law tell you that he would not vote?—He never said a word to me about it, and I never asked him.

47,608. Then how do you know what was the reason why he did not vote?—He told my wife, when a gentleman called for his vote, that he was not going to vote, and my wife told me afterwards that he was not going to vote; he did not say what was the reason, and I never asked my father-in-law how he was going to vote.

47,609. Did you hear it rumoured that you had been paid money for keeping him back?—I never heard any such thing.

47,610. And you were never asked by the Conservatives to keep him back?—No.

47,611. In 1862 you voted for Mr. Pender?—I did.

47,612. Were you canvassed by him?—He met me in the street, and asked me for my vote, and I said he should have it with great pleasure.

47,613. Were you canvassed by any one on the other side?—Yes. Mr. Dent called on me when I was at dinner, he and Mr. Edmonds and Mr. Kellock were together; I said I have promised my vote to Mr. Pender, and I cannot support you.

47,614. Did any one else come to you from the Conservative party?—No.

47,615. Was any offer of money ever made to you by any one of that party?—Not in 1862.

47,616. Did you get anything from the Liberal party after voting?—No.

47,617. Was any money offered to you?—Never.

47,618. In 1863 were you canvassed by Mr. Seymour?—I saw Mr. Seymour as I was working in the street; he canvassed me, and I said I shall support you because those are my principles.

47,619. Who was with Mr. Seymour?—I think Mr. Jeffery Michelmore and Mr. Cuming.

47,620. Were you again canvassed by Mr. Dent, do you remember?—I think Mr. Dent called at my shop, and my wife said I was out, or I was at work, and Mr. Edmonds said it was of no use calling me up, it was quite useless, they knew how I would vote.

47,621. Did any one on the Conservative side make you any offer in 1863?—That was Mr. Seymour's election. There was an offer made me, but not by any of the Tory party of Totnes, except that dirty fellow there, Harris; he is the fellow who did it; no one would have dared to insult me, either of the Tories or the Liberals, but Harris sent a man to me to offer me 50*l.*

47,622. Who was that?—He was a first cousin of my wife's, Thomas Searle, a builder at Torquay; he used to come over here every fortnight to Mr. Bryett's office for money, and Harris sent him to me.

47,623. That was before the election?—Yes.

47,624. And he offered you 50*l.*?—Yes.

47,625. What did you tell him?—I laughed at him, and said that 500*l.* would not buy me. I sent him away.

47,626. After the election of 1863 was anything sent you by the Liberals?—Not a farthing.

47,627. Were you ever asked to canvass by the Liberal party for them?—Never.

47,628. Were you ever sent by the Liberal party to any voters?—Never.

47,629. Or to convey any money to any one?—Never.

47,630. In 1865, whom did you vote for?—For Pender and Seymour.

47,631. Were you canvassed by them?—I do not think they asked me anything; they saw me in the street at work; I do not think they asked me for my vote.

47,632. Were you canvassed on the other side?—No one came to me at all; I often met them in the street, and they used to pass me without taking any notice of me.

47,633. Do you know Samuel Hill?—I do.

47,634. Does he live near to you?—Opposite me, across the street.

47,635. Was he a friend of yours?—No.

47,636. Was he an acquaintance?—That is all.

47,637. Did you call on him during the election of 1865?—I never saw him or knew anything about him except on the occasion when Mr. Kellock said I followed him.

47,638. At what election was this?—At the last election. I was standing at my door, and I saw Colonel Dawkins and Mr. Kellock coming down the street. They came nearly as far as my house when they met John Godfrey, and stopped him, and had some conversation with him. They went a little further on, and I said to a neighbour of mine, Samuel Sharpham, "I wonder where they are going "to." We went across the street and down the passage, and there we saw Colonel Dawkins and Mr. Thomas Kellock, and they asked me where Samuel Hill lived. I said, "It is up there, I will "call him down," and I never saw Hill afterwards.

47,639. Had you anything whatever to do with the way in which Hill voted?—Not in the least.

FREDERICK BOWDEN sworn and examined.

F. Bowden.

47,640. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—Since the election of 1863.

47,641. Whom did you vote for then?—For Mr. Seymour.

47,642. That was the first time when you had voted?—Yes.

47,643. Did any one canvass you?—Yes.

47,644. Who canvassed you then on behalf of Mr. Dent?—I really do not recollect now.

47,645. Try and see if you cannot remember who it was?—I have no recollection of it.

47,646. When they did come had you promised your vote to Mr. Seymour at that time?—I do not think I had.

47,647. What answer did you give to Mr. Dent's people?—I said that I could not vote for or support him.

47,648. Did you give any reason for not doing so?—I did.

47,649. What was your reason?—The reason was because the Conservative leader, Mr. Edmonds, some little time previously had caused my name to be struck off the register in consequence of an error in the copying of the rate.

47,650. Had your name been on the rate-book before that?—Yes, ever since the year 1842.

47,651. But you had not been a voter before?—I could have exercised my vote if I had liked.

47,652. Then what made you feel an anxiety to exercise your franchise all at once?—It was because the Conservatives had wished to deprive me of my vote by having my name struck off the register in the manner I have mentioned.

47,653. Then you wished to be able to get a vote, so that you might exercise your franchise in voting against them?—Yes.

47,654. Was that the only reason which you had?—That was the only reason I had at that time.

47,655. Is George Fitze your father-in-law?—Yes; the elder Mr. Fitze.

47,656. And is Mr. Fitze, who is sitting near to you, your brother-in-law?—Yes.

47,657. Have they ever exercised any influence over you in regard to your vote?—Not in the least. I think I can safely say to their credit that I have never been offered anything, directly or indirectly, by either party.

47,658. Have you ever got anything for voting?—No; not a penny.

47,659. Can you say whether your father-in-law ever got anything from the Liberal party on his own account?—Not that I am aware of.

47,660. Did he not get 10*l.* from some one of the charities?—Not in any way on account of the election; he was nominated as one of the recipients of the charity.

47,661. When was he nominated to that, can you tell us?—That would be some four or five years ago.

47,662. Had that nothing whatever to do with your voting for the Liberals?—Not the slightest. I have heard that Mr. Harris has insinuated that it had, but it certainly never had the slightest influence whatever over me. I did not see a single trustee upon the subject.

47,663. You have never had any money at any time for your vote?—No.

47,664. And have never offered any money to any one?—No, never.

47,665. What are you by trade?—A baker and confectioner.

Adjourned to Monday next at 10 o'clock.

THIRTY-FIFTH DAY.

THIRTY-FIFTH DAY.

W. Farley.

29 Oct. 1866.

Monday, 29th October 1866.

WILLIAM FARLEY sworn and examined.

47,666. (Mr. Bere.) Do you live at Bridgetown?—Yes.

47,667. Do you keep the "Exeter" inn?—No, the "Bridge" inn.

47,668. How long have you kept the "Bridge" inn?—28 years.

47,669. Whom does it belong to?—I am a leaseholder. I bought it 20 years ago on two lives; John Tork and Harry Tork. John Tork is dead and Harry is alive.

47,670. How long have you voted?—I always voted Liberal. I voted for the Duke of Somerset first.

47,671. When was the first time?—I think in the year 1837.

47,672. You have had a vote ever since?—Yes; it was the time that Mr. Parrott put up, and I voted for Mr. Seymour alone.

47,673. Whom did you vote for in 1859, when Mr. Dunn stood?—I voted for Mr. Mills, I believe, and Lord Gifford.

47,674. Did you get anything for that?—No, I did not; I had an offer.

47,675. Who offered you anything for that?—One of Mr. John Heath's sons, and a gentleman with him.

47,476. Which Mr. Heath was it?—One of his sons. I cannot tell. He came to my house, and asked if I would vote for Mr. Dunn, and I told him no, but I would vote on the other side, and they went away. Having an offer and taking it are two different things.

47,677. You did not take anything?—No.

47,678. Did you tell your own party you had had an offer?—No; I never had an offer on that side.

47,679. Did you tell your own party that you had an offer on the other side?—I cannot say whether I did or not. I may have said such a thing certainly, but I cannot say anything about that particularly. I do not look into it. I promised my vote, and I stuck to my tactics. I never changed, and I do not look after that, although I have had little presents I allow.

47,680. When did you have little presents?—John Elliott gave me a present.

47,681. When did he bring you that?—I believe just about Mr. Seymour's election.

47,682. Was that all that you ever had?—I had a present of 5*l.* for putting the name of Mr. Pender on the chair. He was carried up and down in my chair.

47,683. You had 5*l.* for that chair?—Yes.

47,684. Did you give him the chair the last time, or in 1862?—I have had the chair for the last 30 years, ever since the Duke of Somerset was carried.

47,685. Do you always have 5*l.* for it?—No.

47,686. (Mr. Coleridge.) How many 5*l.* have you had altogether?—I have had 10*l.* and 5*l.*

47,687. Was that all you had all your life for your vote?—I cannot say that. I had a gentleman who lodged with me, called Birch, and he used to write letters to different people; he was a wine merchant once. He lodged with me, and he owed me 5*l.*, and he said, "I have written to a member of Parliament "for a situation;" and I said, "If you can get a "present for me from Mr. Mills for voting three "times," and he says, "I will give you 5*l.*"; and he wrote to Mr. Mills for 20*l.*, which Mr. Mills sent a letter to go to Mr. Cuming for 20*l.*

47,688. Did you get the 20*l.* from Mr. Cuming?—Yes.

47,689. That is 10*l.*, and 20*l.*, and 5*l.*; what else have you had?—10*l.* from Earl Gifford.

47,690. That is two 10*l.*?—Yes.

47,691. No more fives nor tens?—No.

47,692. 45*l.* is all you had?—Yes.

47,693. No more?—No.

47,694. Was George Robins Stone your next door neighbour?—He lived next door to me before he was told to be off.

47,695. Did he come to you in 1863 and ask you to give a vote?—He never asked me the question in his life.

47,696. Did he not offer you 200*l.* to vote for Mr. Dent?—No.

47,697. Who did?—If I would go to Mr. Heath's house, they said if I voted for Dent I should have 200*l.* If I had worked for the Whigs and the Tories, and took money I could have had 300*l.* or 400*l.*, but I would not. When a gentleman comes and asks me for my vote I stick to him, and I would sooner lose my life than break my word.

47,698. Should you stick to him at the next election if he did not give you a present afterwards?—I had no present.

47,699. But would you stick to him at the next election if he had given you no present in the meantime?—If a gentleman comes to me and asks me, and I promise, I stick to him.

47,700. Would you stick to him if he gave you no present between the two elections?—Yes, I would vote for any man if I had given him my word. If they send me a present, well and good. I do not ask for it.

47,701. The present you received had no effect upon your vote?—After I have voted for a party I put the name on my chair, what the Duke of Somerset was carried in.

47,702. What do you think the chair is worth at an election? 5*l.* at every election?—No; that is too much for it.

47,703. What was the next sum of money you have got for the use of your chair at an election?—All the money I have told you.

47,704. That is the smallest sum?—20*l.*, 10*l.*, and 5*l.*

47,705. Twenty, two tens, and a five for the use of the chair?—That is right.

47,706. (Mr. Bere.) Did you see Samuel Heard during the last election?—I had nothing during the last election. The last election was badly managed. I say that this money was thrown away to a great many people, and I say it is wrong; they ought to give me 50*l.* from the Tory party and the Liberal party to keep the town safe, and not for people to come out at 2 or 3 o'clock in the morning, and break in my house, and break panes of glass.

47,707. Who did it?—The party going round the town, because there was only one party paid, the Tory party was paid, and the Whig party was not; but they ought to give 1*l.* a-piece for keeping the town safe, and not to have poor fellows' windows broken in the middle of the night. Ask the police. That is what I got at the last election.

47,708. I did not ask you what you got at the last election, I ask you whether you saw Samuel Heard at the last election?—Yes.

47,709. Did he come to your inn?—Yes.

47,710. Did he talk to you about Fox Green?—Not there.

47,711. Where did he talk to you about Fox Green?—He never said a word about Fox Green. He came in the morning. He was sent to me, and he said, "You and Screach cannot be turned out, and you "may as well come to the 'Seven Stars,' there is "money going away by hundreds;" and I said, "I "do not go to the 'Seven Stars' for a hundred. I "voted for Pender and Seymour before, and I have "promised my vote to them again." "Well," he says, "if you can come there you can have some-"thing." Then he jumps up, after sitting in my room, and he says, "I do not care which way I voted, "I am looking out for money." "Money!" says I, "I have no money to give you, my good fellow. I "know nothing about it. I have seen you before, "but you are never a customer coming to my house." And he says to me, "Damn!" He says I should go out of the house, and see Mr. Prout, the duke's clerk, and ask him for 150*l.*, and I should sit in my window to see him go into his house. That is what he swore in the House of Commons, and when he came to swear before you, he understood that Mr. Prout lodged at the higher end of Bridgetown, as he said here to you; and I was telegraphed to go up on the lies he told there; and he came here and told lies; and he said that I should go out of the house and go to John Elliott's house, and when we came there there was a man called Fox Green, and they were eating and drinking, and I should say they were eating and drinking, and that Mr. Prout was coming with a bag of gold.

47,712. He has not said so before us. What did he say?

47,713. Much what you have told us here to-day?—Prout is the man that he said about in the House of Commons. He said nothing about Fox Green nor Elliott.

47,714. He told us about Fox Green and Elliott much what you say; you say you did not get anything at the last election?—No.

47,715. You never went and asked for it the last time?—No.

47,716. Except what you have told us you had nothing for your vote?—No.

ROBERT TUCKER recalled and examined.

R. Tucker.

47,717. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you been interested in the elections at Totnes?—I have had very little to do with the elections at Totnes.

47,718. You have had something to do with them?—The registration courts at Totnes I attended for the Liberal interest from the time of the passing of the Reform Bill to 1860. In that year I was ill and was obliged to give up business. I have not attended an election at Totnes, except that I was over for about an hour at Mr. Pender's first election, for the last 20 years.

47,719. Before you ceased to be the advocate in the registration courts you were over here a good deal at the time of the elections?—I was not for 20 years with the exception of about an hour at Mr. Pender's first election.

47,720. Can you tell us at all how many Ashburton voters there were on the register for Totnes?—I cannot. I can give you a guess, that is all.

47,721. How many were there in 1865?—From 10 to 20.

47,722. Can you tell us how many of the Totnes voters are on the register for Ashburton?—I think four or five.

47,723. Mr. Jeffery Michelmore is a voter for Ashburton?—Yes, and his father was.

47,724. Do you know on what qualification he votes for Ashburton?—On an estate called Summerhill.

47,725. Is he a member of a company?—He is.

47,726. I believe you were the first person who suggested the formation of companies?—Quite the contrary.

47,727. Then the honour is not with you?—That honour does not rest with me. The Tories of Ashburton began it, and then the Liberals began, and went on for years until they carried the borough.

47,728. How long ago did they begin it for Ashburton?—In 1858, and we began in 1862.

47,729. Have you any notion what number of votes there are in Ashburton created in that manner?—By companies?

47,730. By companies?—On the register of 1865?

47,731. Yes?—Only one company; 29.

47,732. Were these Liberals or Conservatives?—All Liberals. There were a great many Conservatives. The Liberals had 29, and the Conservatives had I should think, though I am speaking at random, from 60 to 80.

47,733. What is the constituency of Ashburton?—Between 400 and 500; 430 last year.

47,734. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who had the honour of advising and assisting these companies on behalf of the Tories?—I believe John Tozer. The first company was formed on an estate called Preston, near Ashburton. I think those voters came on in 1859. A great number of estates were afterwards taken up on the Tory side until we found we must carry out the old Devonshire motto, that "A crooked knife must have "a crooked sheath," and at last we beat them.

47,735. (Mr. Bere.) Are there any voters at Ashburton who vote for "building and land"?—Yes.

47,736. Are those buildings giving the qualification erected on the land for the purpose of conferring the votes?—No doubt of it.

47,737. The constituency of Ashburton is similar in a good many ways to the constituency here?—It is so. The first building erected for the purpose of making a vote for Totnes belonged to a person whom no doubt you have heard of very much, the notorious Captain Cooke of Exeter. On his property the first building was erected. I afterwards purchased it, and it came into my hands.

47,738. How long ago was that, do you remember?—I think 20 years ago.

47,739. We have had it earlier than that here; the first building on which a vote was claimed?—I am speaking of buildings erected on purpose.

47,740. Do you remember when the first vote for "building and land" was claimed at Ashburton on an already erected building?—I think immediately after the Reform Act. A number of buildings were erected previously to the Reform Act. I am speaking of the first building erected purposely for the vote was on two fields belonging to Captain Cooke, which I afterwards bought.

47,741. There is one matter which we could not arrive at on Saturday: is there a Mr. Edward Sawdye a client of yours?—William Sawdye?

47,742. Did you have a bill against him for some professional services?—Yes, I had.

47,743. Can you remember the amount of the bill?—There was an action brought. I am speaking of three years ago.

47,744. It was about 35*l.*?—It is more than that. There was some action at law that he had, and he recovered costs against the party. Mr. Sawdye succeeded, and there was a balance of about 40*l.*

47,745. Was that paid to you by Mr. Henry Michelmore?—It was, certainly.

47,746. Can you remember whether it was paid in one sum or in more than one sum at two different times?—It was all paid together by Mr. Henry Michelmore. I think the three Mr. Michelmores were present.

47,747. Was it paid by a cheque?—I cannot remember.

47,748. Had you been asking Mr. Sawdye for the amount of his account?—Yes.

47,749. Had you been asking him for the amount between the times of Mr. Pender's election in 1862 and Mr. Seymour's election in 1863?—I do not remember the times.

47,750. December 1862 and January 1863?—I dare say about that time. In 1863 I think.

THIRTY-FIFTH DAY.

29 Oct. 1866.

R. Tucker.

47,751. Do you know when it was paid?—I do not.

47,752. Do you know that Sawdye knew it was paid?—I do not know; he was not present when it was paid.

47,753. He was not present?—No.

47,754. Mr. Jardine is the member for Ashburton now?—Yes.

47,755. He was elected without opposition, was he not?—Yes.

47,756. Did you and he come over here on the day of the election?—Not the day of the election, the day of nomination. I will tell you what he came there for if you please. Shall I tell you?

47,757. Certainly.—I am his agent, you are probably aware of that, and of course I am the party who day by day fixed out for him where he was to go to canvass the voters, who live at a considerable distance from each other. The constituency, although small, lies at a considerable distance round Ashburton, and it takes a long time to canvass the whole of them, and I think the Totnes nomination was on a Tuesday, and generally at night I used to tell him where to go; and I told him on the night before, on the Monday, that he should go on the road to Totnes and see the voters whom he had not then seen. Before that he had not the slightest idea of Totnes.

47,758. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was the Ashburton election after the Totnes election?—No. The Totnes election, I think I am right, was on a Tuesday, and the Ashburton nomination was on a Wednesday. The Ashburton nomination and the Ashburton election unopposed was on the same day as the Totnes election.

47,759. (Mr. Bere). There being no poll?—There being no poll.

47,760. Was that the only time Mr. Jardine ever came over to Totnes?—That is the only time in his life that he came over.

47,761. We have heard some money was brought over by you to Totnes?—I know that you have heard so.

47,762. Did you bring any?—Not one farthing.

47,763. As far as you know did Mr. Jardine bring any?—Most certainly not.

47,764. Have you any reason for suspecting that any money was passed over from Ashburton to Totnes?—Not the slightest in the world; in fact, I may say positively there never was one shilling brought to Totnes. It could not be brought without my knowledge. Perhaps you will allow me to say that Mr. Jardine did not know either candidate here, either Mr. Seymour or Mr. Pender, and he was introduced to Mr. Seymour and Mr. Pender at the "Seymour" hotel after the nomination. That was the first time.

47,765. (Mr. Coleridge.) Does Mr. Jardine belong to Brooks's or the Reform Club?—I do not think so. He is a very retiring man, and I do not think he would mix himself up with anything of the kind.

47,766. Do you know Mr. Abel Smith, the member for Falmouth?—Mr. John Abel Smith. He is the member for Chichester.

47,767. (Mr. Bere.) Has he any property in the county?—Who? Mr. John Abel Smith?

47,768. Yes.—None whatever.

47,769. Did you canvass yourself any voters for Totnes who were resident at Ashburton?—Do you mean canvass them for Totnes?

47,770. Yes.—No, never. I should tell you there was no necessity to canvass voters on the Liberal side for Totnes; they were all safe. Voters resident at Ashburton who were voters for Totnes were perfectly safe, and there was no need to canvass them. Of course men are fools if they do not take care of their interest.

47,771. (Mr. Coleridge.) They were all manufactured votes?—They were all manufactured votes.

47,772. I suppose Ashburton is within seven miles of Totnes?—Quite so, as the crow flies.

47,773. You got up the evidence on the petition when Mr. Brooking Cuming was ill?—Yes, I got up all the evidence for the petition; it was a matter of great pain to me, because, as I have told you, in 1860 I overworked my brain, and from that to the present time I cannot read or write, but I wrote all these notes myself and did myself a great deal of injury.

47,774. (Mr. Bere.) There is one examination which I think in fairness to yourself ought to be put into your hand that you may be asked about, because it is a matter that I think gave rise to a remark of mine?—I can explain that.

47,775. It is Mr. Parnell's evidence with regard to the receipt of money?—I think it is right that that should be explained. Will you allow me to ask you whether or not the evidence of Mr. Parnell, as it is in the statement I took in my handwriting, agrees with the evidence in the brief which Smith and De Gex made.

47,776. Take Parnell's evidence, which is in your writing, and the brief which Smith and De Gex made of it, and compare them?—I think this evidence has been altered.

47,777. You will see first of all the name of Mr. Chaster is given as the person he received that money from?—I may, perhaps, give you shortly what is the fact. I took Parnell's evidence twice. The first time I took it he told me that he had the money from Mr. Chaster. He says here, "I borrowed all "the money I had from Mr. Chaster on an I.O.U., "and I am liable to repay it."

47,778. That was his first statement to you?—That was his first statement to me, and that has been altered; it has been struck out by me, and the word "altered" has been written in the margin. I will tell you why that was done. Day by day I took this evidence at Totnes, and day by day as I took it I sent it on to Smith and De Gex, who were the London agents. Well, Parnell's evidence was sent on as having received money from Mr. Chaster, and either the next day or the next time I came to Totnes I either sent for or saw Mr. Chaster, and said, "I "must take your evidence, because I find you have "given some money to Parnell." He says, "It is "utterly untrue, I have not given any money to a voter "at all." I said, "It is nonsense; Parnell says he "had money from you, and gave you an I.O.U." He said, "There is not a single word of truth in it; "I never gave Parnell a single shilling." I said, "It is very extraordinary, I must send for Parnell "again;" and I sent for him and told him that Mr. Chaster denied his having had any money from him at all; and he said, "Well, I did not have the "money from Mr. Chaster." I said, "Where did you "get the money?" He said, "The money was my own." This is what he said:—"I was actuated by a wish to "benefit the Liberal cause, as the Tories were bribing "so highly. That is true; I told you wrong before. "I did not have the money from Mr. Chaster; the "money I advanced to the parties was my own "money." Then I have altered that, and the reason of my altering that was this, that I had the evidence re-copied; first, as he gave it to me, saying that he had the money from Mr. Chaster; secondly, as he gave it to me, saying that he had advanced it out of his own pocket. I put that down in red ink with the word "altered" written in the margin, so that I might draw Smith and De Gex's attention to it; then I wrote them a letter drawing their attention to the altered evidence, and begging them to take care before the brief was given to counsel to have that altered.

47,779. Did Parnell ever tell you that he had had the money from Mr. Windeatt?—No; as the agent down here I was anxious to ascertain if any act of bribery could be brought home to the sitting members or their agents, and I was desirous of making out the best case that I could for counsel. Then I asked this man Parnell this question:—"Did you get any money from "either of the members or from Mr. Windeatt, or "from Mr. Michelmore?" His answer was, "I had "no money at all from either of the members, or

" from Mr. Windeatt, or from Mr. Michelmore; I " had no authority from either of the members, or " from Mr. Windeatt, or from Mr. Michelmore, to " give money to any one." When I found out that he had stated that which was untrue in his story as to having had the money from Mr. Chaster, I asked him whether he had received any money from either of the members, or from Mr. Windeatt, or Mr. Michelmore. His answer was, that he had never had a shilling from either of them.

47,780. That letter has your signature to it (handing a letter to the witness)?—Yes.

47,781. Was that a letter written by your direction to Messrs. Travers Smith and De Gex?—It is; I do not write my own letters; it is my signature.

47,782. You will see in the third page there are these words: "I also send you under the same cover " additional evidence as to Parnell's statement of " having had money from Mr. Chaster. See that his " evidence is re-copied. Please substitute that for his " former evidence." Now if you look at Messrs. Travers Smith and De Gex's brief you will see that no alteration has been made in that?—Not the slightest.

47,783. It remains in Mr. Travers Smith's brief as if Parnell had stated that Mr. Chaster had given him the money?—It is stated here exactly as I sent it up to them in the first instance, so that it is perfectly clear that they paid no attention to my letter; but that I am not in the least surprised at; I found that they had such a mass of business going on at that time that it was quite useless my saying anything about it. I did not get an answer to one letter that I wrote out of 10. I think Mr. Chaster mentioned to me on the last occasion when I was here something about this. He said he had been told that Parnell had said he had lent money to him, and had got his I. O. U.; that that was untrue. I told him that could not be so. He replied that it had been read here from the counsel's brief; then I told him if that were so Messrs. Smith and De Gex had not altered it as I requested them.

47,784. (Mr. Coleridge.) Which of the firm attended personally to the Totnes petition?—I did not know Mr. De Gex; I only saw Mr. Travers Smith; he always attended to the matter. I think they had the Nottingham petition on about the same time and were much occupied.

47,785. (Mr. Bere.) Are any of the memoranda in the margin of this paper Mr. Smith's memoranda?—No, Mr. Smith never had that paper; it was always kept in my own possession. I came over here in the morning and went back in the evening, and what I did one day was copied out during the next day.

47,786. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were your memoranda sent away at the same time as your notes were sent away?—No, I think not.

47,787. How many of these memoranda do you think were embodied in the proof that you prepared?—Will you say what memoranda you mean?

47,788. Mr. Travers Smith had all your memoranda as well as the evidence?—He had every information I could give him.

47,789. (Mr. Bere.) Will you look at that letter? It is only the last paragraph of it. That is a letter written by John Abel Smith?—Yes, I will explain that to you.

47,790. Read the paragraph?—" I saw the Duke " of Somerset last night and he will write to-day to " Michelmore." I will explain that. I wrote to Mr. John Abel Smith to ask him to call upon the duke, as Mr. Jardine was a candidate for Ashburton.

47,791. What had John Abel Smith to do with it?—He was a great friend of Mr. Jardine's.

47,792. Nothing else?—Oh, yes, he had to do with Ashburton. Mr. Jardine's uncle was a member for Ashburton in 1847, and John Abel Smith introduced his uncle; otherwise he was not lately connected with Ashburton.

47,793. Are many of Lord Cranstoun's tenants voters for Ashburton?—Yes, several.

47,794. The same people who are voters for Ashburton, are they voters for Totnes?—Some of them are. Because Lord Cranstoun has tenants in Widdicombe and Buckland, near the moors.

47,795. Can you tell us whether Lord Cranstoun's influence was used with regard to the Totnes election?—No, the contrary.

47,796. Did he turn round much before the election?—Yes, we suspected him to turn round six months before. I could tell the reason, but I would rather not. He did turn round, and he did everything to get his tenants to vote against their own party; but I am proud to say they stood against the influence.

47,797. They were more afraid of Mr. Michelmore than Lord Cranstoun?—No, neither.

47,798. (Mr. Coleridge.) You say Lord Cranstoun's influence depended on the votes of the companies?—No, Lord Cranstoun's were all bonâ fide tenants.

47,799. Mr. Smith says, "I presume I may conclude " by what I read of the judgment in the Totnes case, " to which you drew my attention, that the system of " farm or company votes is finally and completely ex- " tinguished. A great portion of Lord Cranstoun's " power and influence dies with it"?—It is written after the judgment, and if the objection had been to Ashburton as to Totnes, we must have lost the election.

47,800. I ask you how Lord Cranstoun's influence was affected by the striking off of the votes, assuming them to have been struck off?—Lord Cranstoun's influence was not in companies at all; it was wholly in building and land. The Court of Common Pleas had two cases before them; one a case of companies, in which the revising barrister decided in favour of the company, and the Court of Common Pleas reversed the decision, and decided against the company; another was a case of building and land, in which the revising barrister decided against the building and land, and the Court of Common Pleas decided that building and land was a good vote; and Lord Cranstoun's was building and land.

47,801. If the revising barrister thought it of sufficient value?—Yes; Lord Cranstoun's were bonâ fide voters not made for the purpose. They rent the land and occupy it.

47,802. (Mr. Bere.) Take those vouchers and look through them, and tell me whether there is any person who has given any of those papers who is a voter for Totnes?—No.

47,803. There is one name there, the first name, that is the name of a voter for Totnes?—Yes, but that is not the same man; decidedly not.

47,804. Have you been interested in the election at Dartmouth at all?—Yes.

47,805. Is the constituency of Dartmouth much the same as Ashburton and Totnes?—Yes, a number of persons vote upon building and land, and at Dartmouth it is a bad system and ought to be done away with.

47,806. Were you the original communication that acted between the Liberals in this district and the party in London?—About what?

47,807. As to any matters to be discussed.—No.

47,808. Not as the head of the party?—No, I have been round the country managing the county registration. I did not communicate with the London men. I do not like them at all.

47,809. (Mr. Longe.) With regard to building and land, do you find, generally speaking, that the landlord is able to get the number of tenants to take them and to get other people to put their cattle in them?—If I had 50 other fields to let at Ashburton to-morrow, I could get them at once, and they would feel themselves under an obligation, and our men like to have a change for the cattle.

47,810. Independent of the vote?—Yes.

47,811. (Mr. Coleridge.) It is considered a favour to get one here?—The cattle cannot live three or four years on the moors, the granite soil will not allow it.

47,812. (Mr. Bere.) Mr. Jardine has requested us to defer his examination till we get to London, and it may be necessary to require your presence there?—I shall be most happy, and I must thank you for the courtesy with which you have treated me.

THIRTY-FIFTH DAY.

R. Tucker.

47,813. (Mr. Bere.) There is one question I ought to ask you. There is a letter among your letters from Mr. Haydon asking you for payment, because he came over here to visit a man named John Light?—Yes, he came over with Light, and I can explain that. Mr. Haydon is a surgeon at Berry Castle and a voter for Ashburton, and Mr. Light is a voter for Totnes. Light is a schoolmaster and a voter for Totnes, and Mr. Haydon came from Ashburton to Totnes to be present when Light polled.

47,814. Did you pay Mr. Haydon what he demanded?—I do not know that he took anything.

47,815. He asks you in his letter for payment of 1*l.* 13*s.* 6*d.* for going to Totnes?—He never had a penny from me.

J. Mitchell.

JOHN MITCHELL sworn and examined.

47,816. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you a vote for Totnes?—Yes.

47,817. How long have you had it?—I had got it from the first passing of the Reform Bill.

47,818. For the last 20 years we may say?—I do not remember the first time I voted.

47,819. Which way do you generally vote?—I vote for the Liberals.

47,820. Always?—Yes.

47,821. You always have?—Those are my principles.

47,822. Have you ever worked at all for the Liberals in the way of canvassing?—Never. I never went about canvassing, but I went to see a friend.

47,823. When you had a friend over whom you had an influence you went and talked to him?—Yes.

47,824. Do you remember talking to a man named Gillham at Mr. Pender's first election?—I remember that he committed the greatest perjury a man ever committed.

47,825. Will you answer my question? Did you talk to a man of the name of Gillham at that election of 1862?—I did; in fact, he talked to me.

47,826. What was the purport of the conversation?—The purport of the conversation was, I was going over the Totnes bridge the night before the election, that was the evening of the nomination.

47,827. That was Mr. Pender's election?—Yes. And he came and rambled up pretty well drunk about eight or nine o'clock, I suppose, when the game was finished and over, and there was no money to be had, he comes up to me and offered himself to vote for Mr. Pender if I could get him 200*l.*, and he offered two others.

47,828. Who were the other two?—I did not ask him.

47,829. He offered to vote for Mr. Pender, provided you could get him 200*l.*?—Yes.

47,830. Is your name John?—Yes.

47,831. What did you say to him?—I told him I would not have anything to do with it; I never had had anything to do with such a thing in my life.

47,832. Did you tell him whom to go to?—No; I never said a word to him of the sort.

47,833. That is all that took place?—Yes, everything that took place. There was nothing more. I went into the large room of the "Seymour," and told them, "The game is up. Dent is not going to stand." They said, "Where did you hear that?" "Because," I said in the public room, "Tom Gillham has offered "himself, like you yourselves, for so much money."

47,834. About what time was that?—About 9 o'clock. He sent in his resignation about two hours afterwards.

47,835. You thought it was all up because Gillham came to you?—Yes.

47,836. Had Gillham always voted the other side?—Always.

47,837. And always been paid?—Yes.

47,838. Did he say anything when you said you would not have anything to do with giving him the 200*l.*? Did he say he should go the other side?—He did not say anything at all.

47,839. He merely went off?—Yes.

47,840. In 1863, the next election, did Gillham again come to you, and ask you to do anything for him in the "Seymour" election?—No.

47,841. Did you never speak to him about the 1863 election?—Never. I never said a word to him about it.

47,842. In the 1863 election did you say anything to any other voter, or did any other voter say anything to you about money in 1863?—No.

47,843. None at all?—No. It was no use for them to do so.

47,844. Now, at the last election, in 1865, did anybody talk to you?—No.

47,845. Did Gillham come and talk to you?—No.

47,846. Were you on the committee?—No; I gave my independent vote without being biassed; in fact I never was at a public meeting at the last election at all.

47,847. Are you not one of what are called the independent voters, or one of the duke's men?—An independent one, quite independent.

47,848. What do you vote upon?—In fact I have two votes, I vote for the house I live in Bridgetown.

47,849. Is that one of the duke's houses?—It is my own house, or the lease is.

47,850. Who is the landlord of it?—The duke.

47,851. Is your other vote on a house and buildings?—On a cellar.

47,852. Where is that?—That is also in Bridgetown.

47,853. Did Mr. John Symons also rent the stores with you?—Yes, he did.

47,854. How long has he given them up?—He still rents them.

47,855. Have you given them up?—Yes.

47,856. Where does Mr. Symons live?—At Buckfastleigh.

47,857. He voted for the Liberals last election?—Yes.

47,858. Do you know whether he ever said he should not vote for the Liberals?—I do not recollect that.

47,859. Had not you a little to do with getting his vote?—Very likely I had.

47,860. How did you manage that?—I managed it by conversation with him. I pointed out the fallacy of what other people had told him.

47,861. What had other people told him?—That the duke wanted to grasp the whole seat; only let them have one and the duke the other they would be very well satisfied.

47,862. That was all?—Yes.

47,863. Did you not suggest that supposing he did vote for the Conservatives you might get turned out of your stores?—Never. They would not turn me out of the stores.

47,864. Would not they have done so if you had not kept your partner straight?—Certainly not.

47,865. What is the value of your stores?—30*l.* a year.

47,866. In what year did you take them?—That I do not know.

47,867. Have you got a lease, or are you a tenant from year to year?—From year to year. The present holder was always opposed to it.

47,868. Who is that, Mr. Winter?—His name is Bearnes.

47,869. Has he got a lease?—No.

47,870. (Mr. Harris.) He is not a voter. That is a brother.

(The Witness.) Thomas is the voter upon that.

47,871. (Mr. Harris.) He votes upon the field.

(The Witness.) I do not think the court ought to allow such a vagabond as that to interfere.

47,872. (Mr. Bere.) We must beg of you not to use such language here.

47,873. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have Thomas and John Bearnes both got votes?—No.

47,874. Who has a vote?—I think the present holder.

47,875. Do you know whether he is upon the register at the present moment?—No.

47,876. Then you are speaking about what you do not know?—It is very unlikely. His brother Thomas has got a vote.

George Field sworn and examined. G. Field.

47,877. (Mr. Bere.) You are a tenant of the duke's, are you?—Yes.

47,878. How long have you been a tenant?—Twenty-one years, I think.

47,879. Twenty-one years?—Near about that.

47,880. What do you vote on?—House and fields.

47,881. What is the value of the house?—6l.

47,882. What is the value of the field?—5l. 10*s.*

47,883. Did you ever get any of your rent handed back to you?—No.

47,884. Do you pay rates and taxes?—I do.

47,885. Have you been a voter ever since you have been a tenant of the duke's?—Yes, and before.

47,886. Where were you living before?—The "Crown and Anchor" for four years, and the "Bell" inn for five.

47,887. Have you always voted for the Liberals?—Yes.

47,888. Have you ever had any money for voting for the Liberals?—No.

47,889. Not a little present?—I know all about it. I never had any present.

47,890. Did you have any money at all after the election or during the election from Mr. Michelmore?—Never in my life.

47,891. From anybody?—None of the party.

47,892. What are you?—A gardener.

47,893. You work on the duke's property?—Yes.

47,894. Where do you work?—In the shrubbery ground at the castle.

47,895. You are in the actual service of the duke himself?—Yes.

47,896. Have you ever had your wages a little increased after an election?—Not a farthing. I never had any remuneration at all.

47,897. Do you imagine that if you vote for the Conservatives you would still look after the shrubs at the castle?—No doubt of it.

47,898. You believe that?—I do believe it.

47,899. I understand you to say that neither directly nor indirectly have you ever received any money for your vote?—No.

47,900. At any time, at any election?—At no time, at no election.

James Mitchell sworn and examined. J. Mitchell.

47,901. (Mr. Longe.) Where do you live?—Bridgetown.

47,902. Is the house your own?—For the present it is; a lease on lives.

47,903. It is leased to you?—Yes.

47,904. How long have you lived in it?—I have lived in it ever since 1830.

47,905. Did you have a vote for that house?—Yes.

47,906. You voted at all the elections?—Yes, at all the elections.

47,907. Have you always voted on the same side?—I generally vote one on each side. The first time I voted was for Lord Borington.

47,908. He was a Conservative?—Yes.

47,909. You generally voted one on each side?—Yes.

47,910. What is your trade?—Tin-plate worker.

47,911. As a tradesman do you find that it suits your business better to vote on both sides? What is the reason for your voting on both sides?—Well, I do not wish to displease either party.

47,912. To benefit the country?—I did it because it should not injure me.

47,913. You find it necessary in Totnes?—Quite so.

47,914. Are you employed by the duke's agents?—Not at all.

47,915. But you have customers who are Liberals and customers who are Conservatives?—Quite so.

47,916. You are canvassed for your vote I suppose at each election?—Yes, I was canvassed on both sides.

47,917. Take the last election. Whom were you canvassed by for the Conservatives?—Mr. Pender called on me several times, canvassed me himself.

47,918. You did not promise your vote when he called?—No, not at all.

47,919. What did you tell him?—I told him I could not promise him, and he appeared quite satisfied from what I stated to him.

47,920. And he called on you several times?—Yes.

47,921. Did he ever hold out any inducement to you?—None whatever.

47,922. I do not mean to say directly in the money way?—Never in my life.

47,923. Did any one?—No one.

47,924. On behalf of Mr. Pender?—No one.

47,925. Did you promise ultimately your vote to Mr. Pender?—No.

47,926. You voted for Mr. Pender at the last election?—No.

47,927. You voted for Mr. Seymour?—Seymour and Dawkins.

47,928. Did you promise your vote to Mr. Seymour?—Yes.

47,929. When he first called?—Yes, I had voted for him before.

47,930. And you promised when he first called?—Yes.

47,931. Who called upon you for Colonel Dawkins?—Col. Dawkins called on me himself and so did Commander Pim. They all called on me.

47,932. Was any offer made to you by the Conservatives?—None whatever.

47,933. No one called on you on behalf of the Conservatives, and offered you money in any way?—If they had done such things I should vote against them directly on that account.

47,934. You never have had any present of any kind in respect of your vote?—None whatever.

47,935. Have you ever taken part?—Never a farthing.

47,936. Have you ever taken part in giving money to any one else?—No one. I wish everybody voted as I do, and then they would be returned free.

47,937. Is George Randle Mitchell a son of yours?—Yes.

47,938. Did he persuade you to vote for Seymour the last time?—I do not know that he did.

47,939. Did not he?—He just called over on me on the morning of the election, and says, "Father, how "are you going to vote?" "I shall plump for Seymour," I told him, and I did so.

47,940. (Mr. Coleridge.) What made you plump for Mr. Seymour?—I thought they were going to run pretty tight, and I went against the Tories on that account. If I had voted for Mr. Pender I should say I voted against the Tory party.

47,941. You would rather vote one for Seymour and one for Dawkins, but you would rather Seymour came in?—Yes. I think the Seymour interest have a greater claim to the borough than any stranger.

47,942. You did not know that the duke had given

THIRTY-FIFTH DAY.

J. Mitchell.

up his interest in the borough at that time ?—He has not. I do not think he has given up the interest in the borough.

47,943. We have heard since that he gave that up in 1864 ?—I do not see it myself.

47,944. (Mr. Bere.) Did not Mr. Brooking Cuming canvass you ?—I think he did.

47,945. When was that ?—1862.

47,946. Was that with Mr. Pender ?—Yes, I think he did.

47,947. Or was it Mr. Dunn's election ? Do you remember anything about that ?—I voted for Dunn.

47,948. And Lord Gifford, did not you ?—Yes, Lord Gifford.

47,949. Did not Mr. Brooking Cuming come to you then, and ask you to vote for Mr. Mills ?—Yes.

47,950. Did not he say he could do you a good turn if you did vote for Mills ?—I voted against Mills.

47,951. Did not Mr. Brooking Cuming try to get you to vote for Mills ?—No doubt about it.

47,952. Did not he offer you money ?—He never offered a shilling to me in my life.

47,953. Did not George Evens offer you at that election 30*l.* ?—Evens never called on me. I never saw George Evens on such a matter in my life. It must be another person.

G. Parrott.

GEORGE PARROTT called and sworn.

47,954. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live ?—At Weston.

47,955. That is not very far ?—No.

47,956. Whose house do you live in ?—The duke's.

47,957. How much do you rent of him ?—I hold a large estate of him.

47,958. What did you vote on ?—Building and land.

47,959. Where ?—Spark Hays.

47,960. What is the value of the land ?—20*l.* a year.

47,961. How long have you voted ?—Since 1859.

47,962. Have you voted for the Liberals every time ?—Yes.

47,963. How much have you had for voting for them ?—I am against all that.

47,964. But you have had a good deal to do with handing money to other people ?—Well, I did once, and that is all.

47,965. Only once ?—Only once.

47,966. When was that ?—The last election, to Thomas Pack, my own workman.

47,967. How much ?—I did not count it. I was told it was 40*l.*

47,968. Where did you get it from ?—From Samuel Parnell at the "Seymour" hotel.

47,969. Did you find it in a room ?—He gave it to me.

47,970. Was it notes or gold ?—Notes.

47,971. Is that the only time you ever had anything to do with an election in the way of paying money ?—Yes. I would not have done it then except to oblige old Mr. Michelmore.

47,972. Did old Mr. Michelmore ask you ?—Yes.

47,973. I suppose Pack's vote was not quite safe ?—Yes.

47,974. What did Mr. Michelmore give you 40*l.* for Pack ?—Because he had been very badly treated, so Pack told him.

47,975. Did you go up to London about the petition ?—No.

47,976. Is William Perrott a relation of yours ?—No relation.

47,977. Is that the only occasion you had anything to do with it ?—That is the only occasion I had anything to do with it, and I said I would never have anything more to do with such a matter.

47,978. Who votes besides you on that field ?—My uncle.

47,979. What is his name ?—John Searle.

47,980. Does he ever occupy the land ?—Yes, joint occupier.

47,981. Does he ever put any cattle on it ?—It is all ours.

47,982. How many head of cattle has he put on in the last year ?—It is the estate and the field altogether.

47,983. Does he live with you ?—Yes.

47,984. You took the estate and field jointly ?—Yes; joint occupation.

47,985. You are the persons to whom Mr. Michelmore alluded, the uncle and nephew farming jointly ?—Yes.

47,986. What is the value of your estate altogether ?—Between 500*l.* and 600*l.* altogether.

47,987. (Mr. Longe.) Is Westaway in your employ ?—No.

47,988. Do not you know the name ?—No.

47,989. Do not you know any one of the name of Westaway ?—No.

47,990. Do you remember a municipal election when one of your labourers voted for the other side and you afterwards turned him off ?—I did not turn him off.

47,991. You remember the case I allude to ?—I do. It was a man of the name of Westaway; he came to me the next morning; he has not worked for us for a great number of years.

47,992. You had a man of that name working for you once ?—Yes.

47,993. When was that ?—10 or 12 years ago.

47,994. Did he vote against the Liberal party at one of the municipal elections ?—He did; he voted as he liked.

47,995. After that was he turned off ?—No; he took himself off.

47,996. Was there a dispute between you and him as to his vote ?—No; I never said a word to him about it or to my uncle.

47,997. What reason did he give you for leaving your service ?—He said, "I shall take myself off, I "have been offered a better house of work." He said he could get more wages than he got with me.

47,998. Did he leave his house ?—I do not know; he said he could get better work and more wages as a gardener. I believe the Conservative party promised him that the day he voted.

J. B. Prout.

J. B. PROUT recalled.

47,999. (Mr. Bere.) Are the entries in the book before me in your handwriting ?—No.

48,000. Whose are they ?—Mr. Callard's.

48,001. Are you sure of that ?—Yes.

48,002. Do you know anything about this erasure ?—No.

48,003. Show me where it is your handwriting ?—That is it (pointing to the book).

48,004. Had you anything to do in the election of 1865 with a man of the name of Paddon ?—Yes, I went to Dartmouth to see him.

48,005. And did you give him 50*l.* ?—No, I never spoke to him about money.

48,006. Who was he ?—He was the station master there.

48,007. You did not offer him any money ?—No.

48,008. But do you know that he got money ?—I do not know that he got any money; he might have done so. I do not know that he did.

48,009. Then what was it made you go and see him ?—I went to ask him if he would vote for Pender and Seymour.

J. B. Prout.

48,010. Had he not been canvassed before by some one?—That I do not know. Mr. Windeatt asked me to go and see him, and I did.

48,011. Had not Mr. Jenkins canvassed him before?—That I do not know. He told me that he did not think he should vote for Mr. Seymour; but that he had made up his mind to vote for Mr. Pender.

48,012. Do you know which way he did vote eventually?—I really cannot tell you that. He showed me a letter which he had had from Mr. Harris.

48,013. A letter about what?—Threatening him with imprisonment if he voted for us.

48,014. The usual letter you mean?—Yes.

48,015. We see that he voted for Mr. Pender and not for Mr. Seymour. What was his qualification?—He lived in a house at Bridgetown.

48,016. Do you mean that he lived at Bridgetown and was the station master at Dartmouth?—He had but just left his house; he had a vote.

48,017. The letter which you have referred to was a letter which Mr. Harris wrote to all the voters, saying they would commit a misdemeanor if they voted in such and such a way?—I think the letter stated that they might vote for the Conservatives, but threatened them with imprisonment if they voted for us.

48,018. We have seen the letter. It is the usual letter?—I think it was something to that effect.

48,019. In 1863 did you go to see Robert Lake a good many times?—I did, several times.

48,020. Did you canvass him?—Yes.

48,021. Did you ever inquire how much he would take for his vote?—I never mentioned a farthing to him.

48,022. Did you intimate to him that a little money might be had?—No.

48,023. What made you go to him more than once?—He did not come until the day of the nomination, and I was getting rather timid as to his vote.

48,024. And you went to see him?—Yes.

48,025. In what temper did you find him?—I found that he was rather shaky.

48,026. What did he say?—That he was going to vote for Mr. Seymour and would not go from his word. I went again in the morning and I saw his wife; she said, he is gone; he is going to vote for Mr. Dent; he had gone away before I got there. I never mentioned to him anything about money I assure you.

48,027. You have ceased to be Mr. Henry Michelmore's clerk these six months?—About that.

James Paddon sworn and examined.

J. Paddon.

48,028. (Mr. Bere.) You are the station master at Dartmouth?—Yes, and at Kingsweir as well.

48,029. How far is Dartmouth from Totnes?—A little more than seven miles.

48,030. Is it not more than that?—It is by the river.

48,031. Have you ever had the distance measured, on the ordnance map?—No.

48,032. You voted for Mr. Pender at the last election?—Yes.

48,033. And for Mr. Pender only?—For Mr. Pender only.

48,034. Was that the first time you had voted?—Yes.

48,035. You remember Mr. Prout coming to canvass you for Mr. Seymour?—Yes.

48,036. Did he mention to you any money that you might have if you did vote for Mr. Seymour?—None whatever.

48,037. You received a letter from Mr. Harris?—I did.

48,038. Did any one come to you from the Conservative party?—Yes.

48,039. Who was it?—Mr. Percy Hockins, the solicitor, of Dartmouth.

48,040. Did he hold out any inducement to you to vote for the Conservatives?—None whatever.

48,041. But merely asked you for your vote?—He merely asked me, as any gentleman would do, if I would give Colonel Dawkins a vote. He knew that I belonged to the other side, but said that he would take it as a favour if I would give Colonel Dawkins a vote.

48,042. Did Mr. Jenkins canvass you?—No.

48,043. Not at the station at Newton Abbott?—No.

48,044. Do you know Mr. Jenkins?—Yes, I do.

48,045. Did you not see him at the station at Newton?—No, I did not; I saw him at the station at Kingsweir.

48,046. Did he say anything to you?—He said, I suppose you will come up all right.

48,047. You did not get any money or receive any advantage for voting for Mr. Pender?—None whatever.

48,048. Did you ever offer money to any one?—No.

48,049. Neither directly or indirectly have you received any advantage for voting for Mr. Pender?—None whatever.

48,050. Is Mr. Haines the chairman of your railway company?—No, Mr. Woolcombe.

48,051. Is your line leased to the South Devon Railway Company?—Yes.

William Hodge sworn and examined.

W. Hodge.

48,052. (Mr. Coleridge.) Where do you live?—At Berry Lodge.

48,053. How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—Since 1862.

48,054. Who did you vote for in 1862?—For Mr. Pender.

48,055. And in 1863 for Mr. Seymour?—Yes.

48,056. And in 1865 for Pender and Seymour?—Yes.

48,057. Did you get anything for your vote?—Nothing.

48,058. Or did you yourself give any one any money?—No, none whatever.

48,059. You are one of what have been called the made votes?—Not at all; I have a field where I keep my own cattle.

48,060. Do you live in Totnes?—No, I live at Berry Lodge. I am the woodman to the Duke of Somerset.

48,061. What is the value of the land and buildings which you hold?—10*l.* a year.

48,062. And do you keep your own cattle upon it?—Yes.

48,063. You do not let it out to any one?—No, ever since I have had it I have put my own cattle and horse upon it.

48,064. (Mr. Bere.) Who is it who pays you your wages?—Mr. Michelmore.

48,065. You are a regular servant in the duke's employment?—Yes, and have been under him for 32 years.

48,066. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you pay the rent?—Yes.

48,067. Without any deductions?—There are no deductions whatever.

48,068. You receive your wages in full and pay your rent?—I receive my wages once a month, and I pay my rent every half year.

48,069. (Mr. Bere.) Have you ever voted at the elections for the council?—No; I have not got a vote for the council.

THIRTY-FIFTH DAY.

29 Oct. 1866.

W. Hodge.

48,070. (Mr. Longe.) But you have sometimes taken a part in the council elections ?—No.

48,071. You have shown some of the voters the way to the town hall ?—I do not know that I have ; I might have shown them the way up.

48,072. You have been employed to take them to the poll ?—I have not been employed; I have taken it on myself.

48,073. When did you last act in that way ?—I never did so but once; that is five or six years ago.

48,074. Had you any authority from Mr. Michelmore or any one to do so ?—Not at all.

48,075. Then how were you engaged ?—If I came into the town and met any one I might do so. If I were to see any one here I might lend a hand in that way.

48,076. Did you happen to be down at Dent and Seymour's election in 1863 ?—Then I voted.

48,077. Did you happen to be upon the Plains when a voter named William Hannaford was brought to the poll ?—Certainly.

48,078. Who was William Hannaford with ? — I cannot tell.

48,079. Was Mr. Gill ?—Yes.

48,080. Did you try to get Hannaford away ?—I did.

48,081. You did not succeed ?—I could not ; the roughs were too much for me.

48,082. Mr. Gill knocked you down ?—No, there was no blow struck, or I should have returned the compliment.

48,083. Could you see whether Hannaford was drunk ?—Yes.

48,084. Did they carry him ?—I expect so. I do not think he could stand on his legs.

48,085. Did you see him poll afterwards ?—Yes.

48,086. Could he speak ?—Really the mob was so strong I could hardly see.

48,087. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever give Mr. Screach 10*l.* to do anything with at the council election ?—No, but I saw him pay 10*l.* to the two Simses and a man called Warren.

48,088. At whose election ?—That was the council election.

48,089. How came you to see him ?—It was his own house.

48,090. Did he tell you what it was for ?—For their votes.

48,091. Where did he get the 10*l.* ?—He paid it me.

48,092. You did not give it him ?—No.

48,093. Did you give anybody anything for the council election ?—Yes, the men for their day's work.

48,094. Not out of your own pocket ? — At that time.

48,095. You got it back again ?—Some time afterwards.

48,096. Did you charge it to Mr. Michelmore ?—No.

48,097. Who paid it ?—John Elliott.

WILLIAM HENRY SAWDYE recalled and further examined.

W. H. Sawdye.

48,098. (Mr. Bere.) When you were here on Friday you told us you never received any money directly or indirectly on account of your vote ?—Yes; I do not remember the words "directly or indirectly," but I did not receive anything.

48,099. I put the question "directly or indirectly." I understand you to say you received no money from Mr. Henry Michelmore in 1863, or about that time ? —I did not.

48,100. The next question put to you is, "In no "way ?" and your answer is "In no way. I never "received any money from Mr. Henry Michelmore "at all."—I did not.

48,101. Now at that time, in December 1862, were you indebted to Mr. Tucker in a bill for professional services rendered to you ?—Yes.

48,102. What was the amount of the bill ?—I do not remember how much ; I do not recollect the exact sum. I think Mr. Tucker might have charged me 30*l.* or more, all that had been incurred by me two or three years before.

48,103. Are you quite sure of that ?—Yes.

48,104. Was it incurred in consequence of a trial at Exeter ?—Yes, partially.

48,105. The bulk of it was in consequence of a trial at Exeter ?—Yes.

48,106. Was Mr. Tucker pressing you for that money in December 1862 ?—About that time.

48,107. Did you go to any person and tell him that Mr. Tucker was pressing ?—I saw young Mr. Michelmore, and I told him that Mr. Tucker was pressing me about the money.

48,108. Did you ever know that Mr. Michelmore paid that bill for you ?—I did not know it when I was here on Friday, but I have heard so since.

48,109. After that conversation with Mr. Henry Michelmore did Mr. Tucker ask you for that money again ?—He did not press for it.

48,110. Did you not know that some person had paid the bill for you ?—No, because I did not see the bill settled.

48,111. I shall have to ask you an unpleasant question. Do you mean to say that you never knew that that bill had been paid for you ?—I believed Mr. Michelmore had satisfied Mr. Tucker, but I did not know from what he said.

48,112. (Mr. Longe.) It was not intended you should know ?—Perhaps not.

48,113. (Mr. Bere.) What sort of pressure was it that Mr. Tucker put upon you. Had he threatened to bring an action in the county court ?—I do not know whether he had not ; but he had written several letters.

48,114. Had he threatened to bring proceedings against you to make you a bankrupt ?—No, he had not; he had written and requested payment.

48,115. You wrote saying you could not pay ?—Yes; I do not know that I wrote immediately in reply. I saw Mr. Michelmore, and said that he was pressing me, and he said, "That will be all right, you "need not trouble yourself any more about it."

48,116. Who said that ?—Mr. Michelmore.

48,117. After that you voted for Mr. Seymour ?—Yes, but I had promised him before I had the pressure.

48,118. Between the time of the promising and your voting Mr. Tucker put on the pressure ?—Yes.

48,119. And you mentioned that fact to Mr. Henry Michelmore ?—Mr. Michelmore, not Mr. Henry.

48,120. Afterwards you found that the pressure was removed ?—Yes, it was.

48,121. (Mr. Coleridge.) How had you voted at the election before ? — For Earl Gifford and Mr. Mills.

48,122. Had you ever voted for the Conservatives at all ?—No ; never intended, and never do intend.

48,123. Had you got a county vote ?—Yes.

48,124. When you told Mr. Michelmore that Tucker was pressing, did not you tell him that you must find money ?—I said he was pressing, and it was not convenient for me just then.

48,125. You went to Mr. Michelmore and told him ?—I think I met him by accident.

48,126. You told him of this ?—Yes.

48,127. You said you must find the money ?—Mr. Tucker seemed to be pressing me for it.

48,128. You told Mr. Michelmore that you must find the money ?—I do not know that it was in those words.

48,129. You gave him to understand that you wanted the money ?—I told Mr. Michelmore, and he said, "You need not trouble yourself about that."

48,130. You told him with the object of getting money from him ?—I cannot say that I did ; I did not expect he would pay it, and I did not know that he would. Perhaps it was as a friendly act that he did it, I do not know.

48,130*a*. When Mr. Michelmore left you, you went away with the belief that the money would be paid?—Yes, because he said, "You need not trouble yourself about it." What I said on Friday was that I never received any money.

(Mr. Bere.) You knew perfectly well what was meant, but that is the case with every witness; unless they are asked the specific question they will not answer.

48,131. (Mr. Longe.) You know now why Mr. Michelmore did not tell you he had paid the money?—No, I do not.

48,132. Has Mr. Michelmore ever asked you to repay that money?—No.

48,133. Do you expect to repay?—I do not know.

48,134. You will not tender it unless you are asked for it?—No.

HENRY SARJANT RUBY sworn and examined.

H. S. Ruby.

48,135. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live?—Castle Mills.

48,136. Where?—Berry.

48,137. Who do you rent it of?—The Duke.

48,138. What rent do you pay for it?—50*l.* a year.

48,139. What do you vote on?—Two fields in Bridgetown.

48,140. Are you one of a company?—No, not a company, there is another in my party.

48,141. Who is the other?—James Searle.

48,142. How many head of cattle do you put on?—I have put a horse occasionally, and a cow occasionally.

48,143. How many has he there?—I cannot tell.

48,144. How long have you voted in that way?—I have voted once. I have had my vote three years.

48,145. You voted in 1865?—Yes.

48,146. Did you get anything?—No.

48,147. Neither directly nor indirectly?—Not a farthing.

48,148. You were offered money on the other side?—Yes.

48,149. Who by?—Mr. John Heath.

48,150. Which?—Mr. John Heath, jun.

48,151. Did Arthur Niner come with him?—I did not see him.

48,152. When did he come?—On the morning of the day of the election. I believe he was there once before. I was not at home then; he saw my wife.

48,153. What did he offer you?—He merely asked me if I could "do anything for him to-day." I said, "No." He asked if any money at any time would do me good? I said, "No, not at all;" he said "100*l.*;" I said, "No;" "200*l.*;" "No;" "300*l.*;" I said, "No, no amount at all." I came in early, at 8 o'clock, and went to the poll and voted for Pender and Seymour.

48,154. And then went home?—I went home very soon after.

48,155. Had you been down at Summerhill, at all, before that day?—I do not think once.

48,156. Where is Castle Mills?—Just under the old ruin.

48,157. The mill down in the ruin?—Yes, at the bottom.

48,158. How long have you had the mill?—Four years last election.

48,159. From whom did you take it?—Mr. Thomas Michelmore.

48,160. Was he the first person you saw about it, or did you see Mr. Callard?—Mr. Thomas Michelmore.

48,161. When you took it did he say anything to you about the way you were to vote?—Not a sentence.

48,162. Had you had a vote before?—No.

48,163. Where did you live before?—I was in partnership with my father before I came here.

48,164. Where were you living?—At Iplepen.

48,165. Did he have a vote for the county?—I do not know that he had.

48,166. You have not had a vote for the county?—No.

48,167. Did he not ask you anything about your politics before he let it to you?—No, not a sentence.

48,168. When he let the field did he ask you?—No, not a word respecting politics.

48,169. Did you ask for the field or did he offer it to you?—I think he offered it to me, saying he wished me to become a voter.

48,170. Had he not found out by that time that you were on that side?—It was my father's principle and mine. I do not know that he ever took out a claim for the county.

48,171. Who was the actual occupier of the field?—Mr. Roberts.

48,172. Is he still there?—He gave it up, and I have the field to myself, and stock it.

48,173. They found out that you were a good Liberal before they gave you this qualification?—I suppose so.

JAMES CHAMINGS sworn and examined.

J. Chamings.

48,174. (Mr. Coleridge.) Where do you live?—At Berry, Wildwoods.

48,175. What do you vote for?—Paradise fields.

48,176. House and building?—Yes.

48,177. One of the made votes?—No.

48,178. Do you occupy it yourself?—Yes.

48,179. With your own cattle?—Not always. I let out some of it.

48,180. How much do you pay for it?—12*l.* a year.

48,181. And you let some of it out?—I sell my hay, and stock it myself.

48,182. Where do you live?—In Berry parish.

48,183. You have no vote upon the house?—No.

48,184. At Mr. Dent's election in 1863, were you offered some money to vote for the Conservatives?—I think so.

48,185. Who offered it to you?—Mr. John Heath, junior.

48,186. How much did he offer you?—He brought me two bags of gold; indeed he asked me if that would do. I said no.

48,187. Did he tell you how much of it there was, and count it out?—He opened the bags and showed me it was gold, and he says, "Open your mouth and "name the sum, and whatever it is I will give it "you."

48,188. What did you name?—Nothing.

48,189. You told him you would have nothing to do with him?—As good as that.

48,190. Was that the first time you voted?—No; I voted for Earl Gifford when he came here first.

48,191. Were you offered anything then?—Never.

48,192. Was this the first offer you had in 1863—Mr. Dent's election?—I think it was.

48,193. Were you offered nothing in 1862, the first time when Mr. Pender came in?—I do not remember.

48,194. Did you get any present from Mr. Pender's side after that election?—No.

THIRTY-FIFTH DAY.

J. Chamings.

29 Oct. 1866.

48,195. In 1863 did you get anything?—No.

48,196. Did you not tell them that you had refused 100*l.*?—Yes.

48,197. Would they not give you anything after telling them that?—They never gave me anything.

48,198. Whom did you tell that to?—I told Mr. Michelmore after I voted.

48,199. You expected they would give you something?—I did not.

48,200. In 1865 did they again do that?—They did.

48,201. Who tried you that time?—Mr. John Heath, junior.

48,202. At about 6 o'clock in the morning?—Yes.

48,203. What did he offer you?—He asked if 500*l.* would be of any use, and I said that 1,000*l.* would be of no use.

48,204. Did you not tell him you might bring him one or two others, though you would not take it yourself?—He asked me if there was any person likely; I said I am sure I cannot tell.

48,205. Did you not tell him that there were two or three whom you thought you might get for that, and give him the names?—Not that I am aware of.

48,206. Did you not recollect some who would be likely; you could not take it yourself, but you thought so-and-so might?—I do not remember any.

48,207. Did you get anything from the other side after that election?—Never.

48,208. Have you ever got anything for your vote?—Never; nothing.

48,209. Did you ever offer anybody anything?—No, nothing; I had nothing to give.

48,210. (Mr. Bere.) What is the value of the farm?—My rent is 177*l.* a year.

48,211. You do not think you would be a tenant of the Duke's long if you voted against him?—Yes, if I had liked to stay.

48,212. Did not George Randle Mitchell actually occupy the field?—Certainly not.

48,213. Does he not manure it?—He may occasionally, but I pay him for it; he does it when I order him to do it.

48,214. What power have you over him to order him to do it?—He looks after it for me.

48,215. He is a butcher, is he not?—He is.

48,216. I suppose he turns stock into it occasionally, does he not?—He does.

48,217. Does he cut the grass?—I sold him the grass.

48,218. How long have you had this field?—14 years.

48,219. Have you voted for 14 years?—It must be that time I have been a voter.

48,220. Would it be before then?—I really do not know.

48,221. How many head of cattle have you put on that field in the last year?—The last year?

48,222. Yes.—I had 30 sheep lambed in the spring; three pens.

48,223. How long did they stay on?—I do not know that.

48,224. When was it let out for hire?—I think it was some time at the end of April, or the beginning of May.

48,225. When did the sheep go on the field?—Mine, sir?

48,226. Yes.—In April; some of mine in April.

48,227. Were they there more than a week?—Oh, yes, I have had sheep there two or three weeks; I often when I sell sheep turn them into that field to finish them off.

48,228. Are these the only cattle?—A horse had been there.

48,229. How long had he been there?—I cannot tell you.

48,230. How many head of cattle came in in 1865?—I cannot remember; I had young lambs last year.

48,231. A ewe and a lamb?—Oh, no; I had 30 there.

48,232. How long did they stay on?—I really do not know, because I did not keep an account of it.

48,233. (Mr. Coleridge.) Does anybody else vote on the field?—No.

48,234. (Mr. Bere.) Did he ask you what way you were going to vote before he let you the field?—He never mentioned a word.

W. H. Tucker.

WILLIAM HENRY TUCKER sworn and examined.

48,235. (Mr Longe.) Are you a farmer?—Yes.

48,236. How long have you had a vote for the borough?—Ever since 1864.

48,237. You have only exercised it once?—Only once.

48,238. Is that for a field?—Yes.

48,239. When was the field let you?—After 1863.

48,240. At the same time that you took the farm?—I had had my farm two years.

48,241. When you took the farm who did you take it of?—I took the business from my mother. My mother worked it for 14 years, and then I took the business from her.

48,242. Were you asked what your politics were when you succeeded to your mother?—No; I did not rent the farm under the Duke.

48,243. When did you take this piece of land; did you ask for it?—Asked for the field?

48,244. Asked for the field?—Yes.

48,245. You asked Mr. Michelmore?—Yes.

48,246. Was it vacant then?—I suppose it was.

48,247. Did you ask him for a field, or this particular field?—I was complaining that we were short of keep, and he said he would let me the field to take the young stock in in the spring.

48,248. Who is the landlord of the farm?—Mr. Secrett, of Devonport.

48,249. You knew what you would have to do?—I guessed I should.

48,250. You supposed you would have to vote for the Liberals?—Yes.

48,251. You did at the last election?—I voted for the Liberals.

48,252. Who canvassed you?—Mr. Pender and Mr. Michelmore, and Colonel Dawkins and Mr. Kellock.

48,253. Who canvassed you for Mr. Seymour?—Mr. Jeffery Michelmore solicited my vote here in the town. They never called on me for Mr. Seymour.

48,254. Did he not ask you for your vote for Mr. Seymour?—During the time I was in the town.

48,255. When he asked you, what did you say?—I told him I should vote for him.

48,256. Mr. Jeffery also asked you for Mr. Pender?—Mr. Charles Michelmore asked me for Mr. Pender.

48,257. What did you say to him?—I promised him my vote.

48,258. At once?—At once.

48,259. You were canvassed by Colonel Dawkins?—Yes.

48,260. What did you say to him?—I told him I should not promise my vote, as I had promised it previously to Mr. Pender.

48,261. Did you ever get any present after the election?—No, never.

48,262. Not from anybody?—At that election Mr. Fowle gave me 5*l.*

48,263. Captain Fowle?—Yes; I asked him where it came from, and he would not tell me. He did not tell me till the middle part of last month. He told me he had it from Mr. Wright, his father-in-law; that he kept back 10*l.* and gave me 5*l.*

48,264. He told you that a month ago?—Yes, the 13th of last month.

48,265. That was on the election day?—Yes.

48,266. Before you voted or after?—After.

48,267. What is the size of the farm?—150 acres.

48,268. (Mr. Bere.) Who is your landlord?—Mrs. Secrett of Devonport.

48,269. (Mr. Longe.) You are a friend of Capt. Fowle's?—Yes.

48,270. Is that all?—Yes, that is all I ever received. No one ever tempted me on either side.

48,271. Were you one of the guests at the "Seymour Arms"?—No, I was not one.

48,272. You were never present at any meeting at the "Seymour Arms"?—No; I was not in Totnes from the cattle-market day till the polling day.

48,273. Who really occupies this field that you vote upon. Is not it Thomas Jacob Searle?—No, I pay the rent.

48,274. How many head of cattle have you had there?—I stock it principally in March, April, and May, chiefly with young bullocks.

48,275. Is it let out for hay?—No, never.

48,276. How many young bullocks had you there this year?—Seven in the month of April last.

48,277. And they stopped how long?—Perhaps a week, and then I took them away, and put in three or four horses.

48,278. Are those the only cattle you have had there at all?—I had other cattle there.

48,279. When?—Last year, during the summer.

48,280. How many head of cattle does Mr. Searle put there?—Really I do not know.

48,281. A great many more than you do?—There is a little grass more than I want.

48,282. Does he pay you for it?—Yes.

48,283. How much do you charge a head for sheep?—We do not stock with sheep.

48,284. Not at all?—No. I do not remember stocking with sheep more than once or twice. I drove some sheep here; did not sell them, and put them there.

48,285. Does not Searle put sheep in without your knowing it?—He never told me.

48,286. How do you know what head of cattle to charge Mr. Searle for?—He tells me.

48,287. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you never go and look?—I go frequently, when I come to town.

48,288. You do not often come to town?—I come once a week or once a fortnight.

48,289. Have you had a complaint about there being a nuisance in this field of yours?—No.

48,290. Are you sure?—Yes.

48,291. Has the inspector of nuisances never called upon you?—No.

48,292. How many times since the 1st of January have you been in the field?—I generally go there every market day.

48,293. Are you quite sure about that?—Yes.

48,294. Every great market or ordinary market?—Every great market.

48,295. That is once a month?—Yes.

48,296. You have never seen any sheep of Mr. Searle's there?—Never.

Mr. John Hamlyn sworn and examined.

Mr. J. Hamlyn.

48,297. (Mr. Bere.) You are a voter for the borough of Totnes?—Yes.

48,298. You are one of the Buckfastleigh company?—No.

48,299. Do you also vote for Ashburton?—Yes.

48,300. Had you a real qualification?—Yes, a real qualification, but I afterwards went into the company.

48,301. You are a manufacturer of Buckfastleigh?—Yes.

48,302. A manufacturer of paper?—No, woollen.

48,303. Did you get some money in the election of 1865 to pay to a voter?—Yes, 1865.

48,304. How much did you get?—50*l.*

48,305. What voter was it?—Browse.

48,306. Who is Brouse?—The relieving officer.

48,307. Did you pay it to him?—Yes.

48,308. Where?—In the street, I think.

48,309. You asked Mr. Holman for it for him?—It was in this way. I met Mr. Windeatt coming into Totnes Street; he called me on one side and asked me to do him a favour, that was to see Mr. Browse. He has always been a Liberal and voted the right side, but they were afraid that he had been tampered with.

48,310. What did Browse tell you?—He said he had been offered a little money, but he should not vote against them, and he should vote for Mr. Seymour; he should have voted for Mr. Pender, but he did not think the party had served him well enough. If they had only given him 10*l.* they would not have had any trouble with him; he had been to a great deal of expense and had had nothing. I found that 30*l.* would put him all right. I was going to tell them, and Mr. Holman said, "Go back and tell him it "is all right."

48,311. You got the money from Mr. Windeatt and paid it over?—Yes, it was a month afterwards.

48,312. Had you nothing to do with any of the voters except Browse?—No.

48,313. (Mr. Bere.) Did you ever receive any money for your own vote?—No.

48,314. Did you canvass John Symons the cider merchant?—No, I never did.

48,315. Did you canvass Edwin Jordain?—No.

48,316. Did you canvass anybody at Totnes?—No.

48,317. Were any of the voters living at Ashburton?—There is a man named Jackson that I ought to mention.

48,318. You got 10*l.* for him?—No, I did not get it. Mr. Michelmore was going——

48,319. Did you hand this over to Jackson?—Yes.

48,320. Mr. Michelmore gave you 10*l.*?—Yes.

48,321. Which Mr. Michelmore?—Mr. Jeffery. I went to Jackson's in the morning, and he came there and I gave him 10*l.* I do not know what it was for, but I judged what it might be.

48,322. Was 1865 the first time that you voted for Totnes?—I think it was.

48,323. Had you voted at Dent's election?—No.

48,324. Mills and Gifford in 1859?—No.

48,325. Had you anything to do with the election of 1859?—No.

48,326. 1862 and 1863?—No, not till 1865.

The Rev. Gilbert Butland, sworn and examined.

Rev. G. Butland.

48,327. Are you a clergyman of the Church of England?—I am.

48,328. How long have you lived in Totnes?—I came here in 1861.

48,329. Did you have a vote in the election of 1862 and 1863?—I had. I voted in 1862, 1863, and 1865.

48,330. Did you vote for Pender in 1862?—No, I voted for Mr. Dent in 1862; Dent in 1863; and Pender and Seymour in 1865.

48,331. What caused you to change?—I voted in the first instance for Dent, to please my son.

48,332. What is your son?—He was mate in the Indian navy, but the Indian navy was broken up, and he came home.

48,333. I suppose you thought Mr. Dent would get him employment in a ship?—He was impressed with that idea. Some of the Conservatives laid hold of him, and he thought that Mr. Dent was going to do mighty things for him, and consequently he influenced me to go to Mr. Dent. I knew before I went that would not be the case, that he would not get anything, certainly.

48,334. Did you see Mr. Dent at all?—He called on me, and asked me for my vote, and I then asked him if he intended to do anything for my son, and he said

THIRTY-FIFTH DAY.

Rev. G. Butland.

Oct. 23 1866.

it was not in his power; and then I said, "I will vote "for you."

48,335. Has Mr. Dent got anything for your son?—Nothing whatever. I should like to make a statement regarding Mr. Harris. Mr. Harris said there was an understanding that I should have a situation for my son. It was quite the reverse.

48,336. (Mr. Longe.) Did you see Mr. Mitchell as well as Mr. Dent?—Yes.

48,337. Did you have a conversation with Mr. Mitchell about this?—No, no conversation with Mr. Dent. I merely asked him if he intended to give my son a situation in one of his ships, or something to that effect.

48,338. And he said——?—"What is your son doing now?" I told him what he was doing. He went out as a purser in the "King of the Seas," which was going to Australia, and from Australia to India.

48,339. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who gave him that situation?—He got it himself. There was a ship going to sea, and he went and applied and got the situation.

48,340. (Mr. Bere.) Then it is not correct what Mr. Harris has told us here, that you were displeased with Mr. Dent because he had not got the situation which he promised?—Far from being displeased, when they came for the subscription I gave him a guinea.

48,341. Do you recollect Mr. Edmonds coming to canvass you?—Yes.

48,342. Do you recollect telling Mr. Edmonds you were 100*l.* out of pocket?—Yes.

48,343. How was that?—Because he had not got the situation which they promised.

48,344. Who had promised it?—They led him to infer Mr. Edmonds.

48,345. How did that cost you 100*l.*?—It cost me 100*l.* to fit him out for sea; besides he was a long time at home, and he was spending money.

48,346. The question was a situation in a ship?—Yes.

48,347. You would have had to fit him out as much for the one as for the other?—I cannot say that; that is what I meant; whether there was anything in it I do not know. It was my impression that there would be something in it.

48,348. (Mr. Bere.) Was it not your disappointment in not getting the situation that you voted for Pender and Seymour?—No, certainly not. I was a Liberal. I was beneficed 36 years at Ringmore, a place where we hear so much about the High Church.

48,349. Had you a vote for the county there?—No.

48,350. Had you voted for the Liberal side before you voted for Pender and Seymour?—No, I had not.

48,351. (Mr. Coleridge.) The first opportunities were the elections of 1862 and 1863, and you did not take them?—I did not vote for the Liberals. I was under the influence of my son.

48,352. Do you recollect Captain Pim calling upon you at the last election?—Yes.

48,353. What took place between you and him?—I think I have a newspaper here.

48,354. I will read it. "You say that some of "them hesitated; can you give us the names of any "of those?—The Rev. Mr. Butland was one I particularly remember. What made him hesitate, or "what impression had you?—It is a very unpleasant "thing to say what I suppose; you know what made "him hesitate as well as I do. Did he say anything "to you which made you understand that he had a "reason for hesitating?—It was a very similar conversation to that which passed with the Rev. Mr. "James. Was that about money difficulties or a "situation for his son?—Well, it was about a situation "for his son. I think you must tell us, if you please, "what did he say, or what the impression left on your "mind is. I put it to you, was it to this effect, that "he would not vote for you unless you got a situation "for his son?—Well, my impression was that if he "had a situation offered his son he would have voted "for me decidedly."—It is false, and I can prove it.

48,355. Just hear it out. "(Mr Coleridge.)—How "did he vote?—He voted against us. Against both "of you?—Yes. (Mr. Longe.) How long was the "interview?—Some time; because I went with Mr. "Veitch, who is a neighbour of his, and his son was "going out to New Zealand. I have a great interest "in Central America, New Zealand, and Australia, "and of course there was a good deal of conversation "with respect to my own movements out there; so "we remained, I should think, for an hour at his "house. Did he tell you what his opinions were "politically apart from the situation or anything else? "—No. You did not find any political opinion?—I "did not find any strong bias on either side. (Mr. "Coleridge.) You did not find any about Totnes "generally?—No. (Mr. Bere.) Had you any power "of offering or procuring a situation for Mr. Butland's son?—I had not, strictly speaking, at the "time, but I could now for example. At that time "there was no appointment to which you could present him at once?—No, certainly not. Was there "anything else said by him about any other present? "—So far as my remarks may go, I think he made some "observation about a handsome bracelet having been "presented to some one. To whom was it given? "—To some one or other, I do not know whom; it is "a matter that was brought out in conversation, and "has been retained in my memory as something "curious. Cannot you remember the name of the "fortunate lady who had received the bracelet?—I "cannot tax my memory with it, but he said that a "bracelet had been given to the wife of one of the "electors, worth 60 guineas." Did you, when Captain Pim called upon you, mention the fact that your son wanted a situation?—Never; besides I will tell you my son was not at home at that time. He could not possibly leave New Zealand. He has saw-mills there worth 2,000*l.*

48,356. How many sons have you?—Four sons and three daughters.

48,357. Had all your sons situations at that time when Captain Pim called upon you?—Certainly; such situations that they could not leave without the sacrifice of hundreds and thousands. My son who was at home at that time, that Captain Pim saw, could not have left his situation in New Zealand, without the sacrifice of thousands.

48,358. The son for whom Mr. Dent was supposed to be able to get a situation, had he got a situation at that time; the son who had been in the East Indian navy, had he got a situation when Captain Pim called upon him?—Yes, he had. He was in Australia.

48,359. Was it a situation he liked or did he want to change it?—No; he had no idea of changing that I know of. He never wrote to me.

48,360. Did you wish him to come nearer home?—No, certainly not. And another thing I will tell you, sir, after my son Gilbert did want a situation, and Mr. Dent had said it was not in his power to give him a situation, he furnished himself with a situation in a ship to go from Plymouth to America, and I fitted him out at a considerable expense for him to go.

48,361. Did any conversation pass with Captain Pim about any situation for your son Gilbert?—None whatever, not the slightest in the world.

48,362. Did any conversation pass between you and Captain Pim about a bracelet?—Not that I know of. I think that was with Dawkins about the bracelet.

48,363. Was Colonel Dawkins there at the same time?—No; I think Colonel Dawkins was the bracelet affair.

48,364. Who was with Captain Pim?—Captain Veitch. As regards Captain Veitch, he had sent Captain Pim's picture and pamphlet, and I returned it to him; I sent it back to him. Captain Veitch met me a few days after in the terrace, and asked me

o give him my vote, to give Captain Pim my vote. said "Captain Veitch, I am dead against you."

48,365. Did you tell Captain Pim or Colonel Dawkins, or either of them, that you were going to vote against them?—I gave them to infer that I would vote against them. I think I did. I did vote against them.

48,366. Did not you leave sufficient doubt upon their minds to make them uncertain as to whether you would vote against them or vote for them?—I do not think I did. I do not believe I did.

48,367. Did you say you were going to vote for the Liberals, or anything to that effect?—I imagine I did. I told them I should not vote for them.

48,368. Are you quite sure about that?—I think I did. However, I did not vote for them, and I told Captain Veitch I should not vote for them.

48,369. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour canvass you themselves?—No. Mr. Pender called, and I did not give him an answer; Mr. Seymour called, and I was not at home. I did not see him.

48,370. Then they did not canvass you personally, both of them, only Mr. Pender?—I saw Mr. Pender, but I did not see Mr. Seymour.

48,371. Did Mr. Pender say anything to you about having voted against him on a previous occasion?—No.

48,372. Did you tell him that you had voted against him on a previous occasion?—He was aware of that. I do not think anything was said about it.

48,373. Did you give him to understand that you did?—If I had ever been aware that I should have been examined about the various conversations that took place, I should have taken care to remember them.

48,374. I want to know whether you gave Mr. Pender to understand that you would vote for him, or left him in doubt?—I did not give him an answer.

48,375. You left it open?—I left it open. I did not give him an answer.

48,376. Did you tell anybody who canvassed you, that you would vote for Mr. Seymour or not?—No, I did not. I called at the "Seymour Hotel" for the purpose of saying I intended to give Mr. Seymour my vote.

48,377. Did you see them both?—I saw both of them.

48,378. How long before the election was that?—A day or two.

48,379. And you told both of them you should vote for them both?—Yes, I told Mr. Pender first, and when Mr. Seymour came up into the room I told him so.

48,380. Was nothing said about your having voted against Mr. Pender on a previous occasion?—Yes.

48,381. Did not they say anything about their being glad to hear that you had changed your mind?—No, I do not think they did.

48,382. Perhaps you will change your mind again?—I shall certainly if I please; I shall change my mind as often as I please, without asking any person whether I shall do so or not.

48,383. (Mr. Bere.) Had you a son at home at the time of the election?—Yes, I had a son a farmer at Paignton.

48,384. He did not want a situation?—No.

48,385. What was the name of the son that was here, Gilbert?—John. Gilbert was Mr. Dent's gentleman.

48,386. Did John go down and see Captain Pim at the election?—Not that I am aware. I do not think he saw Captain Pim at all, except on the occasion of seeing him at my house.

48,387. I will put this general question to you—that neither directly nor indirectly, to your own advantage or the advantage of your son, had you any consideration for your vote?—Decidedly not; certainly not, in any shape or way.

JOHN PUNCHARD sworn and examined.

J. Punchard.

48,388. (Mr. Longe.) What are you?—I am a tenant of the Duke of Somerset.

48,389. What is your occupation; a farmer?—Yes, you may call me so; a small farmer, quarry, and house.

48,390. How many acres do you farm?—A few acres.

48,391. How many acres?—It is but a few acres.

48,392. You have a vote?—I have a vote.

48,393. For building and land?—For building and land; house and land.

48,394. You have a vote for house and land?—House and land.

48,395. You live in Bridgetown?—I live in Totnes.

48,396. How long have you had a vote?—Since Christmas, 1844.

48,397. Have you resided in the same house?—In the same house.

48,398. Have you always voted for the same side?—Always voted for the Liberals.

48,399. Have you voted at every election?—Every election.

48,400. You have never split your vote; you have never voted for a Conservative at all?—No.

48,401. When was the first time you voted; did you ever vote for Lord Seymour?—Yes; I voted for him first.

48,402. You did?—Yes.

48,403. Did you ever have anything for your vote?—Never.

48,404. Did you ever have any present made you after an election?—Never.

48,405. Or before an election?—Never.

48,406. (Mr. Bere.) Did any person on your behalf ever get any money?—Never.

48,407. Have you got a wife?—No.

48,408. A daughter?—No.

48,409. Did you ever find any money in the house?—Oh, no. The Duke's people do not do anything in that way. I was not asked a question about my vote when I took my property.

48,410. (Mr. Longe.) You were never asked a question about it?—No.

48,411. You know what your duties would be?—I was always a Liberal.

48,412. You were never asked if you intended to vote as a Liberal?—No.

48,413. You have taken a part, have you not, in some of the elections, in canvassing for the Liberals?—No.

48,414. You have got a vote or two?—No.

48,415. (Mr. Bere.) You have paid for a vote or two?—No.

48,416. You have been the medium for getting money, have not you?—No.

48,417. (Mr. Longe.) Has not money passed through your hands for voters?—No.

48,418. Neither at elections for members of parliament or municipal elections?—No.

48,419. In any way?—No.

48,420. Have you ever told a voter you would get something for him?—No.

48,421. (Mr. Coleridge.) Never had anything to do with carrying voters away?—No. I never took an interest in the election myself.

48,422. (Mr. Longe.) Do not you remember a man of the name of Nickells?—Yes.

48,423. John Nickells?—I do. He is a smith of mine. He has done my smith's work.

48,424. Now, in 1865, did he talk to you about his vote?—If there were any tools to be done for the men in the quarry, I should go to him, and I might have asked him how he was going to vote.

48,425. He told you he was going to vote the other side?—He always said to me he was sorry he ever had a vote, as he would displease both parties whichever way he voted. I told him, rather than displease both parties, he had better not vote at all.

48,426. Did he not tell you that he was offered some money on one side, and you said you could get him some money from the Liberals ?—No, I had not the slightest idea of such a thing.

48,427. (Mr. Bere.) Have you got a son ?—Two, and a daughter.

48,428. What are they doing ?—My eldest son is in South Wales. He is the manager of a large quarry, and a small farm attached to it.

48,429. Who got him that situation ?—His brother.

48,430. What is his brother ?—He has been doing a great deal in mining.

48,431. In mining ?—Yes; in North and South Wales.

48,432. Did the Duke of Somerset or Mr. Michelmore have anything to do at all with that appointment ?—No. I suppose you allude to the Customs he was in first ?

48,433. Yes.—That was got by Mr. John Fogwill.

48,434. The postmaster ?—Yes.

48,435. How long ago was that got for him ?—It must be 12 or 14 years ago for what I know of.

48,436. He did not stop in the Customs very long, did he ?—A few years.

48,437. And then went into mining ?—Yes. He was promised the mining affair directly he left it.

48,438. (Mr. Longe.) Did not you tell Nickells you would not employ him if he did vote for the Conservatives ?—I never thought of such a thing. He has worked for me since that time.

48,439. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know a man called Baker ?—Oh, very well.

48,440. What does he do for you ?—He has been doing things for me as a tailor.

48,441. Have you employed him since the election of 1865 ?—No.

48,442. What is the reason for that ?—I know no particular reason. I had no reason for it.

48,443. (Mr. Coleridge.) How did he vote ?—He told me he was going to vote for the Tory party.

48,444. (Mr. Bere.) You have not employed him since ? — No, I have not employed him much for years.

48,445. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you offer him any money to vote for the Tory party ?—No.

48,446. Did you tell him he might have some money if he would not vote at all ?—No. You are quite misled about that.

48,447. If Baker says that, it is not true ?—If he says so, it is not true.

48,448. (Mr. Bere.) You have never employed John Nickells since the election ?—You will see his bills there (handing some papers to the Chief Commissioner).

48,449. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you hear Baker say that Screach offered him money ?—No.

48,450. You have never heard of it before ?—It is the first time I have heard of it.

48,451. It is not true ?—No.

48,452. Did you ever offer his wife any money ?—He has no wife.

48,453. (Mr. Bere.) Have you ever directly or indirectly received any money or promise of money for your vote ?—No, not at all.

48,454. Have you ever directly or indirectly received any advantage for your vote ?—No, not at all.

48,455. I will just read this to you. This is what Mr. Baker says, "Did not Parnell come to you ?—No. "There was only one person. And who was that ? "—Punchard. What did he come to you about ?— "We had been on friendly terms with each other for "some years ; he came to ask me if I would support "his party. I told him 'No.' That was all that "passed" ?—I could not say for certain. I may have talked of elections, but as to asking him, I do not know that I ever asked him to support the Liberals.

48,456. (Mr. Longe.) Who asked you to get Nickells's vote ?—No one ever asked me to do that.

48,457. No one ever asked you to get Nickells's vote ?—No one asked me.

48,458. Surely you were asked directly to get his vote, and were told he was shaky ?—I do not recollect that I was asked to get his vote.

48,459. You went there four or five times ?—I often went there to get tools and things done. He did not do the work as he ought to have done it. We could not get the tools out of him.

48,460. Who asked you to get his vote ?—I do not recollect anybody particularly ; I cannot remember anybody at all.

48,461. You did not ask him for his vote for Mr. Seymour, it was only for Mr. Pender ?—I do not remember asking him at all. The only thing I remember that I said was, "Do not vote at all, if you "think you will displease both parties."

48,462. You must remember asking him. Who asked you to get his vote for Mr. Pender ?—I do not recollect any one at all.

48,463. (Mr. Bere.) You have not paid him his bill ?—It is paid.

48,464. It is ?—Yes.

48,465. It is not receipted ?—I am sure it is paid.

F. G. Putt.

FREDERICK GEORGE PUTT sworn and examined.

48,466. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live ?—Forestreet.

48,467. Who is your landlord ?—Myself.

48,468. How long have you had a vote for Totnes ?—In 1862 I voted first.

48,469. Did you vote for Mr. Pender then ?—Yes.

48,470. And Seymour in 1863 ?—Yes, and Pender.

48,471. Have you ever had money for your vote ?—Never.

48,472. Never, directly nor indirectly ?—No.

48,473. Have you ever got any money from anybody ?—No.

48,474. Has any money ever passed through your hands ?—No.

48,475. At no time whatsoever ?—None whatever.

48,476. Have you voted for the council at all ?—Yes.

48,477. You say you have never had any money. Have you been offered any ?—Well, I have been offered money.

48,478. On both sides, have not you ?—No.

48,479. Who came to you about your vote in 1863 ?—No one.

48,480. You know Mr. Thomas Jacob Searle ?—Yes, I know him very well.

48,481. Were you one of the seven men who went down to the "Seven Stars" to negotiate about money ?—The first time that I heard of such a subject was when that man Harris introduced it.

48,482. That is the first time you ever heard about it ?—The first time I ever heard of such a thing was when that man introduced and you heard it.

48,483. Was not it the truth ?—Certainly not, or I should not have contradicted it then. If you remember I rose up and contradicted it then.

48,484. You knew Mr. Thomas Jacob Searle ?—He and I were partners as overseers last year.

48,485. Were you partners as overseers at that time ?—No.

48,486. Were you pretty intimate then ?—We were not before we were overseers.

48,487. Did not you and Searle talk about the way you were going to vote at the last election ?—Never. I never spoke to the man on electioneering in my life that I am aware of.

48,488. To whom have you spoken about electioneering ?—No one.

48,489. No one at all ?—Not that I know of.

48,490. How did they first find out that you were a Liberal ?—By voting in 1862.

48,491. How long have you been in Totnes?—I was born in Totnes.

48,492. You had no vote before 1862?—No.

48,493. Was the house your own, then?—Yes.

48,494. Is it a freehold house?—Yes.

48,495. Does your sister live with you?—Yes.

48,496. Did you consult her about the way you should vote?—No.

48,497. Do I understand you to say you never had, directly or indirectly, anything for your vote?—Never.

48,498. At any time?—No.

48,499. Nor any advantage on account of being a voter?—No, not the slightest; it was all money out of pocket.

48,500. What are you by trade?—A china dealer.

48,501. What do you mean by being "money out of pocket"?—I spent money in just going out to see what the news is.

48,502. Where used you to go?—To the public-house or the hotel.

48,503. Were you often down at the "Seymour Hotel"?—Very rarely.

48,504. Did you always pay for what you had yourself?—Generally.

48,505. At the last election did you pay for what you had?—Yes.

48,506. You paid for all you had at the last election?—Yes.

48,507. Are you quite sure of that?—Yes, quite.

48,508. Are you any relation to Richard Cross, the clerk, over in Bridgetown?—No, there is another by the name of Putt.

48,509. Have you ever given any money to anybody?—No; I merely went down and voted for the party I considered the best man.

48,510. Has any money passed through your hands to be distributed?—I have never had anything to do with money matters in electioneering in any shape or form whatever.

48,511. Have you a sister called Mrs. Bennett?—Yes.

48,512. Did not she bring you anything in 1863?—Never.

48,513. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did Mrs. Bennett come to you in election time or about election time in 1863?—No.

48,514. No communication from anybody through her?—She asked me whether I would take up money.

48,515. What was it?—I told her I would at first.

48,516. What to do?—To vote for the Tories.

48,517. Did she tell you who sent her there to ask you?—No.

48,518. What did she say?—She asked me to take money; I intended to take it up and vote against them for offering it to me.

48,519. Did she bring the money with her?—No.

48,520. How much money was it?—Whether it was 50*l.* or not, I would not be certain.

48,521. (Mr. Bere.) Do you mean to say that you call that not having to do with money matters, directly or indirectly?—No.

48,522. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did she say where that would come from?—She said she could get it.

48,523. Did she say where she could get it from?—No.

48,524. Did she say when you would get it; how long afterwards?—No.

48,525. Did you tell her to go and see how much more she could get?—No.

48,526. What did you tell her?—She asked me whether I would take it up.

48,527. What happened after she came and offered you money?—No, she did not; she sent for me, and I went.

48,528. What happened after that?—I wrote her a letter, and told her I should go to the poll an honest man.

48,529. When was the next time you saw her after the time she asked you whether you would take up money?—I never saw her again about it.

48,530. Have not you seen her since?—I cannot answer that question.

48,531. What election was it?—The first time I voted.

48,532. That was the time when the money was not paid. How long after she came and asked you whether you would take up money was it that you saw her the next time? How long before the election was it that she came to ask you this question?—A week before, I think. She did not come, she sent a letter to ask me to come and see her.

48,533. And then you went and saw her at her house?—Yes.

48,534. Who was present?—Nobody but herself and I.

48,535. And then she asked you this, and you said you would. Did you see her again between that time and the election?—Yes, on the nomination day.

48,536. What took place?—I sent a note down that I intended to go to the poll an honest man, and on going down the street she called me in, and I told her then.

48,537. Did she say she had the money?—No.

48,538. Did she say she had not?—No.

48,539. What did occur?—I cannot tell you now, to give you the exact words.

48,540. What was the purport of what took place? You had said you would take it, and she was under the impression that you would take it?—I was going over to Bridgetown.

48,541. Did you ask her whether she had any money for you?—No.

48,542. Do you mean, after what had occurred, she did not tell you whether she had got it?—No.

48,543. Did she say she had not got it?—She did not say.

48,544. What did she tell you, that it was too late?—It was not too late, because Mr. Dent did not give up till 12 o'clock, and I was over at the "Seymour" at the time the news came over.

48,545. What time did you see Mrs. Bennett on the nomination day?—Between 10 and 11.

48,546. Do you mean, after such a bargain as that between brother and sister, nothing occurred as to breaking it off?—I broke it off by sending the letter.

48,547. You wrote that you intended to vote as an honest man. Did you tell her which way?—She always knew I was a Liberal.

48,548. What did she say to you, after you went in, having written that letter?—She called me in and asked me what I meant, and I told her I meant to go to the poll an honest man.

48,549. What then?—I left.

48,550. Did not she say anything to you about the money?—Not that I am aware of.

48,551. You must know whether she did or not?—I cannot tell you.

48,552. Did not she press you to take the money?—No.

48,553. Did not she say you had better take it again?—No.

48,554. That is all that took place?—That is all that took place.

48,555. (Mr. Bere.) Did you tell anybody when you were at the "Seymour" that you had been offered 50*l.* for your vote?—No.

48,556. On your oath?—On my oath.

48,557. Did not your sister receive any money for you?—Not a farthing.

48,558. Did she receive any money?—No.

48,559. That you swear?—That I swear.

48,560. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you get any money afterwards?—No, never in my life.

48,561. Did you ever find any by accident?—No.

48,562. Do you know whether your sister got it and did not hand it over to you?—I know she did not have any.

48,563. (Mr. Bere.) How was it that Mrs. Bennett knew you were a Liberal?—I am sure I cannot answer that. If you are going to send for her she will be able to answer that question.

48,564. Where were you living in 1862?—In the same house as I am now.

48,565. With your father?—My father was dead in 1862.

48,566. How long had he died before that?—In 1859.

48,567. He was Conservative, was not he?—Yes.

48,568. Do you know a man of the name of Edward Angel?—Yes.

48,569. Has he ever come to you to talk about election matters?—We are relations.

48,570. What relations are you?—Second or third cousins; one or the other; a long way off.

48,571. Which way has he voted?—For the Liberals.

48,572. Did he ever tell you that he had got any for his vote?—Never.

48,573. Did he not offer you some money on the Liberal side?—No.

48,574. Or say that you could get it?—No.

48,575. At no time?—Not at any time.

48,576. Do you know whether he saw your sister about it?—No.

48,577. He saw some one about your vote; who was it?—He never saw any one about my vote.

E. Angel.

EDWARD ANGEL sworn and examined.

48,578. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—A tailor.

48,579. How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—Since 1839.

48,580. Since 1855 have you always voted for the Liberals?—Yes.

48,581. What have you had for voting for them?—I have had 50*l.* on two occasions.

48,582. When were those two occasions?—In 1863 and 1865.

48,583. Who gave you the 50*l.*?—Thomas Jacob Searle.

48,584. Was he any relation of yours?—No.

48,585. Had you made any arrangement with him as to what money you were to receive?—No.

48,586. He brought the money and paid it to you?—Yes.

48,587. Do you know Putt?—Yes.

48,588. Have you ever had any talk with Putt about his vote?—Never.

48,589. At any time?—Not at any time.

48,590. Did you ever hear of this company of Searle's?—I never knew of it until I saw it in the newspaper.

48,591. Did you know that Searle had influenced a good many voters?—I believe he had had to do with some.

48,592. Did you ever hear that in the election of 1862 he wanted 1,000*l.* for seven votes?—I did.

48,593. And that Putt was one of them?—I never knew of it or heard of it until I saw it in the newspaper.

48,594. Were you one of them?—No.

48,595. He did not negotiate for you?—He did not.

48,596. Did you ever see the sister of Putt about his vote?—I never spoke to her in my life about his vote.

48,597. Were you offered any money on the other side?—Yes, in 1862.

48,598. Who offered you money on the other side?—Mr. Philip Niner.

48,599. How much did he offer you?—He offered me 50*l.* to vote for Mr. Dent, then 100*l.*, and then 150*l.* I told him it was of no use, that I could not support them, but that I would remain neutral.

48,600. Whose house do you live in?—In my own house.

48,601. Is it mortgaged to anyone?—No.

48,602. Is it leasehold or freehold?—It is a long lease.

48,603. A lease from whom? To whom does it go when the lease is at an end?—It is a long lease; 999 years.

48,604. Did they offer you any money in 1865?—No.

48,605. Did they canvass you?—Yes.

48,606. They did not offer you any money?—They did not.

48,607. With the exception of those two sums, you never received any money whatever?—None whatever.

48,608. With regard to any other persons, did you influence any other persons to vote?—No.

48,609. Nor offer them any advantage?—Never in my life.

48,610. You have had nothing to do with Putt, either directly or indirectly, about his vote?—Nothing whatever.

J. Southwood.

JOHN SOUTHWOOD sworn and examined.

48,611. (Mr. Longe.) What are you?—A farmer.

48,612. Where is your farm?—In Diptford parish.

48,613. Have you a vote for land and buildings?—Yes; a field.

48,614. Who did you take that field from?—Mr. Durant.

48,615. How near is that field to your farm?—I should think about six miles.

48,616. Did you ask for that field?—No; my father had it before me.

48,617. How many acres does that field contain?—Three and a half acres.

48,618. Has anyone else a vote on that field?—My father had it before me.

48,619. Has anyone else got a vote for it now?—I have not got it now.

48,620. When did you last vote?—I voted in 1865 for Seymour and Pender.

48,621. In 1863 whom did you vote for; had you a vote then?—Yes, I had.

48,622. And you voted for Mr. Seymour?—Yes.

48,623. In 1862, about a month before, whom had you voted for then?—For Mr. Pender.

48,624. Had you a vote in 1859?—No, my father was not dead then; the first time I voted was for Mr. Pender.

48,625. Did Mr. Pender canvass you?—Yes; he came out there to me.

48,626. Did you promise him your vote at once?—I do not know that I did. I wished him success. I knew that my father had voted on the Liberal side before, and of course I thought I should do the same.

48,627. After the election did you get anything at all?—Nothing.

48,628. Not in any shape?—No.

48,629. In 1863 were you canvassed by Mr. Seymour?—I cannot remember whether Mr. Seymour was there himself or not.

48,630. But you were canvassed?—I think I was.

48,631. You remember promising your vote to Mr. Seymour?—I do not know that. I promised my vote to the Liberals; I do not know whether I promised it to Mr. Seymour; I cannot recollect whether he was there or not.

48,632. Were you canvassed for Mr. Dent?—Yes.

48,633. Who canvassed you for the Conservatives?—Mr. Dent was there himself.

48,634. Did anyone else come to you?—There was someone else with him.

48,635. But on any other occasion did any one come without Mr. Dent?—No; I do not recollect that they did.

48,636. Was any offer made to you by the Conservatives for your vote?—No.

48,637. And no offer was made to you at either of those elections?—No.

48,638. In 1865 was any offer made to you by the Conservatives?—Not that I can recollect at all.

48,639. Did anyone come from the Conservative party and ask you for your vote?—Yes, I was introduced to Colonel Dawkins.

48,640. Do you remember who was with Colonel Dawkins on that occasion?—There were three or four gentlemen with him.

48,641. Did they call at your house?—Yes.

48,642. Who else came?—No one that I know of.

48,643. Did any one come with Captain Pim?—I do not think Captain Pim was introduced to me at all; I had circulars from both of them.

48,644. After the last election you did receive something from the Liberals?—Not a farthing.

48,645. Is there any other Southwood besides you?—No.

48,646. When did you give up this field?—Not a great while after the election. Mr. Durant asked me to give it up; I did not want the grass, and I gave it up.

48,647. Did he tell you why he wanted you to give it up?—No.

48,648. Did he give you no reason for it?—Not at all; I have been as friendly with Mr. Durant as ever I was, and he with me; he has been to my house since that.

48,649. (Mr. Bere.) Did you go and see Mr. Jeffery Michelmore during the election of 1865?—I never was here until the day of the election.

48,650. Did you go to the "Seymour" hotel?—Yes.

48,651. What time in the morning did you go there?—I came away from my house some time in the forenoon.

48,652. And then you went to the "Seymour"?—Yes; that was some time after I got to Totnes.

48,653. Did you vote before you went to the "Seymour"?—I think I did not.

48,654. What time in the day did you vote?—It could not have been very long after I came to Totnes.

48,645*a*. Just try and remember what time it was You did not vote very early, as you are voter No. 243; was it before dinner?—Yes, it certainly must have been before dinner; I should think so.

48,646*a*. How long were you at the "Seymour" altogether?—I do not suppose I was there a quarter of an hour.

48,647*a*. Who did you see there?—There were plenty of people there.

48,648*a*. Did you see Mr. Jeffery Michelmore there?—I do not recollect seeing him there.

48,649*a*. Did you talk to him about the election?—I do not recollect it.

48,650*a*. Whom did you talk to when you were at the "Seymour"?—I think I chiefly spoke to Mr. Pender; he was at my house when I was not at home, and he left his card; then I went over to the "Seymour" and spoke to him.

48,651*a*. What did you say to him; did you tell him you had come here to vote for him?—Yes.

48,652*a*. And did he say he was very much obliged to you?—He said that he was very much obliged to me indeed.

48,653*a*. Did he say that he would do something for you?—Not at all. I never asked him.

48,654*a*. Did you go into the big room at the "Seymour" and have something to drink?—Perhaps I might have a glass of grog.

48,655. Was it not early in the morning?—Not very early; it might have been an hour after I came into the town. I did not leave my house until the forenoon, and had to ride some distance.

48,656. How far was it?—Some six miles.

48,657. Mr. Michelmore has mentioned your name as having had some money?—That is a very great mistake on Mr. Michelmore's part.

48,658. Have you ever been offered money by the Tory party at any election?—The Conservative party have been out to me, but I never would promise them my vote.

48,659. Or tell them that you had been offered any money on the other side?—I never told the Conservatives that I had been offered any money on the Liberal side, not a farthing.

48,660. Had you been offered any?—No, the Liberal party never offered me a farthing. I never saw the sight of a farthing.

JOHN CROOK sworn and examined.

J. Crook.

48,661. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you?—A miller.

48,662. Where do you live?—At Fleet Mill.

48,663. Is that in Bridgetown?—Yes.

48,664. What is your qualification?—A building and land.

48,665. How much do you pay for that?—10*l.* a year.

48,666. Does anyone else vote on it?—No.

48,667. Do you stock it yourself?—It is a tillage field. I grow corn and potatoes, and so on.

48,668. Do you manure it yourself?—Yes.

48,669. And reap your own crops?—Yes.

48,670. When first had you a vote?—I never voted. I claimed a vote in 1865.

48,671. You never have voted yet?—No.

48,672. Have you ever been busy at elections?—Not at all.

48,673. Have you ever canvassed anyone—No.

48,674. Or given anyone any money?—No.

48,675. Or helped to take away any voters?—Nothing of the kind.

48,676. You have not had the opportunity of getting into any trouble yet?—I have not.

Mrs. BENNETT sworn and examined.

Mrs. Bennett.

48,677. (Mr Bere.) Whose wife are you?—Mr. Joseph Bennett's.

48,678. Is he a silversmith in this town?—Yes.

48,679. Is Frederick George Putt your brother?—Yes.

48,680. Did you go to see him in 1863 about his vote?—I never went to see him.

48,681. Will you tell us what passed?—I cannot tell you.

48,682. Did you offer him 50*l.*?—No, 40*l.*

48,683. Who authorized you to offer him 40*l.*?—My husband.

48,684. Who did he get his authority from?—From Mr. John Heath.

48,685. What did your brother say?—That he would accept it.

48,686. Was that all that passed?—That was the whole.

48,687. Then he went away?—He went from our shop.

48,688. How long before the election was that?—I cannot say.

48,689. Was it a day or two before?—It might have been 10 or 12 days.

48,690. And it might have been one or two days?—It was some time before.

48,691. When did you next hear from your brother?—On the day of the nomination.

48,692. What did you hear?—That he would not entertain it.

48,693. Was that the whole that he said?—Yes.

THIRTY-FIFTH DAY.

Mrs. Bennett.

29 Oct. 1866.

48,694. That he would not entertain the offer ?—That was all.

48,695. Did you ever afterwards speak to him about changing his mind ?—No, not at all.

48,696. You saw him on the nomination day ?—No.

48,697. Not to speak to him ?—No.

48,698. Did he ever tell you why he had changed his mind ?—Never.

48,699. (Mr. Coleridge.) He said here to-day that as he was going down the street you called him in ?—I did not.

48,700. You did not have any conversation with him on the nomination day ?—No.

48,701. When did you next see him ?—It might have been a month. It is seldom that I see him.

48,702. You did have some conversation with him about his changing his mind ?—I cannot say I recollect it. I might have done so.

48,703. Did he ever tell you why he had changed his mind ?—Never.

48,704. Did you ask him ?—I do not think I did.

48,705. Did you ever talk to your sister Mary Ann about his changing his mind ?—Never.

48,706. Did she tell you so ?—No.

48,707. Were you authorized to offer any other persons money for their votes besides your brother ?—Not that I recollect.

48,708. Was there no one else ?—I think not.

48,709. Did you see Mr. Heath yourself, or was it all done through your husband ?—Through my husband.

48,710. Did your husband get anything for his vote ?—Not that I know of.

48,711. You did not get anything for him ?—No.

John Tucker.

JOHN TUCKER sworn and examined.

48,712. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you had a vote ?—Since 1862.

48,713. You did not vote in 1863 ?—I did not.

48,714. What was the reason for that ?—I had a reason for it.

48,715. What was the reason ?—Mr. Presswell came to me just before the election, and asked me if I would do him a favour. I said, "What is that ?" After some few minutes he said, "Vote for Mr. "Dent." I said, "I will not promise you, but I will "promise you one thing, that I will not vote against "him." And we parted upon that.

48,716. What reason was there for Mr. Presswell asking you to do him a favour ?—Mr. Presswell is one of the trustees of the place that I live in.

48,717. Your landlord in fact ?—Yes; and I rent another place under a Mrs. Anthony, of which he is the trustee, and I pay the rent to him, and he has done me many little favours besides.

48,718. Did he do any little favour for you after the election ?—Not at all.

48,719. You had something in 1862 ?—No.

46,720. Not 25*l.* ?—No.

48,721. Did not Robert Bourne give you the money ?—It was John Knapman who gave it to me.

43,722. You did not vote in 1863 ?—I did not vote at all.

48,723. It was before the election of 1863 that you got the 25*l.* ?—No, the same day; the money was paid the same day as the polllng was, in the morning.

48,724. You got 25*l.* for not voting ?—Yes; I made up my mind not to vote before that; he offered me money the day before, and I thought I might as well take it.

48,725. Is that all the money you ever had ?—Yes.

48,726. Did you get nothing the last time ?—I did not; I do not think my vote was good.

48,727. Which way did you vote ?—For Dawkins and Pim.

48,728. Was your vote objected to when you tendered it on the hustings ?—No; it had been objected to before.

48,729. You did not vote, you only went and tendered your vote ?—Yes.

48,730. What were you promised ?—Nothing.

48,731. Did they not offer you something ?—No.

48,732. Are you quite sure of that ?—Yes.

48,733. Had they been to you before the election to canvass you ?—No; I did not consider my vote was any good, as the barrister would not allow the vote.

48,734. (Mr. Coleridge.) At Mr. Dent's election you promised Mr. Presswell that if you did not vote for him you would not vote againt him; are you a Liberal ?—Yes.

48,735. In 1862 did you vote for Pender and Seymour ?—Yes.

48,736. Then how came you to tender your vote for the two Conservatives 1865 ?—I had got ground under them then.

48,737. Under whom had you ?—Under Mr. Dent.

48,738. And you were afraid that you would be turned out ?—I was turned out of the duke's land after receiving 25*l.*; the other party offered me a field and that was the reason I was turned out.

John Gillham, jun.

JOHN GILLHAM, jun., sworn and examined.

48,739. (Mr. Longe.) What are you ?—A blacksmith.

48,740. Where do you live ?—At Bridgetown.

48,741. What do you vote for ?—A house and land.

48,742. The house you are living in ?—Yes.

48,743. You have a vote for your own house ?—I never voted for the house I live in now.

48,744. You vote for land and buildings ?—Yes, and the shop.

48,745. Where is the field that gives you a vote ?—We have got four fields.

48,746. Of the duke's ?—Yes.

48,747. Who do you mean when you say we ?—Me and my father.

48,748. You both have votes for those fields ?—Yes.

48,749. Has anyone else a vote for those fields ?—No.

48,750. How long have you held them ?—For six years.

48,751. Does your house carry a vote ?—No; I was in partnership with my father for the last twelve months.

48,752. Is not your house a 10*l.* house ?—It is.

48,753. When did you first vote ?—In 1862.

48,754. Who did you vote for then ?—Mr. Pender.

48,755. Before the election did you get anything ?—Nothing at all.

48,756. Who canvassed you for Mr. Pender ?—Mr. Pender himself.

48,757. Who was with him ?—I think young Mr. Windeatt.

48,758. When he canvassed you what answer did you give him ?—I promised him my vote.

48,759. You got nothing whatever from anyone at that election ?—Nothing at all.

48,760. A month or two afterwards were you canvassed by Mr. Seymour ?—Yes.

48761. Who canvassed you ?—Mr. Seymour and Mr. Jeffery Michelmore.

48,762. What did you tell them ?—I promised Mr. Seymour my vote.

48,763. How long was that before the election?—t may have been a week.

48,764. Were you canvassed by the Conservatives it the election of Mr. Dent?—No.

48,765. At neither of those elections were you canassed by the Conservatives?—No.

48,766. Did anyone come to you on their behalf?—No.

48,767. In 1865 who did you vote for?—For Seynour and Pender.

48,768. Who first canvassed you then?—Mr. Seynour.

48,769. Whom did he come with?—Mr. Jeffery Michelmore.

48,770. What answer did you give to him?—I promised him my vote.

48,771. Did Mr. Pender canvass you personally?—I think young Mr. Windeatt was with him.

48,772. What answer did you give him?—I promised him my vote.

48,773. Were you canvassed by Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim?—No.

48,774. Or by anyone for them—No.

48,775. Did no one come to you from the Conservatives?—No.

48,776. Or to your father?—I believe they did.

48,777. Did he act for both?—No.

48,778. After the last election was not a present made you by the Liberals?—No.

48,779. You did not receive some money after the election of 1865?—No; not a farthing.

48,780. (Mr. Bere.) Did not Thomas Holman pay your mother 40*l.*?—I know nothing about that.

48,781. Did you not know that was for your vote and your father's?—I had nothing to do with the money.

48,782. But you knew that your mother had received it?—No, I did not, before I saw it in the newspaper.

48,783. Have you had any talk with your mother about that 40*l.* since you have found out she had it?—No.

48,784. Have you said nothing to her about it?—No.

48,785. You were surprised to hear that she had got this 40*l.*?—I was.

48,786. (Mr. Longe.) Do you remember a man of the name of Johns calling on you?—We were almost always together, 48,787. Did you say anything to him about your vote at the last election, or he to you?—Not that I know of.

48,788. Do you remember his talking to you about voting for the Conservatives?—He asked me many times which way I was going to vote.

48,789. Has he told you that you could get money from the Conservatives?—Yes, he has.

48,790. When was the last time that he talked to you about it?—About a week or two before the last election.

48,791. What sum did he mention?—He never offered me any sum at all.

48,792. From whom was he to get it?—I have heard him say that Harris told him to ask me whether I would vote on that side.

48,793. From whom was he to get the money?—That I do not know.

48,794. What did he tell you?—He asked me if I could get a little money whether I would not vote on that side, and I said, no. I never thought of taking any money.

48,795. Was Johns the only one who came to you from the Conservatives?—In 1862 young John Heath came to me to ask me if I would vote for Mr. Dent.

48,796. Did he offer you any money?—Yes, 100*l.*; he took it out of his bag to give to me.

48,797. And offered it to you?—Yes, he did.

48,798. Where was that?—In Weston Lane, not far from my shop, as I was going up the lane.

48,799. He met you there?—Yes.

48,800. Did you take it?—I did not.

48,801. Did John Heath ever offer you any money again?—No.

48,802. Was no other offer ever made you by the Conservatives?—No.

48,803. At this last election did any one besides Johns offer you any money for the Conservatives?—No.

48,804. Have you ever taken part in giving money to anyone for their vote?—No.

48,805. Not on either side?—No.

48,806. (Mr. Bere.) You knew that your father always got money for his vote?—No, I do not believe that he ever had any.

48,807. You knew that many times money has been going to your house on account of votes?—Yes, I have seen it on the table, but I have never had any of it.

48,808. You say that you were in partnership with your father?—Yes.

48,809. Did you keep an account together?—Yes, of the blacksmith's shop.

48,810. When you wanted money to buy materials and so on, did you go to your father for it?—No, I used to keep all the accounts for the smith's work.

48,811. Were you only a partner with him as regards the smith's work?—I used to look after the cows; he lived at the "New Inn" at Bridgetown.

48,812. You did not live there too?—Yes, I did then.

48,813. Are you married?—Yes.

48,814. Did you keep a joint house with your father during the time you have been speaking of?—I did then, but I have left it now for some 18 months.

48,815. At the time of the election were you living with your father?—Yes, I was.

48,816. You have never found money coming unexpectedly to your business?—Never.

48,817. If your father has received any money he has never told you anything about it?—Never.

48,818. (Mr. Coleridge.) You never found yourself more prosperous a day or two after the election?—No.

48,819. You never found things easier?—No.

48,820. (Mr. Bere.) Do you work for Mr. Michelmore?—No.

48,821. For the duke?—Yes.

48,822. Regularly?—Yes.

48,823. Do you do the blacksmith's work on the estate?—Yes.

48,824. If any money came into the farm would you know it?—No.

48,825. You would not know whether it was in the business or not?—No; I never received any, nor my wife.

48,826. I put the general question; did you ever directly or indirectly receive money for your vote?—No.

48,827. Neither directly or indirectly influenced anybody for their vote?—No.

EDWARD WILLIS sworn and examined.

E. Willis.

48,828. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you Mr. Willis?—Innkeeper.

48,829. You keep the "Bull" inn?—Yes.

48,830. How long have you had a vote?—26 years.

48,831. How have you generally voted?—Liberally.

48,832. Always Liberally?—The first time I voted for Baldwin.

48,833. Did you get anything for that?—No.

48,834. Did you vote in 1859, at Dunn's election?—Yes.

THIRTY-FIFTH DAY.

E. Willis.

29 Oct. 1866.

48,835. For Lord Gifford and Mr. Mills you voted?—Yes.

48,836. What did you get?—50*l.*

48,837. Who gave you that?—Mr. Holman.

48,838. Was that the first time you ever got anything?—No.

48,839. Did you get anything in 1857?—No, I had no vote; I had left the town.

48,840. In 1862, how did you vote?—For Mr. Pender.

48,841. What did you get then?—50*l.*

48,842. Who gave it to you?—Mr. Holman.

48,843. You were one of the slippery company at that time?—No, I never heard of it till I saw it in print.

48,844. In 1865, what did you get then?—50*l.*

48,845. Who gave it to you?—Mr. Holman.

48,846. Is that all you got?—Yes.

48,847. Did any money pass through your hands?—No, nothing.

48,848. Had you anything to do with taking people away and keeping them comfortable?—No.

48,849. Was 50*l.* all you got in 1865?—That is all.

48,850. We hear you took some of the lame ducks away?—No.

48,851. Do you recollect Mr. Condy paying for some bill of yours in 1862?—There was a little account at one time, for breakfast.

48,852. Did not Mr. Condy pay you for that?—I cannot recollect; I think it was Mr. Chaster.

48,853. How much was it?—10*l.*, I think.

48,854. You have been rather discontented about its being allowed to stand over so long?—No.

48,855. You thought the 50*l.* at every election would cover that?—Yes.

48,856. Have you ever voted in municipal elections?—No.

48,857. You have always been paid by Mr. Holman?—Yes.

48,858. At your house?—Yes, put on the table.

48,859. Did you give any receipt for it?—No.

J. Fairweather.

JOSEPH FAIRWEATHER sworn and examined.

48,860. How long have you had a vote?—Since Mr. Mills' last election.

48,861. Whom did you vote for then?—Mr. Mills.

48,862. Have you always voted for the Liberals?—Yes.

48,863. Have you had anything for voting?—No.

48,864. Never at any time?—No.

48,865. Where do you live?—In Totnes.

48,866. Whom do you rent a house of?—It is my own house.

48,867. Freehold house?—Yes.

48,868. Have you ever directly or indirectly received any money to vote?—No.

48,869. Or allowed money to pass through your hands?—No.

48,870. Are you a member of the same chapel as Mr. Windeatt?—Yes.

48,871. Are you on familiar terms with him?—Yes.

48,872. Are most of the members of the chapel the same way of thinking, Liberal?—Generally; there are a few not.

48,873. The majority are generally Liberals?—Yes.

48,874. Are you in any office in the chapel?—I am one of the deacons.

S.P. Sharpham.

SAMUEL PENNY SHARPHAM sworn and examined.

48,875. (Mr. Longe.) Do you live in Fore Street?—I do.

48,876. Do you vote for your house?—Yes.

48,877. Is that your own?—No.

48,878. Whose is it?—Mr. Shute's.

48,879. Mr. Shute, junior?—Mr. John Shute.

48,880. How long have you lived in the house?—Nine or ten years.

48,881. Have you had a vote for the borough all that time?—Yes.

48,882. Had you voted before that?—Yes.

48,883. Where did you live before that?—Two doors below in the same street.

48,884. Who was your landlord then?—Mr. Harris.

48,885. Which side did you vote then?—Liberal.

48,886. Have you always voted on the same side?—Yes.

48,887. Always for the Liberals?—Yes.

48,888. Never for the Conservatives?—Never.

48,889. Have you voted at every election?—No.

48,890. You voted in 1859 for Mills and Gifford?—No, I was not a voter then.

48,891. You voted at the three last elections?—The two last elections on the premises I now occupy.

48,892. Did you vote for Mr. Pender?—I did.

48,893. In 1862?—Yes.

48,894. Did you vote for Mr. Seymour in 1863?—Yes.

48,895. And you voted for Pender and Seymour in 1865?—Yes.

48,896. You voted at three elections?—Yes.

48,897. Have you ever received anything for your vote?—No, not from Mr. Pender.

48,898. At those three elections did you receive anything for your vote?—Not a farthing.

48,899. Has your wife received anything?—No one, direct or indirect.

48,900. Was any offer ever made you?—No.

48,901. Not by either side?—No.

48,902. Did you ever take part in the electioneering in getting votes?—No.

48,903. Ever canvass for the Liberals?—No.

48,904. Ever offer anyone any money?—No.

48,905. Or take part in any money being paid to anybody?—No.

48,906. (Mr. Bere.) Is your son-in-law in Mr. Pender's employment?—Yes.

48,907. How long?—Twelve months last August.

48,908. How was it he went to Mr. Pender's employment?—He was assistant warder at Dartmoor prison, and about a week before the election day he sent in his resignation to give up that situation.

48,909. Did you know he was going to send in his resignation?—Not till I received a letter from my daughter; and I wrote an answer back desiring him not, but to withdraw the resignation and remain where he was. However, he did not think proper to do so, and he came home; and after the evening of the election day, after I had voted, I spoke to Mr. Pender, and I asked him whether he could employ my son. He asked me what he was, and I said, "He is "a labourer." "What occupation is he fit for?" I told him he had been a soldier for ten years, and had got a discharge, and had been since about three years in Dartmoor prison as assistant warder, but he did not like the situation, and he wanted to do something else. He said, "What was he paid there?" And I said, "About 75*l.* a year." And he said he could do nothing in that way. "The wages in my firm are "from 18*s.* to 1*l.* a week." And he said, "If he "comes to Manchester I will get him instructed to be "a packer, that he may be able to maintain his wife "and family comfortably."

48,910. Then he went to Manchester, and is there now?—Yes, he is there now.

48,911. Do you know what wages he is now getting?—22*s.* a week.

48,912. Though you did not get any money recently, did you get some leather once?—Oh, yes.

48,913. When was that?—That was in 1839.

48,914. As long ago as that?—As long ago as that.

48,915. How much leather did you get then?—I can hardly tell, somewhere about 20*l.*

48,916. Was it from John Shute?—No.

48,917. Who from?—Samuel Parnell.

48,918. Are you a shoemaker?—I am.

48,919. Did you have any leather at the last election?—No.

48,920. Had you anything to do with Screach in 1839?—No, never.

48,921. Screach has said here, before he became an elector you had seen four electors, John Guest, Edward Shinner, William Winsor, and James Roberts?—John Guest and I were very intimate friends; we were always on very intimate terms, like brothers. At Blount's election William Harris called at my house, and solicited my vote for Mr. Baldwin. I told him I could not do any such thing; he knew what my principles were; they were Liberal, and I could not vote for him. I had a slate down by my bench, and he took it up and put down a 2 and a 0, and I understood that to be 20*l.*; he said he thought that would be of some service to me. I said "I am very poor, and "I must say money would be very acceptable, but I "cannot accept it under these conditions;" so he went away. Then I saw a friend of mine, John Guest, and told him the circumstances. He was a Liberal, a decided Liberal he was; I had no idea he was going to be a Conservative. He and John Screach I knew were intimate also, but I had nothing to do with their intimacy. We had a talk together, and by-and-by Mr. Harris came in, that is the son of my landlady. He came and said he was going to give anything and everything I wished. I told him I could do nothing for him; I could not vote for the Tory candidate, as he wanted to get me. I told him I intended to keep on the Liberal side, and vote as before; I would not go down to the Tory bidding. The name of William Winsor I know nothing about.

48,922. Do you know whether John Guest got 50*l.* from Screach?—He told me he was going to have 50*l.*

48,923. Did he give you any of it?—Not a farthing.

48,924. Did you vote for Blount?—I did.

48,925. You have not received any money for your vote?—Never.

48,926. You never received any money for your vote, except in 1839?—Never, sir.

WILLIAM SAWYER sworn and examined.

W. Sawyer.

48,927. (Mr. Coleridge.) You keep the "Castle," in the Fore Street?—I do.

48,928. When did you first vote, Mills's?—I was not in possession then.

48,929. Whose election; was it Dunn's election?—Mills' election was the first election after 1853.

48,930. That was an unopposed election of Lord Seymour; the next was 1857?—Then I voted Seymour and Mills.

48,931. What had you to do in that election?—Nothing more than vote.

48,932. Did you give any money away then?—No.

48,933. Did you get any money?—Oh, no.

48,934. After the election?—No.

48,935. You had nothing in 1857, and did nothing but vote?—Nothing but vote.

48,936. In 1859, when Mills and Gifford and Dunn stood?—I had always voted for the Liberals, and I have always refused the Tories.

48,937. Were you then offered anything on Dunn's side?—No.

48,938. Did you get anything at that election?—No.

48,939. Did you give anything?—No.

48,940. Did you not give anybody anything?—No.

48,941. Did you promise money to any voters?—Nothing; I am a strong partizan, but I never attempted to influence anyone.

48,942, You influenced them in a practical manner, a man named Sloggett you got away at the election?—That is false.

48,943. Did you not try the man?—No; I had nothing to do with Sloggett in any way.

48,944. You got mixed up with him somewhere in company?—Not to my knowledge.

48,945. What Mr. Harris says is not true?—No.

48,946. In 1862 you voted for Pender?—I did.

48,947. Did you not send anybody anything then, or receive anything?—Never.

48,948. In 1863 you voted for Seymour, I suppose?—Yes.

48,949. You had nothing to do with Sloggett in 1863?—Never. It was a false report, nothing but suspicion; there was room for suspicion.

48,950. Tell us what it was; what is the history of it?—On the Sunday I went to take a walk, and I called at a public house in Dartington, Whiteaway's. I had never been there before or since. I sat down for two or three hours with Mr. Whiteaway, and there was Sloggett having his tea. When I left the house Sloggett left. We were in the same room, but a very short time together. Coming from that house, I believe I called at the "Railway" hotel.

48,951. With Sloggett?—Yes; and the intention was to go to the "Seymour" or the "Stars." It was close to the council election.

48,952. The Sunday before the election of 1863?—It was on a Sunday evening. We cut the journey short, and called in at the "King's Arms," and I had Sloggett there too.

48,953. Did he tell you he had been offered money?—No.

48,954. What did he tell you? Did he not say they had been trying him on the other side?—Perhaps he thought that I was so mixed up in it, being a strong partizan, he would not. I dare say he wished himself out of my company.

48,955. But one way or the other did he not tell you that the other side had offered something?—Oh, stop, you remind me that I know of something; he told me he was to be the man to capsize the election in favour of Mr. Pender, and that he was to be paid by the Tories.

48,956. Did he tell you by Frederick Evens?—No.

48,957. Had you anything to do with a man called Searle?—No.

48,958. In 1865 you voted for Pender and Seymour?—Yes.

48,959. Had you anything more to do with the voting?—I persuaded Captain Pim to withdraw.

48,960. You did not let him go away?—I take credit to myself that I frightened him away.

48,961. He did not go?—By the advice I gave him I persuaded him, and opened his eyes to show that it was useless spending any money.

48,962. Did he mean to spend money when he first came down?—I do not know what his intention was, but I gave him advice enough to stop him.

48,963. You had known him before?—No.

48,964. He came to you on the opposite side; how is that?—He called on me and canvassed me, Commander Pim, James Heath, Captain Veitch, and Mr. Hare. Mr. James Heath being very zealous, he introduced Captain Pim. He looked only two minutes in Mr. Bickford's shop and came up and introduced Commander Pim to me: he says, "This, Mr. Sawyer, "he is an old tar."

48,965. You had been a sailor?—I had; he thought, being a brother chip, he might got a vote from me. I told him it was of no use; I never voted for the Tories in my life, and I should not on this occasion. Mr. Heath was strong in his persuasion, at which I felt very much insulted, and before the other two gentlemen arrived I said, "Commander Pim, take my advice, sir, pay your hotel bill and cut."

48,966. He did not take your advice?—He said, "What for?" Mr. Heath was still very strong and zealous for Commander Pim. I thought a young man like that had no business to have any retainer, and, as I said before, I felt very much insulted. I said, "Take my advice, go back; pay your hotel bill and get clear of those thimble riggers."

48,967. Have you ever been asked to do any work about elections, to go and canvass voters?—No.

48,968. You never canvassed any voter?—I never did. I never canvassed but 10 men for myself.

48,969. You stood for the council?—Yes.

48,970. That cost you something?—No, not a farthing. It never cost me 10*s*.

48,971. Who paid the bill for you?—I know nothing of any bill. I stood on my own merits.

48,972. You had a goodish bill paid you at the election time?—A very large bill. I can show it to you.

48,973. Tell us how much it was?—I do not know; I never saw the bill. I do not like anything untrue. I like for the Conservatives to be proved fools and liars, when they deserve it. I may be a very strong partizan, but I never did do anything dirty, and I wish the world to know it. Here is the day book (producing it), and I never posted it. Mr. Jeffery Michelmore and others called at my house, and they had luncheon during the election. Some gentlemen paid their bills, but here you will find daily what the amount of the expenses was; it was about four days; 15 luncheons and 27 brandies. I have never seen this book till about two hours ago.

48,974. I see one is about 13*l*. 13*s*.; tell us shortly what the amount is of the other. Is it 20*l*.?—No, it is not.

48,975. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you been on the register?—Since Christmas 1852.

48,976. Are you your own landlord?—Yes.

48,977. It is your own house?—Yes.

48,978. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you any land of the Duke's?—No.

48,979. Nothing in Bridgetown or Gerston?—No; I wish I had.

48,980. Did you rent under the Duke?—I forget whether I ever rented under the Duke. I want to get the rent of a farm, but I get no chance; I am too strong a partizan to get a sweetener.

G. Mason.

CHARLES GEORGE MASON sworn.

48,981. (Mr. Bere.) Whom did you vote for in 1863?—Seymour.

48,982. If you had not been a tenant of Mr. Durant should you have voted for Mr. Dent?—No, I do not know that I should. This is the first time I ever voted.

48,983. What were your politics?—My friends are Conservatives.

48,984. You are not a Conservative?—No, I am not.

48,985. Whom did you vote for in 1865?—Pender and Seymour.

48,986. Did you get any offer from the other side?—No.

48,987. On neither occasion?—No.

48,988. Before Mr. Durant came and canvassed you?—No; he never asked me to vote in any way on any occasion.

48,989. Did you ever receive any money or advantage directly or indirectly?—I have not, of any sort.

48,990. You never tried to influence anybody else?—Certainly not.

48,991. (Mr. Longe.) What gives you the vote; is it a field?—A field in the borough of Totnes.

48,992. Your farm is not?—My farm is not.

48,993. Do you know how many fields there are of Mr. Durant's that give votes?—I do not.

48,994. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you been a voter, since 1860 or 1861?—1861, I think.

48,995. Had you got the field before you became a voter?—I had this field in the year 1861. I had the field before the farm.

48,996. Is it a field with a linhay on it?—Yes.

48,997. Is it an open linhay?—Yes, with a water tank.

48,998. What is the value of it?—20 guineas a year.

48,999. Are you the only person who occupies it?—The only person.

49,000. You occupy it with your own cattle?—I occupy it entirely with my own.

49,001. (Mr. Coleridge.) Nobody votes upon it?—No.

49,002. (Mr. Bere.) You have considerable property of your own?—I have some.

49,003. Did you ever say in Mr. Harris's presence you wished Mr. Dent success, but as you qualified upon Mr. Durant's property you feel bound to vote for Mr. Seymour?—I am not aware of it.

N. Gidley.

NICHOLAS GIDLEY sworn and examined.

49,004. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you had a vote?—From the passing of the Reform Bill.

49,005. Have you always voted one way?—No.

49,006. You first of all voted for the Tories, did you not?—I did.

49,007. How long did you continue to vote for them?—Until, I believe, the last two elections.

49,008. What money did you get for voting for them?—Never one farthing.

49,009. Did not Screach at one time try?—Oh no, not try, by no means.

49,010. Did you vote in 1850?—I was not one of the party.

49,011. In 1840, did you vote for the Tories?—Yes.

49,012. Did you know that Screach had got 400*l*.; 100*l*. for you, 100*l*. for himself, and 100*l*. each for two others?—I never heard anything of the sort.

49,013. He never gave you any of the 100*l*.?—Not a farthing.

49,014. Is there any other Nicholas Gidley besides yourself?—There was one who was a baker, and I believe he went away to America. I have not heard from him since.

49,015. Was he a relation of yours?—None whatever.

49,016. Did he vote for the Conservatives?—That I do not know.

49,017. What made you change?—Because I liked the Liberals better than the Tories.

49,018. You voted for Pender in 1862?—I did.

49,019. That was the first time you voted for them?—I believe it was. I am not exactly certain.

49,020. Are you Mr. Chaster's father-in-law?—Yes.

49,021. Did the change take place after?—Oh, no.

49,022. You had not had an opportunity of showing the change till after Mr. Chaster was your son-in-law, had you?—That was not the case, sir.

49,023. Have you at any time ever received money for your vote?—Never one penny, or the value of it.

49,024. Did you ever try to get a voter to vote by offering to pay?—I never asked a man in my life.

49,025. (Mr. Coleridge.) What was your reason, after 30 years with one love, taking to another; what made you change your mind after voting consistently for the Conservatives?—I can hardly tell; because the Liberals had the pre-eminence as to the right of voting in towns, and I joined with them.

49,026. You wanted to vote with the majority, was that it ?—I do not know about the majority.

49,027. (Mr. Longe.) You wished to be on the winning side ?—Yes.

49,028. (Mr Coleridge.) Was it Mr. Chaster's persuasive eloquence that made you think so ?—I do not know that ever Mr. Chaster persuaded me at all.

49,029. The only reason was the Liberals had a majority and you wished to make one more ?—Exactly so.

49,030. You had been on the losing side so many times in your life that you wished to be on the winning side ?—If I could.

George Mark sworn and examined. G. Mark.

49,031. (Mr. Bere.) Are you a tenant in Dartington ?—Yes.

49,032. Who do you rent under ?—Champernowne and Dent.

49,033. Which way have you voted ?—The Conservatives.

49,034. Always ?—I only voted once.

49,035, How much do you rent of Mr. Dent ?—About 13 acres.

49,036. Are you the only person who votes for that 13 acres ?—I am not voting upon the 13 acres.

49,037. What do you vote for ?—As a British farmer.

49,038, (Mr. Coleridge.) Whom do you pay your rent to ?—Mr. Dent or Mr. Bryett.

49,039. Have you got a brother who has a vote ?—Yes.

49,040. Was he away at the last election ?—Yes.

49,041. Did you get some money to bring him back ? Yes.

49,042. How much ?—5*l.*

49,043. Where was he ?—At Windsor, in the 1st Life Guards.

49,044. You had him down and he voted ?—Yes.

49,045. Did you have money for your vote ?—To go there. Mr. Harris communicated to my brother about his coming down to vote, and he said he would come if they would pay his expenses. I found it would cost 5*l.* to go there and back.

49,046. How did he get the vote, he being in the Life Guards ?—He was here at the time. He said he would come if they would pay the expenses; it would cost 5*l* ; at the same time, they were leaving Windsor and going down to Aldershot. He wrote a letter to say he did not think he should come. When Mr. Harris received the letter on the Saturday morning he came to me about it, because he had asked me. I said, "I do not know about it." He said "Will you go up ?" I said, "If you pay my expenses I will go up ;" and he paid my expenses.

49,047. You did go up ?—Yes.

49,048. And brought your brother back, did you ?—Yes.

49,049. And he voted ?—Yes.

49,050. Was that all the money you ever received ?—That is all, to pay my expenses.

49,051. How long have you been a voter ?—Only last election.

49,052. Did you give any money to anybody else ?—No.

49,053. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were you offered any money by the Liberal party ?—Yes ; by the Liberal party.

49,054. Who by ?—By Mr. Lizard of Berry.

49,055. What did he offer you ?—I was there one day to see him, and he offered me 150*l.* for a hayrick.

49,056. What was the hayrick worth ?—30*l.*

49,057. What were you to do for that ?—Vote for the Liberal candidates.

49,058. That was the election of 1865 ?—Yes.

49,059. To vote for Pender and Seymour ?—Yes.

49,060. Did you sell him the hayrick ?—No ; I would not vote that way.

49,061. So you lost a good opportunity of sale ?—Just so.

49,062. (Mr. Longe.) What day was it that Mr. Lizard offered you this ?—A fortnight before the election. It was just after Colonel Dawkins came here.

49,063. Was there not some offer made to you by the Liberals the night before the election, or shortly before the election ?—No. I went to Aldershot the Monday morning.

49,064. Did you not hear an offer was made to your brother ?—No ; no one saw my brother till he voted.

49,065. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was that hayrick upon Mr. Dent's land at Dartington ?—At Dartington.

49,066. Are you obliged to consume the hay upon the land ? Could you sell it ?—Oh, yes.

49,067. The covenants of your lease do not prevent your selling the hay ?—No.

49,068. You could not sell the straw, I suppose ?—I have no straw.

49,069. Is it pasture land ?—Yes.

49,070. (Mr. Bere.) Are you allowed to sell the hay ?—Yes.

49,071. Is Mr. Lizard your brother-in-law ?—No.

49,072. (Mr. Coleridge.) He lives at Berry ?—Yes.

49,073. (Mr. Bere.) Do you mean to say you really did not hear of any offer to your brother ?—No.

49,074. How many more of you are tenants of Dartington ?—My father and brother.

49,075. What is your brother's name ?—Joseph.

49,076. And your father's ?—John.

Jeffery Maye sworn and examined. J. Maye.

49,077. (Mr. Longe.) I think you are a tenant of the Duke of Somerset ?—I was. I am not now.

49,078. Where do you live ?—At Staverton.

49,079. How much did you hold under the Duke ?—A field.

49,080. When did you first take that field ?—20 years ago.

49,081. I think you are connected with Mr. Michelmore ?—A brother-in-law.

49,082. Is Mr. Jeffery Michelmore the brother-in-law ?—He is a nephew of mine.

49,083. What were your politics ?—I always voted for Baldwin and Lord Seymour as well.

49,084. It was in respect to that field that you had your vote ?—Yes.

49,085. Had you a vote for the council too ?—Yes, a vote for the council. I never had any occasion to vote for the council.

49,086. You never had any occasion to vote for the council ?—No.

49,087. You voted for Mr. Baldwin and Lord Seymour ?—Yes.

49,088. Did you vote for Lord Gifford ?—Yes, I voted for Lord Gifford.

49,089. Have you always voted for the Liberals ?—No. I never voted on a single election at all.

49,090. Only on the general elections ? — The general elections.

49,091. And then for whom did you vote ?—The last election I voted for Mr. Seymour and Colonel Dawkins.

49,092. You split your vote ?—Yes.

49,093. At that time were you canvassed by Mr. Pender ?—No. I never spoke to Mr. Pender in my life.

THIRTY-FIFTH DAY.

J. Maye.

29 Oct. 1866.

49,094. Were you asked for your vote?—I was asked for my vote.

49,095. Who asked you for your vote?—Mr. Jeffery Michelmore asked me for my vote, and Mr. Windeatt as well. They were at my house.

49,096. And what did you tell him?—I did not happen to be in at the time.

49,097. You sent some message? Did you give them to understand at all which way you were going to vote?—Not on the single election. I told them I would always give one vote for the duke, and the other I would do what I liked with.

49,098. That was the understanding?—That was the understanding when I took the field in the first place.

49,099. This last election you were asked for your second vote?—Yes.

49,100. You were asked not only to vote for Mr. Seymour, but Mr. Pender also?—No; I was not canvassed at the last election.

49,101. You were not asked?—I was not canvassed.

49,102. But were you not asked to give your vote for Mr. Pender as well as Mr. Seymour?—No; not the last election.

49,103. Not by Mr. Michelmore?—No.

49,104. Was there not a letter written to you?—Yes, there was.

49,105. Have you got that?—No. I can tell you the purport of it.

49,106. When did you receive it?—I received a letter from Mr. Michelmore. That was the single election, when Mr. Dent and Mr. Seymour stood.

49,107. Mr. Seymour's first election?—Yes.

49,108. You received a letter then from Mr. Michelmore?—Yes.

49,109. Which Mr. Michelmore?—The old Mr. Michelmore.

49,110. Thomas Michelmore?—Yes.

49,111. What did he say?—He said if I could not make up my mind conscientiously to vote I was not to vote at all. That is the purport of it.

49,112. If you could not conscientiously vote not to vote at all?—Yes.

49,113. I think you say it was always the understanding that you should vote for the duke's candidate?—Yes; but I told both parties that I would not vote at that election.

49,114. Not at that election?—No.

49,115. Why not?—I cannot tell you why.

49,116. I think we must have the reason?—I was always allowed to give the Conservatives one vote.

49,117. Do you mean you had not voted for Mr. Pender?—I never voted for Mr. Pender. I never voted for Mr. Pender, nor yet Mr. Mills.

49,118. (Mr. Bere.) In truth you were a Conservative at heart and a Liberal by connexion?—Yes.

49,119. (Mr. Longe.) After this last election did you give up that land?—Yes; I was disgusted.

49,120. Why were you disgusted?—Because I was disgusted with the borough.

49,121. Now you have no vote for the borough?—No vote at all.

49,122. Did you ever understand from Mr. Thomas Michelmore that you must vote for the ducal candidate before you took that field?—Yes; I must give the duke one vote.

49,123. Did you understand it was the duke who authorized Mr. Michelmore to impose those terms upon you?—No, I did not. I am not aware of anything of the kind.

49,124. Have you reason to believe Mr. Michelmore did that entirely of his own notion?—I should think so.

49,125. Without any authority?—I should fancy so.

49,126. That is really your belief?—That is my belief.

49,127. (Mr. Bere.) Did not Mr. Michelmore have some conversation with you on the morning of Seymour and Dent's election?—No, I never saw him. I was not in Totnes at all.

49,128 Did not he say something about the danger of losing his place if the election was lost at any time?—No, I was not in Totnes.

49,129. Did not he say anything to you about losing his place if the election was lost at any time?—No.

49,130. Never?—Never.

49,131. Then it is not true that he did at any time say so to you?—No; it it is not true. I asked who the duke's member was, and he told me, and he said Seymour.

49,132. Have you ever received any offer for your vote?—No.

49,133. On neither side?—No; I should take it as an insult if I had.

49,134. (Mr. Longe.) In the first instance what did you want this piece of land for?—For accommodation land. I wanted a pasture field.

49,135. How many acres is it?—Two or three.

49,136. How much did you pay for it?—10*l.*

Mrs. R. Thomas.

Mrs. Rhoda Thomas sworn and examined.

49,137. (Mr. Bere.) I believe you keep a confectioner's shop in this town?—I do.

49,138. And are a very strong political partisan?—I am.

49,139. On the Liberal side?—Yes.

49,140. Because we have heard a very dangerous character of you from the Conservative gentlemen. You are strictly a Liberal, and always have been?—I am.

49,141. When did you first have anything to do with elections?—I never had anything to do with them.

49,142. Have you never been canvassing?—No, never.

49,143. Did you at all try to persuade Captain Helms to vote against his friend, Mr. Dent?—I have not; I think if I had, he would have voted my side.

49,144. After he had come down to support Mr. Dent?—Yes. I never asked him.

49,145 Therefore all we have heard about Mr. Helms getting into dangerous hands is not true?—No.

49,146. Did you never take any part in politics?—No.

49,147. Did you never pay a voter?—No, I have never been asked.

49,148. No money has passed through your hands in any shape or way?—No.

49,149. Have you ever let any of your rooms as committee rooms?—No.

49,150. Have you ever known money to be given away in your house?—No.

49,151. During election times have voters come to your house?—Never.

49,152. Have people who have operated in elections ever used your rooms for meeting purposes?—No. Both parties have given me credit for knowing more than I do.

49,153. We thought you were the depository of many secrets. What is it about the piano?—Well, my daughter has got one.

49,154. Who gave her the piano?—Captain Helms gave it her.

49,155. (Mr. Longe.) Not Mr. Pender?—No. It was a bet. He bet if Mr. Dent did not come in he would give her a piano. Mr. Dent did not come in, and he was as good as his word, and he gave it to her.

49,136. What was she to give him?—Nothing.

49,157. (Mr. Bere.) If you have anything more to tell us, we shall be glad to hear it?—No, I have nothing further to add.

49,158. (Mr. Coleridge.) You had really nothing to do with the election?—Nothing whatever.

JOSEPH BENNETT sworn and examined.

49,159. (Mr. Bere.) Are you the brother-in-law of Mr. Putt?—I am.

49,160. And did you in 1863 authorize your wife to offer him some money?—I did.

49,161. Who gave you the authority?—Mr. John Heath.

49,162. Where, at the "Seven Stars"?—At the "Seven Stars."

49,163. Mr. Putt did not take it?—He did not.

49,164. Do you remember how long before the election that was?—I should say about a fortnight or three weeks.

49,165. Did you ever know whether Mr. Putt got anything on the other side?—I never knew anything of the kind.

49,166. Did you ever have anything to do with anybody else at the election?—I did not.

49,167. I believe you have not always been quite consistent in your voting?—No; I voted twice for the Liberals.

49,168. When was that?—In 1857 and 1859.

49,169. And in 1863 and 1865 you voted for the Tories?—Yes.

49,170. What was the reason for the change?—I had a fall out with my family about a will case, and that was the reason.

49,171. Did you get any advantage for changing your opinions?—I had an advantage.

49,172. What was that?—Mr. John Heath called upon me. I said I should not like to take anything for my vote, but would be obliged to him if he would give me a turn in the way of my trade.

49,173. What did he say?—He bought two gold watches and chains of me, and he gave me a cheque for forty guineas for them. His son wears one of them now, a watch worth 16*l.* I have had it to repair once or twice.

49,174. That was in 1863?—1863.

49,175. Is that the only advantage you derived?—The only advantage, I swear.

49,176. And you never tried to influence anybody else at all?—No.

49,177. Did Mr. Heath ever ask you whether you could influence anybody?—Yes, he did; I remember now you mention it. He asked me if I could not influence Mr. Angel, but I did not see Mr. Angel.

49,178. And you did not send anybody to him?—No.

49,179. Did you ever have any offer on the Liberal side?—Yes, in Dunn's election, there was a Mr. Mum, I suppose you may call him, came into my shop, quite a stranger to me; Mr. John Heath's eldest son stayed outside the door, and he came in, and said, "Good morning Mr. Bennett, I represent "Mr. Dunn." I said, "Do you." He said, "Have "you anything to sell, a brooch, or anything of that "sort in this establishment?" And I said, "No, "I promised Mr. Mills."

49,180. That is all you have had offered to you by either side?—That is all.

49,181. And excepting the watches, that is all the advantage you ever received?—That is the only little favour I ever received.

WILLIAM PULLING sworn and examined.

W. Pulling.

49,182. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you had a vote?—Well, I voted on two occasions.

49,183. In 1863 and 1865?—Yes.

49,184. You did not vote in Mr. Pender's first election?—I do not think I was a voter on that occasion.

49,185. You must have been?—I cannot recollect the dates. I voted on one occasion for Mills and Gifford.

49,186. That was in 1859?—Yes.

49,187. Was Mr. Dunn the candidate on the other side?—I think he was.

49,188. Then what was the other time you voted?—I voted for Pender and Seymour the last time.

49,189. What is your occupation?—In Fore Street, Totnes.

49,190. What are you?—An upholsterer.

49,191. Have you had any money for your vote?—No.

49,192. Or given money to anybody else?—No.

49,193. Or received any advantage for it?—No.

49,194. Though you have not had any money you have exercised a little influence over others?—No, not at all.

49,195. Did you not have something to do with young Mr. Sharpham?—No.

49,196. You are quite sure about that?—I never spoke to him in my life about the election.

49,197. Do you know him?—Yes.

49,198. Did you speak to him about the election of 1865?—No.

49,199. Never?—No.

49,200. Are you quite certain you never received anything? Did you ever receive any orders in your trade?—No, not at all, in any shape or way; not a penny piece.

49,201. What were your customers?—More Conservative than Liberal. My trade extends over a large arena; a large extent of country. I do not do much business here. I send a large quantity of goods to London. But, as far as my customers go, the Conservatives are the best.

49,202. And you never received a farthing for your vote?—No, not a penny piece.

49,203. How many workmen do you keep?—12 men and a boy.

49,204. (Mr Coleridge.) How many of them have votes?—There is only one who has a parliamentary vote, which he has not exercised yet. His name is Underhill. He is a vote under a company.

49,205. (Mr. Bere.) He had not got it in 1865?—No.

49,206. Did you not go to Kingsbridge one election?—Yes.

49,207. What made you go there?—Because I am in the habit of having a little fun at election times. It is principally for my own amusement, and there was a carriage going to Kingsbridge; and a friend of mine asked me to go in it.

49,208. Where was the carriage going from?—From Totnes.

49,209. At the "Seymour"?—No; I did not see it at the "Seymour."

49,210. Whose carriage was it?—I cannot tell you.

49,211. Who drove it?—That I can hardly swear to.

49,212. And who was the friend?—My friend asked me to jump up; a Mr. George Mitchell, of Bridgetown.

49,213. Mr. George Randle Mitchell?—George Mitchell. I do not know whether he is called Randle.

49,214. Were you alone in the fly?—There were four of us.

49,215. Who were the four?—Myself, Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Veasey, and I think the other name was West, a gardener. Those were the four.

49,216. Where did you go to?—We went to Kingsbridge. We got up to the top of the town, and walked through that gate to the bottom of the hill, and I think we got into a place called the "Anchor Head."

49,217. How long did you stop there?—A quarter of an hour, I think.

49,218. What did you do then?—Walked up to the town.

49,219. All together?—No, all alone. I went up

THIRTY-FIFTH DAY.

W. Pulling.

and bought a cigar. Veasey met them by appointment at another inn.

49,220. What is its name?—I think it is called the "Prince of Wales." It is below the market on the right.

49,221. How long did you stay there?—About half an hour.

49,222. What did you do then?—The proposal was by them to get back again.

49,223. What did you say then?—I said, "I am "all ready," and I jumped up, and we went towards home. That is all.

49,224. What happened then?—I believe they put their heads together, and they thought it would be the best thing to go to a place called Morley, to see a voter called Smaridge, and a little fun from that happened.

49,225. Let us hear about it?—Mr. George Mitchell thought he had discovered the voter, and he had got the brother, and he said "Damn me if I have not "got him;" but he had got hold of the wrong man, and we came home.

49,226. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he give the wrong man anything?—No, I do not believe he did.

49,227. (Mr. Bere.) What did he do with the wrong man?—I believe I stood a pot of beer for him.

49,228. That is all?—That is all.

49,229. And you found out the mistake?—He did, not I.

49,230. Did Veasey and West come back with you?—Yes.

49,231. Did you hear what they were to get for their votes?—Not at all.

49,232. What time did you get back to Totnes?—About half-past 10 or 11.

49,233. Where did you go then?—I went to Newton.

49,234. What made you go there at that late hour at night?—For a bit of a ride.

49,235. Whom did you go with there?—I think it was with one of my men.

49,236. What did you do there?——There was a ball at the hotel, and we had a bit of a spree.

49,237. Did you go back the next day?—No, I was tired of it, and I said, "Now I am out I will take a "ride down to Plymouth."

49,238. And you went down to Plymouth?—Yes.

49,239. When did you come back to Totnes?—Eight the next morning.

49,240. Did you vote at that election?—No, it was all over when I came back.

49,241. That was Dent's election?—Yes.

49,242. They got you out of the way?—No.

49,243. What did they give you to go out of the way?—Nothing at all.

49,244. Who paid your expenses?—I paid my own, and always do when I go out.

49,245. In 1865 did not you have something to do with Mr. Charles Michelmore?—No.

49,246. You were served with a subpœna to go to London?—Yes.

49,247. And you went; were you examined?—No.

49,248. Do you know why they had you up in London?—I was surprised at the termination of the affair, and I was annoyed at it, and I said to Mr. Edmonds, "What did you bring me to London for;" and he said, "Oh, there is nothing particular against "you, only the question of treating;" and I said, "If "that is all, will you take a glass with me and we "will go to the stall."

49,249. Whom are you supposed to treat?—I do that every day.

49,250. What Liberal voters had you treated?—Nothing of the kind. If I meet a man, I give him one, and he gives me one the next morning.

49,251. (Mr. Coleridge.) It is merely an excuse for drinking?—Perhaps that is it.

49,252. (Mr. Bere.) You have had no money for your vote?—No.

49,253. Were you never canvassed by the opposite party?—They never came and asked me.

49,254. Is that all you know of the election of 1865?—Yes, that is all.

J. Cole.

JAMES COLE sworn and examined.

49,255. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you had a vote?—Since 1862.

49,256. Is that the first time you voted?—Yes.

49,257. Whom did you vote for then?—Mr. Pender.

49,258. What did you get for that?—Nothing.

49,259. What were you offered?—Nothing.

49,260. Who canvassed you?—Mr. Pender himself.

49,261. Nobody else?—Nobody else.

49,262. Did anybody offer you anything?—No.

49,263. Was you wife offered anything?—No, nor any of my family.

49,264. Were you canvassed by Mr. Dent?—Yes, they came to my house.

49,265. Who?—I think Harris came.

49,266. What did he offer you?—I do not lend myself that way.

49,267. You have been employed by the Liberals? Yes.

49,268. Whom did you rent under?—I vote on a house and shop.

49,269. Who is your landlord?—No one; I am my own.

49,270. Is it freehold property?—Yes.

49,271. What are you?—A carpenter and joiner.

49,272. In 1863 whom did you vote for?—Alfred Seymour.

49,273. And did Mr. Harris come about Dent?—Yes.

49,274. He said that you were an awkward customer?—Yes, perhaps he found it so.

49,275. In 1865 did you vote?—Yes, I voted for Pender and Seymour.

49,276. Did you get anything?—No, my hands are clean.

49,277. Any promise?—No.

49,278. Have you not had an orchard since the last election under the Duke?—Yes.

49,279. Was not that promised at the last election?—It is a small place.

49,280. Who promised it?—My uncle gave it up; Mr. Goodridge and I went in. Mr. Goodridge said he was going to give up the orchard and I went to old Mr. Michelmore and asked for it, and he said he could not do anything, I was to go to Jeffery, and Mr. Jeffery said if Mr. Goodridge was going to give it up, I should have it.

49,281. That was before the election?—Yes.

49,282. Did they say anything about your vote?—No.

49,283. With the exception of the orchard, did you receive anything for your vote?—No.

49,284. Did your wife?—No. I am on my oath, and I believe none of my family did.

49,285. Was not Goodridge turned out?—No.

49,286. I believe your house is mortgaged?—Yes, it is.

49,287. To whom?—Mr. John Mitchell, of Bridgetown.

49,288. Is he the one that is called the Chartist?—No.

49,289. Which Mr. Mitchell do you mean?—The cider merchant.

49,290. Is it copyhold of the manor or is it freehold?—It is freehold.

49,291. (Mr. Bere.) Have you paid any interest since the last election?—No; I have never paid a farthing principal since I took the house.

49,292. Have you paid any interest?—Yes.

49,293. When did you pay the last interest?—I am not prepared to answer that question at the moment.

49,294. Have you paid any since the last election?—Yes.

49,295. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you voted at the municipal election?—Yes.

49,296. Have you had anything for it?—I do not know whether I did have one half-crown.

49,297. Have you had anything to do with giving money to other voters?—No, nothing.

49,298. (Mr. Bere.) Did Mr. Michelmore come for your vote?—No, nobody, but Harris came to me one day.

49,299. When was the last interest payable?—Last March, I think.

49,300. Did you pay it last March?—I do not know whether I did.

49,301. How many times have you paid interest since the house has been mortgaged?—Six or seven times.

49,302. How long has the house been mortgaged?—When first I took it, about seven years ago.

49,303. Did you pay the interest yearly?—Yearly.

49,304. You paid six years' interest?—I am not prepared to say. I should not like to tell a falsehood if I knew it.

49,305. What is it, 5 per cent.?—Yes.

SAMUEL SHARPHAN sworn and examined.

S. Sharphan.

49,306. Are you the son of Samuel Penny Sharphan?—Yes.

49,307. How long have you had a vote?—Since 1859.

49,308. How did you vote then?—For Mills and Gifford.

49,309. Have you always voted for the Liberals?—Yes.

49,310. Have you had any money?—No.

49,311. Any advantage?—No.

49,312. Any offer from anybody?—No.

49,313. Not even from the Conservatives?—No.

49,314. Never bribed anybody else?—No; never had a second person call upon me when I was canvassed.

49,315. Did the candidates call upon you the last time?—Yes.

49,316. Who called first?—I believe Mr. Seymour was the first.

49,317. Did you get anything after the election?—No.

49,318. Your brother-in-law is in Mr. Pender's employment?—Yes.

49,319. After the election?—Yes.

49,320. Did you say anything to Mr. Pender about giving your brother a place?—No.

49,321. What are you?—A hairdresser.

49,322. You never had anything directly or indirectly on account of your vote?—No.

49,323. What do you vote on?—A house in Fore Street.

49,324. Worth 10*l.*?—Worth 20*l.*

49,325. Are you your own landlord?—No.

49,326. Captain Sumpter is your landlord?—Yes.

49,327. He is a Liberal?—He is.

49,328. Had he anything to do with your vote?—No.

49,329. Never came and asked you for it?—No.

49,330. Is he an old gentleman?—Yes.

49,331. Who collects his rents?—Mr. Chaster.

49,332. Did Mr. Chaster ever say anything to you about your vote?—No.

49,333. Did you have anything to do with supplying newspapers to the institution here?—Yes, the reading room.

49,334. Did you supply the newspapers and advertisements during the elections?—I supplied the advertisements.

49,335. Are you a printer?—No.

49,336. Is it part of your business to do the papers?—I am agent for the "Mercury."

NICHOLAS BROWSE sworn and examined.

N. Browse.

49,337. (Mr. Bere.) Are you the relieving officer?—Yes.

49,338. How long have you been relieving officer?—Fourteen years.

49,339. How long have you voted for Totnes?—Since 1857.

49,340. Was that the first time?—Yes.

49,341. You voted always liberally?—Yes.

49,342. How much have you had?—I had 50*l.* two months after the last election.

49,343. Was that the money Mr. Hamlyn paid you?—Yes.

49,344. You knew it was for your vote at the election?—I do not think it could be; I told him I had promised my vote.

49,345. Did not Mr. Hamlyn say Mr. Windeatt had sent him to say so?—Mr. Hamlyn did not say so to me.

49,346. However, you got the 50*l.*; is that all the money you had?—Yes; I had been a voter 40 years.

49,347. Never paid any money to anybody?—No.

49,348. Never offered anybody?—No.

49,349. Are you the relieving officer for the parish?—No. 1, Totnes Union.

49,350. Where do you live?—At Bridgetown now.

49,351. Under the Duke?—I am tenant of the Duke, but I was not in 1857 and 1859.

49,352. When did you first become a tenant of the Duke?—In 1861, I think.

49,353. What is your qualification?—House and garden, and 10*l.* rental.

49,354. Did you pay the rents and taxes?—Yes.

49,355. Did you ever get anything back?—No.

49,356. Whom did you succeed?—I took this house of a person who had a life interest in it; the life died and it became the Duke's.

49,357. Did you see Captain Pim at the last election?—Yes.

42,358. Did he canvass you?—Yes.

49,359. What passed between you and him?—He said he was a navy man, and he understood my wife's father was in the navy, and he should of course expect my vote. I said I did not know that that should correspond, and he said, "I shall call upon "Mrs. Browse."

49,360. Did he call?—Yes.

49,361. Did he persuade her?—No; because she was a Liberal, and her father too.

49,362. Did you get any offer from Captain Pim?—No.

49,363. Did your wife get any offer from Captain Pim?—No.

49,364. She never had any money?—No.

49,366. Have you ever tried to get any money for anybody else?—No.

49,367. You never gave any money?—No.

49,368. Have you ever been offered any money by either side?—Never by the Whigs.

49,369. By the Tories?—Yes.

49,370. When were you first offered money by the Tories?—Mr. John Heath offered me 150*l.* to vote for Dunn in 1859.

49,371. Anything for Dent in 1862?—Yes, 50*l.* by relative of mine in the country, a Mr. Browse.

49,372. What is his Christian name?—George Browse.

49,373. Did he tell you where you should get it?—No.

49,374. In 1863 did they try you?—No.

49,375. They thought it was no use?—Yes, Mr. John Heath asked me if I would give him a vote, and I said it would depend on consideration, and he used those words in 1859.

THIRTY-FIFTH DAY.

N. Browse.

29 Oct. 1866.

49,376. What was the consideration he offered you the last time ?—Nothing.

49,377. Is George Browse an uncle of Mr. Kellock ?—Yes.

49,378. Which Mr. Kellock ?—Mr. T. C. Kellock, the mayor.

49,379. Did Mr. Browse say he came from there ?—No.

THOMAS A. ROBERTS sworn and examined.

T. A. Roberts.

49,380. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you ?—An innkeeper, "The Commercial Inn," Fore Street.

49,381. How long have you had a vote ?—Since 1862.

49,382. For whom did you vote in 1862 ?—Mr. Pender.

49,383. What did you get ?—Nothing.

49,384. Were you offered anything ?—No.

49,385. On neither side ?—No, never offered anything by anybody, directly or indirectly.

49,386. You got nothing in 1862 ?—No.

49,387. Anything in 1863 ?—No.

49,388. Anything offered ?—No.

49,389. Had you anything after the election, as a present ?—I never had anything.

49,390. Your wife ?—No. I have no wife.

49,391. In 1865 ?—I had not.

49,392. Have you ever been the means of money being offered to any one ?—I have never had anything to do with it in any way at all.

49,393. (Mr. Bere.) Are you a relative of Mr. Condy's ?—I am his nephew.

49,394. The "Commercial Inn," belongs to him ?—Yes.

49,395. You are rated for it ?—Yes.

49,396. Do you pay any rent for it ?—Yes, I pay him 40*l.* a year.

49,397. Who is the owner of the furniture ?—It is his furniture; it is valued at 50*l.*, and I pay him 5 per cent.

49,398. Have you got receipts from Mr. Condy ?—Yes; but I have not got them here.

49,399. When did you first get a vote ?—I was put on in 1861.

49,400. Was your vote objected to ?—It was not.

49,401. Has it ever been objected to ?—It was on the municipal list.

49,402. Not on the parliamentary ?—No.

49,403. When it was objected to on the other list what was the decision, in your favour ?—Yes.

49,404. What was the objection to ?—I appeared when I was objected to. I had then not been in the house a sufficient time, although I have lived in the house since 1854; I did not become the bonâ fide tenant till 1861.

49,405. Has Mr. Condy got any interest in the profits of the house ?—The only interest is, I pay him the rent and I am supplied from his brewery with beer.

S. Barrett.

SAMUEL BARRETT sworn and examined.

49,406. (Mr. Longe.) Where do you live ?—Fore Street, Totnes.

49,407. You have a vote for your house ?—Yes.

49,408. Who is your landlord ?—Mr. Huxham.

49,409. How long have you lived in the house ?—I have been a voter about 10 or 11 years ; 18 years I have lived in the house.

49,410. How is it you had not a vote before ?—There was a friend of Mr. Huxham's had it, and I paid the rent to him. I had not the whole of the house before.

49,411. Mr. Huxham's friend was the tenant ?—Yes.

49,412. You have taken the whole house ?—Yes.

49,413. Have you always voted the same way ?—Always the same.

49,414. Have you ever given a vote to any Conservative ?—Never ; and I never had a penny directly or indirectly.

49,415. Have you been canvassed by both sides ?—Yes, but I gave my word the first time.

49,416. Had you never any offer made by the Conservatives ?—Never in my life.

46,417. They knew it was no use ?—Yes.

49,418. You never took any part in canvassing ?—Never.

49,419. Never influenced a voter ?—Not one.

49,420. (Mr. Bere.) Is Samuel Parnell a friend of yours ?—No.

49,421. Did he come and see you before the election ?—No, he never called upon me.

49,422. You never had an offer for your vote ?—No, never, from any one.

46,423. (Mr. Longe.) Did you ever get an appointment for your son, or anything ?—No, nothing of the kind.

49,424. Have you any sons ?—No.

49,425. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know a man called Worthy ?—Yes.

49,426. Does he often come to your shop ?—He may come in occasionally.

49,427. Did Mr. Huxham ever call upon you for your vote ?—No.

49,428. You never voted against his interest ?—No.

W. Hoskings.

WILLIAM HOSKINGS sworn and examined.

49,431. What did you get ?—Nothing.

49,432. Were you promised anything ?—No.

49,433. No advantage. Did not you have more customers than you had before among the Liberals ?—No.

49,434. Did you get no presents ?—No.

49,435. Did you have any offer made you ?—No.

49,436. Did the Conservatives come to you and ask you how you would vote ?—No more than about canvassing me.

49,437. Did nobody on the Conservative side offer you anything for your vote ?—No.

49,438. Or your wife ?—No.

49,439. You had no advantage at all for your vote last time ?—No.

49,440. Either directly or indirectly ?—Never was offered anything by any one.

49,441. Had you voted at all in the council elections ?—Yes.

49,442. Whom had you voted for then ?—Always for the Liberals except once.

49,444. Did you vote for Mr. Bryett ?—Yes.

49,445. Whose house did you live in ?—Mrs. Phillips', living at the bottom of the town.

49,446. Does she collect the rents herself ?—Yes.

49,447. She does not employ Mr. Michelmore ?—No.

49,448. Did you try to get anybody else to vote at the last election ?—No. I never interfered with any person, and no person interfered with me in any shape or form before.

49,449. What rent did you pay ?—13*l.* a year and all outs.

Adjourned to to-morrow morning, at 10 o'clock.

THIRTY-SIXTH DAY.

Tuesday, 30th October 1866.

THIRTY-SIXTH DAY.

J. P. Callard.

30 Oct. 1866.

JOHN PEDRICK CALLARD recalled, and further examined.

49,450. (Mr. Bere.) Are the entries in those accounts in your handwriting ?—Yes.

49,451. On the 19th May and the 5th June there are erasures; do you know what they mean ?—They were wrong entries.

49,452. What is the wrong entry ?—The wrong name.

49,453. What is the name ?—This was there instead of that.

49,454. Had you not put Mr. Sawdye's name there ?—No, I began to copy this wrongly.

49,455. When was the erasure made ?—In 1863.

W. Perrott.

WILLIAM PERROTT sworn and examined.

49,456. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live ?—At Bridgetown.

49,457. In a house of the duke's ?—My own.

49,458. How many lives are there on it ?—It is a term of years.

49,459. How many ?—About 29.

49,460. Have you always voted for the Liberals ?—Always.

49,461. How long have you voted ?—I voted for Gisborne in the first place.

49,462. Have you voted ever since that election ?—Yes.

49,463. Have you ever received any money for your vote ?—Never.

49,464. How did you vote in Baldwin and Ricardo's election ?—For Ricardo and Seymour.

49,465. Have you ever split your vote ?—Never.

49,466. Have you ever received any money for your vote ?—No.

49,467. You have given money to others for voting ?—Yes.

49,468. To whom did you give the money ?—I was requested by Mr. Jeffrey Michelmore to take 40*l.* to James Farleigh ; that is not knowing it was bribery.

49,469. Is that the man who keeps the "Exeter" inn ?—Yes.

49,470. And you took it ?—Yes, and took a receipt.

49,471. Did you give the receipt to Mr. Michelmore ?—I did.

49,472. Had you given any money at all before that ?—No, nor since.

49,473. Did Farleigh tell you that he had had money besides what you gave him ?—No, nor did I know it till this Commission commenced.

49,474. Now you know it ?—Yes.

49,475. Had you something before ?—Yes.

49,476. Were you at the "Seymour" hotel at the election when Mr. Robert Ryder was there ?—Yes.

49,477. How long before the election was that ?—That was on the election day.

49,478. Did you see Mr. Robert Ryder talking to Mr. Michelmore ?—Yes.

49,479. Which one ?—The deceased.

49,480. Did you hear what took place between them ?—Yes.

49,481. What was it ?—He asked him to stand a glass or two of grog, and Mr. Michelmore's reply was that he could not do it.

49,482. Was that all you had to do with the election of 1863 ?—Yes.

49,483. What had you to do with the last election ?—I went to London.

49,484. To look after the voters ?—Yes.

49,485. To take care of them ?—I was to go and cater for their amusements.

49,486. Was it not to keep them away from the other party ?—I was to keep them together and see that they were in their place in the morning.

49,487. Have you been in London ?—Yes, three years and a half.

49,488. Although you have not received any money, have you had any offers ?—The Rev. Robert Harris offered me 100*l.* to vote for Mr. Dunn.

49,489. And you would not take it ?—No, and he intimated to me at Dent's election that I could have 100*l.* or 150*l.*

49,490. Do you know a man called Knapman ?—Yes.

49,491. What was there about him ?—He promised to vote for Mr. Mills, and took 50*l.* and voted the other way.

49,492. Was he discharged for that ?—No.

49,493. He was one of your workmen ?—Yes.

49,494. Did you discharge him ?—No, he was away ill, and when he came back he found the shop too warm for him ; the other shopmen were quarrelling with him, and he left.

49,495. What was Knapman's Christian name ?—William, and he has worked for me since that.

49,496. Contiunously ?—No.

49,497. Do you know anything else about the election ?—I was under the duke 14 years, and I never had any offer.

49,498. (Mr. Coleridge.) But you were canvassed ?—I always told him that I was opposed to canvassing. Bribery got to such an extent at last that those who held back were supposed to be a marketable commodity, and I pledged my vote to Mr. Mills.

J. Endle.

JOHN ENDLE sworn and examined.

49,499. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you ?—A cider merchant.

49,500. How long have you had a vote for Totnes ?—A great many years.

49,501. Do you recollect at whose election you first voted ?—I do not remember.

49,502. Did you vote at Dunn's election in 1859 ?—Yes.

49,503. How did you vote ?—I did not vote at all.

49,504. Did you vote at the election before 1857 ?—I think I did.

49,505. How did you vote then ? Did you vote for the Liberals ?—I always voted for the Liberals.

49,506. In 1862, at Dent and Pender's election, did you vote then ?—No.

49,507. How came you not to vote for them ?—Because it was not necessary.

49,508. Did you get anything for your vote ?—No.

49,509. Not offered anything ?—No.

49,510. At the last election you voted for Seymour and Pender. Did you have anything ?—Not a farthing.

49,511. Now, have you ever had anything to do with giving other people money ?—No.

49,512. Never had to carry money to other people?—No.

49,513. Have you been on the Liberal committee?—No.

49,514, What is the story about your being put under a barrow or a cart?—That is nothing.

49,515. Tell us what the story is?—I do not know.

49,516. Were you ever in that unpleasant predicament?—No.

49,517. Have you ever had anything for your vote?—Yes.

49,518. What have you had?—A cheque for 35*l.* in Baldwin and Blount's time.

49,519. Who gave it to you?—Mr. Yabbicom.

49,520. Is that the only time?—Yes.

49,521. You are a tenant of the duke's?—Yes.

49,522. Were you turned out for taking that 35*l.*?—No.

49,523. Did you vote for the Liberals?—I did not vote.

49,524. How was that? Why did you not wish to vote? Did you get the 35*l.* to keep you from voting?—Yes, I suppose so.

49,525. Mr. Yabbicom is in the Liberal interest?—I cannot recollect whether he was or not. I think he was on the other side.

49,526. Did not you wish to vote for Mr. Blount? Was not that it?—No.

49,527. What particular reason had you for not voting at that election?—No particular reason.

49,528. Were you going to vote contrary to Mr. Yabbicom's wishes, and he gave you 35*l.* not to vote. Is that it?—No.

49,529. What did he give you 35*l.* for?—Not to vote.

49,530. Which way were you going to vote?—I should have voted for Mr. Blount.

49,531. Mr. Yabbicom was a Conservative at that time?—Yes.

49,532. It was that made you vote against the Conservatives?—I do not know.

49,533. Were you threatened to be turned out of your house at that time?—No.

49,534. Were you turned out?—No.

49,535. Nothing said?—No.

49,536. I suppose it was not well known that you got 35*l.*?—I do not know.

49,537. (Mr. Bere.) Where were you living at the time of the last election?—Seymour-place.

49,538. Where did you come from to vote?—Newcastle.

49,539. How long had you been at Newcastle?—Two months.

49,540. How much did you get for coming from Newcastle?—20*l.*

49,541. What is the fare from Newcastle?—I do not know.

49,542. (Mr. Coleridge.) The first-class fare from here to Newcastle is 3*l.* 10*s.*?—Yes, I think it is about that.

49,543. You got, in addition to the 7*l.* for your expenses, 13*l.* for your vote?—But I had to return again.

49,544. 3*l.* 10*s.* coming here and 3*l.* 10*s.* going back?—I had nothing for my vote; it was all for my expenses. I had to employ people when I was away.

49,545. How many people extra had you to employ?—Two.

49,546. There was nothing to prevent you coming on one day and voting the next?—I had to stop.

49,547. (Mr. Bere.) You had lived here?—No.

49,548. You take your cider up in the spring of the year and sell it there?—Yes.

49,549. Did you get the 20*l.* before you started from Newcastle?—Oh, no.

49,550. When did you get it?—After the election.

49,551. From whom?—Mr. Jeffrey Michelmore.

49,552. Did you go and ask him for it, or did he offer it to you?—I asked him for it.

49,553. Did he ask you how much you wanted?—Yes.

49,554. And you said 20*l.*?—I told him that.

49,555. Did he give you 20*l.* without asking what your expenses were?—He said it was to pay my expenses.

49,556. (Mr. Coleridge.) I suppose a 10*l.* note would have paid all your expenses?—No, it would not.

49,557. Not for one day?—One day! I could not return in one day.

49,558. You could come up on the Tuesday, and go back on the Wednesday?—No, I could not.

49,559. (Mr. Bere.) Who had written to you from this place about coming down to vote?—Mr. Jeffery Michelmore.

49,560. Had you been in communication with Mr. Jeffery Michelmore before that time?—No.

49,561. Had you any communication with him before you left to go to Newcastle?—No.

49,562. What did Mr. Jeffery Michelmore say to you? Have you got the letter?—No, I have not.

49,563. Have you destroyed it?—Yes.

49,564. What did he say to you in the letter?—He asked me to come over to vote.

49,565. Did he say he would make it all right for you if you did come?—No.

49,566. Was it merely to ask you to come and vote?—Yes, that is all.

49,567. When did you destroy the letter?—Two or three months ago.

49,568. After you had the summons?—Three months ago.

49,569. Was it after you had the summons to appear here?—No, not after I had the summons.

49,570. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who told you to destroy it?—No one told me.

49,571. Did not Mr. Michelmore tell you?—I did not see the good of keeping the letter.

49,572. What made you destroy it just before we came here?—I am sure I do not know.

49,573. (Mr. Bere.) What was the letter about, the election?—Nothing, but he desired me to come over to vote.

49,574. Why did you destroy it?—I do not care about keeping those letters.

49,575. Why did you not destroy it before?—I do not know any reason.

49,576. (Mr. Coleridge.) Why did you keep it for a year and then destroy it just when it might be of some use?—I did not do it on purpose.

49,577. Did Mr. Michelmore ask you if you had got the letter?—No.

49,578. Did anybody ask you?—No one ever knew it.

49,579. (Mr. Bere.) Was that the only time you ever came to vote from that distance?—I came once before.

49,580. What election was that?—Mr. Mills's election.

49,581. Where did you come from then?—Newcastle.

49,582. How much did you get paid then?—The same.

49,583. 20*l.*?—Yes.

49,584. (Mr. Coleridge.) What year was that?—I forget now what year it was.

49,585. Was it the first election or the last?—The first election.

49,586. (Mr. Bere.) You did vote in 1859?—I voted for Mills.

49,587. When Mr. Dunn stood?—Yes.

49,588. That was the time you got the 20*l.*?—Yes; that was for my expenses over.

49,589. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you ever got your expenses for voting paid at any other time?—No, never; not a farthing.

49,590. Were you at home at Mr. Pender's election?—Yes.

49,591. You got no expenses then?—The last election?

49,592. No; Mr. Pender's first election?—I was ome at the time.

49,593. Did you get anything for voting then ?—

49,594. Next came Mr. Seymour's election; did you get any expenses then ?—No.

49,595. No expenses to get anybody to look after your cider-cellars whilst you walked up to the poll ?—No.

GEORGE ROBERTS sworn and examined.

G. Roberts.

49,596. (Mr. Longe.) Where do you live ?—At Bridgetown

49,597. What do you vote for; what is your qualification ?—My qualification is "house and garden."

49,598. Your own house ?—The house I live in.

49,599. Whose house is it ?—The Duke of Somerset's.

49,600. How long have you lived in that house ?—Nearly six years.

49,601. Is that the first vote you had, or how long ave you had a vote for the borough ?—Many years go. I continued on the list down to 1843, and from 843 until 1863 I was not a voter.

49,602. You voted in 1862 ?—In 1862 I did.

49,603. 1863 and 1865 ?—1863 and 1865.

49,604. Who did you vote for in 1862 ?—Mr. Pender.

49,605. In 1863 ?—Seymour.

49,606. 1865 ?—Pender and Seymour.

49,607. Did you receive any money on that occasion for your vote ?—Not a penny.

49,608. Were you offered any money ?—None from either party.

49,609. Did you take part in the electioneering canassing yourself?—No.

49,610. Were you asked to get any votes ?—I was ot asked. You say "take any part;" there was a neeting or two in 1862 at the "Seymour" hotel that I was at, that is all.

49,611. Some of those jovial meetings we have eard of?—Yes.

49,612. Did you pay for your own grog?—Sometimes I did, and sometimes I did not.

49,613. When you did not, do you know who did ; —I do not.

49,614. How many meetings did you attend in 1862 ? —About two or three, not more; not more than those occasions. When I say I do not know who paid, I do not know any names on one or two occasions. I was asked by a friend to take a glass of grog with him and some of my townsmen.

49,615. How many were there in the room ?—Perhaps 50.

49,616. Who sat at the top of the table ?—I cannot recollect. There was a chairman sometimes.

49,617. Some one acting as chairman ?—Some one acting as chairman, but who I cannot tell, I do not recollect.

49,618. Did you not attend the meetings in 1863 ? —No.

49,619. 1865 ?—No, I was never outside my door in 1865; I was unwell, and I had got a severe affliction in my house; my daughter was very ill.

49,620. What is your occupation ?—A tailor and dairyman.

49,621. Had you a field ?—Yes, a field.

49,622. But the house; is it a separate occupation ? —I may say both, in a way of speaking.

49,623. You have a vote for the house ?—I have; in fact I pay 14*l.* a year rent, but it is valued by the assessment committee at 10*l.* a year.

49,624. Whose are the fields ?—The fields are the duke's.

49,625. Is it at Bridgetown ?—Yes.

49,626. There is a vote lost there; has anybody else a vote for those fields besides you ?—There have been two votes on the fields, Henry Ruby and James Searle qualified for these fields.

49,627. They are not occupying the fields ?—They were manufactured votes.

49,628. Who has the field now ?—I have.

49,629. And there is a vote lost now ?—Yes.

49,630. (Mr. Bere.) Were you not a voter in 1839 ? —Yes, I was.

49,631. Did you have some money then ?—I did.

49,632. How much money did you get then ?—50*l.*; Screach paid me then.

49,633. Screach paid you 50*l.* ?—Yes.

49,634. Did you get some more a little time afterwards ?—Yes.

49,635. When was that ?—In 1840. In 1839 I was bought, that is the plain fact of the story ; I voted against my conscience for the sake of money.

49,636. Did you do the same in 1840 ?—No. In 1840 I had got an opportunity of returning. Screach has told you that he held 100*l.* for me to vote for Baldwin ; I did not vote for Baldwin, I had got an opportunity of returning to what was more congenial to my mind, and I did so. That is the plain truth of the matter.

49,637. (Mr. Longe.) How much was it you had then ?—It has not been kept in my mind, I believe it was 40*l.*; I cannot tell exactly.

49,638. Was it not 80*l.* ?—I cannot say. I will not say it was ; I will not make any assertion at all.

49,639. (Mr. Bere.) When you voted for Baldwin in 1839, did you not lose the custom of the duke's people ?—Yes, I did. They, and many others.

49,640. And you got it it back after you voted right in 1840 ?—In a great measure ; not all.

49,641. Has anybody given you as a reason for taking away their custom, that you had voted for Baldwin ? —Yes.

49,642. Who did ?—Time is the worker of the greatest wonders. You can see Mr. Paige, that is now a very hot Conservative, paid off my bill, and said it was because I voted for a Tory, and now he is a Tory himself.

49,643. Is that William Paige who was at Bourton ? —Yes, that is the man.

49,644. Whose house were you then living in ?—The house I was then living in in 1839, in Seymour-place, belonged to Mr. Reeve, but that property has since been sold, and it belongs to the duke now ; it did not at that time.

49,645. (Mr. Longe.) It is not the same house you live in now ?—No ; as Mr. Perrott observed just now, such money does not wear well. I did accept these two sums of money, and it induced me to embark into a business I knew nothing of at all, and then business as well as conscience all went ; both miserably went together. That is the view I have taken, and since I have been reinstated as a voter again, I am resolved to act differently, and have done so.

49,646. (Mr. Bere.) You have voted Liberal ever since ?—I have voted Liberal ever since.

RICHARD HOPPIN sworn and examined.

R. Hoppin.

49,647. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live ?—Woodcourt, Harberton.

49,648. How long have you had a vote for Totnes ? —If you will tell me how long Mr. Blount and Mr. Baldwin were elected.

49,649. That is 1839 ?—Then that is the year I was put on the register.

49,650. Have you voted at every election since ?—Every election.

49,651. What is your qualification ?—Building and land.

49,652. Where ?—Gerston-cross.

49,653. Whom have you voted for at every election ? —The Liberals.

THIRTY-SIXTH DAY.

R. Hoppin.

30 Oct. 1866.

49,654. Always ?—Always.

49,655. What have you had ?—Nothing.

49,656. Not at any time ?—No.

49,657. Did you ever bring anybody to the poll ?—No.

49,658. Make them come when they did not want to come ?—No.

49,659. Have you ever directly or indirectly received any money or advantage for your vote ?—I have not.

49,660. Have you ever influenced anybody ?—I have not, never.

49,661. Do you know John Parnell Searle ?—I do.

49,662. Did he owe you any money ?—He has sometimes.

49,663. And sometimes when he has owed you money have you been surprised at his paying you ?—No, he was very good pay always.

49,664. (Mr. Coleridge.) Particularly after elections ?—I never did. The time they said there was 100*l.* paid and it was denied, I made up an account shortly after the election, and I was 2*l.* in his debt.

49,665. Did "Slippery Jack" always pay his own account with you, or did other people pay it for him ?—He always paid his own.

J. Neck.

JOHN NECK sworn and examined.

49,666. (Mr. Bere.) Where are you living ?—Forestreet, Totnes.

49,667. What are you ?—A grocer.

49,668. How long have you had a vote ?—I voted first in 1847 ; I voted twice.

49,669. When again ?—At the last election.

49,670. Had you no vote between ?—No.

49,671. What do you vote on now ?—A shop.

49,672. Before, in 1847, did you vote on a shop ?—No, a house I lived in then.

49,673. Was that Bridgetown or Totnes ?—Totnes.

49,674. Whom did you vote for in 1847 ?—Seymour and Ricardo.

49,675. Who in 1865 ?—Pender and Seymour.

49,676. Did you get anything for voting in 1865 ?—No.

49,677. Did not Mr. Parnell come and see you ?—No.

49,678. Are you quite sure about that ?—Quite sure.

49,679. Did he come and try to find out which way you were going to vote ?—No ; I never saw the man.

49,680. Never, directly or indirectly, did you get any money, or anybody on your behalf ?—No.

49,681. At that election ?—No.

49,682. Have you ever had any money at any time ?—No.

49,683. Not at the council elections ?—No.

49,684. Are you quite sure ?—Quite sure.

49,685. (Mr. Coleridge.) Ever any present after an election ?—No.

49,686. Or any expenses allowed you ?—No.

49,687. (Mr. Bere.) Have you ever had any people buy things at your shop whom you did not expect to buy ?—No.

49,688. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you ever paid any body any money ?—No.

49,689. Have you ever been asked to ?—No.

49,690. Have you ever been offered any ?—No.

49,691. By either side ?—No. In fact I was not mixed up with it. I gave my vote, and there was an end of it.

49,692. (Mr. Bere.) How long where you on the register before the last election ?—Only just before.

49,693. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did the Whigs or Tories put you on the register ?—The Whigs. I always voted for the Whigs at the council, as well as for Parliament.

W. Crook.

WILLIAM CROOK sworn and examined.

49,694. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you ?—A gardener.

49,695. Where do you live ?—At Bourton.

49,696. Do you vote for the house were you live ?—A house and land.

49,697. At Bourton ?—Yes.

49,698. When did you first have a vote ?—I first voted for Mr. Pender in 1862.

49,699. At the time when Mr. Dent retired ?—Yes.

49,700. What did you get for that ?—Nothing, directly.

49,701. Let us know what you got indirectly ?—They made me a present of 10*l.*

49,702. When did they give you that ?—Some two months afterwards.

49,703. Who gave you that 10*l.* ?—John Elliott.

49,704. Was that before or after Mr. Seymour's election ?—I think it was after.

49,705. You voted for Mr. Seymour ?—I did.

49,706. What did you get for that ?—I did not get anything.

49,707. Not after the election ?—No.

49,708. Where you not promised anything ?—No.

49,709. Did not Mr. Dent's people try you ?—No.

49,710. Were you not canvassed by them ?—I was never canvassed by them.

49,711. How did you vote at the last election ?—I voted for Pender and Seymour.

49,712. You had a good deal of temptation on that occasion ?—I had from a certain quarter.

49,713. Will you tell us what took place between you and Heard ?—He came to me, and called me out of my bed ; I did not want to see him.

49,714. When was that ?—On the morning of the election, about 4 o'clock.

49,715. What were you to have for voting for Seymour ?—Nothing ; not a farthing.

49,716. What did he offer you ?—First of all, he offered me 50*l.* I told him it would not do for me ; I did not want his fifties. He said, he was not authorized to offer me any more until he had been and seen Mr. John Heath, at the "Seven Stars;" he was offering his money about like a man who is selling stale fish in the street. He then said, he would offer me another 10*l.* out of his own pocket. I told him that would not do for me.

49,717. Did he then see your wife ?—He saw my wife the night before.

49,718. What did he offer her ?—She has told me since that he offered her 5*l.* out of his own pocket if she would try and turn me.

49,719. Did she try and turn you ?—Not at all.

49,720. What did she get for your vote on the last occasion ?—Nothing at all.

49,721. How was it that you did not share in the distribution of the money ?—I was not to be led away by such a man as that.

49,722. How came you not to get anything from the Liberal party ?—They never offered me anything.

49,723. If you had voted for the Conservatives, you might have lost your situation ; what situation had you then ?—Nothing more than I have now.

49,724. Who are you gardener to ?—To Mrs. Beazley at the "Seymour" hotel.

49,725. Then it is likely you would have lost your situation if you had done so ?—You have to do a shilling's worth of work for a shilling there.

49,726. He has represented that you said 60*l.* would do for you, and you said that you could get a great deal more than that ?—I told Mr. Pender that I would vote for him on the first occasion that I saw him.

49,727. You were employed at the last election ?—Not at all.

49,728. Not as a post-boy ?—No ; I never had a sixpence.

49,729. Did you get nothing out of the money left at the "Seymour" hotel for the servants ?—Not a farthing.

49,730. Mr. Seymour and Mr. Pender left a certain sum for the servants ; did you not get any of it ?—I heard that the rest of the servants were paid, but I never had a farthing.

49,731. Did you ask Mr. Michelmore for anything ?—I would not do that. I voted for Mr. Pender.

49,732. Can you tell us anything about cutting the cabbages in Mrs. Beazley's field ?—I knew nothing about that ; I do not allow anyone to do that without my permission.

49,733. Have they not ever tried to do so, and said that they cut the cabbages there to show their right to the field ?—I think that is a mistake.

49,734. You have never seen that done ?—No.

49,735. What quantity of ground does Mrs. Beazley occupy ?—About 22 acres.

49,736. How much of that is grass ?—It is all grass but about half an acre of garden.

49,737. Have you voted at municipal elections ?—I have.

49,738. What have you got then ?—I had 4*s.* one time—never but once.

49,739. Did you ever get as much as 4*l.* ?—No.

49,740. You live at Bourton ?—Yes.

49,741. How much land have you there ?—About an acre and a half.

49,742. Have you ever had any of your rent given back after elections, as it were for luck ?—Not a farthing ; Mr. Michelmore is the wrong man for that.

EDWIN T. LIZARD sworn and examined.

E. T. Lizard.

49,743. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live, at Berry ?—Yes.

49,744. Are you connected by marriage with George Marks ?—No, my brother is.

49,745. Did you see George Marks at the last election ?—Yes, I did.

49,746. Did you have some talk with him about buying a hay-rick ?—No, not that I recollect.

49,747. (Mr. Coleridge.) Are you the only voter named Lizard ?—Yes.

49,748. (Mr. Bere.) This is what he told us. Q. "Were you offered any money by the Liberal party ? "A. Yes, by the Liberal party. Q. Who by ?—A. "By Mr. Lizard, of Berry. Q. What did he offer "you ?—A. I was there one day to see him, and he "offered me 150*l.* for a hay-rick. Q. What was the "hay-rick worth ?—A. 30*l.* Q. What were you to do "for that ?—A. Vote for the Liberal candidates. "Q. That was the election of 1865 ?—A. Yes. Q. "To vote for Pender and Seymour ?—A. Yes. Q. "Did you sell him the hayrick ?—A. No, I could "not vote that way. Q. So you lost a good opportunity of sale ?—A. Just so."—I have no recollection whatever of that.

49,749. Marks has sworn to this upon his oath ?—I went about the time of the election to see him on business for my brother relating to family matters, but with regard to his vote or anything of that kind, I did not.

49,750. Did he tell you to buy a hay-rick ?—No ; if there was anything, it must have been a joke, because I had no authority for it.

49,751. He does not seem to think it a joke ?—I had no authority, and I never took an active part in any election, but recorded my own vote.

49,752. If he had said he would sell you a hay-rick for 150*l.*, would you go and try to get him the money ?—No.

49,753. Did you try to get his vote ?—No.

49,754. Had you been asked to canvass him ?—Decidedly not ; never attended anything, nor had any intimation.

49,755. Have you ever received any money for your own vote, or influence people to give theirs ?—No.

49,756. (Mr. Longe.) What do you vote upon ?—Building and land.

49,757. What size is the land ?—Five acres.

49,758. (Mr. Bere.) No voters on it besides you ?—No one.

49,759. Do you stock it ?—Yes.

49,760. Did you ask for it ?—Yes.

49,761. Whom ?—Mr. Michelmore.

49,762. Did Mr. Michelmore ask what your politics were ?—No, he knew pretty well. I am the representative of the fourth generation here, and I have a farm.

49,763. You did not want the field, but only to get a vote ?—I should like some more of them.

GEORGE BROWSE sworn and examined.

G. Browse.

49,764. (Mr. Longe.) What are you ?—A farmer.

49,765. Who is your landlord ?—I farm my own land.

49,766. What did you have a vote for ?—I have taken a vote at Broomborough.

49,767. You are one of those manufactured votes ?—Yes.

49,768. How long have you had a vote ?—Two or three years ago I was asked to join a party, and I did so.

49,769. Who asked you ?—You ask me a question that I cannot answer ; one of the Conservative party, I do not know which. I do not know whether it may have been Harris ; he had the management of the affair.

49,770. You only voted once ?—Yes.

49,771. Whom did you vote for ?—Dawkins and Pim.

49,772. Did you get anything after that election ?—No.

49,773. Any offer made you ?—No.

49,774. Did you get no consideration whatever, directly or indirectly ?—No.

49,775. What did you have a vote for ?—I am a Conservative, and we do not want Radicals.

49,776. You thought the landed interest wanted your support ?—Yes.

49,777. What is the difference between a cotton spinner and a tea merchant ?—I do not know, but I know what is good ; that a cotton spinner would throw all the burden on the land if he had it.

49,778. (Mr. Bere.) Did you not go to your brother in 1862 ?—I did not.

49,779. He says you did ?—I will explain it. I happen to be a guardian of the poor, and he is a relieving officer. He is no relation of mine.

49,780. Did you offer him 50*l.* ?—No such thing.

49,781. Perhaps you would like to know what he has sworn ?—Mr. Nicholas Browse is a man who has asked me before to lend him money, and I did not. I knew better than that.

49,782. Did you offer to lend him 50*l.* ?—No, he called on me one day, and I said, respecting the elections, the market is up, is it not, and you are a great fool if you do not get 50*l.* or 100*l.* I would not vote for either party unless I got paid, if I wanted money as badly as you do.

49,783. Where is your farm ?—At Marldon.

49,784. Do you know a man called John Putt ?—No.

THIRTY-SIXTH DAY.

G. Browse.

30 Oct. 1866.

49,785. Are you sure about that?—I do not think I do.

49,786. Have you ever had any money for your vote?—No.

49,787. Ever offered anybody money?—No.

49,788. Have you got any person who works for you?—No.

49,789. Have you had anything to do with the council election?—Nothing to do with the council.

49,790. Which company did you belong to, the British Farmers?—I think Mr. Rennie was the man whom we took the estate from.

49,791. Did you know where the fields were?—Yes. We went to see where the fields were.

49,792. You never turned any cattle out there?—No; Mr. Harris managed the property and sold the grass, and then the after-grass, and then balanced the accounts. Not that I ever saw the accounts.

49,793. You never paid anything?—I never paid anything or received anything. All I know is, that I got a good dinner out of it once.

H. Eastman.

HENRY EASTMAN sworn and examined.

49,794. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live?—Cornworthy.

49,795. What do you vote on?—A field of the duke's.

49,796. In Gerston?—No.

49,797. Where?—Fourth field in Totnes.

49,798. Who votes on it with you?—No one.

49,799. What is the size of it?—About $3\frac{1}{2}$ acres.

49,800. What did you give for it?—14*l.* a year.

49,801. Is there a building on it?—Yes.

49,802. Who had it before you?—Sawdye had it before me.

49,803. Does not he keep it still?—No.

49,804. Have you cattle there?—Yes.

49,805. How many last year?—I had not got it then.

49,806. Were you turned out?—Yes.

49,807. What for?—I do not know. When the Gerston company was formed I believe they wanted this, and I left.

49,808. How many times have you voted?—Once.

49,809. Who for?—Dawkins and Pender.

49,810. You received notice after that?—I received notice prior to that a long time, when the Gerston company was being formed.

49,811. What made you split your vote for Dawkins and Pender?—The fact was, I should have voted for Seymour if they had not turned me out.

49,812. Because they gave you notice, you would not vote for Mr. Seymour?—Yes.

49,813. Did you get anything for voting for Colonel Dawkins?—No.

49,814. Your wife or anyone?—No.

49,815. Did not you go to the "Seven Stars" and see if anything could be got?—I went on the day of the nomination and had a glass of grog.

49,816. Did you talk to John Heath?—Yes.

49,817. Did you say you wanted money?—No.

49,818. Did you get anything?—The Sunday before the election George Heath came to me and offered me 25*l.* if I would vote for Commander Pim and Colonel Dawkins. I saw Commander Pim and told him I would not vote.

49,819. When you got to the "Seven Stars" did not you have some more offers made to you?—No.

49,820. Did not you go to the "Seven Stars" on the morning of the election?—About 12 o'clock, after I voted.

49,821. Did not you ask whether there was not any money for you then?—No.

49,822. Did you learn there was some?—I heard it was very bad.

49,823. (Mr. Bere.) What did you get the other side from Mr. Pender?—Not a farthing.

49,824. Wait a minute. Mr. John Heath has sworn that you wanted to be paid but there was no money for you. The question is "How much did he "want? He said he would be content with 200*l.*"?—I cannot answer for Mr. John Heath's statement, can only tell you it is not true.

49,825. You did not say that?—I did not.

49,826. You refused the 25*l.*; what sum did you mention at that time?—No sum at all.

49,827. What sum would have made you vote for Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim?—No sum would have made me vote for Captain Pim.

49,828. Would it not?—No.

49,829. Did you get anything from Mr. Pender?—Not a farthing.

49,830. Not a farthing?—No.

49,831. Did you sign the requisition?—I did.

49,832. Who brought it to you?—Mr. Harris, upon the strength that he was going to let me have a field, as the duke had turned me out. He said, "If you "will sign the requisition I will give you the field." The field was useful to me. I do not want to make any compliments about it. It was useful to me to put my stock in.

49,833. Did Mr. Harris get you the field?—He did not.

49,834. (Mr. Coleridge.) You would have voted for Commander Pim if he had?—There might be a question as to that. If he had, I do not think I should.

49,835. Perhaps you would have been turned out of that field?—I do not know, I might.

49,836. Have you got a field from Mr. Michelmore since you voted for Mr. Pender?—No.

49,837. (Mr. Longe.) How long had you held this field?—Three years, I think.

49,838. When Mr. Michelmore gave you notice to quit, did not he ask you to join the company?—He did not.

49,839. You could have joined the company?—I do not know about that. I did not ask, nor was I asked.

49,840. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you not vote in 1863, in Seymour and Dent's election?—I did not. I was no vote.

49,841. Did you ever vote in the municipal council elections?—No; I was in the country. I was not here.

49,842. (Mr. Longe.) Did not Mr. Michelmore know your politics at all?—No, I do not believe he did.

49,843. Perhaps you had none?—Well, there may be something in that.

49,844. (Mr. Bere.) How far is Cornworthy from where you live in Totnes?—About five miles.

49,845. How many voters are there that live at Cornworthy?—Three, I think there is, as far as my knowledge will carry me.

49,846. Yourself and Tozer?—Yes, that is two.

49,847. And Mr. Tucker?—And Mr. Tucker.

49,848. What is Mr. Tucker's Christian name?—William.

49,849. Is he a Conservative or a Liberal?—He is very much like myself about politics.

49,850. Did you and he talk together about this election?—No; I do not think it is much use to talk to a farmer like him about politics. I do not know much about it myself.

49,851. You do not?—No.

49,852. Nor does he?—I do not think he does.

49,853. Was Mr. George Heath the only person who came to canvass you on the Conservative side?—Colonel Dawkins; and I promised him the first time I saw him.

49,854. And then you said Commander Pim you would not vote for?—I said I should not vote for him.

49,855. When you went down to the "Seven Stars" did you not go and see Mr. Edmonds there?—No.

49,856. Were you not up at the little room at the head of the stairs with Mr. Edmonds ?—No.

49,857. Are you quite sure about that ?—I am.

49,858. Did you not go upstairs in the "Seven "Stars ?"—No. I had a glass of grog there on the nomination day.

49,859. On the nomination day ?—Yes.

49,860. Where was that ?—In the little room.

49,861. In the little room at the head of the stairs ?—Yes.

49,862. Who was that with ?—With a man named George Evens.

49,863. Did George Evens offer you any money ?—No, he had not the power to offer me any, I think.

49,864. Are you quite sure George Evens did not let you have some money ?—Quite sure.

49,865. Or tell you where to get some ?—Quite sure.

49,866. (Mr. Longe.) Did he tell you he could not get any for you ?—He told me as far as that, that he did not know anything about money.

49,867. You asked him to get some for you ?—I did not.

49,868. What did he tell you ?—He asked me to go in to have a glass of grog. That is all I know about it.

49,869. I mean about the money ?—He said he did not know anything about the money.

49,870. What did you go there for ?—To go and drink a glass of wine.

49,871. What did you talk about while you were drinking it ?—I do not think there was any particular conversation.

49,872. Did he tell you Mr. Heath was the man ?—He did not.

49,873. Who was it you were to go to ?—He did not tell me anyone.

49,874. When he told you he did not know anything about money himself, what did he say ?—He merely asked me to have a glass of grog.

49,875. You say he told you he did not know anything about money ?—Yes, I told you before, Mr. George Heath offered me 25*l.* to vote before, and I said I would not vote.

49,876. (Mr. Bere.) Were you not up there with George Evens waiting for the money which did not come ?—I was not; there was no money ever promised me except 25*l.*, and I refused it.

49,877. And you refused it because it was not enough ?—I beg your pardon, but that is not correct. I was asked to vote for Mr. Pender, I had promised, and I meant to vote for him.

49,878. Would you have refused it if Mr. Pender had offered it to you ?—I never asked it.

ROBERT MORGAN sworn and examined.

R. Morgan.

49,879. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live ?—I formerly lived at Totnes when I was a vote.

49,880. You were a vote in 1863, I think, were not you ?—I was.

49,881. Whom did you vote for then ?—Pender and Seymour, I think it was in 1863 they were together.

49,882. No, Pender and Seymour were in 1865 ?—No, I voted for Mr. Pender.

49,883. You voted for Mr. Pender only ?—Yes.

49,884. You had a vote in 1865 ?—Yes.

49,885. You voted for Pender and Seymour ?—Yes.

49,886. Did you get anything from them for voting ?—No

49,887. Nothing promised ?—Nothing at all.

49,888. No offer made to you by either side ?—Yes, an offer made by young John Heath. He came to me, and asked me if 200*l.* or 300*l.* would be of any use to me, and I said "No, nor 500*l.*," and I told him to leave my premises immediately, as it was an insult.

49,889. Did you vote in 1863 ?—Yes.

49,890. Whom did you vote for then ?—Mr. Pender.

49,891. That was in 1862 ?—Yes.

49,892. You voted for Mr. Seymour in 1863 ?—I think I voted for Mr. Seymour twice.

49,893. Did you not have an offer of money in 1863?—No.

49,894. None at all by either side ?—No.

49,895. Did you get anything after the election ?—No.

49,896. Neither in 1862 nor 1863 ?—No.

49,897. Neither directly or indirectly ?—No.

49,898. Did any person get any money for you ?—No.

49,899. What is your business ?—A general dealer.

49,900. Whom did you vote for in 1859 ?—Mr. Dunn. In Mills and Baldwin's election I received 40*l.*

49,901. 1852 ?—Yes.

49,902. From whom did you get that ?—I believe from a man of the name of Melhuish.

49,903. What did you get in Dunn's time ?—60*l.*

49,904. From whom ?—Frederick Evens, the son of the man that bribed in 1862.

49,905. Then you voted for Dunn ?—Yes.

49,906. How was it that you voted for Seymour and not for Dent ?—I will tell you. I was occupying a house belonging to Mr. Jacobs, or rather to Mrs. Jacobs, and Mr. Hunt was the agent for the Conservative land, and I voted for those parties, as I told you previously, in 1852 and 1859; and I was asked at that time to purchase the house, and I said I was not exactly in a position to do so; and after I had been there three or four years they asked me again to purchase it, and offered it to me at a price. In the meantime I had the house bought over my head, and I was taken ill at the time, and old Mr. Michelmore said, "Fitze lives opposite." I said, "I know he "does." He said, "If you like, you shall have that "house"; and I said, "I am much obliged to you; I "should like to have it; it will be of service to me." He said then, "I will alter it if you please, or put in "a new shop front." I said, "Perhaps it will suit "me better to have the latter"; and he drew out a plan for a new shop front, and he never asked me how I should vote, but I did it out of gratitude.

49,907. Did not Frederick Evens come to see you about the election of Dent ?—No.

49,908. Had he any claim on you ?—No, nor any of his family; no such luck.

49,909. He had paid you 60*l.* ?—That was 1859. I have not had anything since from him or any of his family; no such luck.

49,910. (Mr. Coleridge.) How came you to consider that an insult ?—Well, at that time I was rather awkwardly situated, I was rather wanting money, and I thought just at that time that money would be of a little service, and I would not take it of the party I belonged to, the Liberal party, but the other party, which I did.

49,911. Because you thought there was no chance of their getting in with your vote ?—To tell you the truth, I did not care much about it.

49,912. (Mr. Bere.) Do you deal in china watches and that sort of thing ?—Yes.

49,913. Did you have a pretty good sale after the last election ?—Not more than any other time.

49,914. Did Pender buy any ?—No.

49,915. Did Mr. Heald buy anything ?—Mr. Macdougall bought a few little things of me in glass, or something of that sort, a few shillings' worth only; not in consideration of my vote, for when Mr. Pender called at my place I promised him my vote there and then.

49,916. Did Mr. Dent buy anything of you ?—I told Mr. Dent in a moment that I should not vote for him, and he said he wished every individual in the borough spoke out as I did, and they should soon return to London again; and also some other gentleman, Captain King.

THIRTY-SIXTH DAY.

S. Cuming.

30 Oct. 1866.

Mr. Samuel Cuming sworn and examined.

49,917. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you?—An architect and surveyor.

49,918. Of the Duke of Somerset's property, are not you?—I have done a little for him.

49,919. That ball-room at the "Seymour Arms"?—Yes.

49,920. How long have you had a vote?—Since the passing of the Reform Bill.

49,921. What do you vote upon?—A house.

49,922. Your own house that you live in?—Yes.

49,923. Have you always voted for the Liberals?—Yes.

49,924. On every occasion?—Every occasion.

49,925. What did you do in the days when the duke supported the Conservative candidate; for instance, at Ricardo's election?—I voted on the Liberal side.

49,926. Did you vote for Seymour and Ricardo or Seymour and Baldwin?—I did not vote for Ricardo.

49,927. I mean in those days when the duke gave his second vote to the Conservatives, how did you vote? Take Ricardo's election?—Here are all the parties I have voted for ticked off (handing a list of candidates.)

49,928. I see you voted for the two Liberals. You did not vote for the duke's second candidate, Baldwin; you voted for Ricardo. You never voted for the Conservatives at any time?—Never.

49,929. What have you had to do with elections? Have you been canvassed much?—No. I go and give my vote. I was never canvassed by Mr. Seymour or Mr. Pender.

49,930. Have you canvassed other people with them?—No.

49,931. What have you had to do with giving money to any voters?—Nothing at all in my life.

49,932. Has no money ever passed through your hands?—Never a farthing.

49,933. How have you shown your zeal at elections principally? Have you had much to do with turning people out?—No, nothing to do with that.

49,934. Never?—Never.

49,935. I suppose you have had a good deal to do with putting up buildings to carry a vote, making linhays watertight?—Nothing to do with that.

49,936. Who does that part of the architect's work?—Some of Mr. Michelmore's people themselves.

49,937. Did not they consult you about the necessary qualifications of the linhays?—No; I have been many times here in this court.

49,938. You always appeared as a witness to value as to the 10*l.* occupation?—Not always; I came down sometimes. I have always been for the Liberal side, and can go further back than that, if you like. I supported Lord Ebrington 50 years ago, in 1816, and in 1818, when he got in for Exeter.

49,939. Do you know a man called Blackler?—Yes, Thomas Blackler, the stonemason.

49,940. What had you to do with him about his vote at the last election?—Nothing at all.

49,941. Not some talk about it?—Not a word.

49,942. Did not he come to you to know how he should vote?—No.

49,943. Did you promise him some work?—No.

49,944. Do you employ people indiscriminately, or those who support your party?—I employ those who do the work best; that is my plan.

49,945. You told us you voted 50 years ago. Used there to be bribery in Totnes in those days before the Reform Bill was passed?—In 1816 I went to Exeter, and in 1818 I went up with a large party, and Lord Ebrington came in then. On one of our traps there was, "Wanted, three men for a rotten borough," and Sir George Adams asked old Mr. Pulling who put it up, and what it meant; and he says, "If you will "look round at a certain place you will see 4,000*l.* "for Totnes." That was the price of Totnes in those days.

49,946. Then you do not agree with those who say that Mr. Baldwin was the first to introduce bribery into the borough?—Oh, he was not the first, no doubt about that.

49,947. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know a person of the name of Foote?—Yes.

49,948. Did you go to see him at the last election?—Yes, I went to him and he said he should not vote without money, and I said, "If that is the case I shall "have nothing more to do with you."

49,949. How many times did you go to see him?—Once.

49,950. Did you go to see his wife?—No, my son did.

49,951. Is your son Samuel Cuming, junior?—Yes.

49,952. He went to see her?—Yes.

49,953. (Mr. Coleridge.) Foote was a workman of yours?—He worked for me 16 or 17 years; the first time he had a vote, and I went up and asked him whom he was going to vote for, and he said he should not vote without he had money; he had been promised money before.

49,954. Is there anything more you can tell us?—No.

49,955. (Mr. Bere.) You have been paid pretty good fees at registration times for your services, have not you?—No.

49,956. Were not you employed as surveyor to value various properties?—I charged a guinea a day at the time I was here, and I think that is little enough.

49,957. That is all you got paid?—That is all.

49,958. What did your bill come to altogether?—I am not sure I can tell you; three or four days last time, but I have not been paid for that. I never gave my bill in.

49,959. In 1864 you were paid?—Yes.

49,960. Were you examined as a witness as regards the value of the property?—They have several surveyors besides.

49,961. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had you anything to do with the arrangement as to how the votes should be made on the "Seymour" hotel land?—No, not at all.

49,962. Is there a linhay there?—There are many linhays on the different properties.

49,963. The "Seymour" hotel land held by Mrs. Beazley?—I do not know whether there is a linhay there.

49,964. There must be some building there to make the votes?—I am sure I do not know whether there is.

49,965. There must be some building there to make a vote?—I do not know whether there is or no, I had nothing to do with it whatever; I know nothing about it.

49,966. (Mr. Longe.) You generally appear as a witness before the revising barrister?—When I am asked to. I have several times.

49,967. On behalf of the duke?—No, not on behalf of the duke, the Liberal party.

49,968. As to the value of the land to carry these votes?—Oh, no, I have nothing to do with the land at all.

49,969. (Mr. Coleridge.) Are you a member of the council?—No.

49,970. Have you ever stood?—No.

S. Cuming, jun.

Samuel Cuming, Jun., sworn and examined.

49,971. (Mr. Longe.) How long have you had a vote?—Ever since 1862 when Mr. Pender came down first.

49,972. What was your qualification?—Building and land.

49,973. Where was it?—On the Duke of Somerset's ground.

49,974. Were you one of a company?—No.

49,975. How many more are qualified on the same land?—Two.

49,976. How many acres ?—12 or 13 I think.

49,977. Do you hold it now ?—No.

49,978. Have you a vote now ?—Yes, I have a vote on the house.

49,979. The house you live in ?—The house I live in.

49,980. Where is that ?—At Bridgetown.

49,981. You have given up the field then ?—I gave up the field.

49,982. When you took the house ?—Yes.

49,983. Why was that ?—Because I voted on the house.

49,984. Was some one else put in your place in the field ?—Yes.

49,985. So that there should not be any votes wasted ?—Yes.

49,986. In 1862 whom did you vote for ?—Mr. Pender.

49,987. 1863 ?—I voted for Mr. Seymour.

49,988. 1865 ?—Pender and Seymour.

49,989. Did you ever receive anything for your vote before or after the election ?—Not a penny.

49,990. Were you ever offered anything ?—Never.

49,991. Not by either party ?—No.

49,992. Did you ever take part in canvassing for the Liberal party ?—No.

49,993. Did you ever take part in canvassing at all ?—I have in the council elections ; not a very active part.

49,994. But in 1862 you voted for Mr. Pender. Did you not take part in getting votes ?—Yes, I have always taken a very active part in it.

49,995. In 1862 whom did you go to on behalf of the Liberals ?—I never went to anyone that I know of.

49,996. Did you not go to anyone ?—No.

49,997. Did you not ask anyone which way he was going to vote ?—No.

49,998. You did take an active part in the election ?—Yes, I took an active part.

49,999. What did you do ?—I came up with some of the voters to the Guildhall or to the polling booth.

50,000. That was what your work was, to look after these men who came up to vote ?—Yes.

50,001. On the morning of the election ?—Yes.

50,002. What did you act on ?—On my own authority.

50,003. What did they want looking after for ?—Perhaps in the morning some of the Liberals would fancy it best to get the men to poll in the morning, and I saw some of the men to ask them to be kind enough to go up to vote. We wished them to vote as early in the morning as possible.

50,004. Who ordered it ? It must have been regulated. Who told you they wished it ?—Perhaps Mr. Michelmore might have asked me, or Mr. Holman.

50,005. Was there anyone else acting in the same way as you ?—I dare say there might have been.

50,006. You worked together ?—No, I worked by myself.

50,007. You took up a certain number at a particular time of day ?—No, I did not ; I asked them to be kind enough to poll early in the morning.

50,008. What else did you do besides that ?—That is all.

50,009. Were you always about the polling booth on the election day ?—No.

50,010. What was the active part you took ; is that all you did ?—That is all I did.

50,011. That you were to go to shaky persons and try to get their votes ?—I went to one man named Foote. I did not see him.

50,012. Who sent you to him ?—I was asked to go by Mr. Holman.

50,013. You knew the part Mr. Holman was taking in the election ?—Yes.

50,014. Did he ask you to go to Foote, and what did he ask you to do ?—To go to see if he was going to vote for the Conservatives.

50,015. Did Mr. Holman give you instructions as to how you were to deal with Foote ?—No.

50,016. What did he ask you to do ?—He merely asked me to go up and see if he was going to vote for the Conservatives, which I did.

50,017. Did you get that information ?—Yes, I told them he was going to vote for the Conservatives, and that I had seen 150*l.* brought down by Foote's wife, and I was to say it was too late now to come up there for he was going to vote for Colonel Dawkins.

50,018. (Mr. Coleridge.) She showed you the money ?—She showed me the money. I went up twice.

50,019. (Mr. Longe.) This is the last election ?—Yes ; I do not know anything more about the former elections than what I have told you.

50,020. You did not go to any man in 1863 ?—No.

50,021. In 1865 you went to Foote ?—Yes, he was the only person.

50,022. Did not Mr. Holman give you leave to make an offer of money ?—No.

50,023. He told you to hold out the prospect to voters of getting money if he voted for the Liberals ?—No.

50,024. You knew that you might do so ?—No.

50,025. You knew what part Mr. Holeman was taking ?—Yes.

50,026. You did not know that Mr. Holman had any money ?—No.

50,027. Nor that he was distributing money ?—No.

50,028. When did you first hear of that ?—I know it now.

50,029. When did you first know it ?—I did not know it during the time of the election.

50,030. (Mr. Bere.) Why did Mr. Holman send you to Foote ?—I suppose because he had been working under my father so many years.

50,031. Did you know what sort of a man Foote was as to taking money at elections ?—I did not think he would take it.

50,032. Did not Mr. Holman tell you that you might offer him some money ?—No ; not a farthing.

50,033. Supposing Foote had asked you for money, what should you have said ?—I should have told Mr. Holman whatever he had said.

50,034. Did Mrs. Foote tell you she had got money on the other side ?—Yes, she showed it to me.

50,035. Did she shake it and hold it up ?—Yes.

50,036. Was that the only person you went to see at that election ?—That is all.

50,037. There were no others ?—No.

50,038. Did you ever interfere in any other way at the election for members of Parliament ?—No.

50,039. What did you do at the council elections ?—I never took any part ; sometimes I have been in the committee room.

50,040. Are you in partnership with your father ?—Yes.

50,041. (Mr. Longe.) You took some part at the last election in taking voters to the poll ?—Only a few.

50,042. Who were they ?—Perhaps I might call on someone as I was coming up or going down the street and ask them if they would poll early in the morning.

50,043. How many voters did you take to the poll this last election ?—Not one ; I never took a man to the poll in my life.

50,044. Were you ever asked to look after voters ?—No.

50,045. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever keep any away from the poll ?—No.

50,046. Have you had nothing to do with keeping any of them away or with locking them up ?—No.

50,047. Did you ever go away with any that were called lame ducks ?—No.

50,048. (Mr. Bere.) Do you remember being at the "Seymour" hotel, when Henry Crawford was taken there ?—No.

50,049. Did you see him there ?—No.

50,050. Or any people who were locked up there for the night ?—No.

50,051. You had nothing to do with taking care of them ?—No.

50,052. (Mr. Longe.) Were you at any of the

THIRTY-SIXTH DAY.

S. Cuming, jun.

meetings at the "Seymour" hotel during the last election?—Yes.

50,053. At how many?—I was there almost every day during the election.

50,054. Was there a meeting every day in the big room?—No.

50,055. Were you at any meetings in the big room?—No.

50,056. Did you dine there?—No; I never dined there.

50,057. Did any people dine in the large room during that week?—I think not.

50,058. What number of people were there in the large room at any of these meetings?—Perhaps the evening after the election there might have been 200 or 300.

50,059. And the evening before the election?—Perhaps there might have been 50 or 100.

50,060. On the nomination day?—Yes.

50,061. And on the Sunday?—I was not there on the Sunday.

50,062. On the Monday were you there?—It is very likely I was.

50,063. Were there the same number there then?—I think not so many.

50,064. And on the Saturday?—I cannot recollect.

50,065. There were several days when there were a hundred or so?—Yes.

50,066. Who generally presided?—That I cannot say.

50,067. There was a chairman?—Yes.

50,068. Did you ever preside?—No.

50,069. Did Mr. Moysey preside?—Yes; Mr. Moysey presided once; I think on the nomination night.

50,070. Did you pay for your grog?—Yes; every thing that I had there I paid for.

50,071. Was that generally so with the others?—My father and myself generally paid. I do not know what the rest did.

R. Jackson.

ROBERT JACKSON sworn and examined.

50,072. (Mr. Bere.) What is your qualification as a voter for Totnes?—Land and building.

50,073. Are you one of the company?—Yes.

50,074. Which company did you belong to?—Hamlyn and Company.

50,075. The Buckfastleigh company?—Yes.

50,076. Are you a voter for Ashburton as well?—I was; I am not now.

50,077. How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—I had only voted once.

50,078. What did you get for that?—I think 10*l.*

50,079. Who sent you that?—Mr. Hamlyn paid me that.

50,080. How long was that after the election?—About three weeks.

50,081. Who promised you that?—No one.

50,082. Had you seen Mr. Jeffery Michelmore at all at the time of the election?—No.

50,083. Nor had any talk with him about it?—No.

50,084. Then you did not expect the 10*l.*?—No; I did not expect a farthing.

50,085. Is that all the money you ever had?—That is all.

50,086. Did you ever bribe anyone yourself?—Never.

50,087. Where do you live?—At Buckfastleigh.

50,088. Did not Capt. Pim come and canvass you?—Yes, he did.

50,089. On what day was that?—On the day of the election in the morning.

50,090. Was it very early?—He came to my place about half-past 6.

50,091. He came over to Buckfastleigh?—Yes.

50,092. What did he say to you?—He wanted me to come with him to Totnes in the carriage.

50,093. Did you go with him?—I told him I would not go.

50,094. Did you not lead him to believe you would go?—I did not go with him.

50,095. Did he offer you any money?—He said if I would go with him to the "Seven Stars" that Mr. Edmonds would give me any amount that I should require; anything I wished to have.

50,096. That was not temptation enough for you?—It was not.

50,097. You did not go with him?—I did not.

50,098. Is that all that passed between you and him?—That is all that passed.

50,099. Are you the carpenter to Lord Cranstoun?—Yes.

50,100. Had you not, when you were first canvassed, promised the Conservatives?—No.

50,101. Who had canvassed you?—Col. Dawkins came to me first and then I saw Mr. Seymour and Mr. Pender.

50,102. Did you ever see Mr. Jeffery Michelmore?—Many times.

50,103. Had he canvassed you?—No, he had not.

50,104. He was Lord Cranstoun's agent?—Yes.

50,105. How long have you been Lord Cranstoun's carpenter?—15 or 16 years.

50,106. Have you ever voted for Ashburton?—Never.

50,107. Were you put down as one of the company's men there?—Yes.

50,108. You did not have a chance of voting?—No.

50,109. About the time of the election did you receive an order from Lord Cranstoun as to which way you were to vote?—No.

50,110. Did anyone come to you on Lord Cranstoun's behalf to canvass you?—There were some persons came, but I told them I would not vote for them.

50,111. Who were they?—Mr. Coulton of Buckfastleigh; I did not see him; I was not at home; sometimes I am away for three or four days or for a week.

50,112. Did they see your wife?—Most likely they did.

50,113. Did you send any message to Mr. Coulton to say that it was of no use his coming?—No.

50,114. Did Mr. Coulton offer your wife anything?—I should not expect that he would.

50,115. Did you receive any communication whatever from Lord Cranstoun about this election?—Lord Cranstoun called at my house and asked me to vote for Capt. Pim or either of the Conservatives and I said no.

50,116. When was that?—I think a week before the election.

50,117. (Mr. Coleridge.) How often has Lord Cranstoun changed his politics?—I do not know.

50,118. Did he ever ask you to vote for the Liberals at any time?—No; he never spoke to me about such a thing.

50,119. Were you not surprised at his asking you to vote for the Conservatives?—I was rather surprised.

50,120. You always thought he was a Liberal?—I always thought so.

50,121. Is he now a Liberal or a Conservative?—I do not know.

50,122. He was a Liberal when you first went to live with him?—Yes.

50,123. And then he turned Conservative?—Yes.

50,124. Is he a Liberal now?—I do not know; I never lived with him. I have worked for his steward. I do not live in the house with him.

50,125. You are still his servant?—Not altogether, I work for other people as well as for him.

50,126. Were you ever his servant?—No.

50,127. You never worked for him only?—No, for other people as well.

JAMES LEWIS GOODRIDGE sworn and examined.

50,128. (Mr. Coleridge.) Where do you live?—In Totnes.

50,129. What are you?—A carpenter.

50,130. What do you vote for?—For my house.

50,131. What rent do you pay?—The house is rated at 18*l.* a year.

50,132. When did you first have a vote?—I think when Mills came here in 1852.

50,133. Who did you vote for then?—I voted for Mills.

50,134. For both the Liberals, Seymour and Mills?—I think there was but one then.

50,135. In 1857 did you vote for Lord Gifford and Mills?—I think I voted then for the same party. I was the last who voted.

50,136. Was that in 1857?—That was when Mr. Mackenzie was here; I believe I was the last vote, it was nearly 4 o'clock.

50,137. What made you vote so late?—Mr. Webber wanted me to vote. I said that I would not vote at all.

50,138. What did you get for keeping back so long?—Nothing.

50,139. Why were you kept back, you had voted for the Liberals before?—Yes.

50,140. Mr. Webber was a Liberal?—Yes.

50,141. What was his reason for keeping you back?—I wanted to vote for the other party; in fact, my mind led me that way, although I voted for Mr. Webber. He turned me out of my work because I would not do exactly as he wished, after having worked for him for twenty-one years. I thought I was bound to vote on the other side, in fact I had always voted for the Tory side, or had wished to do so.

50,142. You told me just now you had voted for Mr. Mills?—I was in Mr. Webber's shop, and he called me in and said, "I think it is time to pay you some "money on account."

50,143. How much did he pay you?—He paid me 30*l.* then.

50,144. How much did he owe you?—Perhaps 100*l.*, the work had not been measured up.

50,145. You voted for Mills?—Yes.

50,146. In 1857 you say you voted the last of all?—I think I was the last but one.

50,147. Who did you vote for in 1857?—I voted then for the Whig party.

50,148. For Mills and Gifford?—Yes. I voted for them twice.

50,149. You did not vote for the Tories as you meant to do?—I should have voted for them; I wished them well.

50,150. That is if they had paid you?—I never asked them for any money.

50,151. I thought Mr. Webber had turned you off?—He said he would turn me off, and I would not be humbugged by him.

50,152. You did vote as he liked?—Yes, afterwards.

50,153. What did you get?—Never a farthing in my life.

50,154. In 1859 how did you vote; Mr. Dunn's election?—That must have been the election I meant.

50,155. Did you vote for Mr. Dunn?—No, I do not think I did; I cannot tell.

50,156. What did you get for voting in 1859?—Never a farthing in my life.

50,157. Whom did you vote for in 1862?—I voted for Dent.

50,158. That was the first time you voted for a Tory?—I had voted for the Tories before that.

50,159. Did you vote for Mr. Dunn?—I forget.

50,160. What were you offered to vote for Dent?—Nothing.

50,161. Were you promised anything?—Nothing.

50,162. Did your wife ever get anything?—No; nor anyone belonging to me.

50,163. In 1863 you voted for Dent again?—Yes.

50,164. What did you get for that?—Nothing; not a farthing.

50,165. Were you promised anything?—No, never.

50,166. At the last election whom did you vote for? For Dawkins and Pim.

50,167. Did you go to the "Seven Stars" to see what was going on?—I very often go there.

50,168. Did you see any money going about there?—I did not see any.

50,169. Did they not tell you that money was going about?—No.

50,170. And were you not offered any?—I got no money nor was I offered any.

50,171. Did they send you any money after the election?—No.

50,172. Or did you find that any had been left at your house?—I never got a farthing for any election in my life, neither my wife, nor my children, nor any of my family.

50,173. Neither directly or indirectly have you ever been benefited by your vote?—I never had a sixpence, or a farthing, or a farthing's worth at any election.

50,174. When did Mr. Webber turn you off?—At Mr. Dunn's election, I think it was, that he turned me off. He said he knew which way I was going to vote, because I had left it so long. He called at my house twice. I did not like to be bound by anyone.

50,175. You did vote as he liked, and then he turned you off?—I did vote to please him, and then I was turned off. He had threatened me he would do so before.

50,176. Did any one on the Conservative side give you work as Mr. Webber had done before?—I have done work for Mr. Heath at the "Seven Stars."

50,177. Did you work for him when you worked for Mr. Webber?—Yes, I had worked for him before. I told Mr. Webber that I had worked for other parties besides him, for Mr. Heath and Mr. Kellock; and he said, "If Mr. Heath will do better for you "than I do, you stick to him."

50,178. Did Mr. Heath do pretty well for you?—I have done work for him.

50,179. Did he ever pay you any more money than you asked at election times?—I have never had a farthing more from any man than I have worked for.

50,180. He has not done so well as you after all?—I have never asked for anything.

50,181. (Mr. Longe.) Where is your house in Fore Street?—Just below the Ashburton Road.

50,182. Whose house is that?—It is partly my own.

50,183. And whom else does it in part belong to?—I have had money on it.

50,184. You did live in a house belonging to the Duke?—Mr. Page was my landlord.

50,185. Where was that house?—Just opposite the Priory gate.

50,186. Where were you living in 1863 when you voted for Mr. Dent?—I lived where I live now.

50,187. (Mr. Coleridge.) When did you mortgage your house?—I mortgaged it when I bought it.

50,188. How long ago is that?—In 1851.

50,189. You mortgaged it all at once?—I could not buy it.

50,190. Did you mortgage it to Mr. Watson?—I have not got any of the money for electioneering.

50,191. Whom did you mortgage it to?—The mortgage is left where it was in the first place.

50,192. Was that Mr. Watson's name?—No.

50,193. Has it ever been in Mr. Watson's name?—No.

50,194. (Mr. Longe.) Did you rent an orchard?—Yes.

50,195. How long have you had that?—I got that orchard when the market was built in the first place.

50,196. How many years back?—I do not know. Perhaps Mr. Bishop can tell you.

50,197. Is it 10 years ago?—About 20.

50,198. When you took that, did you ask for the orchard?—Yes.

THIRTY-SIXTH DAY.

J. L. Goodridge.

30 Oct. 1866.

50,199. Whom?—I went directly and asked old Mr. Michelmore.

50,200. How many acres is it?—About half an acre; just place enough to make a saw-pit.

50,201. It is a little place?—Yes.

50,202. What rent did you pay?—I used to give 4*l.* 10*s.*, and they charge me 3*l.* 10*s.* now.

50,203. Did you give it up?—They gave me notice some time back, and I said they could have the orchard whenever they liked. They gave me notice for a piece of land, and took away more than half, and charged the same rent, and more than they did before.

50,204. Then you gave up the rest?—Yes.

50,205. (Mr. Bere.) You were turned out after 1863?—I told him they could come in and take it when they liked.

50,206. Is the person who holds your mortgage a Conservative or a Liberal?—I do not know; I never troubled myself about it.

50,207. He never asked you to vote?—No.

50,208. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did Mr. Watson ever ask you for your vote?—No.

50,209. Mr. Richard Watson?—No.

50,210. He never said anything to you about it?—No.

50,211. Never had any money transactions with him?—No.

50,212. Did you ever work for him?—No.

50,213. Did he ever lend you money?—No, never. I never had a farthing or a farthing's worth from any man unless I worked for it, not for electioneering.

50,214. Did you vote for the council?—Yes.

50,215. Did you have anything for it?—No. I think I had a breakfast once or twice.

50,216. How did you vote for the council, Liberal or Conservative?—Conservative always.

50,217. Used you to vote Conservative in the council and Liberal in the borough?—I agreed to give the duke one vote out of the orchard.

50,218. (Mr. Longe.) When you took the orchard you promised to give the duke one vote?—Yes; and then Mr. Webber came and asked me for Mr. Mills, and I promised him there and then.

50,219. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who made the arrangement with you, that if you took the orchard you were to vote one for the duke? Was that Mr. Michelmore?—I used to pay my rent to Mr. Page.

50,220. Who told you at the time, if you took the orchard, that you were to vote one for the duke?—I understood it so.

50,221. Who told you?—I do not know.

50,222. Whom did you take the orchard of?—Mr. Page, and Mr. Page took it of Mr. Michelmore.

50,223. Mr. Page told you that he had given one vote for the duke, and if you took the orchard you ought to do the same?—I do not know; I never had any money at any election.

J. Marks.

JOHN MARKS sworn and examined.

50,224. (Mr. Bere.) Are you father of George Marks?—Yes, I am.

50,225. Do you rent property at Dartington under Mr. Champernowne?—Yes.

50,226. What do you vote upon at Totnes?—A piece of land at Broomborough.

50,227. You are a manufactured vote?—Yes.

50,228. How long have you had a vote?—At the last election.

50,229. Did you vote for Dawkins and Pim?—Yes.

50,230. Did you get anything?—No.

50,231. Were you asked or offered?—No.

50,232. Were you tempted on the other side?—No.

50,233. Were you canvassed by the other side?—No.

50,234. Did you receive any money, directly or indirectly?—No.

50,235. Did you use any influence to get the vote of anybody?—No.

50,236. Have you got a son in the Life Guards?—Yes, I have.

50,237. Did you know of his having money to have his expenses paid?—I heard he had 5*l.* to pay his expenses up and down.

G. Stoyle.

GEORGE STOYLE sworn and examined.

50,238. (Mr. Bere.) Have you got a vote for Totnes?—Yes.

50,239. How long have you had one?—Since 1840.

50,240. And always voted for the Liberals?—No.

50,241. Whom did you vote for in 1840?—For Baldwin.

50,242. Anything for that?—No.

50,243. In 1847 did you vote for Gifford and Ricardo?—I think Lord Seymour and Ricardo. I was a manufactured vote at that time. I was at Mr. Bentall's. I was a Liberal always before.

50,244. How do you mean?—I was a made vote on the premises on which I worked.

50,245. Were they not worth 10*l.*?—They were worth 30*l.*

50,246. Is it your own house?—No; Mr. Bentall's.

50,247. You were rated for the house?—Yes, I and another.

50,248. Did you pay the rent?—Never had any trouble about it.

50,249. From that time have you voted for the Liberals ever since?—Yes.

50,250. What have you had?—Nothing.

50,251. No present?—No.

50,252. No little advantage?—Nothing at all.

50,253. Where do you live?—At Totnes.

50,254. What are you?—A pork butcher.

50,255. You have a brother called William Stoyle?—Yes.

50,256. You tried to get his vote?—I did, at the last election.

50,257. You did not succeed?—No.

50,258. How is that?—The Conservative party took him, got him drunk, and carried him away.

50,259. (Mr. Coleridge.) They took him away before your very eyes?—No; I was in bed at 11 o'clock in the evening.

50,260. Was it not that they made you very drunk and you could not see him?—No, I was not in their company to get drunk.

50,261. He did not vote your way?—He promised me that he would.

50,262. (Mr. Bere.) Who told you to go and canvass him?—No one.

50,263. Had you not seen any gentleman on the Liberal side before he went?—No.

50,264. When did you see him?—I offered him 40*l.* if he would go and vote for the Liberals. He was a staunch Liberal, one of the 73, but the Tories made him drunk.

50,265. You offered him 40*l.* to vote for the Liberals. Did you tell the Liberals?—Not then.

50,266. Whom did you tell?—I told Mr. Holman.

50,267. What did he say?—He said, if I could get him it would be all right, and I offered him 40*l.* I did not see him till the Sunday, and he was beastly drunk.

50,268. Did he tell you he would vote?—Yes, and I agreed to give him 4*s.* a week, as he is a great drunkard.

50,269. That would take a long time to make 40*l.*?—He is in the union now.

50,270. Did they poll him in his uniform?—I do not know.

50,271. Did you have something to do with Crawford?—Yes.

50,272. Did you take him to the "Seymour"?—Yes.

50,273. How did you get him down there?—We walked side by side.

50,274. Did not you go to his house and fetch him—I did not go for that purpose.

50,275. Were you not sent to get Crawford?—No. I was in the "Commercial," drinking a glass of ale, and some of them said, "Go and fetch Crawford," and I went up, he being a neighbour close by.

50,276. You saw Mr. Crawford?—Yes.

50,277. Had you asked Crawford for his vote before?—No.

50,278. Mrs. Crawford?—No.

50,279. Did not you offer him 60*l.*?—No, I did not offer him a farthing.

50,280. You offered your brother 40*l.*?—Yes, I wanted to keep him from getting drunk.

50,281. Did not your interest in the Liberal cause induce you to do that?—No.

50,282. Where did you put Crawford?—In a room.

50,283. You stayed with him?—Yes.

50,284. All night?—He did.

50,285. Did you stay all night?—I went in and out, and took him to the poll next morning.

50,286. You were ashamed of your brother being drunk, but did not you make Crawford drunk?—He did become so, I believe.

50,287. What did you offer Crawford 60*l.* for?—I did not offer Crawford anything.

50,288. That is a mistake?—Yes.

50,289. Does Crawford deal with you?—I have got a shop, and he may come and get things at times. My brother lives next door, and he next to him.

50,290. Crawford says that he deals largely in pigs. Did you ever buy pigs of him?—I bought a pig of him several years ago.

50,291. What did you give?—The market price.

50,292. There was a carriage bought after the election?—Yes.

50,293. Did you have anything to do with buying that carriage?—No.

50,294. Have you had anything else to do with any election except what you have told us?—No.

50,295. Never at any time?—No.

50,296. Never had any money yourself?—No.

50,297. Never any advantage for giving your vote?—Not in the least.

50,298. What do you vote on?—My own house.

50,299. Is that worth 10*l.* a year?—Yes.

50,300. Who is your landlord?—There was no one else.

50,301. From whom did you buy it?—I think it did belong formerly to one Mr. Hoppin.

50,302. The one that has been here?—No.

WILLIAM VEASEY sworn and examined.

W. Veasey.

50,303. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—A slater and plasterer

50,304. Where do you live?—At Bridgetown.

50,305. How long have you had a vote?—Only the last election.

50,306. What is that a vote for?—For building and land.

50,307. What is it?—There is a company of nine of us.

50,308. Who asked you to belong to that?—I think a man near Buckfastleigh.

50,309. Which way did you vote at the last election?—For Pender and Seymour.

50,310. Where do you live?—At Bridgetown.

50,311. Who is your landlord?—The Duke of Somerset.

50,312. You were asked to join this company by a farmer near Buckfastleigh?—Yes; I forget his name.

50,313. Had you a vote before that?—No.

50,314. Have you lived in Bridgetown some time?—Yes.

50,315. Have you ever taken part in the elections before?—In 1863.

50,316. Who employed you then?—I was asked to go to Kingsbridge.

50,317. By whom?—Three or four of us went to Kingsbridge.

50,318. What did you go there for?—To look after one or two votes.

50,319. Who were the two votes?—Briggs and Mogridge.

50,320. That was in 1863, at Mr. Seymour's election?—Yes.

50,321. Who was it asked you to go?—Mr. Michelmore, deceased.

50,322. What were you to do?—I was asked to have a ride with other parties to see about the two voters.

50,323. What do you mean to say about that?—The other parties took them away.

50,324. How long did you go before the election?—The day before the polling.

50,325. And you came back the day of the election?—I came back the same evening.

50,326. Did you bring them back?—No. I did not find them at all.

50,327. Had you anything else to do with the election?—We went to Newton the same evening or the morning after.

50,328. Whom did you go after there?—The same parties.

50,329. You did not find them?—No.

50,330. What were you to do if you found them?—I was not authorized in any way, but I do not know what the other parties were.

50,331. I think you do know what the other parties were authorized to do?—No, I do not.

50,332. What was the use of going to look after them?—We were to try and see, and get them away.

50,333. Were you authorized to spend money and make them drunk?—I was not.

50,334. You knew what you were to do?—I was not authorized at all. I do not know what Mr. Mitchell was. I think he was the party authorized.

50,335. What Mr. Mitchell?—Mr. Mitchell the butcher.

50,336. Who else?—Pulling and West.

50,337. Is that all you had to do at the election?—Yes.

50,338. In 1865 did you take any part?—No.

50,339. Were you not sent there by anybody?—No.

50,340. Were you not asked to get anything for your vote?—No.

50,341. Was any offer made to you by either party?—No, neither party offered me a farthing.

50,342. Did not Mr. Michelmore ask you to take a share in his company?—No; it was a farmer near Buckfastleigh. I forget his name.

50,343. Bradridge?—Yes.

50,444. He was a keeper-up of the company?—Yes.

50,345. What part were you to take?—Not more than being a vote.

50,346. Did you offer any money?—No.

50,347. None at all?—No.

50,348. Did you get any money there belonging to the company?—No.

50,349. Did you get a dinner?—Yes, I always go to the Duke's grand dinner twice a year.

50,350. What were you to get for joining this company; no advantage?—No more than the influence of the vote.

50,351. Mr. Pulling did not give us as clear and accurate account of the trip to Kingsbridge. What happened ?—We went to Newton, and had a glass of grog at the "Commercial" hotel.

50,352. Did you go to Plymouth ?—No; we went to the station, and when the train went off we returned, and in the evening we went to Plymouth.

50,353. He says you and Mr. Mitchell went back ?—Yes.

50,354. What was it for; to keep yourself out of the way ?—No; we were after two voters, Briggs and Mogridge.

W. T. O. Toope.

WILLIAM T. O. TOOPE sworn and examined.

50,355. (Mr. Bere.) What are you ?—A plasterer and slater.

50,356. Where do you live ?—Totnes.

50,357. And what do you vote on ?—Building and house.

50,358. Of your own ?—Yes.

50,359. Freehold ?—Yes.

50,360. How long have you had a vote ?—Four or five years.

50,361. When did you first become a voter ?—At the last election.

50,362. Whom did you vote for then ?—Pender and Seymour.

50,363. What did you get for that ?—Nothing.

50,364. Had you ever had a vote for the council before that ?—Yes.

50,365. And where you have had a vote for the council have you voted for the Liberals ?—Yes, always for the Liberals.

50,366. Who canvassed you at the last election ?—I think the only gentlemen I saw were Mr. Pender and Mr. Windeatt.

50,367. Whom did you work for generally ?—The gentlefolks, anybody.

50,368. Did you work for the Conservatives as well as the Liberals ?—I worked for as many parties more.

50,369. Did anybody ask you to vote for the Conservatives ?—No.

50,370. Anybody used any pressure upon you on either side ?—No.

50,371. Did the Conservatives call at your house ?—They called. I told my wife to tell them that I would not vote.

50,372. Was there any money given to you by the Liberals ?—No.

50,373. No present afterwards ?—No.

50,374. Either directly or indirectly have you received any money for your vote ?—No.

50,375. Neither you nor anybody on your behalf ?—No.

50,376. Have you not had the work of the schools ?—Yes.

50,377. When did you get that ?—I had the order last November.

50,378. Plastering ?—Yes; I was not aware until November that I was going to do it.

50,379. Do you know who recommended you ?—Mr. Cuming employed me; I have not been paid for it though.

50,380. Were you to be paid a certain scale of prices ?—It is measurement work.

50,381. Did you hear anything about being employed on a school before you voted ?—No, I never expected to. I thought the work was all let before the election. Mr. Cuming told me to go on with the work.

50,382. Is it a valuable contract ?—I do not know. I hope if I lay out 20*s.* I shall have a sovereign for it.

50,383. Is that all you know about elections ?—That is all.

50,384. Did you vote for the council elections ?—I voted a long time ago for Mr. Sparke Distin.

50,385. Did you get anything for that ?—No, never offered anything.

W. Guppy.

WILLIAM GUPPY sworn and examined.

50,386. (Mr. Bere.) What are you ?—I am a retired schoolmaster.

50,387. How long have you had a vote for Totnes ?—At three elections.

50,388. 1862 and 1863 and the last time ?—Yes.

50,389. How did you vote in 1862 ?—I voted for the Liberals every time.

50,390. Were you asked to vote for Mr. Dent in 1862 ?—Yes.

50,391. Who asked you ?—They called at my house, but I cannot tell whom.

50,392. Did people offer any money ?—No.

50,393. Did they offer you money to vote for Mr. Pender ?—No.

50,394. Did they give you anything ?—No.

50,395. The last time you voted for Mr. Pender ?—Yes.

50,396. What is this story about Mr. Harris offering you 100*l.* for the Conservatives ?—In the morning I was walking about the town——

50,397. How long before the election ?—I cannot tell.

50,398. How long before the election ?—If you will have patience with me, I will relate. I was walking down town, and Mr. Harris was in the street, and he saw me and came up to me and said, "We have two "Conservative candidates down; if you will vote for "them you can have 100*l.*; and if you will promise "me to do so, I will send it to your house, either in "gold or bank notes."

50,399. Mr. Harris said this ?—Yes.

50,400. Did not he also say if you would only vote for one you would have 50*l.* ?—Yes, he did; and I said to Mr. Harris, "I shall vote for Mr. Pender, and "my other vote I shall not promise to anyone. I "have thought of voting for Mr. Pender only;" but I did not tell Mr. Pender so at the time until I felt disposed to vote for him.

50,401. How did you vote; for Pender and Seymour ?—No, for Pender a plumper.

50,402. What made you do that ?—Because I respected him so highly; not for any offence on the other part. I voted for Mr. Seymour without money and without price, and for everyone I voted for.

50,403. Mr. Harris did not send you 50*l.* for voting for Mr. Pender ?—No, Mr. Harris did not do any such thing.

50,404. Because your plumping for a Liberal was a vote for the Conservatives ?—No, I did not do it for that purpose. I never received a farthing from Harris or anyone else.

50,405. Did you expect that if you would vote for the Conservatives Harris would really send you the 100*l.* ?—I had no reason to doubt it, but I never intended to receive it. I did not intend to receive any man's money against my conscience. I am a supporter of the Liberal cause, and intend to be so as long as I live.

50,406. You have voted for the council ?—Yes.

50,407. You always voted for the Liberals there ?—Yes, I voted for the Liberals generally. I have voted for a Conservative. My opinion is that it is not right to mix up local affairs with politics. I think they ought to consult good men, men calculated to be useful to the town, and not to do it on party grounds.

50,408. In the municipal elections you voted for whom you thought the best man, irrespective of party ?—Yes, I do.

50,409. Have you ever been asked to give a bribe to anyone else ?—Never in my life. I never had anything to do with the election but to give my vote, and

I will express in a few words how I have acted if you will allow me. The first election I voted for Mr. Pender, and the next was for Seymour, and the next was for Pender.

50,410. You were once a voter for Honiton, were not you ?—I have left Honiton nearly 20 years.

50,411. You used to vote for the Tories at Honiton ?—No, the Liberals; for the Liberals always.

50,412. You never voted for the Tories ?—No, I never voted for the Tories; my opinion is, that it is the bounden duty of every one to vote from principle, without money and without price.

50,413. Did not you once vote for Mr. Hogg at Honiton ?—No, never in my life. I stuck to the Liberal cause, and intend to do so as long as I live.

50,414. (Mr. Longe.) You did not keep a school at Totnes ?—No. I have retired from the school business nearly 18 years, and I have lived here nearly seven.

Robert Coull Earle sworn and examined.

R. C. Earle

50,415. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live ?—At Paignton.

50,416. At the election of 1863 were you living at Ashprington ?—Yes.

50,417. How long have you lived at Ashprington ?—Two years last Lady-day.

50,418. Did you vote at the election of 1865 ?—No.

50,419. The election of 1863 ?—No; I have not voted this seven years.

50,420. Are you a tenant of the Duke's ?—I had some land at Gerston, I have had it 25 or 30 years.

50,421. When you took the farm was it understood that you were to give the Duke your vote ?—I had it before Mr. Baldwin bought it, in Mr. Bowden's time, and I continued all through Mr. Baldwin's time, the same land, and for about two years after the Duke came in, and then I gave notice to quit.

50,422. When the Duke became your landlord was it understood that you were to give the Duke one vote ?—Mr. Michelmore said they let the land for voting purposes, and I said to him, I had always voted for Lord Seymour as I had voted for Mr. Baldwin and Lord Seymour, and I dare say I should continue it as I had before.

50,423. But you did not ?—I did not vote at all.

50,424. Why did not you vote for Mr. Seymour ?—I had some business to go about.

50,425. Where did it take you to ?—Wales.

50,426. Did it take you there before the election ?—I went on the Friday before the election.

50,427. Did you pay your own expenses ?—I did. I never received anything, expenses or anything else.

50,428. Did not you tell Mr. Harris that you did not like Mr. Seymour, and that you went away because you did not want to vote for him ?—No.

50,429. Did you have any conversation with Mr. Harris about it ?—No.

50,430. None at all ?—No.

50,431. You did go away because you did not want to vote for Mr. Seymour, was that it ?—That was part.

50432. You gave up the field and now have not a vote at all ?—I have not a vote at all.

50,433. And you never received any or offered any money ?—No.

50,434. (Mr. Longe.) Why did you give up the field ?—Because I was living at Ashprington then, and now I am at Paignton, and it is too far for me to have a field.

50,435. (Mr. Coleridge.) Paignton is within five miles from here ?—Six miles.

50,436. You could vote on your field ?—But I occupied my field; it was not a manufactured but a bonâ fide vote.

50,437. You were not a member of a company ?—No. It was farmed and stocked with my own, and I farmed 200 acres besides that.

50,438. (Mr. Longe.) You had that at the time of Mr. Baldwin ?—Yes, I had three fields.

50,439. Whenever you held that field was it understood that you were to vote according to the landlord's opinion before Baldwin's time ?—No; I always did.

50,440. Before Baldwin's time it was a Liberal landlord then ?—No. I think I had it before any votes were made on building and land.

50,441. Before Mr. Baldwin bought it, who was the landlord then ?—Mr. Bowden.

50,442. He was a Liberal ?—No, I think he was a Conservative, but then I had no vote on it. There were no votes I think of that description then.

50,443. (Mr. Bere.) When did you first get a vote ?—Upon my honour I do not know when Mr. Baldwin came first.

50,444. (Mr. Longe.) You mean you did not qualify ?—No, I do not think so. I think it was before the Reform Bill passed, I do not know when it was. It was before Mr. Baldwin bought it that I took it.

50,445. (Mr. Bere.) When did you first become a voter ?—I do not know.

50,446. Was it 30 years ago ?—I should think so.

50,447. Was it before Mr. Baldwin and Mr. Blount stood ?—Yes, before that I think.

50,448. Do you know how long it was before Mr. Baldwin stood for the borough ?—I think I had a vote when Mr. Baldwin was first a candidate.

50,449. That is 1839 ?—Yes.

50,450. Did you vote for that land at Gerston ?—Yes.

50,451. There was a building upon it ?—Yes; it had a building.

50,452. Was that an old or a new building ?—An old one.

50,453. Can you recollect how long before that you had been on the register of voters ?—No.

50,454. When did you first find your name put on as a voter ?—I do not know I am sure.

50,455. When you were holding under Mr. Bowden were you told to vote for the Liberals ?—There was no voting in the concern when I took it first.

50,456. Mr. Bowden did not sell it for some years after the Reform Bill ?—No.

50,457. And you were his tenant ?—Yes.

50,458. When Mr. Bowden was your landlord did you receive any instructions from him as to how you were to vote ?—Not at all.

50,459. When Mr. Baldwin became your landlord did you ?—No.

50,460. But you did vote for him ?—Yes.

50,461. It was not until the Duke of Somerset got the ground that you received any instructions about your vote at all ?—No, it was not.

Mr. Thomas E. Owen recalled and further examined.

Mr. T. E. Owen

50,462. (Mr. Bere.) Have you seen Mr. Brooking Cuming to-day ?—I have.

50,463. In what condition is he as far as his fitness for being examined by us is concerned ?—We have examined him again to-day, and we have come to the same conclusion as we did before. He has a clot of blood on the brain, and some little softness of the textures of the brain, and he might possibly have another attack, which might perhaps end fatally.

50,464. Did you examine him to see whether his memory had been affected or not?—I did not to-day, but I have examined him before for that purpose.

50,465. What is your opinion as to that?—His memory is very defective indeed. He is constantly in the habit of using words he does not intend to use.

50,466. Do you think it would be dangerous to his life if we were to examine him at his own house or here?—Yes.

50,467. You have examined him I believe in consultation with Dr. Hains?—I have.

50,468. Can you form any idea as to the probable time of his recovery?—I cannot. He never can recover the use of his hand and his leg.

50,469. Do you think he can recover the use of his brain?—Very possibly at some late date.

50,470. I suppose you cannot fix any time for that?—I cannot. The brain is so thoroughly a sealed book that we have no data to go upon.

Mr. J. Hains.

Mr. JOHN HAINS sworn and examined.

50,471. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—A surgeon and apothecary.

50,472. Have you had any consultation with Dr. Owen, and have you examined Mr. Brooking Cuming to-day?—I have.

50,473. And what was your opinion with regard to his fitness to be examined by us, either at his own house or here?—I do not think he is in a fit state at all.

50,474. Do you think our examining him either at his house or here, would endanger his life?—My opinion is, if he had any excitement whatever he might have a recurrence of hæmorrhage, and perhaps a fatal termination might take place in a minute.

50,475. Do you think an examination would be likely to cause hæmorrhage?—I have no doubt of it whatever. He is in a very excited state at present.

50,476. (Mr. Coleridge.) Is it a state of apoplexy?—It is the result of apoplexy. He has the rupture of a blood vessel, and a clot has remained, which clot is pressing upon the brain, and I have no doubt after a time the clot may be removed, but there may be a certain action going on behind which may terminate in tumour of the brain.

50,477. It may be absorbed?—It may be absorbed. It is very doubtful.

50,478. (Mr. Bere.) I had better put this question to you as you are here. Do you think there is any probability of his being recovered before the end of this week sufficiently to allow of his being examined?—That is out of the question altogether.

50,479. (Mr. Coleridge.) Can you give us any idea of the time at which possibly he might be examined?—It is very doubtful indeed. I should say the very shortest period would be at least 12 months, and he might be dead before that.

W. Barter.

WILLIAM BARTER sworn and examined.

50,480. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live?—I live at Kingskerswell.

50,481. And are you a voter for Totnes?—I rent a field with my brother-in-law, George Duder.

50,482. And how far is Kingskerswell from here?—About six miles.

50,483. Have you occupied it with your own cattle?—Our own cattle jointly together, two of us.

50,484. Is your brother-in-law in partnership with you in any other matters?—Nothing but this field.

50,485. When did you first become possessed of this field?—I think in 1862. I voted for Mr. Pender the first time he was here.

50,486. Did you ask for the field?—Mr. Duder got the field. I was then in partnership at that time as a cattle dealer, and I got him to ask Mr. Michelmore, and I asked him to take part of it.

50,487. Where does he live?—He lives at Marldon.

50,488. You have had the fields ever since?—Yes.

50,489. Has it been stocked with your cattle?—Always.

50,490. And no other person's?—No person's whatever.

50,491. When had you first voted?—In 1863. When Mr. Pender first contested the borough was with Mr. Dent.

50,492. Did you vote for Mr. Pender?—Yes.

50,493. Did you vote in 1863 for Seymour?—I did.

50,494. And in 1865?—Pender and Seymour.

50,495. Did you ever have any money for your vote?—Never.

50,496. Or any advantage?—Nothing in my life.

50,497. Who canvassed you?—Mr. Cuming, the gentleman you have now referred to, and Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour; and also the first election Mr. Dent and his party came to me, but I was not at home at the time.

50,498. Whom did he see?—He saw my wife.

50,499. Do you know whether they offered her any money?—No, they never did.

50,500. Have you ever been offered money?—I was offered money at the last election.

50,501. Who offered it to you?—Mr. Harris offered it and told me I could get 100*l.* if I voted on the other side.

50,502. Did he come out to Kingskerswell and see you?—No, I saw him in Totnes market a few days before the election.

50,503. Did you ever influence anybody else?—Never. I had nothing to do with the election whatever, in no way or shape.

W. Coulton.

WILLIAM COULTON sworn and examined.

50,504. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—I have been a farmer all through my life, and my family. I am now on a small scale, and a lime burner and cyder merchant.

50,505. Upon what qualification do you vote?—Some property at Peter's Quay cyder stores.

50,506. How do you occupy it?—Storing coal, stone, lime, and cyder occasionally, and at Buckfastleigh I have very large and extensive lime works.

50,507. How long have you been a voter for Totnes?—Very nearly since the Reform Bill. I forget the exact time. Many years, over 20.

50,508. Have you always voted for the Conservatives?—Yes; that is with the exception of on one or two occasions; I voted for Lord Seymour at the time when there was an agreement between his Lordship and the Conservative party that we should support each other.

50,509. You voted for Lord Seymour and the Conservative candidate?—Quite so.

50,510. Have you always been living at Buckfastleigh?—No, I lived at Dean's Court.

50,511. Have you always voted on the same qualification?—No, the first qualification was some ground in Gerston.

50,512. Under Mr. Baldwin or Mr. Bowden?—Mr. Bowden.

50,513. Was Mr. Bowden a Conservative or a Liberal?—He always supported, I believe, the Conservative interest; at any rate I rented the ground under Mr. Bowden. I vote on "building and land."

50,514. Was there any agreement made as to how you should vote?—Certainly not.

50,515. Did you continue to hold it under Mr. Baldwin?—For a short time.

50,516. Was there any agreement made between you and Mr. Bowden ?—Not the slightest.

50,517. When did you give it up ?—Shortly after I came into possession of the building and stores at Fowler's Quay.

50,518. Those are the only two on which you vote? —The only two.

50,519. Did you ever take an active part for the Conservatives here ?—I think I may have.

50,520. On the 28th of March 1850 were you one of the Conservative committee ?—I have been told since this Commission opened my name has frequently appeared on the Conservative committee. I was not aware of it, and I never attended the committee.

50,521. Do you know John Old?—Yes.

50,522. Was he a very active Conservative?—I think he was; I have seen him before.

50,523. "To the free and independent electors of Totnes and Bridgetown. At a meeting of the Conservative committee adjourned from the public meeting held at the 'Seven Stars' hotel on the 27th instant, it was unanimously resolved that this meeting do pledge themselves to give Lord Seymour their cordial support. That the committee solicit the attendance of the Conservative electors at the 'Seymour' hotel on Saturday next, the 30th instant, at a quarter before 11, to accompany the noble Lord to the hustings." Signed, "John Old, Chairman." Do you know anything of that handbill?—I recollect seeing it.

50,524. Were you on the committee at that time? —I really do not know. I did not attend the committee.

50,525. You had something to do with the recent elections, had you not ?—Yes.

50,526. What had you to do with them ?—I looked round and gave my vote.

50,527. You looked round ?—Yes, and canvassed some of the electors occasionally.

50,528. Did you canvass Robert Jackson ?—No.

50,529. You did not happen to see him ?—No, I called.

50,530. Did you call on Robert Jackson in consequence of any intimation from Lord Cranstoun?—I did.

50,531. What was that ?—I cannot recollect.

50,532. You must try and remember it; when did you receive a communication from Lord Cranstoun ? —It was sent to my house a day or two before the election, addressed to me "immediate." I opened it and read the contents. I then thought the body was not intended for me, but was intended for Mr. Henry Bradridge.

50,533. From whom was the note ?—I took it to be Lord Cranstoun.

50,534. Did Lord Cranstoun sign it ?—His name was to it, and I took it to be his writing.

50,535. Was it addressed to you ?—The envelope was.

50,536. Have you got the letter ?—No; I forwarded it immediately. I put it in another envelope and sent on the same young man who came to my house with it to Mr. Henry Bradridge, and gave him instructions how to find the house.

50,537. What request was contained in the note ? —It was a request for Henry Bradridge's support; he would oblige his Lordship by giving his vote for Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim. That was the purport of it.

50,538. Did you ever receive any communication to the contrary from Lord Cranstoun ?—No.

50,539. Did you ever know Lord Cranstoun had exercised any influence to restrain his tenantry to vote for the Liberals after that ?—I am not aware that he did.

50,540. Did you go to Jackson ?—I did.

50,541. Did you go also to other tenants of Lord Cranstoun ?—No, only to Henry Bradridge. He had had this vote previously. I went upon the morning of the election.

50,542. What did he say ?—He would not promise to vote for Colonel Dawkins or Captain Pim until he had come into Totnes and seen Mr. Michelmore.

50,543. Did you see him after he voted ?—I forget; I may have done so, but I do not recollect it.

50,544. Mr. Michelmore is Lord Cranstoun's agent ? —Yes.

50,545. Was Jackson the only person you canvassed ?—The only one that I canvassed at all in our immediate neighbourhood.

50,546. He was the only one ?—Yes.

50,547. Mr. Bradridge was one of the manufactured qualifications ?—I believe so.

50,548. The Buckfastleigh company ?—I believe both Jackson's and Bradridge's votes were manufactured.

50,549. It was one of the companies got up by Mr. Michelmore ?—I think they were.

50,550. Did you canvass anybody else at that election ?—Not that I am aware of.

50,551. Nobody at all ?—I do not think I canvassed one in the town at all.

50,552. Did you offer any one any money ?—No.

50,553. At no time ?—Never at any time.

50,554. Or any advantage ?—No.

50,555. What made you go and see Jackson ?—My object was this: knowing he was a carpenter, and did the work on Lord Cranstoun's property, I went with the view that if he had not promised, to caution him about pledging his vote, as Lord Cranstoun had declined to support the Conservative interest.

50,556. Lord Cranstoun had been Liberal ?—Previously. I did not go to see Jackson to canvass him.

50,557. Had you any particular influence over Jackson ?—Not the slightest.

50,558. Used you to employ him as a carpenter ?— In fact I never did employ him; he has worked for my father 20 years ago.

50,559. Was that all you had to do with the election of 1865 ?—That was all.

50,560. Did you receive any money for your own vote ?—No, I did not.

50,561. Did you offer any money to others ?—No one.

50,562. What had you to do with the election of 1862 ?—I am not aware that I canvassed any one on that occasion. I never took a very active part in canvassing.

50,563. To what was your interest confined ?—To keeping a watchful eye on some parties.

50,564. Who were the parties?—Only parties just moving about the town.

50,565. You used to come over from Buckfastleigh ?—Frequently.

50,566. Who were the persons ?—I cannot mention one.

50,567. Were they any persons you thought of yourself, or any one suggested to you ?—I never had any suggested to me.

50,568. Though you did not give any money, did you not suggest to some of the voters where they might get some?—No.

50,569. Not at the "Seven Stars" ?—Never.

50,570. Did you never send anybody to the "Seven Stars"?—No.

50,571. Or mention that it was the place where they might by some possibility get some money ?— Not to my knowledge. I was not aware where the money was distributed.

50,572. You were one of the committee ?—No, I was not.

50,573. Did you go into the "Seven Stars" at that election ?—Several times.

50,574. Did you not see that there was an amount of money flying about ?—No; I had reason to believe that there was. I did not see it.

50,575. Did you find that the hesitating which there was intimated that a man's principles wanted confirmation ?—No, I always avoided mixing myself up in any way with it.

50,576. Do you know a man named Pengilley ?— Yes, Edward Pengilley.

THIRTY-SIXTH DAY.

30 Oct. 1866.

W. Coulton.

50,577. Is any servant of yours a voter at all?—My carpenter.

50,578. Did you ever canvass him?—I never asked him.

50,579. Does anybody else in your employment vote?—Not that I know of. There is a mason here named Stephen Tozer.

50,580. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you got a lot of small tenements?—I have several.

50,581. Is that all you had to do with the election for Totnes in 1865?—That is the whole.

50,582. Have you a vote for Ashhurton?—I have.

50,583. Are you a company voter?—I had the management of a company there for some few years.

50,584. How many members were there?—14.

50,585. (Mr. Bere.) Did you canvass any persons at Ashburton at all prior to the last election?—No one.

50,586. In 1863 had you anything to do with the election?—Nothing particular more than coming and recording my vote.

50,587. Did you canvass anybody then?—No.

50,588. You had nothing to do with influencing anyone?—I never attempted to influence anyone that I might have supposed I had influence with.

50,589. In 1859 when Mr. Dunn was here?—I do not recollect canvassing in 1859 at Dunn's election.

50,590. Did you at any time receive directly or indirectly any money for your vote?—Never.

50,591. Did you ever, except canvassing Robert Jackson, try to influence any person?—Not the slightest; I endeavour to keep clear of anything in the shape of bribery.

W. Ough.

WILLIAM OUGH sworn and examined.

50,592. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you?—A scripture reader.

50,593. How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—Since 1862.

50,594. Did you vote in 1862?—I did.

50,595. Whom for?—Dent.

50,596. Were you one of the five?—Yes.

50,597. Were you canvassed by the other party?—I was.

50,598. Did you take any active part in the election at all?—No.

50,599. Did you canvass anybody yourself?—I did not.

50,600. Did you receive any promise for your vote?—No.

50,601. Did you receive anything after the election?—None at all.

50,602. When Mr. Seymour came how did you vote then?—Always Dent.

50,603. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

50,604. Did any money pass through your hands for anybody else?—No.

50,605. You voted in 1865?—I voted for Dawkins and Pim.

50,606. Did you get anything for your vote then?—No.

50,607. Did you give anybody anything?—No.

50,608. Did you offer anyone?—I spoke to a friend and asked him which way he was going to vote; he said my business is completed and I cannot do so. I found he came and voted the other side.

50,609. Do you know what he got for voting on the other side?—No.

50,610. What was his name?—William Hole.

50,611. After the election did you get anything?—I did not.

50,612. Any promise of anything?—Not at all.

50,613. Your wife or anybody else?—Not at all.

50,614. You voted three times and got nothing?—No.

50,615. Did you have anything to do with money passing through your hands?—Mr. Edmonds gave me 5l. as expenses for bringing up Hole. He said it was legal expenses. He wrote to Hole, and he said he would not come down.

50,616. Were you asked to use your influence as a scripture reader going about?—No, I did not make any use of that.

50,617. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you been employed as a scripture reader?—The last four years.

50,618. By whom?—The Church Pastoral Aid Society under Mr. Burrell.

50,619. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did Mr. Dent subscribe to the Church Pastoral Aid Society?—I am not aware.

W. Harris.

WILLIAM HARRIS sworn and examined.

50,620. (Mr. Longe.) When did you last have a vote for the borough?—I voted for Colonel Dawkins.

50,621. At the last election?—Yes.

50,622. When did you first have a vote for the borough?—I think the first time I voted was for Baldwin.

50,623. Have you always voted on one side?—Yes.

50,624. Which side is that?—The Conservative side.

50,625. You never gave a vote to the Liberals?—No.

50,626. What did you vote for; what was the qualification?—At Mr. Baldwin's time I rented a cottage with 20 acres of land.

50,627. At Gerston?—No, here, in Totnes.

50,628. Who did you rent it of?—Mr. Christopher Farwell.

50,629. What are you?—A Conservative.

50,630. That gave you your vote?—That gave me my vote once.

50,631. Where were you living that you did not get a vote more than once?—I was living in the house.

50,632. When did you give it up?—I had it under me seven years.

50,633. Why did you give it up?—Because I was pretty much down then at the time, more than I could well pay.

50,634. Where did you go?—I went into a place up here, in Half-moon Street, near Leechwell Street; I lived there 12 months.

50,635. You did not get a vote for that?—No, I did not.

50,636. Where did you go next?—Where I am living now.

50,637. Where is that?—Farwell Cottage.

50,638. You had a vote for the house?—House and land.

50,639. Who is your landlord?—I rent the ground and pay the rent myself to Mr. Rennie; he is my landlord.

50,640. The land is let off by the Conservative landlord?—Yes, part of it; but the house I live in.

50,641. You have got a vote for the land?—Mr. Rennie rents it all, and I rent it of Mr. Rennie.

50,642. Did you ever rent under the duke?—Yes.

50,643. When was that?—I have not rented under the duke for 18 years.

50,644. Not for 18 years?—No, I did for 18 years.

50,645. You held it for 14 years?—17 or 18 years.

50,646. What was it?—A field.

50,647. How many acres?—About 2½.

50,648. What rent do you pay for it?—At first I paid 6l. a year, and then after that I fancied it was too much, and he threw me back 10s., so that made it 5l. 10*s.*

50,649. Mr. Michelmore gave you notice to quit?—Mr. Callard brought me the notice.

50,650. Did you understand the reason?—He told me for the abuse of my son; I thought it was because my son was contrary then.

50,651. You had always voted contrary?—Yes, I did.

50,652. What reason did Mr. Callard give, did you ask him?—That is what he told me, I did not say anything more.

50,653. How do you mean the "abuse of your son"?—I suppose because my son used to stand up and speak about politics pretty much against him; something in that way.

50,654. You did not say anything?—I did not say anything.

50,655. Were you ever given anything at all for your vote?—No.

50,656. In no way?—No.

50,657. Your son could have got you something if you wished?—There is not a man living who would offer me a penny, nor give me any in any way.

50,658. Did you ever take the same part that Mr. Harris did?—No, I cannot say that; I always was that side, too.

50,659. You used to get votes for the Conservatives sometimes?—I voted for the Conservatives when I had occasion, when they wanted my vote.

50,660. Did you not canvass to get other votes besides your own?—No one.

50,661. You never got any votes for your party?—I never did anything more than to vote, and give them my own vote.

50,662. Never offered anything?—No. When the opposite party came for my vote I said no, and when the Conservatives came I said yes, and there was an end of it.

50,663. What became of the land you used to hold under the duke? Who has it now?—I believe Crawford has it.

William Dart sworn and examined.

W. Dart.

50,664. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you had a vote?—Only at the last election.

50,665. What do you vote for?—A house in Fore-street.

50,666. What are you?—A cabinet maker.

50,667. Whom did you vote for?—Dawkins and Pim.

50,668. What did you get for your vote?—Nothing.

50,669. Was anything offered you?—Nothing was offered me.

50,670. Was anything promised you?—Nothing was promised me.

50,671. Any present after the election?—No.

50,672. Have you got a wife?—No

50,673. Did anybody get anything for you?—No.

50,674. How came you to vote for them? Were you paid by your Conservative friends?—No.

50,675. Did Mr. Pender's people canvass you?—I do not think they did.

50,676. Did Mr. Seymour canvass you?—I do not think he did. My mother told me he called.

50,677. Did you promise Dawkins and Pim directly they had asked you?—I did.

50,678. You were never offered any money?—Never.

50,679. Were you asked to convey anything to any other voter?—No.

50,680. Did you offer any money to anybody else?—No.

50,681. Did you exercise any influence in procuring votes?—No.

50,682. Have you promised other persons?—No.

50,683. You did not get anything?—No.

50,684. You never gave anybody anything?—No.

50,685. You only voted once, and got nothing for it?—No.

Mr. William Knapman sworn and examined.

W. Knapman.

50,686. (Mr. Bere.) You are a linendraper in Fore-street?—Yes.

50,687. How long have you been there?—Four years.

50,688. Were you living there before?—No.

50,689. The first time was in 1865?—Yes.

50,690. You only voted once?—Yes.

50,691. How did you vote?—For Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim.

50,692. What did you get?—Nothing.

50,693. Whom did you influence?—No one.

50,694. Either directly or indirectly?—In no way whatever.

50,695. (Mr. Coleridge.) Where did you live before?—Newton Abbott.

50,696. Had you no vote before?—No.

50,697. Were you asked to take an active part in the Totnes election?—No.

50,698. Did any money pass through your hands?—No.

50,699. Anything offered you?—Nothing.

50,700. Have you ever had a council vote?—No.

50,701. Have you voted in the municipal elections here?—No, I have not.

50,702. If you tell us, neither directly nor indirectly have you had anything for your vote, nor directly nor indirectly induced anybody to vote, that is enough?—That is all I know about the business.

William Willcocks sworn and examined.

W. Willcocks.

50,703. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you?—A painter and glazier by trade, and keep a public house, the "Bay Horse."

50,704. How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—I should say somewhere about 10 years. I have been in the house about 13 years, and I voted the first election afterwards.

50,705. When did you vote?—Mackenzie, first, I think.

50,706. Whom did you vote for?—Mackenzie and Gifford, I think.

50,707. You voted one and one?—Yes.

50,708. How came you to do that?—I got work on both sides.

50,709. Did you get anything besides work?—No.

50,710. No money?—No.

50,711. You had not the public house then?—Yes.

50,712. Did you get anything?—No.

50,713. Nor give anything?—Not at that election.

50,714. When Dunn came, which way did you vote?—Gifford and Dunn.

50,715. One and one again?—Yes.

50,716. You do not come up to Mr. Harris's description of being a staunch old Tory?—That is how I voted then.

50,717. Was there any bill at your house then?—There was a bill which the Conservatives paid at that time.

50,718. Whom was it incurred by?—Meetings that had been held at my house for the council.

50,719. Did the Conservatives pay it?—I was paid the bill when I voted at Dunn's election.

50,720. You would not vote till you were paid?—I would not vote till I had the money.

50,721. Whom did you tell that to?—Mr. Edmonds, before Mr. Dunn.

50,722. It was paid?—Yes.

50,723. When?—Before the election.

50,724. How did you vote?—One the Liberal and one the Tory side.

THIRTY-SIXTH DAY.

W. Willcocks.

30 Oct. 1866.

50,725. Did you get any bill paid by the Liberal side?—No.

50,726. Did you get anything in 1862?—Only the bills for the work I did.

50,727. In 1862, in Dent's time, how did you vote?—I promised Mr. Dent and I signed the requisition.

50,728. What did he promise you?—Nothing at all.

50,729. What was promised you?—Nothing by any party.

50,730. You got nothing?—No.

50,731. Had you anything to do with anybody else?—No.

50,732. Were any voters bribed at your house?—Not to my knowledge.

50,733. Were there any meetings held there?—Yes.

50,734. Who paid the bills?—I was not paid till 1863.

50,735. How much was the bill in 1862?—18*l.*

50,736. Did you get anything from either side?—No.

50,737. In 1863 about six weeks after the other election, Seymour and Dent's election came off?—Yes.

50,738. Whom did you vote for then?—Dent.

50,739. Did you get a bill paid before you voted?—No.

50,740. How did you get paid?—I had another bill before I voted.

50,741. What was the sum?—One about 20*l.* and the other about 30*l.*

50,742. And they never paid?—Yes.

50,743. Whom did you vote for?—Mr. Dent.

50,744. You trusted them?—Yes, I wanted them together.

50,745. When did you get them?—The day after the election.

50,746. Who paid you?—Mr. John Heath.

50,747. What did he give you?—A cheque for 50*l.*

50,748. Anything for yourself?—No.

50,749. What did you get?—Nothing. There was refreshment. They ordered and ordered, but they did not pay, and I left it till the next time.

50,750. Were those fair public house charges?—Yes.

50,751. Nothing extra for election time?—No, not a penny, not a shilling.

50,752. Is sixpenny beer a shilling at election time?—It is not beer, it is grog.

50,753. How much is grog at ordinary times?—6*d.*

50,754. At election times is it 1*s.*?—No.

50,755. Do you charge anything more?—No.

50,756. You voted for Dent?—Yes.

50,757. And you got the bill paid?—Yes.

50,758. Did you give a receipt?—Yes, and gave him back the change.

50,759. Did not he give you that?—No, but I expected it.

50,760. At the last election whom did you vote for?—Dawkins and Pim.

50,761. Did they run up a bill?—I never trusted them.

50,762. You got ready money?—I got nothing.

50,763. You did not get anything?—No.

50,764. You voted?—Yes.

50,765. You did not get a bill?—I would not trust them.

50,766. Where did they go?—They went to the "Stars" after that.

50,767. Did you get your bills paid?—Yes.

50,768. You never got anything?—No; not a shilling or penny, or anything.

50,769. Have you ever had anything to do with bribing?—No.

50,770. Or looked after the voters?—No. I found meat and drink for the lame ducks.

50,771. When?—At the last election.

50,772. Who paid you?—I made them pay as they went on.

50,773. Who was taking care of the lame ducks?—One man named Willis and Evens.

50,774. Did you make them comfortable?—Yes, very well satisfied.

50,775. I suppose a fly was brought for them, and they were taken away?—No, they were walking down the street, and they were taken to the "Plymouth" inn.

50,776. I suppose they had something more there?—They were put into the wagon.

50,777. Who paid you?—They who came there.

50,778. Who was that?—Willis.

50,779. Did the other party come and offer you anything?—No.

50,780. You were always known to be a Conservative?—Yes.

50,781. The first time you voted for a Liberal and a Conservative?—Yes; I give you my reasons, I worked for the Duke of Somerset.

50,782. He took the work away when you voted for Dent?—Yes; I did vote for Mr. Dent conscientiously, and they took the work away.

50,783. Did Mr. Michelmore take the work away?—He never spoke to me. I heard from his clerk that I was not to do another day's work. Mr. Callard said after the election, I should not do any more work.

50,784. How used you to be paid?—Monthly. I have some work at home not paid for yet. They have been to measure it.

50,785. What sort of work?—Window frames of a particular pattern of his Grace and Mr. Michelmore.

50,786. If you were ordered to make window frames and they were not sent home, do not you charge for them?—It is no use my charging; they do not use them. The Duke of Somerset's carpenter has been to me to measure the work, but I did not vote.

50,787. It is of no use to you?—No, I have part over the wash-house.

50,788. You have lost by that?—I was never paid for it.

50,789. At the council elections had they a bill for that?—Only that one; that is Dunn's election.

50,790. Have you ever voted in the council?—Yes.

50,791. How did you vote there?—Always for the Tories.

J. Willcocks.

JAMES WILLCOCKS sworn and examined.

50,792. (Mr. Bere.) You are a voter?—Yes.

50,793. Are you a relation of William Willcocks?—Yes, a brother.

50,794. Do you merit the description given of you that you are a "good Tory"?—I trust I do.

50,795. You always stick to your colours?—Yes.

50,796. You always vote for the Conservatives?—I do.

50,797. Did you ever receive any money for so doing?—Never in my life; not a farthing.

50,798. Is that true of you which Mr. Harris has said of you. What did you send him after that election?—Not anything. His work and labour lies for the Tories.

50,799. Is that correct?—It is.

50,800. Your principal business is among the Tories?—A great deal of it.

50,801. Have you ever been asked to vote by the other side, the Liberal side?—Never in my life; I have been canvassed by them.

50,802. You have never been offered money by them or anything of that sort?—No.

50,803. And you have neither directly nor indirectly received any money or advantage for your vote in your life?—Never.

50,804. Did you ever get any money for your vote in the council?—No.

50,805. You have voted yourself for the Conservatives?—I have.

50,806. Have you ever worked for any Liberals who afterwards discontinued employing you on account of your voting for the Conservatives?—Never in my life to my knowledge.

50,807. You never worked for the Duke of Somerset?—I never did. It might be when I worked for Mr. Croydon that my brother worked for; not on my own account.

50,808. Is that all you know about it?—That is all I know about it.

SAMUEL HEATH sworn and examined.

S. Heath.

50,809. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—I think it was in 1845.

50,810. What are you?—A smith.

50,811. A blacksmith?—A blacksmith.

50,812. Where do you live?—In Ticklemore-street.

50,813. Are you any relation of Mr. Heath of the "Seven Stars?"—A brother.

50,814. What is the first election in which you voted?—I voted in Gifford's election.

50,815. Whom did you vote for then?—I voted for Earl Gifford. I have always voted for Whig and Tory in general elections.

50,816. You have always split your vote in general elections?—Yes.

50,817. In 1862 and 1863, Pender and Seymour's elections?—In that election, Mr. Jeffery Michelmore came and asked me, and I did not say whether I would vote for him or not; I considered he was the Duke's man, and I did not vote at all at that election.

50,818. Which election, 1862?—That was when Mr. Pender came the first time.

50,819. Mr. Jeffery Michelmore canvassed you?—Yes; and a gentleman called Endle called and asked me to vote for Mr. Pender, and I did not promise him at all.

50,820. You say, Mr. Jeffery Michelmore canvassed for Mr. Pender?—Yes.

50,821. What did you consider him?—I considered Mr. Pender was the Duke's man.

50,822. Did Mr. Jeffery Michelmore tell you he was the Duke's man?—He did not say. He came and canvassed me for him.

50,823. Did he say why he canvassed for him?—No. I have always supported the Duke's man.

59,824. What led you to suppose Mr. Pender was the Duke's man?—Because Mr. Jeffery Michelmore canvassed me.

50,825. Who is your landlord?—It is my own house.

50,826. It is your own house?—Yes.

50,827. You had always given one vote for the Duke's man?—Yes. In general elections I always voted for the Duke's man and the Tories. My father always voted for the Duke's interest, and I did likewise.

50,828. In 1863, whom did you vote for then?—I voted for Mr. Dent.

50,829. Did Mr. Jeffery Michelmore canvass you again?—Yes, he did, and then Mr. Seymour came with him, and I considered the other man was the Duke's man, and then I voted as I thought proper. I voted for Mr. Dent.

50,830. You said you had already voted for one Duke's man?—I did not say I had voted.

50,831. What did you tell him?—I told him I should not support Mr. Seymour.

50,832. Did not he tell you he was the Duke's candidate, and not Mr. Pender?—I considered when Mr. Pender came forward, he was the nominee of the Duke, by Jeffery Michelmore being an agent of the Duke's.

50,833. You voted for Mr. Dent at that time?—Yes.

50,834. Did you get anything for that vote?—No.

50,835. Did you ever get anything for your vote?—No, never.

50,836. Not through your brother?—Not through my brother, or anyone else.

50,837. Were you ever offered any money?—No, never; I was never offered a penny.

50,838. Did you ever take part in canvassing, or helping either side?—No, never.

50,839. Did you ever promise Mr. Michelmore that you would vote for the ducal candidate?—No, I always promised him when there was a general election. I promised on both occasions. I did not tell Mr. Seymour the last election I should vote for him. I did not give him a decided answer; I promised Colonel Dawkins. I did not promise Captain Pim at all.

50,840. Did you vote for Mr. Pender or Mr. Seymour the last time?—I voted for Mr. Seymour.

50,841. Why did you change Mr. Pender for Mr. Seymour?—Because I found out he was the duke's man.

50,842. Did you ever understand there was any alteration as regards the ducal candidate, any change in the town at that time when Mr. Pender came?—No.

50,843. You say you understood that Mr. Pender was the ducal candidate?—I considered so, because he was the agent.

50,844. You had no other reason?—No other reason.

50,845. (Mr. Coleridge.) Are you on friendly terms with your brother?—No, not exactly.

50,846. Do you speak?—I speak. I do not go into his house once in six months.

50,847. In 1863, did you not have a sum of money after the election?—No.

50,848. Nothing at all?—Nothing at all; not a halfpenny.

50,849. Did your wife?—No.

50,850. Did anybody on your behalf?—No, not that I am aware of.

50.851. You do not know anything about any money?—Not at all.

50,852. You are a blacksmith?—I am.

50,853. Do you shoe your brother's horses?—Not all.

50,854. Do you shoe the "Seymour Arms" horses?—No.

50,855. In 1863, do you mean you got nothing of any sort or kind?—Nothing at all.

50,856. No promise of any kind?—No promise of any kind.

50,857. Do you mean, when your brother and nephews were looking after everybody else they were not looking after you?—They took no interest in me. They have not been into my house for many years. I do not think my brother has been in for five years.

50,858. Have you not been once in the "Stars"?—I might once or twice when a friend has sent over for me. I am not intimate with my brother's family; in fact, I never dined or took tea with my brother since he has been there.

50,859. You never went to inquire about money?—No.

50,860. Nor ever sent your wife?—No.

50,861. Nor anybody else?—No.

50,862. On your oath, have you never received anything for your vote at any election?—No.

50,863. Have you at a municipal election?—No.

50,864. Or given anything?—No.

50,865. Or directly or indirectly got any recompense for your vote?—Never at all.

PHILIP DART sworn and examined.

THIRTY-SIXTH DAY.

P. Dart.

30 Oct. 1866.

50,866. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—A cabinet-maker.

50,867. Are you a partner with your brother?—Yes.

50,868. Living in the same house?—Yes.

50,869. Both in the same house?—Yes.

50,870. What is it, house and warehouse?—Yes.

50,871. What is it worth?—35*l.* a year.

50,872. Who is your landlord?—The Rev. R. Mitchell, Oxford.

50,873. Mr. Mitchell of Lincoln?—Of Oxford.

50,874. Do you know what college he is of?—No.

50,875. Who collects the rents?—We send it to him.

50,876. How long have you had a vote?—The last election.

50,877. Is that the only time you voted?—Yes.

50,878. For whom did you vote then?—Dawkins and Pim.

50,879. Did you get anything for voting?—No.

50,880. Any cabinet order, tables or chairs, or anything of that sort?—No.

50,881. Did you send any furniture to Colonel Dawkins?—No.

50,882. Did you get any advantage or recompense for your vote?—Not at all.

50,883. Did you try to influence anybody?—No.

50,884. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know anything about the election?—No.

50,885. You were never asked to give money to any voter?—No.

50,886. Were you offered money on the other side?—No.

50,887. Who canvassed you?—I did not see either of the others.

50,888. Did you see Screach, or Evens, or any of those men?—Yes, many times.

50,889. Did not they tell you anything about money?—No.

50,890. Did not they tell you there was plenty going?—No; they never said a word of the sort.

50,891. Did you ever get a present after the election?—No; not the slightest.

T. S. Perring.

THOMAS SHAPTER PERRING sworn and examined.

50,892. (Mr. Bere). Where do you live?—At Warland.

50,893. What are you?—A mason.

50,894. How long have you been a voter for Totnes?—Only last time.

50,895. For whom did you vote then?—Dawkins and Pim.

50,896. What did you get?—40*l.*

50,897. Who gave it you?—Screach brought it to my house.

50,898. Which Screach?—John Sandford Screach.

50,899. When did he bring it to you?—About a week before the election, I believe.

50,900. Had he been and called upon you before?—No. I had been over to his house a day or two before to have half a pint of beer, and he asked me to sign the requisition.

50,901. How long before the election was that?—When they were getting up the requisition.

50,902. A month, perhaps?—I cannot say.

50,903. Did he say if you would come and sign the requisition you should have something?—No. He told me if I signed he would give me a present.

50,904. Did you do so?—Yes.

50,905. Did he bring the present to you?—Yes.

50,906. Where to?—To my house.

50,907. What was it in?—In gold.

50,908. Now be particular as to how you answer this question. How long before the election was it that he brought you that money?—I consider it was nearly a week.

50,909. You can remember such an important matter?—I was not at home when he brought it.

50,910. To whom did he pay it?—To my wife, He put it on the table, and there it was till I came home.

50,911. What did you do with it?—Gave it to my wife.

50,912. Do you know what your wife did with it?—I do not know.

50,913. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you voted at the municipal elections?—Yes; for 20 years.

50,914. What did you get for that?—I never had a glass of beer in my life.

50,915. Are you quite sure that this money was brought to your wife?—Yes; it was on the table when I went in.

50,916. Did she ever give you any part of it?—I never had any of it, and have never seen it since. I am sure I do not know what she did with it.

50,917. (Mr. Bere.) Did you speak to anyone afterwards about this 40*l.*?—No.

50,918. You went down and voted for Dawkins and Pim?—Yes. I never saw either of the parties.

50,919. Did you sign any piece of paper?—No, nothing at all.

50,920. When did you first talk to anyone about the money you were to have?—I never heard that I was to have anything.

50,921. How long is it since you got a summons to come here?—About a month ago; it was before you broke up.

50,922. Did you go to Screach and talk to him about it?—No.

50,923. Or did he come to you?—No.

50,924. Has either Screach or Mr. Heath been to you within the last fortnight?—No.

50,925. Or have you been to the "Stars"?—No, I have never been near the place.

50,926. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were you not in and out of the "Stars" during the election?—Yes, I went into the tap-room, and paid for what I had.

50,927. Were you never offered any money there?—No.

50,928. Has not Mr. Heath offered you anything?—No.

50,929. Neither of the Mr. Heaths?—No.

50,930. Did Screach tell you where he had got this money from?—No, he did not.

50,931. Were you ever offered any money on the other side?—No; I never saw either of the Conservative candidates. I had always voted in the council for the Conservatives, and as I had signed the requisition perhaps they thought I would support them.

50,932. How much money did your wife give you?—None; I never got a farthing.

50,933. What are you by trade?—I am a mason.

50,934. In constant work?—Yes in general.

50,935. You were not in debt at the time of the election?—I might owe a trifle, but I have nothing to do with housekeeping. I leave that to my wife.

50,936. How much money did your wife get?—I never asked her.

50,937. Has no one spoken to you about the evidence you were to give here to-day?—No, certainly not. I came here to tell the truth.

50,938. (Mr. Bere.) Has no one been to you to remind you that you had had 40*l.* at the last election?—No, I never made it any secret.

50,939. Has Mr. Frederick Evens been to you?—No.

50,940. When did you last see Screach to speak to him?—I have seen him scores of times. He makes shoes for all my family.

50,941. Have you seen him to-day?—No.

50,942. Or yesterday?—No.

50,943. Or on Sunday?—No.

50,944. Or on Saturday, the market day?—No.

50,945. Or the day before that?—No.

50,946. When did you last see him?—I think it was a week ago that I was in his house.

50,947. What did he say to you?—Nothing at all bout this concern.

50,948. Did he ask you whether you had been examined yet?—He asked me whether I had been forward yet.

50,949. What else did he say?—Nothing more; he asked me if I had been up yet.

50,950. Have you had any talk with Screach about what he may have said here?—No.

50,951. Can you read?—Yes, and write too, thank God!

50,952. Do you read the newspapers?—Yes, every day.

50,953. Then did you not think it very odd that Screach should have not told about you when he was telling about all the others?—No.

50,954. Did you not ask him why he had not told about you?—No, I did not.

50,955. Did you not have some conversation with him in reference to the evidence which he had given before this Commission?—No, I never had any conversation or talking with Screach at all.

50,956. Did you not tell your wife that you thought it was rather odd that Screach should have left you out in what he had told here?—I do not think I ever mentioned it. I may have thought so myself.

50,957. Whom do you think you told that you thought it was a very odd thing?—I do not think that I told any person so.

50,958. Did you have any talk with your wife about that matter?—No, I did not.

50,959. How did you think he had come to leave you out of his story; out of friendship, or what?—That I cannot say.

50,960. Whom did you tell that you had had this sum of 40*l.*?—I do not think I told any person of it. I never mentioned it from that day to this.

50,961. Did you not remind Mr. Heath about it?—No.

50,962. You knew of other persons whom Screach had not mentioned?—I knew of no others to whom he had given anything.

HENRY ASHFORD sworn and examined.

H. Ashford.

50,963. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—A coal and timber merchant.

50,964. Where do you live?—On the Plains.

50,965. How long have you had a vote?—Since 1860.

50,966. Then you have voted three times?—I did not vote in 1862.

50,967. Whom have you voted for since?—I voted for Dent in 1863 and for Dawkins and Pim in 1865.

50,968. And what did you get for voting?—Nothing.

50,969. Did no person offer you anything?—No.

50,970. Nor give you anything after the election?—No.

50,971. Or buy any extra quantity of coals from you on account of the election?—None.

50,972. You got no advantage at all after the election?—None.

50,973. Have you been to the "Seven Stars" very often?—I have been there several times.

50,974. Do you serve the "Seven Stars"?—Yes.

50,975. Do you do so entirely?—No.

50,976. Are they pretty good customers of yours?—Tolerably so.

50,977. Do you serve the "Seymour" hotel?—No; I have never asked them.

50,978. You had no advantage whatever or profit from voting?—No.

50,979. Neither directly nor indirectly?—No.

50,980. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were you promised anything in 1862 if Mr. Dent had gone to the poll?—No.

50,981. You were never told that there would be money coming?—No.

50,982. Or had any present offered you?—Nothing at all.

50,983. Have you ever given anyone else anything?—No.

50,984. Or been asked to influence anyone?—No one at all.

SAMUEL LANE sworn and examined.

S. Lane.

50,985. (Mr. Longe.) What are you?—Relieving officer.

50,986. How long have you been the relieving officer?—Four years.

50,987. How long have you had a vote?—Twenty years.

50,988. What are you by trade?—A tailor.

50,989. What do you vote for?—For my house.

50,990. Have you always voted on the same side?—Yes.

50,991. Which side is that?—On the Conservative side.

50,992. Did you vote at the last election?—I did not.

50,993. Why was that?—On the evening before the election, just as I had come home from a long journey, Mr. Pender called on me, he apologized for troubling me, knowing that I had just come home from a long journey, but said that he would not detain me long; he then asked me if I would give him my support; that it was the evening of the battle, and asked me if I would give him my support. He said I know you have never voted on our side of the question, but perhaps you will give me your vote. I said, if so, I should be of no service to Colonel Dawkins, and I presume the contest will be between you and him. He said he did not know that it would; he was under the impression that he should poll more votes than Mr. Seymour. I said, I am very glad to hear it, I should not have thought so, judging from previous elections. We then had some conversation about the probable position of the candidates on the poll; I said I considered Mr. Seymour would be a long way ahead, and that he, Mr. Pender, would come next, and that the contest would lie between Colonel Dawkins and himself. After some further conversation, he said, suppose it comes to this, that the contest should lie between me and Mr. Seymour, will you give me a vote to save my election? I said, yes, with all my heart, and I should rejoice if my vote was the means of sending the duke's nominee about his business. I said I am going out of town to-morrow, and I will not vote before I go away; I shall not be back until 1 or 2 o'clock. We had some more conversation on the general topics of the day, and then we parted.

50,994. What did you do?—The next morning, before I went away, I went into the street and found that the election was virtually at an end, certain parties had voted for the Liberals whom the Tories had calculated on supporting them, and they had not got men to put in their place. I thought it was at an end, and I went on my journey to the place where I was going, and I did not get back until between 1 and 2 o'clock. I then found out how matters were going on, and I thought if I went down and voted for Colonel Dawkins, as I wished to do, that perhaps Mr. Pender might think I was not taking any notice of the promise which I had given him, therefore I left it a little while longer; the afternoon wore on, and I came to a determination not to vote at all.

50,995. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had you not promised Captain Pim?—No, I never saw him.

50,996. (Mr. Longe.) Was there not some inducement held out to you to keep back your vote for Mr. Pender?—Not the slightest.

THIRTY-SIXTH DAY.

S. Lane.

30 Oct. 1866.

50,997. Was there no offer of any advantage of that sort?—Not at all.

50,998. Did anyone on that side besides Mr. Pender call on you?—No one.

50,999. Did Mr. Seymour canvass you?—He might have called while I was away; I did not see him; I saw him in 1863, he called on me then.

51,000. Did you receive any advantage on this last election from either side?—None whatever.

51,001. Or was any offer made to you?—None whatever.

51,002. In 1863 how did you vote?—I voted for Dent.

51,003. Did you receive something for your vote?—No, I did not.

51,004. Was any offer made to you then?—No.

51,005. In 1862 how did you vote?—In 1862 I did not vote.

51,006. Had you anything to do with a voter of the name of Hill, in 1863?—No.

51,007. Do you know a person of the name of Joseph Ferris?—Yes.

51,008. Did he not send you some money for Hill?—No.

51,009. Did not Joseph Ferris give you some money at the time of the election?—No.

51,010. Did he ever give you any money at all?—No.

51,011. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he ever give any money to your wife?—No.

51,012. Or leave any money at your house?—No.

51,013. Or tell you where you might go and find any money?—No.

51,014. (Mr. Longe.) Have you ever received any money for anybody?—No.

51,015. Has any offer of money ever been made to you on the other side?—There was an offer made to me of a sum of money if I would vote for Mr. Mills, but I would not do it.

51,016. What was the offer?—20*l.*

51,017. Who was it made by?—It was made by a man of the name of Endle.

51,018. (Mr. Coleridge.) Can you tell us how you voted in 1859?—I voted for Mr. Dunn.

51,019. What did you get for your vote?—I did not get anything.

51,020. Was no present made to you after the election?—No.

51,021. Was no present made by anyone to your wife?—No.

51,022. At no time at all was any money given to you?—No.

51,023. (Mr. Bere.) Did Joseph Ferris ever give you any money at any time during the election to take to any voter?—No, he never did anything of the sort.

51,024. You are quite certain about that?—I am quite certain of that.

51,025. What is Ferris?—He is a draper, who used to live in the town.

51,026. Was he a friend of yours?—I knew him well.

51,027. Did you deal with him at all?—I used to deal with him all the time that he was here.

51,028. Then you were on familiar terms with him?—Yes, I was on good terms with him.

51,029. Did you have any talk with him about Hill?—No.

51,030. Did you know any voter of that name?—I knew a man of the name of Hill, but I was never mixed up with anything of the sort.

51,031. Did Ferris ever supply you with any goods which you did not pay him for?—Never. I have always paid him for the whole of what I had.

51,032. Did Ferris ever ask you to go and see Hill about his vote?—No, he did not.

51,033. Did you ever have anything to do with any voters at all?—I was was never mixed up with anything of the sort.

51,034. Did you ever at any time canvass any voters?—No, I did not; I had always enough to do to mind my own business.

51,035. How long have you been the relieving officer?—I have been so four years.

51,036. Before you were the relieving officer you must have had plenty of time on your hands then?—No, I worked hard, and I had enough to do to mind my own business.

51,037. (Mr. Coleridge.) In the year 1859 did not a stranger pay you 25*l.*?—No, certainly not.

51,038. Or did not you get that sum of money from Mr. John Heath?—No, I did not.

51,039. Will you say upon your oath that you were not paid that sum by anybody in the year 1859?—No, I was not.

51,040. Can you say that neither you nor your wife were not?—We were not.

51,041. Neither you nor your wife?—No; if anything of that kind has been stated here, all that I can say is that I know nothing about it, and that I never heard anything of it before.

51,042. Did you ever get a sum of 25*l.* given you by anyone?—No, I did not.

51,043. Neither did you ever find 25*l.* accidentally anywhere?—No, never.

51,044. Are you sure that Mr. John Heath never gave you anything like that sum?—No, he never did.

51,045. Did he offer it to you?—No.

51,046. Has your salary been raised lately as relieving officer?—No; I have the same salary now that I had when I first began.

51,047. Will you swear on your oath that at no election have you ever received any money whatever?—No, I have not.

51,048. Nor has any one person on your behalf?—No, they have not.

51,049. Neither have you received any present after the election from anyone?—No.

51,050. Or has there been any dealings with you for your goods in the way of your trade?—No.

51,051. You have not been made a present of any cloth?—No.

51,052. (Mr. Coleridge.) How many offers of money have been made to you?—Only one; I never had any other made to me.

51,053. On the last occasion when you kept back your vote so late, did they not offer you anything?—No one offered me anything.

51,054. Were you offered anything by any person on the other side?—No, I was not.

51,055. You have always voted for the Conservatives. How used you to vote when Lord Seymour stood?—I never voted for Lord Seymour.

51,056. Did you ever vote for Lord Gifford?—No; I made up my mind never to vote for the Duke of Somerset's nominee.

51,057. In 1857 you voted for Mackenzie and Gregory?—Yes.

51,058. (Mr. Bere.) Did Mrs. Dunn or Captain Veitch buy anything at your shop during the election of 1859?—No.

51,059. Or did they send you anything?—No.

51,060. Do you remember whether Mrs. Dunn canvassed you?—No, she did not.

51,061. What was your objection to the Duke's candidate?—My reason of it was this. In 1857 we had a very good trade; it was my father's trade, and I had managed it for him for 15 years; we worked for persons on both sides; my father was solicited to vote for Mr. Parrott by a gentleman who was on the Liberal side; the greater part of our customers were Conservatives, and I believe in the end my father came to a determination not to vote at all. At that time we worked for Mr. Michelmore, who was a very good customer, and he said he knew my father would vote for Lord Seymour as he had always done before; and after that election, because my father did not vote, we lost many customers, amongst others Mr. Michelmore. I then said, if I had a vote I would vote for the Tories; that I would never vote for Lord Seymour again as long as Mr. Michelmore had anything to do with it, and I have kept my word.

51,062. (Mr. Longe.) The same tactics were carried on by the other side as well as by Mr. Michelmore?—Yes, it was a system of undue influence.

51,063. It was practised on the other side in the same way?—No doubt about that, because directly after the election parties used to send to the tradesmen for their bills and pay them off.

51,064. On both sides?—On both sides, and have nothing more to do with them; a system of exclusive dealing.

51,065. Did you ever have a conversation with Mr. Michelmore about it?—No.

51,066. (Mr. Bere.) Did Mr. Dunn deal with you at all?—No.

51,067. Never?—No.

51,068. Did Captain Phipps?—No.

51,069. You are quite certain that you never received 25*l.* from anybody at any time in any way?—I am.

51,070. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever get any bad debts paid off for you?—No; I am sorry to say I have had plenty of bad debts.

51,071. (Mr. Bere.) Did you owe any money in 1859, and suddenly find it was paid for you?—Never.

GEORGE RANDLE MITCHELL sworn and examined.

G. R. Mitchell

51,072. (Mr. Bere.) Do you live at Bridgetown?—Yes.

51,073. What are you?—A butcher.

51,074. How long have you lived in Bridgetown?—I was born there.

51,075. How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—The first time I voted I believe was 1857.

51,076. Did you vote for the Liberals then?—Yes.

51,077. Have you always voted for the Liberals ever since?—Always.

51,078. Have you ever had any money for your vote?—No.

51,079. Whom does your house belong to?—The Duke of Somerset.

51,080. What do you vote on?—My house.

51,081. Do you live in it yourself, or your father too?—I live in it myself.

51,082. Do you occupy land besides?—Yes.

51,083. Do not you occupy some land which another person votes on?—I have the grass on it.

51,084. What is his name?—Chamings.

51,085. You have the grass on it, and you put your cattle there?—Yes.

51,086. How many head of cattle does he have there in a year?—He had a good many sheep there last year. I have seen a score, and more than that.

51,087. A score of sheep last year?—I think quite that if not more.

51,088. How long were they there?—A week or a fortnight.

51,089. Did you buy them?—I bought part of them. Part of them were breeding ewes, and the others wethers.

51,090. Were the others sold after they had been there a week that you did not buy?—I believe he drove them home.

51,091. They were there about a week?—I should think about a week or a fortnight.

51,092. How did you manage with Mr. Chamings. Did you pay so much a week?—So much a head.

51,093. Did you give him an account of how many head of cattle you put on?—We always settle every week.

51,094. He takes your account for the number of cattle?—I serve him with meat.

51,095. (Mr. Coleridge.) No money passes?—I serve him with meat every week.

51,096. (Mr. Bere.) Your account against him is rather larger than his against you?—Sometimes.

51,097. You have had no money for your vote, but you have had something to do with giving other people money?—Yes.

51,098. When was that?—The election before last. I was sitting in my shop and old Mr. Michelmore asked me if I had 20*l.* in the house, and I said "Yes," and he said, "Will you pay Diggins 20*l.* for me?" I did so, and that was many weeks after the election.

51,099. Did you get the 20*l.* back?—Yes.

51,100. How long afterwards?—Perhaps it may be a week.

51,101. Did Mr. Michelmore tell you why he wanted you to pay Diggins 20*l.*?—No.

51,102. I suppose you pretty well knew?—No, I could not say.

51,103. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you get anything added to the 20*l.* when he paid you back?—Not a farthing.

51,104. (Mr. Bere.) No interest?—Not a farthing.

51,105. Was that all you did in 1863?—That was 1865.

51,106. What did you do in 1863?—Merely went and gave my vote.

51,107. There was a little exhibition that you had with Pulling, West, and Vasey?—That was the election before last.

51,108. Where did you go for this amusement?—Kingsbridge.

51,109. What did you go for?—We were given to understand that the Tory party had driven away a good many voters, and we went there for the express purpose of seeing who they were, and that if we saw Mogridge he might come back. He wanted to see me the day before, but I did not know what for, and thought he might be there, but he happened to be on the wrong scent altogether; he was not there.

51,110. You did not find him?—No.

51,111. Had you anything else to do with any other voters at any time?—No one but Diggins.

51,112. Did you pay him money more than once?—Yes; I paid him money at the last election Mr. Baldwin was here.

51,113. What did you pay him then?—30*l.*

51,114. Where did you get that?—The "Seven Stars." I had no vote at that time. My father voted for Mr. Baldwin, and they came to me in the middle of the night and knocked father up and asked him whether he would get up to let me go over, because they wanted me to go to some place with some money; and I got up in the middle of the night and rode out as far as Diggins, and told him the agreement he had made should be attended to to-morrow, and that either myself or somebody else would bring him the money, and I did.

51,115. Was that the only person you had to do with in that way?—The only one.

51,116. You did not influence or give money to anyone else at the last election?—No.

51,117. Have you ever received anything for your own vote?—Not a farthing.

51,118. Or any advantage?—Not a farthing.

51,119. Who sent you after Mogridge?—I do not know who it was. There were many of them assembled together; I rather think it was old Mr. Michelmore.

51,120. (Mr. Longe.) You were the head man of the party, were not you?—Yes.

51,121. You had instructions what to do?—Yes.

51,122. What were they?—To try and get Mogridge back if we could.

51,123. What were you to offer him?—I did not say a word about that; fight that out afterwards.

51,124. You had to bring him back by force?—I think he would have come back if I had seen him.

51,125. Why?—His wife told me so the night before. They said the Tory party had taken him off in a carriage; otherwise I should not have gone.

51,126. (Mr. Coleridge.) Would his wife have been settled with by the Liberal party if he had been brought back ?—I do not know. I came up before the election, and she said they had taken him off; if I had seen him his wish was to vote for the Liberal party.

THIRTY-SIXTH DAY.

R. Mitchell.

Oct. 1866.

51,127. Is there any Christmas distribution made by the candidates among the poor ?—No.

51,128. (Mr. Bere.) You have never received either directly or indirectly any money for anybody else ?—No.

51,129. Has any money passed through your hands to any voter ?—None but Diggins.

51,130. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you ever given any money at the municipal elections at all ?—I rather think I did once.

51,131. What was that ?—Some 20*s.* or 30*s.*, I think, to a man called Sims.

51,132. Whom to vote for ?—Mr. Charles Michelmore.

51,133. Did not you ever give Sims anything at any other election ?—No, no voter.

51,134. Is he the only one ?—The only one.

Mrs. Perring.

MRS. PERRING sworn and examined.

51,135. (Mr. Coleridge.) Are you the wife of Thomas Perring ?—Yes.

51,136. Do you recollect at the last election anybody giving you any money ?—Yes, Thomas Sandford Screach.

51,137. Was it before or after the election ?—The 10th July.

51,138. That was two days before the election was not it ?—Yes.

51,139. What did he give you ?—39*l.* He left it, he did not give it to me.

51,140. Did you see him leave it there ?—No.

51,141. Did he tell you he had ?—Yes.

51,142. Was it in gold or notes ?—Gold.

53,143. What did he tell you he had left ?—39*l.* and that he would give my husband or send the other pound.

51,144. But he did not give your husband the other pound did he ?—I think he did, I do not know.

(Perring.) He gave it to me, and I gave it to my wife.

51,145. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you recollect having another from your husband ?—Yes; I do not know whether the same day.

51,146. What did you do with that money ?—I do not know. I put it with other money.

51,147. Have you spent it all ?—I cannot say.

51,148. Your husband lets you keep all the money ?—I am purse keeper.

51,149. Did you never give him any because he says he never had any of this 40*l.* ?—I do not know whether I did or not. As I said before I put it with other money, and when he wants any he comes to me.

51,150. He is a mason, is not he ?—Yes.

51,151. What does he generally earn a week ?—I do not know.

51,152. Does not he tell you ?—Perhaps sometimes a pound, sometimes more, sometimes less. He has not always got work.

51,153. You are quite sure that Screach brought this money ?—Yes, I am sure. I did not see him but he told me so.

51,154. Did he tell you what it was for ?—I did not ask him.

51,155. Have you been talking to your husband about the evidence which has been given here ?—No.

51,156. Did not your husband tell you that Screach had never mentioned his name ?—No.

51,157. Have you been reading the newspapers ?—No, I cannot read the papers.

51,158. Were not you surprised to hear that Screach did not mention his name. He gave a list of the people he had given money to and your husband's name was not amongst them ?—I do not know.

51,159. Did you observe that he had forgotten to mention your husband ?—I do not think I did.

51,160. Did you give him any receipt for this money ?—No.

51,161. Has any other money been given to you at any election ?—No.

51,162. At any municipal election or anything ?—No, I do not remember.

51,163. Is that the only present of money you got in that way ?—Yes, all the money; I work very hard.

51,164. (Mr. Bere.) Do you keep a shop ?—No, I work at the dress making.

W. Paige.

WILLIAM PAIGE sworn and examined.

51,165. (Mr. Bere.) Used you to live at Bourton ?—Yes.

51,166. From whom did you rent property in those days ?—The Duke of Somerset at that time.

51,167. The late Duke of Somerset ?—Yes.

51,168. When did you begin to rent under him ?—I think about 1813.

51,169. You continued to rent from him after the Reform Bill, did you ?—I did.

51,170. You were about the first person who ever had a vote on building and land were not you ?—In 1832, after the Reform Bill.

51,171. Was the building built upon the land already ?—It was built already, part of the farm.

51,172. What sort of building was it ?—It was a building where we make apples into cider, commonly called the cider pound house.

51,173. Had it a door which you could lock up ?—Yes.

51,174. Was there any objection to your claiming to vote on that qualification ?—Never.

51,175. Were you on the register of voters in 1833 ?—Yes.

51,176. You are the first person in the borough of Totnes who was on the register for building and land ?—I think about the first. I should say it was part of the farm.

51,177. Do you know whether anybody else got a vote for building and land except yourself at that first registration ?—No one.

51,178. Do you know who the next person was who got a vote for building and land ?—On that property ?

51,179. Any property in Totnes ?—I cannot say, because there were many on buildings and land which I had nothing whatever to do with.

51,180. Do you know who was the first person who had a building erected or altered in order to give him a vote ?—I do not know.

51,181. How long did you remain the duke's tenant ?—I should say about 47 or 48 years.

51,182. Up to 1860 ?—Up to about 1859.

51,183. During all that time how did you vote ?—I can tell you by reference to this book if you wish to go into particulars. First, when the Reform Bill was passed I voted for the members that then put up. Then the present duke, then Lord Seymour, put up as a candidate, and I voted for him.

51,184. Did you always vote for him ?—Always.

51,185. Did you always vote for the other Liberal too, or sometimes for the Conservatives ?—I always voted for him. Allow me to say from the kindness I received both from the late and the present duke I always voted for the duke and his interest up to this time one vote, and having some interest in the borough the second vote I did as I liked with.

51,186. Since 1859 you have always voted for the Conservatives ?—Not always. I voted last time for Dawkins and Seymour.

51,187. Whom did you vote for in 1863, Dent and

Seymour ?—I can tell you if you will let me (referring). I voted for Dent in 1863.

51,188. Whom did you vote for in 1859?—Lord Gifford and Dunn.

51,189. Whom did you vote for in 1857 ?—Lord Gifford and Mr. Gregory.

51,190. What made you vote for Mr. Gregory then ?—Well, I do not know ; my memory does not tell me.

51,191. Have you ever had anything for voting ?—Never. No one ever offered me.

51,192. And you never took any ?—If they had I should have taken it as a great insult.

51,193. Do you know George Roberts ?—Yes.

51,194. Was he a tenant of yours ?—George what ?

51,195. George Roberts ?—No.

51,196. Was he a tenant of yours ?—No, not Roberts.

51,197. What was his name then ?—I have tenants here, but none of the name of Roberts.

51,198. Not now, but some time ago?—I do not remember the name.

51,199. Do you remember turning some one of your tenants out for voting for the Tories ?—I have, a tenant called Pengilley.

51,200. What was his christian name ?—William, I think.

51,201. What did he rent of you ?—A house of me and a shop, &c.

51,202. And he voted for the Tories did he ?—I do not know how he voted, I never dictated to him.

51,203. But you turned him out ?—I beg your pardon, I did not.

51,204. Did you give him notice to quit ?—No. He lived in the house for seven years ; he rented the house for seven years, and when his term was ended, he left the house.

51,205. He left after seven years ?—Yes.

51,206. What made you give up the Duke's land in 1859 ?—I gave it up to my son, who now occupies it.

51,207. What is your son's name ?—Nicholas Merrifield Paige.

51,208. (Mr. Longe.) Do you mean the farm ?—The farm.

51,209. But you held a field which gave you the vote ?—What I voted upon was a field. I did not only rent land of the Duke of Somerset, but I farmed a good deal of land of my own.

51,210. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know George Roberts, a tailor, not a tenant of yours ?—I do.

51,211. After he voted for the Tories, did you pay his bill and never employ him again ?—I employed him many years before the Reform Bill, but not after.

51,212. After the Reform Bill, did not you on one occasion when he voted for the Tories, go to him and ask him for his bill and pay it, and say you would give him no more work because he had voted for the Tories ?—No ; that I deny, because my object is, that I never meddle with any party. I never dictated to a tenant in my life.

51,213. You never dictated to a person to whom you gave your custom ?—Never.

51,214. (Mr. Longe.) Did Mr. Robert Paige hold a farm with you ?—He did for a few years.

51,215. When did Robert Paige leave the farm ?—I think it was Lady-day 1858.

51,216. What did he have a vote for ?—Some little addition ; buildings and land. He joined with me, and so on, for these buildings and land which we took adjoining the farm.

51,217. Did you all three have votes for the same occupation ?—Not for the same, but for this building which I spoke of before which I had with the farm all three had a vote on.

51,218. But you let it for 20*l.* a year ; did you say this addition of building and land was 20*l.* a year ?—It was part of the farm we had before.

51,219. How much of it was in the borough ?—The whole of it was in the borough.

51,220. (Mr. Bere.) This is what Roberts says :—"Has nobody given you as a reason for taking away "their custom that you had voted for Baldwin ?—"Yes. Who did ?—Time is the worker of the greatest "wonders. You can see Mr. Paige that is now a "very hot Conservative, paid off my bill, and said it "was because I voted for a Tory, and now he is a "Tory himself. Is that William Paige who was at "Bourton ?—Yes, that is the man."—I deny that in toto, because since the Reform Bill I have not employed him, I think ; I will not be certain about the dates exactly, but I do not think I have employed him since the Reform Bill, and he was not a voter.

51,221. (Mr. Longe.) Who has those fields now that you used to occupy ; that gave you a vote ?—I think a man living at Berry. I forget his name.

51,222. Merrifield Paige succeeded you in the farm ?—He succeeded me in the farm.

51,223. (Mr. Bere.) Have you anything at all to tell us about the elections ?—Nothing.

51,224. (Mr. Longe.) There is no dispute about your politics between you and Mr. Michelmore ?—Nothing of the sort, we quite agree. I should say the kindness I received from the late duke, and also from the present one, and those who have the management of the estate, I consider entitles them to one vote ; but as to the second, I have an interest in the borough, and that I do as I like by. That was my system throughout the whole period. I never took any active part or took or gave any bribes.

51,225. (Mr. Coleridge.) When you came to a single election how did you make the ship trim then ; should you always give a vote to the duke's man, when there was only one to be returned ?—If the duke had one vote I would support him in that, but I would never support the interest with two.

51,226. Did you vote for Seymour against Dent ?—No.

51,227. Then you did not support the duke's man ?—I will tell you whether I did. What date is it ?

51,228. In 1863 you voted for Dent against Seymour, and Seymour was the duke's man, how came you to do that ?—For this reason, because I thought Mr. Pender was a duke's man as well, as Mr. Seymour was a fresh man for Totnes.

51,229. Did you vote for Pender in 1862 ?—There was no voting in 1862.

51,230. How were you going to vote then ?—I should have voted for Dent.

52,231. If Mr. Pender was a Duke's man you would have been voting twice against the Duke's man according to that ; how could he be a Duke's man if Lord Gifford was in ?—It was after Lord Gifford, I think.

51,232. Mr. Pender came in on Mr. Mills's death. If there were two votes given why split them, if you vote for the Tories one ?—I should consider I am of Conservative principles always.

51,233. If you had two votes to give you would give one to the Tories ?—I should look to myself.

51,234. (Mr. Bere.) Did you ever stand for the the council ?—I did.

51,235. Did you succeed in being elected ?—I was.

51,236. How much did it cost you ?—I think it cost me about 130*l.* odd.

51,237. Which side did you stand on ?—I stood on the Liberal side.

51,238. And it cost you 130*l.* ?—About that ; and then the other party objected to me.

51,239. And there was a quo warranto against you and you were turned out ?—Yes, and I had to pay 130*l.* odd.

51,240. For that ?—Yes.

51,241. What did you spend in being elected, not in being turned out ?—Nothing in being elected.

51,242. You paid 130*l.* for being turned out ?—Yes, no doubt. I spent nothing in being elected. It was against my consent rather.

51,243. How was this 130*l.* spent ?—I do not know. It was spent by my opponents.

51,244. You had to pay a taxed bill of costs ?—I had. There was a tax put on me.

51,245. You had to pay a taxed bill ?—Yes.

51,246. How much did they knock off on taxation ?—I do not know.

THIRTY-IXTH DAY.

W. Paige.

51,247. How much was the bill before it was taxed?—I paid 130*l.*

51,248. Has anybody ever paid that back to you?—I may say this, that the late Duke of Somerset gave me something towards it.

51,249. What was that?—He gave me 100*l.* towards it. The late Duke of Somerset, not the present duke.

51,250. Did anybody else give you the 30*l.* towards it?—Not a penny.

51,251. Then it cost you 30*l.*—30*l.* odd.

51,252. Was that ever sent in as one of the items for the candidate to pay when he came down?—Never.

F. T. Waymouth.

FREDERICK THOMAS WAYMOUTH sworn and examined.

51,253. (Mr. Longe.) What are you?—A butcher.

51,254. Where do you live?—In Fore-street.

51,255. How long have you had a vote?—Since 1850.

51,256. What gives you your vote?—A 20*l* house.

51,257. Do you vote on a house?—Yes.

51,258. Do you rent a field of the duke?—No, I do not think I ever stood in the books of the duke.

51,259. Did you ever hold any lands under the duke?—I can hardly tell you whether I did or not. Although it is a manufactured vote, my name never stood as a tenant under the Duke of Somerset.

51,260. You occupy a field and you stock the field?—Yes, but I am not a tenant.

51,261. Who have you voted for; which side?—I generally voted on the Conservative side.

51,262. At the last election for whom did you vote?—Dawkins and Pim.

51,263. At that time did you occupy any land then?—I have got 25 acres of ground.

51,264. Do you occupy any land of the Duke of Somerset?—My name never stood as a tenant of the Duke of Somerset.

51,265. Was there any land of the Duke of Somerset that you used for cattle?—Yes, two fields near.

51,266. Who had the votes for those two fields?—My uncle Joshua Weymouth and Thomas Widdicombe.

51,267. How long has your uncle had a vote?—I do not know.

51,268. How long have you used those fields yourself?—I cannot tell you the date.

51,269. Do you pay the rent?—I pay it to my uncle and he pays it. I applied for the third field and Mr. Michelmore refused to let it to me on those terms, that it was a voting field and he expected to get a vote. I then went to my uncle and asked him to take it.

51,270. Your uncle was the right side?—My uncle was the right side; of course the side of the Duke of Somerset, and I gave my uncle the rent and he paid it.

51,271. Your uncle votes for the duke's side?—Yes, and I vote as I please.

51,272. You get the benefit of the field?—Yes.

51,273. How does Thomas Widdicome come into this?—For many years a brother-in-law had the field and I took it from him without saying anything to the Duke of Somerset, and he stood on the rate-book since he left, 1851 or 1852; I cannot tell the date. Then I asked Mr. Widdicombe whether he would take the same place as my brother-in-law did, and he stood on the register instead of my brother-in-law.

51,274. In 1863 for whom did you vote?—For Dent.

51,275. In 1862 for whom did you vote; Dent and Pender?—I do not think I voted at all.

51,276. In 1859 for whom did you vote?—I voted for Dunn.

51,277. Did you ever receive anything for your vote?—No; not a fathing.

51,278. Ever any offer?—No.

51,279. Did you ever take any part in those elections?—Never.

51,280. You never offered anything?—No, never a fathing, nor never offered any person a farthing.

W. Woodley.

WILLIAM WOODLEY sworn and examined.

51,281. (Mr. Bere.) Is your father a voter though you are not?—Yes.

51,282. How long has he been a voter?—I should think about seven or eight years.

51,283. How has he voted?—Conservative.

51,284. Always?—Yes.

51,285. Do you know whether he has ever had anything for his vote?—I am sure he has not.

51,286. Did he vote the last time?—He is dead.

51,287. Did he die before the last election?—No.

51,288. He did not vote?—No; he was an invalid.

51,289. As far as you know, he never got anything?—No.

51,290. How is it you had not got a vote?—The house I lived in is not qualified.

51,291. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did not they put you into a company or anything?—No.

Mr. H. Foster.

Mr. HENRY FOSTER sworn and examined.

51,292. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you?—A carpenter.

51,293. Where do you live?—At Totnes.

51,294. Have you a vote on your house?—No.

51,295. When had you a vote?—In 1865.

51,296. How did you vote?—For Dawkins and Pim.

51,297. What did you get?—Nothing.

51,298. Anything promised?—No.

51,299. Anything from the other side?—No.

51,300. Have you a wife?—No.

51,301. Any present after the election?—No.

51,302. You had a bill paid for polling booths and things?—My father had.

51,303. Are you a partner?—No.

51,304. What did you get at the last election?—Out of pocket.

51,305. What did you get out of pocket?—I went to Plymouth after I voted.

51,306. What made you go to Plymouth?—I saw the Conservatives were beaten, and I went away.

51,307. You did not like to see them beaten?—No.

51,308. Is that the time you voted?—Yes.

51,309. Did you get any money for any other voters?—No.

51,310. Nothing to do with the lame ducks?—No.

51,311. You did not take the voters away or lock them up in a cellar?—No.

51,312. (Mr. Bere.) You had a strong idea that your vote was worth something?—No.

51,313. Do you remember when your vote was objected to?—Yes.

51,314. Did not you work for Mr. Chaster?—Yes.

51,315. Did not the Liberals object to your vote?—Yes.

51,316. Was not your vote struck off?—Yes, four or five years ago.

51,317. When your vote was struck off, did not you say, "Master had done you out of 50*l.*?"—Perhaps.

51,318. (Mr. Coleridge.) You did say that?—It was in the way of joke.

51,319. Did not John Heath give you anything the last time?—No.

51,320. Nor Screach?—No.

51,321. Did not you ask for it?—No.

51,322. Nor any offer?—No.

Mr. Frederick Hare sworn and examined.

51,323. (Mr. Bere.) Are you the partner of Mr. Bryett?—Yes.

51,324. You were not a partner in 1865?—No.

51,325. You are acting as conveyancing clerk?—Yes.

51,326. You received a retainer?—Yes, from Captain Pim.

51,327. Did you go about with him?—Yes, two days about town.

51,328. Did you go to the outer voters?—Yes, and about ten days before I went and called upon a man called Smaridge.

51,329. Had you known him?—Yes, he lives close to where I live in the country, and the party knew that I knew him, and I went to canvass him.

51,330. What did he give you?—He promised me one vote for Colonel Dawkins, and the other vote he could not promise. He said he would give one vote to the Conservatives and the other to the Liberals.

51,331. How did he vote?—Both to the Conservatives, I think, Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim.

51,332. Did you tell him it would be the thing if he gave both his votes to the Conservatives?—No.

51,333. Were you authorized to give any money?—No. He said, that he hoped that the Conservative party would behave better than the Liberal, because they had promised money and not given it.

51,334. What did you say?—I gave him no hopes about the Conservative party, but I said, what they said they meant.

51,335. Did you send in anyone to offer him anything?—No; and on another occasion, about three days before the election, Colonel Dawkins wanted to canvass him, and as he lives out of the way I was asked to pilot him to his place.

51,336. Did you canvas him a second time?—Yes.

51,337. Which way?—Both for the Conservatives.

51,338. Did you go to the house?—We went to the house, and he was not in the house, and we rode to the farm and saw him.

51,339. Was any money offered to him?—Not in my hearing.

51,340. Did you offer him any money?—Not a sixpence.

51,341. Did you hear any money offered?—By no one. And there was another occasion; on the night of the day of the nomination a stranger came to me and asked me if I would go to Manning, the butcher, at the head of the town, and tell him if he would vote for the Conservative party he should have a sum of money in the morning. I said I would not do so, and he entreated me to go and see the man, and he said, "He will believe you when he will not believe "me." I said "I will not." He then said "Will "you come into the 'Stars' and hear whether it is "correct from Heath?" I hesitated, but I went in.

51,342. Did the stranger go with you?—Yes; I know who the man is now.

51,343. Who was it?—Mr. George Evens; and he asked me if it was true, whether I would go to Mannings, and ask him to vote, and he would receive 30*l.* or 50*l.*; and I went up to Manning's, and when we were therein I said, if he would come to the "Stars" and vote he would get that. He asked if it was true, and I said "Yes."

51,344. Was that all?—Yes.

51,345. Had you anything to do with any other election?—No.

51,346. Are you a voter?—No.

51,347. Either directly or indirectly did you use your influence upon any other voter except that one?—No.

51,348. Is there anything else you can tell us about the election?—No.

51,349. (Mr. Coleridge.) What was Captain Alexander doing down here?—I think if he saw his way clear he intended being the second candidate himself.

51,350. Being here, did he go and canvass with Colonel Dawkins?—Yes.

51,351. Did Captain Lane Fox go and canvass with him?—They were about a good deal.

51,352. Were you much at the "Seven Stars"?—I was not. I lived out of town about 9 miles, and I used to ride home in the evening.

51,353. Did you hear Evens make any offer to Manning?—I did not.

51,354. You did not hear that sum of money mentioned?—I did, but I am not sure whether it was 30*l.* or 50*l.*

51,355. He says it is 50*l.*?—It might be; I do not know.

51,356. Did you ever see that poll-book of Mr. Michelmore in the possession of Narramore?

John Stephens sworn and examined.

51,357. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—A tailor.

51,358. When did you vote first?—In 1852.

51,359. How did you vote?—Always for the Liberals.

51,360. Never a Tory vote?—No.

51,361. What did you get in 1852?—Nothing.

51,362. Nothing promised?—No.

51,363. Nothing offered?—No.

51,364. In 1857 were not you tempted in some way?—No.

51,365. In 1859 was it?—Nothing.

51,366. What were you paid?—Nothing.

51,367. Did you vote for Dunn?—No.

51,368. Whom did you vote for?—The Liberals.

51,369. Were you given anything after the election?—No.

51,370. Were you promised the money and did not get it?—No.

51,371. In 1862 did you vote for Mr. Pender?—Yes.

51,372. Did you get anything?—No.

51,373. What did you get at the last election?—Nothing.

51,374. Since you have had a vote has any money been left at your house?—No.

51,375. Any money been paid for you?—No.

51,376. No bill been paid for you?—No.

51,377. Never had anything at all?—No.

51,378. At any time?—No.

51,379. Mr. Holman has never been to you?—He never came to me in his life.

51,380. Did Thomas Jacob Searle?—No.

51,381. Did Parnell?—He called at my house several times.

51,382. He never called without money?—Yes, he comes about the gas.

51,383. Did he not tell you to send your wife, and she would find something?—No.

51,384. What do you know about any election?—I was made an offer in Dent's election.

51,385. I asked you about that. What were you offered in Dunn's election?—Mr. Knapman, the draper, offered me 50*l.*

51,386. He offered you 50*l.*?—Yes.

51,387. Seriously or in chaff?—He came to my house the morning of the election and offered it.

THIRTY-SIXTH DAY.

J. Stephens.

30 Oct. 1866.

51,388. What did he say about it at the time?—He said he was authorized to give me 50*l.*, and I told him it was no use offering me money, as I had promised.

51,389. And that was to vote for Mr. Dent?—That was to vote for Mr. Dent.

51,390. Did he show you the money?—No; he was not there two minutes.

51,391. Did he tell you where you could get the money?—No.

51,392. You would not have it?—Yes; he was not there very long.

51,393. Did you tell Mr. Pender's people you had refused 50*l.*?—No; I do not know that I mentioned it before Monday morning.

51,394. This last Monday morning?—Yes.

51,395. Did you tell your wife?—She was there.

51,396. She heard it?—Yes.

51,397. Do you think she ever got it afterwards and did not tell you?—No.

51,398. Do you think she ever got any money?—No.

51,399. (Mr. Bere.) Which Mr. Knapman was it, the linendraper here?—Yes.

51,400. Were you in the habit of dealing with him?—A little.

51,401. Did you owe him any money?—Not more than a pound or two.

51,402. Is it William or Henry?—William, I think.

51,403. The person who has been examined here to-day?—I do not know. It must be Mr. William Knapman.

51,404. Who keeps the linendraper's shop?—Yes, at the present time.

51,405. Do you owe him some money at the present time?—Yes, a little; I never dealt very largely with him.

51,406. Do you know anything more of the election than you have told us?—No.

51,407. (Mr. Coleridge.) How came you to have escaped the temptations that others have had in being offered money?—I do not know. Nobody ever offered me any before. I suppose I have never allowed people. I could always manage my own affairs.

51,408. Is there nothing else that you know that you have not told us?—No.

51,409. (Mr. Bere.) Have you, directly or indirectly, or by anybody else, received any benefit for yourself at any election?—No, not that I know of.

51,410. Or have you ever conferred any benefit?—No, I never have.

51,411. Have you ever had anything given to you at any time?—No.

51,412. No debts paid for you?—No.

51,413. Have you ever had any present given you some time after the last election, or after Dent's election, when Mr. Pender came in?—No.

51,414. What is your qualification?—A house.

51,415. Is it your own?—No; my landlord is Mr. Dawe, of Modbury,

51,416. What is the rent?—14*l.* a year.

51,417. What is he in politics?—I do not know.

51,418. Has he ever tried to influence you in your politics?—I do not know.

51,419. Who collects his rent for him?—Himself.

51,420. Is there any mortgage on the house?—I do not think there is. I do not know, I am sure.

51,421. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever have anything to do with Mr. Evan Evens at any election?—I think he came in at Mr. Mackenzie's election.

51,422. What did he do?—He was following up the canvass very much, and he persuaded me to vote for him, and I said I could manage my own affairs, and he told me he could not say anything to me; he came in to bring me some good. I do not know what that good was.

51,423. Did he tell you what that good was?—I say I do not know. It never came out what it was.

51,424. Did you ever know afterwards what it was?—No.

51,425. Did Frederick Evens ever come to you?—Oh, no.

51,426. Have you had any conversation with Mr. Jenkins about this examination here?—No.

51,427. Did you ever tell him you had been offered money by Evan Evens to vote the wrong way?—No.

51,428. Did you ever tell him you had been offered money?—I might have said so.

51,429. But did you say you had been offered money?—I do not believe I ever said so.

51,430. If you did, whom did you say it was from?—That was the only time I was ever offered any.

51,431. Have you a son?—Yes.

51,432. Has he been offered money to secure your vote?—No.

51,433. Are you sure?—Yes.

51,434. (Mr. Bere.) Where does he live?—He is living with me.

51,435. (Mr. Coleridge.) How old is he?—19.

Adjourned till to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

THIRTY-SEVENTH DAY.

THIRTY-SEVENTH DAY.

51,436. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live?—At Weston.

51,437. Have you got a vote for the borough of Totnes?—I have not.

51,438. You, I believe, in 1864, became the head of the Gerston Company?—I did.

51,439. Have you a list of the company?—I have.

51,440. Have you the book with you?—No.

51,441. How many members were there?—46, I think.

51,442. Were any of those persons who had votes for Totnes at that time?—I cannot tell you exactly.

51,443. Who was the landlord?—Mr. Ford.

51,444. Where was the land situated?—At Gerston.

51,445. What rent did you pay?—I can hardly tell you.

51,446. Could you fetch the book, without much trouble?—I do not think I could.

51,447. Will you give us the names of some of the persons who are members of the company?—I could get a list of all the names.

(Mr. Bere.) I wish you could get it.

JOHN BRIMICOMBE, sworn and examined.

J. Brimicombe.

31 Oct. 1866.

51,448. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you?—A plumber.

51,449. How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—About 20 years.

51,450. Do you recollect whose election it was?—Ricardo's.

51,451. How did you vote then?—For Ricardo and Seymour.

51,452. Did you get anything for your vote?—No.

51,453. Anything to do with giving anybody money?—No.

51,454. Was anything given you for your vote?—No.

51,455. In 1852 did you vote again?—I do not know whether I did or no; what were the names?

51,456. Seymour, Mills, and Baldwin?—Yes, I must have voted for Seymour and Mills.

51,757. There was a great deal of money going about at that election?—I do not know.

51,458. You did not get any?—I did not.

51,459. Were you employed to give any?—No.

51,460. Were you offered any?—No.

51,461. The next election was an uncontested election, and then in 1857 when Mackenzie, and Gregory and Gifford and Mills were the candidates, how did you vote then?—I did not vote at all.

51,462. Why?—I was in London.

51,463. Were you not offered anything to come and vote?—No.

51,464. Did anybody write to you;—Yes.

51,465. What were you offered?—Nothing.

51,466. Liberal expenses?—No; they sent me a note to say that if I was wanted they would telegraph, and that I was to hold myself in readiness.

51,467. Who did?—Mr. Thos. Michelmore.

51,468. In Dunn's election how did you vote?—I did not vote.

51,469. Were you at home?—Yes.

51,470. Why not?—I had not promised my vote, and I did not vote; it would suit me better not to vote.

51,471. What was your reason for not voting?—I did not feel inclined.

51,472. For what reason?—I was at work for both parties, and I did not like to offend them.

51,473. Did you get anything?—No, never.

51,474. Was anything offered?—No.

51,475. Did you vote in 1862?—Yes.

51,476. You did not vote before; why?—Because I did not feel inclined.

51,477. Were you paid anything for voting for Mr. Pender?—No, nothing; I had nothing for my vote.

51,478. Did you get a present after the election?—No.

51,479. Any sum of money given you in 1863?—No.

51,480. Did you vote for Seymour in 1863?—Yes.

51,481. At the last election did you vote?—Yes.

51,482. How did you vote?—For Pender and Seymour.

51,483. Did you get anything?—No.

51,484. At any election, directly or indirectly, did you influence anybody for their votes?—No.

51,485. Have you canvassed anyone?—No.

51,486. Have you ever received anything of any sort or kind before, after, or at an election?—No.

51,487. Ever received anything from Mr. Pender?—No.

51,488. Then neither directly nor indirectly have you been benefited by the vote you have given?—Not the slightest.

51,489. Had you a vote at the municipal election?—Yes.

51,490. How did you vote?—Generally for Liberals.

51,491. What is your qualification?—A house in Fore Street.

51,492. What is the value?—25*l.* a year rent.

51,493. Does anybody else vote upon it?—No.

RICHARD STANNING sworn and examined.

R. Stanning.

51,494. (Mr. Longe.) What are you?—I am in the cider trade.

51,495. Where do you live?—At Dartington.

51,496. What do you vote upon?—Building and land at Gerston.

51,497. Are you one of the company?—Yes.

51,498. How many of you?—Nine; eight besides myself.

51,499. When did you first get that vote?—In 1865.

51,500. Near the election?—Yes.

51,501. Which way did you vote?—For Pender and Seymour.

51,502. Who canvassed you?—Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour.

51,503. Did you promise your vote when he asked you?—Yes.

51,504. Were you canvassed on the other side?—Yes, Colonel Dawkins called. I did not see him, but my mother told him that I had promised, and I did not say anything to her about it.

51,505. Did you receive anything before or after that election?—Not a farthing.

51,506. Any offer made to you?—No, none.

51,507. Who asked you to belong to the company?—I cannot recollect.

51,508. Why did you belong to the company?—I wish to have a vote and join with others.

51,509. Who first told you that you would get a vote in that way?—I think I said I wished to take a field.

51,510. To whom?—To my father.

51,511. And he told whom?—I hardly recollect. I went and saw others when they took the field.

51,512. Whom?—Bradridge and Veasey, who belonged to the company.

51,513. Who was the person you went to about a share in the field. You must remember?—I went to the "Seymour" hotel.

51,514. Whom did you see there?—Mr. Seymour and Mr. Fitze, the manager.

51,515. Was Mr. Fitze the person you communicated your wish to?—Yes.

51,516. Did you not have any communication with Mr. Michelmore?—I saw him there, and I was to become one of the company.

51,517. Did you tell him you wanted to belong to the company?—He understood it.

51,518. Did he tell you he would make you a member?—Yes.

51,519. Mr. Michelmore?—I believe he did, and I agreed with Veasey and others.

51,520. Of whom did you take the land?—Of Mr. Michelmore, with Bradridge and others.

51,521. What were you to pay?—Ninety some odd pounds.

51,522. (Mr. Bere.) You did not pay rent?—The manager was going to pay it.

51,523. You were not going to pay?—Not out of my own pocket.

51,524. (Mr. Coleridge.) You knew you were a manufactured vote?—Yes, that is it.

51,525. You never paid any money for rent?—Never.

51,526. Did anybody pay you anything for voting?—No; I never gave them that opportunity. When I was canvassed I promised immediately.

51,527. You never got anything afterwards?—No.

51,528. No present?—No.

THIRTY-SEVENTH DAY.

W. Knapman.

31 Oct. 1866.

WILLIAM KNAPMAN recalled and examined.

51,529. (Mr. Bere.) When you were examined yesterday you were asked this question, "Q. If you "tell us, neither directly nor indirectly, have you had "anything for your vote, nor directly or indirectly "induced anybody to vote, that is enough ?—A. That "is all I know about the business."

Now since you were examined, a witness, of the name of Stephens, has been called, and these questions were put to him, "Q. What do you know about any "election ?—A. I was made an offer in Dunn's elec-"tion." I asked you about that, "Q. What were you "offered in Dunn's election ?—A. Mr. Knapman, the "draper, offered me 50*l.* ? "—What Stephens has said is not correct ; I was not here at Dunn's election.

51,530. Did you offer him 50*l.* at any election ?—No, it was a joke passed when a commercial traveller, of the name of Luscombe called upon me. I have never thought about the matter at all since.

51,531. (Mr. Coleridge.) At what election was it you offered 50*l.* ?—This was at Dent's election this little joke passed.

51,532. (Mr. Bere). It is a mistake for Dunn's, because afterwards, he says, "it was to vote for "Dent." Dunn ought to have been Dent. What did pass ?—It was simply this : I was at the door talking to Luscombe, who knew Stephens very well, and I said, "Would you like to sell your vote for 50*l.* worth "of trimmings." It was all in a joke that I asked him.

51,533. (Mr. Coleridge.) He seems to have taken it in earnest ?—That is all I know about it.

51,534. If he had said, yes, you would have been taken in ?—Yes, I should. That is all I can speak about the matter at all.

51,535. Had anybody told you to make an offer to him ?—It occurred in that way, through Luscombe, the traveller, who knew him.

51,536. If he had said, yes, should you have gone to try to get the money from Mr. Edmonds or any one ?—No ; it was in that way I have told you, at the door ; he was looking one way and I was looking the other.

51,537. Had Luscombe anything to do with the election ?—No ; he is a traveller.

51,538. (Mr. Bere.) Was not he used to canvass people over whom he had some influence ?—I could not tell you that ; he was here on the day of the election.

51,539. In what trade was he a traveller ?—In the drapery trade.

51,540. Was Stephens a customer of his ?—No ; he was a customer of mine.

51,541. You bought from Luscombe, and Stephens bought from you ?—Yes.

J. Michelmore.

JOHN MICHELMORE sworn and examined.

51,542. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you ?—A coal merchant.

51,543. How long have you voted for Totnes ?—10 years.

51,544. When was the first time you voted, Mackenzie and Gregory's election ?—Baldwin.

51,545. That was in 1850 ?—I cannot recollect.

51,546. You voted for Baldwin then ?—I think it was Baldwin and Seymour.

51,547. You split your vote ?—Yes.

51,548. What did you get for that ?—Nothing at all.

51,549. In 1857 how did you vote, Gregory, Mackenzie, and Gifford ?—I do not know.

51,550. Did you vote for Lord Gifford ?—Yes, I did vote for Mackenzie and Gifford.

51,551. Have you always voted for the duke's man and a Conservative ?—Yes, and one Conservative.

51,552. Did you get anything for your vote ?—No.

51,553. Were you promised anything ?—No.

51,554. Were you offered anything for your vote ?—No.

51,555. Did you have anything after the election ?—Nothing at all.

51,556. In 1859, how did you vote in Dunn's election ?—I cannot recollect.

51,557. Lord Gifford, Mills, and Dunn were the candidates ?—Dunn and Gifford.

51,558. Did you get anything then ?—No.

51,559. Were you offered anything then ?—No.

51,560. Were you promised anything ?—No.

51,561. Did you have any present after the election ?—No.

51,562. Dent's election. Dent and Pender, how did you vote in 1862 ?—If I voted I voted for each.

51,563. There was only one member ?—I voted for Dent.

51,564. Did you not get something after the election ?—No.

51,565. Seymour and Dent, did you vote for Dent again ?—I do not think I did.

51,566. Not 1863, when there was such a close run ?—I voted for Dent. I am not positive.

51,567. Did you have anything for your vote ?—No.

51,568. Were you offered anything then ?—No.

51,569. Did you have any promise ?—No.

51,570. Did you have any present ?—No.

51,571. Any special order for coals ?—No.

51,572. In 1865, how did you vote at the last election ?—For Pender.

51,573. What made you vote for him ?—Because I thought he was the proper man.

51,574. You deserted the duke's man on that occasion ?—I did.

51,575. What was the inducement held out to you ?—No inducement. Mr. Michelmore came round and solicited me, and I promised to give Mr. Pender a vote.

51,576. You did not give Mr. Pender a vote because you voted for Dent ?—No, not then.

51,577. Mr. Mills had died in 1862 ?—Yes, I know.

51,578. It was directly after he came down here ?—Yes.

51,579. How was it you did not vote for Mr. Pender then ?—I cannot recollect anything to bring it to my mind. I never took any interest in the election.

51,580. You voted for Pender and Dent ?—Yes.

51,581. What did you get for your vote ?—Nothing at all.

51,582. Did you have a promise of anything ?—No promise.

51,583. Did you have any offer of anything ?—No offer.

51,584. When all this money was going about you had nothing offered you ?—I never had a farthing offered me.

51,585. Had you anything to do with offering money to other people ?—No.

51,586. Were you directly or indirectly interested in any way ?—No.

51,587. How many men have you under you ?—None for the borough.

51,588. How many for the municipal election ?—Three.

51,589. Do you influence them at all ?—I never did. I said, "Do as you like." They do as they think proper, and I never interfere with them.

51,590. Do you not find that their liking is to vote as you vote ?—No, I do not.

51,591. You received nothing since the election ?—Nothing.

51,592. Have you directly or indirectly in any way received any benefit at any time for you to vote ?—No.

51,593. Or for any other reason ?—No.

51,594. Does your trade lie equally with both parties ?—Yes, and that is the reason why.

51,595. Do you supply the "Seven Stars" ?—Yes.

51,596. And the "Seymour Arms" ?—I supplied both.

51,597. Do you supply both now?—No, the "Stars."

51,598. Is there anything else about the elections at any time?—No.

51,599. Did you canvass?—No.

WILLIAM HENRY GOODRIDGE sworn and examined.

51,600. (Mr. Longe.) What are you?—An innkeeper.

51,601. You keep the "Market-house" inn?—Yes.

51,602. How long have you had that inn?—Since 1863.

51,603. When was your first vote?—1865.

51,604. Is that the only vote you have had?—The only vote. I was not a vote before.

51,605. Whom did you give it to?—The two Conservative candidates.

51,606. Dawkins and Pim?—Dawkins and Pim.

51,607. Did you receive anything at that election?—On the nomination morning I was down in the tap, and Mr. Evens called me out, and told me if I went into the billiard-room I would find something on the shelf.

51,608. Your own tap?—At the "Seven Stars."

51,609. Which Mr. Evens was it?—Mr. Frederick Evens. He called me out. He said, "There is some-"thing on the shelf."

51,610. In the billiard-room?—Yes.

51,611. And you went in and took it?—Yes.

51,612. What was it?—30*l.*

51,613. In notes or gold?—Gold.

51,614. In a bag?—Yes.

51,615. Had you asked for that before?—No.

51,616. Had Mr. Frederick Evens been to you before?—No.

51,617. Had you not communicated with any one?—Me and Mr. Johns were together.

51,618. Mr. who?—Mr. William Johns. He was a vote at the time. I believe he asked me for my vote.

51,619. Had not you authorized him to ask for you?—Yes; we were together.

51,620. What did you say: "Get something for me "if you can"?—Yes, those were the words.

51,621. Did Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim canvass you?—Yes.

51,622. When did they canvass you?—I think it was four or five days before the election, and I promised them both.

51,623. At once?—Yes, at once.

51,624. Were you canvassed by the other side?—Yes, by Mr. Pender, and I told him I could not vote for him.

51,625. You went down to the "Seven Stars" to get the money?—No. I went down to the nomination, and went into the tap, and I did not expect to get any money at all; and while I was in the tap Mr. Evens called me out and told me.

51,626. That was all you got for your vote?—Yes, that is all.

51,627. Did you take any part in getting money for any one else?—Not the slightest, but what I have told you.

51,628. Had you a vote for the council elections?—No. I am a vote at the present time. I was never a vote before.

51,629. You have never been offered anything this time, have you?—No.

51,630. (Mr. Coleridge.) When did you first recollect that you received that money?—The nomination morning.

51,631. When did you first recollect about having received this? because Mr. Evens never told us anything about this?—I do not know.

51,632. Did Mr. Evens come and tell you that you had received this a few weeks since?—No.

51,633. Have you had any conversation with Mr. Evens about it?—No.

51,634. None at all?—No.

51,635. Did you say to him after he was examined here, "How came you not to mention me amongst "your list"?—No; certainly not.

51,636. Have you had any conversation with any of the Heaths about it?—No.

51,637. Not any of them?—None at all.

51,638. Has not Mr. John Heath been to you to ask you what you received?—No.

51,639. Who mentioned it to you before to-day?—No one.

51,640. No one?—No.

51,641. You have no doubt about receiving it?—I am quite sure I received it

51,642. And you spent it?—I used it.

51,643. Have you ever received any money at municipal elections?—I never voted. I was never a voter.

THOMAS GOODRIDGE sworn and examined.

51,644. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—A dairyman.

51,645. Where do you live?—Fore Street.

51,646. Have you a vote?—Yes.

51,647. How long have you had a vote?—I have not claimed.

51,648. You are not on the register yet?—I am on the register. I had to take up my claim at the last registration, but I did not come up.

51,649. Are you on the register this year?—I believe so.

51,650. How old are you?—22.

51,651. Had you anything to do with the election of 1865?—No.

51,652. Did any money pass through your hands for any voter?—Nothing at all.

51,653. Did you go out with any of the people to take care of them?—No.

51,654. Were you employed as a watcher by either side?—No, never in my life.

51,655. On which side are you in politics?—Conservative.

51,656. Did you go down to the "Seven Stars" at all during the election?—No.

51,657. Are you a brother of the last witness?—Yes.

51,658. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he ever tell you about his having 30*l.*?—No.

51,659. Did not he tell you it would be a good thing to get your name on the register; you might have a chance?—Nothing of the sort.

51,660. Who first asked you to have your name put on the register? You are one of the manufactured votes are you not?—No.

51,661. What is your qualification?—I am a dairyman.

51,662. Have you any land?—Yes, on Carrion Pits meadow.

51,663. Whose property is it?—Mr. Tozer of Ashburton the solicitor.

51,664. What rent do you pay?—10*l.* a year.

51,665. Does anybody else vote on that meadow besides?—No.

51,666. Is that all the land you have?—I have some ground in Broomborough; I take it yearly.

51,667. You vote on this meadow?—Yes.

51,668. There is a building on it?—Yes, a linhay I keep cows in.

51,669. Did you stock it yourself; are they your own cows.?—Yes.

51,670. Do you mow it at all?—Yes; I mow it once a year.

51,671. You have the hay?—Yes.

51,672. How many cows do you keep?—Eight.

THIRTY-SEVENTH DAY.

T. Angel.

31 Oct. 1866.

THOMAS ANGEL sworn and examined.

51,673. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you?—An ironmonger.

51,674. How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—Well, I have been here 49 years.

51,675. And been a voter all the time?—I believe so, or nearly.

51,676. What was the first time you ever got anything for voting?—Upon my word you will puzzle me, for I have no recollection of what passed for more than a year or two back.

51,677. Whom did you vote for at the last election?—For the Tory candidates.

51,678. Both of them?—Yes.

51,679. Dawkins and Pim?—Yes.

51,680. Who canvassed you?—Mr. Pender canvassed me; they all canvassed me.

51,681. Did Mr. John Heath canvass you?—No.

51,682. Did you go much to the "Seven Stars?"—I never go there.

51,683. Did you get anything for voting?—Nothing.

51,684. Was anything ever offered you?—I think not.

51,685. Were you made the medium of anyone else getting anything?—No. I never influenced anyone in my life. I would not be the means of influencing the most common porter.

51,686. Did you ever give anyone any money?—Never.

51,687. Were you ever asked to give anyone any money?—I never took any interest in the matter at all.

51,688. You had voted for Mr. Dent the time before?—I believe I had.

51,689. Had you always voted for the Conservatives?—Always.

51,690. When did your conversion take place?—I heard that one of my fellow-tradesmen in Totnes was threatened with persecution, and I felt annoyed, and turned over entirely because the ducal interest I detest.

51,691. Who was the person who was threatened? It was only hearsay.

51,692. Who was the person who was threatened?—Mr. Hannaford.

51,693. Who was he threatened by?—By Mr. Jeffery Michelmore, the duke's second agent.

51,694. In what year was that?—I cannot remember. I daresay Mr. Hannaford, who is here, can tell you.

(Mr. Hannaford.) It was a little controversy relating to the municipal election, not to the borough election.

51,695. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had you before that voted for the Liberals?—(The Witness.) Always, from first to last.

51,696. When was it that you first voted for the Tories, in what year? Whom was the first Tory that you ever voted for?—I really cannot call to mind.

51,697. Did you vote for Mr. Dunn in 1859?—I believe I did. I cannot remember.

51,698. Did you always vote for Lord Seymour as long as he was the member?—I did.

51,699. What was the time you voted for the Tories, when Mr. Mackenzie was down here?—It was the time that Mr. Hannaford has referred to.

51,700. At the period when Lord Gifford, Mills, Mackenzie, and Gregory were here you first voted for the Tories?—I did not vote then for the Tories.

51,701. Whom did you vote for then?—I can hardly tell you.

51,702. Did you vote for Mills?—I did not vote for Mills.

51,703. You voted for Lord Gifford and one of the Tories?—I might have done so.

51,704. Was that the first time when you deserted the Liberal side?—I cannot give you the date.

51,705. Did you ever vote against Lord Seymour when he was a candidate?—I do not remember.

51,706. After that did you always vote for the Tories?—I did from that instant.

51,707. Did you vote for Mr. Dunn in 1859?—I might have done so.

51,708. You never got anything for it; but you made up your mind to vote the other way merely because you thought that your friend Mr. Hannaford had been unduly pressed?—Yes. I am no advocate for tyranny in any shape, and I would never submit to it.

Duke of Somerset.

The Duke of SOMERSET sworn and examined.

51,709. (Mr. Bere.) I believe that your Grace was member for the borough of Totnes from the year 1834 to the year 1855?—Rather more than 20 years I was member for the borough.

51,710. Before the passing of the Reform Bill were you member for the borough of Okehampton?—Yes, for some few months.

51,711. Was that just before the passing of the Reform Bill?—Just prior to the Reform Bill.

51,712. Had you sat in the House of Commons between the time of the Reform Bill and your first election for Totnes?—I had no seat between that period; I was asked to sit again for Okehampton, but I declined.

51,713. The borough of Okehampton was disfranchised by the Reform Bill?—It was.

51,714. And you ceased to be a member for that borough when the Reform Bill?—Yes; I was asked to sit again to oppose the Reform Bill, but I declined.

51,715. Do you remember at any election for Totnes what your expenses were?—I did not pay my expenses.

51,716. Who did pay your expenses?—My father paid my expenses. I can only tell you generally what they were.

51,717. Were you consulted about the way the boundaries of the borough should be arranged?—Never.

51,718. As to whether Bridgetown should be added or a line should be drawn round the borough from any particular centre?—I was never consulted about that.

51,719. Did you ever express any opinion to the boundary commissioners as to what would be the proper way of dealing with the enlargement of the borough of Totnes?—I had nothing to do with that in any way; I was not consulted at all.

51,720. Was the then duke at that time owner of the manor of Bridgetown?—Yes, I believe the manor of Bridgetown is a part of Berry Pomeroy, which has been in the family above 300 years.

51,721. Was Bridgetown purchased subsequently to your possession of Berry Pomeroy?—I imagine not; it startles me to hear that. I always thought it was part of Berry Pomeroy.

51,722. At the time of the Reform Bill your father was the owner of Bridgetown and of Berry Pomeroy?—Yes.

51,723. Had you a contest when you were first elected?—Yes.

51,724. With the exception of the general election of 1841, and an election when a vacancy has been created by your accepting office, you have always had a contest?—We always had a contest.

51,725. You were always returned at the head of the poll?—I was always returned by a large majority.

51,726. What were your expenses at the election?—They were very small. I was told that one or two elections did not cost me 100*l.*

51,727. Was that the case before 1839 or afterwards?—I think after as well as before.

51,728. We have heard during this inquiry that bribery commenced in Totnes during the contest between Mr. Blount and Mr. Baldwin in 1839; were your expenses since 1839 more than they were before?—I think not.

51,729. Have you any record of the expenses at all?—I cannot say that I have.

51,730. Did your hear from your agent what the expenses had been?—Generally, they were certainly very light indeed.

51,731. Did you ever pay the expenses of the election, or were they paid by your agent?—I never paid them.

51,732. Mr. Michelmore paid them?—Yes.

51,733. They never came under your knowledge?—I never looked over the accounts.

51,734. Can you tell us about the agreement that was come to about 1840, between the Conservative and the Liberal parties?—There was a contingent offer made to me of an agreement.

51,735. When was that?—It was during a contest. There was an election going on, and the Tory party sent to me and said, we were both going to be defeated, both they and myself; that there was something going on in the town, money coming or something, and they agreed that if I could afford them 12 or 14 votes they would give me 40 votes, or something of that kind, nearly in that proportion. That was a contingent offer.

51,736. Can you remember the year in which that offer was made?—I cannot say; it was during a contest.

51,737. Was it the election of 1846, when Mr. Ricardo stood?—Very likely. I know there were at that time four candidates.

51,738. Then that is 1841, when Mr. Petre and Mr. Teed were down?—Yes.

51,739. And you, Mr. Baldwin, Mr. Petre, and Mr. Teed were the candidates?—Yes.

51,740. Did you know Mr. Tracy, the farmer?—Yes; he lived in Bridgetown, and it was to him they took the contingent agreement.

51,741. Do you know that there was actually an agreement drawn up and signed?—Yes; signed by them and given over to me to be read by me.

51,742. Did you read it?—Yes.

51,743. Do you remember who brought it to you?—I cannot tell you who brought it to me, but I heard of the agreement, and that it was to the effect that if I could find 12, not more than 14, persons on my side who were willing to vote for the Tories they would give me 40 votes.

51,744. Was your seat at all in danger at that election?—I do not know. One never knows about elections; when you are told that all sorts of things are going on in the town, that there were a number of voters silent, and would not give an answer. I thought it a very good arrangement, if I could find 12 or 14 men willing to vote that way, if I could get 40, and I had to go over my list to find out 12 who would not support the Radical party, and who were inclined to support the Tory party.

51,745. Can you remember the names of the 14 who, upon application, you discovered would support them?—No, I cannot; but they were men who were really Tories, but they agreed to make me safe. That is the history of it. They were Tories and would rather have voted the other way.

51,746. If the Tories had not voted, was your seat in such danger that it was worth while to throw over the second Liberal?—I cannot tell you.

51,747. As far as you remember, would the effect of refusing to enter into that agreement probably be that both seats might have been lost to the Liberals?—I thought first of all there would be some money which would get into the town, and I did not know what would be the end of it.

51,748. Was that an agreement that was confined to that election, or was it an agreement for future elections?—It was an agreement confined to that election so far, but they said they would be willing to continue if they could. Mine was a contingent agreement, because I could not undertake to find men who would vote for them.

51,749. Do you know whether that agreement was considered to be in force at the general election of 1847?—I do not know.

51,750. When Mr. Ricardo stood?—I should not have been able probably to find the same men to vote. I am not sure that I could have found them then.

51,751. Did you know that the election of 1847 had been a close contest between Baldwin and Ricardo, and that Mr. Michelmore procured a certain number of your supporters to vote for Mr. Baldwin?—No.

51,752. Did you hear at the time of the election that rather late in the day of the election Mr. Michelmore had an interview with some of the party, and that on the Liberal party saying, "We will bring "so-and-so to the poll; will you go and counteract "that influence?" He said, "Yes, and if you do so "I shall bring four men" (mentioning their names), "and we shall carry Baldwin by one"?—I do not remember that.

51,753. Do you know that that agreement was practically adhered to in that election of 1847?—To some extent it may have been, that is to say, those men of my party who liked to vote for the Tories did so.

51,754. Was any other person engaged in managing the election on your behalf, except Mr. Michelmore?—No one managing the election. I had one or two people who knew the voters, and went with me, who could tell me about them.

51,755. Did you give a retainer to any solicitor in Totnes at any time?—Yes, I think I must have at the first, but I am not sure.

51,756. Do you remember who was your solicitor at first?—I could not tell you now, as I did not pay the expenses. I only knew them as friends who supported me. There were at different times Mr. Edwards and Mr. Windeatt.

51,757. Mr. Charles Edwards was on the Conservative side?—He used at one time to support me, and Mr. Windeatt used to support me.

51,758. As far as you yourself were concerned, did you prefer supporting a second Liberal to a Conservative, or were you obliged, by the exigencies of your position to support a Conservative?—It was this way: the party feeling ran different then from what it does now. The Liberal government of that day was as much attacked by Radicals very often as by the Tories, and therefore sometimes a strong Radical would be a worse member for the government than a Conservative.

51,759. (Mr. Coleridge.) Mr. Ricardo was a strong Radical?—Yes.

51,760. Were you in communication with him during those elections in consenting to a Liberal candidate who stood with you? Were you asked whether you would approve of him?—No, they never consulted me about a Liberal candidate; on the contrary, the town was very jealous, and I did not dare to speak to a Liberal candidate if I met him, and would say there was some understanding, and I used to bow and pass on in the street.

51,761. You canvassed separately, had a separate committee, and had a separate band of advisers?—Yes; but I had no committee in fact.

51,762. Can you give us some explanation of that placard (referring)?—This was in 1850.

51,763. That is three years after Mr. Ricardo?—That was when I came into office.

51,764. There was an election in 1852?—In 1852 I was appointed to the Office of Works, and I had to be re-elected, and when I came into office all the parties were very friendly towards me, and never gave me any trouble, I think.

51,765. That is the explanation of the Conservative electors accompanying you to the poll?—If you put me on my oath, I cannot remember.

51,766. That is your impression?—I knew that about that time I came into office, and I should think it was something of that kind, I imagine; I know they were very friendly to me on both sides whenever I accepted office.

51,767. Did you know of a person whose name is to that placard, Mr. Old?—I probably knew him, but I do not remember him at this moment, but it is a name I am familiar with.

51,768. Can you inform us when your father purchased the manor of Totnes?—That was before 1834, I think so.

51,769. You cannot give us the exact day?—No, if I had known beforehand I could. I only knew about the question of dates the last day or two; and if I had had it with the first notice, by looking out some papers perhaps I could have found it, but I cannot now.

51,770. You cannot give us any accurate statement with regard to your expenses up to 1855?—No, I cannot indeed.

51,771. Did you pay the subscriptions to the charities in the borough yourself?—Some I did; some slight extra thing that arose occasionally; not any thing regular, only an occasional thing that arose every now and then.

51,772. What sort of occasional thing did arise?—When they wanted to re-build their Independent chapel, and things of that kind.

51,773. For instance, the subscription of the plate at the races?—That was given by the duke.

51,774. Were you ever consulted as to the way the votes might be created on the property?—So far that when I walked round every now and then I used to see a field with a shed on it, and they told me that was another vote.

51,775. Did you see the field without the shed?—Very likely.

51,776. Did you suggest the erection of a shed?—No, I did not suggest the details; all I wanted was to come in.

51,777. You gave a general authority to your agent?—Well, you see in fact I had no management of the property, but when some persons were to come and have a field and vote for me I was very glad. I should have liked 500.

51,778. (Mr Coleridge.) Did you afterwards buy Gerston estate?—Yes, in 1850.

51,779. Was the same system pursued on that as on Bridgetown?—I believe it was before that.

51,780. Did you know that votes were made by making buildings on the land by Mr. Baldwin?—Yes, I believe it was.

51,781. Was it in consequence of that that they made them on yours?—Yes, they said they must meet them by others.

51,782. Can you explain the large increase of voters in Bridgetown? There were only 19 voters in Bridgetown when the Reform Bill passed, and in 1859 there were 1,866. Can you explain at all how those votes were created?—No; I know that when I first went round Bridgetown there were a great many houses that had not any votes; there were a great many inhabited by widows and other persons, and they had no votes.

51,783. Do you know whether any instructions were given to Mr. Thomas Michelmore to make a bargain with persons who took the houses as to how they should vote?—No, I did not know that any bargain was made.

51,784. Was it well understood that any person who did take a house belonging to the Duke of Somerset should vote for his candidate?—I should think so; when he took the house, they would say they were anxious to support the Liberal candidate. The only thing I would have been startled at was if the inn had been taken by a strong Tory.

51,785. Since 1855 you went on paying the expenses?—Yes, I went on much as before.

51,786. Have you yourself ever paid anything for registration expenses?—I may have contributed something, but that I cannot be certain of. I paid very little I know.

51,787 Did you ever happen to see that book (referring.) It contains an account of the registration expenses?—I do not think I ever saw this book. I see the "news room." I paid something for that room. There was a room over the arch there, and I paid for that, because I was anxious to have a reading room in the town, and I thought it a good thing.

51,788. As far as the actual registration expenses were concerned you never paid any?—Never.

51,789. In fact, they were paid by the duke and not by you?—I believe so. At the same time, if Mr. Michelmore had sent to me an account, and asked me to pay more, I should have done it, but I do not think I did.

51,790. Did you know that Mr. Shute was the agent to look after the registration, and paid a certain sum of money every year?—I know he was paid something, and he used to go about with me and show me where the voters lived.

51,791. You continued to pay those charges as your father did before?—Yes, and I thought if I had stopped that they would think I had taken advantage of them and thrown them over.

51,792. You paid those registration expenses up to 1863?—Yes, and I let the same thing go on.

51,793. What was the reason for the change in 1863, when Mr. Alfred Seymour became a member and began to pay the registration expenses himself?—I thought I had paid long enough, and I wanted rather to be more clear from being mixed up with the affairs of the town.

51,794. When you succeeded to the title in 1855 Lord Gifford succeeded you?—Yes, when I succeeded to the title I was asked by the committee here whether I had anyone to succeed me. I had not anyone, I told them that they must find one, and they said they had no one, and on looking about I was told that Lord Gifford would like to go into Parliament.

51,795. Had you a personal acquaintance with him before?—Yes, I knew him as a friend,—yachting, and so on.

51,796. You had a communication from the committee. Can you tell us from whom you received the communication?—I should think it was Mr. Windeatt, on the part of the Liberal party.

51,797. Have you a practice of keeping those communications?—No, I have not. I sent the other day to Mr. Michelmore to know what letters he had of mine to show anything about it, and the other letter he sent to me in 1863 says very little. I think that letter I wrote afterwards, just after the election.

51,798. In all probability you heard in 1855 from Mr. Windeatt?—I heard certainly from some of the committee, because I would not act without the Liberal party acted together in the town. I knew if we split we should be beaten.

51,799. After Lord Gifford was elected, did he write to you that it was desirable for the Liberals that your influence should be given not only to him but the other Liberal candidate?—I left the matters to Lord Gifford for him to do the best he could, and I was glad if he could conciliate such support as would bring him in, but he must manage it himself.

51,800. Did you happen to hear from him that he had united with the independent Liberal party?—Yes, that he could not get on without uniting.

51,801. And in order to carry out the purpose of that union he promised your support to the second Liberal candidate?—I suppose his uniting meant something of the kind, but I left it to him; I did not meddle.

51,802. Can you remember whether in 1852 you gave your support to Mr. Mills?—I do not think I did, but my supporters may have united whether I liked it or no.

51,803. Had you made up your mind whether to support Baldwin or Mills on that occasion?—I do not think I knew Mr. Mills at that time at all. Mr. Mills was at first represented as a very strong Radical. When he came into Parliament he seemed to be a very mild Liberal.

51,804. (Mr. Coleridge.) The election of 1852 was the first time that two Liberals had been returned since Mr. Baldwin came into the borough?—I think so.

51,805. And was not that in consequence of the votes on your side that were formerly split for the Tories being given separately for the Liberals?—I do not know that. I think Mr. Mills was a man they liked, and they made a great fight for him. That was the chief thing that brought him in.

51,806. As we have heard he spent a very large sum of money at his elections here?—It may be so. He was very popular. I suppose that was the reason.

51,807. (Mr. Bere.) You know the understanding between the two, with regard to the Liberal party, was that your influence should be considered entitled to nominate one candidate on the Liberal side, but that the independent party should have a right to nominate another?—They used to tell me always that they would keep one side for me, but I always had a contest all the same.

51,808. In 1857 Lord Gifford and Mr. Mills stood, and in 1859 Lord Gifford and Mr. Mills stood again. Your influence, I suppose, was given on those occasions to both Liberals?—Yes, I suppose so.

51,809. Did you audit your own accounts?—I did not then.

51,810. Who was the auditor of your accounts?—My agent in Wiltshire used to come up and examine them.

51,811. Mr. Festing?—Yes.

51,812. When Mr. Mills died were you consulted at all on the person who was to succeed him?—No.

51,813. But when Lord Gifford died I believe you were?—Yes, I had a proposal. They wanted first that I should let my son stand.

51,814. Whom do you mean by "they"?—Well, they had a meeting. I suppose some of the Liberal party. I suppose Mr. Windeatt was one of them.

51,815. Was the meeting here or in London?—Here I believe, but I am not certain.

51,816. You wrote two letters which have been put on the notes; those letters were written from the Admiralty?—Yes.

51,817. Would not that rather show that the interview took place in London between you and them?—No; I think it was an answer to some memorial or paper of some kind which they sent me up saying whom they wished to have for their member, and there were two or three names, and the first was they wished to have my son. I objected to my son; I thought it would mix me up too much. I thought I should never stop the zeal of my supporters if my son were elected, and I do not wish him to stand. Another person they mentioned was Lord John Hay, the brother of Lord Gifford, but he was in China; therefore he was out of the question.

51,818. And then there was Major Lyon?—Then they mentioned Major Lyon, but he was looking after some other constituency and would not come.

51,819. He stood for Marylebone, I believe?—Yes.

51,820. These two letters that have been put in were written the 21st and 23rd October to Mr. Michelmore?—Yes, I did write two letters which I have seen; they were read here, and I saw them in the newspaper.

51,821. With the exception of writing those two letters had you anything more to do with Mr. Seymour's election in 1863?—I saw Mr. Seymour, and told him that it must depend on himself; that he must come down, and if the Liberal party would take him up earnestly, they could probably carry him; but that must be left to him. I could not do more for him. The voters whom I could influence in the town were very few at any time.

51,822. But those whom your agents could influence were a great many, were not they?—We might have had many more than I know of; but the voters whom I could influence or whom I knew in Totnes were very few; they were only Bridgetown voters, and were comparatively very few. Out of 300 I had only about 50.

51,823. Do you know how many persons there were whose qualification was building and land, whose names were on the register in 1865?—I do not know. I have not watched the register.

51,824. Your agent, Mr. Jeffery Michelmore, has gone through it and finds there are 107?—I did not know I had so many votes on my side. I had not them when I stood here certainly.

51,825. (Mr. Coleridge.) Are you not aware that they were very much increased by the purchase of the Gerston property?—I suppose the fields at Gerston that used to vote for Mr. Baldwin were transferred and voted on the other side.

51,826. And, as we have heard, there was one company formed of 11 voters on one field?—That was the question which was tried, and was in the paper, and they were found to be good for nothing, I believe.

51,827. That was the 46 votes, another company, where they were bad?

51,827*a*. (Mr. Bere.) Those are the letters, I believe, which you wrote to Mr. Michelmore (handing the two letters to the witness)?—Those are the letters I wrote to Mr. Michelmore.

51,828. Did you know that Mr. Seymour came down at the time of Mr. Mills' death?—He may have mentioned it to me afterwards.

51,829. Did you know of it at the time he was coming down?—I should think not, but it is rather difficult, when we see people afterwards, to speak on oath of what we knew exactly at that moment. I should think I did not know it, because if I had known it I should have said it was very undesirable for him to go.

51,830. Why?—Because it would have been interfering with the seat of Mr. Mills.

51,831. Which you considered belonged to the independent Liberals?—They always claimed it, and I did not want to interfere with it.

51,832. Did you hear from him afterwards when he came down that he was informed that the independent Liberals did claim the seat, and that he was not the candidate they wanted?—He told me that afterwards.

51,833. Did you hear after the election of 1863 that a good many of your tenants had voted against Mr. Seymour?—No, I did not.

51,834. Did Mr. Michelmore never give you any information as to how they had voted?—No. He wrote me a letter and said he had been very much abused. I sent for my letters to him and found my answer upon that letter to Mr. Jeffery Michelmore. This letter was written after I received Mr. Michelmore's:—

"Admiralty, 28th January 1863.

Dear Mr. Michelmore,

Now that the election is over, you will, I suppose, be able to arrange for the purchase of Mr. Farwell's fields They will give the means of making a road and open building sites, otherwise the price is extravagant.

I do not doubt that feelings were excited and angry language used about the election. You have always found that, whatever way an election may end, you will always be accused either of using unjustifiable influence or else of not exerting yourself in favour of your own party, [because I had known him to be accused.] I had not time to read the newspapers, &c. forwarded to me, so that I do not know, as I do not care to know, what nonsense may have been said. I was glad to see that Totnes kept true to its previously avowed principles in politics, and was not drawn away by China tribute.

Have you got a tenant for the hotel all this time?

Yours very faithfully,

Somerset."

51,835. Does "China tribute" refer to Mr. Dent?—I suppose so; I forget now.

51,836. What fields of Farwell's were those?—

THIRTY-SEVENTH DAY.

Duke of Somerset.

31 Oct. 1866.

They wanted to make a roadway there on the land for building. There was no road.

51,837. Was that in Gerston?—No, Bridgetown.

51,838. Were the lands bought to make an access to those new villas that have been built?—No, to make an access to the land; there has not been building on it at all, I believe, yet.

51,839. You bought the Gerston property in 1860?—The Gerston property was put up for sale by auction, and my agent, Mr. Preston, wrote to me and said, the land adjoining mine would be a desirable purchase, that it had considerable political influence, and it would be in other respects a desirable purchase. I asked him what it would be worth, and when he told me that I asked Mr. Michelmore to attend the sale and not to bid beyond a certain price. Mr. Thomas Michelmore was at the sale room on the morning, and he was told there was to be no sale, the property was bought.

51,840. It had been sold by private contract to Mr. Phillips?—It was sold to Mr. Phillips.

51,841. After that did Mr. Phillips sell it to you?—Then something happened; Mr. Phillips was not satisfied, and he offered the property to me at what he had given for it.

51,842. Did he offer it to you at the price that you had directed Mr. Michelmore to give for it?—He did, less a hundred, or two hundred less than I had been advised to give for the property.

51,843. You agreed to buy it?—I agreed to purchase it, and then Mr. Phillips drew back.

51,844. I believe there was a little dispute, which was referred to Mr. Durant and Mr. Kekewich?—There was no dispute; I was told I could enforce my contract and oblige him to purchase. I said "I did not "wish to do that; I would refer it to any gentleman "that he liked, any one or more gentlemen in the "neighbourhood, and I should be satisfied with any "way that was right."

51,845. It was referred to Mr. Durant and Mr. Kekewich?—They settled it and he offered to sell it to me.

51,846. On that you completed the purchase?—On that I completed the purchase.

51,847. Were you aware of the establishments in Gerston before they were established?—No, I knew they were making votes in some way or other, but in what way they were doing it I do not know.

51,848. Mr. Michelmore did not communicate to you how they were managed?—Not the least.

51,849. At the end of 1863 did you have an interview with Mr. Michelmore at Stover about the borough of Totnes?—Yes; I think I saw him in 1863.

51,850. Was some intimation thrown out by you then that both seats should be at the disposal of the independent Liberals?—No, I did not want to interfere. I had no particular interest in the members that came in. Mr. Alfred Seymour is a distant connexion and a friend of mine, and I had no particular connexion with his coming in for Totnes, or any other person.

51,851. Did you intimate that your interest in the borough was practically gone, and you would not trouble yourself any more about the election?—I wished to withdraw because I was lord lieutenant of the county. I did not want to be mixed up with local disputes and questions.

51,852. (Mr. Longe.) You did not withdraw your authority from your agent who took part in canvassing?—No.

51,853. He had the same authority?—I did not tell him he was not to do anything.

51,854. He had the same authority as he always had to use the property in Bridgetown for political purposes?—I did not make any difference when I came to the title from what it was before. I left it just as it was. I did not attend much to it. I was busy more with the experiments about guns and ships than I was about the business in Totnes.

51,855. You were anxious to return a Liberal member, but not a particular member?—Yes, of course I should be glad to see a Liberal member come in because he would be a supporter of the Government.

51,856. (Mr. Bere.) Did you at that time intimate to Mr. Michelmore you would not be charged with any more of the registration expenses?—I think I told him we must get out of all that in some way or other. I do not know that I pressed for it immediately. I said I wanted to be out of it all.

51,857. Can you remember at all the language you used to Mr. Michelmore about the election in 1863, because there is an odd expression of Mr. Chaster's about the effect of your communication to Mr. Michelmore?—No; I do not remember more than the effect of the letter that was written in October, which was really that I did not wish then to nominate a member. I wished to leave the town to itself.

51,858. Was it October 1863 or November 1863 after Mr. Seymour's election?—I do not remember.

51,859. This is a letter written by Mr. Chaster to Mr. Pender on the 25th of November 1863, in which, among other matters, he says, "There are certain "matters of vital importance just turned up which "must be settled, and it can only be done satisfactorily "in the presence of Mr. Thomas Michelmore; he "has engagements the week named for your visit "which renders it impossible he can be at Totnes "till next year, and on your account, most especially, "I consider it a necessity he should be, and therefore "press the postponement. On Monday night he "asked myself and Mr. Cuming to meet him, and "he then made a communication from the duke of "so unexpected a character, and involving so many "considerations for the future, that it at once knocked "up the scheme for a separate committee in my "name, and created the necessity for another similar "one for the entire management of the whole "Liberal forces. I wish you were nearer to consult "upon the situation, which is a most delicate one, "and ought not to be committed to paper." Can you give us any explanation of the communication made by Mr. Michelmore to Mr. Chaster, which would produce such an impression on Mr. Chaster's mind?—No, I do not know what it could have been, except that I was not willing to continue payments to the extent that had been paid for registration. I suppose so.

51,860. Did you hear that many of your tenants had voted against Mr. Seymour on the election of 1863?—No, I did not. You mean tenants who held land, or do you mean the cottages in Bridgetown? I do not believe any of my tenants in Berry Pomeroy did.

51,861. No, not in Berry Pomeroy. Holders either of building or land or of houses in Bridgetown?—No, I did not.

51,862. Who were qualified as voters by houses and buildings or land, your property, had voted against Mr. Seymour, and voted for Mr. Dent?—In 1863?

51,863. In 1863?—No, I do not think I heard it.

51,864. Did Mr. Michelmore ever communicate to you the fact that he had caused notices to quit to be served upon all persons qualified as voters upon your land who had voted for Mr. Dent and not for Mr. Seymour?—No. He told me that he had given notice to quit to several men whom he knew had been taking bribes.

51,865. He did tell you that?—Yes.

51,866. Did he give you any notion at all how many he had given notice to quit to?—No. He said he had given notice to quit to some who had notoriously taken bribes.

51,867. Who told you that? Mr. Thomas Michelmore or Mr. Jeffery Michelmore?—It must have been Mr. Thomas Michelmore.

51,868. Did he also at that time happen to tell you how many people he had bribed himself?—No, he did not.

51,869. Did you inquire further into the matter of those notices?—No, I did not. They were notices applicable to people in Bridgetown who held the small houses there. I did not inquire further.

51,870. Did you know that in 1859 Mr. Kellock, the surgeon, had been turned out of land belonging to you, and that he had happened to vote for Mr. Dunn?—No, I did not know that.

51,871. Do you have the rent audit books sent up to you now?—Yes. I have the rent audit books sent up to me.

51,872. Books similar to these (referring)?—That sort of books. I had them sent up to me at the Admiralty.

51,873. This contains a list of the various fields that are let out, with the names of the tenants?—(Referring to a book) Yes.

51,874. Did you ever compare the list; for instance, for Lady-day 1865 with the list for Michaelmas 1864? Did you compare one list with the other?—I cannot say that I ever did. I cannot be certain that I ever opened the book. I was very busy. I had my rentals from different properties. They were sent to me. I have not time to look at them.

51,875. What I want to ask your Grace is, did you ever observe that the tenantry changed in the various fields, and changed rather abruptly?—No, I did not.

51,876. And not having observed it, you could not have asked the reason?—I did not observe it. I do not suppose I looked at the books more than at the sum total.

51,877. Do you know whether the account for registration expenses, which was sent in to you, ever had items similar to these which are entered in the accounts which were sent in to Mr. Alfred Seymour, such as "John Searle, for preventing the Tories getting possession of a house, 10*l*."?—No.

51,878. And "John Tozer, loan," and "J. T. O. Tope, for repairs of Diptford Cottage," and "James Rose, for window blinds," and "Thomas Bindon, gift in sickness." Did you happen to find such items in your registration account?—No.

51,879. As far as I can see from this list, they are all bonâ fide accounts connected with registration. I think in the beginning of 1863 you made Mr. Watson a magistrate, did you not?—In 1862 I had several letters from this place, saying there was a great want of magistrates. I had one, which I have brought with me, from Mr. Phillips. Mr. Phillips wrote me this letter on the 10th of June 1862:—"My Lord,—I venture to take the liberty of addressing you on the subject of magistrates for the division, of Stanborough and Coleridge. The river Dart is the boundary of this division and in the neighbourhood of Totnes there are only two magistrates, Mr. Durant and myself. As Mr. Durant is frequently in London there is sometimes a difficulty to form a bench. Mr. Champernowne, of Dartington, occupies a good position in the county, and will have no objection to act if placed in the commission of the peace. Mr. Durant is equally anxious as myself to have the assistance of Mr. Champernowne." To that I wrote, I would take him into consideration the next list I sent up to the Lord Chancellor, and I did accordingly.

51,880. When was the next list that you sent up, do you remember?—I think it must have been the autumn of 1862.

51,881. The autumn of 1862?—Yes.

51,882. Mr. Watson's name did not appear in the list, I think?—No. Mr. Watson I had further letters about, stating that the gentlemen went away, and they had a great difficulty with the magistrates. I tried to get Mr. Stanley Cary to be a magistrate, but he declined,

51,883. He is a magistrate now, I think?—Yes; he subsequently agreed to be, but he declined then, and I was recommended to make Mr. Watson a magistrate, and I did so accordingly.

51,884. I had better put this question to your Grace. Was there any communication made to you that Mr. Watson wished to be a magistrate, and he ought to be made one, because he came back from France to vote for Mr. Seymour in 1863?—No, certainly not; nothing of the kind.

51,885. (Mr. Coleridge.) There is just one question I want to ask your Grace about that letter of Mr. Chaster's. We have had that explained, that "the delicate state of things" referred to was that you gave up all interest in the borough as regards claiming one member, and as far as regards the payment of expenses; was there any agreement with Mr. Michelmore as to that, that you had given up your right to interfere?—I told Mr. Michelmore, as I said before, I did not want to interfere in the town, I wanted to keep clear of it.

51,886. Up to that time it was the habit to send Mr. Seymour down. When he was sent down to fill Mr. Mill's vacancy, you say he was wrong to come down, as the ducal candidate ought not to interfere with the independent candidate?—They were careful of their member. I do not know that they were as equally careful of mine.

51,887. Was the letter to which Mr. Chaster has referred to the effect that there should be no nominee of either one party or the other, but that the Liberal party should be all merged into one?—I meant to withdraw from interfering in the town as nearly so as I possibly could.

51,888. So much so, that if on a future occasion the Liberal member should vacate his seat in any way, there should not be a question as to whether the person who came forward was a connexion of yours or not?—There was not a connexion of mine before. Lord John Hay was no connexion of mine. He was the brother-in-law of Lord Gifford, and it was out of consideration for him that they proposed to take him up, and they would have taken him up if Lord John Hay had not been out in China.

51,889. They would not have taken him if he had been a connexion of yours?—No.

51,890. The old contention between the ducal candidate and the independent member ceased to exist?—Yes.

51,891. And that is probably what Mr. Chaster referred to in that letter to Mr. Pender?—Yes.

51,892. (Mr. Bere.) Did you at any time give instructions to your agent, Mr. Michelmore, as to the way he was to use his influence with your tenants?—No, I do not think I did. Mr. Michelmore had been more than 20 years with me; he had known how I had carried on my elections. I had always been at the head of the poll, and I had always had large majorities, and those majorities did not consist of my people, or those under my influence. The people in this town voted for me, and I left it for him to go on in the same way.

51,893. Did you know, at the time you were member, that Mr. Michelmore used all his influence for you?—No; except this, that one knows in the zeal of an election that everybody does not only what he ought to do but sometimes a good deal more.

51,894. (Mr. Longe.) In letting land to electors in Bridgetown, did your Grace ever authorize your agent to impose these terms, that the party should vote for the ducal candidate or the independent candidate?—No.

51,895. Because we had a case yesterday of a man who had an orchard of 3*l*. a year; that would not give him a vote, and in taking it from Mr. Michelmore he was told he must give one vote for the Liberal candidate?—I did not give any such instructions. I was not surprised to hear that Mr. Michelmore did that, as long as I was member. He was naturally anxious to bring me in.

51,896. (Mr. Bere.) And when you ceased to be member, he was very anxious to keep the seat for two Liberals?—Yes. He had not the same anxiety for me then; I understand not.

51,897. Did you know Mr. Pender before he came down here?—No, I never saw Mr. Pender. I saw him at some gun experiment at Shoeburyness.

51,898. Have you had any communication with him since he has been member?—No. He came to me once about a school, about the site he promised to give for it. He called to see me upon it, to see if he could arrange about it. I believe that is the only time I ever saw him or anything connected with Totnes.

THIRTY-SEVENTH DAY.

Duke of Somerset.

31 Oct. 1866.

51,899. Were you ever asked to interfere in any way with the Ashburton election?—No, never.

51,900. There is a letter which was produced here on Monday, written by Mr. John Abel Smith, the member for Chichester, to Mr. Tucker of Ashburton, with whom, I dare say, you are acquainted?—Yes.

51,901. And it ends by saying, "I saw the Duke "of Somerset to-day. He will write at once to "Michelmore." Do you remember seeing Mr. John Abel Smith about the Ashburton election at all?—Yes. I did see Mr. John Abel Smith about the election, and he asked me if I could do anything. I told him I had no interest in Ashburton at all.

51,902. Did not he tell you that some of your tenents were voters for Ashburton?—Yes. He said he thought some of my tenants at Stover had taken land in the borough of Ashburton.

51,903. Did he also tell you that some of your tenants in Bridgetown, had done the same thing?—No. Some of my tenants at Stover did, I believe.

51,904. Stover is within seven miles of Ashburton? Stover, I believe, is within seven miles.

51,905. Did you write to Mr. Michelmore, do you remember?—I think not; I do not think I ever wrote to Mr. Michelmore at all about it; I think not.

51,906. You were aware that at elections, when you were yourself at Stover, there was money spent in bribing on the other side?—I think so. I can only tell you rumours, and the rumours of Totnes, as you see, are so various that I cannot trust them.

51,907. Did you ever know before or after that that money had been spent on your behalf in bribery, either by Mr. Michelmore or by anybody else?—I believe not. I took every pains to avoid bribery and treating as much as possible.

59,908. Did you ever hear that money had been spent in any way on your behalf?—No.

51,909. (Mr. Coleridge.) You have never had the immense bills sent you from the "Seymour Arms" that Mr. Seymour and Mr. Pender had sent to them for people staying there, and so on?—No, my hotel bills were a very few pounds, because I used to live at Follaton House, Mr. Stanley Cary's. I avoided living in the town as much as I could, not on account of the bills, but on account of people calling on me so continually.

51,910. (Mr. Longe.) Did you ever request Mr. Michelmore or any of your agents not to evict a man unless he was proved to be guilty of taking a bribe?—No; but I understand from what he told me that the only persons he did send out were people who not only had taken bribes, but who had boasted of it entirely.

51,911. That is not exactly what we find to be the case?—That is my impression.

51,912. (Mr. Bere.) Did you ever receive any complaint from a voter who had been turned out?—I do not think I ever got a letter from a voter that was turned out.

51,913. (Mr. Coleridge.) You have been asked about the instructions you gave to Mr. Michelmore. I understand you found such a state of things existing when you came to the title that you interfered, and gave instructions to alter the position of affairs?—No; I left things to go on as before.

51,914. You gave no fresh instructions?—No. There is one remark I should wish to be permitted to make; I saw it stated in the newspapers that I had used all the patronage I had at the Admiralty to promote my interest in this town. Now, I cannot remember, during the seven years that I was at the Admiralty, that I did more than give one young man an opportunity to compete for a dockyard writership or clerkship.

51,915. (Mr. Bere.) Do you remember the young man's name?—I think his name was Evens.

51,916. The son of Mr. Evan Evens?—Of a man who had voted for me.

51,917. (Mr. Coleridge.) He had voted against you generally.

(The Witness.) I did not know that. That is about the extent of my patronage.

51,918. (Mr. Bere.) Did you receive a letter from Mr. Dent after the election of 1863?—I think not.

51,919. Complaining of the large sum which had been spent in bribery at Totnes?—I think not; I do not remember it.

51,920. There has been a statement made that Mr. Dent did write to you?—I do not remember it.

51,921. You do not remember any such letter?—No; I do not remember acknowledging it or anything about it.

51,922. If you can find any other letters of importance, will you be good enough to let us have them?—Yes. If I had heard from you when I was at Stover, I would have looked to see if there were any. With regard to Gerston, those letters were all thrown away. As soon as I heard that Mr. Phillips had bought the property I threw the particulars of the estate and the whole thing into the waste paper basket. It was all at an end.

51,923. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you recollect receiving a letter after the election of 1863, which was subsequently published in the "Standard" and commented on there?—From whom?

51,924. From Mr. Dent?—No, I did not.

51,925. A letter which Mr. Dent wrote to you, which was published in the "Standard," complaining of bribery at Totnes?—I think not.

51,926. To which Mr. Dent seems to have largely contributed himself?—When Mr. Dent and Mr. Pender met it was very fatal to a town like this.

51,927. You do not recollect a letter being published in the "Standard" addressed to you?—I should not have read it; I had not time to do so.

T. Bryett.

THEODORE BRYETT recalled and further examined.

51,928. (Mr. Bere.) Can you give the Commissioners any information relative to the object of this inquiry?—You will allow me perhaps to make a short statement as to my first coming to Totnes. I came here in the month of January 1842 and entered into partnership with Mr. Charles Edwards. At that time I was politically concerned for Mr. Barry Baldwin, and continued to do so up to the time of our dissolution in 1848, but I took no part in politics. During the time I was in partnership with Mr. Edwards, I think in the year 1847, was the first contested election, and as to that I did nothing more than merely attend to one of the booths and thank the voters on behalf of Lord Seymour. I dissolved partnership with Mr. Edwards and continued to act for Mr. Baldwin: the first election that I was concerned for him was in 1852, when I conducted the election for Mr. Baldwin; the next election was in 1857.

51,929. (Mr. Coleridge.) Before you leave 1852, what did that cost you?—I happen to have found a rough account with reference to the expenditure at the election.

51,930. He was beaten at that election?—Yes. I find by an old rough bill book that Mr. Baldwin in 1852 remitted me on the 27th March 20*l.*; on the 24th May, 50*l.*; and in June 200*l.*; and afterwards 300*l.*; making 570*l.*

51,931. Was any money remitted you by any one else on his behalf?—Not a farthing.

51,932. What did the election before cost him?—I know nothing of former elections.

51,933. Did he ever tell you what the place cost him altogether?—I never had any conversation with him.

51,934. It cost him all that he had got?—It was something enormous from all that I have heard. I cannot say what occurred before I came here. I was told that he gave 2,000*l.* more for Gerston than it was really worth; he gave 16,000*l.* for it, and his connexion with Totnes had in fact beggared him.

51,935. (Mr. Bere.) Was 570*l.* all the money that passed through your hands at that election?—That was the whole of the money I had up to that time. There were different expenses I paid for Mr. Baldwin to the amount of 303*l.* After the election I recovered a sum of 150*l.* in an action I brought against Mr. Hannaford, who refused to give up the author of a libel in his paper. I also had a sum of 70*l.* I was informed it had been the habit of leaving the expenditure of monies for members in the hands of a finance committee, and that committee arose out of jealousy, or an imputation that the monies of Mr. Baldwin had not been fairly dealt with. After that, with the exception of the 300*l.*, I handed over all the money in my hands to the finance committee, and let them have more money for the election. On the very same day that the election was over and Mr. Baldwin was rejected, to my surprise I was told that all the money I had given to the committee had been expended. Not having a farthing in hand, I was out of pocket.

51,936. (Mr. Coleridge.) You had nothing to meet the legal expenses?—No; had I not recovered the 150*l.*, damages I should have been out of pocket that sum myself.

51937. Was that a libel on yourself, or on Mr. Baldwin?—On Mr. Baldwin.

51,938. What was the effect of it?—It referred to former transactions in the borough impugning the moral character of Mr. Baldwin particularly. I daresay Mr. Hannaford can tell you more about it than I can. It reflected on his character to such a fearful extent that I sent a copy of it to Mr. Baldwin, and the result was that the action was brought.

51,939. Mr. Hannaford refused to give up the author of the libel?—Yes, he did.

51,940. Did you hear what Mr. Mills spent at that election; I do not mean legal expenses?—I heard generally that he spent a very large sum.

51,941. There was a good deal of bribery then?—An immense deal.

51,942. Did you find that many voters who had promised you during your canvass were going against you?—Yes, up to the time of the election I considered that we should have the support of Lord Seymour's voters, but when the election took place I found that instead of going as I expected they all voted against us.

51,943. That was the first time that the compact by which Lord Seymour gave his second votes to the Tories was broken?—Yes.

51,944. In Mr. Ricardo's year it had been kept up, and Mr. Michelmore had used it strongly then; that was the first time it was broken?—Yes.

51,945. From that day no Tory has ever been elected?—No.

51,946. In 1857 what had you to do with the election?—That was when Mackenzie and Gregory came down. I was then acting for Mr. Mackenzie; and on that occasion I received a retainer of 25*l.* from the election agent. That was the only retainer I ever received.

51,947. You had no retainer from Mr. Baldwin in 1852?—I had a personal regard for Mr. Baldwin. I had occasionally come across him. I did not value my professional services. I acted in a friendly capacity. I was 27*l.* or 28*l.* out of pocket by his election.

51,948. Did you act for Mr. Mackenzie separately from Mr. Gregory?—Yes.

51,949. Had you separate committees then?—Mr. Kellock and I were acting for Mr. Mackenzie; Mr. Edmonds for Mr. Gregory.

51,950. What did it cost Mr. Mills?—I am not aware. Mr. Mills had an election agent to attend to the matter,—Mr. Snell. No question of money ever came before me. I acted strictly in a professional capacity. I am not aware that I spent any money.

51,951. Mr. Mills spent a good deal of money in bribery at that time?—Yes.

51,952. Did Lord Gifford spend any money at that time?—I should think not. The other party would be glad to have the assistance of Lord Seymour's tenantry, and it was not necessary for them to spend any money.

51,953. Until the contest between Lord Seymour and Mr. Dent the ducal candidate could have been returned free of any money?—No doubt of that.

51 954. Since the alteration in the circumstances more money has been required?—Yes, much more.

51,955. You cannot tell us what money was spent in 1857?—If there was any money spent in bribery I was not aware of it.

51,956. In 1859 Mr. Dunn came forward as the Conservative candidate?—Yes.

51,957. Did you act for him?—Merely in a friendly capacity. As the former Conservative candidates had been unsuccessful, both Mr. Edmonds, Mr. Kellock, and myself, agreed to act for him in a friendly capacity, and not to receive any retainer.

51,958. Do you know what it cost Mr. Dunn?—At that election I believe there was a most disgraceful amount of bribery.

51,959. On the part of Mr. Mills, or Mr. Mills and Lord Gifford?—I do not pretend to know much of Mr. Mills. I heard from report that he had spent a large sum; and I believe Mr. Dunn spent an enormous sum. He had his own solicitor here from London. Mr. Cameron and a man who attended to the bribery for him of the name of Higgins.

51,960. Mrs. Dunn was down here then, was she not?—Yes, and took a very active part in it.

51,961. (Mr. Bere.) And Snell was here also?—There was a man of that name here who was the son of the Snell who was down here in Mackenzie's time; not the same man.

51,962. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know where he is now?—I have no idea.

51,963. Is the man who was down here at Mackenzie's election alive?—That I do not know; I know nothing about those people.

51,964. That was the last time you acted?—That was the last time, and I made up my mind never to be concerned in any election again.

51,965. Did you know this man Higgins who was down here in 1859?—I did not. I may have seen him occasionally when he has been pointed out to me. I had nothing to do with retaining his services. I remember he was pointed out to me as a man of the name of Higgins.

51,966. Did he ever tell you who had sent him down here?—No; I never had any conversation with him.

51,967. Did you ever hear from Mr. Dunn what that election cost him?—No, only from what I have heard. I found then that corruption had grown to a fearful extent at Totnes; that in the Conservative party men whose support I had relied on refused to vote.

51,968. You had nothing to do with Mr. Dent's election?—Since that time I have not taken the slightest interest in it.

51,969. From what you had discovered when you ran one member against the two, do you believe that a contest could have been carried on so close as it was between Mr. Dent and Mr. Seymour without an immense amount of money being spent on the Conservative side?—It could not.

51,970. In 1863 had you anything to do with the election?—No. Since Mr. Dunn's time I have never interested myself in it at all; not in the most indirect way.

51,971. In 1847, at Mr. Ricardo's election, I suppose you voted then?—Yes.

51,972. During the time that that arrangement was in force between the duke and the Conservatives, used you to vote one for the duke and one for the Conservatives?—Yes, I think all the Conservatives, with very few exceptions, gave one vote to Lord Seymour.

51,973. And he was returned as the member for the town, not as the representative of any particular party so long as that agreement subsisted?—Just so.

51,974. (Mr. Bere.) Mr. Cameron was down here for Mr. Dunn in 1859?—Yes.

51,975. He was down here for some time, was he not?—Yes.

51,976. First of all, he was down here for nine days?—I do not know the time.

51,977. First of all, from the 12th of April to the 20th; then he came again on the 25th, and stayed until the 4th of May?—I do not remember the dates; he was here during the whole time Mr. Dunn was here.

51,978. And during that time were you in constant communication with him?—I used to see him occasionally at the "Stars." I was obliged to take the active part; Mr. Kellock took very little part, and Mr. Edmonds had been in practice only a short time, therefore all the working part devolved upon me.

51,979. Was that the first time that Mr. Edmonds had been employed?—I think it was.

51,980. Did you not know that money was passing at that time amongst the Conservatives?—I believed as much from what I heard of the way in which many Conservatives refused to vote without being paid. I have no doubt that a large sum of money was spent.

51,981. Have you had nothing to do with distributing money?—Certainly not; and for this simple reason, that if I endeavoured to get a client of mine into Parliament I was not going to do any single act that would afterwards oust him.

51,982. Had either of your clerks anything to do with it?—Certainly not. They may have acted in the capacity of poll clerks.

51,983. How many clerks had you at that time?—I had gone out of partnership with Mr. Edwards, and was in business by myself; the chances are that I had only one, or one and a boy.

51,984. Who was your clerk then?—At that time, I think, young Mr. W. H. Oldrey.

51,985. The one who is now in London?—Yes.

51,986. Do you know a man of the name of Corney, the parish clerk?—I merely know him by sight. I have spoken to him. He has collected my subscriptions for the church. Beyond that I have had no conversation with him.

51,987. He voted against you in 1859?—I did not know that. I recollect hearing of a circumstance connected with him and Mr. Evan Evens.

51,988. What was that?—I heard that Corney had agreed to vote for the Conservatives, and that Mr. Evens had left a sum of money at his house, which he afterwards brought back.

51,989. Which he brought back to the committee room and left it there in your presence?—Not in my presence, certainly not, at that election; I never saw even a shilling.

51,990. Then this account is incorrect, "Q. What did "you do with the money you got back?—A. I took it to "the committee. Q. To whom did you pay it?—A. I "put it on the table; Mr. Bryett was the professional "man there conducting the business. Q. Was Mr. Kel-"lock there?—A. I cannot say; I recollect Mr. Bryett "had the principal conduct of the election"?—In Dunn's time I had the management of the election; but so far as money matters were concerned I most distinctly swear I had nothing to do with them.

51,991. Then he goes on, "Q. You are quite sure he "was there when you put the money down?—A. I am "quite sure, because he called me over to him"?—I most positively swear that during the whole of the election I never saw a farthing of money in any way whatever.

51,992. Did you yourself canvass any voters at that election?—The principal part of the work was thrown on me. No doubt I saw the principal part of the voters with Mr. Dunn.

51,993. You made up the poll-book at that election?—Yes.

51,994. There has been something said about a man of the name of Sampson?—All these voters who were dealt with were dealt with behind my back. All that I did was to make up the poll; so and so will vote for the Conservatives, and I made an entry accordingly. That is all I had to do with it.

51,995. Do you know John Sampson?—I know there is such a person in the town, a grocer.

51,996. His house was mortgaged?—I heard of it afterwards. I think Mr. Huxham had a mortgage on his house, but that has been paid off. I think that was done through Mr. Edmonds.

51,997. That was done in 1863?—I thought it had been in 1859.

51,998. Did you hear that Mr. Helms advanced the money to pay off that mortgage?—The transaction that you refer to about Mr. Helms was a further charge on the house of 150*l.*; that was not the original mortgage.

51,999. The end of it was that the mortgage was transferred to you?—To my great surprise Mr. Mitchell, who I believe acted as the agent of Mr. Dent, wrote down here to ask me if I would receive the rent of that portion of the property here which was under lease to him, and as there appeared to me no reason why I should object to it, I told him that I would do so. Then Mr. Helms brought me this further charge which had been made to him, and said, as you are receiving the rent for Mr. Dent, and as he is in a very delicate state of health, and about to go away, it will be better to transfer this mortgage to you for him.

52,000. And do you hold that mortgage now?—Yes, I do; but I merely hold it as a trustee for Mr. Dent.

52,001. Have you ever heard from Mr. Dent since the election of 1863?—Not from him directly.

52,002. Do you receive the rents now?—I do.

52,003. Have you had any direct communication with Mr. Dent?—I have not heard from him personally. I must say that I never spoke to him more than twice, once when I was introduced to him at the "Seven Stars," and on another occasion when I met him at a dinner party.

52,004. When you have received these rents, what have you been in the habit of doing with them, have you paid them into the bank?—I have paid to the landlord those which I have received, to Mr. Farwell for the cotton property, and the other rents which I have received from Broomborough I have paid over to the executors.

52,005. In fact Mr. Dent was only the lessee of this property, I believe?—That is so, he was merely the lessee.

52,006. Held for a term of 70 years and upwards, was not that so?—I think so.

52,007. During your management did he make any profit on the land?—No; the reverse.

52,008. Was it for him or against him?—When I saw him last there was a balance owing from him, and I sent up to his house, and Mr. Finch, in London, his solicitor, sent me a cheque for the balance.

52,009. Do you not remember Mr. Dunn being very angry at having spent so much money?—From my communication he always seemed in such an excited state, and I do not think he said anything one way or the other.

52,010. At a certain period on the day of the election, was he or was he not very angry?—I do not know.

52,011. Was not that the reason that he lost the election?—I do not know.

52,012. You were looking after the poll?—Yes.

52,013. Do you remember whether the run was very close about 2 o'clock that day?—I recollect making up the poll, and there was Mr. Harris, the landlord of the "Stars" at that time, and he and I went over the poll at that time, and the majority we could see was seven; that was I think the night before the election, and I thought it my duty to call the attention of Mr. Dunn and Mr. Cameron to it; I really felt that it was still an uncertain result, however they were so excited about it that they were determined to go on.

52,014. Do you think that Mr. Dunn would win by seven?—That was the only majority that we could make for him, and that majority of seven was by looking at it very favourably.

52,015. Was not there a close run about 2 o'clock between him and Mr. Mills?—It has so faded from my mind now, that I must consider that on the day of the election there was a great deal of excitement going on; Mrs. Dunn was in a dreadfully excited state, and she would give any amount of money; and this Mr. Snell that you refer to was only retained a day or two before, and he made himself very busy; but by the middle of the day the election was going, because many who promised voted against us.

52,016. Are you sure it was early in the middle of the day that you found the election was gone?—I do not recollect.

52,017. Did you ever hear that Mr. Mills had been met on the bridge at 2 o'clock on the day of the election, and asked about the state of the poll, and was informed that it would be a close fight; and he then inquired whether it could be won, and he was informed that it might be won by the expenditure of a great deal of money, and on his receiving that explanation, his saying it must be won?—No, I never heard so.

52,018. Considering that you made out a majority of seven, were you not surprised that Mr. Mills had a majority of 17?—No, those who gave us direct promises voted against us.

52,019. Have you any doubt that those persons who voted against you were influenced by money?—None in the world.

THIRTY-SEVENTH DAY.

T. Bryett.

31 Oct. 1866.

52,020. Did not you have some communication with Mr. Cameron about the election?—No, I think not.

52,021. Used you not to see Mr. Cameron when here, and talk over and discuss with him the prospects of Mr. Dunn?—I used to meet him occasionally in the "Stars" hotel when he was there. I was not there much with him, because I should tell you there were other persons who took a very active part in the election besides myself. I merely attended to the professional part, but there were many persons who took an active part with whom Mr. Cameron used to consult as to the voters generally.

52,022. What room used you to occupy?—I think the large room over the gateway.

52,023. The bow-window room?—Yes.

52,024. Used Mr. Cameron to be in the little room, No. 6?—No, that room was not occupied at that time. I think it was then used as a bedroom.

52,025. Where used Mr. Cameron to be?—Mr. Dunn used to keep the other large room at the end of the stairs. That was his private room, and Mr. Cameron used to be principally with him.

52,026. Did you ever hear from Mr. Cameron what sum of money Mr. Dunn spent?—I do not think I did.

52,027. I do not mean in pounds, shillings, and pence, but did you hear whether it was 1,000*l.* or 4,000*l.*?—I should imagine that he must have spent 4,000*l.*

52,028. Mr. Dunn is dead?—Yes.

52,029. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know Mrs. Dunn's direction?—No.

52,030. It was somewhere near the Isle of Wight?—She was then near Southampton.

MR. EVAN EVENS recalled and further examined.

Mr. E. Evens.

52,031. (Mr. Bere.) Do you remember a transaction in 1859 about Mr. Corney?—Yes.

52,032. Do you remember getting the money back?—Yes.

52,033. And taking the money to the "Seven "Stars"?—Yes.

52,034. What did you do with it?—Put it on the table, not the large room that Mr. Bryett has described, but the other large room on the left.

52,035. Who was there?—The gentlemen who had the general management of the election.

52,036. Who was that?—Mr. Bryett was one.

52,037. He was there?—Yes.

52,038. Are you quite certain he was there?—Yes.

52,039. Can you mention the name of any one else who was there?—All who were engaged in the election were there.

52,040. Do you remember who took up the money?—No, I left the room immediately.

52,041. Did anybody speak to you about the money?—Yes, they said "Well, Mr. Evens, how about Corney?" and I said "What is the matter?" They said "He has been and voted." I said "What do you say?" and I took up my hat and went to his house and demanded the money.

52,042. After you had the money and brought it back, did anybody say anything to you about it?—I came back immediately and went to the room and put down the money, and I said "There gentlemen, there "is your money," and Mr. Dunn and one or two others said "Well done, Evens."

52,043. Was it money loose upon the table?—I think it was in an envelope, and it appeared to be much in the same position as when I delivered it.

52,044. Was it in gold or notes?—I think in notes.

52,045. When Mr. Corney gave you that, did he tell you what he had got from the other side?—No, his daughter gave it to me.

52,046. (Mr. Longe.) When you were last examined you said that Mr. Bryett had said something about his rumours and had come into your shop and shaken hands with you?—That was Mr. Corney.

(Mr. Bryett.) I am satisfied that I never saw the money. He might have brought it back, but I did not see it. He told me the particulars of the transaction in his own shop.

(The witness.) I have not the slightest doubt about it. Mr. Bryett was there, and he asked me "How "about Corney?" I went and brought it back, and I said "There is your money, I never allow any one to "beat me."

52,047. (Mr. Coleridge.) He might have seen the envelope and not the money?—Yes, I said "Gentle-"men, there is the money, I never was beaten by "any one yet."

MR. BRYETT recalled and further examined.

Mr. T. Bryett.

52,048. (Mr. Bere.) You are aware that a large sum of money was spent by Mr. Dunn?—Yes.

52,049. Were you aware of it at the time?—I have no doubt of it from the statements, that persons who refused their vote were being paid, and I knew that a large sum was spent.

52,050. Had you anything to do with it?—No.

52,051. Had you anything to do with cashing the cheques?—No; but I know that Mr. Cameron asked me for 100*l.*, and he paid it afterwards.

52,052. When was that?—I think before the polling day, and he asked me for 100*l.*, and I gave him a cheque, and he repaid me afterwards.

52,053. How long?—I think about a week afterwards.

52,054. Do you know what it was? Did you

THIRTY-SEVENTH DAY.

Mr. T. Bryett.

1 Oct. 1866.

know what it was going to be spent in?—I concluded for the purposes of the election, for bribery.

52,055. Did he tell you that money was running short?—He said, "Can you let me have 100*l.*?" and I did.

52,056. Did not you have reports made to you that voters were still hesitating to promise for the Conservatives?—No doubt reports were brought to me by people who were interested in the election, because many persons in the town take an interest. For instance, people like Mr. Evens take an interest in the election, and many come and tell me so-and-so will come and vote for so-and-so, or against us, and I make my poll accordingly.

52,057. Did not you know that certain influences were being used on particular individuals?—I had no doubt.

52,058. For instance, Corney?—I do not recollect the circumstance about Corney at all. I am satisfied that Corney told me the particular circumstance after the election was over, and I recollect being in his shop and talking over the election, and he then told me the circumstance of it.

52,059. You had the principal management of this election, and did not you know that sums were being expended on bribery?—No doubt money was being spent in bribery, but any of the sums I did not know.

52,060. You did not think that you could manage the election successfully without it?—Certainly, and I believe Mr. Dunn at that moment was spending a large sum.

M. Fox.

MARK FOX sworn and examined.

52,061. (Mr. Longe.) What are you?—A grocer.

52,062. Where do you live?—Dartmouth.

52,063. How do you have a vote for Totnes?—On some lands at Bridgetown.

52,064. Do you know where those lands are?—Yes.

52,065. Where are they?—At the back of the "Seymour" hotel, on the bank of the river, part of them.

52,066. Who occupies them?—I do not know who at present.

52,067. You do not know, and never did?—I never had any of my own cattle there.

52,068. (Mr. Bere.) Have you ever had any of your own cabbages there?—Yes, once.

52,069. (Mr. Longe.) When did you first get put on the register?—I think somewhere about 1863 or 1864.

52,070. Who asked you to join this company?—Mr. Rees.

52,071. What for?—For the purpose of making votes for the borough of Totnes.

52,072. Are you a strong partisan?—A very strong Radical.

52,073. And that is why they got you, I suppose?—Yes, no doubt about it.

52,074. You voted once, I think?—Only once.

52,075. Did you take any part in canvassing this last election?—Yes.

52,076. Were you not here before the election?—Only the day of polling.

52,077. You took an active part on that day?—Not at all.

52,078. Did not you see a man named Sloggett?—I may possibly have done, I am not aware that I did.

52,079. Had not you anything to do with him?—No.

52,080. Did you take any part whatever in the giving of money to any voter?—No, I never saw any.

52,081. Did you get any yourself, either before or after the election?—Never, not so much as my expenses.

52,082. Some of the Totnes voters live at Dartmouth?—Yes.

52,083. (Mr. Bere.) Did you receive instructions to go and canvass them?—No.

52,084. Do you mean to say that you never saw a man called Sloggett at Dartmouth?—Not to my knowledge. I do not know the man.

52,085. Do you know John Parnell Searle?—Yes, quite well.

52,086. Did you see him before the election?—I did not immediately before the election. I have seen him on occasions.

52,087. Did he tell you he was not quite certain which way he was going to vote?—Never.

52,088. Did you intimate to him that it might still be a good thing for him to keep so?—No.

52,089. Did you have anything to do with offering money?—Never.

52,090. Or with influencing any man either directly or indirectly?—Never.

52,091. Did you never receive any money for your own vote?—No, not my own expenses.

52,092. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you have the paying of any one else's expenses?—No.

52,093. Did you have anything to do with a man called Veasey?—I never saw the man that I know of.

52,094. Though not a voter before 1865 had not you been up at earlier elections?—Yes, I have been there.

52,095. Did not you have something to do with John Parnell Searle in 1863?—Never.

52,096. At any time?—I had nothing at all to do with his voting at all.

52,097. Are you a relation of his?—No.

52,098. A great friend of yours?—No.

52,099. A customer of yours?—Not particularly, he might buy something.

52,100. You had not anything to do with him about his vote; had you anything at all to do with him about January 1863?—Never in the slightest way.

52,101. Did he owe you any money at that time?—No, I was generally in his debt, I should keep the right side of that gentleman.

52,102. Did you ever pay him any money at all?—Never under any circumstances.

M. Angel.

MARCUS ANGEL sworn and examined.

52,103. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you?—An ironmonger.

52,104. How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—I have only voted once, I think, that is the last occasion.

52,105. On what qualification?—My house.

52,106. When did you vote?—The last time was the first time.

52,107. Whom did you vote for?—Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim.

52,108. What did you get for it?—Nothing.

52,109. Not at all?—No.

52,110. Were you offered anything on either side?—No.

52,111. Did you have any present after the election?—No, not in any shape or form.

52,112. Did you give anybody any money?—No.

52,113. Were you asked to bribe anybody?—No.

52,114. You had nothing to do with it?—Nothing at all.

52,115. Were you at the "Seven Stars" during the election?—Not once.

52,116. Did you see money going about then?—No.

52,117. Were you never asked to go into a mysterious side room?—No.

52,118. You never say any mysterious stranger?—No.

52,119. Have you directly or indirectly influenced anybody in any way to vote at the last election?—No, I never did in my life.

52,120. Did you ever either directly or indirectly receive any benefit for your vote?—No, not a farthing.

52,121. (Mr. Bere.) You did not vote in 1863?—No, I had no vote here then.

52,122. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you vote at the municipal elections?—Yes.

52,123. Did you get anything for that?—No.

52,124. Did you ever give anybody anything?—No; I did not trouble myself at all with anything of the kind.

JOHN ENDLE recalled. J. Endle.

52,125. (Mr. Bere.) Have you that list of the Gerston Company now?—Yes, I have.

The witness handed in the list, a copy of which follows.

52,128. Nothing at all?—No. I never had anything to do with them.

(Mr. Chaster.) Mr. Endle having been examined, I tender those papers to you which I found a day or two since relating to the establishment of those companies, and the guarantees of the members.

"28, Pall Mall,
"MY DEAR SIR, "25th February 1864.

"I HAVE been intending this pleasure for some time, but on account of my rather protracted indisposition and orders from the doctor to do as little work as possible, I fear I have procastinated more than I ought to have done. I am now quite better, and on my return last night from Manchester I found your favour of the 23rd. I am most anxious to see the company you refer to established, and shall give it my most hearty support, as I believe it is the proper step to take for the suppression of that corruption which has so long disgraced the borough. I hope Mr. Cuming will only take it up in the proper spirit and treat it as a matter of business more than a political move, and I have no fear of the result. The company must be formed under the Limited Liability Act. The land must be leased by the directors and managed in the way you indicate. Rents must be strictly looked after and collected, otherwise it will be only a new system of corrupting, and which neither you nor myself would deliberately enter upon. Mr. Seymour is not in town until Saturday, but we have talked over the business, and while he highly approves of the scheme he is averse to come under a large personal responsibility. I see no necessity for this, and as the matter is a local one if you will kindly call the committee together and frame a prospectus I have no doubt but Mr. Seymour will join me in giving it all the support you can wish from us. Kindly send me the advertisement of the Totnes living, and I will look after it: I think it is worth securing. I am told that Mr. Dent is dangerously ill, and now on the Continent, but another man will be found when the time comes equally lavish and foolish. To prevent such men you must make it too expensive for them, and this you may do by the company you are now about to form. About the school: can you do nothing on the spot to get a site that will not be objectionable to the Vicar? Were you to arrange this it might be possible to secure his co-operation were such secured. It would be a great inducement to me to see that a school-room would be built that would be worthy of the town, and a monument to the Liberal views which it would inaugurate. I hope to see the Duke this week on the subject. My great desire is to promote harmony, and not discord, in the borough which I represent.

"Yours sincerely,
"JOHN PENDER.

"I enclose copy of a letter I have addressed to Mr. Cuming."

ENCLOSURE.

"28, Pall Mall, London,
"MY DEAR SIR, "25th February 1864.

"I DULY received your favour of the 8th instant, in which you state that a committee has been formed for the management of the Liberal interest in the borough, consisting of Messrs. Windeatt, Chaster, Holman, Jeffery Michelmore, C. F. Michelmore, and yourself; and that you propose to form a joint-stock company for the purpose of leasing and working certain lands.

"I highly approve of the scheme, but to make it thoroughly practical it must be worked strictly with a view to securing the same return as if conducted by private enterprise.

"The company should be formed and managed by the Liberal gentlemen in the borough, having an understanding with the members for the time being that in case of any loss arising it should form part of the expenses incidental to the holding the seats for the borough.

"I would further suggest that as the votes created by such a company might, in the event of a contest, be questioned, the management should not be so expensive as to preclude the possibility of the land paying a return on the capital invested, otherwise I fear it might be considered a political club, and not secure the object the promoters have in view.

"I shall warmly support the scheme if placed on the footing I indicate, and shall be glad to learn that you have prepared a prospectus and launched the affair. The land must be leased by gentlemen resident in the borough.

"I believe the views I express are those held by Mr. Seymour, but as he is not in town until Saturday I have not had an opportunity of laying this letter before him, but shall send him a copy, and he will address you direct.

"Believe me, &c.
"Fras. B. Cuming, Esq., "JOHN PENDER.
"Totnes."

"7th March 1864.

"Present:—Messrs. Windeatt, Chaster, Holman, and Jeffery Michelmore.

"Resolved,—1st. That a committee to watch the Liberal interest of this borough be formed, to consist of Messrs. Brooking Cuming, J. W. Chaster, W. F. Windeatt, T.

THIRTY-SEVENTH DAY.

J. Endle.

31 Oct. 1866.

Holman, C. F. Michelmore, and Jeffery Michelmore, and that such committee meet the first Monday of every month at the "Gate House," at 7 p.m. Special meetings to be called whenever it may be deemed advisable by any two members of the committee.

"2nd. That such committee endeavour from time to time to procure all lands which may be available for the purpose of making Liberal votes.

"3rd. That Elias Ford of Abbotskerswell, Richard Watson of Dorsley, and Samuel Huxham, junr., of Totnes, be asked in the order here named to become the takers of all such lands in order that the said company shall hold the same under one landlord.

"4th. That the Liberal borough members, for the time being, shall give such landlord a guarantee that they will be answerable for and make good any deficiency or loss that may arise in the management of the said company, during the time they are members and one year subsequent.

"5th. That a company of good and substantial men, holding Liberal opinions, shall be formed, to take these lands from such landlord and farm the whole themselves under a lease from him.

"6th. That as soon as sufficient names are obtained to form the company, a meeting of the parties shall be called, and resolutions formed agreeing to take the lands, appointing a manager and treasurer from amongst themselves, and also to engage a hind and fix his salary.

"7th. That in order to stock the lands, a certain sum of money will be required, which such company will borrow upon their bond at the lowest rate of interest it can be obtained for.

"(Signed by) W. F. Windeatt.
"Thomas Holman.
"Jeffery Michelmore.
"J. W. Chaster."

"28, Pall Mall,
"My dear Sir, "12th March, 1864.

"I am in receipt of your note of the 9th instant, inclosing copy of resolutions arrived at by your committee, with a view to the protection of the Liberal interest in Totnes. I will at once consult with Mr. Seymour, and write you again very shortly.

"Yours very truly,
"John Pender."

"Bodlonden,
"My dear Sir, "March 26th, 1864.

"I have your favour of Good Friday, but no note from Mr. Cuming. On receipt I shall at once reply. I quite agree with you, that the Duke having given up his patronage and claim on the Liberal interest, he should be quite free from the expenses incidental to the maintenance of the Liberal interest in the borough. I shall pay my share with great pleasure, only common prudence dictates that I should have some idea of the liability I undertake. Are you aware that for last registration which was so badly managed, Mr. Cuming sent me a bill for something like 40*l.*, if my memory serves me. This I presume was the sum expended by him for the independent member, but on this and other points connected with the representation of the borough, the committee will no doubt in future attend.

"I shall be very glad to see you in London, to talk over all matters connected with my connexion with the borough. I am desirous that I should be a useful one, and if the Liberal gentlemen like yourself will do your part, I shall do mine, and we may yet make Totnes politically as pure and independent as it was in days of yore. I shall be in London on the 4th April, until then Manchester is my address.

"As I presume it is very important that no time should be lost in carrying on the scheme I shall be satisfied with what you and the other members say should be the maximum of expenditure.

"J. P."

"My dear Sir, "April 14, 1864.

"I shall be glad to see you on Monday. I shall be glad that you dine with me on that day as I have arranged with Mr. Seymour to meet you at dinner. We can then talk over the whole business of the company quietly and other business connected with Totnes. I am glad that the school site is settled and that the bills are all right.

"I am sincerely yours,
"John Pender."

"My dear Sir, "15 Park Lane, April 30, 1864.

"I got your note of the 28th instant and have seen Mr. Seymour this morning.

"Herewith you will receive the documents sent to me duly signed and witnessed, and I am—

"Yours very truly,
"J. W. Chaster Esq., Totnes. John Pender."

"To Messrs. J. W. Chaster, T. Holman, and Jeffery Michelmore.

"Dear Sirs,

"As you have consented to attend to our interests as members for Totnes, we shall place at your disposal the sum of 250*l.* annually for the purpose of defraying the expenses of the registration, watching the parish rates, the movements of our opponents, and defraying any other expenses which may be from time to time legitimately incurred to strengthen our interests and that of the Liberal party generally in the borough of Totnes.

"The year to be considered to commence on the 1st November in each year.

"John Pender.
"Percy Salmon. "Alfred Seymour."

"We the undersigned hereby undertake and agree to indemnify Elias Ford of Abbotskerswell in the county of Devon, gentleman, who has at our request agreed to become the renter of certain lands in the parish of Totnes for the purpose of reletting the same to a company about to be formed for farming the said lands from any loss, expense or chargeability which may accrue or rise in consequence of the non-payment of the rent and taxes by the said proposed company or from the management of the said lands, or in anywise relating thereto. Provided that this undertaking shall not render us liable to the payment of a larger sum than 500*l.* in the whole. And further provided that we shall be at liberty to put an end to this agreement and undertaking on giving to the said Elias Ford his executors or administrators twelve months notice thereof in writing, such notice to expire at Lady-day in any year.

"Dated this day of 1864.
"John Pender.
"Percy Salmon. "Alfred Seymour."

"We the undersigned hereby undertake and agree to indemnify Messrs. Webber, Mortimore, and others who have become at our request the occupiers of lands in the parish of Totnes and any others who may hereafter join them in such occupation from any loss which may accrue or arise in consequence of the returns from the farming of the said lands not being sufficient to meet the expenditure.

"Provided that this undertaking shall not render us liable to the payment in any one year of a larger sum than 250*l.* And further provided that we shall be at liberty to put an end to this agreement and undertaking on giving to the said Messrs Webber, Mortimore, or to the person they may appoint to manage and superintend the farming of the said lands 12 months notice thereof in writing, such notice to expire at Lady-day in any year.

"Dated this day of 1864.
"John Pender.
"Percy Salmon. "Alfred Seymour."

P. Tozer.

Philip Tozer sworn and examined.

52,129. Do you live in Bridgetown?—No.

52,130. What is your Christian name?—Philip.

52,131. Are you Philip, the father of John?—Yes.

52,132. How much did you give John for his vote last time?—I gave him 40*l.*

52,133. Where did you get it from?—John Elliott.

52,134. Did you agree with John Elliott about the price?—No, nothing at all. I did no more with it than hand to him what was delivered to me for him to get after he voted.

52,135. Do you vote yourself?—Yes.

52,136. Where do you rent land?—I rent at Windmill Down.

52,137. Are you one of the tenants of the duke?—Yes.

52,138. How long have you been a tenant of the duke?—Seven years.

52,139. Have you always voted?—Yes, since I have been in Totnes.

52,140. How long have you been a voter?—About five years.

52,141. What do you vote on, "building and land"?—Land and building.

52,142. Where is it?—Windmill Down.

52,143. Do you occupy the land with your own cattle?—Yes.

52,144. Is there anybody else with you?—No.

52,145. How many times have you voted?—Three times.

52,146. How much have you had?—Nothing at all.

52,147. Have you never been offered anything?—I was offered 200*l.* in Dent's election.

52,148. Who offered you anything?—Mr. John Heath.

52,149. When was that?—When I was going down the town.

52,150. You met him in the street?—Yes.

52,151. He offered you 200*l.* for your vote?—Yes.

52,152. Did you take it?—No.

52,153. Did you not tell Mr. Michelmore you had been offered it?—Not then.

52,154. When?—I think I spoke to him afterwards. I do not think I ever told him exactly of it.

52,155. Yes, you did?—I might.

52,156. Did you mention it to the Liberal party after you voted?—I remarked it in no respect at all.

52,157. How old is your son?—I think 27.

52,158. Did you ever have any money for your vote?—No.

52,159. Any present?—No.

52,160. You were remembered?—No, nothing at all.

52,161. Had you ever anything to do with handing over money except to John Tozer?—No.

JOHN ANGEL sworn and examined.

J. Angel.

52,162. (Mr. Longe.) What are you?—An upholsterer.

52,163. Where do you live?—Fore Street, Totnes.

52,164. How long have you had a vote?—Since the Reform Bill passed.

52,165. What did you vote for?—House.

52,166. The house you live in?—Yes.

52,167. Is it your own house?—No.

52,168. Whose is it?—I rent it.

52,169. Of whom?—Mr. Thomas Mitchell, in London.

52,170. Have you always voted the same way?—Yes.

52,171. Which way is that?—Upon the Liberal side. I voted for Cornish and Parrott, in the first instance, and I have voted at every election since that.

52,172. Did you ever give a vote to the Conservatives?—No.

52,173. Did you ever receive anything for your vote?—No.

52,174. Did you ever receive anything for it after the election?—No.

52,175. Was nothing left at your house?—No.

52,176. Or with any of your relatives?—No.

52,177. Did you ever take an active part yourself in any election?—No.

52,178. Did you ever canvass for votes?—No.

52,179. You never canvassed at all?—Not one.

52,180. Did you ever take a part in any election?—Never. I never even canvassed my own workmen, or asked how they were going to vote.

52,181. How many workmen have you who have votes?—I have one or two. I never asked them how they were going to vote; I did as I pleased, and I thought they had a right to do as they pleased with their votes.

52,182. Have you always voted for both the Liberal candidates at a general election?—Yes.

52,183. Were you ever offered any money by the Conservatives?—No.

52,184. Did any one of them ever come to you and ask for your vote besides the candidates?—Yes, I have been asked.

52,185. No inducement held out?—No.

52,186. What was the value of the house and land?—30*l.* a year.

WILLIAM OSBORNE sworn and examined.

W. Osborne.

52,187. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—I rent a house up at Bowden Lodge.

52,188. Mr. Adams'?—Yes.

52,189. How long have you rented it?—I never voted but once.

52,190. When did you vote?—At the last election, Dawkins and Pim.

52,191. What did you get for that?—Nothing.

52,192. Not any present at all?—No, nothing.

52,193. Not on account of your vote?—No.

52,194. Did you not get a present?—No.

52,195. After the election?—No.

52,196. Did you have your wages raised?—No, nothing at all.

52,197. Mr. Adams is a Conservative, is he not?—I suppose he is.

52,198. Did he ever canvass you?—No.

52,199. When he let you the house did he say you were to vote for the Conservatives?—No, he never said anything about it.

52,200. Have your ever had anything to do with getting anybody else's vote?—No.

52,201. You voted last time and did not have any money?—Not a single halfpenny.

52,202. Did your wife have any?—No.

52,203. Nobody on your behalf?—No.

52,204. Were your ever down at the "Seven Stars," at all?—No, not during the election. I went in one day after the election was over.

52,205. What did you get then?—Nothing.

52,206. But something to drink?—I do not know whether I had a drop of beer, or anything like it.

52,207. Did you pay for it?—Yes.

FREDERICK EVENS recalled and examined.

F. Evens.

52,208. (Mr. Bere.) You told us the names of a good many persons to whom you paid money at various elections, and among others at the election of 1865, are there any persons to whom you paid more money than what you have told us?—No, not that I am aware of.

52,209. Are there any persons whom it occurs to you to mention?—I think there are three or four. I told you there might be three or four that I forgot.

52,210. Who are they?—William Henry Johns is one.

52,211. What did you give him?—30*l.*

52,212. Where did you give it him?—I gave it to him in the billiard room of the "Seven Stars."

52,213. (Mr. Coleridge.) Are you sure it was the billiard room?—Yes.

52,214. Are you quite sure about it?—Yes.

52,215. Whereabout is that?—Behind the house.

52,216. He says you gave it to him in the back yard?—It was in the billiard room I gave it. Also Henry Goodridge at the same time.

52,217. Were they both present?—No.

52,218. (Mr. Bere.) You did not mention Johns?—I did not mention it.

52,219. Why did you not do that?—I forgot it at the time, and it has come to my memory since.

52,220. When did you first remember it?—A fortnight ago, or three weeks.

THIRTY-SEVENTH DAY.

F. Evens.

31 Oct. 1866.

52,221. Had you read Johns evidence?—I have not. I have been away.

52,222. That is one, who is the other?—Do you confine yourself to the last election?

52,223. Yes?—William Henry Johns and Henry Tapper.

52,224. He is dead?—He is.

52,225. Where did you pay him?—I sent it to his house.

52,226. By whom?—A person named Barnes.

52,227. Where does he live?—It is a woman.

52,228. Where does she live?—Under Mr. Bryett's office.

52,229. What made you send it by Mrs. Barnes?—She is a relation of his, and he was one of the matter-of-course men, whom I knew required some money.

52,230. What did you send it in, notes or gold?—In gold.

52,231. In a bag?—No.

52,232. You went to Mrs. Barnes to take the money to her uncle?—Yes.

52,233. Did you tell her it was for Tapper?—Yes.

52,234. How long before the election was it?—I think it was about the nomination day. He had not voted.

52,235. He did not vote?—He was ill at the time, and it was thought advisable not to take him off.

52,236. (Mr. Coleridge.) You have put the sums in the list to each person's name?—I have put the sums to each person's name in every election.

52,237. Who else?—No others.

52,238. (Mr. Bere.) In 1863 who did you pay then?—There was one, Tarring, the baker, in Dent's election.

52,239. How much did you pay him?—About 50*l.*

52,240. What made you forget to tell us about it?—I cannot tell you. I have got so many to recollect. He was the person that had those books, if you recollect.

52,241. Anybody else?—No one else at all. I think there was a man named Putt.

52,241*a.* John Putt?—John Putt, at the last election.

52,242. Did you pay him?—I paid him.

52,243. How much?—60*l.*

52,244. What has become of John Putt?—He has left the town; I do not know where he has gone to live.

52,245. Where is he?—I think he is living near Ivy-bridge or Madbury or somewhere there.

52,246. Do you know whether Putt has been examined as a witness here?—I do not.

52,247. You had forgotten his name?—I had forgotten his name, I believe.

52,248. That makes four in 1865 that we have got?—Yes.

52,249. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you been attending any of the meetings at the "Seven Stars" with Mr. Heath?—When.

52,250. Since we have been sitting here?—No, I have not.

52,251. When did you come home?—Saturday night three weeks I came home from London.

52,252. In London did you succeed in finding Mr. Mum?—I never saw him there.

52,253. Did you look after him?—I cannot say that; but I looked out to see if I could see him.

52,254. Did you go and inquire anywhere?—No.

52,255. Did Mr. Heath ask you to try and find him out?—He never said any word to me.

52,256. Had you any letter from Mr. Heath when in London?—Not one.

52,257. Had you from Mr. Edmonds?—No.

52,258. From Mr. Kellock?—No.

52,259. Did you see Mr. Smith up in London?—No.

52,260. Or Mr. Guscotte?—No.

52,261. Any one in his office?—I never went near his office. Indeed I do not know where his office is.

52,262. Did you go to Mr. Spofforth's?—No, I do not know where his office is.

52,263. (Mr. Bere.) Mr. Heath has not refreshed your memory about any of these matters?—I may say I do not know that I have seen Mr. Heath.

52,264. He did not write to you?—No.

52,265. Did Mr. Edmonds come to you?—Mr. Edmonds, I saw him.

52,266. Did he ask you to give in a list as far as you could remember?—Yes; and he told me to give it good consideration, for there were many I had not mentioned.

52,267. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you seen Screach about it too?—No, I have not.

52,268. Has he gone out of town?—I do not know where he is.

A. Venning.

ARTHUR VENNING recalled and examined.

52,269. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you got anything to tell us more than you recollected last time?—No.

52,270. Do you recollect anything?—No.

52,271. (Mr. Bere.) You managed to get 65*l.* for your vote?—60*l.*

52,272. Is that what you told us last time?—Yes.

52,273. You told us 40*l.* last time?—60*l.*

52,274. Do you remember on what day it was you were examined?—The same day that Mr. Evan Evens was examined in September; the second time I was summoned.

E. Baker.

EDWARD BAKER recalled and examined.

52,275. (Mr. Bere.) What did you get for your vote in 1865?—50*l.*

52,276. (Mr. Coleridge.) Are you sure it was not 60*l.*?—50*l.*

52,277. Who gave it to you?—Mr. Screach.

52,278. Are you certain it was not 60*l.*?—Quite.

52,279. Did he give you 60*l.* and you give him 10*l.* back?—No, not a farthing.

52,280. He says he gave you 60*l.*?—If he did, he told a lie.

T. Bryett.

THEODORE BRYETT recalled and examined.

52,281. You wish to add something?—In my evidence I stated that a large sum of money was spent. I was not at all aware of what was spent.

52,282. (Mr. Coleridge.) You know enough about the Conservatives to know it was necessary?—I know enough of Totnes.

52,283. And you have never been able to return a Conservative since 1847?—Yes; that is so.

52,284. You knew there must be some strange change in the feelings of the people, because since 1847 there has never been one returned?—I did not know that in Mackenzie's time there was money spent.

52,285. If Mr. Dent was to come forward successfully you were aware he must spend money?—I had heard of this change in the feelings of the people and that they had become corrupt.

52,286. Had you any idea of the possibility of returning a Conservative if there had been no money spent on the other side?—I can hardly say that, as I was not aware of the corruption of the town at the time.

52,287. Had you any hope of returning a Conservative at that time unless money had been spent?—At the commencement of the election I was not aware that the corruption was so extensive.

52,288. Did you think that Mr. Dent would be returned?—I can hardly tell, I was out at the time, and I did not take any active part in politics.

52,289. Were you sanguine about the election result?—No; I was not the least sanguine, but I thought it was a doubtful affair.

52,290. The only chance you thought there was of getting in a Conservative was getting some of the split votes?—Yes.

JOHN NICKELLS recalled and examined. J. Nickells.

52,291. How much did you get for your vote in 1865?—34*l.*

52,292. Are you quite sure about that?—Yes.

52,293. Screach says he paid you 40*l.*?—If he said that he has told a lie.

52,294. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he pay the other 6*l.* to anybody else, your wife or your daughter?—No; he paid nothing to her; it was 34*l.*

52,295. She has not been examined yet?—No; my daughter told me there was not any paid to her.

52,296. Has your daughter been examined?—No.

CHARLES PITTS recalled and examined. C. Pitts.

52,297. (Mr. Bere.) What did you get for your vote in 1865?—45*l.*

52,298. Are you certain about that?—40*l.* at one time and 5*l.* at another.

52,299. Did you take it yourself?—I did.

52,300. You told us Screach tried to get 50*l.* for you and could not?—45*l.*; 40*l.* at first.

52,301. You got 5*l.* afterwards on the nomination day?—Yes.

52,302. Is that all the money Screach gave you?—Yes.

52,303. Who did you show it to first?—My wife.

52,304. Did you show the whole of it to her?—Yes.

52,305. He gave you 40*l.* and then another 5*l.*—Yes.

52,306. Are you sure there was not another 5*l.* you did not show to her?—Yes.

JAMES RAYMOND recalled and examined. J. Raymond.

52,307. (Mr. Coleridge.) It is stated you had 80*l.* for your vote?—No.

52,308. Only 70*l.*—No.

52,309. Who did you get it from, Screach?—Yes.

52,310. He says he gave you 80*l.*—It is not so.

52,311. Who did you show the money to after you got it?—My wife was there when I had it.

52,312. Did she see it paid?—Yes, 70*l.*

52,313. Is she at home?—Yes.

52,314. You must send her here?—She is very unwell.

52,315. (Mr. Bere.) Were you at home when it was paid?—No, I was not.

SAMUEL HEARD recalled and examined. S. Heard.

52,316. (Mr. Bere.) What did you get for your vote?—20*l.*

52,317. Are you sure it was not 30*l.*?—No, it was not.

52,318. Who paid you?—Mr. John Heath.

52,319. Are you quite sure it was not 30*l.*?—Yes.

52,320. Who saw you paid?—No one.

52,321. Where were you paid?—I think in the entry.

52,322. Did you not get an extra 10*l.* after you had the 20*l.*?—No, I was promised it, but I never had it.

52,323. Who promised it you?—Mr. Heath.

52,324. (Mr. Coleridge.) You never asked him for it?—No, I asked Mr. Edmonds.

52,325. What did he say?—He said he would try and get it for me.

52,326. Mr. Edmonds the attorney?—Yes, he promised me 50*l.*

52,327. Who promised you 50*l.*?—Mr. Heath.

52,328. When did he promise you 50*l.*?—When he gave me the 20*l.*?

52,329. Did you complain to Mr. Edmonds about there being 30*l.* owing to you?—Yes.

52,330. Did you have any communication with him afterwards about his not getting it?—He said there was no money left.

52,331. There was no money left, and you could not have it?—Yes.

52,332. Are you quite sure you only got 20*l.*?—Yes.

52,333. Are you quite sure he said he would try and get the other 30*l.*?—Yes.

Miss ANN BARNES sworn and examined. Miss A. Barnes.

52,334. (Mr. Bere.) Have you an uncle called Tapper?—Yes.

52,335. Is he dead?—Yes.

52,336. What was his christian name?—Henry.

52,337. Did you get some money for him at the last election from Frederick Evens?—Yes.

52,338. How much?—Thirty pounds.

55,339. In gold or notes?—Gold.

52,340. Where did he give it to you?—In his own house; he sent for me.

52,341. Was it in a bag?—I think it was; I am not quite sure.

52,342. Did he tell you to take the money to Henry Tapper?—Yes.

52,343. And you gave it to him?—Yes.

52,344. When?—I think on the day of the election; I am not quite sure.

52,345. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had you ever any money at any other election?—I think I had the election before.

52,346. How much then?—I think the same thing.

52,347. What was that for?—The same thing.

52,348. Who gave it to you?—Mr. Evens.

52,349. (Mr. Bere.) Do you live with your uncle?—No, he is dead.

52,350. Is that all you received?—Yes.

RICHARD NORRISH recalled. R. Norrish.

52,351. (Mr. Bere.) Did you tell us correctly what you got for your vote the last time?—Yes.

52,352. Thirty pounds?—Yes.

52,353. Mr. Screach or Mr. Heath says he gave you 50*l.*?—I do not care what they say; I never got that.

52,354. Who gave you the 20*l.*?—Mr. Heath.

52,355. Was there anybody there besides?—No.

52,356. Are you quite sure?—Yes.

52,357. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did your wife get anything?—No.

52,358. Are you sure?—Yes.

52,359. Would she have told you if she had?—Yes.

THIRTY-SEVENTH DAY.

R. Norrish.

31 Oct. 1866.

52,360. Are you quite sure that Mr. Heath gave you that money?—Yes; I did say, at first, it was this here Mr. Mum, but it was Mr. Heath.

52,361. All that story about Mr. Mum is untrue?—It was humbug, all of it.

52,362. You never saw Mr. Mum?—No.

52,363. You never saw any stranger?—No.

52,364. It was Heath?—Yes.

52,365. What made you tell us that?—Because they gave this Mr. Mum, and I thought I might as well say that too.

52,366. You did it to screen Mr. Heath?—Yes.

52,367. Instead of screening him, you got him into a mess?—Yes.

52,368. Now you come to assist him?—Yes.

52,369. Who told you to come here?—No one; you sent for me.

52,370. Have you seen Mr. Heath?—Yes.

52,371. Did you talk to him?—Yes.

52,372. Did anybody tell you it was a mistake when you said Mr. Mum?—No.

52,373. Who was it?—Mr. Heath.

52,374. Where was it?—No. 15.

52,375. A bedroom?—Yes.

52,376. Mr. Heath was by himself?—Yes.

52,377. You think it was 15?—Yes. I would know it if I went. You go out of the back room into the little passage.

52,378. Was it on the top floor?—It was a bedroom out of the big room.

52,379. (Mr. Bere.) Had any one ever talked to you before you came to be examined the first time?—Yes; Mr. Heath.

52,380. What did he say to you?—He said I was to go up and tell the truth.

52,381. Did he say you were to go up and say Mr. Mum gave you the money?—He said I was not to mention his name, and there is the sense of it.

52,382. Although Mr. Heath only gave you 20*l.*, did not you get 30*l.*?—He paid me something for expenses.

52,383. Was not it 30*l.*?—I think between 20*l.* and 30*l.*

52,384. What for?—For looking after the watch. I told him I got 10*s.* a day.

(Mr. Bere.) You told us 7*s.* 6*d.* a day.

52,385. (Mr. Coleridge.) You did get nearly 50*l.* in all?—It was in two different sums. I paid the men who were with me.

52,386. How many men?—Five.

52,387. Who were they?—Horswell.

52,388. How much did you pay him?—Five shillings.

52,389. Who was the next?—Mr. Brooking.

52,390. How much did he have?—The same.

52,391. Give us all the names?—There was Legg and Petit Johns.

52,392. Were they voters?—No.

52,393. That is all you got?—Yes.

52,394. How much stuck to your own fingers?—I do not know that any stuck to my fingers. I spent it all.

52,395. How much stuck to your pocket?—I engaged them to have 10*s.* a day.

52,396. How many days were you at work?—10 or 11 days.

52,397. That is 5*l.*?—Yes.

52,398. Did you pay all the expenses of the men?—Yes.

52,399. And paid for your own drink?—Yes.

52,400. You did not consider that in the 10*s.*?—I do not know that I did.

52,401. And their drink too?—Yes.

J. Chappell.

JOHN CHAPPELL recalled and further examined.

52,402. (Mr. Bere.) How much did you get?—50*l.*

52,403. Are you sure you did not get 60*l.*?—Yes.

52,404. Whom did you get it from?—Some gentleman.

52,405. Now was not that gentleman Mr. John Heath?—No, it was not.

52,406. Where did you get it?—No. 1.

52,407. Which one of the Heaths was it?—Neither one.

52,408. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did Mr. Heath talk to you before you were examined here before?—No.

52,409. Did not he tell you that you were not to mention his name?—No.

52,410. Since?—No.

52,411. (Mr. Bere.) Are you certain you did not get 60*l.*?—Yes.

52,412. Not 10*l.* for expenses?—No.

52,413. 10*l.* at any other time?—No.

J. Godfrey.

JOHN GODFREY recalled and further examined.

52,414. (Mr. Bere.) What did you get for your vote?—40*l.*

52,415. Did you get that from John Heath?—Yes.

52,416. Are you certain it was not 50*l.*?—Yes.

52,417. How was it?—In gold.

52,418. Who saw you?—No one.

52,419. Did you show it to your wife?—Yes.

52,420. Did you get 10*l.* for expenses?—No.

52,421. Nothing more for expenses nor anything?—No, nothing at all.

52,422. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you go straight home to your wife with it?—Yes.

52,423. Did you give it to her to take care of?——Yes, and she put it in the drawer, but I kept the key myself.

52,424. You both spent it afterwards?—Yes.

52,425. You did not get 10*l.* afterwards?—No.

52,426. No present?—No.

52,427. No Christmas-box?—No.

S. Hill.

SAMUEL HILL recalled and further examined.

52,428. You are the son of Samuel Hill, senior?—Yes.

52,429. Did you get 9*l.* 10*s.* at the last election?—Yes, for work done.

52,430. Who paid you that?—John Heath.

52,431. What was the work?—Mr. Bentall's farm.

52,432. When did he pay you that?—Not before the election.

52,433. Was it young Mr. Heath or the old one?—Mr. Harris paid me. He referred me to Mr. Edmonds and from Mr. Edmonds to John Heath. Mr. Harris told me that if I went to the "Stars" and asked if we could have the money I should get it. We found Mr. Heath and some time afterwards Mr. Harris. We called at Mr. Heath's office, and he said, "You come in, Hill and Goodridge, to my house, and "I will pay you the money," and we were paid; but he had to call John Heath.

52,434. (Mr. Coleridge.) How many days work was that?—Mine was a contract payment of 5*l.*

52,435. Was that the fair payment?—Yes, what I should have charged anyone else.

52,436. 9*l.* 10*s.* you were paid and your bill was 6*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*?—I think it was 6*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*, but there was work done for Mr. Harris, and that was carried into it.

52,437. 8*l.* 4*s.* 1*d.*?—Yes.

52,438. Mr. Harris charged the work done for himself into this account?—Yes, I think so.

Mr. Richard Norrish recalled and further examined.

52,439. (Mr. Bere.) Was the money paid in a bag to you, or how?—In notes.

52,440. Four notes?—Yes.

52,441. Were the notes wrapped up in anything?—No.

Thomas Edward Rogers recalled and further examined.

52,442. (Mr. Bere.) Did you get 40*l.* for your vote at the last election?—Yes.

52,443. Where did you get it?—From John Heath.

52,444. Where did he pay it to you?—In his office.

52,445. When?—On the nomination day.

52,446. Who had been to tell you what you were to be paid?—No one.

52,447. What had you been paid before that?—25*l.* in Dunn's election.

52,448. What in Dent's?—I had no vote.

52,449. Whom did you vote for in 1857, Mackenzie and Gregory?—Yes.

52,450. What did you get?—Nothing.

52,451. Was that the first time?—I voted for Baldwin.

52,452. Who paid you in Dunn's election?—A stranger.

52,453. Did he pay you at your own house?—No.

52,454. Where?—I was working with Mr. James Pack.

52,455. The maltster?—Yes.

52,456. The "stranger" came to Mr. James Pack's malthouse and paid you 25*l.*?—Yes.

52,457. Was that all you had?—Yes.

52,458. John Heath gave you 40*l.* the last time?—Yes.

52,459. Were you offered anything at the last election?—Yes; there was a talk about getting 100*l.*

52,460. Was it anybody offered you that who could give you the 100*l.*?—No.

52,461. You preferred the 40*l.*?—Yes, I did not think I should take 100*l.*

52,462. (Mr. Coleridge.) Why not?—I was always a Conservative.

52,463. Do you know the difference between a Conservative and a Liberal?—No; I do it on account of my situation.

52,464. What are you?—A maltsman.

52,465. What do you mean by your situation then?—I rent my ground.

52,466. Whom do you rent your ground of?—Mr. James Gill.

Thomas Gillham recalled and further examined.

52,467. (Mr. Bere.) Who was the person who paid you the money in 1865?—I was told to go to a room by John Heath; he did not pay me, but he told me there was a parcel.

52,468. And you took it up?—Yes.

52,469. There was no one in the room?—No.

52,470. It was not true that there was another person, as you stated the last time?—No.

52,471. What made you say that?—Mr. Heath told me not to mention his name.

52,472. Did he tell you to say there was a stranger?—Yes.

52,473. Did you see the stranger?—Yes, in the lobby.

52,474. And Mr. Heath told you to say that the stranger had paid you, although he had paid you himself?—Yes.

52,475. How much was it?—50*l.*

52,476. No more?—No.

52,477. Did you show it to your wife?—Yes.

52,478. Did she see it all?—Yes.

52,479. You told us that you saw the stranger had ginger whiskers?—I saw him.

52,480. You say you did not see him?—I saw him in the morning.

George Please recalled and further examined.

52,481. (Mr. Bere.) How much did you get for your vote?—25*l.*

52,482. Is that all?—I did not get any more money, but when I was in difficulties Mr. Heath took an inventory of my goods, and I had to go to Mr. Evens, at the Bankruptcy Court, and he said he would put me all to rights without charging me anything, and there should be no bailiff or anything put into my house, and Mr. Heath took the inventory, and I believe the valuation was 22*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*; I am not certain, but somewhere about that.

52,482*a*. That was paid before any election?—Yes.

52,483. Paid to you?—It was in the court, I believe.

52,484. Who paid it?—I do not know.

52,485. Did not you get 10*l.* out of it?—No.

52,486. Did you never get 10*l.* from John Heath besides the 20*l.*?—No, not a shilling. If you please, Mr. Edmonds and Mr. Heath said I had always supported the Conservatives, and Mr. Edmonds would do the duty that was required without charging me a shilling, but he sent in his bill, and that was settled by the party, by whom I do not know.

52,487. (Mr. Coleridge.) What was his bill?—I think about 3*l.*

52,488. (Mr. Bere.) Did you ever see Mr. Edmonds's bill?—It was presented at my house, and I carried it to the "Stars."

52,489. Was there another bill that you had?—I do not know.

52,490. Did you owe any person 30*l.*?—I owed several 30*l.*

52,491. Did anybody oppose a discharge?—No; there is a time appointed to my creditors in the office of Mr. Bryett.

52,492. You still kept your furniture?—Yes. 22*l.* 2*s.* 6*d.*, the value, was paid into court by Mr. Heath.

52,493. Mr. Edmonds's bill was paid by Mr. Heath besides?—Yes.

52,494. That was about 3*l.* or 4*l.*?—Yes. You did not ask me the question, therefore I thought I had no call to say anything about it.

(Mr. Bere.) You ought to have told us.

William Stoyle recalled.

52,495. (Mr. Bere.) Are you sure you did not get 20*l.* more than you told us about?—No.

52,496. Did they pay you 20*l.* for services rendered?—No.

52,497. Did they promise 20*l.* more than they got?—Yes.

52,498. Who promised you?—Mr. Heath.

52,499. What did he promise you altogether?—50*l.*

52,500. What did he give you?—I got 20*l.*

52,501. Where did he pay it to you?—He did not pay me at all.

52,502. Who paid it?—Mr. Evens.

52,503. You are the gentleman who was dressed up in the uniform?—Yes.

THIRTY-SEVENTH DAY.

W. Stoyle.

31 Oct. 1866.

52,504. Are you sure that Mr. Heath has at no time paid you 20*l.*, not at any election time, but afterwards ?—No, not a farthing.

52,505. You are quite sure about that ?—Yes.

52,506. He says he has paid you ?—Not he.

52,507. Have you had 20*l.* worth of drink there ?—No.

SAMUEL HILLEY recalled.

S. Hilley.

52,508. (Mr. Bere.) Did not you get 10*l.* more than you told us about ?—No.

52,509. For services ?—No; I had 20*l.* for services.

52,510. Did you get that from John Heath ?—No, from George Heath.

52,511. Are you sure you did not have more than that ?—No.

52,512. Have you not had 10*l.* from John Heath besides that ?—No.

52,513. You are certain you have not had 10*l.* more ?—No.

52,514. For expenses or services ?—No.

52,515. Were you employed at the time of the election at all ?—Yes.

52,516. What were you employed about ?—Nothing particular.

52,517. What were you employed about not particular ?—Nothing. It was merely put down for that 20*l.*

52,518. Has Mr. Heath been to see you lately ?—No.

52,519. To ask you about this ?—No.

52,520. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you seen Mr. Edmonds ?—No.

52,521. Mr. Evens ?—No.

52,522. Any of the young Heaths ?—No.

Mrs. M. Raymond.

Mrs. MARIA RAYMOND sworn and examined.

52,523. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you remember that your husband got 70*l.* at the last election ?—Yes.

52,524. Who brought it ?—John Screach.

52,525. Did you count it ?—Yes.

52,526. How much was it ?—Seventy pounds.

52,527. If he said it was 80*l.* it is a mistake ?—He admitted that after we had been together, he said it was a mistake; there was part ours and part Mr. Hannaford's.

52,528. What did he give you ?—I think he gave Mr. Hannaford 10*l.* more than he first stated, and ours was 10*l.* less.

52,529. That was a mistake you did not like him to make ?—No.

52,530. Have you ever got money at any other time for your husband ?—Yes.

52,531. When was that ?—The previous election.

52,532. How much did you get then ?—Twenty sovereigns from Mr. Heath, and 5*l.* from Mr. George Heath.

52,533. Mr. George Heath ?—Yes.

52,534. That was at Dent's election ?—Yes.

52,535. The election before that how much did you get ?—Nothing.

52,536. How often have you been paid altogether: three times ?—No.

52,537. Only twice ?—Yes.

52,538. You got 90*l.* the three elections ?—There was a 30*l.* cheque afterwards. I think my husband has stated that. That was the first election of Mr. Dent.

52,539. You got 120*l.* out of the elections, is that it ?—Yes.

52,540. Have you ever got anything out of municipal elections for him ?—I never did.

52,541. You are quite certain about the 70*l.* ?—Yes.

52,542. And Screach has admitted it to you ?—Yes.

S. A. Nickells.

Miss SARAH ANN NICKELLS sworn and examined.

52,543. (Mr. Bere.) Did you not get some money for your father at the last election ?—Yes.

52,544. How much ?—Thirty-four pounds.

52,545. Where did you get it ?—Mr. Screach paid father in the bedroom, and it was 34*l.*

52,546. What was it paid in ?—In sovereigns.

52,547. Were you in the bedroom when it was paid ?—No. I went in afterwards, and I saw it, and counted it.

52,548. Was it in a bag, or on the table ?—It was on the table.

52,549. What did you do with it ?—I counted it over, and put it in the drawer.

52,550. Did you make a memorandum of how much it was ?—Yes, 34*l.*

52,551. Have you got that memorandum ?—No; I did not make a memorandum.

52,552. What has become of it ?—I did not have it. I did not understand what you said.

52,553. The 34*l.*, what has become of that ? Is it all spent ?—I do not know.

52,554. Did your father take it ?—Yes, after that.

52,555. You are quite sure it was only 34*l.* ?—Yes.

52,556. And not 40*l.* ?—Yes.

52,557. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you ever got anything at any other election for him ?—Yes.

52,558. When was that ?—At Dent's election.

52,559. What did you get then ?—22*l.*

52,560. Who paid you that ?—Mr. Woodley.

52,561. Where did he pay you ?—He paid father in the back kitchen, and I saw it shortly afterwards. It was 22*l.*

52,562. Did you get anything else ?—No.

52,563. It was only 22*l.* ?—No.

52,564. Nothing at the municipal elections ?—No.

J. Watson.

JOHN WATSON recalled and examined.

52,565. (Mr. Bere.) Did you not get 20*l.* more than you told us of ?—No.

52,566. Did you not get 20*l.* from Mr. John Heath ?—No. For expenses, not for voting.

52,567. Expenses of what ?—21*l.* and odd were the expenses.

52,568. What were you employed as ?—Going round the country. I was a watchman too.

52,569. (Mr. Coleridge.) How much did you have a day ?—5*s.* a day and 3*s.* 6*d.* a night. Parties would come and drink at my house and take their pleasure, scores of them.

52,570. (Mr. Bere.) You were paid that by Mr. John Heath ?—Mr. John Heath. I think it was 20*l.* or 21*l.*, I do not know which.

52,571. (Mr. Coleridge.) You had a bill besides ?—That bill did not belong to that election. That was Dent's election, but whether Mr. Heath or Mr. Edmonds paid it I do not know; it was one or the other of them who paid it. They have an account of it. That was after the election.

52,572. You knew you were going to have it ?—No, I did not.

52,573. Did you not know you were going to have it, as for work and expenses ?—No.

52,574. Then it was a God-send to you; you did not expect it?—No.

52,575. (Mr. Longe.) Last time you said no bill was paid you in 1865?—That bill that was paid me was in Mr. Dent's election.

52,576. (Mr. Bere.) Just now; the last election?—Whether it was a week afterwards that I got the 21*l.* from Mr. Heath or Mr. Edmonds, the 21*l.* for expenses, I do not know.

52,577. (Mr. Longe.) The last time you denied it?—I never thought of it. I thought you meant was I bribed with any money.

52,578. Who paid you this money?—I do not know whether it was Mr. Heath or Mr. Edmonds.

52,579. (Mr. Bere.) Where did Mr. Heath pay you?—I think the money was paid at the "Seven Stars." I cannot tell, going in and out so many times as I was then.

52,580. Was it paid at the "Seven Stars"?—I believe it was.

52,581. Had you gone down there to get it?—No; I did not go for that purpose.

52,582. Not for that purpose?—No.

52,583. (Mr. Longe.) You were asked this question, "Are you sure there was no bill paid in 1865?" Your answer is, "No, after the election of 1865. "Did Mr. Heath pay you any bill for liquor had in "your house?—No; I never asked him for any-"thing?"—I should not have known it now if Mr. Heath had not told me of it.

52,584. (Mr. Bere.) Do you always forget when a bill of 20*l.* is paid you?—I was bothered, I forgot it the time I was here last.

52,585. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you entered this in a book, this account that was paid?—No.

52,586. Where did you get the account from?—It was kept on a slate mostly.

52,587. Have you got the account at home?—I do not know. They have the account. Mr. Heath or Mr. Edmonds has got it.

52,588. You gave that account to Mr. Heath?—Yes; or Mr. Edmonds, I am sure I do not know which.

52,589. I think you had better go and get it and let us see it?—I am sure I do not know where it is.

(Mr. Bere.) You had better ask them about it.

52,590. (Mr. Longe.) Have you had some conversation with Mr. Heath since you were last here about this bill?—Yes; he told me about the bill in this hall, and he said, "You had better go and tell the "truth at once."

(Mr. Bere.) In order to assist you in telling the truth, just go and ask him about that account.

George Robins Stone recalled and examined.

G. R. Stone.

52,591. (Mr. Bere.) Did you get 5*l.* more than you have told us, at the last election?—Yes.

52,592. Where did you get it?—From Mr. Heath. I told Mr. Heath of it after I was examined I had forgotten it. I did not think of it at the time. I ran after Mr. Heath one day and told him I had forgotten it.

52,593. (Mr. Coleridge.) Is there any other sum that you have been paid that you do not know anything of?—No.

52,594. Not that you recollect?—No.

Theodore Hannaford sworn and examined.

T. Hannaford.

52,595. (Mr. Bere.) How long have you been a voter for Totnes?—I first voted in 1852.

52,596. You voted for Mills and Seymour?—Yes.

52,597. Have you voted for the Liberals ever since?—I never voted against a Liberal at a borough election in my life.

52,598. Are there elections in which you have abstained from voting?—I plumped for Lord Gifford on one occasion.

52,599. On what occasion was that?—1859.

52,600. In Mr. Dunn's time?—Yes.

52,601. What made you do that?—I have been connected with the printing business for 34 years, and I have always taken a most lively interest in all measures connected with the taxes on knowledge, and on one occasion, when Mr. Mills addressed the electors in this hall, he spoke very much in opposition to my views on that occasion, and also on other matters in the House of Commons, I was not altogether pleased with his politics, and I did not consider he had exactly acted up to his promise to come down every year to give an account of his stewardship. I publicly stated I should not vote for him, and also privately amongst my friends, and when the election came on. I ought to be sorry for it; I ought to have voted for Mr. Mills, but his politics were contrary to mine on some points, and I promised I would not vote for him, and I did not do so.

52,602. Did you find you lost some business on that account?—No; I do not know that I did. The parties were very angry on that occasion.

52,603. But they did not make their anger felt?—Young Mr. Hill told me he was advised to set up as a printer in opposition to me.

52,604. There was something said by Mr. Angel about his changing his politics in consequence of coercion at the municipal election?—Mr. Angel told me he had changed his politics in consequence of Mr. Mills trying to coerce me.

52,605. When was that?—In 1859. Mr. Angel must have made a mistake. I do not wish to say anything to annoy him or trip him up in any way, but previously to that, Mr. Angel had plumped for Mr. Dunn at the borough election.

52,606. Was it not in consequence of the coercion used in the municipal election in 1859?—Certainly not. Mr. Jeffery Michelmore certainly did call upon me, and he was justified in doing so. I think I ought to have stuck better to my party, but Mr. John Heath was an old school-fellow of mine, and previous to that election in 1859, the election of Mr. Dunn, I told Mr. Jeffery Michelmore, he was a candidate on that occasion, and I had promised to vote for him on that occasion, but his name was withdrawn, and subsequently to that, we were talking the subject over at his house, and Mr. John Heath reminded me of my promise, and I said, "On a future "occasion, if you are going to put up, I will fulfil "my promise." There was a considerable excitement at that election. It was a party election, and there was a great fight, and I told Mr. John Heath that nothing on earth would make me break my promise.

52,607. And you voted for Mr. Heath?—I did. In fact, my own opinion is, the townspeople in a town like Totnes, ought not to make a political fight for the council, and, if I had strictly speaking my own views here, and if I could carry them out, I should always select the best man for the parties for the purpose of local government. Mr. Jeffery Michelmore said, "You are going wrong in deserting your "party in this way; you cannot expect your friends "to stick by you if you desert them in this kind of "way."

52,608. Has the municipal council any property by means of which they exercise any influence over the voters?—No; there was a rumour of their having some influence with regard to the votes of persons who were constables so as to get them cut off from the franchise. The Conservatives tried it to such an extent that a few years since Mr. Windeatt was determined to oppose the system, and he succeeded in doing so. And there is now an arrangement not to appoint any man so as that he may lose his franchise.

THIRTY-SEVENTH DAY.

Hannaford.

Oct. 1866.

52,609. Then the political power of the council is now nothing ?—No ; there was some talk in the town about it at the time.

52,610. Did you ever canvass people at any elections ?—No ; I have stuck to my politics. All my family in former days were Conservatives, and I was brought up in the Tory school, and until I arrived at the age of manhood I was a Conservative ; but later in the day I think I have been as consistent a politician as any man in Totnes. I have always given an independent vote free from any consideration.

52,611. And you have never received any advantage whatever ?—I do not know whether you consider the printing an advantage. I do not allow any of the candidates to canvass me. The Duke when he was Lord Seymour was one of the first who canvassed me, and I begged of him not to do so ; I said I should only be too happy to give him my support. I do not think Mr. Alfred Seymour ever canvassed me ; they knew that I voluntarily gave them my support.

52,612. Is there any other information you can give us as to the elections ?—I do not think so. Mr. Harris said that my bill was not large enough when I did not vote for Mr. Mills. Now it so happens that at that election there was more printing done than at almost any other election. I think that must have been said to tantalize me. I stated previous to the election that it was not my intention to support Mr. Mills for various reasons.

52,613. (Mr. Coleridge.) You did not do any printing for the Conservatives ?—Mr. Haydon wanted me to print a bill in opposition to the Liberal party, and I refused to do so.

52,614. (Mr. Bere.) What has been the average of your bills for printing during the election ?—They have varied a good deal. I have a bill of Lord Seymour's here of five shillings for circulars, and they range from that up to 22*l.* or 23*l.* Everything has been fairly charged.

52,615. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you charge the same price at elections as at other times ?—To anything in the shape of a charitable institution or to poor people I charge a lower scale. At election times we have to pay for extra lights, and to make presents to the men, and so on.

52,616. Do you charge more at the elections than you do at the time of the races ?—The race time is the most profitable time we have. I generally make a great allowance to charities, religious institutions, scholastic matters, and anything whatever connected with the poor. The printing connected with the races is about the best work that we get.

52,617. (Mr. Bere.) If you have a great deal of printing to do in a short time, you are obliged to charge more than if you had plenty of time to do it in ?—Yes ; and not only that, but I have heard people who were standing outside my window say, "This is "the Radical shop. I shall not go into that shop." Mr. Toms stated that he was exclusively employed as the printer for Mr. Bourne previous to 1863 ; that is not strictly correct. Mr. Toms had the principal portion of Mr. Bourne's work, but I have some memoranda in my pocket which show that I have averaged several pounds every year since Mr. Bourne was an auctioneer. He gave it to Mr. Toms as the successor to Mr. Heard, in consequence of Mr. Elliott having employed him previously. I never solicited his work. There was a misunderstanding between Mr. Bourne and Mr. Toms, and that was why he withdrew it.

52,618. Are you and Mr. Toms the only printers here ?—No, there is a third, a Mr. Denner.

52,619. Do you get all Mr. Bourne's work now ?—No ; he is a very straightforward man, and pays his bills regularly.

J. Knapman.

JOHN KNAPMAN sworn and examined.

52,620. (Mr. Longe.) What are you ?—I am an edge tool maker, and a farmer as well.

52,621. Where do you live ?—At Harberton.

52,622. How long have you had a vote for the borough ?—Never but once.

52,623. Was that the last election ?—Yes.

52,624. What do you vote for ?—I am one of the nine or eleven of the Gerston company.

52,625. Who asked you to belong to that ?—I think it was my own wish.

52,626. You had heard of this company being formed ?—Yes.

52,627. How did you first hear of it ?—I cannot tell. I heard it in the town ; I think Mr. Windeatt was the first who mentioned it to me.

52,628. Did you take any part in the last election ?—Not any.

52,629. Did you get anything before or after ?—Not a farthing.

52,630. Was anything offered you ?—Nothing.

52,631. Did you offer any money to any one else ?—In 1863 I conveyed a sum of money from one man to another ; that is all.

52,632. Who were the persons ?—John Tucker I took the money to.

52,633. Who gave you the money to take to him ?—Mr. Bourne.

52,634. (Mr. Bere.) What made Mr. Bourne give it to you ?—I do not know. He came to my house and asked me about it.

52,635. Is John Tucker a relation of yours ?—No ; he is a near neighbour. He did not like to give it to him, being an elector and I was a non-elector.

52,636. How much did you give him ?—25*l.*

52,637. In notes ?—No, in gold.

52,638. In a bag ?—I put it in my pocket.

52,639. And handed it to Tucker in his own house ?—Yes.

52,640. (Mr. Longe.) Is he the only one to whom you offered any money ?—Yes.

52,641. Or with whom you negotiated ?—The only one.

52,642. (Mr. Bere.) Why did you not come here when you were summoned ?—I have never been summoned ; I received a note at the farm ; I have had no summons.

52,643. Is there any other John Knapman at Harberton ?—Not that I am aware of.

J. Tucker.

JOHN TUCKER sworn and examined.

52,644. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live ?—At Slapton.

52,645. How long have you been a voter for Totnes ?—Since 1862.

52,646. What do you vote for ?—I occupied a house in the town.

52,647. What did you vote for in 1862 ?—My house in the town.

52,648. The same which you occupy now ?—I was a butcher then.

52,649. What are you now ?—A farmer.

52,650 Have you got a vote now ?—No.

52,651. Had you a vote in 1865 ?—Yes.

52,652. Whom did you vote for then ?—For Dawkins and Pim.

52,653. For whom did you vote in 1863 ?—For Mr. Dent.

52,654. How much have you ever had for voting ?—Never anything, not for voting.

52,655. Has your wife had anything ?—No ; I have had money.

52,656. When did you have any money ?—After the election of 1863.

52,657. How much was it ?—70*l.*

52,658. Who gave it to you ?—Mr. Edmonds.

52,659. Where ?—In his own house.

52,660. Why did he give you the 70*l.*, as a present?—No. I will tell you how it was. At Mr. Dent's first election he retired; at his second election I had money given to me to give to two other parties.

52,661. Who were they?—Smaridge and Southwood.

52,662. Is Southwood a man who lives at Diptford?—Yes.

52,663. How much money did you give to each?—I had to divide the 70*l.* between them if I could get them.

52,664. Do you mean 70*l.* out of your own pocket?—No. Mr. Edmonds gave it to me.

52,665. You gave them 35*l.* a piece?—Yes.

52,666. When did you make the bargain with them?—I went to Southwood and Smaridge as many as ten times.

52,667. You did not find them?—I found them.

52,668. You could not get their votes?—Southwood said he could not vote; he was afraid of Mr. Durant. I found out that he was renting under Mr. Packer, a Conservative, and I think Mr. Edmonds wrote to Mr. Packer to ask him to influence Southwood to vote for Mr. Dent. Mr. Packer instead of recommending him to vote for Mr. Dent recommended him to vote the other way.

52,669. Who do you rent under now?—Miss Meyrick of Plymouth.

52,670. Did you rent under the Duke?—No.

52,671. What did you do with the 70*l.*?—I gave it back again. I returned the money at the end of the month, and Mr. Edmonds gave it to me as a present.

52,672. Is that all the money you ever had?—Yes.

52,673. Are those the only two persons you had to deal with?—I did not deal with them.

52,674. You attempted to deal with?—Yes.

52,675. Have you ever attempted to deal with anybody else for their vote or anything else?—No.

52,676. Did you see Mr. Thomas Creaser Kellock and go with him and see him dealing with Smaridge and Southwood?—No.

52,677. Did you go canvassing or anything of that sort with him at the last election?—No.

52,678. Is that all you know about it?—Yes.

52,679. Did you get any money in any shape or form last time?—No.

52,680. Not for your vote but as a present or expenses?—No, nothing.

52,681. You had nothing to do with any voters?—No.

52,682. You did not try Smaridge and Southwood again?—No.

52,683. Did Southwood tell you he had got the money from the other side?—No, I never went to Southwood after that letter.

Mr. T. H. Edmonds recalled.

52,684. (Mr. Bere.) Will you give us an explanation of that payment to the last witness John Tucker?—I had forgotten the circumstance till he mentioned it to me the day before yesterday; I did not think it was so much as 70*l.* but I recollect very well asking him to see Smaridge; it was Mr. Dent's election and either on the election day or the day after he brought back to me this money, I thought it was 50*l.* and he said he had been about a fortnight engaged in the election and that he was entitled to this money for his services.

52,685. Did you ask for the money, Mr. Tucker? (Mr. Tucker.)—No.

Adjourned to to-morrow at half-past 10 o'clock at the "Seymour" Hotel.

THIRTY-EIGHTH DAY.

Thursday, 1st November 1866.

Philip K. Niner sworn and examined.

52,686. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—A hatter.

52,687. What do you vote on?—My own property, a house, in Fore Street.

52,688. Freehold?—Yes.

52,689. How long have you had a vote?—I have lived in Totnes 29 years; I must have had a vote a great number of years.

52,690. How have you voted generally? Which way? Conservative or Liberal?—I do not know the name of Liberal. I will tell you in a moment. I will give you a little delineation of it. My memory, I am getting old, is not so good; still I have a little book that will tell me. The first time, Mr. Baldwin; that was Baldwin and Blount's election; Gisborne's was after.

52,691. In 1847 whom did you vote for? That was Ricardo's election?—Mr. Baldwin.

52,692. What made you split your vote?—I did not split my vote.

52,693. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you plump for Baldwin?—Yes.

52,694. (Mr. Bere.) In 1852 did you still vote for Baldwin?—I must bring my recollection a little bit to rights. I can hardly tell you; I have no memory; I voted for Baldwin, most likely. There was another gentleman put up here, and I voted for him, I recollect.

52,695. Mr. Mills?—No; that is the man who committed the greatest bribery. He brought down a waggon load of money. I think I voted for Baldwin and Lord Seymour; I believe that is it. I will give you a reason why I voted for Lord Seymour. At Mr. Teed's election and Mr. Baldwin's there was an agreement entered into, which there is no doubt about, and that agreement was made in Woodley's house, at the "King William." I was at the door at the same time, and it was, so long as Charles Harry Baldwin chose to represent Totnes, the agents of the Duke of Somerset were here, the noble duke might not be, perhaps, but his agents were here, not the least doubt of it, on the noble duke; Thomas Michelmore was there, and they did sign that agreement, and it was signed in Bridgetown, and Mr. Tracey has got it now.

52,696. (Mr. Coleridge.) Mr. Baldwin was beaten in 1852?—Because he had no tin.

52,697. (Mr. Bere.) How did you vote in 1857?—Lord Gifford, most likely.

52,698. But in 1859 it was Earl Gifford, Mills, and Dunn?—For Earl Gifford and Dunn.

52,699. Whom did you vote for in 1863, Seymour and Dent?—Dent.

52,700. In 1865 for whom did you vote, Dawkins and Pim?—Of course.

52,701. Have you ever had anything for your vote?—No, thank you.

52,702. Did you ever give anything to anybody else?—Not the least.

52,703. Never gave anybody a present?—No.

52,704. During the election?—No.

52,705. We have heard a great deal about you, and we thought you had?—I have not the least doubt of it.

52,706. Do you remember offering Mr. Venn some money at the last election?—I will answer it in this manner: I have heard it in public company since, but I tell you candidly I have never offered that man a penny in my life; but I have threatened him with an action, and after the Commission I will bring an action against him for scurrilizing my character. I have never offered him a penny.

THIRTY-EIGHTH DAY.

T. K. Niner.

Nov. 1866.

52,707. Did you ever offer anybody else anything?—I have not the least doubt; I am a laughable, jokeable fellow, but I was not authorized.

52,708. Did you offer anyone any money?—Now look here. Up at Farley's, in Bridgetown, one morning, a man came in and said, "You are in for it; you have offered Farley at the 'Exeter Inn' some." I have not the least doubt that in my jokeable, laughing sort of way I did; but I never, thank God, was in a position to offer any money. I am an independent Liberal Conservative freetrader, and I do as I like and care for nobody.

52,709. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you give anybody any money at the last election?—No.

52,710. Whom did you offer it to, Farley?—Yes, and Edward Angel the tailor. I said to him, "They "tell me there is money about, and you may as well "have 100*l.*;" but I never had anything to do with their dirty work; I would not accept of it.

S. Heard.

SAMUEL HEARD recalled and examined.

52,711. (Mr. Bere.) Did you not tell us yesterday that you only got 20*l.* from Mr. Heath?—Yes.

52,712. Just look at that paper; can you read?—Yes.

52,713. And write?—Yes.

52,714. Is that your handwriting (referring to a paper writing)?—No, sir.

52,715. Is there any other person of the name of Heard here?—No; I believe I am the only one.

52,716. That is not your handwriting?—No.

52,717. (Mr. Coleridge.) Just write your name down (the witness wrote his name). Do you now say that the signature shown to you is not yours?—Yes; I never gave that to Mr. Heath.

52,718. Is it not your writing?—I will swear to it.

52,719. Look at the "S."—I can give you some corresponding notes of mine to Mr. Edmonds. I never wrote that hand in my life.

52,720. (Mr. Bere.) How do you generally sign your name, in full; your Christian name in full, or only the first letter of it?—In full, most times, I believe.

52,721. You have given Mr. Heath notes like that at times?—I never gave Mr. Heath a note in my life of any description.

52,722. You did not?—Never in my life; I never had any occasion to do so or any connexion with the man to give him one; I did give him a bill once of 5*s.*

52,723. Did you ever give young Mr. Heath any?—Never, neither one of them.

52,724. You never sent that paper down to the "Seven Stars?"—Never, not to my knowledge.

52,725. You would know if you had?—I never did in my life; I believe I have given Mr. Heath a bill once of 5*s.* for a carriage.

52,726. Are you married?—Yes.

52,727. Is that your wife's writing?—She cannot write, I am sorry to say.

52,728. You still say you only got 20*l.* from Mr. Heath?—That is all I got. I swear to that. I counted it over in the tap after I left the room.

52,729. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did your wife have any?—I am certain she did not.

52,730. (Mr. Bere.) Did you go down to see Mr. Heath last night?—I never saw him since this Commission. I never spoke to him on the subject. That is false there, and I will swear that I never wrote that in my life.

J. Bartlett.

JUBAL BARTLETT recalled and examined.

52,731. (Mr. Bere.) How much money did you get at the last election?—40*l.*

52,732. Are you quite sure it was not 50*l.*?—Yes, I am quite sure.

52,733. Did you get it at the "Seven Stars?"—Yes.

52,734. In gold was it?—Notes, I think.

52,735. Just think again?—Notes, 40*l.* Eight 5*l.* notes.

52,736. Take care.—I am quite correct.

52,737. You previously told us it was in gold?—No.

52,738. Yes, you did?—That was 1863.

52,739. 1865 I asked you about.—Gold in 1863. Mr. Dent's election, I had it I know, and I had it in 5*l.* notes.

52,740. In 1865 who was it gave you anything; you said you had not got anything at all?—I will tell you the reason for why I thought that. I was told to keep my eyes about me, and to look after a lot of voters. I should say, if Mr. Heath did not name it, I had no occasion to do so.

52,741. Did you get the 40*l.* from Mr. Heath?—Yes. There was a gentleman by the side of him, and he said, "Here comes an old friend who has always "voted on our side." I was asked to go into No. 1, and I had eight 5*l.* notes.

52,742. (Mr. Coleridge.) You thought it was for your services and not your vote?—I did so.

52,743. Do you think so now?—I suppose now it was for my vote.

52,744. How many days' work?—10 or 12 days.

52,745. How often do you earn 5*l.* a day?—Not very often.

52,746. (Mr. Bere.) What did you do with the money?—I spent it.

52,747. Did you show it to your wife after you got it?—Of course I did; I could not refuse.

52,748. Are you sure you did?—Yes.

52,749. Have you spent it all?—Yes.

52,750. Are you quite sure you got that 40*l.*?—Quite sure I got it; certainly I am. I got it in No. 1.

52,751. (Mr. Coleridge.) When did you first recollect having the money?—When I tell you.

52,752. Did you recollect that you had the money when you were here before?—Yes; but I considered it was for my services then.

52,753. (Mr. Bere.) You were asked whether you directly or indirectly had received any money?—I am sorry if I have told an untruth.

52,754. What made you come to tell the truth now?—Some of the people knew about it.

52,755. Who troubled you to come and tell us to-day?—I know that I had it.

52,756. What made you alter your opinion about it being for your vote?—I do not know whether it is so.

52,757. Did Mr. John Heath ask you to give this evidence here to-day and speak the truth about the matter?—I saw him, and he told me to speak the truth.

52,758. Did he not ask you to come here and give evidence about the 40*l.* you had at the last election?—I daresay he did.

52,759. What did he tell you?—I am sure I cannot tell.

52,760. Did he come to you or did you go to him?—I saw him at a public-house.

52,761. Which?—The "Plymouth Inn." He said, "If you are summoned again you must speak the "truth."

52,762. Did he remind you that you had received 40*l.* in 1865?—I reminded him; I told him so. He did not know exactly.

52,763. What made him tell you to speak the truth then?—I am sure I cannot tell.

52,764. Did Mr. Heath first of all mention to you that you had received this money from him at the last election, or did you mention it to him?—I am sure I cannot tell you.

52,765. Did you meet him by appointment?—No, quite accidentally.

52,766. Did he not tell you you had received 40*l.*, and you were to come up and say that?—He said, "When you come up speak the truth."

52,767. Did he never tell you that about having received the 40*l.*?—Of course he did.

52,768. What did he say to you?—I cannot tell more than this.

52,769. Did he say, "Do you not recollect my giving you 40*l.*?"—No, he did not say anything like that. I went into No. 1 and took it up.

52,770. When you met him the other day did he remind you of that or did you remind him?—I cannot tell.

52,771. It is only a week ago?—I cannot tell you.

52,772. You have been called, and you denied having received anything, then Mr. Heath and you meet, and you come again, and you cannot say whether you reminded him or whether he told you?—I cannot say.

52,773. Did he remind you or did you remind him?—I reminded him of it. I think I was the first.

52,774. What did he ask you?—He might have asked me what I had.

52,775. Did he not tell you that you had not mentioned it on the last occasion you were examined?—Yes, that is the truth.

52,776. (Mr. Longe.) Did you give Mr. Heath an I O U for this last payment to you?—No.

52,777. You signed no paper at all for any amount?—No.

52,778. (Mr. Bere.) Did your wife get any sum of money?—No.

52,779. Did she not get 10*l.* after the election?—No.

52,780. Are you quite sure of that?—Yes.

52,781. She got nothing for her services?—No.

THIRTY-EIGHTH DAY.

J. Bartlett.

1 Nov. 1866.

JOHN GILLHAM sworn and examined.

J. Gillham.

52,782. (Mr. Longe.) What are you?—A smith by trade. I do not work at it now. I have given up business.

52,783. How long have you had a vote for Totnes?—I think it must be 30 years.

52,784. Have you always voted one way?—Always for the Liberals.

52,785. You never gave a vote to the Conservative candidate?—Never.

52,786. When do you first remember voting?—I do not remember when I first voted.

52,787. Do you remember the election of 1847, Lord Seymour, Baldwin, and Ricardo?—I do not recollect it.

52,788. Do you remember voting at that election?—I remember voting for Lord Seymour.

52,789. Who did you give your other vote to, Mr. Baldwin or Mr. Ricardo?—I do not think I voted for Mr. Ricardo.

52,790. Probably for Mr. Baldwin?—No, I never voted for a Tory in my life.

52,791. You gave Lord Seymour one vote?—Only one vote I think.

52,792. (Mr. Coleridge.) Try and recollect about it. Did you vote for Ricardo and Lord Seymour, or for Lord Seymour by himself?—I cannot recollect. I did not take particular notice about these things. When I was wanted for the Liberals I always voted on that side and no other.

52,793. Did you ever receive anything before or after the election?—No.

52,794. You never had any money?—No. I do not know what Mrs. Gillham had; I never had a penny in my life.

52,795. You believe your wife had some present?—The paper that has come out has said so.

52,796. She kept it so snug you never heard anything of it?—No; I never heard of it.

52,797. (Mr. Longe.) Until it came out in evidence before us you never heard of it before?—I never heard of it before the newspaper came out.

52,798. Who was the person who said that, do you remember?—No. I only knew it from the newspaper.

52,799. Did you ever take any part in canvassing at elections?—Never.

52,800. Or ever make an offer to anyone?—No, never.

52,801. Were you ever asked to do so?—Never.

Mrs. GILLHAM sworn and examined.

Mrs. Gillham.

52,802. (Mr. Coleridge.) Are you the wife of the last witness?—Yes.

52,803. We have heard that you keep the money?—Yes.

52,804. When was the first time you ever received any money at an election?—The first time was when Mr. Mills and Mr. Baldwin were here.

52,805. So long ago as 1852?—Yes.

52,806. What did you get then?—I think 50*l.*

52,807. Who was your husband to vote for?—He always voted one way.

52,808. Who gave you the 50*l.*?—Mr. Thomas Holman.

52,809. You kept that quite dark from your husband; you never told him?—No; I always had the management of the business; he never interfered.

52,810. You put it in your business?—Yes.

52,811. Were you offered anything on the other side?—Yes.

52,812. Who offered it to you?—Several persons came in and out.

52,813. Did George Evens come?—No.

52,814. Or young Screach?—No, never.

52,815. Who else?—Young Mr. Heath came down once and made me an offer, but we never had any dealings with them; they knew that my husband voted one way, and they did not come a second time.

52,816. The next contested election was in 1857; what did you get then?—40*l.*

52,817. Who gave you that?—Mr. Holman; I never had anything from anyone else.

52,818. What did you get in 1859, Mills and Lord Gifford?—I think I got 30*l.*

52,819. Was that from Mr. Holman too?—Yes.

52,820. In 1862, Dent and Pender; what did you get then?—Nothing.

52,821. Were you promised anything?—No.

52,822. In 1863, Seymour and Dent; what did you get then?—Nothing.

52,823. Did you go to Mr. Holman and ask for anything?—No.

52,824. How came he to forget you?—I cannot tell.

52,825. What did you get in 1865?—I think it was 35*l.*

52,826. Who gave you that?—Mr. Holman.

52,827. Where; in your shop?—No; he put it down on the table.

52,828. In your shop?—No, in the parlour.

52,829. You never got any money from anyone but Mr. Holman?—No.

52,830. (Mr. Bere.) What used you to do with this money?—I paid what I owed.

52,831. You manage the business yourself?—Yes; my husband has had nothing to do with it since we were married.

52,832. What does he do?—He keeps some cows, and attends to the smith's work.

52,833. You give him a little pocket money now

THIRTY-EIGHTH DAY.

Mrs. Gillham.

1 Nov. 1866.

and then?—Yes; I have managed the business for 32 years.

52,834. (Mr. Coleridge.) How many times have you had money?—Three times; I never had any more.

52,835. How much have you had altogether?—I had 50*l.*, 40*l.*, and 35*l.*, that is all.

52,836. Then the 30*l.* you told us of was a mistake?—I daresay it was.

52,837. You used to take care that your husband voted right?—He never voted but one way.

52,838. You used to let him know it was all right?—He did not want to be told.

52,939. Did he never ask you if you had got any money?—He did not ask any questions.

42,840. (Mr. Longe.) Did he ever look over your accounts?—No; he does not do anything of the sort.

52,841. (Mr. Coleridge.) Does he tell them to settle with you, or how is it?—Perhaps I might name it to Mr. Holman; he always came to our house; we took the business from him.

52,842. Did you tell him your husband's vote was worth as much as that of anyone else?—Perhaps I did.

52,843. Was your husband ever present?—He always promised the Liberals.

52,844. Did he ever say he would not vote without your consent?—No.

52,845. If they had made you all right before you thought he would be able to do it with an easy conscience?—I suppose so.

52,846. Did you ever have anything for your husband's vote at municipal elections?—No.

J. S. Screach, jun.

JOHN SANDFORD SCREACH, junior, recalled and further examined.

52,847. (Mr. Bere.) Can you tell us the sum of money that you had from Mr. Heath at the last election?—I do not recollect receiving anything from Mr. Heath.

52,848. But at the "Stars?"—I got all the money that I received from the stranger, and I have accounted or it, to the best of my belief.

52,849. How much have you received?—I have not given a thought about it since the last time, and to the best of my belief I told you how I spent the money.

52,850. Did you not give Mr. Heath an account of more money that was paid to the voters than you told us?—Not that I am aware of; Mr. Edmonds said there was a list that Mr. Bowen had asked about, that there was more money than I had accounted for.

52,851. Arthur Venning?—I did not pay him at all.

52,852. Edward Baker?—Yes.

52,853. How much did you pay him?—I am not clear, 50*l.* or 60*l.*

52,854. He says 60*l.*?—I am not prepared to say. When I gave my evidence I gave it to the best of my belief.

52,855. John Nickells; what did you pay him; 34*l.*?—I cannot say.

52,856. Did you not take 34*l.* and count it out, and then did not his daughter come and take it up?—I am not aware, but I paid him in his own bedroom.

52,857. Did not she come to the room and take the money up?—I am not aware of it.

52,858. Do you say it was more than 34*l.*?—I do not think I should be safe in swearing it was more.

52,859. How much did you pay Charles Pitts?—I think 50*l.*, but he gave me a sovereign back.

52,860. Heath swore it was only 45*l.*?—I believe I am right in saying it was 50*l.*, but I could not undertake to swear as regards the figures. When I first gave my evidence I made a mistake of 10*l.* with regard to Joseph Hannaford, and then I told you that Mrs. Raymond had 80*l.* She says I paid her 70*l.*, and I cannot say that she made a mistake.

52,861. (Mr. Coleridge.) Mrs. Raymond said that you had been there and said that you had made a mistake?—When I saw her she seemed annoyed about it, that her husband should be said to have 80*l.* when he had only 70*l.*; and I said, "Mrs. Raymond, it was not done with any object on my part," and I cannot say that she told you a falsehood; nor can I say the amount. I could not keep any account.

52,862. You did not mention the name of Perring?—I believe I did, and I have been informed by parties in the court that I did tell you that.

52,863. Then it is very odd that the shorthand writer should not have taken it down?—I had no intention of keeping that man's name back. I saw him before you gentlemen came here, and I told him that he would have to admit the truth. I did not pay Mr. Perring that money; I paid it to his wife. There was a mistake of a sovereign. I did not think of detailing all those affairs, but Perring said he only received 39*l.* But what I got from the man at the "Stars" I paid, and I believe it was 40*l.* I did not count it; and in the evening he came to me and I paid him a sovereign I heard Mrs. Raymond say that in the "Exeter Gazette" it was mentioned, and I remember my father saying, when the Plymouth papers came out, it was odd that Perring's name was not there among the rest.

52,864. It was not there; you must have forgotten it?—It was not mentioned. Mrs. Raymond told me she thought she had read it.

52,865. Do you know that handwriting?—(Referring) I do not know.

52,866. Is it John Heath?—I do not know.

52,867. How much did you get out of the election of 1865?—50*l.*

52,868. That was all that was made a present to you?—Yes.

52,869. How much did you receive that did not go away from your hands?—I paid every man the extreme money that I agreed to.

52,870. But how much had you left when you paid all that you agreed to pay?—There was a little travelling money for expenses, knocking about, and so on.

52,871. Have you a banking account?—Not that I am aware of.

52,872. Are you sure?—I am quite sure.

52,873. You had how much for expenses? You say a little left for expenses, 50*l.*?—No, nothing like it; not 5*l.*

52,874. How much did you get back for luck?—Not a copper. I had a pound for luck from Pitts.

52,875. Did not you get 5*l.* back from some person?—No.

52,876. Have you not got a sum of money in the savings bank?—Not a copper.

52,877. Does your father keep a banking account?—Not that I am aware of; if so he has not told me. He has got a little property to the west that he holds the writings for.

52,878. Have you never said to anyone whilst this Commission was sitting that you had money in the savings bank?—I might have done so, it is possible, there has been a lot of jesting going on.

52,879. When did you draw it out of the savings bank?—I never had it in.

52,880. Did not you get 200*l.* out of the last election which you never had before the election began?—I have said so at Bowden's at the East Gate for the sake of a little bounce. I have said, "Never mind, old fellow, I have got 200*l.*"

52,881. How much have you?—It has dwindled away.

52,882. How much have you now?—About 80*l.*

52,883. Did it all come out of the first election?—No.

52,884. How much did you get at the last election?—50*l.*

52,885. Where did you keep that? In the bank at all?—I have got it at home.

JOHN WATSON recalled and further examined.

52,886. (Mr. Bere.) Did you go to Mr. Heath to try and get a bill?—Yes, I did.

52,887. Have you got it?—No; Mr. Heath said if he could find it I should have it; if not he must have given it to the cashier.

52,888. (Mr. Coleridge.) What cashier?—I do not know; that is what Mr. Heath told me.

JOHN HEATH recalled and further examined.

52,889. (Mr. Coleridge.) What cashier did you allude to?—The person who distributed the money.

52,890. (Mr. Bere.) At the last election of 1865 there was a sum of 4,000*l.* that came somehow or other into the hands of the persons at the "Seven Stars." Of that sum a certain portion was accounted for previous to our adjournment. We understand that you now can account for the expenditure of a considerably further sum. Will you give us the list of the money expended on behalf of Colonel Dawkins at that election, as far as you were acquainted with the expenditure, either from your own knowledge or what has been proved here?—Yes, I furnished your secretary with the particulars, and if the court wish I will mention it.

52,891. You had better read the names out, beginning in the way that the secretary has divided them, into certain persons bribed by Screach?—I know nothing about that. I never supplied Screach with anybody or the particulars.

52,892. Did he not give you the particulars of the persons to whom he gave the money?—No.

52,893. Frederick Evens, did he not give you the particulars?—No, nor did I supply him with any cash at any time.

52,894. Mr. George Heath, did you ever give money to him?—Yes.

52,895. Perhaps you will tell us?—He has given the vouchers for himself.

52,896. Then we may get these afterwards. Now your son James?—He has given evidence that he paid two voters.

52,897. Now yourself?—Narramore also distributed 100*l.*

52,898. We never heard of that.—He paid a man named Dennis.

52,899. We must have Narramore here for that purpose.—I think he has given his evidence to that effect. This is not additional evidence.

52,900. Narramore gave 100*l.*?—Yes. Then there is Jubal Bartlett who has given his evidence.

52,901. Have you made out a list of the persons whom you have paid yourself?—Yes, the extras.

52,902. Of the whole?—Yes; and my account does not agree with that of Jubal Bartlett. I have an account of 50*l.*

52,903. He says he received only 40*l.*?—Yes.

52,904. Where did you pay him?—He was paid at the "Stars," I think on the Monday night before the election.

52,905. Which room?—I really do not remember; I think as likely in the entry as any place, in coming down from the public meeting which was held in the ball room. There was a gentleman on my side who wished me to identify the voters there who had been either arranged with by his messengers or with him, whom he had seen himself; and I spoke of several to him. I took the bags of money and handed them from one hand to the other. In the other cases he paid them himself. I understood that Bartlett had 50*l.*, but he only acknowledges 40*l.*; but you know he is rather a wet subject, and he may have had a week or a fortnight's enjoyment with it. I believe still that was the amount, and a man named Farleigh had 10*l.* additional.

52,906. We have had that before?—Not in my list, I think.

52,907. Which Farleigh is it, do you remember?—I think he is called James Farley.

52,908. Is he a man at the "Bridge Inn?"—He is a labouring man. A person named W. Shinner had 5*l.* extra, and James Clarke, who was a voter who had been distrained upon at various times, for him I paid sums of 4*l.* and 7*l.* 10*s.* just before the election, which was consented to be remitted.

52,909. Had your son George taken possession as the sheriff's officer?—Not as the sheriff's officer, but as bailiff for the landlord, for which a sheriff's officer is not necessary, in that capacity for the landlord, Mr. Manning.

52,910. Had you paid the rent?—I paid the rent to Manning to the extent of 11*l.*

52,911. He admits having had 10*l.* from you?—Yes, there is 4*l.* and 7*l.* 10*s.* He was here last night, but he does not recollect the particulars.

52,912. He gave us to understand that you had promised him 60*l.* for his services in the election?—He said he was offered whatever he liked on the other side to be engaged in this house, but he was engaged at mine, and I said whatever was to be divided he should have.

52,913. Did not he tell you that he was engaged to work at Plymouth for so much a day?—I do not remember. He was living at Plymouth some time prior to that election. He was out of a situation, and we hired him to assist at the busy time.

52,914. Then there is Rogers?—40*l.*, which was not given him, although his name was in the list; it was omitted somehow or other. There is the list, which I have shown to your secretary.

52,915. Then there is this bill paid to Watson?—Yes, he was paid on the election day.

52,916. Do you remember what the amount of it was?—I think a little over 20*l.* for the night watchers, and the refreshment had at the house, and he gave me the particulars of it, but I do not know what has become of it. It was paid the same day as the election.

52,917. Was something paid also to Stone?—There was 5*l.* advanced to Stone. He was requested to go and see the voters at various places out of the town as well as in.

52,918. There is a man whom we had on the last day of our former sitting, who came and said he received 50*l.* Potter?—It is believed that he was paid 50*l.*, but by whom I cannot ascertain. There was a great deal of money spent at our tap considered to be at his expense, although he was treated, and he only carried home as it was stated 44*l.* His pals had been chaffing him that they had been drinking at his expense, and I believe that was the case.

52,919. Samuel Sanders said that he received 60*l.* from Richards?—I think there was a voucher for that, but I do not know whether the witness has been up.

52,920. The sums are

Evens	530	0	0
G. Heath	112	3	10
Jas. Heath	100	0	0
"The stranger"	385	0	0
	£2,450	3	10
Then, received from Colonel Dawkins	4,000	0	0
and paid back to Mr. Edmonds	207	10	0
	3,792	10	0
Paid to Mr. Edmonds	80	0	0
	£3,712	10	0
Deduct	2,450	3	10
Balance to be accounted for	£1,262	6	2

52,921. There is some mistake of Hilley. He was called yesterday and he says he did not receive the 10*l.* ?—His wife called upon me, and she said if the former evidence had been that he had received 30*l.* he would have acknowledged it last night, but he did not exactly remember what was paid, but from the information I could glean, in addition to the 20*l.*, there were two fives. The election was virtually at an end on the morning of the day, it was intended that a sum of 1,000*l.* should be further advanced by Colonel Dawkins, but he was advised not to go on as he had spent 5,000*l.* The other would have gone to 10,000*l.* from the information we could glean.

52,922. (Mr. Coleridge.) It was virtually at an end before Colonel Dawkins came down, as far as any chance of success went?—I think not, as far as I know.

52,923. If those who signed the requisition could be depended on?—It was not so, it depended on those who spent the most money, and Phillips said that Mr. Pender told him there was no other way of winning. There were several other sums of money had from my daughter in the bar which amounted to 36*l.*

52,924. Do you charge for expenses yourself?—Not a penny.

52,925. There is 50*l.* entered here as charged for expenses?—They were not my personal expenses, but were advanced to various messengers.

52,926. Does not that include 5*l.* advanced for turnpikes?—No.

52,927. Had you any vouchers for that?—I had not any voucher, and I do not think I can produce any voucher for that. 1*l.* 10*s.*, 2*l.*, 5*l.*, and 8*l.* were advanced frequently during the fortnight or 15 days. It was a rough estimate come to between Mr. Edmonds and myself as the probable advances during that time, and I think the amount is between 40*l.* and 50*l.* It was put down at a lump sum in that way.

52,928. (Mr. Bere.) Why did not you put that into your bill?—Because it was to advance to other parties not paid in the house bill. I had the particulars of the house bill.

52,929. (Mr. Coleridge.) When was the house bill paid; how long after the election?—I do not know, it was paid by the agents appointed here to examine the bill.

52,930. I mean the large bill, the large amount spent in the house that was not all paid by the agents?—That was all I received.

52,931. You received the whole bill that you charged Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim; there has been nothing struck off?—Nothing struck off.

52,932. The hotel bill was not published amongst the legal expenses?—I think you will find it was.

52,933. It may have been paid by the agents but not published among the legal expenses; about 36*l.* was the published bill, and yours was nearly 400*l.*?—260*l.*

52,934. (Mr. Bere.) There is no mention in the election expenses of the hotel bill at all, and your bill was 260*l.*, plus carriage hire, making it 340*l.*?—I do not think you will find that correct at the last election.

52,935. In the expenses there is no hotel bill in. Colonel Dawkins' expenses and Colonel Pim's amount to 279*l.* 7*s.* 6*d.*?—That was not paid to me. Mine was 260*l.*

52,936. We wanted you to furnish us with the account?—I have the particulars.

52,937. (Mr. Coleridge.) It is 160*l.* for Colonel Dawkins' hotel bill?—That is including refreshment, champagne, luncheon, grog meetings, postings, and committee-rooms for 15 days.

52,938. It does not include that, because there is 48*l.* for horse hire to Colonel Dawkins, and 27*l.* to Captain Pim, in addition to your bill, so that in reality the whole thing comes to 335*l.* odd.

52,939. (Mr. Bere.) Your bill against Captain Pim was 110*l.* 3*s.*?—100*l.* 3*s.*, but he paid 10*l.* to the servants.

52,940. And Colonel Dawkins' was 176*l.*?—Colonel Dawkins' was 11*l.* a day for 15 days, and Captain Pim's, including champagne luncheon, 20*l.*, and including the committee-rooms.

52,941. No, the committee-rooms were paid separately, and there is carriage hire?—I think not.

52,942. (Mr. Coleridge.) It is carried out in the account in the newspapers, and that is paid by the agents, and the hotel bill was down to you privately?—I never had more than 100*l.* 3*s.* from Captain Pim.

52,943. This would not tally, because you have got 24*l.* 12*s.* for posting and travelling; and in the election auditor's account it is 27*l.* 18*s.*, taking the posting out of Colonel Dawkins, the same as you have out of Captain Pim's, what do you make it?—I make it 23*l.* 2*s.*

52,944. The sum is 46*l.* 2*s.*?—That is a mistake.

52,945. This is a certificated copy by the election auditor?—We have copied the accounts and subdivided the whole; since then I have not had a penny of Captain Pim.

52,946. Did Captain Pim or Colonel Dawkins have any horse or carriage hire from anyone except yourself?—I think they had.

52,947. Where from?—I think, Heard's carriage at one time, and some other persons about the town.

52,948. Do you know what the amount was?—I do not; I can give you detailed account of every item of what was had for Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim, even the day-book of 1859.

52,949. The charge which you have produced, as compared with that printed in the newspaper and audited by the election auditor, is as much again, and you say that was the proper charge; and against Captain Pim it is 3*l.* or 4*l.* more?—I will look at this account again.

52,950. It does not necessarily follow you are not right?—It may have been put in that way.

52,951. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you pay to various people 752*l.*?—643*l.*

52,952. 752*l.* How much do you make the sums you have paid yourself away?—643*l.*

52,953. Does that include the 36*l.*?—Yes.

52,954. And the hotel expenses?—Yes.

52,955. Any extras?—Everything.

52,956. How much do you say the stranger paid you?—I have no account of that.

52,957. We have an account, excepting two names, we must ask you about now; did the stranger pay 385*l.*?—Yes.

52,958. That will give these sums; paid by Screach, 580*l.*; paid by Edmonds, 530*l.*; paid by George Heath, 112*l.* 3*s.* 10*d.*; paid by James Heath, 100*l.*; paid by Narramore, 100*l.*; paid by the stranger, 385*l.*; and paid by yourself, 643*l.*; will you add these items up?—There was returned to Mr. Edmonds a sum of 200*l.*

52,959. Just state that amount first of all?—2,450*l.* 3*s.* 10*d.*

52,960. Now it seems that the money advanced by Colonel Dawkins for election purposes amounted altogether to 4,000*l.*?—So I am informed.

52,961. At first 1,500*l.*, then two several cheques of 1,000*l.* each, and then a sum of 500*l.*; out of the 500*l.* you returned a certain sum to Mr. Edmonds?—Yes.

52,962. How much did you return?—I paid for what vouchers were given me, 262*l.* out of the 500*l.*, and returned him the balance.

52,963. 262*l.*?—292*l.* 10*s.*

52,964. You paid him 207*l.* 10*s.*?—207*l.* 10*s.*

52,965. Did Mr. Edmonds give you any of it back at any time?—No, I have had none since.

52,966. That will leave a sum of 3,792*l.* 10*s.* to be accounted for; then there has been accounted for by the evidence adduced before us a sum amounting to 2,450*l.* 3*s.* 10*d.*, leaving 1,342*l.* 6*s.* 2*d.* to be accounted for?—I understood there was above 3,000*l.* accounted for, but I do not see it in those figures.

52,967. Are you sure you did not give back to Mr. Edmonds a larger sum than 207*l.* 10*s.*, did you not give him a sum of 80*l.* at one time?—He requested me to get 80*l.* from the cashier and I did so.

52,968. And that you gave to Mr. Edmonds?—Then that ought to be deducted. I do not know whether he had any more, his accounts will show that.

52,969. (Mr. Bere.) That leaves a sum of 1,262*l.* 6*s.* 2*d.* to be accounted for; can you give us any further explanation of the way in which the money was disposed of?—I do not know, I did not distribute any of it myself.

52,970. You know yesterday there were two men who had previously sworn they received money from the stranger, came and said their evidence was untrue, Gillham and Norrish, and they say instead of having received it from a stranger they received it from yourself?—Yes, I know.

52,971. And they said also that they had received instructions from you before they gave their evidence to conceal something on the first occasion?—I most distinctly deny it before this Court. It so happens that without my knowing anything about it two men came to my house this morning from the neighbourhood.

52,972. Who are they?—One is called Norrish; he called on me a night or two ago after he received the summons to attend here, stating that he had had a summons, and I told him that all that he had received for any expenses for the watchers, or whatever expenses had been incurred by him, he must acknowledge and account for; I said tell the whole truth, and he acknowledged in the presence of John Watson, who is, I think, present here now, that he had had 25*l.* for the purpose of me; he said, "You say I may say I received the money from you." I said, certainly, tell the truth. His version is now that he understood he was to tell the Court that he received all the money from me.

52,973. He did not say anything about expenses yesterday?—He acknowledged that he had received 45*l.*, but he previously acknowledged to 50*l.*, and I believe it was 50*l.* I paid him 25*l.* from time to time for expenses. He had a gang of watchers under him at the higher part of the town who were out all night and day 14 or 15 days, and expenses were incurred. I will read you what he says. He is recalled. "Did "you tell us correctly what you got for your vote "the last time?—No. 30*l.*?—No. Mr. Screach or "Mr. Heath says he gave you 50*l.*?—I do not care "what they say; I never got that. Who gave you "the 20*l.*?—Mr. Heath. Was there anybody there "besides?—No. Are you quite sure?—Yes. Are "you sure?—Yes. Would she have told you if she "had?—Yes. Are you quite sure that Mr. Heath "gave you that money?—Yes, I did say at first it "was this here Mr. Mum, but it was Mr. Heath. All "that story about Mr. Mum is untrue?—It was "humbug all of it. You never saw Mr. Mum?—No. "You never saw any stranger?—No. It was Mr. "Heath?—Yes. What made you tell us that?—Be- "cause they gave this Mr. Mum, and I thought I might "as well say that too. You did it to screen Mr. "Heath?—Yes. Instead of screening him you got "him into a mess?—Yes. Now you come to assist "him?—Yes. Who told you to come here?—No "one; you sent for me. Have you seen Mr. "Heath?—Yes. Did you talk to him?—Yes. Did "anybody tell you it was a mistake when you said "Mr. Mum?—No. Who was it?—Mr. Heath. "Where was it?—No. 15. A bedroom?—Yes. Mr. "Heath was by himself?—Yes. You think it was "15?—No; I would know it if I went. You go out "of the back room into the little passage. Was it on "the top floor?—It was a bedroom out of the big "room."

52,974–5. (Mr. Coleridge.) What was the number of the bedroom that goes out of the big room?—There are several bedrooms on that flat.

52,976. The one opposite, across the passage?—That was No. 8.

52,977. (Mr. Bere.) "Had anyone ever talked to "you before you came to be examined the first time? "—Yes, Mr. Heath. What did he say to you?—He "said I was to go up and tell the truth. Did he say "you were to go up and say Mr. Mum gave you the "money? He said I was not to mention his name, "and there is the sense of it. Although Mr. Heath "only gave you 20*l.* did not you get 30*l.*?—He paid "me something for expenses. Was not it 30*l.*?—I "think between 20*l.* and 30*l.* What for?—In look- "ing after the watch. I told him I got 10*s.* a day." Now there is a direct contradiction of the evidence you first gave, and that which the man himself first gave, a direct contradiction of your statement?—If he did not know when he was called up he was to give a correct account, I am not answerable for that.

52,978. There is a direct charge on oath by that man that you suggested to him to commit perjury?—I distinctly deny it He denied he was paid it. There were a great many men up in the ball room drinking, and they were identified by me and told to go into the little room No. 1 to receive the payment. Another answer I would make to the Court is, that prior to my giving my evidence I never spoke to a witness to ascertain from him anything to refreshing memory as to what amounts they had received.

52,979. (Mr. Coleridge.) Though you did not speak to any of them prior to giving your own evidence, did you speak to any of them prior to their giving theirs?—I do not remember to have spoken to a single individual.

52,980. Did you not speak to this very man Norrish?—I do not think I did.

52,981. Then the whole of this is an invented conversation?—I believe it is so, in consequence of being discovered to have had 25*l.* or 30*l.* more than he has told his wife.

52,982. Do you deny that any conversation took place between you and Mr. Narramore as to what he was to say?—I do.

52,983. At any time?—Most distinctly at any time.

52,984. Before his first examination or yesterday?—At any time; but as to that man, I believe, not knowing he was to come up again, he did not want his wife to know what money he had, and he could not account for the expenses. I believe that was the motive that induced him to make this statement.

52,985. (Mr. Bere.) Then there was another man who was recalled, Thomas Gillham. "Who was the "person who paid you the money in 1865?—I was "told to go to a room by John Heath?—He did not "pay me, but he told me there was a parcel. And you "took it up?—Yes. There was no one in the room?— "No. It was not true that there was another person, as "you stated the last time?—No. What made you say "that?—Mr. Heath told me not to mention his name. "Did he tell you to say there was a stranger?—Yes. "Did you see the stranger?—Yes, in the lobby. And "Mr. Heath told you to say that the stranger had "paid you, although he had paid you himself?—Yes." —That I deny. Thomas Gillham, as most people in the town are aware, is a man who indulges a good deal in drink, and for a week prior to the election, and perhaps two days after, he is in a drunken state. I question if there are several witnesses who were paid that night. The large meeting took place in the room, and if they were up here they would not be able to tell exactly what took place. I kept myself quite tranquil and sober, and if it comes to a balance of testimony I will leave it to the Court to judge.

52,986. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you take receipts for the expenses of any of them, any I O U receipts?—I think I received one from John Watson.

52,987. I mean any of those men like Norrish?—I do not remember to have taken it.

52,988. Whose handwriting is that (handing a paper to the witness)?—That is mine.

52,989. You are sure of that?—I am certain of it.

52,990. Whose handwriting is that (pointing to a name on the paper, to the witness)?—The person's who signed it.

52,991. He has sworn it is not?—He does not like to admit the amount he received before; that is as much his handwriting as ever your signature was in the world.

THIRTY-EIGHTH DAY.

J. Heath.

1 Nov. 1866.

52,992. That is your own handwriting (handing another paper)?—I may safely swear I saw the man sign it when he took the money.

52,993. He says he only got 20*l.*?—That is the reason he wants to deny his own handwriting.

52,994. Are you quite certain he gave that I O U in 1865?—I am.

52,995. Where are the others in 1863?—I do not remember.

52,996. You have told us you were to keep the I O U's of 1863 distinct from those of 1865?—I did did not keep them at all. The accounts were settled with Mr. Mitchell.

52,997. They were handed back?—All papers.

52,998. As far as you know they never came into your possession after that?—Never.

52,999. I want any I O U you have in your possession in connexion with the election of 1865, not 1863?—That voter's signature is as much his as any of my own in my life. There are instances where they do not like to be called up again to admit that they have made false statements at first.

53,000. (Mr. Coleridge.) When you made out these things, did you make them out for each man as he came in, or did you make out a lot and then put them by till you had an opportunity of getting them signed?—No, it was done on the instant, on any scrap of paper that turned up.

53,001. Whose is that, that is your handwriting (handing a paper)?—That is.

53,002. What does that mean, the "Heard" there?—I do not know, he was appointed.

53,003. If you wrote this out and gave it to the man at once, why did he write his name there?—I cannot account for that, but that is his signature.

53,004. (Mr. Longe.) "Heard" is written at the same time and with the same ink as the "I O U?"—That is his signature as much as any I have signed my name in my life.

53,005. Is that your writing "balance" at the top, no signature?—Yes.

53,006. If there were votes waiting to be paid it was necessary that that mode should be adopted to ascertain what the amounts were of the money that was to be applied for?—

53,007. That is the reason you were asked did you write the receipts out sometime before, or whether you made them out at the time?—It was not until they were on the premises, I could not be aware what amount the messengers had arranged with them for.

53,008. It is clear the signature is not in the same ink as the body of the note?—It was put in at the time the voter was paid, that is his signature.

53,009. How many banking accounts do you keep?—Only one.

53,010. With what bank is that?—With the Devon and Cornwall Bank.

53,011. Do you keep any account at Exeter?—No.

53,012. Or at Plymouth?—No, none.

53,013. No deposit account?—No.

53,014. We asked you on a former occasion to produce your hotel bills at Mr. Dent's two elections, have you got them?—Yes, they are here (handing them in).

MRS. HILLEY sworn and examined.

Mrs. Hilley.

53,015. Are you the wife of Samuel Hilley?—I am.

53,016. Who was called yesterday as a witness?—He was.

53,017. He told us, when he was examined on the first occasion, that he only got 20*l.* for his vote last time, did he not get 10*l.* more?—He did not.

53,018. Did you get it?—No, I did not.

53,019. Did you not get anything?—No, I did not. He had 5*l.* on the following day which he did not recollect until he came home last evening; I then said to him, "I think Mr. Heath gave you 5*l.* on the day of the election." Mr. Heath gave him that 5*l.* for going about with messages and so on, there was nothing more.

53,020. Then he had 25*l.* instead of 20*l.*?—Yes, he did not think of it at the time he was called.

J. Yabbicom.

JOHN YABBICOM recalled.

53,021. (Mr. Bere.) Your name has been mentioned as having been concerned in a matter of bribery in 1839, have you any explanation to give about that?—I understand that a Mr. Endle stated I had paid him 35*l.* for not voting for Mr. Blount in 1839. The fact is, that at that time Mr. Endle kept his account with the Western District Bank, of which I was the cashier; the late Mr. Charles Michelmore was the manager, and Mr. Michelmore influenced him not to vote. Two or three months after Mr. Michelmore found out that he did not vote, and he desired me to write off from his account 25*l.* or 30*l.*, which I did. I never paid him any money. Mr. Michelmore desired me, and I was at his bidding to write this off from his account, and that was two or three months afterwards.

53,022. (Mr. Coleridge.) It comes to the same thing?—It does, but it might go abroad to the world that I had paid him 35*l.* I had no transaction with him; I was merely doing the bidding of the manager in writing this sum off his account. I mention it because for the last 20 years I have distinctly abstained from mixing myself up with any election matters, and I do this in justification of myself, stating broadly that I have neither directly nor indirectly mixed myself up with any election matters whatever.

53,023. (Mr. Bere.) We had a very strong opinion with regard to your not giving us the numbers of the notes?—Beyond the fact of my not having taken the numbers of the notes, I have furnished the court with the numbers of every note which came into the bank.

53,024. What Mr. Endle stated about it in his evidence was this, "Have you ever had anything for "your vote?—Yes. What have you had?—A cheque "for 35*l.* in Baldwin and Blount's time. Who gave it "you?—Mr. Yabbicom. Is that the only time?—"Yes. You are a tenant of the duke's?—Yes. Were "you turned out for taking that 35*l.*?—No. Did you "vote for the Liberals?—I did not vote. How was "that, why did you not wish to vote; did you get the "35*l.* to keep you from voting?—Yes, I suppose so. "Mr. Yabbicom is in the Liberal interest?—I cannot "recollect whether he was or not, I think he was on "the other side. Were you going to vote contrary to "Mr. Yabbicom's wishes, and he gave you 35*l.* not

"to vote, is that it?—No," that is his account of it?—I voluntarily gave you an account of what I had done up to a certain period, from which time to the present I have wiped my hands entirely clear of it. Mr. Baldwin read me a very wholesome lesson, he behaved exceedingly ill to me; it was years after before I got my money, and from that time I have taken no part in it, not even voted.

53,025. In 1863 was any sum paid into the bank by Mr. Webber?—I do not recollect any.

53,026. Used he to bank with you?—Always. Mr. Webber at that time had no open account with us; all his banking matters were across the counter.

53,027. Do you remember, during the election of 1863, a 500*l.* cheque of Mr. Webber's being cashed?—I have no recollection of it; every transaction referable to the elections I have told you of.

53,028. Can you remember whether about the time of the election of 1863, 500*l.* passed through your bank brought in by Mr. Webber?—I have no recollection of any such transaction whatever.

53,029. Had you anything to do with 1,200*l.* at Mr. Pender's election, which is proved to have come into Mr. Webber's hands?—No; the only sum of Mr. Pender's which ever passed through my hands was the 1,870*l.* which I have deposed to.

53,030. Both those sums of 1,200*l.* and 500*l.*, were sent from London to Mr. William Webber?—I have no recollection of it.

53,031. Will you look at your books and see whether a large cheque for 1,200*l.* and another for 500*l.* were cashed at the end of 1862 or the beginning of 1863?—I will do so, Mr. William Webber never had any account at our bank, it was Mr. Charles Webber who had an account at our bank.

Mr. JOHN HEATH recalled.

Mr. J. Heath.

53,032. (Mr. Bere.) Both of these items on the debit side of the account (referring to Mr. Heath's banker's book), are sums paid out in the way of your auctioneer's business?—Yes, and the general business of the hotel as well.

53,033. Are there any means of distinguishing between the items paid out for the auctioneer's business and those for the hotel business?—Perhaps if we were to go into a detailed account we might do so.

53,034. The cash paid in as money received was paid in from time to time?—Yes.

53,035. You seem not to have had a very large balance?—No.

53,036. The balance generally was the other way?—I should like the court to say whether they see anything at election times showing that there is any increase in the account.

53,037. In July 1865 the balance is against you, and so it continues until October 1865, and then the balance having been nearly 1,000*l.* against you becomes 150*l.* in your favour. That is in three or four months?—That is our season here for ordinary business.

53,038. Will you tell me what that item refers to (pointing to the book)?—That is the result of a sale which is carried out some two or three items further on. I should like the Court to say whether there appears to have been any money come into my hands about election time.

53,039. On the face of your banker's book there appears to have been no money paid into your account at that time. Have you ever purchased any property in Exeter?—No.

53,040. Or had any dealings with regard to property in Exeter?—My son has purchased a house in Exeter.

53,041. Your son James?—Yes.

53,042. A house and premises in which he carries on the business of a veterinary surgeon?—Yes.

53,043. Do you know what he gave for that?—I do not exactly remember. I should think 1,100*l.* or 1,200*l.*

53,044. From whom did he buy it?—Of the trustees of Mr. Benjamin Franklin when he became bankrupt.

53,045. Who was the auctioneer?—Mr. Ford.

53,046. Did your son employ any solicitor?—My son employed Mr. Rogers, of Exeter.

53,047. Can you inform us where your son got the money to buy those premises?—He has not paid for them.

53,048. He has paid the deposit?—Yes.

53,049. Did you pay that for him?—No.

53,050. He has paid it out of his own earnings?—Yes.

53,051. He has a very good business in Exeter?—He has; I have not paid a penny towards it.

53,052. You are quite sure it is not paid for now?—I am. Mr. Rogers is going to arrange the business for him. He has paid 200*l.* towards it out of his own business.

53,053. Does that include the deposit?—Inclusive of the deposit.

53,054. (Mr. Bere.) We are still in the same difficulty with regard to a very large portion of the money advanced, a sum of 1,262*l.* 6*s.* 2*d.*, of which no account has been given.

(The witness.) I should like the Court to say whether they think that I or any member of my family have pocketed any of that; because after the investigation which has been made, and the statements which appear in print, that is the general impression which I feel very sensitively has operated to my detriment. If the Court are of opinion, after examining my banker's book, that any of it has gone into my pocket I should like them to state it publicly.

(Mr. Bere.) I think in justice to you we ought to say what our full conviction is, that in your banker's book there is no trace of any money having passed to you at or about the time of the election, and that the entries in your banker's seem to relate to your common legitimate business. At the same time we cannot help saying that this money clearly came to the hands of five or six people, yourself, Mr. Edmonds, Mr. Kellock, Screach, Evens, your son George, your son James, and the stranger, and that large sum being unaccounted for, it lies with those persons who were engaged in distributing it, or dealing with it, to account for that sum of money.

53,055. (Mr. Coleridge.) We ought to undeceive you with regard to Colonel Dawkins having been satisfied. We have had a communication from him in which he states he is anything but satisfied.

(The witness.) He stated when he was here what money he had advanced, and that he was perfectly satisfied.

53,056. (Mr. Bere.) What steps have you taken to discover the stranger?—I have written a letter, a copy of which I handed to your secretary, and made every inquiry. This gentleman who was here pretended to be very much mixed up with geology and mining. He visited a place down the river where there is an iron mine in the parish of Stoke Gabriel during the time that he was here, and he went to Plymouth, as he said, upon some mining business. I wrote to a man of the name of Jackson, entreating him to try all the means in his power to assist me. Here is a copy of the letter. I also wrote to Mr. Cameron who was down here at one time at a former election, when there was another cashier or messenger here, but it does not appear that I can obtain one tittle of information about it.

53,057. (Mr. Coleridge.) Mr. Murchison came down here on mining business we have been told?—I do not recollect his description at all.

53,058. The gentleman who came in the middle of the night?—There was a gentleman who came here by the mail train at 4.30. I have understood that Mr. Murchison was a dark gentleman; this stranger, as we have called him, was a fair complexioned man.

53,059. We have had a different description of him

THIRTY-EIGHTH DAY.

Mr. J. Heath.

1 Nov. 1866.

entirely from Screach, Evens, and yourself?—I walked about the street with him during the three days that he was at our house; he went to Plymouth and back, and he was in our office on the nomination day, and took refreshment there.

53,060. It has been stated that he was disguised. Do you agree with others in thinking that he wore a wig?—I do not think he wore a wig when I saw him. He did not appear to me to disguise himself in any way.

53,061. Are you sure that it was not Mr. Smith himself?—I should not think of saying that it was Mr. Smith, but I have no doubt that Mr. Smith, or those to whom he spoke on the business, are pretty well aware of who he is, and they ought to have produced him. It would be a great relief to me to see him here. I did hear that Mr. Smith was going to be examined again, and had he been down here we might probably have learnt something more about him.

53,062. (Mr. Longe.) Have you written to Mr. Smith again?—I have not written to Mr. Smith at all. I understood he was coming and I was in hopes that I should see him face to face.

53,063. I told you after what you said that he was the person to communicate with?—I believe he is the person who can produce Mr. Mum, if he likes, I am satisfied of it. There was an observation made, with respect to my servants, by the court that there were opportunities, with those living in the house, of being tampered with, and I beg to state publicly, that prior to my examination, and also subsequently—from that time to this, with the exception of one woman, who waited upon us in the office on the election days, I never spoke to one of the servants. And I should like the court to say whether there is anything on the evidence that shows there has been any impropriety or tampering with the servants?—That may have been so, but I should like that to be cleared up.

53,064. (Mr. Coleridge.) The manner of the chambermaid and the waiter did seem to make one think that they would not tell anything?—I am on my oath and I swear I did not speak to one of them, nor do I believe one of my family have. The chambermaid still says that Mr. Smith slept in No. 15 room.

53,065. Mr. Smith says it was 13?—When his clerks came and told him.

53,066. If Mr. Smith did not sleep in No. 13 one of his clerks did?—After he arrived he went to Plymouth on the Monday night and the Tuesday night.

53,067. Who?—The cashier, the stranger.

53,068. You never told us that before?—He went off by train on the Monday night and the Tuesday night, and came back the next morning.

53,069. The election was on the Wednesday?—Yes, he did not sleep in the house on the Monday night or the Tuesday night.

53,070. There was no cashier in Totnes on the nomination day at all?—He came back every morning and was in my office.

53,071. He went to Plymouth those two nights?—Yes, the Monday night and the Tuesday.

53,072. What did he go to Plymouth for?—I do not know.

53,073. Did he bring anything back with him?—Not to my knowledge. He came by the first train on the Tuesday morning, and did some of the business in my office at the corner of the Mill Lane in the presence of certain voters who came from the country.

53,074. (Mr. Bere.) The words are, "The most im-" portant, however, is your late books Pack, with whom " you or your sons have not the opportunity of tamper-" ing, as you may have had with other servants in " the house." That does not assert that either you or your sons did so; but judging from the difference of the way in which Pack gave his evidence and the way in which the servants who were living in the house gave their evidence, it raised the suspicion that such might be so; but if you say on your oath you did not tamper with them, your oath is worth much more than our suspicions?—Thank you. I should state to the court that he left me under unpleasant circumstances.

53,075. He was not cross-examined with regard to leaving the "Seven Stars?"—He was distrained upon and dealt with so as to annoy him, and I attribute his evidence to that cause.

53,076. What Col. Dawkins and Capt. Pim gave you to distribute among the servants, was that handed over to them?—Capt. Pim was the only person who left anything.

53,077. You divided Col. Dawkins into so much, and there was 16*l.* for servants, was that handed over to them?—No, I do not think it was. There is 40*l.* due to me from an overdrawn account, and I have an account unsettled which he said, when the thing was done, he should be ready to settle.

53,078. Was the 10*l.* distributed?—Yes, in rateable proportion.

53,079. That is besides your attendance?—No, we do not charge attendance.

53,080. Is 40*l.* the only sum between you in dispute?—There is no dispute. He acknowledges what few things there are.

Mr. T. H. Edmonds.

Mr. Thomas H. Edmonds recalled.

53,081. (Mr. Coleridge.) I wanted to ask you about the carriage account. How comes it that there is 46*l.* odd against Col. Dawkins, and in the expenses returned to the election agent only 24*l.* or 25*l.* in Mr. Heath's own bill?—I cannot account for that.

53,082. Was there a sum of 20*l.* more carriage hire had from other places?—Not that I am aware of.

53,083. Were there sums that were not prudent to and were charged to carriage hire which were not truly carriage hire?—Decidedly not.

53,084. How do you get it? There is between Capt. Pim and Col. Dawkins a sum of 28*l.* or 29*l.* more charged in the published expenses than is acknowledged by Mr. Heath, how do you account for it?—I cannot account for it in any way.

53,085. Do you know what is the amount of carriage hire from others besides Mr. Heath?—I do not know. When I got the bills I forwarded them to Messrs. Smith and Guscotte and they dealt with them.

53,086. You have no means of getting at the carriage hire except from Mr. Heath's bill?—No.

53,087. Do you know from whom they would be had besides Mr, Heath?—The only person would be Samuel Heard, but I am not aware.

53,088. Nothing like 25*l.* worth of carriage hire?—No, nothing like it, 4*l.* or 5*l.* I had nothing to do with paying the bills. They were sent to the election agent, and I forwarded them to Smith and Guscotte.

Mr. J. Heath.

Mr. John Heath recalled.

53,089. (The witness.) I think I can explain it. The committee-room, the tavern bill, the horse hire, and all those things were added into one lump sum and sub-divided.

(Mr. Coleridge.) It is added up to 1*s.* 2*d.*

53,890. (Mr. Bere.) You must have sent in an account to the election auditor for carriages and horses?—I was paid whatever I sent in.

53,091. You were paid 46*l.* odd?—Yes.

53,092. By cheque?—I do not know; I think Mr. Hamlyn paid it. The gross amount was sent in.

53,093. Do you recollect the amount of the payment?—No.

GEORGE TURPIN sworn and examined. G. Turpin.

53,094. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live?—At Weston.

53,095. What had you to do with elections?—I merely offered Robert Mogridge a little money.

53,096. When did you offer him the money?—The night before the last election.

53,097. How much did you offer him?—100*l.*

53,098. Who told you to?—Mr. Holman.

53,099. Where did you see him?—He came to see Mr. Mogridge.

53,100. Did he come with Mr. Chaster?—I do not know. I saw him there. Whether he came with him I do not know.

53,101. And Master Chaster, the little boy?—I never saw the little boy.

53,102. How came he to go to your house?—I do not know. I always had been a friend to them, and perhaps they thought I could get a vote at that time.

53,103. Did he owe you money at that time?—Yes.

53,104. He was ordered to go to your house because the Liberals thought you could exercise some influence?—He said he would not vote for either party unless he had the money beforehand, and I said "I will have nothing to do with you."

53,105. Did you offer anybody else any money?—No.

53,106. At any other time did you offer anybody else any money?—No.

53,107. Did you get any money yourself?—No.

53,108. Whom did you rent under?—The duke.

53,109. How long have you rented under the duke?—All my life.

53,110. You were under the old duke?—Yes.

53,111. Did you ever see the old duke?—Yes, I saw him once.

53,112. I suppose you paid rent to Mr. Michelmore?—Yes.

53,113. Did he once talk to you about your vote?—No.

53,114. Where is your estate?—Weston, in the parish of Berry Pomeroy.

53,115. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever have the voters there when they wanted country air?—No.

53,116. (Mr. Bere.) Is your farm within the borough boundaries?—Part of it, the orchards and fields at Bourton.

53,117. Is there a building in the orchard?—Yes, I was put off last year on account of want of repair.

53,118. Have you got on this year?—No, I did not try it.

53,119. Do you mean to try the next time?—Yes.

53,120. Was the building out of repair?—Yes.

53,121. What size is it?—40 feet square.

53,122. Was it wood?—No, walls.

53,123. With doors?—A door and window.

53,124. Do you remember when it was put up?—More than 30 years ago.

53,125. Do you remember when?—No.

53,126. Was it put up to make you a vote?—No, I voted on a dwelling house.

RICHARD NORRISH recalled. R. Norrish.

53,127. (Mr. Bere.) What story are you going to tell to-day; the same as yesterday?—Yes, it was Mr. John Heath, but he was so flabbergasted that day that he did not know what he was talking about.

53,128. What was he flabbergasted about?—He was doing too much business, I suppose.

53,129. You have heard what Mr. Heath has said to-day?—Yes.

53,130. (Mr. Longe.) Is it true?—No; Mr. Heath was the man who paid me, and no other.

53,131. (Mr. Bere.) Did anybody else ever pay you anything?—His son has.

53,132. When?—At the municipal elections.

53,133. In the Parliamentary election of 1865 except Mr. John Heath?—No.

THOMAS GILLHAM recalled. T. Gillham.

53,134. (Mr. Bere.) Do you wish to alter the evidence you gave yesterday?—It is the same.

53,135. Did you receive your money from Mr. Heath?—Yes.

53,136. And not the stranger?—No.

53,137. What you told us yesterday is true, and not what you told us before?—Yes, I was directed before. There is Mr. John Mitchell and Mr. Chaster who said I always received money. I totally deny it till the last election.

53,138. (Mr. Coleridge.) You were only bribed once?—Yes.

53,139. Did you ever have anything for the municipal election?—No. In fact I have been out of pocket.

53,140. (Mr. Bere.) Do you still say that Mr. John Heath told you before you were examined to conceal his name?—He did.

53,141. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you had any quarrel with Mr. John Heath?—No; more in friendship than quarrel.

53,142. (Mr. Longe.) Did you go to Mr. John Heath yesterday?—No. I never saw Mr. John Heath about it.

WILLIAM SATCHWELL recalled. W. Satchwell.

53,143. (Mr. Bere.) You did not tell us all you knew before?—I had spasms, and my head was in a bad state.

53,144. How much did you get in 1862 from Mr. Pender?—About 30*l.*

53,145. Who gave you that?—Mr. Parnell; my wife said she had 10*l.*, and what I had made 30*l.*

53,146. You got this from Mr. Parnell?—Yes.

53,147. In 1859 did you get 25*l.*?—Yes.

53,148. From whom did you get that?—Worthy came to my house and I found it on the floor after he went out.

53,149. Did you have some money in 1862?—Yes.

53,150. How much did you get then?—22*l.*

53,151. From whom did you get that?—I met Mr. Adams, and he said, "I shall be able to do something for you," and I said, "It is all right." I met him afterwards on the bridge, and he told me some story; and I said, "If you are flush let me have a couple of pounds," and he gave it to me; and sometime after the election, perhaps three weeks after the election, I met him again and he says, "I have got something at my house for you, when you like to call." I said, "the first time I go that way, I will look in." His wife was at the door, and I asked for him. She said, "he is very poorly," and she asked me to walk upstairs; and I went up and she put me into the room, and after that she gave me four 5*l.* notes.

53,152. Is Mr. Adams alive?—Yes; he is the organist.

53,153. Did Mr. Adams ever give you any money at any time?—No, not at all.

53,154. Have you told us the whole truth?—Yes, and nothing but the truth. I voted for Mr. Ricardo in 1857, and never had a penny and never offered anything. Nobody ever offered me anything at any election. What I got was unexpected.

53,155. What did you get in 1863?—Nothing at all.

53,156. In 1865?—I tendered my vote and got nothing for that; it was for Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour.

THIRTY-EIGHTH DAY.

1 Nov. 1866.

Thomas Gillham recalled and examined.

T. Gillham.

53,157. (Mr. Bere.) There is something you want to say, Mr. Gillham?—At the time of Pender and Dent, when Mr. Dent retired, John Mitchell, who was then a cider merchant, and has now retired, came to my house with a message, that there was a proffer for me.

53,158. What was the proffer?—200*l.*

George Mitchell recalled and examined.

G. Mitchell.

53,159. (Mr. Bere.) You are a master currier living in the borough?—Yes.

53,160. What loss has been occasioned to you by your attendance before the Commissioners?—I do not complain of any loss; I merely came as I understood it was necessary to get my clearance as to my being uncontaminated.

53,161. (Mr. Coleridge.) You apply for a certificate?—I understand expenses are allowed for trouble, but I do not make any charge.

53,162. (Mr. Bere.) We having announced that no persons who received or gave bribes would have expenses, you think if you do not get your expenses, it may be conceived that you have been refused them on the ground that you have received or given a bribe?—Just so.

53,163. That is not the ground on which we say that we do not think you are entitled to expenses; the ground on which we think that is, that you are a master currier resident in the town, by whom no loss has been sustained?—I do not claim any loss.

53,164. (Mr. Coleridge.) It is as well to tell you now, in order that it may be generally understood that if you require a certificate, you clearly would not be entitled to costs, because you must have done something wrong before you require a certificate.

53,165. (Mr. Bere.) I am glad you have made your application in the way you have?—I do not apply for anything in the shape of money.

Thomas Hunt Edmonds recalled and examined.

T. H. Edmonds.

53,166. (Mr. Bere.) You wish to explain something Mr. Edmonds, as to the sum of 200*l.*?—After Dent's election. I intended to have stated it on the first occasion, but when I came to that part some other question was put, and I forgot it afterwards. I mentioned it to Mr. Bowen afterwards. I paid Robert Gill 200*l.* after the election for Hannaford.

53,167. From whom did you get it?—Mr. Mitchell.

53,168. In gold?—Notes; after the election. We sent to Mr. Dent that there were certain sums to be paid afterwards and he sent down a roll of notes.

53,169. Whom did he send it to?—To Mr. Mitchell.

53,170. Was any money distributed at that election except by Mr. Mitchell?—Yes; there was a person who was a black man, and he distributed the greater portion of the money. I think he went away the day before the nomination day. I am not quite sure. There were several other sums to be paid; and Mr. Mitchell said, "I should like you to hand it over to the party who had the distribution of the money;" and I handed it over to him.

53,171. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know Snell?—I saw him I think on the nomination day.

53,172. He was here before the black man?—He was not here the last election, it was Dent's election.

53,173. Did you ever know a black man who goes by the name of Grant?—I never heard of any name. I also paid, after Dent's election, 40*l.* to Mrs. Paige, the wife of James Page. I sent a sort of begging note or letter to Mr. Mitchell, stating that they were in straightened circumstances, and he told me to give them 40*l.*, which I did.

53,174. Had you any money to distribute after that election?—No.

53,175. Applications were made to you to go to Mr. Mitchell, and ask for particular sums of money, and you did so?—Quite so.

53,176. Had you a large sum of money put into your hand for municipal purposes?—No; during the election I handed over to the runners sums of 1*l.*, sometimes 3*l.* or 4*l.*, during the course of the election.

53,177. (Mr. Bere.) Can you throw any further light upon this deficiency in the amount received from Colonel Dawkins and the amount expended?—No; I am sorry to say I cannot. After the adjournment I met Screach and Evens; and asked if they had paid any further sums. I found Evens had two or three sums that he fancied he had names to, and it proved it was not the case. I thought Screach had some other persons. I took out the names from the newspapers, and I took the list, and I said, "Are there any ones in "addition to those you have paid, because it is of im- "portance we should clear up the matter, and I hope "you will come forward;" and say he said, "No; he "could not mention more than he had."

53,178. (Mr. Coleridge.) You say from the first you never saw the mysterious stranger?—I never saw anybody except Snell; I had nothing to do with him.

53,179. Beyond what you have been told by others, you do not know that there was any mysterious stranger at all?—Certainly not.

53,180. It may all have been distributed by others, and there may not have been a stranger?—There are circumstances that seem to show that to a certain extent there was a stranger. I asked Mr. Heath to go to Mr. Mum for me, and ask for 80*l.* in order to settle up some money owing in respect of the municipal elections; and he went and brought the sum mentioned by me in my first examination.

53,181. (Mr. Bere.) Did he tell you from whence Mr. Heath got it?—No, he went and got it; I was determined not to have any communication with the stranger, and I kept entirely aloof from him.

John Jerman Phillips sworn and examined.

J. J. Phillips.

53,182. (Mr. Coleridge.) How much did you get in 1865 for your vote?—20*l.*

53,183. Did you give any I O U?—No.

53,184. Or sign any paper?—No.

53,185. Did you sign a paper for anything else?—I signed a paper to get someone down here.

53,186. That was the requisition?—I understood it was to Mr. Dent; that is all I ever signed.

53,187. Whom did you get the 20*l.* from?—Mr. Heath.

53,188. Did you get anything from Mr. Evens besides?—No; that was in 1863.

53,189. What did you get from him then?—30*l.*

53,190. Are you sure it was not 40*l.*?—I had 10*l.* from John Heath some time afterwards.

53,191. Making 40*l.* all together?—Yes; that made it 40*l.*

53,192. Did you sign a paper for that?—I did not.

53,193. (Mr. Bere.) Are you quite sure that you did not get the 40*l.* at the last election and not in 1863?—I am certain of that; I got 20*l.*; that was what I got.

53,194. (Mr. Coleridge.) Are you quite sure you did not get more than 20*l.* at the last election?—I am quite sure of that.

53,195. You are sure your wife did not get it?—Yes.

FREDERICK EVENS recalled.

53,196. (Mr. Bere.) Did you give John Jerman Phillips any money at the last election ?—I gave him 30*l.* or 40*l.*, I cannot say which.

53,197. Was that at the last election ?—It was in 1865, I think.

53,198. Are you quite sure of that ?—I would not swear to it.

53,199. Will you swear that you gave his wife anything at the last election ?—I gave his wife something, whether it was 30*l.* or 40*l.*, I cannot say.

53,200. Can you swear you gave her 30*l.* at the last election ?—Yes.

53,201. When ?—On the night before the nomination.

53,202. Where ?—In her kitchen.

53,203. You are not sure it was not in 1863 ?—I paid him at every election I think.

53,204. Did you ever pay his wife anything before? —Yes. I always paid the wife. I never had anything to do with the man.

53,205. How much did you pay him in Dunn's election ?—I paid the wife. I never had anything to do with the man. She is the master.

53,206. (Mr. Coleridge.) Can you help us as to any more of this money which is deficient ?—No more than I have told you.

53,207. (Mr. Bere.) How much did you keep yourself ?—I had 50*l.* for myself.

53,208. Is that all ?—Yes. I spent all that in electioneering ; I never was a pound the better of it myself.

53,209. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you still maintain that there was a stranger here ?—I do. I am positive of it.

53,210. A person whom you had never seen before? —Yes ; whom I have never seen before, or ever seen since.

53,211. Are you aware that your description of him differs very materially from that of Screach ?—I am quite aware of it.

53,212. And from that of Mr. Heath ?—That I cannot say.

53,213. Were there three strangers down here ?—I cannot say. I only saw one.

53,214. Was yours the fair stranger ?—No ; the dark one.

53,215. Did you ever have any conversation with the stranger ?—Yes.

53,216. What did you talk about. I do not mean when he was giving you money ; what general conversation had you with him ?—I had some general conversation with him.

53,217. Did you gather from him where he came from ?—No.

53,218. Did he tell you he had been at that business before ?—He said he had been at it before. He did not tell me what places he had been at.

53,219. Are you sure he did not tell you where he had been at work before ?—I am sure of that.

53,220. Did he tell you he knew Mr. Pender ?—No ; he never told me so.

53,221. You do not know whether he knew Mr. Pender or not ?—I do not.

53,222. Did you ever see Mr. Pender when you were out with the stranger ?—I have seen Mr. Pender come to several voters where I have been.

53,223. Where you have been with the stranger ?—No. I have been talking to the voters, and Mr. Pender has come in in two or three instances.

53,224. Mr. Pender never offered you any situation? —No.

53,225. You said the stranger was here some days before the election ?—Yes.

53,226. Did you know of his going to Plymouth ? —He went away, but where to I cannot tell. I went into his room and I could not find him.

53,227. Did you see him going away ?—No.

53,228. Did you go to the station with him ?—No; I had plenty of other work to do.

53,229. Have you been to London to try and find the stranger ?—No. If I had seen him, I should have asked him to come down and clear us up a little if he would.

SAMUEL HILLEY recalled.

53,230. (Mr. Bere.) Have you heard what your wife said to-day, about the 5*l.* which you got from Mr. Heath ?—Yes.

53,231. You forgot to tell us yesterday of the 5*l.* which you had got from Mr. John Heath ?—Yes, I did.

53,232. But you did get it ?—I did.

53,233. Are you quite sure it was not 10*l.* ?—I am certain it was not 10*l.*

53,234. Is there anything else which you forgot to tell us yesterday ?—No ; nothing.

SAMUEL HEARD recalled.

53,235. (Mr. Coleridge.) How much carriage hire were you paid by the Conservatives at the last election ?—Some 2*l.* or 3*l.*

53,236. Not more than that ?—I think not.

53,237. (Mr. Bere.) You say there was some person present when you were paid this 20*l.* ?—Yes. I wish to clear my character.

53,238. Who do you say was present ?—Mr. Edmonds.

53,239. Where was he present ?—In the little room upstairs, on the left.

53,240. Mr. Heath paid you ?—Yes. I beg to state that at Mr. Dent's election I had been working for them, and had had a carriage knocked to pieces of the value of 50*l.*, and I was promised payment for that ; as Mr. Dent retired, I did not get the money.

53,241. When you were examined on a former occasion you said this, "From whom did you get the "20*l.* ?—From Mr. John Heath. Where did you "get it ?—In the lobby of the 'Seven Stars.' Were "there other people there getting money besides "you ?—There were no persons there but me and "Mr. Heath." Now you tell us you got paid in a little room on the top of the stairs in Mr. Edmond's presence ?—I call that the lobby, the head of the stairs.

53,242. Which is true, that there was no one there or that Mr. Edmonds was there ?—Mr. Edmonds will state that he was present.

(Mr. Edmonds.) I am quite sure that I was not present.

(The witness.) When Mr. Heath gave me 20*l.* I said that was a long way short of 50*l.* for the carriage that had been knocked to pieces at Mr. Dent's election, and Mr. Edmonds said, "That will be all right," I said, "You are a gentleman, and I will take your word for it." I have applied to Mr. Edmonds at different times for a further sum.

(Mr. Edmonds.) I am quite aware of that ; I admit that ; there I agree with you.

53,243. (Mr. Bere.) Did he mention to you, Mr. Edmonds, that a carriage of his had been destroyed at Mr. Dent's election ?

(Mr. Edmonds.) Yes ; I think there was some mention of that ; he said there had been a carriage of his destroyed at Mr. Dent's election, for which he thought he ought to be paid.

(The witness.) Mr. Edmonds can testify I never gave any such paper as that.

53,244. (Mr. Bere.) Mr. Edmonds says he never gave you anything of the kind ?

(The witness.) He was there and can swear to it.

THIRTY-EIGHTH DAY.

S. Heard.

1 Nov. 1866.

Sometimes I sign my name shortly, sometimes in full. Mr. Bryett, I daresay, has 40 bills of mine which I can refer to. That is not my handwriting; it is too large. I did not consider that the 20*l.* I had was in consideration of my vote, but for the loss I had sustained the election before. You should ask Mr. Heath whether I ever gave him that paper.

53,245. (Mr. Coleridge.) He says that he saw you sign it.

53,246. (Mr. Bere.) He says that you signed it in the room when you were paid the money,

(Mr. Edmonds.) My idea is that when he applied to me afterwards for a further sum he said that he had had 30*l.*; that is my own impression.

(The witness.) I went into the "Seven Stars" tap and counted it. I applied to you for 30*l.*; the remark that you made to me was that you would see I should be paid the remainder.

W. Hannaford.

WILLIAM HANNAFORD sworn and examined.

53,247. (Mr. Bere.) You were the agent for election expenses for Colonel Dawkins at the last election?—I was.

53,248. Have you got the bills?—They were handed back to the town clerk.

53,249. Did you, yourself, pay all the sums of money that are mentioned in that account?—The list was given to me by Mr. Edmonds or by his clerk; the papers came from Mr. Edmonds' office, and they were sent back to London after they had been examined to get a cheque for the amount.

53,250. Who paid the individual items?—I did.

53,251. Amongst other items did you pay 46*l.* 2*s.* for horse and carriage hire?—No doubt I did.

53,252. Cannot you remember what you paid for horse and carriage hire to Mr. Heath at the "Seven Stars?"—I cannot remember exactly the amount.

53,253. Did you pay the amounts by separate cheques?—No; they were paid by one cheque through Mr. Edmonds. I cashed it and paid the amounts in money not in cheques.

53,254. Did you go round to the different people and pay them in cash?—I did.

53,255. Do you remember how much you paid Mr. Heath at the "Seven Stars" for horse and carriage hire?—That I cannot remember.

53,256. How much was it altogether?—I think 170*l.* or 180 for Colonel Dawkins; I had nothing to do with Captain Pim.

53,257. (Mr. Longe.) Out of that amount how much was published in the election expenses account?—I cannot tell. I believe that the whole was published.

53,258. Did you see the items to which you put your name?—I saw the account that was delivered in.

53,259. Are you aware of the items to which you put your name?—All that were down in the list sent in I paid.

53,260. You paid Mr. Heath over 100*l.*?—I should say I did.

53,261. (Mr. Bere.) What business had you to pay Mr. Heath over 100*l.*?—I was desired to do so.

53,262. Who gave you the money?—Mr. Edmonds.

53,263. How much did the bills amount to altogether?—Over 300*l.*

53,264. (Mr. Coleridge.) You have only returned 279*l.*?—I cannot tell how that is. I did not make up the account; the town clerk made up the account.

(Mr. Edmonds.) I think I can explain that. The accounts are to be published by the mayor, who is the returning officer. Mr. Hannaford, the election agent, had nothing to do with it. Mr. Phillips, the mayor, considered that under the act he was not allowed to publish these expenses.

53,265. (Mr. Longe.) Are you aware that under the Act of Parliament you are liable to a penalty of 5*l.* for not returning those expenses?—I was not aware of that.

53,266. You paid Colonel Dawkins' hotel expenses at the "Stars"?—I did.

53,267. You did not return those to the returning officer?—I thought I had returned every item.

53,268. You signed your name to the published expenses not including the hotel bill?—I suppose I did so; I did what I was desired to do by the town clerk.

53,269. Did you get anything for your vote at the last election?—No.

53,270. Did you ever give any one anything?—No.

53,271. Did your wife ever get anything?—No.

53,272. You got 20*l.* as the agent for the election expenses?—I did.

53,273. All you have to do is to get the bills, pay them, and hand them over to the returning officer?—Yes.

53,274. Have you always voted for the Conservatives?—Yes.

Mrs. Griffis.

Mrs. GRIFFIS sworn and examined.

53,275. (Mr. Bere.) Are you the wife of George Griffis?—Yes.

53,276. You got money from both parties last time?—I did.

53,277. How much did you get, and who gave it you on the Conservative side?—No one gave it to me.

53,278. Where did you get it?—I got it on the table in a room in John Heath's house.

53,279. At the "Seven Stars?"—Yes.

53,280. What room was it?—A room on the left-hand side going in to the front door.

53,281. Was anybody in the room when you got it?—No one in the room but me.

53,282. Whom did you see?—I saw two men. I was coming out again. I went in and saw Mr. Heath and another.

53,283. Do you know who the other was?—No, a stranger.

53,284. Who told you to go into the room?—He pointed to me, and I would not go at first; some one came out and told my husband he was wanted, two or three times. He would not go in, and I went in.

53,285. You were told you would find something for him?—Yes.

53,286. What did you find there?—100*l.*

53,287. Was it in gold or notes?—Part in each.

53,288. Did you take it up and put it in your pocket?—I never looked at it; I never was told what it was.

53,289. You took it up and took it home and counted it?—I did not till I got home, I never said a word.

53,290. How much did you get on the other side?—30*l.*

53,291. Where did you get it?—It was some time after the election; I think a week after.

53,292. Who gave it to you?—Mr. Searle gave it me.

53,293. (Mr. Coleridge.) Which way did your husband vote?—One for each.

53,294. Did Mr. Heath ever ask you to give back any of the 100*l.*?—No; I would not do it if he was to.

53,295. Did you keep the money from your husband?—Yes. I always keep the money.

53,296. (Mr. Longe.) Had your husband promised two votes when you got the 100*l.*?—He promised Pender and Dawkins, no one else.

53,297. Had he not promised two votes for the Conservatives when you got the money?—No.

53,298. (Mr. Coleridge.) When did you first tell your husband you had got it?—I did not tell him.

53,299. He did not know it till to-day?—I told him I had some money, but I did not say what.

53,300. (Mr. Bere.) Did not Finch, Mr. Durant's steward, pay you some?—No, not a farthing, or a farthing's worth, in any shape or form, and he never promised anything; no doubt about that.

53,301. (Mr. Coleridge.) You did not mention it before the mistake about this 100*l.*?—No, not at all. I had it myself and kept it.

53,302. Are you sure it was not 50*l.*?—I am certain of it.

53,303. What was it in?—Paper; a parcel in a little bag.

53,304. Was it in notes or gold?—Part in each. I could not tell you how much in each.

53,305. How many sovereigns were there?—I could not tell you.

53,306. More than 20 sovereigns?—I do not know.

53,307. Were there 10?—Oh, yes; a little more than 10; it was not a very big parcel.

53,308. What sort of notes were they?—I would not be certain about that.

53,309. Was it a fifty pound note, or fives, or what?—I am not certain about that; I had then 100*l.* of my own when I came home from Cornwall.

53,310. What did you do with the 100*l.*?—I cannot tell you; my husband never asked me that.

53,311. You had 100*l.* of your own at that time?—Nearly 100*l.*

53,312. Was it in notes or gold?—I think part in each; I brought it home with me.

53,313. What did you do with the 100*l.* which you got from Mr. Heath, did you pay it into a bank?—No.

53,314. What did you do with it?—Paid it where I owed it.

53,315. Did you pay away the whole 230*l.*, or have you got any of it now?—I have not got it now. I had borrowed money, and I paid Mr. Bourne over 40*l.* I paid many things, I could not tell you all. I was ill a long time, and I do not remember everything.

53,316. You must try and tell us how you did pay it; we have been told it was only 50*l.*?—It was 100*l.*

53,317. We want to know how you got rid of the 230*l.* Mr. Bourne 40*l.*?—Over 40*l.*

53,318. What is the next?—10*l.* to Mr. Eale; 8*l.* to Mr. Pack, of which I have the receipt at home.

53,319. Have you not got receipts for all these things?—Yes.

53,320. Who else?—I cannot tell you.

53,321. That is only 58*l.* out of the 230*l.*?—I got 100*l.* I do not know which way it all goes.

53,322. Tell us some more?—I had 100*l.* from Mr. Heath, and I had 30*l.* from Mr. Searle. I daresay if I looked at the receipts I could find out.

53,323. We must know how you got rid of the 230*l.*?—I could find it out, but I did not spend it all at once.

53,324. You paid it all away very soon?—I had not got any left three months after.

53,325. Did you have any conversation with Mr. Bryett about your husband's vote that election?—He never mentioned anything to me.

53,326. Did you tell him it was necessary he should give both votes for the Conservatives?—No; I met Mr. Narramore in the street, and he says, "Your husband must vote for both," and I said, "He has promised Mr. Pender." He says, "He must vote for both."

53,327. Did you not send up to Mr. Bryett?—Never.

53,328. Did you try and get him to vote for both?—I would if he was wanted.

53,329. Did you tell Narramore how much you had got?—He did not mention anything to me.

53,330. When you were bargaining for your husband's votes?—I never did make any bargain at all more than I tell you now.

53,331. You said you would try and get him to vote for both?—It was my wish he should.

53,332. Did you try to get him to do so?—I would if it had been required. They did not want him at this election.

53,333. How do you mean?—He had promised he would do as he liked; he would not be told by me.

53,334. Nobody told him he would be wanted?—No one came. He said to me, "He must vote for both," but my husband is not going to be told by a bit of a boy like that to say he must do a thing.

53,335. Did you try?—No, I did not.

53,336. Bring up the receipts?—I do not know that I shall be able to come again, for I have been ill 10 weeks.

53,337. (Mr. Bere.) When did you tell your husband that you had had 100*l.* from Mr. Heath?—I did not tell him.

53,338. He has sworn here you told him you got 50*l.*?—My husband never asked me about the money at all.

53,339. Your husband has told us here that you got 50*l.* from Mr. John Heath, and you told him on the day after the election; why did you not tell him what it was?—I did not choose to tell him.

53,340. Did you tell him you got 50*l.* of Mr. John Heath?—I do not know.

53,341. You did not?—I told him that something would be given.

53,342. (Mr. Coleridge.) What is your husband?—A dealer in timber.

53,343. What amount of money does he turn in the course of a year, roughly?—I cannot say. We pay cash for everything, and do not keep an account.

53,344. If you pay cash for everything, how came you to be 230*l.* in debt at the time of the election?—I was not in debt. I spent it I said.

53,345. Just after the election you told me. Among these receipts there is Robert Bourne you paid 42*l.* 6*s.* 3*d.* That is the 13th July 1865. Blackler, 3*l.* 4*s.*, balance due?—Yes, that was 15*l.* He had 15*l.* altogether; the other he had before, that was the balance.

53,346. When did he have the other?—He had the other just about a month before.

53,347. Here is a bill, "14 days after date, pay to "my order the sum of 7*l.* 13*s.* 4*d.*, value received, "E. Griffiths." That was paid?—That was timber I bought over at Bridgetown.

53,348. Then 1*l.* 18*s.* 3*d.* to Knapman. Then there is the Duke of Somerset for timber, Nov. 9th, 1865?—I paid the man when I bought it.

53,349. If you paid it you have a receipt?—No, I gave the money there and then. It will be in their books.

53,350. Henry Bartlett, July 17th, 8*l.* 9*s.* 6*d.*?—Very likely it is paid and not receipted.

53,351. How long after the election was it before you had got rid of all this money; how many months?—Oh, I turned it over perhaps a month or two.

53,352. How long after the election was it that you spent the last of this 230*l.*?—Perhaps eight or nine months.

53,353. Had you spent it all by Christmas?—No.

53,354. What do you think was the latest time before you had got rid of it all?—I think the last money was when I paid Mr. Bastard. It was all I had.

53,355. How much was that?—It was 40*l.*, I think. You will see a receipt there for 80*l.*

53,356. What does that one for 80*l.* mean?—For timber; I paid him two 40*l.*'s.

53,357. "Recd. from George Griffiths & Messrs. Beer & Prant?"—That was the cheque we gave him.

53,358. Where did you get it from?—Mr. Beer and Mr. Prant. That had nothing to do with this money.

53,359. That was 40*l.* that was paid by Beer and Prant's cheque?—Yes—no, I think it is not more than 10*l.* cheque which I received from them. I carried 30*l.* over, I think, the evening before.

THIRTY-EIGHTH DAY.

Mrs. Griffis.

1 Nov. 1866.

53,360. Which was it?—I cannot be certain, but at all events 40*l.*; that was my own.

53,361. You consider all the money got for your husband's vote your own money?—Yes, it was given to me.

53,362. For your influence over your husband?—No.

53,363. Did not you give him anything?—I gave him a suit of clothes.

53,364. No; he never has any money; he lets me take the money.

53,365. Here is December; for goods carriage, 2*l.* 19*s.* "John Searle, meat and cash." Had John Searle been lending you money?—No; he owed us 17*l.*, and that was the bill, "Meat and cash, 10*l.* 11*s.* 9*d.*"

53,366. That was before the election?—It was not paid then.

53,367. When was it paid?—Before he went away to America.

53,368. When was that?—Not many weeks gone.

53,369. Long after you got rid of the money?—No. He had a trap of us, 15*l.*, and wood of us, 2*l.*; that was 17*l.*

53,370. The last you paid, you say, was to Mr. Bastard?—That was paid before that.

53,371. You say it was not paid the date it bears?—Of course the trap cost money, that was 15*l.*, and 2*l.* wood out of some tops of trees—17*l.*

53,372. "Ash trees, 4*l.* 6*s.* 0*d.*?"—I sent and paid that since, and our man took out a note and put a receipt on the envelope, which I cannot find. That is paid.

53,373. April 25th 1866, 1*l.* 16*s.*; and here is August 8th, 4*l.* 8*s.* 6*d.*?—That is not all that is paid.

53,374. What else is there?—15*l.* to Mr. Cull, of Newton, timber merchant.

53,375. Anybody else?—Yes, Mr. Hill, of Staverton, 10*l.*

53,376. What for?—Timber.

53,377. When was it paid?—The latter part of July.

53,378. What else?—I cannot say what I paid the bank.

53,379. Do you keep a banking book?—No.

53,380. When you put it in you get some receipt?—No. When I have had anything and when the time has been I pay it.

53,381. The bank give you some receipt?—No, they do not; you pay it in and never get it.

53,382. Are you always in debt to the bank?—Not always.

53,383. What bank do you bank with?—The Devon and Cornwall.

53,384. About how much did you pay them?—I never paid in any. I mean to say I have paid the bill at the Devon and Cornwall. Perhaps I gave a bill. I paid Mr. Heath over 20*l.*; I think over 30*l.*

53,385. Mr. John Heath?—Yes.

53,386. What for?—Timber.

53,387. Is Mr. John Heath a timber merchant?—No, an auctioneer.

53,388. When did you pay that?—In the last winter. I went down and paid the bill to Mr. George Heath, and he did not give me a receipt. He said he would send it up, but I never had it.

53,389. How did you pay it?—In sovereigns, I think.

53,390. Whose timber was it?—I cannot tell you; near Rolster Bridge.

53,391. You paid George Heath over 30*l.*?—Yes, Mr. Heath or Mr. George Heath; it was the auctioneer.

53,392. When did you pay for the timber?—I paid 20*l.* for our rent to Mr. Bryett for the orchard and the rent for our house.

53,393. What became of the money from the business all this time?—We did owe twelvemonth's rent in Cornwall.

53,394. (Mr. Bere.) Did you keep any books?—My husband just keeps an account book in his pocket for cutting down timber, and that is all. You have had our books here.

53,395. Does not he keep any other book?—No, because we pay cash for everything.

53,396. If you pay cash for everything how came you to be so much in debt?—Because my husband got into trouble through a little matter, and we lost all this money.

53,397. (Mr. Coleridge.) Are you quite certain that it was 100*l.* you got from Mr. Heath?—Quite certain.

53,398. Was it altogether a mistake your telling your husband that you only got 50*l.*?—Not a mistake of mine; I did not tell him.

53,399. Why should you have anything; you do not vote?—I do not care; I work and get the money.

53,400. Then you think the person who gets the money ought to be paid for the vote?—Yes. You must please to remember that we pay 10*l.* a-week wages to our men.

53,401. Do you mean that you would have had to give up business altogether if there were no elections here?—I did not want the elections.

53,402. You got 130*l.*?—Well, I did not have anything before, and they had 300*l.* out of me before that. My husband had his goods sold twice.

53,403. How had your husband voted before?—He did not vote for the duke's party when at Bridgetown, and then they put a distress in on us and sold all our things.

53,404. Was it a distress for rent or what?—Yes, they put in for rent first, and then they put in for timber.

53,405. Timber the duke had sold you?—No, from other parties; I do not think anything from the duke.

53,406. And that cost you 300*l.*?—No, we had this little vessel down there we had put all our money in, and that was taken away from us on account of that.

53,407. It was sold to pay the debt?—Yes.

53,408. You would have had to pay the debt at all events?—Yes, but when it was finished, we had enough money to pay everybody, and many were paid afterwards.

53,409. What year was it that this vessel was sold?—1863.

53,410. What time in 1863 was it?—I could not tell you exactly now.

53,411. Was it after the election of 1863?—Yes, after the election of 1863; he would not vote.

53,412. Did he vote against Mr. Seymour?—Yes.

53,413. Did he vote for Mr. Dent?—Yes.

53,414. What did he get for voting for Dent?—Not anything.

53,415. What did you get?—I did not get anything.

53,416. Was it in 1862, at the time when Mr. Dent retired, or when he had the fight with Mr. Seymour?—That I cannot tell you.

53,417. Did you get nothing at the election of Mr. Dent?—No.

53,418. What would you have had if it had gone on?—If they had finished the vessel for us we offered to give them all the power we had.

53,419. You had promised Mr. Dent?—No, I had promised some of the party.

53,420. That was to vote against Mr. Seymour?—Yes; I said if they would take our vessel and finish it, or lend us any money, they might take the vessel; we would give it up to them.

53,421. Who was it that came to you from the Conservatives?—I think it was Mr. John Heath who came to us.

53,422. Did you say how much it would cost to finish the vessel?—I said about 200*l.*; I said I would not have anything from them.

53,423. You said if they finished the vessel they might have it?—Yes, they might take the vessel.

53,424. And they did do so?—They sold us out. I have had something in return, and I think I am quits with them.

53,425. Did they do anything with the vessel?—

They sold us out; Mr. Heath, I think, was the auctioneer.

53,426. Did they finish it?—They finished it in that way.

53,427. And you got 130*l.* in lieu of all that?—Yes, and I well deserved it; I think I am quits with them now.

WILLIAM HAMLYN sworn and examined.

53,428. (Mr. Bere.) Were you the agent for the election expenses for Captain Pim at the last election?—Yes.

53,429. What sum of money did you receive for the payment of those expenses?—I should tell you it was quite by chance that I have the documents. They were sent to the town clerk at the time, and I happened to keep copies. The total amount I paid was 266*l.* 2*s.* 7½*d.* That is only a rough copy, and I am not sure about the exact amount. There was some alteration made afterwards.

53,430. You paid John Heath 110*l.* 3*s.*?—Yes.

53,431. And out of that 110*l.* 3*s.* the returning officer has only entered in the list of expenses 27*l.* 18*s.* for horses and carriage hire?—I should tell you that the bills as originally sent in to me from Mr. Heath were 110*l.* 3*s.* 1*d.* I sent to the town clerk subsequently, and the town clerk sent and told me it was desirable to alter the bills; that it should be stated 61*l.* 8*s.*, and hotel expenses 31*l.* 15*s.*, and the bills were made out in that way by Heath; so much for committee-room.

53,432. What, committee 61*l.*?—Yes, and I may tell you that I thought it very high; and I wrote to Captain Pim and told him that I considered the hotel expenses were very high, and he sent me back a letter. I have a copy of the letter that he sent, that I was not to trouble myself about Heath's bills, as he considered they were satisfactory; that or words to that effect. I have the letter from Captain Pim.

53,433. Have you got the original charges sent in by Mr. Heath?—No, I have not; these are all the papers I have.

53,434. (Mr. Coleridge.) What was the enclosure in this; have you that?—Perhaps it was a 50*l.* cheque, which makes 266*l.*

53,435. This is a letter written to you, "11 Belsize Square, Hampstead, 1865. My dear sir, read the enclosed, and then deliver it to Mr. Kellock." What was that?—That was relative to some extra expenses that Mr. Kellock had incurred, not included in a regular bill.

53,436. What sort of expenses?—Mr. Kellock told me that there was an extra committee-room, and money that he had paid for this room for getting it ready for the use of the election.

53,437. That was all?—I think there were other things.

53,438. What were they?—I do not remember any particular items.

53,439. You do not know what they amount to?—He did not tell me any amount.

53,440. It was "Read the enclosed, and then "deliver it to Mr. Kellock. If he declines to pay the 'sum total then you must take the amount he 'mentioned as having ready, and I will send you a "cheque for the 110*l.* 3*s.* hotel bill. I am anxious "that there should not be the semblance even of any-"thing unpleasant; but I think you will agree with "me that 144*l.* is a good slice for one person to take "out of me, and if it can be prevented all the better. "I should have replied at once, but have been away "in the country. Write to me at once and let us "settle this business immediately. Yours truly, "BEDFORD C. PIM." What is it?—140*l.* I had to apply to Mr. Kellock for this money.

53,441. What is the 144*l.*? Is not that what Mr. Kellock wanted for the committee-room and the expenses?—I do not think it was.

53,442. Can you tell me who the "one person" referred to is, as having 144*l.*?—I think it was not one person.

53,443. He says, "I think you will agree with me "that 144*l.* is a good slice for one person to take out "of me, and if it can be prevented all the better."

53,444. (Mr. Bere.) Does it not refer to Mr. Heath's bill?—No, I think not.

53,445. Can you at all explain what that 144*l.* means?—Not for the moment.

53,446. Mr. Kellock has only entered 25*l.*?—I received in all 266*l.*, 216*l.* from Mr. Kellock, and 50*l.* from Captain Pim.

53,447. (Mr. Longe.) You made that?—I received it and paid it.

53,448. The only published account is 216*l.* 10*s.*?—It is 266*l.*

53,449. But you only published 216*l.* 10*s.*?—I gave it in to the town clerk.

53,450. What did you sign your name to?—266*l.*

53,451. And the town clerk altered it, and signed your name?—I do not know; the papers are with the town clerk. Those are merely rough copies, and there are many alterations made.

53,452. Did you see the published accounts in the papers?—No, I did not. I saw the paper of course, that went to the town clerk, and that is the only money that I saw. That is the only authentic document in the town clerk's papers.

53,453. That is the document with your signature to it (referring)?—Yes, 266*l.*

53,454. (Mr. Coleridge.) When were you appointed election agent?—Shortly before the election.

53,455. Had you known Captain Pim before?—Never till he came and solicited my vote.

53,456. When did he first call? Because here is a letter of the 6th May 1865. That is a month before the election, or two months?—I had no correspondence with him before the election.

53,457. The 5th May 1865 is a mistake for 1866?—It must be.

53,458. He says, "I am in receipt of yours of the "2nd instant, and last night a letter arrived from Mr. "Kellock. Captain Veitch will show you my reply to "Mr. Kellock before he forwards it, and I hope my "compromise will conclude the business; but in case "this satisfactory arrangement cannot be made, Cap-"tain Veitch will kindly conclude the affair for me, "as I especially feel ashamed of keeping tradesmen "out of their bills. I enclose cheque for 50*l.*, which "I know you will agree with me ought to suffice. "Yours truly, BEDFORD J. PIM." What does that allude to?—To certain things. I told you that Mr. Kellock had one which ought to be included.

53,459. Did you receive this in May of this year?—Yes. I did not know him before this election.

53,460. Then on the 7th September Captain Pim writes: "I return you the bills as desired, and beg "you will not think of troubling yourself about Mr. "Heath's charges. I am very glad that the matter "is now settled, and can only return you my hearty "thanks for the trouble you have taken and the very "kind desire you have evinced to have the business "transacted 'on the square.' Yours very truly, "BEDFORD C. PIM" What does that mean, having had the business transacted "on the square"?—I do not know, unless he is a mason; I am not.

53,461. Is that a term with freemasons?—Yes, I believe so.

53,462. Have you never heard that "conducting business on the square" means, conducting it honestly?—No.

53,463. You can explain that 144*l.*?—No; you see that a great deal took place between Captain Veitch and Mr. Kellock; and therefore I knew nothing of the demand from Mr. Kellock. I do not know what it was, but he told me there were certain expenses.

THIRTY-EIGHTH DAY.

W. Hamlyn.

1 Nov. 1866.

53,464. That is a copy of the account sent to the returning officer?—Yes, that is the original there.

53,465. Are the hotel expenses then 110*l.*?—Yes.

53,466. The 110*l.* 3*s.* was altered at the suggestion of the town clerk? —Or his son. His son called me into the counting-house.

53,467. You thought it was part of your duty to alter it at the town clerk's suggestion?—Yes.

53,468. Just see if you do not know something about that 144*l.* that one person is going to take out of Captain Pim?—The letter that was enclosed I sent to Mr. Kellock. It did not concern me, and I have forgotten it.

53,469. But Captain Pim asks you for your advice whether the 144*l.* is not rather a strong measure, and surely you can tell us who that person was?—I do not know whether Captain Pim paid any money to Mr. Kellock that did not come through me.

53,470. He is talking about the compromise, and he says 144*l.* is rather a strong charge?—I think you will find that 144*l.* will be the whole of the hotel expenses, that is all, except Mr. Heath's bill. I think you will find that it comes to something about that.

53,471. The committee-room and horse and carriage hire together come to 145*l.*?—That is about it.

53,472. That cannot be it?—110*l.* 3*s.* was Mr. Heath's charge.

53,473. Out of the 110*l.* 3*s.* 50*l.* is left in the shape of horse and carriage hire, and committee-rooms?—110*l.* is the amount of Mr. Heath's bill sent in to me.

53,474. This 144*l.* odd must go to some person?—Yes.

53,475. Can you tell me who that person was; 144*l.* is a good deal to take out of one person's pocket?—I tell you what I believe it to be. After deducting the 110*l.* 3*s.*, it leaves, I think, 144*l.* Mr. Kellock told me that he had enough to pay everything except the hotel expenses.

53,476. But the figures would not be right then?—The original account is the only one that I have to go by.

53,477. (Mr. Longe.) Did not you have any conversation about leaving out the hotel bill with the returning officer?—His son called upon me and told me it was necessary to alter the amounts in this way.

53,478. There is a difference in the amount; it is 266*l.*, what you signed your name to?—Yes.

53,479. And the 216*l.* is the amount put. He struck 50*l.* out of your account?—I cannot explain that.

53,480. Had you any conversation about the valuation?—I had not.

53,481. Did you ever know that it was altered?—I did not till now. I know that I received 266*l.*, and that is the amount that I paid; and these accounts I had promiscuously, and if the Commission had not been here they would have been destroyed.

The following account was put in:

WM. HAMLYN, W. H.
Agent for election expenses.

I hereby certify that these bills have all been paid by me and the vouchers handed over to the town clerk (G. Presswell, Esq.,) as required by Act of Parliament.
W. H., 12/9/1865.

Mrs. A. Phillips.

Mrs. ANNE PHILLIPS sworn and examined.

53,482. (Mr. Bere.) Did you get any money at the last election?—No.

53,483. When did you get any?—The first I received was Dunn's election in 1859.

53,484. How much did you get?—20*l.*

53,485. Who brought it to you?—Mr. Evan Evens.

53,486. Who brought you the money in Dent's election?—Mr. Frederick Evens.

53,487. How much?—30*l.*

53,488. Are you sure that he did not pay you a sum of money the last time?—I never saw him in my house.

53,489. Did you find something in your house?—No.

53,490. Were you paid any money at the last election?—Not a farthing.

53,491. Never by anyone?—No.

53,492. Do you know that your husband had some money?—He brought me some home.

53,493. How much did he bring you home?—20*l.*; 40 half-sovereigns altogether.

J. W. Chaster.

JOHN WEBBER CHASTER recalled.

53,494. (Mr. Bere.) Is the Bowden Company the same as the Colly Park Meadow Company?—No; it is "Building in Barn Field Bowden, and land called "Barn Field, Garden Park Lawn, Stone Park, Town "Park, Little Farm Park, and Wide Gate's Park."

53,495. Is that the company called the Clerical Company?—No; that was another company.

53,496. Will you give us the names?—Those are the names. I can verify them, having been the churchwarden who signed the list. John Cockrem, Elliott Coulton, Thomas Harris, John Johns, Philip Michelmore, Richard Maye, Richard Maye, jun., Henry Maye, William Peeke, Philip Symons, Philip Symons, junr., Herman Taylor, Richard Tucker.

53,497. When was the Bowden Company established?—It was not established; it was only attempted, in 1864.

53,498. Who was the manager of it?—I think Robert Harris; the only person in occupation was Herman Taylor.

53,499. What were the other companies which have been alluded to?—I think there are two companies in Broomborough, which have not turned up.

53,500. One was the Clerical Company, the other the Colly Park Meadow Company?—Yes; the Clerical Company went down; they did not like to swear hard enough.

53,501. Was there any other company?—There was a small company of three, Elliott Coulton, David White, and a man of the name of Gidley. I mention this, as a reason to show why the Gerston Company was attempted as a counterpoise. There were some other names, Mason, Elliott, and Penny.

53,502. Did they succeed in establishing themselves?—They did not; they were only attempts; those were all in 1864.

WILLIAM COULTON recalled.

53,503. (Mr. Bere.) Are we to understand that the occupation of White, Gidley, and yourself, of this property, was a bonâ fide occupation?—Yes, it was.

53,504. You stocked the land with your own cattle?—Yes.

53,505. You have seen them there, and know them to have been there?—Yes, I do.

53,506. (Mr. Chaster.) The peculiarity in this case was, that the building was on Mr. Phillips' curtilage, and was approached through doors fastened by Mr. Phillips every night. The land was distinct; they did occupy the land.

JOHN SOUTHWOOD sworn and examined.

53,507. (Mr. Bere.) Did not John Tucker come to you in 1863, and offer you some money?—I do not recollect how it was. I know John Tucker of Rolster Bridge.

53,508. Did not John Tucker, the butcher, come to you in 1863, and offer you 25*l.*?—He was out there once or twice. I do not know in particular that he offered me any money; he said, if I liked to take some money, and tell him where to put it, he would go and put it there, and I might go and find it.

53,509. Did you tell him?—No; his money was of no use to me.

53,510. Why not?—I would not take it.

53,511. You rent some land under Mr. Parker?—Yes.

53,512. And you get your qualification from him?—Yes.

53,513. Do you know that Mr. Edmonds wrote to him about your vote?—I received a letter from Mr. Parker, saying he knew there would be a contest for Totnes, and he did not like to interfere with Mr. Durant's wishes.

53,514. You were to vote as Mr. Durant wished?—Yes.

53,515. Did you give the letter to Tucker?—He came to me and asked me for Mr. Parker's address.

53,516. Did you give him the letter?—That I cannot tell.

53,517. He has produced the letter before us?—There was something said about a letter. I suppose I did give it him.

53,518. You did not take the money?—No.

53,519. Did you get any money on the other side?—Not a farthing; I told him that his money was no good to me.

Adjourned to to-morrow at 9 o'clock.

THIRTY-NINTH DAY.

Friday, 2nd November 1866.

Mr. HAMLYN recalled and further examined.

53,520. (Mr. Bere.) There was some uncertainty about the account of yesterday?—Yes, I have asked about the account published and the account that I gave, and from a copy of the letter which I had I am reminded that a sum of 48*l.* was paid by Captain Pim separately at the town clerk's request by me, and the vouchers were forwarded to Captain Pim; and deducting that from the amount given, it would make the amount published. I did not remember it last evening.

53,521. Have you been able to come to any conclusion with regard to the meaning of that part of Captain Pim's letter about 144*l.*?—I cannot throw any light upon it. I suppose it refers to Mr. Kellock. I believe it does.

(Mr. Coleridge.) If anybody can explain that, Mr. Kellock can.

RICHARD DURANT, Esq., sworn and examined.

53,522 (Mr. Bere.) Do you live at Sharpham?—Yes.

53,523. How long have you been in possession of that property?—Upwards of 20 years.

53,524. Did you buy it of Mr. Bastard?—Yes.

53,525. Was he a Conservative or a Liberal?—I believe a Conservative.

53,526. You have a vote for Totnes?—Yes.

53,527. And I believe always voted for the Liberals?—Yes, I am not quite sure whether in the early part I might not—I do not know whether I voted or not, but at any rate I should have voted for a Conservative when I first came, if I had voted—I am not sure whether I voted or not; but I recollect suggesting to my tenants to vote for Baldwin and Seymour at the early part of my residence here; and therefore I should have voted if I had been here.

53,528. Did you vote for Pender and Seymour at the last election?—Yes.

53,529. And Seymour at the election of 1863?—Yes.

53,530. Whom did you vote for in 1859—Mr. Dunn's election?—Mr. Mills and Lord Gifford.

53,531. Have you ever directly or indirectly received anything for your vote?—Nothing.

53,532. Have you ever directly or indirectly used your influence to make persons dependent, or vote in any particular way?—Yes; when I say I used my influence I believe it has been used by my steward in letting certain fields with the understanding that they were to vote the same way that I voted myself, and it was supposed they were let to people holding those views.

53,533. How many persons have you tenants of yours?—I have six or seven.

53,534. Do you know how long they have been voters?—The first instance is my eldest son to whom the property belonged. He was the purchaser of a large portion of that in the borough, and whilst he was a single man, he used it in the way to entitle himself to a vote. When he married he no longer lived with his father; at least was supposed not. It was then that I thought to get other votes in lieu of the one cut off.

53,535. How many votes did you succeed in establishing?—I do not recollect. The man at the lodge is one.

53,536. Is that Hannaford?—Yes, and Mason, Kane, Osborn, and Shinner.

53,537. There were five votes?—Yes, there were seven; but there was some discrepancy, and the revising barrister struck off two; he considered they were partners instead of two.

THIRTY-NINTH DAY.

R. Durant, Esq.

2 Nov. 1866.

53,538. Can you tell us how many acres gave those five votes ?—No, I cannot.

53,539. Or what the value of the land is upon which the voters are qualified ?—I do not know that I can exactly, nor do I know that I can come near it.

53,540. (Mr. Longe.) You do not know the number of acres that you hold in the borough ?—No.

53,541. (Mr. Bere.) At election times have you yourself canvassed these people ?—No, I do not think I did. I am not sure. I may have spoken to them ; certainly, I canvassed two men who voted the other way.

53,542. Who were those —A man named Kane, and Tozer, I think.

53,543. They were tenants of yours ?—They were tenants of one of those fields.

53,544. What election was that ?—The last election.

53,545. Did they vote against you ?—Yes.

53,546. Who was your agent ?—A Mr. Smith of Dartington ; but I have two agents, there is Mr. Whiteaway.

53,547. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who was your man of business in making votes ?—Mr. Whiteaway of Ashburton, was the man who made them.

53,548. He made two votes that voted against you ? —Yes ; then there is Southwood, he voted for Seymour.

53,549. In the election of 1863 William Hannaford voted for Dent ?—Yes.

53,550. In consequence of that he received notice to quit ?—Yes.

53,551. And that was subsequently withdrawn at the request of the Liberal party ?—Some person wrote to me or spoke to me, I believe both, on his behalf. I think Mr. Jenkins who lives close by the lodge.

53,552. What reason had you for giving him notice to quit ?—Because I though his conduct was improper.

53,553. Do you mean in voting against the Liberals ? —In the way in which it was done altogether.

53,554. Had you heard of his receiving a bribe ?— I had, but he denied it, and threw a slur upon the party, stating that he was not paid his day's work.

53,555. We have heard that he received 200*l.* ?—I did hear some such thing at the time, but it seemed not to be believed, at any rate I did not believe it.

53,556. The first arrangement you made with him was altered, was it not ?—It was.

53,557. He lived in a cottage rent free on condition of performing certain services without payment, and then you paid him for those services and he paid rent for the cottage ?—Yes, exactly.

53,558. Who suggested the change ?—No doubt it was Mr. Whiteaway.

53,559. He is a very strong Conservative himself ? —Yes.

53,560. (Mr. Coleridge.) That would account for the giving two fictitious votes on the wrong side ?— No, it would not.

53,561. (Mr. Bere.) Did you give notice to those two men who voted against you last time ?—They gave up the holdings.

53,562. After notice given by your steward ?—I think very likely.

53,563. Do you know whether that was the case or not ?—I feel no doubt about it ; but it was understood between them that they were to give it up. I do not think there was any other reason. I do not know what has become of Kane, he has gone away.

53,564. What was the Christian name of the other man, John ?—I do not know ; he was a man with a club foot. I went to him when I heard that he was likely to vote against me, and I spoke to him upon the subject.

53,565. You were acquainted with Mr. Dent ?— No, I did not know John Dent. I have known the Dent family all my life. I knew the grand uncle of Mr. Dent, in fact all of them.

53,566. When he came first down here as a candidate he had an introduction to you ?—His uncle wrote to me in his favour, though he knew I should not vote for him, but still it was to ask if I could do him any service.

53,567. In consequence of that did you go down to the "Seven Stars" to see him ?—I did.

53,568. Did you see him ?—I did.

53,569. Do you remember what passed between you ?—The object of my seeing him was to do away with any kind of opposition that might be made in the way of bribery, and expenses at the election in any way, or that they should be lessened, by an amicable contest between Mr. Pender and himself ; that I told him as the object of my visit, and as Mr. Mitchell, who seemed to be the spokesman, was not disposed, as far as I could judge, to allow Mr. Dent to say much for himself. I could not get him out of the room to have any conversation with him, and Mr. Mitchell said you are perhaps aware that he is in the hands of his committee.

53,570. How long was this before the election ?—I think nearly two days.

53,571. Is that all that passed ?—That is all that passed. It was refused.

53,572. Were you acquainted with Mr. Pender at that time ?—I knew nothing of Mr. Pender, but of his coming down here. I had heard of him.

53,573. Did you have any communication with Mr. Pender before you saw Mr. Dent ?—Yes ; it was suggested by Mr. Pender that I should make such a suggestion.

53,574. (Mr. Longe.) You did not go merely as a friend of Mr. Dent's, but also as acting between Mr. Pender and Mr. Dent ?—Certainly.

53,575. (Mr. Bere.) What is the name of your steward ?—The man who considers himself my steward is Henry Trefusis Smith.

53,576. Who is the person to give the notices to quit ?—Mr. Whiteaway, of Ashburton.

53,577. He is a solicitor ?—No ; he undertakes the general work for Mr. Smith ; Mr. Smith is the man who considers himself my steward, and Mr. Whiteaway acts under him.

53,578. (Mr. Longe.) What number of acres of land have you within the boundary of the Parliamentary borough which give votes ?—I have stated they would be 40 acres.

53,579. (Mr. Bere.) Have you bought the property from your son ?—No.

53,580. It is his property ?—It is, and I rent it of him.

53,581. And you sub-let it ?—Yes.

Major Williams.

MAJOR WILLIAMS sworn and examined.

53,582. (Mr. Coleridge.) Where are you at present residing ?—At Cheltenham.

53,583. At the time of Mr. Dent's first coming here were you residing in the neighbourhood of Totnes ?— No ; I was residing at Cheltenham previous to that ; I had lived for nine years at Gatcombe House, near Totnes.

53,584. Were you there during the election of 1862, when Mr. Dent first came here ?—I was.

53,585. During the whole of the election were you there ?—No ; because the election was knocked on the head.

53,586. How long were you there before the election ?—Some two or three days before.

53,587. Were you down there as a friend of Mr. Dent's ?—No ; I had never seen him before ; I came down at the express wish of a friend of his, in London, thinking that I might be able to give him a helping hand.

53,588. Who did you see when you first came down here ?—I think I saw a Mr. Mitchell, Captain Dent, and as far as my memory goes, Captain King.

53,589. Did you see Mr. Edmonds ?—No ; I do not know that gentleman.

53,590. Who was acting as the solicitor for Mr. Dent?—I think a gentleman of the name of Kellock.

53,591. On your first coming here did you have any conversation with Mr. Dent as to his prospects at the election?—Yes, certainly I had; that was the first thing I spoke to him about; after I had been introduced to him, and we had been talking a little, as it was very natural we should, I said to him, "Will "you let me have a look at your poll book?"

53,592. What did he say?—He said nothing, but looked at me as if I had asked him a question to answer which was impossible; I said, "Why have "you not seen your poll book?" One of the gentlemen present, I think Mr. Kellock, said, "You had "better put no questions to Mr. Dent," and Mr. Mitchell said, "You had better retire, Mr. Dent; it "is better that Mr. Dent should answer no ques-"tions." I said, "Now I see what your game is."

53,593. Will you tell us what then took place?—Mr. Dent went out, and I could not get any sight of the poll book. I looked upon it as being a regular thing to get money out of Mr. Dent.

53,594. Was not the gentleman there whom you see now present, Mr. Edmonds?—I do not know, I am not acquainted with him. There was another gentleman there whom I think I should know if I saw him again.

53,595. Did you make repeated efforts to get a sight of the poll book?—Yes.

53,596. And did you always get the same answer?—Yes.

53,597. You never did succeed in getting a sight of the poll book?—Never.

53,598. Did you make use of any strong expressions on account of your not seeing the poll book?—I said I thought it was a very improper thing that a man should be brought down to be bled in that way, and that he should not be allowed to know what was going on.

53,599. Did you express that feeling to Mr. Kellock?—I expressed it openly in the room.

53,600. Was that in Mr. Dent's presence?—No; he was bundled out into another room.

53,601. And I suppose very good care was taken that he should not hear what you said?—Yes, the greatest care.

53,602. Between that period and the time of the election what took place; what did you have to do with Mr. Dent?—I had my suspicions about how the elections at Totnes were managed, and I said I thought it was a very great shame to bring a fellow down there to spend money to accomplish what I called an impossibility. What I am about to say is, perhaps, principally hearsay, but as far as my knowledge goes, according to the way that the Bridgetown voters are worked, and the system which can be pursued by a wealthy man like Mr. Pender, there is no Conservative candidate, if he had all the money in the world, who could get in for Totnes.

53,603. Before Mr. Dent retired had you found out that a Conservative could not possibly be returned?—I think I had clearly.

53,604. Although Mr. Dent might have been willing to spend any money which would make his election safe?—I think so. I never heard what Mr. Dent was prepared to spend.

53,605. Did you ever hear what he did spend?—I think I have heard that Mr. Bryett said he was prepared to spend 15,000*l.*

53,606. Did Mr. Dent or Mr. Mitchell say what sum they had promised to expend?—No.

53,607. Mr. Mitchell was as silent with you as he wished you to be to Mr. Dent?—I think not at last; I had opened his eyes to what was going on. I got hold of a friend who knew something of what was being carried on upon the other side, and I think I made it clear to Mr. Mitchell that the election was gone.

53,608. Who was that friend?—Mr. Harris of Park Hill; he had a long conversation with Mr. Mitchell, and I begged of Mr. Harris to lay before Mr. Mitchell the plain unvarnished truth, and to let Mr. Dent know that I was most anxious to put a stop to it altogether, and prevent any money being expended.

53,609. What time did you come to the conclusion before the election that Mr. Dent had better retire?—After the nomination.

53,610. And it was very much at your instigation that he did retire?—Entirely.

53,611. If it had not been for you he would have gone to the poll?—I am sure he would.

53,612. Used you to see Mr. Heath at the "Seven Stars?"—I saw him constantly.

53,613. Did he take any part in the discussions?—None whatever.

53,614. Were you staying all this time at the "Stars" with Mr. Dent?—I cannot say that I was. I think I stayed with Mr. Harris, and went into the town in the daytime. I dined with Mr. Dent, but I think I slept at Park Hill.

53,615. What took place after the nomination, up to the time when Mr. Dent determined to retire?—I cannot tell where I got it, but I know I obtained some very reliable information that Mr. Pender was a remarkably rich man, and that he was determined to carry the election. Having learnt that, and knowing, under the circumstances I have mentioned, that Mr. Dent would have to purchase two votes to one on the other side, and that even then he would not get in, I thought it was a great pity that he should spend his money in such a foolish way.

53,616. Mr. Dent was also a very rich man, was he not?—So far as I have been informed he was a man worth between 200,000*l.* and 300,000*l.*

53,617. Did you go through any poll book at all?—I never saw one.

53,618. Then how did you get your information that Mr. Pender would have to buy only one vote against Mr. Dent's two?—That was told me by Mr. Harris, and made to appear very clear.

53,619. Did Mr. Harris seem to be au fait at election matters?—Not at all; he was of different politics to myself. I am a Conservative, he a Liberal.

53,620. Was he active on the Liberal side?—No; he took no interest in it whatever.

53,621. It was only from casual hearsay that he told you this?—I suppose so.

53,622. But it was perfectly patent in the borough that Mr. Dent would have to buy two votes to their one in order to come in?—I should say absolutely so.

53,623. Then it was determined late at night on the nomination day, that Mr. Dent should not stand?—I will tell you what part I took in that. When I had got the ear of Mr. Dent and Mr. Mitchell a little more favourably with regard to his retiring, I begged of them to send over some trusty messenger to meet the committee of Mr. Pender, and to make some compromise of the matter, by allowing the one to come in then, and the other on the next occasion.

53,624. What time was that?—About 11 o'clock at night.

53,625. After the election was as good as gone?—Yes; when I had ascertained that it was gone, we sent a messenger over to Mr. Pender's committee, and when he came back he said they were not empowered to enter into any agreement. I then said, "Mr. Dent, "you see how matters stand, take my advice and retire "from the contest absolutely; send over and say that "you will retire unconditionally." That was a few minutes before 12 o'clock. The messenger went over and said that Mr. Dent would retire from the contest unconditionally. The next morning I was surprised to find that the poll had been opened and five votes recorded on behalf of Mr. Dent.

53,626. Were you not informed that there was some doubt, a poll having been demanded, as to whether they were not obliged to open the poll?—I never heard anything about that.

53,627. Was there any explanation given of why the poll was opened?—I put my own construction upon it.

53,628. What was that?—To get money, of course.

THIRTY-NINTH DAY.

Major Williams.

2 Nov. 1866.

53,629. Did you hear what money Mr. Dent had promised to expend?—I did not hear; he was a very liberal man. After the advice which I had given Mr. Dent, the others kept very clear of me.

53,630. You never saw any poll book?—No; they would not have anything more to do with me.

53,631. Should you say that the bringing down of two Conservative candidates at the last election was a very hopeless business?—Entirely so. The man is not born who can come in on the Conservative interest, so long as the Bridgetown voters are in the habit of voting as they do.

53,632. So that the two Conservative candidates could have been brought down only for the sake of spending money?—That is all.

53,633. Were you not surprised to find that a little more than six weeks after Mr. Dent was again in the field?—I must say I was. I have heard that various overtures were made to him to buy property, and make what is called faggot votes. I said to him, "For "God's sake do not have anything to do with such a "set of leeches as these men are; if you spend "10,000*l.* on one occasion, they will make you spend "20,000*l.* the next. So long as the Bridgetown voters "vote as they do, and so long as a certain number of "the other electors vote for the Liberals, there is no "chance for you."

53,634. You agree with the Duke of Somerset that he can always return one member without any difficulty?—I think he always could do that. I have known Totnes for some 20 years, and whilst here my opinion was that they gave one vote for the duke, and the other as they pleased.

53,635. Have you yourself ever voted for the Tories?—No.

53,636. Did you have any communication with Mr. Dent when you heard that he had come down a second time?—None.

53,637. You were not aware of his doing so?—No; the last that I saw of Mr. Dent was on the day of the would-be poll. I was going home to Cheltenham when Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Dent begged me to change my destination so as to smooth the way for them with their friends in London, that they might not believe Mr. Dent had skulked out of the contest. I said I had no objection to state that Mr. Dent had done it entirely at my suggestion.

53,638. Who do you mean by "their friends"?—His uncle and some personal friends of his own; persons who might have felt annoyed that he did not go to the poll.

53,639. Have you ever heard from Mr. Dent since?—Never; I went to London, where I stayed a day or two and dined with Mr. Dent at the Oriental Club, and I have never seen him since.

53,640. Did he tell you what it cost him?—Not a word.

53,641. Was it between the two elections when you dined with him?—It was just after I went up to town.

53,642. Mr. Dent is in China now, I believe?—Yes.

53,643. We have heard there were some defalcations in reference to one of the members of his house, and he was obliged to go over and look into the matters himself?—That I do not know anything about; it is a very large concern.

53,644. Is there anything else you can tell us in reference to the election of 1862?—Not that I am aware of; nothing strikes me at this moment. I cannot make out how any man, begging his pardon, could be so great a fool, seeing how he was treated at Mr. Pender's election, to come down here again so shortly afterwards, but he had a great idea of getting into Parliament. My belief was that the part which I took had completely settled the matter, and that he would never be seen here again.

53,645. If he had taken your advice he would have retired as soon as you came down here?—Yes; directly I heard what I have told you I came to the conclusion that it was hopeless, and I said to him "Do not spend a penny."

53,646. They refused to shew you the poll book, and you thought it looked very suspicious?—I did indeed.

53,647. (Mr. Bere.) How long were you down here?—I think three days.

53,648. Was there a good deal of eating and drinking going on?—I think there was. What I am about to state is mere hearsay, but it shows how things were going on. A requisition had been sent to Mr. Dent to come down here, and a certain number of the requisitionists were placed on his committee. They met at Mr. Heath's, and a servant of Mr. Dent's, in plain clothes, went into the room, and while there he heard these committee-men and requisitionists talking about what they should draw Mr. Dent for before they polled; that was a matter which I heard the next day.

53,649. Can you give us the name of that man?—I do not know his surname; his Christian name was Joseph. He told me that was one of the things which made him anxious that Mr. Dent should not go on. One man said that he had two votes, and that he should not expect less than 250*l.*; another said he should like to get 100*l.* or 150*l.*, and so on.

53,650. Should you be surprised to hear that Mr. Dent had spent between 15,000*l.* and 20,000*l.* at the two elections?—No; he was a very liberal man, and was in the habit of making very handsome presents to ladies of jewellery and other things worth from 200*l.* to 300*l.*

53,651. He was not a man who would make any inquiry as to how much had stuck to the hands of the distributors?—No; he would make up his mind to spend as much as he was asked for, and never inquire for the bill; he is a most liberal person. There was a good deal of eating and drinking going on at the "Seven Stars."

53,652. Is Mr. Dent a partner in the firm of Dent and Palmer, or in the house of Dent and Son?—I think it is his uncle who is a partner in the house of Dent and Palmer.

53,653. Do you know who Mr. Dent's bankers were?—I do not know; very possibly his uncle; he is his agent.

J. Michelmore.

JEFFERY MICHELMORE recalled and examined.

53,654. (Mr. Bere.) Have you gone through the poll book and marked it?—Yes.

53,655. And ascertained how many voters who are on the list are tenants of the duke?—There are 68 with crosses, and 25 with ticks, who are tenants of the duke—in all 93.

53,656. There are 93 tenants of the duke, and 25 of them are faggot voters?—That is so.

53,657. (Mr. Coleridge.) Every one of those who voted against the duke had notice to quit his holding?—No.

53,658. How many of them have had notice?—Any man amongst the Conservatives who votes according to principle would not be turned out.

53,659. Then how came Mr. Kellock to be turned out?—He was not turned out for voting; we had great difficulty in getting his rent, and he did not keep stock there to cut the grass. The things he had there were mules, donkeys, and ponies. Mr. Kellock's eviction had nothing whatever to do with his voting.

53,660. Or with his son being the agent on the other side?—Not the slightest.

53,661. (Mr. Bere.) All the duke's tenants are tenants from year to year?—They are.

53,662. Do they hold under any contract in writing?—No.

53,663. Are there any particular terms in regard to their holding, or is it one general agreement. What would be the terms between an outgoing tenant and the duke?—There are agreements in regard to the estates; the estates are let entirely separate from the fields.

53,664. The tenants of the estate are tenants from year to year, but there are agreements for them with certain conditions?—Yes.

53,665. Is it the same agreement in every case?—Yes.

53,666. (Mr. Longe.) What was the holding of those men who were evicted in 1863 and 1864; Turpin, for instance?—He was a householder.

53,667. Had he a vote for his house?—For his house.

53,668. Blackler?—Blackler had a warehouse, but he had a vote independent of the warehouse in Totnes as well. In general, these men who have crosses put against them also have votes in Totnes as well.

53,669. What did he hold under the duke which made you give him notice to quit?—A warehouse.

53,670. John Tucker?—That was a field.

53,671. Byne?—That was a field.

53,672. Mitchell?—A house in Bridgetown.

53,673. James Penwill?—A field.

53,674. John Briggs?—A house and land; the land made the qualification; the house was a small cottage; there was land enough attached to make a vote. He was turned out of his house.

53,675. William Hannaford?—A house.

53,676. Lake?—In Lake's case he rented some mills under the duke and also a field; we gave him notice for the field and he gave us notice for the mill.

53,677. Ellis?—A field.

53,678. Willis?—A field.

53,679. Barter?—He was not evicted.

53,680. Goodridge?—That is a similar case; we wanted a portion of that land for the new school.

53,681. John Parnell Searle?—That was a field.

53,682. James Edmonds?—A field.

53,683. Edward Shinner?—A field.

53,684. Eastman?—A field.

53,685. Shillabeer?—A field.

53,686. Sercombe?—Sercombe has a house and land.

53,687. He had to give up his house?—Yes.

53,688. Knapman, he was not a tenant of the duke?—There was a man of the name of Knapman who was a tenant.

53,689. After 1859?—I do not recollect; William Knapman, who lived at Bourton, was a tenant of the duke.

53,690. What was that?—A house and land; land enough attached to make a vote.

53,691. Goodman?—That was land. Nearly all these notices were served on account of our not being able to get possession so as to allow the building company to come on and build. Every tenant who had land was served with a notice. Those whom you have named were served in order that the building company might enter and take possession of a great deal of it.

53,692. In the case of those houses where anyone was evicted did you ever tell them that they were turned out because they had taken a bribe?—Yes.

53,693. Although you yourself had bribed you gave that as a reason?—We turned them out not only for taking a bribe, but for forming a club to try and bribe the others; they were given to understand that.

53,694. Did you ever yourself tell anyone who was evicted that that was the reason?—I cannot say that I did.

53,695. (Mr. Coleridge.) There was a greater sin in their forming clubs against you than there was in your doing so against them?—We thought so.

53,696. (Mr. Longe.) Was anyone instructed by you to tell any men who were evicted that that was done because they had been bribed?—That was done by my father.

53,697. You are not aware of what was the reason given?—I am not.

53,698. (Mr. Bere.) Your father was the agent for Lord Cranstoun, and you succeeded him?—Yes.

53,699. Having been a Liberal before the election of 1865, he became a Conservative?—Yes.

53,700. And was writing letters to his tenants, asking them to vote for the Conservative candidate?—Yes.

53,701. At a late hour on the nomination day was the Cranstoun influence given to the Liberal party?—No; it was never given to the Liberal party.

53,702. Then what happened?—Lord Cranstoun came down to see what he could do to assist Mr. Astell in his election for Ashburton, and finding that nothing could be done there he came over to Totnes thinking he might be able to assist Colonel Dawkins. I then told him I did not consider it fair his interfering here.

53,703. Where did you see him?—I saw him at Ashburton, and told him I did not consider it fair his interfering here.

53,704. Did you give him any reason?—Yes, that a man placed on his estate upon the duke's ground as a good Liberal was not acting fairly in turning round and voting against those principles.

53,705. What did he say?—That he did not think it was fair, and he promised me that he would not interfere. Afterwards he agreed to withdraw and not interfere further. There was some letter which he had written to Colonel Dawkins, which he wrote and demanded back. I carried the letter. I forget who it was directed to, but I gave the letter into Mr. Kellock's hands on the nomination day requesting the return of the other letter. Mr. Kellock did not give me the letter, but promised to send it over. I saw him later in the day and demanded it. He told me Captain Fox was with Colonel Dawkins, and they had taken the letter to Lord Cranstoun at Torquay.

53,706. Did you ever hear from Lord Cranstoun that he had received that letter?—No.

53,707. Are those men still on the register?—Not on the Totnes register.

53,708. None of them?—No.

53,709. When the Duke of Somerset was examined here the day before yesterday he produced a letter that he said he had asked you for; when did you give him that letter?—When first the Commission was talked of.

53,710. Did he write to you?—Yes, for any letters he had written in connexion with the election matters. I sent him up two out of the three, and those are produced.

53,711. Did you find only three letters of the duke's alluding to election matters?—Those were all.

53,712. What part of the correspondence did you look after?—I went back to the beginning of 1862.

53,713. Did you not look at the letters before 1855?—We have no letters.

53,714. Is it the practice in your office to destroy letters after a certain period?—Not if it is necessary to refer to anything likely to turn up again. We hear very seldom from the duke. Sometimes the letters do not average six in a year.

53,715. You do not happen to have a copy of the agreement under which the farmers hold?—No, I have not. It is the usual farming agreement.

53,716. (Mr. Coleridge.) Are they all exactly alike?—They are all alike.

53,717. You have a general form in the office?—We have a general form relating to the duke's property and all other property.

GEORGE MITCHELL recalled and examined.

G. Mitchell.

53,718. (Mr. Bere.) You were a candidate for the Council yesterday?—I was.

53,719. You were an unsuccessful candidate?—Yes, I was. I have not heard the result of the election myself yet, but when it is published, I believe I shall not be one.

53,720. I am told that three Conservatives were elected, one of whom was Mr. John Heath, and Mr. Thomas Holman, a Liberal?—Yes.

53,721. Did any bribery take place yesterday, as far as you know of?—Not to my personal knowledge.

THIRTY-NINTH DAY.

G. Mitchell.

2 Nov. 1866.

53,722. Did you hear of any?—Yes, a great deal, but not by our party.

53,723. On the Liberal side?—Not a farthing.

53,724. From your experience of Mr. Holman's proceedings at parliamentary elections, should you be surprised at any bribery at a municipal election?—I should be surprised. If he had done it yesterday, I should be surprised, because there was a perfect understanding between me and Mr. Searle, that there should not be any money spent.

53,725. From your knowledge of the expenses of municipal elections, do you think that there was as much spent yesterday as had been previously spent at previous contests?—Not so much, because they did not begin till between 2 and 3 o'clock. I was at the head of Mr. Heath when he began that practice.

53,726. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you mean to say, you think, after what took place yesterday, that Mr. Heath, after his examination, left us and went and introduced the practice in the municipal election?—I am informed so. I met him just by here, and he came to shake hands with me; I said, "No, I do not "shake hands with you while you pursue those dirty "practices;" he never answered me. I cannot say that he bribed. Perhaps it was not worth answering.

53,727. (Mr. Bere.) We wanted to know whether bribery prevailed?—I have no doubt that it did. There are parties who have seen the money pass.

53,728. (Mr. Coleridge.) Where was the committee-room?—I had nothing to do with the committee-room.

53,729. Is it out in the passage here?—The grammar school was partly a committee-room.

53,730. How did votes rule; what were the quotations?—I have heard 5*s.*, and I have heard that one man was paid a sovereign.

53,731. (Mr. Bere.) Was it managed by Mr. Heath?—There were many scouts round about.

53,732. Any solicitors?—I do not know. I was not out to see myself. I daresay he did. Some of the electors can tell you much more than I can. I assure you that there was not one farthing spent on our side.

53,733. As far as you know?—I am certain there was not.

53,734. (Mr. Coleridge.) You know no more about than the others?—I can answer for Mr. Searle, and Mr. Holman and myself in that respect; we never canvassed a man.

53,735. Do you ever recollect a case in your experience, where money has been paid to a man without being canvassed, as a matter of course?—I do not know about that.

53,736. Do you know of a single instance?—I do not know anything about it. I never mixed myself up in it.

53,737. Should you be surprised to hear that a man had been paid?—No. I never spent any or offered a man a farthing in my life.

53,738. How do you know that nobody did on your behalf?—I do not say that. I say we never did it; that is what I say.

R. Harris.

ROBERT HARRIS recalled and examined.

53,739. (Mr. Bere.) Did you hear yesterday of bribery going on?—The Liberals bribed very much. Mr. Mitchell and all his party were all down there, and I saw Mr. Mitchell treating at "Jordain's Hotel." I saw him coming out from there; he had got 20 or 30 men there. I say we never bribed one single halfpenny; but I was watching him, Mr. Mitchell, and that was my special forte.

53,740. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were there not some placards stuck upon the Seymour flys, "Vote for Bennett, the working man's friend?"—Yes. While I am here permit me to say, as the Commission I presume is very near coming to a close, I have abstained from making any remarks in reference to the various witnesses who have been brought before you, in whose evidence my name has been mentioned. I may say at the outset that there is no man in Totnes who has suffered so much as I have. I have lost a situation of 4*l.* a week on account of it, and therefore I ask you, the Commissioners, to look over the evidence given before you as regards my testimony. There is a person named Samuel Hill, junior, and if you look at my evidence you will find that I told you on the morning of the election I went to that man. As a registration agent I was acquainted with almost every person in Totnes, and I came continually into contact with them, especially when I went round with the requisition. And Samuel Hill was one of those who signed the requisition. I let him a field, and I went to him and felt exceedingly disgusted that he was going to leave us in the hour of need. I said, "Is it "money you want?" he immediately said, "It is too "late, I cannot go on your side." That is the only "conversation I had in reference to money with "Samuel Hill.

(Mr. Bere.) The Commissioners are unanimously of opinion that the information you furnished, not only at the outset but through the inquiry, has been exceedingly valuable, and excepting one or two instances, perfectly trustworthy.

G. Mitchell.

GEORGE MITCHELL recalled and examined.

53,741. (Mr. Bere.) We have heard that you treated yesterday, do you now say you did not?—I have heard the assertions that Mr. Harris has made against me, that he was particularly watching me yesterday; that he walked down the town to Jordain's, and saw I had got men there carrying on all sorts of rigs; I declare to you here that I was never in at Jordain's house on that day. I never was near the house for the day.

53,742. All we wanted to know was whether, while the Commission was sitting, bribery was supposed to be practised on both sides?—It is easy to make assertions. I still persist in saying that no one saw me at Jordain's house.

Major Williams.

Major WILLIAMS recalled and examined.

53,743. (Mr. Bere.) Will you look round the court and say whether you see the gentleman who was acting for Mr. Dent?—Yes, I do, it was Mr. Kellock.

53,744. You have no doubt you saw him in 1862?—Yes, I saw him many times.

T. C. Kellock.

THOMAS CREASOR KELLOCK recalled and examined.

53,745. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you take the advice of Major Williams as early as he wished it?—To be plain we thought that Major Williams's advice was rather interested on the opposite side.

53,746. You had thought he was a feather in your cap?—No.

53,747. What do you mean?—Not being an elector his coming to give us that advice was gratuitous.

53,748. (Mr. Coleridge.) He was not likely to participate in the benefits of money spent at that election, and you thought he had better stay at home?—No, certainly not; he did not go to the poll that election.

THOMAS CREASER KELLOCK recalled and examined. T. C. Kellock.

53,749. (Mr. Coleridge.) There is a letter that was read yesterday, which we had from Captain Pim, a letter to the election agent here, Mr. Hamlyn, saying, give this enclosure to Mr. Kellock, and if a compromise as suggested cannot be come to, pay so and so; and then he goes on to say, "But I think you will "agree with me that 144*l.* is a good slice for one per- "son to take out of me, and if it can be prevented, "all the better." Do you know what that means?—I never heard of it before.

53,750. The enclosure in that letter was given to you, I suppose, that was to be given to the agent; just read the letter and see if you can explain it?—I never saw that letter before, and know nothing of its purport.

53,751. Do you recollect an enclosure of some sort or other being given to you about the date of the 30th of August 1865?—I think evidence was given of it previously; there was the evidence of Captain Pim himself.

53,752. It says, "Read the enclosed, and then deliver "it to Mr. Kellock. If he declines to pay the sum "total then you must take the amount he mentioned "as having ready, and I will send you a cheque for "the 110*l.* 3*s.* hotel bill;" what does that mean, as to "the amount he mentioned as having ready;" does that apply to the balance you had in hand?—I do not know.

53,753. And then at the end he says, "I am anxious "that there should not be the semblance even of any- "thing unpleasant, but I think you will agree with "me that 144*l.* is a good slice for one person to take "out of me."—I do not know what it means.

53,754. 144*l.* is an odd sum, it is not like 150*l.*, or a round sum?—I cannot make it out, nor do I see how there could be such a sum. There could not be more than a surplus of 80*l.* odd.

JAMES CLARKE recalled and examined. J. Clarke.

53,755. (Mr. Bere.) Mr. Heath told us yesterday, in his examination, that besides the 10*l.* you acknowledged the receipt of at the last election he paid two bills for you, one amounting to 7*l.* 10*s.*, and the other 4*l.*; was that the case?—No.

53,756. Did he pay any money at all for you before the election?—Yes, about 4*l.*

53,757. How much else has he paid beyond that?—I am not aware of any.

53,758. Were not distresses put into your house?—No, I was threatened.

53,759. What were you threatened for?—Half a year's rent.

53,760. You were half a year's rent in arrear?—Yes.

53,761. What was the rent?—13*l.*

53,762. Did not Mr. George Heath take possession as the landlord's appraiser?—No.

53,763. Did he not come into your house?—No; he came and told me that Mr. Manning had sent over to him.

53,764. Was not the half year's rent afterwards paid to Mr. Manning?—Yes, it was.

53,765. Did you pay it yourself?—No, Mr. Heath sold the things at Gillham's.

53,766. Were your things at Gillham's?—Yes, there was a sale there, and I put certain things in. I have the account of it at home, but I unfortunately came away without it.

53,767. We understood Mr. Heath that he paid some money?—He did, he made up the deficiency between the rent and what the things sold for.

53,768. How much was that?—Somewhere about 3*l.*

53,769. He did give you 3*l.* 10*s.* and 10*s.*?—I gave him an I O U.

53,770. He has never demanded it of you?—No.

53,771. Was that the only money he ever paid for you?—I believe it was.

53,772. Are you quite sure that it was not on another occasion he paid half a year's rent?—Yes; that was the only period, and then I was only threatened. I was only valued.

(Mr. Bere.) The sittings of the Commission will be now adjourned to London, at No. 1, Brick Court, in the Temple, until Wednesday next, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The Commissioners, through me, wish to express their obligations to the mayor and council for the great accommodation which the use of the town hall has afforded them, and especially the little room upstairs of which they have had the exclusive occupation. They also wish to express their sense of the personal kindness and courtesy which they have received from every person in Totnes, sometimes under very painful circumstances.

Adjourned to Wednesday, 7th November, at 2 o'clock.

FORTIETH DAY.

FORTIETH DAY.

7 Nov. 1866.

1, Brick Court, Temple, 7th November 1866.

(Mr. Bere.) This is an adjournment from Totnes, and under the power given by the Commission we could only adjourn for a week. Since that, however, we have received permission from the Secretary of State to adjourn for any time we think fit. This meeting will therefore be adjourned till Tuesday next, at 11 o'clock, here, for the purpose of giving notice of the time and place at which we intend to examine witnesses.

FORTY-FIRST DAY.

FORTY-FIRST DAY.

13 Nov. 1866.

1, Brick Court, Temple, 13th November 1866.

(Mr. Bere.) We shall further adjourn the Commission till Tuesday next, at 12 o'clock, at No. 9 Committee Room, House of Commons, when we shall then proceed with the examination of witnesses.

FORTY-SECOND DAY.

FORTY-SECOND DAY.

P. R. H. Henson.

20 Nov. 1866.

Tuesday, 20th November 1866.

PETER ROBERT H. HENSON sworn and examined.

53,773. (Mr. Bere.) Are you clerk to Sir Robert Collier ?—Yes.

53,774. Were you at any time clerk to Mr. Edy, the special pleader ?—I was.

53,775. In the month of June 1865 did you receive a communication from Messrs. Smith and Guscotte, which induced you to go to their office ?—No.

53,776. Did you happen to be at their office ?—I was, although I do not speak to the date.

53,777. Was it in May or June 1865 ?—I do not know.

53,778. Do you remember the general election of 1865 ?—Yes.

53,779. Was it before or after that ?—It was a few days before Colonel Dawkins put up for Totnes.

53,780. Therefore it must have been before the election ?—Yes.

53,781. Whom did you see ?—Both the partners.

53,782. Mr. Smith and Mr. Guscotte ?—Yes.

53,783. What conversation had you with them then ?—I was in the outer office, and one of them came out and said good morning.

53,784. Which one was that ?—Mr. Smith, I think, but I am not sure. He said, "You are just the man "we want to see, come in. We have got something "here we think will serve you; our client, Colonel "Dawkins, is about to put up for Totnes, and we want "some one to go and assist him; we can put some-"thing in your way if you will go."

53,785. Did he explain to you how you were to assist ?—I do not know.

53,786. Had you any doubt what he meant by the word "assist ?"—I had my suspicions.

53,787. You were to go for the purpose of distributing money ?—Nothing of the kind. On the contrary, whatever was said led to a contrary impression.

53,788. Were you offered any sum of money ?—Yes.

53,789. What sum ?—I was told first that I could have 25*l.* or guineas, if I chose to go for three days' labour, and there would be very little to do.

53,790. What did they tell you you would have to do ?—It really was not defined; something was said about being in a room and attending to little matters.

53,791. And people coming to see you in that little room ?—No, nothing.

53,792. You were to sit in that room and do nothing at all ?—They did not say that, but they said there would be little to do—light, easy work—work I could easily accomplish. That was in answer to difficulties which I suggested. My answer, the moment they made the proposition, was to ask what politics the gentleman was, what were his political views. Then I found he was a Liberal Conservative—at least that was their statement; I thought most probably that he was a Conservative. That rather inclined me against him, the fact that his being opposed to me in politics. Then I think they told me what I could have, and I thought the remuneration was very handsome, and I was not indisposed to earn, if I could earn, that sum of money at that time, because I knew it would be serviceable; but from the account I suspected the general nature of the thing, and I resolved to decline.

53,793. Did you decline it at that interview, or were you there again ?—At once I declined.

53,794. Is that the only interview you had with Mr. Guscotte or Mr. Smith ?—Yes.

53,795. Did Mr. Lind say anything to you on the subject ?—No, not a word.

53,796. (Mr. Longe.) Did you make any intimation to them as to what you expected would be your work ?—No.

53,797. In no way whatever ?—No, my object was to decline it as respectfully as possible; they were gentlemen who had served me, and I thought they might serve me again.

53,798. (Mr. Coleridge.) How did you happen to go there ?—I went on business for a gentleman for whom I was engaged,

53,799. Accidentally ?—Yes.

53,800. Had you been employed in election matters before ?—No, I mentioned that to them, and so far from that being a disqualification, my not knowing the country, it was, they said, a qualification.

53,801. The stranger you were to the business the better ?—Yes.

53,802. And that confirmed your suspicions ?—

Yes, I thought it was dirty work, and I would have nothing to do with it.

53,803. The fact of being a stranger being a qualification made it suspicious to you?—Yes.

53,804. Do you know who went?—No.

53,805. Did you have any conversation with the firm, or the clerks, at that time, or afterwards, about it?—No.

53,806. Did you know at that time one of the clerks Messrs. Lind and Daw went down?—I do not know, but they intimated to me they were taking me in the place of a clerk.

53,807. Did they intimate to you how long you were to stay?—Three days.

53,808. (Mr. Coleridge.) How long were you to go before the election?—I do not know, but I assumed it would be immediately.

53,809. Three days in all?—Yes.

53,810. Have you had any conversation with Mr. Smith since his examination at Totnes?—No.

53,811. Or Mr. Guscotte?—No.

53,812. Nor with the clerks?—No; but I have a letter from Mr. Smith, and that is the first intimation I had of my name being mentioned in the matter.

53,813. (Mr. Bere.) Was 25*l.* all that you were offered?—No; finding that I was unwilling, it was intimated to me that I might have 30*l.*, and the impression I derived from my interview was that 30*l.* would not stand in the way.

53,814. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you had any letter from any members of the firm since that letter of the 27th of September? There is one of the 14th, and one of the 27th?—No, I have not.

53,815. (Mr. Bere.) Was it your impression that you were to accompany Mr. Smith in the capacity of a friend, or as a person who had to do some dirty work connected with the election?—Upon the whole I thought I should be with Mr. Smith in some form or other.

53,816. Not merely as a friend?—I believe the term used was that I was to "assist."

53,817. (Mr. Coleridge.) You say you had nothing to do with any election before?—No.

53,818. Have you been on any registration?—No; I have always been in chambers.

HENRY DANBY SEYMOUR, Esq., sworn and examined.

H. D. Seymour Esq.

53,819. (Mr. Bere.) You are the brother of Mr. Alfred Seymour?—Yes.

53,820. Did you go down with him in 1863, when he stood for Totnes against Mr. Dent?—Yes; I forget whether I went with him or afterwards. I think I went afterwards.

53,821. How long before the election did you get down to Totnes?—I really do not remember, but a few days. I do not think I was there more than a week altogether.

53,822. Did you go round with him to canvass?—I do not remember ever going with him to canvass.

53,823. Did you make up a poll-book with him?—I made up a poll-book that he had, but never with him.

53,824. Whom did you find going on his behalf?—I looked upon Mr. Cuming as his principal; he was the head.

53,825. With Mr. Windeatt to assist him, and Mr. Chaster, and Mr. Holman?—Yes.

53,826. Did you have anything to do with Mr. Parnell or Mr. Searle?—I never heard either of their names before.

53,827. Did you know from your brother what money he had taken with him to Totnes for the purposes of the election?—No, I did not.

53,828. Did you learn from him or anybody else before the day of the election that a great deal of money would be wanted?—I remember hearing that some money would be wanted. My brother took down a certain sum.

53,829. Your brother has told us that he took down a sum of 1,000*l.*, and placed it at his credit at one of the banks. When did you learn from him that a fresh sum of money would be wanted?—I suppose from Mr. Cuming, because in all those matters I considered him the best head. He was the general manager of the election.

53,830. Did he tell you how the other money had gone?—I do not recollect any detailed conversation with him on the subject at all.

53,831. I suppose you understood what the money was wanted for?—I do not think Mr. Cuming ever spoke to me directly about the money being employed for bribery.

53,832. Did you know that your brother had brought down 1,000*l.*?—I did not know it; I only heard that he had brought down 1,000*l.*, which was as much as he could conveniently spend.

53,833. When Mr. Cuming told you that some money would be wanted, what steps did you take to procure it?—I forwarded 500*l.* more.

53,834. Can you remember when that was that you received an intimation that more money would be wanted?—I think a few days after; I cannot remember how many; my impression is four or five days.

53,835. How did you forward the money?—According I think to the agent's directions, Mr. Cuming.

53,836. Do you remember what Mr. Cuming's directions were?—I have forgotten the names of the people, but I have heard since that it was forwarded through Messrs. Angel and Green.

53,337. Green and Allin, was it not?—Yes, that is it.

53,838. Do you know how it was forwarded?—No; I have heard since that it was forwarded; it had escaped my remembrance, but it was forwarded to a draper at Totnes whose name I have forgotten.

53,839. Mr. Webber?—Yes, I did not know Mr. Webber.

53,840. How did you give the money to Messrs. Green and Allin?—I had not the money; it was raised; borrowed; it was undertaken to be sent down.

53,841. Did you become security for it?—I became security for 500*l.* being sent down.

53,842. How did the money get to Messrs. Green and Allin?—I do not know how it went to Messrs. Green and Allin; but I went to Mr. Drake to ask him if he could assist.

53,843. Who was Mr. Drake?—He was a solicitor, the parliamentary agent.

53,844. Messrs. Bircham, Dalrymple, and Drake?—Yes.

53,845. Did you see him in London?—Yes.

53,846. Did you come from Totnes to London to get the money?—Yes; the money was wanted, and I thought the best way was to come up; I thought my brother had spent 1,000*l.*, and I understood that some assistance was given by the political clubs, or from some source, I did not know what; but I understood there was some kind of a fund, and I wanted to see if my brother could get some assistance from the party.

53,847. And you came to London and saw Mr. Drake?—Yes.

53,848. Where did you see him?—I went straight to his office.

53,849. Did you tell Mr. Drake that more money was wanted for Totnes?—Yes, more than my brother brought down.

53,850. What did Mr. Drake say to that?—I asked him I think whether there would be any assistance. I understood that at the time of general elections that certain members were assisted from the means of the party, and I asked him whether my brother could have any assistance.

53,851. This was not the general election, this was in 1863?—At any rate I asked him whether my brother could have any assistance.

FORTY-SECOND DAY.

H. D. Seymour, Esq.

20 Nov. 1866.

53,852. What did Mr. Drake say to that?—As far as I can recollect Mr. Drake's was rather an evasive answer; he said he would raise it on my responsibility.

53,853. What guarantee did you give him?—I gave him either a note, or something which I signed.

53,854. Can you remember what it was you signed?—That I really cannot remember. I do not remember what I signed.

53,855. Was there a great deal of writing, or only a small quantity?—I do not know what I signed; but I gave an undertaking to repay the money.

53,856. To whom?—I suppose it was to Mr. Drake.

53,857. Has the money been repaid?—It has been repaid to Mr. Drake.

53,858. Did you repay it yourself?—I considered it as money that was procured for my brother, and my brother has repaid it I believe.

53,859. When did your brother repay it?—I do not know, but he has told me that he has repaid it.

53,860. Since he was examined at Totnes he has repaid it?—I think so.

53,861. Because when he was before us he did not know how that money had come?—He has paid it since then; he told me that he had repaid it.

53,862. Did you tell him how the money was advanced after he had been before us?—No, I did not see the evidence.

53,863. He did not learn from you how the money was procured?—No, not until some time afterwards.

53,864. We put the question to him, and put your name to him, and he said he did not think it was at all likely that you had advanced the money?—Yes, he did not know it at all then.

53,865. (Mr. Coleridge.) He wrote to us subsequently, stating that he had seen you?—Yes.

53,866. (Mr. Bere.) Did Mr. Drake intimate to you how the money would be conveyed to Totnes?—No.

53,867. Did you have any more to do with that money until it came to Totnes?—No.

53,868. You gave Mr. Drake the guarantee and it came to Totnes?—Yes.

53,869. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you communicate with anybody but Mr. Drake?—No one else.

53,870. How did you communicate at Totnes that they might direct to Mr. Drake?—I do not know; but all my communications were with Mr. Cuming; therefore I presume the communication was with Mr. Cuming.

53,871. Did you go back to Totnes, or write, or telegraph?—I did not write or telegraph, I went back two days before the election, and I left on the day of the election.

53,872. Is that all the money that you assisted in procuring for that election?—It is all the money that I had to do with.

53,873. And you knew nothing about it except the 1,000*l.* your brother told us that he had?—Yes.

53,874. (Mr. Bere.) After you had given Mr. Drake the guarantee did you return to Totnes?—Yes.

53,875. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you recollect the election was going against your brother about 2 o'clock, and that there was a greatdeal of excitement?—My impression was that the committee had lost their heads. I went to the committee and said I did not think there was a proper head in the committee room, and that they were wild, and had greatly lost their heads, and that he had better go there.

53,876. Do you recollect speaking in a loud and excited voice, and saying it was too bad that it should be run so close after so much money had been spent?—I cannot swear positively that I did not say such a thing.

53,877. I suppose you were in your brother's confidence at the time of the election, and that you knew how things were going a day or two before?—I did not go over the poll books, and I did not know the state of it. I was there as his friend; but I did not take the management of the election.

53,878. Did he tell you of any difficulty they had with men that were called Mr. Pender's men?—No.

53,879. Do you recollect that they were certain people who had not been paid at Mr. Pender's election, and it was desirable to pay them?—No.

53,880. That was not confided to you, that part of the business?—No, I never heard anything at all about it; I knew no details of the election.

53,881. You had not much doubt for what the money would be wanted?—I had no positive assurance that it was wanted.

53,882. From your own experience of elections you knew?—No; I most distinctly deny that my experience of elections is that bribery has been used. That is the first election (and I have been in many elections) that I have ever heard of such a state of bribery as was made out there.

53,883. You had not been long in Totnes before you understood that in order to carry an election bribery was necessary?—I heard it rumoured.

53,884. Did you think 1,500*l.* could be spent legitimately in such a small place as Totnes?—I know I was under an impression that you might spend a considerable sum in a borough.

53,885. On what is legally authorized?—I was under that impression.

53,886. (Mr. Longe.) You say you knew that money was wanted?—I said no doubt the place had a bad name, and if I had clearly put it to my own mind I should have supposed that some portion of that money was wanted for improper purposes.

53,887. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was any other name put to this guarantee you gave to Mr. Drake than your own?—No.

53,888. I suppose you have got that guarantee back since it has been paid off?—No, I have not.

53,889. Do you know if your brother has?—I do not. I presume my brother having paid the money has of course received the guarantee; but I have never seen it from the day that I gave it till this hour.

53,890. We shall require to see the guarantee, probably it is in Mr. Drake's possession or your brother's?—I presume so.

53,891. Were you down at the last election?—No, my own election was going on at the same time.

53,892. Had you anything to do with sending money down there?—No, not at all.

53,893. (Mr. Bere.) Was that the only sum that you were instruumental in procuring at that election?—That was the only sum I had anything to do with.

53,894. Do you know of any sums of money that came to your brother from the Liberal side at that election?—No.

53,895. Do you know whether any money came from Baron Rothschild?—No.

53,896. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know of any guarantee being given for a sum of money by the leader of the party at Totnes?—I never heard of such a thing at all.

53,897. (Mr. Coleridge.) When you had this interview with Mr. Drake did Mr. Drake say anything about its not being usual to advance money unless some guarantee was given by the person borrowing it?—I strongly urged that my brother had spent a certain sum of money, and that I heard in a vague kind of a way that there was a fund, and as my brother was fighting a hard contest that he should receive some assistance.

53,898. When you said that did Mr. Drake say there was no such fund?—It is a difficult thing to remember a conversation so long ago; but I left with the impression on my mind that there was a doubt.

53,899. You did not in fact get the money, but you gave the guarantee?—I understood that that was provisional, but he would try in the meantime; but as it was a pressing matter he could not give a direct answer, that was the impression, but at any rate the money must be had, and in the meantime he would take a security for it.

53,900. Was the impression on your mind that

Mr. Drake had no money over which he had the control, and therefore he was obliged to take your guarantee to send the money down?—The impression left on my mind was, that it was doubtful whether he could get the assistance or not; in the meantime I must become security for the money.

53,901. Did Mr. Drake leave you with that impression, that it was doubtful whether there was any such fund at all, or whether you could get it to apply to this purpose?—The only impression left on my mind was, that it was doubtful whether my brother could have the money.

53,902. Did he give you any reason to doubt that there was such a fund in existence somewhere, when you put the question to him about the vague rumour?—His answers were very vague; I cannot say that there was a definite impression left on my mind one way or the other.

53,903. When you gave the guarantee did you expect that you would ever be called upon to pay it, or that it would be found from the fund that you alluded to?—I was in hopes that it would be found from the fund.

53,904. You did not expect that you would have to pay it?—No; my impression was that he would try and see what was to be done, and if he was unable to do it, it would be put into the general election expenses.

53,905. (Mr. Longe.) Do you recollect stating to him the sum that Mr. Alfred Seymour had spent?—I do not remember.

53,906. Was it a definite sum or a large sum?—I do not remember the particular sum. I said that my brother had spent a good deal of money, as much as he could conveniently spare.

53,907. You made the largeness of the sum the ground for spending more?—I said that my brother had taken a certain sum, I think 1,000*l.*, to spend, and he expected that the election would not have cost more, and he was surprised to find that it cost him more; and the consequence was, that as more money was wanted I went to consult Mr. Drake about raising it.

53,908. You stated at least 1,000*l.* was spent?—That was my impression.

53,909. (Mr. Coleridge.) You personally have never been asked to repay that 500*l.*?—I have never thought any more of it. I thought it went to the general expenses. If I had remembered it I should have told the Commissioners, because there was 500*l.* that they could not trace.

53,910. You have not directly or indirectly had to pay that money, or had to pay any interest upon it?—No.

53,911. Your brother has simply paid it since?—Yes, and to tell the truth it had entirely escaped my memory.

Captain Lane Fox sworn and examined.

Capt. L. Fox.

53,912. You are a friend of Colonel Dawkins?—Yes.

53,913. And went to Totnes after he was there at the last election?—Yes.

53,914 How long before the election did you go down?—I think a week after he had been there.

53,915. And how many days before the election?—I cannot tell, but a week after he was there.

53,916. What train did you go down by?—I forget.

53,917. Do you recollect the time that you got there, about?—I think about five o'clock.

53,918. And did you go immediately by his directions, by what you heard from him, to the "Seven Stars"?—Yes.

53,919. Whom did you see there first of all?—I forget.

53,920. Did you know whether there was a gentleman named Kellock there?—I did not see him there. I rather think Mr. Heath was the first person I saw there.

53,921. I suppose you were taken to a private room?—I do not know. I do not think I went to any room. First of all I asked where Colonel Dawkins was, and they said he was out canvassing, and I went out.

53,922. Did you find him?—A person named Kellock came out of a house, and from my personal appearance he said he believed I must be Colonel Dawkins's friend.

53,923. When did you first see Mr. Smith?—I saw Mr. Smith after I got there; but I met Mr. Smith at the station the day before I went down.

53,924. Where?—At Paddington.

53,925. Had you any conversation with him about the election, about what was going on?—Yes, and he told me he considered Colonel Dawkins's return safe, and as there was a strong Conservative feeling in the borough he thought they could return two Conservatives.

53,926. Did you express your surprise at his leaving Colonel Dawkins at Totnes?—I know I understood from him that he had come up on private business.

53,927. Did he tell you when he was going back?—No, but he came back shortly afterwards, two or three days afterwards.

53,928. When Mr. Smith came back he lived with Colonel Dawkins and yourself?—Yes.

53,929. Did you know at all the part of the house in which Mr. Smith was occupying, his bedroom?—To the best of my recollection it was a room on the left-hand side, at the end of a passage.

53,930. Was it nearly over the door, and looking over the Plains?—I cannot say.

53,931. You had known Mr. Smith before he was your private solicitor?—Yes, I had known him many years.

53,932. Were you in the habit of going to his room from time to time?—Yes, frequently.

53,933. He kept a good deal to his bedroom?—Yes.

53,934. When you went did you find the door locked or open?—I think generally locked.

53,935. You knocked and Mr. Smith opened the door?—Yes.

53,936. Did you ever see with Mr. Smith any stranger?—Never.

53,937. Whenever you went up you never found a stranger with him?—No.

53,938. How many times did you go to his room?—When I wanted to see him or to go for a walk.

53,939. Once or twice a day?—Yes.

53,940. And you never met a stranger there?—No.

53,941. Did you ever see a person named Screach there?—Never, to the best of my recollection.

53,942. Did you ever see a person called Evens there, to the best of your recollection?—I do not recollect the name.

53,943. You do not recollect that you ever saw a person in his room but himself?—No.

53,944. Not even his clerks?—No.

53,945. Nor Mr. Heath?—I have no recollection of seeing anybody but himself.

53,946. From the time that you and Mr. Smith were there you were constantly going to his room and finding the door locked, and you never saw anybody there at all?—No.

53,947. Did you ever canvass with Colonel Dawkins?—Yes; when I say canvassing, I drove out with him when he went out into the country.

53,948. You went to the out-voters with him?—Yes.

53,949. Was anything said to you as to whether you had got anything to do with them, or did they come and speak to you, after he had canvassed them, in a suggestive manner?—On the polling day I remember a man saying he had voted for Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim, and he wished something to be done for him.

53,950. Was that a man named Willcocks?—I have

FORTY-SECOND DAY.

Capt. L. Fox.

20 Nov. 1866.

not the slightest doubt it was; and I wrote his name down in a book and asked his address, and I mentioned it to Colonel Dawkins.

53,951. Did you mention it to Colonel Dawkins or to Mr. Smith?—To the best of my recollection, to Colonel Dawkins.

53,952. Did Colonel Dawkins refer you to Mr. Edmonds or anybody?—No, I do not think he took much notice of it.

53,953. Is that the only instance you can give of any voter saying anything about getting something for what he had done?—Yes.

53,954. We are told that you went to Torquay with Mr. Kellock?—Yes.

53,955. Did you know what he was going for?—No; he was very anxious that I should see Torquay. He asked me if I had seen it, and I said, "No," and he said he had a very fast trotter which would take us in so many hours or so many minutes, I forget which.

53,956. Colonel Dawkins went part of the way?—Yes; Mr. Kellock's trap was at some inn, and Colonel Dawkins went with us part of the way and then got into Mr. Kellock's carriage, and Colonel Dawkins came back.

53,957. When you went to Torquay, and Mr. Kellock went to the manager of the bank, it being closed, what became of you?—I went about the place.

53,958. He did not take you to the bank?—No, I did not know that he had been to the bank.

53,959. Did you see Mr. Smith there that day?—Yes, he was there certainly one day. I am not certain that it was that day.

53,960. Where did you see Mr. Smith?—When I saw Mr. Smith I think he was dining at the hotel.

53,961. Was anybody with him?—I think one of his clerks.

53,962. Had you any conversation as to what had brought him there?—No, on the contrary; to the best of my recollection Mr. Smith was unwell, and he went there to have a quiet day.

53,963. How long did Mr. Kellock keep you walking about to see the place before he came back?—I walked about, and when I was tired I went to the hotel.

53,964. About what time was it when he came back?—It might be an hour or an hour and a half, I cannot remember.

53,965. Do you remember what time you left Torquay to go to Totnes?—I think it was dark.

53,966. Had Mr. Kellock anything with him when he came back?—I think soon after we started he told me in rather a significant tone that he was carrying more weight than when we started. He appeared to me to wish that I should know that he did carry the weight.

53,967. Did you observe what the weight was; did he show you any parcel?—I have no recollection; he might have done so.

53,968. Do you recollect what time it was when you started off for Torquay?—I do not recollect; it was rather late, and I thought it was rather late to go.

53,969. Did it not occur to you that it was rather late to start off to see the beauties of Torquay?—I thought it was rather late and I told him so, but I had nothing else to do and I went.

53,970. Did Mr. Kellock give you any information of what he was going to Torquay for?—No.

53,971. Not till he had got the weight, and then he told you?—Yes.

53,972. That is the first intimation that you had of it?—Yes.

53,973. You say that on one occasion you saw Mr. Smith there?—Yes.

53,974. How often did you go to Torquay?—I went twice.

53,975. What occurred on the other occasion, not the time that he brought back the weight?—I did not go twice with Mr. Kellock; on the second occasion I went by myself. I went to call upon Lord Cranstoun, to ask him which way he thought his tenants would be likely to vote.

53,976. Did you see Lord Cranstoun?—Yes.

53,977. Did you have a conversation about the change of politics with regard to his tenants?—I had a considerable conversation with him one way and another, and my particular reason for going was that we heard his tenants were going to vote for the Conservatives, and then that they were going to vote on the other side, and I thought that under the circumstances I should like to go over and see which way his tenants would vote, because I thought he would be likely to know.

53,978. Was he staying at Torquay?—Yes.

53,979–80. Did he tell you how it was?—There was no knowledge of how the tenants were going to vote. Lord Cranstoun told me how they were going to vote, and also wrote down on a slip of paper the way they were going to vote, but that slip of paper I have torn up.

53,981. Were they going to vote for Colonel Dawkins or against him?—Some for, or not going to vote, or split with Colonel Dawkins.

53,982. Did he say that he influenced his tenants, or that they voted as they liked?—He gave me distinctly to understand that they voted as they liked; and he told me, or put it on paper, the way he believed they were going to vote, but he told me very distinctly that they voted as they liked.

53,983. Did he tell you what his political views were?—Conservative, I believe, at that time; from the fact of his wishing us success I concluded that they were.

53,984. Do you recollect a letter of Lord Cranstoun's which somehow or other got to the "Seven Stars," and was sent for to the "Seymour Arms," during the election?—I cannot say that I do.

53,985. Do you recollect anything about a letter of Lord Cranstoun's about how the tenants were going to vote having got to the "Seven Stars" people?—I think I do recollect it.

53,986. You do not recollect whether you were present when that letter was sent there, or who came for it?—No.

53,987. Do you know young Mr. Pender?—No.

53,988. Do you recollect that Mr. Pender had been to the "Seven Stars?"—I recollect something about a letter going backwards and forwards.

53,989. You do not recollect seeing a letter given up to Mr. Pender?—No.

53,990. Did you hear of it as an extraordinary thing that young Mr. Pender should have been in the "Stars?"—No, my own recollection is about having seen something about it in the paper.

53,991. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know Mr. Jeffrey Michelmore by sight?—No, I can remember very few of them.

53,992. Do you recollect a communication being made to Colonel Dawkins late in the night before the election that Lord Cranstoun had changed his mind, and that his tenants, instead of voting for Colonel Dawkins, were going to vote for the Liberals?—My impression is that I heard they were going to vote that way. We first heard that they were going to vote one way and then another, and I believe that is the reason I suggested myself that I had better jump into a fly and go and ask Lord Cranstoun what his opinion was.

53,993. Had Colonel Dawkins spoken to you about the sums of money being spent in Totnes?—The first conversation I had with him on the subject was soon after I went there, and I told him I understood that it was a place where a large sum of money would probably be required, and he seemed to think that was not the case. He said that he had met with such a flattering reception, and there appeared to be such a strong Conservative feeling, that he appeared to pooh-pooh the idea, and avoided mentioning the subject of money.

53,994. Did he tell you what money he had brought down?—No.

53,995. Were you there before Captain Pim came down?—Yes.

53,996. When Captain Pim came down what was the idea about his being returned; was it supposed that he would be returned or not?—He seemed to have a favourable opinion of his chance, and I was told by Mr. Kellock and Mr. Edmonds that Colonel Dawkins would certainly be returned, and probably Captain Pim; that was my impression.

53,997. That was some few days before the election?—I forget; but from the moment I arrived there I was told that Colonel Dawkins would be returned, and in all probability they would return two Conservative candidates.

53,998. Shortly before the election did not you have a conversation with Mr. Edmonds which made you change your opinion with regard to Colonel Dawkins being returned?—I think not. I think a day or two before I saw Mr. Edmonds; he came to me and he said he was disgusted at the amount of money that would be required, and that a further sum would be required; and he asked me whether I thought Colonel Dawkins would pay a further sum, to which I replied I had no authority from Colonel Dawkins to sanction the payment of any money, that he had avoided mentioning money to me as much as possible, and that I had never heard anything mentioned except the necessary expenses of an election, which was the only way they thought proper to describe them.

53,999. Did you learn from Mr. Edmonds what sum of money had been expended?—To the best of my recollection not.

54,000. Did you hear from Mr. Smith what sums of money had been advanced?—I do not think that Mr. Smith knew; at least at that time he did not say anything about it.

54,001. He must have known, because his hand signed the cheques and he brought the money; but he had not told you?—I was permitted to know as little as possible.

54,002. When you heard that money was wanted did you think that Colonel Dawkins' seat was as safe as you thought it before?—I was told by everybody that there was a strong Conservative feeling, and I was bound to believe what they told me; but having previously heard that it was a doubtful question whether a Conservative would be returned, I honestly confess I doubted whether he would be returned; and when Mr. Edmonds told me that a further sum of money would be required, I considered that the Conservative feeling was not so strong as it had been represented to me by Mr. Kellock and others.

54,003. Had you heard anything about Totnes before you went to it?—Yes.

54,004. Had you heard anything about it in London?—I cannot say.

54,005. Had you seen Mr. Spofforth?—I had seen him.

54,006. And conversed with him about the Totnes election?—I think I had some conversation about Colonel Dawkins going down.

54,007. How long before you went?—The day before.

54,008. Can you tell us what passed?—I can, exactly. When I met Mr. Smith at the station in Paddington, Mr. Smith told me that they wanted a second Conservative candidate, and I think I mentioned that to Mr. Spofforth.

54,009. Did you go to see Mr. Spofforth at his office in Victoria Street?—Yes.

54,010. By previous arrangement?—No; but, in consequence of having heard that there was a chance of being able to return a second Conservative candidate I was anxious that a second should be sent.

54,011. Did you go to suggest to Mr. Spofforth some name?—Yes.

54,012. Who was that?—Colonel Alexander.

54,013. Who did go afterwards, but who did not stand?—I do not know that I suggested it, but I saw Colonel Alexander at the Guards' Club, and I told him that there was a chance of returning a second Conservative candidate, that there was a strong Conservative feeling in the borough; and he said if there was a chance that he would go, and I represented this to Mr. Spofforth. To the best of my recollection Mr. Spofforth was in Victoria Street; I am not sure that he was there; there were many people there.

54,014. Would you have mentioned it to anybody else, not Mr. Spofforth?—I spoke to Lord Neville.

54,015. Was he in Victoria Street at the time?—Yes.

54,016. Who else were there?—I have no recollection; there were two or three people in the room.

54,017. Did not you speak to Mr. Spofforth in his private room?—I fancy he was in the room, but I am not at all clear on the subject.

54,018. Did Mr. Spofforth or anybody else express an opinion as to the chance of a second Conservative candidate being returned for Totnes?—I have no recollection that they did. On the contrary, my impression of the conversation is that they thought it very doubtful indeed that a second Conservative would be returned; that is my impression.

54,019. Was Captain Pim's name mentioned at that interview?—No. Colonel Alexander went down, but having met with no encouragement I think he returned.

54,020. Can you remember whether it was the 3rd of July that you went down?—I cannot recollect the date.

54,021. You have no means of knowing that it was the 3rd of July?—I should think it was most likely that Colonel Dawkins would know; he would be more likely to keep an account.

54,022. Did you go with Colonel Alexander?—Yes, in the same train.

54,023. Was not Mr. Seymour in the same train?—Yes.

54,024. Did he not go through his poll-book?—No.

54,025. He showed you his poll-book?—No; he got into the same carriage with me, and he asked me what I was going to do there. He said he was going down to fight Colonel Dawkins, the martyr, as he was called, and he asked me what I was doing in that part of the country. I said I was going to see my friend Colonel Dawkins, the martyr, and I hoped to see him bowl him over.

54,026. (Mr. Coleridge.) You did not know that there was a second martyr in Captain Pim going down?—No.

54,027. I think Mr. Seymour said that he went with you, and showed the poll-book to Colonel Alexander and to you, and showed that Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim could have no chance?—I cannot recollect, but I recollect Mr. Seymour telling me that he thought Colonel Dawkins would have no chance. He was not personally acquainted with Colonel Dawkins; but as Colonel Dawkins was a friend of mine he was sorry to see a friend of mine throw his money away. He considered his return certain, and there would be no occasion to spend any money. There would be a considerable sum of money required, he thought, if Colonel Dawkins were to stand; the money would only be thrown away. That, is as far as I recollect, the conversation.

54,028. You did not believe that?—I thought it was a way of finding out what Colonel Dawkins was likely to do; and I wish to mention at the same time that this was mentioned to me privately, and I did not wish to make use of it, but I consider that I am bound to state it here.

54,029. Had you any conversation with Colonel Dawkins about a clergyman of the name of James, whom you had been to canvass, and who had voted against Colonel Dawkins afterwards?—I have no recollection.

54,030. You have no recollection of Colonel Dawkins or Captain Pim paying a visit to the Rev. Mr. James?—No, I read it in the evidence. I think they said I had been there with him, but I have no recollection of having been there. I have no recollection of canvassing with Colonel Dawkins in the town.

54,031. If you did go to Mr. James you would not forget it?—No.

FORTY-SECOND DAY.

Capt. L. Fox.

20 Nov. 1866.

54,032. You do not recollect him speaking of selling his house, or anything of that kind ?—No.

54,033. As it has been suggested, did you in any way act as the mysterious stranger and sit in a room ?—No ; and I wish to say that I do not believe that there was a mysterious stranger. I must have seen him if there was.

54,034. You must have seen him ?—Yes ; I was walking about the house, and if there had been such a person I must have seen him.

54,035. Did you see persons except those you believed to be acting with Colonel Dawkins, or people that you knew were connected with Colonel Dawkins ?—I could not go so far as that ; I might meet people who would be entire strangers.

54,036. What rooms were you in in the house during the election, except your own bedroom, Colonel Dawkins's bedroom, and the sitting room ?—I believe I was upon the occasion, as far as I can recollect, when Mr. Edmonds asked me whether Colonel Dawkins would spend a further sum of money, I think I went then or shortly afterwards to another sitting room ; I cannot exactly describe it, into the sitting room in which Mr. Edmonds was very often, and in which I saw Mr. Heath.

54,037. Was that room at the top of the stairs ?—Yes.

54,038. No. 8 ?—I think so ; it was nearly opposite to Colonel Dawkins's committee-room, as far as I can recollect.

54,039. I must put the general question. Did you directly or indirectly influence or attempt to influence voters by promises of money or any advancement of any sort or kind ?—To the best of my recollection, never.

54,040. Were you asked by Colonel Dawkins or anybody connected with Colonel Dawkins to do so at any time ?—The only conversation or the only thing that could be in any sort or way interpreted or might be interpreted into that sort of thing was a conversation that I had with Mr. Edmonds, when he asked me about the money, and I said I had no authority from Colonel Dawkins, and I mentioned the conversation that there was a further sum required.

54,041. Colonel Dawkins did not communicate to you that he would advance it ?—No, I have no recollection of his doing so. I did not act in any way for Colonel Dawkins, and he never mentioned it to me, and I was surprised to hear what he had spent when I heard of it ; but I knew large sums were spent.

54,042. Were you asked to take any money with you ?—No ; Colonel Dawkins wrote to me and said that he found it very dull, and he would be obliged if I would come down, and I did go at great inconvenience to myself.

54,043. (Mr. Bere.) When Mr. Edmonds told you he was disgusted that more money was wanted, did you go and communicate that speech to Colonel Dawkins ?—I think I did ; I most likely should have done so.

54,044. (Mr. Longe.) Although you took no part, there was no secret between you and Colonel Dawkins as to the fact that he was spending money ?—I understood that there was no money spent ; but when I told Colonel Dawkins what Mr. Seymour told me, I understood from Colonel Dawkins that he thought there would be very little money required, and he merely told me that he had instructed his agents to pay the necessary expenses, and he avoided mentioning anything to me about money ; and when Mr. Edmonds spoke to me about money I said all I had heard of was the necessary expenses of the election, and never having been engaged in that before I said, "I suppose "you know what it means." I remember Mr. Kellock coming to me on the morning of the polling day. He came into my room when dressing, and he told me he considered it was all over with Colonel Dawkins after he had paid very large sums, I forget how much ; that two or three persons whom they counted upon as perfectly certain had gone to the "Seymour Hotel" and could get very large sums. I said, "Colonel "Dawkins has spent quite enough money, and I "could not advise him to spend more." I said, "I "am sorry to hear Colonel Dawkins has spent so much "money, and if he were to take my advice he would "tell those men to go to the devil, and let them get "what they could from the 'Seymour.'"

54,045. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were those men mentioned ?—No ; but I understood it was those who signed the requisition. I think Mr. Kellock mentioned that.

54,046. Did he mention that ?—I cannot be certain, but I rather fancy so.

54,047. Did you hear the name of Blank mentioned ?—No.

54,048. Or Thomas Jacob Searle ?—No ; but I recollect the name of Harris. They called him "Loppy Harris," and I know that made an impression on my mind.

54,049. (Mr. Longe.) Did you know that money was being paid to voters at the "Seven Stars Hotel"?—My impression was that that sort of thing was going on.

54,050. In the hotel ?—Yes.

54,051. What was your impression as to the person who was paying the money ?—My impression was distinctly all the way through that Mr. Heath appeared to have more to do with it than anyone else. He was always walking about in a mysterious way, remarkably silent, and, as far as I could judge, played the part of the mysterious stranger as well as anybody could.

54,052. Your impression was that it was Mr. Heath ?—My impression was that whatever was done was done in the "Seven Stars," and that it was Mr. Heath, and my reason for fancying it was from seeing Mr. Heath walking backwards and forwards ; and if I recollect rightly I have an impression that Mr. Heath was in and out of the sitting room where Mr. Edmonds was when I went into the room.

54,053. (Mr. Coleridge.) You told us you never saw him in Mr. Smith's bedroom ?—No.

54,054. You never saw Mr. Smith dealing with money in his own bedroom ?—No ; but Mr. Smith distinctly told me that he had money in his bedroom, and that was the reason the door was locked.

54,055. You never had any dealings with the money ?—No.

54,056. Did you see the bags ?—No ; when I went and knocked at the door he opened it immediately.

54,057. You do not remember seeing any mysterious stranger, and so far as supplying the mysterious stranger goes Mr. Heath comes the nearest to it ?—That is my impression.

54,058. (Mr. Bere.) Did you see Mr. Heath, when people came in, walk away with them into sitting rooms ?—My impression is that it was Mr. Heath. There was a tremendous amount of mystery about what he was doing ; and I may safely state that I mentioned that to Colonel Dawkins. I said, "I want "to know what Mr. Heath is doing ? What part is "he taking in the election ?" He appeared to be walking about in a mysterious way, frequently passing me.

54,059. Did you see the young Heaths ? Were they mysterious ?—No ; my conversation with young Heath, as far as I recollect, was about horses which he had in his stables.

54,060. (Mr. Longe.) Did you have much conversation with Captain Pim ?—No.

54,061. Did you ever talk about what was going on in the "Seven Stars," how the money was going ?—I cannot recollect the conversation that took place between me and Captain Pim. As far as I know it was mentioned, but I have no recollection of any particular conversation.

54,062. You do not recollect anything being said or that he was aware that money was being spent at the "Seven Stars ?"—No ; I think the only thing I can refer to and recollect as a conversation was that Captain Pim said a certain sum of money would be required, and that Colonel Dawkins would have to spend money. I understood him so.

FORTY-SECOND DAY.

Capt. L. Fox.

20 Nov. 1866.

54,063. For whom ?—That he must put his shoulder to the wheel, that he must work hard.

54,064. When was that ?—One evening after dinner. He said that Colonel Dawkins must either put his shoulder to the wheel or work hard. He told me that he was working hard himself in canvassing, and he gave me to understand that he was not going to spend any money at all.

54,065. But Colonel Dawkins was to spend money for him ?—I do not know, but my impression was this, if I recollect the conversation rightly, he said Colonel Dawkins must put his shoulder to the wheel, and I am not at all certain that he did not say put his hand in his pocket.

54,066. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you any doubt that Captain Pim was perfectly cognizant of everything going on ?—Captain Pim distinctly told me that he would not spend any money at all; that he went on purity of election.

54,067. But about Colonel Dawkins ?—He seemed to imagine that Colonel Dawkins was spending money.

54,068. Can you recollect at all how late you were up on the night of the nomination ? We have heard that half the house did not go to bed ?—The last night I stayed up very late, 2 or 3 o'clock.

54,069. Do you recollect a person called Narramore coming in, and Captain Pim sending him off to the Liberal voters to offer fabulous prices to raise the price of votes ?—No.

54,070. About 3 o'clock in the morning ?—I do not know.

54,071. You were not up ?—I do not know; to the best of my recollection I was up very late.

54,072. We have had two or three witnesses who said Captain Pim told them to go to the Liberal voters and offer them fabulous sums to make the Liberals pay more, when the election was as good as gone ?—I do not recollect that. I have told you everything I recollect.

54,073. (Mr. Longe.) Do you recollect when the conversation took place about putting his shoulder to the wheel and his hand to his pocket, and was it to get plumpers ?—I do not know. I think his impression was that Colonel Dawkins was not working hard, not canvassing so vigorously as he was. That is what I understood by "putting his shoulder to the "wheel," and I fancy he said, "Put his hand in his "pocket." I should fancy there was no doubt that money was being spent at that time, and he must have understood it.

Mr. William Dent sworn and examined.

Mr. W. Dent.

54,074. (Mr. Allen.) You are uncle to Mr. John Dent who stood for Totnes in 1862 and 1863 ?—Yes.

54,075. Did he communicate his intention to stand ?—No; I first learned it from the newspapers.

54,076. No communication took place between you ?—No; the first time that I saw him after he had been down I told him he was very foolish.

54,077. Was that after the first or the second election ?—I cannot remember; but living in the country I saw him very rarely; but no doubt after the first time I told him.

54,078. Did he tell you then what money he had spent ?—He never touched upon it in any way.

54,079. Did you never understand from him what he had spent ?—No; I positively never communicated with him on the subject.

54,080. You really know nothing whatever ?—Nothing whatever I assure you; and I do not believe he communicated with any of his elder relatives in England; whose advice he acted on I do not know.

54,081. Do you know whether any of his relatives tried to prevent him spending money at Totnes ?—I do not think they were aware of it.

54,082. (Mr. Bere.) Did you ever learn after the election what money he had spent ?—Never.

54,083. Is he in China now ?—Yes.

54,084. Do you know whether there is any probability of his coming home ?—I do not know, but I should think it is unlikely.

54,085. (Mr. Coleridge.) You yourself were asked to stand for Totnes ?—No.

54,086. Was any communication made to you to stand at the last general election ?—No; I think probably it might be my son.

54,087. Is his name William ?—Yes.

54,088. Do you know whether he was asked ?—I do not know.

54,089. We have here the name of William Dent mentioned. It is in Mr. Spofforth's letter; he says, "It is no good asking Mr. William Dent any more"? —I do not know anything about it.

54,090. (Mr. Bere.) Did you know anything of Mr. Mitchell, who appears to have been a great friend of your nephew ?—No; I think the China friends are those by whom he was advised.

54,091. Did you know Captain Helms who was with him a great deal ?—No.

54,092. In fact he never communicated at all to you anything about standing for Totnes ?—No.

54,093. (Mr. Coleridge.) There is a letter from Mr. Spofforth to Mr. Edmonds, who was the Conservative agent for Totnes, in which he mentions the name of Mr. William Dent. Was any letter communicated to you on the last general election ?—No.

54,094. Do you know Mr. Spofforth ?—When I came into this room I heard his name mentioned.

54,095. There is another William Dent besides your son. Is there not one that is in the house ?—That is the gentleman.

54,096. Is he in England ?—No, nor is he in a state to attend if he were.

Mr. Markham Spofforth sworn and examined.

Mr. M. Spofforth.

54,097. (Mr. Coleridge.) You have been asked to produce certain documents and letters ?—Yes.

54,098. Have you got the correspondence ?—I have all the correspondence relating to Totnes.

54,099. Relating to 1863 ?—The earliest correspondence is with reference to 1865. The first letter with regard to those elections (there must have been others, but we periodically destroy them) is June 5, 1864, a letter from Mr. Bryett.

54,100. That is the first letter you have ?—Yes, relating to any of the Totnes elections.

54,101. Let us have the letters ?—But I must ask permission to read some letters I have here afterwards.

54,102. You were asked to produce your letter-books ?—We do not keep letter-books; they would fill this room. Each department is kept separate, and what is considered important is retained.

54,103. You are a partner in the house of Baxter, Rose, and Norton ?—Baxter, Rose, Norton, and Co.

54,104. How long have you acted as agent in London for the Conservative party ?—Since 1853 I think, 13 years.

54,105. And you were yourself agent in 1853 ?—I am not quite sure that I was. I do not consider myself the agent of the Conservative party. I was first consulted by the persons who came about seats and that sort of thing.

54,106. In 1853 ?—Yes.

54,107. Mr. Rose succeeded you ?—Yes, he took it up subsequently.

54,108. Who preceded you ?—Mr. Henry Edwards Bone.

54,109. You succeeded him ?—Yes.

54,110. How did Mr. Rose become connected with it ?—He was a member of the same firm and interested himself in the business, that was all.

54,111. Will you look at that (referring to a letter).

FORTY-SECOND DAY.

Mr. M. Spofforth.

20 Nov. 1866.

Is that in Colonel Taylor's handwriting?—It is a lithograph.

54,112. Sent to all the Conservative agents?—Yes.

54,113. Amongst other duties you were to look after the registration for the Conservatives?—I have not time to look after that; but I remind the agents of their duties at certain times.

54,114. The letter says, "Should you require any "information Mr. Markham Spofforth will give it"?—If they wrote for information they would get it.

54,115. Suppose they wrote for pecuniary assistance?—Then they would not get it.

54,116. (Mr. Coleridge.) I see they write and ask you for back rents?—Yes.

54,117. Did you pay any?—No.

54,118. (Mr. Bere.) Were you consulted as early as 1853 about Totnes?—Yes, no doubt.

54,119. Did you know anything about the election of 1857 when Mr. Mackenzie and Mr. Gregory went down?—No, I did not.

54,120. Who was Mr. Mackenzie?—He was an East India merchant in the city.

54,121. Is he alive?—Yes.

54,122. Do you know where he lives?—He lives at Surrey House, Marble Arch.

54,123. Did you know that he had been down after 1855, when Lord Gifford had been down; but for reasons of his own would not stand at that time?—I forget the circumstance; it is a long time ago; but I went down twice I think.

54,124. Can you say whether it was from any communication with the Conservatives and your office that you were consulted originally as to a candidate for Totnes?—I should say the Conservative agent for that time would write to me in the way that Edmonds did on the last occasion, and ask if Dawkins was approved of by the party.

54,125. Would not his name be first mentioned to the Conservative party at Totnes by you?—Possibly.

54,126. Can you say whether that did take place or not?—I cannot say, but I believe it did. I have no knowledge of Mr. Mackenzie, and I do not recollect sending him.

54,127. Did you know anything about Gregory?—No.

54,128. Did you know how the elections were fought until 1857?—No.

54,129. Have you yourself ever been to Totnes?—Yes, once.

54,130. At election times?—No.

54,131. In 1859 was Mr. Dunn sent through your agency?—No; I do not know how he went down there. I did not send him.

54,132. In 1862, when Mr. Dent went down, was he suggested as a candidate by you?—No. Mr. Dent had a friend named Mitchell, who came to me and said for particular reasons Mr. Dent was desirous of being in parliament, and that he had been asked by someone to stand for Totnes; would there be any objection on the part of the Conservative party to his standing? and I said "No."

54,133. What was Mitchell at that time?—He was a police magistrate at Hong Kong, a great personal friend of Mr. Dent's.

54,134. Had you known him before?—No; but before Mr. Dent went to Totnes I had received a letter from a brother of mine in China, who said that Mr. Dent had been very kind to him, and he wished me to look after his interests. So I went and saw Mr. Dent about his standing for Totnes, and he asked my opinion whether he would get in, and I gave it in the negative.

54,135. For what reason?—I thought the Duke of Somerset's interest was so strong that he could not win a seat.

54,136. Did you know at that time that Totnes was a very corrupt borough?—No, I do not know that I did; but I subsequently wrote a note to Mr. Dent reiterating my opinion, and recommending him not to go down.

54,137. Did you intimate to him that if he went down it would cost him money, and that it would be spent without much purpose?—I thought the money would be thrown away.

54,138. He went down and Mr. Pender was elected?—Yes.

54,139. Did you see him between the two elections, December 1862 and January 1863?—I might have seen him at the clubs, but not on that business.

54,140. Did you have any conversation with him?—I remember once I said, "Now, Mr. Dent, you had "better have taken my advice."

54,141. And did he agree to that?—Yes.

54,142. Was that after the second election, or between the first and second?—They followed very quickly.

54,143. Yes, within six weeks?—I cannot say.

54,144. He did not consult you any more with regard to the election of 1863 than he did with regard to the election of 1862?—No; he went down without any advice of mine, and I was careful not to give it.

54,145. When did you first come to the conclusion that Totnes was a very corrupt place?—There were rumours after Mr. Dent's first contest that he had spent a large sum of money.

54,146. Did you hear the sum of money mentioned?—I always understood between 3,000*l.* and 4,000*l.*

54,147. Did you ever ask what he had spent?—No.

54,148. Before the election of 1865 I believe you were applied to in 1864 to find a candidate?—Before 1865 I had some letters from Mr. Edmonds, asking for two candidates.

54,149. Did they begin by asking for two candidates, or only one?—They began by asking for two; I remember the letters.

54,150. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you wish that letter on the notes?—Yes.

54,151. (Mr. Bere.) I will get them regularly. What was the first letter you received with regard to Totnes from the Conservative party as to the election of 1865, the letter from Mr. Edmonds?

54,152. (Mr. Coleridge.) Mr. Harris's letter is the first?—The 21st of July is the first I received about a candidate, and it was from Mr. Harris.

54,153. What William Dent was it?—A cousin of Mr. John Dent I wrote to, or rather I do not think I did write to him. This is the letter from Mr. Harris. As he has taken the liberty of publishing private and confidential letters, in reply I must do so.

54,154. (Mr. Bere.) He was obliged to do that. He was obliged to publish them?—This is the letter. 21st July 1864:—"Confidential. Totnes, 21 July "1864. My dear sir,—When I called with Mr. "Rennie at your office on the 24th of May last you "promised to render some assistance to fight the "registration, and as Colonel Taylor writes to say that "it is certain a general election will take place on "the next year's register, I am induced to write to "know to what extent you can help us. I want now "about 30*l.* to pay some extra rents and carry out the "engagements entered into last year. Knowing you "have a bad opinion of Totnes I am anxious to avoid "any exaggeration; but I will tell you what the "Radicals say, viz., 'that in the next register the "Tories will have a chance.' If you set any value "on two seats in Parliament come and help us. I "am certain you will never regret it. I am, dear "sir, yours truly, Robert Harris."

54,155. When had you communicated with Mr. Robert Harris with regard to Totnes?—I never knew Mr. Harris till he appears to have come to see me with Mr. Rennie, and then this letter comes afterwards, which I do not believe I replied to. I should not think of giving him any money, either for the registration or to pay back rents, so I do not suppose I took any notice of his letter. The next letter is dated March 23rd, 1865, from Mr. Edmonds, but I do not think I need read that.

54,156. (Mr. Coleridge.) There is a letter from Mr. Harris asking for a candidate with good commercial liberality ?—I think it would serve your purpose if I went on and read Mr. Harris'. There is no answer given to that letter about the rents and the assistance.

54,157. Read Mr. Edmonds' letter ?—It is: "Totnes, "March 23rd, 1865. Dear sir,—We are now without "a man to fight this place at the next election, Mr. "Macleay, who intended to do so, having recently "lost a brother in Australia, which will probably "render his presence in that colony necessary. Can "you find us a man, or do you think Mr. Dent could "be induced to stand again ? He is an exceedingly "popular man here, and would fight a stronger battle "here than any other man, and I am of opinion that "the battle could best be fought by his being nomi-"nated, apparently against his inclination, and by his "not appearing at all on the scene of action at the "election. However, whatever man comes forward, "he ought at once to begin operations, as now is the "time to win the election, and not when it actually "takes place. We have always laboured under the "disadvantage of not having a man in the field some "time before the election, by which a saving of a "great deal of money might be made. Faithfully "yours, T. H. Edmonds. M. Spofforth, Esq."

54,158. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know anything about a requisition that had been got up to Mr. Macleay ?—I do not recollect.

54,159. Mr. Macleay was not a client of yours, but a client of Mr. Henry Smith's, of Norfolk Street ?—I do not know anything about Mr. Macleay.

54,160. Was any communication made to Mr. Smith about Mr. Macleay standing for Totnes ?—No.

54,161. Were you aware that a requisition had been taken by Mr. Harris to the electors soliciting Mr. Macleay to stand ?—I was not aware of it. I saw Mr. Macleay before he went to Totnes, but he elected not to stand.

54,162. What was the next communication you received ?

54,163. (Mr. Coleridge.) What do you mean by beginning early ?—That they might make the acquaintance of the electors, because it saves money afterwards.

54,164. Is it not your experience that the longer an election is hanging about the more it would cost ?—Yes; but I would not interpret that as saving money in bribery.

54,165. That was that the candidate, whoever he might be, was to come down ?—Yes.

54,166. What was the next communication ?—The next is my reply of the 24th March 1865, and the next communication is from the celebrated Robert Harris, of the 2nd May 1865:—"My dear sir,—I "had the pleasure of an interview with you once "when C. G. C. Rennie, Esq., was present, respecting "this borough. You then assured me you could get "the Conservative party a candidate—being an "elector and an interested party you must take my "statement as such—but I assert most positively that "the Conservative party for 20 years have not stood "so well as they do now. I understand that Mr. "Dent will not come again; if you could succeed "with one of the same firm or name he would stand "the best chance; or if you could get Mr. R. Potter to "come he would certainly be elected; in fact, if you "wished it a requisition with more than one-half of the "electors could be got for him; or if you could get us "a good commercial man with plenty of spirit, like Mr. "Dunn—either one would do, one set is safe, and on "petition we should have both certain. Mr. Bryett "could give you reasons which I am confident will "satisfy you on that point; however, that must be left, "for on after consideration Mr. Edmonds will run up "and see you if you wish it, as he has instructions from "the committee to that effect. Surely as the register "is so favourable we are not to be left behind. And "I feel confident you can get one or two candidates "if you choose; if we do not succeed this time, ever "after blot the borough of Totnes out of your book. "I am, sir, yours faithfully, Robert Harris."

54,167. What was the commercial spirit Mr. Dunn exhibited at Totnes ?—I suppose he meant he wanted a candidate like Mr. Dunn.

54,168. With the same amount of money, and the same readiness to spend it ?—I do not know what sum he spent, and whether he alluded to that I do not know.

54,169. Was there any commercial transaction, except the buying and selling of votes ?—I think all constituencies prefer commercial men, because they think they get their sons on better. I thought Mr. Harris was a man of substance in Totnes, and I wrote this letter:—"(Private and confidential.) 6th May "1865. My dear sir,—I am taking measures to see "Mr. William Dent, cousin of Mr. John Dent, and "ask if he will come forward for Totnes. It is quite "out of the question asking Mr. Potter to come out. "He will not stand for any place at present, and "certainly Totnes would be rejected by him. Failing "Mr. W. Dent, I will endeavour to procure you a com-"mercial man, of the spirit you require. I am, dear "sir, yours very faithfully, W. Spofforth. Robert "Harris, Esq., Totnes."

54,170. What do you mean there ?—I did not allude to any bribery; that is the last thing I should have put in a letter.

54,171. What is the next communication ?—A letter of the 24th.

54,172. (Mr. Coleridge.) When did you take up the bad opinion with regard to Totnes ?—I never did.

54,173. Captain Pim said you would not touch it with a pair of tongs ?—I think the gallant commander has rather exaggerated that. He came and asked me if I would recommend him to stand for Totnes, and I said certainly not. I had not a good opinion of the place with regard to the possibility of success of a Conservative, and on other grounds which he would understand.

54,174. Was that before Colonel Dawkins came ?—Yes.

54,175. Did he come to you ?—He had been in communication before, and he came and asked if he might stand, if there was any objection. I said there is no objection, but I would not advise you to go down. I am told it requires from 1,500*l.* to 2,000*l.* to fight the seat, and I think that is a large sum of money.

54,176. When was it you first knew Totnes was such a bad place, an expensive place ?—I did not think it was an expensive place, but I thought the 2,000*l.* would be thrown away.

54,177. When was it you first knew Totnes was a venal place, how long back ?—I should say there has always been a popular impression against Totnes, and my impression was that a Conservative never was returned there.

54,178. Not since Baldwin ceased to spend money; there was always a Conservative till 1852 ?—My advice to Captain Pim was, that whatever he spent he would lose the election, and so I said to Colonel Dawkins; and in one letter I said——

54,179. (Mr. Bere.) We will come to that in the order of date. It appears you did find a candidate, in the person of Mr. Kennard ?—Yes, and I wrote the letter.

54,180. Had you seen Mr. Kennard upon the subject ?—Yes.

54,181. Did you go to him ?—No, he came to me.

54,182. Did you tell him what sum of money would be required to contest Totnes ?—I should tell him the same as Colonel Dawkins, from 1,000*l.* to 1,500*l.*, had he named that to me.

54,183. Who had named that ?—Mr. Edmonds; but I thought it was better to put 500*l.* on the local agent's estimate.

54,184. You say, Mr. Kennard is a gentleman of position and fortune, and you must show him that he can win for a reasonable sum of money ?—Yes.

54,185. And that was a reasonable sum of money ? Yes; it was a general election, and the boundary has

FORTY-SECOND DAY.

Mr. M. Spofforth.

20 Nov. 1866.

a circumference of five miles, and it is necessarily expensive to canvass.

54,186. Mr. Kennard did go down ?—Yes.

54,187. And you wrote the letter of the 6th of June, saying, "He is an exceptionally good candidate; I "hope that he will consent to stand, and that you will "pull him in ?"—Yes.

54,188. Did you receive any communication from Mr. Harris or Mr. Edmonds after Mr. Kennard went down to Totnes ?—The next letter was the 2nd June from Mr. Harris.

54,189. That precedes this letter of yours of the 3rd ?—It is: "Totnes, 2nd June, 1866. M. Spofforth, "Esq. Dear sir,—Enclosed is a list of the voters "of this borough. You will observe we can carry "one easy, and it will be a very close run for the "second. You must get us two good men. Pender "comes down here on Tuesday next; I fear he will "then begin canvassing. We ought to have at least "one in the field; can't you get us one at once? "Yours faithfully, ROBERT HARRIS."

54,190. Was it in answer to that that you wrote the letter of the 3rd, which begins, "I have at length found I think a suitable candidate" ?—I have no copy of that letter.

54,191. That letter of the 3rd of June must be an answer to that of the 2nd ?—Yes, no doubt it is.

54,192. Did you receive any communication from Mr. Harris or Mr. Edmonds between the 3rd and the 6th of June ?—No, I think not, as it is not here. The correspondence was kept regularly from this time.

54,193. The next letter you wrote is the letter about Mr. Kennard being an exceptionally good candidate. That is the 6th June 1865; written to Robert Harris, Esq., Totnes ?—Yes.

54,194. Did you have any answer to that ?—No, I think the next is the 19th of June.

54,195. Was that written after the two letters of yours of the 19th ?—It would be written on the day it bears date.

54,196. Here are two letters of yours, one to Mr. Edmonds and one to Mr. Harris, of the 19th June ?—I have not copies of them.

54,197. There is a letter: "Dear sir,—Your mind "will be relieved to learn that Mr. Kennard sent me "the poll book on the day I wrote to him for it. I "have got it by me, and will return it if you wish." What did that mean ?—Mr. Edmonds had lent Mr. Kennard his poll book, and Mr. Kennard had not returned it, and I got it and sent it.

54,198. It goes on, "You may rely on my having "one or two men when the time comes, but I quite "agree with you the longer they stay the better, so "long as the sitting members refrain from active "exertions." Did you mean that it was advisable for the Conservative candidate to go to Totnes early ?—I was astonished when I read these letters, published in the Times. There it was, "The longer they stay "away the better." The paragraph stands, "I quite "agree with you the longer they stay the better, so "long as the sitting members refrain from active "exertions." That is to say, the better they became known the better will be the chance.

54,199. Are you sure that is your meaning ?—Yes, certainly; it cannot mean anything else. I was surprised to see it otherwise in the Times.

54,200. (Mr. Coleridge.) Here is a letter: "Dear "sir,—I have got the poll book back from Mr. Ken-"nard, who is going to stand for Gloucester. You "may rely on having two men, but I think they should "not seek acquaintance with their future constituents "until the last moment" ?—When persons go personally canvassing they are invariably asked for something by the lower class of voters.

54,201. (Mr. Bere.) Surely after that you must mean in the other letter they should stay away from the constituencies, and not go to them ?—I think not. What I advise is, that personal canvass shall be avoided whenever possible. They should be at the place and address meetings, but not go and see the people.

54,202. (Mr. Longe.) According to your reading, they are to stay at Totnes so long as the members refrain from active exertions, but as soon as they begin they are to go away ?—Yes. I see it is that the meaning of the letter is, that so long as they stay away our men should stay away. I am sorry it has given so much trouble.

54,203. (Mr. Bere.) When did you first see Colonel Dawkins about this matter ?—I cannot remember the date.

54,204. It must have been between June the 19th and June the 27th ?—It must have been that time.

54,205. Who introduced you to him, had you known him before ?—I think he called upon me, with whom I cannot remember. He would be introduced, of course.

54,206. Did he call upon you to discuss the possibility of his getting into parliament for some place or another, or did he mention Totnes in particular ?—No; he said he had been told that I was the proper person to apply to, to ascertain whether there would be any objections to his standing for Totnes. I told him I knew of none; there was no one in his way.

54,207. Did Mr. Smith come with him ?—No, he did not; I think not.

54,208. Do you remember any interview at which Mr. Smith came there with Colonel Dawkins ?—I do not think I saw either Mr. Smith or Mr. Guscotte until after the election. Still Mr. Smith might come with him on that occasion; I do not remember it.

54,209. You will not be quite certain whether he did or did not ?—No.

54,210. Did you know Mr. Smith at all before the time of the petition ?—I only knew him by name, as a partner in a highly respectable firm in Essex Street.

54,211. I believe you discussed with Colonel Dawkins the sum of money that would be required to be spent, because you intimate to Mr. Edmonds, in the letter of the 27th June, that Colonel Dawkins "is prepared to "spend 2,000*l.*" ?—I told Colonel Dawkins it had been intimated to me that from 1,000*l.* to 1,500*l.* would be the cost of an election at Totnes; but I thought it was better to put 500*l.* on to the estimate of the local agent.

54,212. That is your letter of the 27th June, is it not (handing a letter to the witness) ?—Yes.

54,213. Did you have any further communication with Mr. Edmonds or Mr. Harris before that, previous to the election ?—Yes, I had a letter from Mr. Harris on the 19th of June. Will you allow me to say that at this time I did not know Mr. Harris by sight or personally. I was under the impression he was a man of respectability and substance in Totnes, for Mr. Rennie had told me he was an important man in the borough.

54,214. Did Mr. Rennie tell you he was his agent in respect of his lands ?—I never knew any other.

54,215. Did Mr. Rennie tell you he was a local preacher, and his agent at Totnes ?—No, he did not. I will read this letter:—"19th June 1865. M. "Spofforth, Esq. Dear sir,—I am desired by some "of the Conservative committee to write you in re-"ference to Lord Cranstoun. I have just seen Mr. "Counter, Mr. Astell's agent at Ashburton. He tells "me that Mr. Astell has succeeded in getting his sup-"port for Ashburton, but he cannot give me any "intelligence about Totnes. There are four who are "under his lordship's direction, voters for Totnes, "viz., Henry Bradridge jun., Pridhamsleigh, Ashbur-"ton; Richard Mortimore, Sandridge, Stoke Gabriel; "Robert Oldreive, do., do.; Robert Jackson, Buck-"fastleigh. The latter is not a tenant but a carpenter, "so he works continually on his lordship's estate. "He is one of the manufactured votes made by his "lordship's agent, Thomas Michelmore, who is also "the Duke of Somerset's agent. It is considered "certain that, if you could prevail on his lordship to "write these tenants, and also his agent, that they "would all comply with his request; in fact, the "agents of the duke would certainly let us have "their support for one seat; is it, therefore, too much "to ask you to do all you can for us in this direction?

" Again, would you see Mr. Potter, and try him on " behalf of William Edward James, Totnes, station " master on the S. D. Railway; William Smale, Totnes, goods carrier for the same Co.; James Paddon, " Kingsweir, Dartmouth, station master on the Dartmouth Railway. They all would gladly accept a " situation on the Great Western. Every effort must " be made by us, by so doing we can secure both seats. " Again, one of our electors is just gone to Eastbourne, Sussex, to reside. He is an organist. His " name is John Horth Dean; he is now an organist in " some church there. Could you set in motion any " inquiries about the minister, who he is, and what " are his politics. Although his vote is worth nothing " on a scrutiny, we must try and get him. Perhaps " Viscount Pevensey might help you. If you see Mr. " Rennie, I should like for him to know this also, as " he will do all he can for us. I am, sir, your " obedient servant, ROBERT HARRIS."

54,216. In answer to that did you write this on June 20th, 1865 :—" I am happy to tell you that we " have got Lord Cranstoun's full support, and he will " use every influence he has got in the contest for " Totnes. The only difficuly is finding a man with " plenty of money to carry the seat. This, however, " I trust to be able to do, and as soon as we find him " you shall know. I will get Mr. Potter to influence " the persons you name" ?—Yes, I wrote that letter.

54,217. How had you learnt that Lord Cranstoun would give his support to the Conservatives ?—I cannot say that I learnt it from any individual, but it was generally understood that Lord Cranstoun had become rather disgusted with the proceedings of the Liberal party and become Conservative.

54,218. Had you learnt that Lord Cranstoun had applied for a peerage that he had not been able to get from the Liberals ?—I had not done so.

54,219. Do you believe that he had ?—I do not.

54,220. Had you heard about it ?—No.

54,221. Do you know of any cause for his dislike to the Liberals ?—I should have thought the general dissatisfaction with their long administration was the cause.

54,222. The general dissatisfaction throughout the country ?—Yes.

54,223. And which particularly affected Lord Cranstoun at the time of the election ?—Yes.

54,224. Did Mr. Harris ever tell you, and did you happen to know, that those four votes were created on qualifications given to the voters by the Liberal agents ?—No.

54,225. Did you inquire whether Lord Cranstoun had any property himself in the borough of Totnes ?—I did not inquire; I believed he had, of course.

54,226. Cannot you remember at all who had intimated to you that Lord Cranstoun would lend his influence to the Conservatives ?—No, I do not; I might have been told by 50 people.

54,227. You write immediately in answer to that letter, and you cannot tell us who gave you that information ?—I cannot.

54,228. It was information on which you could rely ?—I have no doubt of it that it was true. When he turned from the politics he had previously entertained, it soon became a matter of notoriety.

54,229. Do you know that a considerable influence had been used to get Lord Cranstoun to turn round ?—I did not.

54,230. You did not know that Mr. John Abel Smith had been doing what he could to convert Lord Cranstoun ?—I did not.

54,231. What is the next letter that you have from Mr. Harris or from Mr. Edmonds ?—The next letter I have is the 22nd June. The 21st June I had a letter from Mr. Edmonds, in which he states : " Dear sir,— " Both Mr. Pender and Mr. Seymour's addresses are " out, so there is now no time to be lost. By-the-by, " I saw in to-day's paper that the electors of Glasgow " were getting up a requisition to the former ; is there " any foundation for the statement ? I find that Lord " Cranstoun's agents in this locality are endeavouring " to make his tenants believe that it is all bosh about his " lordship wishing them in future to support a Conservative, and that they had better vote for the Liberals, " as before. I think he ought to write a strong letter " to each of them, or, what would be far better, come " down and see each of them himself. Yours faithfully, " T. H. EDMONDS. M. Spofforth, Esq."

54,232. In consequence of that did you take any steps to get Lord Cranstoun to write such a letter ?—I wrote the following letter the next day : " 22nd " June 1860. My dear sir,—I think, notwithstanding " Mr. Pender's address, there is some probability of " his leaving for Glasgow, if they can so arrange. I " do not think he is at all fond of his present constituency, and might be induced for very little to seek " another. The gentleman I expected this morning " has not turned up, but may do so before post, and " you shall hear again. I am, dear sir, yours faithfully, M. SPOFFORTH. T. H. Edmonds, Esq."

54,233. Who was that gentleman ?—It was impossible to say.

54,234. Had you some other candidate in your eye besides Colonel Dawkins, at that time ?—Yes, very possibly.

54,235. And you cannot say who that was ?—No; I might have a great many. The next letter I have is from Mr. Edmonds, on the 27th of June : " Your " telegram duly reached me this afternoon, and we " shall be prepared to meet the candidate to-morrow " morning." I suppose this is to say that either Colonel Dawkins or Captain Pim is going down.

54,236. Is that your telegram (handing same to witness) ?—Yes. " Candidate will be with you to- " morrow morning. Put out placard asking voters to " reserve their votes."

54,237. That candidate was Colonel Dawkins ?—I cannot say which it was.

54,238. Because this is your letter : " The bearer " of this is Colonel Dawkins, who has a letter of introduction to Mr. Edmonds. Do the best you can " for him. You will not find a better candidate on " this side of the general election" ?—Yes.

54,239. At this time had you a second person as a candidate in your eye ?—No; I do not think I was thinking about Totnes at that time.

54,240. Is that the telegram you sent on the 28th June (handing same to witness) ?—" Gentleman will " be with you at 4 o'clock to morrow. Give notice " to reserve second votes."

54,241. Is that merely a general instruction in case of your being able to find out a second candidate ?—I think Captain Pim at that time had made up his mind to go down.

54,242. Had you seen Captain Pim at that time ?—I should say so.

54,243. He was not the person who communicated with you, was he ? Do you remember Captain Fox calling upon you ?—I did not remember it till to-day.

54,244. And did not he mention Colonel Alexander ?—He did.

54,245. And did Colonel Alexander come down ?—I was not aware of it ; it seems he did go down.

54,246. In all probability would not that telegram refer to Colonel Alexander and not to Captain Pim ?—It might.

54,247. Do you remember who was present when Captain Fox was at your office ?—I do not remember anyone but myself; I do not think there was anyone. I told him subsequently I did not remember anyone.

54,248. Was there a general meeting of the Carlton Committee at your house ?—Yes.

54,249. Did any members of the Carlton Club meet at your house to discuss the prospects of the Conservative party at the coming election ?—No.

54,250. Do you remember Captain Fox saying that Lord Neville was there at the time ?—It is possible ; it was just about the time of the general election.

54,251. You were preparing for the contest generally all over the country ?—Yes. Will you be kind enough to repeat your question about the members of the Carlton calling at my house, I do not think I understood it.

FORTY-SECOND DAY.

Mr. M. Spofforth.

54,252. I asked you whether influential members of the Carlton Club were in the habit of meeting at your house and discussing the prospects of the Conservative party at the coming election?—No.

54,253. Or making arrangements for particular elections?—No; the arrangements were entirely in my hands.

54,254. Both as to the candidates and the people at the boroughs?—Yes.

54,255. Then what was the next communication you received?—The next was a telegram I had from Mr. Edmonds: "The second candidate should be here "immediately." Dated the 17th, I take it to be.

54,256. It cannot be the 17th, because you did not send down the first till the 27th. What was the next letter?—The next letter, I think, is from Mr. Theodore Bryett; I do not know that it is worth reading.

54,257. Perhaps I had better look at it (the letter was handed to the Chief Commissioner). Do you mean to say that you had no letters at all on the subject of the election, or any communication on the subject of the election, between the 27th June and this letter?—None at all; of course the telegrams would be destroyed. All that came in the hurry of the elections would be destroyed. The telegrams would be with the polls; there are none amongst the papers.

54,258. Did you ask Mr. Smith to send down a confidential clerk, in order to telegraph to you, from time to time, the state of the poll?—No, certainly not.

54,259. Are you quite sure that a letter was not written, at your request, to Mr. Smith, asking him to get "a steady clerk" (those were the words), to telegraph, from hour to hour, the state of the poll?—It is very likely; I always do that with a person who I know is going down with a letter of introduction.

54,260. This is the letter: "July 8th, 1865. "Colonel Taylor desires me to ask, as an especial "favour, that you will procure some steady clerk to "telegraph to me at this place (not to the Carlton) "the poll every hour in the day—winning or losing. "This is of the utmost importance." Why was the telegraph to be sent to your house and not to the Carlton?—That is 6 Victoria Street?

54,261. Yes.—That is my place of business, not my house. The reason was, because the Carlton has nothing to do with it. Of course the members of the Carlton, as well as those of any other political club, are anxious to know how the poll is going on.

54,262. As soon as you learnt the results of the poll you sent them up?—I sent them to the Carlton, to the Junior United Service, and I supplied them also to the India Office.

54,263. Did I understand you to say you did not know anything about Mr. Smith until the time of the petition?—I am not sure whether I saw Mr. Smith before the election; if I did he came with Colonel Dawkins at the time of the election.

54,264. Had you never seen him in company with Mr. Rennie about the time of the election?—No, not that I am aware of.

54,265. Do you remember Mr. Rennie coming down and asking you about whether you had got a man for Totnes?—Do you mean on any particular occasion?

54,266. About two days before the election?—I do not remember it. He might have done so.

54,267. Was not Mr. Smith, with you then?—Perhaps it was not Smith, of Smith and Guscotte; perhaps it was Mr. Henry Smith of Norfolk Street?—No, I never saw him, I have not seen him for many years. I never had any communication with him, and I never saw him about the Totnes election.

54,268. Do you remember a gentleman in your presence showing Rennie a paper which was given to him at Totnes, containing an account of the way in which the election was likely to go?—No; is there not a report from Mr. Harris that you have there?

54,269. Is that what you mean (handing a paper to the witness)?—It was a fair copy which I brought. I never read it until this morning.

54,270. At that time you thought Mr. Harris a man of some importance, did not you?—I do not often read letters when they are written like this. I daresay I should only glance through this and not see the substance of it. There is one letter from Harris, in which he states the election can be won without spending a shilling in bribery.

54,271. I should like to see it?—I have it not here, but I will send for it.

54,272. You cannot remember any interview with Mr. Rennie at all?—I saw Mr. Rennie.

54,273. I mean, two days before the election?—No, not on that election.

54,274. Did not he tell you it would cost you so much money, that unless you were prepared to go all lengths it was no use your going on?—No man ever told me so. This is the letter, I think it is worth reading:

"M. Spofforth, Esq.,

"Dear sir, Totnes, 26 May 1865.

"I am in receipt of yours of the 6th instant. "Don't you think you could get Mr. John Dent "again? For certain he will stand the best chance. "Even supposing he could not come, if he will only "issue an address we can carry him without his "coming here. You may depend we can return him "without the least difficulty, and if Mr. Potter will "come with him we can carry both seats. I know "you are almost dispirited about the borough, but "do once more try us. If we fail, then discard us "altogether. The reason why I am so urgent is "because the Conservative party were never more "united nor more numerous.

"Mr. Mitchell told me when we last had an interview that Mr. Dent would willingly give a thousand or two to the borough if he could be returned, as he spent a good bit of money when last here. I say let no more be spent except the incidental expenses until after the election. I am certain we can elect him without a farthing being spent in bribery. After he is elected if he is disposed to distribute a few pounds, well and good, but not before, and adopt the same course with respect to Mr. Potter—in fact I am confident, now Lord Cranstoun's tenants are with us, that if Mr. Potter would condescend to come we can have one seat without a fight, that is by a compromise. This I have from a source reliable, or we can take them both by a fight. I feel certain, from the conversation I had with Mr. Potter about 12 months since, that he would come if you only recommended it, and surely two seats are of importance to the Conservative party. I want to see the notorious system of bribery knocked out of Totnes, and this can only be done by your getting us men of position and character. Mr. Dent is by all beloved. Mr. Potter is renowned and has the railway influence which is now enjoyed by the opposite party. If Mr. Dent had no particular desire to enter parliament, and were to allow his address to be issued, Potter for certain would be returned unopposed. Seymour is very unpopular and Pender has resolved not to spend anything in bribery, in fact the late Liberal leader, Mr. F. B. Cuming has given up, and there is a thorough split in the party. On the whole, therefore, I trust you will see the importance of immediate action; I need not recapitulate what I said personally to you with regard to the present register, it speaks for itself. Mr. Bryett, who is now beyond any personal motive, will tell you that the Conservative party are stronger now than at any time since the Reform Bill.

"I am, dear sir, your obt. servant,

"Robert Harris."

I do not believe I ever read that letter through until I got the secretary's notice to produce the correspondence.

54,275. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were you at that time under such a delusion, that you believed Mr. Harris's letter?—Quite; I would not have believed Mr. Harris if I had thought he was capable of doing what he has done.

54,276. (Mr. Bere.) Had you seen Mr. Harris several days before the election?—Yes.

54,277. Had you discussed with him the relative position of the parties in the borough?—In my interviews with Mr. Harris I said, "I cannot conscien- "tiously recommend any Conservative candidate to "come down, because I do not believe you can return "one."

54,278. What was his view?—He said if two Conservatives came down he was positive they would be returned.

54,279. Did he tell you by what majority they could be returned?—Something under 20, and there was a good chance for a Conservative candidate.

54,280. And you took his representation as a correct one?—No, I did not place much credence in it; and I did not like Colonel Dawkins to go down.

54,281. (Mr. Coleridge.) From the fact that you lost the single-handed election by eight only you would not consider that you could win the election a year after?—You cannot judge by previous elections.

54,282. You mean you would not take that into consideration, in considering the possibility of returning two Conservatives?—If in the single-handed election you have a strong majority, it is indicative of the bias of parties, unless bribery has been resorted to, then of course all politics go to the winds.

54,283. (Mr. Bere.) When had you reason to suspect Harris was not the respectable man you imagined?—When the petition came on, after Colonel Dawkins came to ask me to advise him on the subject, and I ordered evidence to be got up, and then I saw the part Mr. Harris had taken in the matter, and not until then. It was in the shooting season, after the general election.

54,284. (Mr. Coleridge.) When did you first know that he was the person actually paid and employed to look after the registration?—I did not know that he was paid.

54,285. There is no doubt about that, that he was paid regularly. When did you know he was the registration agent?—I do not know, Mr. Harris may have told me, but it made no impression on my mind. When I wrote to him I did not know it.

54,286. The impression on your mind was that Harris was over Edmonds, instead of Edmonds being over Harris?—No; Edmonds was a solicitor, and I understood this Harris was a person of considerable importance, who busied himself in the borough, and it is always desirable to keep on good terms with a man of that class, and that is why I wrote to him.

54,287. And you always thought him to be a person in a better position in life than he really is?—Yes, certainly.

54,288. (Mr. Bere.) Will you tell us what happened about the petition?—There is an enormous correspondence about the petition which I have not had the time to wade through, but there are a great many private letters which I must ask the Commissioners not to make unnecessarily public; but the first communication I received about the petition was from Mr. Edmonds, dated July 21st 1865.

"Dear sir,

"I have been quietly obtaining evidence for a "petition, and have already no less than 32 cases of "bribery, some of them of the most glaring character, "and clearly bringing home the agency to both the "Liberal candidates.

"Totnes has always had a bad name, but it has "been infinitely more corrupt on this occasion than "on any other, and I hope steps will be taken to get "the place disfranchised. I could get a great many "additional cases, were it not that the men are afraid "of being prosecuted for bribery. If it could be "shown that they would be safe, much more infor- "mation might be obtained.

"Yours faithfully,

"M. Spofforth, Esq. T. H. Edmonds."

Then I wrote in reply to that, telling them to get up evidence, as follows:—

"My dear sir, 22nd July 1865.

"As soon as you have got your 32 cases "of bribery, or indeed any of them, ready, you "had better send the evidence up to me. I really "think the best way would be to go in for the dis- "franchisement of the place; but at any rate let us "do our utmost to countervail the advantage which "the purse of our opponent has given to the Liberal "party."

I did not know at that time that any money had been spent on our side. Then it goes on and says,

"You may safely state to the voters that you will "use your influence with the Conservative powers to "take care no harm shall come to those who confess "the truth. We will do our utmost to protect them, "and there is no instance of a committee visiting "penalties upon any voter who makes a clean breast "of it.

"I am, dear sir, yours faithfully,

"T. H. Edmonds, Esq., M. Spofforth.

"Totnes."

54,289. (Mr. Coleridge.) You did not claim the seat on the petition?—No.

54,290. How was that?—Because I found Colonel Dawkins and Captain Pim were tarred with the same brush.

54,291. After that?—Yes.

54,292. (Mr. Bere.) When did you find out that tke Conservatives had spent money?—After we had investigated those 30 cases, because we found we had made offers.

54,293. And they had made larger ones?—Yes.

54,294. After the petition was presented, were there some negotiations about a compromise?—All I know about it is, that during the progress of the business, when I had a great many petitions on my hands, perhaps 15 or 16 coming on at the same time, I think Commander Pim first came to Victoria Street, and stated that he believed, if the petition could be withdrawn, a sum of money might be forthcoming for the expenses of the petitioners. I said to him in very imperative terms that I would allow of no such suggestion to be made to me, and I requested that he would not mention it to Colonel Dawkins, as I was satisfied Colonel Dawkins was a man of honour, and would not listen to it.

54,295. Were the terms mentioned for the withdrawal of the petition?—I heard something about 5,000*l.*, but where I do not know.

54,296. Had you not at one time heard something to the effect that Totnes was to be set off against some other borough?—Certainly not.

54,297. Will you read that letter (handing a letter to the witness from Mr. Edmonds to Messrs. Smith and Guscotte, dated 6th March 1866)?—Shall I read it out?

54,298. You had better read it to yourself first. (The witness read the letter.) Having read that letter, had you made any communication either with Messrs. Smith and Guscotte or with Mr. Edmonds with regard to the withdrawal of the petition?—No; I was always against its withdrawal.

54,299. Then is this statement perfectly untrue: "When I returned to this town on Saturday, they "were enabled to tell me, from information received "from the other side, that Totnes was to be set-off "against Devonport, and this I suppose is the real "secret of Mr. Spofforth being so anxious for its "withdrawal; and its excuse about affecting the "Reform Bill was really all bosh"?—Allow me to explain that. What date is that?

54,300. 6th March 1866, written by Mr. Edmonds to Messrs. Smith and Guscotte?—Well at that time I had great doubt in my mind whether we had sufficient evidence to justify us in carrying on the petition, and I do not find the telegraph or the letter here sent to Edmonds to get the petitioners to sign a withdrawal.

54,301. Was not that afterwards? Was not that

FORTY-SECOND DAY.

Mr. M. Spofforth.

20 Nov. 1866.

somewhere about the 13th or 14th March? Just read that letter, and perhaps that will refresh your memory (handing a letter to the witness dated March 15th 1866, from Mr. Edmonds to Messrs. Smith and Guscotte)?—"I am unable to send you the authority "to withdraw, as on my going to Mr. Lloyd's soon "after the receipt of your letter I found that he had "been suddenly called away to Swansea, and that "he would not return until to-morrow evening. I "hope he may then be home in time to post it to you, "but it is somewhat doubtful." These are letters to Messrs. Smith and Guscotte.

54,302. Read on that letter, and you will see why I called your attention to it, and you will be able to know whether you ever did make any such request?—I do not see what this has got to do with it. "Unfortunately I destroyed the one which was "signed by the petitioners about a fortnight since "which I brought with me to town on my last visit, "Mr. Spofforth having told me that, as it was in his "shorthand writer's writing, it was not on any "account to be used."

54,303. I merely put that into your hand to see whether the mention of that would not refresh your memory as to when the withdrawal of the petition had been drawn up in your office?—Generally speaking, when local agents send to say there has been bribery, I send down a petition with a form of withdrawal, at the same time telling them to get the petitioners, who are generally people of no great condition, to sign them at the same moment, because, if afterwards it is desirable from want of evidence the petition should be withdrawn, the petition should be withdrawn.

54,304. If that is your usual practice, why should not that petition have been used, although it was in your shorthand writer's writing?—Because it was better to be in the handwriting of the petitioners.

54,305. You wished to explain this passage about the Reform Bill?—(Referring to the letter) "When "I returned to this town on Saturday, they were "enabled to tell me, from information received from "the other side, that Totnes was to be set off against "Devonport, and this I suppose is the real secret of "Mr. Spofforth being so anxious for its withdrawal, "and his excuse about its affecting the Reform Bill "was really all bosh." I do not remember anything about the Reform Bill. I think Mr. Edmonds must have been wandering in his mind. "If it is really to "be withdrawn the Totnes people will be bitterly "disappointed."

54,306. Then this is perfectly untrue: "This I "suppose is the real secret of Mr. Spofforth being so "anxious for its withdrawal, and his excuse about "its affecting the Reform Bill was really all bosh?"—Yes.

54,307. You never made such an excuse, and were not anxious for its withdrawal?—No.

54,308. (Mr. Coleridge.) How many days before the division on the Reform Bill was it that the petition for Totnes was presented?—I am not able to give the dates. I remember it was very important. My object was to get rid of as many Liberal members as possible before the Reform Bill came in.

54,309. You said you knew Colonel Dawkins to be a man of honour, and that he would not consent to a payment of money to withdraw the petition. Did you not know that he did consent afterwards to withdraw it?—I ought, for the satisfaction of the Commissioners and the public, to state what I know about that. Captain Pim, as far as I remember, was the only person I heard from about the withdrawal of the petition. I told him I would not listen to any suggestion of the withdrawing it for money, and I thought he had better not mention it to Colonel Dawkins, who was really being at the charge of the petition, although I supposed Captain Pim would be at the expense of it afterwards or partly. He had mentioned it to Colonel Dawkins, because Colonel Dawkins came to me and mentioned it again, and I said to him what I had previously said to Commander Pim, that it was a breach of privilege to withdraw a petition for any consideration of that nature; that I would not have anything to do with it, and that if he chose to entertain it he was to take the business away, and I would not have anything to do with it. Colonel Dawkins said, the moment he understood the nature of the offer, and that it was a breach of privilege, that he would not listen to it for a moment.

54,310. Did Colonel Dawkins, at the time when you mentioned that, tell you the terms on which he had wished to withdraw it, anything about his case being brought before the House, as part of the terms?—He said that his only object in getting into parliament was to have justice done in the matter of his quarrel with Lord Rokeby; and he said afterwards that the object of his presenting the petition was to obtain the seat, in order that he might bring his claims before the House.

54,311. But did he tell you, as he has told us since, that part of the terms were that all his expenses were to be paid, and that the Liberal members were to undertake that his case should be brought before the House?—No, I heard nothing of that.

54,312. (Mr. Longe.) Where is the letter to which that is an answer, to Mr. Edmonds (handing a letter to the witness, of which the following is a copy)?

"6 Victoria Street, Westminster Abbey, S.W.

"DEAR SIR, June 19, 1865.

"YOUR mind will be relieved to learn that "Mr. Kennard sent me the poll-book on the day I "wrote to him for it. I have got it by me and will "return it if you wish.

"You may rely on having one or two men when "the time comes, but I quite agree with you the "longer they stay the better, so long as the sitting "members refrain from active exertions.

"I am, dear sir, yours faithfully,

"T. T. Edmonds, Esq., M. SPOFFORTH.

"Totnes."

It is in the correspondence I take it.

54,313. There is a letter from Mr. Edmonds about the same date which that would be an answer to. I do not find it here?—If it is not there, it is possible I might send it on to Mr. Kennard, and say, "Send me the poll-books back;" or it might be destroyed, if it is not in the correspondence. Most likely, I should say, it was a letter asking for the poll-books, and I should send it on to Mr. Kennard.

54,314. The letter to which that is an answer does not appear, and you do not know where it is?—I do not know. It might have gone to Mr. Kennard, or might have been destroyed. There must have been a great deal more correspondence than I see there I should say.

54,315. What explanation do you give of those tactics?—What tactics?

54,316. Why that the candidates should keep away from the borough as long as possible?—I think it is desirable candidates should not make the acquaintance of constituencies that are suspected not to be very pure.

54,317. In the case of a borough known to you not to be pure, those are the tactics you should recommend?—I do not know what you mean by "tactics." I should say that is the ordinary common-sense view of it, keep your candidates away if you know they are to be importuned for money.

54,318. In the case of a borough you know to be corrupt?—Yes.

54,319. And you did know this was corrupt?—No more than any one of the British public. That is all I knew of it.

54,320. Having the candidates in the field nominally, but keeping them personally away?—No; what I meant was, they might address constituents; but if candidates are too long in the field, and they go about from house to house, they are importuned for money, and it is a very disagreeable thing, and it is desirable to keep them away.

54,321. It is only in the case of a corrupt borough you would recommend it? You would not say, as a principle, that candidates ought not to be known to their constituents?—No; they ought to be known.

54,322. Mr. Edmonds recommends it in his letter, and you recommend it also, that they should stay away. Mr. Edmonds recommends that the candidates should not come "till the writs are issued?" —Yes; that would be six weeks before the election.

54,323. Months before, he wished to have the money?—No, not months before. It is six weeks, notice for a general election.

54,324. This is a letter from Mr. Edmonds dated March 23rd (referring), where he recommends that they should stay away till the writs are issued?—That is where he wished to be supplied with candidates, is it not.

54,325. Yes. He wished to have the names?—That is Mr. Harris, is it not.

54,326. Yes, it is Mr. Harris. He says, "We do "not want him here till the writs are issued, if the "members keep off." Was not that in order to avoid expense?—I do not know what Mr. Harris meant.

54,327. Put out Mr. Harris, and merely take your letter and Mr. Edmonds' letter?—Take my letter. I advised them to stay away for the reason I told you, that if candidates are there too long they are in the habit of visiting about from house to house, and they are importuned, and it is desirable to keep them away.

54,328. Is it in every borough you recommend that course, or only in boroughs you know to be corrupt?—I should recommend it in boroughs that are known to be corrupt more than in others. Personal canvassing of the candidates is always to be avoided if it can be carried without.

54,329. You told Mr. Harris 1,500*l.* to 2,000*l.* would be required?—1,500*l.* to 2,000*l.*

54,330. Did you know that 1,500*l.* to 2,000*l.* would be required for legitimate expenses?—Certainly.

54,331. (Mr. Bere.) By "legitimate" do you mean legal?—Yes.

54,332. (Mr. Coleridge.) Returned by the electioneering agent?—Yes.

54,333. Have you seen the return?—No.

54,334. (Mr. Longe.) Do you know the number of the electors of Totnes?—Between 400 and 500.

54,335. Just 400. Do you know the town of Totnes?—Yes, I do.

54,336. Why should you expect that 2,000*l.* could be spent legitimately in that town?—I did not expect he would be asked for 2,000*l.* I told him 2,000*l.* would be the outside probably. They said 1,000*l.* or 1,500*l.*, which would very easily go in a small place like Totnes. There are the private solicitors to go down. Then there are local solicitors to be retained as election agents, who would require from 200 to 300 guineas. In addition to that, you have your canvassers and your messengers and your committee rooms to pay for, in fact a candidate's hand is continually in his pocket.

54,337. You mean to say, from your knowledge of elections, you were right in supposing 2,000*l.* could be spent legitimately in Totnes?—I think 1,500*l.* I would not tell him positively 2,000*l.* I thought it better to tell him the outside.

54,338. (Mr. Bere.) Did you say his private solicitor went down without a fee?—No, I did not. Solicitors are not in the habit of working for nothing, so I suppose he would be paid.

54,339. Did you ever know of a solicitor in a small place like Totnes having from 200 to 300 guineas retaining fee?—Yes, and 300*l.* I do not think too much for a really clever man.

54,340. (Mr. Longe.) Did Colonel Dawkins ask for any assistance at all?—No.

54,341. He did not ask in the abstract what was the practice?—No.

54,342. You merely told him he would require about 2,000*l.*?—I did not tell him. I said, "The local "agent states you will require from 1,000*l.* to 1,500*l.* I "think I had better tell you the local agent generally "puts too little, and you must be prepared with 2,000*l.*"

54,343. And you gave him to understand he must find that money himself?—I never asked a question about it.

54,344. (Mr. Coleridge.) Without any bribery you think Totnes a particularly cheap place. I find it is not more than 2,000*l.* between the two candidates. Do you think that a small sum?—I do indeed.

54,345. (Mr. Bere.) You say you would not have been surprised to find 1,500*l.* to have been spent legally in Totnes. What made you say in all your letters, "Totnes is a very expensive place?"—I call Totnes a very expensive place.

54,346. Why should the expenses be greater at Totnes—a very small place—than in other boroughs with the same number of voters, so that actually you find it difficult to get a candidate on account of the expensive reputation which it enjoys?—Because in other boroughs they say 600*l.*, but I always find they invariably exceed by 500*l.* the local estimate.

54,347. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did Colonel Dawkins appear to be very keen about the petition going on, was he anxious about it?—Most anxious.

54,348. There is a letter amongst your correspondence somewhere, in which Colonel Dawkins says, "I "will not go on unless my petition goes in among the "first. First come first served?"—I remember that.

54,349. What does that allude to?—He was afraid, I take it, that I should present a lot of petitions before his, and that he would not get the seat. He always intended to obtain the seat. Here is the letter; it is dated February 7th: "Dear sir, I hope the petition "against Pender and Seymour went in. I shall not "fight it unless it comes off among the first to be "decided, and first come first served is the rule." That is just after the meeting of Parliament, the day after.

54,350. What was the date of the presentation of the petition?—It would be on February 6th, I suppose so.

54,351. Then as late as that he refused to fight it, unless he could get it on quick?—Yes. You know he had given instructions to have it presented. He never hesitated in his intention to proceed vigorously with it until after he saw Captain Pim, and the moment I told him it was not a constitutional thing to withdraw it, upon consideration, he abandoned the intention on that ground.

54,352. It seems to me from that, and also from his willingness to compromise upon the terms afterwards offered, that you took a more sanguine view of the petition than Colonel Dawkins did himself, a more sanguine view of success?—When he went into the witness box?

54,353. Yes.—I was not sure that I would be able to unseat either, but I made up my mind, come what will, we would investigate the case, and it was on that ground we persevered in getting the Commission appointed, and that is why the Commission is now sitting.

54,354. (Mr. Bere.) Your anxiety to get the Commission would not be the same if there had been two Conservatives?—I suppose not.

54,355. (Mr. Coleridge.) You must be under some misapprehension. You said it was from his anxiety to go on, and you meant to get the seat; but the petition had gone in the day before that letter, if you are correct in your dates?—Possibly Colonel Dawkins did not know.

54,356. Do you mean to tell me you did not tell him you meant to claim the seat?—I do not know. I had petitions both claiming the seats, and petitions not claiming the seats.

54,357. Had there not been a consultation with a queen's counsel in which the subject had been discussed?—I think so.

54,358. Is not the explanation of it that he was not so sanguine as you were?—What do you mean?

54,359. As he knew at the time the seat had not been claimed, what was the reason for his anxiety to press for it?—If he was not aware that we had claimed the seat, which he might not be, he might have been willing to have vengeance on Mr. Pender.

54,360. He was not willing to delay that vengeance a few weeks?—Just so.

54,361. (Mr. Bere.) Did you see a Mr. George

FORTY-SECOND DAY.

Mr. M. Spofforth.

20 Nov. 1866.

Salmon at any time?—I think I saw a Mr. George Salmon of Great George Street. I think there is a letter there.

54,362. Was he a cousin of Mr. Pender's secretary?—I told Captain Pim to get to know who was the private secretary of Mr. Pender. He said he could do it through a Mr. George Salmon of Great George Street who was a cousin of Mr. Pender's secretary.

54,363. Did you have any conversation with him about the withdrawal of the petition?—Not a word.

Mr. Arthur Elley Finch sworn and examined.

Mr. A. Finch.

54,364. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you carry on your business as a solicitor?—No. 2, Gray's Inn.

54,365. In partnership with anybody, or by yourself?—In partnership with a Mr. Jennings.

54,366. Is the firm Finch and Jennings?—Harrison, Finch, and Jennings. It is a very ancient firm.

54,367. Were you Mr. John Dent's solicitors?—Yes, and are now.

54,368. Have you received any recent communication from him?—Yes.

54,369. How long ago?—I should think about three weeks ago.

54,370. Did he mention at that time having received any communication from the Commissioners appointed to inquire into the corrupt practices at Totnes?—He did not.

54,371. What was the date of that letter, do you remember?—It would be about six weeks before the receipt of it.

54,372. Have you had any communication by telegram from him since?—No.

54,373. Did he in that letter mention whether there was any probability of his coming home or not?—No, he did not. I should say from my knowledge of his private affairs that it is not likely that he is coming home.

54,374. Have you had any correspondence with Mr. Mitchell?—Yes.

54,375. When was the last letter you had from him?—Not since he has been away. I had when he was here.

54,376. He is now practising as a barrister at Hong Kong, is not he?—I have heard so; I have no knowledge on the subject about it.

54,377. You of course know Mr. John Dent's handwriting?—Yes.

54,378. Is that his handwriting (handing a letter to the witness)?—Yes.

54,379. Is that Mr. Mitchell's handwriting (handing a letter to the witness)?—Yes.

54,380. Do you remember Mr. John Dent going down to stand for Totnes, in December 1862?—I have no further recollection of it than this, that I received a printed address to the electors by Mr. John Dent, and I knew by that that he had put up as a candidate for Totnes.

54,381. Do you mean that he had taken the steps without any consultation with you at all?—Entirely.

54,382. Had you any communication with Mr. Mitchell on the subject?—I did not know Mr. Mitchell at that time.

54,383. On receiving this address did you put yourself in communication with Mr. John Dent?—No.

54,384. You took no trouble about it?—None whatever. I received it through the post anonymously.

54,385. Did you see Mr. Dent after he came back from Totnes?—Oh, yes, after, on his private matters.

54,386. Did you ever talk to him about his standing for the borough?—Never.

54,387. Did it never excite curiosity in your mind that he should have gone down to the borough and come back again without going to the poll?—He was a man of large fortune, and I should have thought it a liberty to speak to him on the subject if he did not mention it to me.

54,388. Did he discuss with you the subject of going to parliament?—Never.

54,389. Did you know of his going again to Totnes in 1863?—Except from the public prints I should say I did not know anything of it.

54,390. When did you first know Mr. Mitchell?—Between I think the two elections Mr. Mitchell came to me from Mr. John Dent, instructing me to apply to Mr. Rennie to recover some rent of some property which Mr. Dent had purchased down at Totnes; and I made the application to Mr. Rennie for that rent, and I believe he paid it in consequence of my sending him a lawyer's letter.

54,391. Was that the only information Mr. Mitchell gave you with regard to Totnes?—The only information.

54,392. Did not you ask Mr. Mitchell anything about election matters?—Nothing whatever. I do not think it occurred to my mind at the time as connected with the election. He did not mention the fact that it was connected with the election in any way.

54,393. Do you know that was the time that there was expected to be a fresh vacancy at Totnes?—No, I do not know that it was.

54,394. Then you knew nothing at all, except from the public prints, about the election of 1863?—Nothing whatever.

54,395. Did Mr. Dent ever communicate to you at all what he had spent at that election?—He did not.

54,396. Did you ever see him to talk to him on the subject matter of the election afterwards?—I never had any conversation with him on the subject. I did not see him frequently while here.

54,397. Did you see Mr. Mitchell on the matter?—No, I never saw Mr. Mitchell, nor did he open his lips to me on the subject.

54,398. Did he write to you on the subject?—He never wrote to me on the subject.

54,399. Have you ever had any communication with him or anybody else on the subject of Mr. Dent's election for Totnes?—Never with anyone whatever.

54,400. Not in your capacity as solicitor?—No, no communication, I believe, on the subject.

54,401. You cannot give us any information to correct the impression that we have received that Mr. Dent spent a very enormous sum of money at the elections of 1862 and 1863?—I cannot give you any information either to confirm or correct it. He may have spent a very large or a very small sum; I do not know.

54,402. Did his money matters pass at all through your hands?—No, I do not think I have had anything to do with his money matters, perhaps with one or two exceptions, but nothing that would give me any information whatever on the subject of his elections.

54,403. Had he any other man of business than yourself as his solicitor?—I should think not previously; I had a sort of impression—I do not know how arrived at—that he was in the hands of a party, and he must have employed the solicitor of that party.

54,404. Mr. Spofforth do you mean?—Well, if Mr. Spofforth was in that capacity, I should think it must be so; but that is only an impression I have. If it had been a matter in which Mr. John Dent had been personally concerned I expect he would have come to me. I have been the family solicitor many years.

54,405. Have you had anything to do with election matters yourself?—Never.

54,406. And perhaps Mr. Dent might have known you were not conversant with election matters?—Very likely.

54,407. And that may have been the reason why he did not come to you?—And as I have an impression that he did not make any communication to any member of his family, that might have been so.

54,408. (Mr. Coleridge.) Are you also solicitor of Mr. William Dent, his cousin?—Yes.

54,409. Where is he now?—In Paris, I believe, in a very serious state of health.

54,410. How long is it since he has been in England?—Perhaps a fortnight or three weeks.

54,411. Do you know when he is coming back?—I do not know; I should think he was not coming back immediately.

54,412. (Mr. Bere.) Are you now from time to time having communications with Mr. John Dent?—Yes, upon private matters.

54,413. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever have telegraphic communications with Mr. John Dent?—I have received one only, which was almost unintelligible from the blunders foreigners make in the English language.

54,414. Who are Mr. Dent's bankers?—Child and Company, Temple Bar.

54,415. Are they his only bankers?—As far as I know they are his only bankers.

54,416. Were they the bankers of his firm?—The bankers were a China firm; I do not think they have any English firm.

Captain James Richard Veitch sworn and examined.

Capt. J. R. Veitch.

54,417. (Mr. Bere.) What are you now?—A captain in the royal navy and governor of the Liverpool borough prison.

54,418. When were you elected to that?—In January this year.

54,419. Who were the electors?—The magistrates of the borough.

54,420. You were elected, I suppose, after a contest with other candidates?—Yes, there were 90 applicants I think.

54,421. Where had you resided previously to that?—Totnes.

54,422. And had taken, I believe, considerable interest in the elections of Totnes?—I had the last one, in consequence of a brother officer of mine coming down to contest the borough.

54,423. That was in 1865?—Yes.

54,424. And that officer you allude to was Captain Pim?—Captain Pim.

54,425. Had you known him prior to his coming down?—Only by report.

54,426. And when he came down you called on him, or did he call on you?—No; I think it was Mr. Kellock introduced me to him—I am not quite certain about that—at the "Seven Stars." He asked me if I would go in and be introduced to him.

54,427. And did you have any conversation with Captain Pim as to what his chance of success was?—Yes.

54,428. What impression did you derive from Captain Pim as to his opinion?—He told me that he had come down to contest the borough on purity principles.

54,429. How long had you lived in Totnes?—About 12 months, or a little longer. I think I came home from sea in 1862, so I must have been there three years.

54,430. (Mr. Coleridge.) Not long enough to have been let into the secrets of Totnes elections?—Oh, yes, partially. I was there during Mr. Dent's election.

54,431. (Mr. Bere.) Are you a native of Totnes?—No.

54,432. Had you lived there from time to time when you came home from sea?—No, only when I came home from sea last time, when I was made post captain.

54,433. You had taken a good deal of interest in Mr. Dent's election?—None at all, except voting.

54,434. Had not you gone to his committee room at the "Seven Stars?"—I had been to the "Seven Stars," I do not think to the committee room at all.

54,435. Did not you see Mr. Mitchell?—I did see Mr. Mitchell.

54,436. What did Mr. Mitchell tell you about that election?—It is so long ago I really forget now. I do not think that he let me into any of his secrets, except that it cost a lot of money.

54,437. Did he give you any figures?—No, I heard the figures.

54,438. What were they?—I heard that it cost nearly 4,000*l.*

54,439. From whom?—I am not certain whether it was from common report or not.

54,440. Is that all you had to do with Mr. Dent's election?—That is all I recollect beyond voting. I voted, that is all.

54,441. After you had seen Captain Pim did not you suggest that you knew Totnes would cost a good deal of money, and that no person who stood upon pure principles was likely to get in?—I told him that I did not think that he had much chance of getting in.

54,442. But he had a great opinion of his own personal powers?—Yes; and when he told me that he intended to stand upon those principles I said I should do everything I possibly could to assist him.

54,443. And did you go and canvass with him?—I canvassed a large portion of the town with him, the electors whom I knew.

54,444. Were they ready in promising, or did they hold back?—They held back, the majority of them.

54,445. Were those the persons who you had heard were in the habit of receiving bribes who hung back?—I did not know they had received bribes before.

54,446. You heard that 4,000*l.* had been spent at Mr. Dent's election, and you must have formed a conclusion that that had not been legally spent?—I never thought about it.

54,447. Did you take the trouble to inquire who had had the money?—Not at all; the only person I knew that had money was a man called Hannaford, Mr. Durant's lodge-keeper.

54,448. Who was taken away by Gill?—Who was taken away by Gill; and the reason I knew that was that he worked for me occasionally.

54,449. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he tell you himself?—I asked him.

54,450. And he told you?—Yes.

54,451. Did he admit the whole amount?—He said it was close on 200*l.*; but that was some time afterwards, I think months afterwards.

54,452. (Mr. Bere.) Is that all you did with Captain Pim, merely go about with him and canvass?—When Captain Pim came there of course he had to be introduced to the electors, and I went up with him to the meeting, and of course I was voted into the chair; and I introduced him to the electors merely from the fact of being a brother officer of his own.

54,453. Did you introduce him to the electors as a person who was not going to spend any money at all?—I did.

54,454. Was that received with pleasure or discontent?—They said they should not promise their votes; they did not seem to have much pleasure in it.

54,455. That was the immediate effect of your introduction, that they would not promise their votes?—They would not promise their votes.

54,456. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were you ever late at night at the "Seven Stars" with Captain Pim while he was there?—I was there one night.

54,457. That was the nomination night?—On the nomination night.

54,458. How late were you there?—Half-past 11.

54,459. Not later?—No.

54,460. Do you recollect some people coming in to know what they should do about certain voters?—No.

54,461. Do you know Narramore?—Yes.

54,462. Do you recollect his coming?—Yes. He brought a poll-book, I think, or he told me he had seen Mr. Charles Michelmore's poll-book, and I told him that he had better tell Mr. Edmonds about it, and I believe it was suggested to him whether he could not get hold of it. I recollect his stating there were some entries in that.

54,463. Do you recollect his asking Captain Pim what he should do about offering some sums of money to certain voters who were hanging back?—No, I was not with Captain Pim then. I was at home and in bed before midnight.

FORTY-SECOND DAY.

Capt. J. R. Veitch.

20 Nov. 1866.

54,464. (Mr. Bere.) Did you accompany Captain Pim in his outskirt canvassing ?—No.

54,465. Did not you go with a man named Earle ?—No.

54,466. Did you receive any money from Captain Pim after the election ?—I did.

54,467. How much was that ?—50*l.*

54,468. Had you written to him for it ?—He sent down and asked me whether I would try what I could possibly do to finish up his expenses, to get his expenses settled, and I went to his agent about it.

54,469. To whom ?—To Mr. Hamlyn.

54,470. And then did Mr. Hamlyn tell you the further sum wanted ?—He told me that he was busy trying to get the bills in, but he could not get them in, and then I went to Mr. Kellock, who was retained for Captain Pim, and I found out from him that he had left a cheque in his hands for 300*l.*

54,471. Did you find that all that 300*l.* had been expended ?—He told me that it was not sufficient, that was before the bills were in, and I had better write up to Captain Pim for some more money. I wrote to Captain Pim, and I told him I did not know how much more would be required, and he sent me two cheques, one for 100*l.* and the other for 50*l.* and after the bills were all in, Mr. Kellock said that 50*l.* would not cover it, he must have 100*l.*, and I said I could not help that, he must make 50*l.* do, and he took it, and I returned the 100*l.* to Captain Pim.

54,472. Had you full power to use the 100*l.* if it had been necessary ?—I had.

54,473. Did not you credit Mr. Kellock's statement that it was necessary ?—No.

54,474. Did you examine the accounts yourself ?—Yes, I think I did with Mr. Hamlyn.

54,475. Did you look at the hotel account ?—Yes, I did, which was the only thing I demurred to.

54,476. You thought it was too large ?—I thought it was exorbitant. I wrote to Captain Pim on the subject, and he told me that he did not wish to have anything to do with it, and I was to settle it without any more to do.

54,477. And you paid over the 50*l.*, which you thought enough ?—Yes, I thought it was quite sufficient, because Mr. Kellock consented afterwards to take it; he said he thought he should be able to make it do, after talking a long time on the subject. I think Captain Pim, in a letter to Mr. Kellock, told him when he found the expenses were 267*l.* that he had better keep the remainder, and Mr. Kellock said that was not sufficient and wanted 100*l.*

54,478. (Mr. Coleridge.) You were a good deal at the "Seven Stars" about the time of the election ?—No.

54,479. You have heard about this mysterious stranger ?—Yes.

54,480. And it has been suggested that you might have been the stranger ?—Oh, dear no.

54,481. Had you had anything to do with giving money to anybody, either directly or indirectly ?—No.

54,482. Or offering money to anybody ?—No.

54,483. Or promising money to anybody ?—No.

54,484. Did anybody, knowing you to be Captain Pim's friend, come and ask you for anything, either before or after the election ?—I do not recollect.

54,485. Whether you could not do something for him ?—There might have been such a person. I recollect Captain Pim sent me a letter down after the election, asking me about a man who had been asking him for assistance, and I recommended him to have nothing at all to do with it.

54,486. What was the man's name ?—Barter.

54,487. What had Barter asked you for ?—He had not asked me for anything.

54,488. What had he asked Captain Pim ?—He had asked him to assist him.

54,489. Saying he had voted for him ?—Saying he had voted for him.

54,490. Did he say what he wanted ?—Some 10*l.* or 15*l.*

54,491. How long was that after the election ?—About two months.

54,492. Before the petition ?—Yes, it must have been before the petition, because I was not there after the petition.

54,493. Is that the only one you know of ?—The only one I recollect.

54,494. You were never asked by any voter ?—No.

54,495. You never offered anything ?—No.

54,496. Or promised any employment ?—No.

54,497. On behalf of Captain Pim ?—Never.

54,498. Are you sure of that ?—To the best of my recollection. The utmost I ever did say, of course in canvassing with Captain Pim, I told the voters I thought he was a desirable man for the borough.

54,499. Did you go and canvass the Rev. Mr. James with Captain Pim ?—No.

54,500. Were you ever with Mr. James at all during the election ?—No.

54,501. You never had any conversation with him ?—No.

54,502. Did Captain Pim ever tell you about any conversation he had had with him ?—No.

54,503. (Mr. Longe.) I believe you did go to the Rev. Mr. Butland ?—I did.

54,504. Do you remember then the conversation that took place. Was there any intimation given by Mr. Butland that if a place were got for his son he would give his vote for Captain Pim ?—No, I think not. I think Mr. Butland merely said that he was so much out of pocket by the last election that he would not promise this time.

54,505. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he tell you how he was out of pocket ?—No.

54,506. Did you ask him ?—No, he was my landlord, and I had as little to do with him as I possibly could.

54,507. (Mr. Longe.) Did you sign the requisition to Mr. Macleay ?—No, it was brought to me.

54,508. Who brought it ?—Mr. Robert Harris I think.

54,509. Why did you refuse to sign it ?—Because I said I would not sign a requisition to any man. I considered it tantamount to promising my vote.

54,510. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he tell you that you need not give it, although you considered by signing that you gave your promise to do so ?—I believe he did.

54,511. (Mr. Bere.) It was bringing a Conservative down as a simple means of extorting money ?—I believed from what I had heard that Colonel Dawkins had a good chance of being elected.

54,512. Without bribery ?—I do not think anything was said about bribery.

54,513. (Mr. Longe.) You objected to signing your name to a requisition to a person you did not know ?—Yes.

54,514. (Mr. Coleridge.) That there would be bribery was taken for granted ?—I do not know about that, I know that I saw no money paid away. I heard afterwards that it had been paid away.

54,515. Do you know of any instance that has not been brought before us, where money was paid away, that you heard of afterwards ?—No.

54,516. You never saw any mysterious stranger at the "Seven Stars" ?—Never. I do not believe there was anyone there.

54,517. (Mr. Bere.) Did you yourself have anything to do with money passing ?—No.

54,518. (Mr. Longe.) Had you anything to do with the Conservative committee, or were you at all acquainted with the secrets of the committee ?—No, I was not. I was in the committee room one night, I believe it was the polling night.

54,519. Or in any election ?—No, I had nothing at all to do with it. I just merely went about with Captain Pim as a brother officer of my own, and I was anxious to get him in, for I think our service ought to be represented better than it is in the House of Commons.

54,520. Have you heard it said that you had taken part in distributing money?—No, I have not written or spoken to anyone on the subject.

54,521. But you have never heard?—No.

54,522. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you endorse Captain Pim's opinion of himself, that his influence had more effect on the part of Colonel Dawkins than Colonel Dawkins' money had for him?—I should be sorry to say anything about that.

54,523. Did you know of him as being a person so notorious in Totnes that his influence would be likely to be very great?—I did not think he was known in Totnes.

54,524. He told us that his grandfather lived there?—He told them that on the hustings.

54,526. Had it a great effect on them?—I do not think so.

Mr. Blount sworn and examined.

Mr. Blount.

54,526. (Mr. Coleridge.) I believe you stood for the borough of Totnes in 1839?—Yes.

54,527. Was that the first time that you had been in Totnes during an election?—Oh, dear no.

54,528. When was the first election for Totnes that you were present at?—I was present at the first reform election in 1832, not at the election but previously; I was not there at the polling.

54,529. Who were returned on that occasion?—Mr. Jasper Parrott and Mr. Cornish.

54,530. Was there any bribery, as far as you know, at that election?—On the contrary, it was perfectly pure, so pure that I think a glass of water could not be purer.

54,531. Up to what time do you think the borough was pure?—Up to my election.

54,532. You think that was the first time that money was spent?—Yes.

54,533. At that time Mr. Baldwin was your opponent?—I was Mr. Baldwin's opponent.

54,534. What was it that occasioned the vacancy?—Mr. Jasper Parrott, who had been in Parliament since 1832 to that time, in the latter part of June of the year called on me and he said, "A systematic plan "of corruption is going on in Totnes, such a one as "I cannot oppose or withstand."

54,535. Did he say on whose behalf?—Yes, and he said the public-houses were open and general treating was going on.

54,538. By Mr. Baldwin?—Yes, by Mr. Baldwin distinctly.

54,537. Who was the other Conservative?—There was no other Conservative. Lord Seymour was the member with Mr. Parrott; we have jumped over from 1832 to 1839; and he said, "I shall resign my seat, "and I think you are the only person who can supply "me."

54,538. Did you then make up your mind to go down?—No, indeed I did not; I told him I was sorry to hear it, and I was disinclined to go to Parliament at all at that time, but particularly for Totnes, because I knew that it was an exceedingly unpleasant thing for Lord Seymour to have me as a candidate. Of course Mr. Parrott tried to persuade me that I was the most proper person among all parties.

54,539. Then did Mr. Parrott resign?—I had another meeting with him, and that ended in my saying, "Well, I will not give an opinion unless "Mr. Windeatt comes up with his list showing what "remains of those who are not tainted by the other "side."

54,540. Did Mr. Windeatt come up?—Mr. Windeatt came up, and I think we had a meeting at Whitehall, which ended in Mr. Windeatt producing this list before Mr. Parrott, myself, and Mr. Brooking Cuming who was then a young man in town under his articles.

54,541. What was the state of things?—He showed then a fair majority of 10.

54,542. Without bribery?—I know nothing of bribery. Of course we were to resist bribery.

54,543. Was that giving credit for what they would do on the other side in the way of bribery?—We struck off all that were tainted and gone.

54,544. The Liberals that were tainted by the other side?—They had been all Liberals up to that time.

54,545. What time of the year did Mr. Parrott resign?—I must tell you, at the same meeting I think with Mr. Windeatt, he wrote a letter to the Under Secretary of State, asking for the Chiltern Hundreds, and I think I presented that to Mr. Stanley at the Treasury. I know it was early in July, I think I presented it the 13th July; it was granted, and I believe the writ went down on the 15th, when I was at Ashburton.

54,546. Was there a general election imminent during that time?—The general election came on, I think in 1841.

54,547. What was the reason of Mr. Parrott, he being in possession of the seat, resigning at that time?—Because he thought he would not be able to bear up against it on a future occasion. It was from pure motives; he thought it was high time that some opposition should be given to the practice that was going on, and he did it really from the idea that he was not the person that could.

54,548. But he being in his seat at that time, there was no opportunity for their doing anything till another election?—Certainly not. I can give no other reason. I begged him to stay, and told him he was wrong.

54,549. How long after the writ did you go down to Totnes?—I went on the following day; I was at Totnes on the 16th.

54,550. When did the election take place?—It took place on the 23rd.

54,551. Who were your agents?—I had no agents.

54,552. None at all?—No.

54,553. Who was your solicitor?—Mr. Windeatt took the management.

54,554. Did Mr. Brooking Cuming go down?—He was there.

54,555. What did you find was the state of the borough when you came to canvass it?—Exceedingly favourable to me; when I came to canvass it I found Mr. Windeatt's paper correct.

54,556. Did you have any suggestions made to you that something was being done on the other side?—Yes, treating was going on very largely on the other side.

54,557. Was there any bribery in addition to treating?—I do not know.

54,558. What were the number of electors at that time?—We polled 142 each.

54,559. (Mr. Bere.) Could you remember what numbers Mr. Windeatt gave to you and Mr. Baldwin, respectively?—I could not remember such a thing. I can only tell you that the bad votes that were polled on either side were very much larger than I could have supposed.

54,560. What do you mean by bad votes, people who had no qualification?—No, who had changed their qualifications at that time.

54,561. (Mr. Coleridge.) How many bad votes were there on your side?—I think we had three; I would not send, for some had left their residences and would not come, there was no question of it.

54,562. How many were there on the other side?—Eight I consider.

54,563. You found that a great deal of treating was going on in the borough, and at the election it was run to a tie?—Yes.

54,564. How do you account for those 10 disappearing whom Mr. Windeatt had given credit for?—They had not disappeared, the other side got more than was expected. There were three I think I ought to have had, but my party were so confident about the election that they really were not inclined to fetch them to the poll.

54,565. Had you the Duke of Somerset's influence?—I went in the Liberal interest. I believe all the duke's tenants came to me, but I took very little interest in them.

54,566. You had the Bridgetown votes?—Yes, I believe I had. The late Mr. Michelmore, who was the duke's agent, called on me and said, "You are on "the Liberal side, certainly I cannot help giving you "my vote."

54,567. As a matter of history we have heard that for a long time it has been the habit of Totnes up to 1864 to have two Liberals, one of whom was the duke's nominee and the other the town nominee. Lord Seymour being in, you stood as town nominee?—I did.

54,568. Did you find that in force at that time, that there was a distinct character between the two?—No, the townspeople were excessively anxious to get rid of that.

54,569. They wanted both?—No, they wanted a fair mixture, not to have separate interests, that is what Mr. Parrott felt; they had at many elections, although there was no contest till that time, from the first of Lord Boringdon's down to 1839.

54,570. That custom you know has obtained up to the year before last?—Since it has.

54,571. The late duke took a strong part in Liberal politics?—Oh, yes, he was always a Whig.

54,572. And Lord Seymour was always returned?—Oh, yes, he was in office as a Lord of the Treasury, under Lord Melbourne's Government.

54.573. It came to a tie and there was a petition afterwards?—We both petitioned.

54,574. What was the history of the petition, an objection was taken, was there not?—No; the history of the petition was it was made a void election. I met Mr. Austin, who was the counsel, in Whitehall, about two hours afterwards, and he said we should have been beaten on the scrutiny, and he was bound to go for a void election, and he took a ground which was quite novel, but perfectly satisfactory to the committee.

54,575. (Mr. Bere.) There is no report of the decision of that committee in the election reports?—No, I do not think there is; there was no one there, it was taken all by surprise, our evidence. The fact of that point having been raised has never appeared on the election reports. The Attorney General of the day, Sir John Campbell, thought it such a wrong decision that he regulated the notice to four clear days.

54,576. Were you at that time an agent of the Duke of Somerset's in any way?—I had been of that property.

54,577. Had you preceded Mr. Thomas Michelmore?—No, he was the old agent, but I had been the means of this estate, or the part which the duke had in Totnes, being purchased of a Mr. Wise.

54,578. That is the manor of Totnes?—The manor of Totnes, the rectory of Totnes, and all the rectorial tithes, and about 60 acres of freehold ground, and the mill.

54,579. Can you tell us what year that was?—Yes, 1827, long before the Reform Bill.

54,580. Do you know was that property within the borough at the time?—All Totnes was within the borough.

54,581. No, only the manor of Great Totnes was within the borough?—Perhaps so; that was not a distinction I drew. It was left entirely to my own arbitration between Mr. Wise and the Liberals and Conservatives.

54,582. Was the property you bought in Totnes for the duke within the borough or not?—Yes, it was.

54,583. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were you agent of that property at the time of the Reform Bill?—Yes.

54,584. Do you recollect anything about the redistribution, and the borough taking in all Bridgetown?—No.

54,585. Do you recollect the Commissioners coming down?—Yes; Mr. Birch I think was there, but I do not recollect any objection he made to the boundary.

54,586. How came it that all the increase of the boundary was taken from the other side of the bridge?—It was so; the new bridge had just been made, and it did seem so natural.

54,587. Was not it as natural that Dartington should come in too?—Well, it might; I think I have read some observations as if there had been a little feeling on the part of the Commissioners, but the duke had land at Dartington which was so dealt with.

54,588. We are told that if you had taken a central point and drawn the compass round, a great part of Bridgetown would have been left out, and a great part of Dartington brought in?—I do not recollect anything of that sort.

54,589. You do not recollect any contest?—On the contrary, I do not think there was any opposition.

54,590. We have heard that not only was a great deal of money spent by Mr. Baldwin in bribery, but also by you. What were your expenses at that election?—I will tell you as near as I possibly can. Here is my banker's book (producing it). You asked me why Mr. Parrott resigned; he stated that the town was put to great fright and expense arising from quo warrantos for their annoyance, and if money was not procured to assist them it would perhaps destroy their whole party.

54,591. That was on the municipal elections?—Yes, just so, we were just beginning.

54,592. Was the candidate then called upon to pay the expenses at municipal elections as since?—There had been nothing of the sort. I am speaking of my own time. I was the first who came as an opponent after the Reform Act, because Lord Boringdon was the opponent.

54,593. Was that Mr. Baldwin's first contested election?—Yes, after the Reform Act; but Mr. Baldwin had been member for Totnes in the old times, and he had paid 5,000*l.*, it was so mentioned on the hustings. I heard him say so, that he had paid the old corporation that money for being returned.

54,594. Mr. Baldwin paid the corporation before the Reform Bill 5,000*l.* for his seat?—Yes; he said "I thought I had bought my sitting for life."

54,595. Now tell us what it cost you?—I first of all gave Mr. Windeatt a cheque upon the Newton Bank for 200*l.* I then at the time of the election said, "Now you will want something for legitimate "expenses," and I gave him another 200*l.* Then I was down there again at the races in August, or a little later, perhaps, and had a meeting with Mr. Watson, and so forth, and he said the proceedings were coming on and would be very expensive, and I gave him another 200*l.*

54,596. (Mr. Bere.) What proceedings?—These quo warrantos; we were then preparing for them. I then paid into Mr. Presswell's, law agent, 25*l.*, and I paid 16*l.* something for what they call the exchequer seal to the Chiltern Hundreds, which I had obtained for Mr. Parrott. Then Mr. Watson wrote again and said, "Upon my word we shall want another "100*l.*; we are done up and cannot get on." And I sent him that, and that is all that went through my banker.

54,597. (Mr. Coleridge.) Have you any account of how that was spent?—Not the least; I looked at it in this way: I certainly thought the quo warrantos ought to have had 300*l.* I thought the legitimate expenses might be 200*l.*; and I saw treating going on which I asked should I have to pay for; and I said it is enough to spoil any election in the world, and that was they had the Assembly Room open every night, and all the world feasting just as they liked; and the answer to me was, "Oh, everybody comes in here; "therefore you cannot call it individually treating, it is "treating the whole town."

54,598. You put down the legitimate expenses at between 300*l.* and 400*l.*?—No, I do not; 200*l.* I call the other illegitimate.

54,599. If Mr. Spofforth says he considers 1,500*l.* the sum, you do not consider so?—No.

54,600. What did the petition cost you?—There they are (referring to a paper); 639*l.*

54,601. Disbursements, 415*l.*, is that included in the 639*l.*, or is it plus?—That includes.

54,602. The whole you paid was 639*l.* 15*s.* 7*d.*?—Yes, the very money.

54,603. The whole thing then cost you about 1,200*l.*?—Yes, but I do not think you should mix up the election and the petition.

54,604. We have been told that you spent about 1,200*l.*?—In the election?

54,605. It was put as in the election, but it may be put as the two together?—Nobody can tell that, and I should not have known it myself if I had not come in here.

54,606. Do you know whether in those days there was any organized system of the Reform Club or any other clubs assisting members in going down as a candidate from London?—Yes, but I do not think there was any person assisted at Totnes.

54,607. Was there any system of that sort that you know of?—I know the Reform Club had committees and had money sent them which they used to distribute.

54,608. We heard for the first time to-day that Mr. Seymour got this money from Mr. Drake, giving his guarantee for it, and never expecting to have to repay it. Do you know whether it was at that day as it is now?—I should think it was in 1839.

54,609. Do you mean that they would get it back from the person they advanced it to?—If they could they would.

54,610. And if they could not they would put up with the loss?—Yes, no doubt that is the object. I think there has always been a little party in some way or other on either side.

54,611. At that time Mr. Joe Parkes was the manager, was not he?—Mr. Coppock was the man. Mr. Joe Parkes was a very excellent assistant, and I think at the last election was essentially employed.

54,612. (Mr. Bere,) I see the account which Mr. Presswell gives: "Do you know what sum of money "was spent at that election by either candidate? I "think Mr. Blount spent from 1,500*l.* to 2,000*l.*"?—He never meant the petition when he said that, and therefore that is fabulous. I tell you that except that treating which occurred every night, and was general and not individual, I should think there was not a farthing.

54,613. (Mr. Coleridge.) Your knowledge of Totnes up to that election was that Totnes was perfectly pure?—The purest borough in England. In 1832 when Lord Boringdon and I canvassed the town we acknowledged that they were the finest set of men that ever were, we never turned one vote.

54,614. Whom did you attribute the first corruption to?—My friend Mr. Barry Baldwin, he came there and systematically did it.

54,614*a.* When did he get the Gerston property?—A few years before.

54,615. Had he made votes upon it at that time?—I think he had.

54,616. As far as you know, being the agent, that was the first commencement of bribery in the borough?—At that election.

54,617. You did not stand at that election?—I did not.

54,618. How was that?—Because it was an exceedingly unpleasant thing, as I have mentioned to Lord Seymour. and they found a young man, Mr. Gisborne; he was a young man, not fit to cope with the election.

54,619. Was there any bribery on his part?—I do not think so. I was at the election but I did not see any money going.

54,620. Not so much as at your election?—Nothing like it; they were all upon their p's and q's, and I think it was a quiet and respectable election.

54,621. When was the last election you were personally at?—That; I never went to another.

54,622. (Mr. Longe.) Do you remember what number of votes the duke's interest gave you at that time?—Out of the 142?

54,623. Yes.—Very few. I should think not 30 at that time.

54,624. Do you know at that time what the general practice there with regard to the duke's land was. Was it held upon the terms of voting for the ducal candidate?—I apprehend that they began to make votes very early indeed. The subject of linhays, which you have had before you here, was exceedingly well argued at Totnes.

54,625. After the Reform Bill?—Yes; and I do not think I have seen a single court of registration so respectable as that was. Mr. Rogers, Mr. Jardine, and Mr. Gaselee, afterwards Mr. Sergeant Gaselee, were there, and I do not think I ever saw cases better argued; and that was one which I think has been before the Common Pleas, and it was then decided that these linhays were to be buildings with roofs.

54,626. The practice of making those votes commenced very soon after the Reform Bill?—Yes, I apprehend so.

54,627. On the duke's property?—Yes, and other; I do not think he was alone.

54,628. During the time that you had the administering of that property there?—Yes; it was very little though; mine was more tithes; that made me keep it on waiting for the settlement of these tithes.

54,629. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were you the auditor as well?—Not there.

54,630. Who was the auditor, Mr. Festing?—No; he is the agent in Wiltshire.

54,631. (Mr. Longe.) Do you know the number of household votes at that time?—I should think very few. Out of 30 there might, perhaps, be 22, but that is quite the extreme.

54,632. In the case of the household voters did they rent their houses on those terms, that they should give a vote?—No; I never heard anything of the sort. They were building houses at that time freely in Bridgetown, and there were very many old houses now taken down, some on long leases.

54,633. (Mr. Bere.) The place called Seymour Place, was not it?—Yes.

54,634. (Mr. Longe.) At that time was not it an understood thing that the tenant should give a vote to the ducal candidate?—Well, our feelings were all the same way; there was no necessity for it at that time, I think.

54,635. Were they asked their views, or how had it become established by long practice?—I had not canvassed them since Lord Boringdon's election till my own. I found at Lord Boringdon's election that they were not at all in favour of him; they had rather pledged themselves to the other side, the extreme Liberal side; Lord Boringdon was nothing but a Whig and a very gentlemanly man, and we did not extract a single Liberal vote from the Liberal part of the town. I think all sides were the same at that time. Afterwards when Mr. Baldwin began of course he raised up a new party.

54,636. (Mr. Bere.) Are you quite certain that the property that was bought in the parish of Totnes in 1827 was also within the borough of Totnes?—Oh, decidedly.

54,637. Because all the parish of Totnes was not within the old borough?—I have not a doubt about it myself. The parish not all within the borough?

54,638. No. At the time of the Reform Bill the extension consisted of extending the old borough to include the whole parish of Totnes and manor of Bridgetown. The old borough was only 50 acres, and the addition of the parish of Totnes after the Reform Bill was 235 acres.—But it must be all within the manor.

54,639. But not within the old borough. What did the old borough consist of?—It consisted of the manor of Great Totnes.

54,640. And the constituency were about 70, I believe?—Yes.

54,641. You do not happen to know whether it was in the borough or not?—You give a distinction which I do not see the effect of.

54,642. You have told us that the borough was enlarged without any reference to the Duke of Somerset's property. It was enlarged on the Bridgetown side on which he had property, and if it was also enlarged on the Totnes side on which he had property, that would give us a still stronger inference that it was done to suit him and not other people?—The boundaries were enlarged after the Reform Bill; previous to that it did not signify.

FORTY-SECOND DAY.

54,643. Was the property purchased by the Duke of Somerset in 1827 within the old borough or not?—I should think it was, if you say the borough was less than the parish.

Mr. T. C. Allin.

Mr. Thomas Charles Allin sworn and examined.

54,643*a*. (Mr. Bere.) Are you one of the firm of Green and Allin?—Yes.

54,644. What are they?—Solicitors.

54,645. Where do they carry on their profession?—Their offices are in Angel Court, Throgmorton Street.

54,646. We have heard that some money was sent down to Totnes through you in 1863?—Yes, 500*l.*

54,647. How did that happen?—A person called at our offices.

54,648. Who was it?—I do not know who he was, nor did I take his name, nor was his name entered in our books at all, and he left a 500*l.* note to be remitted to Mr. William Webber, who was a client of ours.

54,649. He was a large and well-known draper there?—Yes.

54,650. Did you see the person?—Yes.

54,651. Should you know him again if you saw him?—I have not the slightest recollection of the person.

54,652. Had you ever seen him before?—Never.

54,653. Have you seen him since?—No.

54,654. Had you any previous communication that a sum of 500*l.* or any sum would be sent to you?—Not that I remember.

54,655. Do you mean that a man simply brought a 500*l.* note to your office and handed it to you, and you sent it down to Mr. William Webber?—Yes; that is, we gave him credit for it in our books.

54,656. Did you notify to him the receipt of the 500*l.*?—Yes.

54,657. Can you tell how long it was before the election?—No; I knew nothing about the election.

54,658. You knew there was an election for Totnes at that time?—I knew there was an election, but I was not concerned in it.

54,659. Can you find that communication to him by looking at your letter book?—No; there is no letter in my book except the letter remitting the money.

54,660. What is the date?—The 19th January 1863. The 17th of January it was paid to me, and on the 20th January I wrote a note with it merely forwarding it.

54,661. I think you had to do with some money in 1862?—In December 1862 a cheque was paid to our firm for 1,200*l.* to be remitted in the same way.

54,662. By whom was it paid?—I do not know. It was paid into the hands of my partner, and he intimated it to me on the same day. No entry of the name is given in our books whatever, but possibly the name of the person on the cheque may be found at our bankers, Messrs. Smith, Payne, and Smith.

54,663. Have you any record of what date that was?—It was the 5th December 1862, and on the 8th I remitted the money.

54,664. What did you do with that cheque?—Paid it into my bankers, Smith, Payne, and Smith.

54,665. What were you instructed to do with it?—Forward it to Mr. Webber.

54,666. How did you forward it to him?—By my own cheques.

54,667. At his request from time to time?—No; all on the same day.

54,668. What day did you send it down?—On the 9th.

54,669. Had you anything to do with any money for Totnes before that?—No.

54,670. Or since?—No.

54,671. Those were the only two transactions in which you were concerned?—The only transactions.

54,672. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you know who sent these persons to you?—I do not know.

54,673. Who brought you the cheque?—I asked the person who brought me the cheque for 500*l.* who he was, but I really forget who he said he was, I think he said he came from a broker's.

54,674. Did not he say that he came from Messrs. Bircham and Dalrymple?—No.

54,675. Or Mr. Drake?—No.

54,676. Have you seen him since?—No.

54,677. Did you give a receipt for the note?—No.

54,678. Whom did you receive directions from to give this to Mr. Webber?—The person who brought it.

54,679. Who brought the cheque?—I do not know.

54,680. Another stranger?—A different person, I believe; I did not see him.

54,681. Had you been notified by Mr. Webber that somebody would come with the cheque?—I have no recollection of it.

54,682. Or with the 500*l.* note?—No.

54,683. At the last election, 1865, did you send any money to Totnes?—No.

54,684. Those are the only two?—Yes.

54,685. (Mr. Longe.) Did you make no entry?—In our books we placed 500*l.* to the credit of our client, Mr. Webber.

54,686. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did Mr. Webber acknowledge receipt of your cheques?—Yes; we had one letter from him acknowledging the receipt.

54,687. Have you that?—Yes (the witness produced the letter).

54,688. Mr. Webber is dead, I believe?—Yes.

54,689. This is the letter acknowledging the receipt:—"Totnes, Jan. 22, 1863. Dear Tom, I "forgot yesterday to acknowledge receipt of yours "of the 20th with the inclosure all right. Your "charge will not be objected to, I should think. We "had a sharp contest on Tuesday, and beat the "China man again as you have seen. Yours very "truly, W. Webber. T. C. Allin, Esq." Cannot you recollect whom the 1,200*l.* cheque was signed by?—No, I cannot, but possibly Smith, Payne, and Smith have it entered in their books.

54,690. This is a copy of the letter you wrote (referring to a copy)?—Yes.

54,691. Was Mr. Webber your uncle?—Yes.

54,692. These are your letters inclosing the cheques to Mr. Webber:—

"My dear uncle,

"I inclose you three cheques on my firm's "bankers for amounts making up 1,200*l.*, payable "to the order of Webber & Co. and yourself.—Yours "very truly, Thos. C. Allin. 8th Decr. 1862."

"making together 497*l.* 10*s.* 0*d.*; the difference, "2*l.* 10*s.* 0*d.*, I must charge your friends as a com-"mission of one-half per cent. for my trouble in "passing the matter through my books, remitting, &c. "Hoping that this will not be refused, I am yours "very truly, Thos. C. Allin." What made you draw the cheques in that particular way?—I had no particular object in doing so but that they might be more easy to him, and he was continually remitting to London and might possibly pay bills. I was not instructed to do it.

54,693. (Mr. Coleridge.) You knew that this was an election matter?—No; I did not form an opinion; I had my suspicions.

54,694. And that was the reason you drew these odd sums ?—I would not say that.

54,695. Will you say that you would not have drawn it in these odd sums except in some way for concealing the sums ?—No, I could not say that.

54,696. Will you say it was not because it was an electioneering matter that you drew it in that way ?—I had nothing to do with the election.

54,697. But it was because it was an electioneering matter that instead of drawing it in ordinary hundred pounds you drew it thus ?—Possibly.

54,698. (Mr. Bere.) Do you usually charge people commission for cheques passing through your hands ?—Sometimes we do.

54,699. "The difference, 2*l.* 10*s.*, I must charge "your friends."—Consider the trouble of keeping books.

54,700. Was the cheque you received in December 1862 the cheque for 1,200*l.* paid in by Mr. Jack ?—It was paid in with other money.

54,701. Was it paid in by Mr. Wilkinson ?—I do not know.

54,702. Do you know Mr. Wilkinson ?—I do not.

54,703. I will read you what has been sworn about that cheque : "The 1,200*l.* was paid on the 5th Decr. "1862, where did you get that from ?—From "Mr. Wilkinson, of London, a discount broker. "Was that concern afterwards turned into the Joint "Stock Discount Company ?—Yes. You got it from "him ?—I did not get it from him; he made the "payment of 1,200*l.* for me. Where did he make "that payment ?—I asked him if he would do it "Did you direct him to pay 1,200*l.* to Mr. Allin, of "the firm of Green & Allin, 10, Angel Court, "Throgmorton Street, to be remitted to William "Webber, draper, Totnes ?—Yes. From whom did "you receive instructions ?—Of course only from "Mr. Pender, not from any other person." Did you "know anything about Mr. Pender before ?—No.

54,704. Had you had no communication with him at all ?—No; I never saw him.

54,705. (Mr. Coleridge.) Are you a native of Totnes ?—No; of Devonshire I am.

54,706. Have you ever been down to Totnes at an election ?—No, only one, and then I was a boy ; at Mr. Blount's election.

54,707. (Mr. Bere.) You have had nothing more to do with elections at Totnes than what you have told us ?—No.

54,708. (Mr. Coleridge.) Those are the only sums of money you have sent down ?—The only sums.

WILLIAM HOLE sworn and examined.

W. Hole.

54,709. (Mr. Bere.) Where do you live now ?—94, St. Paul's Road, Islington.

54,710. How long is it since you left Totnes ?—About 20 months I should think, say two years.

54,711. Had you a vote for Totnes up to the time you left ?—Well, yes.

54,712. And after you had left you voted, did not you ?—Yes.

54,713. You voted at the election of 1865 ?—Yes.

54,714. For whom ?—For Pender and Seymour.

54,715. Where were you living then ?—I lived then at Stanley Road, Ball's Pond.

54,716. You were employed on some business in Norfolk ?—No ; I was employed at Honey and Humphreys', the accountants.

54,717. Had you been sent down at the time of the election on some business of theirs in Norfolk ?—Quite so.

54,718. And at the time of the election you were actually in Norfolk ?—I was.

54,719. Who was it that communicated with you about coming down to Totnes to vote ?—I communicated myself.

54,720. To whom did you make the communication ?—To Mr. John Pender.

54,721. You had written to him to ask him for a situation, had you not ?—Certainly not. Perhaps it would be better for me, if you will allow me, to relate the 27 years' experience I have had of Totnes election affairs.

54,722. (Mr. Coleridge.) How many years have you had a vote for Totnes ?—27, since 1839.

54,723. (Mr. Bere) How much had you for your vote ?—I never gave a vote for 23 years.

54,724. When you did give a vote how much did did you get ?—Never a farthing. Do you think I should take money for votes ? I am sure I did not. If you will allow me, I will just state my position in Totnes from March 1839, when I started in business there, until I left Totnes, and then you will be able to judge better. I and Mr. Anderson went into business, and while we were concerned in business matters at Plymouth we were cautioned by a man named Merton, a printer at Totnes, who seems to have been considered a Radical, not to have anything to do with politics ; and when we came to Totnes, another man, named Samuel Hannaford, a printer, who was on the Tory side, said, "Young gents, I "recommend you not to have anything to do with "political matters on any consideration." Well, since we went into business this Anderson and myself came to a determination not, on any consideration whatever. Well, we went on year after year, I may say down perhaps to five years; candidates called on us and we never gave a vote on any consideration whatever. About that time, at the end of the five years, Anderson left me, but I never put my foot over the step of the door to interfere in political matters. I never attended a meeting at a public-house or an hotel. I never took a glass of ale, a glass of wine, or a glass of brandy and water, or anything in the town, during the whole of that time ; and Anderson left me, and I said we had come to the determination not to have anything to do with political matters, and of our course it added to social comfort.

54,725. (Mr. Bere.) When did you change your mind ?—Not for any consideration.

54,726. You have voted ; when did you first vote ?—I have voted for about four years, and up to that, 1863, I never put my foot over the door on any consideration whatever to give my vote to anybody who came as a candidate ; I never attended any meeting or put myself to the smallest inconvenience.

54,727. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did not you come down by the mail train at the last election to vote ?—Yes, in 1863, when John Dent put up. Now, of course you want to know the matters I have been engaged in, but I wish to tell you a little of what I have not been engaged in. In 1863 I gave a vote to Mr. John Dent on this consideration, I thought that the Liberals had been spending a large quantity of money, that is constitutionally ; on the other hand, I thought that if they could get in a Conservative it would do away with that immoral practice that had been carried on during the whole of the 23 years.

54,728. Did you bribe anybody to help that to be carried out ?—No.

54,729. Did you give any money to anybody ?—Not a farthing.

54,730. Did you pay any money ?—No.

54,731. Did you promise any ?—Certainly not.

54,732. What did you receive for voting for Mr. Dent ?—Nothing.

54,733. Did you canvass anybody ?—Certainly not.

54,734. Now in 1865 did you come down by the mail train ?—In 1865. It was like this. I will show how this occurred. I am bound to tell you exactly how it occurred. After I gave my vote to Mr. Dent I then gave up my business. I made an assignment of my business over to William Brown, Esq., who had a loan of money in the concern, and after that of course I had to seek a situation ; I was out of business, and I was recommended by my friends to call on Mr. Dent. When I came to London I called on him to see him, and he did not see me. I considered he would not see me.

FORTY-SECOND DAY.

W. Hole.

20 Nov. 1866.

54,735. Did he get you a situation ?—I went to ask him to give me a letter of introduction to any commercial house.

54,736–7. Did he do so ?—I never saw him, and when the next election was I went to Mr. Pender's office and introduced my card to him, and I said, "Now, sir, "I voted against you at the last election," but if he would give me a letter of introduction I should be exceedingly obliged to him. Well, he gave me his card.

Adjourned to Friday next at 12 o'clock.

FORTY-THIRD DAY.

FORTY-THIRD DAY.

Friday, 23rd November 1866.

Mr. R. Wilkinson.

23 Nov. 1866.

Mr. Robert Wilkinson sworn.

54,738. (Mr. Bere.) Are you the cousin of Mr. John Dent, who was a cadidate for Totnes ?—Second cousin.

54,739. When he was in England in 1862 and 1863 were you intimate with him ?—I frequently saw him, but I was not intimate with regard to anything beyond ordinary family matters.

54,740. Did you know from him his intention to stand for Totnes in December 1862 and January 1863 ?—My first knowledge was obtained from reading his address in the "Times."

54,741. He had not consulted you about going to parliament at all, had he ?—I wish he had.

54,742. Had you learned from him that he wished to go to parliament ?—After seeing him and conversing with him he said he had particular reasons, but beyond that I never heard of it, and I could not help remarking upon his making an attempt to get into parliament.

54,743. Did you see him after he came back from Totnes in 1862 ?—Not specially.

54,744. Did you happen to see him and talk to him about standing for Totnes ?—I think on one occasion I said, "What have you to do with standing for "Totnes ?"

54,745. Did he ever tell you about the expense Totnes had been to him ?—No.

54,746. Not at any time ?—No.

54,747. Not after the election which he contested in January 1863 ?—No ; the fact is he did not consult his friends, he kept rather aloof.

54,748. And you knew nothing about it ?—No. I was astonished this morning when I received your summons.

Your name was mentioned, and in Mr. John Dent's absence we are obliged to get information where we can.

54,749. (Mr. Coleridge.) You can enlighten us about this. Who was R. C. Dent who figures in Mr. Dent's banker's book ?—He is dead, poor fellow ; he was Captain Robert Cecil Dent. He knew nothing about the proceedings I am sure. He died about a fortnight ago.

54,750. (Mr. Bere.) Can you tell us whether Mr. John Dent had any other solicitor besides Mr. Finch ?—I cannot tell, Mr. Finch is his family solicitor.

54,751. You cannot tell us whether Mr. John Dent consulted any solicitors in London with regard to his Totnes affairs ?—I cannot.

54,752. Did he ever tell you that he was going under the advice of any person in London ?—No, certainly not. It hardly ever formed the subject of conversation, and when it did I shook my head at it, and therefore I was not admitted into his confidence in any way.

54,753. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you know Mr. Mitchell ?—I have seen him at his house, but I do not know him.

54,754. Can you tell us of any other relations in London or in England who can tell us about his affairs ?—To tell you the truth, none were admitted into his confidence more than myself.

54,755. Is there a William Dent ?—There is a William Dent, his uncle.

54,756. Is there a William Dent his cousin ?—Poor fellow, I should doubt whether he knew anything about it.

54,757. He is in Paris ?—Yes, poor fellow ; he is incapacitated. There is a Mr. Wilkinson Dent ; I do not know that he would know anything about it ; he never approved of it, from what has passed between him and me.

Mr. F. Smith.

Mr. Frederick Smith recalled.

54,758. (Mr. Bere.) Have you got any information to give us to clear up the mystery about the distribution of money at Totnes ?—None whatever.

54,759. Have you made any inquiries since the last time you were examined ?—I have talked the matter over with Mr. Guscotte.

54,760. Is that the only inquiry ?—Yes.

54,761. We have had the evidence of Mr. Henson. Did you arrange that he was to go down with you ?—With regard to that perhaps you will allow me to make a remark. At the time I was at Totnes I had forgotten that I had seen him, and it was only when Mr. Guscotte reminded me that I remembered that I had seen him. He happened to be at our office. He came to make an affidavit about Mr. Edy's business, and he walked with me into Mr. Guscotte's room. I had a conversation with him, but I had no intention of taking anybody to Totnes till the morning I was going ; I did not like carrying so much money about with me going by myself.

54,762. Can you remember at all whether you had more than one interview with Mr. Spofforth before you went down ?—I think I only saw him once.

54,763. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had you any interview with Mr. Travers Smith ?—No.

54,764. Not on the subject of compromising the petition at any time ?—No, I had nothing to do with the petition.

54,765. (Mr. Bere.) Are you still convinced that you were in No. 13 after having examined it, that that was the room in which you were ?—I have not the slightest doubt of it.

54,766. Are you still of opinion that there was no stranger there ?—If there had been I must have seen him.

54,767. There was a person had called, and that person you sent away ?—Yes.

54,768. And you believe him to have gone away ?—Yes ; I never heard of or saw him afterwards.

54,769. (Mr. Coleridge.) Captain Fox, as you heard the other day, says he was frequently in your room ?—Yes.

54,770. And that he always found your room locked ?—Yes ; I was unwell at the time, and I locked the door.

54,771. You locked the door, and when anybody knocked you came and opened it ?—Yes.

54,772. Did many people come to your room except Captain Fox?—I have no recollection of anyone except my clerks and Captain Fox, except on the morning of the nomination, when Mr. Heath came.

54,773. Is that the only time that Mr. Heath came when the door was locked?—Yes.

54,774. Have you any recollection of anybody else?—I think Mr. Edmonds once or twice, and I am not sure Mr. Kellock did not come.

54,775. Did Mr. Screach or Frederick Evens come?—I never saw either of them till the last time I was at Totnes.

54,776. Did Colonel Dawkins come there at all?—He may have.

54,777. You think, as far as you recollect, that none of the Heaths except Mr. John Heath came to the door when it was locked?—Yes.

54,778. Are you certain that Mr. Heath was in your room at the time of the nomination?—I think it was only for a moment to see the procession walk from the "Seven Stars" to the polling booth.

54,779. Did you go at all into your clerk's room while you were there?—I cannot say, I do not recollect.

54,780. Do you happen to know that they slept as they said, one on each side?—I knew they were sleeping close, but I did not know in which room.

54,781. (Mr. Bere.) This is what Captain Pim has sworn to: "Do you mean that that night as well "as other nights Mr. Smith was in such a state that "he did not know what he was doing?—Yes, perhaps "that is the kindest way of putting it for Mr. Smith; "he had had a great deal too much champagne "while he was down here, and he did not know what "he was doing the whole time. (Mr. Longe.) Was "he in a position to take the part of Mr. Mum?—"No, he could hardly stand at times; I heard Mr. "Smith's evidence impugned, and it is as well to tell "you that he was quite 'screwed,' as we call it. (Mr. "Bere.) Was he in such a state that he might do "things and not remember them?—Yes." Now, I think you ought to have an opportunity of explaining that allegation made against you?—The only thing that Captain Pim can build these remarks upon is, that once we were dining in a private room together. I had been unwell and had been taking some essence of Jamaica ginger previously that afternoon; and in the middle of dinner I was sitting next to Captain Fox, and he said, "You appear to be sleepy." I felt it, and I went and slept on the sofa, and I felt just as if I had been drugged; but as to Captain Pim's remarks with regard to that, they are untrue; because I used to walk about with Captain Pim, and I walked over to Bridgetown with Colonel Dawkins.

54,782. You have not tried at all to find whether any person was sent down from London on that occasion?—I have not been able to ascertain; I do not know where to inquire.

Mr. JOHN GUSCOTTE recalled and further examined.

Mr. J. Guscotte.

54,783. (Mr. Bere.) You had the conduct of the petition in conjunction with Mr. Spofforth?—I had.

54,784. Was there any mention of a mysterious stranger at any time made in consultation?—Never a word.

54,785. Did you ever hear from Mr. Edmonds or Mr. Harris of the fact of a mysterious stranger having been sent to Totnes for the purpose of distributing the money?—No, not once; in fact I went to Totnes to get up the evidence and saw the voters, and in fact I drew the draft brief at Totnes, when I saw Screach and others who gave evidence, and they made no mention of it; nor Mr. Edmonds, nor Mr. Harris, nor Mr. Heath ever alluded to such a thing and never mentioned him, and I should like to tell you that when Screach gave his evidence before the Committee he was rather afraid to tell the truth. I said, You must speak out, all you have to do is to tell the truth. He asked what he should say, and I said, "You must tell the whole "truth." He seemed to be afraid of implicating himself, and I said, "Never mind, we have nothing to "fear, tell what you know; it does not matter." He still seemed to hesitate. Accordingly he was called by the Committee, and on being examined and cross-examined, he told Sergeant Ballantine that he received some of the money from a stranger. That was the first of it, and we all laughed and thought that was an ingenious way of doing it, and Mr. Edmonds, when we were talking about it, said he did not believe that there was a stranger, and never till you were going to Totnes did he say that he believed there was a stranger.

54,786. Did you take Screach's evidence?—I did not see him.

54,787. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did not he tell you when you were getting the brief out that there was a stranger?—No. I was not going into that.

54,788. As between you and Screach there was no secret of what he had done?—No, and in the lobby he was frequently talking to me.

54,789. What did he tell you?—He said that he had spent a great deal of money, and that he had never seen money flow so fast.

54,790. Did he say what he had spent?—I do not think he did. I recollect his mentioning a sum of 500*l.* at one time, and I suppose that is the sum that he at Mr. Edmonds' request got from Mr. Lind.

54,791. Did he tell you at all when he did get it?—I could not recollect so as to swear to it; but I understand he got it from Mr. Smith.

54,792. Did he ever tell you that he had any from Mr. Edmonds?—Yes, one 500*l.*, either from him or through him.

54,793. Did he tell you whether he had any from Mr. Kellock?—No, he did not.

54,794. How was it when you went to get up the brief that you did not see Frederick Evens?—I did not know the people, and I trusted to Mr. Edmonds to bring them before me, and I examined them.

54,795. Who did he bring before you besides Screach?—I think Narramore, and a baker named Bovey, and I think a man named Edmonds, and another named Heard.

54,796. What did Narramore tell you?—His discussions were with regard to Captain Pim.

54,797. Did he tell you anything?—No.

54,798. Did he not say that he had come about 4 o'clock in the morning?—I think he did, but I did not make a note of it.

54,799. But if you can recollect anything?—I think he said he had run up the votes at the last hour.

54,800. Did he tell you by whose direction?—No.

54,801. (Mr. Longe.) Did he say that they might be considered bonâ fide offers?—No, he said he had offered 400*l.* to a man, for instance.

54,802. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you examine Robert Harris?—Yes.

54,803. What was the version that he gave of the offer made by Mr. Pender?—He was very positive when he told me. I examined him narrowly upon that, and he told me, and I took it down in the brief as he gave it before the Committee.

54,804. Did you believe it at that time?—Yes, I certainly did, because he was so positive, and I put the question over and over again to get the facts.

54,805. (Mr. Bere.) Were you told anything about Mitchelmore's poll-book—that Harris was to be had for a situation?—Yes.

54,806. Was the book shown to you?—No.

54,807. No question was put upon that by the Committee?—Yes, I think so.

54,808. You were not down at the election yourself?—No.

54,809. You were not down at all?—No.

54,810. There is one question that I want to ask Mr. Smith.

FORTY-THIRD DAY.

Mr. F. Smith.

23 Nov. 1866.

Mr. Frederick Smith recalled.

54,811. (Mr. Bere.) Did you express yourself satisfied with the way the money was spent, to Mr. Heath?—No.

Mr. J. Guscotte.

Mr. John Guscotte recalled.

54,812. (Mr. Bere.) Did you ever express yourself satisfied with the way the money was paid?—No.

54,813. Was Mr. Heath here before the Committee?—No.

54,814. Did you see him when you were at Totnes?—Yes.

54,815. Did he say that he had the money to distribute?—No, but it was spoken of.

54,816. At that time did Mr. Heath tell you anything about a stranger having the money to distribute?—Not a word. I had some conversation in the bar before going away by the train, and I talked about the election and politics, and he never mentioned about a stranger.

54,817. In speaking about politics and Totnes generally, did you ask him about any former elections?—I did not ask him anything, I think he volunteered to tell me.

54,818. Did he tell you how the money had been distributed in former elections?—I do not recollect.

54,819. Did he tell you it was usual for that purpose to have a stranger to distribute the money?—No, he did not.

54,820. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did not you ask Mr. Heath who had distributed the money?—I did not examine Mr. Heath about that. I was about to examine him, but Mr. Edmonds said, We must not have Mr. Heath, because he knows too much to go into the witness box.

54,821. Did you ask about the money?—No.

54,822. You knew that your party were tarred with the same stick, and you had no idea of claiming the seat?—We knew that money had been spent in bribery.

54,823. Had you any idea of claiming the seat?—No, except when he talked about abandoning the petition.

54,824. When was it you came to the conclusion to abandon the seat?—I think when we talked to Mr. Spofforth.

54,825. Was that in 1865 or 1866?—I think in 1866; early in January I recollect that Mr. Spofforth was away, and then he came back.

54,826. Was it as early as the second week in January 1866?—I should think so.

54,827. The petition was presented on the 6th of February?—I should say certainly in January it was abandoned; but I could not say.

54,828. Certainly before the 7th of February?—Yes, certainly it was.

54,829. You recollect our adjourning at Totnes for a month, from September till the middle of October?—Yes, I recollect.

54,830. During that adjournment did Mr. Heath come to see you in London?—No, he did not.

54,831. Did he come to your office?—No.

54,832. Should you have known it if he came to your office?—I should have seen it, the clerks would have told me.

54,833. You would be sure to know it?—I think so.

54,834. You did not know he was in London trying to find the mysterious stranger?—No.

54,835. He did not come to you?—No.

54,836. Do you know a man called Edward Cook?—No, I do not.

54,837. There is a letter of Colonel Dawkins, in which he says, "I hope the petition of Pender and "Seymour too went in," and in which he says he will not fight unless it goes in amongst the first. I asked Mr. Spofforth to explain that, and the explanation he gave was that perhaps he was anxious to get into parliament and wished it to be over as soon as possible, because they had an idea of claiming the seat. This is on the 7th of February. Now how long before that had you abandoned the seat?—The decision must have been come to before that day, but I cannot tell you exactly.

54,838. Therefore Colonel Dawkins must have had some particular reasons for saying he would not fight it unless it went in amongst the first lot?—It appears so.

54,839. Had you any conversation with him about it; because I could understand, if he was going to claim the seat, there would be a reason in that; but had he at any time expressed to you his anxiety to get in?—I do not know that he had. He had in the earlier stages.

54,840. After all idea of claiming the seat was given up, had you ever any conversation with him whether a petition should be forced on?—No; but I remember he wished it disposed of, and he wrote several letters about it. I do not recollect what his motive could have been now.

54,841. There is a letter written to your firm on the 5th of March 1866. Had you any knowledge of any offer to set off Devonport against this petition?—No.

54,842. Is that letter the first you had heard of it?—No; Mr. Edmonds had been present at an interview with Mr. Spofforth and said, Is this petition to go on? and I think he said the party would like it withdrawn. He did not mention about setting it off; but we drew our conclusions that it was to be set off against some other.

54,843. When was the first information you had about Devonport?—In that letter.

Did Mr. Spofforth say anything about setting it off then?

54,844. (Mr. Bere.) Did Mr. Spofforth at that interview say anything about the Reform Bill?—No, not at that interview.

54,845. At any interview?—I think he said there was an object to withdraw the petition.

54,846. As far as the Reform Bill was concerned?—I could not tell you on what ground.

54,847. Was it because he thought Totnes was pretty sure to be scheduled in those that were disfranchised?—I think he made it a case on the Reform Bill.

54,848. Was this one of the first Committees that was struck?—I think it was among the first, there were several struck the same day.

54,849. Were you present at any interview with Colonel Dawkins and Mr. Spofforth when Mr. Spofforth said it was illegal to withdraw the petition on the grounds mentioned?—Yes, I recollect an interview in which Mr. Spofforth said it could not be done.

54,850. Who made the proposition at that time to withdraw?—I think Mr. Spofforth. It had been suggested that they would give money, and Colonel Dawkins, after considering it, said, "Let them pay my "expenses."

54,851. What sum did he mention?—His expenses had been 5,000*l.*, and he said, Let them pay my expenses.

54,852. And Mr. Spofforth said that was illegal?—Yes, he said it was out of the question.

54,853. Was any suggestion made to get over the difficulty?—No. Mr. Spofforth gave him that idea, and so did I, and he abandoned it. Then there was a talk about Mr. Pender giving up the seat, and he was to take it.

54,854. Did Colonel Dawkins find any money for fighting the registration of 1865?—No, he did not.

54,855. Did not he subscribe for the expenses of the hearing of the registration cases before the Common Pleas?—Not through us, he did not. He was asked to do so, but he did not.

Mr. W. R. DRAKE sworn and examined.

54,856. (Mr. Bere.) Are you a member of the firm of Burchell, Dalrymple, Drake, & Ward?—I am.

54,857. How long have you been agent of the Liberal party in London?—Since the year 1859 I have been consulted by the Liberal party. My connection has been attending to the petitions till 1864, when I declined to have anything to do with the business.

54,858. Did you not succeed Mr. Coppock?—No, he was in a different position. He was the solicitor and a member of the Reform Club.

54,859. You are not the solicitor of the Reform Club?—No. I have been a member of the Reform Club only 18 months.

54,860. Has your business been connected with the management of election petitions?—Yes; except to the extent of advising any member who came for advice, my only professional connection has been with petitions that come before me as a matter of business.

54,861. If a Liberal candidate was wanted for a borough would not you be consulted as to who was the proper candidate?—It might be; it was generally known that I make communications between members of the Liberal party, and it was usual that a gentleman seeking a seat in parliament would apply to me.

54,862. And would you mention a seat that you thought would suit him?—Quite so.

54,863. At the time would you make arrangements or inquiries about the expenses of those seats?—No, I never had anything to do with the conduct of an election at all; all I did was to place the parties who applied to me in communication with the local people.

54,864. Did you take any part in the election at all?—Never professionally. I have, previous to that time that I am speaking of, gone with gentlemen. I went with Mr. Tite to Bath, and I went with Mr. Bartlett to Taunton, but not to conduct the affair; that was left to the people, and I went with Lord Richard Grosvenor.

54,865. Supposing a gentleman came to you to ask for a seat, professing Liberal opinions, to whom would you go to consult?—I should make my own inquiries, and satisfy myself that he was a fit man, and if I felt that he was qualified I should put him upon a list, and whenever the kind of seat for him became vacant, I should communicate with him.

54,866. Would you not consult others as to who should be a candidate?—No, I should exercise my own judgment.

54,867. Was there not a committee of persons recognized as being able to determine as to whether a man was fit or not?—No.

54,868. At Brooks's or the Reform Club?—No, I was not a member.

54,869. You may have consulted them?—If a man came to me I put him on my list, and communicated with him when the opportunity came.

54,870. Was Mr. Joseph Parkes a gentleman with whom you would consult?—I have consulted with him often when questions have arisen.

54,871. When did you first recommend a person as a Liberal candidate for Totnes?—I never recommended anyone.

54,872. Do you recollect Mr. Pender calling on you in December 1862?—Mr. Pender called upon me, I think, probably in December 1862, telling me he had been in communication with the parties at Totnes, and they appeared willing to accept him, provided there was a vacancy caused by any other accident than the death of Lord Gifford.

54,873. At that time did you know the state of the Liberal parties at Totnes?—No, I never had any communication with the Totnes people.

54,874. Did not you inquire into the character of the borough or its position?—No, I always considered one seat to be in the nomination of the Duke of Somerset, and the other seat—I thought there were two sections, the independent Liberal and the duke's section, and that they could return the other member.

54,875. Did you know that in the borough there were two parties, the independent and the ducal?—Yes, I learned that from Mr. Pender.

54,876. Not before Mr. Pender told you?—No; I had no knowledge whatever about Totnes.

54,877. From your experience in elections, what would you consider the sum that might be fairly and legally expended in a borough like Totnes?—That is a question that I do not feel competent to answer. In the first place, I have not had anything to do with the expenses of elections, and it would depend upon the custom that prevails.

54,878. Bribery?—No, the question of payment. In some places they have a practice (I think a vicious one) of retaining the solicitors on both sides with large fees, and they have a practice of employing paid canvassers and messengers to an enormous extent, and therefore I do not think the expense of a borough depends upon the size.

54,879. (Mr. Coleridge.) Would you put it at 1,500*l.* like Mr. Spofforth?—It ought not in my opinion to cost that.

54,880. 1,000*l.*?—It depends; if they retain solicitors, and large fees, 1,000*l.* might be spent.

54,881. If 1,000*l.* had been spent, you do not think any more could be spent by justifiable means?—I am not prepared to say. Mr. Cuming was a man who had large fees.

54,882. He never had more than 50*l.*, and assuming the whole of the agents had only 250*l.* between them, could 750*l.* more be spent?—No, not on that assumption.

54,883. Then they could not legitimately spend more than 1,000*l.* at Totnes, assuming that?—No.

54,884. (Mr. Bere.) Had Mr. Pender been a client of yours at that time in private matters?—No, I do not think I had ever acted for him. I think the first business I transacted for him was in 1863.

54,885. Did he not come originally to you when seeking to represent Great Grimsby?—Yes, he was introduced to me in connection with Great Grimsby in the early part of 1862. There was a petition presented against the return of the sitting member, and we had every anticipation that the result would be unsatisfactory, and if unseated there would be a vacancy, and Mr. McDougall put himself in communication (I did not know him at the time at all) with a Mr. Winteringham, who was the leading man at Great Grimsby, and Mr. Pender met Mr. Winteringham at my office; that was the first time I saw Mr. Pender.

54,886. In your communications with reference to Great Grimsby was there any intimation of what the election of Great Grimsby would cost?—I never heard it.

54,887. Did you make any inquiries of Mr. Winteringham of what the expenses would be of Great Grimsby?—No, the negotiation was carried on by Mr. McDougall with the party at Great Grimsby.

54,888. Without interference on your part?—Yes; they asked he, I think, whether Mr. Pender was a fit man, and I said I thought he was exceedingly so, because he was a merchant at Manchester, and a director of the Great Grimsby Railway, which gave him a chance of success at Grimsby.

54,889. Mr. Pender called upon you again at the end of 1862, and mentioned to you that he had been applied to by certain parties at Totnes?—That he had been in communication, I think.

54,890. Do you remember whether that was before Mr. Mills' death?—Yes.

54,891. At that time it was expected that Lord Gifford would die?—Yes.

54,892. Mr. Mills' death was sudden?—Yes.

54,893. Did he come after Mr. Mills' death?—I think the only interview with Mr. Pender after Mr. Mills' death was an interview at which Mr. Cuming and Mr. Chaster were present; I am not sure whether Mr. McDougall was there too.

FORTY-THIRD DAY.

Mr. W. R. Drake.

23 Nov. 1866.

54,894. Was that the first time you had seen Mr. Cuming and Mr. Chaster ?—The first time I had seen Mr. Chaster ; but I think I had seen Mr. Cuming in business. I knew him professionally.

54,895. (Mr. Coleridge.) Were you connected at all with the election of 1859 ?—Not the last. It was only after the general election of 1859 that I was at all consulted.

54,896. At any time was the probable expense of Totnes mentioned ?—I never heard a word about the expenses.

54,897. Did you ever inquire about it ?—No.

54,898. If a candidate came to you, you did not know what the expense of a particular borough would be ?—In some boroughs I might have had a notion which would have enabled me to give a general idea ; but as a rule I did not, because I felt what I had to do was to communicate with the local parties and propose a candidate ; but I never assisted in anything about the expenses, or anything of that kind.

54,899. Supposing a candidate came to you, and there happened to be two boroughs vacant, one of which had an extensive reputation, and the other a reputation not so extensive, you would not be able to tell what the cost of either borough would be ?—I would not. In isolated cases I might have an idea that it would cost 1,000*l.* or 1,500*l.*, and if I had that information I gave it; but beyond that I had no idea.

54,900. Did you take any part at all with regard to Mr. Pender's going to Totnes ?—None whatever; on the contrary, I rather interposed to prevent his going.

54,901. Was that because you were interested in Mr. Alfred Seymour ?—Because he was a candidate for another constituency, he was in my judgment interfering with the chances of a Liberal candidate at Exeter, and I desired therefore to remove him on that ground.

54,902. (Mr. Coleridge.) That was assuming that Lord Gifford died and not Mr. Mills ?—Yes; and it was not till after that that I knew there was a distinction between the parties ; I urged them to take Mr. Seymour and not Mr. Pender, and then they told me it was an independent vacancy and not a ducal vacancy.

54,903. Did you hear that Mr. Seymour had been down, and gone back because he was not the proper candidate ?—Yes.

54,904. That is all you had to do with the election? —Yes.

54,905. How long had Mr. Pender been on your list; had he been on your list before 1862 ?—He was on my list with reference to Great Grimsby.

54,906. Who introduced him ?—He was introduced in the early part of 1862. There was an appointment made for him to meet Mr. Winteringham, he being the representative of the party at Great Grimsby.

54,907. How early in 1862 was Mr. Alfred Seymour on your list ?—He had been on the list a long time previously to that. He had been anxious to get into parliament some time.

54,908. When you kept this list had you according to the habits of the town a sort of price list ?—No, if I had a little knowledge I communicated it.

54,909. To whom should you have referred any member ?—With regard to Totnes I should send him to Mr. Cuming.

54,910. But with regard to any place ?—To the local authorities.

54,911. (Mr. Bere.) Did you consult anybody about Mr. Pender's fitness to be the representative in the Liberal interest ?—Yes ; at the time he was proposed to be a candidate for Great Grimsby I did, and I ascertained that he was a merchant of high standing.

54,912. Did you consult more than one person ?—I am unable to mention. It was with the city people to ascertain his commercial standing.

54,913. Did you go to the Reform or Brooks's to ascertain whether he was a fit person ?—No, it was rather a question for the constituency, and not for the Reform or Brooks's.

54,914. Is the electioneering business of the Liberal party transacted in your office ?—No, I am not aware of any in which I am personally engaged.

54,915. At the time of the general elections surely there is a consultation ?—Yes, at the time of the elections there is a room taken. There was one in Parliament Street at the last election.

54,916. You used to attend there yourself, I suppose, at the general elections ?—Yes.

54,917. Who else used to attend there ?—It would be difficult to say. I daresay every Liberal member would run in and out. There was no regular committee ; it was rather a house of call to get information.

54,918. Was there any fund ?—No, there was no fund that I am aware of.

54,919. No subscription of any sort or kind ?—Not that I am aware of.

54,920. No money passed through your hands ?—No.

54,921. In 1863 Mr. Alfred Seymour went to stand against Mr. Dent ? — Upon the death of Lord Gifford.

54,922. Did you see Mr. Alfred Seymour before he went down ?—Yes.

54,923. Had you learnt what Mr. Pender had spent in the uncontested election of 1862 ?—The only information I had was a letter in the paper, in which he said he gave 1,000*l.* to the charities.

54,924. That letter did not happen to mention that he had give 1,200*l.* besides ?—No; from my interview with Mr. Pender he was under the impression that 1,000*l.* was all he had to pay.

54,925. And not plus 700*l.* ?—Yes, he was under that delusion.

54,926. Had you anything to do with the transmission of the 1,200*l.* to Totnes ?—No.

54,927. Just before the election of 1863 did Mr. Danby Seymour come to you ?—Yes.

54,928. What passed between you and him ?—He said then that the election would be more costly than he had anticipated, and that Mr. Cuming intimated that they must have more money ; and he said, " Is " there not a fund out of which my brother can be " helped ? I think he has done good service to the " party, and I think he ought to be helped." I said, " I know of no fund." He said, " Do not you think " the party would be likely to assist him ? I said, " Of my knowledge I know of no one, and I know " of no fund ; " but I said, " If your brother wants " 500*l.*, why not advance him 500*l.* ? " because I thought he was a man of considerable means. He said he would, but it was not convenient for him to do so then.

54,929. Did you know at that time how much money Mr. Alfred Seymour had taken down ?—No ; I understood from Mr. Danby Seymour, he told me that he had mentioned that ; but he is in error, and I did not ask him.

54,930. Did not you ask him, when Mr. Cuming informed him that more money was wanted, how much had been spent ?—No ; and if I had a fund to distribute I should say, " Let us understand what " you have had, and what is to be done with it ; " but as I had not I did not make any inquiry, and I did not know of the fact.

54,931. When you found Mr. Danby Seymour himself could not immediately advance it what did you do then ?—He said he could not advance it but he would become surety, and I said, " I am not in " the habit of making advances of this sort ; but I will " lend you this 500*l.* if you will give me a guarantee."

54,932. Did you take a guarantee ?—I took an I O U.

54,933. Where is that ?—I gave it up to Mr. Alfred Seymour, who paid me on the 23rd October.

54,934. What steps did you take to send it ?—Mr. Danby Seymour asked me to send it to Green and Allin.

54,935. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had you any transaction of this sort before taking the I O U ?—No.

54,936. There was no regular form drawn up ?—Nothing but an I O U.

54,937. (Mr. Longe.) Did you tell Mr. Seymour that you would provide the money yourself ?—Yes.

54,938. Did he tell you that the persons to whom you were to send it were Green and Allin ?—Yes; I had no more knowledge on the subject.

54,939. Had you know him yourself in business ?—No; I did not even at the time know that they were solicitors.

54,940. (Mr. Bere.) Did you send the money to Mr. Allin ?—Yes.

54,941. How did you send it ?—I do not know; I drew two cheques for 250*l.*, and they were taken.

54,942. To whom did you give that cash ?—Probably to one of my clerks, but it was in cash.

54,943. Did your clerk come back and tell you that he got the cheques cashed, and got one 500*l.* note for them ?—No.

54,944. Who was the clerk ?—I cannot charge my memory at all.

54,945. Is he a person in your employment now ?—I do not know who it was.

54,946. On what bank were the cheques drawn ?—One was on my own banker, Dimsdale, and another on Glyn's.

54,947. (Mr. Coleridge.) Is that the firm's bank ?—Yes.

54,948. (Mr. Bere.) What instructions did you give ?—It was simply to take it to Mr. Allin and say it was to be sent.

54,949. Was that to Mr. Webber ?—I do not know; I think so.

54,950. How was it that you did not send it to Mr. Cuming ?—Because I was told to send it to those people.

54,951. You had no letter from Mr. Cuming ?—No; I had no correspondence with anybody in Totnes.

54,952. Are you sure you did not give your clerk instructions to put those two sums together, and to get that 500*l.* note ?—I had no instructions to do so, and I think it would be.

54,953. What made you draw two cheques ?—Because I was not sure of the balance at my own bankers, and I drew 250*l.* on my own bankers, and 250*l.* on the bankers of the firm.

54,954. Having given the cheques to the clerk that was all you had to do with the matter ?—Yes.

54,955. Are you certain you did not know at that time that Mr. Alfred Seymour had taken 1,000*l.* to Totnes ?—That I will undertake to swear.

54,956. (Mr. Longe.) Have you spoken to Mr. Danby Seymour since his examination ?—Yes, he called upon me.

54,957. And do you mean he withdraws all he said ?—I did not say so.

54,958. I thought you said so ?—No, I beg your pardon, I did not say so.

54,959. I thought you said he made a mistake when he said he told you about the 1,000*l.* ?—No, you misunderstand me. Mr. Seymour called upon me when he left here, and said he had been examined upon the point, ; but I do not think anything passed with him in reference to what he had said to me at the time. I did not refer to that, but I say I understood Mr. Seymour saying that he told me, and if he said so he was under a misapprehension, because he never did mention the sum.

54,960. You remember the transaction ; what did he say, that his brother had spent a large sum ?—No.

54,961. (Mr. Coleridge.) I think "costly" was your expression ?—Yes.

54,962. Did you ever ask Mr. Danby Seymour for the money ?—No, and perhaps that is the most curious thing about it.

54,963. Did you look to Mr. Alfred Seymour for it ?—Yes.

54,964. What is your explanation about that ?—At that time I had very important business, and almost immediately after the election I went abroad for about two months, and then I came back and went abroad again, and that is the only thing I can think of which made me forget it.

54,965. Did Mr. Alfred Seymour pay it with interest ?—No, and it was called to my recollection by Mr. Alfred Seymour. I saw that he had given his evidence, and then it occurred to me that there was 500*l.* that I had lent to Mr. Danby Seymour.

54,966. You were surprised to see no mention of it ?—Yes, the thing had passed entirely out of my memory; but I then communicated with Mr. Alfred Seymour that there was 500*l.* come down which he knew nothing about ; and I said, I presume you know your brother had 500*l.* from me.

(Mr. Coleridge.) He then wrote to us and told us.

54,967. (Mr. Bere.) Either Mr. Danby Seymour's recollection is incorrect, or yours is ?—What does he say ?

54,968. He intimates that he did not know through whom it was to go down ?—All I can say is that I had no communication with anybody but Mr. Danby Seymour. It is odd if he did not tell me how the money was to go.

54,969. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had you nothing to do with sending the original 1,000*l.* ?—No.

54,970. Had Mr. Pender ever mentioned those people's names to you as persons through whom he sent the money ?—No ; the names were quite foreign to me. I am quite confident upon that subject, because I was in communication with no one else.

54,971. It is a singular thing that these people were the same people through whom Mr. Pender sent his money ?—I have no knowledge of that, not the least.

54,972. When did Mr. Seymour pay you ?—On the 23rd October.

54,973. Do you know Mr. Robert Tucker of Ashburton ?—Yes, I think it is Robert Tucker I know ; there are two Tuckers, and I know them both.

54,974. Did you know from the time that you were connected with the borough that the three boroughs, Totnes, Dartmouth, and Ashburton, had been worked together ?—No.

54,975. Did you not know of the fact that the voters lived at the different places, that Dartmouth voters lived at Totnes, Totnes voters at Dartmouth and Ashburton, and so on ?—I did not know thefact.

54,976. (Mr. Bere.) After the election of 1863 did you hear from Ashburton what it had cost him ?—No ; I went abroad after the election, and I have no recollection of seeing Mr. Seymour at that time.

54,977. Did you have any communication with Mr. Pender or Mr. Seymour with regard to the elections before the election of 1865 ?—No.

54,978. Did you see Mr. Pender on private business during that time ?—Constantly.

54,979. You were his private solicitor in 1863 ?—No, only in connexion with the Whitworth Company.

54,980. Were you the solicitor of that company ?—Yes.

54,981. When was that Whitworth Company formed ?—In the early part of 1863, March 1863.

54,982. Who were the original promoters of tha, company ?—Joseph Whitworth, William Wilson Hulse, Daniel Gooch, John Pender, Joseph Leece, Theodore Aston, J. Emerson Tennent.

54,983. When was the first proposition made to form that company, how long before the execution of the articles of association ?—My knowledge of it was immediately antecedent to the articles of association.

I was told that an arrangement had been come to to make the Whitworth business into a company, and I was asked to advise about it.

54,984. Had you had anything to with the Whitworth business before ?—No.

54,985. They came to you as to another solicitor ?—Yes, but I think it came through Mr. Pender's connexion.

54,986. Was that the only business you transacted for Mr. Pender ?—I do not recollect anything else except the Telegraph Company.

54,987. Are you his solicitor now ?—No, except for purchasing some of the Arlington Street property.

54,988. Did he complain of the expenses of Totnes ?—I do not think I had any conversation with Mr. Pender about it until after the last petition was disposed of.

54,989. Have you had considerable complaints from Mr. Alfred Seymour between 1863 and 1865 ?—No.

54,990. He told us he was in a chronic state of remonstrance with everybody about his expenses ?—I daresay he was, but I had no communication with him.

54,991. (Mr. Bere.) Did Mr. Pender come to you before the election of 1865 with regard to Totnes ?—No ; I asked him, and I suppose I made some inquiries.

54,992. Did Mr. Pender ever tell you that an arrangement had been come to whereby the interest of the Duke of Somerset should be given to the independent candidate ?—No.

54,993. Did he ever tell you that an understanding had been arrived at as to the sum that the election of 1865 ought to cost ?—No.

54,994. Had you anything more to do with the election of 1865 until after the election itself ?—Nothing whatever.

54,995. Then the petition was instituted, and I believe you, with Mr. Travers Smith, had the conduct of it ?—No, I had nothing to do with it professionally.

54,996. But personally ?—Yes, as a friend of Mr. Seymour's.

54,997. Were you consulted as to the evidence that was to be procured in their behalf ?—I was not consulted upon it. I was present when several of the conversations took place upon the petition, and I may have given my opinion upon any point that arose, but only in that sense.

54,998. The evidence to be given on your behalf was nothing. They were defendants ?—Yes.

54,999. They had, of course, to procure materials for cross-examination ?—Yes, that was entirely done by Mr. Tucker and Mr. Travers Smith.

55,000. (Mr. Coleridge.) The seat not being claimed, there was no recriminating evidence ?—No.

55,001. Had you any notion that they were going to claim the seat before the petition was presented ?—No ; I had no communication with anybody, and I thought it was not a place for which they were likely to claim the seat.

55,002. (Mr. Bere.) I suppose you had learned that the Liberal party had spent a great deal of money ?—That was the general impression.

55,003. And the Conservative party had ?—Yes.

55,004. During the inquiry before the Committee, did it come out that a certain 50*l.* note had been paid to a Mr. James, which 50*l.* note was found to be a portion of a sum which had come into the hands of Mr. Percy Salmon ?—It scarcely came out in that way. It came out, so far as I understood, that that 50*l.* was part of a sum of 2,000*l.* which Mr. Percy Salmon had drawn out of the Consolidated Bank.

55,005. I think there was a suspicion that Mr. Percy Salmon had revealed to the Conservatives the way in which that 2,000*l.* had been got ?—It appeared that an inference might be drawn from the mode in which the question was put.

55,006. Did you write to him on the subject ?—Yes, and the correspondence is before you.

55,007. Mr. Pender has intimated that he is satisfied with Mr. Salmon's explanation, and understands the way in which it was arrived at ; but were you anxious that Mr. Salmon should not be examined as a witness ?—I was anxious that Mr. Salmon should not be examined as a witness, when I became aware that he had anything to do with the money, which I became aware of at an interview that I had with him, and the correspondence is very full on the subject, and if you will ask me to refer to it I will.

55,008. There is only one question that I wish to ask. Did you suggest that Mr. Salmon should leave England to prevent his being examined before the Committee of the House of Commons ?—I could scarcely take upon myself to suggest it. I think Mr. Salmon said, "I want to wash my hands of it, and be away "from the thing altogether ;" and he had in the previous February written to Mr. Pender to suggest that he should get out of the way, and I acquiesced in the suggestion.

55,009. (Mr. Coleridge.) He was enough of a lawyer to know that he had better be away ?—I do not know about his being a lawyer, but he appeared to think he was in a great mess, and the less anybody else knew about it the better.

55,010. (Mr. Bere.) Was it not more than an acquiescence. There is a passage in the letter of the 25th of June as follows : "It is quite true that in "answer to a very strong expression of your desire not "in any manner to be mixed up with the inquiry, I "suggested you could avoid the possibility of being "called as a witness by leaving London ?"—You must take that as I put it.

55,011. (Mr. Longe.) His expenses were to be paid ?—No.

55,012. (Mr. Bere.) He wished his expenses to be paid, but they never were paid ?—No.

55,013. They were never settled ?—No.

55,014. (Mr. Coleridge.) The reason was, I suppose, the feeling on the part of Mr. Pender that he was the person who had split with regard to the money ?—I cannot say.

55,015. Do you know anything about a proposition that was made to compromise the petition ?—I know of it in this way : Mr. Pender told me that Mr. Percy Salmon had suggested that an offer had been made on the 7th June that for 5,000*l.* the petition would be withdrawn, that it was in consequence of that that I saw Mr. Percy Salmon to hear what the proposition was. Mr. Percy Salmon was reticent, and I left without his saying anything to me, but as I was going downstairs, he said, "Yes, if I had 5,000*l.* I could tell it ;" and I said, "If Mr. Percy takes my advice he will not pay "5,000 pence ;" and if you will refer to the letter, you will find I had an interview with Mr. George Salmon, of the firm of Mayhew, of George Street, and what took place occurs in a letter of mine to Mr. Percy Salmon of the 20th March 1856. That refers to my interview with Mr. George Salmon.

55,016. At that time did Mr. Salmon entertain the idea of compromising the petition ?—No.

55,017. (Mr. Coleridge.) Colonel Dawkins made it a condition that Lord Rokeby was to apologize, and there was to be a new election, and he was to have a seat for Totnes ?—Yes.

55,018. (Mr. Bere.) Is that all you know about the proposal ?—Yes, the two interviews mentioned there.

55,019. Do you think you could discover who the clerk was by whom you sent those cheques ?—I will inquire certainly, but I have no recollection whatever —in fact the whole thing has escaped my recollection.

55,020. You are quite certain that you gave no specific directions to your clerk as to how the money was to be transmitted to those persons ?—No.

55,021. Not that the cheques were to be broken up ?—No, there were no broken-up cheques.

55,022. Not by you ?—No.

55,023. Not by you, but by your giving directions ?—No, what I did was to send the money.

55,024. You did not say to your clerk, "Tell Green "and Allin not to send down your cheques but diffe-"rent cheques ?"—No, I simply sent the money.

55,025. (Mr. Coleridge.) I will put this again. Are you quite certain that Green and Allin were mentioned to you by Mr. Danby Seymour, or had you a letter from Mr. Brooking Cuming, mentioning Green and Allin?—The fact of Mr. Seymour stating it so strongly makes me doubt, but my own recollection, speaking to the best of my recollection, unquestionably Mr. Danby Seymour mentioned them to me.

55,026. Have you any recollection of having a letter from Mr. Brooking Cuming at that time?—No; if Mr. Danby Seymour told me where the money was to go, he did it at the instance of Mr. Cuming, no doubt; there is no question of that, and I am sorry there should be a conflict between me and Mr. Danby Seymour as to the fact; but my own recollection is what I have stated. I have made a search, and I find no letter of Mr. Brooking Cuming's.

55,027. (Mr. Bere.) I do not think we have had the exact date of your interview with Mr. Salmon?—The date of the cheque was the 16th January—whether that was the day I cannot say. I think I remember writing the cheque whilst he was sitting at the table.

55,028. Do you mean to say you do not know of any fund raised at any time by the Liberal party for assisting that party in electioneering matters?—I have no personal knowledge on the subject.

55,029. (Mr. Coleridge,) Do you mean for legitimate expenses?—I have no personal knowledge.

55,030. (Mr. Bere.) Do you mean that there may be such a fund, but you are not the person who administers it?—There may be such a fund, but I have no personal knowledge of it.

55,031. Since 1864 you have had nothing to do with it?—No.

55,032. You are still adviser to the party?—No, I have declined over and over again, but people will come to me.

55,033. (Mr. Longe.) What is your own hypothesis as to the way the money was expended?—I have no hypothesis, you must gather that from the evidence.

55,034. How could that money and other money possibly be spent? It would not be spent in paying attorneys' fees?—Why should it not?

55,035. Is it the custom to give the fee at the time?—Very often indeed.

55,036. Is it so?—Yes.

55,037. Not to pay after the election is the custom?—I have no knowledge of the management of the election. I have never personally managed an election at all.

55,038. You do not know whether it is a custom?—As far as my experience goes it is.

55,039. Are you aware of any other expenses which it would be necessary to pay four days before the election?—There would be a great many if there were paid canvassers and messengers employed.

55,040. Do you suppose 500*l.* could be spent legitimately in canvassing?—It depends on the size of the boroughs and the canvassers.

55,041. Do you not know the size of it?—I did not then.

55,042. Could you suggest anything besides the paid canvassers in which 500*l.* could be spent?—I could suggest a great many things.

55,043. What?—There might be, which is a common thing, to pay fees and back reckonings. When bills are disputed they stand over, and then they have to be paid.

55,044. (Mr. Coleridge.) And registration expenses?—Yes; you will find at elections, when you have any experience of it, Mr. Longe, that things will creep up.

(Mr. Longe.) We have had sufficient experience in this election.

55,045. (Mr. Coleridge.) The retainer of attorney supposes prior payment?—I should think the practice would be to pay afterwards.

55,046. (Mr. Bere.) The election would appear in the audit sheet?—Yes; no doubt, under the Act of Parliament, no payments could be made except through the election auditor, but we know they are made every day.

55,047. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever see the return of Mr. Seymour's legitimate expenses published after the election?—I think I saw it during the progress of the petition.

Mr. Henry Smith sworn and examined.

Mr. H. Smith

55,048. (Mr. Bere.) I believe you are an attorney carrying on business at Norfolk Street?—Yes, I am solicitor to the Conservative Land Society.

55,049. And Conservative registration?—Secretary to the National Conservative Registration Association.

55,050. May I ask what the National Conservative Registration is?—It is an association formed for the purpose of rendering assistance to county constituencies with regard to county outlying voters, and giving general assistance to them.

55,051. A sort of central assistance in registration operations?—It is.

55,052. Does it confine itself to counties?—It does particularly; but if any points arise with regard to registration law and assistance is required we frequently give it.

55,053. How are the expenses provided?—Provided by subscription, the Earl of Shrewsbury and Talbot is the chairman.

55,054. I suppose most of the leading Conservatives subscribe?—Yes.

55,055. Is it considered essential that a Conservative member of parliament should subscribe?—Not at all.

55,056. I suppose most do?—Where they have received assistance in their respective localities most of them do.

55,057. Is that assistance rendered where the Conservative members supply an agent to go round with the revising barrister to conduct the registration?—Yes. Wherever it is required to have a local Conservative agent assistance is rendered, but there is no interference with the local operations.

55,058. If a case was reserved by the revising barrister would that be taken up?—Not at the expense of the society.

55,059. Had you anything to do with the registration of Totnes?—Nothing whatever, except opinions which might be asked of me with regard to the votes.

55,060. You are acquainted, I believe, with Mr. Rennie?—Yes.

55,061. How long have you known him?—For three or four years.

55,062. Did you know him when he went down to see whether he should stand as a candidate for Totnes?—I knew him, but did not consult him with regard to standing.

55,063. Did he afterwards consult you about the registration expenses at Totnes?—I do not recollect being consulted by him at the time; but during the time that Mr. Rennie considered that he had claims upon Totnes he bore the whole of the expenses of the registration I suppose, but I had nothing whatever to do with it.

55,064. Did not you pay the registration expenses at Totnes at one time?—In the year 1864 I did.

55,065. What did they amount to?—There were several other expenses, certain requisitions that you have heard of were got up.

55,066. That was afterwards?—I think about the same time, contemporaneously with the other. It may have been immediately afterwards, but the whole of the expenses incurred then amounted to 332*l.* 1*s.* 6*d.*

55,067. Did you send any agent down to assist in that?—No.

55,068. Did you pay that yourself?—Yes.

55,069. To whom?—Partly to a person named Robert Harris.

55,070. How much did you pay to him?—25*l.* I think.

55,071. Was that for his own services?—Yes.

55,072. To whom did you pay the rest?—50*l.* to Mr. Dawe and Mr. Hockin.

55,073. Twenty guineas to each of them?—More than that, and this with the expenses of the requisition to which I have referred amounted to 332*l.* 1*s.* 6*d.*

55,074. Can you give us the items?—I think I can.

55,075. Whom did you get the money from?—From Mr. Macleay.

55,076. He contemplated becoming a candidate?—Yes, in contemplation of the dissolution; he having heard that Mr. Dent was not likely to become a candidate he consulted me with regard to his probable chances; but I knew nothing with regard to Totnes as to the local position of Totnes, and I went down there.

55,077. Can you tell us when that was?—In 1864 I went down there, and I saw those who were considered as the leaders of the Conservative party.

55,078. Whom did you see?—Mr. Bastard, Mr. Bentall, Mr. Gill, Mr. Kellock, and Mr. Phillips the mayor.

55,079. Did you not see Mr. Edmonds?—Yes.

55,080. And Mr. Heath?—Yes, because I was staying at his house.

55,081. Did you make the acquaintance of Mr. Harris?—Yes, in fact I went to Mr. Harris.

55,082. Did you form the same opinion of Mr. Harris as Mr. Spofforth?—I do not know.

55,083. He thought he was a very respectable man indeed, and addressed him as Esq., and called him "My dear sir"?—No. I do not think you will find any letters of mine in which I have addressed Harris, Esq.

55,084. What conclusion did you come to?—First, with regard to the municipal authorities, I found that there was a strong Conservative majority, and referring to Totnes proper there was a Conservative mayor, and from the communication made to me by Mr. Harris and others I considered (as to the practice of Totnes I was ignorant) that there was a certainty of a Conservative success if the voters were polled according to political feeling.

55,085. Did the leading members of the Conservative party tell you at that time that the close run in 1863 was owing to 12 men having been bought by them who previously voted for the Liberals?—No, not at that time, but I was informed what would be necessary with regard to Totnes.

55,086. Did they bring before you the fact of there having been a close contest in 1863?—I knew that from my own information.

55,087. They did not give you any information that you thought bribery had been at work?—No, but I was told that Mr. Dent had expended a large sum of money.

55,088. Did they fix on any amount?—No. I do not recollect that they did at that time.

55,089. At any time had you reason to believe?—It was subsequently communicated to me that the Conservatives of the place thought nothing less than 3,000*l.* would be of any use with regard to the borough of Totnes.

55,090. They fixed it at 3,000*l.*?—Mr. Dent has spent a great deal more, but nothing less than 3,000*l.* would be of any use.

55,091. From your experience you knew how it was to be spent?—I could judge.

55,092. You knew that it could not be spent legally?—I knew it could not.

55,093. What do you think could be spent legally?—I have heard Mr. Drake's evidence, and I endorse it, with regard to the fees, that and other expenses must determine the expenses; looking at it as I have heard, and the explanation with regard to the 50*l.* to one and 50*l.* to another, I think that 500*l.* or 600*l.* should be the extreme.

55,094. Mr. Macleay was willing to stand at that time?—No. He never gave his adhesion, but a requisition was sent down and it was left with me to report, and undoubtedly from the first explanations given to me I gave him a favourable report.

55,095. Did you go about the town at all?—No, I did not.

55,096. How long did you stay there?—I think I stayed two days.

55,097. Were you there more than once?—I think three times.

55,098. At that time did you agree on Mr. Macleay's behalf that the registration expenses should be paid?—I was informed, as a sort of antidote to the practice pursued by the Duke of Somerset, that there was an arrangement entered into to counteract that by the creation of votes; and if all those newly created votes could come in on the succeeding registration, the Conservative chance would be much improved; and I think, as Mr. Macleay had had the compliment paid to him by the Conservative party, the least he could do would be to pay the registration expenses of that year.

55,099. At that time was Mr. Oldrey in your employment?—Yes, he was.

55,100. How long had he been in your employment?—He may have been two or three years.

55,101. From him had you learnt a great deal about the borough?—I had conversations with him, but I do not think I had at that period.

55,102. Then I believe a requisition to Mr. Macleay was not signed till 1865?—It must have been before that, because there is a letter in which I pay 40*l.* 2*s.*

55,103. That is the letter of the 21st of March 1865, that rather confused me because there is no address upon it?—It is to Mr. Edmonds, I went to see him with Mr. Macleay.

55,104. Mr. Macleay did not stand because his brother died?—The explanation that I had with regard to the practice in Totnes induced me to advise him not, and that was a quiet way of informing the constituency that he did not mean to stand.

55,105. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was he ever repaid the money for the registration?—No.

55,106. (Mr. Bere.) Did you ever have any explanation with regard to the Council for subsequent elections?—Not subsequent, but it was mentioned to me.

55,107. Who mentioned it to you?—Mr. Harris.

55,108. At Totnes?—Yes, I think so; and whether a part of this amount of 332*l.* 1*s.* 6*d.* was applied for the municipal purpose I do not know.

55,109. Did not you see Mr. Rennie shortly after the registration expenses had been sent to him, and inform him that the Totnes people had applied for a sum of money to pay the Council election?—I think very likely.

55,110. Do you remember what sum they had asked for?—I do not know.

55,111. Would it be a sum of 200*l.*?—No.

55,112. Did you let them have it?—No; the whole of the money that passed through my hands is what I have told you.

55,113. Did you have anything to do with any of the other candidates who went to Totnes?—No.

55,114. Have you had anything to do with any elections at all?—No, in no way whatever.

55,115. You found it was a corrupt place, and you did not wish to have anything more to do with it?—Yes.

55,116. Did you have anything to do with it as far back as 1859?—No.

55,117. Did you know much about the borough before Mr. Oldrey came to you?—My first acquaintance was in August 1864.

55,118. And you had not heard much about it before?—No.

55,119. (Mr. Coleridge.) When you lend assistance is that paid by the place itself, or does it come out of the general fund?—Out of the general fund.

55,120. The place itself does not pay anything more than another?—The payment to the fund is entirely optional, whether they seek its services or not.

55,121. If they seek its services they pay nothing more?—No; but if the expenses for the outlying voters are sent down by the society they are reimbursed by the candidate.

55,122. Did you at any time see Mr. Spofforth about the election of 1865?—No.

55,123. You had nothing to do with the petition?—No.

55,124. With regard to the election of 1865 did you happen to be at Mr. Spofforth's office?—No, I never had any conversation with Mr. Spofforth about Totnes at all.

55,125. Did you hear anything about the compromise of the petition?—No.

55,126. (Mr. Bere.) Did you happen to be at Mr. Spofforth's office about the election of 1865 when Mr. Spofforth and Mr. Rennie came and had a conversation?—No.

55,127. Is there anything more you can tell us?—No.

55,128. Will you kindly let us have those items?—Yes. I think you will find the total comes to 332*l.* 1*s.* 6*d.*, which includes the requisition.

55,129. Among the registration expenses for the Liberals there are several extraordinary items, and we wish to see if they are the same?—I paid them, and I can tell you. With regard to the requisition I may tell you that it contains a number of names, and perhaps about one-third of those who signed the requisition for Mr. Macleay voted for the Liberals at the last election.

(Mr. Coleridge.) 17.

55,130. (Mr. Bere.) You did not happen to know that it was a requisition to Mr. Dent, and in every single instance Harris informed the persons who hesitated that they were not bound to vote for the person to whom they were sending the requisition, but that it was simply to bring a gentleman down to stand and spend money?—I am surprised that I never heard anything about it, and I had the requisition back from Mr. Edmonds.

55,131. (Mr. Coleridge.) Where there is a sitting member belonging to the borough he pays the registration?—Yes.

55,132. You only pay when there is none?—Yes.

55,133. Supposing there were two Conservative members sitting for Totnes you would not give anything towards it?—No.

55,134. We find on the Liberal side it is part of the expenses of the sitting member to pay?—Yes, and properly so, to take care of his own seat.

55,135. It was in consequence of having no sitting member that you paid?—Yes, to see what was required and to make ourselves personally acquainted with the borough.

55,136. (Mr. Bere.) After the election of 1865 I believe Mr. Harris applied to you to be recommended to an appointment?—I think I applied to him to take one. I was consulted by some leading people in Cambridge for a person to go and conduct the political arrangements for the borough, and becoming acquainted with Mr. Harris at Totnes I recommended him for the situation, and he was appointed.

55,137. That was a real appointment which he had at Cambridge?—Yes, for which he was to receive 200*l.* a year and all his expenses paid, and after that he was to have a salary of 150*l.* a year.

55,138. Do you know why he resigned or lost that appointment?—I think through the case at Totnes.

55,139. Did he resign or lose it?—I think he resigned after a communication. He said he might not hold the appointment with advantage to the persons by whom he was appointed, and after a consultation it was determined that he should resign; so I have understood since.

55,140. From Mr. Peede?—Yes.

JOHN FIELD sworn and examined.

J. Field.

55,141. (Mr. Coleridge.) What are you?—I belong to the Private Inquiry Office.

55,142. Where is that?—Devereux Court.

55,143. Do you recollect Mr. Pender's election in 1862?—Yes.

55,144. Did you go to Totnes?—Yes.

55,145. Who engaged you to go down?—I was sent from the office to go down.

55,146. Who sent you?—I do not know; I was to meet Mr. Barton.

55,147. Who is Mr. Barton?—One of the officers.

55,148. Who gave you the instructions in the office?—Mr. Nicholl.

55,149. What is he?—The manager.

55,150. What were you told to do?—To see if any bribery was going on.

55,151. What were you to do?—To see that Mr. Pender did not bribe.

55,152. That Mr. Pender himself did not bribe, or the other side?—The other side, I suppose.

55,153. How long did you go before the election?—I think two days before.

55,154. He was there before you?—Yes.

55,155. What time did you get down?—In the middle of the night.

55,156. Did you find a fly or anything waiting?—No; I stayed all night at the station, at one of the rooms.

55,157. As soon as it got light where did you go?—I saw Mr. Barton, and I was to go to the "White Lion, but they would not let me in."

55,158. They suspected you?—I suppose so, and I got to an eating-house and coffee-house.

55,159. Did Mr. Barton go there too?—No.

55,160. Did you hunt in couples or single-handed?—Single-handed.

55,161. To whom did you report?—I had nothing to report; I did not see anything.

55,162. You went, and saw nothing?—Yes.

55,163. Did you see Mr. Pender?—I do not know.

55,164. Did you go to the "Seymour Arms?"—I do not know.

55,165. How much did you get paid, including travelling expenses?—12*s.* a day.

55,166. Did you pay the travelling expenses out of that?—No, I was paid extra.

55,167. How long did you stay?—Six days.

55,168. Did you do anything at all during that time?—No.

55,169. What did you do?—Went to different public-houses, but as soon as they found I was a stranger they shut up.

55,170. There was a great deal going on?—Yes.

55,171. Were you disguised?—Not particular.

55,172. Had you a wig?—No.

55,173. Did you go to the "Seymour?"—No.

55,174. Did you go across the bridge?—I went on the bridge.

55,175. Whom did you communicate with?—Nobody; I did not see anybody.

55,176. (Mr. Longe.) Did you learn any names?—No.

55,177. Did anybody ever come to you, or ask who you were?—No.

55,178. Did you know Mr. Brooking Cuming?—No.

55,179. Mr. Windeatt?—No.

55,180. Mr. Pender?—No.

55,181. Mr. Holman?—No.

55,182. Whom did you know?—Nobody.

55,183. Was your only acquaintance there Mr. Barton?—Yes.

FORTY-THIRD DAY.

J. Field.

23 Nov. 1866.

55,184. Did you see anybody to know the names ?—No.

55,185. Did you read the names over the shop doors ?—No.

55,186. What did you go there for ?—I went to see if there was any bribery going on at the public-houses.

55,187. You took notice ?—I went to see if there was any talk about it, but as soon as they saw me they were quiet.

55,188. That is all the Inquiry Office did ?—That is all I did ; I do not know what Mr. Barton did.

55,189. Did you go away together ?—Yes.

55,190. Did you tell him you had done anything ?—I said I had seen nothing.

55,191. What did you tell Mr. Nicholl ?—I had my instructions from Mr. Barton.

55,192. As far as you were concerned you saw nothing ?—No.

55,193. Did not you see a fight or help in one ?—No.

55,194. Nothing at all ?—There was a little flare-up on the night of the nomination.

55,195. What did you do ?—I got in ; I thought they might suspect me.

55,196. Did you go to the "Seven Stars ?"—No.

55,197. Did not you know Mr. Heath ?—No.

55,198. Did not you speak to anybody ?—No, I spoke to nobody ; I never knew anybody.

55,199. You went to look after Mr. Barton, and Mr. Barton went to look after you ?—I do not know.

55,200. You got 12*s.* a day and your travelling expenses and came back ?—Yes.

55,201. (Mr. Longe.) Were you supposed to see money pass, to use your eyes ?—Yes, if I saw any; but I could not if I did not see any.

55,202. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was this your first turn ?—That was my first turn.

55,203. Was that the reason for your selection ?—I do not know ; I suppose there was no one else in the office.

W. Barton.

WILLIAM BARTON sworn and examined.

55,204. (Mr. Longe.) What are you ?—I am acquainted with the Private Inquiry Office.

55,205. Were you employed at the last election for Totnes ?—In 1862.

55,206. Is that the only time you were employed ?—Yes.

55,207. When did you go down ?—By the mail train on Friday, December 3rd.

55,208. Who sent you down ?—I was sent down from the office, by Mr. Nicholl's orders.

55,209. Did you know who he had orders from ?—No ; I was ordered to communicate with Mr. Cuming.

55,210. Were any other names given to you ?—No.

55,211. Whom did you go with ?—I went by myself, and Field came down the same night, but not by the same train.

55,212. When you got to Totnes to whom did you go ?—I did not go to Totnes first ; I went to Newton Abbott by appointment, where I was to meet Mr. Cuming and from him receive instructions.

55,213. Did you meet him ?—Yes.

55,214. What instructions did you get from him ?—To go to the "Seven Stars," take up my abode, and find out if there was any bribery going on.

55,215. Did you go to the "Seven Stars ?"—Yes, but I could not get in there.

55,216. Where did you go to ?—To the corner of the street as you go to the railway, I think the "William the Fourth."

55,217. Did you know the name of the landlord ?—I do not know.

55,218. How long were you in Totnes ?—I got to Totnes on the Saturday morning ; I stopped at Newton that night and met Mr. Cuming in the morning.

55,219. How long were you at Totnes ?—We remained till the Tuesday ; the nomination day was the Monday.

55,220. The following Tuesday, not the following Tuesday week ?—The following Tuesday.

55,221. During that time did you see any bribery ?—No, I did not ; I heard a great deal of it.

55,222. What did you hear ?—I could hear that there was a leather club, comprised of 27 men, that was held over the bridge.

55,223. (Mr. Bere.) Did you ever hear who they were ?—No.

55,224. How did you get at that much ?—It was the gossip there ; they did not suspect me.

55,225. How came they to suspect Field ?—I cannot tell ; I do not think they suspected me, they did not show it in any way.

55,226. Did you hear of any particular persons receiving money ?—No, I did not.

55,227. Mr. Dent resigning in the middle of the night prevented it ?—I think it is probable. Where I was it was a sort of neutral house, the "King William the Fourth."

55,228. (Mr. Longe.) Did you look after the "Seven Stars ?"—I went on two or three occasions.

55,229. Did you see women with baskets ?—No.

55,230. (Mr. Bere.) Were you there late on the night of the nomination ?—Yes.

55,231. Did you see a great many people about ?—Yes.

55,232. Did you hear when Mr. Dent resigned ?—Yes, and I saw several of the other party at the "William the Fourth" have very blank faces.

55,233. They had not been paid ?—I suppose so.

55,234. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did they tell you that it had been promised and not paid ?—I cannot say.

55,235. Which party said that ?—I think both.

55,236. Did you ever hear this expression made use of by the Liberal party, "Mr. Cuming will never pay "us now" ?—No.

55,237. Did anyone ask you for money ? Did they think you were distributing money ?--No ; they thought I was going to visit some friends at Falmouth and I was stopping to see the fun of the election.

55,238. Are you a Falmouth man ?—I have friends there.

55,239. (Mr. Bere.) What report did you make to Mr. Nicholl ?—There was none to make. I saw Mr. Cuming's clerk ; someone came to London to apply for some person to be sent down, and this was the only person I saw.

55,240. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you have any communication with Mr. Pender ?—No.

55,241. What did you do at Totnes ?—We endeavoured to find out if there was any bribery, but we did not.

55,242. Had you ever had any job of this sort before ?—No, but several since.

55,243. You were so successful that time that you have been at other places since ?—I do not say that we were successful.

55,244. (Mr. Longe.) Did you say there was bribery on the Liberal side as well as the Conservative side ?—No doubt of it.

55,245. Did you hear of it ?—I heard of it ; one party was as bad as the other, that was the conversation.

55,246. (Mr. Bere.) The truth is, that as Mr. Dent resigned there was no occasion for much bribery ?—Yes, no doubt ; I remained up the whole night.

55,247. (Mr. Coleridge.) When did you go back, on the election day ?—Yes.

55,248. What were you paid, the same as Field ?—Rather more, I think.

55,249. Was that paid by the office or Mr. Cuming ?—The office. The charges were made to Mr. Cuming, and the office pay us a salary, or so much when we were employed.

Mr. Charles C. Rennie sworn and examined.

55,250. (Mr. Bere.) You are a barrister practising on the Western Circuit ?—Yes.

55,251. And the son of Sir John Rennie ?—Yes.

55,252. In the summer of 1862 were you anxious to go into parliament ?—In the summer of 1861.

55,253. Did you think Totnes would be likely to suit you ?—I knew Mr. Champernowne there. He was a landed proprietor, and I wanted to see what the place was like.

55,254. Had Sir John Rennie taken Bowden then ?—I think not.

55,255. When did you go ?—I think in September.

55,256. And did you stay with Mr. Champernowne ?—Yes.

55,257. And went to Totnes ?—Yes.

55,258. Had you known Totnes before ? — Not beyond staying at Dartington.

55,259. Whom did you see ?—I first saw Mr. Bryett and then Mr. Edmonds.

55,260. Did Mr. Bryett intimate that he had given up having anything to do with it ?—Yes, I think so.

55,261. Did you see Mr. Edmonds ?—Yes.

55,262. What prospect did he give ?—He intimated a majority.

55,263. Did he intimate what sum it would take to secure that majority ?—No, he did not in the least.

55,264. Did you think from what he told you that money would be wanted ?—No.

55,265. You did not happen to ask him yourself ?—No.

55,266. Having seen him did you have a public meeting there ?—That is some time afterwards.

55,267. You had no public meeting at that time ?—No.

55,268. Did you come to the conclusion that you would become a candidate for Totnes in the Conservative interest ?—Yes.

55,269. Did you take any steps about getting an interest in the borough, about getting land ?—Not then.

55,270. Did you appoint Mr. Edmonds your agent ?—Yes.

55,271. Did you give him a salary ?—Not then.

55,272. Did you give anything to the Conservative registration ?—I gave 150*l.* to be spent on charities and the registration.

55,273. Did you pay 150*l.* ?—I paid 150*l.* when I first went to Totnes.

55,274. To whom did you pay ?—To Mr. Edmonds.

55,275. Did you ever have any account of the way in which 150*l.* was expended ?—No.

55,276. Did you ever inquire ?—No, I was told for back expenses, they did not say what.

55,277. You never asked ?—No.

55,278. Can you say what time of the year it was you paid this money to Mr. Edmonds ?—The end of September or the beginning of October.

55,279. Is that the only sum you have paid ?—Yes. When I went to Bowden I promised to give a salary of 50*l.* to Mr. Edmonds, and I promised to give Harris 25*l.*

55,280. Had you seen Harris ?—I was told he was the man who worked the place, and I was recommended by Mr. Bryett to see him and speak to him.

55,281. You gave Mr. Edmonds a salary of 50*l.* ?—Yes.

55,282. Was that for his services only ?—Yes; the whole arrangement with the committee was broken up, and I never paid any money at all.

55,283. Did you ever pay, except 50*l.* to Mr. Edmonds, besides the 150*l.* ?—25*l.* to Harris, and some money to charities, about 30*l.*

55,284. Did you have an account of the money expended ?—Yes.

55,285. Was it expended in charities ?—Yes; it was principally money given to the poor people in the town.

55,286. Besides that you did not spend any other money ?—I think 10*l.* to Harris Harris was to have a salary afterwards.

55,287. That is when you became the owner of the land ?—Yes.

55,288. You raised Harris's salary ?—Yes.

55,289. When did you first hold your meeting ?—There was a meeting in the early part of September 1861; but the general meeting was not held, in the "Seven Stars," till the beginning of October.

55,290. Did you speak at that meeting ?—Yes.

55,291. Did you suggest that the first step to be taken towards winning the parliamentary elections was to win the elections in the Council ?—Yes.

55,292. And you suggested how those elections might be won ?—No; but I considered that if they had an organization in the borough it might ultimately carry the parliamentary election.

55,293. Did you know that your advice was taken, and that they did work to secure the seats in the Council ?—They did, particularly Harris.

55,294. You have no doubt that the 150*l.* went to secure them ?—They did not secure them, but they went to work afterwards and they did not have any money afterwards. They paid great attention afterwards, and they carried them pretty well as they liked.

55,295. Did you make inquiries at that time into the particular way in which the constituency was qualified to vote, the peculiar qualifications on which they voted ?—The faggot votes ?

55,296. Yes.—Not then; I did not begin to look into the affairs of the borough till 1862.

55,297. Then being a quasi resident in the borough you paid more attention to it ?—Yes.

55,298. At any time did you conceive that even one Conservative could be returned without bribery ?—I thought if you got sufficient interest in the town by acquiring land, and not coming down at the last moment, very likely we should return one and one. If there was a fight of course bribery would be resorted to. It was my interest to secure that position.

55,299. Was it at your instigation that Sir John Rennie took Bowden ?—Yes.

55,300. For the purpose of making yourself acquainted with Totnes ?—Yes.

55,301. You thought only by a compromise a Conservative might come in ?—Yes.

55,302. If there was a fight there would be bribery ?—Yes; if there was a fight I believe there would be bribery.

55,303. When did you first become the lessee of the land which originally belonged to Mr. Dent ?—Mr. Dent's second election was in 1863; it was in Midsummer. He was going to do great things, but Mr. Mitchell got disgusted and threw it up, and he said he would let it by auction unless I took it. I thought there was a chance if those votes were made of counteracting the influence of the Duke of Somerset, and I took the land and allowed the people to make the votes. But it was not to be considered that I should stand myself. There was a distinct understanding that it was simply to allow them to counteract the duke's faggot votes.

55,304. What quantity of land did you take ?—Part within the parish of Dartington, and part in Totnes parish, and Broomborough, perhaps 150 acres in the whole.

55,305. Can you tell me how many votes at the time you took it were upon that property ?—I think the company was formed about 50.

55,306. At the time you took it did you know how many voters there were upon the land ?—I believe none.

55,307. Were there buildings on the property ?—Not one in each field, but there was a homestead and farmyard sufficient for it.

55,308. A homestead sufficient to qualify the company ?—Yes.

55,309. What rent did you give ?—575*l.*

55,310. Was that the value ?—It was supposed so.

55,311. Mr. Harris said you got it 60*l.* a year

FORTY-THIRD DAY.

Mr. C. C. Rennie.

23 Nov. 1866.

cheaper ?—Yes, but even then the rent was more than it was worth.

55,312. A land valuer would not give it ?—No.

55,313. You got that land to get as many votes as possible ?—Yes, I was told that was what the rent would fetch, I did not know.

55,314. Can you tell us how many acres there were ?—I cannot say, about 150 altogether.

55,315. (Mr. Coleridge.) How many houses were there ?—There was one house, but that is let.

55,316. Did you think the land was worth about 4*l.* an acre ?—Yes, I think so.

55,317. Was it all grass ?—Yes.

55,318. It was accommodation land ?—Yes, it was very good land too.

55,319. (Mr. Bere.) When did you give up that land ?—I gave it up at Christmas 1864.

55,320. What was the reason ?—I found that these votes had not been qualified, and there was no chance of the qualification before the election ; it did not pay, and I did not want to be troubled with it any longer ; Mr. Dent said he would take it, and I gave it up.

55,321. You paid the registration expenses of 1861 ?—No, 1862.

55,322. And 1863, Mr. Macleay ?—No, I paid it myself.

55,323. How much did you pay ?—Mr. Hockin 20 guineas, and Mr. Dawe 20 guineas, and their expenses backwards and forwards, and the hotel bill ; I think 63*l.* altogether.

55,324. That you paid yourself ?—Yes.

55,325. You have the items rendered to you ?—Yes.

55,326. Can you supply them ?—I have no account. It was simply that they had 20 guineas each, and the hotel bill, and travelling expenses.

55,327. Was it in Christmas 1864 that you gave up the idea of standing for Totnes ?—I gave it up when Mr. Dent first went down, in December 1862.

55,328. What made you continue to pay the registration expenses of 1863 ?—Because I had been a candidate before, and I thought if the thing could be carried I did not mind paying a little for it.

55,329. Did not you find that a considerable sum of money found its way into the Conservative pockets ?—I heard that Mr. Mitchell said that at the first election Mr. Dent spent 1,000*l.*, and the second 6,000*l.* When I was at Totnes, when Mr. Dent was standing at the first election, I heard there was a general report that Mr. Dent would spend 4,000*l.* and would be prepared to go further.

55,330. You did not know anything about Mr. Dent's affairs ?—No ; I said, If you get in you may stay as long as you like ; Mr. Mitchell gave a flaming account of it, and Mr. Dent went down.

55,331. You had given up the notion of standing when Mr. Dent came down ?—I thought I should not stand, but I thought the seat could be carried.

55,332. Were you there during the election of 1863 ?—No.

55,333. In 1865 ?—No.

55,334. Although you did not stand you were consulted about the candidates for the Conservative party ?—They were always writing to me.

55,335. Did you ever find them a candidate ?—No ; I had taken the land, and although I had it I did not want to pay the registration expenses, and I wrote once or twice to Spofforth, saying if they could get a man who would work up the borough probably he might come in. He did find me a candidate, at least Mr. Smith saw me, and told me that Mr. Macleay was thinking of standing. I gave him a copy of the rate books, and I told him when I paid it, and that showed a majority of five or six, after Mr. Dent's election ; but if the new claims were carried out it would give us a majority of 30, and if he liked to fight it would cost him 200*l.* or 300*l.* If he won it would cost him very little, and if he lost he would be harmless. He went down and declined to stand.

55,336. Had you gone to Mr. Henry Smith, or had he come to you ?—He wrote to me.

55,337. Had you known him before ?—Yes.

55,338. He knew you were interested in Totnes ?—Yes.

55,339. How long were you living at Bowden ?—I was there a year. After Mr. Dent stood I gave it up, and there was no object in keeping on the house.

55,340. After Mr. Macleay refused to stand were you consulted again about a candidate ?—They were constantly writing to me about it.

55,341. Did you procure one ?—No, I was not the local agent and did not.

55,342. Did not you even suggest one ?—No, I could not have recommended anyone.

55,343. Do you remember Mr. Harris coming to you in 1865 in London ?—Yes.

55,344. Did you go with him to Mr. Spofforth ?—Yes.

55,345. What happened at that interview ?—I think it was about Mr. Potter, the chairman of the Great Western. Harris had an idea that he was determined to stand for Totnes. I said, If you think that you had better go and see Mr. Spofforth, and I took him over.

55,346. In what language did you introduce Mr. Harris ?—I said to Mr. Spofforth that he was my agent.

55,347. Did he make any inquiries as to what he was ?—Yes, he asked me several times, and I said I did not know.

55,348. Did you tell him he was a man of importance and distinction ?—No, I did not say he was a man of position, but I said he was a clever fellow.

55,349. Were you surprised at his letters ?—Yes, I was rather.

55,350. Did you tell Mr. Spofforth that he was a dissenting preacher ?—Yes, I think so. I might have said he was a man of importance, because he was of great use.

55,351. How long did that interview last ?—I think five or ten minutes.

55,352. Was that all you had to do with the election of 1865 ?—Yes.

55,353. Did you happen to be in Mr. Spofforth's office before the general election ?—I am not certain. He asked me the state of the register, and I said we had a majority of eight or ten.

55,354. When did Mr. Spofforth ask you that ?—I forget.

55,355. Some time before the general election had you gone to his office, or did he meet you accidentally ?—I do not know.

55,356. Was there some meeting that you had with Mr. Spofforth when Mr. F. Smith was present ?—Yes.

55,357. When was that ?—Two or three days before the election.

55,358. Where was that ?—In Mr. Spofforth's office. I was introduced, and after that Mr. Spofforth left the room, and I asked Mr. Smith how he was getting on, and he showed me the poll-book, I think with a majority of 30 for the first Conservative, and 18 for Captain Pim. I said that was all nonsense, they might have ten or twelve ; I said they were disorganized and they did not work well, and that he must be careful what he did, and if he went in to win he must spend any amount of money, that I could not advise it myself, and had never advised anybody to go.

55,359. Is that all you have had to do with the borough of Totnes ?—That is all.

55,360. You were down at the election of 1862 ?—Yes.

55,361. Did you hear Mr. John Heath make a speech outside the "Seven Stars" ?—Yes, I did.

55,362. From the top of the carriage in which Mr. Dent was brought from the station ?—Yes, to a large crowd.

55,363. What did Mr. John Heath say ?—He said various things, and concluded by saying, "We have "got the ammunition."

55,364. (Mr. Longe.) When you went down did you find any persons besides the Duke of Somerset who held houses in Totnes, to command votes ?—

Mr. Edmonds of Bowden and Mr. Phillips had various properties which would command votes, but which could not be made use of. The only person was Mr. Durant of Sharpham, he had five or six fields.

55,365. The houses and shops in the town, did you find that those voters were independent?—I did not think there was much pressure on the townspeople.

55,366. Was there any person who could put on a pressure except the duke?—If one man happened to owe to another man money he came down upon him, and he was obliged to vote.

55,367. Not landlords?—No.

55,368. (Mr. Bere.) It was the same system that the duke applied that Mr. Durant applied to his tenants?—Yes, but there are no large proprietors of houses there.

55,369. Your tenants; it was understood which way they would vote?—Yes, they were put on for the purpose, and I believe the duke's were put on in the same way.

55,370. You cannot tell us who the tenants were, what fields they had, and buildings on them, at the time you took them?—No, it was all accommodation land, taken by the people in the town.

55,371. There are no letters that will throw any light upon the subject?—No.

55,372. No communications from Mr. Edmonds or Mr. Harris?—No.

Mr. William Henry Oldrey sworn and examined.

Mr. W. H. Oldrey

55,373. (Mr. Bere.) Are you connected with the Conservative registration for West Kent?—Yes.

55,374. Were you at one time in the employment of Mr. Henry Smith, of Norfolk Street?—Yes.

55,375. When did you first enter into that employment?—In the month of March 1861.

55,376. Had you previous to that been living at Totnes?—Yes.

55,377. All your life?—I think with the exception of while I was with Stamp and Coleridge at Honiton.

55,378. Had you ever yourself a vote for Totnes?—No.

55,379. You knew a great deal about what was going on?—Yes, living in the place I did.

55,380. Were you a Conservative or a Liberal?—Oh, a Conservative certainly.

55,381. Did you have anything to do with the election of 1857, Mr. Dunn's election?—I acted as poll clerk I think.

55,382. Were you employed in any other way?—No.

55,383. Did you receive payment for your services?—I think one guinea.

55,384. Did you canvass anybody?—No.

55,385. In 1862 had you anything to do with Mr. Pender in Dent's election?—No, I had left then.

55,386. Did Mr. Henry Smith know anything about it?—Not a word.

55,387. You had communication from Totnes?—Just from my friends to say how he was getting on.

55,388. When had you first anything to do with Totnes after you left?—I think it was in March or April 1864. I think Mr. Robert Harris came to London and called at Norfolk Street to ask me to go and see Mr. Potter, and ask him if he would stand for the borough. We saw him, and after a great deal of conversation he asked to be furnished with a copy of the poll-book, the last poll-book, and a copy of the register, and with a statement of how the borough stood. Mr. Harris promised to furnish me with these particulars, and Potter requested that it should be sent to me, and I was to hand them to Mr. Potter, and I saw him with those papers.

55,389. Who sent them?—Mr. Harris.

55,390. Is this the paper he sent you (referring to a paper)?—I think it is.

55,391. This is an account of the state of the parties at Totnes?—It was a similar statement.

55,392. You took that to Mr. Potter?—Yes.

55,393. What did he say?—I do not know whether I saw him; I afterwards saw him and asked what he intended to do, and if he had gone through the papers. He asked me what the probable cost would be, and what it had cost Mr. Dunn. I then saw Mr. Potter again and said it would be between 2,000*l.* and 3,000*l.*

55,394. Did you go to see Mr. Cameron?—Yes, I knew Mr. Cameron for many years, and I said, "What did it cost Mr. Dunn to fight Totnes," and he said, "Between 2,000*l.* and 3,000*l.* That is all the conversation I had with him.

55,395. You did not ask for any particulars as to how that money had been spent?—No.

55,396. You knew it had been spent in bribery?—Yes.

55,397. You said it would cost between 2,000*l.* and 3,000*l.*?—Yes.

55,398. That ended your negotiations with Mr. Potter?—Yes.

55,399. Do you happen to know Mr. Harris did not consider that answer decisive, and renewed negotiations?—I heard so.

55,400. Between your interview with him and Mr. Harris renewing negotiations Mr. Macleay had come upon the scene?—Yes.

55,401. You heard what Mr. Smith said, is that correct, that statement?—Yes, it was, I had a great deal to do with it.

55,402. In your opinion was the real cause of the opposition of the parties at Totnes a true Conservative feeling, or opposition to the Duke of Somerset?—I think a true Conservative feeling, no doubt about it.

55,403. Can you estimate the number of people influenced by that true Conservative feeling, because we have heard a great many say, supposing the Duke of Somerset had been Conservative, they would be Liberals, from a feeling of antagonism to the duke, and nothing else; you think it was not so?—No.

55,404. That is all you know about it?—Yes.

55,405. You saw Mr. Cameron when he was down there in 1859?—Yes.

55,406. There was a man called Snell there?—Yes, but Cameron says he was not employed by him.

55,407. Was there a man called Higgins?—I do not know.

55,408. Had you seen Snell in Totnes before?—Never.

55,409. Do you remember, in the election of 1852, a man coming down, a stranger, with Mr. Mills?—I was only 12 years of age then.

55,410. What was Cameron doing there in 1859?—He was there solicitor for Mr. Dunn.

55,411. Had Mr. Edmonds acted then?—It was Mr. Bryett and Mr. Kellock.

55,412. Did plenty of money go then?—I cannot say.

55,413. Did plenty of money go on the other side?—I do not know.

Adjourned till Monday, at 12 o'clock.

FORTY-FOURTH DAY.

FORTY-FOURTH DAY.

Monday, 26th November 1866.

Mr. D. E. Cameron.

26 Nov. 1866.

Mr. Dugald Edward Cameron sworn and examined.

55,414. (Mr. Bere.) Are you a member of the firm of Julius and Cameron?—Of the late firm.

55,415. Was it the firm of Julius and Cameron in 1859?—In 1858.

55,416. When did you first become acquainted with Mr. Dunn?—In 1858.

55,417. Had he come to you as a client?—No, I was opposed to him in a matter connected with a divorce case.

55,418. Private matters?—Yes.

55,419. And he then made your acquaintance?—Yes, he made my acquaintance also in consequence of my firm being connected with Australian agencies.

55,420. Had he employed you in any business in 1859?—Not in any.

55,421. Had he expressed a wish to you to go into parliament?—Not before the occasion on which he said he had been solicited.

55,422. Did he tell you from whom the solicitation had come?—He said from three places, and he said there was a deputation waiting in town from Totnes.

55,423. Did he give you the names of the other places?—Reading, and Plymouth, and Totnes.

55,424. Did he ask you your advice as to which of those places he should go to?—He did.

55,425. Which did you recommend him to go to?—I first before I recommended any course accompanied him to this deputation.

55,426. Who were the members of the deputation?—I only recollect one gentleman, and that was Mr. Edmonds.

55,427. That is the solicitor of Totnes?—Yes.

55,428. How many members of the deputation were there?—Perhaps two or three.

55,429. Where did you see them?—At Messrs. Baxter, Rose.

55,430. At Mr. Spofforth's?—I did not know at that time.

55,431. Was he present?—No, the only gentleman I saw was Mr. Rose.

55,432. What passed at that interview?—A communication was made to Mr. Dunn, to ask whether he would stand, and questions were asked as to the probable expense.

55,433. Who asked that, did Mr. Dunn, or you?—Mr. Dunn.

55,434. Who answered you on that subject?—Mr. Edmonds.

55,435. What did Mr. Edmonds say the probable expense would be?—1,500*l.* or 2,000*l.*

55,436. Did you inquire of Mr. Edmonds how much would be required for the retaining fees of solicitors?—I did not interfere particularly with the matter.

55,437. Had you been connected with electioneering matters before?—Not till that period, but it so happened I was in others that year, and I have subsequently, but not before.

55,438. On hearing that 1,500*l.* or 2,000*l.* would be required did Mr. Dunn consent to give that?—After some considerable time Mr. Dunn said he would not exceed 2,000*l.*

55,439. After that inquiry did he say he would stand?—No; I recollect suggesting to Mr. Edmonds that before Mr. Dunn should make his appearance there should be a requisition sent to him from Totnes, that he might gather what the feeling was.

55,440. Can you say what time of the year that was in 1859?—That would be April the 9th.

55,441. Was that all that passed at that interview, or was there a poll-book produced, or an estimate of what the contest might be expected to be?—Not that I recollect.

55,442. Eventually did you go with Mr. Dunn to Totnes?—I went with Mr. Dunn, two or three gentlemen, and Mrs. Dunn.

55,443. Who went with you then?—Mr. Phipps, a brother-in-law, and Mrs. Dunn, myself, and another gentleman, a friend of theirs.

55,444. You all went to Totnes together?—Yes.

55,445. How long did you stay there yourself?—I stayed from the 12th, I believe for nine days.

55,446. Did you go with Mr. Dunn to Totnes?—That was my object.

55,447. At that time did you know whether Mr. Dunn had any money with him?—I believe he had money.

55,448. Did you know how he brought that money?—No, I did not.

55,449. After you had been there nine days did you leave?—I left.

55,450. How long did you stay away from Totnes?—Until I was telegraphed for by Mr. Dunn to return.

55,451. Was that three or four days after?—Two or three days.

55,452. Then you returned to Totnes?—Yes.

55,453. Did you take any money with you?—Yes, I took a cheque.

55,454. Your own cheque?—No, from the firm of Brown, Dunn, and Salmon.

55,455. That was a firm of which Mr. Dunn was a member?—Yes.

55,456. What was the amount of the cheque?—I think 1,000*l.*

55,457. Who paid that cheque to you?—Mr. Salmon.

55,458. Is Mr. Salmon alive?—I believe he is, but I do not think that he is in this country, he is in Australia. The firm has broken up.

55,459. What did you do with the cheque?—I did not take the cheque in my hand, it was a letter directed to him.

55,460. It was a cheque in the envelope?—Yes, and I had reason to believe it was for 1,000*l.*

55,461. What did you do with that?—I gave it to Mr. Dunn.

55,462. Do you know on what bank that cheque was?—I believe it was paid into the Teignmouth bank.

55,463. Not at Totnes?—No.

55,464. Do you know what bank at Teignmouth?—Yes, Watts and Company, I think.

55,465. Do you know who procured the cash for that cheque?—No, I do not.

55,466. Then you got there some few days before the election, did you?—Yes, it would be.

55,467. Did you take upon yourself the management of the election?—No, I refrained myself from the management. I felt myself incompetent.

55,468. Who did?—Mr. Edmonds, Mr. Bryett, and Mr. Kellock.

55,469. In what room of the "Seven Stars" did they conduct the business of the election?—I am afraid I cannot say.

55,470. Have you been to Totnes since that?—I have.

55,471. Do you remember whether it was the room with the large bow window projecting into the street?—It was upstairs, and I think on the left-hand side of the staircase, and on the right-hand side there was a room where Mr. Dunn generally dined.

55,472. Do you happen to remember a small room at the top of the staircase which is lighted from the house itself, and there is no window out into the open air?—I think I do recollect something of that.

55,473. Who used to sit there?—I do not know. I think there was somebody there.

55,474. Who was that somebody; was there a man named Higgins?—I believe it was Higgins, but he went by the name of Mum. Mum was his avowed name, but I think his name was Higgins.

55,475. He came down in the course of that inquiry?—Yes.

55,476. Was Snell down there?—Yes. He came from some part of Devonshire I think.

55,477. He said he came from Ulverston, I think, and he said he was given a certain quantity of money to disburse?—I believe so.

55,478. Had you anything to do with the giving him that money?—He has avowed so, but I do not think I had, I believe the money came from Mr. Heath.

55,479. You cannot tell how you got that cheque cashed. Do you know what became of the money?—Some went to Mr. Bryett, some to Mr. Edmonds, but principally to Mr. John Heath.

55,480. Who went from Totnes to Teignmouth to cash that cheque?—I do not know.

55,481. Did you ever see the money that was procured by that cheque?—No.

55,482. You never did?—No.

55,483. You did not know whether it was in notes or gold?—No.

55,484. How much more money did Mr. Dunn obtain before the election was over?—I do not know that he had any more, I believe not.

55,485. Is that the only sum of money you believe, as far as you know, that was spent at that time?—Yes, what he took down, and the 1,000*l.*

55,486. Did he ever tell you what he took down?—No, but I think it was about 800*l.*

55,487. What made you think that?—He said something to me going down in the carriage, what he expected they wanted, but he meant to try and feel his way first. He was not sweet upon the place, and I should not have been surprised if he came away altogether.

55,488. You entered into calculations as to the probable result of the election with Mr. Bryett and Mr. Edmonds?—Very little indeed. I happened to be at Totnes many years ago, and I did not feel myself justified, not knowing any of the Totnes people. I may say I was there when I was about six or seven years of age, and I knew nothing whatever about the Totnes voters and the gentlemen connected with the election. I trusted entirely to them; they were the agents employed.

55,489. Did not you have a poll-book made out, and did not you go through the poll-book and see what chance there was of winning the election?—Yes, there was a poll-book. I had one that was made out subsequently, I recollect, when Gifford and Mills were on one side and Mr. Dunn on the other.

55,490. Who gave you that book?—It was a printed book that I had from Mr. Edmonds. Mr. Edmonds I particularly communicated with.

55,491. Did that show you a majority for Duun over Mills?—I think it did.

55,492. Did you see what amount?—A very small amount, not more than six, seven, or eight.

55,493. Up to the day of the election did you think that Mr. Dunn would get in?—I thought he would, that was my belief, according to the statements that were made. I relied upon what I was told.

55,494. Did you think he would get in without bribery?—I believed there was bribery.

55,495. Did you yourself see any money pass?—Not on any occasion.

55,496. Where did you principally stay?—I was going about with Mr. Dunn canvassing. He felt as if he must have me at his right hand. He said he would not go unless I went; I rather objected because I did not wish to leave London.

55,497. You used to go about canvassing with him?—Yes.

55,498. Did you find the voters promised their votes readily?—In Totnes, not in Bridgetown.

55,499. Did you yourself see Mr. Higgins?—Yes, I saw him.

55,500. Was he paid afterwards by Mr. Dunn?—I believe he was paid, but I do not know whom by; he came to me after the election was over to claim a balance, and I never saw him afterwards.

55,501. Did you pay him the balance?—No.

55,502. What balance did he claim?—I do not know whether he said any amount, whether 6*l.* or 8*l.*, I do not know.

55,503. Did Mr. Higgins ever tell you how much money he had had in his hands?—I am afraid to say, I think it was 400*l.* or 600*l.*

55,504. In the middle of the day the election was lost, virtually gone?—Yes; there were other voters that Mr. Dunn could have brought up, but even they would not be sufficient to give him a majority, and they were not pressed.

55,505. Did you find that many men who promised their votes for you voted against you?—Yes, there were several, and one in particular, I do not recollect his name, a butcher, was very sanguine in Mr. Dunn's behalf, and voted against us.

55,506. What was his name, Willis?—I do not know, but he expressed himself about Mr. Dunn, saying that he had taken stock of him and he was just the man for the place.

55,507. I believe Snell afterwards brought an action against Mr. Dunn?—He did.

55,508. That action was compromised by 25*l.*?—Yes, upon delivering up all the papers, which he intimated were some of them in my handwriting.

55,509. What were they?—Theywere pencil marks, but when I got them they were not in my handwriting.

55,510. Have you those?—I think they were given to Mr. Dunn or torn up.

55,511. (Mr. Coleridge.) How long has Mr. Dunn been dead?—He was in the House of Commons one session, in 1860 he got in for Dartmouth, and he wrote to me from Marseilles, he was going to Hobart Town; it was the Saturday prior to the 29th of January, and he died in 1861 on board the vessel. I believe his matters had got into a little difficulty, and his father was over there, manager of the bank.

55,512. Was the firm Brown, Dunn, and Salmon?—Yes.

55,513. Had you anything to do with the council elections?—Something.

55,514. Did Mr. Heath send in separate charges besides that paid by the election auditor?—Yes, he sent in a separate bill.

55,515. Have you got that bill?—I handed it to the secretary.

55,516. Who were employed actually at that election by Mr. Dunn?—Mr. Edmonds, Mr. Bryett, and Mr. Kellock.

55,517. Do you know anything about Frederick Evens?—I do not know the name.

55,518. Did you hear the name of John Sandford Screach?—I do not know, they have become familiar to me by looking at the paper.

55,519. You recollect Evens?—I recollect one, there was a jeweller.

55,520. That is Evan Evens?—Yes.

55,521. There was Mr. John Heath, and which of the young Heaths?—I do not recollect anyone except the father, and the young one who drove about.

55,522. Do you recollect Mr. Heath, junior, the auctioneer?—No.

55,523. Mr. John Heath's bill in the auditor's account is 102*l.* 5*s.* 3*d.*?—But the other bill was upwards of 220*l.*

55,524. Plus that?—I wish I could refer to it, I think the bills were in the aggregate 220*l.* There was a separate bill for the committee, a separate bill for the servants, and a separate bill for Mr. Dunn.

FORTY-FOURTH DAY.

Mr. D. E. Cameron.

26 Nov. 1866.

55,525. They were all paid?—Yes, after considerable discussion.

55,526. Assuming that Mr. Dunn took down 800*l.* and you 1,000*l.*, what sum did he further expend? That did not include the election auditor's bill?—I think it did.

55,527. (Mr. Bere.) That is the election auditor's account (referring)?—I had it with me, it was sent up to me.

55,528. It was not paid out of the 1,800*l.*?—No.

55,529. Did you pay this?—No; Mr. Dunn I think.

55,530. Did you pay this by cheque?—The only cheque paid me was to pay Mr. Snell's accounts, and the damages.

55,531. The damages were 25*l.*, and the accounts were what?—70*l.* or 80*l.*

55,532. Mr. John Heath's bills were 220*l.*?—Yes, the three bills.

55,533. Is that all Mr. Dunn paid?—No, I think there was a bill, Mr. Higgins'.

55,534. Do you know how much he paid of that?—4*l.* or 5*l.*

55,535. That would make in round numbers about 2,400*l.* it had cost Mr. Dunn?—I do not know that it exceeded 2,000*l.*

55,536. If that bill was not paid out of the 1,800*l.* it would considerably exceed 2,000*l.*?—I think that bill must have been paid at Totnes, and there was a balance due to Mr. Edmonds of 25*l.*

55,537. Did Mr. Edmonds account for any money?—He accounted for some.

55,538. And in fact according to your idea this sum comes within the 1,800*l.*, or out of the 1,800*l.*?—Yes.

55,539. How did you go to get at this 1,000*l.* cheque?—Mr. Dunn gave me a note.

55,540. Where did Mr. Dunn give you a note?—At Totnes.

55,541. Had Mr. Dunn told you that more money was wanted for the election?—Yes.

55,542. You knew that he had 800*l.* down with him?—Yes, he calculated it would cost 2,000*l.*, but he took only a limited sum down, not making up his own mind whether he would go to the poll or not; when he had hopes of success he wrote up to his partners for the other.

55,543. Did you take the note yourself to the office of Brown, Dunn, and Salmon?—Yes.

55,544. Did you see what was put into the envelope?—No; I believe it was a 1,000*l.* note.

55,545. I suppose you had not much doubt what the 1,000*l.* was to be used for?—I could not believe that it was for legal expenses.

55,546. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had you anything to do with electioneering before?—No.

55,547. (Mr. Bere.) You cannot give us any account how the cheque was cashed?—I believe that Mr. Dunn drew upon it.

55,548. Paid it into Watt's bank and drew it out?—Yes.

55,549. (Mr. Coleridge.) Mrs. Dunn was very active in canvassing?—Yes, and she was a very successful canvasser.

55,550. (Mr. Bere.) Her orders were very large?—There were large orders to drapers, I think, in one case.

55,551. And Captain Phipps was very active?—Yes.

55,552. Was Mrs. Dunn Mr. Dunn's executrix?—Yes, there was a suit to administer his estate.

55,553. (Mr. Coleridge.) How came you to go down if you were not the regular solicitor of Mr. Dunn?—I do not know, he took some fancy to me.

55,554. He thought you would be a useful person?—I was the trustee of his former wife.

55,555. You went down specially in this matter, not as his usual solicitor?—Yes.

55,556. Was there any arrangement made?—I said if I left town I could not go under 10 guineas a day.

55,557. Did you ever get it?—No, I proved it in chancery, but I never got it.

55,558. Do you know who sent this man Higgins down?—No.

55,559. Seeing a stranger there did you ask about him?—No.

55,560. Did you have any conversation with Mr. John Heath about him?—No.

55,561. Seeing a stranger there did you ask?—No, he said there must be somebody there.

55,562. Did he tell you that before he came?—Yes.

55,563. Do you recollect when Mr. Higgins did come?—Three or four days before the election.

55,564. How long before the election was it Mr. John Heath told you that some one must come down?—It is difficult to say.

55,565. When did he tell you that someone must come. Did you tell him that he must get a person, or how was it?—I did not answer one way or the other.

55,566. Did you not give him any answer about a stranger being there?—No.

55,567. Do you know where he came from?—My idea was that he came from Devonport.

55,568. How long is it since you have seen him?—I have never seen him since except on one occasion when he called upon me for a balance of account, that was in 1860.

55,569. What sort of a looking man is he?—I think he was marked with the small pox.

55,570. Do you know at all what he was by trade or profession?—No.

55,571. Who sent Snell down, do you know?—No; Snell came there, I saw him first talking to Mr. Heath in the bar parlour, and Mr. Heath introduced me to him as a person who knew Totnes and who was zealous in the Conservative cause.

55,572. Did you see Snell and Higgins together?—No.

55,573. Did Snell stay in the "Seven Stars"?—Yes.

55,574. You say you believed Mr. Heath had the money, who gave him the money?—I believe Mr. Dunn or Mr. Bryett.

55,575. Do you know whether it came through Mr. Bryett or not?—I do not; Mr. Bryett or Mr. Edmonds.

55,576. Did you ever give him any money yourself?—I believe not.

55,577. Do you recollect whether there was any sum that you gave Mr. Heath before or after that election not for his bill?—I believe he had 2,000*l.* on account of his bill.

55,578. When did he have that?—When first the election was going on.

55,579. Before the actual polling?—Yes.

55,580. And before his bill was made out?—He might have made it out.

55,581. How did you give him the 200*l.*?—I do not think I gave it to him, but he had 200*l.*

55,582. Who gave it to him?—Mr. Dunn.

55,583. Did you ever give him any money yourself during the election?—I believe I was present when the money was given to him by Mr. Dunn.

55,584. Was it given by cheque or cash?—I cannot tell you.

55,585. What did you put the expenses of the election at, Mr. Dunn's expenses, legal and illegal altogether?—I put them at under 2,000*l.*

55,586. While there did you come across the other party to know what they were spending?—Not in the least.

55,587. Did you attend the committee room at all on your own side?—The committee hardly ever met but I used to see them.

55,588. I suppose Mr. John Heath or Mr. Edmonds intimated that money was going on the other side?—I believe so.

55,589. Was it in consequence of their saying so much money was going on the other side, Mr. Mills' side, that they wanted 1,000*l.* extra?—No; if Mr. Dunn went to the poll he calculated he would have to spend 1,000*l.* more.

55,590. You did not know of any other money coming to you?—No.

55,591. Do you know of Mrs. Dunn having any money down?—No, I believe not.

FORTY-FOURTH DAY.

Mr. D. E. Cameron

26 Nov. 1866

Mr. W. R. Drake.

Mr. William Richard Drake recalled and further examined.

55,592. (Mr. Bere.) Do you know a Robert R. Moore, a barrister?—Yes, I did know him.

55,593. What was he?—He was a barrister, and he was lecturer of the Anti-Corn-Law League. I think that was his origin.

55,594. Used he to go about assisting Liberal members to make their speeches?—That was very much his occupation.

55,595. He was sent down with two or three Liberal members at various times in order to help them at their canvassing?—Yes, I fancy that was so. I know he did go in that way.

55,596. Do you know his handwriting?—Yes.

55,597. Is that his handwriting (referring)?—Yes.

55,598. Will you explain this passage: "I have "recently had two very satisfactory interviews with "Brand, and yesterday and the day before saw Drake "and went very fully into matters with him, and I "believe without further delay both my own affairs "and the manner of my assistance as regards elections, "will be practically settled"?—The poor man was very much involved, and he was anxious to have his services secured generally, for the purpose of going down with members and making himself useful, and making speeches and that kind of thing. He explained to me that he was much involved indeed, and that there were some executions out against him, and I endeavoured at the time to see whether some arrangement could not be made for getting a composition subscribed, and enable him to pay his debts.

55,599. Who were they that did subscribe for that purpose?—Nobody did subscribe. I think my friend Mr. Pender said he would give a small sum, and I am not sure who else; but it failed because we could not get the people to take a composition.

55,600. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did he ever make another suggestion of how he might be paid for his political services through the aid of your firm?—I think my impression is that upon one or two occasions I have paid him. I have given him small sums of money.

55,601. Did he ever suggest to you that he might be paid through other business, that you might give him briefs in private committees to pay him for his political services?—No, never.

55,602. There is a letter in which he suggests to Mr. Pender that that might be done. Was that brought to your notice?—No, if it had been I should have kicked the fellow out of the place.

55,603. I think the effect of the letter is (we cannot find it at present) that "Mr. Drake wants everything "for himself, and will not do anything for me. He "might do everything I want if he would give me "three or four briefs in private committees"?—I should like to see the letter, and should like to be allowed to refer to a question and answer in my examination which, as they stand upon the notes, will convey a misapprehension as to what I intended to say.

55,604. (Mr. Bere.) What is that?—It is this: The Commissioners ask me as to my knowledge of the existence of a supposed fund for assisting Liberal members at the time of the general election. I replied by saying I had no personal knowledge on the subject. The chairman then put this to me, "You mean by "'no personal knowledge' you had not the adminis-"tration of the fund." I reply, "That is so." That is strictly accurate. But upon the minutes there is this upon the note that I have seen of it. You say, "No money passed through your hands or into your "hands?" And my reply is, "No money passed into "my hands." What I meant to convey was, that no such fund as you indicated passed into my hands for distribution. I did not mean you to understand that at the general election, where I conducted the general business of it, no money did pass into my hands; but no fund passed into my hand for distribution.

55,605. No money passed from the fund which existed at the Reform Club or Brooks's?—I have no personal knowledge of any fund; but when you ask me, "Did any money pass through your hands?" I accepted it as meaning money for the purpose of distribution.

55,606. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you mean you did receive sums of money for individual elections, but that you had no general sum of money at your disposal to dole out here and there as you required?—I had no general fund in that way to administer.

55,607. You had money in your hands?—Yes, because all the machinery in London for the election, which went on for several weeks, was met with funds handed to me.

55,608. Subscriptions of Liberal members and others?—Yes.

55,609. (Mr. Longe.) You were the recognized medium through whom the money could be got for special purposes?—No, not special purposes, for the purposes of the organization. I had a large staff of clerks and canvassers. There were considerable expenses for travelling and printing, and matters of that sort, disbursed out of the fund which was in my hands.

Yes; but in no single instance did money that came into my hands go directly or indirectly to Totnes, except the 500*l.*, and that was not the general election at all.

55,610. Was it the general purposes of the election or for the purposes in London, sending about?—Yes. I might have a letter from one place or another, and I had to send a messenger to make inquiries about the canvassing.

55,611. None of the money was in any way paid directly to the assistance of any one election?—I had simply to hand the money to A. B. or C. D.

55,612. For the general purposes, or the purposes of the election?—For the purposes of the separate elections probably.

55,613. (Mr. Longe.) In the case of an election, where the Liberal party wished the Liberal member to succeed, it would be the natural course to come to you for assistance?—Not to me individually. It would not be to come to me, I had nothing to do with money or the fund. There is a general fund for the purpose of meeting the legitimate expenses, but with the administration of the fund I have nothing to do.

55,614. (Mr. Coleridge.) Would Mr. Cooper?—No.

55,615. Take the legitimate expenses. If there was a man who could not afford to contest a county which he was the right man to be returned for, in that event the party would lend him some assistance?—Certainly, that is my impression.

55,616. (Mr. Longe.) You would not be the proper medium?—They would not come to me. That was done between the members themselves, the leaders of the party.

55,617. (Mr. Bere.) These are the questions and the answers: "Do I understand you to say you "did not know of any fund raised at any time by the "Liberal party for assisting that party in electioneer-"ing matters?—I have no personal knowledge on the "subject. Do you mean not for legitimate expenses? "—I have no personal knowledge. Do you mean "there may be such fund, but you are not the person "to administer it?—There may be such a fund, but "I have no personal knowledge. Since 1864 you "had nothing to do with it?—Not professionally. "There was no fund?—No, there was no fund "that I am aware of. There was no subscription

FORTY-FOURTH DAY.

Mr. W. R. Drake.

26 Nov. 1866.

"of any sort or kind?—No. No money passed "through your hand?—No"?—What I meant was that no money passed for purposes of distribution.

55,618. In Mr. Coppock's time he had larger powers?—Yes.

55,619. The matters are kept more distinct now?—Yes, I think so. I have had nothing to do with the one except incidentally. I knew little of the practice at that time. I think Mr. Coppock stood in a different position.

55,620. (Mr. Bere.) From whom would you get that 25*l.* that you gave to Mr. Moore?—I should prefer not saying from whom I would get the cheque. I know it had nothing to do with the Totnes election or any inquiry. I have no objection privately to inform you, not the least.

55,620*a*. It has a material bearing upon the existence of a fund or of the persons through whom you could get a Liberal agent rewarded?—I would undertake to do this. I could satisfy you in any way that there was no available source for Totnes. I will undertake to satisfy you of that in any way.

55,621. (Mr. Coleridge.) Anything you say as to this has no bearing on Mr. Seymour's election?—No.

55,622. There was no general election then, and the fund would have no existence?—No.

J. R. Mills, Esq., M.P.

JOHN R. MILLS, Esq., M.P., sworn and examined.

55,623. (Mr. Bere.) You are member for Wycombe?—Yes.

55,624. You are the brother of Mr. Thomas Mills, who was member for Totnes some time?—Yes.

55,625. Are you his executor?—Yes.

55,626. Can you give us any information as to any sums of money which he spent for the election of 1859?—I have his bankers book, which is the only account I have. There is February the 20th, 1859, 78*l.* 13*s.*; and July the 2nd, I find a payment to Mr. Tucker of 250*l.*

55,627. Is that the only entry you find relating to Totnes about that time. Are there not some large cheques to self at that time?—No, there is not one in the book. There is December the 1st, 1865, Totnes, 449*l.* 9*s.* 9*d.*

55,628. He first stood in 1859?—Yes, I think so.

55,629. Did you ever hear what that cost him?—Never.

55,630. Did you never hear generally from your brother what Totnes had cost him, from beginning to end?—No, I never asked and I never wished to know.

55,631. Was it because it was so much?—No, not at all, I never wished to know anything about it.

55,632. What would that be, "By J. R. M. 800*l.*"—J. R. M. is myself. We were constantly in the habit of exchanging cheques with each other.

55,633. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever send any money yourself to him for Totnes?—When at Totnes in 1857 he wrote to me for 500*l.*, that was about the 4th, and on the 14th he gave me the cheque back again.

55,634. Is that the only money you sent down?—Yes.

55,635. Was that the time he was at Totnes?—Yes.

55,636. Did anything of the same sort take place in 1859?—No.

55,637. (Mr. Bere.) There is "By Totnes organ, August 8th, 5*l.*"?—There are a few items.

55,638. Those are the only entries in 1859 and since that you have been able to find relative to Totnes?—Yes.

55,639. In 1857 there are some?—Yes; on February 6th there was a cheque I sent him for 500*l.*, which he returned to me, and it is credited on the other side on the 14th.

55,640. Did you send it in cash or in a cheque?—I paid it in London.

55,641. Was not that to Messrs. Green and Allin?—I do not know, I think it was in Throgmorton Street.

55,642. Would you say it was not Green and Allin?—No; it is many years ago now, and I had the money back on the 14th. Then there is March 28th, "Totnes 23*l.* 14*s.* 2*d.*" These were personal expenses. Then April 3rd there is 50*l.* to Tucker. Then July 1st, Tucker 85*l.*; I suppose that is Totnes. Then October 15th by Totnes 334*l.* 11*s.* 2*d.*

55,643. That is all with regard to 1857?—Yes.

55,644. Is there any entry in 1858?—There are two entries in 1858, Totnes 5*l.*, and Totnes 5*l.*

55,645. Between 1852 and 1857 what entries do you find?—1852, July 17, Totnes 100*l.* and 21*l.*; then on the 30th, Totnes school 10 guineas; January 1st, 1853, Totnes 250*l.*; August 18th, Totnes 390*l.* Those are all the items I can find.

55,646. You did not send any money in 1852?—No, not a penny.

55,647. You have omitted the most important item, there is, "By Totnes 700*l.* May 6th, 1852"?—I had not seen that before.

55,648. Do you know anything about the 22nd July, "By loan 700*l.*"?—No, I do not know, he might have lent it to me.

55,649. By Chaster, August 3rd, 10 guineas, by Huxham 14 guineas, by sundries 400*l.*, do you know any explanation of those?—No; but as he does not put any personal expenses in the book, 400*l.* would be easily accounted for.

55,650. "By cash" there is sometimes. Probably that means personal expenses?—Yes, probably.

55,651. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had your brother ever stood for any place besides Totnes?—I do not recollect.

55,652. He did not sit for any other place?—No.

55,653. Here is one item, "By Cuming, 1857, 105*l.*;" and do you know what this means, on the credit side of the account, "Totnes election balance 6*l.* 10*s.* 9*d.*"?—I know nothing more than what it tells you. I did see reading in the newspapers that same witness said the 500*l.* unaccounted for was overplus of my brother's election unpaid. I thought it was an impudent thing for any person to say. I am sure my brother did not leave anything unpaid.

55,654. Do you know who it was said that?—No; but I am sure it was not true.

55,655. I know what you allude to. It was back expenses?—Yes; but I am sure it was not the case with my brother, because he paid everything out of hand.

55,656. Do you know what first led to your brother coming to Totnes?—No, I do not know indeed.

55,657. He had no connexion with the place at all?—Not in the least.

55,658. He was not a Devonshire man?—No.

55,659. (Mr. Bere.) Can you give any explanation of that entry (referring), "W. W."?—No, I cannot.

55,660. This is all the explanation you can give?—Yes; I believe the system had not begun as it has been practised recently; whatever it was it was in a moderate way.

55,661. I do not know whether you have heard the evidence in 1859 that it cost Mr. Dunn more than 2,000*l.*, and as he was not successful it is assumed that Mr. Mills spent more?—I am quite sure he never did.

55,662. You do not know what it cost him?—No.

55,663. Mr. Pender requiring to see something, the answer was, "Mr. Mills never wanted to look at "any accounts at all, and we shall not show them "to you?"—Perhaps he was wise in that.

55,664. In 1859 there was a small sum spent according to the book, have you looked at it since that?—The last year there was a cheque of 45*l.*, no doubt paid for charities.

55,665. Nothing for registration expenses?—No.

55,666. According to the expenses altogether I should say they were roughly about 4,000*l.*?—I do not think it was much more. My brother had plenty of means, and whether he spent it in that way or any other it did not matter. It was no business of mine.

Mr. Percy Salmon sworn and examined.

55,667. (Mr. Bere.) Were you at any time Mr. Pender's private secretary?—I was.

55,668. When did you cease to be secretary?—I ceased at the time the London offices were opened. I then became manager of them.

55,669. When did you become secretary?—October 1863 was my first connexion with Mr. Pender.

55,670. Were you ever employed about the affairs of Totnes before the election of 1865?— Never, except once I was down at the time of the registration.

55,671. Which year was that?—December 1864.

55,672. September?—No, December.

55,673. It was not registration then?—Something of that; it was in 1864.

55,674. Had you gone down at Mr. Pender's request?—Yes.

55,675. Did you take any part in the registration yourself?—No.

55,676. What did you go down for?—Mr. Pender will tell you. I looked after the correspondence.

55,677. What did you look after?—The letters I suppose.

55,678. Was Mr. Pender there?—Yes.

55,679. For the registration?—I understood so, it was the end of November or December.

55,680. You were his private secretary and went to look after his correspondence?—Yes.

55,681. Nothing to do with the election?—Nothing.

55,682. It was not till 1865 that you had to do with election matters?—Yes.

55,683. Was your only connexion the getting money from the Consolidated Bank and bringing it to Mr. Chaster?—Yes.

55,684. Nothing else?—No.

55,685. You were not at Totnes during the time of the election?—Not at all.

55,686. Were you the bearer of a communication from a cousin of yours, Mr. George Salmon, about the compromise of the petition?—He hinted as much to me.

55,687. Was he concerned for Captain Pim?—No, not that I know of.

55,688. Did he tell you what authority he had for hinting at the compromise?—He told me no authority.

55,689. Did he mention any sum for which the compromise could be effected?—4,000*l.* or 5,000*l.*

55,690. Did he intimate from whom he had received instructions to mention such a sum as that?—He did not.

55,691. What did you do upon hearing that?—I mentioned it first to Mr. Pender.

55,692. What did Mr. Pender say to that?—He made no particular reply.

55,693. Did you mention it to anybody else?—To nobody till Mr. Drake called upon me respecting it.

55,694. Then you mentioned it to him?—He called upon me to speak to me about the compromise.

55,695. What did he say to you about it?—He asked me if I had heard there was such a thing possible, and I said I thought it was possible.

55,696. What did you say?—There was nothing definite. It was simply that I said if a certain amount of money was paid I believed the petition might be withdrawn.

55,697. Did Mr. Drake ask you what your reason for that belief was?—No, I believe he asked me and I declined to answer.

55,698. Did you state the amount?—I said 4,000*l.* or 5,000*l.*

55,699. Where did that interview take place?—In the office in London.

55,700. Mr. Drake's office?— In my office, or rather Mr. Pender's office.

55,701. When?—Say a week or ten days before the petition came on at the House.

55,702. What did you do in consequence of Mr. Drake's interview, did you go and see your cousin again?—No, I did not, the matter was dropped.

55,703. You took no further trouble?—No, not the least.

55,704. Did you intimate to Mr. Drake to whom he might go to see whether terms might be effected?—No, I merely received a hint about the terms and mentioned the fact to Mr. Pender, and Mr. Drake intimated that he had called upon me as Mr. Pender's solicitor or friend.

55,705. You refused to tell Mr. Drake from whom you received the communication?—Yes, undoubtedly at the time. It was secrecy.

55,706. Mr. Drake left you, not knowing from whom you received the communication?— Undoubtedly.

55,707. He of course could do nothing further in the matter?—Not through me.

55,708. Did you expect him to come to you again?—The compromise was open, and if he had liked to come to me again he might have done so.

55,709. You expected him to reopen negotiations through you?—If he wished to do so.

55,710. Did you go abroad at the time of the election petition?—I was absent.

55,711. Where?—In Paris.

55,712. Was that in consequence of a suggestion of Mr. Drake's that you should leave?—Yes.

55,713. In order that you should not be examined as a witness before the Committee?—Yes.

55,714. You had intimated to Mr. Drake that you were anxious to go abroad?—I did not.

55,715. Did not you intimate that you did not want to be examined as a witness?—Never.

55,716. Then he is under a mistake if he thinks so?—Undoubtedly.

55,717. Are you sure that you did not intimate to him that your throat was in rather a bad state, and that you wanted to go abroad for that?—Merely I was to make an excuse; you have the correspondence on the point.

55,718. Did you make the excuse that your throat was bad?—Yes.

55,719. Was your throat bad?—I was not well at the time; I was suffering from bronchitis.

55,720. You did tell Mr. Drake a trip abroad might benefit your health?—It was an excuse to avoid my being called before the House of Commons.

55,721. Are you sure you had not expressed your dislike at being examined before the House of Commons?—Not the least; why should I? What interest had I in the matter?

55,722. (Mr. Coleridge.) You brought down a sum of money to Exeter?—I did.

55,723. (Mr. Bere.) This is a letter of yours of the 16th February:—"My dear sir,—I have been thinking that if Dawkins presses the petition to an issue before the Committee of the House, it would be prudent that I should go to the continent for ten days or so, in order to avoid the possible chance of his subpœnaing me, which would certainly prejudice your interests and be anything but agreeable to me." After that do you mean that you did not tell Mr. Drake that you did not want to be examined before the Committee?—I did not. You must remember the relation between Mr. Pender and myself.

55,724. (Mr. Coleridge.) You knew that Mr. Pender had put the letter into Mr. Drake's hands?—I did not know.

FORTY-FOURTH DAY.

Mr. P. Salmon.

26 Nov. 1866.

55,725. Did not you know that he was cognizant of it?—No.

55,726. Did not you imagine that he, being the person who was conducting the opposition, would be a person likely to see a letter of that kind?—I understood that Mr. Drake had nothing to do with it.

55,727. As Mr. Pender's solicitor or friend, did not you think such a letter as that would be likely to be laid before him?—I cannot tell what is likely; he assured me he was not acting in the petition.

55,728. From the conversation you had with Mr. Drake, did not you think he had seen that letter that you had written to Mr. Pender?—I had not.

55,729. Did not you think he knew things that only could be known through that communication?—I did not know what his position was; I understood he was his private solicitor or friend; under those circumstances he knows best.

55,730. Under those circumstances did not you think the letter would be open to him?—I supposed it possible.

55,731. When you had the interview had you any doubt that he had seen that letter that you had written to Mr. Pender?—I did not know what had passed between them.

55,732. Did you believe that Mr. Drake had never seen that letter?—Not to my knowledge.

55,733. From the tenor of the conversation that you had with Mr. Drake, did not you believe that Mr. Pender had shown him that letter?—No; I do not think there was anything in the conversation that would lead me to say that. Mr. Drake came to me, or sent to me, at the office; I do not repeat it all now, because the chairman has the correspondence; I simply performed certain instructions.

55,734. You certainly produced an impression on Mr. Drake's mind which caused him to write in those terms. "You will remember that, previously to the "petition coming on for hearing, you expressed to me "your very strong desire not in any manner to be "mixed up with the inquiry; and that, with a view to "avoid the possibility of your being called as a witness, "you desired to leave London." You did not answer that by denying that you had produced a strong impression on Mr. Drake's mind?—I cannot be accountable for his impression. It is palpable I had no interest in keeping away, but my evidence would have unseated Mr. Pender.

55,735. That was interest?—I left for that, but it was not for myself.

55,736. You did not wish to put Mr. Pender in a difficulty, and you knew that if you were cross-examined you would be obliged to disclose things that would be fatal to Mr. Pender's seat?—Yes, quite so.

J. Pender, Esq.

JOHN PENDER, Esq., recalled and further examined.

55,737. (Mr. Bere.) I understand there is some of your evidence that you wish to make an explanation of?—Yes, there are one or two things which I have handed to the secretary. I was asked if the Marquis of Tweeddale had introduced me to the Duke of Somerset, and I said "No," but the answer is "Yes."

55,738. I understood you to say "No." Then "the "deputation consisted of Mr. Chaster, Mr. Cuming, "and Mr. Thomas Michelmore?"—It was Mr. Charles.

55,739. You admitted that you had conversation with Mr. Harris?—Yes; but before the Committee of the House of Commons he stated that the conversation about the Matchams was on the Plains. What I said was, that the first conversation I had with the Harris'—the conversation that was the means of unseating me—nothing whatever was said about the Matchams.

55,740. It is clear there could not be anything about the Matchams; the Matchams were mentioned in the polling booth on the morning of the election. It was after the Matchams had voted for you, when they were expected to vote for Dawkins and Pim, that the suggestion of Harris was made?—Yes, and that bears very much upon it; it must have been a week before.

55,741. Then I asked you whether you were a manager of any telegraphic companies?—Yes, and it is director that it should have been.

55,742. "When did that take place; it must have "been just at the time the petition was instituted?"—It must have taken place after I was unseated, because I did not know before.

55,743. (Mr. Coleridge.) As to your conversation with Mr. Harris, you say the conversation was about five minutes?—Yes.

55,744. Had you two conversations?—No.

55,745. Because two witnesses come and say that it was half an hour, and the way they fix it is this, that they saw you talking before they went to dinner, and when they came back you were talking still?—I adhere strongly to what I said, that it was from five to ten minutes—ten minutes is the extreme; it was nearer five minutes than ten minutes.

55,746. You told us on the last occasion that you did not know of any money that you had spent in 1862 being passed on to Mr. Seymour's election?—I said I was not aware of any money I paid in 1862 being passed on to Mr. Seymour's election till the examination of the witnesses took place before the Commissioners, and then I saw that money had.

55,747. Had you any knowledge, till the examination took place, that money had been spent in bribery at your own uncontested election in 1862?—I had not.

55,748. Will you explain what this can mean. Here is a letter, "Totnes, Seymour Hotel;" is that in Mr. Brooking Cuming's handwriting?—Yes.

55,749. It is: "My dear sir,—I have received "your letter and list inclosed, of which I approve, "only adding a name or two. As soon as the election "is over I will get the committee formed, and see "how best to dispose of your handsome donation. "Thanks for adopting the list of the charities. Mr. "Dent is silly enough to permit his address again to "appear here, but he is again ill; and although not "here, Messrs. Gill, Edmonds, and Frederick Kellock "are actively canvassing for him, and picking up "some of the 'consideration men.'" Do you know what the meaning of that is?—I do not know; I only infer that they were some of the men to be looked after.

55,750. Did you infer that they were men looked after in the first instance?—No.

55,751. "I think, however, we are all right. We "get several new promises, and shall lose a few of "your men, but not many." What could that mean?—I have no idea.

55,752. Do you know what that refers to?—It is possible, in writing to me as he did at that time, that they had got possession of certain money, and he wished to leave an impression on my mind that that money had been spent. I knew nothing about it, but it was, I suppose, gradually drawing me in.

55,753. This was your agent before you quarrelled with him, and immediately after the election?—Yes, before Mr. Seymour's election. What I say is this, that he was wishing to impress on my mind that some of the money that I had given to him was spent.

55,754. When did you first know that a number of people had promised the Conservative side and had voted for you; would not that refer to those men?—I do not understand that.

55,755. Several men who promised to vote the other way were going to vote for you, and then they withdrew?—I was not aware of that.

55,756. Were you not aware of that when you received this letter?—No.

55,757. I cannot find any answer in which you inquire of Mr. Cuming what he means by "some of "your men"?—It is very likely it would leave very little impression on my mind, and I would not recognize the thing in any way.

55,758. In the absence of Mr. Cuming you cannot give us any further explanation of this?—No; the best evidence of what importance I attached to that is that I asked Mr. McDougall to get a statement of how the money was expended, and I am sorry Mr. Cuming is not able to explain, but I can see now the drift of that note.

55,759. Here is a letter: "Weston-super-Mare, "23rd January 1863. My dear sir,—My marriage "(which took place yesterday) so quickly following "the election, has prevented my doing more than send "you the telegrams. It was a most anxious time, and "I at one time feared that our friends would be unable to resist the temptation of Dent's gold. Thank "God the victory has been well won. At first we "had a sort of divided command, which never does "when we have to fight such daring and dangerous "enemies as Mr. Dent and his friends. I had nominally the lead, but was obliged to consult Mr. "Michelmore about everything that was to be done. "On the morning of the nomination, however, I was "intrusted with the sole conduct of the election, and "urged to win; and by putting forth every possible "nerve and working my men into the greatest possible "excitement, to call forth every energy, I had the great "happiness and self-congratulation to find Mr. Seymour our member by a majority of eight. Of course "the Tories were dreadfully crestfallen, as they "clearly withdrew Mr. Dent thinking his money "would be more easily available against Mr. Seymour, "as a man of far less means than yours. Their corruption has, however, failed to hurt the good cause "in Totnes, and I triumph in it. We go on to-morrow to Oxford for a few days, and take up our abode "at the Mitre, and Tuesday or Wednesday go on to "town." At that time Mr. Cuming wrote you this letter you had no doubt that he had expended much more of your money in bribery?—I did not know anything about it.

55,760. Then the 23rd of January?—I knew nothing about it then.

55,761. It was not until that that you knew about it?—Yes.

55,762. Although you were ignorant of that, and although Mr. Cuming was writing as if he was wishful for the purity of the borough, he knew what had been done?—Yes.

55,763. Then here is a letter from Mr. Brooking Cuming to Mr. J. Michelmore. It is: "Dec. 6th, "1864. I inclose a certificate which will, I have no "doubt, enable you to satisfy Mr. Pender that the "70*l.* lent to Bearne was advanced by you after the "election. As you are aware, I have not for a long "time had anything to do with the management of "election matters in Totnes. I daresay Mr. Pender "will pay you if you ask him, as the matter has "already, I know, been mentioned to Mr. McDougall, "and he stated it should be paid; but you may have "trouble, as, judging from experience, there seems "great disinclination to discharge political advances "that cannot be strictly enforced at law"?—You can see the drift of that letter; Mr. Cuming had ceased to be my agent. I had certainly objected to pay certain demands made upon me, because I considered my money had been improperly expended, and I declined to pay those sums.

55,764. This applies to a particular transaction to which I will call your attention. Then there is a certificate of the 6th December 1864, signed by Mr. Brooking Cuming: "I hereby certify that the 70*l.* "advanced to Mr. Bearne after the election in order "to enable him to pay off a debt to a Conservative, "who pressed him for the same in consequence of "his voting for Mr. Pender, was the money of "Jeffery Michelmore." What were the circumstances?—The circumstances were these: I knew nothing at all about the advance of the money to Bearne until 1864, when I went down with a view to arrange for the general election, and then this sum was named to me as having been advanced by Mr. Michelmore to Mr. Bearne, and I stated it was entirely done without my authority, I knew nothing at all about it. They said, True, but it is generally understood that those things are done and you must adopt that, and I said, I will only do it on one occasion. If you find me, or hand to my solicitor the mortgage upon the property, and if it is done in a proper way, if I have a real mortgage for that money—then I may be disposed to find the money, but I will not find the money without.

55,765. Did you find the money?—No.

55,766. You never paid it?—No.

55,767. There is your answer (referring to a letter,) you will find about Bearne at the end. It is: "Mr. "Pender has sent to me a note which you have "addressed to Mr. Michelmore on the subject of a "mortgage on Mr. Bearne's property. As the loan "of 70*l.* was made upon the distinct understanding "that security was to be given on the property, and "presuming that you must have obtained this before "paying the money, if you will send me the mortgage, "I am instructed by Mr. Pender, to pay the money to "Mr. Michelmore; obtaining from you the security." Is that a copy of the letter?—I think I was at Brighton at the time, and some of those letter's were sent to me, and this is a copy of the letter I sent to Manchester.

55,768. And not getting the mortgage deed you never paid it?—No.

55,769. And unless this money was got at subsequent elections you never paid it?—No.

55,770. You did not know whether it was paid in any registration expenses?—Not that I am aware of; I would not have paid it without security.

55,771. Have you looked through those accounts (referring) to see whether they were correct, or whether there are any sums of money you can tell us of?—I am not aware of any. I think there should be a credit in this account; out of this 2,000*l.* paid in 1865 I think Mr. Chaster said he had 300*l.*

55,772. Then this is a letter shortly after the election, from Mr. Brooking Cuming. It is: "Totnes, "22nd December 1862. My dear sir, — Many "thanks for your telegram. I have just been to Mr. "Jeffery Michelmore's, he and his father are both out "of the way, but will be home in an hour or two. I "do not know where Mr. Seymour is. I hope we "shall be able to write or telegraph to him to-night. "I received your two letters yesterday with their "enclosures." Can you explain what those were, shortly after your election?—I cannot tax my memory.

55,773. Can you recollect whether within a fortnight of your election you sent any sums of money to Mr. Brooking Cuming?—No, I think not. I think you will find there is every shilling there.

55,774. It is very remarkable?—I am not aware of any enclosures. They may have referred to other matters. He was writing to me about receiving letters for situations, and it is possible he may have referred to that.

55,775. Do you recollect receiving that letter from Mr. Chaster (referring)?—I remember that.

55,776. Were you not surprised to receive this letter: "January 21st, 1865. My dear sir,—Will "you be good enough to forward the enclosed to Mr. "Pender? I received your favour of the 18th, and "find you have since sent in Mr. Pender's subscriptions to the various charities. I think it would be "well in future if the list were sent down annually "to Mr. Pender's committee for revision, before the "money is forwarded. Many changes have taken "place; some of the charities are worked against us, "and Mr. Pender should be advised of all the facts "before deciding on the course he will pursue on "each occasion. If Mr. Pender approves of this, "let us have the proposed list early in December in "each year, as they are all due on the 31st." Do you know what those charities were that were worked against you?—They told me they were the blanket societies and others; that a great portion went to the

FORTY-FOURTH DAY.

J. Pender, Esq.

26 Nov. 1866.

Conservative party and not the Liberal party, and in some instances, where they were managed by the Conservatives, the Conservatives took the largest share of the subscriptions.

55,777. Who had sent you the list that Mr. Chaster thought not politically correct?—I think Mr. Cuming.

55,778. Mr. Chaster thought that Mr. Cuming had not sufficiently eliminated the parties before sending it?—Yes, I suppose so; I had to be guided by what they told me, I simply subscribed pretty much as they suggested.

55,779. Mr. Chaster kept you pretty well up from week to week, from your first connexion with the borough, about everything that was going on?—Yes.

55,780. I suppose as a general rule you answered those letters?—Yes, as a rule, if there was nothing of importance I did not. I looked upon Mr. Chaster as a very reliable man.

55,781. (Mr. Bere.) Do you remember in the election of 1862 canvassing a man called Mr. Robert Lake?—I do not remember.

55,782. Do you remember hearing of any person being a little behindhand with his rent, in company with Mr. Jeffery Michelmore?—No, I do not; I know what you refer to, I read it in the evidence that Mr. Jeffery Michelmore had said that I told him to take care of that man, but I do not recollect. In 1862 I was very ignorant of the ways and doings, and I went with a strong determination to keep out of everything.

55,783. Then the account given by Mr. Jeffery Michelmore is not in that respect correct?—My own impression is that I never said anything about it, but it is four or five years ago.

55,784. Mr. Jeffery Michelmore having given a circumstantial account of what took place, can you say it did not take place?—From the mode of action I was pursuing I should certainly say that I did not say so.

55,785. Did you ever know at any time if the payment of that rent by Mr. Jeffery Michelmore had been debited to you?—I never knew anything about it.

55,786. When did you first become acquainted with Mr. Robert Moore?—I became acquainted with him through Mr. McDougall; he told me he was a very eloquent man, and I remember having heard him give a free trade lecture.

55,787. How long was that before your election for Totnes that you heard him speak?—I never had any connexion with him till we went to Totnes.

55,788. He went with you?—I think he joined us at Exeter.

55,789. He seems to have speedily become intimate with you?—Yes.

55,790. And he addressed you as my dear Pender?—Yes, I may tell you what the object of Moore going down was; it was strongly represented that there was a great deal of night work that went on in public-houses, and I had a dislike to public-house work, and I said I would rather give Moore something to make speeches at the Assembly Rooms to keep them out of the public-houses, and I think Mr. McDougall read a paper, and we had a better class of meeting; but I soon found Mr. Moore was a very needy man, very needy indeed.

55,791. He not only made speeches for himself but for other people?—Very likely he did.

55,792. Did he suggest the heads of any speeches?—Yes, if I was out canvassing, and if I had to make a speech the following day, he would give me the heads. I may mention that from the time I went down to Totnes it was very arduous business. I started in the morning to canvass and I got back to dinner, and if I had to make a speech, he would say, there or two are three heads.

55,793. What is the earliest date of his having to do with Totnes in 1862?—I think in the month of October.

55,794. Is that 1862 or 1863 (referring to letter)?—It is 1862 I think.

55,795. Perhaps that letter from Mr. McDougall will put the date before you; that is a letter written by Mr. McDougall clearly after his first going to Totnes?—Yes.

55,796. That is the first time that he came into communication with the Totnes people?—Yes.

55,797. That is in October 1862?—Yes, and that pretty well gives the history of my connexion with the borough.

55,798. Would you like the letter in?—Yes.

55,799. It is: "Seymour Hotel, Totnes, October "29th, 1862. Dear sir,—I left Exeter this morning "under the impression that Mr. Seymour had pre- "ceded me and had held a conference with the "leaders of the Liberal electors. I was glad to find "that he had not been seen here. I first called on "Mr. Windeatt, he was very cold at first, but after- "wards warmed and became less unfavourably disposed. "After talking the matter over for nearly two hours, "he said he would do nothing by himself, so agreed "to meet him at 12, with Mr. Cuming and Mr. "Michelmore, two gentlemen who with himself are "the chief men in the Liberal camp. The same "ground was gone over with the three. It was again "agreed that the three could do nothing without "others who were named, and 6·30. was named as "the most convenient time for holding a large "meeting Mr. Windeatt afterwards introduced me to "the dissenting minister, who has shown over the "town and given me the political biography of the "principal men here. I invited him to dine at the "hotel, and believe have secured him as fast friend. "It is now 5·30. and I have an hour to wait for the "meeting. It is possible they will depute two or "three of their number to wait upon the gentleman "of whom I have told everything but the name, and "this I must tell if they agree to send a deputation. "The course indicated is to see you, converse with "with you on your political views, and return, and "report, and if approved to signify their wish to the "duke and ask his support, which they believe would "be cheerfully given. The prospect is much more "promising than I had reason to hope this morning. "I have some information about costs which I will "give you when I return." There is a letter written by Mr. Moore, in December 1862, in which he says, "I have enclosed a letter from Mr. Alfred Seymour." Do you recollect that letter from Mr. Alfred Seymour to Mr. Moore, which was of sufficient importance for Mr. Moore to forward it to you?—I do not recollect about the enclosure, and I do not think Mr. Moore and Mr. Alfred Seymour were particularly friendly. I think Mr. Alfred Seymour knew more about Mr. Moore than I did, and he rather avoided him. There was some little feeling on the part of Mr. Moore, but I do not remember what that letter was.

55,800. "I have informed him that you are at "Manchester, and promised to keep the appointment "for Saturday"?—Yes, and that is after my election and before his. Mr. Alfred Seymour was anxious to see me and make my acquaintance, and he wrote to Mr. Moore, and Mr. Moore enclosed the letter, and he wrote to Mr. Seymour, saying I should be glad to meet him and to see him in Lancashire, if he could find time to come down.

55,801. Here is a letter of December 26th, 1862?—Yes.

55,802. At that time did you discuss with Mr. Moore what the best steps were to be taken about bringing the Whitworth gun before the public?—I should think Mr. Moore was about the last man to have discussed that. Mr. Moore was always pushing, he was always wanting to get a little money, and wanting to get some employment whereby he would earn a little money, and there is no doubt at all that Whitworth was finding it up hill work with Government. Mr. Moore was frequently coming about the office at Pall Mall and getting a certain amount of information, and I think he was anxious to write about it; but if you read the note, I may be able to explain it.

55,803. This is a note written on the 26th December 1862, it goes on, "I will endeavour to find par- "ticulars about Armstrong." Can you say whether you had written to him and asked about particulars of Armstrong?—I cannot really say.

55,804. Then the letter goes on, "I think a plain "statement in plain unscientific English to be placed "in the hands of every member of the Lords and Com- "mons about the Whitworth gun would be the best "that could be done for it. It should give in "terse short sentences what the gun is, how it is so, "what it professes to do, what it has done, its use on "land, its use at sea, what more it has done than the "Armstrong gun; and taking this Whitworth gun as a "great fact a few lines should tell what sort of royal "navy we should have to fight with this gun and fight "against it. If I could have a quiet hour or two with "yourself and Whitworth I could prepare this paper, "and we could fire shot after shot of similar missives "throughout the session, and at last should achieve a "practicable breach in the hard-headed, old notion- "plated stupidity of Lords and Commons. I speak, as "we say in court, subject to correction, but my own "notion is, the less said about Armstrong the better. "He must either send from the same distance as Whit- "worth has done shot and shell slap through as much "iron and wood as Whitworth has done, and with as "much after mischief and as little powder, or there is "an end of him." Do you remember when you answered that letter, or did you give him any encouragement to write those letters?—No.

55,805. He was a man constantly wishing for employment to make money?—Yes.

55,806. He would suggest various means to be employed, and trust to your recommending him?—Yes, he was an extraordinary man.

55,807. Then there is a letter of the 9th of March, 1863: "Before I left Totnes yesterday the boxes had "arrived from Mrs. Pender, and from all I could learn "all parties are more pleased at their having been sent "than at anything else that could have been done by "you in honour of the festivities, and they are especi- "ally gratified at the fact of Mrs. Pender's sending "them. As to the distribution of the 1,000*l.*, Mrs. "Lorimer requested me to say to you that they were "not only satisfied but gratified with the sum given "for the British School, and that all parties were "satisfied with the amounts given to each object. "Bowden told me the same. Jenkins was about. "Chaster's mother died on Thursday last, so I did not "see him. What think you of Loppy Harris coming "to ask me if I would try to persuade you to get him "appointed to some country post office. He makes, he "says, about 100*l.* a year at Totnes, he would get 150*l.* "as postmaster and would leave Totnes." Can you remember whether you gave any answer to that?—I do not remember. I should say not.

55,808. Do you remember the fact of that letter being written?—Yes, I think I mentioned it in my evidence that Mrs. Harris had gone to Mrs. Lorimer.

55,809. This is long before March 1865 that Harris mentions it to Moore, that he should be obliged to you if you could procure him a situation?—I did not answer that.

55,810. Is there some explanation that you wish to give of those matters?—I am in the habit constantly of writing memoranda, and you will see from that letter it was intended to be written, and I want to mention now that there is nothing in the course of this business that has annoyed me more than the case of Mr. Jenkins. I must say that he has done a very foolish thing in destroying those letters, not only going against what he ought to have known to be right, but there was nothing in my letters or Jenkins' letters to me which might not have been placarded all over Totnes. If he plumed himself upon anything it was upon his own purity; as to anything affecting his moral character, or as to bribery, there was nothing of the kind passed between him and myself. He did occasionally interest himself in some of the poor people down there, and I think he would write and mention one or two people, and perhaps say that a little money would be of great assistance to them, but it had no reference to political matters.

55,811. I think he must have done more than that, because it was through him that you retained Mr. Michelmore?—He might; he was a very active partisan, but he knew nothing at all about money matters, and I never spoke to him about them, and I do not know why he should have burnt the letters.

55,812. I am glad that you explain the matter, because the inference was that there was something which induced him to destroy them?—I wrote a letter to you; he wrote a letter to me saying that it was upon principle, and he was to justify the thing, and I am very sorry for it.

55,813. About that matter of Mr. James, when you advanced the money through Mr. Bowden to him did you tell Mr. Bowden any of the circumstances, or was he the person at the time Mr. James came to?—Mr. James, as I have always stated, I believe to be a thoroughly honourable man.

55,814. As regards Mr. Bowden, when you asked Mr. Bowden to get this money did you tell him what it was for?—Certainly; I told him it was for Mr. James, and told him the whole circumstances, that is the reason, and told Mr. Bowden to give him a cheque. I gave him a cheque and asked him to take it, and he took my cheque and got me notes for it. When I gave the cheque he sent his clerk to his own bankers to get the amount of money he wanted, and handed the notes to me.

55,815. He knew the circumstance about Mr. James writing the note?—Yes, and in that letter I wrote afterwards, saying I did not wish to give publicity to it, because I thought it would be rather an awkward thing on the day of the election to have given a cheque on the Devon and Cornwall Bank in favour of Mr. James, knowing that it would be talked over immediately at Totnes, and they would then say it was a private loan. I did not think it necessary to do that.

55,816. You never received the security?—The security is held on my account.

55,817. By Mr. James?—Yes.

55,818. Without any collateral note such as Mr. Edmonds had?—It was held for my account, we do that constantly.

55,819. Have you got any letter in which he intimates that he holds it to your account?—Yes. Now I may tell you that I believe that the money will be paid to me before the end of the year.

55,820. As far as Mr. Bowden's knowledge went, your knowledge was Mr. Bowden's. Mr. Bowden was aware of it?—Yes, intentionally.

55,821. Can you throw any light upon that matter (referring to a letter)?—It was never addressed to me.

55,822. It is a letter by Mr. Evan Evens to Mr. Southwood, but it is found amongst your papers?—I do not know how it has come there.

55,823. It is two days before the polling day of 1865, and it is a letter that may be interpreted in a very odd way?—It may indeed.

55,824. It is amongst your letters?—Yes, it must have got in there by mistake. I do not know anything about it.

Mr. Charles Wescomb sworn and examined.

55,825. (Mr. Bere.) You are the proprietor of the "Exeter and Plymouth Gazette," and also of the "Globe" newspaper?—Yes.

55,826. Did you see any of the Conservative candidates before the election of 1865?—Yes.

55,827. When did you first see either of them?—I do not think I can tell you the exact date; but before Colonel Dawkins became a candidate for Totnes I received a letter from Messrs. Smith and Guscotte, asking if I knew whether there was a chance for

FORTY-FOURTH DAY.

Mr. C. Wescomb.

26 Nov. 1866.

Exeter for a second candidate, as a client of theirs was anxious to get into parliament.

55,828. Can you at all fix the date of that letter?—I really cannot. I was not prepared to be examined here to-day, I came in accidentally. I answered that there was no chance at all for Exeter, that no stranger ever represented Exeter, if he was not a county man or a city man he had very little chance. I said that I would call upon them as I would be in London in a few days.

55,829. You had known Mr. Smith?—I had known Mr. Guscotte, he was articled to Mr. Barton in Exeter, and he wrote to me knowing that I had taken some part in political matters in the city.

55,830. Did you call upon him?—Yes.

55,831. Did you see Mr. Smith or Mr. Guscotte?—Yes.

55,832. Did you have some conversation about Totnes?—Yes.

55,833. Can you tell us at all what passed?—Nearly so. I understood from Mr. Edmonds or Mr. Kellock that they wanted a candidate at Totnes, but I told Mr. Guscotte, "You must understand no man "goes to Totnes without spending a lot of money."

55,834. You knew the reputation of Totnes pretty well?—Yes. And his answer was, "My client is "Colonel Dawkins; he considers that he has been "badly treated, and I do not think he will object to "spend a fair sum to get into parliament, as he has a "grievance I think."

55,835. Was any sum mentioned?—He asked me what I thought it would cost, and I said I had no notion, but I heard such a thing as 2,000*l.* or 3000*l.*

55,836. Had you heard that at the time of Mr. Dent's election?—Yes.

55,837. Had you heard that from mere rumour?—I think mere rumour.

55,838. Was that all that passed?—No. I said, "Of course you will take nothing that I state for more "than it is worth, it is from information that I have "received, but you had better put yourself in commu-"nication with Mr. Edmonds or Mr. Kellock of "Totnes;" and I believe he did so.

55,839. Had you any more communication while in London with Mr. Guscotte?—None.

55,840. When next did you have anything to do with the election?—I think Mr. Guscotte called upon me in Exeter, and said that Colonel Dawkins had determined to stand for Totnes.

55,841. He then intimated that Colonel Dawkins was ready to spend the money that you had suggested?—No.

55,842. Did you have any long interview with him when you saw him at his office?—It was a very short visit indeed, he was in a hurry.

55,843. You had something to do with Captain Pim's coming down?—Yes.

55,844. What was that?—Captain Pim asked me what I thought of his going to Falmouth.

55,845. Did he write to you, or was he on mining business?—I never had anything to do with him in mining business.

55,846. His account to us was that he became acquainted with you in mining matters?—I think it was in a railway, but I had nothing to do with Captain Pim in mining matters.

55,847. Did you see him in Exeter?—I think he wrote me, and asked me what I thought of Falmouth.

55,848. Did you give him your opinion?—Yes; I said I thought there was not much chance at Falmouth for a Conservative, and then I informed him what Mr. Kellock had told me, because at this time Colonel Dawkins was at Totnes, and the canvass had gone on for some time, and they professed to make up a good poll, and Mr. Kellock said, We must get a second man to come down, we shall carry Colonel Dawkins, but we want a second man to carry the second votes, and I said, I have heard from Captain Pim, and he wants to get a place; but I know him to be a good energetic man, and I would not allow him to go and spend any money. He said, The second man will stand a fair chance of winning without spending a large sum of money, and I wrote to Captain Pim, and told him that which Mr. Kellock had informed me, and we had an interview in London.

55,849. You came up to London?—Yes, I was going there, and I saw Captain Pim and told him what Mr. Kellock had said verbally.

55,850. Was Mr. John Heath with you?—No; I never had any connexion with getting a candidate in any way; it so happened that each of the men had written to me to ask my opinion, and I said to Captain Pim, "If you go down there to run second, stipulate "what your expenses will be." He said, What ought I to stipulate, and I said, Under any circumstances do not you pay more than 500*l.* I said, You must retain an attorney, and there will be the polling expenses, and the sheriff's expenses, but make it a definite sum, and I believe he told me he had so arranged it when I went to Totnes one day.

55,851. This is the account that Captain Pim gives, and I should like you to hear it and see how you reconcile it: "Did you come as a candidate on the "Conservative interest for the borough of Totnes in "July 1865?—Yes. How did you first become "acquainted with the borough?—Mr. John Heath "came to my house. Where do you live in London? "—In Hampstead. Had you known Mr. John Heath "before?—Not in the least. Had you any communi-"cation with the Carlton Club, or with anyone con-"nected with it, with regard to standing for the "borough?—No. Did you mention to any of your "friends that you wished to stand for the borough? "—I tried to get in for Abingdon before, and I sup-"pose Mr. Heath must have known it. When did "you stand for Abingdon. At the last election in "1865?—Yes. I did not stand for it, I went down "and went over the borough with some friends. Had "any of your friends any connexion with the West of "England?—I believe Mr. Wescomb of Exeter, and "I believe he was the man who mentioned my wish "to get into the House to the people of this borough. "Had you known Mr. Wescomb of Exeter long?—"Some years. Did he go with you to Abingdon?—"No. Mr. Wescomb is the editor and proprietor of the "'Exeter and Plymouth Gazette?'—I believe he is. "How did you first become acquainted with Mr. Wes-"comb?—In matters of business about five or six years "ago, principally mining in Cornwall. Have you any "reason to doubt that it was through Mr. Wescomb "that Mr. John Heath came to you?—No; Mr. John "Heath told me he had a requisition signed by 168 "electors of the borough when he came to my "house?"—I think Mr. Kellock, after we had a talk, and I told him about Captain Pim's wish to get into the House, I think Mr. Heath went up. I think that is correct, and I think Mr. Heath said he had been to Captain Pim's in Belsize Square.

55,852. Did you go to Captain Pim's and to Mr. Spofforth's?—No.

55,853. Will you go on with what you were going to say?—All I had to do with it further is that I went two days before the election to Totnes. Captain Pim asked me to go and take a little luncheon and talk matters over, and he said he was afraid he should not win the election, but he had stipulated he should not pay more than 500*l.*

55,854. Did you stay at Totnes all night?—No.

55,855. Never?—No.

55,856. Had you anything further to do with the election as far as Totnes was concerned in 1865?—No, nothing whatever.

55,857. Do you know anything about the prior election at all?—No.

55,858. That in fact that is all you know about the election?—It is.

ALFRED SEYMOUR, Esq., M.P., recalled and further examined.

55,859. (Mr. Bere.) When you were examined before us at Totnes you intimated that you had heard that a sum of 500*l.* was sent at your election in 1863, but you did not know the source from whence it came? —Yes.

55,860. After your examination you learned from whence it came?—Yes, and immediately I knew of it I wrote and communicated to you, as I considered I was in duty bound.

55,861. Would you be kind enough to say how you became aware of how that 500*l.* was brought?—I had a line from Mr. Drake, asking me to come and see him; I went and saw him, and he said, "Do you know "where that 500*l.* came from?" I said "No, I have not "the remotest idea." He said, "Well, it came from "your brother." Then, upon further inquiry, I found that the sum had not been paid by my brother. Mr. Drake held his "I O U" for the amount, and as soon as I found that the money had been expended in my service, and had not been paid, I considered myself bound to pay it, and did pay it on the 23rd of October.

55,862. Did you pay it by cheque?—Yes.

55,863. To whom did you make that cheque payable?—To "self," I think.

55,864. You did not make it payable to Mr. Drake? —I gave it to him personally.

55,865. Did he give you a receipt?—No.

55,866. Did he hand to you the I O U?—Yes, which I immediately destroyed.

55,867. At any time did you learn from Mr. Drake whether he considered that a private advance from himself to your brother?—He told me then that he considered it was a private advance from him to my brother, and as there was my brother's note of hand I considered myself bound to pay it.

55,868. Did he say whether the 500*l.* came from himself, or was advanced from some other source?—I understood it was a private advance from him to my brother. What passed between them I did not know.

55,869. Did Mr. Drake tell you the way in which the money was sent to Totnes?—He said he had forgotten altogether how it was sent. He could not recollect at the time how it was sent. Afterwards we found it was sent in two cheques, payable to Green and Allin, I think. But when I first saw him he had forgotten how it was paid.

55,870. It was not sent quite in that way. The way it was sent was, Mr. Drake gave two several cheques, one drawn by himself and one in the name of the firm, for 250*l.* each, and they were entrusted to a clerk to get them cashed. He got the proceeds and united them together, and got a 500*l.* note and took it to Green and Allin?—I did not go into the means by which it was sent.

55,871. Did you learn from Mr. Drake that he himself had arranged how the money should go, or that Mr. Danby Seymour had arranged?—I do not think that I went into the question; as far as I recollect my conversation with him beyond that, he said he had paid in two cheques of 250*l.* each. Whether he had received other information I cannot tell.

55,872. At any time during the election did you learn that the money was running short?—I had previously stated, if the election was to cost a great deal more, I had no notion of spending much more.

55,873. You had no notion of this money coming?— No.

55,874. (Mr. Longe.) The first intimation about this was Mr. Drake's writing to you?—Yes, in October, previous to my letter to you.

55,875. (Mr. Coleridge.) Things looked very bad about the middle of the day in the election of 1863? —I knew I was safe.

55,876. About 2 o'clock were not things looking rather black?—No, I knew I had a clear majority.

55,877. It was within 1, about 2 o'clock?—It was; but when I polled this poor fellow who died afterwards I knew I was safe.

55,878. (Mr. Bere.) Did you have anything to do about that election with Robert Moore?—Never. I knew him slightly, but I had nothing to do with him, with regard to my election or anybody else's.

55,879. Did you write to him?—I never remember having had a letter from him; but I may have had a letter.

55,880. Not only did you have letters from him, but did you yourself write to him?—I may have done so.

55,881. There is a letter of the 25th December 1862, from Mr. Moore to Mr. Pender, in which he says he has a letter from you, do you remember writing to Mr. Moore to be forwarded to Mr. Pender?—I remember I only saw him once. He came to see me in London, and was anxious to be employed at my election; and I said I did not require him, and I thought it much better not to have him, and I told him I did not want him.

55,882. Did you write to him about that election? —I suppose I did, according to his letter; it has passed from my memory whether I did or not.

55,883. Did you happen to write to him from Torquay?—I cannot tell.

55,884. Were you staying with Baron Rothschild? —I was staying there, and he happened to be there.

55,885. Are you sure you did not write from Torquay to Mr. Moore?—I am not quite sure; I may have done so. It has escaped my memory entirely

55,886. This is a letter from Mr. Moore to Mr. Pender, it is written the 19th January: "Since closing "mine of this morning to you, I have seen Villiers, and "learned that Seymour will have a very close run for "it, and would have been beaten, but that Rothschild, "who himself went down to see how matters stood, is "finding doubtless, on security, the funds; even yet "Villiers does not consider the election safe; but "Danby Seymour does, though he admits not by the "duke but by the money. Under these circumstances "Seymour should not have written to me from Tor- "quay as he did, for he was there with Rothschild." Can you give any explanation of that?—No, he was an Irishman with a vivid imagination, and no doubt invented what he knew nothing about.

55,887. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did Baron Rothschild lend you money?—No.

55,888. Neither on security or without security?— No.

55,889. Who had the head place at that election? —Mr. Thomas Michelmore.

55,890. It was a most anxious time, Mr. Brooking Cuming says in his letter, and at one time he thought the election was gone. Was there any time you thought the election was gone?—No; my head agent was old Mr. Thomas Michelmore, who is dead, and Mr. Cuming was the head agent of what is known as the independent party, and I employed the solicitors belonging to the independent party, but they were supposed to come under my head agent, who is Mr. Thomas Michelmore.

55,891. Do you recollect any special appointment of Mr. Cuming as the head man on the nomination day?—I had nothing to do with it.

55,892. (Mr. Bere.) Your brother says he thought matters were not being worked very well?—I was not consulted upon those matters, and never made any inquiries.

Mr. WILLIAM RICHARD DRAKE recalled and further examined.

55,893. (Mr. Bere.) I have found the letter from Mr. Moore referring to you, it is written to Mr. Pender on the 26th, 1862?—I think it is possible that I was out of town at the time.

55,894. Have you made inquiries as to the clerks who cashed the cheque?—I cannot find who it was. There were only two clerks whom I should have trusted with 500*l.* I have seen both, and they say

FORTY-FOURTH-DAY.

Mr. W. R. Drake.

26 Nov. 1866.

they have no recollection on the subject. I may mention that when I told Mr Alfred Seymour of this money, I said I had no recollection of how the money was sent down, and I in fact took upon myself to send to Totnes to ascertain how the money did go.

55,895. Whom did you send?—I sent Mr. Burt, my confidential clerk.

55,896. Mr. Moore says in his letter: "I am glad "Drake has been to see you, and note what you say "of him as regards myself. I fear Drake has in truth "but one object in the world, and that with an infinitely grasping hand to gather everything to himself that "can be gathered. I will speak to Villiers and get "him to introduce me to Brand. Brand's difficulty is "that to employ me fixedly would deprive me of the "influence that my acting independently gives me, and "that he has no fund to make payment out of. Drake "if honestly disposed to aid me might give me briefs "before committees; two or three would be all I should "ask for in a session, and I should then have time to "aid elections, and to attend to your business also, "which so far as I can see would need during the "session some time every day, but not the whole day." Did you ever hint to Mr. Moore that you would through private bnsiness repay him for his political work?—I never made any such suggestion. Mr. Moore was an extremely useful talker, but he was to me a great bore, for he was unfortunately always at me for a job of some sort; he was very poor, but no doubt had been extremely useful at the time of the anti-corn-law agitation.

55,897. He seems from his letter to have done business at other places?—Wherever I could give him a job I gave it to him.

55,898. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever employ him before a committee?—No.

Mr. C. Burt.

Mr. Charles Burt sworn and examined.

55,899. (Mr. Bere.) Mr. Drake has informed us that you went to Totnes to inquire about 500*l.* that passed from London to Totnes?—Yes.

55,900. From whom did you learn how it came down?—From Mr. Jeffery Michelmore.

55,901. Did you go to him at once?—Yes.

55,902. And he told you without any hesitation?—Yes.

55,903. Did he say the suggestion about the 500*l.* being sent down came from him, or Mr. Danby Seymour, or anybody else?—He did not say, nor did I ask him.

55,904. You did not ask whether Mr. Danby Seymour went up without knowing how it was to come?—I did not. He said he had made inquiries how it came down, and had from the inquiries found out that it had come through the channel you have heard of.

Mr. W. R. Drake.

Mr. William Richard Drake recalled.

55,905. (Mr. Bere.) There is a letter of the 20th January 1863, from Robert R. Moore to Mr. Pender, in which he says: "De Lane and Rothschild it seems "came to the rescue of Seymour. But of what use is "it, will they come again at the general election, and "are they not meanwhile doing what you avoided, "corrupting the borough, and increasing its greed of "corruption. I warned Seymour of all this. The "duke it seems is not after all the king of Totnes, "but gold is; but had this vacancy been better "managed it need not have been"?—I have not the most remote notion what that is.

A. Seymour. Esq., M.P.

Alfred Seymour, Esq., M.P., recalled.

55,906, (Mr. Bere.) Can you explain that letter?—I have not the least notion of it.

55,907. Did Mr. Delane advance you any money for the purpose of the election of Totnes, or for any other purpose?—No, he did not in any way.

. Pender, Esq.

John Pender, Esq., recalled.

55,908. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you ever answer this letter of Mr. Moore?—No, I did not answer it.

55,909. Did you ever hear anything more about it?—I remember Moore saying something about it afterwards; but I always imputed Moore's feeling to the fact of Mr. Seymour giving Moore the cold shoulder, and would have nothing to do with him.

55,910. Did you ever hear anything more about that?—No; my impression is that Moore knew nothing at all about it, his idea was that he would get a job from Mr. Seymour's election, but he did not, and he was disappointed.

55,911. (Mr. Bere.) Did you pay Mr. Moore anything?—Yes.

55,912. That does not appear?—I think there is about 50*l.* of that 200*l.*, and I generally carry about 50*l.* or 60*l.*, and when I get a note, instead of passing it through my books, I pay it if I want to.

A. Seymour, Esq., M.P.

Alfred Seymour, Esq., M.P., recalled.

55,913. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did Mr. Moore apply to you for a job?—Yes.

55,914. In terms?—If he did not he gave me clearly to understand it.

55,915. You did not care about it?—No.

55,916. You never paid him anything?—No.

I. D. Seymour, Esq.

Henry Danby Seymour, Esq., recalled.

55,917. (Mr. Bere.) We are obliged to recall you, because there is a distinct contradiction between the evidence you gave when examined. and the evidence of Mr. Drake, as to the interview you had about the 500*l.* The contradictions are upon those three points. First of all, it was your impression that the money came from some fund?—No, I never stated that.

55,918. That there was a fund?—No, I never stated that. I can swear I never intended that, it is entirely a misapprehension.

55,919. You said, I asked him I think whether there would be any assistance. I understood that at the time of general elections certain members were assisted, and I asked him whether my brother could have any "assistance"?—I said I heard there was some fund, but I knew nothing about it.

55,920. What did Mr. Drake say to that?—As far as I recollect Mr. Drake's was rather an evasive answer. He said he would raise it on my responsibility.

55,920*a*. What guarantee did you give him?—I gave him either a note or something which I signed.

55,921. Did you understand from Mr. Drake that the money he was advancing was his own money on your security?—I did not know whose money it was. I only knew he advanced the money.

55,922. When you left Totnes did Mr. Cuming suggest to you that money would be wanted ?—I do not know.

55,923. Who said to you the money would be wanted ?—I do not know, but I looked upon Mr. Cuming as the responsible person.

55,924. Are you sure he did not tell you how the money, if procured, should be sent to Totnes ?—I have no recollection on the point.

55,925. It may have been what Mr. Drake says was the case, that you instructed him to send it to Green and Allin ?—It is quite possible. All I can say is, at this moment I cannot in the least remember even having heard of the name of Green and Allin, or the name of Webber, but my impression is that I acted under Cuming's advice.

55,926. Do you think Mr. Cuming gave you a letter to Mr. Drake ?—It is possible he may have given me the address ; but I think if he had given me a letter I should have remembered it.

55,927. Do you think he might have done so ?—It is possible he may have done so, but I cannot remember it. But I think if there had been any letter I should have remembered the circumstance. My impression is that there was no letter ; whether there was any address or not I cannot at this distance of time recollect.

55,928 It may have been that Mr. Drake received his information of how the money was to be sent through you ?—It is quite possible.

55,929. (Mr. Longe.) Can you explain how it was that you did not tell Mr. Alfred Seymour of this loan that you had incurred for him ?—I had entirely forgotten the loan altogether. I looked upon it when that money was raised that it would go to the general election expenses. I had forgotten the whole circumstances of the case till called to my mind.

55,930. You had borrowed 500*l.* ?—I did not borrow it. What I say is, that when that money was raised my guarantee whatever I gave, I considered simply as a receipt for the money, and I considered that the money so borrowed was for my brother, and would go into the general election expenses, and never considered it a debt that I owed.

55,931. How did you suppose that Mr. Alfred Seymour would know of this ?—Because I thought Mr. Drake, the political agent of the Liberal party, would communicate with him, and tell him of this. I was never more astonished than I was when I heard that had not been done.

55,932. You did not understand that it was a personal kindness on behalf of Mr. Drake ?—No ; I considered that if we waited until we found there was no money coming from any fund the election would be lost. I considered in putting my name to whatever document Mr. Drake placed before me, the nature of the document I forget, it was simply in the nature of a receipt, and that immediately after the election the whole accounts would be gone into, and that money would be settled in the general election expenses.

55,933. Having given your I O U as you supposed you had no further responsibility in the matter ?—Certainly. I considered that my I O U, or whatever the document was, in the nature of a receipt for the money on the part of my brother.

55,934. (Mr. Bere.) Did you ever expect to be called upon to pay that money yourself ?—No, certainly not.

55,935. It was a matter between Mr. Drake and Mr. Alfred Seymour ?—That is how I looked upon the matter entirely, and I may tell you it was all done in a hurried manner, the election was going on very quickly, and I signed whatever was placed before me, I do not remember the nature of the document. It is three years past and I know no more about it. When the subject is called to my memory I can only say that I thought that money went to the general expenses, and had been settled by my brother long ago. The document I signed is a receipt for the money which was necessary for the election, and that it would go into the general account, and I thought Mr. Drake would immediately after the election have settled it with the other election expenses.

55,936. There was a contradiction between you and Mr. Drake, whether you did tell him what had occurred ?—I cannot tell whether I did or not. I think it is highly probable I did at the time, but I have no idea myself. I did not go into the details of Totnes, into money matters. I was merely asked for more money, or to go and see Mr. Drake, and I merely acted as an agent. I never went into any questions at all.

55,937. Do you remember the account, the ground on which you based your claim, or asked for assistance ?—Because my brother was spending money in the Liberal cause, and whatever there was to be spent he would have to pay, and he said he went down to Totnes, and would spend so much.

55,938. That was cash ?—Whether it was money to be paid hereafter, or cash, it was money out of his pocket.

55,939. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who suggested Mr. Drake as the person to go to ?—I cannot say who suggested Mr. Drake, but he was the obvious person to go to in London, because he was the agent of the whole Liberal party, and therefore in any matter of difficulty I considered that he was the person to apply to.

55,940. Was not it Mr. Brooking Cuming who suggested him ?—The agent of Totnes. I cannot distinctly recollect the fact of Mr. Cuming having done so ; all I can say is, that Mr. Cuming was my brother's principal agent, and I looked to Mr. Cuming for everything at Totnes.

55,941. It was owing to a suggestion that you received at Totnes, and not from your private knowledge ?—I had no private knowledge. If you will allow me to correct what I saw in the "Times," I never intended to say that I went over the poll-books with anybody. It is printed in the "Times" that I went over the poll-books with the agent, but to the best of my recollection I never went over the poll-book at all.

55,942. At your own election had you any agent ?—No, I never went to any agent.

55,943. (Mr. Longe.) Do you recollect saying, Why not advance the 500*l.* yourself ?—I recollect what took place at all. I remember asking, but I cannot recollect his saying those words, "Why do not you raise the money yourself ?" But I suppose he did because I agreed to do so.

55,944. Not exactly so, because you did not intend to pay it ?—I became responsible.

55,945. I think I asked you whether you considered yourself responsible, and you said, No, it was a receipt ?—At the moment, if I had signed an I O U I was legally responsible, but from the intimate knowledge of my brother, I knew, acting on his part in that way, that he would release me from that legal obligation.

55,946. You did not feel called upon to mention it to your brother, and never did ?—I do not know whether I did.

55,947. We have that clearly I think ?—I do not remember mentioning the circumstance, and I do not think I did, to my brother.

55,948. That is consistent with the view, that you did not consider it advanced to you, or a loan to you ?—Yes, and I beg to call to the attention of the Commissioners that I thought I was acting for the good of the election in my brother's behalf, and that is all I can say.

55,949. (Mr. Coleridge.) You thought it would be paid in the general expenses. Is that in settling your brother's expenses, or the general expenses of the election ?—I do not understand that. There was no general election at that time.

55,950. When your brother's general election expenses were settled this sum would be taken credit for ?—The general expenses are the expenses that attended my brother's election in 1863.

FORTY-FOURTH DAY.

H. D. Seymour, Esq.

26 Nov. 1866.

55,951. (Mr. Bere.) Did not you give Mr. Drake any reason for wanting this further sum of money?—I only told him that the agents said some was wanted.

55,952. Can you be at all certain how much money was spent?—I cannot be certain now about it, and I do not remember what money was spent.

55,953, Did you say a great deal had been spent, or anything to that effect?—I suppose Mr. Cuming told me the money he had brought down, the money that was there, and the money that was wanted.

55,954. Did you give that reason to Mr. Drake for wanting a further advance of 500*l.*?—I came up to see him. I heard that money was wanted, and I came to see if I could get it from the source I had named to the Commissioners.

55,955. (Mr. Longe.) You do not remember what document it was you signed?—No.

A. Seymour, Esq., M.P.

ALFRED SEYMOUR, Esq., M.P., recalled.

55,956. (Mr. Bere.) What was the document?—It was simply three letters, "I O U" the sum, and "Danby Seymour."

55,957. Not directed to anybody?—No.

D. Seymour, Esq.

HENRY DANBY SEYMOUR, Esq., recalled.

55,958. (The witness.) I considered it a receipt for my brother.

55,959. (Mr. Longe.) Not as surety?—I must have known that I was legally liable for it, but as to the legal liability I felt certain that my brother would take it off my hands.

55,960. You did not understand that it would be part of your duty to inform Mr. Alfred Seymour that you had got that 500*l.*?—I cannot remember when I went back whether I informed him or not. I cannot recollect in the least degree having informed him about that in any way.

55,961. You do not remember carefully abstaining from informing him or promising him?—I cannot remember.

55,962. (Mr. Bere.) Do not you think it is probable that Mr. Cuming hinted to you not to tell him anything?—I daresay it was. I should think it was most probable.

55,962*a*. You left it with Mr. Drake?—Yes; I left it with him as the agent of the Liberal party. I went to him to see if I could get anything there from this fund that I heard existed.

55,963. (Mr. Bere.) Do you wish to say anything, Mr. Drake.

(Mr. Drake.) No, I have nothing to add. No doubt Mr. Seymour and myself wish to say what is correct.

(Mr. Danby Seymour.) It is a long time since, and it is very difficult to remember everything that passed.

(Mr. Bere.) The Commission will be adjourned to Friday at 12 o'clock to my chambers at Brick Court, for the purpose of considering the report. We may have one or two witnesses to examine, but it is not probable. We may have to examine a gentleman at his present place of residence, otherwise the sittings of the Commission are closed.

Adjourned till Friday the 30th, at 12 o'clock, at 1, Brick Court, Temple.

FORTY-FIFTH DAY.

FORTY-FIFTH DAY.

Friday, 30th November 1866.

Mr. J. T. Mackenzie.

30 Nov. 1866.

Mr. JAMES THOMPSON MACKENZIE sworn and examined.

55,963*a*. (Mr. Bere.) You are an East India merchant?—Yes.

55,964. Do you carry on business in New Broad Street?—Yes.

55,965. Did you stand for Totnes as a candidate in 1857?—Yes.

55,966. Had you been down there previously in 855 when Lord Seymour became Duke of Somerset?—Yes.

55,967. How had you first become connected with Totnes?—I was in Scotland at the time, and a relation of mine, Mr. Grant, wrote to me to say that a deputation had come to him wishing that he would stand for Totnes.

55,968. Did he tell you of whom the deputation consisted?—I cannot recollect; but he wrote down and suggested that I should go down, and in consequence of that I went from Scotland direct to Totnes. I was shooting at the time.

55,969. When you went to Totnes I suppose you went to the "Seven Stars?"—Yes.

55,970. Whom did you see?—There was a large deputation of the Conservative members.

55,971. Were Mr. Bastard, Mr. Gill, and Mr. Bentall there?—Yes, no doubt, and Mr. Phillips and Mr. Bryett and I addressed the electors that evening at a public meeting. The names are all mentioned in the paper, and all those gentlemen I am sure were there.

55,972. At that time was Mr. Yarde Bullar a candidate also. Was he in Totnes?—I do not think so. When I went down there I understood that Mr. Yarde Bullar had been canvassing some of the people but generally he was not acceptable to the constituency.

55,973. He had preceded you and had retired?—Yes; at all events he was not so acceptable to the constituency.

55,974. Did you see him at all while you were down there?—Not to speak to him.

55,975. After you had this meeting did you issue an address?—I issued an address to the electors that evening at the Town Hall.

55,976. Did that contain an intimation of your intention to stand?—Yes.

55,977. How long before the election was that?—I should suppose about a fortnight.

55,978. What time of the year was the election?—I should think it could not be later than October.

55,979. Did you canvass?—Afterwards I canvassed the electors.

55,980. Did you have many promises of support?—A considerable number.

55,981. At any time was any sum mentioned to you as necessary to spend in the borough?—In October

1855 I do not think any specific sum was mentioned of course when you canvassed the people you found that a great number of the people who were put down thought they had not made up their minds and did not mean to pledge themselves, and I understood that those people who did not promise were all to be bought.

55,982. You did not go to the poll ?—No.

55,983. When did you give up the intention of going to the poll ?—I believe about a week or 10 days before the election.

55,984. Did you communicate that intention to the constituency ?—I communicated it in an address.

55,985. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you give any reason for retiring ?—I said I did not think there would be any chance of success without resorting to the means I did not intend to do.

55,986. (Mr. Bere.) You had come to the impression that you must spend a good deal of money illegally ?—That is the fact.

55,987. Had you come to the conclusion what you would have to spend ?—I should think perhaps 1,000*l.* or 1,500*l.*

55,988. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who was your professional man ?—There was a Mr. Crompton Reed.

55,989. A Totnes man ?—No, he was a person that Mr. Grant had arranged with, and he went to Totnes. I have not seen him since.

55,990. He acted as your professional adviser ?—Yes, I understood he was a kind of agent.

55,991. Did not Mr. Bryett act for you at all or Mr. Charles Edwards ?—All those were on the committee.

55,992. How many attorneys did you pay ?—In 1855 I merely gave the sums that I paid to Mr. Reed.

55,993. Is Mr. Crompton Reed alive ?—I have never seen him since.

55,994. What did you pay Mr. Reed ?—350*l.*, and after I left I sent 30*l.* to distribute amongst the poor.

55,995. That included all you paid ?—Yes.

55,996. (Mr. Bere.) Did you draw that on your bank ?—Yes, Smith, Payne, & Co.

55,997. (Mr. Coleridge.) Is Mr. Crompton Reed a London agent ?—I may mention, when I went a second time, the party said they would prefer having no person from London, and he did not go back. Mr. Grant arranged all about it before. I came from Scotland.

55,998. Is Mr. Grant in London ?—He is dead.

55,999. Was that all you had to do with Totnes in 1855 ?—That is all.

56,000. Had you formed any idea of what the state of parties was in Totnes in 1855 ?—My general impression was that a great number of the voters voted according to the duke. They were exceedingly frank and open, and they said, "I am the duke's man."

56,001. Did you pay any money between 1855 and 1857 ?—No.

56,002. No money for the purposes of registration ?—No.

56,003. Were you applied to in 1855 to pay any expenses that had been incurred before by the Conservative party ?—No; the first cheque I sent was sent to Mr. Bentall on the 18th March, 200*l.*

56,004. Had Mr. Bentall written to you to stand again ?—In 1856 I had repeated communications asking me to come forward at the general election, which happened to be the dissolution of parliament upon the China debate; I did not agree to that, but in March I agreed to come forward.

56,005. Had Mr. Bentall written to you, and was it in answer to that letter that you sent that cheque ?—I was in communication with several people, but I stated that I would not go there with any view of having any kind of corrupt practices; the consequence was that the parties formed themselves into a local committee—Mr. Bastard, Mr. Thompson, Mr. Farwell, Mr. John Heath, and Mr. Bentall, a committee to suppress bribery.

56,006. (Mr. Coleridge.) Was Mr. John Heath on that committee ?—Yes; that was a committee for the management of the election.

56,007. (Mr. Bere.) I see here a quotation of yours?—That was sent with the 200*l.*

56,008. It is: "Herewith I forward you a cheque "for 200*l.* for, as you say, strictly legal purposes. "As however you appear to have some reason for not "wishing my cheque to pass through your hand, "which I confess I cannot comprehend, I have ex-"changed mine with a friend and remit you his." Whose cheque did you send down. On whom was the 200*l.* drawn at that time?—There is the cheque —Edwards.

56,009. You gave Edwards your cheque for 200*l.* and he gave you his cheque in lieu thereof?—Yes.

56,010. Was it on the same bank ?—No.

56,011. Then you sent that to Mr. Bentall ?—Yes.

56,012. Now have you got the letter to which this is an answer ?—No.

56,013. Can you remember at all what the contents of the letter were, Mr. Bentall's letter ?—I think to the best of my recollection it merely mentioned that this money was to be applied under the directions of the committee. When they told me the committee I said I was satisfied, and I would leave the expenses to them, and whatever they settled I should pay, provided it was strictly legal; I can perfectly recollect sending to Mr. Heath, who I saw was on the committee, one of the Acts against bribery, and told him whatever was done must be done in strict conformity with that.

56,014. When did you go to Totnes yourself ?—In March.

56,015. The election took place on the 28th March ?—Yes.

56,016. How long before the election did you go down ?—To the best of my recollection I was there some four or five days before the election.

56,017. Did anybody go down from London with you ?—No.

56,018. Any professional adviser or friend ?—There was Mr. Stewart of the Oriental Bank came down.

56,019. (Mr. Coleridge.) When was it first determined to run two Conservatives ?—In 1856 when I refused to come forward they had got this Mr. Gregory in the field; then when I went down it was thought advisable to have a second Conservative; but it was understood that Mr. Gregory would have no chance to come in.

56,020. You were to pay his expenses ?—Yes.

56,021. Who was Mr. Gregory ?—They were a small firm of bankers and army agents, I really forgot the name of the firm. But my impression is that they failed afterwards, some four or five years ago.

56,022. (Mr. Bere.) You went to Totnes and began to canvass ?—Yes.

56,023. Did you find that the people promised you more readily in 1857 than in 1855 ?—This was the poll sent to me (referring).

56,024. Do you know by whom this was made out ?—Mr. Bryett. It appeared by the poll that they expected 124 would vote for me, 103 would vote for the Liberal party, and 83 were put down as doubtful.

56,025. That might be bought ?—I have no doubt the meaning of it was that the majority of the 83 were to be bought.

56,026. Did you have any hints that money would be wanted ?—In the most barefaced manner possible.

56,027. Not hints but actual intimations ?—Yes.

56,028. Do you remember the names of any of them ?—I cannot remember the names. It was very common.

56,029. Were they a class of persons at whom you were surprised ?—At the great majority I was surprised. It was not with the poor but among the better class, small tradesmen and farmers.

56,030. (Mr. Longe.) Do you know with whom you were canvassing when those things were thrown out ?—One of the committee.

56,031. Do you remember who it was?—I cannot tell.

56,032. Whom did you usually canvass with ?—I usually canvassed with some of those gentlemen, whichever they thought most knew the parties to call upon.

56,033. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who was your legal adviser at this election?—Mr. Bryett was one.

56,034. Was Mr. Kellock one?—There is Mr. Kellock, retaining fee 31*l.* 10*s.*, and Mr. Bryett, retaining fee 31*l.* 10*s.*

56,035. (Mr. Longe.) Were they always with you when you canvassed, one of those two?—No.

56,036. (Mr. Coleridge.) Had you any stranger down at all?—No.

56,037. No mysterious stranger down at the "Seven Stars?"—Nothing of the sort.

56,038. When you went on with your canvass, how long was it before you began to see that you would have an uphill game to fight?—The third day. With regard to the independent voters, I was told that these voters were not all venal; they found that they were, that the majority put down as doubtful were to be bought.

56,039. When it was mentioned to you by some of those barefaced avowers of whom you speak, did you mention it to the committee?—I cannot tell.

56,040. Was any general idea given of what the price was that these people would require?—For instance, I was told by some of the people that for 1,500*l.* I could have 50 votes.

56,041. That is a calculation for what the borough could be bought?—Yes; my impression was, whichever chose to buy got in.

56,042. When did you first understand that Mr. Mills was buying votes?—I should say the second day after I went down.

56,043. Did you find at any time that the doubtful men whom you canvassed had made up their minds before you called again, showing that there had been something going on?—On two or three occasions; only to a small extent, because they remained doubtful till the last moment.

56,044. (Mr. Longe.) This is the note: "These "men for the most part have declared that they will "pledge themselves to you when you arrive." Those were the doubtfuls?—Yes.

56,045. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who said you might have those votes?—It was talked of in an indirect way, but it was well known.

56,046. Would that be from Mr. Bryett or Mr. Kellock?—For instance, the committee, such as Mr. Phillips, Dr. Thompson, and those, they kept quite aloof from talking about buying, but of course they quite understood as well as anybody else.

56,047. Whom did you go to for advice when you found the place was marketable? Did you go to your solicitor, Mr. Bryett, or Mr. Kellock?—I told the people I would not buy any.

56,048. What had become of the 200*l.* you had advanced to Mr. Bentall?—I concluded that would have gone in part to defray the legal expenses, but afterwards, when the election was over, I understood that this 200*l.*, in place of going towards that bill, had been expended in expenses for registration.

56,049. In paying up back expenses?—Yes.

56,050. Was that paying up back expenses (which appears to have been a system) explained to you before you went a second time?—No.

56,051. You had no notion of that?—No; that 200*l.* was expressly for expenses.

56,052. (Mr. Bere.) There are two payments, 10*l.* and 20*l.*, to Mr. Heath?—I have merely taken it out of the book; whether I gave him cheques for money at two places I do not know; but I have taken them out of the bank book as they are.

56,053. Afterwards, "George Farwell, per memo-"randum in his letter of 17th July 1857, viz., "expenses of Mr. Mackenzie, 220*l.*; expenses of Mr. "Gregory, 115*l.*;" making 335*l.*?—These were the legal expenses afterwards.

56,054. Then we come to, "Cheque to James Gill, 60*l.*;" what was that?—I sent it to the mayor, to the poor of Totnes, to be distributed.

56,055. Then there is the item, "Cheque to Baxter, "Rose, and Norton, expenses of petition, 80*l.* 7*s.* 8*d.*" Then there is Mr. Phillips, Mr. Farwell, and so on?—That is the committee.

56,056. The whole expenses to you were 615*l.*?—Yes.

56,057. (Mr. Coleridge.) Is that all you paid?—Yes, directly or indirectly.

56,058. Were you told afterwards that there was something outstanding that you ought to pay, and which you refused to pay?—I am not sure whether Mr. Bryett wrote up saying there was some small things outstanding, but I did not pay anything further.

56,059. Were you asked?—I had some letter from Mr. Bryett.

56,060. What sum was it?—Something trifling, but I did not pay it.

56,061. Our experience is that nobody is ever done paying for Totnes?—I referred to the conditions on which I went down, and I would pay nothing.

56,062. In addition to your solicitors and agents, did you know any of your sub-agents?—No.

56,063. Did you know a man named Frederick Evens?—I think there was an Evens there. The Totnes people were desirous that I should go down, and the consequence was that they formed themselves into a committee, and I had not a single paid agent.

56,064. Did you ever see any account of how the 200*l.* was expended?—No.

56,065. You do not know whether that may have been expended upon some of the paid sub-agents?—No; I understood that Mr. Gregory had gone down and had been there in 1856, and had several meetings, and to keep up the registration he had advanced so much money; and what Mr. Bentall told me afterwards was that this money had really gone for Mr. Farwell's expenses, and gone to pay those others.

56,066. Had you understood that the 200*l.* had gone to recoup Mr. Gregory, or for your share?—To recoup Mr. Gregory.

56,067. Mr. Gregory was to be held entirely harmless?—Yes.

56,068. You went to the poll, and were beaten by what?—32.

56,069. And Mr. Gregory a great deal more?—Yes; for Totnes I had a majority, but Bridgetown swamped me.

56,070. After the election did you make a speech on the hustings?—Yes; the town was in great disorder, and they would have attacked Mr. Mills and Lord Gifford's party, and for the purpose of talking them away I addressed the people to keep the electors quiet.

56,071. Did you make any pledge on the hustings to prosecute the petition?—No; but they gave me a dinner, and I am not sure whether it was at the hustings or the dinner afterwards that I gave the pledge. They gave me a dinner after the election took place.

56,072. The next day but one?—No, some fortnight or a month afterwards; and I remember telling the electors that if we were beaten fairly we had no reason to complain; but as I was given to understand, and if it could be proved, that it had been done by indirect means, and they could afford me proof of that, I would bring forward a petition.

56,073. When did they first bring you evidence to make you think of petitioning?—Immediately after the election.

56,074. Can you recollect the cases?—I sent them to the solicitors, Messrs. Baxter, Rose, and Norton.

56,075. You never even saw them?—No.

56,076. How many cases were reported to you of bribery?—I have no idea. There was rather a singular incident that occurred which made me more confident about petitioning. After the election Mr. Mills and I came up by the same train, and it was rather strange that at the first station after Totnes a man came into the carriage, and, evidently excited, shook hands with me, and said, "We have beaten them, and "it only cost 400*l.* more than last time." Mr. Mills looked astonished, and said, "I do not know what the "man means." I wrote down, giving a description of this person, but they were unable to find out who the excited gentleman was.

56,077. (Mr. Bere.) Who is H. L. Harris who writes to you?—I do not know.

56,078. (Mr. Coleridge.) Did you know Robert Harris, who was attending to the registration?—I do not know him.

56,079. You did present a petition?—Yes.

56,080. Claiming the seat?—Claiming it against Lord Gifford and Mr. Mills.

56,081. Did you have any doubt that there was bribery against Lord Gifford, as well as Mr. Mills?—No; Lord Gifford's party used their influence, and Mr. Mills found the money.

56,082. Lord Gifford was not there?—Yes.

56,083. I thought he was abroad?—No, he was there and addressed the people.

56,084. Do you recollect the day of the petition?—No.

56,085. It went in in due course?—Yes.

56,086. After it was gone in, what communication had you with anybody to induce you not to go on with it?—I never had any communication to withdraw it. Mr. Rose told me they could not find this man who addressed us in the train, and they were not able to get many cases where there had been direct bribery, but they found sufficient undue influence, and it was upon that there was a petition. But then there were some cases decided contrary to us, and upon that counsel told me that the petition should not be gone on with.

56,087. You having been beaten by 32 it was necessary to knock off 32 votes to get you the seat?—Yes.

56,088. Then I suppose the cases were not sufficiently numerous to unseat the sitting member, and to put you at the head of the poll; you claimed the seat?—I am not sure.

56,089. Did you petition that they might be unseated and you might be seated, or that the election might be declared void?—I do not know.

56,090. Did you communicate with Mr. Spofforth?—No, with Mr. Rose.

56,091. (Mr. Coleridge.) Here is a letter to Messrs. Thomas and Hollams, from Messrs. Baxter, Rose, and Norton: "3, Park Street Westr., S.W., 15th July "1857. Dear sirs,--We have received Mr. Mackenzie's "instructions to withdraw the petition presented by "him against the return of Mr. Mills and Lord Gif- "ford, and we have accordingly sent an intimation to "the Speaker to that effect. We feel bound to add "that, in consequence of the recent decisions in the "Wareham and other cases, in which a construction "has been held contrary to that which has hitherto "governed such cases, we have felt it our duty to "advise Mr. Mackenzie to take this course, although "there were ample grounds for the presentation of "the petition, which, according to all previous deci- "sions of committees, would, as Mr. Mackenzie has "been advised, have been sufficient to avoid the "election. We are, dear sir, yours truly, BAXTER, "ROSE, AND NORTON."

56,091*a*. (Mr. Longe.) Do you remember when you wrote to Mr. Heath, and sent a copy of the Act to show what was legal expenditure, did he write a letter back?—I do not remember. I wrote a letter to Mr. Heath two days before I went down, and I sent a copy of the Act to Mr. Bentall.

56,092. Did anyone say you could get in without spending money?—No.

56,093. (Mr. Coleridge.) Here is Mr. Bryett's note:—

"My dear sir, Totnes, December 29th, 1856.

"I now send you the list of voters marked "off as I and Mr. Adams believe they will vote, "but I have taken credit for all those that I know will "vote for you, and that I believe can be obtained, "besides those with the pencil marks, although marked "against you I have doubts whether some of them may "not be induced to vote for you; I will not now further "press you to come forward, and will only say with the "feeling in the town in your favour. I think it a pity "if you do not.

"Yours very truly, in haste,

"R. T. Mackenzie, Esq. T. BRYETT."

56,094. Was it in consequence of Mr. Bryett's representation, that you made up your mind to come forward?—And the other members.

56,095. During the time this was going on had you much personal communication with Mr. John Heath?—Not much.

56,096. Had you any communication with Mr. Heath, as one of the purity committee, as to how you were to put down bribery?—It was not to put bribery down, it was simply to represent me in the election; and I left the expenses to the committee, and said that I should pay whatever legal expenses they thought proper.

56,097. You had intimated that you would not pay illegal expenses?—Yes.

56,098. When was any communication made to you by your committee or anybody else that 1,500*l.* would return you?—I should think the second day.

56,099. Can you recollect who that was to whom you gave the distinct refusal that you would not advance the money? Was it to Mr. Bastard?—No.

56,100. Dr. Thompson or Mr. Farwell?—No. I told the committee themselves that such things had been intimated to me, and I decidedly refused to do it, and Dr. Thompson and Mr. Phillips and those people said, "You are perfectly right."

56,101. Those talked to you about the refusal, but I want to know who those were who said, if you spent a sum of money you would get in. Was it Mr. Bryett, Mr. Kellock or Mr. John Heath?—There was a Mr. Adams, not on the committee. It was not done by one person, but in that indirect way. It was not like one person coming and saying, "If you will give 1,500*l.* you will get in."

56,102. The persons who were acting for you, Dr. Thompson, Mr. Bastard, Mr. Farwell, Mr. Heath, Mr. Bentall, Mr. Phillips, or Mr. Kellock, did any of those press you to go in and win at all hazards and pay the money?—Certainly not.

56,103. Who was it did that?—Nobody came directly; but it was intimated, if you wish to go in you can have 50 votes and go in with 30 or 49 majority.

56,104. Was it intimated by Mr. Kellock or Mr. Bryett?—No.

56,105. Did you trust it to them?—Yes.

56,106. What was their advice?—My impression is that they would have been well pleased if I had done it, the other members of the committee, I think, would have been disappointed.

56,107. (Mr. Bere.) Have you any suspicion of any other money coming into Totnes except what you found yourself?—No.

56,108. Nobody else found any?—No.

56,109. No money came from London?—Not a sixpence.

56,110. Did you call upon those voters put down as doubtful?—I called upon all.

56,111. Upon those marked with a "D"?—I called upon all, no doubt.

56,112. Did you make a point of calling upon those in particular?—I called upon all.

56,113. They would stand in a different relation. Some had promised 103, and there are 83 marked "doubtful," do you remember calling upon those, calling upon men of that class?—Yes, upon all.

56,114. Were they men of that class who expressed to you or intimated to you that they wanted money?—They intimated; and the first impression was, they would like to see me returned, but they never made any promises. And a good many afterwards would say, "Now I want to speak to you," and they would say, "I am independent of the duke, and so and "so; but I have had something gone wrong—a hay- "stack or something. I want 150*l.* if you like to give "it to me." Some were moderate and some wanted 200*l.*

56,115. Can you recollect a Thomas Blank?—I remember there was a farmer, the name I forget, one of Mr. Durant's farmers, he said, "I have got my "vote and I will do as I like, and if you will give me "200*l.* I will give you my vote." I found out that he was to leave that year, and that was the reason of his being independent.

56,116. Was it William Hannaford?—I cannot recollect.

56,117. Was it Shinner?—I cannot recollect. I had no idea I should have been called till the other day, or I should have looked it up.

56,118. (Mr. Longe.) You can surely remember some of the gentlemen you were most in the habit of canvassing with?—At Totnes I canvassed a great deal alone, because they thought it would be much much better going up independent, not to have always some of those actual Conservatives with me, and I canvassed a great many of the voters alone.

56,119. Was it ever thrown in your teeth that you refused to resort to the practice of buying any of the voters?—No. In 1855 when I withdrew they said they wished to get up a petition that I should come forward, and that they would vote without anything and give me a clear majority of written promises, but they did not get a sufficient number.

56,120. (Mr. Bere.) Did you pay Mr. Gregory's hotel expenses?—Yes, everything.

56,121. Is there anything more you can tell us?—No.

56,122. What was the reason you did not stand in 1859. Were you applied to then?—I told them that between the corrupt voters and the Somerset family, no independent party had any chance.

56,123. Did you hear what the other party spent in 1857?—My impression is that they had these 50 voters for about 1,400*l.* or 1,500*l.*

56,124. (Mr. Longe.) Did you know of acts of undue influence?—I merely brought forward this petition, because I promised it. If I could have proved it I would have done so; but I left everything for the solicitors.

56,125. Was it a mere general charge that these voters said they were the duke's men?—No, my impression is that they were all treated. There was a hotel at Bridgetown, and there was a great deal of treating and a great deal of undue influence and direct treating, and some man swore that he had seen so much money paid, but I understood afterwards that the fellow was to be tried for taking some of the spoons, or something at the hotel, and I thought his evidence would be doubtful.

56,126. (Mr. Coleridge.) Do you recollect who it was?—I think it was the waiter at the hotel.

56,127. (Mr. Longe.) Do you remember any cases in which men were threatened to be evicted for voting?—No doubt. All the people in Totnes, the duke's people when you went to canvass them, they told you quietly they would be glad to see you returned, but if they voted they would be turned out.

56,128. Do you recollect any particular case in which that was done through the agent of the duke?—I cannot remember the individual ones; but I think there was Heath who had been turned out.

56,129. Was John Heath the landlord of the "Stars" when you were there in 1855?—No, there was an old gentleman, an enormously stout man, a gentleman the name of Webb.

56,130. (Mr. Bere.) Was the name of the farmer you mentioned, Hewett?—I cannot tell. It was a man paying 300*l.* or 400*l.* a year, and I was astonished.

56,131. Do you know the names of those people scratched out, and why?—No.

56,132. Thomas Creaser Kellock is struck out?—I thought this was an old paper and they had gone through it.

56,133. Do you think you can find the letter of Mr. Bentall's to which your observations contained here were an answer?—I do not think so. I told them to look out all the letters on Totnes, and this is all I have got, but if I can find it I will send it to you.

56,134. (Mr. Longe.) Will you answer the general question whether any money was spent?—I am certain no money was spent on my side.

56,135. The votes entered for you were all pure votes?—Yes, and in Totnes there was a majority.

Mr. J. Ferris.

Mr. Joseph Ferris sworn and examined.

56,136. (Mr. Bere.) What are you?—I am now agent for a brewery in London.

56,137. How long have you been in that position?—17 months.

56,138. How long have you left Totnes?—11 years.

56,139. Have you been concerned in any election within the last 11 years?—No, none whatever.

56,140. You have been there since?—No, I have not. I left in January 1856, and have never been there since, and I never wish to go again.

56,141. You did take a great deal of interest in the elections?—Yes, in Mr. Mills' in 1852.

56,142. Was not there a sum of money advanced to Mr. Mills at that election?—Mr. Samuel Huxham, who is dead, I think on the morning of the election, in conjunction with Mr. Charles Webber and myself, became jointly security for I think 350*l.* It is so long ago that I cannot charge my memory with exactness, but I think Mr. Huxham found the money, but I do not know. I know I felt myself personally answerable with Mr. Huxham and Mr. Webber for that amount jointly.

56,143. Did you sign anything?—Yes, I did sign a paper.

56,144. What became of it?—It was held by Mr. Huxham, he advanced the money, and the paper was binding Mr. Webber and me to share the loss, if any.

56,145. Was that money repaid to Mr. Huxham?—The understanding between us three was, that in case Mr. Mills should be unseated we should never ask for that money; but if seated we expected to be paid.

56,146. How was that 350*l.* spent?—I have not the least doubt that it was spent in an illegal way.

56,147. What became of it?—I do not know. None passed through my hands.

56,148. You had nothing to do with guaranteeing money?—Nothing beyond that transaction; but I advanced 95*l.* out of my own cash box.

56,149. When?—A few days before the election.

56,150. To Mr. Mills?—Not personally.

56,151. To whom?—Some few days before the election, it was said that money was wanted, and the question was whether I would advance it. Mr. Cuming said he did not like to ask Mr. Mills, and asked if I would advance it. I said I would; I really cannot tell how 75*l.* was spent; but I know how 20*l.* went. An assistant of mine (I was a draper) had it given to him, for a person named Lane.

56,152. What was the name of the assistant?—Samuel Randall. It was to be given to Lane not to vote at all. His principles were Liberal, but from necessity he voted for the Tories.

56,153. And got paid?—I cannot tell.

56,154. You used the word necessity?—I should say that the 20*l.* never reached his hands. Randall pocketed it, and the consequence was that I discharged Randall immediately.

56,155. How were you paid those different sums of money?—After the election petition came off and Mr. Mills was seated we had some meetings, Mr. Webber, Mr. Huxham, and myself.

56,156. What was the petition?—It was a petition against Mr. Mills in 1852, but it only lasted two days.

56,157. And he was seated?—Yes, and after that Mr. Cuming, Mr. Huxham, Mr. Webber, and myself thought the time had arrived when I should try to get my 95*l.*, and I think the 375*l.* Mr. Huxham had advanced. Mr. Cuming made it his business to communicate with a friend and to say that it was done for Mr. Mills, he knew that it was illegal, but he hoped he would repay it; and the money was sent to Mr. Charles Webber. Mr. Webber sent me 95*l.* and paid Mr. Huxham, and Mr. Huxham sent me the signature from the paper.

56,158. Do you know whether Mr. Allin sent the money to Mr. Webber?—I do not know.

56,159. Do you know how it got there?—No. It was paid by some party.

56,160. Do you know whether at that time Mr. Allin, who was Mr. Webber's nephew, was in business in London?—I do not know.

56,161. He was a solicitor?—I do not know. His father was a draper in Cheapside I think.

56,162. It was paid into Allin's house perhaps?—I think it was done that way. But Mr. Webber sent me the 95*l.* in promiscuous money, notes and cheques and things, and the thing was ended.

56,163. Have you ever sent money down since?—No; I have had reasons to be disgusted with the town, and I do not want to have anything to do with it.

56,164. You do not know anything about it?—No. In 1855, when Lord Gifford came down, although we did not like Lord Seymour, I voted a plumper for Mills.

56,165. You were the independent party?—Yes.

56,166. Was any money spent in 1855 by either side in bribery?—Not a farthing in my belief. The independent party and the Liberal party were the tradespeople and the respectable people, and they met and repudiated any attempt at what was done in 1852; and we said we will vote for whom Lord Seymour sends down. Lord Gifford came down and there was a public meeting, when it was declared that he was a fit and proper person. Mr. Mackenzie was down, but he very soon left.

56,167. You wanted the ducal votes?—There were three parties equally divided, and each party wished to get the support of the ducal party.

56,168. (Mr. Coleridge.) Sometimes the Conservatives got it and sometimes the Liberals?—Lord Seymour was not faithful to the Liberal party at that time.

56,169. When the memorandum was signed at Mr. Tracey's?—Yes.

56,170. Do you know anything about that memorandum?—No, that was done by the Tory party.

56,171. (Mr. Bere.) It was signed by both parties?—By the duke's and the Tories; not by the independent party. The borough in my opinion was essentially Liberal. The first time I voted was for Perrott, who could not spend a penny and was returned by a majority of 38.

56,172. Did you hear of Sir George Adams' men being locked up in a barn and not being let out till after the election?—No, there is not an atom of truth in it.

(Adjourned to Whitecross Street Prison.)

Mr. George Wells Snell sworn and examined.

Mr. G. W. Snell.

56,173. (Mr. Bere.) What is your calling or profession?—I am a solicitor.

56,174. And an electioneering agent?—Yes.

56,175. How long have you been an electioneering agent?—About 25 years.

56,176. Was your father an electioneering agent?—Yes.

56,177. I suppose in most elections you have been employed on one side or the other?—Yes.

56,178. Always the same side?—No; sometimes the Liberal and sometimes the Conservative side.

56,179. Were you down with your father at Totnes in 1852?—I was not.

56,180. Not in 1852?—Really I do not recollect.

56,181. On Mills' side?—I think not.

56,182. Do you know whether your father was ever down there?—I think he was there upon one occasion, but I really cannot recollect the date now.

56,183. Do you think before 1852 or after?—I think; if I recollect rightly, he was at Weymouth in 1852.

56,184. Would it be 1857 that he was at Totnes?—I do not know. I have not the paper here to refresh my memory.

56,185. When did you first go to Totnes?—In 1859.

56,186. In Dunn's election?—Yes.

56,187. Were you retained by anyone to go down?—Someone spoke to me, but I cannot recollect. I afterwards saw Mr. Dunn in Threadneedle Street.

56,188. Had you known him before?—I had heard of him by name.

56,189. You heard he was going to Totnes?—Yes.

56,190. Did you speak to him?—I was introduced to him.

56,191. Did you go and speak to him?—Yes; he asked me if I was going into the neighbourhood, and I said I was.

56,192. Were you going to Helston?—Yes.

56,193. Did you go to Helston before you went to Totnes?—Yes.

56,194. Did you see Mr. Cameron when you came back?—Yes.

56,195. What money did you get from Mr. Cameron at that election?—I got what I sued for afterwards.

56,196. You got some money to be distributed?—Only a small sum.

56,197. Over 100*l.*?—I cannot tell. I have not a paper or anything else.

56,198. (Mr. Coleridge.) How long before the election did you go in 1859?—I think two days before the election.

56,199. Had you ever been at Totnes before?—Yes, many times. I used to be often at Totnes.

56,200. (Mr. Bere.) You knew John Heath very well?—Yes. I stopped at the "Seven Stars."

56,201. This was the first time you had been there professionally?—Yes.

56,202. Had you lived at Totnes?—I have been to the races.

56,203. Are you a native of London?—No, Cornwall.

56,204. You put up at the "Seven Stars" when you were at Totnes?—Yes.

56,205. Do you recollect what room you slept in?—I have not the slightest idea.

56,206. Was it the room looking on the Plains?—I do not know. You have the bill there. The bills are made out according to the room I think.

56,207. Can you remember whether you had 120*l.* given you by Mr. Cameron?—I do not know whether it was by Mr. Heath or Mr. Cameron.

56,208. You were given the names of four people?—Yes, that I was to see. I saw one, and I left 30*l.*; I left the money in a cup on the table. It was Satchwell or Bearne, I do not know which.

56,209. Pearce was one of the voters that you were to give 40*l.* to?—There was only one in the shape of bribery that I had anything to do with.

56,210. Do you remember whether it was at Bridgetown?—I think they used to keep cows in Bridgetown.

56,211. You went to Mrs. Pearce, and she wanted 45*l.*, and the sum you were to offer her was 40*l.*?—Yes.

56,212. Do you remember going to speak with Mr. Cameron, and saying she wanted more money?—Yes, I think so.

56,213. Did not Mr. Cameron or Mr. Heath give you another 5*l.*?—I think so.

56,214. Did not you go back to Mrs. Pearce and leave the 40*l.* in the sitting room?—That is the only money I had to do with; all the other money was returned.

56,215. Did you bring any money from London with you?—No, I came from Helston.

56,216. Did you bring any money from Helston?—Yes.

56,217. How much?—Only the retaining fee.

56,218. Did you carry money for distribution?—No.

56,219. Is that the only money you had to do with?—Yes.

56,220. Who else was with you?—Mr. Cameron.

56,221. Did you know a man named Higgins?—I have heard of him, but I never spoke to him.

56,222. Did you see a person afterwards called Mr. Higgins?—I suppose it was Mr. Higgins. There was a stranger, I knew nothing of him; they said it was Mr. Higgins.

56,223. Had you ever met him before?—No.

56,224. Have you seen him since?—No.

56,225. Did you go in 1862?—No; in 1862 I went to Bodmin.

56,226. Have you been at Totnes at all since 1859?—I have been in the town since, but not on this business.

56,227. Have you been at the time of the election?—No.

56,228. Were you down in 1865?—No.

56,229. You did not go for a day and call at the "Stars"?—No, I passed in the train.

56,230. Have you any notion who went in 1865 to distribute the money?—Not a bit.

56,231. Did you apply to be allowed to go down?—No, certainly not. I was engaged nine months previous to that for Lord Ranelagh and Mr. Heritage, at Bodmin.

56,232. Against whom you brought actions?—Yes, and they are not settled yet.

56,233. What were your supposed duties at the election?—To assist generally in the election; I canvassed a great many people.

56,234. Whom did you put yourself under?—Mr. Cameron was the only person I had any transaction with.

56,235. You had nothing to do with Mr. Bryett?—No.

56,236. Mr. John Heath?—I met him every two or three hours.

56,237. Did you go with Frederick Evens at all?—No, I do not recollect the name if I did; I might have gone with a score of different people, and I do not recollect the names.

56,238. You have been to other places to distribute money, I suppose?—Well, I do not know that I am bound to answer that question. I do not think you could manage very well without money; I never could.

56,239. You cannot form any idea who went down on the Conservative side the last time?—No.

56,240. Is not there some place where election agents usually meet in London?—The agents connected with certain clubs do meet.

56,241. Where, do you know?—I always refused to work under a club.

56,242. You prefer a private employer?—Yes.

56,243. Have you ever had any communication with Mr. Spofforth or Mr. Drake?—I saw Mr. Drake some time ago about a matter.

56,244. Have you ever been consulted by them about Totnes?—No, I never saw him about Totnes at all.

56,245. Did anybody come to you in the middle of June 1865 to ask you whether you would go to Totnes?—Not that I recollect.

56,246. Did you receive any communication from anybody that your services might be required at Totnes, either by letter or word of mouth?—Never by letter I think. I might have gone to a dozen different places, and Totnes might have been mentioned, but I do not recollect.

56,247. Do you recollect Mr. Smith?—Mr. Henry Smith I have met.

56,248. Do you know anything of Mr. Smith, of the firm of Smith and Guscotte, Essex Street, Strand, Mr. Frederick Smith?—No.

56,249. Do you know the firm?—I know it by repute.

56,250. Do you know Mr. Smith or Mr. Guscotte by sight?—I do not think I do.

56,251. Do you happen to know Mr. Lind or Mr. Daw, their clerks?—Not that I am at all aware of. I might have met them without knowing they were their clerks. I do not recollect them.

56,252. (Mr. Coleridge.) When did you last see Mr. John Heath?—I do not think I have seen him since the election; yes, I have once.

56,253. When was that?—While I was bringing this action against Mr. Dunn.

56,254. Do you remember when Mr. Dent stood against Mr. Pender at Totnes?—I recollect the occasion.

56,255. Did not you go down then?—I did not on electioneering matters.

56,256. Did not you happen to be at Totnes then, and did not you go to the "Stars," in December 1862 or January 1863?—I think not; if I had my other papers to refer to I should be able to tell you.

56,257. It was on the death of Lord Gifford in January 1863?—I am sure I was not there.

56,258. Were you there at the death of Mr. Mills in December 1862?—No.

56,259. (Mr. Longe.) How many times have you been at Totnes?—I was never there on electioneering matters, except this once on Mr. Dunn's account.

56,260. (Mr. Bere.) Do not you remember going to the "Stars" at the time of the election, seeing Mr. Heath, and intimating you would like to be employed, and Mr. Heath saying that he would not have anything to do with you, because you brought that action against Mr. Dunn?—I do not recollect it.

56,261. It would be a matter that you would be likely to recollect?—I do not.

56,262. Do you remember his saying anything about your bringing that action against Mr. Dunn?—Yes but that was in London; he was to be a witness against me, "for," he said, "you did not pay the moneys that "you charge." I said, "What moneys?" "The money "that you got," and I said, "You know that perfectly "well, for you had the money back or Mr. Cameron."

56,263. They did get paid?—The only one I paid was an old women, her and her husband. I do not wish to keep anything back.

56,264. Do you not recollect paying old Satchwell?—That is the only one I paid.

56,265. In the evidence you were prepared to say that two of the parties attended, Satchwell and Bearne, and you paid them the amounts set opposite their names on the paper produced, namely Satchwell 30*l.* and Bearne 30*l.* That each party gave you a promissory note or an I O U for the amount you paid them, which you gave to Mr. Cameron, who threw them into the fire and burned them. Is that incorrect or not? Just think.—I have never thought over the matter from the election until now.

56,266. Is that draft brief in your handwriting?—Partly. If that is the fact there, such must be the case. But I only recollect paying one, and I recollect leaving it in a cup. It says here I paid it back to Mr. Cameron. If I make a little error, you must understand I have not seen a paper since this action.

56,267. (Mr. Coleridge.) Who paid you your retaining fee?—No one, only what I recovered from Mr. Dunn.

56,268. You say you brought your retaining fee from Helston?—That is what I had at Helston.

56,269. Did you make any agreement?—No.

56,270. Do you not have an agreement when you go down to a place?—Sometimes we do not.

56,271. What memoranda were those you handed to Mr. Cameron after the action was over?—Some letters I think he wrote me.

56,272. Are you a brother of Mr. Frederick Snell?—No.

56,273. Any relation?—No.

56,274. Do you know Grant who is in the same sort of business as your own. He was a very dark fellow. I think he has been lately with Mannings and Walker?—No, I might know him by sight, but I do not know him to speak to.

56,275. You have no doubt that what you put down in the draft brief is correct?—No doubt.

56,276. And you would rather trust to your draft-brief than to your memory?—Yes. And now you bring it to my recollection about the notes of hand, I think there was something of that kind took place.

56,277. (Mr. Longe.) Did Mr. Dunn know of your being there?—Yes.

56,278. Have you never been at Totnes in any election since 1859?—I do not recollect being there.

56,279. Not engaged at any election at Totnes?—I do not recollect.

56,280. (Mr. Longe.) Did Mr. Dunn ever talk to you about the work you had come for, and the part you were to take?—I used to meet him and say there was no chance, the way he was going on, and speak as to the impropriety of paying the money away. I said 5*l.* would do as well as 50*l.* I could not shut my eyes to the way the money was going.

56,281. You knew that a great deal of money was going on the other side?—Yes, I could not shut my eyes to that.

56,282. Did you know whether anybody was on the other side in the same capacity as yourself?—I think some parties were there.

56,283. Do you know who they were?—I cannot recollect now.

56,284. Do not you recollect the names of those that were there for Mr. Mills?—Was not Mr. Tucker concerned?

56,285. I mean in the way of distributing money? No, I do not know.

56,286. When you were canvassing voters for Mr. Dunn did not you find there were offers made on the other side?—Yes, it came to this at last, who would give the most.

56,287. What was the largest sum asked by a voter?—I heard one open his mouth wide enough to say 200*l.*, and I went to Mr. Dunn, and I said, if you are returned in this way you won't retain your seat.

56,288. How many people were employed in this way in the place?—I do not recollect. I connected myself with Mr. Cameron.

56,289. Did you ever go out with Higgins?—No, never spoke to him.

56,290. Did you meet him canvassing?—No, I never met him but twice in the passage.

56,291. Was he a dark man?—It strikes me from his appearance he was a man about 5 feet 10, slight, if I recollect.

Adjourned till Monday the 10th December, at 1, Brick Court, Temple, at 12 o'clock.

FORTY-SIXTH DAY.

Saturday, 29th December 1866.

DUGALD CAMERON, Esq., recalled.

56,292. (Mr. Bere.) Have you read this letter from Mr. Watts of Teignmouth?

The following letter is then read.

DEAR SIR, Ford, Newton Abbot, Dec. 1, 1866.

"ON examining our Teignmouth bank books I find 500*l.* was paid into our agents, Messrs. Williams, Deacon, & Co., Birchin Lane, on the 26th of April, by the Union Bank for the credit of Mr. D. E. Cameron, and drawn out again by Mr. C. on the 27th. 200*l.* was paid to our agents on the 28th by the Union Bank of London for Mr. Cameron. On the 29th Mr. C. drew out 200*l.* and paid us a 500*l.* cheque of Messrs. Brown, Dun, Salmon, & Co., on the London and Westminster Bank, Lothbury. He drew out 100*l.* of this cheque the same day, the balance, 400*l.*, was paid on the 30th to Mr. James P. Heath. Except that Mr. Dun's name is mentioned in the 500*l.* cheque, we have no means of identifying him with these transactions.

Yours truly,
J. W. WATTS.

(Mr. Cameron.) Yes.

56,293. (Mr. Bere.) Do you believe the account contained in that letter of the monetary transactions connected with the election of 1859 to be a true one?

(Mr. Cameron.) Yes.

56,294. (Mr. Bere.) Do you wish it substituted for your former evidence?

(Mr. Cameron.) Yes.

LETTERS RECEIVED BY THE COMMISSION.

To CHARLES BOWEN, ESQ., Secretary of the TOTNES COMMISSION.

SIR, 10, Serjeants' Inn, November 30, 1866.

I AM much obliged by your letter. I had observed with astonishment that my name was mentioned in the course of the Totnes inquiry. There is no shadow of foundation for the charge made by the late Mr. Moore. I never took any part or had any interest in a Totnes election, and never gave or was the means of transmitting money to Mr. Alfred Seymour or any other candidate.

After this explicit denial I think I am entitled to a copy of Mr. Moore's letter, that I may see upon what evidence he, a perfect stranger, presumed to make such a charge against me.

I am, &c.

Charles Bowen, Esq. (Signed) JOHN I. DELANE.

SIR, Piccadilly, December 3, 1866.

I BEG to acknowledge the receipt of your note, in which you inform me that in a letter of the late Mr. Moore it is suggested that I and Mr. Delane assisted with money at Mr. Alfred Seymour's election at Totnes in 1863. I request you will be so good as to inform the Commissioners that there is no truth in this suggestion, and not the slightest foundation for it. I never in a direct nor in an indirect manner supplied or procured money for Mr. A. Seymour's election at Totnes in 1863.

I am, &c.

Charles Bowen, Esq.,
Secretary to the Commission. (Signed) LIONEL DE ROTHSCHILD.
